Weekend update

Pass Breakfast Bill

AUSTIN (AP)-The House passed a bill Friday that would let school boards cancel the federally funded breakfast program for needy students in schools where less than half the eligible youngsters participate.

A 77-59 vote sent the measure to the Senate.

The House also passed to the Senate, 89-46, a bill allowing a school district to drop out of the breakfast program if it has no cafeterias.

'Rights' Bill Dead

AUSTIN (AP)-Initiative and referendum, keystone of Gov. Bill Clements' "Taxpayers' Bill of Rights," died Friday night in the House - at least for this legisiative session.

The question now is not whether Clements will call a special legislative session on the issue but when.

Needing a two-thirds majority to take up the proposal, which had failed in the House twice before, Rep. Carlyle Smith could do no better than 79-59.

Fire Kills Five

SHELBY, N.C. (AP)-A seemingly routine fire at a women's boutique became a rumbling inferno when a wall collapsed in a fiery shower of brick and glass, killing five men and injuring at least 25 others.

Four Shelby firemen and one gas company employee were killed in the Friday night blast, said Shelby Police Capt. Harold Smith.

Assistant Fire Chief William Kennedy said firemen were at JE's, a women's clothing store in downtown Shelby, about 10 minutes and thought they had the blaze under control.

Then there was an explosion.

SNYDER TINKERER-David Sands, 2604 El Paso, is a mechanical tinkerer who has worked on everything from an airplane to an improved wireline unit for oilfield use. The only thing he has ever tried to patent is the wireline unit, and a design patent is pending on it. (SDN STAFF PHOTO)

If you are hoping to catch up with the federal government financially any time soon, the outlook is not good, says Dr. Jack Carlson, chief economist of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

He reports that while federal income taxes and Social Security taxes were rising 11.2 percent from March, 1978, to March, 1979, average pay for production workers rose only 8.4 percent. Federal taxes rose 33 percent faster than the average weekly earnings of these workers, he said. So, it still looks like a long, tough road ahead.

It is possible for the government to provide too much of a good thing, some outdoor recreation fans have suddenly discovered. Outdoor Life has cautioned that the future of 150 million acres of public land, soon to be debated by Congress, could find nature lovers, hunters and fishermen excluded rather than welcomed to pristine wild areas.

It was pointed out that wilderness designation automatically excludes roads. Therefore, lands designated as wilderness area will be accessible only by foot, horseback, aircraft or boat. One possible result could be millions of acres of wilderness unreachable for most Americans, except the hardiest physical specimens and the few who can afford the expensive pack train expeditions.

They had a big celebration down at Luckenbach a week ago to mark the publication of a book titled "Hondo, My Father." It is about the late Hondo Crouch, of course, and the author is his daughter, Becky Crouch Patterson. We are in the process of reading the book and it seems that Hondo was precisely the same, unpredictable, but fun-loving and mild-mannered man at home and abroad.

He is quoted as introducing himself thusly: "I'm Hondo Crouch, I'm different." That may be one of the greatest understatements of our time.

Hondo was well-known around Snyder, having visited here several times and made public appearances at banquets here. After seeing him and hearing some of his endless stories and reports of some of his pranks, it usually was a shock to most people to learn that Hondo was an All-American swimmer at the University of Texas.

His daughter presents what you might expect to be "the other side" of Hondo, but after reading a few chapters of her book, you come to the conclusion that Hondo was the same wherever he was. He was just Hondo.

David Sands Specializes In Making Things Better

By JOHN LONG

A nuts and bolts tinkerer, David Sands has helped design everything from an airplane to a dentist's tool. He shows genius with a pair of pliers and a screw driver, and feels most at home when working, which is always at his home and often on his home.

Since moving to Snyder in 1963, Sands has completely redone his 2604 El Paso Ave. home. He did the work himself, and prefers it that way.

It was back in 1958 that Sands and three other men designed the S-2 crop dusting airplane, a design that is still in use today. Sands has never ridden on a plane in his life, but he said he knew what to do to make a better crop dusting plane than any that existed at that time.

Since then, besides redoing his home, he has designed the wiring at a trailer court in Sweetwater, built a window frame roller, built an edger for a baseball diamond, and once even built a special glue gun for use in dentistry. The dentist he gave it to moved away, so Sands does not know how well the device worked in actual use.

His latest project involves building and designing an improved wireline unit. The unit has already been built, and a design patent is pending on it.

"If a person doesn't use his brain, let him trade it in for something he needs." That's what Grandpa used to say. That was his favorite saying," remembers Sands. He, too, lives by that philosophy.

At first, the interview was conducted between welding blasts as Sands worked on a perforating gun trailer, a trailer he belives to be better than any in use today. His shop is located behind his house.

Sands says he relaxes by working and claims he has never taken a vacation. "It's a waste of time and money," he said of the time-honored American two-week work break.

Sands does not even know exactly what it is that drives him to work, that makes him design and invent things.

"Seriously, I don't know," he said. "If you see something that needs improving, why not improve it? If you see something that can be made better, why not make it better?"

Snyder High Faculty To Honor Bostick

The Snyder High School faculty will honor Horrace Bostick, who is retiring as principal, with a reception Wednesday at 2903 36th.

Bostick, who is completing his 28th year with Snyder Public Schools, came here in 1951. He served as assistant high school football coach from 1951 to 1960, as head coach and athletic director from 1960 to 1965, vice principal of the high school from 1965 to 1969, and principal from 1969 to the present.

The SHS faculty has extended an invitation to all friends of Bostick to attend the reception.

Memorial Day Observance Set

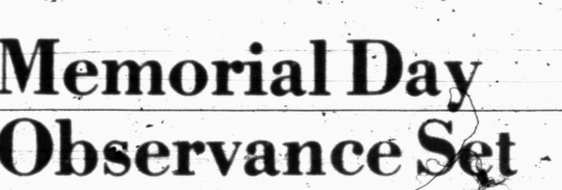
Many Snyder area residents will have a holiday Monday as the nation pays tribute to its war dead on Memorial Day.

Both the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars have special events planned for the day. They will be paying special honor to veterans of the Vietnam War this Memorial Day.

The Layne-Kite Post of the American Legion has scheduled a special flag-raising ceremony for 7:30 a.m. Later in the day, the Legion post will have a fish fry and dance at the American Legion Hall, located at 1800 Avenue R. The fish fry is set for 5:30 p.m. to 8 p.m. and the dance will begin at 9 p.m. All current members of the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars are invited.

The Ladies Auxiliary of the VFW Post 8231 will hold its annual memorial service at 9:30 a.m. at Hillside Memorial Gardens. All Gold Star mothers will be honored and the public is invited to attend the ceremony.

Although a number of Snyder retail business firms will be open Monday, some will be closed and offices of government agencies, ranging from city to county, state and federal, will be closed for the day. Also, financial firms and most professional offices will observe the holiday by closing. The Snyder Daily News will publish its regular Monday issue, but has scheduled an early press time. Snyder schools will be in session so that the current term can be completed next Saturday.



SNYDER TEMPERATURES: High, Friday, 72 degrees; low, 56 degrees; reading at 7 a.m. Saturday, 58 degrees; precipitation, none; total precipitation for 1979 to date, 5.68.

West Texas: Chance of showers and thunderstorms Monday mainly in the east. Partly cloudy Tuesday and Wednesday. Warmer toward midweek. Highs 80s north to the 90s south except near 100 lower elevations of the Big Bend. Lows 50s north and 60s south.

Ask Us.

Q--Why does the Snyder School term not end until June 1 when many other schools are already out for the summer?

A--All schools are required to operate for 183 days. Some took fewer holidays at Christmas and in the spring, and some began their classes earlier in the fall. For the past few years, Snyder schools have not begun classes until after the Labor Day holiday. Most schools in this area, including Snyder, would have been out earlier this spring if they had not lost class days during bad weather the past winter.

Tax Office Closing For Memorial Day

The School tax office will be closed Monday in observance of Memorial Day. The administration office will be open and schools will be in session.

12 Soviet Jews To Be Released

MOSCOW (AP)—Jewish activists said today that famed dissident Anatoly Shcharansky and 11 other Jewish prisoners soon may be released from Soviet jails.

Informal assurances of the release were given by the Soviet government to a visiting Australian trade unionist, the activists told reporters.

A statement issued by Alexander Lerner and two other long-time Jewish dissidents declared that fulfillment of the Soviet promises would mean a "profound improvement" in emigration condition for Soviet Jews.

The report of the pending prisoner release comes less than three weeks before President Carter and Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev are to meet in Vienna, Austria to sign the SALT II treaty limiting nuclear weapons.

The announcement also comes a week and a half after reports from Washington said Carter is considering asking Congress to waive a law linking U.S. trade concessions for the Soviets with Russia's emigration policy.

Lev Ulyanovsky, a spokesman for the Jewish group, told Western reporters that the assurances were made by Soviet officials this week in talks with Robert Hawke, president of Australia's

Jet Crash Not Fault Of Pilot

CHICAGO (AP)-The crash of a DC-10 jetliner that lost an engine just after takeoff, turned nearly belly-up and then exploded like "an atomic bomb" was "apparently not due to pilot error," a federal transportation official said today. All 271 persons aboard the jet Friday were killed, making it the worst air disaster in U.S. history.

Elwood T. Driver, vice chairman of the National Transporation Safety Board, emphasized, however, that the investigation was in a very preliminary stage and was being delayed because 13 bodies were still missing in the rubble.

One rescue worker said the crash site "looked like a fire swept through a clothing store and burned all the manequins. Only they weren't mannequins."

The wide-body jet, American Airlines Flight 191, lost its left engine, one of three, shortly after takeoff from O'Hare International Airport en route to Los Angeles. It rolled to its left and crashed - hitting nose first, then the left wing tip - before going up in a roaring explosion.

"There was a ball of flame about 500 feet high and a heat wave," said Rich Dusek, who saw the crash from his nearby service station.

There were no survivors, officials said.

"They didn't stand a chance," Chicago Fire Commissioner Richard Albrecht said after viewing the carnage.

About 250 bodies were removed by 11 p.m. CDT. The others were left overnight.

"Some are still buried under the wreckage and we didn't want to disturb the wreckage," said Douglas Dreifus, an investigator with the National Transportation Safety Board.

The investigators from the NTSB and the FBI said they would begin their inquiry today.

