Tax Director To Explain Pampa's Missing Money

By TEX DEWESE.
City Manager Mack Wofford received a letter today from the state comptroller's office in which Glen Castlebury, director of tax information, attempted to explain why Pampa received only one monthly sales tax check during the first four months of 1975.

The city manager said he still was a bit confused about the explanation of the change from the quarterly to monthly distribution of sales tax money made when State Comptroller Bob Bullock took office Jan. 1.

Wofford released the tax information director's letter in which it was stated the initial press release from the state comptroller's office "may have been misleading because it compared apples to oranges without making a clear distinction."

Castlebury wrote that the press release "on one hand talked about the period in which merchants collected the tax from the public, and on the other about the period in which the tax was collected from the merchants."

Castlebury said it probably was easiest for him to explain this way.

"Sales taxes paid by the public to merchants in the October - December, 1974 quarter were sent to us on or about January 31, 1975. We continued to add up these returns until February 17 when we arbitrarily set a cut off and allocated the $641 million on hand to the cities for the last quarterly payment."

"Taxes paid by the public to merchants between Jan. 1 and March 31, which includes the January 1 - February 17 period in question, are for the most part still in the hands of the merchants and will be sent to us on the April 30 reporting deadline. We will use this money in future 'monthly' payments, some of it in May but most of it in June because we will cutoff our books May 2 before much of the mail returns reach us."

"But besides the big quarterly returns, we always have money coming in from 'direct pay' purchases, some businesses who file monthly, and delinquents. As of April 4 we had $16 million on hand from these sources — and this is what we used to make what we called the first 'monthly' rebate."

"Consequently, we can no longer match a particular quarter's public sales tax payments to a particular quarter's rebate to the city. Nor can we match month - for - month since the merchants report quarterly. However, after three months on the new system you should be able to see a total or trend that fairly well matches your previous quarterly expectations."

"I know this is complicated and I hope this makes it a little more understandable. Please feel free to share the explanation with your local news media and if you have further questions please don't hesitate to call on us."

TSTA School Bill Wins Main Victory

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — A schoolteacher champion and school finance opponent of Gov. Dolph Briscoe has won a major victory on the issue proclaimed the governor's top priority of the legislative session.

Rep. Dan Kubiak, D-Rockdale, won a 7-5 Education Committee vote Thursday night that rejected Briscoe's school finance plan. Instead, the committee approved Kubiak's costlier proposal strongly endorsed by the Texas State Teachers Association.

Kubiak's bill costs in excess of $800 million. It grants first-year teachers an immediate raise from $6,600 to $10,000 — a starting salary demanded by the teachers association.

The Kubiak plan was sent on to the full House on an 11-1 vote. Speaker Bill Clayton said it will probably be debated late next week or the week beginning May 12. It is designated emergency legislation because Briscoe said school finance is the No. 1 issue of the session.

Briscoe's plan, approved by a subcommittee earlier in the week, would have cost $600 million and raised teachers salaries to only $8,000. It was criticized by Kubiak for failing to provide any meaningful reforms in the school finance system for two more years.

"This is not a patchwork bill in any form or fashion," Kubiak said. "This is a bill for which funds are available and yet it puts school finance reform into effect in the next biennium."

But the high cost of Kubiak's plan means it will be difficult to pass. Briscoe vowed to veto any bill requiring a tax increase.

"One of the things that frightens me about this bill is the price tag," Clayton said immediately after the vote. "If we pass a school finance measure with $800 million in it and can't certify it we've got problems."

Kubiak, who was chairman of the Education Committee in 1973 and bitterly fought Briscoe on school finance, convinced five committee members to co-sponsor his substitute for the Briscoe-backed bill produced by a subcommittee earlier this week. He needed to convince only one other committee member — Rep. R.B. McAlister, D-Lubbock — to win the crucial vote.

Kubiak's opponents, including several liberals, said his proposal will cause an increase in local property taxes.

Ford Vetoes Farm Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Despite congressional claims that higher crop supports are needed this year to protect farmers and assure heavy future food production, President Ford vetoed a bill boosting 1975 price guarantees for wheat, feed grains, soybeans, cotton and milk Thursday.

Ford said in a veto message spending under the bill will add an unnecessary $1.8 billion to his budget deficit and will be "costly not only to consumers and taxpayers, but to American farmers in the long run."

If the one-year "emergency" bill became law, Ford said, it could dry up markets for farm products and lead back to "discredited policies" resulting in huge surpluses, multi-billion dollar federal spending and a revival of government acreage controls for farmers. In the long run, Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz said at a news conference, the bill would also have meant higher food prices for consumers.

Democratic lawmakers charged Ford's action will leave farmers without adequate price protection at a time when their costs are at record levels and the government is calling on them for all-out food production. They said administration cost estimates were greatly exaggerated.

Ford did not — as Butz earlier predicted he would — soften the impact of his veto by ordering administrative action to raise wheat and feed grain support loan rates to halfway between present levels and those proposed in the bill. But he took two steps designed to mollify farm critics.

The President promised he will order increases in support loan rates for wheat, feed grains and soybeans later if unforeseen further declines in farm prices require such action. Also, in a move strongly urged by GOP lawmakers, he announced "we are determined to do everything possible" to avoid any revival of federal export controls on farm products.

Farmers protested bitterly against federal restraints on exports of soybeans in 1973 and a wide range of crops in late 1974 and early 1975, claiming the action drove down their prices. Ford asserted in his statement "Our farm products must have unfettered access to world markets."

Chairman Thomas S. Foley, D-Wash., of the House Agriculture Committee said the House will probably vote on overriding the veto late next week, but conceded it will be a difficult uphill fight. Butz predicted the veto will be upheld, partly because of a recovery of farm prices in mid-April.

Officials announced Wednesday average farm market prices rose 4 per cent in April, breaking a five-month decline which spurred congressional passage of the farm bill. Despite the increase, April prices remained 7 per cent below a year earlier while farm costs were 11 per cent higher.

Under the bill, increases in soybean and milk crops were accompanied by hikes in both crop support loans and support target prices for wheat, feed grains and cotton.

The target prices trigger direct federal income subsidy payments to growers if markets dip below targets. They were raised to $3.10 a bushel instead of the present $2.05 for wheat and $2.25 a bushel instead of the present $1.38 for corn — still well below April market levels of $3.69 for wheat and $2.68 for corn.

Crop support loan rates, which are lower than targets, are used to create a floor for market prices. The bill would have set those rates at $1.87 a bushel instead of the present $1.10 for corn and $2.50 instead of the present $1.37 for wheat.

Cotton loans would have been raised from the present 34 cents to 38 cents and the target from the current 38 cents to 45 cents — above current markets.

Butz, in a news conference, said Ford's prime reason for rejecting the bill was its cost, which he estimated at $1.8 billion the first year, possibly $4.5 billion the second year and even more later. Although the legislation covered only one year, Butz said Congress would have been certain in the 1976 election year to seek to use the 1975 bill as a base for still higher supports.

If target prices are pushed beyond the increases scheduled in 1976 under existing law, Butz charged huge payments could be required because market prices would be below the new targets.

Wheat, Wheat, It's Fruit of the Earth; The More You Grow, the Less It's Worth

By THOM MARSHALL

Henry Harnly, Texas Farmers Union (TFU) District 1 director, said that the result of President Ford's veto of the Farm Bill could be "bankruptcy in agriculture just like in the cattle business."

Harnly farms about 2,000 acres of irrigated wheat and milo just east of Pampa and his wheat, like other area wheat crops, is looking good.

"Too good," he said. "The average cost to produce a bushel of wheat in the Texas Panhandle starts at about $3.15 selling now for about $3.15 but if we produce the two billion-plus bushel wheat crop that is projected, the only place the price of wheat will stop is the loan value."

Harnly recently returned from the regular spring board meeting of TFU in Waco. The board is composed of more than 100 county presidents, representing the major agricultural producing areas of the state.

In a resolution that pointed out the shortcomings of the proposed federal price support and target price legislation, the farm group urged Ford to sign the bill.

Although the proposed changes in the farm program are totally inadequate to meet the needs of agriculture and to assure the consumer an adequate supply of food and fiber, we recognize that this is the best that we can expect out of this session of Congress," the TFU board said in a written statement.

The Emergency Farm Act of 1975 would have raised the loan price on wheat to $2.50 — up from the current $1.37 loan price. The target price on wheat would have been $3.10, up from the current $2.05.

"Now, instead of a $2.05 loan floor under our prices, we're going to have a $1.37 where we've been," Harnly said.

"Parity in wheat is about $4.71 a bushel. See the difference between that and the $1.25 loan price — even the proposed $2.05," he added.

Harnly is one of nine TFU district directors. The Gray Roberts branch of the TFU has a membership of "between 50 and 100" area farmers. President of the two-county organization is Wilber Walls, who farms in Roberts County about 20 miles northeast of Pampa.

According to Harnly, "most farmers don't realize the plight they're in. They (the government) have come out and ask us to plant fence to fence and American farmers have done it without any protection."

The TFU official said that the "boom and bust cycles" should be taken out of agriculture.

"That's what we preach in the Farmers Union," he said. "Ask a rancher who's gone broke if he likes the boom and bust cycle. It used to be the game to play but it isn't any more. It takes too much of an investment to get into agriculture."

Harnly is afraid that his way of life is in danger, along with the way of life of many American farmers.

"Without legislation, without prices at a better level, I can last two more years," he said. "Then I'll be busted. And if I can't make it, with the knowledge and experience I have accumulated, who are they going to sell my place to? Who's going to invest money in a business where there's no profit? If I go busted and thousands like me go busted, where will everybody get the food and fiber they need?"

Pampa Businessman Dies Today at Lake Meredith

By PAMPA NEWS STAFF

A Pampa businessman was dead on arrival at North Plains Hospital in Borger following an apparent heart attack while fishing alone at Lake Meredith. Elmer Earl Wilson, 68, 1019 N. Wells, was pronounced dead by a Borger physician at 9:20 a.m. today.

Alice Allen, information officer with the National Park Recreation Service, said Mr. Wilson had apparently docked his boat at the Fritch fortress.

From what we were able to determine, he then drove his pickup to where some people were. They reported he was bleeding from the head and face," she said.

The people reportedly were in the Fritch Fortress area of Lake Meredith. One of them, Charles C. Blackburn of Arvada, Colorado, took Mr. Wilson to Fritch.

From Fritch, he was rushed by the volunteer ambulance service to North Plains Hospital in Borger.

A physician at the hospital said Mr. Wilson either suffered the apparent coronary while walking to his pickup or after he started for help.

The physician said the injuries were not the type to have caused a coronary.

Funeral arrangements for Mr. Wilson will be by Carmichael-Whitley Funeral Directors.

Mrs. Wilson, a retired oilman affiliated with Windsor Servicing Company of Pampa, moved to the panhandle in 1934 and had been a Pampa resident since 1941.

He was born Feb. 6, 1907, in Wise County, Texas, and married Drusilla Briscoe Feb. 16, 1929, in Hess, Okla. He was a member of the First Baptist Church of Pampa.

