WESTERNERS TO MAKE DEBUT WEDNESDAY

Constantly working on with five letters in camp, Coaches Henry Franks and Del Morgan are banking heavy odds but are taking the situation in hand and pushing the possibility of the Westerners camp through for the initial contest, which will be played at Merrill park Wednesday afternoon.

The Wednesday afternoon bill will be against the Slaton Tigers, ancient but honored rivals of Lubbock high. Raymond Barton, star tackle, was elected line captain of the team and Leslie Smith full-back was selected as back field captain.

The Westerners coaches are to play solely upon straight football for their game with Slaton, they said last night. Their starting line-up will consist of a hustling bunch of youngsters and the fans are to be assured of plenty of tight details.

The probable starting team will be: Allen, center; Parkinson and "Pea Patch" Dickinson, guards; Burton and Gordon, tackles; Kerr and Whitesides, ends; Williams, quarter; Smith, full and Dahlballe and Abney, guards.

Franks and Morgan stated that they were well pleased with the showing of the men and predicted excellent work from the following youngsters: Price, Crawford, Lawson, Osborne, Tatum, Campbell, Wilson, Aker, Perry, Buckinham, M. Smith, Langburn, H. Wilson, Dowell, Teal and Hopper.

Ollis Mitchell, member of the Tiger organization, has been whipping his tribe through some fast backlogs for the past few days and the slaton entry will be here in tip-top condition. Mitchell, who is handling the Tigers for the first year, is well known among the South Plains schools as he formerly coached the best high school Captains and the Memphis high school club. He was for three seasons a letterman of the W. T. S. C. Buffaloes.

The Slaton-Lubbock affair is the first football bill to be exhibited to the South Plains fans this season and a big attendance is expected at the Merrill park for Lubbock's initial district contest.

Strolling Down Sports Lane

A bargain day bill is up for the baseball fans of Lubbock today. The Ex-Cats and the Hubbers, under the direction of Sled Allen, will appear in a double header this afternoon at Merrill park. The games will start at 2 o'clock.

Among the ex-Felines that are here are Ed Konechny, Joe Pate, Ziggy Sears, Tiny Goodred, Art Phelan, Doc Blachoff and "Chick" Taylor. The ex-Panthers have a real club on their barnstorming tour and two splendid exhibitions are expected in the double-header this afternoon.

Joe Pate, one of the greatest baseball pitchers of the Texas league, will likely pitch the first game of the bargain day bill and Tiny Goodred will toss the last contest for the former Felines.

Wednesday afternoon the Westerners start their season's grind by meeting with the Slaton Tigers at the Merrill park. The Slaton fans are expected to have a great following behind their Tigers in the first grid clash of the season. Slaton fans have always backed their high school lads in every issue.

The Outdoors appeared to be ready for more duty in scrubby practice as they got around over the practice field Monday afternoon after a week-end rest. Coach Fredland placed twenty-two members of the camp on the training table at the Tech Cafeteria for the rest of the grid season. Coach Vic Payne will have charge of the table during the season.

If Lubbock fans want real baseball comedy they should come out this afternoon at the Merrill park and watch Tiny Goodred toss the last contest of the double header. You will get the greatest kick of baseball comedy in watching the big fellow work.

Just because the line-up for the ex-Felines consists of old St. Worth stars is no reason that they do not have the machine. The boys are just in their prime to hear "Tiny" tell about it.

It is not very often that the local fans are allowed the privilege to witness such baseball players as are with Joe Pate on his barnstorming tour—better come out and enjoy a real bargain day bill.

The National League race still grows warmer and the big four are battling frantically for the flag. The Pirates have a three and one-half game lead over the other battling lines—but have only a few more games to go.

Thursday evening will be a busy session with me—the big heavy-weight title is at stake with Gene Tunney the favorite. However, the Dempsey fans are anxious that some of the odds be flaked on the champion as they are anxious to get on the dotted line. South Plains fans are invited to attend our free party. The boat will be broadcast from the office of the Avalanche-Journal as it is fought in Soldier's Field—blow by blow—and round by round.

WHO WILL COOLIDGE SUPPORT?

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—The impression has been growing more and more definite among the political cognoscenti that President Coolidge didn't make his "do not choose" announcement because he was tired of his job and didn't want a third term.

The President's failure to elaborate on his brief statement is as good an indication of his feelings as any.

