Gen. M'Arthur, Adm. Nimitz Ordered 'On to Tokyo'

NINTH STRIKING TOWARD HANNOVER

Baron Suzuki Struggles To Form Cabinet

By LEONARD MILLIMAN
Associated Press War Editor

Elderly Adm. Baron Kantaro Suzuki struggled today to form a "strong war cabinet" for Japan to meet the threat of Russian entrance into the Pacific war and the appointment of Gen. Douglas MacArthur and Adm. Chester W. Nimitz as commanders for the final American assault against Japan.

Radio Tokyo insisted Nippon's "policy fort he prosecution of the war remains unchanged" under Premier-designate Suzuki. American observers predicted peace feelers might be put out by the third Japanese war cabinet under the 77-year-old moderate. The baron failed in his first day's efforts to form a new government "equal to the fierce war situation."

Tokyo acknowledged that Moscow had denounced the Russian-Japan non-aggression treaty but pointed out that the treaty would still be in effect for another year.

Japanese spokesmen said the action was not expected, and Allied commentators remarked that fear of Soviet Russia may have been partly responsible for the extraordinary absence of Japanese opposition to the American invasion of the Ryukyu islands 325 miles south of Japan.

Appointment of Nimitz and MacArthur to lead the final offensives come in recognition of their rapid small freighters were wrecked off into close proximity with the Japanese homeland and the China coast."

The joint staff announcement said MacArthur would command all army forces in the Pacific theater. Nimitz would command all navy forces, strategic direction would re-

Club Plans Park For Needy Youth

Pampa Lions club is planning a park for underprivileged children.

President R. A. Webb announced today the club has voted to buy two blocks of the Willcox addition to establish a recreational park to be improved each year for the underprivileged.

Discussion of changing the by-laws of the constitution was the primary business of the regular noon meeting of the club in the basement of the First Methodist church yesterday. The resultant changes supplemetned the old way of electing officers and of elceting the membership into the club.

The tail twister and lion tamer will be appointed by the board of directors after the year's election to be held in May.

Lions voted yesterday to stage a minstrel show soon.

"Red" Wedgeworth led 12 other members in a sing-song to furnish the musical part of the program.

'Nameless Fourteen' Receives Reprimand

INDEPENDENCE, Mo., April 6—(AP)—A letter of reprimand has been dispatched by priests and elders of the Church of Christ, Temple Lot, to members of the Floyd E. Denham family, who left their home here to seek a promised land along the Rio Grande in the Texas brush country.

Church officials disclosed last night they had sent a letter to Denham urging the return of his family, "the nameless fourteen," to the home they abandoned in response to messages they believed were received from God by a 14-year-old son.

Church spokesmen said they advised Denham that his family's pilgrimage was missionary in character, that missionaries must be named by the church conference and that the family had failed to comply with the requisite "which fact definitely seperates you from the Church of Christ as its representatives."

A SIGNIFICANT CONFERENCE

Secretary of State Edward Stettinius is pictured as he met with British, Russian and Chinese ambasadors. This was the first time that the Russian and Chinese ambasadors have conferred together with the secretary. Perhaps there is some link between this meeting and the news yesterday that Russia had denounced her neutrality treaty with Japan on the grounds that it no longer had any meaning. Russia's Renunciation of Treaty Believed To Have Hit Japs Hard

MOSCOW, April 6—(AP)—Soviet Russia's renounciaiton of her five-year non-aggression pact with Japan unquestionably has dealt a terrific blow to the sagging Japanese, who were left today in the position of not knowing precisely what the Russian action means.

The Japanese know this, however—that the Russians seldom if ever act without good reason, and they know the Russians believe they have a good reason for ending the pact.

The Russians themselves made this clear in renouncing the treaty, declaring bluntly that Japan not only is an ally of the Soviet Union's greatest enemy—Adolf Hitler—but is helping Germany in her war against the U. S. S. R.

All Soviet newspapers printed the official announcement of the denunciation, but none commented

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE ACTIVITY:

DALLAS ENGINEER WILL MAKE INDUSTRY SURVEY

Preliminary work on Pampa's industrial survey, which will be made at an estimated cost of $2,000, will begin here April 15, it was announced today.

A special sub-committee appointed from the Industrial committee of the chamber of commerce has announced the selection of Burt C. Blanton, Dallas consulting engineer and business economist, to conduct Pampa's survey.

The sub-committee is composed of Bill Fraser, Jack Hanna and Frank Culberson.

The survey will include an agricultural, financial, commercial, industrial and economic survey of Pampa, Gray county, and Pampa's retail and wholesale trade territories. The local chamber will define Pampa's trade territories, by counties, which will be included in Blanton's report.

Blanton, in a letter to the Industrial committee, said the project will be completed and the survey-reports delivered within a maximum period of five months, or on or about Sept. 15, 1945.

Showdown Fight Anticipated in Katy Meeting

ST. LOUIS, April 6—(AP)—A meeting of stockholders of the Missouri-Kansas-Texas (Katy) railroad recessed within a few minutes today without reaching an expected showdown fight over control of the company.

The recess was taken until tomorrow morning to allow time for the checking of proxies.

A motion by Edward N. Claughton, Miami, largest individual holder of Katy stock, to reduce membership on the board of directors from 15 to nine prompted the proxy check.

The group opposing present administration of the railroad has said Missouri statutes probably will prevent its attempted ouster of the president, Matthew S. Sloan.

Charles A. Moorehead, Miami stockholder, challenged any action by the meeting until all proxies had been counted and proxy holders' eligibility to vote determined.

A three - man commmittee appointed by Sloan began the proxy check immediately.

Three board members were present among the approximately 50 stockholders attending the meeting. They were Francis F. Randolph, New York City; Hunter L. Gary, Kansas City, and Sidney Maestre, St. Louis. Randolph and Frank Phillips, Bartlesville, Okla., who is expected to be here tomorrow, are two of the five directors up for re-election.

Voters Urged To Go to Polls Here

Officials today urged Pampans to turn out in large numbers tomorrow to elect a member of the local school board for a three-year term.

The election will be held at the Junior high school building between 7 a. m. and 8 p. m. tomorrow. Paul Crossman and H. Raeburn Thompson are the two candidates asking for the chance to fill the present school board vacancy.

George Briggs will be election manager, while Mrs. Clifford Braly, Mrs. T. C. Naron and Mrs. A. B. Whitten will act as judges and clerks.

School Business Manager Roy McMillen expressed the hope that citizens will realize the importance of the election and exercise their voting rights.

Girls Making Plans To Enter County Fair

Three of the Gray county 4-H girls' clubs met yesterday to plan their part in the Gray county fair to be held next fall, club officials reported.

Plans were made for their spring gardens, clothing demonstrations and home improvement demonstrations.

Conservation of food as a county-wide project was discussed.

Man Given 50 Years On Murder Conviction

VAN HORN, April 6—(AP)—A district court jury today convicted J. C. Henderson, Jeff Davis county rancher, on a charge of mudering his wife Pearl and set his punishment at 50 years in state prison.

The jury received the case last night after Henderson appeared as the only defense witness and announced its verdict at 9:30 a.m.

Mrs. Henderson and her father, W. C. Ferris, were shot to death at the Henderson ranch home near Alpine in November, 1943. Henderson was tried only on the charge of killing his wife. The case was brought to Van Horn on a change of venue.

WAR IN BRIEF

THE WESTERN FRONT: American First army launched powerful new assault eastward toward Weser river, smashed easwtard into Ruhr trap; Ninth army, across Weser at numerous points, bore down on Hannover; British drove on Bremen after joining with Ninth across Weser; Canadians crossed Neder Rhine near Arnhem; U. S. Third reached points 130 from Berlin, 58 from Czechoslovak border.

THE RUSSIAN FRONT: house-to-house battle opened for Vienna as red army stormed into outskirts through curtain of mortar fire; Russians threatened to ring capital with tanks.

THE ITALIAN FRONT: U. S. Fifth army opened attack on west coast which gained two miles; Germans reported fresh assault.

THE PACIFIC FRONT: Main battle for Okinawa taking shape; resistance increased north of Naha, the capital; U. S. forces on Southern Luzon cut enemy escape route to east coast.

Conservation Of Gas Looms As Big Issue

AUSTIN, April 6—(AP)—Gas conservation emerged today as one of the most important prospective subjects facing the 49th general session of the Texas legislature.

After two overlapping hearings before senate and house committees that started at 3 p.m. and lasted until nearly midnight, the committees agreed on just one thing: They wanted additional time before reporting on any of several proposals looking toward a tightening of this state's natural gas conservation laws.

The senate committee voted to postpone voting on the only measure it considered until next Wednesday. This was the so-called compromise bill offered by a section of the oil and gas industries, and also given a conditional blessing by the railroad commission.

The house committee on oil and gas, swamped with witnesses and with four bills before it, sent them all to a sub-committee with instructions to prepare a brand-new substitute bill and bring it back a week hence, April 12 at 2:30 p.m. The committee also voted to continue hearing witnesses at that

C of C Speaker Monday Will Be W. Texas Figure

D. A. Bandeen of Abilene, manager of the West Texas chamber of commerce, will be the principal speaker at the first quarterly meeting of the local chamber of commerce which will be held at noon Monday in the basement of the First Methodist church.

This will be the chamber's first meeting since it was decided to hold quarterly, rather than monthly, meetings; and officials say an overflow crowd is expected. Manager "Red" Wedgeworth urged all persons who plan to attend, to call in reservations to the chamber of commerce offices no later than tomorrow morning.

The Monday meeting will honor Col. James A. De Marco, new commanding officer of the Pampa army air field, as well as the 150 new chamber of commerce members secured in the current membership campaign.

