Finals In Music Memory Contest To Be Held This Evening At Methodist Church With Eighty-Five Children Entered

Finals in the Music Memory contest are to be held at 8:15 o'clock this evening at the First Methodist church with a group of local musicians assisting in presenting the program of contest selections. About 85 students in the schools, including the teams of 10 from each ward school and all who made a perfect score in the elimination matches, are entering tonight. Papers will be graded during the remainder of the week and names of winners are to be announced Sunday. This program is open to the public.

Since students are to recognize the names of selections played, those will not be printed on the program. In addition to victrola numbers, the program will be as follows:

Victrola—Madame Frank Barclay, R. L. McKnight, Carl Soukitt, Miss Nell Parsley, Dorrance D. Roderick and the Junior high school chorus; piano—Messieurs E. F. George, J. B. Acton, L. J. Von Tunelen and A. W. McKee; violin—Misses Ruth Dunn and Annis Owens; organ—Mrs. Maudie I. Seal.

Prizes will be awarded to winners in this contest.

Entre Nous Club Is Entertained By Mrs. Jones

The Entre Nous club met yesterday afternoon with Mrs. Don L. Jones at the State Agricultural Experiment station east of the city. The house was prettily decorated with white carnations and pink blossoms and table appointments carried out the Saint Patrick motif. Shabrook brick ice cream was served with angel food cake and mints.

In games of bridge, Mrs. Harold Griffith scored high among the members. Mrs. N. L. Peters made visitors high count and Mrs. O. L. Peterson secured low. Club members and visitors who were present were Mesdames Campbell Anderson, Lawrence Bacon, Floyd Bowen, Byron Brown, Harold Griffith, Amos Howard, Hurl B. Jones, Kenneth I. Kimbro, Edgar Lewis, Harry Miller, O. L. Peterson, L. E. Smith, Walter Tyler, Louis Quillen, W. L. Stanzel, J. H. Murdock, N. L. Peters, A. H. Ledlich, Misses Blanche Bacon and Johnnie Gilkerson.

Plans Complete For Mr. And Mrs. Harvey To Return Here On Friday

Final plans for the production of "The Camp Fire Girls", a four-act play to be given by the Otayoka Camp Fire girls at 8 o'clock tomorrow evening in Room 202 of the Technological college administration building, are being completed today by Mrs. E. E. White, director. Proceeds from the play will be used, partly, in helping furnish the new Camp Fire club house on 13th street.

The first act of the play is in the home of Mrs. Bacon, a boarding house keeper, where Peggy, a little drudge, falls asleep. The second act shows the dream of the little girl, an Indian scene, and the third act portrays Peggy's misery upon her awakening. The last act is placed in a Camp Fire camp. Mrs. Hub Jones is stage manager for the production and Mrs. Frank Barclay is music director. The cast of characters is as follows:

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Harvey, who were married in Plainview last Sunday morning, are expected to return here tomorrow from Abilene where they have been visiting Mr. Harvey's parents. They will be at home at 1418 Main Street.

Before her marriage, Mrs. Harvey was Miss Leota Guest, of Plainview and she is well known in Lubbock having visited here many times during the last few years. Mr. Harvey is recently of Abilene and is employed by the Yager shoe company here.

Reverend White said today.

Mixing Psychology With Color

One side of Mrs. Thomas's delightful 18th century dining room.

YOU MUST CONSIDER THE FEELING OF ROOM WHEN SELECTING COLORS, SAYS EXPERT.

By VIRGINIA SWAIN
NEA Service Writer

NEW YORK, March 17.—Time, taste and color are the three graces of home decoration, and the greatest of these is color.

Decorators may not have been caused by bad color combinations, but it is sound psychology to suppose that many a quarrel has taken added violence from a clash of pink and red in the wall paper.

Decorators have found that they must consult psychology as well as art in choosing colors for the home and especially in decorating for the sick and convalescent must they search their color charts for shades that are sunniest and suitable to the season.

Decorators exhibiting rooms at the Architectural and Allied Arts exposition is Mrs. Annie Thomas, known for her skill in blending color schemes for walls without monotony.

Moods in Color

"Consider the feeling of a room," is her first admonition. "What mood do you want it to induce? What colors suggest your own most becoming moods? Those are the shades to use in your home."

Fortunately, the old scheme of one-color rooms is passing out. The old green parlor, with its brilliant green-green wall paper, its sea-green carpet and its upholstery in various shades of faded green is a horror of twenty years ago.

The day of neutral rooms and brown-outlined paper is also gone.

Today the smart room has variety of color and some brilliance. The muted shades once thought so elegantly conservative, are now recognized to be only commonplace and uninteresting.

"Probably the easiest scheme for the amateur decorator," says Mrs. Thomas, "is to take some single item of the decoration, a wall paper, a muted chair or an object of art, which has enough colors in it to furnish a color motif for the whole room, and build up the room around it."

"Excellent effects have been gained by choosing a picture of lovely color, to hang in a central place, and harmonizing every other object with it."

Chintz Offers Variety

"Chintz offers a delightful variety of color combinations and furnishes a keynote for the other furnishings. Wall paper may be used in the same way, as in the room exhibited at the exposition."

This room is an eighteenth century dining room, done in autumn shades drawn from the scenic wall paper. The red, amber and yellow tones of the foliage in the landscape paper are repeated throughout the decoration.

A dull green rug furnishes the right contrast for the warmer tones. Shabby and Homoplastic furniture in San Domingo mahogany, inlaid with satinwood, supplies the reddish brown shades to suit the paper.

Even in the chandeliers there are amber drops among clear white crystals. As a table center-piece in such a room, yellow roses in a green glass bowl are very lovely. The candles are tall, pale yellow tapers, set in squat, amber glass holders.

"For summer furnishing the new chintzes and pretenses offer the most delightful mode of introducing color," says Mrs. Thomas.

Use Brightness Sparingly

"You will find the brightest colors used in the smallest quantities, and the paler, or duller tones used more lavishly. This same treatment is the safest to follow in any scheme of decoration."

