Cast-Off Milt Steengrafe Trims Spuds In Story Book Style

SMITH HURLS DIRECT CHALLENGE TO ROOSEVELT

SPORTS TAKE OPENING GAME BY 6-4 SCORE

5,000 Fans Turn Out to See Season's First Tilt At Shreveport

TOO MANY CURVES

Tom Conlan Fails to Match Wares of Old 'Maul 'Em Milton'

Special to The Record News.

SHREVEPORT, La., April 13.—The old, old baseball drama of a cast-off turning hero against his former mates was re-enacted here today, as the Shreveport Sports whipped the Wichita Falls Spudders, 6 to 4, in the season's lid-blaster.

Always Troubling Us

Old Milton Steengrafe, who is called "old" just as one buddy jostles with another, and not because the years are upon him, was the hero. His pitching kept the Shreveport crowd cheered in the later innings, and caused the Spudders, his former mates, no end of trouble. For Milton, known in Wichita Falls in other years as "Maul 'Em Milt," hauled out that great curve ball that formerly did service for the Wichitans, and mauled his former brethren unmercifully.

Steengrafe, who pitched for the Spudders five years, was turned loose by the Wichita Falls club at the close of last season.

About 5,000 fans turned out to see the Sports, managed by George Sisler, start the ball rolling. Of course the Sports' victory was received with whoops by the local gentry. Both sides, however, contributed fine exhibitions, and the close score reflects the bitterness of the battle.

Neither starting pitcher finished. Tom Conlan of the Spudders weakened in the fourth and was replaced by Flotrid, who pitched creditably the rest of the way. Tom McPhaul started for the Sports but soon gave way to Steengrafe.

Whether Steengrafe's work today will interfere with his starting in the opening game at Wichita Falls next Friday was not announced by Manager Sisler.

The teams clash again here Thursday. Manager Severeid of the Spudders announced Lester White would be on the hill for the visitors. Sisler was undecided about his starting pitcher.

Hank Socks 'Em

The veteran Severeid broke in the Texas league with a flourish, his single and double accounting for runs on his first two trips to the plate.

Scharein provided a sensation for the visitors when he hit a home run inside the park.

Van Lamm, former Texas university star, was the Sports' big hitter. He made his Texas league debut with three hits, one a single in the fourth with the bases loaded. Two runs crossed the plate—enough to win the game.

The visitors scored in the first inning and increased their margin in the fourth with three tallies but in the last of the fourth Shreveport came from behind and scored five times and were never headed. Badgro, Green, Scharein and Severeid featured the Spudders' stick work and accounted for all their runs. Nicholson hit a home run for Shreveport with a man on base in the fourth.

The Opening Frame

The battle opened with the Spudders going out in order on infield

District Scholastic Meet Brings Record List Of Entries

Wildcat Deep Test Making 300 Barrels

Fain & McGaha company No. 1 fee, located in the northeast corner of block 3, league 3, Denton county school lands in Archer county, is swabbing at the rate of 300 barrels per day.

The well, which is a wildcat three miles east of the old Shappell oil pool on the J. L. Jackson land, and approximately one and three-quarters of a mile northeast of the town of Holliday, topped the sand at 1789 feet and when penetrated two feet, filled the hole in a short time.

The discovery well which is near the center of the Fain & McGaha 380-acre tract, will be a factor in the starting up of other tests in the near future, as several tracts have changed hands during the last 24 hours for fair prices.

In addition to its completion in a sector heretofore not exploited for the deeper pays, the well brings deep production within nine miles to the limits of the city of Wichita Falls.

The sugar is shipped from Hawaii to California, refined there and shipped through the Panama canal to Galveston.

Prosecution Nears Close In Honolulu Trial Of Americans

By DAN CAMPBELL

COURTROOM, HONOLULU, T. H., April 12. (UP)—Prosecutor John Kelley today reached the climax in his case against four Americans accused of the "honor murder" of Joe Kahahawai.

The Irish prosecutor drove home to the jury of many races his belief that a missing revolver purchased by Albert Orren Jones probably fired the shot that killed Kahahawai. Mrs. Granville Roland Fortescue, Lieut. Thomas H. Massie and E. J. Lord, defendants with Jones, sat like graven statues. Jones turned white, gulped.

Vasca Rosa, salesman of revolvers in a hardware store, was the witness.

Told of Selling Guns

He testified Mrs. Fortescue bought a .32 calibre pearl-handled revolver and Jones a .32 automatic a fortnight before the killing.

Kelley picked up the steel-nosed bullet taken from Kahahawai's body. He handed it to Rosa with an exploded shell found in Jones' pocket.

"Do they fit?" he barked.

Rosa experimented.

"This bullet could have been fired from this shell," he said.

"Was the bullet found on a table in the Fortescue home like bullets found in a clip under Jones' belt?"

"Yes."

"That's all!"

Clarence Darrow, defense chief, waved a negligent hand, excusing Rosa.

"Your honor, I can finish in 15 minutes tomorrow," Kelley said to impassive Judge Charles S. Davis.

Darrow Ready

"We'll be ready," rumbled Darrow.

Cornelius Gibbs was on the stand at adjournment. He testified a rope around Kahahawai's neck and a similar piece found at the Fortescue bungalow were obtainable only at the navy yard.

Attempting to show premeditation, Kelley put Tochi Adachi, 16-year-old Japanese schoolgirl on the stand. She was Mrs. Fortescue's maid.

The white-clad girl smiled in a friendly way at the grim society woman.

A stony trace of a smile appeared on Mrs. Fortescue's face.

"Mrs. Fortescue gave me Friday (the day of Kahahawai's death) off," she said.

"Did you ever get a day off before?"

"Only at Christmas and New Year."

Attack Not Mentioned

Premeditated murder—vastly important to prove if Kelly is to win his case—apparently was what he sought to show.

Never did Kelly permit mention of the defense contention that Kahahawai was believed by the defendants to have aided in the brutal attack on Thalia Fortescue Massie, daughter of one defendant, wife of

IF THEY'RE GOOD

Convicts Have Method Of Figuring Time They Must Serve

SACRAMENTO, Calif., April 13. (US)—Page Dr. Einstein.

California convicts have worked out a method of determining how long they have to stay in prison that would puzzle even that notable authority on relativity.

When their terms are fixed by the prison board, the prisoners take the number of years announced, multiply it by 7, add 8, divide the result by 12 and the result is how long they will have to stay there, provided they are good.

Prison authorities who revealed the method, declared that it was based on provisions of the good conduct credits system and worked accurately.

BILL CHARGES VOTES BOUGHT

Murray Says Money Being Spent for Roosevelt

DENVER, April 13. (AP)—Gov. W. H. Murray of Oklahoma charged here today that money was being spent to "buy" Democratic convention votes for Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York, and spiked reports he was abandoning his own campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination.

"I have made statements about the buying of votes," Murray told newspaper men. "I made them in private conversations. I did not intend for them to be made public at the moment.

"However, I did say that money was being spent in North Dakota to buy the state's delegation for Roosevelt, and I said, also in private conversations, that some money was spent for this purpose in Iowa."

Withheld Details

Murray said he did not wish to go into detail about these charges at present.

"I'll take them up later, you may be sure," he added. "As for myself, I would rather go down to defeat in a righteous cause than ride the band wagon into Wall street."

A previous utterance by the governor in regard to Roosevelt ex-

'Jafsie' Continues Work With Drawn Blinds And Secrecy

NEW YORK, April 13. (UP)—One of the bills which Dr. John F. Condon paid in his unsuccessful $50,000 barter for return of the kidnaped Lindbergh baby has been found in New York city.

Condon, the mysterious "Jafsie" in the kidnaping negotiations, has felt all along that he was not double crossed when he paid an agent the 5, 10 and 20 dollar bills on the night of April 2, however, and said today: "I still have hope."

Announcement in Washington that United States justice department agents had found a $20 bill in New York which tallied with one on the list made public by the treasury department last week, was the first definite information that the men who dealt with Condon had started passing their gains. It indicated the man or men might still be within this immediate area.

Note Given to Police

David Isaacs, a retired New York business man was inspired by his wife to look into the numbers of some $20 bills in his posession. He checked the numbers with two banks, a branch of the Corn Exchange and a branch of the East River Savings bank. One of the bills bore a number given out by the United States treasury as a "Lindbergh kidnap bill."

The savings bank turned the note over to the police, who called in government agents and began an investigation of their own. It was found that Isaacs probably received the money in change, from

Advocates of Bonus To Try to Force Vote

WASHINGTON, April 13. (AP)—Advocates of cashing the $2,400,000,000 soldiers' bonus in new currency today agreed upon an effort to force a house vote despite the federal reserve board's emphatic opposition.

Representative Patman, Democrat, Texas, one of the group, claimed ample support to secure a house vote through a discharge petition, if necessary, and predicted its passage in both houses.

East Texas Wells Fail To Cut Daily Allowable

AUSTIN, April 13. (AP)—The East Texas oil field today continued on a per well allowable of 71 barrels in spite of an announced decision of the Texas Railroad commission to cut it to 67 barrels.

It developed that the commission never issued an official order reducing the allowable four barrels per well in order to bring the field top production to within 325,000 barrels daily. Maximum fixed by the railroad commission to be prorated each 15 days period among the producing wells in the field.

WASHINGTON, April 13. (US)—Joseph E. Sheedy, former vice president of the United States lines, today accused the shipping board of illegally transferring the lines' ships and wrecking the American merchant fleet as a competitive factor in North Atlantic trade.

TEXAS TECH LEADER DIES

Dr. Horn to Be Buried In Family Plot

LUBBOCK, Texas, April 13. (AP)—Burial of Dr. Paul W. Horn, 62, first president of Texas Technological college who died here this morning, will be in a family plot in Lubbock cemetery and not, as planned earlier today, on the college campus. Rites will be solemnized at 5 p. m. Thursday.

Announcement of the change was made tonight by the Horn family after it was learned here that one member of the college board of directors opposed burial on the college campus. Each of the remaining eight directors had approved the campus burial.

The dissenting member of the board was John W. Carpenter, Dallas utilities magnate, who eulogized the life and work of the dead president but who said he opposed, as a matter of principal and precedent, the burial of any person within the confines of the college campus.

Rites in College Building

Funeral services, led by Rev. Joe Haymes, pastor of the First Methodist church in which Dr. Horn was a leading member, will be held, in accordance with original plans, in the cloisters of the Tech administration building. The entire student body, faculty members and thousands of local and neighboring people are expected to attend the funeral rites.

Representatives of other state and denominational colleges will have special parts in the funeral services, Dean James M. Gordon, of Tech's liberal arts school, said tonight. Institutions already listing official

Southern Dry Leader Causes Stir With Proposal For Prohibition Vote

WASHINGTON, April 13. (AP)—Modifying his previous statements that he would not oppose or favor any candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination before the national convention, Alfred E. Smith tonight hurled a direct challenge to the aspirations of the Democratic party's leading candidate—Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Promises Fight

Speaking as titular head of the party before thousands gathered at a Jefferson day banquet in the Willard hotel, the 1928 nominee quoted from Roosevelt's recent radio address without referring to him by name and said;

"I will take off my coat and vest and fight to the bitter end any candidate who persists in any demagogic appeal to the masses of the working people of this country to destroy themselves by setting class against class and rich against poor."

In his prepared speech, Smith had also said he would rather have the convention remain in session all summer than nominate a weak candidate with a "half-baked" platform. But he skipped this in delivery. As is his custom he departed frequently from his manuscript.

Refers to Radio Address

Roosevelt, who now is far in the lead for the nomination with 716 pledged and claimed delegates, could not attend the rally, but his name, with most of the other prominent members of the party, was cheered as Chairman John J. Raskob mentioned them one by one.

Roosevelt came in for applause when Raskob read a telegram from him expressing regret he could not be here and saying unemployment and economy problems required his attention at Albany at this time.

Debt Cancellation

Smith was applauded frequently, but his proposal that the United States "forget" the foreign debts due us for 20 years with a 25 per cent credit allowed meanwhile on the gross value of products purchased from America, received only a few scattered handclaps.

Former Governor Harry F. Byrd of Virginia preceded Smith in the speech-making and caused a stir among the more than 2,000 banqueters when he offered as a compromise wet plank a constitutional amendment to permit a later direct vote by the people on prohibition retention, repeal or modification.

Smith later stuck to his plan for a states' right plank allowing states to remain wet or dry as they chose, but he said he was "glad to hear from Virginia" on the question.

Senator J. Hamilton Lewis of Illinois was to have spoken, but he found at the last minute he could not attend.

Others sharing honors at the banquet speech making were Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland and former Gov. James M. Cox of Ohio.

Byrd said he offered the proposal as a common ground upon which differing forces might unite and not with the thought of "candidacy for any office."

"The prohibition law and all other laws must be enforced," he said, "but we must recognize that no law is stronger than the public

Reagan County Field Submits Proration Plan

SAN ANGELO, Texas, April 13. (UP)—Chairman C. V. Terrell of the state railroad commission heard testimony here today that the production allowable for oil wells in the Reagan county field should not be changed. He took the matter under advisement.