The Post-War Planning committee, of which Carl Benefiel is chairman, will have charge of the program, to include accordion solos by Miss Ernestine Holmes. Glen Lively's orchestra will provide the dinner music.

R. E. Hardin, president of the West Texas chamber of commerce, will be present at the meeting as will other invited out-of-town guests.

President C. P. "Doc" Pursley will presedie.

W. B. Weatherred, local postmaster, will introduce visiting guests and the new chamber of commerce members, after which Benefiel will introduce the speaker.

"The program committee has guaranteed the program will not be lengthy and will be dismissed by 1:15 o'clock," Wedgeworth said.

ANNUAL SPRING ROUNDUP:

DOWNTOWN PARADE WILL BE HELD HERE TOMORROW

Third annual spring roundup of the First Baptist church will begin with a parade through downtown streets, tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock, and all persons who have horses, or horse-drawn vehicles are invited to take part in the parade. All those who wish to enter will meet at the church at 2:30 in order to be ready at parade time.

The real roundup day is Sunday, April 8. Sunday school members, teachers, and officers are striving for 1,010 in attendance. All departments of the Sunday school have agreed on certain attendance goals.

Mrs. R. Virgil Mott and Miss Eloise Lane, church pianists, will open the morning program at 10:55, by playing, the "Adoration" from "The Holy City," by Gaul. R. Virgil Mott will sing, "The Lord Is My Shepherd," by Vandewater. The Rev. E. Douglas Carver will speak, using as his theme, "Footmen and Horses." This program may be heard over radio station KPDN, at the 11 o'clock hour.

Sunday afternoon activities will begin at 5, when the young people of the training union will assemble for two hours of fellowship, un-

First Launches New Action; British Threatening Bremen

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press War Editor

The U. S. First army launched a powerful new assault eastward today, carrying 22 miles and close to the upper reaches of the Weser, as the U. S. Ninth's armor, across that river at a number of points to the north, bore down on Hannover, and British tanks were reported less than 35 miles from the great naval base of Bremen.

A house-to-house battle opened for Vienna, with red army troops firmly entrenched in the southern districts and other columns pressing in from the east and west, threatening to throw a ring of tanks around the capital.

TODAY'S WAR MAP

The Germans face a three-way cut on the Western Front as Montgomery slashes north to isolate the Netherlands. Patton streaks for the Czech border and heads toward Berlin. Red forces enter Vienna after the capture of Wiener Neustadt, Messerschmidt assembly plant. (NEA Telemap.)

The Germans in the west were reported in headlong flight toward the Elbe, last water barrier before Berlin, 50 miles from the capital and 100 from Russian lines, as the Allied offensive in the north burst across the Weser in full fury.

Meanwhile, while eastward driving columns plunged to within 164 miles of Berlin, other tanks and infantry on the U. S. First smashed into the Ruhr trap westward on a 70-mile front. At the same time the U. S. Ninth caved in the roof of the pocket, where possibly 150,000 nazis are ripe for annihilation, capturing a town four miles north of Dortmund .Fierce fighting was reported in Hamm, pivotal rail center.

JOHN L. AND HIS COAL:

GOVERNMENT MAY HAVE TO INTERVENE AGAIN

WASHINGTON, April 6 — (AP) — John L. Lewis and soft coal operators came up today to their "last chance" meeting to agree on a new contract. Government seizure of the pits this weekend loomed as a definite possibility.

If the negotiators fail to come to terms, the war labor board will take over the case tomorrow and decide the mine leader's wage demands.

These further developments arising from the stalemated contract talks came yesterday:

1. The WLB informed Lewis that unless work stoppages in some 200 bituminous mines end promptly "the government will have no alternative but to seize and operate the mines on strike."

2. Interior Secretary Ickes urged quick government seizure to avert

Worley En Route To Great Britain

WASHINGTON, April 6—(AP)—Representatives Walter (D-Pa.) and Worley (D-Texas) are on their way to Europe to inspect war equipment and supplies for a special house postwar planning and policy committee studying surplus property disposal problems.

The date of thier departure was not made public, but Walter's secretary said they would arrive in England shortly.

Named as a subcommittee for the trip, Walter and Worley expect to visit England, France, Italy and perhaps Germany, the secretary said.

Worley said recently their attention would be focused primarily on maritime problems, including plans by various European nations for rebuilding their merchant marine fleets.

He declared that disposition of the vast tonnage of cargo ships built in the United States since the war began, depends partially on the plans of European powers for carrying on world commerce.

Data obtained on the trip, he added, should help the commitee in determining how much tonnage should be reserved for American flag lines and what kind of trade routes they might operate.

Roosevelt To Speak To Nation April 13

WASHINGTON, April 6—(AP)—President Roosevelt will speak by radio April 13 to 350 Jefferson day dinners across the nation arranged to raise funds for the 1946 congressional campaign.

The democratic national committee said Vice President Truman and Navy Secretary Forrestal also will speak.

Mr. Roosevelt's message will come at the end of a 30-minute program starting at 8:30 p.m. Central War Time. The broadcast will begin on NBC and other networks joining in later for the President's talk.

Transportation Of Wheat To Be Studied Tuesday

KANSAS CITY, April 6—(AP)(AP)—Invitations to eleven middle western governors urging them to attend a conference here Tuesday to renew demands for grain cars have been sent by Gov. Andrew Schoeppel of Kansas.

Grain, mill and farm representatives also have been invited to the meeting by E. R. Jessen, president of the Kansas City board of trade, and J. B. Smith, president of the Associated Miillers of Kansas wheat, acting as a committee for the grain growing area of the Middle West.

Governor Schoeppel's telegrams sent from Topeka, Kanas, went to the chief executives of Missouri, Oklahoma, Colorado, Texas, Montana, Wyoming, Nebraska, Iowa, South Dakota, North Dakota, and Minnesota. He termed the transportation shortage "alarming" and said thousands of bushels of corn and sorghums were spoiling in Western Kansas alone.

The conference was called after what grain men termed the refusal of J. Monroe Johnson, director of the office of defense transportation, and the interstate commerce commission to take action in moving boxcars into the middle western grain-producing area to move present grain and a bumper crop expected coming up.

City To Seek Use Of War Prisoners

German war prisoners may be used to clean Pampa's alleys.

City Manager W. C. deCordova reported today that he and County Agent J. P. Smith plan to go to the McLean prisoner of war camp Monday afternoon to determine whether some of the German prisoners there can be used in the clean-up work.

It was explained the prisoners were obtained for that purpose two years ago, out that last year camp officials would not release prisoners for other than farm work. The city manager could not say whether the prisoners will be available this year.

The inadivsability of using local labor for the project, since it would interfere with war plants in this area, was given as the reason for attempts to obtain war prisoners for the job.

Cubs Use Rivals' Pitchers To Win

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK, April 6—(AP)—Deacon Bill McKechnie found out the hard way he could count on two 41-year-old pitching veterans, Hod Lisenbee and Guy Bush, to help his Cincinnati mound staff.

The Deacon loaned the pair of oldsters to Chicago's Cubs yesterday for an exhibition and they bit the hand that was feeding them by shutting out the Reds, 5-0, scattering seven hits in a seven-inning contest.

Other training camp news:

CLEVELAND INDIANS—Mickey Rocco arrived in camp on eve of final long drill; club leaves Saturday for three-day stand at Indianapolis.

DETROIT TIGERS—Moving to Terre Haute today for four-game series with White Sox starting Sunday.

ST. LOUIS BROWNS—Luke Sewell named Sig Jakucki to hurl opener of city series against Cardinals Saturday.

POPLAR BLUFF, Mo.—(AP)—Down at Wappapello lake this fish story was recently told:

A fisherman was wading and casting in shallow water. He heard a bass near the edge of the water, eased around between the fish and deep water and then made a splash with his hands and feet. The frightened bass swam right out on dry land.

"And here he is," the fisherman smiled, holding up a nice one.

Helms Foundation Selects Bill Henry On All-Star Team

SAN FRANCISCO, April 6—(AP)—Helms athletic foundation of Los Angeles, a most unusual organization and a boon to sports in general throughout the country, has selected its 1945 all star collegiate basketball squad.

In arriving at the selections the foundation seized upon what amounted to poetic license. Instead of the regular forwards, centers and guards who make up the regular basketball team, the squad is divided into six forwards and four defense players. Five make up a team but there is a spare for each position.

The Helms A. F. collegiate All-America includes Forward Bill Henry, Rice, 6' 9", 215 pounds.

It may be almost over. It may last a long time to come. The fact is we have destroyed a lot of forces. How much resistance he (the enemy) can put up yet remains to be seen.—Lt.-Gen. Omar N. Bradley, 12th army group commander.

Johnny Campbell Will Fight Exhibition Bout With Phillip Morrill at Amarillo Intramural Tournament

In an exhibition bantamweight fight following the finals of the Amarillo high school intramural boxing tournament tonight Johnny Campbell, 126-pound champ of the Shamrock boxing tournament, and Phillip Morrill, Globe-News champion will battle it out before a capacity crowd at the Amarillo armory.

The fights will begin at 8 o'clock and the Campbel-Morrill battle is the last on the card.

Campbell did not enter officially in the Amarillo tournament. Officials called him and asked him if he would like to fight and Campbell, in his usual manner, accepted and then asked who he was to fight.

Pampa high school not having a boxing team for the last two years, Campbell was not in training when he entered the Shamrock tournament.

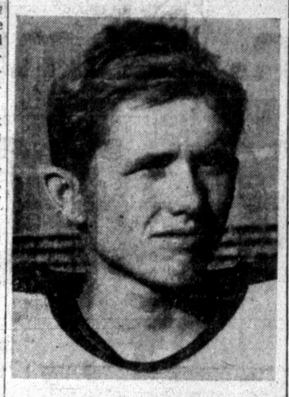

However, he won his first fight by a unanimous three-round decision and the last by a knockout in the first round.