Use bright tints sparingly, as accents. Use pale tints for background and restful contrasts.

An old rule of decoration that still holds good is that if a color appears anywhere in the room it should appear in at least three places, preferably at some little distance from one another, to bring all parts of the room into harmony.

It is best to introduce into the room touches of every color in the rainbow, always bearing in mind that the dominating colors must dominate.

For instance, striped, ruffled draperies, flounced slip covers and counterpanes of chintz cretonne, percale or satinum, will give the desired effect of brightness and airiness.

Mix Plainness and Patterns

But in using highly patterned fabrics, Mrs. Thomas warns one must be careful to employ plain surfaces elsewhere in the room to avoid confusion of design.

The secret of successful decoration for the amateur lies in simplicity and a rigid observance of harmony in line, mass and color.

"The expert designer," she says, "may be able to work out his own futuristic patterns for homes, with success. But the housewife who can not employ an expert, would do well to stick to the graceful furniture of old periods."

"Purist, Spanish, Italian, Moorish interiors may do in large city homes, but for the small town house or the country place, or tiny apartment, the simple appointments of early American, eighteenth century English or French provincial, are far more workable."

Makes every coffee cent count—because of its concentrated flavor

The economy of M·J·B is merely a lesson in simple arithmetic. Here it is:—

M·J·B is a concentrated coffee. That means it is extra-rich in strength and flavor. We blend it that way—always have. And that's why you can use less of M·J·B to the cup and still enjoy a fine, flavorful cup of coffee.

Now consider that the average family uses 40 cups of coffee per week and you begin to realize how M·J·B makes every coffee cent count. You get more in the way of coffee contentment and it costs you less in the long run. Isn't that, after all, the only kind of economy that counts?

M·J·B meets every taste in Coffee

The dotted line shows how much less of M·J·B you can use to each cup because of its concentrated strength and richness.

LONG BOB MEUSEL SIGNS TWO YEAR CONTRACT WITH YANKS

BIG BAM WALLEPS AGATE NOT WITHSTANDING BAD LEG; RHEM MAY BE FORGOTTEN BY CARDS

TURLEIGH GRIMES TAKES SLIPPERY ELM INTO BOX FOR GIANTS BUT BRAVES BEAT HIM, 4-3; BABE HERMAN LEADS BROOKLYN IN ERRORS

(By the Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Mar. 17.—Holders in the New York Yankee ranks, rumored at ten or more only a month ago, has dwindled to the lone figure of Herb Pennock, southpaw pitcher. Babe Ruth hobbled to the plate on Wednesday with an injured leg and an aching right arm, but in the collection drifting in the swamp outside the park, the team shaped up nicely in practice; and lanky Bob Meusel deserted the holdout ranks for a two year contract. Unofficial estimates set the terms at $17,500 a season.

Grimes Is Beaten
Turleigh Grimes, former Brooklyn spit ball twirler, took his slipper into the New York Giants box for the first time Wednesday against the Boston Braves at St. Petersburg, but failed to add to the impressive string of Giant victories. The Braves won 4 to 3. Hornsby got three hits.

Babe Herman was an inebrious ring leader in Brooklyn's 12-1 defeat by St. Louis Browns at Clearwater. The young first sacker booted two of the Hobbs six errors.

The Philadelphia Athletics' camp at Fort Myers is nearly abandoned. Connie Mack's squad having left for a tour of other big league camps for a series of four exhibition games.

Phillies Win One
Manager Melvin Phillips have won their first victory over the training season, having defeated the Buffalo International 7 to 6.

The Boston Red Sox are to enjoy a setup for a few days. Summer heat which has served to get the athletes down pretty fine, and the fact that three games with the New Orleans Pelicans are on the immediate menu, caused Manager Cuyler to order his men to take it more easy.

At St. Petersburg, Wednesday, the Boston Braves pitchers reversed their recent form and the team, showing an all around improvement, held the Giants to three runs, winning by a margin of one.

Branch Rickey, of the St. Louis Cardinals, sees little possibility of any agreement with Flint Rhem, holdout pitcher, who won twenty games for the club last season. Rickey said the club "could not in justice" give the pitcher what he wanted.

Tough On Rookie
George Redfern, shortstop from Nashville and regarded by Manager George Moriarty as one of the best fielders turned out by the minors in years, is the victim of unusually hard luck, in that he joined the Cincinnati Tigers at the wrong time. He is frustrated with the Herculean task of displacing Taverer, who Moriarty believes will be the class leader of the league.

Tris Speaker's former center field berth with the Cleveland Indians has a new occupant. George Gorkin, formerly of the Three-Eye League, is appointed to the center pasture by Manager Jack McCallister. Homer Sumlin, light fielder, went back to his old berth, after a try out at center.

The Cincinnati Reds have left Orlando for the present season, much further advanced in training than any fled team ever was on St. Patrick's day. They meet the Washington Senators at Tampa Thursday.

Rookies Look Good
Led by Dick Bartell at short, the yanigans Wednesday trimmed the regulars at the Pittsburgh Pirate training camp at Paso Robles, 2 to 4. Bartell accepted seven chances without a muff and gathered two of the yanigans' 13 hits. The regulars caught Bill and Aldridge for ten counts by the moundmen kept them scattered.

Boss Schalk sent two of the veteran pitchers, Ted Blankenship and Urban Faber, against the Shreveport Texas Leaguers Wednesday, but the Chicago White Sox standbys failed to stem a tide of hits that totalled eleven, enough to permit Shreveport to nose out a 2 to 3 victory. One of the blows off Blankenship was a home run in the fifth with the bases loaded.

Look To English
At Catalina, Elwood English, the expensive shortstop of the Chicago Cubs, will get his first chance to show his goods away from the camp when the Chicagoans tie into Marty Krug's Angels at Los Angeles Friday.

With his infield and catching problems settled and with progress being made with the pitching staff, Manager "Bucky" Harris of the Washington Senators, turned his attention Thursday to the recruits gathered at the Tampa training camp with a view of selecting one to join Speaker, Rice, Goslin and McNeely in the outfield department. West and Bucky, in the order named, appear most promising.