Shallow wells can not be restricted further without heavy loss due to water, witnesses said, and the world's nine deepest wells, all in the Reagan section, are being operated at highest efficiency with present production.

Appeals Judges Send Love's Suit Against Pledge To Highest Court

DALLAS, April 13. (AP)—The fifth district court of civil appeals today granted the motion of former State Senator Thomas B. Love, leader of the "ultra dry" faction in Texas, to certify direct to the state supreme court the question of whether the state Democratic executive committee has the legal right to exact a "loyalty" pledge of voters participating in the Democratic presidential precinct conventions May 7.

Members of the appellate court said their action was intended to facilitate a final decision before the precinct conventions. They said the time was so limited that should the appeal take its ordinary course it might not reach the supreme court for final decision prior to holding of the conventions. They recognized the fact that "the final decision in this case is one which affects all Democratic voters of the state."

Love moved to carry his opposition to the pledge to the supreme court after District Judge Robert B. Allan last Saturday dismissed his suit asking for a writ of mandamus to force all Democratic precinct committeement to permit voters to take part in the conventions without singing the pledge. Judge Allen ruled there were no statutes restricting the regulations which may be enforced by the state executive committee in controlling Democratic political party affairs.

Treasury Deficit Hits Two Billion As Leaders Debate Economy Program

WASHINGTON, April 13. (AP)—President Hoover's revised federal employment reduction plan was laid before the house economy committee today as the federal deficit increased to more than $2,000,000,000.

The chief executive discussed his program calling for a five-day work week throughout the government, elimination of annual leave without pay and allowances to rural mail carriers with the group at the White House. He estimates it will save $98,000,000.

Meanwhile, the treasury reported that on April 11 the government's deficit totaled $2,017,858,745, its highest figure in peace times. On that date all sources had produced $1,629,961,527 in revenue during the fiscal year, while $3,647,820,272 had been spent.

Before going into the White House conference McDuffie, Democrat, Alabama, chairman of the special house economy committee, announced he would insist his plan to reduce salaries 11 per cent after exempting $1,000 be brought to the $20,000,000 legislative supply bill as a rider. The saving by his plan is estimated at $67,000,000.

Earlier, J. C. Roop, budget director, met with the committee at the capitol to discuss the president's plan. He said the saving by the committee proposals would total $95,000,000.

DEMOS HONOR JEFFERSON DAY

War Debt Revision Advocated by Al Smith

sentiment to sustain it."

Under his plan, two separate votes would be required in congress and two by the states to settle the issue. First, the amendment to allow the people to vote directly on the question instead of legislature or conventions as now permitted would require a two-thirds vote in congress. Then, another two-thirds vote would be necessary to resubmit the 18th amendment. Congress would set the voting day when no other election is held.

Foremost of past Democratic prohibition plank suggestions has been the Raskob-Smith home rule amendment to permit states to be wet or dry as they desire.

Byrd said he was opposed to any plan permitting the people of one state to "vote that state out of the control of the constitution while other states remain under the constitution."

Governor Ritchie also touched prohibition. He said he favored a tax "which would accompany the substitution of state determination and local self-government for national prohibition, and turn into the United States treasury revenues which at present go to illegitimate sources."

Speaking at a luncheon earlier in the day, Senator Robinson, the Democratic leader in the senate, blamed the administration promises and policies for much of the existing troubles and charged the Hoover regime with "extravagance."

He laid down a six-point program for the Democrats. It included reciprocal tariffs and abandonment of the present "prohibitive" rates; sharp cuts in government expenditures; rigid enforcement of the anti-trust laws; use of American capital at home instead of lending it abroad; no cancellation of foreign debts nor readjustment except in America's interest; and raising the commodity price level through orderly disposition of surpluses and other means.

Reparations Conference Opens About June 12

LONDON, April 13. (US)—Diplomatic circles here heard tonight that June 12 or 14 will be the date set by Europe's chancelleries for the convening of the reparations conference in Lausanne, Switzerland.

It is expected authoritative headquarters indicated, that the agenda for the conference will be widened to include not only reparations but also war debts owing to the United States.

French influence is responsible for the inclusion of the debt question, since Paris insists on discussing in general the economic and financial situation of Europe. France, it is said, will again broach the Danubian customs federation scheme at Lausanne.

Col. Arthur O'Brien Elected Demo Treasurer

WASHINGTON, April 13. (INS)—Col. Arthur O'Brien of Washington, D. C., was today elected treasurer of the Democratic party, succeeding James W. Gerard of New York, who recently resigned.

Colonel O'Brien's election was announced after an executive session of the Democratic national committee this morning, at which reports were received from the Democratic "minute men" who have been conducting the party's "victory drive" for funds.

Murray was quoted last Friday as saying in a speech at Norfolk, Neb., that $50,000 in eastern money had been sent into Nebraska to win delegates for Roosevelt. He explained the next day he had not intended to convey that idea, but realized later the audience had misunderstood him.

Gives Explanation

"I intended to convey," he said, "that Arthur Mullen of Omaha, Democratic national committeeman, had $50,000 for the Al Smith campaign four years ago, and I was wondering if he had the same amount for Roosevelt."

Mullen stated at the time that less than $200 had been spent in Nebraska for Roosevelt and that he had paid it personally.

A statement by Atty. Gen. J. Berry King of Oklahoma, his political foe, that he had "hit upon an excuse to call his campaign to a halt" drew fire.

"A hell of a lot the attorney general knows about my plans," he exploded.

Murray refused to disclose the "urgent matter" which caused him to start back home, although speculation in Oklahoma was that interference with his administrative policies by Acting Governor Robert Burns figured in his decision.

MURRAY-BURNS ROW APPEARS A CERTAINTY

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 13. (AP)—A prolonged row between Gov. W. H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray and Lieut. Gov. Robert Burns over Burns' order halting all work on a state subpenitentiary project appeared probable tonight.

With the governor rushing home from a cancelled speaking tour in Oregon, Burns announced that if Murray countermands his order, he will renew it "next time I become acting governor."

Burns ordered construction at the prison site to cease when he received an opinion from Atty. Gen. J. Berry King, holding expenditures by the board of affairs on the project illegal.

Dashed Homeward

Murray had announced plans to speak in Ohio when he completed his western campaign as a Democratic presidential candidate.

In Murray's absence, Acting Governor Burns, tried to shoe some wily "horses" from the governor's stable and had the job well under way when Murray for some unannounced reason cut his presidential campaign in Oregon short and dashed homeward.

To drop the metaphor, the unruly "horses" refer to oil proration as handled by Cicero I. Murray, the governor's cousin; the proposed subpenitentiary that Murray's board of affairs were preparing to construct, and the alleged failure of Murray's executive office personnel to aid the acting governor in his work.

DES MOINES, Iowa, April 13. (AP)—J. S. Wolfe of Des Moines, one of the managers of the Roosevelt campaign, tonight emphatically denied any money was being spent in Iowa in behalf of the New York governor. Wolfe said both he and John Sullivan, Waterloo, state campaign manager for Roosevelt, are serving without salary.

Blooded Cattle Win Awards At Plainview

PLAINVIEW, Texas, April 13. (AP)—You'll Do's Biancia Gipsy, a three-year old cow owned by the Tierra Blanca farms of Canyon, was awarded the senior and grand championships of the jersey division at the Panhandle plains dairy show here today.

The cow was grand champion at the Amarillo tri-state fair and the cotton carnival of Roswell, N. M., last fall. She produced 63.3 pounds of butterfat in an official test during March.

Felix Mote, a Swisher county club boy, exhibited the junior champion, Xenia Rosebud Lady, a heifer under 18 months.

Winnings of club boys were outstanding features of the show. Robert Lee Smith of Lockney, 12, won first place in the four-year old jersey class with his Gamboge Intrinsic Lass. He began showing the animal here four years ago and she won her class each year. Lucian Morehead, a Hale county club boy, won first in the two-year old class with Fontaines Alberine.

County Herd Class

In the county herd class, competing against Swisher, Randall, Dawson and Hale, the Tierra Blanca farms placed first in the graded herd. O. L. Stansell of Floydada won first awards in both yearling and calf herds.

The Tierra Blanca farms won first in the get of sire. Thirteen were shown from Maries Oxford You'll Do and first in the produce of dam, six being shown from Gipsy's Biancia.

The P. C. Bennet trophy, offered for the bull circle exhibiting the best get of sire, was awarded to circle No. 4 of Swisher county for the fourth consecutive year.

First awards in other classes went to You'll Do's Fontaine Gipsy of the Tierra Blanca farms, five years or over, 15 shown; Oxford's Carrie Noble Girl, Tulia Jersey farm, Tulia, 18 months and under two years, 10 shown; Allen Premier Lady Stansell, six months and under 12, 15 shown; Allen Premier's Kathie Stansell, six months and under, 28 shown.

Stangel Elected

W. L. Stangel, head of the animal husbandry department at Texas Technological college, was elected president of the Dairy Show association at the annual business session tonight.

Jim E. Rigler, Hale county dairy farmer, was re-elected vice president. Grady Shipp of Plainview was re-elected secretary and treasurer.

The following directors were elected to three-year terms: J. M. Peterson of Lamesa, G. L. Boykin of Clarendon, Roy Davis of Plainview, T. L. Shepard of Lubbock, W. H. Upchurch of Canyon, S. R. Turner of Silverton, Charles A. Guy of Lubbock, Henry Ansley of Amarillo, J. B. Potts of Lockney and W. T. Magee of Levelland.

Lee McSpadden of Amarillo and Jake Tartar of Wheeler were elected to fill one-year vacancies on the board. Vacancies in two-year terms were filled by R. F. McFattridge of Muleshoe and Tom Haislip of Rogers, N. M.

Noted Educator Dies at Lubbock

representatives are Texas Christian university, Fort Worth; University of Texas, Austin; Baylor university, Waco; and West Texas State Teachers college, Canyon.

Dr. Horn, a nationally known educator, died suddenly at 9 a. m. today at the age of 62. He underwent an appendicitis operation in January. Three weeks ago he suffered a kidney disorder but had returned home from a hospital and was believed in no immediate danger.

Dr. Horn left no last message for his students, as did the late President S. P. Brooks of Baylor university, Waco. He was unconscious when he died, five minutes after a heart attack. Classes were dismissed today and all activity, including spring football training, was suspended. Hundreds of messages of condolence came tonight as the educator's body lay in state at his residence on the campus.

Pallbearers will be Clifford Jones, Spur, and Roscoe Wilson, Lubbock; regents of the college; J. M. Gordon, A. H. Ledigh and O. V. Adams, Lubbock, deans of the college; W. T. Gaston, college business manager; E. L. Dohoney, registrar, and C. A. Sanford, Lubbock, a long time friend.

Dr. Horn became an educator at the age of 14, when he taught his first school in a rural community in Johnson county, Missouri, in 1884. He was only 18 when he took his master of arts degree.

Author of Speller

The college president was born at Boonville, Mo., the son of a Methodist minister, and was educated at Central college, Fayette, Mo. He taught at Pryor institute, Jasper, Tenn., and married Miss Maud Kieth, daughter of a Cleveland, Tenn., Methodist minister.

He came to Texas in 1892 as principal and later superintendent of schools at Sherman. In 1904 he became superintendent of schools at Houston. In 1908, Dr. Horn and A. M. McCallum, Austin, compiled the now famous "New Century Spelling Book."

In 1921 he went to Mexico City as superintendent of the American school there and returned to become president of Southwestern university at Georgetown, Texas. He left that post to head Texas Tech, the new state school here, which opened in 1925. Under his administration the school had the greatest enrollment growth of any Texas university.

Defended Faculty

Last February he came to the defense of the faculty of the institution when the Rev. R. C. Campbell, Baptist minister here, accused some instructors of teaching students "atheism and infidelity." Dr. Horn denied the charges but investigated the latter and laid it before the trustees of the school. They took no action.

In addition to his Texas educational activities, Dr. Horn taught at summer schools at Tulane, the Univresity of the South, Peabody university, and Boston. In 1917 he made a survey of the Porland, Ore. schools and in 1919 was a member of a commission which made a survey of the Alabama state schools. He was author or co-author of a dozen textbooks.

the East River Savings bank, on Monday or Tuesday, April 4 or April 5. This was within a few days after the presumed kidnapers of the baby were paid $50,000 in cash by "Jafsie," acting as agent for Colonel Lindbergh.

Police Captain Richard Oliver and three detectives at once investigated accounts of shopkeepers in the neighborhood, and went carefully over deposit entries and other data that would enable them to determine how the bill came into the posession of the bank, from which it was evidently withdrawn by Isaacs.

Difficult to Trace

Tracing the course of the bill was manifestly difficult, since there were more than 1,500 cash deposits and withdrawals over the two-day period involved.

Meanwhile at Condon's residence the greatest secrecy prevailed. Window blinds were drawn. The telephone has been disconnected. Condon did not leave the house until midafternoon and then gave out only the brief statement of hope and left in a motor car accompanied by his son-in-law. Earlier in the day the son-in-law, Ralph Hacker, was seen to receive either a registered or a special delivery letter. Colonel Henry Breckenridge called at the Condon home this afternoon but remained only 15 minutes after finding that Condon had left.

