TODAY and TOMORROW

ROCKEFELLER ... an organizer

Before he was fifty, John D. Rockefeller, son of a country horse-doctor, had made himself the richest man in the world. He did it by seizing the opportunity offered by a new industry, oil. He was an organizer by instinct. He brought order and system into the production, refining and distribution of oil. He made so much money in a field where men failed that his unsuccessful rivals accused him of almost every crime in the business calendar. He was the worst-hated man in America when he retired from business forty years ago.

When he died the other day at 97 he was perhaps the best-loved man in America. For in those forty years he had given away, for the benefit of humanity, almost all of his vast fortune. He endowed education, medical research and many other great movements for the betterment of the world. And the world's judgment of Mr. Rockefeller changed.

It is never wise to brand any man as a villain until time has had its chance to reveal his real character. Mr. Rockefeller was fortunate in living to see himself vindicated.

MONEY ..... and men

I know and have known many of the world's wealthiest men. I do not think of many who valued money for its own sake. Most of the rich men I have known have felt that their wealth placed an obligation upon them to use their money for the service of their fellow-men. Andrew Carnegie said once that it was sinful for any man to die rich; and he gave his fortune away before he died.

Henry Ford once told me that he bought out his stockholders because they wanted the Ford profits for themselves, in dividends. He felt they did not own the money; it belonged to the people who made and bought Ford cars and he wanted to use the profits to pay the workers more and build cheaper and better cars.

The fact that a few men have used their great wealth selfishly does not seem to me to warrant denunciation of all rich men as enemies of the people.

OPPORTUNITY ..... vision

Mr. Rockefeller, like all other men who have accumulated wealth by their own efforts, made money because he seized an opportunity which was open to anybody. Others may have seen it, but he was able to utilize it.

It is often said that there are no more opportunities. That is true for those who lack the vision to see and the courage to grasp the opportunities which lie ready to their hands. I saw a motor-boat going up the St. Johns River the other day, loaded with freight for inland Florida points. The big steamship companies had abandoned their lines up the river, because they did not pay. A bright young man with little capital but lots of energy started the new freight line and is getting rich.

Big fortunes are being made by men who saw the opportunity in such things as radio, aviation and the chemical industries. Every day develops new opportunities for the able.

CHARACTER ..... essential

I have seen many men fail, and in most instances I could trace the cause of their failure to the lack of one essential ingredient of success—character. All the ability, technical skill, "smartness" in the world will not bring enduring success unless those qualities are backed up by the most important of all—character.

I have often tried to define "character," but it is one of those things which everybody recognizes but few can explain in words. It means honesty, but more than mere legal honesty. It implies an inbred quality which makes it impossible for the man who has it to do a dishonest thing, to turn out a dishonest piece of work, to be "tricky" in any human relationship.

WORK ..... pride of success

Nobody ever made important money without working for it. The only exception I can think of is those who discovered treasure hidden in the earth—and most of them have had to work hard before they found it.

It is certainly true that the men who operate great business enterprises work a lot harder than do most of their employees. The price of success is literally to have to live with one's business. Even when they appear to be playing, successful business men are thinking about their business, trying to figure out ways to turn chance contacts to good account.

There never has been an easy road to riches. It makes me sore sometimes, to hear men who drop everything when the clock strikes "quitting time" and give no thought to their work next morning, grouse because the "boss" has more than they have. He works for it.

Stephenville Golfers Taken to Trimming In League Matches

"Seven and eleven" was the outcome of last Sunday's golf matches here in the second engagement participated in by members of the Bluebonnet Country Club, Hico coming out with the long end of the score. This evened things up to a great degree, local mashie men having gone down in defeat in a previous engagement at Stephenville.

The matches are being held as a part of inter-city play between golf clubs at Hico, Stephenville and Dublin-De Leon. Teams representing each club alternate between the three courses throughout the summer season. Similar contests have been held each year for the past several summers, in which Bluebonnet representatives have managed to hold their own with teams from Stephenville, Hamilton, and other neighboring towns. This is the first season in which the locals have been matched against players from Dublin, and they are looking forward with pleasant anticipation toward this pleasure.

Scoring was on match play, rather than medal play as previously, and a number of low scores were turned in last Sunday by golfers who failed to win their matches. Below is a record of the outcome of hole play, together with medal scores of participants. Stephenville players' names are given first:

B. J. Wisdom 78, Ray Cheek 74; 1 point for Hico.

C. C. WADDILL BURIED AT HICO CEMETERY LAST SATURDAY AFTERNOON

Funeral services were held at the Hico Cemetery Saturday afternoon, June 19, for C. C. Waddill, who passed away at the family home three miles north of town early Friday morning after a long illness. He had been in bed almost six weeks, after having been confined in the Stephenville Hospital for five weeks.

