JUNCTION-SONORA ROAD TO BE CHANGED

W. H. Kelley, Sutton County Commissioner, who lives near the head of North Llano was in town Wednesday. Mr. Kelley says the new highway, for which the contract was recently let, will come within five miles of the Kimble County line in order to connect with it. The present road must be changed from Roosevelt way. It would be necessary to leave the present road at Roosevelt and run along the left bank of the river far enough south to secure a good road. Mr. Kelley stated that the Sutton County surveyor had run the line of a proposed road from the east end of the contracted highway work to Roosevelt and that the proposed route in this county had an excellent road bed and could be easily and cheaply constructed. Sutton County will make an effort to complete the road to the county line and of course expect that something will be done to change the road in this county so it will meet their new road at the line.

BOOSTER TRIP TO ADVERTISE S. & G. R. MEET

Headed by Brady's famous municipal band, Brady merchants will participate in a series of booster and trade trips during the ensuing months, with the primary object in view of advertising the coming Sheep and Goat raisers convention in Brady while incidentally taking advantage of the opportunity to establish more firmly the friendly relations with the citizens of the great Brady trade territory. Such was the decision reached at the meeting of the Brady Chamber of Commerce directors Tuesday night, and which met with the hearty approval of not only the business men and leading citizens present, but also that of representatives of the Brady Municipal Band.

The need of giving wide publicity to the convention to be held in July, and of arousing the greatest of interest throughout this section is apparent. The S. & G. R. convention will be the greatest meet yet attempted by Brady, and its full success can only be assured through the cordial co-operation and attendance of the farmers, ranchmen, and citizens of the entire section. It is planned to arrange a trade trip on one day of each week, with from 50 to 100 business men accompanying the band, and visiting some three or four neighboring points on each trip. Not only will the coming convention be given widest publicity but every merchant and business man will have opportunity to meet with the citizenship of the trade territory, advertising Brady in general and his own line of business in particular through personal contact and through the distribution of appropriate advertising matter. The booster trips contemplate taking in points as far distant as Llano, Junction, San Angelo and Sonora.—Brady Standard.

SCHREINER'S RETURN

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Schreiner and daughter, Mae Louise, arrived home Wednesday evening from their Mediterranean cruise. They landed at New York April 1st, and left that city Sunday evening, arriving in San Antonio Tuesday evening.

The party left here January 15th and sailed from New York on the 24th on the Steamship Homeric of the White Star Line. Mr. Schreiner reports an interesting trip, but he says the best sight of all was the Hill Country again.—Mountain Sun, Apr. 9th.

LOCAL H. S. STUDENTS AT BROWNWOOD

Ten students of the local high school went to Brownwood last week end to take part in the Interscholastic League contests for this district, and while they did not all win high marks, they made a creditable showing and gained much experience that will be valuable to them.

The girls were Marguerite Wright, and Vivian James, Senior and junior declamation and Amy Blackburn and Varena Lawler, Debating. The boys were Dennis Wallace, Roland Johnson, Vick Urban, Buddy Richardson, Leroy Skaggs and Albert Mayfield, but all did not take part on the contests.

Vic Urlen won first in the Shot put, Javelin and Discus throw, and was high point contestant of the district in Athletics.

The director in charge of declamations called time on Marguerite Wright at the end of three minutes and as she had not finished, her declamation could not be considered by the judge. The same director allowed the Brady girl who won, seven minutes, which was two minutes more than the time to be allowed each contestant, so there was evidently not much fairness exercised in this section of the meet.

Mrs. Wright, Prof. Miller, Mildred Bennett and Arthur Dunbar accompanied the contestants on the trip.

The young lady debaters won over Goldthwaite and lost to Hamilton, the winner of the district, but in number of points won third place and received bronze medals yesterday.

The districts have been changed and next year the district meet will likely be held at Kerrville. This will be much more convenient for local boys and girls who desire to enter or for others who wish to attend.

About thirty wagons loaded with road building equipment passed thru Junction yesterday enroute to Sutton County.

CLEAN UP CAMPAIGN GENERALLY OBSERVED

Every day last week, people in every part of town were busy cleaning their premises, following the request of the P. T. A. Ladies to clean up and beautify the town.

Hundreds of cars and truck loads of trash, tin cans and old waste of all kinds were hauled to the new dump ground. Much of the hauling was done by property owners, and what remained was gathered up by trucks, paid for by P. T. A. and the Chamber of Commerce.

