KIMBLE COUNTY ENTRIES IN INTERSCHOLASTIC MEET WIN FIRST PLACES FRIDAY

Early Settler Succumbs After Long Sickness

Mr. W. S. McPeters, pioneer settler in Kimble County, died at his home in Junction Saturday morning. Death terminated an illness that extended over a period of three years. He had received treatment from noted doctors, but no avail.

Funeral services were held Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the Junction Cemetery, with Elder J. S. Newman officiating. The local Masonic Lodge had charge of the funeral services.

Mr. McPeters was born in Atascosa County, Texas, on May 16, 1860. In the year 1877, when he was only 17 years old, the family came to Kimble County and settled on Johnson Fork, near the present site of Segovia. He lived there many years and in 1906 moved to San Saba County where he lived for fourteen years, moving from there to Menard County, living there until 1928 when he returned to Junction, remaining here until his death last Saturday morning.

Deceased is survived by his wife, one brother, John McPeters, of Junction; and three sisters, Mrs. M. L. Gillette, Sweetwater; Mrs. S. E. Phillips, Junction; and Mrs. B. F. Davis, Junction.

TRUCK OVERTURNS ON ROCKSPRINGS HIGHWAY

A truck driven by A. J. Hendricks was overturned on the Rocksprings highway about one mile out of town last Sunday morning.

A. J. Hendricks, Sherman Hendricks, L. E. Dunbar, Howard and Reagan Lister were riding in the truck when it overturned.

L. E. Dunbar, Howard and Reagan Lister were taken to the Standifer Hospital where they received treatment for minor injuries, but none of the boys were seriously hurt. The wreck was caused when Hendricks lost control of the car after it had hit a dip in the highway. The truck was not damaged badly.

The proposal which will be made by County Judge J. B. Randolph is that a monument of granite or marble shall be erected in a conspicuous place on the court house lawn. Action on the matter will be taken Monday.

Help The Census Taker

Help Junction get credit for its real size. If you are not listed in the census count, telephone Mr. C. W. Atchison or Mr. E. Holckamp, or go to them and list your name.

There are several who have not yet been listed by these enumerators. Some people do not readily answer door bells, and possibly other were away when the enumerator called.

The count will be completed soon, and everyone should strive to see that Junction gets credit for every person that lives here.

Lions Accept Rotarians' Challenge For Baseball Game Here Monday

Free Lunch To Be Served 4-H Club Members

One of the features of the Kimble County 4H Livestock and Poultry Show which will be held here May 9 and 10 will be a free barbecue dinner for every 4H club boy and girl in the county and the members of the Future Farmers of Texas Club.

A committee will be appointed this week, and plans for the work will be made. Actual work of placing the names on the street corners will be begun in the near future.

There were seventeen members and four guests present. The guests were Messrs. C. T. Holckamp, V. P. Emmons and Guy C. Moses and the Rev. G. W. Crabb.

The challenge issued by the Junction Rotary Club to play a base ball game between the Rotarians and Lions was accepted by the Lions Club and a committee composed of Clay Sequest, L. D. Borden and E. M. McLendon was appointed to meet with the Rotarians to make plans for the game and to decide on the date and make arrangements.

A short program was given after lunch. Little Edwina Lowgren gave two interesting readings. Leon R. Powell and Eddie Lowgren made short talks.

COMMISSIONERS' COURT WILL DECIDE ON WAR MEMORIAL MONDAY

The Commissioners' Court of Kimble County will decide Monday whether or not a suitable monument to commemorate the memory of the sons of Kimble County who made the supreme sacrifice in the World War, will be built.

The proposal which will be made by County Judge J. B. Randolph is that a monument of granite or marble shall be erected in a conspicuous place on the court house lawn. Action on the matter will be taken Monday.

Summer School Will Be Held Here This Year

For the first time in the history of the Junction Public Schools, an accredited summer school will be conducted this summer. The session will open on June 2 and will last eight weeks. Superintendent Guy C. Moses will be in charge of the school.

The work which students take in the summer term will be accepted as full credit.

It was decided to have a summer school after several requests had been made to Superintendent Moses. He had requests from out of town people who wished to spend the summer in Junction and send their children to school.

Date For May Fete is Changed To May 10th

The date for the Carnival and May Fete, sponsored by the Junction Parent-Teachers' Association, which was set for May 2, has been changed to May 10. Plans for the fete are going forward, and a large crowd is expected to attend.

The May Fete will be held on the high school campus. Mrs. C. W. Atchison is chairman of the committee on arrangements. Booths will be erected for the sale of candy, soda water, ice cream, etc. A regular Mexican supper will also be served.

Coronation of the queen will be the outstanding event of the evening. May pole dances, folk dances and a varied program will be given. These features are under the direction of Miss Austin Durst.

Every school in the county is invited to participate in the program, and any school may have a booth on the grounds, provided the necessary requirements are met.

Crockett Bond Issue Is Almost Unanimous

Crockett County voted 253 to 11 for the $375,000 road bond issue at the election held Saturday, April 12. A previous election was declared void because of some irregularity. In the Ozona box there were only two opposing votes.