Surviving are two sons, Elmer R. Wilson, pastor of the First Baptist Church in Alpine, and Elmer D. Wilson, Pampa, two brothers, Pete and Abe Wilson, both of Hobart, Okla., one sister, Velma Easley Hobart, six

Elmer Wilson grandchildren and three great-grandchildren

Offers Reward For Hay Thief

A Pampa man is offering a $100 reward for information leading to the conviction of person or persons who allegedly stole alfalfa hay from his barn.

The barn is located in the alley of Wilks and Love Streets. Bernard Organ, owner, said several bales have disappeared over the past few days.

Asst. Pampa Police Chief George H. Wallace said anyone with information on offense should call the Pampa Police Department.

Lions Clubs Extend Plea For Glasses

The Lions Clubs of Pampa joins the other Lions Clubs of District 2T — 1 of Lions International in an appeal for donation of old discarded eye glasses to the Lions Sight Program.

Anyone living in the Pampa area may take the glasses to the Lions Convention Headquarters at the Coronado Inn on North Hobart. The Lions Convention will conclude Saturday night. The eye glasses may be children or adult.

Weather

The weather forecast today calls for considerable cloudiness with possible showers later today. Sunny and mild temperatures are forecast for Saturday and Sunday with the high Saturday to be in the upper 70s, and the low tonight about 48. A high of 82 is predicted for Sunday.

Blame the Regulators

As we have noted before, artificial expansion of the dollar supply to meet government deficits is a major, but not the only cause of higher prices in this time of inflation. Another key factor is price rigidity, in other words costs that have been required by government regulation. Most of those costs were left to competition would be lower than the present levels.

Now a study corroborates our contention. Written by Prof. Murray L. Weidenbaum of Washington University in St. Louis, "Government Mandated Price Increases," shows the countless examples. Our only problem was that we referred to "rigidities," whereas Weidenbaum actually shows the politicians, with their attendant bureaucrats, have forced price increases.

Published by the American Enterprise Institute, the study lists 29 major pieces of regulatory legislation which imposed non-productive costs on business during the period 1962-1973. There has been a shift, writes Weidenbaum, "To more, rather than less, government intervention and it thus reduces innovation and productivity, it's something to be concerned about."

One of the worst culprits, notes the professor, is the federal Occupational Safety and Health Administration, which employs armies of inspectors to order costly safety equipment and even redesigned floor plans. One OSHA rule, for example, requires that all cuspidors on a business premises be cleaned daily and that a lounge area be provided next to women's toilet facilities. Surely the latter requirement constitutes sex discrimination.

Further regulations ordered by the Food and Drug Administration delay new drugs from introduction to pharmacists' shelves by some four years. The result, hiked prices, on the order of $200 million to $300 million a year.

Everyone is aware that new cars cost an average of $320 more because of the checklist of passenger safety devices required by Washington. The government, says Weidenbaum, is constantly embarking on new and expanded programs which raise costs and prices in the private economy. The federal government is continually mandating more inflation via the regulation it promulgates. These actions of course are validated by an accommodating monetary policy.

The professor also scores such sore spots on the American economy as the Interstate Commerce Commission, whose multiple regulations add cost upon cost to the transit or products to consumers, and the Civil Aeronautics Board, which has been edging airline after airline to the brink of bankruptcy, since its inception in 1938. CAB standards have both pushed air fares to dizzying altitudes and kept competition out of the market with the result of "imposing significant costs on the economy."

President Ford and his economic advisers have called for a sweeping away of rigidities and mandated price hikes, but the evidence is that he has not begun to go after onerous regulations of which he's probably unaware.

Besides, any more presidential effort will be extremely difficult because as Professor Weidenbaum notes, "A second managerial revolution is now under way—a silent bureaucratic revolution. In the course of which the locus of much of the decision-making in the American corporation is shifting once again—from the professional management to the vast cadre of government regulators."

Not a pretty picture for those expecting prices to come tumbling down in the foreseeable future.

Men of Power Paid Homage to Connally

By RANDY FITZGERALD
News Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — On the evening of his acquittal last week, the powerful paid homage to John Connally as if he were some previously deposed head of state just restored to power by the electorate, rather than by a twelve-person jury.

President Ford extricated himself from energy, economic and foreign woes long enough to telephone Connally his congratulations, as did Richard Nixon living in his California exile. Connally has Nixon to thank for appointing him Secretary of Treasury, a position from which the Watergate special prosecutors had alleged he took dairy money bribes.

Even before the verdict was in, before the last dairy doubt about his innocence was dispelled, men of power had made a pilgrimage to be at the former Texas governor's side in a criminal court of law.

Sen. Henry Bellmon, R-Okla. and Sen. Clifford Hansen, R-Wyoming, walked the two blocks from Capitol Hill to the U.S. District Courthouse here to sit with Connally on the front row and await the jury's decision. Connally had a small Bible open in his lap, the first time some of his associates could ever remember such a display of religious fervor.

John Connally was much like a political evangelist before his indictment on bribery charges last July. A Democrat-turned-Republican with a cadre of followers and a siren song for both political parties. During the months after his indictment, Connally went into seclusion from his political cheerleader days, but he never relinquished the adulation of the Texas business and political establishment. Their support had carried the 58-year-old LBJ—protege through three terms as Texas governor.

Connally was elected to an honorary office within the Houston Chamber of Commerce and he gave the principal address at a Texas Independence Day celebration of 3,000 persons in South Texas who received him warmly. All a few weeks before his trial. No one who was a friend of Connally believed he had committed any wrong.

And during that trial spectacle, with his old friend of 25 years, Jake Jacobsen, bearing witness against him, Connally never lost the vibrant charm his friends variously describe as "magnetism" and "charisma."

His courtroom strategy often seemed analogous to a whirlwind political campaign. One tactical maneuver demonstrated not only the adept trial psychology of his attorney Edward Bennett Williams, but the power lure still attached to the Connally political presence.

Seven character witnesses were paraded onto the witness stand during the trial's last week. They were a diverse and carefully selected group.

Evangelist Billy Graham, black congresswoman Barbara Jordan of Houston and Democratic National Chairman Robert Strauss each swore under oath that Connally has a reputation for honesty and integrity. The mostly blue collar jury, ten of them black, like Jordan, nearly all of them Baptists, like Graham, and Democrats, like Strauss, sat in rapt attention.

The jury verdict has reunited John Connally with his ambition. His was the last of the Watergate trials, and he was the only one of the major Watergate figures to be exonerated. Bob Haldeman, John Ehrlichman, John Mitchell and dozens of others who with Connally composed Nixon's "palace guard," have been sentenced to prison.

One day after the jury verdict, Presiding Judge George L. Hart acceded to a prosecution request that all further charges against Connally be dropped.

Connally still had two counts of perjury pending against him in connection with the alleged bribery, and these charges had been separated into another trial. But the Watergate prosecutors admitted that all their evidence had been submitted in the bribery trial, and they did not have sufficient case to try Connally on charges of lying to a grand jury about actions the jury found Connally did not commit.

Connally's acquittal immediately aroused speculation in the press, a little like hound dogs scenting out political animals in a forest of copperheads, about whether the verdict would catapult Connally onto the public stage once again with a resurrected political future.

Some political columnists had already made up their minds about his public life. A former Nixon speechwriter, William Safire, writing in the New York Times the first week of the trial drew a comparison between the assassin who shot down President Kennedy and wounded Connally in the Dallas motorcade, to a "different kind of assassin—a character assassin." Safire said it was up to the jury whether Jacobson's accusations against Connally "will succeed in terminating Mr. Connally's political life." Safire strongly implied that Connally's vindication might be a launching pad for renewed candidacy for public office.

Moments after the verdict, Connally confirmed that he intends to stay active in the political realm. "I hope as long as I live I don't lose the desire to participate in political affairs," he said.

ANTIWAR POLITICS

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UPI)—Antiwar activist Tom Hayden, who stood trial in the late 1960s as one of the "Chicago Seven," says he may run for the U.S. Senate on the Democratic ticket rather than as a third-party candidate.

Hayden, who is married to actress Jane Fonda, said Saturday he would mount a "grass roots" campaign for the 1976 nomination for the seat presently held by California Democrat John Tunney.

Third parties are impractical, Hayden said. "I've voted Democrat and the people I identify with are grass roots Democrats."

Hayden said Alabama Gov. George Wallace and former Oklahoma Sen. Fred Harris are the only two politicians who talk the kind of "street talk" people want to hear.

NIXON PRAISES PAT

NEW YORK (UPI)—Former President Richard Nixon says he was "more dead than alive" after his phlebotomy operation last year, and only his wife's "devotion" kept him alive.

"I doubt that I would have made it without her," Nixon said in a McCall's magazine article released Sunday. The operation took place in the months following Nixon's departure from the White House, which he acknowledged in the article was a time of severe physical and emotional stress.

"In the weeks after that," Nixon said, "if it hadn't been for her, I might not have survived."

Just having her around, the former president added, "is my best medicine today." The best decision I ever made was choosing Pat to be my wife, my partner in life.

VIET AID URGED

MONTREAL, N.C. (UPI)—Evangelist Billy Graham has urged "urgent negotiations" to set up a program to assure the safety of South Vietnamese who aided the United States.

Graham issued a statement from his home Sunday that said Americans have a responsibility to provide humanitarian aid to Indochina.

"We Americans are heartsick of war but we cannot close our eyes to this tragedy in Vietnam that we were involved in so long," said Graham.

The evangelist urged persons to send donations to "private, reliable, voluntary organizations" that would channel food and medical supplies to Vietnam. His own organization here is accepting gifts for that purpose and he guaranteed "100 per cent" of contributions would go directly to help the refugees and other needy persons in South Vietnam.

She Wants a Nose Job To Put the Bump Back

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1975 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 23-year-old unmarried woman. My father is Jewish, and my mother is Irish. I have always looked more like my father because I have the same little bump on my nose that he has. I never minded the bump because I love my father very much, and I never did get along with my mother.

Well, I got into an automobile accident, and they called in a plastic surgeon to sew up my face. Since my nose was in pretty bad shape, this doctor took the bump off, and I now look like my mother instead of my father.

Even though people remark on what an improvement it is, I became very depressed. I even went to a psychiatrist, and he said I should have the plastic surgeon restore my nose the way it was. That's what I want to do.

My problem is everybody I talk to. They tell me I should have my head examined. What do you say?

LOVES DADDY

DEAR LOVES: You DID have your head examined and were advised to do what you want to do about your nose. So do it.

DEAR ABBY: Two years ago I weighed 400 pounds. My life was hardly worth living. In fact, I planned to commit suicide after reaching the age of 21. (I was going to take heroin.)

I am now 22 and weigh 200 pounds, and I haven't touched drugs of any kind—and that includes alcohol and cigarettes—for two years.

I owe it all to a wonderful doctor at the University Hospital in Iowa City, Iowa, who performed a gastric bypass on me. Now I can eat as much as I want (which isn't very much anymore) and never worry about putting on a pound.

I wish you would print this for others who have found that dieting didn't work for them.

ONE HAPPY FELLOW

DEAR HAPPY: You make it sound so simple. After considerable research, I learned that gastric-bypass surgery, which proved so successful for you, is not for everyone. There are risks involved. Those who are interested should discuss it with their physicians.

DEAR ABBY: As a police officer, may I say something to the man who objected to women wearing pants suits? Not one victim of the rape cases I have handled was wearing a tailored pants suit. One was wearing a slinky pajama sort of thing; the others were wearing either skirts or shorts.