The old dump ground was cleared and now presents a respectable appearance along the side of the highway where heretofore "junk" has been an eye sore to passers by.

Mrs. Rice, speaking for the Parent-Teachers stated that the Clean-Up Campaign has been a success from every standpoint and it is obvious to every one that the town is now more presentable, as well as in a much more sanitary condition.

As stated last week, the old dump ground has been discarded and closed to the public. It now has the same status as private property and of course people are cautioned to use it as a dump ground will be prosecuted.

The dump ground is now north west of the filling, on the high bluff along this roadway, and every one unloading should be careful to see that trash is thrown over the railing where it will fall many feet out of sight.

Trinity Episcopal Church will hold its Easter services next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. It is expected that a part of the choir and congregation of St. Peter's church, Kerrville, will attend. The rector, Rev. Fred W. Jones will preach on "Evidences of Life after Death." The public is cordially invited.

S. L. Kirkpatrick, after about a years residence at Boerne had to yield to the call of Kimble County and moved back this week. He is now at Segovia. We are glad to see him back.

JUNCTION WINNERS

These three boys won the Loving cups shown in the picture in a state wide contest last year at College Station. They are Ira Fleming, Buddy Richardson and Astor Wallace. Another team from Junction will go to A. & M. for another contest next week. It is to be hoped that they can win and hold the cups another year. These cups will go to the winners in this years contests, to be kept a year.

CHILDREN HOME FOR BIRTHDAY DINNER

Last Sunday was a happy day for J. N. Hodges, as all his children and grandchildren were gathered around the dinner table with him to share the joys and extend congratulations on his birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clay Seacrest and children from Richland Springs Mr. and Mrs. Livingston and children, Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Patterson and daughter of Junction, Lester Hodges and family of Edwards County and Miss Dorothy made up the party which included nine grandchildren.

The driver stopped.

HE'S OUT AGAIN

NEW LAWS GOVERN GAME AND FUR BEARING ANIMALS

As considerable trapping is done in this county, the following changes in the law, now in force should be noted. Several changes also have been made in the game laws, some of which are given below:

Persons who trap in Texas must take out license in a regular way provided by a new law. It will be well for people who desire to trap to find out the provisions of the new law and thus save worry and trouble. Fur bearing animals in Texas coming under the effect of this law include beaver, otter, mink, wild ringtail cat, polecat, skunk, raccoon, muskrat, opossum, fox civet cat. This law does not apply to people riding their premises of such animals in order to keep them from destroying poultry, and applies strictly to trapping, where the pelts are to be used in sale or barter. Some sections of this law are severe, for instance,

Section 8—It shall be unlawful for any person to kill or have in his possession for barter or sale within a period of ten years of the passage of this act any wild beaver, wild otter or wild fox, or the pelts thereof.

Section 8—It shall be unlawful for any person to kill or take for sale or barter any of the wild fur-bearing animals, muskrats, excepted or other pelts permitted to be killed or taken by this act, for sale or barter, between the 15th day of February and the 30th day of November of any year, both days included in the closed season.

The Boyd-Hubby game law, which was passed by the last Legislature and which has just been signed by Governor Ferguson, fixes the turkey hunting season for the entire State, with the exception of a few counties from November 16 to December 31. The bag limit is placed at one turkey gobbler a season. This law supercedes the old law which permitted turkey hunting at this time in some of the counties north of Bexar.

The bag limit on doves is lowered to fifteen a day, with the limit for a week placed at 45. They may be killed in that part of Texas north of the I.G.N. tracks in September and October, and in the south zone in November and December.

Quail of all kinds may be killed in the north zone from November 16 to January 1, and in the south zone from December 1 to January 1. The daily bag limit is twelve; the weekly limit, 36.

The duck season in the north zone extends from October 16 to January 31, and in the south zone from November 16 to January 31. Twenty-five may be killed in one day, 50 in a week.

The deer limit for the entire State for a season is reduced from three to two. Bucks only may be killed. The open season on deer in both zones is from November 16 to December 31.

BOYS OFF TO COLLEGE STATION SATURDAY

Supt. Miller states that the team selected from the vocational education classes of Schreiner High will leave Saturday for A. & M. College to take part in the state contests in Cotton classing, stock and poultry judging, and other allied subjects. The state meeting will be held at the college the first of next week. Names of those who will make the trip can not be given until next week as it was not definitely known Thursday just who would go.

