NEW COTTON RATE GRANTED

Telephone Company Agrees To Rate Slash DAWSON COUNTY WILL SAVE $6,000 ANNUALLY

ANY CITIZEN ELIGIBLE FOR NEW RATE UPON MAKING APPLICATION

Six weeks ago the Chamber of Commerce took up with the Telephone Co. the matter of rate reduction. This week the Company announces following reductions after having conferred with the executive Commissioner of the Chamber of Commerce and the City Commission in joint session.

Business Telephones
Two Party$3.50
One Party$4.50
Resident Telephones
One Party$2.00
Two Party$1.75
Four Party$1.50
The Telephone Co. in making this announcement does so without seriously upsetting the rate structure.

In view of the fact that when such times come business conditions justify it.

The one line service could be uniformly established throughout the city if the patrons desire. Any citizen in the city would have to be given the new rate upon application.

There can be not more than four parties on a resident line and more than two on business line.

It was explained that the announcement of above schedule is the equivalent of a subsequent reduction in rates and practically the same service as heretofore.

It was pointed out that it would be expensive to the Telephone Co. to make two and four party line hookups at the present. It was further pointed out that party line service is now being used in cities such as Lubbock, Amarillo, Abilene, San Angelo, and Dallas and that no considerable interruption in service is noticed in these cities by party line connection.

It will be observed that a telephone on a party line can be rung without ringing the other. One may call central from a party line without interfering with others on the line. (The only inconvenience being when both parties wish to use the telephone at the same time.)

It is further observed by those who have gone into it that the new schedule is optional with the user for he may have a one party two party, four party line or no telephone at all.

It is estimated that if the citizenship of Lamesa desires to do so it can save $1,000 annually by taking advantage of the telephone rate announced by the Telephone Co. here this week.

LAMESA HIGH SCHOOL TORNADOES VICTORIOUS IN TILT WITH ROTAN

The Tornadoes led by Capt. Treadway and McKennon at half back were victorious over Rotan last Friday in a very hard fought game. The score does not indicate a hard game but only in the second and third quarters were the Tornadoes able to out play them. The first and last quarters were played in mid-field with very little scoring.

The Lamesa offense was led by a volley of end runs featuring Jim McKennon. Anytime in mid-field could Jimmie make 10 to 15 yards. Treadway was featured in his center plunges as well as his returning of punts.

This was the first game that Lamesa has played where the opposition opened fire with a pass offensive. They tried seven passes completing three for three first downs and having none intercepted. Lamesa tried four passes completing one and getting one intercepted.

Lamesa High made fourteen first downs while Rotan made four. Three of those coming in the last quarter on three completed passes.

Substitutions were frequent on both teams as Coach F. T. McCollom of the Tornadoes was trying some new backfield prospects. In Hamilton and Harper he has discovered two and needs more.

Time outs were frequent with Rotan having four and the Tornadoes having one. The game didn't seem to be so rough as much as the boys were not in good physical condition.

Touchdowns were made by Capt. Treadway and Marr. On the goal line when wide plays would fall the "old stand by of a push over center" still works. Three times did Marr take it over on third down for a touchdown after the first two downs would fail. Then for the third counter a fake center and Treadway around right

NO RESULTS—OH YEAH!!

The manager of the K. G. Salvage Co. who is putting on a Contest Sale at the Golden Rule has this to say of our publicity service. Due to the excellent display advertising in the Courier, thousands upon thousands of people have visited our store and many have postponed their shopping because of the congestion Saturday. The Courier is to be complimented for this fine service, signed, DON DURBORAW

12 Hour Western Union Service Sought

The local Chamber of Commerce asked for a twelve hour, 8 to 8 uninterrupted Western Union service for this community but has been advised by the Oklahoma office through our local Western Union operator that because of the lack of business such service for Lamesa is not advisable at this time.

These Pigs Go To Market

Seven pigs fattened under the direction of the farm agent, W. W. Evans, by S. S. and Edwin Forrest 4-H club boys are ready to go to market next month as first class cured hams, badons, and shoulders and in cans as meat loaf, pork roast, pork chops, sausage, liver paste and scrapple.

The West Texas Gas Garage was again the scene of a big canning program. Men and boys under the direction of W. W. Evans made choice cuts of meat to cure and to can as roasts and pork chops.