The people of Crockett County are for good roads and have shown this fact in the two elections held. The completion of the road construction program in Crockett County will close a big gap in the O. S. T. Voting of the bond will provide for hard-surfacing of approximately 82 miles of highway in Crockett County. The Crockett County voters are to be congratulated upon their overwhelming vote which they cast in the election for good roads.

A committee composed of E. R. Borden, Captain H. W. Rieck and Edgar McLendon had charge of the folder.

The game will be played at the Firemen's field Monday afternoon at 2:30.

Will Play in Pajamas
The committee in charge of arrangements decided that the official uniforms for the contests would be pajamas of any hue.

A petition is being circulated to get all merchants to close their stores from 2:30 until 5 p. m. for the game.

The proceeds will be divided between the Junction Fire Department, Parent Teachers Association and the Cemetery Association. The organization that sells the most tickets for the game will be presented with a prize of five dollars. Tickets will be on sale by the above named organizations.

All veterans of this brigade, their wives and widows, sons, daughters and all veterans of other organizations are invited to attend this reunion.

FIRE DEPARTMENT IS VICTORIOUS AGAIN

The Junction Fire Department base ball team won over the Mason team Sunday by the score of 14 to 11. Both teams knocked the ball all over the lot, and fair fielding by the Junction team in the closing innings kept the Mason bunch from winning.

Louis Ragland and Alex Wahl did the pitching for Junction with Perry Dechert on the receiving end.

No doubt, with lamb and mutton as low in price as they are, the producers are consoling themselves that it might be worse. For instance an Associated Press dispatch from Brisbane, Australia, tells that sheepmen in the Mungindi district of Queensland, where there has been little rain for two years, made a big deal—the sold 1,700 sheep at the rate of 35c a dozen.

Hon. Walter C. Woodward Again Enters Race For State Senator

Hon. Walter C. Woodward, well and favorably known to the voters of Junction and Kimble County, announces for re-election as State Senator. His announcement follows:

To the citizenship of Kimble County:

I am today announcing myself as a candidate for re-election to the State Senate from this the 25th Senatorial District composed of the following counties, to-wit: Brown, Coleman, Comanche, Concho, Coke, Gillespie, Irion, Kimble, Mason, McCulloch, Menard, Mills, Runnels, Schleicher, Sterling and Tom Green.

I am a Democrat. I have never scratched a Democratic nominee. In asking the people to re-elect me to the State Senate, I have in mind that this office belongs to the people; that you have the right to choose your State Senator. When first elected in 1925 in drawing for the long and short terms, I drew the short term. I was re-elected in 1927 for a full term, therefore have served a term and a half.

If I have served you faithfully and efficiently, I believe I have the right to ask you to re-elect me for a second full term. I claim no distinction of service other than a faithful effort to perform my official duties, keeping in mind at all times the interest and welfare of the people whom I represent. I believe my service and experience in the Senate has qualified me to better serve you another term and want to serve you one more term.

Big problems are to be solved during the next four years. The people must come into their own and the people must regulate the affairs of this state. Corporate greed and special interest have had their way long enough. If re-elected I want to help bring about the accomplishment of needed reforms such as:

The re-adjustment, equalization and reduction of the tax burdens now resting upon the shoulders of the average citizen. This must and can be done.

The educational institutions of Texas must be amply provided for, especially the public schools, and in particular, the rural schools.

Texas must not be burdened with millions of bonded indebtedness, therefore I am opposed to a state-wide bond issue for road building purposes. Let Texas remain solvent. Issuing bonds is a bad habit and a dangerous precedent to set and Texas must not burden herself with debt. Four cent gasoline tax is entirely sufficient and it produces enough money for any Commission to spend in the building of roads. With the growth and development of Texas, I hope the time will come when we may reduce even the gasoline tax.

We have already reduced the license fees on family used automobiles. We have eliminated the registration and license fees on the farmers' trailers and I hope during the next Legislature we can further reduce the registration and license fees on family used cars and the farmers' trucks and I hope.

We can and I hope will reduce the ad valorem tax for state purposes on property so that this income may be derived from special sources and from special interests, thus relieving the home owner of at least that burden of the tax.

I helped to pass the law protecting the interest of the school children by amending old statutes and passing new laws, dealing with the public free school and University lands as relate to minerals thereunder. I helped to pass the Small land bill, reserving to the owners the so-called river beds upon their lands. I am proud of my assistance in the passage of these laws.

The rivers and streams of Texas and the flood waters must be preserved for the use and benefit of the citizens of Texas. To this end I shall urge the amendment of our laws so that priorities in the use of water shall be preserved, first, for municipal and domestic purposes; second, for irrigation purposes, including agricultural and live stock; third, other domestic purposes, and, fourth, hydro-electric power purposes.

For the need of a State Utility Commission, to the end that some existing agency of the State, such as the Railroad Commission, or an independent commission, may be formed in order to supervise, regulate and otherwise determine just and fair rates to be charged by electric power companies, gas, water, telegraph and telephone companies.

I want to further aid, in my district, the great humanitarian institution, the State Tuberculosis Sanatorium near San Angelo. It is the only state institution in this district. Through the splendid Dr. McKnight and his staff, men and women are being restored to health. I am happy indeed to have taken an active part in having appropriated nearly two hundred thousand dollars to establish and equip a children's department and which is now under construction.