Sallie's Temptations

SALLIE SEES SALLIE FROM A NEW VIEWPOINT

"Yes, in spite of your sarcasm, that's it!" his emotion sobered me again.

"I love you," he continued fiercely, "and I don't want to touch you again. I said you were everything I had dreamed of, but you're nothing of that. You're fluff—there's nothing real about you. Nothing but surface in your makeup."

I closed my eyes. For the first time in my life I was having my soul stripped bare and, strange though the experience was, I was thrilled to my innermost being.

"Go on, I want to hear everything you have to say." My voice was calm. I had my chin high. There was no desire to escape, rather an eagerness to see from a new perspective the real Sallie, a girl whom it would have taken a Curtiss Wright to reveal.

"You're a toy balloon. Yes, by God, that's it, and why?" he hurried on, "because you've let the Great God Pleasure kiss your lips and you've breathed into him all the fineness, all the realness that is YOU. A beautiful jewel box with," he hesitated as if he would halt the words that fell, "with the most precious jewels gone."

"Stop!" I cried, "you can't say that, you don't know what you've insinuated. I've sat quietly, heard you through and about a great many things you've been right—but not that—not that!"

An acorn fell. The stillness of a tomb enveloped the late afternoon.

Still he spoke no word. "Do you really think," my voice sank to a whisper, "that I'm—I'm bad?"

"Don't ask me that, don't Sallie. I have no right to judge." "But you know, you know that no matter how frivolous I am—that—"

"But what am I to think when you hold your kisses and caresses so lightly. When you admit that you allowed Ted Billings to kiss you. But, let's not quibble. It's the principle, Sallie. Don't you see that you can't hold out this way long. Even if you have't crossed the narrow line?"

I remained still, too still. It was a relief when he spoke again.

"And I loved you like I love tomorrow's sunrise. I can't help that. I can only love you and be chained away from you, chained by the knowledge of what you have thrown away," he continued, "and the saddest part of it is that you can get it all back."

My heart beat high. "But you never will," he straightened his shoulders with the sentence he had pronounced. "So we're through with each other, Sallie. We'll have to be after this. I'll take your beauty for my comfort. Your loveliness that has flown will be my dream. That's all I'll have to cherish of the girl I've adored. Forgive me, if you can for saying the things I have had to say. There's only one word for what I've been. A cad."

He clamored from the car, heedless of the pain he had caused. His words had left me emotionless, without smiles without tears.

He took a step in the direction of the wood ahead. Then turned, only to stop, hesitate, the murmur piteously, "And I love you more than life itself and oh, I want you so."

He walked like a man to his death and I followed silently behind.

When the path widened for a few rods, I came to his side without words, and when I put my hand in his, he let it stay. Suddenly I saw him start and draw back. He looked down quickly, he had felt the burning moisture of a single tear on the back of his hand—the only one I had shed.

Woods in Autumn

By Grace E. Hall

The woods in Autumn are a wordless song
That floods my heart with throbbing melody;
Colors of flame and bronze the notes prolong
And russet and red complete the harmony.

The woods in Autumn are as paintings hung
Against the sky, with colors bold and bright;
The creeks are silver ribbons, deftly flung
Across the foreground, spreading left and right.

The woods in Autumn are an artist's store
Of treasures, laid upon a thousand hills;
October opens wide the magic door
Into the great salon, that charms and thrills.

And woods in Autumn are a sermon, too,
Teaching that death must come to everything;
But that when death and earth-decay are through,
We shall be called—to greet another Spring.

THE STONE FOREST

The wonders of the earth on which we live, and particularly that portion which we call America, are intensely interesting. The "forest turned to stone" in Apache county, Arizona, is one of the natural wonders of America. Congress so concluded, at the same time putting to end the malicious acts of those who were hostile to the preservation of its treasures, when in 1908 it passed "An act for the preservation of American antiquities." President Roosevelt placed the forest under the protection of the government, designating it "The Petrified Forest National monument"—for the perpetual enjoyment of the people.

Here, at an elevation of about one mile above sea level, lying in the open and scattered over thousands of acres and in all conceivable positions, is a profusion of millions of tons of fallen trees turned to stone—agate, Jasper, opal—"the most brilliant aggregation of jewels on the globe." The dominating feature is a natural bridge formed by a petrified trunk of agate and Jasper, which spans a 60-foot-wide canyon.

How come? The solution of that question has puzzled the greatest students of the structure of our earth, the physical changes which it has undergone, and the causes which have operated to produce these changes.