Those who hastened to state most solemnly that the President was too high-minded to make such an announcement and still have an eye on a third term were almost unanimously men and newspapers who were most anxious to have Coolidge out of the picture.

The President didn't morally bind himself to anything whatever except to a refusal to announce his candidacy or to promote his candidacy from behind the scenes.

It has been said that Mr. Coolidge was tired of his job, but never convincingly. The impression here is that he is very happy in it. The theory is more and more advanced that Mr. Coolidge, having listened to the assurance of his "yes men" for months, strongly suspected that the people would urge his retention in office.

But the people seem to have been inarticulate or indifferent. Most of the party politicians and certainly all who automatically became presidential possibilities turned somersaults of glee.

There were a few, including some of these same politicians, who hastened to suggest that the party must or might "draft" Mr. Coolidge—as if material in the party were so poor that the third term tradition should be broken.

But as the "draft" clamor, if it can be called a clamor, began to subside, it became more and more apparent that the shouters were those who sought a smoke screen until some vehicle which might be converted into band-wagon. The likelihood that Mr. Coolidge will be drafted becomes daily smaller.

When one talks Republican politics now he talks of Hoover, Dawes and Lowden, and hardly ever of Coolidge. That much is certain, though Mr. Coolidge's sentiments as he made his announcement are still open to question.

If it be true that the President still hopes for renomination the fact definitely explains just why he need not be expected to support another man's candidacy. Incidentally he can't openly support his own aspirations, either for any over tact would leave him, politically speaking, sunk without a trace.

Reports that Coolidge would endorse Secretary Hoover continue to go unconfirmed. The President split with Hoover when he supported Secretary Kellogg during a cabinet row, and his present feelings toward Hoover are not clear. Your correspondent does not predict that the growing impression that Mr. Coolidge won't support anyone will prove correct.

It seems quite likely that Mr. Coolidge will support, if anyone, the man whom Secretary Mellon supports. And it is equally likely that the man whom Secretary Mellon decides to support will be the next Republican candidate.

PRIMARY VOTING GAINING

Subjected to severe criticism following the scandals in Pennsylvania and Illinois, and with demands for its abolishment heard in many an influential quarter, the primary election nevertheless is more firmly established in the country's political life today than before. Figures in support, compiled from the official records of 40 States, are given by Simon Michelet, Washington statistician. He shows that 13,829,000 voters participated in last year's primaries as compared with 8,468,000 in 1920, a gain of 5,373,000.

When the slackening of interest in an off-year contest is taken into consideration, the increase appears the more significant. It justifies Mr. Michelet's observation that growth of the primary is the outstanding feature of recent American political annals. This survey is found also to throw light on the supposed apathy of the people toward public affairs as manifested in the comparatively small vote at the general elections. In more than half the States, the campaign virtually ends with the primary. That is to say, more than half the Commonwealths are one-party States. Except in rare cases of upset, the fall balloting is a mere formality for ratifying the party action.

For all their spell-binding, lurid posters and spirited literature, the leaders on either side cannot drum up interest in a situation that involves no real contest. The State fight being settled, many a voter will not trouble to go to the polls for participation in the presidential election, which also is decided along State lines. If the electoral college were abolished, so that his ballot would count one against that cast in a State of opposing political faith, his interest might perk up a bit—but even this contest frequently has the aspects of being cut and dried.

Under any but exceptional circumstances, this is a one-party country and has been so ever since the Civil War. That fact explains partially why relatively fewer persons exercise the right of suffrage today than when the Republic was young and party feeling ran high. Since it has grown during the past quarter-century into the chief instrumentality for expressing the popular will, the primary will not be lightly discarded. It has glaring faults, some of which no doubt will be corrected, now that they are brought to public notice. The chief cause of disappointment is that too much was expected of the device from the outset.

It is not a purifier of human nature or a panacea for political and social ills. John Stuart Mill's doctrine that the most hopeful remedy for the shortcomings of democracy is more democracy may be applied aptly to the primary.