I have aided in creating the largest educational fund for common school purposes ever created in Texas. It was my bill in the Senate which increased the per capita for school purposes to $17.50, the largest in the history of the state and this was for the benefit of the average boy and girl seeking a common education.

If re-elected, which I feel I deserve, I will return my commission to you at the end of the next term free from fraud or corruption.

Respectfully,
Walter C. Woodward,
Coleman, Texas.

Churches Important In Community Life

Junction lays claim to a distinction that is probably unique among towns of its size. During the past three years no less than five new church buildings have been erected. Certainly this speaks eloquently of the moral and religious interest and standards of the citizenship. The buildings are commodious, well-built and unusually attractive in appearance. The following denominations are represented: Baptist, Catholic, Christian, Church of Christ, Episcopal, Methodist and Presbyterian.

STOCK SALT AND FEED

Before buying your stock salt, cake, corn and oats see Dan St. Clair. He can supply your needs along this line at special prices.

Standifer Hospital News

Mrs. E. L. Smitherman returned to her home Saturday after a successful operation.

Mrs. Fred Lester underwent an operation this week. She is getting along nicely.

Mr. Harvey Engler returned to his home Friday after receiving treatment for a fractured leg. He was in the hospital ten days.

Mrs. Wheat Bradford returned home Thursday after undergoing a successful operation.

L. E. Dunbar, Howard and Reagan Lister received treatment Sunday for minor injuries sustained in an automobile accident.

CARD OF THANKS

We desire to thank the people of Junction for the words of sympathy and deeds of kindness shown during the lingering illness and death of our husband and brother. We thank everyone who assisted us in any way during his long illness.

Mrs. W. S. McPeters,
Brothers and Sisters.

SEWER CONNECTIONS

At a recent meeting of the City Council an order was passed asking the City Secretary to notify the residents of Junction of its intention to enforce the sections of the SEWER ORDINANCE relating to sewer connections. The following is the ordinance pertaining to sewer connections:

"After 90 days notice by the City Council it shall be unlawful for any person or persons, whatsoever to use or maintain, or permit to be used or maintained, on any premises situated on the line of the sewer, or within limits prescribed and designated in this ordinance, and owned, rented, leased, or controlled by any person or persons any privy, cesspool, water-closet, urinal basin, slop sink, slop drain, bath tub, or waste water drain from laundry, live-ry stable, or any receptacle whatsoever, used or to be used for the purpose of receiving or removing sewage, waste, or slop of any kind, unless the same shall be connected with the system of sanitary sewers of the City of Junction, Texas.

Penalty

"That any person, firm or association, or corporation who fail to comply with, or violate this ordinance shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be fined in any sum not less than five dollars nor more than fifty dollars. Each day constitutes a separate offense."

John S. Munn,
City Secretary.

READ THE ADS

The Eagle believes that Kimble County people should trade with Kimble County merchants. When we send our money to the big mail order houses we are taking money out of Kimble County that should remain here. The mail order houses do not help you when you want to build churches, schools, court houses, roads and many other things that build up our country. Read the ads in the Eagle this week, and every week, and compare the prices with the mail order houses. When the quality is considered you do not save any money by ordering. Our merchants handle high quality merchandise and give a service that cannot be obtained from the mail order houses. The profits made by the home merchants are invested here, but the profits made by the mail order houses go to the money centers never to return. Read the ads and keep Kimble County money at home.

Cowboy Poem Recalls Trip Up The Trail

A clipping from the "Junction City Clipper," published more than thirty-five years ago, was brought to the Junction Eagle office—by Mr. John McPeters, who has preserved the article many years. He worked with the men mentioned in this poem and knew them intimately. It was written by J. R. Pettit when a group were taking a bunch of cattle up the trail. He sent it back to the Clipper and it was published there. Here is the clipping:

Sam Hunter's Trail Hands

Sam Hunter's our Boss; we call him the best
That ever drove cattle o'er the trail in the west;
He is good to the boys, for they're all well trained.
They will stay with the cattle through the cold stormy rain.
Sam, oh Sam, boss man, boss man,
Give us the fingers of your right hand;
Sam Hunter, Sam Hunter, don't sleep on a cot;
He is the best old boss Mabery has got.

George Pearl works on the point on the left,
For he is second boss, and Sam Hunter's pet;
He is a daisy old pointer—he has been on the trail,
He cares for nothing but his whiskey and ale.

Rance Pettitt works on the point on the right—
He and Henry Carver did once like to fight;
That is all the row we have had on the trail;
The boss fired Henry at Vernon and home he did sail.

Poor Theo. Brockman looks pale and care worn;
If he'd tell us his troubles we'd help him to mourn;
He works in the swing behind George Pearl.
And whistles and sings all the time of his girl.

Poor Henry Carver was getting so weak,
He went to the boss to get a night's sleep;
The good old boss did grant his request.
He went to the wagon and got a night's rest.

John Cowser's a flanker, on the right flank.
If you give him advice, you he will thank;
He whistles a tune—says he's cold as a wedge,
As he is jogging along on old "Straight Edge."