BABY SLAYERS
The boy, however, was asleep, and did not know of his father's intentions as the towel, saturated with ether, was pressed tightly against his nose and mouth.

Margaret Scholl, the second wife and the woman whose expression of fear that something had happened led police to the discovery of the bodies in an abandoned Gary house Tuesday, visited Scholl at the Gary jail. Both wept.

"He is insane," Mrs. Scholl told officers. "I have known he was crazy for a long time—but I can't help loving him just the same."

India will develop its motor freight transport system to the interior country.

BUCCANEERS TO GIVE NATIONAL TEAMS TROUBLE

FORMER CHAMPIONS WILL HOLD DOWN SAME OLD POSTS ON CLUB

(By the Associated Press)
PASO ROBLES, Calif., Mar. 17.—The Pittsburgh Pirates, world's champions of 1925, are ready for a comeback. After a season of disappointments and internal difficulties, observers agree the Pirates again have acquired the dash and zip, the fighting qualities that featured their sensational dash to the peak two years ago.

A great Detroit shortstop in his day, Donie Bush, took over the Pirate reins this season after a successful campaign in the American Association as pilot of the Indianapolis club. He had his own training ideas; set them forth at the start and now has the players behind him to a man, if their practice spirit is an indication.

Injuries Don't Count
Training injuries and sickness in the last few weeks have failed to dampen the enthusiasm. Ray Kremer, star pitcher, and John Gooch, catcher, had a touch of the grippe and then Gooch had a seizure of neuritis. Glenn Wright, shortstop, Clyde Barnhart and Herman Layne, seasoned outfielders, were laid up temporarily with injuries.

Despite sensational showings of several recruits, the season's opening is expected to see the bulk of last year's team holding down berths.

Wright, who displayed mid-season form after a couple of days in camp, has no opposition. Manager Bush dismissed that thought by describing the shortstop as "in a class by himself."

Captain Pie Traynor is a fixture at third base while George Gratano, apparently holds undisputed sway over the first base position. Second base is a bone of contention, with Joe Cronin, a San Francisco youngster, giving Hal Rhyne, veteran, a close race. For a couple of weeks Bush alternated the pair daily. The more seasoned Rhyne is expected to pair off with Wright when the campaign opens.

Karl Smith and Gooch are due for the catching berths although Claude Linton, a recruit from the Montana Copper League, has shown ability.

The outfield is well taken care of. Paul Waner and Kiki Cuyler are fixtures. Waner, the club's leading hitter last season, and Cuyler have been driving the ball to all corners of the lot. Barnhart has opposition from a trio of new comers. Layne, who starred with Toronto, Fred Brickell, hard hitting recruit who joined the club late last year, and Adam Comerowsky from Williamsport of the New York-Pennsylvania League. Moon Harris, acquired from the Washington Senators, has his cap set for a job as utility infielder, an outfielder.

Headed by Ray Kremer, of 1925 world's series fame and the leading National League twirler last season, the pitching staff appears to have enough pep for a couple of teams. Such veterans as Vic Aldridge, Emil Yde, "Bullet" Joe Bush and Mike Cuyler have been going through their paces in a frisky manner.

Among the promising pitching recruits is Byron Speece, an underhand hurler who served with Bush at Indianapolis. His fast balls have kept the batters in a hurry. Walter Tamm, pitcher from Williamsport, Pa., and Guy Morrison, a Utah-Idaho League product, both are right handers who dish up terrific speed balls.

Littlefield Man Rests After Hurt
F. W. Cochran, of Littlefield, is resting well today in a local sanitarium after having sustained a broken shoulder and other painful injuries when he was thrown from a wagon on the Maple Wilson ranch about 25 miles west of here about noon Wednesday. Mr. Cochran was thrown from the wagon to the ground, alighting on his shoulder when the wagon was jerked suddenly by a tractor.

Argentina produced nearly 223,000,000 bushels of wheat this season.

"This club has wonderful spirit and promises, from here, to be well balanced. We will have a world of speed for all our younger players are fast."

The young manager was asked about his mound staff.