Three Norfolk, Va., men who think they have made contact with the kidnapers also continued their efforts today. Dean H. Dobson-Peacock said his two aides, John Hughes Curtis and Rear Admiral Guy H. Burrage, were still away from home.

Colonel H. Norman Schwartzkopf, the superintendent of New Jersey state police, announced receipt of reports that Harry Fleisher, Detroit purple gangster, had been seen in Novo Scotia. He said authorities in Halifax and St. Johns had been requested to watch out for Fleisher and to check any "packages" leaving Halifax. The bulletin said Fleisher had been reported as preparing to leave for England. He is one of two men sought by New Jersey authorities for questioning since the beginning of the police investigation.

At Englewood, N. J., today there was renewed excitement when two state police motor cars arrived. Mrs. Dwight Morrow visited her home there last night but today returned to Hopewell where she has been almost constantly since her grandchild was kidnaped.

another, and "a navy wife" to the other two.

Kelley's case at adjournment today was near completion.

It alleged:

1. On Jan. 9, Mrs. Fortescue, Lieutenant Massie and Lord abducted Kahahawai from in front of the judiciary building, where they knew he would make his daily report as a defendant in the Massie attack case.

2. Condition of Mrs. Fortescue's bungalow indicated the sun-bronzed native had been taken there, stripped, immersed in water in a bathtub, then shot in the left lung and permitted to bleed internally until he died.

3. A rope obtainable only at the navy yard was cut in half. Part was fastened around his neck. Part was hidden behind a davenport in the bungalow.

Body Wrapped in Sheet

4. The body was wrapped in sheets from which laundry marks had been removed.

5. While Jones stood guard, Mrs. Fortescue and Lord got in the front seat of the death car. Massie rode behind with the corpse. They drove toward Koko Head geyser and were arrested.

When Mrs. Fortescue was searched at the police station, a strip of sheeting was taken from her. Police Matron Victoria Akana testified. Kelley sought to show the cloth came from Kahahawai's shroud. He brought out that Mrs. Fortescue had asked for its return, for use as a handkerchief. Kelley intimated this showed normal reasoning in seeking to regain evidence.

A fake warrant, in which Kahahawai assertedly was lured into the death car, was found in Jones' pocket, Detective Henry Chillingworth testified.

WICHITA TENNIS TEAM READY FOR TESTS

Approximately 60 tennis players from nine counties and the city of Wichita Falls, comprising district No. 4, were expected here today for the opening athletic events of the annual interscholastic league meet.

Preliminaries Today

B. M. Dinsmore of Electra, director of athletics for the meet announced preliminaries in the tennis tournament probably will be completed today. In that case, finals in all events should be completed by Friday evening.

All net wielders will meet this morning at 9 o'clock at the Wichita Falls Golf and Country club for drawings for the tournament, it was announced. Preliminary events will get under way immediately thereafter.

The Coyote net wielders, coached by Tom McCarthy, have shown exceptional ability to date, and rate among the leading contenders in the district in the boys' events, at least. Young Rufus King, former trapshoot champion of the United States, and all-around athlete, tops the list of this city's entries. Rufus will represent Wichita Falls in the boys' singles, and will team with H. R. Hanks in the boys' doubles.

Girls' Team

Irma Cline will be the school's mainstay in the girls' singles, while Jean Worley and Christine Grosier will team up for the doubles.

Counties expected to send entries in the tennis tournament, and also in the track and field meet, are Archer, Baylor, Wichita, Clay, Jack, Montague, Throckmorton, Wilbarger, and Young. Entries from these counties previously won their county titles. Wichita Falls entries go direct to the district meet without preliminaries, due to the class A rating of the school.

The Electra Tigers, as usual, are heavy favorites to sweep the track and field meet Saturday.

All athletes expecting to compete in the Saturday events are to meet Director Dinsmore at 9 o'clock at Junior college for final instructions.

Winners in the three-day meet not only will win district honors, but will earn the right to compete in the state tournament at Austin. Winners of first, second, third and fourth places will be eligible for the state meet, but only first and second place winners will have their expenses paid.

TIGERS EXPECT CLOSE BATTLE

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Texas, April 13.—The Electra Tigers are putting in a hard week of final practice in preparation for the district track and field meet at Wichita Falls Saturday. The Tigers are favored in the meet but are expecting a close battle. However, Coach Wilbur Presson's hopefuls have made good showings in practice meets with Wichita Falls and Archer City, and the five-way meet at Vernon recently.

Electra tennis players in boys' doubles, girls' singles, and boys' singles, will represent the high school at the district meet. James Parr and Leonard Foy will team together in the doubles, James Mages will be entered in the boys' singles and Ruth Jones in the girls' singles. The high school will also be represented in several literary events, including boys' an dgirls' extemporaneous speech. The debaters, Russell Austin and W. B. January, Hallie Green and Odessa Stidham, have been entering practice tilts with strong teams outside the district and have been showing up well. Clovis Edwards will be the extemporaneous speaker.

LIONS WIN PRACTICE MEET

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, Texas, April 13.—The Vernon High school boys' tennis team closed its practice season here by defeating both Electra and Quanah in singles and doubles. The Lion team will enter the interscholastic league district No. 4 meet at Wichita Falls Thursday.

In the three-cornered meet staged here Friday, Quanah drew a bye in both the singles and doubles, necessitating two matches in each division for the Vernon victors. In the doubles play, Sam Parker and Jimmy Lutz of Vernon avenged an earlier defeat by beating Magee and Foy of Electra in the first match, 6-4, 6-4. The Lion duo then defeated Quanah, also in straight sets, 6-1, 6-2. Phelps and Hampton represented Quanah.

Jimmy Lutz, Vernon singles performer, continued to add to his unbroken string of victories by defeating Magee of Electra and Schaubert of Quanah. His first match with Magee as his opponent was fairly easy, the Electran succumbing in straight sets, 1-6, 3-6, but Lutz was forced to three sets to beat the Hardeman county representative, 6-4, 6-1.

Andean Volcanoes Bar Check-Up on Damage

VALPARAISO, Chile, April 13. (INS)—Although the Andean volcanoes were quieter today and the rain of ashes had ceased to fall in most localities, the grumbling craters still emitted dust and smoke which prevented aerial surveyors from approaching them closely.

The fate of herdsmen and country-folk in many of the foothill regions remained unknown.

It was possible that lava may have destroyed habitations near several of the volcanoes, while it was not at all unlikely that the gases and dust-filled air which affected cities as much as 600 miles away had taken a serious toll of death and injury in regions nearer the belching mountains.

F. D. R. GETS 16 IN NEBRASKA

Roosevelt Wins Clean Cut Victory in Primary

LINCOLN, Neb., April 13. (UP)—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York further strengthened his position as a Democratic presidential candidate tonight by coasting to a clear majority of more than 25,000 votes in the Nebraska preferential primary.

Tabulations gave Roosevelt 73,148 votes, as compared with 22,976 for Gov. W. H. Murray of Oklahoma and 21,332 for John N. Garner, speaker of the house. The total comprised reports from 1,532 of the state's 2,040 precincts.

His victory assured Roosevelt of the full strength of Nebraska's 16 delegates to the national convention in Chicago.

Murray and Garner ran a close race all the way, never being separated in the day's returns by an appreciable margin.

In the case of such a sweeping victory as Roosevelt scored, however, there was no doubt but that he would be accorded the full Democratic strength.

In the Democratic race for governor, Gov. Charles W. Bryan, brother of the "great commoner", received 68,193 votes to 42,966 for William Ritchie, Jr., Omaha.

Dwight Griswold, former state senator, maintained a scant lead in the Republican gubernatorial race over Kennth S. Wherry state senator. The former had 30,870 votes, the latter 29,761, from 1,594 precincts.

HITLER TROOPS SUPPRESSED

Presidential Decree Outlaws Fascist Army

BERLIN, April 13. (UP)—President Paul von Hindenburg, acting under dictatorial powers granted by the constitution, today issued a decree dissolving and suppressing Adolph Hitler's brown shirt army of 400,000 men as a necessary measure for "preserving public safety and averting anarchy."

Police immediately enforced the decree throughout Germany, meeting with comparatively slight resistance except at Hamburg where Fascists turned loose tear gas and delayed occupation of their barracks.

The brown shirt army, which Hitler had built up alongside his powerful Fascist political party, was outlawed in every state and its barracks and headquarters in every city were occupied by police, who seized all documents and military equipment.

The notoriously powerful "storm troops" and all other units of the brown shirt army, which was modeled after the exiled kaiser's imperial army and trained by many of his former officers, were affected by the decree. This vast semi-military organization recently had been charged with plotting civil war and preparing to seize control of the government—charges which Hitler denied.

Hitler and his lieutenants said they were pleased that the government had acted so drastically since they were confident it would merely increase the Fascist power by swinging more voters to them.

"We will not resist," Fascist headquarters announced. "We have played the role of a Gandhi and will obtain our ends peacefully."

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 13. (UP)—No vacations on state pay will be allowed highway department employes this year, the highway commission ruled today.

Members of the department were given vacations in former years under the plan of one year's employment entitling employes to two weeks off on state pay.

"But that was under Lew Wentz' administration," said McKeel. "There was no authority for it under the law."

SLOW READERS NOT STUPID

Psychologist Explains Why Children Are Backward

By GOBIND BEHARI LAL

NEW YORK, April 13.—Children who appear slow in learning to read should not be considered either lazy or stupid.

Inability to acquire with normal speed the art of reading is not, in most cases, a sign of low mentality. It shows merely that some inner psychic activity or emotional strain keeps the child scholar's mind preoccupied. Indeed, the slow reading child may be exceptionally bright.

This is the viewpoint arrived at by Miss Marion Monroe, University of Chicago psychologist, after a series of experimental studies at the university's institute for juvenile research.

One of the oddest causes of inability to read normally is that some children are left-eyed, instead of being right-eyed like most people. That is, they can read with unusual facility when writing is reflected from a mirror. Among other reasons for defective reading are hardness of hearing, a lack of motor control that makes it hard for the child to follow a line with his eyes.

In such physiological defects causing inability to read, the boys outnumber the girls.

Invisible Rays Give Alarm When Burglars Prowl

PITTSBURGH April 13. (AP)—Science has come to the aid of the police in combatting the burglar who prowls in the night. "Dick Deadeye," a super sleuth created by utilizing the most advanced developments of grid glow tubes and photo electric cells, was announced tonight by Dr. Phillips Thomas, research engineer of Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, as the nemesis of nocturnal intruders.

"Dick" is readily a network of infra-red or ultra violet rays, thrown about a room or rooms to protect people or property.

Invisible rays are used so that the intruder doesn't know the "eye" is on him.

Each combination of grid glow tube and sensitive light cell is so arranged that interruption of the invisible beam passing from the tube to the cell will instantly turn on light in the room and sound a loud alarm.

If desired, an arrangement of wires can carry an alarm to the nearest police station without the burglar's knowledge. Thus police can catch him in the act.

Treasury Subscribes Balance of R. F. C. Stock

WASHINGTON, April 13. (AP)—The treasury today subscribed the remaining $150,000,000 of the $50,000,000 capital stock of the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

The corporation will not either have to provide money from repayments of loans already made or issue debentures.

The law provides that the corporation can, if necessary, issue up to $1,500,000,000 of obligations which the treasury may buy or which may be sold directly to the public.

On April 1 between $7,000,000 and $8,000,000 had been repaid on loans made since the establishment of the corporation in February.

Shorter Skirts Predicted For Summer Wear

By DOROTHY ROE

NEW YORK, April 13. (US)—Gone are the trailing frocks in which ill-advised maidens used to trail to their offices at the beginning of the long skirt craze.

Skirts will be shorter in the daytime this summer. Twelve inches from the ground is the approved length for sports clothes, which category includes practically all casual street clothes.

As your frock takes on formality, the skirt grows longer.

Former afternoon gowns may be ankle length.

Evening gowns will barely touch the floor, at their most extreme. Most of them are an inch or so above the floor, and many are ankle length.

All in all, the mode, as it settles down for a long breath, seems more sensible this year than it has been for lo, these many moons.

Waistlines are natural.

Lines are simple.

Silhouettes are becoming—for most women look better with a little broader shoulder-line, to balance the hips which nature gave them.

We don't have to be emasculated this year. Natural curves fit the new dresses well.

And at the same time we are waistline conscious, so that none of us will gorge on creampuffs and chocolate sundaes.

Our clothes this year will be streamline, devoid of usless frills and fripperies.

They will be practical clothes, designed for a high-speed age.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

"Yo jus' don' no what yo goin' to do when yo gits hongry," we heard given by an old man as explanation for an illegal attempt to make a little money after he had walked his shoe soles off hunting work.

A year ago we dound it debated whether men really wanted to work; students of economy feared we would educate idlers and questioned if there were not many who chose to sit down and let charity care for them and their families. But not so now; labor seems a welcome thing and those who know what hunger means are many.

We believe the whole world has come into full comprehension of the fact that the economic question of the day is yet unsolved and that with the passage of time, it becomes graver. Some of the ablest minds of the country bring forth articles on "what might be done." Harper's Monthly for March had an article "And If the Revolution Comes," the author considering such a possibility in a sane manner and deciding that should the world turn topsy turvy, all one needed to do was to adjust himself to it in that position.