WHERE DANGER LURKS

Serious traffic accidents do not happen as a rule at the conspicuously dangerous places on the road or street. They occur more frequently at spots which look perfectly safe. Consideration of these facts leads R. B. Stoekel, Motor Vehicle Commissioner of Connecticut, to conclude that the worst hazards of motoring are mental hazards. The familiar, but not readily remediable, fallible human equation, he holds, is responsible for most casualties. Approaching a sharp curve or blind corner, driving into a busy thoroughfare, or climbing a hill, the motorist who is not wilfully reckless or hopelessly careless, is likely to have his wits about him. He is on the lookout for cars coming at right angles or in the opposite direction and mindful of other hazards, and so proceeds cautiously. On the contrary, when the road looks safe the driver may be tempted to relax his intent gaze ahead and he may let his thoughts drift away from the immediate business. This is dangerous, particularly when the car is driven at considerable speed or when two motorists similarly afflicted get into proximity. Many a grade crossing horror can be explained only by assuming such a mental lapse on the driver's part. Instances of automobiles entering a business intersection unguarded by signal lights at undiminished speed, with serious consequences, may be attributed to the same cause. Safety requires that the man at the wheel keep his mind always on the job in hand. He must have, or speedily acquire, a habit of concentration. Reaction time is very important as well. Ability to think and act quickly in an emergency is vital. To lose one's head under such circumstances is to invite sure disaster. People have these mental attributes in varying degrees. Persons who are perfectly normal, even brilliant, in other respects may be deficient in poise or power of concentration and slow in reaction. These defects clearly disqualify them for driving. A really efficient licensing system, based upon proper mental and physical tests, would have the effect of ruling the incompetents off the road and would promote safety accordingly. True, it would not reach the smart aleck who, though a skillful driver, is constantly taking chances. This man could be put on his good behavior, however and given to understand that being involved in a bad accident would mean forfeiting his rights on the road.

SO THINK WE

We think that only a few more days remain now until the opening of the bigger and better South Plains Fair.

We think that there are plenty of Texas Tech Freshmen in Lubbock. Officials of the college state that 750 new students have sent in high school credits into the office of the registrar for enrollment in the college.

We think that these cool days mingled with damp atmosphere are not so good for the fleecy staple of the South Plains.

We think that when the enrollment of the college is checked here there will be more than two thousand students registered. This is the Texas Technological College's third year and its growth has been very startling.

We think that boxing fans of the United States are flocking to the huge Soldier's Field Stadium for the greatest heavyweight fight in the history of the ring battles on Thursday evening.

We think the time to really appreciate hard-surfaced highways is during wet weather. Lubbock county will certainly be among the next progressive counties of the state in lining up with the paved highway construction program.

We think that Lubbock fans will be entertained by real service this week with play by play reports of the Dixie Series and the round by round fight of the Tunney-Dempsey bout from the Avalanche-Journal wires.

We think that the two big parties of United States politics are having some difficulty in finding a candidate for the office of President. William McAdoo does not care to be nominated for the office and Cal says he doesn't "choose" to be re-nominated.

We think that the Lubbock county farmers have recently organized a good organization in the Anti-Chickens Theft Association. Several hundred chickens were stolen from farmers of this section this year.

Of some of this law, however, we can and should rid ourselves. Five years ago, John W. Davis in his address to the Bar Association as its president, said that no lawyer could provide shelter room for the statutes, let alone read them. One influence against this accumulation of law is the conference of commissioners on uniform laws. Though it is an independent body, this conference works with the Bar Association. Another influence similarly directed is in the work of the association itself for simplified law. The criticism has been made of course, that the association has resolved rather than achieved. But it must be remembered that in its efforts for law the association has had to contend with the persistent work of blocs in state and nation that are organized for the very purpose of getting more law. If it is true that the representatives of the legal profession might have done more than they have done, it is true also that public sentiment has not been so vigorously expressed against over-lawing as it must be expressed if this harmful tendency is to be overcome. The public has its duty to perform in order that we may retain a zone for individual action undirected by law.—Buffalo Courier-Express.

YOUR HEALTH

Editor: Journal of the American Medical Association and Hygiene, The Health Magazine.

Some years ago it was found that when carotens were shipped by express, under some circumstances, the flowers went to sleep and the buds did not open.

An investigation revealed that the illuminant Pintac gas, which consists largely of ethylene, was the cause of this. This led physiologists to test ethylene as an anesthetic, and as a result it has become one of the most widely used general anesthetics in American medical practice, largely replacing ether and chloroform.

About four years ago, physicians of the United States Bureau of Chemistry reported that the color of oranges and lemons could be made natural by exposure of the green fruits to an atmosphere of ethylene, and since that time this method has become a general practice. Applications of ethylene are being used now to speed up the ripening process of bananas, tomatoes and vegetables.