Tom Pettitt is a flanker, so I am told.
His feet in his stirrups, and shivering with cold
He rides up the flank, but returns too soon—
Gets with the drags and augurs Jake Spoon.

Jake Spoon's the flank puncher—so slowly he rides,
He punches the dogies from center to side;
Jake is an old puncher—has been there before—
Has punched the dogies in gone days of yore.

Will Corder's the horse ranger—a kid you all know.
He ranges the horses wherever they go.
He was a fast old lad when he began to round up—
He combed his head over a skillet of chuck.

John Gentry's the cook—he's getting quite bold.
He sets out the chuck, and it's always cold;
The boys do not like it, but John doesn't care—
He's a bad looking man—him the boys all fear.

This was composed on the lone cow trail,
By one whose initials I'll give, without fail;
This one individual you may nevermore see,
But his initials, dear friends, are J. R. P.

LONDON LOCALS

The light rains have revived everything considerably but we need a general pourdown until this valley is well soaked.

Mr. J. R. Smith and Mr. Howard Horn went to the Rio Grande River fishing last week. They were very successful—in having a good time and plenty of exercise. John Rush and his fishing crew got all that on the Llano. Saves gas. See?

Mr. and Mrs. Bill McCollum are the happy young parents of a new born babe. All doing well except Grandpa Lambert.

Our clever postoffice inspector, Mr. Macy, was here for a few minutes on the 16th.

Mr. J. C. Beckham has sold his Junction and Mason mail contract to Mr. Porter who took the line over the 17th. The patrons along the line regret to lose Mr. Beckham as he has won the confidence of all the patrons and postmasters. No doubt Mr. Porter will give us excellent service, but Mr. Beckham has somewhat spoiled us.

Mr. Tom Horn of the Red Creek section of our community was in town last week. Mr. Horn states he did not get but little rain, but his livestock is doing very well considering the cold winter and dry spring.

The London Graphic takes a firm stand for law and order. We tip our hat to Mr. Swinney and extend to him our hand in fellowship. It is senseless and next to unbearable for a bunch of drunks to hang around the streets for two hours after a gathering breaks up and others have gone home, disturbing residents of their needed rest. It is a violation of law and should be prosecuted.

W. C. Swinney attended the Lions Club at Menard last Friday. He reports a real good time, especially at lunch. He states he transacted business rapidly at that hour.

We are glad indeed to make the statement that Mr. Rawleigh Kothmann's condition is much improved. Rawleigh will soon be up and about if he continues to improve.

One would think we were in a period of unexcelled prosperity should we judge by the crowds that attend the skating rink. Well, there is no use whining, the skating rink is a place of real sport, but it is woefully short, and somewhat dangerous, physically, and otherwise carrying a (?) mark.

We are informed our people will observe Mother's Day with an appropriate program at night.

We learn the ball game between London and Rocksprings Sunday resulted in defeat for London.

Mr. and Mrs. Cole were here visiting the home of Mrs. Cole's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Brewer, this week.

Miss Victoria Brewer and a number of pupils of our school attended the district meet at San Angelo Friday and Saturday of last week.

Judge Weaver H. Baker of the law firm of Stevenson, Baker & Knetch of Junction was a welcome visitor in our town Friday, the 18th. Weaver is one of Kimble County's progressive men and is just one of us when he comes to London.

This reminds us of the fact that Judge Baker is a candidate for the office of District Attorney for the 112th Judicial District. Mr. Baker has served his home county to the standard of high proficiency in the capacity of County Attorney and County Judge and has rendered many other public services for the people of Kimble County and it is now only natural that he should seek higher honors and a broader field for service. Mr. Baker is well qualified to fill the office he seeks and would render service with credit. He is honest, honorable and fearless, he holds firmly to the higher ideals of life and endeavors to point his fellows to a higher plane.

The people of the 112th Judicial District would make no mistake in electing him to the office of district attorney, but to the contrary, knowing him as I know him, I am sure he would render such service and prove himself to be that type of public official that the entire district would be justly proud of him.

ROOSEVELT ROUND-UPS

Mr. Clarence left Monday to spend a week with his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Simon, at Austin.

Mrs. Phil Felps and little daughter, Bennie Dean, left Sunday for New Mexico where Mr. Fields is employed there with the Humble Oil Co. Mr. August, Arthur and C. W. Simon spent Sunday in Fredericksburg at their father's bedside. They reported their father improving.

SYCAMORE SAYINGS

We are glad to report Miss Lorena Hull improving fast since her serious illness last week. Dr. H. E. Wright was called to her bedside twice last week.

Miss Mary Frances Hodges spent the week-end with her mother and was accompanied back to Mr. M. Hull's Sunday afternoon by her brother, Mr. Douglas Hodges, wife and baby and Miss Quick.

Miss M. F. Hodges' school closes next Friday after a successful term of eight months. Mr. Ben Neal and family attended Sunday School at Sycamore Sunday afternoon.

Messrs. Johnnie Freeman and N. Thorp were shopping in Junction Saturday.

Mr. Lane Hodges and family spent Easter Sunday with his parents, F. M. Hodges and wife. Mr. Alfred Miller and family spent Sunday with Mr. Sam Jeter's family.