For the first time in the history of our country, there has not been a Moses to point the way out of the wilderness when bad days came. Those who attempt it now, do not have the vision. It is very probable they do not have the real ideal. There is a thought of self in the background of so many of the country's leaders.

We who have vaunted our democracy have not been equal to England in the past year. Even though England's problem seemed much more acute than those of America in 1931, there was not a single bank failure in that country; count those in America. England "muddled through," as one author puts it, and the tight little island's rulers are to be admired.

All this is leading up to the statement that we are one who can preach no soap box sermons and advance no theories. But because we love people and have an ideal of happiness, we leave the suggestions of how to "round the corner" to able thinkers and talk to our readers of simple things.

We remember when this column was first started, and spring with all its birds and flowers thrilled us so that we probably did what enthusiasts often do, wrote too much of such things. Anyway one day, we had a clipped column mailed to us with a marginal sentence pencilled: "Find something else to write about or quit writing." It crushed us temporarily, but a friend said: "Well the person who wrote that keeps reading the column," and our spirits rose again. (Teo ebullient, perhaps!)

So while theories are being advanced by other columnists; while one Moses after another is being tried out, you'll find us still talking of the calendar of flowers; catch us referring again to the silver crescent moon in the high Texas skies; hear us complaining of or making fun of ourself and others.

You may laugh at us because we are glad homes are still homes and family life is the gateway to the path to heaven. A long time ago, we were often reproved for crossing bridges before we reached them. We look now at the road on which we travel, and try to find its beauties.

Why is a Really Good Cup of Coffee So Rare?... The Reason May Surprise You

Almost 70 Per Cent Of All Coffee Now Comes From One Country. Do You Wonder It All Tastes Alike?

For A Real Change Try Coffee From A Different Producing Country

U. S. import statistics show that almost 70 per cent of all coffee sold today is one common kind, all grown in the same producing country. Just put up in different packages, that's all.

That's why you may change the "brand" of coffee you use fifty times and still not improve the coffee you serve. And that, domestic science experts say, is the reason why men so seldom enthuse over the coffee they get at home.

You'll never notice a real change until you get coffee that comes from a different producing country. And that's why thousands are turning to Folger's.

From Central America

The world's choicest-flavored coffees, as any expert will tell you, come from a few tiny districts. They are grown chiefly along the West Coast of Central America. From this famous region we procure coffees with a rare tang and rich mellow body, utterly unlike any coffee you have ever used before.

This is the coffee that Folger brings you today packed in vacuum. It's not only delicious, but thrifty. Its extra richness and quality make it go much further. And its rare flavor is kept fresh from the roaster right to your coffee pot by the latest type of key-opening vacuum sealed tins.

If you want a real change—in coffee—and not merely in name, try it.

A 3-Day Test Of Flavor

Just go to your grocer and buy a pound of Folger's. Drink it tomorrow morning.

Next morning serve the coffee you have been using. The third morning serve Folger's again. Then choose between them.

If, for any reason, you decide against Folger's, your grocer will refund your money. We'll pay him. That's fair, isn't it? ©F. C. C., 1932

STRATOSPHERE TRIP PLANNED

Young Belgian to Ascend 12 Miles in Air

By EDWARD TRAUS

BRUSSELS, April 13. (AP)—Prof. Auguste Piccard, the Belgian physicist who last year ascended more than 50,000 feet in a free balloon, is arranging another exploration of the stratosphere—but he is not going aloft again.

True to his promise to his wife that he would not subject her to another such period of anxiety, he has selected Max Cosyn, a 25-year-old electrical engineer, to try for even greater heights, perhaps 12 miles or in the neighborhood of 65,000 feet.

M. Cosyn is head of the physics laboratory at the Queen Elizabeth institute in this city. He will be accompanied by an experienced balloon pilot whose identity, however, has not been announced.

Flight in May

They hope to make the attempt in May, the same month as Picard's 1931 exploit. Augsburg has been selected as the starting point.

And, Professor Piccard has revealed, if the 1932 attempt is successful, plans will be at once laid for a still more ambitious voyage to explore the upper reaches of the atmosphere over the north polar region, starting probably from some point on Hudson bay.

This future adventure, however, will depend upon help from America. The Belgian fund for scientific research, which is financing this year's expedition, lacks resources for backing the more ambitious project.

So Professor Piccard has started plans for lectures in the United States with accompanying solicitation of funds from wealthy patrons of higher learning across the Atlantic.

Unusual Distinction

M. Cosyn is quietly gratified at being selected to head this year's ascent.

"I fully appreciate the unusual distinction of which I have been made the beneficiary," he said, "and will do my best to justify the choice.

"I followed Professor Piccard's courses at Brussels university which I left in 1929 with the degree of electrical engineer.

"I intended to purse that calling, but the founding of the research fund brought some subsidies which have enabled me to make special studies of gravitation and ultra sounds.

"I hope the preliminary work at Augsburg will not consume much time for I cannot stay away from my job here too long."

Pack 'em in, stack 'em in, we're out to win!

SANDINO ASKS MARINES TO GO

Nicaraguan Rebel Predicts 'Ghastly Carnage'

MEXICO CITY, April 13. (AP)—Gen. Augustino Sandino, Nicaraguan insurgent leader, today appealed to the parents of American marines serving in Nicaragua to demand that their sons be sent home in time to avoid the "ghastly and useless carnage" of the November elections.

The Americans are to be used to supervise the voting. General Sandino said in a letter issued here by Dr. Pedro Jose Zepeda, his foreign representative, that "patriotic Nicaraguans will recognize no government imposed by American marines" and he offered to disband his troops if the Americans were immediately withdrawn.

In the letter, addressed to President Hoover and the American people, the general declared that "many of your sons will not be aboard the American battleships leaving Nicaragua ; November when the United States withdraws its fighting forces."

"These sons of American parents will not be going home. They will lie in their coffins or, worse still, their bodies will rot in Nicaraguan jungles."

Accused Mexican Slayer Dies Fighting Officers

LAS VEGAS, Nev., April 13 (UP)—Carmen Guzman, asserted Mexican slayer of 15-year old Mary Estrada, died in true frontier style today while attempting to fight his way past sheriff's deputies who had surrounded him in the hills back of Roach, 42 miles southeast of Las Vegas.

The posse had trailed him after he held up the stationmaster at Roach this morning and demanded tortillas and water. As soon as he left, the stationmaster notified authorities in Las Vegas and the chase across the desert was started.

When Guzman found himself trapped, he tried to shoot his way through the deputies, Tony Martiletti and Bob Duane and City Officer Joe May, but was killed.

Nine Children Treated For Bites of Mad Dog

KERENS, Texas, April 13. (AP)—Bitten by a mad dog here last Thursday, nine children today were being treated for rabies at the Pasteur institute at Austin. Mrs. J. R. Lee, mother of four of the children, also was undergoing treatment.

The victims were the Lee children, Dorothy Joe, 3, Travis, 8, Bedford, 11, and Ruby, 16, Billy Thompston, 12, Clayton Johnson, 12, Adren Crawford, 12, Charlie Baker, 12, and Jeffie Owens, 14.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE SIMPSON

WASHINGTON, April 13.—Governor Alfalfa Bill" Murray's notion that Oklahoma's delegation to the Democratic national convention will disclose no band-wagon complex, even in the event of defeat of Mr. Murray's own hopes of a presidential nomination, rather challenges political traditions.

WM. H. MURRAY

The impulse to climb aboard the chariot of the victor is strong among state groups at every convention and will be particularly strong on the Democrats at Chicago.

The reason is easy to find. The Democrats have been out of power nationally a long time. If they should win in November, a lot of federal patronage will be due to redistribution.

Party leaders in the various states have a powerful voice in such things so far as appointments within their own states are concerned. That, in turn, tends to confirm their grip on leadership.

At the Pie Counter

Now, assuming that Oklahoma's delegation refused to go along with the winning ticket at the convention, state leaders responsible for that action hardly could expect to be greatly favored at the federal patronage pie counter.

From those highly practical aspects, Murray's proffered dime bet that Oklahoma never would be found voting for Governor Roosevelt at Chicago, even if the New Yorker did manage to walk away with the nomination, does not look like a good risk.

Murray himself seems to feel less certain than he did just a bit back that Roosevelt might not do that very thing.

On the heels of the North Dakota primaries, Murray predicted that he either would be nominated himself or virtually pick the Democratic 1932 standard bearer. Today he says:

"We (in Oklahoma) are not hunting a band wagon. If Roosevelt's got it he'll take his band wagon and go on; we'll not be on it."

Sometimes They Balk

It has happened that states have held out to the bitter end against landslides for particular candidates.

Wisconsin never voted for Hoover in 1928 and on the last ballot in 1924 was 28 to 1 against Coolidge although nominally both nominations were unanimous. That, however, is an exceptional case and represents a long standing intra-party split among the Republicans.

Murray has been the only outspoken anti-Roosevelt among the Democratic presidential hopefuls. Yet, assuming a Roosevelt band wagon, Oklahoma is apt to be found in it, Murray's dime bet notwithstanding.

'Little Judge' Gives Up Court for Matrimony

HOUSTON, April 13. (UP)—Miss Leila Faulkner, "little judge" of federal court here, will quit her bench next week. Romance has changed her jurisdiction.

For more than a year she has been secretary to the United States commissioner here. Her amiability and efficiency won her the honorary title.

She has kept order among the bootleggers and other law violators with whom the commissioner deals. Now she is going to Peru to be married and keep a house and husband in order.

Miss Faulkner and a friend, Miss Leona Strauss, Los Angeles, will sail from New York April 30 for South America, to be married, respectively, to R. E. Perry and Curtis Carroll, employes of an oil company.

The double wedding will be in Guayaquil, Ecuador. The "little judge's" new jurisdiction will be at Negritos, Peru.

Our Debt to Our Neighbors

THE enthusiastic support being given by neighboring communities to the campaign to win the Texas league attendance cup for the Spudders again reminds us of the debt we owe these neighbors for every successful entertainment enterprise Wichita Falls has enjoyed.

We could not have a professional baseball team, a dramatic entertainment, a concert or any other outstanding entertainment but for the support of these same communities that are rallying to the campaign to win the Texas league attendance cup and to give the Spudders the patronage that will keep a Texas league franchise in Wichita Falls.

Attendance from Wichita Falls alone would not give the financial support for any of these entertainments. A very considerable part of the patronage for any first class entertainment always comes from our neighboring communities. But for such support we would not have a Texas league franchise, such dramatic entertainments as Fred Stone and his company or any other high class entertainment. This neighborliness ought to be, and we believe is, appreciated.

It ought also to be a spur to our own support of these things. We can hardly afford to let our neighbors outdo us in their support of enterprises that carry the name of Wichita Falls.

Wichita Falls has had some bad advertising. It never had a better opportunity for good advertising than to have the word go out all over the country that opening day attendance records had been broken and that Wichita Falls had won the attendance prize for cities of its class in the Texas league.

Municipal Utilities and Depression

AN interesting little sidelight on the depression as it affects municipal treasuries is contained in a statement issued recently by Carl D. Thompson, secretary of the Public Ownership League of America.

Municipally owned utilities, he pointed out, "are not only weathering the depression, but are actually, in many cases, carrying the additional burdens of unemployment and heavy taxes created or made necessary by unsettled conditions."

In Los Angeles, for instance, a municipally owned water company made a net profit of $4,334,000 in 1931, and is to contribute a million a year for unemployment relief and tax reduction. Washington, Ind., after paying off all its debts with its power plant, kept two failing factories open with the profits in order to maintain employment.

At a time when so many cities are frantically hunting for revenue, these are facts worth bearing in mind.

A Bark Heard Round the World

AMONG the things we would like to see in the papers, but never shall, is an interview with Short, a dog owned by a radio engineer in Schenectady, N. Y.

Short, as you may remember noticing, happened into his master's laboratory the other day while they were testing a round-the-world radio circuit. Short barked, and his bark went whizzing around the world and emerged from a nearby loudspeaker, a fraction of a second later, unimpaired.

Thinking that he was being mocked, or something, Short barked again, and again the bark went around the globe and came back at him. In fact, it all lasted quite a while; and some enterprising reporter ought to find out about the mental and emotional reactions of this, the first dog to hear his own voice after it had traveled 25,000 miles through empty air.

A Man "Stark Mad"

THE case of the Illinois convict who set fire to the prison chapel because he was "tired of being shut up" and "wanted to see the whole place burn up" is a tragic example of what long-continued imprisonment can do to a human soul.

This man has been in prison for 35 years. Prison officials describe him as "stark mad"—which seems rather obvious, since there was not the slightest chance that his act of incendiarism could have benefited him in any way.

That, apparently, is what happens to a man who is locked up for a lifetime. It gives one a dark, tragic picture of what goes on in the minds and hearts of the men whom society has had to keep under lock and key.