A COP

DEAR ABBY: I have a question to ask that has been bothering both my husband and me for a long time.

We have two little girls. Our third daughter was stillborn. When people ask us how many children we have, what is the best answer?

WISCONSIN MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: The best answer is your own: "We have two little girls. Our third daughter was stillborn."

Schools Get the Blame For Boy's Waywardness

By MAX RAFFERTY

Q—"We are the most passive, permissive bunch of deadheads this modern world has ever known. We allow our children to ride the highways on motorcycles, bomb around in souped-up cars, drink beer along with having a joint or two—all because the schools tell us to be kind to our little hopheads and not needle the little darlings. I know what I'm talking about because I have one son who is crippling his God-given talents with booze and marijuana."

I have pleaded, yelled and begged police and teachers, along with the intelligent (so-called) headshrinkers, and all I get is a kindly smile and a gentle pat on the shoulder. I feel as if I am a mere ghost from the past speaking, but no one hears."

"I have written to the school board and talked to the town cops, but nothing seems to work. My son walked out on me when he turned 17. It is most fortunate that my oldest son took him in. I hurt from the heartache, but I am really thinking of other little boys and girls who will soon be toddling off to school. What about them? Will they begin as my baby did? Or will it be even more horrifying? Good God in heaven, where will it all end?"—W.N. Marcellus, N.Y.

A—"Well, it will all end as Sodom and Gomorrah did or as Rome in its decadence did—unless there is a 180-degree turn in the road ahead, and soon. But unless you've got a real doozy of a school system there, I doubt whether the teachers are responsible for your son's conduct. Oh, they may not have done very much to help him, but I doubt whether they introduced him into leaving home. There are some things in this life which the individual and only the individual has to answer for—at any age. He can't always blame his problems on the school or on his parents or on society in general. There's entirely too much of this kind of my-my alibi going on as it is."

Q—"The Tennessee teacher supporting the new dictionary has a perfect right to do so, but he makes a very weak case. A child must have very defective vision if he cannot see the accent at the end of the syllable without moving his eyes backward. As for the Spanish putting an inverted question mark at the beginning of a question, they do a lot of things like that—such as saying 'You are going to the bullfight, No?'"

"Anyone seeing the question mark in English as an afterthought must be a real beginner. There are so many ways of putting questions by the natural use of what, where, when, how or who. The new dictionary procedure looks like overkill to me. I'd rather see all that effort put into teaching reading not only from left to right but also from bottom to top—as from grade 1 to grade 12."—R.B.H. Jr., Lake City, Fla.

A—"And the battle of the accent marks in the new dictionaries goes on. And on. It's beginning to resemble Vietnam."

Q—"I was amazed at the tag line on your 'Little Red Hen' column: 'Goodnight, Mr.

Anonymous, whoever you are!"

"Is it possible that you don't know that the identical prose of 'The Little Red Hen' (Revisited) appeared in Nation's Business, July, 1970? It was written by Doug Smith, a British Columbia writer, and illustrated by Pierce Merchandising Ltd. of Windsor, Ontario."—A.H., Dallas, Texas

A—"It's not only possible; it's a fact. Thanks to you, A.H., I am now able to give credit where credit is due."

(Dr. Max Rafferty welcomes questions for use in his column once each week, but regrets he cannot answer all mail personally. Please send your questions to him in care of this paper.)

ENGLEWOOD CLIFFS, N.J. The reason given was that the rebate doesn't actually reduce the sales price used in figuring the tax.

NEW YORK (UPI)—The amount of life insurance sold by U.S. firms last year was double the figure of seven years earlier, according to the Institute of Life Insurance. Estimates by the institute put the 1974 figure at $290 billion, a rise of 23 per cent from the 1973 total.

WORK WEARY

NEW YORK (UPI)—A desire to change job, a fairly new phenomenon in Japan, is on the increase among workers there. A survey by economists of the Fuji Bank Ltd. shows that 4.4 per cent of all Japanese workers would like to change their jobs. Just two years ago the figure was three per cent.

HELICOPTERS UP

WASHINGTON (UPI)—U.S. producers of helicopters turned in a record export performance last year. The Aerospace Industries Association says the six firms which produce copters exported 420 of the craft valued at $124 million. In 1973 the figure was 413 helicopters valued at $85 million.

RETIRED PROSPECTS

NEW YORK (UPI)—With people looking for ways to save money in these recessionary times, the tire retread business expects its business to keep on the upbeat in the coming months. The Tire Retread Information Bureau says business is booming, with the largest dealership at Louisville, Ky., reporting a 26 per cent gain in sales in the final 1974 quarter and other outlets also expected to show increases.

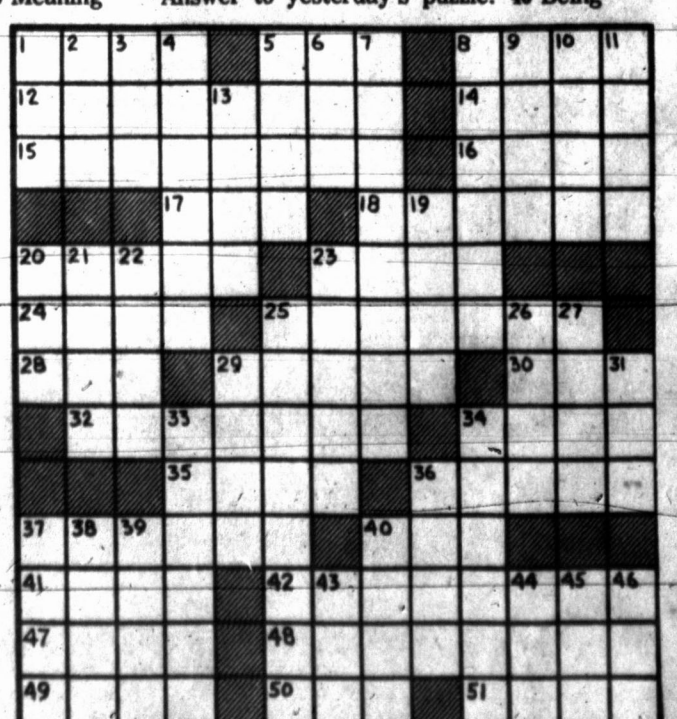

TRIB points out that a retread is half the price of a new tire, and largest users include airlines, trucking companies and government agencies.

Foreign Refugee Fate Unknown Two Highway Projects Planned for Gray County

ARANYAPRATHET, Thailand (UPI) — Doctors and diplomats waited in 100-degree heat at the Cambodian border today for foreign refugees trapped in Phnom Penh since the city's fall to the Khmer Rouge two weeks ago.

There was no indication when a convoy carrying the first of 610 foreigners out of Cambodia might reach the Thai frontier town of Aranyaprathet.

Red Cross doctors and French diplomats planned to take the refugees, many reported to be in "deplorable health," the 170 miles to Bangkok in air-conditioned buses.

French Ambassador, Jean-Louis Toffin returned to Bangkok Thursday night to communicate with his government after the initial group of refugees failed to show up at the border as expected.

The ambassador was expected to meet with Khmer Rouge officials along the frontier this afternoon in an attempt to determine what has happened to the refugees.

French officials in Bangkok said a convoy of at least 100 refugees was believed to have left Phnom Penh Wednesday on the 300-mile trip to the frontier.

The fate of the foreigners was unknown. But some reports said the vehicles in the convoy might have run out of fuel during the trip.

Many of the refugees were believed to be sick after being confined for two weeks at the crowded French Embassy in Phnom Penh amid poor sanitary conditions.

The foreigners, who include 515 Frenchmen and 95 citizens of other countries, took refuge in the embassy when the Communist-led Khmer Rouge seized Phnom Penh April 17. At least six were Americans.

A Swedish official of the Red Cross offered the Khmer Rouge gasoline supplies after unconfirmed reports that the road convoy had run out of fuel and was stranded inside Cambodia. The offer was turned down.

France criticized the new regime in Phnom Penh for their handling of the refugee evacuation. But the Khmer Rouge accused France of packing the embassy in Phnom Penh with hundreds of war criminals.

Two Gray County road projects were among seven in the Texas Panhandle approved for construction by the Texas Highway Commission as part of 1975 Statewide Highway Safety Improvement Program.

Estimated cost for the seven projects is $593,000. Cost for Gray County construction will be $98,300.

Both Gray County projects are on U.S. 66. An asphalt seal coat will be placed on 5.6 miles of U.S. 66 between Jericho and Alanreed. The seal coat will improve the skid resistance of the existing pavement on this section of U.S. 66.

Two of the seven projects will provide safer travel between Canyon and Hereford along U.S. 60 where protective guardrails will be installed in front of roadside hazards such as trees, culverts, headwalls, etc.

Another project involves the improvement of the traffic flow to reduce accidents at the intersection of State Highway 136 and Opal Street on the west edge of Borger. Proposed improvements include channelizing the intersection and adding a continuous left turn lane. This will cost about $19,000.

Additional Borger construction involves State Highway 136, 152 and 207 from the north traffic circle to South Main Street. The raised medians on this four-lane divided facility will be removed.

The roadway will be widened to provide a 12-foot continuous left turn lane. The highway will then be resurfaced and restriped before it is completely reopened to traffic. The cost of this project is estimated at $289,000.

Officials said another project will include the addition of lane assignment signals on U.S. 60 at the junction of Taylor and Pierce Streets in Amarillo.

The safety improvements to this south dispersal street connection, which daily carries more than 40,000 vehicles will cost about $50,000.

Thirty-six projects were submitted by the Amarillo district of the Highway Department, said A.L. McKee, district engineer. The entire program includes 249 projects statewide with an estimated cost of $15 million.

As funds become available they will be used on the designated safety improvement projects on all types of highways except Interstate.

She is survived by the widower, Richard; a son, Bob, Houston; one daughter, Barbara Windom, Dallas; her mother, Mrs. Mabel Smith, Midland; and one grandson.

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Legislators who believed Treasurer Jesse James was caught in a conflict of interest because he served on both the Banking Board and the Depository Board tossed him off the Depository Board Thursday replacing him with Comptroller Bob Bullock.

The banking commissioner also serves on both boards, but no action was taken to remove him from either position.

The House also voted tentatively to increase the size of the Depository Board from three to five members, but killed a similar proposal to increase the size of the Banking Board.

The Depository Board in general and James in particular were being criticized because so much of the state's money has been deposited in bank accounts bearing no interest. The Depository Board decides where the state deposits its money.

The move to replace James with Bullock on the board came in the form of an amendment by Rep. John Wilson, D-La Grange, to the proposal to increase the size of the board.

"The treasurer has no business serving on the Depository Board," Wilson said. "It's an absolute conflict of interest to have the treasurer serving on both boards."

The Depository Board is composed of the treasurer, the banking commissioner and one other person appointed by the governor. Rep. Frank Hartung, R-Houston, the sponsor of the legislation to increase the size of the board, said the two extra members should also be appointed by the governor and their membership on the board should help the state enjoy a better rate of return on its deposits.

"More citizen input is needed to improve that rate of return," Records indicate $384 million in state funds is deposited in accounts drawing no interest. Hartung said the rate of return on the state's deposits "is one of the lowest in the nation in interest revenue as a percentage of total state revenue."