Rev. R. H. Gibson, pastor of the Carlton Baptist Church, conducted the services, assisted by Rev. E. E. Dawson, pastor of the Hico Baptist Church. A. A. Fewell of Hico had charge of the song services.

Pallbearers were nephews of Mr. Waddill, and his nieces acted as flower girls.

Colquitt Carter Waddill was born in the State of Georgia, October 28, 1880, came to Texas with his parents, and was married at Carlton to Miss Minnie Lambert Sept. 5, 1905. Five children were born to this union, only one son of whom survives, Warren.

Mr. Waddill was converted and joined the Prairie Springs Baptist Church in 1922. He lived a consecrated Christian life until the end. He was devoted to his family and friends, being a good neighbor, and a special friend of the young people. He had friends all over this and adjoining counties, who visited him during his illness at his home, and also at the hospital where he was a patient for five weeks. All that medical skill could do to restore his health was done, but to no avail. The entire community lost an upright, useful citizen in the passing of Mr. Waddill.

He is survived by his wife, one son, Warren, one brother, two sisters and a number of other relatives and a multitude of friends. Many relatives and friends from out of town attended the services.

NEW COLLEGE PRESIDENT

REV. SELMER F. VELDEY INSTALLED AS PRESIDENT OF CLIFTON, TEX., COLLEGE

CLIFTON, June 13.—Rev. Selmer F. Veldey, who has become well known to Bosque County residents, was installed this afternoon as president of Clifton College. Rev. A. E. Nelson of Dallas gave the installation address, and Rev. P. E. Thorson, president of the board of trustees, conducted the installation. The male chorus of the St. Olaf Lutheran Church of Cranfill's Gap, the Clifton Trinity Lutheran choir, and Miss Annafreddie Carstens, head of the fine arts department, sang.

Rev. Veldey was in the air service overseas during the war, is a graduate of St. Olaf College, Northfield, Minnesota, captained baseball and football teams there, and was candidate for the Minnesota all-state team in 1919. He was voted honor athlete during his senior year for his record in athletics and scholarship.

After his graduation, he played semi-professional baseball. He taught science and mathematics and coached at Pacific Lutheran College, Parkland, Washington, and at Spokane College. In 1927 he was ordained at Omaha, Nebraska, after the seminary course. His master's degree is from the Evangelical Theological College of Dallas, and he completed residence work on his doctorate last year at the Dallas Theological Seminary.

Rev. Veldey has been pastor of the Immanuel Lutheran Church of Dallas, the Grace Lutheran Church of Fort Worth and churches in Newport, Washington, and Coeur d'Alene, Idaho.

T. M. Rogstad, former coach at the Hico High School, will be director of athletics next year at Clifton College.

Education is not always measured in college credits.

The fool is rich in experience and poor in wisdom.

A. O. SNELLINGS PASSED AWAY AT FAMILY HOME IN HICO MONDAY P. M.

A. O. Snellings who suffered a stroke of paralysis a few weeks ago passed away at the family home in Hico Monday afternoon and funeral services were held at the Hico Cemetery Tuesday afternoon at 5 o'clock by Rev. E. E. Dawson, pastor of the Hico Baptist Church.

KNOW TEXAS

DENTON, June 22.—A surprise awaits the stranger who travels from the Western plateaus into the Rio Grande Valley. Without wearing the desert suddenly becomes miles and miles of precisely planted fruit trees, vegetables and other greenery.

Driving southward from Del Rio the tourist can relax on a paved road through Uvalde and down to Laredo, one of the important gateways from Texas to Old Mexico. In this region are the first evidences of one of the most remarkable agricultural developments in America.

Converting the waters of the Rio Grande to irrigate these fertile soils made the valley a leader in the nation's citrus fruit and winter vegetable production. During any month of the year the sight-seer can view well-cultivated fields from the palm-lined highways, since the climate makes the entire valley suitable for year-round agriculture.

After the ride down through Hebbronville, San Diego, Falfurrias and Edinburg, one finds himself in the Lower Valley. Although this section teems with industries and trade, it nevertheless presents a rather sleepy countenance to the world, and the visitor soons learns the importance of "siestas."

Brownsville, the most southern point in the United States, is the commercial center of Cameron County, which leads Texas in the value of its truck crops. It might also lead in the beauty of its crops, since nothing else quite equals the endless rhythmical rows of citrus orchards and the abundance of well-planned gardens.