WALTER WINCHELL On Broadway

Portrait of a Man Talking To Himself

Wonder why they are going to all that trouble to stifle "Scarface" for the New York audiences? . . . The flicker, in its original continuity, appears to be spellbinding the outlanders—who do not bark that it should be suppressed . . . Just because some of our more powerful outlawers are opposed to its release—is no argument that it should be . . . Those who have witnessed the prevews say that it reproduces bits from the major massacres—all of which have been front-paged—so why can't we see the chronicled melodramas on the screen? . . . The conspiracy to edit it is just as fiendish, and I hope that when Samuel Untermyer gets it to the courts here—he compels the opposition to leave it alone . . . Lord, even with its original pattern, "Scarface" certainly cannot be any more startling than the address of that prosecutor before congress the other day . . . I devoured every word in the rags about it—and then had the shudders at his courage . . . The Hays tribe argues that it merely bows to the spasms of the censors—and caters only because it has to—for the good of the film business . . . And that the censors do not think "Scarface" will help to combat crime . . . Maybe so . . . The effect of Schiller's "Robbers" upon German students, the historians say, was such as to cause many of them to become bandits.

That story about the husband who was fouled by his wife on the West Coast is something to groan about . . . Their courtship was brief—and then she was felled in an accident, which left her hopelessly bed-ridden . . . He married her, any way—and now after 11 years—she has taken him and his savings to the courts because of "another woman" . . . What misery she might have had without his support all that time . . . What could she give him in return? . . . Should he have sacrificed every joy because the fates were cruel to her? . . . An ugly story . . . Wonder what a jury thinks about with a case like that? . . . I mean an entire male jury . . . Kiki Roberts should change her name, and avoid the hounding she experienced yesterday . . . She was given a sour deal by one of the hotels not in the Broadway belt—when they recognized her . . . After several weeks of paying her fees and being a goody . . . If she hadn't spoken the other night I wouldn't have known her . . . She has paled so—and thinned a lot—and she features a huge pin spelling her nickname on her frocks—to help those who may have forgotten, to remember her name . . . She was such a cute little kid two years ago—or whenever it was—before she switched environments and became a front-page "star."

The day has its aches . . . The passing of Deegan leaves me melancholy . . . He was one of the worth whiles . . . Wonder how some of the lads starring in the playhouses at huge wages get away with their so-called big-time talent? . . . No wonder that most audiences are getting so fussy . . . I hope that the chap who gets an entire act out of a bearded anecdote is saving his currency . . . He will need it before another reason unfolds . . . The mother of that tot who furnishes the amusing comedy relief in Mary Pickford's newsreel episode, has a gold mine in him . . . Leave it to the fast-workers to cash in on the theory that one should get the gravy while one can—and the deuce with the fellow who comes in second . . . Now comes a volume purporting to be the "true story" of the Lindbergh drama . . . True? . . . Meaning what? . . . Wonder if James Durante, too long absent from our feverish midst, was disappointed? . . . I mean when he returned to the Broadway he shelved for the movie colony and found it so empty . . . Perhaps, the old ones are the best at that . . . "I had the use of the pigs all summer" anecdote which used to leave audiences limp in 1920, now appears in one of the better magazines as a novelette . . . I wish I had their nerve.

The ousting of Editor Reed Harris from that university gazette irks me . . . He exposed, or tried to, at any rate, some of the messy happenings that were giving the school a foul odor—and for serving them all so faithfully he was rewarded with expulsion . . . Well, from the demonstration on the campus the other day there must be something to the chap . . . I trust he is vindicated and returned to his editorial desk . . . And that all the encouragement from the town's rags doesn't go to his knees . . . Wonder what Martin Beck thinks about as he hugs the rear rail of the Palace and watches the proceedings . . . And if he thinks that there is much big time—any more? . . . The husband of that former "Follies" dolly thought that wildest things when she didn't come home all night . . . That she had run off with another was his first fear and he grieved so . . . All the time she feared letting him know where she was—painfully injured in a nearby hospital, after a motor crash . . . She didn't want to distress him, she said later . . . There is no reasoning—when a man loves a woman the way he adores her—and when he imagines things . . . The more a man loves the more he suffers . . . There is no deep love without jealousy.

It is a great thing in life, said Weir Mitchell, to learn how to forget wisely . . . Now that Dr. Sirovich has had his bill favorably reported on, I wonder if he believes that all the tiffing with the drama defenders contributed anything to what he had in mind? . . . From the way he opened up on so many of the clan, one anticipated a reform or something, but nothing came of it . . . The turn-about-face stuff, however, was amusing . . . One day George Jean Nathan was an "intellectual anarchist" and the next day he wasn't . . . Another reviewer who was libeled terribly confronted him on his own battlefield only to find that the congressman "was sorry" and was "misquoted" . . . It was amusing while it raged, though . . . It made copy for me—and for many of the others who reach far sometimes to bag a paragraph . . . And then the exertion felled Mr. Sirovich, who probably now finds that he wasted a lot of time hating people . . . Who was it that said: "Criticism can apply to genius"? . . . Emerson could not endure Shelley . . . No man was ever written down except by himself.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

A STARK TALE OF HORROR—The steamer Mayflower, plying the 12 miles between Barry's bay and Combermere, Canada, foundered in a howling storm in Lake Kaminiskeg on the night of Nov. 13, 1912. There were 12 men aboard and a coffin containing the body of a man named Brown, who had died in Yorkton, Sask., and was being taken to Combermere for burial. Only three men survived the wreck of the steamer that night. They clung to the coffin of the dead man as it floated off the deck, and held grimly on until it grounded on an island. The survivors told a tale of stark horror, of being buffeted by the waves in a blizzard, in darkness on their raft of death.

TOMORROW—A most miraculous escape from death.

The Story of an Unemployed Girl

By ETHELDA BEDFORD Author of "BROADWAY BRIDE"

READ THIS FIRST

Lillian Abbott, lovely daughter of Cyrus Abbott, millionaire, runs away to New York to seek the life of a working girl. Her infatuation with Thomas Blane leads her to believe he is to help her toward a movie career. But it doesn't take long for Lillian to realize Blane is a girl racketeer. By that time, however, Blane had stolen all of her money. In a little hotel near Broadway, Lillian takes the name of Lillian Blane and decides bucking New York will be fun. When the hotel manager, Howard Marsh, speaks to her about her bill, she trades him her diamond wrist watch. She is attracted to the dapper Howard. And when he asks her out to dine she accepts. She is shocked when she realizes he has hired her at the dine-and-dance place as a professional hostess. But she strikes up an acquaintance with Gloria Lowell, another hostess, who imparts a strange philosophy—and in spite of her shock Lillian is without money and is forced to make the best of the situation. She determines to bear it, but she's having a time managing to grin.

Now Go on With the Story

CHAPTER XXV

"I think we should get acquainted—" said Lillian's dancing partner, his voice a little less bored.

He did a few side steps, turning Lillian in the tango fashion as she followed his lead.

She forced what she hoped seemed a smile.

"Well, we are—getting acquainted," she replied.

"Have it your way, then—" said he, his voice becoming as bored as possible.

"Aren't we dancing."

"We're dancing. That doesn't need explaining. Even a child would know that we weren't out flying in our airplane."

His eyes, through half closed lids, caught hers. He smiled as if he had said something quite clever and expected her to be completely staggered.

Lillian didn't convey amusement or admiration.

As his arm tightened about her waist it was difficult for her not to show the extreme revulsion she felt for him.

"But you're no child. And you know we can't get properly acquainted dancing about here. You know that, don't you?" He held her away from him long enough to look her in the face, as if he were purposely being nice to her.

"Well," she said, "let's sit at your table."

"Oh, you mean—and talk?" he asked.

"Yes—talk."

"My! My! What a hilarious time we'd have. I'd tell you the story of my adventurous life. And—perhaps you'd tell me of your vast experience."

Lillian missed a step. But she did not miss his meaning.

She didn't know just what to say.

"And your experiences as a hostess must be equal to those one reads in one of those confession magazines, eh, what?" he said, mockery in his half closed eyes.

She wanted to tell him—tell him who she was. That she was Lillian Abbott, daughter of Cyrus Abbott . . . that she was an heiress, that she never had worked . . . worked for any man's interest before in her life as she was right then. She longed to see how his manner would change.

She could imagine meeting this same fellow at one of those tea dances in Salem . . . one which the girls in her set frequently gave.

He would be far different. His manner would be respectful with obvious intent to make a good impression, and that he was interested in whatever you said . . . and agreeable to your every suggestion . . .

But no—she was Lillian Blane, a professional hostess. Her trade was being interesting, interested. She was to smile . . . to stay in a good humor . . . to cater!

Because she was penniless. Penniless!

The music stopped for a few seconds. The room echoed with applause. Then the orchestra started into another chorus.

They wound their way through other dancers. Lillian saw that Gloria still danced with the same man.

Gloria's partner seemed intrigued. He looked down into her pretty face. He was talking, interestedly.

But Lillian's partner was silent. Perhaps he, too, wished the music would stop . . .

As Gloria danced past Sherron he gave her a little nod, his face twisted into a smile of admiration. Gloria was a boost for business. Her partner was pleased, having a good time. He would come back again to dine and dance, to spend . . . pay for entertainment.

Lillian thought when she danced past Sherron he looked a little dubious. He watched Lillian's partner, to detect whether he was enjoying himself. Evidently he decided Lillian's partner was not having an exceedingly good time.

Lillian felt desperate.

It seemed hours since Lillian first came into that softly lighted music filled room. With Howard Marsh. It seemed ages since the night before when she was happy—thrilled over being in New York, out in the strange city's night life, being in the midst of revellers . . . thrilled over sitting across the table from Howard Marsh.

But the responsibility of a lifetime had piled itself on her tender young shoulders during the hours between . . .

She gave a trembling sort of smile to her fast-stepping, bored-looking partner.

She tried not to hate dancing with him . . . tried to forget the stinging shooting little pains in her ankles and instepe and the balls of fire against the soles of her feet.

She was supposed to be happy, she reminded herself . . . she was hired to smile.

She had a chance to make some money—merely by being charming.

Now, what else could she do to earn money? Tonight? No—now it was morning . . . Nothing she could imagine.

She made an effort to console herself with the thought that she might receive a five dollar bill for being pleasant to this young man.

More music. Would the orchestra never get tired? Why were the dances so terribly, horribly long?

"Where have you been, beautiful?" said a familiar masculine voice at her side. A pat on the arm accompanied this greeting.

She looked up in surprise. It was the twany-haired youth who had offered her $15 for all of her evening . . . that seemed ever so long ago.

She smiled at him as if he had been a long-time friend. And for a second she actually felt elated over his remembering her.

"Next dance?" he asked.

Lillian nodded. She felt a little triumphant. Well, if the fellow she now danced with found her boring, even if he did, at least, there was one who didn't! It gave her a little of her old confidence. She breather a little easier.

She wondered how much she might be tipped by him—now that he still found her charming, and sought her company—even though her "evening" was practically gone.

But her present partner was displeased. That was obvious. He slackened his hold about her. He almost dropped her hand which he held out, clasped in his own.

"So—" he sneered, his vanity evidently jolted.

Lillian looked at him with affected wide eyes.

"Oh, of course, you wouldn't, you simply couldn't understand—" he said.

"I thought we were going to sit out the next dance—and talk," he said . . . "about how interesting you are."

"I beg your pardon—"

"Not at all," avoiding her eyes. "I just thought that the first to—er—get you, as it were, had you—you know."

"I'm sure I don't know!" She could not prevent the snap from clamping her words.

"Would you like to stop—now?" he asked, pulled over to the side of the floor and taking his arm from about her. He was angry. His eyes were narrow and mean, bright points.

Lillian showed she didn't want to stop, and that she was perturbed because he was displeased—when she thought of what Sherron would do, say, should he see that she had displeased a patron.

"I'm sorry—" she said.

"No doubt," she said, "you'll have a big cry any minute."

And as he turned on his heel to leave her she laughed nervously. "Don't you want to finish this with me?" she ventured uncertainly.

"No!" he answered, and as he left Lillian tears came into her eyes.

Ballarina Suggests Dancing at Funeral

NEW YORK, April 13. (AP)—Dancing at funerals was advocated today by Florence Rogge, a dancer herself.

"Not insane hopping around to the accompaniment of jaz," she hastened to explain, "but the slow, graceful movements of the ballet, which is the ideal vehicle for the expression of all emotions—sorrow as well as joy."

Her argument is that the Greeks, instead of weeping while a funeral oration was being read over the body of a loved one, gave personal expression to their sadness in appropriate dances. And she sees no reason why Americans should not do likewise.

For seven years Miss Rogge danced along the Rialtos of America and Europe. For five years she has been one of New York's premier ballet mistresses, in charge of a corps of 35 ballarinas at a Broadway theater.

Conference to Seek Way To Guard U. S. Investors

WASHINGTON, April 13. (UP)—A search for ways to safeguard the interest of American investors in defaulted foreign bonds will be made at a conference of financiers and officials at the state department Friday. The total of defaulted foreign issues held in this country is estimated at $800,000,000.

Although no official statement has been made by the department, it is understood that the purpose of the conference is two-fold:

1. To give the state department better information on the losses of American investors in defaulted foreign bonds and on ways for it to cooperate in aiding bondholders.
2. To consider an organization of bondholders to protect their own interests.