Campbell enlisted in the navy with Eugene Turner some time ago and both boys are awaiting call. However, the navy department has reported that calls have been reduced so both Campbell and Turner may be able to finish the school year.

Both boys played on the football and basketball teams for two years, and both are out for track.

Campbell will fight tonight and then stay over the the area track and field meet tomorrow afternoon.

Sports Roundup

NEW YORK, April 6—(AP)—A Texas sports scribe offers the suggestion that it would be both smart and profitable for the major leagues to sponsor a high school baseball tournament in each state every year—the big leagues, he says, could underwrite the expenses for, say, eight regional winners to journey to the state finals and could put up suitable trophies. They could have scouts and instructors at each meet and possibly pick up a few prospects. Otherwise school authorities would run the show—the idea appears sound, but Red Trautman can tell you it isn't as easys as that—the American association head chairman of baseball's high school committee, has acquired more than one headache trying to find ways to help school ball. The schools, it seems are a bit touchy about the eligibility of their boys and the possibility that pro teams will grab the kids before they finish their education.

Harvesters Ready for All Events At Area Meet Tomorrow Afternoon

The Area I-AA track and field mett will start tomorrow afternoon at Butler field in Amarillo and more than 20 Pampa boys will be competing for awards, along with entries from Amarillo and Borger.

Coach Otis Coffey said that the Harvesters appear to be strong in both the track and the field events.

Randall Clay has established himself as the top discus thrower in this area and Eugene Turner has held his own in the shot put division. Lounie Williams has been close behind Turner in that division.

Clay, despite lack of experience, has also high-jumped along with the best of them. Other high-jumpers include Kelley Anderson and Bill Speer.

In the 380-yard dash, or half-mile, Joe Cree and Horace Saunders are dangerous threats to the other entries, according to Coach Coffey. Cree has missed quite a bit of practice because of his taking physical exams for the merchant marine but Coffey said that the lack of practice hasn't bothered him.

Bill Dixon and Darrell Robbins, younger brother of Gene Robbins who holds several track records, are proficient in the high and low hurdles.

Campbell, of course, in the mile run reels off the trying race with no trouble and usually runs a few-hundred yards further to limber up.

To qualify for the regional meet April 21, an entry must place at least third in his event at the area meet.

At the same time that the I-AA meet is going on, I-B schools will be holding their meet. Schools in classes AA and B all determine state champions.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"That's news to me, Judge. From the way some people talk you would think it was at least 50%."

"No, Clem, there's the statement right here in the paper...from authorities who have made an exhaustive study of the subject. Only about 5% of the people who drink occasionally abuse the privilege... 95% drink sensibly."

"No wonder you say it wouldn't be fair to take the privilege away from the other 95%, Judge. I agree with you."

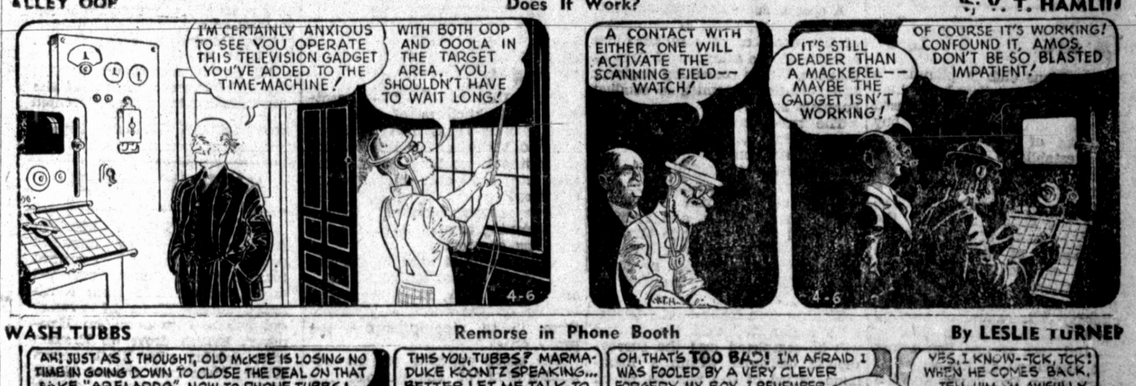

"I can't see it any other way, Clem. No more than I could see taking automobiles away from everybody because a few drive recklessly and have accidents. Or preventing the making or sale of cake or doughnuts because some folks eat too much and get indigestion."

"In the case of spirit beverages, the answer is one of education and better control."

"As a matter of fact, the responsible members of that industry are working constantly toward that end. They don't want folks to abuse the use of their product any more than we do."

PAAF Junior Matrons' League Meets Wednesday and Hears Mrs. De Marco

More than 40 members of the Pampa army air field Junior Matrons' league, composed of wives of aviation cadets, heard an informal talk by Mrs. De Marco, wife of Col. James A. De Marco, commanding officer of the local field, at a meeting held Wednesday evening in the Cadet club rooms in the Combs-Worley building.

Others who spoke briefly were Mrs. Robert O. Quello and Capt. T. R. Russ, commandant of cadets. Mrs. Russ, military sponsor of the league, also was present.

After a round-table discussion of the project, Mrs. De Marco announced that the Woman's Club of PAAF would give a style show within the next three weeks for members of the Junior Matron's league. She also explained the organization and objectives of the National association of Air Forces Women and urged the cadet wives to join the organization. This association provides aid for dependents of members of the air forces and maintains a scholarship fund for the benefit of children of prisoners of war.

Officers of the Junior Matrons' league are Mrs. William H. Davies, Jr., president; Mrs. Francis H. Burke, vice president; Mrs. Ted E. Carroll, secretary, and Mrs. Harold W. Hoose, treasurer. League members decided to adopt an expanded work program which includes the making of layettes for wives of cadets and enlisted men.

Shamrock Church Circles Meet in Members' Homes

SHAMROCK, April 5—W. M. S. of the First Baptist church met in circles this week, with the Many More Circle meeting with Mrs. R. A. Michols as hostess. Mrs. J. R. Brown presided over the meeting and gave the devotional.

Mrs. Fred Holmes led the prayer preceding the lesson, and taught from the book, "The Jewels of the Messiah's Crown," by George Davis. Mrs. Frank Exum led the closing prayer.

Refreshments were served to one guest, Mrs. Mary Pitcock, of Los Angeles, and to Mesdames Exum, Brown, Henry Holmes, T. D. Bland, Fred Holmes, Helen Lea Cox, and Duncan.

The Blanche Groves circle met with Mrs. Clyde Bearrow, with Mrs. Norman Patrick presiding. Mrs. McMurtry led the opening prayer and roll call was answered with scripture quotations.

Mrs. Clifton Tennison gave the devotional from the 95th Psalm. The lesson from "Baptist Generations in Cuba," was given by Mrs. J. D. Mallow, and Mrs. Bill Wilson led the closing prayer.

Refreshments were served during the social hour to Mesdames Guy Valentine, Tennison, W. H. Buice, Patrick, Lee Newman, Wilson, Cecil Perrin, Tom Carver, Jim Orrick, George Barth, Dean McMurtry, W. W. Perrin and J. D. Mallow.

The Rex Ray circle met with Mrs Jack Kersh as hostess, and Mrs Kersh led the opening prayer.

Mrs. E. K. Bechtol presided over the business session and gave the lesson from "His Precious Promises." Mrs. Charles Daugherty dismissed the meeting with prayer.

Refreshments were served to Mesdames P. T. Boston, B. F. Risinger, Charles Green, Charles Daugherty, Bechtol, John Porter, Martin Exum, and George Beaty.

Four Ward Schools To Present Program Junior High Tonight

Pupils of Sam Houston, B. M. Baker, Horace Mann, and Woodrow Wilson ward schools will present a program of story telling and declamations in the Junior high school auditorium tonight at 8 o'clock.

Children appearing on this program are winners in their respective grades and schools in contests which were held recently.

Special musical and dancing numbers will add variety to the program, and the public is invited to attend.

Hopkins Women Have Bible Study Lesson

Members of the Hopkins W. M. S. held their regular Bible study in the community hall Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. Carl Jones teaching the lesson.

Mrs. Eaton Riggins presided at the business session, and the devotional was given by Mrs. E. P. Wellesley.

Attending were Mesdames Riggins, George Bodine, Wellesley, E. B. Morton, Sam Holding, Olin Buxton, and Carl Jones.

Next meeting will be a Bible study and social on April 18, with Mrs. Wellesley as teacher.

Concert Season Assured Pampans For Next Year

Memberships received this week have guaranteed a concert season for Pampa next year, Winston Savage, president, stated last night when workers of the Community Concert association met in the Junior high school auditorium to give their reports.

"Pampa should be proud and thankful that an interested group will spend its energy and time without any kind of compensation in order to bring these beneficial and interesting concerts to our city," stated Mr. Savage.

"Since there are no complimentary earned memberships this year, it is doubly evident that you are sincerely interested in the cultural future of Pampa," he said.

In the discussion which followed workers were informed that no memberships of any kind were to be accepted after 12:00 noon, Saturday, April 7. Since there will be no single admissions to any concert, this means that if Pampans want to attend, they must secure their memberships now.

The number of memberships subscribed to date assures Pampa of at least three concerts. To double the present membership will afford Pampa more than three numbers and will greatly improve the quality of concerts secured.