Near Brownsville is Matamoros, another introduction to Mexico, and no trip to South Texas is complete without one or two visits "across the border."

Attend Picnic at Bellville.

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Marcum and son and daughter spent the week end in Bellville, Texas, where they attended an annual picnic given for employes and families of Southern Union Gas Company.

Baseball Boys Give Visitors Big End of Score In Last Game

Just to be nice to their visitors the locals tossed the opener of the second half of the Hamilton County Baseball League series last Sunday to Shive. At least that's what a few of the fans said in holding a post mortem over the game. They declared that the Hico boys had it in the bag several times, but just seemed to pass up their opportunities.

In spite of the defeat of the home team to the tune of 13 and 6, it was an enjoyable game, and quite a few fans were out to give their support.

FEWER THAN 100,000 TEXANS NOW ELIGIBLE FOR WPA BECAUSE OF DESTITUTION

SAN ANTONIO, June 16.—For the first time since the inception of the Works Progress Administration, fewer than 100,000 Texans are eligible because of destitution for employment on WPA projects, State Administrator H. P. Drought has announced.

This week's report on the Texas case load shows 99,769 persons eligible for WPA employment, the lowest number in the two-year history of the organization. Drought declared:

"This week's report that less than one hundred thousand Texans are eligible for employment on WPA projects is an encouraging mile-stone in our efforts to reduce unemployment in Texas. Our records show that the case load has declined steadily since the beginning of this fiscal year when more than 170,000 persons were certified as destitute and eligible for employment on Federal Works Program propects. The vast majority of those who have left our rolls are now in private employment.

"It has always been a policy of the Works Progress Administration, supported by strict regulations, that any WPA worker who is offered private employment at a living wage must accept such employment or be dropped from the payroll. Seldom has it been necessary to invoke that rule as the average subsistence wage in Texas paid the WPA worker is but $28.17—a sum which is certainly low enough to encourage any person to seek other work rather than to retain WPA employment."

Keeping Up With TEXAS

Texas railroads, long in need of the benefit of heavier freight movement, are due to receive approximately $10,000,000 for moving the 1937 wheat crop from the farms and moving combines, reapers and other harvest machinery and supplies to the farms of this State. Of this an estimated $9,000,000 will be paid as freight charges on wheat grown within the State and wheat grown in States to the north which will later on be moving to Texas seaports for shipment abroad.

Faculty members will have a voice in the selection of a successor to the late Dr. H. Y. Benedict, former president of the University of Texas. Leo Haynes, secretary, said the board of regents had agreed to appointment of a faculty committee of 12 members which will confer from time to time with the regents' committee. The board will meet in Austin July 3, Haynes said, although it was unlikely final action on the presidency would be taken before several months.

Justice of the Peace W. P. Fry Tuesday night denied bond to J. K. Cockrell of Lampasas after the 22-year-old man was charged with murder in connection with the hit-and-run deaths of Ace Lee Bird, 4, and Walter Bird, 7, Sunday night. Cockrell was held in an undisclosed jail awaiting action of a July grand jury after waiving an examining trial. The children were struck down by an automobile as they trudged along highway 66 to Burnet with their parents to attend church services.

Last Fall, Wilson Pate lost his billfold containing three $10 bills while plowing a field for W. R. Glazener of the Voss community near Coleman. Last week Pate was employed to plow the field again. He kept an alert eye for his purse and money. His efforts were rewarded. While the bills are weatherbeaten and one of them is torn into several peices, all lettering is still plain enough to be deciphered.

Barbaral Levine, 20, Negro, fainted so hard at Houston that hospital attendants worked thirty minutes before reviving him. Then Barbarel told a ghost story and his girl friend told of a howl she heard just before Barbarel passed out on a railroad track. "I saw a ghost," Barbarel told Detective Ted Walsh. "We were walking past a spot where three friends of mine were killed in a traffic accident three years ago. I was telling my girl about it. "Then I saw them—all three of them—and the wrecked car. One said 'Hey.' I started running, then I guess I passed out." Detective Walsh said Barbaral's girl friend told him she ran, too, and that she heard Barbaral howl that he saw a ghost.

Nineteen convicts escaped from the Eastham prison farm at Huntsville Tuesday after a guard was overpowered and his shotgun and horse taken. Prison farm officials said W. H. Bybee, who escaped from the same farm when Clyde Barrow opened a barrage of machine gun fire and helped Raymond Hamilton make a successful break in 1933 was a leader of the escape. The farm officials said Bybee, serving life for murder from Stephens and Throckmorton counties and James Rice, serving 27 years from Harris county for robbery with firearms and by assault, attacked Frank Allen, plow guard squad. The convicts took Allen's hat, boots, horse and shotgun. While Allen was fighting with the convicts the rest of the plow squad scattered and fled. Some of the prisoners were captured Tuesday night.