Home Demonstration Club women and others interested in learning to can meat for home use worked under the direction of the home demonstration agent, Rozelle McKenney to can all meats which were not to be cured. Of the canned products there were 22 cans of pork chops, 15 roasts, 16 liver paste, 12 meat loaf, 17 scrapple and 25 sausage. 14 each of hams, badons, shoulders and 35 pounds of sausage were placed in cold storage.

Lunch for more than 35 workers was served at the garage.

Don Durboraw, sales promoter of the Kansas City Salvage Co. is in Lamesa this week conducting a sale for the Golden Rule Store.

Word was received at the local Chamber of Commerce office this week that beginning Oct. 16 a reduction from 98c to 95c per hundred pounds on cotton lint shipments would be in effect at Lamesa by order of the Texas Railroad Commission according to C. V. Terrill, Chairman.

This is the result of a recent hearing in which the local Chamber of Commerce filed complaint and appeared before a hearing of the Commission in which it asked for reduction as announced by the Railroad Commission in its order to local organization.

In commenting on this the local Chamber of Commerce officials state that this order is saving cotton producers 15c per bale on shipments of their cotton from the Lamesa station. This order will also save and stimulate the cotton market and cotton industries already located here.

"It was a good days work when L. F. Kelsling, M. C. Lindsey, and others of Lamesa attended the hearing at Lubbock September 14 and gave their testimony in behalf of Dawson County's Cause," so stated by Chamber of Commerce officials when interviewed on the matter this week.

The old cotton rate was 93 and one half cents and if the order of the Enter-State Commerce Commission should have been left in effect the rate would have been 98 cents at Lamesa. It would have been 95 cents at O'Donnell, Tahoka, Slaton and Lubbock.

The new order places all shipping points in this area on a parity with a 95 cent rate.

It is estimated to save the producers of Dawson county for this year more than $6,000.

The order of the Texas Railroad Commission made the 95 cent rate effective October the 16th. The order of the I. C. C. left Lamesa out of the 95 cent zone and placed her in the 98 cent zone by only nine tenths of a mile but the new order moves this line south of Lamesa and gives it 95 cent rate for all cotton concentrated here.

It was brought out at a hearing that all cotton markets on the South Plains including Dawson County were quoted on a basis from Houston, less the freight which is figured by the buyer, off of the price, causing the producer to pay th freight.

It was clearly shown to the Commission that discrimination was used in the order of the I. C. C. and taking this into consideration the new order was granted.

REPUDIATED?

Wholesale desertions from the ranks of Sterling's political supporters are by far the most significant political development of recent weeks. It is a movement that involves many of the newspapers that successfully carried the governor through the first and second primaries.

The reason is that Ross Sterling is not the strong, sound-thinking, fearless leader some half million voters thought him to be. With a cargo of opportunity the like of which no other commonwealth ever carried, the Texas ship of state drifts aimlessly in threatening economic seas. The hull is strong and sound, an able crew of men stand alert and eager upon her decks, and engines throb to the head of steam that is ready to propel her to havens of security. But there is no navigator to lay her course; there is no leader. In consequence, to borrow the words of the Houston Chronicle, "we drift, we know not where."

Governor Sterling has done nothing for which a voice may be raised against him. And that, perhaps, is just the trouble. To avoid blame, he has evaded any display of initiative. He has made himself putty in the hands of a vociferous, half-hysterical group who demanded ice-cream when they needed castor oil. It seems that he possesses every quality for leadership except the divine spark of leadership itself. If he has dreams, he crushes them; if he has enthusiasm he suppresses it. If he has convictions, he lacks the courage to stand upon them; and if he has courage, he has no convictions wherewith to arm it.

No stronger indictment of the administration's hesitant and irresolute tactics could be penned than the Houston Chronicle's master editorial, "Drifting," and it is possible that the Chronicle is thereby estopped from again supporting the man it drafted into the governor's race. The Dallas Journal administered no gentle rebuke when it contrasted the actions of Grover Cleveland and Ross Sterling under comparable circumstances and concluded with the observation that Texas needs a Grover Cleveland today. The other member of the influential News and Journal combination asserted that "nothing but results" could justify the governor's resort to martial law in the shutdown of East Texas oil field, leaving the inference that the governor's only defense must be that the end justifies any means. West Texas newspapers are almost unanimous in condemning the governor for his stand on sectional matters: indeed, they accepted him in the beginning only when a "better man" (Clint Small) was eliminated from the race. Peter B. Molyneux (The Texas Weekly) and J. J. Taylor (The Dallas News) both of them publicists with large followings and both irrevocably opposed to legislative tampering with the cotton situation, question the governor's wisdom in spending more state money on "what will be another futile session" of the legislature. The Corpus Christi Caller, on the other hand, deplors the governor's hesitancy and delay in calling the session, a position which was seconded by the Waxahachie Light. The Dennison Herald agrees with the Marshall Morning News that all newspapers which have been patting Governor Sterling on the back for his course in opposing the railroad commission prorotation order, are left with the bag to hold.