After agreeing to enlarge the Depository Board, the House killed legislation increasing the membership on the Banking Board. The sponsor of the legislation, Rep. Donald Henderson, R-Houston, said the three-person board is not large enough to make major economic decisions.

The Banking Board, whose principle function is granting bank charters, is composed of the banking commissioner, the treasurer and a person appointed by the governor.

Ford-Sadat-Rabin Talks Reported Set for June

By United Press International
President Ford will meet Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin separately next month to discuss a Middle East peace settlement, reports from Cairo and Tel Aviv said today.

Egyptian diplomatic sources said the Ford-Sadat meeting would take place early in June in Salzburg, Austria. Ford will be in Europe at the time to attend a NATO meeting in Brussels.

The Israeli national radio said Ford and Rabin would meet in Washington as a follow-up to the Ford-Sadat talks. Official Israeli government sources said they had no information on a Ford-Rabin meeting.

In Tel Aviv, Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin said Thursday, "Israel is not ready to make any new concessions in order to get talks with Egypt started again."

Ranch Heritage Center To Begin Tours Sunday

LUBBOCK — Texas Tech's Ranching Heritage Center, formerly the Ranch Headquarters, will be open for visitors beginning Sunday. Visiting hours are from 2 to 4:30 p.m., and guides will be at the site to help interpret ranching history.

The Sunday visiting hours will be in effect through October. For the first time this year, individuals will be taken on guided tours. A new program will serve weekend visitors. There will be two tours a day, each for 20 persons, served on a first-come, first-served basis. The first tour will start at 10 a.m. and the second at 1:30 p.m.

Organizations may make special arrangements for tours. More than 15,000 persons toured the Ranching Heritage Center last year. The center authentically depicts the history of ranching in America's West, through the restoration and furnishing of notable ranch structures which have been moved to the site at The Museum of Texas Tech University, 4th Street and Indiana Avenue, Lubbock.

Golf-ball Sized Hail, Storm Hit Panhandle

By United Press International
Thunderstorms pounded west Texas with golf-ball sized hail today and some severe thunderstorms also soaked parts of south Texas.

But the National Weather Service said fair skies with drier air should produce pleasant afternoon weather for most of the state by the weekend.

The heaviest thunderstorm activity was reported in west Texas and the Panhandle.

The NWS said golf-ball sized hail fell at the Lubbock Airport. Hail was also reported near Tilden in south Texas.

The storm near Tilden had rainfall rates of more than two inches an hour.

Thunderstorms also dropped rain across north central Texas and in parts of the Rio Grande Valley.

The NWS said the thunderstorm activity was caused by most unstable air combined with a stationary front across east and south central Texas.

The forecast called for more thunderstorms across the southern one-third of the state but for fair skies and drier air across west and north Texas.

High temperatures Thursday were mostly in the 70s and 80s with a reading of 88 at Brownsville and McAllen.

injuries attributed to tornadoes, according to the National Weather Service.

The Texas total of 116 tornadoes in 1974 was the lowest annual total since 1966 when only 77 such storms were recorded.

The NWS said besides the injuries attributed to tornadoes another 21 persons were injured by high winds.

Mobile home injuries in storms accounted for 81 per cent of windstorm injuries and 38 per cent of tornado injuries, the NWS said.

Texas weather in 1974 was the least violent for almost a decade with one death and 61

Planning Slated For Area Airport

Airport development needs of Gray, Hemphill, Roberts and Wheeler Counties will be discussed during a Texas Airport

System joint planning conference Friday May 9 in Pampa.

The meeting will begin at 10 a.m. in the Commission Meeting Room of the Pampa City Hall. Participating in the meeting will be representatives of the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission, city and county elected officials, airport board members, airport managers and other citizens.

All area citizens with an interest in air transportation and airport development are invited to attend.

The Texas-Airport System Plan is being developed for Texas and the federal Aviation Administration by the Texas Aeronautics Commission. Technical assistance is provided by the Transportation Institute of Texas A&M University.

Major activities of the plan include inventory of existing aviation facilities, forecasting of aviation demand, comparison of present capacity with forecast needs, evaluation of alternative airport systems, developing schedules of required improvements and identification of alternatives for financing system growth.

Ford Renews Aid Plea

"Give me your tired, your poor,
Your huddled masses yearning to breathe free,
The wretched refuse of your teeming shore.
Send these, the homeless,
tempest-tossed, to me;
I lift my lamp beside the golden door."
—Emma Lazarus

By NICHOLAS DANILOFF
WASHINGTON (UPI) —
President Ford has called on Congress to quickly draft new legislation to pay for the Vietnam evacuation and assist in resettling refugees.

He made the appeal after the House Thursday killed a $327 million humanitarian aid bill by a vote of 246-162. The President deplored that vote.

He said in a statement: "It is not worthy of a people which has lived by the philosophy symbolized in the Statue of Liberty. It reflects fear and misunderstanding, rather than charity and compassion."
During the spirited, hourlong debate in the House, Rep. John Buchanan, R-Ala., appealed to his colleagues to demonstrate that compassion. He ended his remarks by reciting the lines from the poem by Emma Lazarus which are inscribed at the base of the famous statue.

Congressional sources said Rep. Thomas E. Morgan, chairman of the House International Relations Committee, now favors writing a completely new Vietnam aid bill.

The sources said Morgan, a manager of the rejected measure, hopes to hold hearings towards the end of next week to elicit more information on evacuation costs and resettlement problems from the Ford administration.

The administration, the sources added, has informed the House International Relations Committee and the Senate
Foreign Relations Committee that more than 64,000 South Vietnamese are to be resettled in the United States.

Possibly 10,000 to 20,000 more may make their way here independently, according to a State Department estimate.

President Ford informed House Speaker Carl Albert that the administration believes it will need at least $400 million to pay for the initial costs of evacuating and caring for the refugees.

The House apparently killed the $327 million aid bill, which had been passed 46-17 by the Senate last Friday, in part because it would have allowed humanitarian funds to go to war victims under Communist control in South Vietnam.

Gray County Senior Citizens To Be Celebrated on May 25

By TEX DEWEESE

A county-wide celebration honoring all Gray County senior citizens has been set for 2:30 p.m. Sunday, May 25, in the Heritage Room of the M.K. Brown
Civic Center Auditorium.

Mrs. Wanda Talley, director of Pampa senior citizen activities announced today.

The month of May has been designated by Gov. Dolph Briscoe as Older Texans Month.

In an official memorandum issued by the governor, he stated:

"May is traditionally Senior Citizens Month, a time for honoring those who have built our State and Nation upon the foundation of our heritage.

"The year 1975 ushers in the celebration of the Bicentennial of the American Revolution, an appropriate time for commending those stewards of our national heritage, the elder citizens of our State and Nation who have preserved this legacy for their children."

The governor's memorandum goes on to say:

"Therefore, I designate the month of May, 1975, as Older Texans Month and urge all citizens of Texas to honor their fellow citizens who have contributed so much to the preservation of the American heritage, and to provide opportunities for older Texans to draw upon the vast reservoir of their talent and experience to make the unique and valuable contributions which only they can give to the Bicentennial effort in Texas."

Mrs. Talley said at the Gray County observance special recognition will be given to Gray County's outstanding man and woman senior citizens "for their continuous contributions, interests, and unselfish services to the community."

The senior citizens director said all organizations — social, business, service — and all churches are invited to nominate a man and or woman for the honor, with a short resume in support of the nominations.

Pampa and Gray County have an estimated total senior citizens population (65 and over) of 2,900

men and women. Most of them reside in Pampa.

The nominations to should be mailed before May 20 to Pampa Senior Citizens Inc., P.O. Box
475, Pampa.

Further information, Mrs.
Talley said, may be obtained by calling 669-7414.

"During May," she added, "I think it would be nice for us to think about some of the senior citizens who have had an impact on our lives and take some time out to show appreciation for the contributions they have made."

Flood Insurance Finds No Takers in Pampa

An appeal issued Thursday in an effort to find out how many Pampa property owners are in the market for flood insurance had produced no takers at a late hour this forenoon, according to City Manager Mack Wofford.

The city manager said he had received only one telephone call from a property owner who was opposed to Pampa's participation in the federal insurance program.

He said the call was from a former resident of an Oklahoma town where the flood insurance was made available and the telephone caller said the town is being forced into public expenditures because of improvements required to be in compliance with the program.

The Federal Insurance
Administration has notified
Pampa there are four flood-prone areas in the city and if federal flood insurance is not made available, the feds will cut off FHA and VA loans in the affected areas.

Since there is no record of major flood damage in Pampa, city officials have been hesitant about applying for the insurance because of currently unknown future obligations the city possibly would incur regarding improvements in the areas.

That's why commissioners want to know how many Pampans want to buy the federal flood insurance.

Interested persons were asked yesterday by City Manager Mack Wofford to call his office and indicate their wishes in the matter. The telephone number is 665-8481.

Wofford said demand for the flood insurance probably will govern what action city commissioners take when the matter comes up for action at their regular meeting Tuesday,
May 13.

Three Post Bonds After Drug Charges

Three young men were charged early today here with possession of marijuana and each posted a $1,500 bond set by Justice of Peace E.L. Anderson.

The three, Stephen Ray
Timmons, 19, of Lefors; Chris
Kevin Clotier, 18, of Sayre, Okla.; and Michael Eugene
Robbins, 21, of Goodwell, Okla., were arrested about 7:30 p.m.
Thursday after two members of the Pampa Police Department, noticed that they were "acting suspiciously."

They were parked near Sissy's Lounge, 758 W. Brown, when the alleged offense occurred.

Police officers reported that as they approached the vehicle they saw one of the three "put something under the front seat."
Officers searched the inside where they reportedly found five plastic bags of the suspected drugs under the front seat and one under the back seat.

The officers' report also mentions that a pipe was found on the arm rest. Officers said a inventory revealed a total of eight bags were in the car.

Cowgirl Found Dead

ELGIN, Okla. (UPI) — Rodeo cowgirl Gayle Ann Brannon, 29, killed herself at the home of a rodeo calf roping champion, the Comanche County medical examiner ruled Wednesday.

Miss Brannon shot herself
once in the roof of the mouth and was found lying across the foot of a bed in the home of Junior Garrison, deputy Bill
Banks said.

Miss Brannon, of Brenham, Tex., was seventh in barrel racing with $1,800 in winnings this year. She was among the top 15 barrel racers last year and competed in 65 rodeos. A

Beaumont, Tex., native, she graduated from Luma College in history and geography.

Garrison was third in calf roping with $8,100 won this year. He won the calf roping world championship in 1966 and 1970.

Both were entered in the Santa Rosa Roundup in Vernon, Tex., beginning Wednesday night. Banks said Garrison would not compete.

He said Garrison called a Fletcher ambulance service to his home 15 miles northeast of Lawton late Tuesday. The ambulance service notified the sheriff's office.

Home Valuables Gone

Theft of a metal box containing several legal papers, a ruby ring, a man's wedding ring and other valuables has been reported to the Pampa Police Department
from the E.F. Collins home, 325
N. Dwight.

Mrs. Collins told police the apparent theft occurred sometime between April 24 and May 1. The report also shows missing canned goods from the home.