A woman fainted, traffic was thrown into a snarl and scores were doubled up with laughter Tuesday at Houston when a 6-month-old calf suddenly appeared at the corner of Rusk and Main, heart of the business district. The bewildered animal surrounded by honking autos, made a beeline for the lobby of the Second National Bank. Customers scurried for cover. The yawning door of the safety deposit vault seemed to offer a haven and the calf made for it. W. C. Boddeker, working in the vault, saw the animal loping toward him and slammed the heavy steel-barred door in his face. The bull calf wheeled. Slipping and sliding on the marble floor he made for the street again. A policeman grabbed his tail but couldn't hold him. The calf made for a throng of screaming women shoppers and out of the crowd came John House, 15, a messenger boy. John clipped his arms around the calf's neck like a veteran bulldogger until workmen on a building project near by lashed the animal to an automobile with ropes. Just as the calf was being taken away in a truck, an automobile came screaming to a stop for the woman who had fainted.

Dink... GOES 'ROUND AND 'ROUND

And It Comes Out Here—

Skeet Roberson, who lives over the line in Erath County came in the office bright and early Monday morning and left a basket of fruit, containing two kinds of plums, peaches, and figs. He just walked in, laid them down, and said: "Here is something I am giving you newspaper folks." No trading, selling or anything in the deal—just an outright gift. Thanks, Mr. Roberson, for all of us enjoyed them. The only bad feature about the whole thing is the fact that he lives in Erath instead of Hamilton County, and we hate to brag about what nice fruit the Erathians grow.

It seems nice to see Mrs. N. A. Fewell in town occasionally after being away so long on account of illness. She was usually in town daily until about a year ago, but since that time has been confined to her home. Only about three trips have been made to town during the year. Mr. Fewell says he has learned to depend on his wife in handling the fruit and other commodities which they sell annually, and for the past year he has been almost helpless without her assistance. He says she is his "main stay."

Word comes from Stetson University at DeLand, Florida, that the President of the institution, a former Hico man, W. S. Allen, is still making good in his position as president. The Baptist University which he heads has increased its student enrollment from 372 to 790 in the three years of the administration of Mr. Allen. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Allen of Hico, and before going to Florida was Dean of Baylor University at Waco for several years.

A few Hico people have decided to say "It is pleasant weather today" instead of "Whew, isn't it hot!" and say they are already feeling better after having taken that attitude. Some folks think the weather is all in the mind anyway, but in our opinion, "it is hot."

World Scout Jamboree Marked By Postage Stamps

The Netherlands, hosts to the Boy Scouts of 48 nations for their Fifth World Scout Jamboree at Bloemandaal, Vogelensang on the North Sea next July 29 to August 13, has issued three special stamps to mark the event which will bring 25,000 boys together for two weeks of camping together and fellowship.

The 1 1-2-cent stamp in green and black shows the Scout insignia; the 6-cent stamp in brown and black shows drums and flags at an unusual angle while the 12 1-2-cent stamp in blue and black reproduces the head of the Hermes of Praxiteles.

The Netherland Indies has also issued two stamps in honor of the World Jamboree. One value, 2 1-2 cents is printed in bright red, the second, 7 1-2 cents, is in bright sepia. Both have the same design showing two Scouts linking arms against a background of the world and the Lorraine Cross.

Hungary issued special Boy Scout stamps in 1933 when it was host for the Fourth World Jamboree at Godollo. Roumania has issued several sets of Boy Scouts for its National Jamboree. Siam is another country that has issued postage stamps as a means of recognizing the work of its Boy Scouts.

• FROM the day of its introduction, the Firestone Standard Tire has more than lived up to its name by setting a new high standard of tire values. Hundreds of thousands of car owners have already bought it because they saw in it more value for their money.

"How does Firestone do it? How can they build so many extra value features into Firestone Standard Tires and yet sell them at such low prices?" Make no mistake about this! The Firestone Standard Tire gives you the blowout protection of Firestone's patented Gum-Dipping process. Its scientifically designed tread gives greater non-skid protection and longer wear. And those two extra layers of Gum-Dipped cords under the tread guard against punctures.

Before you buy ANY tire at ANY price, see today's top tire value—the Firestone Standard Tire. Don't risk your life with thin, worn tires on your Fourth of July trip. Join the Firestone SAVE A LIFE Campaign today by equipping your car with a set of new Firestone Standard Tires.