Let's all refresh... Have a Coca-Cola

...or being friendly along the way
The spirit of camaraderie of the open road is summed up in the three words Have a Coke. At stops, everyone steps up to the familiar red cooler for the friendly refreshment of ice-cold Coca-Cola. America's streets and highways are dotted with such places that invite you to pause and refresh with a Coke. Wherever you go, Coca-Cola stands for the pause that refreshes, —a symbol of friendly refreshment.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture: Psalm 145; Proverbs 2:1-9 II Corinthians 3:1-8; II Peter 1:21

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.

Peter says in his Second Epistle that "holy men of God spake as they were moved by the Holy Ghost." That is the origin of the Bible, and the Bible itself is the proof of what Peter says. It bears upon it the marks of its origin in the lives of holy men. It has lived through the ages because it is the book of life; because it has brought to successive generations of men and women the light, and help, and guidance they have needed. It is the book that tells of God, and of Jesus Christ, and of the way of salvation, and of the Christian way of living.

We speak of the Bible as "it," when we really ought to say "they"—for the Bible is not one book, but many. Our Bible consists of 66 books, 39 in the Old Testament and 27 in the New Testament. These books originally were separate writings, and the writing of them occupied at least several centuries. The earliest and the latest are thus far apart in time, and the books are of widely diverse nature. Some are history, some are prophecy, some are poetry, some are romance, some are sermonic.

What all the books of the Bible have in common is that they tell the story of how men were seeking God and finding Him, and making the revelation of God known. Much of the Bible tells how men failed to seek and find God—for it is a book of great realism, dealing with human sin and tragedy, as well as with triumphant faith and achievement.

That the Bible should have been so marvelously preserved through the ages is only less wonderful than that it should ever have been written at all.

How much do we value it? What is it worth to us? We reverence it, but do we read it? And do we read it intelligently, recognizing the variety and the differences in the books?

If we read the Bible aright, we shall realize that it is not all of one piece. It is a record of man's quest of God, and men did not find God all at once. Patriarchs did things that would have been unworthy of Apostles, because they knew God only partially. Even the Apostles were a long time coming to the full truth concerning God, though they had Jesus to help them and guide them. It is very important to grasp this fact of the progressive revelation in the Bible. From Genesis to Revelation is like the progress from the candle to the powerful electric light. It is a record of light, but of increasing light.

This coming week is "Bible Week." Throughout the nation men of prominence are paying their tribute to the greatest of all books, but the noblest tribute we can pay is to put its truth and teachings into our daily words and deeds.

Episcopal Church To Have Auxiliary Day At Sunday Communion

Sunday, April 8, will be Woman's Auxiliary Day in St. Matthew's Episcopal church, 707 West Browning street. At the 11 o'clock communion service the women will make return of the money from their united thank offering boxes, and will have their semi-annual corporate communion. The Rev. Edgar W. Henshaw has announced that at this service he will preach on the subject, "Women Needed." There will also be a communion service at 8 o'clock in the morning.

Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock, the Woman's auxiliary will meet with Mrs. J. G. Doggett, 915 N. Somerville. As this is the most important meeting in the past several months, it is expected that every woman who is interested in the welfare of the auxiliary and the church will attend.

Word has been received that Bishop Fenner of Kansas will visit this district early in May for a conference with the clergy of North Texas. Bishop Fenner has been appointed by the presiding bishop to act as bishop of North Texas, in addition to his own diocese, until such time as a permanent bishop shall be consecrated. Announcements as to the time of Bishop Fenner's visit to Pampa will be made as soon as a definite date is received.

Rev. Matthew Doyle Will Speak Sunday At Central Baptist

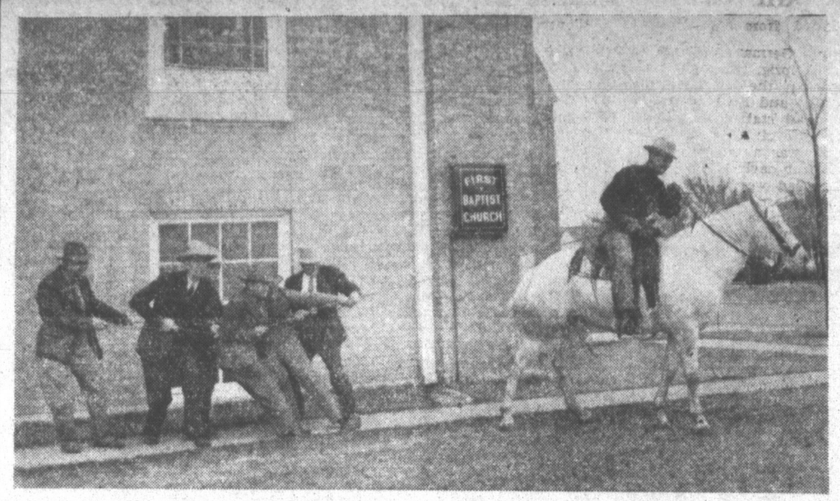

The Rev. Matthew Doyle, Boy Scout executive, of Borger will be guest speaker at both morning and evening services of the Central Baptist church Sunday.

'Christian Faith' Is Sunday Sermon Topic Church of Brethren

On Sunday morning at 11 o'clock, the Rev. Russell G. West, pastor of the Church of the Brethren, will preach on "The Uncompromising Nature of the Christian Faith."

Sunday school opens at 10 o'clock with classes for persons of all ages. There will be no evening service.

Christian Science Sunday Study Topic

"Unreality" is the subject of the lesson-sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist on Sunday, April 8.

The golden text is: "Judge not according to the appearance, but judge righteous judgment" (John 7:24).

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "Now we have received, not the spirit of the world, but the spirit which is of God; that we might know the things that are freely given to us of God" (I Corinthians 2:12).

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health, with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The realities of being, its normal action, and the origin of all things are unseen to mortal sense; whereas the unreal and imitative movements of mortal belief, which would reverse the immortal modus and action, are styled the real" (page 212).

McCullough Church Will Hear Chaplain

Chaplain Bannen Y. Swope of Pampa army air field will be guest speaker at the morning service of the McCullough Methodist church. No services will be held Sunday evening.

Layman's Day Will Be Observed Sunday At First Methodist

Church school begins at the First Methodist church at 9:45 on Sunday morning. The morning worship service will open at 10:55 with Mrs. John Skelly at the organ. She will play for the prelude "Prayer" by Schubert, and the other numbers will be, "Andantino," by Franck, and "Postlude" by Mendelssohn. Under the direction of Mrs. Flaudie Gallman the choir will sing, "The Cherubim Song," by Bortnianshy.

The morning service will be under the direction of Roy Bourland, as lay leader of the church, R. A. Selby, of Amarillo, will give the Layman's Day address. Mr. Selby was formerly connected with the Pampa schools and is well known here.

Evening worship begins at 7:30 in the sanctuary with the Rev. Russell West, pastor of the Brethren church, as guest speaker for that hour. The theme for his sermon will be, "Building With Christ for Tomorrow."

Miss Mildred Martin is organist for the evening hour and will play "Cavatina" by Raff, and "Largo," by Dvorak. Other special music has been arranged. Horace McBee will direct the congregation in singing hymns.

The navy is now using a new knapsack-type life jacket and a modified version of the old kapok-jacket life preserver.

Helen Hayes, America's first lady of the theater, is heard over Mutual and KPDN Sundays (9:15-9:30 p. m.) in a series of dramas stimulating enlistments in the army and navy nurse corps.

Committee Approves Lend-Lease Etension

WASHINGTON, April 6—(AP)—The senate foreign relations committee ananimously approved without change Wednesday a house measure extending lend-lease operations for one year from June 30.

Chairman Connally (D-Texas) said no amendments were offered to the measure, after assurances by Leo T. Crowley, foreign economics administrator, that lend-lease would not be used to finance post-war rehabilitation operations in other countries.

As approved by the committee, the bill carries a house amendment barring such use of the funds provided by congress.

Gen. Eisenhower Getting as Much Mail as Sinatra

By JULES B. GRAD
Stars and Stripes Staff Writer for the Combined American Press

THE SUPREME CMDRS., HDQS. April 6—(AP)— Gen. Eisenhower now receives almost as many letter as Frank Sinatra.

From every corner of the free world people write him for autographs and pictures. One little boy asked for a "genuwine Tiger tank." Hundreds of letters pour into his headquarters every week. They come by airmail and V-mail. Scores are rain-drenched and caked with mud from frontline troops in Germany. Some are penny postcards. Others are written on expensive linen stationery with engraved letterheads.

But they all get the same personal attention. The supreme commander takes time off from the important job of running a war to answer each one, even if it means working an extra hour at night.

"Requests come mostly for autographs, SHAEF dispatches, pictures of general and official letterheads," said 2nd Lt. Kay Summersby, Eisenhower's secretary-aide. Some ask for the general's battle-jacket, a five-star cluster, his necktie, campaign ribbons and decorations (all three rows).

Eisenhower still chuckles about his request for hominy.

When Bing Crosby visited the supreme commander in Normandy last September, he asked the general if he'd like anything sent back from the states.

"Golly, Bing," replied the general, "I sure would like some hominy for Christmas."

When Crosby returned to Hollywood he casually mentioned the request during a broadcast. A few weeks later hominy started raining—or whatever hominy does—on the supreme headquarters. It came in cigarette carttons and huge crates, in small paper boxes and wooden containers. The general and his worried staff looked around for a place to move SHAEF. But the matter was soon remedied. The hospital patients never lacked hominy.

Another time the general's office started turning green. For some reason, people were sending him four-leaf clovers by the acre. Then there was the coin period when a reported noted Eisenhower carried good-luck coins. A gold pocket piece even found its way here from an Armenian antique dealer in Mexico.

Everything Is Quiet With Peace Officers

The Pampa police department last night arrested three local men for intoxication, but were bothered with no other complaints, Chief of Police Ray Dudley said today.