Heath and Diet Advice

Bananas

The banana occupies a position in the diet of tropical countries similar to that occupied by potatoes, sweet potatoes and other highly starchy foods in the cooler climates. As to the quantity of food produced by the banana plant, it cannot be rivaled in the vegetable kingdom. Although very prolific, it requires but little care if it has a moist, warm climate, and antagonistic plants are kept down.

An acre of bananas will yield from two to twelve times as much carbohydrates as could be obtained from a similar sized field of cereals.

The banana tree is highly ornamental, with palm-like leaves, and is often used in landscape gardening in Southern California and Florida. Some of the homes of the motion picture stars in Hollywood look almost like tropical gardens because of the abundance of banana plants and palm trees, but the climate, while suitable for growing the plant, only permits the fruit to ripen in exceptional instances.

Bananas do not grow with the points hanging downward, as they hang in the store. Upon the banana plants the points grow upward.

Bananas are sold throughout most of the markets in North America, but they must be picked in the tropics and shipped while still in a green condition. Most of our bananas are imported from Central America, Jamaica, Columbia and Cuba. After being stored for a time, the skin becomes yellow, with dark spots, and the starch becomes converted into sugar, principally cane sugar and dextrin. It is a popular fruit because of its very pleasant flavor.

The banana is undoubtedly more wholesome in the tropics, where it attains the full ripeness upon the trees, but it can, nevertheless, become quite wholesome if subjected to heat, as in making or cooking. Those with a non-catarrhal tendency may also eat of the banana in its fresh state after it has become fully ripened, but not mushy.

The banana contains about 20 per cent of the carbohydrates, mostly in the form of starch, proteins 1¼ per cent, and mineral matter a little less than one per cent, in which potassium, sodium and chlorine are most abundant.

The banana is deficient in lime and iron, and should, therefore be eaten with green leafy vegetables. It should be combined as any other starchy food.

Bananas are very rich in carbohydrates, and for this reason too large a quantity should not be eaten at one time. It is estimated that one banana equals two slices of bread in calories.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

All Asthma Cases Curable

Question—Mr. Daniel P. writes: "I have had asthma for about 10 years. Do you believe it is possible to cure a case that has existed for such a long time? A friend told me that you have a diet which is a 100 per cent cure. Please let me know if this is true."

Answer—I have never seen a case of asthma which could not be cured. Although you have been troubled for so long, I feel sure that the proper diet and treatment would entirely alleviate this condition. The asthmatic must be very careful to avoid gas-forming foods and food combinations. He must also learn to develop the diaphragm muscle. Send me your full name and address for my article explaining the treatment of asthma. Every one writing in to this column should send their full name and address as well as their questions since not every letter can be answered through this column and may have to be replied to by mail.

Removal of the Thyroid Gland

Question—Mrs. DeJ. asks:: "Does the patient become prematurely senile when all of the thyroid gland is removed? I am deeply concerned about my daughter who was operated on for goiter. Her health has been failing since then. She has become gray, shuns amusements, is often fretful, and has developed the slow movements of a very old person. I do so want your advice."

Answer—If all of the thyroid gland is removed, the patient generally dies within a short time, but, if only a portion of it is removed, it is possible that enough remains to supply the need. However, a lack of thyroid secretion does produce premature aging and may cause some mental disturbances. Your daughter may have some other condition as well as the thyroid trouble, but, of course, it is impossible for me to diagnose her case without first having the opportunity of examining her. Surgeons today rarely remove all of the thyroid gland.

Baby May Reunite Midget and Wife

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 13, (UP)—A 5-pound 11-ounce baby girl in St. Francis' hospital here, may be the means of bringing together an estranged midget father and his wife.

Late yesterday the 17-year-old wife of Baron Josippe Paucel, 36-inch tall circus midget, gave birth to the girl and today she was hopeful that her husband would want to see the baby—which is normal in every way—and also herself.

The baron's wife, who is 5 feet 3 inches tall, married him under the big top of the Johnny J. Jones shows in Charleroi, Pa.

"I love him," she said today. "That's why I married him. We separated recently and I came back here to live with my sister. But we have been coresponding. He isn't easy to boss. We parted because we were jealous of each other. You know, women were always picking him up and telling him how cute he was and he couldn't help himself and I didn't like it."

The husband is reported to be in Florida.

CAST-OFF MILT TWIRLS VICTORY FOR SPORTS IN OPENER

Herd Wallops Panthers In Opener, 12-4

DALLAS, April 13. (AP)—Playing before an estimated crowd of 10,000 fans, the Dallas Steers opened their 1932 drive for the Texas league pennant here today by beating Fort Worth, 12 to 4.

The Steers, with Elton Langford and George Loepp leading the attack, clouted Stoner and Terry from the mound and accorded Pickrel a royal batting reception.

George Murray, veteran righthander and ace of the Dallas staff, had excellent control and his curve ball gave the Fort Worth batters plenty of trouble. Stoner lacked control, and when he eased up to get the ball over, hefty Steer sluggers would give it a ride.

Henry Bonura, Ernie Holman and George Murray of the Steers hit home runs.

Gov. Ross S. Sterling tossed the first ball, a strike.

Tomorrow's Dallas and Fort Worth game will be at Fort Worth. Lefty Minogue is scheduled to pitch for Dallas. Whitworth is due to hurl for Fort Worth. Score:

EXPORTERS 12, TRIBE 1

BEAUMONT, April 13. (AP)—Buck Marrow kept San Antonio's 11 hits well scattered today and the Exports took the opening game of the season, 12 to 1 before a crowd of 4,500. Cy Smith and Jerry Mallett were touched for a total of 15 hits, some of them flukey, but the locals hit more timely and were able to pile up a commanding lead. Pound 'Em Easterling crashed out a long home run with two aboard while Greenberg and Holley socked triples.

Marrow pitched great ball in the pinches and was given flashy support despite the five miscues charged to the Bakermen. Score:

C. H. Featherston, local polo enthusiast, announced yesterday a polo game will be played today at Fain field honoring Fred Stone, noted actor who appears at Memorial auditorium tonight. Jim Minnick of Crowell, well-known poloist, will participate. The remainder of the two teams will be selected from the Blues, local polo squad. The game will start at 4 o'clock.

It was not announced whether Mr. Stone would play. Although considered a fine player, he of late has devoted most of his time to refereeing games.

Severeid Drives in Runs With Two Solid Hits

rollers. The Sports started off with a rush but were out in rapid fire order. Lamm singled to left and Eggert followed with a one-base blow over short. Lamm moved up toward third, expecting a bunt by Manager Sisler and on a nice peg by Severeid he was nabbed off the bag. The side went out when Sisler hit to short and a double play followed.

The second inning found the Spudders opening up with an attack and they were more fortunate than the home club. Badgro singled to second and Green, first baseman, bounced a drive off the centerfield fence for two bases and Badgro scored. Severeid singled to center and Green tried to score but was out at the plate on a throw from Lamm. It was a close decision that brought a protest from the visitors. Scharein lifted a skier to center and when Severeid continued on to second he was doubled off first.

Pack 'em in, stack 'em in, we're out to win!

Garms Doubles

Harper gave the Sports life in the second when he drew a pass. Nicholson's best was a foul over the catcher and then Ward forced Harper at second on a roller to the pitcher. Mueller followed with a walk but Oneil skied to left field. Two were out in the third when Garms doubled to right center and he died on that base. The Sports went out in order in the third but it was the result of the good throwing arm of Severeid. McPhaul batted at a wild pitch but was thrown out by the catcher and later Eggert walked and was caught trying to steal second. Severeid found Badgro on base in the fourth as the result of a single and he sent him home with a double. Scharein sent a low liner to center field and Lamm tried for a shoe-string catch but the ball got away from him and went for a home run. Mueller next threw out Euller to end the inning.

Sports on Rampage

The Sports made up for their three scoreless innings by going on a rampage in the fourth to send 10 batters to the plate and take the lead by scoring five runs.

Manager Sisler opened the fourth by hitting a skier to center field. Harper broke down the enemy's defense with a single to left field and Nicholson scored him with a homer over the left field wall. Ward flied to right field. Mueller started it off again with a single to left and Oneil walked. Hamilton batted for McPhaul and walked. With the bases loaded, Lamm dropped a skier back of short and Mueller and Oneil scored. Eggert sent Hamilton home with a single to center and Sisler went to bat for the second time in the inning and rolled to the pitcher. Steengrafe took up the pitching for the Sports in the sixth and retired the side in order. Florrid, who relieved Conlan with Sisler at bat in the fourth, narrowly escaped being scored on in the fifth.

Player Hit

Harper opened the inning by rolling down the first line. He was in direct line of fire from the pitcher, who fielded the ball. He put his hands up over his head to protect himself from the thrown ball, but was hit in the middle of the back. Umpire Sears brought down the wrath of the fans and the Sports when he ruled Harper was out. Nicholson rolled to second and Ward doubled to left but Mueller skied to center. After the Spudders had waved Badgro's single in the sixth, the Sports came back to score again.

Oneil Doubles

Oneil's hit to right field went for two bases and Steengrafe's sacrifice sent him to third. Lamm made his third hit, a single to center and Oneil scored. Eggert and Sisler were retired in order.

The visitors got a man as far as third in the seventh. Scharein was hit by a pitched ball and moved around on two infield outs. Steengrafe then fanned Garms. In the eighth it appeared dangerous for the Sports. With one out Fuss hit safe down the first base line and then Badgro skied to Mueller. Eggert missed Green's roller and Fuss went to third. Severeid rolled to Mueller and Green was out at second.

DETROIT, April 13. (AP)—Cleveland and Detroit played a torrid 11-inning baseball game in frigid weather here today, Cleveland winning 6 to 5 before 12,000 spectators, the smallest American league opening day crowd here in 15 years.

Wesley Ferrell went the route for the Indians, allowing 14 hits but tightening in the pinches. One of the Tiger hits was a home run by Roy Johnson to start the first inning.

Vic Sorrell started for Detroit, allowing eight hits in as many innings before he was removed for a pinch batsman, who was none other than Dale Alexander, supplanted first baseman. He flied out. Hogsett finished for the Tigers, yielding three hits, two of them singles by Porter and Averill in the 11th which, coupled with a sacrifice by Hodapp, produced the winning run. Chilled fingers resulted in six errors, five of them on the Tigers.

CUBS TROUNCE REDS, 3 TO 2

Malone Holds Cincinnati Sluggers in Check

CINCINNATI, April 13. (AP)—Slugging tactics by the Cincinnati Reds could not overcome Malone today and the Chicago Cub pitcher walked off with a 3-2 victory.

The result tied the series thus far at a game each. The Reds bunched a double, a single and a triple in the fourth to jump into the lead but Malone kept them under cover thereafter while his team mates pecked at Carroll for hits that gave them the winning run in the eighth on two singles.

Payne Shades Thormahlen in Initial Night Tilt as Buffs Whip Bucs, 3-2

HOUSTON, April 13. (AP)—Joe Schultz's Houston Buffs defeated Del Pratt's revamped Galveston Buccaneers, 3-2, the veteran Payne shading Thormahlen in the opening game her tonight.

Some 5,600 cash patrons received their big thrill in the ninth from Houston's great defensive work in a pinch.

The Buffs led 3-1 at the start of the ninth, but Rye got a life when Narlesky fumbled his grounder. McGhee scratched a single to short, Rye stopping at second. Molesworth's perfect bunt which Payne handled advanced Rye to third and McGhee to second. PINEHURST, N. C., April 13. (AP)—Seeded stars swept through the fourth round of the North and South tennis tournament here today with the loss of but one member from their ranks. Bryan Grant, the former national clay courts champion, fell before Dr. Eugene McCauliff, of New York, by scores of 6-3, 3-6, 6-3.

NOBLE-LITTLE TEAM WINS

Costley Downs Hardware Nine, 6-2

Harry Costley southpawed the Wichita Hardware company nine into submission Wednesday afternoon on Harrison field and let them down with only two singles while his mates were pecking out a 6 to 2 win for the Noble-Little Hardware to give Noble-Little an undisputed leadership of the Commercial league. Red Reed hurled his second four-hit game in two days, but ragged support cost him in the pinches. An error, infield hit, three stolen bases and an infield out in the first inning was all Wichita Hardware could get off Costley, who hurled near perfect baseball the rest of the way.

Dutch Chatterton, Noble-Little third sacker, was the goat of their first game, but the hero of the second when he hit his hitting stride of last year and connected for a single and a home run to lead the attack. Chatterton's home run came in the second inning with none on.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, April 13. (AP)—After holding steady most of the day, cotton eased in the last hour under realizing or reselling by recent buyers, apparently influenced by the decline in wheat and the indifferent showing of the stock market.

May contracts broke to 6.18 and closed at that price, the general market closing steady, net unchanged to 2 points lower.

Houses with Liverpool and continental connections were among the buyers here, the English market showed further gains after the local opening with a widening of the differences between New York and Liverpool.

Offerings increased in the last hour with July selling off to 6.35 and December to 6.76. Closing quotations were at the lowest of the day on most positions.