Friendships Helped Keep Whitfield Here 38 Years

By JOHN LONG

Carl Whitfield, owner of Whitfield's Fabric Center, figures it's time to retire. As it stands now, he plans to close the doors of his fabric center in about three weeks.

After his retirement, he plans to go fishing, take a few trips, "and maybe I'll take some courses at Western Texas College this fall," he said.

The 69-year-old businessman came to Snyder in 1941 as manager of the Perry Brothers' Store, a variety center. He had gone to work for the chain in 1937, and in the four years before coming here had been transferred from Shamrock to Memphis, then to Midland, Childress, back to Shamrock, then on to Munday.

He resigned from Perry's in 1959 to open Whitfield's Five and Dime on South College Ave. In 1969 he sold that store to Perry's, which moved there from its original location on the courthouse square.

In 1971 he purchased the Fabric Mart on the west side of the square and changed the name to Whitfield's Fabric Center.

He came to Snyder because he was transferred here, he said, "I stayed because of the friendships he developed. "I love small towns where you know everyone," said the Grayson County native.

Besides hard work, Whitfield attributed much of the success of his 38-year business career in Snyder to the citizenry. "I tried to please people, number one, and I love people. I tried to treat people as fair as I knew how," he said.

He has also seen quite a few changes in the business community over the years, "competition is greater today for one thing," he said, "and you have to have more money. Those are the biggest two."

The secrets to any successful business undertaking are really not secrets at all -- "just hard work, don't give up, and do your best," said Whitfield.

RETIRING -- Carl Whitfield and his wife, Katherine, plan to retire after they close Whitfield's Fabric Center, a store they have operated since 1971. Whitfield came to Snyder in 1941 as the manager of the Perry Brothers' Store. He is a native of Grayson County. (SDN STAFF PHOTO)

BOLL WEEVIL SURVEY

The third week of our boll weevil trap monitoring shows a very low weevil emergence. Each week since May 7 has shown relatively low numbers. The traps in Areas E and G (according to the map in the Result Demonstration Handbook) have consistently caught the most weevils. These are two of the areas in which we felt had good overwintering habitat.

This is good, but it does not mean we will not have weevil damage. The highest number of weevil emergence usually occurs the last week of May, however in 1978 in Scurry the peak emergence came the second week of June.

The significance of this is that if cotton with squares the size of a pencil eraser (1-3 grown) are not available with a matter of about two weeks, weevils will die from lack of food. This is another reason why a delayed planting date is beneficial.

PECAN SPRAYING

Control measures for the control of the pecan nut casebearer should be applied during the coming week. May 28-31 should be optimum dates.

An excellent spray for pecan trees will be a combination of an insecticide, a fungicide and zinc. The following spray mixture is recommended.

For homeowners or a few trees use

4 tablespoons zolone
3 tablespoonful benomyl
6 tablespoonful zinc sulfate in three gallons of water.

Six tablespoons of malathion may be substituted for zolone.

For 100 gallons of spray mix 2 pounds zolone, ½ to 1 pound benomyl and 2 lbs. zinc sulfate. Malathion or Guthion may be substituted for zolone.

For the homeowner and for larger grower be sure and follow the direction on the label for each product.

Three Mishaps Reported Here

Three traffic accidents were investigated Friday by police.

The first occurred in the 1700 block of 25th St. at 10:30 a.m. It involved a 1977 Ford driven by Charlie Webb of Ackerly and a vehicle driven by Richard Brown of Snyder.

Although damage was minor, police reports indicate Ms. Webb and two passengers in the Webb car received minor injuries. No ambulance was requested, however.

At 4:40 p.m., two cars collided at Northern Electric. That collision involved a 1971 Chevrolet driven by Vanessa Varay Palmer and a 1972 Plymouth driven by Larry Neil Crawley.

A wreck that occurred the night of May 18-19 was reported Friday.

It involved a parked 1977 Ford owned by Malcolm Small that was struck by a vehicle which left the scene. The accident occured at the Club 250.

Son of Erin Is too Carin' O' the Green

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1979 by Chicago Tribune N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I've been going with this 29-year-old man from Ireland. I'm 20. I love him dearly, and he loves me and wants to marry me, but, Abby, you would not believe how cheap he is!

He takes me out and spends money on me, and has even bought me some nice gifts, but he will not spend a penny on himself. He lives with the barest necessities. I had to beg him to buy a kitchen table and chairs for his apartment because he felt as long as he had a coffee table and a couch he didn't need anything else. (He will drag the two chairs and coffee table from the living room into the kitchen!)

He doesn't have a bedroom set either. He sleeps on a bare mattress on the floor.

It's not that he can't afford a few pieces of furniture - he can, he just doesn't want to spend any money. I've had my dad and brothers and friends talk to him, but he's stubborn as a mule. That's why I'm writing to you.

I don't want to marry him in the hope that one day he'll change and spend some money. I want to be sure now, or else start looking for someone else. I want to get married soon.

STUCK ON AN IRISHMAN

DEAR STUCK: If you love this penny-pinching Irishman, make a list of everything he needs (within reason and within his means). If he gives you one of those fighting Irish battles, make another list - of eligible men you know.

DEAR ABBY: In 14 years of marriage, my husband has never said, "I love you." Yet I know he does. How do I know? Let me count the ways.

He appreciates my efforts as a wife, mother and homemaker. Although he's never told me so in so many words, he brags about me to others.

He never corrects me in public. He doesn't drink, gamble or try to make me jealous by flirting with other women in my presence. When he's wrong, he says, "I'm sorry." When I'm wrong, he doesn't keep reminding me of it. He never says "my" house or "my" children - it's always "ours."

I could go on and on. So what if he finds it difficult to put into words what he feels? There are many men to whom words come easily, but talk is cheap. Performance is what really counts.

LUCKY IN LOVE

DEAR LUCKY: Your husband is equally lucky to have a woman who understands his inability to articulate his feelings. I agree, actions do speak louder than words, but to some, words are the music of love.

DEAR ABBY: My husband insisted that Gary, our 12-year-old son, get a paper route to teach him responsibility and the value of money. Gary is our only child, a little spoiled and not the most ambitious kid in the world. He has a morning and Sunday route, so he has to get up at 4:45 to get those papers delivered. It's pitch dark at that hour and we're afraid to let him take his bike, so I get up and drive him in our station wagon while he throws the papers.

Lately, Gary stays up late studying and I haven't the heart to wake him up at 4:45, so I let him sleep and I deliver the papers alone.

"Abby, I am 47 years old and I don't need a paper route. I've asked my husband to let Gary quit his route, but he says, 'No, it will make a man out of him.' Meanwhile, it's making a wreck out of me. What do you suggest?"

HELPFUL MOM

DEAR MOM: Quit doing a single and wake up Gary. If he requires more sleep, he'll manage to get to bed earlier. It's generous of parents to help their kids with their paper routes, but where's papa?

Name Finding Double Trouble

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) - David Wayne Rice, 6, faced an unusual problem recently - finding a name for his pet turtle who has two heads.

David finally named him Herman and Bo.

His mother, Jean Rice, says Herman - the right head - seems more active than Bo.

The turtle was found in their backyard.

Italy annexed Ethiopia in 1936.

ing technical manuals, things that will teach him what he wants to know.

"There's a lot of information in books if people will take time to read them," he said.

He has sometimes been told that what he is doing is impossible, that it cannot be done. He disregards the advice. "I've never come across anything I couldn't do if I set my mind to it," he declared.

Sands, who went to work in a radiator and sheet metal shop when he was 12, believes in the value of work and has passed that belief on his six children. All but the youngest, who is 10, have a job.

"Kids have too much free time on their hands these days," Sands feels. "I think a family should work together. People nowdays don't take enough time with their kids."

Work and the quality of work are obsessions with Sands. "There's no quality in anything now," he bemoans. "It's all assembly line process."

Sands is the owner of Sands Welding Co. His wife is the company vice president, secretary, and treasurer. He is the worker, and likes it that way.

"I'd rather stay with the quality of my work than be a multi-millionaire," he said.

Protests Surfacing In Water Import Proposal

By JACK KEEVER
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP)—There's a fight at the water hole in the Legislature, east against west, "haves" against the "have nots."

Protests have surfaced in the House and Senate against a bill to create the largest water district in Texas - the Ogallala Water Import Authority - to bring out-of-state water to the Texas High Plains.

Nevertheless, the bill appears on the verge of passing. The Senate tentatively approved the House passed measure Friday.

Despite apparent restrictions in the bill, East Texas legislators fear the authority might eventually try to transfer water from their areas to the High Plains, which uses water from the underground Ogallala formation to irrigate farms.

"I'm not going to vote with you if you even hint that you're going to look for water in East Texas," said Sen. Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur.

The irrigated land purportedly produced 60 percent of Texas' farm crops, but five million acre-feet of water a year is pumped from the Ogallala. It is being recharged at the rate of only one-half inch a year. An acre-foot is 325,851 gallons.

Senate sponsor E.L. Short, D-Tahoka, said the authority would have condemnation power only in the territory within the authority. The authority would include all of the state overlying the Ogallala, except Borden, Crosby, Dickens and Garza counties.

The reservoir stretches under more than 40 counties, from Midland north to the Panhandle border with Oklahoma.

"Where you going to get the water?" Sen. Roy Blake, D-Nacogdoches, asked Short.

"That's the $6 question or a little better even than that," replied Short.

"Oklahoma won't even talk to us until we have an authority," he added.

"But, where are you going to get the water?" Blake asked again.

"I cannot answer that question," said Short, "but we need some type of authority to even explore where water is."

"We'd love to help you out, but if we did there wouldn't be anything there (East Texas) in the future," said Sen. Ed Howard, D-Texarkana.

Sen. Bob Price, R-Pampa, said the authority would be "looking to Arkansas and the Mississippi River, hopefully to import water."

If approved by High Plains voters, the authority could tax property up to 50 cents per $100 valuation and issue bonds. The authority could accept state loans but not grants.

A final vote is needed to send the bill back to the House for consideration of Senate amendments. The measure is sponsored in the House by Rep. Ralph Simpson, D-Amarillo.

Bomb Charge Filed Here

A charge of possession of an explosive weapon has been filed against Paul Lawson.

Police arrested the 26-year-old man May 20 when they found in his possession a homemade bomb. The shrapnel explosive weighed slightly over a pound and was made of an inner core of explosives surrounded by an outer core of metal nuts, said police. The explosive was found in a garage at 214 34th St.