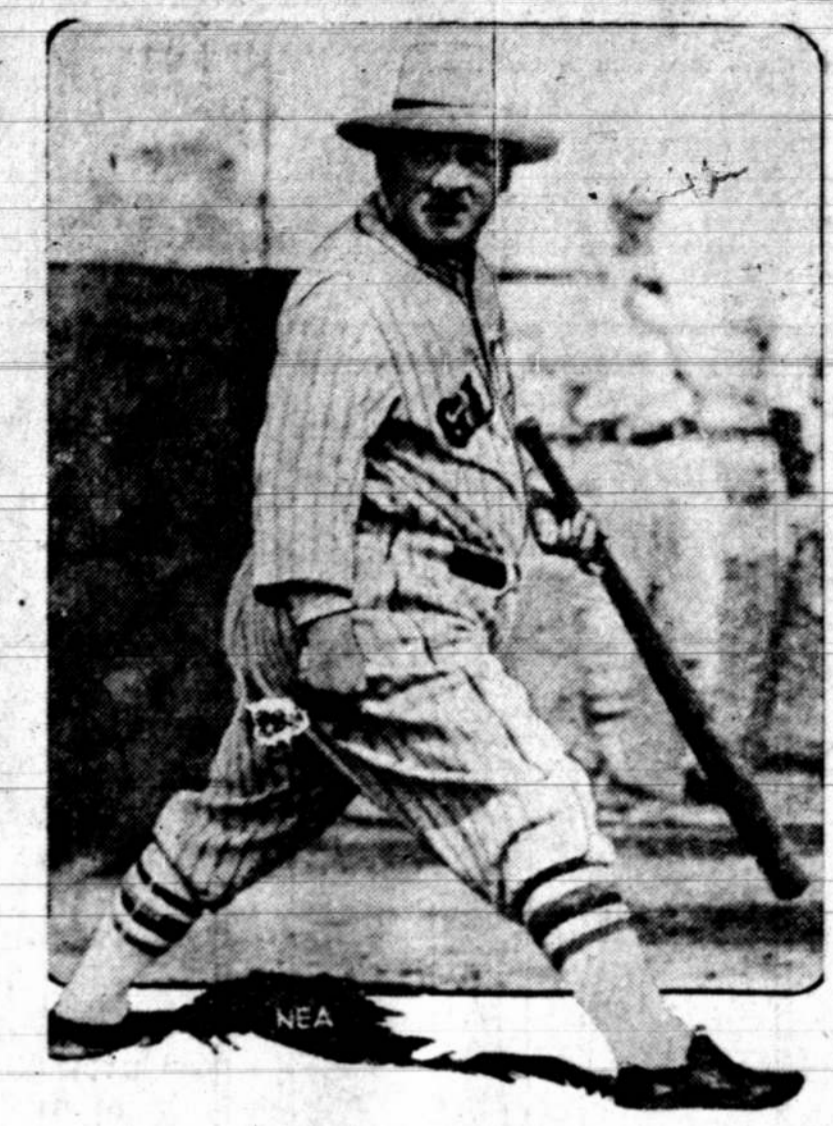

"Well, we have twenty-one and surely we should get six or seven good ones out of that bumper crop. Nobody on our club is worrying about Walter Johnson or Coveleskie who are the only real veterans. They will be there. Fred Marberry is an experienced pitcher but he's young in years."

Another thing Harris is counting upon is the team's likely looking reserve strength.

"If we bump into a flux we have an antidote in the flock of good substitutes infield and outfield."

"All in all we are not downhearted."

Featuring Jawn McGraw's Stance and Headgear

JOHN MCGRAW
Here is an unusual pose of John McGraw, manager of the Giants. During the baseball season "Jawn" generally wears "rivies" while on the bench, but this picture, taken at the Giants' camp at Sarasota, Fla., shows him bedecked in a Giant uniform and a straw purchased in Cuba. It might be mentioned that "Jawn's" batting stance clearly shows a form that even Babe Ruth's 220 pounds can't touch.

LINKS CROWDED BY GOLFERS IN TOURNEY FIGHT

DARK HORSE PLAY TO BE CARRIED ON BY MANY LUBBOCK ENTRIES

The finals of the first elimination flights of the "Dark Horse" tournament will be played off today and the last elimination rounds prior to the semi-finals will be started. In yesterday's rounds L. H. McLarty astride steed No. 7 defeated F. M. Bowen; Eric Posey, riding No. 14, upset predicted results of the race with S. A. Wells on No. 6—and won over Wells—in the Stewart-Germany rounds Buddy Stewart astride No. 5 won.

Matches today will be run off with the following playing: John Jarrott and Frank Jones; Lewis Price and Ross McWhorter; O. L. Peterson and J. D. Slaughter; W. B. Powell and Don Mitchell; Dr. Fred Standifer and Bud Roberts.

Finals in the tournament will be played off Sunday afternoon. A very large gallery is expected to follow the finishing match.

Touring Golfer In Beauont Thursday

BEAUMONT, Mar. 17. (AP)—Doc Gra-hame, styled by Happy Kirby, his caddy, knocked his golf ball into Beau-mont last night, slightly more than one month out of Mobile, bound for Los Angeles and the movies. The sun-baked pair were guests of the city police department for the night. Today they are playing exhibition matches on the local links. Grahame has taken 18,952 strokes and lost 29 balls. He is being financed by his father and bulls are furnished by a manufacturer of the product. He intends to reach Houston by Sunday or Monday.

Cards May Enter Fray Minus Rhem

When opening day comes, and the World's Champion Cardinals defend their title, the yanigs take the field without the services of Flint Rhem, star righthander, who won 26 games as a red bird last year. Branch Rickey yesterday returned to the Cardinal fold after a talk with Rhem at the latter's home and made that statement that the club could not in justice meet the pitcher's demands.

SPEAKER TO BE AID TO HARRIS

Baseball Brain Of Old Chief Of Indians Will Be Of Help To Senators

TAMPA, Fla., Mar. 17. (AP)—Stanley Harris, manager of the Washington Senators, thinks Tris Speaker is his ace in the hole.

"I believe we had a good club before we grabbed 'Spoke,' and he makes it a great one," Harris said. "Speaker is one of the really great players in the game but it is not so much what he will do in the 'outfield' as at the bat—although he will do plenty—I am talking of now, but the use of the old gray matter he has under that gray hair."

"Spoke knows how to play the outfield and it will be a great thing for 'Goose' (Goslin) and Sam (Rice) to have him in there between them."

"Many a ball game has been lost because a sloppy hit was played just that way. It goes down in the box score column as a hit but with a smart outfield it wouldn't have been, and smart outfielding is just what we will have with 'Spoke' in there."

Harris is confident that his team will win a lot of games but at the same time is not over-confident and is not claiming any pennant in March.

"This club has wonderful spirit and promises, from here, to be well balanced. We will have a world of speed for all our younger players are fast."

The young manager was asked about his mound staff.

"Well, we have twenty-one and surely we should get six or seven good ones out of that bumper crop. Nobody on our club is worrying about Walter Johnson or Coveleskie who are the only real veterans. They will be there. Fred Marberry is an experienced pitcher but he's young in years."

Another thing Harris is counting upon is the team's likely looking reserve strength.

CROWD ON HAND IN FORD COURT

Aaron Sapiro's Suit Against Auto King Draws Large Number Of Hearers
(By The Associated Press)
DETROIT, Mar. 17.—Crowds filled into the federal court room here today to hear the $1,000,000 libel suit against Henry Ford and the few available seats soon were taken.

Aaron Sapiro, black haired Chicago attorney, who claims his reputation was injured by a series of articles in the Dearborn Independent, Ford's publication, was in his accustomed place. Before him was his attorney, William Henry Gallagher who completed his opening statement and gave the floor to Senator James A. Reed of Missouri, chief counsel for the automobile manufacturer.