The market during earlier trading appeared to be influenced by the buying here through houses with Liverpool connections. Later attention seemed to turn to the action of the wheat and stock markets. Reports from the Southwest indicated light offerings from the interior with a steady spot basis. Liverpool cables reported London and Bombay buying on the easier sterling in that market. Exports today 22,136 making 7,184,266 so far this season.

Futures closed steady, unchanged to 2 points lower. Spot quiet; middling 6.25.

Federal Reserve Activity Aids Tone Of Market But Prices Continue Drop

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, April 13. (US)—Depreciation in security prices continued today. There was, however, a counteracting influence to the widespread pessimism. This developed in the public acknowledgement by the federal reserve authorities that they are presently engaged in an aggressive campaign to break the backbone of the deflationary movement. A Reserve spokesman informed a congressional committee that the reserve banks have decided to greatly increase their holdings of government securities through purchases in the open market.

Already almost a quarter-billion in such securities have been acquired by the reserve banks under the latest attack on the deflation. Official assurance was given that this program will be continued. Extent of such buying was not disclosed by the reserve spokesman. The general expectation is that it will not be terminated until the member banks are so greatly relieved of their holdings of government bonds, and their nervousness disappears, that they finally will join the credit-expansion movement. It was disclosed here today that such a program was under way, and that buying of governments may reach a billion dollars.

Reserve bank authorities characterize the latest government-bond buying program as a controlled credit expansion move. Whatever it is termed, it cannot succeed unless the banking community as a whole participates. The depression has reached the stage where a concerted, wholehearted attack on deflation, if undertaken by the united banking and political worlds, may achieve stabilization within a reasonable period of time.

The federal reserve program is a valiant effort deserving of the full support of every element in the community, excepting those whose purposes are best served by distress.

In stocks, the greatest weakness continued in those issues which have long been regarded to be out-of-line, or where special "support" had been attempted. International Business Machine, for example, slumped sharply, as did also Coca-Cola, although in the latter the ever-present "fear of beer" may have been a material influence.

Standard Oil of New Jersey was under steady pressure. What makes its weakness particularly disconcerting to the market was the reviving belief that the oils as a group were entitled to higher prices. The stock is disconcerting the 1931 report, which may not show much more than the $1 regular dividend earned. Some of the leaders, such as Steel, General Electric, Can, Gas and Telephone performed more quietly.

Mid-week steel reviews furnished little cheer in actualities, although hope was expressed for some early improvement. The wheat market, which has been very strong of late, reacted moderately, but this may have been due to profit-taking. Bonds were slightly lower on the average.

Drugs, Inc. was under heavy pressure, but this was ascribed chiefly to individual distress rather than the company's affairs. A severe break in Peoples Gas, one of the Insull properties, naturally renewed talk of an early "climax" to this entire situation. Peoples Gas is one of the best of the Insull concerns, supplying gas to over three million people in the Chicago area. In any division of the Insull pyramid, Peoples Gas is likely to be one of the real prizes.

The federal reserve purchasing of governments has great potentialities. Some extreme conservatives seem to sense "inflation" in this procedure, but some measure of price-stimulation undoubtedly is essential if any progress is to be made against the deflation and depression. A reasonable amount of credit-expansion is fully warranted; otherwise the process of deflation must be left to wind its weary, disturbing way to a "natural conclusion."

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, April 13. (AP)—Under a heavy load of selling to realize profits, grain values tumbled today, powerless to hold to its recent bulge of almost 8 cents.

A low barometer in Texas was regarded with suspicion by many traders as perhaps indicative of a general brake-up of drouth. Wheat closed unsteady near the day's bottom level, and 1¼@1⅜c lower than yesterday's finish, corn ¼@½c down, oats ¼@½c off, and provisions unchanged to 5 cents decline.

Crop news was even more disconcerting than heretofore, special notice being given to reports that from Salina, Kan., to Amarillo, Texas, the condition of wheat was only 20 to 35 per cent of a 10-year average. On the other hand, it was pointed out that despite recent increases the visible supply of United States wheat was yet 14,000,000 bushels larger than at this time last year, owing partly to much increased quantities of farm board wheat in Canadian elevators.

Stock market weakness took a renewed clutch also on grain values, making speculative wheat traders especially inclined to go slow on the buying side here for at least the time being. Primary arrivals of domestic wheat were small, and no heavy movement from growers in the Southwest was expected until the crop outlook was more clearly defined.

Corn and oats sagged with wheat. More corn than of late was offered from the country.

Provisions tended downgrade with cereals notwithstanding firmness of the hog market.

Closing indemnities: Wheat, May 57⅝@⅞c, 60⅝c; July 60⅝@¾c, 63⅝@⅞c. Corn, May 33⅞@34c, 34⅞c; July 37¼c, 38c; Sept. 39⅝c, 40⅝c.

PIT NOTES

CHICAGO, April 13. (US)—With foreign markets refusing to follow sharp upturns, the local wheat trade is inclined to the opinion that advances will be rather irregular. Sharp reductions in winter wheat production will do much to relieve the pressure of world wheat surpluses, but do not offer any prospects of apprehension over requirements on the part of importers.

With the United States likely to produce only domestic requirements of wheat this season, the prospects for crops in the spring have assumed a greater importance as price making factors in the world markets. Developments of the spring crops in Russia, Canada and the United States will be closely watched, cables from Liverpool indicate.

Condition of the winter wheat crop on the continent of Europe is favorable, cables state, but growth is rather backward, owing to cold weather.

Total abandonment in Nebraska will be around 1,200,000 acres and the probable production 23,000,000 to 25,000,000 bushels, an estimate received by the Norris Grain company says.

Advice To Investors

By Charles W. Storm—Editor of the "News Service of Wall Street"

Would like complete information on Allis-Chalmers stock.

Answer—Allis-Chalmers Mfg. Co. is a prominent producer of mechanical and electrical equipment. Previous to 1930 company had a good record but net income has declined owing to lack of prosperous business conditions. Commencing Feb. 15, in order to conserve cash, the annual dividend basis will be 50 cents a share. Nov. 16 a dividend of 25 cents was distributed, compared with 50 cents in the two preceding quarters, prior to which, back to Nov. 16, 1929, the annual rate on the present stock was $3 a share. Net income for nine months ended Sept. 30, 1931, equalled $2.41 in similar period of 1930. Net for that year was $2.86 a share. Book value of stock about $42 a share, and working capital over $21 a share. Company has good possibilities of growth over a period, following the current depression.

Do you believe Corn Products will continue present dividends? Has the foreign business of the company declined seriously?

Answer—Corn Products Refining company has a distinct advantage over its competitors, inasmuch as it has plants located abroad to which it can switch grinding operations when corn price differentials justify just action. While other concerns in the trade virtually lost their foreign business in the past year and a half, Corn Products' sales volume has been maintained at a level comparable with that of recent years. In addition, domestic sales were relatives good last year, with 1931 net income estimated at approximately $3.45 a common share against $4.82 in 1930. The depreciation which occurred in the market value of the company's large security holdings undoubtedly was charged directly against surplus; nevertheless, the usual strong financial position will be revealed in the year-end balance sheet. Continuance of the $3 dividend rate appears reasonably assured.

What is the outlook for Gulf States Steel? Do you anticipate any immediate improvement in the company's business?

Answer—Although improvement was noted in the last three months of 1931 when Gulf States Steel reported a deficit of only $193,009, operation for the full 12 months of 1931 resulted in an indicated loss of $976,228, equivalent to a deficit of $5.65 a common share. This showing compared with a loss of $815,335 in the previous year. Because of low rate of general steel activity and the restricted buying power of the southern agricultural territory, where the company depends largely for customers indications are that profitable operations will be delayed for some time. The stock is highly speculative.

Band of Yaqui Indians Raid Mexican Ranches

HERMOSILLO, Sonora, April 13. (AP)—A band of marauding Yaqui Indians swooped down from their stronghold in the Bacatete mountains today and plundered a large number of ranches near Moscobampo, Ortia and La Misa. No casualties were reported, but herds of cattle were stolen.

Scarcity of food, it is feared, has led the Indians to plunder, and ranchmen of the Yaqui region are heavily armed, prepared for expected night attacks.

'Third Term Tradition' Is Barrier To Growing 'Draft Coolidge' Idea

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Straw votes and Pullman smoking car conversations show that there is in the United States a considerable support for Calvin Coolidge as a presidential candidate. This is in spite of the fact that he is not a candidate, formal or informal, before any primary, convention, or the electorate at large and, moreover, has expressed himself as being unwilling to run. Mindful that previous rulers have repeatedly refused crowns only to accept them later, the public eye still turns yearningly to the man in whose presidency the nation last knew prosperity. The idea of "draft Coolidge" persists.

Against the possibility of such a development as a convention stampede for the sage of Vermont is the third term tradition which has become woven into the American political consciousness over a century and a half. While Mr. Coolidge is in the position of having been elected to the presidency but once, he did, through succession on the death of President Harding, serve more than one term. His position is identical with that of President Roosevelt against whose candidacy for a third term, even after an interregnum, was stoutly resisted and defeated. The American people appear to have looked to the substance rather than the form.

Prejudice Established Early

The definite establishment of the American prejudice against a third term for president dates from Thomas Jefferson. Although in the middle of his second term Washington probably could not have been elected, by the end of it public affection had again turned to him and his election for a third term would have been assured. He did not want it. He was a tired man. The issue did not arise in the case of John Adams, who was defeated for even a second term, as his son, John Quincy Adams was later. The Adamses, although among the greatest of American statesmen, have never been popular idols.

There was strong support for Thomas Jefferson when his second term drew to a close and it is probable that he could have been elected to a third term. He would have been glad to have the office but was keenly sensible of the responsibility resting upon him as one of the founders of the nation. He examined the political consequences. Washington's refusal of a third term was an example which Jefferson determined, so far as he was able, to convert into an established tradition. In his autobiography he wrote that he founded his fears of continuing tenure "on the fierce contentions it might excite among ourselves, if continuable for life and the dangers of interference either with money or arms by foreign nations to whom the choice of an American president might become interesting."

Tenure of Office Tradition

The extraordinary prescience of so early a Republican, in a period when republics were decidedly an experiment, is regarded as remarkable. The idea of a foreign nation's interfering with arms in an American election seems preposterous today yet the United States, a foreign nation, interferes with arms in Latin American elections and, it may be remembered, in Jefferson's time the United States stood in about the same relation to European powers that Latin American nations stand now in relation to the United States.

Jefferson went so far as to propose that the presidency be delimited to a single term of seven years by constitutional amendment and declared, meantime that "should a president consent to be a candidate for a third election I trust he would be rejected on this demonstration of ambitious views." Coming from so authoritative a source, the actions and expressions of Thomas Jefferson effectually established a tradition which has not since been overthrown.

Andrew Jackson came nearer election three times than any other president. In the 1824 canvass he was the outstanding candidate in both popular and electoral votes but, there being four in the field, he failed of a majority in the electoral college and the house of representatives chose John Quincy Adams. But after Adams' single term, Jackson was elected and re-elected. In six annual messages he recommended to congress limitation to a single term of 4 to 6 years. Between Jackson and Lincoln no president was elected even to a second term. In view of the extraordinary veneration in which Mr. Lincoln was held at the conclusion of the civil war, it is impossible to say what might have happened had he lived to the end of his second term. It remained for his next elected successor to try the country's mettle on that question.

General Grant enjoyed great popularity particularly in view of the fact that the G. A. R., then become a far more potent political entity than the American Legion is today, was fairly solidly behind him. Grant wrote to a friend toward the close of his second term "Now for the third term." He made it clear that he would accept the nomination.

The movement grew to such proportions that William M. Springer, an Illinois Democrat, offered a resolution in the house of representatives declaring that retirement of the president after two terms "has become, by universal concurrence, a part of our republican system of government and that any departure from this time-honored custom would be unwise, unpatriotic, and fraught with peril to our free institutions." The resolution carried, 234 to 18. Rutherford B. Hayes became the candidate and, in his inaugural address, recommended a constitutional amendment prescribing a single six-year term.

Lacked Majority

Mr. Springer came forward again, this time proposing a constitutional amendment to carry into effect President Hayes' recommendation but Grant was on his world tour and achieving enormous personal popularity. Even some of those who had warmly supported the Springer resolution against a third term, began saying that a third term, after an intervening term, might be all right. The Springer amendment died aborning and, in the 1880 convention Grant led on the first ballot with 304 votes to 284, his nearest competitor. Yet Grant lacked a majority even when, on the 35th ballot, his strength had grown to 13. The Blaine forces would not turn to him. The stampede to the dark horse, Garfield, on the 36th ballot brought him 399 votes which took him to the White House and his death.

Although Cleveland was three times a candidate for the presidency he was elected but twice and expressed himself as believing that a third term would constitute "the most serious danger to that calm, deliberate, and intelligent action which must characterize a government by the people."

In the Roosevelt matter the situation was somewhat similar to that which Grant faced in 1880. Roosevelt had previously declared that he regarded the three and a half year term to which he had succeeded on the death of President McKinley as a first term and his one elective term, his second. With characteristic vigor he refused a re-nomination. After the break with President Taft he declared that the third term tradition had no application save in the case of a president in office and contemplating continuance. It was continuity of service which Jefferson feared.