Bond on the bomb charge was set at $1,500, and a $500 bond was set on a misdemeanor possession of marijuana charge. Both have been posted and he has been released from custody.

A felony charge of driving while intoxicated has been filed against Isabel Perales Romero.

She was arrested May 24 by city police, and has been released after posting a $1,500 bond.

(Council of Trade) Unions.

Hawke left Moscow for Rome earlier today and was not immediately available for comment.

Ulyanovsky read a brief statement issued by Lerner, who originally applied to emigrate eight years ago, along with fellow scientist Viktor Brailovsky and Vladimir Prestin, another long term dissident - denied permission to emigrate.

"We are told that Soviet authorities have decided to release long-term (more than five years) applicants for departure, to release 12 prisoners of Zion and to limit the maximum term of waiting for exit visas to five years," the statement said.

It added: "We consider that the fulfillment of these intentions would mean a profound improvement of the emigration policy and that it should be responded to positively by the world."

Ulyanovsky said the assurances had been given to Hawke on an unofficial basis when he met on Friday with Alexei I. Shibayev, chief of the Soviet Union's Central Council of Trade Unions.

Shibayev told Hawke he was able to voice the commitments regarding Jewish prisoners after conferring with top-level Kremlin officials, the spokesman said.

College Campus Duplex To Serve Dual Purpose

WTC DUPLEX--Sammy Simmons and Juan Martinez, Residential Construction students at Western Texas College, are shown with their instructor, Bill Hale, at work on the duplex under construction on the WTC campus. The building will have a stucco exterior to match other buildings on the campus, with rough cedar used for trim on the gables.

The duplex now under construction on the Western Texas College campus has a dual purpose.

Its construction provides experience in building for students enrolled in the college's Residential Construction program, and it will provide housing for students when it is completed. No date has been set for completion of the building, Bill Hale, instructor, said, but work is progressing at a satisfactory pace. Framing is nearing completion and bids for water and sewer lines are to be let soon.

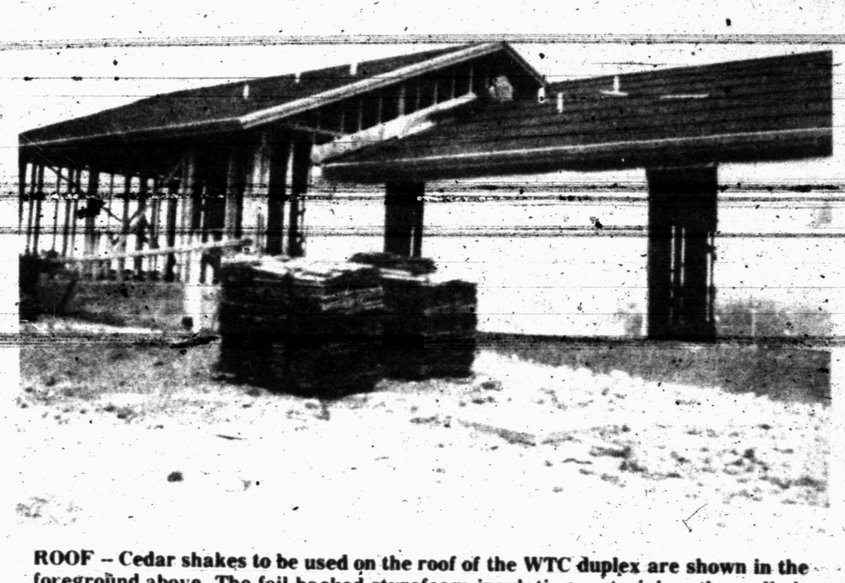
Hale would like to contact students interested in enrolling in Residential Construction before the new quarter begins in the program on June 1. There are scholarships available for six students, he said, and applications for the scholarships need to be made immediately. Students interested in information may contact the office of Dr. Duane Hood, Dean of Student Services, or call his office at 573-8511, extension 207.

There are several advantages to entering the Construction class at this time of year, Hale pointed out. For one thing, June is the peak month for hiring in the construction industry, and students who enroll now will be ready to enter the job market next June. Residential Construction operates on a 12-month basis as do Vocational Nursing, Cosmetology and Golf & Grounds Operations.

Hale is well pleased with the students presently in the program and says they seem to enjoy the training. Students are Sammy Simmons, Juan Martinez and Sam Flem-ing, all from Snyder. Simmons and Martinez are nearing the end of their first quarter, while Flem-ing entered the program earlier. Ironically, the lack of housing has kept some out-of-town students from enrolling, Hale said.

Residential Construction students spend about 90 percent of their time on actual construction work and learn all phases of construction. There is some classroom time as well.

The duplex is on a plot south of the main portion of the campus, and the roof can be seen from the entrance off Round Top Road. FM 2763, which connects the Big Spring and Colorado City highways, runs on the south side of the building site.



ROOF -- Cedar shakes to be used on the roof of the WTC duplex are shown in the foreground above. The foil-backed styrofoam insulating material on the walls is one of the energy-saving features of the building, which will provide housing for WTC students upon completion.

College Offices Closed Monday

All offices at Western Texas College will be closed Monday for Memorial Day, Dr. Ben Brock has announced.

Regular office hours will resume on Tuesday. Registration for summer school will get underway at 8:30 a.m. Wednesday, with classes beginning on Thursday.

Still Some Controversy But...

Indy Allows Further Qualification Runs

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)- The last thing anybody at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway expected to be doing the day before the 63rd Indy 500 was watching cars qualify for Sunday race.

But true to its reputation as the place of the unexpected, that's exactly what the schedule called for Saturday.

Much to their own surprise, 11 drivers bumped from the starting field during last weekend's time trials sessions had one last shot Saturday at getting into the $1 million race.

The strange turn of events was the result of a ruling late Friday by the U.S. Auto Club upholding appeals of the non-qualified drivers.

USAC spokesman Paul Reinhard said the appeals, which had been expected to be no more than a formality before going to court, were "found to have merit" and that the three-man appeal board recommended that USAC ask officials of the Indianapolis Motor Speedway to "make a supplementary regulation," allowing the extraordinary session.

Because the race entry form gives the Speedway such authority, that made it unnecessary to get approval from all racing teams already in the field. That idea failed Thursday when driver-owner Jim McElreath and Don Biederstedt, owner of Eldon Rasmussen's car, refused to sign waivers for extra qualifying.

The Speedway agreed to USAC's request, and suddenly, just when it seemed that thoughts could turn from controversy to racing, there was the prospect of more than the traditional 33 starters for the first time since 1933.

The appeals claimed a USAC rule clarification on the size of turbocharger exhaust pipes gave their competitors unfair advantage on the final day of qualifying.

"I'm not as happy as I could be about this," said John Martin, driver of one of the cars getting the unexpected chance.

"We're flat up against the wall and only one shot. That's better than no chance, but there's no safety factor."

Another car owner, Wayne Woodward, was trying to get into the race by appeal.

Woodward went to Marion County Superior Court Friday to ask that his entry, denied a spot in the starting lineup after a USAC inspection revealed that the exhaust pipe had been altered to override the manifold pressure limit, be reinstated or that the race be halted.

An earlier protest was turned down, but Woodward was allowed by Judge Michael T. Dugan to return to USAC and file an appeal, which he did within several hours.

The judge also let four-time Indy winner A.J. Foyt and driver Danny Ongais off with verbal wrist slaps after bench warrants were issued for their arrests Friday for refusing to accept subpoenas to appear as witnesses in the Woodward hearings.

Dugan asked Foyt why he had refused the warrant. Foyt explained that he was being harassed by many people at the track in recent days and he was not aware that a deputy sheriff was trying to serve him a subpoena.

Ira Boosters Meet

IRA—Plans have been announced for organizing a booster club here to support Ira High School athletic teams.

The organizational meeting has been set for 8:30 p.m. Wednesday in the high school library.

All parents and other fans of the Ira teams are invited to attend and become members of the club.

Dusters Sign Two More Cage Players

Western Texas College women's basketball coach Joe Cushing has recently signed two girls to play for the Dusters next year.

The girls are Tonya Ivie of Wolfforth and Cindy Boone of Merkel.

Miss Boone, 5-9, was All-District her junior year, and honorable mention her senior year. A tri-captain last season, she was named All-Tournament at the Abilene Christian High Tournament.

She received an outstanding track award at Merkel High School her sophomore year, and has been active in volleyball, track and golf throughout high school.

Miss Boone is a nominee to America's Outstanding Athletes, nominee for Cover Girl of Area All-Star Basketball Program, and a nominee for Miss Merkel High School.

She has been a cheerleader for three years; was a member of the student council - vice-president as a junior and president as a senior - for four years; and has been a member of Future Farmers of America for four years. She has been a member of the Merkel 4-H and has held offices at the county and district level, entered competition for nine years, and has won in county, district and state.

Miss Boone has received many other awards connected with the FFA and 4-H, and most recently junior and senior year, and her team won first place in the Idalou Tournament, fourth at Slaton and consolation at New Deal.

Averaging 15.4 points a game, Miss Ivie shot 50 percent from the field and 78 percent from the line as a senior. She had a high game of 25 points, sacked in 483 points for the season, and averaged 6.8 rebounds and 4.6 recoveries.

Miss Ivie averaged better than 70 percent from the line her junior year also, and scored 712 points during that season - at an average of 23.7 points per game.

Narrow Miss For Sparky

LOS ANGELES (AP)— Former Cincinnati Reds Manager Sparky Anderson made a decision Friday that probably saved his life.

After visiting former Reds' coach George Scherger in Nashville, Tenn., Anderson had the choice of returning to Los Angeles through Dallas or Chicago's O'Hare Airport. He chose flight connections through Dallas.

He arrived in Los Angeles late Friday afternoon, at approximately the time American Airlines' Flight 191 from Chicago was to arrive. The American jetliner crashed shortly after takeoff at O'Hare, killing 270 persons in the nation's worst air disaster.

Richardson Named To Clinic Staff

Western Texas College athletic director and men's basketball coach Nolan Richardson has been selected to serve as an instructor at Mexico's National Basketball Clinic from June 24-29.

Some 20 coaches from the United States will work with the clinics which will be held in Juarez and Chihuahua. Other coaches participating from the Southwest will be Don Haskins from UTEP, Weldon Drew from New Mexico State University and Norman Ellenburger from New Mexico University.

