Young Ciscoan Will Receive Diploma From West Point on Thursday, June 12

Cisco has a more than usual interest in the graduation exercises at the United States Military academy at West Point this year. One of this city's young men will receive his diploma from that institution and a commission in the United States army at the exercises on June 12.

He is John Chesley Kilborn, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Kilborn, of 207 East Seventeenth street.

Young Kilborn, who is 22 years of age, entered West Point in the summer of 1926. He has spent four years in the institution which prescribes the most rigorous and thorough course of training to be found in any school in the nation, a course that lays as much, or more, stress upon character and personal conduct as upon the curriculum studied. Included in this course was 10 hours of flying instruction which all cadets must take.

Young Kilborn will leave West Point on the 14th of June for home, arriving in Galveston June 19. He will probably reach Cisco June 21. His mother is now in Houston, visiting her daughter and eagerly awaiting the arrival of her boy with his commission and his coveted diploma. This commission is a second lieutenantcy. Before entering upon his duties with the army, Young Kilborn will be permitted a three-month leave of absence.

During his schooling at West Point he was allowed only about 30 days leave of absence in four years, this being given him after his second year at the school. He spent that furlough at home with his parents. Since then, of course, he has not seen his people.

COUNTY OIL MEN TO MEET AT RANGER

Independents Will Talk Pipe Line Law and Tariff

A large number of Cisco oil men are expected to attend a county-wide meeting of independent oil men and all others who are interested in the welfare of the independents to be held at the Gibson hotel in Ranger Thursday evening at 8 o'clock. Speakers representing the Independent Petroleum association will be present. Preceding the program, a banquet will be served. Tickets to the banquet are now in the hands of committees in Cisco, Eastland, Ranger and other titles of the county. It is hoped to have many in attendance from each town. They may be obtained at the chamber of commerce here.

The new pipe line law, the tariff and other matters of great importance to the independent oil men will be discussed.

Frank Kilgough of Eastland is in charge of arranging for the meeting. He is assistant to the executive vice president of the Independent Petroleum association.

It is likely that Chas. Morgan of Fort Worth, secretary-treasurer, will deliver an address. He drew up the new pipe line law.

Tom Cranfill, president, may attend. Claude C. Wild, executive vice president, also may be present. All who plan to attend are urged to buy tickets so it can be known as nearly as possible how many to prepare for. However those whom the committee do not see are asked to attend as the greater the attendance the more successful the meeting will be.

The meeting is not confined to independent operators but royalty owners, business men and others who recognize the importance that the success of the oil men means to the prosperity of Eastland county are invited.

Sunday Golfing May Be Denied

TOPEKA, Kan., June 10.—An evolution of Sunday closing laws by which golfers may have to spend the sabbath playing solitaire was foreseen here today.

Attorney General William A. Smith, who, through an assistant, asked an injunction to close Sunday moving pictures shows at Herrington, Kan., admitted that when the shows are closed, sponsors of Sunday laws will ask that "Tom Thumb golf courses be forced to close Sunday operation."

GREEN GIVEN FOUR YEARS IN 2 CASES

Pleads Guilty This Morning in 88th District Court

Sam Green, charged by the 88th grand jury with forgery, entered a plea of guilty in the 88th district court at Eastland this morning and received a penalty of two years in the penitentiary in each of the two cases against him. He had previously been given a sentence of two years on May 14 on a forgery charge.

Green was indicted by the grand jury about two months ago and his trial was set, but was continued. He had left the county and yesterday Steele Hill, deputy sheriff, went to Abilene and got him and brought him back to Eastland for trial.

When he was taken before the court this morning he said that he wanted to enter a plea of guilty.

It took the jury but a few minutes to determine his punishment after he had entered the guilty plea. After disposing of the Green case the trial of Fred Tarver, charged with selling whiskey, was started.

Tarver was charged with four offenses and was tried on one count on April 17. The trial resulted in a hung jury, nine being for acquittal and three for guilty. He was tried again on May 13 and the jury returned a verdict of not guilty.

The trial which started this morning was on one of the three remaining indictments against him on charges of selling whiskey.

The jury was still out this afternoon in the Virgil Day case, in which he was being tried on charges of violating the liquor laws. The case was given to the jury yesterday afternoon. Court follows this morning said they were afraid the jury was hopelessly hung because it was taking them so long to reach a decision.

Moody Expected to Enter Law Practice

AUSTIN, June 10.—Gov. Dan Moody was at home sleeping today following his withdrawal from active politics before the state Democratic executive committee here yesterday when he declined to run for a third term.

He spent last night at Temple, called there to the bedside of Louis L. Farr, San Angelo cattleman, who had been his long time friend. After Mr. Farr's death, the governor returned to Austin but notified his office he would sleep this morning because of the all night vigil at Temple.

As announced to the committee, his retirement is because of the "muddled" condition of Texas politics and an unwillingness to combat R. S. Sterling of Houston, who is a candidate for governor.

The governor had intended up to recently to be a candidate for a third term. He has therefore made known no plans for the future after leaving the governor's chair next January. It is expected he will re-enter law practice, probably in one of the larger cities of Texas.

WISHES OF HOOVER MET, HE ASSERTS

Declares Changes Made at Request of Agriculture

WASHINGTON, June 10.—President Hoover's restrictive tariff admissions have been followed by the congress, Republican floor leader Watson asserted in the senate today, opening a full defense of the pending Smoot-Hawley tariff measure.

The Indian senator argued that the bill was a limited revision of existing laws for the benefit only of agriculture and those industries suffering depression from foreign competition.

Of the more than 3,200 items made subject to duty in the tariff law, Watson declared, 2,171 or 66 percent are unchanged, while 877 or 27 percent are increased and 235 or 7 percent decreased.