The general supposition seems to be that in time far beyond the reach of record—a million or more years ago, a giant woodland flourished here. Some great catastrophe, most likely an earthquake, mowed it down and, in the reshaping of the earth's crust, an inland lake or sea was formed above this sunken forest. Seepage from springs of salt, sulphur and other mineral content penetrated every fiber of this wood—the prolonged period of saturation gradually picking the wood to stone.

At length, another age was ushered in. An upheaval as tremendous as it was mysterious awakened this sleeping, this forgotten forest and it was belched up to the top of the earth again, to a place in the Arizona desert.

There are three divisions of this forest. The first, famous for its bright colors, is six miles from Adamana; the second is two and one-half miles farther on. Here the trees are largely intact, many of them highly colored; the third is ten and one-half miles farther southwest and by reason of the striking colors has earned locally the name of Rainbow forest.

ANOTHER TOURIST CAMP TO BE OPENED

In order to take care of the demand that has been growing each year, Ben F. Simon, Roosevelt merchant is now constructing a number of cottages on lots and the fine pecan grove made between his store and the river. The ground will be cleared up comfortable and attractive, and the camp will be ready for tourists within the next few days but additions and improvements will continue to be made from time to time as the demand warrants. Bathing and boating facilities will also be provided. The new enterprise will be known as the Waggoner Tourist Camp.

The Eagle plant is printing two thousand circulars this week which will be distributed to acquaint the general public and the tourists in particular with the new Camp.

SUNSET LIMITED ADDS FIVE NEW CARS TO BUS LINE

During the past week J. G. Ayala has added five new cars to the equipment on the Sunset Limited Auto Line between this city and San Antonio. The new cars consist of Hudson, Nash, and Buick makes.

The Sunset Limited now has a schedule of eight cars each way daily and the five new cars added to the equipment already in service gives Mr. Ayala a fleet that is ample for the convenience and comfort of his passengers, besides leaving extra cars for special trips and emergencies.

The upkeep on a bus line is one of great magnitude, for the reason that the cars must first of all be able to make fixed schedule in all kinds of weather, so that acar must be replaced when it begins to need repairs. Another important feature is the safety of the passengers, and in this connection the Sunset Limited has never had a serious accident during the nearly five years the line has been running. — Kerrville Mountain Sun.

Summer and the tourist season is going to be here pretty soon—maybe before the drouth is broken, even though the daily papers carry large headlines each day that "general rains cover west Texas"—and there is a lot that ought to be done. Some good advertising matter should be turned out for distribution. Summer conventions of various kinds will be meeting in a few days and there will usually be some one from Kimble County at many of them. Some attractive folders, telling the truth about Kimble County, will go a long way towards bringing more visitors here this summer.

Last summer at Amarillo, the Editor of this sheet distributed quite a bit of publicity matter among the newspaper men of the State. It was a good advertisement and brought good results. People began talking about Junction for a few days rest and recreation trip, and many did come and many will come as a result of the publicity "dope" we put out.

Those of us who sit in our places of business of work on farms and ranches, and look out upon the same cedar covered hills and cross the same streams each day are unmindful of the attractiveness of the country. We are too prone to take things as a matter of course and to suppose that everybody knows about Kimble County. The truth of the matter is that not one in a hundred, right here in Texas has ever heard of us. Many well informed people, who have traveled extensively, often ask us, when we tell them we are from Junction—"where is Junction?" or they confuse it with Malano Junction, Coleman Junction or some other little place they have seen in a railroad guide. Printers roam around quite a bit, but two thirds of the applications we received from printers, answering an advertisement in the Dallas News, stated they were unable to find Junction.

We may laugh at the seeming ignorance of the public, but our laughing will not enlighten them or start them this way. We have got to tell them about

Junction and keep on telling them, we have got to encourage more tourist camps, work for more hotel accommodations, see that they are looked after when they arrive, meet them, talk with them and make them feel at home while they are here and go away with the desire to come again and bring some one with them.

All business men might think it over—if we are willing to "set tight" and let who will come, we ought not to talk hard times later on, if the drouth does or does not continue. The Eagle has a plan for some excellent publicity, and while it is a little late in the season, it is not too late to put out lots of valuable publicity and we may spring it on you next week. If all of the business houses will co-operate, the cost will be nominal. The drouth is going to seriously affect business for everybody this year, even if it rains before this issue is in the mail, and if it continues, the tourist trade will keep us going. If it rains all we want it, to the tourist crop will still be a big item—it means much to every one. The more money that is brought in from the outside, the more every one in the county is going to have. No one will have a monopoly on it, but it will be paid in salaries, wages, for country produce and both town and country will be benefited.