Records show that the family's savings passbooks are included in the missing papers.

"Mrs. Collins said she last noticed the box on April 24.

Police said there were no
"signs of a forced entry" into the home, but Mrs. Collins said she had left the house unlocked on two occasions.

Farm License Plates--- For Farm, Family Only

By ANNA BURCHELL

A total of 940 farm license plates for 1975 have been sold in Gray County — at half price which the law allows — and there are only 175 plates remaining to be sold in the tax assessor collector's office.

But those who purchase the plates must sign an affidavit stating the vehicle will be used on the owner's farm or ranch, or as the means of transportation, without charge, only by members of the family to attend church or school, to visit doctors for medical treatment or supplies and for other necessities of the home and family.

War MIA Families Still Wondering

TULSA UPI — The fighting in Vietnam may have ended with the surrender of Saigon, but the war is not a closed issue, the wife of a pilot missing in action for nearly seven years told President Ford by telegram Wednesday.

"During all the newscasts yesterday, in Secretary Kissinger's news conference and the President's statement, none of them mentioned the MIAs in listing the losses in Vietnam," Mrs. Barbara Fiesel said. "That was one of the reasons we sent the telegram, to bring this to their attention."

"It seems everyone is

The law specifically requires that the vehicle "will not be used in connection with other gainful employment."

Sgt. David E. Womack of the Texas Highway Patrol Pampa Office said officers are making a concerted effort to see that no one drives a farm-registered vehicle to another place of employment.

There are some abuses of this law, Sgt. Womack said.

Jack Back, Gray County tax assessor collector, said that a total of 23,709 vehicles are registered here for 1975 including those licensed for farm use. "We are about 1,000 ahead of last year," he added.

Those who have been in law enforcement a number of years remember when one was in violation of the law if he drove a farm-registered vehicle to the doctor's office, school or church.

Capt. J.W. Blackwell said he was a patrolman when it was illegal to drive such a vehicle to church.

"But we never went to church and waited for the farmers to come out so we could arrest them," he said.

Capt. Blackwell, now in the Amarillo office, said he doesn't feel that the abuse of farm-license vehicles is a major problem today, but adds that he is sure that some violations do occur.

It is interesting to note that the number of farm-vehicles registered here this year are almost twice the number registered in Potter County in 1974.

The 1974 figures in the Potter County tax assessor collector's office revealed a total of 474 were registered while in Randall County 1,092 farm trucks were licensed.

Penalty for violation of the law reads in part that if the owner of such vehicle shall use it for any purpose other than those provided, "he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be fined not less than $25 nor more than $200."

When the office runs out of tags, it must reorder from Austin.

TAGS FOR FARMS — Margie Gray, deputy tax collector displays the tags which are reserved for farm vehicle use only. Laws provide penalties for those abusing the vehicle rules. (Staff photo)

$1 Million Suit Filed Against Richfield

DALLAS (UPI) — Six children of a woman killed by poisonous gas escaping from a West Texas oil well have filed a $1 million damage suit against Atlantic Richfield Oil Co.

The children said Mrs. J.R. Patton died Feb. 2, in "a tremendous amount of pain" and horror because she saw her husband, two daughters, a granddaughter, two sons-in-law and a young friend were dying.

The suit said the victims made frantic calls, but could not be helped because the Atlantic Richfield employee contacted had not been provided with the necessary respiratory equipment. The surviving children said, the toxic hydrogen sulphide gas escaped through negligence of Atlantic Richfield, who operated the oil well.

The children are Freddy Jacob Johnson, Latricia Ann Gattewood, Gracie Nell Rushing, Carla June Barber.

Michael Wayne Faulkner and Ricky Lynn Faulkner.

They asked U.S. District Judge Sarah T. Hughes to award them each $60,000 in damages, plus $750,000 in exemplary damages.

The mother and her husband were visiting the home of a daughter when the incident occurred.

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

SATURDAY, MAY 3

Your birthday today: Opens a normal year in which all opportunity depends on your reaction, your effort to make the most and the best of everything. It's a time to skip superficial decorative touches, concentrate on serious long-range programs, and learn to do what is needed. Relationships improve as you go along. Today's natives are prudent managers of delicately balanced situations, able to see both sides of questions.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Your artistic pursuits aside, progress is doubtful unless you really push hard in matters you can handle alone. Romance thrives at any age—in unlikely circumstances.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Having fun is one of the main themes of the day—try to appreciate a practical joke. You're able to get past a long-standing obstacle now by persistence, continued effort.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Ask no favors, but be willing to grant a small one. Put off any serious work or business you can until next week. Emotionally charged social activity happens spontaneously.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Your chief interests are rather difficult to serve today. You'll do better by attending to public relations, building general goodwill without expecting special endorsement.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Give in to a pleasure-seeking mood, make the weekend your personal holiday. Travel isn't essential; your attitude is what counts. Social activity has its offbeat moments.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Let well enough alone long enough to make the best use of the situation as it stands; you can thereby save much future work and delay. Relax with good music.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Put material affairs to one side. Be a little extravagant; buy a gift for yourself or brighten up your home with something nice and new. An old friend returns if you ask.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Everybody else drifts through the weekend, so you are somewhat out of step as you insist on getting things done. Family discussions are

Sissy Says Reform Dies In Government

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Frances "Sissy" Farenthold says the reform movement in Texas state government is dying.

Mrs. Farenthold, former legislator and candidate for governor, said changes in legislative procedures instigated by Speaker Bill Clayton impede consideration and passage of legislation.

"I don't know anything that indicates we are back in the area of depression and appraisal like back in 1971, but we do not have an open legislature," she told a group of students on the University of Texas campus.

Mrs. Farenthold said Clayton's moves this year to increase the number of House committees "makes more people obligated directly by committee memberships to the speaker."

"Clayton's not only increased the number of committees and decreased memberships but ruled that a bill can only be gotten out of committee by a majority of the entire committee," rather than a majority of the members who attend a hearing on a bill, she complained.

Mrs. Farenthold said the utilities regulation bill under consideration by the legislature is worse than no bill and that handling of the public school finance reform is a mess.

The proposed new constitution legislators agreed to submit to voters in November is "a streamlined, specified special interest constitution," she said.

Mrs. Farenthold said a highly placed state official has told her he doubts the legislature will even produce an appropriations bill before the session ends June 2.

"All that keeps our system glued together is a handful of federal judges," she said.

serious and can be successful.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Half-fun, half-business is the normal order of the day; no point in forcing issues or overdoing anything. Find or give a party for well-selected guests tonight.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Concentrate on social connections and use your persuasive talents to increase your prospects. Sentiment enters into all important talks. This evening, live it up a bit!

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: There's little to slow your pace. Make the rounds seeking fresh contacts and improvements in existing arrangements. Take emotions into account; let others know you care.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: You do your best work privately today. Keep busy even though few chores have any immediate urgency. Your home can be made a more convenient place with almost no effort.

He Watches His Land Slip Away

HIGHLANDS, Tex. (UPI) — To John R. McDaniel the gently flowing river, wending its way to the salty Gulf of Mexico, gives life a new breath and takes the edge off busy workdays.

It is also removing ever wider edges from McDaniel's property, which he says he could save if the government would only let him.

"To me it's a pleasure living around the river. Most people drive hundreds of miles on a weekend to see a place like this and I live here all week."

"You can look out there in the evening and watch the mullet jump and the gar roll over. In the morning the water is clear enough to see fish swimming along the edge. It's times like that I'm at peace with the world."

McDaniel, an electrical contractor, has lived on the San Jacinto River, a few miles from the busy Houston Ship Channel, most of his 44 years.

But now the river he loves is eating away his homestead and he says the U.S. Corps of Engineers forbids him to protect it.

The corps has asked the U.S. attorney to take legal action against McDaniel because he tried to build a steel bulkhead to keep the rest of his tree-shaded backyard from crumbling into the river. He has 142 tons of sheet steel valued at $15,000 sinking into the muddy river in what was his property.

"I originally had about an acre and now I probably have less than two-thirds or a half acre. My deed says my land goes out 282 feet. Now it goes about 135 feet to the water's edge."

"It's only a matter of 35 or 40 feet to the water's edge now and you can see how fast the land is going. Every day I see more and more of my land slip away while they do whatever they are doing."

McDaniel said sand dredging in the river undermined the banks. While he and other homeowners must have special permits to establish bulkheads, the corps is allowing two commercial dredgers to work without the same permits. The corps has requested no legal action against them.

"A boundary is a boundary. The state's boundary keeps encroaching on our property. They are taking thousands of acres for nothing."

The corps is spending millions of tax dollars around the country to protect property, but now they are spending thousands of dollars trying to keep me from protecting my home at my own cost.

Vets. Plan Mission To Fight in Vietnam

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A group of Vietnam veterans that last week announced plans to return to Indochina to fight against the communists called off its mission Wednesday, only to be replaced by a similar group.

A spokesman for the new group, called Veterans for Victory Over Communism, said his task force is ready to go behind communist lines to seek and rescue Americans missing in action.

Dean Allen of Texas City, Tex., the VVOC spokesman, said:

"Our plan of operation is to secure an aircraft and go back into Vietnam to secure the release of American prisoners of war, to find out information about POW-MIAs and to demonstrate to the American people that we the men that fought over there and the American people care about our own people."

Allen, 24, a former military police sergeant with two tours in Vietnam, was accompanied by about 30 veterans, mostly wearing combat gear or jungle fatigues and coming from more than a dozen states.

The Virgin Islands Topic For Century Culture Club

The Twentieth Century Culture Club met recently in the home of Mrs. Ross Buzzard with Mrs. Myron Marx co-hosting.

The club donates a book each year to the Lovett Memorial Library. This year it will be "The History of the Thirteen Colonies," in keeping with the Bicentennial emphasis.

Mrs. E.E. Shelhamer presented the program, "The Virgin Islands." She stated the group of islands lies forty miles east of Puerto Rico with the three largest being St. Croix, St.

Thomas and St. John, all owned by the United States and have a total of 133 Square miles.

The Island of St. Croix was the first one to be sighted by Christopher Columbus in 1493, during his second voyage. He named the islands from the legend of St. Ursula and her 11,000 virgins, the speaker stated.

The early Spaniards never tried to settle the island but they returned on raids to capture Indians for work in the gold mines of Hispaniola. There are two groups of island here: the American and the British. The United States purchased their part in 1917, from the Danes, for $25,000,000. The British group contains more than forty smaller islands, she continued.

Mrs. Shelhamer spoke of the diverse heritages and traditions found on the islands resulting from the many nationalities. These are easily seen in the architecture, with the 17th and 18th century Danish most dominant. More than 60 per cent of the inhabitants are colored, the majority being descendants of African slaves who were imported in 1648.

The St. Thomas Harbor

reminds many of Hong Kong. Vessels of all nations come here annually and people of all nationalities visit. At the height of the tourist season you will see four or five major cruise ships in the harbor. The Danes settled St. Thomas in the 17th century. The island was divided into 125 acres plantations, worked by slaves, and it became the biggest slave market in the world. Over half the buildings on St. Thomas are more than a century old, with several dating back to the 17th century, she stated.