Cheap to Apply Apparently ethylene removes excess acidity, increases sugar content and removes tannins and other objectionable substances. A single dose of ethylene, about two or three cubic feet, costs less than 40 cents to a carload of fruit, and is sufficient to produce a remarkable change. Apparently ethylene increases the breathing rate and, associated with this, the concentration of the fruit acids and of the tannins becomes less. Some investigators believe, however, that the ethylene acts as a catalytic agent.

Loss of Vitamins In the meantime, The Journal of the American Medical Association points out that many additional studies are needed in relation to the use of ethylene on food substances. Recent investigations show that irradiation by the sun confers upon green fruits and cereals, particularly the leafy vegetables, certain vitamin powers of the greatest importance. Perhaps artificial ripening by the use of ethylene will interfere seriously with the development of these powers. The vitamins are relatively delicate. No one knows whether artificial and rapid ripening increases their presence, decreases it, or materially affects it in any way. Here is a field for studies of practical importance in which promptness is demanded because of the commercial significance of the rapid ripening process.

"A Coolidge Car." The Western World carries this one under a Wewoka, Okla., dateline.

A dark, dusty citizen of the oil field went throughout the district last week trying to sell his automobile.

Approaching W. O. Duffy, superintendent for W. R. Ramsey, he announced:

"Mistah Duffy, I would suitably like to sell you my Coolidge car."

"Mistah Duffy, you mean, 'Coolidge car'?" Duffy asked.

"Well, Mistah Duffy, this here car don't choose to run."

"I'm thinking of a trip to Europe," Duffy said.

"Really, old man, you can't afford that. You're not accustomed to that sort of thing."

"I merely said I was thinking of it. I can afford to think can't I?"

"No, that's what I mean. You're not accustomed to thinking."

TAKE TIME TO INVESTIGATE

It is a common saying that a man who throws rocks at negroes a few days ago and was placed in jail. The boy's father wanted to pay him out but the officers said wait until we have time to investigate the case. That is perhaps a wise plan if the officers have adopted. It is the plan followed by the State Rangers. If a law has been violated the officers have a perfect right and it is their duty to confine the prisoner until they learn the extent of the violation. In the meantime the stay in jail is worth much to prevent others from violating the laws. Children, peace officers are going to follow that plan in the future and some of the youngsters who want to violate the law will find themselves as guests of the county jail from one to three days before they can pay off the expense—Children Index.

Violators of the law are supposed to have an opportunity to prove their innocence, just as the state or the city has a right to prosecute and the sooner violators learn that they are not going to be given any sailing when they have committed some offense against the laws of the state or the nation, just so soon will they begin to think about things they do before they do them.

Sometimes boys do things through a natural desire for pranking. Especially is this true in regard to the colored people. Nearly every boy in the South has something in his life had a streak of devilishness in him, and when he sees an opportunity to get something over he is pretty certain to try to do it.

"Did you give your penny to the Sunday school, Robert?" asked the fond mother.

"No, ma'am, I had it."

"What? Lost another one? That makes three Sundays straight you've lost your penny."

"Yes, but if I keep it up I'll win 'em back. That kid's luck can't last forever."

Souvenir.

"I suppose there are tender memories connected with this lock of hair."

"Must be or I wouldn't have kept it. But who gave it to me, hey? That's what I want to know."

Constitution Delicately Balances Ruling Functions To Avoid Abuse

EDITOR'S NOTE: This story is a series of articles which have the Constitution as their subject matter. The first article is entitled "The Constitution" and the second "The Executive and the Senate."

BY HARRY ATWOOD President, Constitution Anniversary Association.

The framers of the Constitution were not only wise but also practical. They provided a system of checks and balances, so that no one branch of government should become too powerful. This system is still in operation today, and it is one of the great achievements of the American people.

State Restraints

Illustrative of the restraints upon the states under the United States are the following: No bill of attainder or ex post facto law shall be passed. No title of nobility shall be granted by the United States.

No tax or duty shall be laid on articles exported from any state. No preference shall be given by any regulation of commerce or revenue to the ports of one state over those of another.

States are also restrained upon the exercise of the following: No state shall enter into any treaty, alliance or confederation, grant letters of marque and reprisal, coin money, emit bills of credit, or issue any thing but gold and silver coin as a tender in payment of debts, except any bill of attainder, ex post facto law, or law impairing the obligation of contracts.