FAILING BECAUSE IT IS WRONG

It may not be greatly significant, but it is worth noticing at least, that while many cities conducted elections Tuesday after vigorous campaigns there was no hint of Ku Klux Klan activity in any of the campaign. It is quite probable, of course, that the element of Ku Kluxism entered into many of the municipal campaigns to some extent but so far as we have been able to learn by reading the newspapers, klan influence was not an issue anywhere on the surface of affairs. Some cities which in former campaigns have seen the issue tightly drawn between klan and anti-klan factions went through the recent campaigns with not a word said publicly about the masked secret order; while some which were formerly controlled by klan influences appeared to have reversed former positions completely. Corpus Christi, for instance, re-elected an anti-klan administration by a majority so large that it must have included hundreds of former klansmen.

This is of interest as indicating the wane of the klan's political influence. The series of defeats administered to the organization last year showed its leaders that their dream of political domination was only a dream, and could never be realized. In almost every community there are conditions—either political or social—which many good people desire to have remediated; and when the klan came along and offered itself as the one organization capable of reforming everything under the sun, these good citizens were drawn into it not because they approved the klan's methods or its history, but because they thought it might prove to be an agency by means of which good could be accomplished. The disillusionment came with the succession of defeats at the ballot boxes all over the state, and with the discovery that the klan was utterly incompetent to bring about improvements in either politics or morals even where it was able to command a majority. Now the issue, so far as politics is concerned, is being made a secondary one and the people are able to elect mayors and commissioners and other municipal officers without going through the red fire of a klan and anti-klan campaign.

The klan is not yet out of the running, to be sure, for it was too large to be killed by the political blows rained upon it. But we are persuaded that the organization has reached and passed the peak of its power and that its efforts to gain control of the churches and of the schools will fail as ignominiously as did its efforts to get hold of the political machinery of the state and of various cities. We have always insisted that the klan is wrong, and that wrong can not triumph.—Brownwood Bulletin.

Poem by Uncle John

The first of all flim-flam merchant's jokes, is to wink at the crowd, and call it "folks." Of course, we remember an earlier day, when "folks" was the proper word to say—when human kinship was everywhere, and most of our devious was on the square—Away back yander where memory dwells, when "folks" and "frankness" was synonymous; When words were as staunch as the bone of oak, O, then was the days when folks was folks.

But, here of late, it occurs to me, that "folks" ain't the term that it used to be—I can't figger out but one result—it's vulgar an' coarse when it ain't insult! The shell-game fakir and 3-card spot—and the tin-horn gambler are all of a sort,—You can look in their eye, and detect the hoax, as they mount their goods-box an' call ye—"folks." The snide promoter is fair to see, but he can't put nothin' across on me—He may yapper an' spiel till the day he croaks—but the stuff's all off, when he calls me "folks."

These spring days now that we're having,

Are ideal and pleasant for all, They make us feel grateful to nature.

As we list the wild birds call.

There's nothing that man has constructed,

That can equal the beauty of flowers.

No things of man-fashioned devices,

That can take the place of the showers.

And while we live and enjoy them,

Our souls with gratitude fill.

Thus we thank the beauties of nature,

Which offers us cheer for our ills.

These days seem short in duration,

Too soon they will be in the past.

Let's breathe and drink in their essence, of our beloved order, Sister Sarah Brewer. Therefore be it Resolved:

First: That we, the order of the Eastern Star of London, Texas, do hereby tender our several and united heartfelt sympathy to the bereft husband, Mr. Jack Brewer. That we share his grief and loss in the departure of one so pure in life and character realizing that she was doubly dear to them through the strongest ties, as a wife and also as a daily companion in the home.

Second: That we extend like sympathy to all other blood relatives, whom we know not but whom she knew and loved, and who share with us our loss of a most faithful and true exemplar in the Master's work.

Third: That we do earnestly pray that the strong arm of God may support her husband, and the Holy Spirit comfort his broken heart and bring light, peace and wisdom from on high to his sad home.

Fourth: That a page of our minutes be dedicated to the memory of the deceased and these resolutions spread thereon. That a copy be sent to the bereft husband, and a copy be sent to the Junction Eagle for publication.

WINTER FRUITS

The orange is especially prized during the winter months, when it is at its best and most plentiful and good flavored.