So far, Mr. Coolidge has embarrassed no one on the matter of a third term. Some very interesting precedents and statements on both sides of the question are certain to be threshed over if he is again seriously considered as a candidate.

BURGLAR SHOT BY WICHITAN

Mexican Wounded When He Attempts to Escape

J. P. Morrison, Lakewood drive, took definite action Wednesday morning in curbing increasing visits by prowlers in residential Wichita Falls when two of five pistol shots fired at a Mexican intruder took effect in the burglar's leg.

Mr. Morrison was awakened to find the intruder leaving by the front door. The shots broke the Mexican's leg and he was found in a vacant lot near the Morrison residence, suffering from loss of blood. The Mexican was reported resting well at the Wichita General hospital Wednesday night but had not been questioned during the day by police due to his weakened condition.

The Morrison home was entered by a rear door. Loot taken from the home was recovered, as was $12 reported taken from the C. H. Wilkins residence, North Beverly, earlier Tuesday night.

ROAD PATROL NABS THIEVES

Transportation Permit For Livestock Required

AUSTIN, Texas, April 12. (AP)—L. G. Phares, chief of the state highway patrol, has issued orders to the patrol to be especially alert in enforcing the law requiring transporters of livestock to have permits.

Phares said information gathered by the state highway patrol had resulted in the conviction of three persons for cattle theft.

The law requires that all transporters of cattle have permits showing the brand and number of cattle, the owner, the place of origin and the destination. The patrol has been ordered to stop all cattle truckers and demand this information, which is filed for reference in the state headquarters.

Phares declared that no attempt was being made by the patrol to work a hardship on farmers and small stock raisers, insisting that when the trucks containing small loads of cattle were stopped it was done as a protection to cattle raisers and not with the view of harassing operators.

Enforcement of the law was urged by the cattle raisers association as the result of heavy losses of cattle. Thefts should be reported to the state patrol headquarters so they can be traced through the files kept of cattle movements, Phares said.

Civic duty of Wichitans in attending the opening day clash of Texas league baseball in Wichita Falls was stressed in a keynote address before 150 committeemen and civic leaders by Manager John Boswell at the chamber of commerce offices in the Hamilton building Wednesday morning.

A record crowd, with the goal placed at 9,000, will establish a positive influence in the public mind of the soundness of business conditions in Wichita Falls as well as starting the Spudders off right for the 1932 season.

Climax of Drive

Fifty committeemen took one page each from the Wichita Falls telephone book at the close of the meeting and will notify each subscriber Friday that the game time will be 4 o'clock and urge individual cooperation in obtaining a record crowd.

The meeting was regarded by a climax of pregame enthusiasm by Dr. Everett Jones, general chairman, and other leaders in the "Support the Spudders" movement. The Scores of decorated trucks and cars of Wichita Falls firms and out-of-town fans and organizations have been entered in the parade.

Lions Pledge to Attend Opening Day Game 100 Per Cent

In response to a spirited talk by Sam B. Spence, district attorney, advocating strong support for the Spudder baseball team during the ensuing season, members of the Lions club Wednesday voted 100 per cent to attend the opening game here Friday with Shreveport.

The man-a-block employment campaign now being staged by the American Legion was explained by H. H. Bailey. Members of the club were asked to lend all possible aid to the movement.

E. E. Louderback was a guest at Wednesday's luncheon, and Ambrose Yeager was accepted into membership.

Entertainment was provided by a quartet composed of Ralph S. Fidler, J. S. Minton, J. L. Eggleston and Paul Lacy. Messrs. Lacy, Minton and William Marshall also sang a "Lions" song, accompanied by Miss Lorene Tucker.

'SMILING FACES' HERE TONIGHT

Fred and Paula Stone To Draw Big Crowd

Possessed of talent and personality which have made him a consistent favorite with American audiences for more than 30 years, Fred Stone, veteran comedian, will arrive in Wichita Falls Thursday along with his daughter Paula and a large supporting company for the presentation of "Smiling Faces" at the Memorial auditorium at 8 p. m.

Included in a list of the larger cities of the Southwest, Wichita Falls will obtain its first glimpse of Stone in "Smiling Faces." If residents of this section avail themselves of that opportunity as those of other Texas communities have done this week, one of the largest crowds of the present season will greet the famous Stones and their supporting cast Thursday night.

At least one of Stone's experiences with which the public is familiar has suggested one of the action-features for "Smiling Faces." It will be recalled that Stone broke a leg some years ago—in fact, was quite generally cracked up—when an airplane made a very unorthodox landing. Mr. Stone hasn't forgotten that mishap, and part of the heavy equipment carried by the show is to be used in a scene reminiscent of that aeronautic flop.

It will be remembered also that during Mr. Stone's convalescence from his crash, Will Rogers stepped into his friend's place in the Stone show running at that time. Theatergoers have found much in common between Rogers and Stone—a distinctly human brand of humor hidden beneath a manner of rustic simplicity. Well, Fred Stone will return Will's favor in "Smiling Faces," he includes in the evening's entertainment a take-off on the Oklahoman's gum-chewing and rope twirling act.

Fred Stone has not built his entire show on Mr. Stone, however. Besides his resourceful daughter, Paula, he has the support of Miss Albertina Rasch and her celebrated dancers; Lotti Loder, captivating motion picture beauty from Austria; Billy Taylor, and the Lyric quartet. The ensemble comprises a group of more than 75 persons. With its elaborate assortment of properties for a wide variety of scenes, "Smiling Faces" will tax the capacity of the big Memorial auditorium stage, according to advance agents of the show.

Tickets will remain on sale at the Renfro Drug store, Eighth and Scott, until 6 p. m. Thursday, when the box will be removed to the Memorial auditorium.

Houston Critic Gives Praise To Stone's Company

Wichitans who may have desired personal testimonials relative to the musical comedy, "Smiling Faces," to be presented here Thursday night by Fred Stone and company, certainly will find their recipe filled in the comment of Pat McNealy Barnes, writing in the Houston Post after Monday night's performance in that city.

The most convincing note in Mr. Barnes' remarks is the obvious sincerity with which he reveals his genuinely pleasant reactions to the show. His review is conspicuously free from the stereotyped superlatives of press agents. Mr. Barnes found "Smiling Faces" clean, refreshing, filled with clever dancing and possessed of elaborate settings and costumes. This is what he has to say about it:

"Provoking laughter and rounds of riotous applause, Fred Stone and his cast of headliners in the most popular musical comedy that has shown in Houston in many seasons, scored a triumphant hit with some 3,000 amusement-seekers at the City auditorium Monday night.

"From the opening scene to the grand finale, 'Smiling Faces' presented one glorious round of the cleverest, best staged entertainment brought to Houston this season under the local management of Edna W. Saunders.

"Sharing honors with the inimitable Fred Stone, whose last appearance in Houston was 32 years ago, was his delightfully attractive, versatile daughter, Paula Stone.

Complicated Love

"Although honors for the show go to the Stone family, Hope Emerson, six-feet-plus, walked away with the applause whenever the spotlight turned her way. Equally as good in their roles in the show were Roy Royston and Billy Taylor of song, dance and chatter fame.

"The theme of the musical melange had to do with the complicated love affairs of Paula, playing Peggy Post, Roy Royston and Billy Taylor.

"The love making was interspersed with 'shooting' a motion picture and numerous songs and dances by a bevy of Albertina Rasch dancers.

"In addition to being a fast-moving, snappy, entertainment, one of the most attractive features of 'Smiling Faces' was the elaborate costumes. Fred Stone is to be congratulated upon the lovely type of girls he selected for the performance.

Rogers Imitated

"Fred Stone's take-off of the gum-chewing, rope twirling Will Rogers was one of the bright spots on the bill. Another was Hope Emerson, playing Amy Edwards, the secretary of Director Monument Spleen, singing 'Poor Little Me.'

Lotti Loder, an imported member of the cast, added zip to the show by her agile and nimble feet. Eddie Garvie, tipping the scales at not less than 300 pounds, was a wow. Others lending their support toward making the affair a success were Isabel O'Madigan, Adora Andrews, Ali Youssoff, George Herman and Len Saxon.

"Houstonians who failed to witness the one and only performance of 'Smiling Faces' in this city, missed the opportunity of the season."

Author of 'Cane Juice' Reinstated as Instructor

BATON ROUGE, La., April 13. (AP)—Dr. John Earle Uhler, associate professor of English dismissed by Louisiana State university for writing the novel, "Cane Juice," which the supervisors charged reflected on the institution, has been re-instated.

The novel purported to tell the story of a Louisiana "cajin" youth's progress through the state school and it was attacked bitterly by the Rev. Monsignor F. L. Gassler of Baton Rouge as a reflection on Louisiana's creole population and the L. S. U. co-eds.

University supervisors said the book placed L. S. U. in an unfair and inaccurate light.

Wichita Boy Builds Own Violin Of Home Materials

Herbert Fain Shows Talent In Making His First Instrument

Wichita Falls now numbers among its youth a 14-year-old boy who not only wanted a violin, but proceeded to do something about it. He made one with the aid of only the crudest tools, and under the encouragement of the results, is already at work on another.

Herbert Fain, 1109 Twenty-third street, is the youngster who "had the inspiration to build a violin," carried out his purpose, has learned to play simple melodies, and is planning to begin the study of violin next fall. He is a student in the Reagan Junior high school, where his musical endeavors have had the hearty endorsement and prompting of Miss Rachel Davis, director of music. Herbert will enter senior high school next fall.

This first completed violin does not command the entire approval of its young maker. To begin with, the materials used are not first class. Nor were his tools adequate. He finds his A string possessed of less than the desired tone, and declares that the string-pegs can be more satisfactorily set in the head of the instrument. But the general construction, design, and tone of his violin not only has encouraged him, but has been commended by local violinists.

This violin is purely homemade. Herbert obtained a piece of cypress for the top of the instrument, a section of walnut from a local plaining mill for its back; but for the sides he drew a piece of rough but flexible ash from a grocery box. His pocket knife served for carving out the scroll, the sounding post, the finger-board and the bridge. But for shaping the top and back panels, a chisel was required. He took a broken steel file, and by much grinding shaped a chisel. Holes for the pegs were made by using a heated ice pick.

Its only a beginning, the youthful maker asserts, but it is a violin of acceptable tone. And he's working now on a new one.

"I just had an inspiration to make a violin," Herbert said, "and I believe in working out anything you're inspired to do. I may not make a perfect violin, but I'm going to try."

Young Fain has played trombone for the past two years in the Lions Club Boys band, and has played second violin occasionally during the past winter in the Reagan school orchestra under Miss Davis' direction.

4,000 Crowd Auditorium For Program By Paul Christensen's Radio Stars

"Visitors' Day" Sponsored by Retail Merchants Proves Big Success; Shoppers Go Bargain Hunting

More than 4,000 Wichitans and citizens of the adjacent territory of Southern Oklahoma and North Texas voiced approval of "Visitors' day" Wednesday with an enthusiastic reception for Paul Christensen, his 11-piece orchestra and Radio Night club, at the Memorial auditorium in the afternoon.

One of the largest crowds on record packed the auditorium for the hour of music and colorful acts. The thousands of shoppers who arrived in the city early Wednesday for a day of shopping and entertainment placed seats at a premium for the free show shortly after Edgar Bell, business manager of the troupe, introduced the orchestra and expressed appreciation for the reception accorded the WKY radio artists.

Mrs. Christensen and the night club performers appeared a second time in Wichita Falls at 9 o'clock Wednesday night at the Wichita club for a dance under auspices of the Junior chamber of commerce.

Novelty numbers by the orchestra were well received with the selections including "Little Nell," and "Red Riding Hood," both popular broadcast specialties. The Leftholtz sisters, harmony trio, opened with a vocal interpretation of "Rhapsody in Blue" and encored with "Nobody's Sweetheart Now." Jimmy Burson played a guitar accompaniment for the trio.

Cecil Huntsinger offered solo accordion number as the newest member of the WKY artists group. Other acts included a tap dance by Mary Travis, acrobatic dance by Kathleen Eslick and numbers by the Lee trio.

TWO CONVICTED IN TRIALS HERE

Alex Doran Draws Six Years on Theft Charges

Two convictions were obtained by the state in felony cases tried before Judge Allen D. Montgomery in the 30th district court with Mike Anglin, assistant district attorney, prosecuting the charges.

Alex Doran, returned from Corpus Christi last Saturday by Sheriff Perry Browning, was given six years in the penitentiary after entering a plea of guilty to a charge of theft over $50. When arrested at Corpus Christi, it was said, he was in possession of an automobile belonging to Mrs. Arch Anderson of this city. A charge of burglary at a private residence by night, filed Monday, was dismissed by District Attorney Sam B. Spence after Doran's plea of guilty to the theft charges.

J. P. Morrison, Jr., charged with possession of equipment to manufacture whiskey, was given a five-year suspended sentence by a jury which returned its verdict about 4:30 p. m. Wednesday. The state had opposed suspension of the sentence in prosecuting the case.

Buster Canada, charged with burglary at a private residence at night, is to go on trial at 9 o'clock Thursday morning, it was announced.