THIS WEEK IN WASHINGTON

Washington, June 22.—About once a year somebody starts a rumor that the President's health is failing. The latest report of this sort has stirred up a lot of gossip in Washington, and started newspaper men and others to make the most searching inquiries. The net result has been to prove, once more, that there is nothing to the report. The President's health, according to everyone who has facilities for finding out the facts, has never been better since he has been in the White House.

Except for a slight head cold, which was cured by his recent sojourn at his mother's home at Hyde Park, there seems to have been no foundation for the rumor of his illness. A member of the National Press Club who circulated the report in the first place has been dismissed from membership in that organization.

The President's recent utterances and acts certainly suggest that his vigor is in no way impaired. His denunciation of the Supreme Court for taking a long vacation, from June to October, when there are important cases pending, is taken as an indication that Mr. Roosevelt has in no way abandoned his purpose of "reforming" the high court. Indeed, he repeated only a few days ago his belief that his proposal to increase the Court by the addition of six justices will be adopted at this session of Congress.

Impartial observers do not believe that is probable, but the President's statement amounted to serving notice on Congress that he has not abandoned his purpose and is not willing to compromise. The best informed opinion here is that the court-packing plan will not come to a vote on the floor of either house at this session. By deferring action, the President's friends in Congress, many of whom are bitterly opposed to his Court plan, will enable him to "save his face" instead of exposing it to the chance of getting slapped.

Revision of Tax Laws

The President's action in pointing out ways which some wealthy men have used to avoid payment of income taxes has opened up the question of revision of the tax laws, which leaders in both houses of Congress have hoped to postpone until next session. Once the subject is taken up for consideration in any phase, the door is opened for almost unlimited discussion. There are scores of "pet" tax measures which individual Senators and Representatives want to bring forward; but the plan of the leaders is to postpone all of them for consideration by the appropriate committees and to try to work out a complete revision of the whole system of Federal taxation next year.

Another reason why Congress does not want to open the tax subject now is the belief that, given a chance, Senator LaFollette of Wisconsin is prepared to demand the broadening of the income tax base to include everyone earning $15 a week or more, and to arouse enough popular pressure behind that idea to force its serious consideration.

The President's proposal for Federal regulation of hours and wages, which has been embodied in bills by Senator Black and Representative Connery, marks another step toward the piecemeal restoration of parts of the old NRA. It attempts to do for industries whose products are part of the stream of interstate commerce, what the NRA codes tried to do for practically all industry in the matter of wages and hours.

Unlike NRA this is not an emergency measure and its main purpose is not to promote re-employment. Fundamentally, the Administration hopes by this means to abolish child labor and to put a permanent floor under industrial wages and a permanent ceiling on industrial hours.

Government Control Power.

The expectation here is that the wage-and-hour legislation will be enacted at this session. There will be material modifications of the bills as introduced, but it it quite likely that a minimum wage of around $15 a week and a maximum working week of 40 hours may be imposed upon all industries whose products enter into the stream of interstate commerce.

Much authority will probably be given the administrative board to authorize deviations from whatever standards are set up in the law, to meet special regional or other conditions. This is of particular interest to Southern members, who feel that the problem of Negro labor is one which should be approached with great caution and in which much leeway should be given to local administrators.

The Administration's latest plan for the establishment of seven "regional TVA's" would, in effect make every great river valley into an administrative unit, in which the production and distribution of electric power would be integrated and supervised by a Federal commission, superseding state authorities and effectively putting control of all electric generation and use, and its price to consumers, into the hands of the Federal Government. The chance of getting this measure adopted is regarded as very good.

The "March on Washington" of WPA workers as a protest against the cutting of relief appropriations is beginning to look like a reality. The word has gone out from Relief Administrator Hopkins' office that millions will have to be dropped from WPA rolls if the relief appropriations are cut. The resulting pressure on Congress to abandon its economy ideas and give Mr. Hopkins what he wants is proving irresistible.

CLARENCE DARROW

A Small-Town Insult Made Him the Greatest Criminal Lawyer of His Time

Nearly three-quarters of a century ago, a school teacher boxed the ears of a little boy because he was restless and fidgety and squirming in his seat. She boxed his ears so that he cried all the way home. He was only five years old at the time, but he felt that he had been treated with cruelty and injustice; he learned to hate cruelty and injustice with a hatred that has kept him fighting all his life.

That boy's name was Clarence Darrow, today probably the best-known criminal lawyer in America—and certainly the greatest criminal lawyer of his time. His name has flashed time and again in bold headlines across every newspaper in the land. He is a crusader, a rebel, a fighter, and a champion of the underdog.