One woman who had been arrested last week on a vagrancy charge was released yesterday after receiving social disease treatments; but another, picked up last week on a health charge, is still in the city jail receiving treatments.

The Gray county sheriff department, which has made no arrest since last Saturday, reported the lull continued last night.

Neither peace enforcement department received any wreck reports yesterday or last night.

Highway Patrolman Speaks on First Aid

Sgt. C. G. Conner, highway patrolman from Amarillo, addressed an advanced Red Cross first aid class in the city hall Wednesday night, with first aid in highway injuries as his subject.

Sgt. Conner's address concluded the first aid class, and some of Pampa's scoutmasters attended last night's final meeting.

The speaker offers his service often at various civic club meetings, speaking about various phases of highway safety.

Zale Stores Observe Birthday With Sale

MORRIS GOLDFINE

Constantly expanding their stores to offer the highest quality in jewelry and gifts, Zale Jewelry company, 101 N. Cuyler, is observing its 21st anniversary with a special sale (See Page 8).

Morris Goldfine, manager of the local store, one of 14 in Texas, Oklahoma, Missouri and Nebraska, opened the Pampa store five years ago.

Mr. Goldfine wishes to thank the people of Pampa for the patience in complying with wartime shortages on merchandise service.

"Zale's are under a program of expansion that will enable them to offer more merchandise at lower cost," Goldfine said. "After the war, we plan to further expand our business to meet the great demand of a nation at peace."

Zale's is owned by Morris Zale of Wichita Falls and William Zale of Dallas.

The first store was opened in Wichita Falls and there are now stores in Wichita Falls, San Antonio, Amarillo, El Paso, Dallas, Austin, Pampa, and Houston, Texas, Oklahoma City, Tulsa, and Bartlesville, Oklahoma, Springfield, Missouri and Omaha, Nebraska.

"a serious interruption in the production of steel."

3. UMWA officials in Western Pennsylvania decided at a meeting to make new attempts to return miners in their area to the pits.

4. O'Leary reiterated his assertion that superintendents in some southern mines are preventing men from returning to work in order to avoid payment of any retroactive wage increase.

5. Reports from the coal fields indicated at least 40,000 miners still were idle.

In a telegram to Lewis WLB Chairman George W. Taylor said mine strikes are hampering production of steel and other war materials.

Government seizure requires certification from the WLB to the White House and an order from the President.

ers battered German railyards at Halle and Leipzig, two main traffic centers on the link-up routes for American and Russian armies. The main rail station at Leipzig, prime objective of the U. S. Third army drive, was a target in this fourth straight daylight assault on the reich. Bad weather grounded RAF planes last night, after a day in which more than 2,000 Allied planes hammered Germany.

U. S. Fifth army troops in Italy attacking through the mountains near the west coast, have gained up to two miles in a swift drive north of Azzana which opened yesterday. The Germans met the assault with strong mortar fire, and threw a strong counterattack against U. S. elements at Sirettoia. Still another American lunge began, the Germans said, after a heavy artillery barrage of several hours last night.

Supreme headquarters reports lagged a full 24 hours behind Allied armor racing down the last flatland main road toward Bremen and battering toward strategic Hannover. Headquarters reports placed the Americans, who crossed the Weser south of Hamelin, and were 20 miles or less from Hannover. The attacks in the meanwhile may have carried all the way to Bremen and Hannover.

The British Second and U. S Ninth armies joined east of the Weser, amid indications of a headlong German flight toward the Elbe, last water barrier to Berlin, 50 miles from the capital and 100 from Russian lines.

To the south the U. S. Third army's tanks cleared Meiningen, previously by-passed, 28 miles southwest of Gotha, and reached positions 23 miles southeast of Gotha and 58 miles from the Czechoslovak border. The Sixth armored division was 130 miles from Berlin at last reports, near Schlotheim.

On the northern end of the front Canadian First army troops sent patrols across the Neder Rhine east and west of the Dutch city of Arnhem. The Allied-controlled Dutch radio said Arnhem was entered without opposition.

In the south the American Seventh army continued its drive toward Neurnberg and the French First army menaced Stuttgart from positions beyond Karlsruhe.

The Germans radio, commenting on Gen. Eisenhower's prediction of guerrilla warfare, said dit was tribute to German arms and called for an "uncompromising fight to the very last."

Russian Treaty

or speculated on the future course of events.

Technically the pact has another year to run, but when one government tells another that such a pact has lost its meaning and that to continue it is meaningless, one would hesitate to say that the spirit of the pact still existed.

There was a lack of official comment, although some may be forthcoming in the immediate future. The Russians put out their announcement and let anyone think what they wished to about it.

Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov's note told the Japanese flatly that there were an ally of Hitlerite Germany—the most hated thing on earth to the Russians.

In the opinion of some foreign observers here, the Russians only signed the pact with Japan in an effort to avoid a two-front war, being fearful of Hitler's intentions from the beginning.

However, as the note which Foreign Commissar Molotov handed Japanese Ambassador Naotake Sato yesterday emphasized, conditions have "changer radically" since the treaty was signed.

News of the Soviet government's action, given to the Russian people by the Moscow radio four hours after Sato was summoned to Molotov's office, created an electric effect throughout the Russian capital.

It was plain the Russian bombshell had caused the greatest excitement in Japanese diplomatic quarters in Moscow since Japan went to war with the United States and Britain.

will make four or five trips to your city in connection with 'field work' on the Pampa survey, to make investigations, studies, and conferences with your committees, business enterprises and industries," Blanton said.

The Pampa survey-report will be delivered to the chamber of commerce in triplicate (bound in leather) with topical index, and interspersed with charts, graphical computations and maps illustrative all essential phases of the project. The report is estimated at 200 to 250 pages, is divdied into thirty major sections, and is interested with a minimum of 30 to 35 charts and maps.

main in the hands of the joint staff in Washington, and either one of the two five-star commanders would be designated to direct any specific operation.

Both Nimitz and MacArthur reported new gains, including the invasion of an islet off Okinawa in the Ryukyus, wrecking of 34 Japanese vessels, and destruction of 65 aircraft.

The Japanese, who are also being steadily pushed back by the British and Chinese in Burma, posed a new twin-pronged threat to China with a double drive toward Shensi province guarding the northern approaches to Chungking. Massing of these enemy forces overshadowed local Chinese successes against Japan's West Wall in China.

Chungking announced three Chinese columns met the threat, annihilated an enemy battalion, encircled a number of strong points and were engaged in continuing heavy fighting.

MacArthur's bombers carried the war to the China coast where Liberators in their second successive attack on Hong Kong sank nine freighters, damaged three other ships, and left shipyards, docks and oil tanks in flames. Twenty-two smal freighters were wrecked off the Asiatic coast and Among Southern islands.

time, who did not get a chance to speak last night.

In essence, opponents of the compromise bill based their objections on these opinions:

The bill would give the railroad commission power to go into the financial records of gas producers and empower it to consider economic as well as physical waste in face of the constitutional limitation that physical waste only shall be considered.

The bill sets up bureaucratic control within the state as dangerous to free enterprise as any federal control would be.

The bill, in sections permitting voluntary agreements between producers and owners for co-operative development of separate properties in a field, violates the anti-trust laws of the state.

The bill would not achieve gas conservation, in that the section providing that the railroad commission shall not require repressuring in any gas reservoir that does not yield as much as one and one-half gallons of pentanes and heavier liquid hydrocarbons per 1,000 cubic feet, limits the commission too strictly.

Proponents of the bill offered these arguments in its behalf:

It is necessary for the state to move quickly along some broader avenue of natural gas conservation, to forestall federal efforts along that line.

The bill is needed because of generally - admitted tremendous wastage of natural gas, especially incident to oil production. Provisions in the bill set up machinery for utilizing such gas in pipelines for fuel purposes under certain conditions.

The bill, while not perfect, is a step in the right direction in that it provides a start toward natural gas conservation.

Proponents, including Chairman Olin Culberson of the railroad commission, emphasized the threat of federal control.

America and her "Underground"

We were sitting around after chores the other night talking about the progress of the war. Chad Davis was saying how, in spite of Germany's defeat, there was still the German underground to cope with.

"I don't worry about them," says Sober Hoskins. "So long as we got our own underground in working order."

"What do you mean—our underground?" says Chad. And Sober points out to the fields. "There it is," he says, "under that soil lies the most important weapon that we've got. American crops—from American fields—strengthening our position overseas in a way no other underground can shake."

From where I sit, Chad's absolutely right. Whether it's for the glass of beer that cheers a tired soldier's spirits, or the bread that feeds our armies and our allies, every bit of grain that American farmers harvest is a part of America's great strength.

Working the 'Sleeper'

Any football fan is familiar with the "sleeper" play. It's as old as the Statue of Liberty play, and continues to be just as effective. The end fades out to the sideline as inconspicuously as possible, usually after a time out or a substitution, and lies down. When the ball is snapped he's up and away, and usually in the clear to receive a pass and score.

A variation of this football maneuver seems to be working nicely in Germany at present. It can't be said that General Patton and the Third army have axtctly been lying doggo. They have, in fact, been a constant worry to the nazis. Yet it seems likely that their spectacular dash into the open caught the nazi secondary defense off balance.

General Patton pulled off substantially the same trick in France last summer, and under similar circumstances. The Germans (to cling to the football parable) had been concentrating on stopping plays through the line, and were looking for more of the same. Suddenly Patton broke into the clear and was gone hell-for-leather toward the goal line.

When General Patton worked the sleeper play again, the Germans were understandably worried about the Allied quarterback running a play over their own right tackle and into the Ruhr. Since the Ruhr was their last great source of coal, the enemy had every right to be anxious. But now the Third army dash has added a new headache.