Richardson's topic for the clinics will be Fundamentals of Shooting and Defense.

A two-year coach for the WTC Westerners, Richardson has claimed back-to-back conference and regional championships, and took his team to a fourth place finish in the NJCAA National Tournament in 1979. The Westerners have a 64-13 record under Richardson.

Just Deflate A Few Balls

Keeping Prices Down

By BILL McCLELLAN

I'VE GOT it figured out, friends. All along we've been moaning over high prices for meat, gasoline, heck, everything anymore. But we've been blaming the wrong people.

Now meat isn't worth a couple of bucks a pound to me, and gasoline isn't near worth the predicted $2 a gallon it will be by the summer of 1980. But ya gotta eat. To eat, you gotta work. To work, you got to have a car.

This is a pretty drastic stand to take, but I've got a suggestion about bringing down the prices. It's simple. Don't watch professional sports.

DON'T BE confused. The suggestion is not as insane as it seems, though coming from a sportswriter, it might sound a little traitorish.

Check out who owns the Rangers, the Cowboys, the Steelers, the Yankees and all the other supposedly successful professional baseball, basketball, football, hockey and whatever teams.

They've got money, and lots of it, or so it seems. But they don't just own ballclub. They have interests in oil, soft drinks, hotels, night clubs, steel mills, electronics, and a million other things - things that are getting more expensive every day.

But it's not the cost of these things which are going up. DON'T BE FOOLED! Hey, a gallon of gasoline doesn't cost a nickle more than it did last year to manufacture! Didn't you know that?

But there is something that does cost more. A lot more.

BALLPLAYERS.

That's right. Nothing, but nothing has risen as much as ballplayers' salaries. And mark my words, friends, in 10 years, there won't be a lower class, middle class and upper class. There'll be two classes. The pro class and the amateur class. And you'll, my friend, will be strictly an amateur, believe it.

So why all the rise in over the counter prices? Is it because there is a shortage of oil? Not at all.

The public, in order to get away from the day to day survival of the business world, goes to ball games. They go to see "superstars." And they invent a few at least one or two a year in each sport, too.

These stars give the public an escape route out of the daily grind. It's a fantasy world, and Dr. J is prince charming.

Only a kiss isn't enough to satisfy a modern day hero. Cold cash is.

SO, THE ballplayers demand more money for their talents. The owners dip into their oil or steel money and give it to them. But that money has to be put back. It is in the form of raising prices.

And you wonder why you hadn't figured it out before. Don't believe professional ballplayers' salaries are out of line? Consider the following...

LARRY BIRD! Now here's a guy that broke all kinds of basketball records during his college days. He's just graduated and wanting to sign, supposedly, with the Celtics. They say he can do anything (which is what they say about any professional athlete).

With a head as big as Larry's talents, an attorney has decided the Bird needs a cool one million dollars (that's $1,000,000), not to mention $200,000 in bonuses. One mil a season. A SEASON for a guy who hasn't yet played a day of pro basketball.

Friends, nobody, but nobody is THAT good. Whoops, gasoline just went up another half cent a gallon.

Well, the Celtics are holding out for a mere $500,000 a season. Larry's attorney has reportedly lowered the asking price to $750 grand. Maybe gasoline will only go up by three tenths.

SO, THE answer is relatively simple. Don't watch pro sports, and the Bird-like others won't fly. Oh, I'm not saying chunk it but the window altogether. Just long enough to lower the "Superstar" salary by a few hundred thousand dollars.

How else are you going to keep the price of bread down?

BEST THING--What's the best thing about summer? Baseball, of course, but it's even better with a snowcone, as this player-spectator above testifies to. (SDN STAFF PHOTO)

SuperSonics Plan More Pressure Style Defense

SEATTLE (AP) The Seattle SuperSonics, successful with the pressure defense, will continue to use it against the National Basketball Association defending champions, the Washington Bullets, in the league's championship series.

Seattle Coach Lenny Wilkens is certain that the pressure defense is the key to Sunday's Game 3 of the best-of-seven series, tied at 1-1. Game 4 also will be in Seattle Tuesday night.

"We did it all season," Wilkens said Friday on a plane returning here from Washington.

"It has become the trademark of what we have to do to win. They're going to try to counter it. You've got to pick your spot. But we can use different combinations to cross them up."

Forward Paul Silas, still savoring Thursday night's 92-82 Seattle victory, thinks the Sonics can build an insurmountable lead at home. "If we win two games in a row, there ain't no way they'll come back," he said.

When the series opened last Sunday, the Sonics were sluggish after a coast to coast plane trip the previous day, and, despite a fourth-quarter surge, lost 99-97 on a controversial foul with no time left.

After a four-day rest, however, the Sonics attacked the Bullets Thursday night with their double-teaming, trapping defense that shackled Washington's offense.

Unable to handle the Sonics' defense, which Washington called a zone, the Bullets produced some of their worst offensive statistics of the season, including their lowest point total. They scored only 30 points in the second half, 21 in the fourth quarter.

"We are the No. 1 defensive team and when we trap, we can hurt them," said guard Gus Williams, who has scored 55 points in the two games. "As long as we play a trap, it will cause them problems."

If the Bullets are going to solve the Sonics' defense, "our coaches are going to have to come up with a way for us to beat that zone," said Washington's Elvin Hayes.

Bobby Dandridge, the Bullets' other starting forward, said: "We aren't together in how we are trying to beat their defense. They are playing it better than San Antonio or Atlanta (Washington's earlier playoff opponents). They are quicker. They were using zone principles a lot and using them better."

Dribblers Begin Nationals Soon

Snyder Junior League All-Stars will compete in the National Little Dribblers Tournament in Levelland this week.

The girls, coached by Temi Holladay, Cathy Brumel and Ginger Peden, won the championship of a regional tournament held last weekend.

Snyder begins tourney play at 11:45 a.m. Thursday, taking on an opponent from Seymour in the Levelland Auxiliary, next to the high school gym.

Winner of the game will play the Brownsboro-Levelland victor at 6 p.m. Thursday. Losers will vie at 8:30.

The tournament, featuring teams from Dalhart, Madisonville, Seminole and the Twin Counties regions as well as of the double-elimination type.

The Snyder team consists of Stephanie McKnight, Missy Trull, Leslie Light, Sherri Hataway, Katy Lane, Anne Devers, Pam Casias, Kelly Barber, Denise Overton, Debra Thompson, Melanie Smith and Monica Hinojos.

Harris Choice For New Rockets Coach

HOUSTON (AP) Now that New Mexico businessman George Maloof has agreed to pay about $9 million to purchase the National Basketball Association Houston Rockets, his next order of business will be to name a head coach and general manager.

Maloof apparently would like to elevate head coach Tom Nissalke to the general manager's job and name assistant coach Del Harris as the head coach.

The consensus Friday was Harris would become the coach but Nissalke would not accept the general manager's position vacated by Ray Patterson.

Maloof said Friday his first duty as the new owner would be to offer the head coaching job to Harris, an assistant coach under Nissalke for the past three seasons.

Harris said earlier he would want full control over player transactions if he were to be the Rockets coach. Neither Harris nor Nissalke were available for comment Friday.

"One of the first things I will do as owner will be to ask Mr. Harris to become the head coach," Maloof said. "I've talked with Del before and I've been very impressed."

Maloof also said Nissalke could have the general manager's job.

WTC Gym To Be Closed

Plans to open the Western Texas College gym during June and July on a membership basis are being cancelled due to a lack of response.

Swimming classes using the swimming pool will be offered as Community Services courses and persons interested in those classes may contact the Community Services office at 573-8511, extension 240 for information.

The world's oldest tennis court, built in 1530 for Henry VIII is at Hampton Court.

June 19 New State Holiday

AUSTIN (AP) - The Senate voted Friday to make June 19 Emancipation Day a state holiday but not at the expense of Columbus Day.

The House had voted to substitute June 19 as a state holiday in lieu of Columbus Day, which is celebrated the second Monday in October.

June 19, starting next year, would honor the emancipation of the slaves in Texas on June 19, 1865.

The Senate reinserted Columbus Day and sent the bill back to the House for consideration of the amendment.

Plains Banker Wins Acquittal

LUBBOCK (AP) - Banker Ben Pate, the mayor of Plains in far West Texas, has been acquitted on all seven counts of a federal indictment charging him with misapplication of bank funds.

Jurors deliberated two and a half hours before reaching the verdict Friday, ending the week long trial. Pate and several relatives gasped and wept when U.S. District Judge Halbert O. Woodward announced the acquittal.

Pate, mayor of the Yoakum County seat in far West Texas and former vice president and cashier of the Plains State Bank, was indicted in March by a Lubbock grand jury and accused of five counts of financial misconduct and two counts of making "certain false entries" on government questionnaires in 1976 and 1977.

One count accused Pate of writing checks totaling $77,000 on an account he had opened at the Plains bank to build a drive-in restaurant. The government said this was financial misconduct because the account did not have sufficient funds to cover the checks.

But Pate testified he had arranged financing from a Brownfield bank and an Andrews savings and loan to back the checks.

In final arguments, defense attorney Leon Taylor of Albuquerque, N.M., asked in relation to one count involving a $30,000 loan made to a contractor building the restaurant, "Where is there anything wrong with that? Where did he violate the law? Where did he embezzle? Where did he cheat?"

What If You Did Not Render Your Own Property?

Even though the law states that you must render your property there is no legal penalty if you do not. Why bother? Here are three reasons:

If you take advantage of your rights and remedies. As mentioned above, by filing a rendition you have put into the records your opinion of the value of your property.

You have created a responsibility on the part of the tax assessor and the board of equalization to notify you if they intend to increase the value of your property over the amount you have rendered.

If you render your property, the tax assessor will do it for you as the law states he must. He does this by making his own estimate as to the value.

Better brown-bagging

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — In one of your columns you expressed your concern about the low-carbohydrate, high-protein diets. You pointed out that this diet was terrible and it allowed an individual to lose weight quickly by changing the amount of salt and water that the body holds.

I'm not concerned with losing weight but I am concerned about the diets of working persons, especially young ladies. Could you give me some suggestions as to what people can use for brown bagging it or what they might use in a microwave oven? I'm specifically interested in the nutritional needs of women for lunch and food combinations that could be tasty and beneficial.