Mr. Gallagher summarized his plea which had brought out three points. First, an attack by the Independent upon individuality; second, an attack on his profession as a lawyer, injuring him with his clients; third, an attack on his work in organizing cooperative marketing organizations. He was also accused of being a member of a ring of internationalists.

Reed Makes Address
Senator Reed, in opening, said: "This is a case of Aaron Sapiro against Henry Ford, not Aaron Sapiro and the Jewish race against Ford, nor are the cooperative organizations concerned. "I think the evidence will show you Henry Ford never saw these articles, that he has never read them to this time. He heads the Publication company of the Dearborn Independent. But the business is operated by the corporation. "The case narrows down to whether Sapiro was damaged by the Dearborn Independent. "Truth is Upheld
"There is a privilege that is absolute, that is the right to print the truth, whatever it may be. The law puts no bridge in the mouth of truth. "So we will try to show you that all which was printed about Mr. Sapiro was the truth. "And as the case develops we think the evidence will show that it is no libel to say of a man 'he is a Jew. This is the same kind of a case that it would be if Mr. Sapiro were a member of any race. "Mr. Sapiro cannot capitalize on any sympathy for the Jewish race. "The Independent has a circulation of approximately 400,000 largely among the farmers. It therefore was in a situation where it had no moral duty to print anything regarding agriculture. And if there were anything oppressing or degrading the farmers, it felt it a duty to tell the public of it. "These articles about Mr. Sapiro were printed in 1926 and 1927. Every effort was taken to ascertain the truth of the articles. "Mr. Sapiro was born in a city, grew had no connection with the hole at all. While oil production was not encountered by the well on the Yellowhouse ranch, valuable information as to structures in this district was obtained, and geologists will be able to better compute the location of any oil bearing structure on the South Plains by using this information. It was stated. The fact that one dry hole is drilled in any particular locality does not at all condemn the region as being non-oil producing.

YELLOWHOUSE OIL

Smith Explains Contract
Mr. Smith explained that the contract only called for 3500 feet, and that the hole had been drilled as deep as possible through the 6 inch casing. In order to go further and to shut off salt water it would be necessary to set five inch casing which the operators decided would be too expensive in view of unfavorable indications encountered.

The Gulf company well east of Dimmitt, now drilling at 1615 feet, is attracting considerable interest, and the log of that well is being closely watched to determine how the levels of the different strata compare with the depth at which they were encountered in previously drilled wells in this region. While indications are somewhat favorable, considerable trouble has been occasioned by the necessity of setting casing too often, and it is possible that the operators will down to five inch casing before oil producing depths are reached.

bill, but what is left provides appointment of a new prison board of nine members by the governor and a general manager to be hired by the board. Certain changes in operating methods also are provided.
Time Runs Over
Held up by belated arguments on house and senate compromises on bills, the legislature ran eight hours past its agreed adjournment time yesterday, although clocks were turned back repeatedly during the afternoon to keep the hands "in front" of 12 o'clock noon, the hour set a few days ago. "No great quantity of legislation was turned out during the past session, but several measures of wide import, besides the motor vehicle bill and the prison measure, were passed. Among them was the Beck bill, putting the Texas motor bus industry under regu-

A Chinese War Lord

We read of the Chinese "war lords" now so busily engaged in civil conflict, and picture heartless, ruthless, rapacious creatures whose one activity in life is the shuffling of human cards in a game of slaughter and plundering.

Then, as a song sounding above a tempest, these lines from the pen of one of those "war lords" come to us: "The cold wind from the west blows my old battle garment."

"To look upon the bloodstain on the cloak brings sorrow to my heart. My only possessions now are loyal heart and brave soul."

"They will be with me forever despite the ice and the snow of the present situation."

The author of the lines is Marshal Wu Pei-fu, says a news despatch. They were written, the despatch adds, to the memory of a loyal Chinese soldier who died in battle not long ago, and whose ebullient blood reddened the marshal's robe.

Wu Pei-fu was once the "man of the hour" in China. He gained control of much of the great and rich Yangtze river valley, and poshing northward, occupied Beijing.

But his triumph was not to last. Disaster befell him when he sought to extend his authority into Manchuria. Feking was lost to him, and Cantonese revolutionists, showing northward, took from him the great pivotal city of Hankow on the Yangtze, now the "Caribbean" of China.

"Chinese soldiers do not like to fight for a losing commander," Wu Pei-fu's army became disorganized.

He is in retirement now in a northwestern province of China. One day he is said in the news despatches to sympathize with the Cantonese, the next to be remaining loyal to north China's present ruler, Chang Tso-lin.

He has fought only minor battles in recent months and in these has been defeated.

But out of the "ice and snow" which chill the days for Wu Pei-fu there comes, with his lines to a slain soldier, a new conception of what sort of man a Chinese "warlord" may be.

Who Lost The War?

Winston Churchill, who knows much of the "inside history" of the world war, declares in a book just published that the Germans defeated themselves in the late conflict.

French and British offensives on the western front, says Churchill, were more costly to the allies than to the Germans, and the allies were unable possibly only by Germany's compelling the United States to enter the war and by her own offensives in France, which proved too expensive in men and materials.

Here is a new slant on the world war. Only the experts can say whether Churchill is right; we can expect to hear all kinds of them voicing their opinions in the near future.

Revolution; Far Off

Charles Ruthenberg is dead in Chicago. The way the country greets the news of his passing is perhaps the best sort of evidence as to the failure of his life's ambition.

THE PLAINSMAN

Says: Why not call oil tests which come in minus the oil "prohibition wells?"

The Plainsman congratulates members of the Lubbock Rotary club in having elected for their next president Rev. Walter P. Jennings, pastor of the First Christian church. He's not only a good preacher and a good fellow but he's a good city booster. He's of the highest type of civic worker and should make the club a good leader.

The Plainsman advises against believing all the rumors of oil wells coming in. The fastest prairie fire in the history of the South Plains could not and did not spread as rapidly as oil rumors do. When oil is struck in this territory the Avalanche-Journal publications will print it in plenty of time and from an authentic source.

A man figuring on buying a new automobile should be held responsible for anything that he says or does. March moons make June brides.