The winter diet, being rich and heavy, needs such fruit to keep the body in good condition. All citrus fruits contain fruit salts and acids which are most beneficial to health.

A pint of orange juice contains almost the same number of food units as three-quarters of a pint of milk. Orange juice is quickly assimilated and because of its action on the bowels, is one of the finest digestive regulators.

Its beautiful color makes the orange particularly enjoyed in winter, when color in foods is most appreciated.

As a garnish the orange has wide possibilities. Baskets, cups, flower confections, may be prepared, the rind preserved and served as a confection, or as receptacles for salads or jellies.

A sherbet is easily prepared using citrus fruit, orange or lemon juice, sugar sirup and water, or if a richer sherbet is desired, thin cream or rich milk in place of the water. Serve in orange cups with roast meats or fowl. Candies of various kinds flavored with these fruit, orange or lemon juice, and delicious. Plain fondant, flavored with lemon or orange juice and made into patties like the wintergreen or peppermints are well liked.

Turkish delight prepared with gelatin, sugar sirup and fruit juices, cooled in a flat dish and cut into oblongs then rolled in powdered sugar is an other very popular confection.

Glaced fruits are particularly well liked during the cold weather. Orange sections, tangerines, tangerines and lemon quarters are very attractive. These should be eaten the same day made, as they soften in the air quickly.

To prepare the sirup for glaced fruits take two cupfuls of sugar, one cupful of boiling water, one-third of a teaspoonful of cream of tartar. Boil until the sirup begins to color light brown, or to 310 degrees F., then dip each piece quickly, keeping the sirup over hot water.

Speaking of the recent changes in the primary elections laws of Texas, the Killen Herald says: "There shall be no more double primaries in Texas. The legislature just adjourned did that much for the state if nothing more. We shall register our first and second choice of candidates at one and the same time. If no one aspirant receives a majority of the ballots, then the first and second choice votes of the candidates will be added and the result arrived at in this way. Another feature of the new way of doing things in Texas will be to give the party name of your affiliations at the time poll tax is paid. If any other persuasion than the Democratic we can not enter the Democratic primaries but shall be eligible to vote in all other elections if otherwise qualified. A square is printed opposite the name of all candidates on the ballot and an X placed in the square indicating the choice of the voter. Also there will be no writing in and switching about like that—it must be a whole democratic ticket. This style of voting is now the adopted one in the state of Oklahoma also."

THANKS

We wish to thank the many who have been our customers or who have helped so send business our way during the time we have been in the cafe business. We have appreciated your patronage and since we have sold the Tourist Cafe to Wiese Brothers, we bespeak for them your continued good will and support and feel sure you will always find them ready and willing to give you the very best service and foods that you can wish for.

GOAT MEN MEET AT CAMP WOOD

The meeting of members of the American Angora Breeders Association and the United Sheep and Goat Raisers Association at Sabinal Friday last week was well attended. Camp wood was represented by W. A. Thompson, Thos. B. and Sam Ried. They report that a resolution was passed that the dates of the Camp Wood show and sale would be changed if necessary to suit the arrival of the South African goats. It seems that another association is making a bid to have the goats at their meeting. C. E. DeGroff of the A. A. B. A. is to go to New York soon to confer with Mr. Cawood, who will have the South African shipments in charge. Mr. DeGroff will set forth the advantages of Camp Wood as the logical point for the sale of these goats.

Just as soon as word is received from Mr. Cawood, the final dates of the Camp Wood Show and Sale will be announced.—Edward Co. Leader.

Blackburn of Junction, and the State was represented by District Attorney Julian La-Crosse of Del Rio. The trial was before Justice J. A. How Long Since Your Motor Had New Oil?

OIL that has run from 600 to 1,000 miles is dangerous, since it has become diluted and thinned out, and is dirty with carbon particles and road dust.

Watch your speedometer—that is the safe way—and bring your car to us after every 500 miles for crankcase service.

We drain out the crankcase and refill it with Veedol—the oil that gives the Film of Protection, "thin as tissue, smooth as silk, tough as steel."

No charge—except for the new oil used.

The Rewards of Thrift

The rewards of thrift are measured in terms of Security, Comfort, Influence, Prestige, Power, Character, Independence.

There is scarcely an ambition desired of man, that can not find fulfillment through the exercise of Thrift.

Spend a little less than you earn; work diligently, live simply; spend judiciously, borrow wisely, save consistently, and the rewards of Thrift will eventually be yours.