St. Croix is the largest of the Virgin Islands. Mrs. Shelhamer stated. Here are ruins of great plantation houses, which recall the days when it rivalled Barbados as the greatest sugar producer of the West Indies. It is 40 miles south of St. Thomas and its capital city, Christiansted, is described as the loveliest in the West Indies, a completely restored 18th century Caribbean port with its ancient building still in use. Since the phasing out of the sugar cane industry in 1966 the islands have enticed industry here with their low taxes.

The Island of St. John, stated Mrs. Shelhamer, is three miles east of St. Thomas and is "An unspoiled tropical paradise." It is one of two places in the world where the common cold does not exist. In 1950, three-fourths of the island became "The Virgin Island National Park," the 29th American area to receive national protection. Its history is much the same as the other two islands. With the abolition of slavery a death blow to the sugar economy was dealt; the planters left, and the tropical jungle took over. The Virgin Islands is a place of beautiful beaches, excellent climate where the growing season never ends, and flowers of all kinds. Mrs. Shelhamer concluded.

The next meeting of the club will be the annual salad luncheon.

Members present besides those mentioned were Mmes. Doyle Osborn, James A. Poole, Lorena Rainsback, Paul Turner, L.J. Zachry, B.R. Nunn, Rufe Jordan, E.W. Hogan, J.R. Donaldson, J.L. Chase, Milo Carlson, Fred Brook, A.E. Berry, and Honorary member, Mrs. V.L. Hobbs.

For ease in serving crumb crust, dip pie pan in warm water before cutting and serving.

Book Sale Slated For Saturday

Hundreds of second-hand books at next-to-nothing prices will change owners Saturday when the doors open at 9 a.m. on the Friends of the Pampa Library's second annual book sale in Lovett Library auditorium.

Patrons will have a wide range of choice in both hard-cover and paperbacks: novels, children's books, reference works and non-fiction of all kinds.

Most books will go for five to 50 cents, and no single volume will be priced over one dollar unless it is a collector's item.

Proceeds from the sale will be used to provide the library with tape recorder, players and audio equipment.

Patrons of the sale are asked to enter by the north door on Kingsmill street between the hours of 9 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Pampans Attend Austin Event

Three generations of Pampa residents attended the 60th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Ragsdale in Austin last weekend.

They include Mr. and Mrs. Bill Ragsdale of 1709 Coffee, son and daughter - in-law of the honorees; and Mr. and Mrs. William Ragsdale and sons of Route 3, grandson and great grandchildren of the Austin couple.

WARRANTY

When consumers return warranty cards to manufacturers for products bought, this activates the warranty and enables the manufacturer to notify the buyer if the product turns out to be hazardous or defective. Also, buyers of used appliances or ones traded with friends family should be sure to notify manufacturer of the new owner's name, advises Lynn Bourland, family resource management specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Today's deal features a deceptive play by a defender who, as soon as dummy came into view, had formulated his plan of defense. In recent years, the type of play he came up with has become accepted in expert circles as a standard book play. The deal came up in a high-stake rubber-bridge game about two decades ago.

Both sides vulnerable. East deals.

Opening lead: Two of ♦.

East put up the diamond king on the opening lead, and South won the trick with his ace. The deuce of trumps was then led to the board's queen — and East followed suit with the five-spot.

The four of trumps was then returned. East covered with the nine. South put up ten, and West's jack won the trick. East subsequently cashed his three aces, and declarer was down one.

Had East taken dummy's queen of trumps at trick two, declarer would have fulfilled his contract, for in this case, being unable to reach dummy, he would have had no choice but to play his trump king later, catching West's jack.

East was fully aware of this position, for he perceived that dummy had no entries. By allowing the board's queen of spades to win, East accomplished two things: (1) he led declarer to believe that West possessed the trump ace, and (2) he enabled declarer to reach dummy to finesse against East for the trump jack, if that card happened to be missing from declarer's hand.

Even if West happened to have the trump king (a virtual impossibility), East's play would have cost nothing; or, if declarer happened to possess the king and jack of trumps, then East's play would also lose nothing by deferring the taking of his trump ace. But if declarer happened to be missing the jack of trumps, then perhaps he could be inveigled into finessing against East for that card.

I'm glad that I wasn't sitting in the South seat on this deal, for I hate to be tricked out of fulfilling a nice game contract, especially when my partner has made a real real fine bid in raising my two-spade bid to three spades.

Specialization ComestoChurch

NEW YORK — "The era of the family-oriented Sunday school church, like the era of the mass circulation, general purpose, family-oriented magazine, has come to an end."

Despite that declaration, one of Protestantism's leading experts on church organization and reorganization takes an optimistic view of the future of religion in this country.

"There are many signs that suggest a new religious revival is beginning to occur on the North American continent," says Lyle E. Schaller, as a result of visits to some 3,000 congregations in 40 states and three nations during the last 15 years.

He finds many signs, too, suggesting that the religious activism of the 1960s has been replaced by a new pietism in the 1970s. And he detects indications that young adults and youth have a different set of expectations of the church than their counterparts expressed a decade earlier.

Schaller has dissected many of the churches he has visited and recommends ways in which congregations can move in, "Hey, That's Our Church!" which has been issued by Abingdon Press, the publishing house of The United Methodist Church.

Drawing on his visits to churches, ranging from lunchtime conferences to several days of in-depth analyses, Schaller has concluded that what he regards as the "Saturday Evening Post" church is moribund. That is the big family church, which, like the general purpose magazine, is being re-cast in addition to their traditional ministry. Preventive health care for the elderly, educational programs for teen-agers and support of community organizations are some of the specialties.

In congregations where the old-fashioned adult Sunday school class is going the way of the inkblotter and the crank-operated telephone, a fresh look is being taken at educational efforts.

Alternatives are being adopted, including evening study groups, early morning men's Bible breakfasts, weekend retreats and travel seminars.

Classes in Bible study are becoming cohesive groups that meet for social events and engage in their own outreach projects financed by their own treasuries. Their members enjoy being together.

Throughout the reviving and revitalized churches there is increased emphasis on lay participation in congregational planning and administration and in Scripture readings at Sunday service, with the pastor being one of the leaders, not the only one.

New people are accepted and assimilated, schedules and customs are adapted to accommodate people rather than to change them, and women are accorded full equality.

Ministers emphasize marriage enrichment workshops rather than sermons on marriage.

It is clear to Schaller that a new type of church is emerging.

"Unlike some other churches today," he said, "the contemporary church does not feel threatened by the Holy Spirit."

Rather, he adds, it "teaches, preaches and practices an orthodox doctrine of the Trinity. ... It is a church that is living and serving in the midst of contemporary reality, a place where many people like to visit, but few want to live."

Just as some of the most successful periodicals today are devoted largely to one subject, so some of the most promising new congregations emphasize specific programs. These include services to the elderly, instruction for the handicapped, Head Start programs, nursery schools and a variety of programs that are aimed at specific populations.

Schaller said some churches had compounded their problems by falling into the trap of buck-passing — "scapegoating." Whatever goes wrong, he notes, those involved ask "who?" instead of "why?"

"This book was completed," he said, "at a time when the tendency toward scapegoating may have reached a peak. Examples include the increased publicity about demonology, the renewed interest in exorcism, the speculation by a former Army general that 'some sinister force' has caused an 18-minute erasure in a presidential tape, the reaction to high food prices, the response to the energy crisis, a vice presidential statement which placed the blame for the Watergate fiasco on 'an arrogant, elite guard of political adolescents,' and a new wave of anti-Semitism."

It is Schaller's conviction that the fastest growing congregations in American Protestantism have two common characteristics: "A clear self-image or identity" and "a series of contemporary goals which also provide opportunities for the assimilation of new members."

Many churches have become revitalized by recognizing the need to take on a spe-

LONGING

To every child there comes a time when they begin to wonder ... Where did I come from? Who made the trees? Who made the mountains? EVERYONE has a desire to know their creator.

"O GOD, thou art my God; early will I seek thee: my soul thirsteth for thee..."

This longing for knowledge of God should be satisfied at an early age.

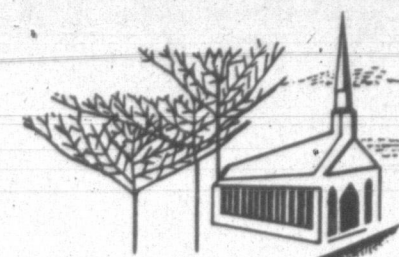

"Train up a child in the way he should go: and when he is old, he will not depart from it."

Plan NOW to attend church with your family.

©Coleman Adv. Ser.,

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

"For where your treasure is, there will your heart be also"

Churches Press War On Hunger

NEW YORK — There is enough food to feed every man, woman and child in the world, yet one out of four is going hungry.

What are you doing or planning to do about it?

That question has been asked across America by religious leaders of all faiths during a three-week campaign designed to increase awareness of the danger that 1975 will go down in history as the Year of the Great Famine.

Jim Shewmaker To Assist Church Meeting

Jim Shewmaker, former Pampa High student, will be assisting in a gospel meeting at the Mary Ellen and Harvester Church of Christ May 4 through 7.

Jim was born and attended schools in Pampa, attended college at Lubbock Christian College and Abilene Christian College.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Ott Shewmaker, he has worked with the Church of Christ in Throckmorton, Tx., and the Edgefield Church of Christ in Dallas, and is now with the Central Church of Christ in Miami, Fl., with John Jones, former minister of the Church of Christ in Pampa.

Jim and his wife Donna are looking forward to renewing acquaintances in Pampa while helping with the meeting and invites all his friends to see him that week.

COME ON, UMP! — Liberal, Kan., runner (3) is first called safe by umpire Gene Brown of Pampa. Brown, at first, was unaware of the force (no tag needed) at home as the bases were loaded. Seeing, it was a force, Brown called the Redskin out. Liberal coach disputed the call, saying Brown should not have changed the call.

Pampa catcher Carl Mumford watches the action. The Harvesters, playing strictly juniors and seniors, beat visiting Liberal in the first game Thursday, 10-5, and lost the second, 8-1. Pampa hosts Palo Duro as conference action resumes today.

Reunion Set For '48 Pampa Gridsters

By PAUL SIMS
Attention, Pampa High footballers of the 1948 season: Dr. Harbord Cox wants you.
Don't worry, it's got nothing to do with an illness you may have acquired while playing football in that particular year. Dr. Cox, a member of the 1948 Harvesters, is setting up a reunion for those players July 4 in his home.
The problem is Cox needs addresses as only a few have been contacted. "It'll be for anybody on the football team. I need somebody to give me some addresses," Cox said.
Pampa finished with a 7-2-1 record that year, and Amarillo won the district title and advanced to the state finals before losing to Waco.

Cox may be reached at Route 1, Box 216 - A in Pampa.
Seven seniors will play in their final home district game of the year at 4 p.m. today when Pampa hosts Amarillo Palo Duro in what is actually an important district contest.
The Harvesters have lost all eight district games district games and are 8-13 for the season. Palo Duro is 2-6 in district and 3-17 overall. If they win, the Harvesters will be just one game in the cellar with one district game left in the season.
"We'll try to play everybody," Pampa coach Ronnie White said.