The Plainsman imagines that the gentlemen's convention at El Paso and Juarez is a "corking" good affair.

The things which we say that we wouldn't have are often the things which we would like most to have.

Members of the cast of "Music Box Revue," including the manager and 15 dainty choruses, have been tried in Jackson, Mississippi for wearing scanty costumes on the stage. Three men, all of whom admitted that they occupied seats on the "blitzed row," said on the stand that they "saw nothing objectionable." What man, we ask you, what man ever saw anything objectionable about a good looking chorus girl?

Some people with very little to do recently held a poll among prominent men and women in New York concerning whether or not the use of cosmetics injures the morals of women.

"What is the world coming to?" It's getting so now that everything that most people like is being howled down by the narrow-minded minority as being a form of moral turpitude. The Plainsman frankly admits that he likes pretty ladies—and if they can make themselves any prettier than nature made 'em he's in favor of that, too.

Old Masters

Upon a cloud among the stars we stood. The angel raised his hand, and looked, and said, "Which world, of all you starry myriad, Shall we make wing to?"

Became a harp whereupon his voice and mood. Made spectral music round his haloed head.

"Let me look round upon the vast, and brood. A moment on these orbs ere I decide."

And with soft splendor now incandescent. Our wings? There would I go and there abide."

Then he, as one who some child's thought divines; "That is the world where rest—night you shed."

—Lloyd Mifflin: "The Flight."

Justajingle

"I've found what makes the wheels go 'round," Said he, with knowledge keen. But, shucks, that's nothing to astound. He just meant gasoline.

Flapper Fanny

A gentleman always should precede a lady through the wind-shield.

The Only One Who Ever Clubbed His Way In WASHINGTON LETTER

SENATOR McWHORTER, SEEKING TO ENTERTAIN THE CLASSES, WANTS CONGRESS TO SIT AT NIGHT

BY RODNEY DUTCHER NEA Service Writer WASHINGTON, Mar. 17.—Senator J. Boombloom McWhorter has begun a movement on Capitol Hill which has as its object night sessions of Congress all the year around.

Senator J. Boombloom McWhorter is the workman's friend. He knows that the average man is all too occupied during the day with the paramount problem of bread-winning. He knows that it is in the evening that the workman and his wife fare forth to seek their amusements.

Why, he asks, should this great country deny to the backbone of its citizenry that great educational and inspirational spectacle which is permitted to the idle and leisure classes by virtue of the fact that the houses of Congress meet ordinarily only in the afternoon?

Outdoing the Movies "Must the vast majority of the people of Washington and surrounding ballistics be content with sentimental, trashy motion picture shows for their after-dark recreation?" demanded Senator J. Boombloom McWhorter in an exclusive interview, following the adjournment of Congress for the current session.

"Must they be sacrificed to the rapacious maw of the theatrical producer and the ticket speculator if they are to enjoy that pursuit of happiness to which the constitution entitles them?"

"No! A thousand times no! The ancient Romans believed that if they gave the people bread and circuses they would insure the safety of the state and the contentment of the masses."

"What less can we do in these enlightened days than did those benighted rulers?"

"Let us people come into this chamber after their day's work is done and after their dinners are comfortably tucked away in their tummies. Let them hear the House roar, the lambs bleat, the elephants bellow and the snakes in the grass hiss."

See How It's Done "Impress upon them in this way the majesty of their country, the sterling calibre and ability of the servants of the people. Let the government clerks of this fair city realize how the laws are made which they are called upon to administer. Let them forsake the dens of sins and pleasure that their minds may be elevated by this high form of entertainment and instruction."

Let the weary tourist, chugging into the nation's capital in his battered 'flivver' and with his wife and kiddies asleep in the back seat, glimpse from afar out in the environs the beacon light in the tower of that great dome which tells him that his representatives are on the job, making this a greater, happier and more prosperous land. Let him wake up his family, let him step on the gas, and let him come chattering to our portals to sit in those galleries to drink from the font of wisdom and look with his own eyes upon the great minds of the nation assembled.

"And then, when he returns to the midst of our constituencies, he will tell less fortunate that the greatest sight he saw upon his travels was not the pair of box constructors at the National zoo, not the world's biggest hot dog stand, not the Bladenburg road, not the muddy waters of the Mississippi or the gawky loquacity of Pike's Peak, but rather the mighty Congress of these United States."

"Where will your boy and girl be tonight? Will they be out on lonely roads, parked in darkened outmotorbuses, up to all sorts of mischief? Will they be dancing away their young

TAX REMISSION SCOTCHED

Attorney General Claud Bollard made a direct frontal attack on the proponents of tax remission legislation, and seems to have blown them into smithereens.

Briefly, the attorney general ruled that the "great public calamity" clause upon which the constitution says all such measures must be based is the sole legitimate basis for such legislation.

Representatives from Dallas county, one of those seeking this special favor at the expense of other counties of the state, accused the attorney general of trying to "usurp" the province of the legislature, whereupon the attorney general intimated that it is not at all improbable that his department will institute suits to recover damages from some of those counties which are already enjoying this boon.

He said that no "great public calamity" existed, and without a public calamity to back it up, tax remission legislation is unconstitutional.

About fourteen counties of the state, with property valuations at something like a quarter of a billion dollars, now enjoy this privilege. Senator McFarland recently stated that should pending tax remission legislation go through, and be added to that already granted, it would represent a loss of $80,000 in taxes every year—a deficit that other counties not so favored would have to make up.

It looks pretty much like Attorney General Bollard has scotched the tax remission business for all time, except in cases like the Galveston flood, where the "public calamity" clause is borne out by the facts. Having done so, he is entitled to the gratitude of the taxpayers.—Abilene Reporter.

BARBS

The Boss-Winchester comet is coming to within 4 1/2 million miles of the earth in June. Col. Ruppert, owner of the Yankees, wishes Babe Ruth would come that close. . . . Landis wasn't any farther away than that several times. . . . But 4 1/2 million miles is just a jaunt for a justice of the peace dry raiding squad. . . . The tail of the comet, through which the earth must pass, shows traces of gas, the professors tell us. . . . If we in America will not mind this, we are glad to know it's a comet, anyhow. We had thought it was a bookcase. . . . And let's be thankful. No one can swim that far.