The first case he ever handled is still talked about by the old-timers in Achtabula, Ohio. The burning issue involved nothing more vital than the ownership of a second-hand set of harness worth five dollars. But to Clarence Darrow there was a principle at stake. Injustice had raised its snarling head and he fought as he would have fought a Bengal tiger. He was paid only five dollars to fight the case; but he fought it at his own expense, through seven courts for seven years—and won it.

Darrow says he has never been ambitious for money or prestige. He says he has always been a lazy cuss. He started out in life teaching in a country school. One day an incident happened which changed his whole career. There was a blacksmith in town who studied law when he wasn't busy shoeing horses. Clarence Darrow heard this blacksmith argue a law case in the tinsmith's shop. He was fascinated with the wit and eloquence of these country spellbinders. He loved a scrap himself; so he borrowed the blacksmith's law books and began to study law. On Monday he would take his law books to school, and while his pupils were studying geography or arithmetic he thumbed through the pages of his Blackstone.

He admits he might have remained a country lawyer all his days if something hadn't happened to goad him into action.

He and his wife decided to buy a small house in Ashtabula, Ohio, from a dentist. The price was thirty-five hundred dollars. Darrow drew five hundred dollars out of the bank (and that by the way, was all he had in the world) and agreed to pay the rest in yearly installments. The deal was almost finished when the dentist's wife refused point blank to sign the papers.

"See here, young man," she said scornfully, "I don't believe you'll ever earn thirty-five hundred dollars in all your life."

Darrow was furious. He refused to live in such a town. So he shook the dust of Ashtabula off his feet and headed for Chicago.

His first year in Chicago, he made only three hundred dollars—not even enough to pay his room rent. But the next year he made ten times as much—three thousand dollars—as a special attorney for the city.

"When my luck began to change," Darrow says, "everything seemed rapidly to come my way." Before long he was general attorney for the Chicago and Northwestern Railway Company and well on his way to a big-money career. Then there was an explosion. A strike. Hatred! Riots! Bloodshed!

Darrow's sympathies were on the side of the strikers. When Eugene Debs, head of the railroad union was called to trial, Darrow threw up his job; and instead of defending the railroad, he defended the strikers. That was the first of Darrows fiery, sensational trials—every one of them a milestone in court room history. Take for example the famous case of leopold and ple the famous case of Leopold and Loeb, confessed murderers of little Bobby Frank. Public opinion was so shocked, so horrified, at the brutality of the crime that when Clarence Darrow undertook the defense of the two murderers, he was reviled and persecuted and called worse than a criminal for daring to defend the guilty boys. And why did he do it? "I went in. And why did he do it? "I went in," Darrow says, "to do what I could against the wave of hatred and malice. No client of mine has ever been put to death and if that should ever happen, I feel it would almost kill me. I have never been able to read the story of an execution. I always left if possible on the day of a hanging. I am strongly against killing.

Society makes criminals, he says, and any man might be guilty of any crime.

Darrow himself has known what it is to face trial. He was once accused of bribing a jury, and had to use his powerful eloquence in his own defense. The most touching expression of gratitude he ever experienced was during his own trial. A former client of his met him and said, "Listen, you saved me from the gallows when I was in trouble and I'd like to help you out. I'll be glad to kill the chief witness against you and it won't cost you a cent."

A few years ago, Darrow published a book, the story of his life and I remember I stayed awake far into the night reading the chapter in which he outlined his philosophy of life.

"I am not sure of how much or how little I have really accomplished," he said. "I have blundered on my way and I have snatched as much enjoyment as possible from the stingy fates.

He Fought Through Seven Courts for Seven Years for the Sake of a $5 Harness

Each day must be sufficient unto itself, keeping in view only the direction and the journey's end. I cannot realize that I am old. Where can the long day have gone? It has been only a short time since I started on the road with all the world before me and immeasurable time ahead for the journey I was to take: now the pilgrimage is almost over and the day is nearly done. How endless the unexplored road appears to be and how short the footworn trail seems now."

TEXAS AND SOUTH HAVE FULL RECOGNITION WITH REST OF THE COUNTRY

BROWNWOOD, Texas, June 15.—Declaring that Texas and the South have received full recognition with the rest of the country for the first time in national farm legislation, President H. G. Lucas of the Texas Agricultural Association today appealed to all Texas farmers to urge passage of the new agricultural bill now before Congress. The bill is known as the Soil Conservation Act of 1937.

"The proposed bill embodies three fundamental principles which should mean adequate income for farmers and assures to consumers of ample food supplies at normal prices," Lucas emphasized.