"but we're gonna try to win first."
Seniors in their final home district game are Tylor Drinnon, Dennis Edmondson, Mike Fraser, Kory Gamblin, Robbie Harris, Roy Morris and Ron Willett.
Pampa hosted Liberal, Kan., in a doubleheader Thursday but none of those seniors played, giving Pampa's younger players more game experience. Still, you couldn't tell, unless you knew, that it was mostly sophomore playing for Ronnie White's Harvesters.
Pampa won the first game impressively, 10-5, as Joe Davis went the distance on the mound. The Redskins came back and downed Pampa, 8-1, in the second. Liberal used its regular starting lineup both games.

Pampa will host Altus, Okla., Monday, starting at 1 p.m. in a makeup doubleheader. Like in Thursday's twinbill, one game will count on Pampa's non-conference record, and the other will be listed as a junior varsity game.
Pampa hurdler Howie Lewis, who owns the third-fastest time in the state in the 330 intermediates, will run against Panhandle's Kerby Daniels, another of the state's top hurdlers, at 3:30 p.m. today in Harvester Stadium.
The two will run both the intermediates and 120 highs in a special feature of the seventh-grade track meet, which starts at 1:30 p.m.

Lewis owns season bests of 37.8 in the intermediates and 14.2 in the highs, while Daniels, who is consistently under 40 seconds in the 330's, owns a 14.1, fifth best in the state, in the highs.
Both will compete in the state track meet May 9-10 in Austin - Lewis in AAAA Division and Daniels in Class A.
The seventh-grade meet for Pampa youngsters today will be finals only.
The Missouri Valley Conference is generally known as strong in basketball, while most of the other sports seem to be underrated.
One of those is tennis. Every one of the nine Valley tennis teams has a winning record in dual meets this season. Those marks are West Texas State 22-7, North Texas State 19-7, New Mexico State 17-5, Southern Illinois 12-10, Wichita State 12-10, Tulsa 11-3, Bradley 10-3, Louisville 8-2 and Drake 7-4.
That's a combined won-lost record of 118-51!

Astros 6, Padres 3
SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Ken Forsch finally made it as a starter, and to prove he could do a good job, he went seven innings to lead the Houston Astros to a 6-3 win over the San Diego Padres Thursday.
The win gave the Astros a 3-1 record in their series against the Padres before heading north to visit San Francisco.
San Diego came out of a hitting slump Wednesday to take the third game 4-2.
Forsch, making his first start since 1973, went seven innings in posting his first win of the season after two losses.

White Deer High School, for the first time ever, will send players to the Class A state tennis tournament, set today Saturday in Austin.
The girls doubles team of Tina Rhoads and Debbie Cooper won the regional title two weeks ago in Lubbock, earning a state meet berth in the process.

Girls track and golf will also hold their respective state meets Friday and Saturday in Austin.

TINA RHOADS

Derby Field To 15

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — Jacinto Vasquez is sitting pretty.
That's because Vasquez is getting paid to sit atop a couple of pretty good 3-year-olds.
For instance, take Saturday's 101st Kentucky Derby. Vasquez is favored to do just that. Vasquez' mount, Foolish Pleasure, is a 9-5 early line favorite to get to the wire first in the $125,000 added classic. With 15 horses scheduled to start, that works out to a $262,100 purse with a $209,600 winners share.

If Foolish Pleasure should win, the standard 10 per cent jockey's fee comes to the rather pleasing figure of $20,960.
So Vasquez flew into Louisville Wednesday night to ride Foolish Pleasure in his final workout before Saturday's Derby. Earlier in the day, Vasquez was in New York to ride undefeated 3-year-old filly Ruffian to an easy seven-length victory in the Comely Allowance at Aqueduct.
"I'm restless away from my work," Vasquez said. Foolish Pleasure breezed a half-mile in 48 seconds on a muddy Churchill Downs track Thursday morning, but trainer Leroy Jolley at first wasn't sure what to make of the work.
"I don't know if that's good or bad over this racetrack," Jolley said. "I've worked two times and it's been muddy both times. He looked like he finished well. The jockey was happy."

Hank, Catfish Shine In Wins

UPI Sports Writer
For Henry Aaron, the last ghost is gone, and for Catfish Hunter, so too is the $3 million monkey on his back.
Aaron, who last year supplanted Babe Ruth as baseball's all-time home run king, surpassed The Babe's last great slugging record Thursday by driving in a pair of runs in the Milwaukee Brewers' 17-3 rout of the Detroit Tigers. That gave "Hammerin' Hank" a lifetime total of 2,211—two better than Ruth's previous all-time mark.
Hunter, meanwhile, the Yankees' $3 million dollar right-hander, atoned for his disappointing early start by hurling a five-hit, 5-0 shutout against New York's biggest rival in the American league East, the Baltimore Orioles. It was Hunter's second straight victory and more importantly, came against the Orioles' comeback ace, Jim Palmer.

"I feel I'm in the same 25-win groove as last year," said the AL Cy Young Award-winner Hunter, who gave the Yankees some anxious moments in his first few shaky starts this year.
The key to the game was the first inning. If you give Palmer the lead, he keeps throwing strikes at you.
After bailing himself out of a two-on and one-out situation in the first, Hunter was staked to a two-run homer by Thurman Munson in the fourth and a three-run double by Ron Blomberg in the sixth.
In other major league games Thursday, Houston beat San Diego, 6-3, the Chicago Cubs put away the New York Mets, 5-2, and St. Louis at Pittsburgh was postponed in the National League. In the American League, Texas shaded the Chicago White Sox, 2-1. Boston edged Cleveland, 7-6, and Kansas City outlasted California, 11-10.

Astros 6, Padres 3:
Bob Watson and Enos Cabell ripped three hits apiece in a 13-hit Houston attack that helped Ken Forsch, making his first start since 1973, to the victory over San Diego. Watson drove in two runs in the game, one on his fourth homer and second in as many days. Doug Rader also drove in two Houston runs.
Red Sox 7, Indians 6:
Bernie Carbo belted a three-run homer and Rico Petrocelli doubled home a pair of runs as Boston handed Cleveland's Jim Perry his fourth loss in five decisions. Jim Rice also homered for the Red Sox, who built up 6-2 lead after three innings for winner Bill Lee (2-3).

Dean Believes Silbert Was 'Deep Throat' Source

NATCHITOCHEs, La. (UPI) — Former presidential counsel John Dean Wednesday night said he believed Earl Silbert, nominated to be the U.S. Attorney in Washington, was "Deep Throat," the inside source who enabled newsmen to reveal the Watergate cover-up. Dean, following a short address at Northwestern Louisiana University, was asked who he thought Deep Throat was. He said he had dodged the question on some 30 to 40 campuses.

"Maybe the word won't get out and I'll tell you who I think he is," Dean said. "I think it's a man by the name of Earl Silbert. No, you probably don't know who Earl Silbert is. Earl Silbert is one of the original Watergate prosecutors. He is an assistant U.S. Attorney that tried the original Watergate case."

"He's recently been nominated to be U.S. Attorney in Washington, D.C. He's going to be very unhappy with me calling him Deep Throat, but until he stands up and says no and says it under oath, that's who is my candidate for Deep Throat."

Dean was later asked what led him to conclude Silbert was Deep Throat and when or if his assertion would be confirmed.

"If I'm wrong," Dean said, "I expect a lot of denials will be issued very soon. If I'm right there will probably be a lot of bobbing and weaving going on and I don't know which will be the case."

"Or there may be the standard tactic in Washington of just a flat-out denial and later it will seep out that I am right."

Senate Says Adoptions May Go Via Lawyers

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Senators voted unanimously today to allow lawyers to place children for adoption without complying with State Welfare Department regulations and safeguards intended to find the best prospective parents.

The bill by Sen. Bob Gammage, D-Houston, would exempt attorneys from current rules requiring anyone who places a child for adoption other than the natural parent to be licensed by the welfare department.

Many attorneys handle adoptions for clients who want a baby despite the regulation. The practice was tacitly condoned until the attorney general ruled it illegal in 1974.

Gammage said the attorney general's interpretation of the 1973 Family Code left lawyers in a limbo with some judges requiring attorneys involved in adoption proceedings to swear they had nothing to do with arranging for a mother to give her child to the adopting parents.

To comply with present statutes, Gammage said lawyers must refer mothers who want to place their children for adoption to an adoption agency.

Welfare workers and adoption agencies favor such placement procedures because prospective parents are screened more thoroughly. Courts usually require an investigation of the prospective parents in adoptions not arranged through such agencies, but are reluctant to take a child away from a couple unless they are obviously unsuitable as parents.

BROTHERS GROUP — Little Brothers from California join Lloyd Bridges at the Bear Valley Celebrity Pro-Am. The Bridges were hosts for the pro-am ski races which benefitted Big Brothers. Bridges' wife Dorothy is writing a book about her 35 years of marriage to him. She says she wrote a couple of magazine stories about her husband and sons but that the boys have asked her not to do any more.

Karen Valentine Bucks the Odds

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Karen Valentine is bucking overwhelming odds with her new television series because she is a real-life single girl—Galatea without Pygmalion.

Almost without exception women who succeed on the tube have a Henry Higgins manipulating the strings of an Eliza Doolittle.

At least this is true at the start of their careers.

Lucille Ball had Desi Arnaz to run interference in the early days. Elizabeth Montgomery had producer-husband Bill Asher. Marlo Thomas learned from papa Danny Thomas.

Don't forget the success stories of Donna Reed, Carol Burnett, Doris Day, Mary Tyler Moore, Cher Bono. All had husbands who were or are show business wise, tough minded and aggressive.

Little Miss Valentine, warm, young and naive, is on her own with ABC-TV and "Karen."

"I have a very competent and dedicated agent," she said. "And there are times when I'm strong and determined. I don't particularly like being that way. My stomach gets in an uproar."

"Nobody can become a star without great drive. I know that. It probably helps a woman to have a husband fight her battles. But I think I could be an exception."

The trick, Karen knows, is to maintain her femininity. She hopes to escape becoming an iron butterfly, that breed of emasculating, hardened superstar who dominates her series and terrorizes every man she meets.

Pillow talk may be an essential element in the creation of a woman star. In bed, at the breakfast table, sitting around the pool, the husband-wife team ceaselessly discusses scripts, guest stars, time slots, strategy against the network.

They form a smooth team with a common goal: success. An agent has other clients. His whole lifestyle doesn't depend on the whims of one woman, as does that of the superstar's husband.

Single girls who tried and failed to carry series without a Pygmalion include Sandy Duncan (Funny Face), Julie Sommers (The Governor and J.J.), Stefanie Powers (The Girl From U.N.C.L.E.), and Tammy Grimes.

Once a woman has learned all the infighting and rough competitive tactics of her husband she can continue at the top without him. Combining her own womanly wiles with the expertise of her ex-spouse, she rates among the most formidable creatures on earth.

She is an object of awe, powerful enough to command the undivided attention of networks, the unalloyed respect of sponsors.

In this company Karen Valentine is a guppy in the piranha tank.

"Well," she sighed, "I'm not going to marry a tough, aggressive man to help my career. A girl has to choose the way she wants to live her life."

"I want to be successful in my personal life at the same time. Perhaps I could be the iron fist in a white glove."

"Anyhow maybe a single girl in television can cover all the bases with a terrific agent like I have."

"Maybe pillow talk isn't all that important to a television actress. But I'm not a good judge because I haven't experienced it."

"In the old movie days studios did the fighting for actresses. And I guess now it is the husband-manager."