A New York man is getting ready to run across country to San Francisco. Why stop at Erisco?

Building Up Souls "What a contribution it would be if we could but lure them from these pernicious activities and bring them here to save them from harm and deintegration and, instead to give them something that would build up their souls!"

Senator J. Boombloom McWhorter feels that the burning desire of the people for all-year-around night sessions has been amply demonstrated by the overflow audiences which came during the all too few night sessions toward the close of the Sixty-ninth Congress.

He confidently expects to obtain passage of a constitution amendment to put his plan into effect. Some senators and congressmen will balk, of course, but the country will rise as one man to demand it.

"And think of the laws we'll pass!" concluded Senator J. Boombloom McWhorter.

IN NEW YORK SEE-SAWING and down BROADWAY

NEW YORK, March 17.—It takes but a peep of sunshine at the turning point of winter to bring out all these colorful signs of spring native to Manhattan.

The first peep of the robin does not enter into the subject, for robins are few and far between in New York. Sparrows and pigeons form the city's bird population and manage to carry on life from the precarious angles of elevated stations, the minarets of big Fifth avenue churches and such spots.

But spring in New York is heralded by the balloon and pinwheel men of Central park. They come out of hiding, even as the groundhog, take a look at the sun and if it be bright and the snow be melting, there they are at the various park entrances and their song of spring comes something like this: "Floons—Boay-loon! Boay-loon!"

The reds, yellows and whites of their wares challenge the first green peepings of the snow covered grasses.

Over on the east side it's the carousel on which the children may ride for a penny. It is a tiny merry-go-round, mounted upon a tumble-down wagon and made about by an emaciated horse. It is operated by a hand wheel at the rear and all through the long day the other kinds out the penny riders while all the East Side gathers about with its pennies waiting its turn. There is perhaps no other place in America where this playing of the European side streets may be found, and they are fast disappearing in New York.

For what thrill remains in a squeaky, slow turning tub, when auto rides may be grabbed and steeply indulged in at Coney Island? But the carousel was not meant for the competition of Ford's and Coney Island.

It is a primitive, peasant device which, coming down the streets with the first spring sun, breathes of simple folk and simple courtyards in faraway lands.

Reisner grinders chant their strange songs up and down the byways, and around every corner come the organ grinders. There is a little garage over on an East Side street where the asthmatic tune-makers of the curbstones are stored for the winter.

There are but one two hand organ men who make their beats come steet or beat, and they are doubly rewarded when their music penetrates barred windows on blizzard days. Like civil war veterans, their ranks seem to decrease each season, and familiar old faces are searched for in vain.

Perhaps one winter blast was a bit too chill. And newcomers arrive with bigger and better organs. But they can not fill the place of the old-fashioned hardy-gurdy men whose hand organs were seldom in tune and whose music dated back to "Sweet Rosie O'Grady."

A Thought

Neither cast ye your pearls before swine,—Matthew vii:6. A man exercising no forethought will soon experience present sorrow.—Confucius.

TECH'S SUMMER TERM PROMISES

Experts Will Have Charge Of Various Departments Of Hot Weather Session

With completion of preliminary plans for the summer term of the Tech college, and with well known specialists from various parts of the nation to have charge of classes in the several departments, officials of the college are expecting a large attendance at the second summer school.

Daily Memory Test

Since today is St. Patrick's Day, what more fitting than that "Now You Ask One" should be made up of questions about Ireland and the Irish? It is, and you don't need to be a born Irishman to answer them, either. The answers are in the next column.

- 1-What is the Gaelic name for Ireland? 2-What is the meaning of the words "Sinn Fein"? 3-What Irish city is the stronghold of the Orangemen? 4-What was the nationality of St. Patrick? 5-What part of Ireland is famous for its lakes? 6-What famous Irish patriot was hanged by the British in 1827? 7-In what county of Ireland is the famous Blarney Stone located? 8-How must one be held in order to kiss this stone? 9-What are the four provinces of Ireland? 10-What Irish leader, who led the Free State forces after extended fighting with the English, was shot from ambush by Republican leaders five years ago?

of the institution. Data and material have been prepared for the summer bulletin, and sent to the printers, and these will be distributed throughout the state, it was said.

Among the well known educators who will have classes in the summer school are: Dr. R. E. Carter, of the department of education of the University of Indiana, who will have charge of the problem project; W. A. Stiles, president of the El Paso Junior college; J. W. Cantwell, superintendent of public schools at Wichita Falls; N. A. Holland, superintendent of the Stamford public schools; and Miss Lola Hamlett, of Houston, who conducted classes in penmanship and public school art here last year. Others will be added to the faculty.

Trial Of Prison Official Opened

IRVING, Texas, Mar. 17 (AP).—Trial of the case of W. T. Hill charged with the killing of Wiley Ziegler, a prisoner at the Houston city farm last June, started in criminal district court here Wednesday.

Selection of a jury from a special venire of 100 men began at 11:30 a. m. It is charged that Hill, who was in charge of the Houston farm, beat Ziegler so severely with a bull-whip that the prisoner died.

After 40 Years, Son Finds Lost Mother In Old Folks' Home

BY ROY J. GIBBONS
NEA Service Writer
(Copyright, 1927, NEA Service, Inc.)
CHICAGO, Mar. 17.—Over the hill to the old folks' home in the valley near Blanchardville, Wis., went Mrs. Sarah Hoisington.

She had fought the good fight. Now, with the white hair of her 83 years tucked under a poke bonnet, and the memories of unavailing toil and much-echoed string out into the past, she bowed her head in resignation as if to a fate.

They took her in and gave her an old folks' home's comforts. Her hands were gnarled with service for others. There was a wistful look in her dimming eyes.

Those at the home knew little about her because she told them nothing. Life had tossed her up. She was somebody's mother. But whose, she thought of the husband who had left her 40 years before to wander away, never to be heard from. She thought of the two children with whom she had made her home, and who now were dead.