DEAR READER — One problem with many brown bag lunches is that they contain far too much fat. Most of the luncheon meats, cold cuts and processed cheeses are very high fat foods. Frequently over 75 percent of their calories are from fat.

Lunch is only part of the total dietary picture. A good way to avoid some of the disasters that can occur with such lunches is to use uncreamed cottage cheese and unsweetened pineapple. These can be put together in a little carton and taken along and makes a tasty snack which provides both calcium and protein with some fruit with hardly any fat.

Hot soups are excellent and a thermos jug filled with a person's favorite soup is often a good answer. There's an infinite variety of ways soups can be made from those that are strictly vegetable soups to those that are cream soups. You can make your own cream soup and use non-fat dry milk powder or fortified skim milk.

Fresh fruits are always great since many people need a lot more bulk in their diet than they get. A good choice here is a raw apple. There's actually some factual basis for the old saying that an apple a day keeps the doctor away.

Another good source of protein with a limited amount of fat are chicken breasts. These can be baked in advance and provide a good, tasty snack for lunch. They can be crunched, or microwave oven to the desired temperature that way. Some people like cold cooked chicken as it is.

This is just a start on the list of things that an imaginative person can do. The point is to eliminate excess fat from the luncheon menu but that won't help unless you follow such procedures the rest of the day. I'm sending you The Health Letter number 4-7, Weight Losing Diet. It provides a basis for a balanced diet for those who do need to restrict their calories. Other readers who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

I'm not recommending that anyone stay on a severely calorie-restricted diet for a prolonged period of time. The sensible way to lose weight is the slow way. You can use this basic diet in The Health Letter I'm sending and add other foods to it until you provide the amount of calories that that specific individual might need.

Lanier, Hendley To Wed

The bride-elect is the daughter of Bobby Lanier of Snyder, Mrs. Pat Lanier of Sweetwater. The prospective bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Ab Hendley of Fort Sumner, N.M.

Miss Lanier was an honor graduate of Sweetwater High School in 1977. She was a member of the School choir and the 4-H club being named the Gold Star Girl her senior year. She is a 1978 graduate of South Plains College where she was on the Dean's Honor Roll, named to Who's Who Among American Junior Colleges and a member of the music group, Bakers Dozen.

She is attending Texas Tech University majoring in elementary education and is currently employed by Bank of the West.

Hendley, a 1976 graduate of Fort Sumner High School, is a 1978 graduate of South Plains College where he was on the Dean's Honor List and a member of Who's Who Among American Junior Colleges. He was a member of the Livestock Judging and Rodeo teams. Hendly will be attending Texas Tech in the fall majoring in animal business.

Following their marriage the couple will make their home in Lubbock.

VOWS PLANNED-Mr. and Mrs. Henry Clay Everton announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Sonja, to Bobby D. Hanks, son of Mrs. Dorothey Hanks and S.R. Hanks, all of Snyder. Pet Lizard Likes Beans

IRONTON, Ohio (AP)—Dorothy and John Collinsworth share their home with a lizard that bathes in their bath tub, sleeps on a heating pad and dotes on pinto beans.

Mrs. Collinsworth said her iguana is no trouble at all.

"Iggy can't make sounds be we still manage to communicate very well," she said.

JUNE WEDDING-Mr. and Mrs. Pete Gilbreath of Whitehouse announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Brenda Joyce, to Joe Michael Laurens. Laurens is the son of Ms. Wanda Norred of Snyder and Bobby Laurens of Anna Paulowna, Netherlands. The bride-elect will be a spring graduate of Snyder High School and the future bridegroom is employed by Baremore Drilling Company. A June 30 wedding is planned at Pleasant Hill Baptist Church, Tyler.

Joey Travolta Fires Agent

NEW YORK (AP)—Joey Travolta, younger brother of actor John Travolta, has fired his agent because she failed to get his acting career off the ground, according to papers filed with the state Supreme Court.

The agent, Yvette Bikoff, filed suit Thursday demanding that Travolta keep her as his personal manager or compensate her with $200,000. Travolta severed the contract last March 11.

The agent contends the contract is still in effect, but Travolta says she did not help him earn $10,000 in the first year of the contract, as promised.

Travolta's brother, John, starred in the movies "Grease" and "Saturday Night Fever" and the television show "Welcome Back, Kotter."

Neill Piano Students In Recital

Piano students of Mrs. Jerry Neill were presented in their annual spring recital on Sunday, May 13 at 3:00 p.m. in the chapel of First Baptist Church. Those particpating were: Kevin Pruitt, Robyn Fambro, Sammy Barrera, Leslie Light, Todd Pollard, Larry Light, Missy Mitchell, Mary Ybarra, Belia Rocha, Matt Cross, Kristi Neill, Laurie Donelson, Robin Cross, Lori Sealy and Beverly Duff. Selections representative of the year's curriculum were performed.

Certificates and pins were awarded the following students who played ten-piece programs in the National Piano-Playing Auditions: Matt Cross, Robin Cross, Beverly Duff, Missy Mitchell, Kristi Neill, Belia Rocha, Lori Sealy and Mary Ybarra.

Other awards presented were: practice--Todd Pollard; performance--Matt Cross; theory--Robyn Fambro and Larry Light; memory work--Matt Cross; written reports--Kristi Neill. Outstanding Student of the Year was Beverly Duff with runners-up being Lori Sealy and Mary Ybarra.

An informal reception in the garden room followed the program.

QUILT PROGRAM-These women presented a program on quilt making to the Plainview Homemakers Club recently at Northeast Community Center. Plainview Homemakers Study Art Of Quiltmaking

The Plainview Homemakers Club met Tuesday at the Northeast Community Center with Minnie Floyd and Ava Lapour as hostesses. President Mrs. Travis Rhoades presided for a short business session.

Ada Slaton was nominated to represent the club in the county-wide association where a county chairman will be selected for the ensuing biennium.

Nettie Lewis won the door prize.

Mrs. Staton, Sharon Farmer, Dorothy Campbell and Blanche Chisum attended the District TEHA meeting held in Tulia recently. Mrs. Staton reported on activities for club participation.

Leona Benitez, Janelda Davis and France Daniels gave a program on the upcoming quilt exhibit to be held June 10 through July 31 at the Scurry County Museum at WTC. They titled their program "Warm Memories."

Mrs. Daniel told the group that quilting is an art and dates back for many centuries. In today's world quilts are not made for beds only. With new ideas, schemes, materials and patterns they are now being used for tablecloths, clothing, pillows, pictures and wall hangings plus many other uses.

She urged the group to study oil quilts for ideas and to be an original artist in quilt making. Mrs. Daniel said that quilting was a good pass-time and good therapy.

Jeanelda Allen gave specific instructions on how to enter quilts for display. "Be sure your name and address is on the tag along with some interesting thoughts about the quilt, if possible. Also state the quilting pattern name and age," she said.

Mrs. Benitez assisted with the quilt demonstration.

A comment was given on each quilt on display. Ava Lapour brought the oldest quilt, over 100 years old.

It was announced that quilts must be in the museum by June 9.

Ever wonder how measuring spoons find their way in a drawer among spatulas, last week's mail and the birthday candles? It may just be disorganization, or, lack of space!

Find out, first, if you actually need more space in the kitchen. Clean out closets, pantry and other storage areas. Discard or give away utensils and supplies that will not be used. Wash the remaining contents, if necessary, and the shelves and cabinet interiors. Replace supplies. If more room is still needed, space-savers can help.

One idea is to use pegboard, which can hold anything from the measuring spoons to pots and pans, ladles, graters, salad tongs. It's easy to hang on walls above work areas, or cut to fit inside cabinets or doors. Decorative hooks may serve as an alternative.

To further alleviate clutter, there are pot and pan, and pot cover racks, and racks to hold pie, cake and muffin tins as well as platters. Stacking dinnerware and cup keepers, and single or twin turntables also aid to end in-cabinet chaos. A trash bag and cleanup caddy; or food wrap and broom and mop holder can be attached to doors. Slide-out drawers and canned food bins are helpful and can be stacked. Drawer dividers organize utensils and silverware; and, spice, knife and wall-mounted mug racks get these items up, up and away.

Step-up shelves, which save both space and work, allow storage at a glance. Smaller packages, bottles, [illegible] supplies, can be [illegible] on bottom shelves and graduated sizes put on top steps. Always remember to store cleaning products, however, out of a child's reach.

Organizers abound. Make a list of what has to be put in order. Then shop for sturdy, washable, practical space-savers to help simplify storage, meal preparation and cleanup.

AARP met Monday at 2 p.m. at the Senior Citizens' Center with 20 members and four guests present.

The program was given by Ellen Dixon of Brownfield on her 1977 trip to Tokyo and Kuru, Japan as a foreign exchange student, sponsored by the Brownfield Lions Club. Miss Dixon is the granddaughter of Mrs. Ora Wells and is now attending Texas Tech as a junior. She was dressed in native costume. She showed slides of her stay with three different families and scenes of places she visited while there. She also showed her collection of mementoes and their uses. The group tried eating with chop sticks following a demonstration by Miss Dixon.

Howard Harrington, District Governor of the Lions Club, gave a short talk on his trip to Tokyo, Japan, where he was installed as District Governor.

The program was followed by refreshments and a short business session.

All members are urged to participate in the AARP bake sale to be held during "Fun Fest Days" to be held at the Senior Citizens Center on Saturday, June 2. Sales will begin at 2 p.m. members are asked to bring baked goods in before that time. Each member is urged to bring two baked items, if possible as the money will be used to help the Center function.

AARP's next meeting will be on Monday, June 18. The program will be given by Keith Jarrell of Dallas, AARP Insurance Plan Representative. There will be a question and answer session following and each member will be given an opportunity to get answers to problems on insurance coverage and the new program going into effect shortly.

Foot Care Tips

COLLEGE STATION — Practice foot care "know how" and wear even high-heeled "disco" sandals with comfort, says Nancy Brown, a clothing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

High-Heeled Sandals

Although "discoing" in the highest of high heeled sandals isn't the best thing in the world for feet, it's not necessary to eliminate them from your wardrobe.

Just avoid wearing the same heel height all day every day, she recommends.

When wearing high heeled sandals, try putting your full weight firmly in the center of the heel. If this is not done, the narrow heels will bend in toward the arch and ruin the shoe's balance and appearance.