The states were further restrained in the selection of representatives, members and president by specified qualifications as to age and residence.

By balancing restraints, are among the things which make the parts of the Constitution one of the very unusual features of it.

Probably more than we realize they provide a reason why the Constitution has functioned so successfully.

MY PETS

By Edna Smith Deraan I've six small creamy balls of fluff And each one says, "Cheep, Cheep." My daddy brought them from the farm And says they're mine to keep.

Their eyes are just as black and bright As were two beads cut round. And, Oh, I'm sure a sweeter gift My dad could not have found.

My mother cooks an egg real hard And makes it with my bread. And let's me feed 'em every day, For chickens must be fed.

And when our sour milk gets thick I put some in a pan. And my little gobbie it right up. They eat just all they can.

I know I will not want to kill My pets when they grow old. If giants killed me when I'm big I bet my dad would scold.

Today's Poems

And if there isn't room enough I'll pray: "God keep them small." I know I can't really have My chickens killed at all.

GIFTS

By Nola Alder Bredlove The sun will never dare to hold His shining light within his hoist. But things it broadcast on the earth So the poorest creatures have a part.

If the lovely cricket refused to sing His evening song with voice so true, They'd miss the music of his life. We all would very soon forget The tiny creatures live at all.

And lovely flowers hold and shy. Their sweetly to plundering bees. They must yield. They're from tiny seeds they look. May bloom again within the field.

We should have a gift that we must give. Though it may seem small in this world. The gift of the spirit we put in this life. For our share of the life to come.

And since the Father in knowing love Has willed that this must be. Then how shall I dare to make my gift. From less than the best of me?

No "Play" To Run Running Business Sometimes Death Ends A Wild Dash

This is the second of five stories by Rodney Dutcher, Washington, reporter of the Avalanche and NEA Service, on the war in Florida between the U. S. Coast Guard and rum smugglers.

BY RODNEY DUTCHER NEA Service Writer. WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—The life and death of the late "Red" Shannon, rum runner, furnished a vivid explanation of the defiance, treachery and desperate methods which the Coast Guard faces on the shores of the peninsula's playground, the Coast Guardsmen say.

board the raucous, three-hulled motor launch, the "Red" Shannon, was thrown into the water, and the quantity of rum in the hold was estimated to be about 100,000 gallons.

Joe Humphreys says: "Holbrook Blinn is right—Luckies are certainly good"

Noted sports announcer, talking to his son, George Cohan Humphreys, at their home in Fairhaven, New Jersey, recommends Lucky Strikes.

Holbrook Blinn, Noted Stage Star, writes: "Each performance brings with it its attendant nervousness and I relish the opportunity for a soothing smoke while playing. During the course of 'The Play's the Thing' I am called on to smoke at frequent intervals. It is always a Lucky Strike. I know from many years' use of this cigarette that my throat is constantly protected and that it will give me the greatest enjoyment."

You, too, will find that Lucky Strikes are mild and mellow—the finest cigarettes you ever smoked, made of the finest Turkish and domestic tobaccos, properly aged and blended with great skill, and there is an extra process—"It's toasted"—no harshness, not a bit of bite.

"It's toasted" No Throat Irritation - No Cough.

DAILY MARKETS

CHICAGO COTTON MARKET

CHICAGO, Sept. 19 (AP)—The cotton market broke approximately 5 1/2 cents today on liquidation and selling based on the weakness in the stock market as well as prospects for better weather over the week with December sold off from 21.20 to 20.35, and closed at the latter figure compared with 21.24 at Saturday's close. The general market closed at the low, barely steady at net declines of 6 1/2 to 7 1/2 points.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Sept. 19 (AP)—An opening advance in the cotton market today was followed by a decline and quietness eventually reached 20.27 and December 20.26, 100 to 101 points over the high. The market continued weak to the end of the day at the low. Exports for the day totaled 6,781 bales.

FORT WORTH LIVESTOCK

FORT WORTH, Sept. 19 (AP)—The livestock market here today was generally steady. Hog receipts were slow in trading. In the cattle division, choice calves were 25 cents higher.

NEW YORK CLOTH MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 19 (AP)—The cloth market was quiet today and quotations were unchanged by mills. Bulkier quotations from California were a little lower than Saturday and were unchanged here. Blue silks were steady. Distribution of broad silks continued large, but at close profit margins.