And the headache isn't relieved by developments in the east. Matching Patton's open-field running is the Russian sprint up from Budapest. A not impossible junction of American and Russian forces in Bavaria would certainly upset the German plan for a last-ditch stand which evidence, rumor and reason have indicated.

It has been generally understood that at least the top nazis and the core of the elite guard would retire to their country's southern mountains and fight it out. If carried through, such a move might develop into a long and nasty situation which could tie up a considerable number of Allied troops for a long time.

But if the nazis plan such a move they may have to start moving pretty quickly. For if they don't, they're going to find somebody in the way.

Suffixitis

A living language, we suppose, must change and develop to remain healthy. But we've noticed a couple of recent threatening trends in the American branch of the English language which, while perhaps healthy, do little to beautify, simplify or enrich our native speech.

The wartime vogue for -ee suffixes, like dischargee and returnee, has already been noted and deplored. Now comes a radio announcer talking about the "standers-by" at some function, followed the next day by a newspaper story about the "looker on" expected at the San Francisco conference.

We can't figure why the ancient and prevalent custom of prefixing prepositions to nouns (a heritage of English's Latin and Saxon ancestors) is now being reversed, with such tortured results. Perhaps someone felt the need for distinguishing the bypassers of General Patton's Third army from the ordinary passers - by, and the idea spread from there.

We've always found passers - by awkward and uncomfortable, and have usually managed to bypass the word. We don't like standers-by or lookers-on any better. And we hope that the would-be lifters-up of our language will soon be busying themselves with something else.

REPORT ON THE RUSSIANS

(The Wall Street Journal)

Mr. William L. White went to Russia and in a six weeks stay had an opportunity better than that usually accorded foreign writers to observe conditions in that country. He put his observations into a book, Report on the Russians (Harcourt, Brace).

The book reviewers have been working out on Mr. White and their criticisms range all the way from denunciation to gentle chiding. It is not charged that Mr. White reported anything he did not see, nor that he told anything but the truth about what he did see; no, indeed. Mr. White is taken to task because he did not suppress and gloss over. One reviewer solemnly says that any writer on international affairs or on the internal condition of our allies has a special responsibility. Another suggests that we all ought to regard ourselves as members of the State department.

Mr. White has just the responsibility that any reporter has. That is to tell the truth, all of it and nothing else. Had he suppressed or glossed over, he would have fallen short. If some other foreign correspondents would throw away their Homberg hats and quit imagining that they are statesmen, in short, if they would follow Mr. White's example and be reporters, they would perform a service.

American lives and treasure are being poured into a war which bids fair to give Russia a considerable degree of control over 100 million people in eastern Europe. The American people have a right to know the character of the nation which will exercise that control.

Policy of All Statesmen Is to Extend Police Power of the State

By ROSE WILDER LANE

(Author of "Let the Hurricane Roar," "Give Me Liberty," and "The Discovery of Freedom."

Marshal Stalin's foreign policy is, broadly, the ancient policy of all statesmen: the extension of his State's police and military power. In detail, it is the former Czar's policy: extension of the Russian State's use of force, to the Pacific, the Indian Ocean, the Mediterranean—and, in time, to the wide Atlantic beyond the Bay of Biscay.

Rose Wilder Lane

When (for example) British statesmen pursue this ancient policy, the British call it "safeguarding the Empire," and "bearing the white man's burden"; the communists call it "ruthless capitalist imperialism." When Stalin pursues it, the communists call it "safeguarding the Soviet Union," and non-communist Englishmen and Americans call it (in public) "Protecting our gallant ally's future security."

WHATEVER you call it, it is the same thing: premeditated murder for the purpose of robbery. If you or I did it, that would be the legal charge; murder. When any safe, comfortable, well-fed Chief of State orders out millions of conscripts to do it, he calls it "liberation," and his victims and opponents call it "aggression." (Napoleon first thought of calling wholesale murder and robbery, "liberation." Ordinary people like the idea, so tyrants have used the word ever since. To hear them tell it, Mussolini liberated Abyssinia and Albania; Hitler liberated all Europe; the Japanese are struggling to liberate Asia.)

MARSHAL STALIN's present—and so far, brilliantly successful—foreign policy is explained, though NOT by me, in this way:

Political-economic ideologies do not affect foreign policies. The foreign policies of nations are controlled by economic geography. The same relentless force that dictated the Czar's foreign policy continues to dictate the Soviet Union's. Under the Soviets, as under the Czars, Russia is an enormous land area containing rich natural resources and a large population, geographically isolated from the sea-routes of world trade. The Industrial Revolution has made world trade absolutely necessary to the life of modern nations, and the U.S.S.R. must have access to it. So long as her only ports are in the Arctic, and ice-bound in winter, she is shut off from world-trade during half the year. Her economic life is smothered. She MUST struggle for warm-water ports; they are the year-round trade - outlets upon which her very life depends.

Sounds fair enough—and how learned! Economic geography; imagine!

BUT WHAT about Kansas? How can Kansas breathe? She does not reach the Pacific nor the Gulf of Mexico. Why doesn't economic geography compel Kansas to liberate Oklahoma and Texas? or at least to use threats and conspiracy to set up in Texas a government friendly to Kansas, to bring Galveston within the Kansas sphere of influence?

Of course the answer is that Kansas is not an economic dictatorship. The Governor of Kansas isn't trying to give all Kansans freedom from want. He does not hold one gigantic monopoly, enforced by Kansas State police, of all land and all materials, all jobs, all industry, farming, trade and consumption, within the State of Kansas. No Governor of any American State has such a monopoly.

THEREFORE our State frontiers are not police-barriers set up to stop free travel and free trade. Kansans use Texas ports as freely as Texans do. The whole area of these forty-eight States is open to all their inhabitants, as God made the whole world to be for all men—and as the whole would be, if tyrants did not use police force to shut people inside the artificial walls called "national frontiers."

But of course this is laissez faire capitalism. When a Kansan lives, works, trades and travels as HE pleases, the Governor of Kansas cannot take care of him—cannot feed, clothe, shelter, and work him. The poor Kansas has no economic security. Whereas, of course, as anyone can hear on the radio, all the happy Russians today are economically secure.

Nulification of Treaty Is Feared

WASHINGTON, April 6-(AP)—Any French fears that the international organization to be proposed at San Francisco might nullify the French-Soviet mutual-aid treaty were termed "groundless" by the Soviet information bulletin.

It was such fears, the bulletin suggested, that led the French government to become a co-sponsor of the April 25 United Nations meeting.

Asserting that the French-Soviet treaty provides for automatic mutual assistance by the two powers "under certatin circumstances," the publication in an article from "War and the Working Class" by M. Nikolayev, said:

"No objection can be raised to the French-Soviet treaty which, with respect to its automatic operation, is identical with the Soviet-Czechoslovak treaty."

Cancer and heart disease are the nation's No. 1 and No. 2 killers.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS
The National Whirligig

By ALBERT LEMAN

TARIFF—In the golden age of Mark Hanna, G. O. P. businessmen were solidly united in support of high tariffs which, they contended, assured a "full dinner pail" for the worker and fat profits for the factory owner. But they are poles apart on the subject as hearings on the trade agreements act open in Washington.

There are heated discussions in executive offices of the big corporations in New York. Many republican importers, exports, bankers, manufacturers and mechants argue hotly that, unless we let down the bars here, we cannot hope to sell great quantities of goods abroad.

Equally set in their opinions are spokesmen of firms who fear that their markets will be wiped out by foreign competition. "We have already opened the gates too wide," they maintain. "Since 1934 more than twelve hundred tariff rate reductions have been made. The Roosevelt trade schemes have brought a more drastic downward revision than congress has undertaken in half a century."

One influential Manhattan industralist asks: "Is labor so blind that it cannot see it is committing suicide? Its leaders champion the Hull pacts and are out to broaden the government's bargaining authority so that tariff rates may be slahed fifty percent.

"This won't hurt me in the end for I can produce, say, in Italy. But workers will wake up one morning to find a flood of cheap goods made by low-paid Europeans sweeping away their jobs. Have they forgotten the light bulbs turned out by Japanese coolies that filled our stores before the war?"

PRICES—Concerns plan to establish overseas, where they will not be hampered by high wages and union restrictions, and even to ship their outputs back to the U. S. A.

A short time ago American investors not only owned stocks in Czech shoe factories, but affiliated American retailers peddled the boots. Wives of shoe workers in Massachusetts bought footwear at lower prices than they paid for that made by their husbands. It did not take long for the men to join the ranks of the unemployed.

Incidentally, the inauguration of branch workshops in China, Venezuela, France etc., will open a field for technicians from these countries. War veterans, trained in manufacturing, may want to go back—after enjoying vacations with their families—and act as bosses.

Low-wage toilers even affect U. S. heavy industries in transacting business abroad. An important New York engineering firm had a large contract below the Isthmus and planned to take labor-saving machinery there. A Latin government official politely suggested that if the company hired enough local workers the job could be done as quickly as if imported cement-mixers and stone-crushers were used, and the cost would be far less.

TRADE—But there is another side to the picture. Many industrialists think that any article which requires too high a tariff protection is economically unsound.

They believe that the only way to sell American goods abroad is to permit other lands to send their products in payment. All businesses, either directly or indirectly, will benefit if world trade flourishes. If it doesn't, we shall be in for another depression.

Corporations everywhere intend to promote exports. Crossley is arranging for foreign agents to market its radios and electrical equipment. The Air Reduction company has set up a subsidiary to drum up overseas customers for its acetlylene gases and welding equipment. Insiders say the management will even handle noncompeting items for other manufacturers.