IDEAL SHOE

The ideal shoe has a heel that is no more than two inches high with plenty of space for toe movement. Try wearing a comfortable shoe similar to this at least 80 percent of the day, the specialist advises.

To help when walking on hard surfaces, apply rubber lifts to shoes.

EXERCISE FEET

Feet also need exercise. Stretch the arches by walking barefoot on tip-toe.

CONDITION FEET

To help keep feet soft, use a foot buffer to smooth away rough, callused spots. Follow this with an emollient lotion to replace oils removed by scrubbing.

Try not to irritate the skin because irritation increases blood flow to this area and creates calluses.

Pat Walker's Presents: The Splendor of being Slender

We may not improve your bowling form, but we can perfect your figure!

Obviously in great shape for her favorite sport, vivacious Margo Foote reports that she has more energy for bowling—and everything else—now that she has solved her weight problem at Pat Walker's. After failing repeatedly in other attempts to reduce, she lost 46 pounds and 62¼ inches on our proven program! She writes:

"I first heard about Pat Walker's in another figure salon where I was exercising, trying to lose weight. The truth of the matter is that after I had purchased a life membership I was pretty much left on my own. So I was interested when I heard a woman admiring her friend's figure. She enthusiastically confided that Pat Walker's had trimmed 10 pounds off her hips and tummy—and that she had been unable to exercise or diet them off before.

"I was impressed, but continued my routine sauna, steam, whirlpool baths and diet with discouraging results. I eventually quit because of back problems. Last January I was astonished at the slimmer figure of a relative who was going to Pat Walker's. She looked great and said their food plan was easy, offered a good variety and even allowed sweets . . .

"I have tried many kinds of diets and have lost pounds time and again, but when I looked wrinkled and saggy . . . I would quit—and gradually gain it all back—plus a few more pounds. That's been the story of my life for 36 years. You see, I never had changed my old eating habits.

"Pat Walker's program has been the most exciting and pleasant way for me to lose gradually and avoid that wrinkled, saggy stage. Everyone is so helpful and interested that I truly enjoy going. The rooms where I take my passive exercise offer privacy, relaxation and reducing in pleasant surroundings . . . I have more energy since my weight loss. I have not had any back problems from passive exercise. My entire family, including my grandchildren, are thrilled at the change!"

You can do it, too.

Like Mrs. Foote, you can attain your weight goal at Pat Walker's—without rigid diets or strenuous exercises.

On a program planned for you alone, you follow a sensible eating plan that's based on your own food likes and dislikes. You receive expert guidance from trained professional counselors, many of whom have used Pat Walker's method to solve their own weight problems.

And you have the additional advantage of safe passive exercise on the Symmetricon, exclusive equipment that gently provides the exercise you need to lose inches in all the right places. The Symmetricon unit firms and tones tissue while it stimulates circulation and helps improve posture. You also enjoy these other important benefits:

• a proven program of weight reduction • complete individual privacy • luxurious salons

Don't wait another day to find out more about the program that can make a beautiful difference in your life. Call now for your FREE treatment and figure analysis; there's no obligation. Just call to set a time for your complimentary appointment.

Woman's Election Gets Hubby fired

AUSTIN (AP)—A woman's election as Caldwell county commissioner apparently cost her husband his job with the county, an attorney general's opinion disclosed Friday.

The employee's wife was elected county commissioner of Precinct 2 on Nov. 7, and on Nov. 28, the outgoing Precinct 2 commissioner fired her husband, who had worked for the county for more than 17 years.

Caldwell County Attorney General Mark White if the new commissioner could rehire her husband.

White said the Nepotism Statute would prohibit the rehiring.

Stitchin' Time...

Bazaar Buzz Begins

By Joanne Schreiber

Many churches conduct their annual fund-raising bazaars in late summer and early fall, so it's none too soon to start planning your sewing.

Baby items are consistent best-sellers — everyone seems to have a favorite baby in need of new toys or room decorations. Stuffed blocks, wall hangings, grow charts, picture frames, mobiles and coloring books are ever-popular items for a baby table, especially when made of a baby-proof material such as Pellon's all-polyester Phun Phelt. This hand-washable fabric is available in 16 colors and is ideal for all sorts of craft projects because it cuts cleanly and may be stitched, fused or glued in place.

A first color book is an easy project. Draw simple, basic shapes of fruit, flowers, butterflies and animals or trace designs from a basic coloring book. Transfer the tracings to appropriate colors of Phun Phelt. Using fusible web, a steam iron and a damp press cloth, fuse the design to 4x5-inch rectangles of fabric.

Use the decorative stitches on your sewing machine to accent the fused appliques. Contrasting veins on the butterfly wing, the leaves and the flowers may be done with a simple zigzag stitch, or with a more dramatic stitch in contrasting thread.

When each panel of the book is completed, fuse border strips to top and bottom to frame the picture.

To construct the book, cut a strip of fabric 5 x 24 inches long. Mark off into six equal sections of 4 inches each. Make 12 decorative panels (11 motifs and one cover) which can say "color book" as shown, or give the child's name. (If you are making this book for a bazaar, leave the cover blank and fuse names-to-order at the bazaar.)

Cut pieces of fusible web 4 x 5 inches. Fuse a panel to each side of the strip, so the pages of the book are three-ply, and the folds one-ply. Crease or press the Phun Phelt along the fold lines, so the accordion shape will hold.

The same construction techniques may be used for blocks or mobiles. The mobile units may be lightly padded for extra dimension.

The current issue of Fashion '79 contains applique motifs which are ideal for a project such as this. Directions are for a countdown wall hanging, but the cheerful motifs may be used for a book, blocks or other items. Included are a teddy bear, a heart, a bird, a worm, an elephant, a balloon, a fish, a flower, an apple and a set of numbers.

Fashion '79 has a sewing supplement that features a number of other terrific bazaar items, including a quilted cake hen, a quilted star design potholder, clothespin dolls and a giraffe grow chart, all with complete instructions. This, of course, is in addition to the hundreds of up-to-the-minute fashion patterns plus the free-pattern coupon.

To get your copy, send $2 plus your name, address and zip to Stitchin' Time, Box 903, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

A really good player knows the correct way to play all card combinations. All else being equal, he knows that while correct technique doesn't always win it sure pays off in the long run.

South lost the club finesse at trick two. Back in his hand with a second diamond he entered dummy with a heart, led the four of spades and finessed with his queen. So far so good. He was using correct technique because had he led dummy's 10 spot and East held the singleton king, he would have set up the nine in the West hand.

Back to dummy again and the five of spades was led to his jack. West showed out and there was no way left for South to pick up the four spade tricks he needed for the slam.

It was also bad technique. The lead of the 10 of spades at this point in time would have been a sure winner unless West had held back the king of spades the first time. However, in that case the slam was doomed from the start.

Ask the Experts

A Virginia reader asks what is meant by a "nothing play."

Today's article describes one. When South failed to lead the 10 from dummy the second time he led spades, he had made a play that could hurt him but could not help him.

An enzyme known as the "intrinsic factor" is missing from the digestive system of victims of pernicious anemia. Without this enzyme, the body is unable to absorb Vitamin B-12 from foods and utilize it properly.

If untreated, pernicious anemia can cause severe degenerative changes in the nervous system — also cardiac disturbances. Your doctor can recommend a controlled program of Vitamin B-12 shots for pernicious anemia patients.

Met Exhibits

NEW YORK (AP)—"Rembrandt and the Bible" is on exhibition at the Metropolitan Museum of Art through June 10.

The show contains about 50 Rembrandt etchings, and some drawings, which illustrate scenes from the Bible.

Another exhibition, which runs through June 24, is "Ellsworth Kelly: Recent Paintings and Sculpture." It includes nine monochrome, shaped canvases, six related sculptural wall pieces and two floor sculptures. A series of the artists's black and white paintings also is on display.

BEAUTY DIGEST

Diane Robbens

By Diane Robbens, Editor of Beauty Digest Magazine

Beauty lift

Actress Natalie Wood told Beauty Digest Magazine her favorite plan for those times when she thinks her appearance needs a lift: "I tone up my skin by dabbing my face lightly with an ice cube wrapped in a soft handkerchief. Cucumber slices on the eyes also makes them look whiter and brighter."

For a pretty nose

If you'd like to make your nose appear thinner and smaller, use dark shading on either side of the nostrils. Add a light streak of highlighter in the center and blend. Use creams and not powders, because creams blend better and powders draw too much attention to your corrective techniques.

Storing clothes

Now that it's time to put away your winter clothes, here are some helpful tips for proper storage: don't put away stained garments — the stain will attract moths, oxidize over a long period of time and be more difficult to remove; never store clothes in plastic, as it can create a moist environment and lead to mildew; store clothes in a cardboard box, or in cloth or paper garment bags; avoid putting mothballs in direct contact with clothes — they can discolor them.

Thick lashes

A popular trick used by models to make their lashes seem thicker and longer involves simply using baby or talcum powder. First apply one coat of mascara to lashes, and while they're still wet, gently put some powder on them, either with a comb or a small sponge. Wait a few seconds, and then apply a second coat of mascara. Your lashes will come out thick and flirty looking.

Glowing skin

You can get that special glowy look actresses and models have by using their method for "setting" makeup. Keep an atomizer with mineral water on your refrigerator. After your make-up is completed, spray a light mist over your face and you're ready to glow.

Jaworski Says Show Authentic

BRADENTON, Fla. (AP)—Former special Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski watched an eight-hour television version of the White House Watergate scandal and pronounced it "true to the record."

"Blind Ambition" aired on CBS over four nights, depicted former Presidential Counsel John Dean's version of events leading to the downfall of President Richard Nixon.

"Historically, it's accurate. The passages from tape recordings are reported very well, adapted to the presentation well," said Jaworski in a telephone interview with the Bradenton Herald. The show concluded Wednesday.

"I would say those who haven't followed Watergate very closely and didn't have the whole picture have a very good perception now," said the 72-year-old Texas lawyer.

Two Photography Courses Offered

Picture a summer of fun through enrollment in photography at Western Texas College.

Two classes are being offered, one in introductory black-and-white photography and another in color photography.

The introductory class, JOU 130-330, will meet on Tuesday nights during the nine-week evening term in SC-105. Such topics will be covered as camera types and handling, flash and available light, films and filters, exposure, composition, processing film and printing pictures, and learning to take better photographs.