CHICAGO LIVESTOCK

CHICAGO, Sept. 19 (AP)—Cattle: 21,000; all selling classes 15 to 25 cents higher; best fed steers both heaves and long yearlings 15.75; 1000 lb. steers 15.00; western 9.50 to 11.00; southern 10.00 to 11.50; western 10.00 to 11.50; southern 10.00 to 11.50.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Sept. 19 (AP)—Extremely active trading in corn and much higher prices today accompanied a forecast of frost tonight over Nebraska, the Dakotas and Minnesota. It was pointed out also that the corn market of late had undergone a break of 25 cents a bushel and that corn is now on a profitable footing basis compared with the value of hogs.

3 Million Gate At Fistic Show Seems Now Hardly Likely

CHICAGO, Sept. 19.—Prospects that it will take a last minute rush of ticket selling to reach the hoped for $3,000,000 "gate," discussion of a mysterious group of five candidates for the all important post of referee and episodes in the "open letter" campaign launched under Jack Dempsey's signature were chief topics of interest in the "ballyhoo" for the Dempsey-Tunney heavyweight title battle Thursday.

Rickard admitted it would take a big rush of business to reach the $3,000,000 mark, let alone the "peak" possibility of $5,200,000. Not Expecting Sell-Out. "I do not expect a sell-out," Rickard said. "None of the big heavyweights ever have been. The sale of the lower-priced tickets has been surprisingly slack but my box office men say it picked up some today. However, we will need to dispose of many more pastebords to gross three million in receipts."

Rickard revealed that his associate and official promoter of the bout, George F. Dietz, as well as others, had turned back a substantial quantity of the top price tickets $30 and $40, but he added there seemed no difficulty disposing of them again.

It is the general impression that the "gate" is not likely to exceed $2,500,000 with the total attendance closer to 150,000 than the actual capacity of slightly more than 170,000. These figures, however, would make the battle a record smasher for a sporting event anywhere.

Counterfeit Tickets that have appeared so far have been easily detected, Rickard said, expressing the opinion that the local and federal authorities had the situation well in hand. Rickard exhibited bogus tickets for comparison with the real thing, showing that the counterfeits can be detected easily by the difference in watermark, printing, inaccuracy and lack of perforations. Rickard said he understood there had been an attempt to unload a shipment of counterfeit pastebords in Cleveland.

Selection of a referee, whose name will be kept a secret until the night of the fight, is expected to be made by the state athletic commission tomorrow. The identity of the candidates, said to have been narrowed down to five, was not revealed, but it was understood two of the names under consideration are Herbert C. Lytton, Chicago business man, and Walter Eckersall, newspaperman and former football star.

The presence of Lou Magnolia, prominent New York referee in Tunney's camp today gave rise to the suggestion he might be considered, as well as Eddie Parry, another Gotham ring official, whose home is in Illinois.

LECTURE TICKET SUPPLY DWINDLES

FEW REMAINING TO BE CONCENTRATED AT DRUG STORE

While a definite check-up on ticket sales for the Will Hogg lecture to be given through the Allen Brothers Post of the American Legion here September 26 could not be made at the regular meeting of the post Monday night, it was announced that the supply is fast dwindling, and all that are yet unsold in the hands of merchants of the city are to be taken up and concentrated through division commanders in the campaign at four drug stores, effective Tuesday morning.

Tickets have been on sale at many business houses of the city since opening of the campaign, and with the supply exhausted from headquarters, it was deemed wise to concentrate the remainder, where they will be accessible at the two stores operated by City Drug, at Bowen's, and at the Hotel Drug.

In addition, teams from the Legion organization, will renew their efforts for a complete sell-out early in the week, and in the event all are not gone by Saturday, they will be taken up and distributed at one or two places about the city where tickets will be available.

The organization unanimously voted repetition of its action of its action of last year, when it purchased and delivered to all city year veterans in this city, season tickets to the Panhandle South Plains Fair here September 27, 28, 29, 30 and October 1. Finance Officer A. C. Jackson was instructed to purchase the necessary number of tickets at once and distribute them to the veterans.

In addition to an iced watermelon feast, the meeting was entertained by three blackfaced comedians in the natural, these being formerly enlisted in the army. "Calface" Means took the lead in this part of the program.

It was announced that another general meeting of the Legion is to be held Friday night when a final check-up will be made on ticket sales, and every man who has participated in any manner in the campaign is urged particularly to attend the meeting.