Mr. and Mrs. Jessie Miller and baby were guests Sunday with Mrs. Miller's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Brown, at Blue Mountains.

The Hull school had an Easter egg hunt Sunday afternoon. Mr. Jim R. Hodges and wife spent the week-end at Eastland, guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Gibson.

A number from our community attended the show in Junction Monday night.

Why bother to write jokes when one can get a dialogue like the following, overheard at the bureau of naturalization?
"Where is Washington?"
"Oh, he has passed on."
"I mean the capital of the United States."
"Oh, they loaned it all to Europe."

"Do you promise to support the Constitution?"
"Me? How can I? I've a wife and six children to support."—Brooklyn Eagle.

HOMANN-CHERRY

Mr. Richard E. Homann and Mrs. Elsie Cherry were solemnly united in marriage at the St. Peter's Episcopal Church in Kerrville on Friday morning, April 18, with the Rev. F. M. Brasier, rector, performing the ceremony.

Immediately after the ceremony a few friends from Junction gave the happy couple a few surprises when they offered congratulations. Mr. J. S. Farmer, Mrs. C. T. Holekamp and Mrs. Carl Wolf were present at the wedding, and Mr. Farmer was master of ceremonies after the wedding.

The car in which the newlyweds were to leave Kerrville had been plastered up with banners carrying the news, "We Are Just Married." A large cow bell dangled from the chassis of the car to the ground.

The wedding was a simple ring ceremony, but very impressive. Mr. J. S. Farmer was best man, and Mrs. Carl Wolf was the attendant for the bride. Mr. Milton Boyd of San Antonio was also present for the wedding ceremony.

After the wedding the couple left for San Antonio and Corpus Christi and other cities for their honeymoon. When they return to Junction, they will be at home at Kimble Courts.

Mrs. Homann is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Buck. She has lived in Junction practically all her life and has a host of friends who wish for the couple much success and happiness.

Mr. Homann, who is County Agent for Kimble County, has been in Junction nearly a year, coming here from Winters, Texas.

He has made a splendid record in his work among the ranchmen and farmers of the county and is very well liked by the people of the county.

The Junction Eagle extends its sincerest congratulations to the couple and wish for them much happiness and prosperity.

Miss Baker is the daughter of Mrs. Jim Baker who lives on Cedar Creek. The bride is a graduate of the Junction High School, and has many friends in Junction.

The many friends of this couple wish for them many years of happiness and prosperity.

EASTER PARTY

Last Friday afternoon Margaret Bruce gave an Easter party to Miss Sallie Blackburn's school children. After playing several Easter games they were taken to the dining room where angel food cake and punch were served. The table was attractively decorated with Easter bunnies, chicks and eggs.

Those enjoying the Easter party were: Willis Amye Mason, J. W. Johnson, Udell and Lanier Bradford, little Evelyn Bruce and Margaret Bruce.

EASTER PARTY

Saturday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Rieck gave an Easter egg hunt, complimenting their children, Jimmie, Billy and Anne, at their home near Kimble Courts.

The shady lawn provided an attractive play ground where Miss Marie Faris supervised the games.

After the play hour the children were led in a march through the house. Each returned with a basket which contained sandwiches, potato chips, angel food cake, a carton of strawberry ice cream, a bottle of soda water and Easter eggs. Rabbits, filled with Easter candies, were given as favors.

After the refreshments had been consumed the little folk were invited to the adjoining lot where an egg hunt was enjoyed.

A Common Power Supply

When a group of towns draw on a combined power supply they do more than improve their own power resources. The transmission network constructed to serve them provides a base from which to extend service to the surrounding farm territory.

Thus the trade territory of the towns is enabled to share in the same ample supply of power—and the advantages for the farm are turned into advantages for the towns which serve the farms.

This is one of the important consequences of the replacement of isolated plants by wide-spread transmission systems such as this Company maintains to serve a broad area.

GUNMAN'S BLUFF

Edgar Wallace

COPYRIGHT BY EDGAR WALLACE

THIRTEENTH INSTALLMENT

SYNOPSIS

Ray Leferre forgot the name of Luke Maddison, wealthy banker and his sister Margaret's fiancé, to a large check. He found out with a note his hand writing accusing Maddison of having ruined after he has given her everything he owns. She leaves him, telling him she has ruined him to revenge her brother. Luke, bewildered, wanders about London, attacked by thugs who accuse him of being a detective, recovered in hospital to find he is known as "Smith." In this new character he becomes involved with the Gunner gang, who mistake him for an Australian crook named Smith, and he made an unwilling accomplice in a jewel robbery. He does not know that Margaret has returned and has turned to his bankers all the money he gave her, to the dismay of one Danton Morell, who is his brother's friend, concerning whom Gunner Haynes, an American jewel thief, whom Maddison knew also as the Squire, is likewise interested in Morell. Maddison goes to his own old haunts, where he is taken for a burglar, escapes from the police and tries to get in touch with Detective Bird. The Gunner gang learns of this, and sends an inspector him in an underground cell near the river where he is certain, to be drowned when the tide rises. Meantime Margaret, revealing Luke's old name, finds a letter to his friend and lawyer saying that he is in desperate trouble. Margaret's joy over the discovery that Luke is alive and in London is interrupted by the arrival of Detective Bird that the man concerned in the jewel robbery whom she now knows was Luke, had been going around for two years with the woman whose accomplice he was.