As an experiment, Westinghouse Electric has adopted the "two-way street" policy in its own house; it will sell its wares to other nations and will act as the United States distributor for European and South American industries. Many other concerns have devised ingenious projects to encourage international commerce.

BARRIERS—But while we in North America are pondering ways to stimulate the flow of products across national boundaries, republics south of the Rio Grande are erecting barriers to protect their infant industries which sprang up when wartime conditions shut off imports.

For instance, ten thousand new factories have mushroomed in Sao Paulo alone. Brazilians now demand that their government shield them from foreign competition in textiles, metal goods, electrical machinery, radios and plumbing supplies. New York exporters are distressed because they find that Latins are reviewing quotas, exchange controls and import licensing systems.

During the war Mexico has been manufacturing cement, glass, chinatiles, structural iron and hardware. A leading Mexican businessman told a Manhattan banker this week that his country expects the volume of imports to increase provided that it can export its goods at a profit. Latin policy seems to be: Tit for tat or no trading.

Normalcy

Gone are the old—and more particularly, the young—familiar faces from the big-league baseball scene. But as another wartime season is about to commence, the sports pages bring us at least one nostalgic reminder of the good old days—eight managers in each league have assured the world that their team will finish in the first division.

UPTON CLOSE:
San Francisco Outlook Not as Bright as Seems

By UPTON CLOSE
"Westward The Course"

Asked why San Francisco was chosen for the meeting of the United Nations next month, Secretary of State Stettinius explained: "It is symbolically appropriate that we should meet at San Francisco for this purpose, for our pioneering has always been westward." That sentiment dates back to the days of manifest destiny. It's in the best tradition of Westward Ho! and "Westward the course of empire takes its way." On the surface, this is the theme song of the San Francisco conference.

The advertising fanfares are imposing. The question remains: Is this a propaganda campaign intended to impose once again upon the good faith of the American people—to make them think the projected world order will have some American flavor in it? Is the San Francisco meeting to blind our eyes to a world played into the lap of Moscow—a move to make the public think that a new Pacific era is developing, while, in actuality, Stalin gets still a firmer grasp on global holdings?

Those who prefer to answer this question in the negative must be willing to accept much on trust. The Roosevelt administration so neglected the Pacific situation that Pearl Harbor resulted. There is reason to say that he is even now so neglecting it that Vladivostok or Port Arthur (once more Russian) is likely to outrank San Francisco as mistress of the Pacific era. The same statesmen are in the White House who regarded the Pacific seaboard—not as the frontierland of opportunity—but as the backside of America, worthy only of the attentions paid all backsides: kicks and spanks.

Roosevelt has favored the west with a few visits—hurried tours of war plants and military and naval installations, even a skirting of the Aleutians and a well-publicized conference at Pearl Harbor. However, no politician is responsible for the way the map now looks in the Pacific, but rather the American navy which continues to be the only war instrument worthy of comparison with the red armies, and the military genius who carved out the military victories of the Pacific war, despite the second place accorded him by the present administration.

Roosevelt now realizes that many Americans have come to appreciate how important it is for this nation soon to turn away once more from the bloody battlegrounds and weird philosophies of Europe and once more face the golden promise of the westering sun, as did the pioneers of yesterday. This trend westward, this groping for an almost vanished dream, is the stuff of which a greater American could be made. But it is not so like him to realize that the Pacific is no trading post for politicians whose stock in trade is promises, and who go bankrupt so gracefully that they never lose a customer! Now there is definite danger that whatever charter is arrived at in San Francisco may be akin to the Atlantic Charter: pap for the public, a dramatic scene to fascinate the people while the despotic hand of the communist dictatorship clutches more than the present one-sixth of the world—reaches from Atlantic and Mediterranean even down into Pacific Asia!

There is significance in the fact that Stalin chooses the sites of conferences. Stettinius admits that one reason why San Francisco was chosen as the meeting spot is because it would be most accessible to the representatives of the Soviet union. That's the canker sore in the mouth of the conference—before anybody begins to speak. The Army and Navy Journal's comment on the possibility of Stalin's attending the San Francisco meeting was seven words which expose pretense: "Stalin requires rulers to come to him!"

If present plans are carried out, there will be no discussion about the disposition of territories and other settlements resulting directly from this war. In simpler English, Stalin keeps all his land-grabs, and the smaller nations remain in the position of being picked up by the communist carpet-sweeper.

The brighter aspects of the situation all have been played up in the news. Westward is the natural and proper course of the United States. The trend of civilization has been in that direction for centuries. The hourglass of time has sifted its sands over ancient Tyre and Sidon, Carthage, Athens, Rome, Venice, and then Western Europe. First the Mediterranean basin, then the Atlantic—now the Pacific. This becomes the hope of civilization as Europe dies—her cities in ruins, her population unable to perpetuate itself.

Perhaps San Francisco, rather than Vladivostok, will prove to be the hub of the great Pacific wheel Although only a century old, San Francisco has more personality than most world capitals. Right now, the shadow of the hammer and sickle falls across its famous Golden Gate, but events and popular desire may brush aside the weak giving of palsied fingers. This hope San Francisco holds out to many a hungry American heart.

Around Hollywood

By ERSKINE JOHNSON

HOLLYWOOD.—Ethel Smith, the lady born with a beat who plays swing on the electric organ with her fingers, her feet, her knees, her body and her heart, gave us a private two-hour recital today.

Considering her movie, radio and record salaries, we will shortly receive a bill for about $850,000.

"Come on up to the house," she said, "and I'll noodle around for you."

Ethel is in Hollywood at the moment, leaping from one studio to another between radio engagements.

Hollywood discovered that the electric organ is a visual instrument when Ethel made her film debut last year in "Bathing Beauty." They also discovered that Ethel and her red hair, turned up nose and legs are easy on the eyes.

"It was a little embarrassing," she laughed. "At one time I counted 10 guys sitting on the floor looking at my legs."

It was the first time Hollywood had photographed anyone playing the electric organ and it was a nice surprise. Ethel doesn't just sit and play. She dances on the pedals and her whole body moves in rhythm with the music.

ANGLE SHOTS

Cameramen and lighting experts had a field day photographing her from the floor, through the pedals and on mobile booms which circled around her head and peeked over her shoulder.

"Anyone who sits still," she says, "shouldn't be playing the organ."

Daughter of a Pittsburgh real estate man, Ethel started playing the piano at nine then took organ lessons from the famous Dr. Casper Coch at Carnegie Tech.

But she wasn't born to play the classics. Dr. Coch gave her up as a hopeless case when she started swinging Beethoven.

Ethel discovered the electric organ six years ago in a small Bavarian cafe in Miami Beach, where she played for her supper and nothing else.

"The owner gave me a job to keep his chef happy," she said. "The chef was crazy about 'Weeneze Valtdes.' I started at midnight and didn't get my sauerbraten until 2 a. m."

Then she went to Brazil as entertainment director on the ship carrying Cordell Hull and other delegates to the first Pan-American conference in Rio. One of her jobs was to dance with the diplomats every night.

"I ruined six pairs of shoes," she said. "Those diplomats were brains on one end and lead on the other."

She fell in love with Rio, and remained there a year, playing at the Copacabana club.

THINGS POPPED

Then she returned to New York, played at the St. Regis Hotel and "things started to happen."

Now she has two apartments, one in New York and one Hollywood, and two $1,250 electric organs.

Ethel is a divorcee but she doesn't like to talk about it.

"It's a sad story," she said. "He liked organ music—he even liked me—but it just didn't work out."

For her Samba routines in the new Disney pictures she works them out first on a drum. "I play it side saddle," she laughed.

WAR TODAY

By DeWITT MacKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Whatever way you look at it, Russia's denunciation of her neutrality pact with Japan is a momentous development which fully justifies the jubilation being expressed among the Allies.

True, this denunciation in itself doesn't necessarily mean that the Soviet Union is going to war with Nippon—a point which we shouldn't overlook. We should have learned by this time that Russia's moves cannot be taken for granted, but that we must wait for Moscow to call the turn.

However, the denunciation certainly does mean that the Soviet has cleared decks for possible action. It would be an easy step from this to actual war, especially since the Muscovites charge that Japan has been hiding Germany against Russia.

One very important aspect of the Russian move lies in its undoubted-ly good effect on relations among the Big Three. A particularly happy circumstance in view of the approaching security conference in San Francisco.

Another immediate effect will be to make the Mikado's government sit up and face the old, old question of whether crime pays. Russia soon will be free of the European conflict, and if she turns her mighty striking power against Japan, along with that of Britain and the United States, it will be just too bad for the little men of Nippon, as they well know. Add to this the fact that the official Japanese broadcasts don't even try to conceal the government's fear and worry over the trend of the war, and you have something.

If Tokyo has had any thoughts of seeking peace, this is the appointed hour for the move—another item which Moscow hasn't overlooked in its denunciation. Indeed, there may be significance in the fact that Russia's notification coincided with the fall of warmonger General Koiso's cabinet and the Mikado's designation of Admiral Baron Suzuki to succeed the general.

Glenn Babb, Associated Press foreign news editor who for many years was A. P. chief of bureau in Tokyo, says Suzuki "may be the front man for a Japanese peace offensive."

The Russian earthquake comes at a moment when Japan already is rocking from the shock of Uncle Sam's successful landing on big Okinawa island—an integral part of the Mikado's domains and only 325 miles from the mainland. The Japs are scared, and their broadcasts don't mince words over the disaster.

But they're more than scared. Both their fighting machine and their economic structure are in a bad way, so all it in all, it would be natural if their thoughts did turn in the direction of peace.

The coal used for power and heating comes from sunlight bottled up by plants thousands of years ago.