Baltimore Oysters, Fresh Fish, Choice Sea Food. Did you know that a certain amount of iodine is essential for your good health and well being. In this connection it is interesting to note that the government Bureau of Fisheries report that Oysters contain more iodine contents than any other sea food, and two hundred times as much iodine as milk, egg or beefsteak.

Oysters also contain an abundance of vitamin "C" an essential element in our food. Our Oysters are the Pride of Chesapeake Bay and Baltimore's Best. Packed under the most rigid sanitary conditions and government supervision, thus offering a protection not to be had with all foods of today.

EXHIBITS ABOUT READY FOR FAIR

SPEED WORK AT GROUNDS TO HAVE ALL READY FOR OPENING

Only a week remains until the opening of the Panhandle South Plains Fair that will be held Sept. 27, 28, 29, and Oct. 1, and all officials are busy early and late getting everything in shape for the exposition.

Work is progressing nicely on the grounds at the fair park and buildings are being repaired before the opening of the exposition. Letters and catalogs have been mailed out to hundreds of last year's exhibitors, poultry breeders, fine stock breeders and others.

A letter went out recently to all merchants of the Plains thanking them for their cooperation in helping advertise the fair and inviting them to attend the exposition next week.

Two trade trips have been made and another is to be staged today. When the Tuesday trip is complete virtually every Plains town will have been visited by the fair boosters, have made speeches, passed out literature and novelties advertising the fair.

Work in lining up exhibits has been constantly underway and the largest display of exhibits in all departments that has ever been seen here is expected by the directors of the fair.

Attractions have been booked which insure the best entertainment in years and prizes and premiums will run up into the thousands of dollars.

The editor of the Omaha World-Herald was one time awarded the Pulitzer prize for the best editorial written during the year, and he is universally considered a top-notch editor as an editorial-writer, radiating sense of humor and employing clear-cut and expressive diction. Whether people always agree with his opinions or not, none can justly say he is not rich in ideas or that he is unable to make himself clearly understood. Notwithstanding his acceptance among literary people as far above the average as an editorial-writer, he quotes someone about himself as "Content Reader," with this crushing note: "You are probably the funniest editorial-writer in the United States. I have read all of them for years and they surely are rotten." The injustice of the critic shows great depth of ignorance, with his inexpressive poor taste. He also shows that one cannot rise high enough in any profession or business to insure escape from the blanket demeritor of a shallow brain, doubtless piqued by some trivial disagreement.—Wayne Herald.

New Species of Wild Onion Found In Alpine Sector

Special to the Avalanche—ALPINE, Sept. 19.—A new species of Allium (wild onion) has recently been discovered in the Big Bend by Professor H. J. Coker, head of the biology department of Sul Ross State Teachers college, who is doing research work and ecological study of the vegetation of this section. The new plant has never been described so far as could be determined. A check of professor Coker's Herbarium by Professor L. V. Coe, one of the U. S. Government Taxonomists disclosed the fact that some very rare specimens have been found in the Big Bend by Mr. Coker. The new specimen of Allium Scutellum has been found in only one place in the Alps, and has a small area near Alpine, and has a yellow blossom and many other differences from the common wild Allium.

When the check of the Brewster county native plants (Herbarium) was completed by Professor Coe, it was found that other rare, perhaps entirely new species, were found in the collection. Some of these are being sent to the National Herbarium, to be sure of their correct classification. Professor Coker says that the plant families that are perhaps represented by the most species, are the compositae and the leguminosae. Among the legumes are some very valuable forage plants and some that are poisonous to the range stock.

Million Watched Parade
For Paris, the heart of France, "la grande parade" was the whole thing. At least one million Parisians were packed along the four mile line of march, behind the bayonets of the police, the white bannons of the police and the sleek couriers of the mounted republican guard. Rooms and windows everywhere along the route and some quite a distance from the parade were filled with French faces. No traffic was allowed to move along the line of march during the entire afternoon.

As the American Legion met, the women of the auxiliary started their convention in similar spirit. General Gouraud spoke to them in behalf of the army and Andre Tardieu in behalf of the government told the women how grateful France still is to them not only for giving their men to France but also for the women's back in the war and above all for the spiritual influence they exerted during the war. The American president, women in their turn through Mrs. Adelin Wright MacAulay, national president of the auxiliary, thanked their French sisters for "what you did for our boys."