Gunner Haynes drops into Joe Connor's hiding-place just before Luke's flight, and a large block of rock salt, intended to throw him in the river, when the salt and dissolve, the chains drop off and the body will be found without marks of violence. Haynes defies the Connor gang and takes Maddison into the yard, passing as he sees two men climbing the fence.

The Gunner takes Luke to his room and learns from him the reason Margaret hated him was because she blamed him for her brother's death. Then Haynes calls Margaret and offers to help her and her husband.

Maddison is kidnapped from Haynes' room. Meantime, Haynes gets into Danton Morell's room and finds there a letter which Ray Leferre had left for Margaret was a forgery. Ray had been trying to warn his sister against Luke, not against Luke. And Morell gets into Margaret's room and steals some black checks, one of which he forges Luke's name, and tries to get to the river.

Now go on with the story.

"For God's sake, Margaret, consider what you're doing!"

"She saw he was really alarmed; his voice was tremulous, his whole air suggested panic."

"I swear to you I don't know where Luke is—he was on a barge."

"Connor had him there. The swine didn't tell me that Maddison had signed a check. All he told me was that he jumped into the river and got away or was drowned—I don't know which. That's the truth. I knew nothing about it till Connor had found him. I swear to you this is the truth."

"Where is Connor?" she asked.

"I don't know. He was here this morning, and told me about Luke getting away. That is all the information I have. I didn't believe him, and probably it's a lie he told me."

He saw she was undecided and eagerly sought to turn her from her intention. He had no doubt that she meant what she had said.

"She did not know what to do. 'Could you find Haynes for me?'"

"Find Haynes?" he almost shouted. "You don't imagine I would communicate with that fellow, do you? He's a dangerous man, Margaret."

"Mrs. Maddison," she said coldly.

"He's dangerous—you ought not to have any dealings with him."

He did not attempt to deny the theft of the checks.

"You don't know where Mr. Maddison is at all?"

He accepted the corrected relationship without murmur.

"No, Mrs. Maddison, I've no idea. Connor's been looking for him all night."

When she returned home she found the Sparrow waiting for her on the doorstep. The sight of a large kitbag at his feet surprised her, and when he carried it into the house and into the little study on the ground floor, she was to have a shock. She did not recognize the crumpled clothes he took from the bag.

"These clothes were found in the possession of a river thief, who was trying to sell them this morning," he said. "He didn't know that your husband's name was stitched in the inside pocket."

"My husband's name?" she gasped, turning pale. "Where did he get them?"

"That's what I want to know. The yarn he tells is that last night he picked up a man who had come out of the river, and took him to a house. We've since verified that—though from the description I've had it couldn't possibly be Mr. Maddison, who is still abroad, I presume?"

Was there a note of sarcasm in his voice? She thought she detected it, and very wisely did not answer.

"The man said the clothes were given to him, but that of course is the usual yarn. I have reason to believe that they were stolen while the owner was in bed. Can you throw any light upon that?"

She shook her head. It was a pitiable confession, but she knew she could not even recognize an old suit of clothes worn by her husband. It was the suit into which he had changed when he broke into his flat.

"What do you make of that, Mrs. Maddison?"

She shook her head helplessly.

He couldn't be a suit your husband gave away, because the date it was delivered is written on the tag, and it must have been new a month ago."

He looked at her keenly.

"There's a lot of mystery about this husband of yours, Mrs. Maddison, and I think you're in some kind of trouble. I'd like to help you if I could."

She was going to speak, but he held up his hand to stop her.

"Don't tell me anything until I have told you just how much I know."

He ticked off the facts on the fingers of his hand. "I know your husband disappeared the day after your marriage. I know that there was a burglary at his flat, and that when the police arrived they recognized the man who had been concerned in a robbery that afternoon. I know that among the things stolen from his flat was a passport—I interviewed his servant subsequently, and he told me there was a passport in one of the drawers of the desk. Now, if there were any chance—and it seems one of those fantastic theories that writers make a lot of money from—that this man is Mr. Maddison, the best people to help him are the police. I know him well enough to be sure he wouldn't hold up Taffany's. If it's a question of impersonation—we can be more than useful. Won't you tell me, Mrs. Maddison?"

She was silent. With a shake of his head the detective told his departure, carrying with him the suit of clothes and a very deep-seated conviction.

It was a curious coincidence that he should have brought those crumpled garments to the house when, neatly packed away in a new suitcase in her bedroom, was the change of garments she had arranged for Luke.

She was puzzled as to the arrangements she could make that would be most convenient. She decided ultimately upon leaving the suitcase at a railway cloakroom. The ticket could be sent to Luke as soon as he was discovered. She waited for the night to come to carry this plan into effect.

The night brought its problems for Danton Morell. That afternoon, after Margaret Maddison had left him, he made a discovery which turned him sick with apprehension. He had lost his hold on Margaret; at any moment she might go to the police, and just then he was most anxious not to renew acquaintance with Scotland Yard. Things had gone badly with him; he owed a very large sum of money which had to be paid in the City on the following day; and now, with the added possibility of police intervention, his position was perilous.