"But that doesn't mean I can't be the first single girl to be successful in a series without a husband, or some member of the family fighting for me."

"You just wait and see. I'm going to do it on my own."

Fingerprints May Reveal Identity

LUBBOCK, Tex. (UPI) — Authorities say they have little to work with besides fingerprints in trying to identify the body of a woman found in an abandoned cellar.

The nude decomposed body was found Tuesday and at first deputies thought the victim might have been a woman reported missing 10 days ago.

"The body we found matched the height and weight of the missing woman and the color of the hair was the same," Sheriff C.H. "Choc" Blanchard said Wednesday. "However, we were able to prove that the body was not that of the missing person."

Blanchard said the Department of Public Safety was trying to help identify the body.

Initiation rite believed fatal

DE KALB, Ill. — A fraternity initiation that involved drinking a half-gallon mixture of gin, tequila and wine in an hour's time is believed to have caused the death of 23-year-old Richard Gowins, a Northern Illinois University student.

A spokesman from a drug rescue group reported that drinking 30 ounces of 90-proof alcohol could be fatal and Gowins reportedly drank 64 ounces of 60-to-80 proof alcohol — twice the minimum fatal dosage. — CNS

We Hold These Truths... A Chronicle of America

May, 1775:

The month sees a transformation in the attitude of New York. On March 10, James Madison could write from Orange, Virginia, that "in New York, they insult the whole Colony and Continent with impunity!" Indeed, on February 17 the New York Assembly voted 15-9 against even thanking New York's delegates to the First Continental Congress; on February 23, the Assembly voted 17-9 against naming delegates to the Second Continental Congress. But Lexington and Concord did much to dilute New York's strong loyalist sentiment. On May 1, a Committee of 100 is established to preserve "American liberty"; the Committee urges every man to acquire a musket and to train himself in its use. On May 10 Myles Cooper, the tory president of King's College in New York City, narrowly avoids being tarred and feathered by a mob; his escape is assisted by a student, committed to the colonial cause, by the name of Alexander Hamilton. On May 17, the Provincial Congress assumes the functions of government, substituting itself for the inactive New York Assembly. And on May 29, the Provincial Congress orders all citizens to sign the Continental Association.

Nixon Pledged 'Swift Action'

By United Press International
Retired Adm. Elmo Zumwalt said Wed. the Nixon administration failed to tell Congress about a 1973 secret agreement with South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu, promising the United States "respond vigorously" if Hanoi violated the Paris peace accords.

"It said that we would respond vigorously in the event of major truce violations and that we would replace equipment" being used by the South Vietnamese army, Zumwalt told a UPI's Richmond, Va., reporter in a telephone interview.

Zumwalt appeared to confirm the substance of the letters released Wednesday in Washington by Nguyen Tien Hung, a member of the old South Vietnamese cabinet, in which former President Richard M. Nixon promised "swift and severe retaliatory action."

The White House has insisted that no commitments were made that were not publicly announced at the time.

But Zumwalt's statement indicated that Congress was not fully aware of them at the time.

The Nixon-Kissinger administration must bear a large share of the blame for the fact that Congress failed to honor those commitments that had been made in the name of the country," said the former chief of U.S. naval operations.

"The view that I had was that apparently congressional leaders weren't informed in any formal way that these agreements were made. And if that was the case, in my view, the error clearly lies with the administration, for both making (the agreement) and not communicating it (to Congress)."

"A commitment could not be considered a national commitment without the support of the congressional leadership."

Zumwalt said Nixon and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger personally told at about the end of 1972 that the commitment already had been made. "It was at a session when all the joint chiefs of staff were present," he said.

Zumwalt, who refused to speculate on what "respond vigorously" might have involved, said the agreement "was demanded by Thieu."

"It was his price for going along with a very unfavorable truce," a truce that was subsequently arranged after the bombing of Hanoi," he said. "It was a bad truce for the South Vietnamese because it left the enemy intact in their country, in the South."

On Wednesday, Hung released what he said were copies of two letters from Nixon to former South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu, written in an effort to convince Saigon to sign the 1973 peace agreement which allowed the United States to withdraw its soldiers.

President Ford's press secretary, Ron Nessen, said, "as far as we can determine they are genuine." One, dated Nov. 14, 1972, said:

"You have my absolute assurance that if Hanoi fails to abide by the terms of this agreement it is my intention to take swift and severe retaliatory action."

Another of Jan. 5, 1973, said: "You have my assurance of continued assistance in the post-settlement period and that we will respond with full force should the settlement be violated by North Vietnam."

Nessen said, "I read the letters and I reviewed the public records in somewhat more detail than I did before and I'm convinced that what we said at the time still holds today—that there is nothing in the letters to Thieu that differs in substance from what was said publicly."

One of those public statements was a joint communique between Nixon and Thieu April 3, 1973, which said violations of the agreement "would call for appropriately vigorous reactions."

Ford said April 21 that he had discussed the commitments with Nixon and "he reiterated what I have said, that the public record corresponds with the private correspondence in reference to the commitments, moral or legal or otherwise."

Hung acknowledged that it can be argued the congressional ban negated the promises. "However," he said, "it is unfair to a foreign country for the U.S. to make assurances in order to obtain something tangible and then later render the assurances moot."

PLANTATION COMMISSION

On April 28, 1634, a Commission for Foreign Plantations was set up in England to exercise control over trade and other supervisory functions in the Colonies.

Seeks Reagan-Wallace Ticket

3rd Party Seeking Support for Reagan - Wallace Ticket in Texas

By Randy Fitzgerald
News Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — A new nationwide conservative organization with third party aspirations is seeking support in each of the 24 congressional districts in Texas.

Supporters of Alabama Gov. George Wallace and former California Gov. Ronald Reagan are being courted by the Conservative Caucus, as the group calls itself, to build a new party with a right wing orientation.

Chief organizer for the group is

Howard Phillips, who dismantled the federal antipoverty program for the Nixon administration as director of the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Phillips flew to Texas this week in search of converts.

While in Houston, he was scheduled to meet with the chairwoman of the Harris County Republican Party, Nancy Palm, and Hal Timanus, a Wallace supporter and member of the State Democratic Executive Committee.

Phillips has not yet found a state coordinator for the Texas branch of his operation, but he thinks the Houston conference will produce one.

"We have had a good response from Texas so far," said Phillips. He indicated the Conservative Caucus has made contact with some conservative Texas officeholders like Rep. Bill Archer, R. Houston, but has not established a rapport with the acknowledged spiritual leader of conservative Republicans in the state, Sen. John Tower.

Phillips would also welcome, with some reservations, John Connally into his fledgling party if the former Texas governor "subscribes to our program."

"Connally is an extremely able man. But we don't need glamorous men and women as much as we do ordinary people," said Phillips.

Phillips apparently would like to become the Allard Lowenstein of his party. Lowenstein, a liberal New Yorker, led the "Dump Lyndon Johnson" movement in the Democratic party in 1968.

Phillips says he has never spoken to Reagan or Wallace about his organization, although it might conceivably end up generating the candidacy of either man. The ideal ticket, say most of those involved with the Caucus, would be Reagan-Wallace.

"I believe Ronald Reagan is going to seek the Republican nomination for President," said Phillips. "I believe George Wallace is going to seek the Democratic nomination for President. I believe both of them are going to be denied their party's nomination and I believe they could come together to run for the presidency."

Coordinators for the Conservative Caucus are being sought in all the nation's 435 congressional districts and on statewide levels. It will take such an ambitious, grass roots approach to build a viable third party, Phillips says. The Caucus claims to have raised more than $200,000 from 15,000 dues-paying members within the last few months.

Phillips left the Nixon administration in 1973 and became increasingly disenchanted with his former boss as the Watergate quicksand tugged at him. He even urged Nixon's resignation or impeachment before that was popular.

The youthful conservative activist has also been critical of President Ford, claiming he is ignoring the conservative majority in his own party.

National chairman of the new Caucus is New Hampshire Gov. Meldrim Thomson Jr., a Republican, whose criticism of Ford has carried him almost to the point of announcing his own presidential candidacy to thwart Ford in his state's important primary.

Engineer Fears Energy Will Be Nationalized

HOUSTON (UPI) — John Hutchins, president of Cameron Engineers, told delegates at an Energy Policy Conference today he was afraid the country was moving toward a policy of nationalizing its energy industries.

The Denver engineer said nationalization "would be counter to the desires of an informed American public, but I also believe that unless something drastic is done, the course is set and the destination inevitable."

Hutchins, speaking to about 400 industry officials, said he felt the oil industry had "failed miserably in explaining its immeasurably complex problems to the government and the public."

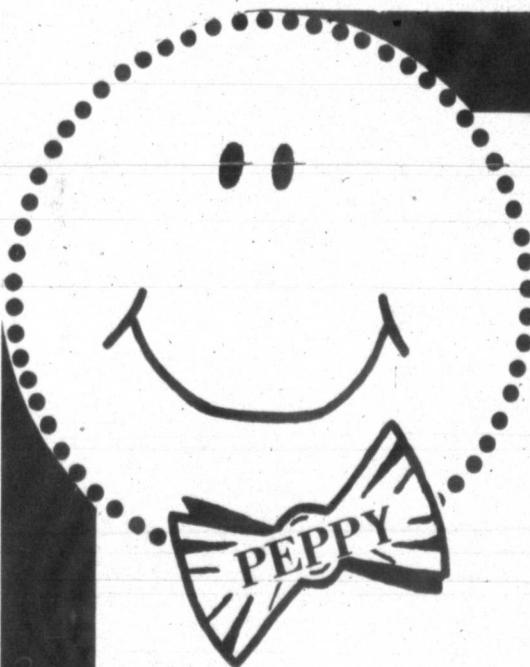

"As a result, the Congress has reacted to a uniform demand of the public by producing restrictive legislation on the oil industry," he said.

Hutchins said the uninformed public would suffer the most because of the failure on the part of the oil industry to communicate its problems and because, of the failure of Congress to provide meaningful solutions.

The oil industry official said Congress had "failed to provide the leadership that this country needs in the energy field. The Congress has been reactive rather than creative in meeting the needs of the country."

Currently, he said, there is no way a conventional U.S. oil well at 35 barrels a day can compete cost-wise with an Arab well which produces an average of 5,000 barrels a day.

He urged guaranteed rates of return, tax investment credits and accelerated depreciation for pioneer synthetic energy plants.

Barber Drug

Mrs. Holt Barber

Yesterday marked a new beginning for Barber Drug, 1600 N. Hobart. The contents of the store have changed from drug store items to items of a gift store, stressing colognes and jewelry. The new store will be called Barber's.

"I wanted something to change my image," explained Mrs. Holt Barber. "I wanted something not quite as confining as toothpaste and shampoo."

The Barbars came to Pampa from Dumas and have lived in the Panhandle all their lives. Continuing in the drug store business, in 1963 they bought John's Pharmacy from John Turby.

Mrs. Barber's husband died five years ago, but she still is going strong. One of her two other employees is her son Fred.

"I don't let any grass grow under my feet," she said. "I look after seven farms and Pampa is right in the middle, so I'm where I should be."

"Business has been good so far," Mrs. Barber commented. "I've been quite surprised. I thought things were going to drag."