But most of all she thought of Willie. Her Willie—the boy whom her husband had taken with him almost half a century before. Was he dead, too? She wondered.

The Wanderer
Meanwhile Willie Hoisington had fared far. His father had taken him away, and then the father had disappeared. Willie had grown up. He had moved about from city to city, remembering little of the past.

He had married and moved to Chicago. The past, a mystery had always fascinated him. Where was his mother?

There came two daughters and then a son. These grew up. They were Willie's children. The past, the last legend of Willie's boyhood, mystified his own children just as it did him.

One of Willie's daughters married and two grandchildren came. The maternal urge spurred on the mother.

"Dad," she said one day, "you say Wisconsin is the state you remember your father took you from. Maybe your mother stayed behind if she is living I want her to see her grandchildren. Let's try to find her."

Many letters were sent out. Finally she came in reply from the Blanchardville, Wis., postmaster. It said an old lady named Hoisington had been received at the county home seven years ago. She now was near death, it added.

Willie went immediately to Blanchardville. A feeble old lady roused from what everybody believed was her death bed, met him. She didn't know him and he could not remember her.

"I'll tell you a story," she said. "Do you remember this?" And then she told him of an incident that had happened in Willie's early boyhood. Willie remembered. He supplied the details.

"My boy," cried Mrs. Hoisington. "Come, mother," said Willie. "You are coming home with me. My mother: if I only had found you before."

Wins Fight For Life
Grandchildren and great-grandchildren greeted her on her arrival at Chicago.

"Willie," she said, "it is too good to be true. When I found you were my son I was ready to die right there in your arms. I thought of the years that had passed. I had given you up for dead long with your father."

"Willie, though 82 himself—a prosperous manufacturer—but still a boy to his rediscovered mother, smiled through the tears in his eyes.

"Mother, will you make me some of your coffee?" he asked.

Doctors had given up Mrs. Hoisington to die. Not because of the reunion with her "Willie" she has recovered.

Love and happiness combined to effect the miracle of the restoration of her health.

"Willie loves my coffee. God bless everything," she said.

AFTER THE REUNION—"Willie's" mother pours a cup of coffee for him in the Hoisington's Chicago home.

Broadway Rates Aimee McPherson As A Stage 'Flop'; Gate Receipts Are Short

By GENE COHN
NEA Service Writer
NEW YORK, Mar. 17.—It may interest the 15,000 faithful of Angelus Temple to know that the Broadway show she consigned to perdition is ready to give their little girl Aimee a chance any time she agrees to take the sin out of dancing.

Here in a town that thinks it knows a little about the show game, Mrs. McPherson actually is labeled as a type too familiar to anything but a contract from those who know a box-office when they see it. It is willing to be amused by her but not converted.

Good Ballyhoo Woman
Broadway, somehow, does not discriminate between a good ballyhoo man for a medicine show and a good ballyhoo woman for the old-time religion. Broadway slants a certain similarity of method. But which borrowed from which is relatively unimportant.

Now that it's all over and the event-chant their "glory-be" and "hallelu-jah" at the proper moment of a revival, the tabloid influence is certain to bring out the sort of people who pack a courtroom for a Browning-Peaches separation case.

However, the dynamically optimistic Aimee says she sees signs everywhere of the return of the old-time religion. She feels that in cities, towns and hamlets, the unrest and chaos of mind-breathes of strained souls that need to be restored by evangelical methods.

Yes, it's coming back—the old-time religion. The hundred per cent Bible. And they will never be happy until they get it," says Aimee.

Huge Pans For Money
But Broadway is a bit cynical of altruism, particularly when huge pans are passed about as collection boxes and the money is hurriedly carried away to a hotel safe.

Broadway's slant on Aimee is quite impersonal and without animus. It is willing to grant even, that it has been a mighty poor year for road shows and to give due credit to one who can pack in 15,000 people and provide a church entertainment that keeps them coming back.

If, say its chiefs, the theater is the hell pictured by the evangelist, then she is approximating her own closely as possible in many of her own performances.

An engine two feet long and six inches high, and making its own steam from coal, hauled trucks carrying 17 adult passengers in England recently.

Fifteen women and men took a swim in the Vistula at Warsaw recently with the water four degrees low zero.

Texas Lady, Victim of Catarrh Tells How Tanlac Helped Her

Operation failed to help Mrs. J. B. Calhoun. Constipation and stomach catarrh wrecked her health. Tanlac results surprised and delighted her. Praises this great natural tonic Wasted from 150 to 120 lbs. A martyr to stomach catarrh and chronic constipation. Nervous, weak and subject to frightening dizzy spells. Unable to eat or sleep. Those were some of the symptoms that made life unbearable for Mrs. J. B. Calhoun, respected matron of 111 Georgia Street, Amarillo, Texas.

"I was ill for a year or more," Mrs. Calhoun stated. "My operation had left me weak and anemic. I had neither strength, ambition or courage left when I decided to try Tanlac. Nothing else has ever done me so much good, and I would not take words for what it did for me. In three months' time, after using eight or ten bottles, I was entirely relieved of all the distress which had troubled me. I really did not expect much of Tanlac, in view of how other remedies failed. But the results it gave surprised and delighted me."

"Now I have no trouble about my food; can eat or digest anything, sleep naturally and have built my weight from 120 to 150 lbs. Three years have passed since then, without any recurrence of the old conditions."

Tanlac is nature's own remedy a body builder, made from roots, bark and herbs. If you're rundown or weak get a trial bottle from your druggist today. Over 52 million bottles sold.

When Should You Use Ice?

Certainly you don't want to serve milk that has been improperly kept; you don't want good butter to get stale too quickly, you don't want vegetables and meats spoiled—and when the thermometer gets up to present-day heights those are the things that will happen that will happen unless you have your ice-chest filled with ice.

Start Ice Delivery

It is false economy to do without ice when foods require it for preservation. Too it is dangerous to health to serve foods that are perishable and that are not properly kept.