"The bill proposes to secure and maintain parity prices for crops. It would maintain a normal supply of food and feed through the evernormal granary principle, thus protecting the consuming public at all times; and it would further and improve the present soil building and conservation program through adjustment of production to needs".

Through the proposed bill, Lucas pointed out, parit prices for farmers would assure normal and parity purchasing power, bringing and holding normal and profitable trade for merchants. Benefit payments would be made to adjust income to meet parity for farmers.

Soil-building and soil-conservation practices would be required of a farmer participating under the proposed program, with reasonable payments for such practices. Crop diversion would be required when the supply exceeds normal demand, Lucas explained. This would be effected through establishment of marketing quotas when the supply exceeds normal demand by as much as 15 per cent.

The program would operate through contracts with farmers the first one to be made on a three-year basis. Acreage bases would be adjusted by consideration of tillable acreage, topography, type of soil and production facilities on each farm, thus overcoming some of the objectionable features of the old Bankhead Act, he said. Loans would be available to co-operating farmers when the quotas go into effect and when needed by the farmers.

Lucas left today for Washington with George Chance Brazos County farmer and farm leader and V. C. Marshall of Hedenheimer a member of the National Legislative Comittee of the T.A.A., to work with other southern farm leaders in the interest of the bill.

FIRST AID HELPS FOR BRIDES

It wasn't long ago that a bride stepped into her new kitchen with misgivings as to the success of her forthcoming cakes and pies and roasts and stews. Experience too often proved a dear teacher and the waste of good materials was disturbing to the balance of the food budget. Now modern methods used with modern equipment and food products have demonstrated that long practice is not necessary. Accuracy in measuring and in following tested and reliable recipes is the keynote of good cooking.

There are three factors which must be measured accurately every time a meal is prepared or a batch of baking is to be done. Time, temperature and ingredients painstakingly measured all determine the goodness of the finished product. A reliable recipe will give the amount of each ingredient, length of cooking time and temperature at which to cook the concoction.

Standard measuring cups and spoons are most important. An ordinary coffee cup of teacup seldom holds one-half pint, which is the standardized one-cup measure today. When it comes to accurately measuring fractions of a cup, the standard cup with the gradations plainly marked is imperative.

Two measuring cups, one for liquids and one for dry ingredients, are convenient.

Flour is sifted once before measuring. All dry ingredients such as sugar, salt, soda and baking powder are sifted before adding to other materials. Baking powder and soda usually are added to the flour after it has been sifted once and measured. Then this mixture is sifted several times before blending in the batter or dough.

When baking or using the oven or broiler in any way, be sure that the oven is preheated to the correct temperature. If your oven is not equipped with thermostatic heat-control, get a portable oven thermometer to guide ou. Don't forget to preheat the broiler when you broil steaks and chops.

The time element is a bit more difficult to settle arbitrarily because many things such as atmosphere, condition of ingredients and the materials used in cooking utensils enter into this side of the question. However, most recipes give the time within a few minutes and with this knowledge the cook must use her own judgment.

A recipe is really a formula, quite as definite as any formula in chemistry. Too much of one thing and too little of another will destroy the proper preportions which have been worked out to give perfect results. Once the habit of accuracy is acquired, uniformly perfect results will be assured.

The size of cooking utensils is of far more importance than most people realize. The larger the surface exposed to heat the more rapid the evaporation. This accounts for many thick lumpy sauces and burned or overcooked meats and vegetables.

All summer long fresh fruits lend themselves to delicious desserts, but shortcakes hold first place. All the berries, peaches and apricots make delectable old-fashioned shortcakes. The following recipe will make enough shortcake for two; if wanted for four, multiply each ingredient by two.

Strawberry Shortcake (For Two)

One pint strawberries, 3-4 cup flour, 1 1-2 teaspoons baking powder, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons sugar, 2 tablespoons butter or other shortening, 1-3 cup milk (about).

Wash and hull berries, reserving six or eight for garnishing. Slice remaining berries and sprinkle with 2 or 3 tablespoons sugar. Let stand in a warm place to dissolve sugar. Mix and sift flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. Work in butter with pastry blender or tips of fingers. Cut in milk with a knife, using enough milk to make a soft dough. Divide into halves and roll on a slightly floured molding board into round sheets about one-half inch thick. Put one half on an oiled and floured pit tin and brush the top evenly and generously with softened butter. Cover with second half and bake in a hot oven (425 degrees F.) for twenty minutes.

Separate the halves of a cake. Put the bottom layer on a serving plate and spread with butter. Cover with sugared berries and add top layer. Cover with remaining berries and garnish with whole berries. Serve with sugar and plenty of rich cream.