TENSION

XVII

CHARLEY sat quietly for a long time staring at the distant white tower of the lighthouse on Old Prince. Finally he said:

"Could that fellow have killed you down in the cellar?"

I shuddered.

"What makes you think he didn't try?"

"I figure it this way." Charley spoke impersonally as if he were working out a simple problem in long division. "If the fellow who entered your room last night and the one you encountered in the cellar are the same man, and I think they are, you may explain his actions as attempts to avoid discovery. You surprised him in your room, and, of course, he shot. But there's the possibility that he may not have known it was you in the room. Then you were prowling around in the cellar and, in order to protect his identity, he hit you on the head. It strikes me that if he had really wanted you out of the way, he could have hit you a lot harder—or he could have hit you again. He had plenty of time, you know."

I felt the back of my head gingerly.

"On the other hand," continued Charley, "the fellow who slugged Joubert and sabotaged our plane meant business."

"All of which still leaves us precisely nowhere," I said.

"Not quite." Charley leaned forward and tapped me on the knee. "You haven't forgotten that Booker was anxious to talk you into something, that Calavestri slipped you what is very probably one of the Ostermann diamonds, and that she was murdered while trying to contact you."

"Or Eric Woolf."

"I doubt it," replied Charley. "From there on it seems relatively simple. You had possession for awhile of one of the Ostermann diamonds. Somebody besides Marks must have known that—Booker possibly. So far as anyone on the outside goes you might still have it. And that makes you a marked man."

"Very pretty," I said, "but still no more than a theory."

WHEN the seven of us gathered around the table for lunch, the air had cleared a little.

Bruce Temple, it seemed, had been persuaded to delay his departure until afternoon by the promise of native pheasant, which Pat had wheedled out of Nig Nelson's, the grocer's, own private refrigerator. And Temple had brought in Tecky, his Filipino houseboy, to cook the meal. Woolf beamed ecstatically at the appearance of the birds and Charley murmured:

"Four dollars a portion at Harvey's."

"Harvey's?" Eric looked up pleasantly. In the presence of good food he became expansive, almost human. "In Washington, you mean?"

"That's right."

"Dinner at Harvey's is one of the bright spots in my life. Martinis first at the Carlton. Then sturgeon at Harvey's." Woolf put back his head, closed his eyes and bestowed a reverent kiss upon the memory.

"Martinis," repeated Bruce Temple. His massive, rock-like features had relaxed. "That calls up memories. The best martinis in the world are to be had in the Palacio Hotel in Estoril."

At first, that made no impression upon me. It was mere pleasantry about food and drinks that went unremembered in an hour's time. But suddenly I was aware of a strange silence and I looked across at Temple. I could have sworn that I saw a faint flush on his controlled features. Phineas Hudson had turned and his eyes were fixed unwinkingly upon his guest. Brenda Temple's face had gone suddenly rigid, and all of the expansiveness had gone out of Eric. That thin-lipped smile was there and that cold, dead-pan look.

"Estoril?" he asked.

TEMPLE'S eyes swung slowly toward Eric.

"Yes," he said heavily, "in Portugal."

"I know," answered Eric. "Near Lisbon. The Palacio is a splendid hotel."

"I prefer the Aviz," said Temple bluntly and for the moment I loved him.

The Palacio was the German hangout about 15 miles down the Tagus River from Lisbon. The Aviz was more luxurious and had no Germans.

"When were you in Lisbon?" Eric asked.

"I've been there several times," Temple replied.

"Recently?" Eric persisted.

Bruce Temple took his time in replying. He regarded Eric as a man looks at an apple before he bites into it. He said:

"No. Have you?"

"Not since 1933," Eric answered readily.

"It used to be lovely," Brenda said.

"It's changed," Charley Strand said. "Now 90 per cent of the transients about Lisbon have secrets. The other 10 can't keep them."

"In Lisbon," Eric said, "it is dangerous not to keep a secret."

"It is fatal," Bruce Temple corrected him.

We had coffee. It was black and bitter. The remains of the pheasant had been cleared away and I could see the large oval impress in the tablecloth where the platter had rested.

We had all grown quiet. We watched each other attentively over the tops of our coffee cups.

I saw Eric glance at his wrist watch and his eyes rested calculatively on space.

The last cup hit the saucer and Phineas Hudson said:

"Bruce, Tecky can cook."

That was all.

THAT JOB OF RE-EDUCATING GERMANY

By PETER EDSON
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 6 — Plans for dealing with the German people after the collapse of the nazi army are again being talked of in Washington.

OWI Director Elmer Davis and his deputy for the European theater, Wallace Carroll, have quietly left Washington for London and Paris. They will visit Supreme Allied Headquarters, confer with military government officials, and bring back details on the final phases of psychological warfare which must be continued even after the German armies are defeated.

Last summer, when it was thought snow flew, there was a whole shelf of plans made for dealing with the the nazis would fold before the German people. Some 1,400 people were trained in the OWI school outside New York City, for a variety of jobs in European outposts. But when the Germans didn't immediately throw in the sponge, the plans were kept on the shelf and the training school was closed. Now new plans will have to be made to meet changed conditions and OWI must do additional recruiting.

The job apparently cut out for OWI in Germany will be entirely different from what it will be in any other country. Its function will be pretty much in the nature of combined censorship and public relations in connection with military government.

It will be a part of the government of occupation in a country where for the last 10 years there have been no privately owned newspapers or radio, all informational activities being run by the propaganda ministry of Herr Goebbels, staffed with a choice collection of grafters, extortionists, and thugs.

Personnel Problem Difficult

All these media will have to be restaffed and the Germans finally approved for the jobs will have to be handpicked. The question is where to find the personnel. Prisoners of war may furnish a few eligible candidates. Refugees wanting to go back may not be welcomed. Whom to trust in Germany is indeterminable in advance. There are bound to be many sad experiences.

For a time, therefore, it is obvious that there will have to be an American sitting in every newspaper office, every radio station permitted to do business in the U. S. zone of occupation. Furthermore, every book manuscript offered for publication will have to be carefully censored.

The ability to re-educate the German people through controlling their source of information is a big question for debate. While its desirability cannot be questioned, such realists as Douglas Miller, who wrote "You Can't Do Business With Hitler," long before the United States got into the war, are extremely skeptical about being able to do much re-education. Miller, a former consular officer in Germany and now head of OWI's German division, broadcasting regularly to Germany from Washington, puts greater hope in the possibility that enough good Germans will appear to do the re-educating job themselves.

German Schools To Be Closed

Schools will be under the civil affairs division of the army. All schools will be closed at the beginning of the occupation. An interesting sidelight of the Soviet army occupation of eastern Germany is that the Russians closed all the schools but opened up the churches, which were centers of nazi resistance.

Universities will probably be kept closed indefinitely. Elementary schools will be the first to be opened, for the big hope of the future is in starting a coming generation off on the right track as soon as possible. At first, it may be necessary to re-employ many teachers with nazi records, but it is believed that they can teach safe subjects like arithmetic till the records of enough new teachers can be investigated to broaden the instruction.

One of the few nice things about the nazis is that they have taught the people to accuse each other, and that has already helped considerably in weeding out the most undersirable characters in German official life. With the plug-uglies of the old ministries of propaganda, enlightenment and education, there can of course be no truck.

2—Memorials

In memory of my brother, S-Sgt. Paul W. Toler, who was killed in action in Germany March 15, 1945.
He is gone from our sight, this brother of mine,
In our hearts is an ache we cannot define,
All memory of him is sweet and good
Ne'er the 'membrance of an unkind word

All his life thru he was a joy in our home,
For many a year never cared to road,
He would smile thru trouble or pain
And soon all would be bright again.

He left with a promise soon to return.
How our hearts with hope did burn,
Never a day but that we prayed
That he with the triumphant would parade,

He gave his life that long may live
The freedom and peace that He did give;
When He too, died, on a tree
That we might live more abundantly.

Down that long, long road he trod
That never we'd bend 'neath the conqueren' rod,
That we, loud anthems to Him might raise
Who gave us the land of the free and the home of the brave.

Tho' we cannot see him or touch him here
We know he is in that higher sphere,
And one day we shall see him again.
I know it and for it shall plan.

God, keep his soul with the blest
How he did long for refuge and rest.
Keep him, Jesus, 'til up in heaven
We together, rejoice for your love that was given.
GOLDIE TOLER SUTTON.

Market Briefs

NEW YORK WALL STREET

NEW YORK, April 5—(AP)—The stock market today stumbled over the good war news and, while casualties generally were not severe and selling far from urgent, the averages recorded their first decline in seven successive sessions.

Sales were around 700,000 shares.

Prominent on the retreat were Santa Fe, Great Northern, Northern Pacific, U. S. Steel, Chrysler, U. S. Rubber, Montgomery Ward, United Aircraft, Boeing, Eastern Air Lines, Western Union "A", General Electric and J. C. Penney.

Among curb laggards were Cities Service, E. W. Bliss, Electric Bond & Share, and Raytheon. Transwestern Oil and North American Light contested the shift.

4 Negro Wacs Are Restored to Duty

BOSTON, April 6—(AP)—Four Negro Wacs convicted of refusing to obey superior officers at Fort Devens are to be restored to duty because the court martial which sentenced them to a year at hard labor was improperly convened.

The war department at Washington said court martial proceedings were vacated "in the interest of the strictest justice toward the accused."

The girls, convicted March 20 of violating the 64th article of war, were: Pvt. Anna C. Morrison of Richmond, Ky.; Pvt. Johnny Murphy of Rankin, Pa.; Pvt. Mary Green of Conrie, Texas, and Pvt. Alice D. Young of Washington.

During the trial the girls contended they were ordered to perform menial task in Lovell general hospital, Ft. Devens, because of their color.