The color class, JOU 230-335, listed as News Photography, will meet on Thursday nights also during the nine-week semester. Such topics will be covered as care and handling of color films and pictures, processing color negative and slide films, printing from negatives and slides, and creative uses and displays of color pictures.

Those enrolled will be able to take photographs and make prints to keep. Individualized lab times will be arranged to allow students to use college darkroom facilities. Some cameras and assorted picture-taking equipment will also be available for student use during the classes.

Class limit for each offering is 20 students, due to lab limitations and available college equipment. A $10 lab fee is charged for use of college facilities, including all chemicals.

Both classes are arranged for any student of any age, regardless of experience level. A self-directing workbook will be used to supplement class work in the introductory course, while no text will be used in the color course.

Registration for the nine weeks evening term is Wednesday, May 30. Classes begin Thursday, May 31. Also, dormitory space is available, and interested students should contact the Student Services office at WTC.

Hotline Helps Prevent Child Abuse

EDITOR'S NOTE—Now that official reports are required nationwide, it looks as if a hundred times as many child abuse cases may occur annually as the 60,000 estimated less than a decade ago. Here is a report on an organization that helps parent and child.

By JOE WING
For The Associated Press

TORRANCE, Calif. (AP) —Before you whack little Willie again, you might well call 800-421-0353. In California, it's 800-352-0386.

That's the toll-free number of Parents Anonymous, the largely volunteer national organization dedicated to the proposition that no child should be abused physically, emotionally or sexually.

One of the three women answering the hot line at headquarters here is Alice Loper, who is long accustomed to the tense voices of mothers and fathers driven half frantic by their kids.

Untold numbers of parents never make such calls. Instead, they go beyond the screaming stage and hit, kick, bite or burn their children, bounce them off the walls or twist arms until bones crack.

Some 1.5 million cases of child abuse were reported in 1978, and Parents Anonymous estimates that three or four times as many went unreported. As a result, they say, thousands of youngsters die each year and thousands more suffer permanent physical and emotional damage.

Mrs. Loper, well aware of this, tries quietly to learn from the caller whether a child is in actual danger.

Maybe it's a threatening situation, she says, and then we never refuse to talk. If you just hold them on the phone long enough you may save a life. If you've had children of your own you can assure them that spilling a glass of milk isn't the end of the world. Sometimes they end up laughing."

But time on the 800 line is precious. Other uptight parents may be waiting. If the crisis is not acute, Mrs. Loper tries to refer the caller to one of the 900 or more P.A. chapters around the country. Or suggest that they form one of their own.

It is in these chapters, each consisting of about five or six parents and a volunteer professional sponsor, that the fundamental work of the organization is done.

That's because no telephone conversation is likely to solve an abuse problem. It takes weeks and months of talking, hand-holding and mutual aid to wean some parents from the habit of unleashing wrath on children.

Chapter members meet once a week to relate their compulsions towards violence, to offer one another suggestions that have worked for them, like kicking a chair instead of hitting Susie, to draw strength from the sponsor, and to assure one another of understanding and love.

"Don't say never," says a tract put out by New York City's independently organized Parents Anonymous group, "Just say not today."

inflation spreading

So huge and so dominant is the American economy, a truism has long had it, that when the United States sneezes, the rest of the developed world is likely to catch pneumonia.

Not so much has been made of that during the recent years of mounting trade deficits and depreciating dollars. The United States, to read the economic pages, at times, has become virtually a basket case. It is Western Europe plus Japan that would appear to have gained the economic upper hand.

History, however, seems to be repeating itself in a small way. The inflation that has preoccupied policy makers in the United States is, according to a recent survey in The Wall Street Journal, beginning to do the same in its economic partners.

It is not that these are strangers to the problem. Inflation has been chronic in Britain, Italy and, to a lesser extent, France during much of the postwar era. But this time around it is not restricted to a few shaky economies but general and beginning to be the cause of the most concern in the countries that had been most stable.

West Germany is moving to tighten credit and restrict the money supply. Switzerland, with its money supply up a reported 17 percent over a year ago and the premium-valued franc actually falling against the dollar recently, is moving in the same direction. As is Japan, dealing with a creeping inflation - wholesale prices up 0.9 percent in March - that might be bearable by U.S. standards but makes the trade-dependent Japan nervous.

Part of the blame is laid on the dollar - specifically the multi-national support effort initiated last November that has halted its decline but at a cost of something like $30 billion to participating central banks. These have been buying up excess dollars but in the process inflating their own money supplies.

Another major influence is oil, with current price increases decreed by the producers hitting Europe and Japan much more painfully than the United States, where the furor over deregulation is essentially political rather than economic.

As a consequence, much of the plan agreed upon at last year's Bonn summit has had to be scrapped. That called for vigorous stimulation of the German and Japanese economies and somewhat more moderate action by other countries to equalize growth rates with a slowing United States and gradually equalize trade imbalances. Instead of stimulation, planners are turning to thoughts of applying the economic brakes.

And a consequence of that could be renewed pressure on the dollar, a shrinking of the market for U.S. goods abroad and continuing trade deficits.

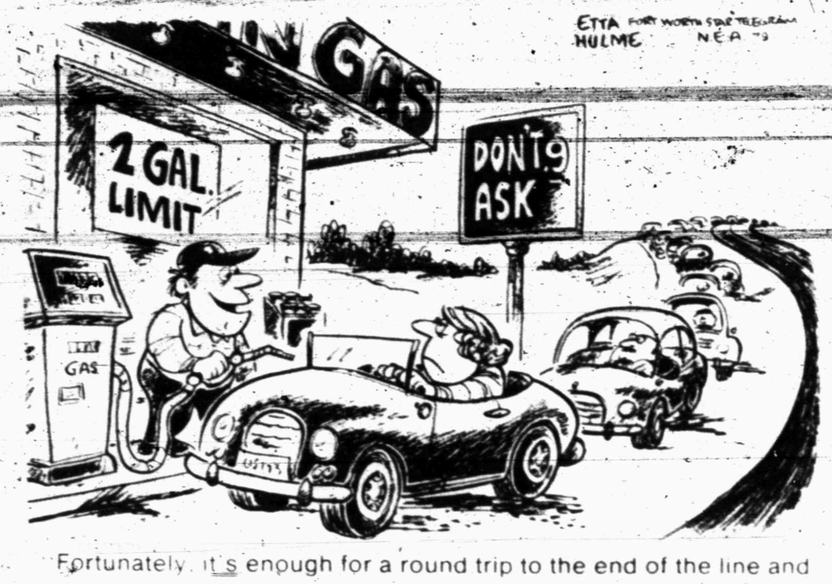
the marks vs. marx

East Germany is having its problems. They involve money - too much of the wrong kind, from the point of view of the East German government. That regime has ordered citizens to turn in all foreign currency in their possession in exchange for coupons usable only in special stores.

The move is officially designed to curb a widespread black market. But it is aimed primarily at the West German mark. Thanks to family ties across the border and a consequent flow of funds from relatives in the West, the ultra-hard West German mark has circulated in massive quantities with virtually the status of a second legal currency in East Germany.

With disastrous consequences for the East mark. East Germany may technically have the sturdiest economy in the Communist word, but its currency is discounted by its own citizens. Workers increasingly have been demanding pay in much-preferred West marks.

It would appear to eor[illegible] basic truth of conventional economics [illegible] money drives out good. In this case, goo[illegible] marks have been mopping up the shaky [illegible] version. But then, whoever said East Germany was a conventional economy - certainly not East Germany.



Fortunately, it's enough for a round trip to the end of the line and back to the pump.

old warriors, old ways

Gen. Bernard Rogers, Army chief of staff, says we must revive the military draft immediately. He wants a lottery for picking recruits and prosecution for draft evaders--immediately. He wants to start calling up recruits a hundred thousand a year for mandatory training and standby duty.

So the footsoldier concept is not dead. Some individuals charged with responsibility for our nation's external security are still ignoring technology, still thinking and planning in terms of marching men and bayonets.

Old Warriors have old ways.

There are still those in the Pentagon who are willing to fight the next war with the weapons which lost the last two.

For seven years now the United States has managed fine without a military draft. There is no war in sight which should involve us.

Yet Defense Secretary Harold Brown and Army Secretary Rogers and Marine Commandant Louis H. Wilson are all urging resuming regimentation of our civilian population. All of them want to revive the draft and Brown wants to draft women as well.

On the Hill it is Sen. John C. Stennis (D-Miss.) and the old men who are most willing to draft young men to fight their wars for them.

Since the volunteer concept was introduced during the Nixon years, many Pentagon generals--especially in the Army--have resisted the idea, at least subconsciously have hoped it would not work.

The fact that it has worked they are now willing to ignore in their eagerness to resurrect our country's last vestige of involuntary servitude.

In our nation right now we have 2.1 million men and women on active military duty, another 800,000 in the selective reserves, another 300,000 in the individual ready reserves--plus between 50,000 and 100,000 in the delayed entry program.

Further, our country has a history of being able to recruit more than 20,000 volunteers even during such an unpopular war as Vietnam.

Why in the world do the generals want more?

I don't know how long are the memories of the mothers of Korea and Vietnam and the schoolagers who mounted such massive resistance to the draft in the '60s.

Some student groups have threatened an anti draft campaign that they say will include civil disobedience if necessary.

Nobody can want to see those confrontations revived.

Aside from the extravagant absurdity of resurrecting 5,000 costly, cumbersome, potentially subvertible draft boards, there is the consideration of whether weapons, tactics and strategy are going to be updated or remain antiquated.

If we are going to rely on massed manpower, we can't win. There is no way our seven percent of the world's mothers can produce enough boy and girl babies to match the hordes of Asia.

We will keep potential enemies at a distance with a thermonuclear fist in the face; nothing less.

And our strategic arsenal can be effectively manned by a comparative handful of skilled technicians.

But old warriors have old ways. They need to be retired or reeducated.

Old presidential campaign issues don't always fade away.

Sometimes they can hang around for years in Congress, reviving to snarl proceedings just as another presidential race warms up.

Take the Panama Canal or as one side of the current debate would prefer it, don't let Panama take it.

Four administrations in the making, the revision of the treaty arrangements, according to which the United States has controlled the waterway since its construction at the beginning of the century, was one of the most vehemently argued political issues of recent years.