All of which, probably, proves that in trying to displease none, the governor has succeeded in alienating the support of many. Had he adopted a policy and adhered to it, the chances are he would have retained the support of most of them. The people expect more of a governor than compliance; they demand a type of leadership that compels respect even if it create opposition.

Months before Mr. Sterling announced his candidacy, the Abilene

STATEMENT FROM LOCAL CHAMBER OF COMMERCE IN REFERENCE TO PICKING OF COTTON

The situation as to getting labor is quite acute, it seems from a survey we have made of the state. It appears that it will be ten days yet before very much labor will be coming here of its own volition.

This office has sent out calls for labor to the following places: U. S. Labor Bureau at Ft. Worth and San Antonio. It was advised at these points that it would be ten days before much relief could be had. It was also advised that 90 percent of the farmers over the state were paying 50 cents per hundred pounds for picking and free transportation to the fields. It has sent news items to seven daily papers of the state and has broadcast the situation over WDAZ Amarillo, Texas. It has written to points as far as Roswell, N. M. and other centers and has had about the same answer to all inquirers.

At San Antonio A. W. Green in charge of the U. S. Bureau at that point advises that labor can be had there if the farmers will come there for it equipped to transfer it free to the fields and pay 50 cents per hundred. It is therefore advised if farmers desire to go to San Antonio to get cotton pickers it is possible to get Mexican labor by conferring with Mr. Green and by taking transportation facilities to convey it here.

The local Chamber of Commerce will continue its efforts to secure labor as it has in years past and now has the promise of C. W. Woodman in charge of the U. S. Labor office at Ft. Worth that he will dispatch an agent to Lamesa as soon as possible to disburse labor when it arrives here. This agent will be located in the local chamber of commerce office in the City Hall as in years past.

HATCHER'S PROSPERITY PLAN

A man whose salary remains at the level established in 1928, is more prosperous today than he was then. With so many thousands of worthy Texas men and women out of jobs, he is, in all probability, more prosperous than he has any right to be.

Food, clothing, rents—they are approximately twenty per cent cheaper than they were in 1928. That being the case, the man who is paid on the 1928 scale, could lose a day every week and still be a little more prosperous than he was in ante-depression days.

It is the happy thought of W. Gregory Hatcher, former Treasurer of the State of Texas, to give to employees of state and county and industry a vacation without pay one day in every six. The money thus saved by state and county and industry would be used to furnish jobs to Texas' little army of unemployed.

Immediately such a policy were inaugurated, insists Mr. Hatcher, the depression would be forgotten so far as Texas is concerned. For every man and woman in the state who honestly wants a job, there would be a job. Some people would be accumulating a little less surplus in the banks, but other people would be eating more regularly and, perhaps, a little better.

FARADAY CENTENNIAL

This month a 10-day celebration is being held in England in honor of the 100th anniversary of Faraday's discovery of magneto-electric induction, which was the origin of the dynamo for the mechanical generation of electricity.

Michael Faraday was born in 1791, the son of an English blacksmith. When he was 10 years old he became a bookbinder's apprentice and read as well as bound many scientific books which passed through his hands.

He later attracted the attention of Sir Humphrey Davy and became his assistant in the laboratory of the Royal Institution. In 1832 Faraday wrote in his notebook: "Convert magnetism into electricity." But it was not until nine years later that he succeeded in doing it—but when he did he laid the foundation for the vast electrical industry of today.

To the pioneer work of Faraday our own great Edison added his genius to remake the world in which we live. While many great scientists, like Davy, Volta, Watt, Ohm, Ampere and others, have contributed much to making electricity the servant of mankind, it is perhaps safe to say that Faraday and Edison will forever remain the greatest names in the history of electrical development.