Danton Morell was in some ways a careful man. However extravagant he might be, he had reserved for himself a fat nest egg in cash which, in spite of all temptation, he had never touched. He had collected the money that day from two or three accounts which he ran in an assumed name. Nothing was needed now but to follow the line of retreat he had planned. There was a small aerodrome on the outskirts of London, from which exhibition flights were given. Danty had found it expedient to finance the small company which owned the airplanes, and by telephone he arranged his flight. This was facilitated by the fact that the company had recently acquired a big rebuilt monoplane which was capable of a long flight. Danty, who had decided upon Switzerland for his first hop, gave orders for the storage of petrol and necessities for the journey. He certainly did not anticipate taking a companion with him, but he was not the only panic-stricken man in London.

Danty made a very quick search for papers which, left behind, might have awkward consequences, and his first attention was directed to the little box in which he kept the most dangerous of his correspondence. He brought this into the dining room before he discovered that the lock had been forced. With an exclamation he threw up the lid, shook out the contents—The one packet of letters that he had been mad to keep was gone! And the little telephone slip—that also had disappeared.

His hands were shaking so that he could hardly hold the papers he was examining. There was no need to speculate upon the identity of the man who had forced that box. The Gunner had been seen in the neighborhood; Pi Coles had told him that, and it had been the Gunner who had made this search and found the documents. Danty Morell saw death grinning at him; hypnotized into sheer inaction. When there came a knock at the outer door, he leaped up from his chair, a shivering wreck of a man, not daring to open to the visitor.

He calmed himself sufficiently to go to the door and demand who was there, and when he heard Connor's voice he could have cried aloud for joy.

"What's the matter with you?" asked Connor, when they were back in the room.

"I've had a bit of a shock, and I'm not particularly well. You know they're after those kites?"

Connor looked not particularly happy-looking.

"I know. They've stopped a check I sent to the bank and half the busies in London are looking for him. They know who it is, too—that's the worst of it. You're in this, Danty."

"We're both in it, aren't we?" snarled the other. "I'm getting out of London tonight."

Connor laughed raucously.

"You've got a fine chance of getting out of London, unless you take a rattler." And then, suddenly: "How are you going?"

It was on the tip of Danty's tongue to invent a method of escape, but just now he needed the association of Connor. Connor was not above using a gun in a pinch, and moreover, hated Gunner Haynes.

"I'm going by airplane from Eilford," he said. "We've got the Gunner to thank for this. He 'rattled'."

"He's never stopped squealing," said Connor without heat. "Where do you land in your flying machine?"

Danty told him his destination.

"That'll do for me," said Connor.

He looked at the papers on the table.

"Having a burn-up?" he asked pleasantly. And then: "How much stuff have you got?"

Here Danty lied. He could not tell the truth about money.

The conference was a brief one. They agreed to visit the aerodrome that evening and make final preparations for their journey. The journey through the suburbs into outer London was a silent one; now and again Danty lifted the flap at the back of the hired car in which they were traveling, and peered along the darkened road.

"What's the matter with you?" growled Connor.

"There's a car, a two-seater, following us."

"Why shouldn't it?" demanded the other sarcastically. "Do you want the road to yourself?"

A few minutes later, when Danty looked back, the little car had disappeared.

The preparations for the night's journey were not easily made. The pilot had only just been communicated with. He was on a holiday in the Midlands.

"It's a good job we came, or we might have been in Queer Street," said Connor as they were driving back. "What time did you say you'd be here?"

"About midnight."

"What are you looking for?" asked Connor ten minutes later. "The little car?"

"He pushed his companion aside and peered. "There's a motor lorry; has that got anything on us?" he demanded.

Danty said nothing. No man could know the terror that was in his heart. Behind him stalked the grim shadow of vengeance, and every second he expected to see the hawklike face of the Gunner peering into his from the darkness.

Danty did not go near his flat. He telephoned to Pi Coles and they met in the park, Pi bringing with him an overcoat and wrap which were to be Danty's sole luggage. His servant he rewarded liberally. There was nothing to do now but to pass the few hours which intervened before he left England forever.

The first chartered public utility in Texas was in Galveston—the Galveston Gas Co. chartered in 1856 by special grant of the Legislature. Galveston also had the first telephone exchange in Texas, while Laredo had the first street railroad, according to apparently authentic reports.

"SIX B" CLASS GIVES PROGRAM IN CHAPEL

Entertainment for chapel last Friday was given by the "Six B" class. The program was as follows:

"The Broken Hearted Ditchman," a reading by Mary Abel. A song by Lella Bessent and Mabel Hodges.

A song by Leon Turner and R. J. Hensley, in mockery of the girls' rendition.

A playette, "Getting Even," by Mabel Hodges. "Bluebird," by pupils in "Six B" class. The principal characters of this play were: Leon Turner—"Bluebird;" Letha Fae Taft—"Bluebird's" eighth wife; Mary Abel—"Bluebird's" wife's sister.