Proponents of revision - diminishing the U.S. role in Panama in favor of that of the Republic of Panama itself - appeared to have carried the day in the 1976 presidential nominations (Gerald Ford, for, over Ronald Reagan, vociferously against), the election (Jimmy Carter, for) and the U.S. Senate (approval by two-thirds-plus-one vote in April of 1978).

But not in the House of Representatives, or a potent segment thereof now being heard from.

There are actually two Panama Canal treaties. The first authorizes the United States to operate the canal until the year 2000 under conditions of gradually increasing Panamanian participation. The second vests the United States with permanent responsibility for the protection of the canal against threats to its neutrality.

The signed and ratified treaties take effect automatically this coming October. Still required, however, is legislation implementing key provisions establishing a new Panama Canal Commission as the U.S. entity operating the canal, funding the relocation of military facilities and civilian personnel and setting up a new toll system.

Enter the House, which was not involved in the initial debate on the treaties themselves since the Constitution gives to the Senate the powers of advise and consent to such Executive acts. Expenditures of U.S. funds and other matters involved in the enabling legislation are its business, however. As shaped in the House, the enabling bill would substantially alter key treaty provisions, requiring that an American military commander head the new commission and revising formulas for Panama's share of revenues.

The objection on the latter point is that not only is Panama being given the canal, it is being paid to take it. A misreading, the admidnistration counters. None of the money to be realized by Panama is to come out of U.S. tax dollars. Instead, the Panamanians are being cut in on an increasing share of canal tolls.

The costs to be born directly by the United States, set at $42 million a year, involve American military requirements and the relocation and retraining of American personnel as gradually replaced by Panamanians in the operation of the canal.

The House rewriting is so basic, pro-treaty quarters suggest, that it could invalidate the treaties, leaving a Panama so embittered that it might seek to shut or seize the canal. If it did not come to that extreme, it would almost certainly mean a return to the bad feeling and sporadic violence that marked the pre-renegotiation years. The canal might remain American but it is difficult to see that it would be any easier to operate or defend in such a situation than under the terms of the treaties as negotiated. And the United States would pay a heavy penalty in face throughout Latin America.

The Huse and its members are in no way barred from taking a keen interest in foreign affairs or from expressing opinions. But the Constitution specifically invests the Executive branch and the Senate with responsibility for implementation of policy.

Wisely, it would apear from the way the canal issue is being revived.

it's possible

A passenger ship's veteran captain became unexplainably anxious during one Atlantic crossing. Though the compass told him they were on course, he kept hoping for clear weather so he could use his sextant on the stars to verify his position.

When the weather improved, he made his reading and discovered his intuition was correct. The compass was defective. The ship was several degrees off course and headed for trouble.

There are times when all of us have inner forebodings that portend trouble, yet we can't put our finger on the reason. Psychologists sometimes describe this phenomenon as "free floating anxiety" -- a problem that is hard to isolate and treat because it is so mercurial.

But if you rely on God as your Captain, you have a true compass that never varies, never fluctuates and never fails. He is always at your service, ready to help you correct your course. And you don't have to wait for the weather to clear to call on Him.

If you want to succeed, you must dare to share the credit and glory of success with a winning team. Successful people don't operate in isolation.

No dictator will ever succeed. He may have his hour of glory, but he won't stay at the top -- the masses won't tolerate it. History is inveterate in its teaching. Ultimately, only teams will succeed.

Aig Ziglar once said, "If tomorrow you got a call from your boss and he said to you, 'Hey, I have good news for you. I have free tickets for you and your wife to Acapulco. You leave two weeks from today and we will provide full air fare, all your meals, rooms in the best hotel, and a $500 bonus to make sure you have plenty of tipping money.' What would you do?"

You wouldn't say, 'Sorry sir, I wasn't planning on it.' You know what you'd do. You'd get organized in a hurry, and rearrange your schedule. You'd do everything in your power to make it possible for you to go. You would begin to delegate some jobs that yesterday you thought you, and you alone, could do.

You would start giving somebody else some of the power and the glory that you possess today."

I am a success in my life, my marriage, my family and in my career simply because I am surrounded by better, wiser people than myself.

"I am a success today because of the insight and truth I've discovered in this principle: GOD CAN DO GREAT THINGS WITH THE PERSON WHO DOESN'T CARE WHO GETS THE CREDIT."

You may be hestitant about delegating responsibility to capable persons who work with you simply because you don't want to give up the power or sense of fulfillment these jobs give you.

But when you give away some of your present responsibility, you free yourself to accept the even greater, more fulfilling tasks God has in store for you.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Those who make the worst use of their time complain most of its shortness."

Wondering what happened to the giant industrial prospect that you read about a couple of months ago? Well, the prospect is alive and well and, according to our information, is thinking in even bigger terms.

It seems that the company's chief executive officer has been out of the country for sev[illegible] weeks exploring mar[illegible]s for some of the mate[illegible]s that would be processed here. In fact, the plant might well manufacture two products rather than just one.

Chamber and industrial people have been in touch with the prospect on a regular basis, and Bill Warner at the chamber is sitting by the phone waiting for a call alerting Snyder of a planned visit by top company officials. It looks like the first couple of weeks in June are the logical times.

Industrial prospecting is a year-around project, and about 14 local men who make up an industrial team have just completed their training, conducted by the area development department of Texas Electric. Purpose of the team is to accumulate data and have this information ready on short notice to visit with an industrial prospect.

However, diversification of the economy and the creation of new jobs is a responsibility of everyone--not just the chamber of commerce and the industrial foundation.

Industrial seminar folks like to tell the story about the service station attendant or the waitress who was asked by an industrial prospect what they could think of good about the community. The answer was, "Not a blasted thing."

We came across one incident that has a positive ring to it, and it reinforces the idea that it takes total community involvement and pride in order to achieve success in attracting new payrolls.

Just last week, the oil town of Andrews announced that a Kansas-based manufacturing firm would create a new division to make fiberglass tanks. The company will employ about 50 people and fill a 19,000 square foot metal building in the city's industrial tract.

It all started by a chance remark made by an Andrews resident who was interested in purchasing fiberglass tanks for his oil company. During the course of the conversation, the salesman mentioned something about the possibility of locating a plant in West Texas.

"Well, if you're gonna build a plant somewhere, you might as well build it in Andrews," the resident told the supplier.

Then a few months later, bingo--50 new jobs and a healthier overall economy. Everybody can help.

Frog Leaps 13½ Feet To Victory

LANEXA, Va. (AP)—The least a frog jockey has to do is set his contender on a platform and hope he'll jump. Warren Cash's entry, Sam, did just that - leaping 13½ feet for a $300 prize and the championship of the 1979 Bluegrass Froghoppin' Hoedown.

But not all the contestants performed for the 4,000 people who turned out for the weekend competition in this New Kent County town.

"Some of these frogs wouldn't even move," scoffed Cash, of Fisherville, Va. "People would pour beer on them, blow on them, take their hat and fan them, take their shoe and stomp it beside them" - in vain.

One frog jockey overstepped the bounds.

That individual, Cash said, "was stomping beside his frog and accidentally stomped his frog."

Quilt Auction Set At Senior Center

Fourteen quilts, some of them collector's items and at least one a true antique, will be sold at auction at the Senior Center Fun Fest on June 2.

In addition to the quilts, four crocheted afgans will be included in the auction.

Directing the bidding will be Grady W. Morris, owner and operator of the C. City Auction House in Colorado City. Morris is a licensed auctioneer (TXS-010-0341), and is donating his services for the Fun Fest, a fund raising activity planned to benefit the Senior Citizens Center. Morris will be assisted by his wife, Mollie.

The oldest of the quilts in the auction will be one donated by T.A. Faver. It was made by his mother, and is more than 100 years old. Several of the quilt tops were made in the 1930s. Most of the quilts were completed by volunteer workers in the Senior Center, and two of the quilts were donated by the Retired Senior Volunteer Program volunteers who work on quilts the year around.

Most of the quilts are double bed size and two are for king size beds.

Persons interested in bidding on the quilts can get a preview of them as they are on display at Glover's, C.R. Anthony Co., J.C. Penney, Co., Bea Owens, Men's II, N.J.'s, Bar H Bar Western wear, Travis Flowers, Snyder National Bank, Dryden's Shoes, The Barber Shoppe, TG&Y, Gray's Style Shop and Texas Electric Service Co.

The quilt auction is to get underway at 6 p.m., and persons who would like to see the quilts and afgans beforehand will find them on display.

"We would like to thank Mr. Morris for donating his time to Fun Fest," Mrs. Gloria Shaw, Senior center director, said. "We do have some lovely quilts and afgans, and the Senior Center is indebted to all the people who have worked on them and who have donated materials and quilt tops. There are many patterns - a Dutch Doll, a Colonial Lady and various stars - just to mention a few, and everybody who appreciates the art of quilt making will enjoy looking over the quilts as much as we have here at the center."

Fun Fest activities, all at the Senior Center, will begin at 2 p.m. when booths open and entertainment begins. A barbecue dinner will be served from 4:30-6:30 p.m., and tickets must be purchased in advance. For information about tickets or other activities, interested persons may call the Center at 573-0104.

Methodists Set Conference

Snyder area ministers and lay delegates of the United Methodist Church will gather at Amarillo's Polk Street UMC Tuesday through Thursday, May 29-31, for the Northwest Texas Annual Conference.

During the conference, Bishop Alsie Carleton will announce new appointments of ministers to United Methodist churches in Northwest Texas for the coming year.

Other important items of business on the agenda include election of delegates to the 1980 General and Jurisdictional Conferences of the United Methodist Church, and a special presentation dealing with the International Year of the Child.

In special ceremonies, candidates for deacon and elder will be ordained by the United Methodist Church.

Dr. Barry Bailey, senior minister of Firt UMC for Fort Worth, will be conference preacher for the meeting and will deliver morning and evening sermons each day of the conference.

Dr. Bailey preaches on television Sunday mornings on Channel 11 to a potential audience of about 2½ million in six states. He has been selected preacher of the 1979 United Methodist series of the Protestant Hour radio program with 1,500 broadcast outlets worldwide.

The Northwest Texas Conference includes the districts of Abilene, Amarillo, Big Spring, Lubbock, Plainview, Pampa and Seymour. United Methodist churches in the Snyder area are included in the Big Spring district.

Frank Sinatra once gave away a Picasso original to two dinner guests because they admired the work.