HOLDING OUR END UP

If the average citizen who is barely making ends meet, or who is falling behind financially, would check himself up he might find some interesting facts concerning his affairs.

He would probably find, among other things, that his difficulties arise principally from his indulgence in the ancient game of trying to outshine his neighbors.

Take our automobile problem for example. First our neighbor buys an inexpensive car, and we must do likewise—on the installment plan. Then before it is paid for another friend invests in a six-cylinder machine, so in order to keep up appearances we must take another plunge, probably going him a little better.

It is the same with other things. We must have a better radio set than the family next door; better furniture; more stylish clothes. We must send our Mary to an expensive boarding school because Mrs. Jones is sending her Sally—when both would be as well or better off in the home town high school. Then we must give expensive parties for which the Smiths or Browns have set the pace. We must have extensive vacation trips, when we might see as fine a collection of billboards right at home. And we wonder why we seem to get hopelessly behind finan-

SECTARIAN INFLUENCE

This is not a dissertation for or against any religious sect, but a simple statement of some facts recently compiled which bear on the political influence of various religious denominations. Researches show that the influence of various sects is not measured by the number of their members, this being strikingly demonstrated by the relatively few important offices held by Catholics.

While the number of Catholics in the United States has increased from six million to twenty million in the last fifty years, being now approximately one-sixth of the whole population, there are only 41 Catholic members of Congress out of a total of 533. There is no Catholic cabinet officer and only one on the Supreme Court bench.

The preponderance of Masons in high office is striking. With only a little over three million Masons in the country as against twenty million Catholics we find this situation: In all the 48 states there is no Catholic governor, but 36 governors are Masons; while there were 369 Masons in the last Congress, as against 41 Catholics.

So far as Congress is concerned, the Methodists and Episcopalians seem to have representation far in excess of their relative numerical strength. While the Methodists are less than half as numerous as Catholics, they have nearly three times as many Congressmen; and with only about one-fifteenth as many members the Episcopalians have five times as many Senators as the Catholics.

The conclusion to be derived from all this, therefore, is that up to the present at least the strength of various religious sects has little bearing on their influence in public affairs. And keeping in mind the American principle of separation of Church and State, it is probably well that this is so.

Typhoid Fever Season Is Here

October—the month of typhoid fever—Unless extraordinary precautions are taken immediately, many, many cases and deaths from this disease will occur. It is often a common belief that typhoid fever comes from decaying animal or vegetable matter, or from damp basements, cows, and pigs, or other animals. However, this is a false theory. Typhoid fever only comes from human beings who are suffering with this disease, convalescents, or those who have had typhoid fever and who continue to carry the germs in their bodies. The last mentioned are called typhoid carriers, and are the cause of the many cases that occur each year. Naturally all persons do not become typhoid carriers; only about 4 percent or one person in about twenty five cases who recover, remain permanently infected. A typhoid carrier is a healthy normal individual, shows no outward sign of being a disease carrier, and goes about his regular work unmindful of the fact that he may excrete typhoid germs, which may be discovered by laboratory examination. These little organisms excreted by the carrier become a menace to the human race and may cause any number of cases of typhoid fever without being detected. Here is where the typhoid fly gets in his dirty work by contaminating milk and food with these loathly wastes. If the body wastes are deposited in an open surface privy they are likely to be washed by rains into wells and other sources of water supply and may be carried by the filthy fly from the surface privy where millions of flies feed, to our food in the dining room or kitchen. Unless the typhoid carrier is not extremely careful, after every visit to the toilet, the germs may be carried on the hands and thus transferred to the food supply. If he is employed in a dairy, cafe, or soda fountain, the danger of infecting food products is very great. Here the carrier is not only a menace to his own family but to the entire community. No typhoid patient should be dismissed from medical observation until two specimens of the patient's bowel discharges have been examined at stated intervals by a competent laboratory and pronounced free from typhoid germs. Every dairy worker and food handler should be examined before being allowed to follow those trades. While it would be impossible to discover all the typhoid carriers by these requirements, much could be accomplished in reducing typhoid fever in Texas. In cities and towns where houses are screened against flies and where outside surface privies are not allowed by city ordinances, and where immunization has been most effective, typhoid fever is no longer a problem. It is in small towns and rural communities where insanitary conditions prevail, where water supplies are unprotected, and where the surface toilets exhibit, that typhoid thrives and continues to take its toll each year.