MARGARET HUBBELL IS MAY QUEEN CANDIDATE

The members of the Junior Class held a class meeting in room 13 at 8:45 Friday morning with the president, Raymond James, presiding.

Margaret Hubbell was elected as Junior candidate for May Queen by a majority of votes. The Juniors are going to back Margaret as much as possible, and they hope she will get the largest number of votes.

The Juniors regret having lost two of their classmates this week. Muriel Warren has withdrawn from school and Devers McElrath has moved. Muriel has been a chum to practically all the Juniors for a number of years and is greatly missed.

Devers, although he has not been here long, is an able, willing student and has shown his loyalty to the school in many ways.

Marie Dechert spent the week-end in Fredericksburg and Blanco.

EIGHTH GRADE PICNIC

Saturday afternoon Mrs. Joe Felps entertained the members of the eighth grade with a picnic at her home. Everyone present visited Fleming Cave and found it a very interesting visit. After they came out of the cave, they went to the river where lunch consisting of chicken sandwiches, potato chips and cookies was served. Those present were Maxine Wright, Athalia Burt, Edith Davis, Mabel Hodges, Lee Ola Hodges, Elsie Martin, Mae Della Lowry, Mary Lee Graves, Grace Hill, Christine Schraub, Kathryn Hodges, Overley Smith, Joe Roberts, Leon Turner, Roy Nelson, Dayton Blackburn, Clifton Schraub and Glenn Hodges. As she proceeded down the street she saw a (black) Smith. She thought she could Smel (ser) Black burn but it was only the black Smith making Taft(y) candy.

She immediately secured a room in the village (Mc) Inn (is). Here the Hens(ley) made so much noise she was forced to leave. At this time, she met her best friend whose name was Bess(ent). They immediately left on the steam ship Baugh for America.

"ROY'S ADVENTURES"

Once as Roy Bierschwald was traveling in the Wood, he passed through a large field of R(iley). He was very sad because his little sister was not Abel to accompany him.

When he started to Turn(er) a corner he saw a Savage digging a Grave(s). He Beck(oned) to him but he was afraid he would Rob(ert)s him.

Roy dashed to a Sheppard, who was tending his sheep near by, for protection. The Sheppard was assisted by his beautiful Collie(r) dog. The Sheppard directed him through a field. In it he saw a hay Baylor.

Roy leaped upon the load of hay and went with the farmers to some Tin(ley) Barnes.

A very loud sound greeted his ears when he entered the barn yard. He heard two Hens(ley-drix) cackle and a donkey Bra(ley).

He asked Dav(is) Hodges to accompany him to the river, where he crossed on the old ramshackle Ferri(s).

After crossing the river, he met a Weaver who was weaving a piece of Jet(ton) black cloth. Roy thought his little sister would like it, so he bought it for her. Linn thanked him very much for thinking of her and for the cloth.

NANCY'S TRIP TO HOLLAND

Nancifred Dunderstadt left for Holland in high spirits. She was accompanied by a Mass(ie) of people. After traveling four day, they reached the land of Holland.

Outside reading reports on such as "Sleep," "Fire and Its Prevention," "Ventilation," and "Volcanic Catastrophes" were read to the class Monday, by the students who wrote them. Recitations from the text on Conservation of Health have also constituted part of the class room work.

NO CHAPEL PROGRAMS

On account of the increased amount of work accompanying the last weeks of school, no programs will be given in chapel after this week.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

In addition to all of the regular services next Sunday we will have the Abilene Christian College Quartet with us for the entire day, morning, afternoon and at night. Hear them; they are fine. We will have a basket dinner at the park at 12:30. After the regular class work at 10 a. m. we will have preaching at 11 a. m. and at 8 p. m. Will only have a short talk at the 8 o'clock service so as to give as much time for singing as desired.

At 2:30 p. m. we hope to have a real good singing and the quartet will render some special songs and all visiting leaders will be asked to lead the congregation in singing. A cordial invitation is extended to all to attend these services. The congregation has ordered 100 new song books which we hope will get here for the service next Sunday.

The Cow--The Sow--The Hen

This caption is not new, but it is as true as it was when first used in the diversification plans several years ago. Most farms and ranches can easily keep a dairy cow or two, a few hogs and one hundred or more hens and can produce the feed to grow them. There is an overproduction of cotton and the unusual dry season has a tendency to cause farmers to give up the idea of planting feed and hope for a good season in time for cotton. There are many kinds of feed that can be planted as late as cotton and make good crops, and some can even be grown after it is too late to plant cotton. With feed for the cow, she will help feed the hogs and hens.

Every ranchman and farmer should try to raise some food and feed. Even people in town should have their back yard gardens, and with good pens a few hens will prove profitable in town. Peaches, pears, apples and other fruits, as well as berries, grow well in Kimble County. We advise a diversified program, especially during the slump in the livestock industry.

We shall be glad to talk over your problems with you. Your prosperity means our prosperity.

Concrete Masonry Homes

are superior because they are built of a material that is beautiful, permanent, economical and fireproof.

Concrete tile units have made it possible for the home owner of average income to enjoy the benefits of fine masonry construction. The units may be exposed in the wall surfaces, giving textures of great interest and charm; or they may form the backing for portland cement stucco.