Whipped cream can be spread over the top of the cake before the whole berries are added.

CHILD'S HABITS CAUSE FOR MENTAL ACTIONS IN LATER LIFE SAYS COX

AUSTIN, Texas, June 15.—A child's habits are responsible, in a large measure, for their mental actions in later life, according to Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer. A child of five or six years may have a bad temper. He can be taught as he grows older, to exercise self control so that it will not often be manifested. It would be better for him had he acquired a good temper instead of a bad one.

Today the medical profession understands more fully the enduring influence of habits that begin in the earliest years of life, in the nursery, or even in the cradle. In the young child, as a result of habit, certain types of behavior become established.

Perhaps the child had learned while yet an infant, that he could get what he wanted if he cried long and loud. Perhaps he had learned, when a little older, that bad behavior, as tamtrums, screaming, rolling on the floor or sulking, brought him what he wanted after his request had been refused or ignored.

If he had this experience once, you may be sure that he would repeat the action the next time the occasion arose. If he found that such actions did not bring the desired results he would not try it again.

Other behavior habits, good and bad, are acquired from imitating older children and adults. In this way many likes and dislikes, tastes and ambitions which in later years become crystallized into character habits have their beginning. Calmness and poise, as well as nervous pancky behavior habits established by imitation and made permanent by repetition. The elders are responsible far conduct of the child in the family. In this we see a new meaning more than they realize for the of the old adage, "As the twig is bent, the tree is inclined."

SEE TEXAS IN FOREFRONT OF FARM CHEMURGIC MOVE

DALLAS, Texas, June 15.—Texas, as the nation's most versatile and prolific producer of both agricultural and industrial raw materials, should be in the forefront of the Farm Chemurgic movement which is sweeping through the South, according to a report of the All-South Development Council which summarizes possibilities of "putting chemistry to work for the farmer"—which is what Farm Chemurgic means.

At the recent national meeting in Detroit of the two-year-old Farm Chemurgic Council, Wirt Davis, Dalas banker, was awarded the Pioneer Cup "as the individual who had given greatest service in the field of chemurgic effort within the year," honoring his leadership of the group of Texans whose enterprise is bringing to this state the South's first newsprint mill—a $5,000,000 project.

In addition to the vast East Texas pine forests which constitute the primary resource making possible Texas' coming leadership in this field, the Lone Star state has "the makings" for virtually every other agri-mechanic conversion industry embraced by the growing chemurgic idea, and needs only to match its physical wealth with vision and enterprise to lead the whole parade, the Council's report said.

Photographic film "grown" in Texas rice fields, sweet-potato automobile fuel, soy bean telephones and door-knobs, cotton-upholstered highways, cottonseed "silk" stockings, automobile fenders made from hemp, and "home and "home grown" fireproof building materials—these are a few of the chemurgic possibilities which in the next decade will bring wealth to argiculturists who can grow the products of the soil and merchandise them to those determined to make the marriage of agriculture and industry a lasting one, and bring an unprecedented wave of industrialization to the South.

At the Detroit meeting Carl B. Fritsche, national managing director, announced that 22 states had either set up or were setting up state chemurgic organizations. Thus it appears that there is competition among states in this field as well as for the benefits of general industrial decentralization.

The report notes that southern states are vying strenuously and making strong representations of friendliness and fair treatment to industries—a competition in which Texas has figured only casually, largely because her rising trend of industrial taxation at present gives little reassurance.

Chemistry, in its new role as matchmaker for agriculture and industry, will soon create a new South, utilizing an additional 50,000,000 acres of land and employing 3,000,000 more people in the creation of new wealth amounting to $1,225,000,000 annually, officials of tte Farm Chemurgic Council predict.

The Farm Chemurgic Council's national program is, briefly: preserve the American market for the American farmer; encourage crop diversification; cultivate new crops or substitute crops in place of commodities now imported; advance the industrial use of American farm products through exhaustive applied science; stimulate a scientific soil-building program, and make possible a more secure stake in the land for the tiller of the soil.

One major objective of the chemurgic council is to procure the establishment of research institutes to discover new uses for products of the soil. Research laboratories are needed for sweet potatoes, rice, sugar cane, peanuts, soy beans and tung oil.

A new magazine called the "Bachelor" is being edited by a woman, Miss Fanchon Devoe.

Observe Stop Signs

Stop signs have been erected at some of the street intersections in the city, which should be observed in the interest of safety. For your own good please observe these stop signs, and use caution in crossing other streets where there are no stop signs, especially on the two highways.

Continued practice of speeding and use of open exhausts on motor vehicles will necessitate taking steps to stop same.