"Most of the increases and decreases were made at the request of agriculture," the Republican leader continued. "Of the 887 items increased, 250 were in the agricultural section of the bill. Still other increases were made for agriculture in other sections of the measure."

"Most of the decreases were requested by agriculture, but none of them has been made on any agricultural product."

Senator Blaine, Repn., Wis., objected to Watson's picture of agriculture benefits. He asserted the dairy industry had suffered severely from the revision made in the latest form of the bill. Objection to Watson's conclusions also was made by Senator Howell, Repn., Neb., who said the 20 percent duty on shoes alone wiped out any benefit farmers would get from the measure.

Two doubtful Republican senators swung into line for the Smoot-Hawley tariff bill today, putting the measure's fate directly up to Senators Reed and Grundy, Repn., Pa., who have declined to announce how they will vote.

Senators Capper, Repn., Kas., and Cutting, Repn., New Mexico, are the two who have made up their minds definitely to support the legislation.

This leaves the administration leaders a margin of one vote with Reed, Grundy and Senator King Dem., Utah, still listed as undecided.

PLANES BOMB CAVE RETREATS OF RED SHIRTS

PESHAWAR, India, June 10.—Royal air force planes again bombed the caves occupied by the Haji of Turanzal's fierce tribesmen between 7 and 8 a. m. today, and the sound of the bombs could be heard in Peshawar, 30 miles away.

RED SHIRTS CAUSE DISORDERS

By WEBB MILLER

United Press Staff Correspondent

CHASADDIA, Northwest Frontier Provinces, India, June 10.—Most of the disorders which have confronted the British along the northwest frontier during recent weeks have been the work of a native organization called the Red Shirts, which was formed by a relative-by-marriage of the Haji of Turanzal, powerful frontier chieftain now encamped a few miles from Peshawar.

The Haji approached Peshawar when his kinsman, Abdul Ghaffar Khan, principal organizer of the Red Shirts, was imprisoned by the British along with about fifty other leaders. He halted some four miles from the city, however, and took to the safety of nearby caves when the British attempted to drive him away.

The first attempt to dislodge the Haji occurred more than a week ago, and again yesterday the British bombed the cave country, but without success so far as is known here. When the United Press correspondent arrived here yesterday with a police official, the sound of the firing could be heard distinctly.

Despite the wearing of the Red Shirt and the use of the Soviet emblems of a hammer and sickle, members of the native frontier organization maintain they have no connection with Moscow. Their avowed purpose is to combat the British government and attain independence, but without, they say, Soviet aid.

There apparently is an indirect connection between this movement and the passive resistance campaign in Southern India. Their methods are vastly different, however, since the Red Shirts and the frontier youth league have no element of non-violence in their drive for independence.

Leaders of the Red Shirt movement claim approximately 20,000 followers. The Haji's men number several hundred.

Several negro families had evacuated the colored section of Chickasha today as police patrolled the neighborhood in anticipation of possible mob violence.

The situation continued quiet throughout the night, although officials feared rioting might occur with the release of 12 white federal prisoners indicted in connection with mob activities last week.

Dr. A. J. Anderson, one of the prisoners, was said to have threatened to seek revenge on a negro who attacked him Sunday. He was expected to obtain release on bond today, and police prepared to cope with a possible attack on the negro section.

Triple Tragedy at Wichita Falls

WICHITA FALLS, June 10. Joe Dyer, 45, shot and killed his wife, 45, and sister-in-law, Mrs. Dina Childress, 33, at the Dyer home here this afternoon. Twenty minutes later he sent a bullet through his own brain, inflicting a fatal wound.

The only explanation that police could offer for the triple tragedy was that Dyer was temporarily insane. A .38 calibre Smith and Wesson was used in all three cases. One shot killed Mrs. Dyer and two proved fatal to Mrs. Childress. Dyer had been out of employment for some time, police said.

2 OPERATIONS PERFORMED AT SANITARIUM

Mrs. G. W. Collum, patient at the sanitarium for the past few days, is doing well.

Both Mrs. E. L. Graham and Mrs. F. T. Bell, patients at the sanitarium are making rapid progress toward recovery.

$65,000 Fire Damage At Kingsbury Today

KINGSBURY, June 10.—Five business establishments were destroyed by fire with total damage estimated at $65,000 here early today.

The flames originated in the brick building occupied by the First National bank, which was gutted. The brick building housing the Kingsbury Drug company next door was also destroyed, while the frame mercantile establishment of J. A. Lynch and company and two frame garages were total losses.

Less than half the loss was covered by insurance.

Fire fighting equipment from Luling and Seguin came here, but could do little because of the lack of water connections.

DOMESTIC AND STATE ISSUES BEFORE CAROL

BUCHAREST, June 10.—Problems of political and domestic harmony confronted King Carol II today as he attempted to give Roumania the prestige of internal unity, and go gain for himself a Queen.

Princess Helen's refusal so far to take back as husband the man who abandoned her for an auburn-haired commoner, threatened to send Carol to his October coronation without a Queen to share the throne. What was perhaps, worse, was the possibility that Michael, from whose small brow Carol lifted the Roumanian crown might lack the guidance of a mother in his education to the sovereignty at a later date.

Of even greater importance to Roumania's welfare was the renewed threat of political dissension, coming from leaders of the liberal party, which has consistently opposed Carol's return, and

INDUSTRIAL TEXAS

More and more, Texas editors provide proof that the state is becoming industrial minded.

It is the logical and natural result of facts which are reported in and emphasized by the 1930 census. Especially significant, however, are the industrial surveys, whether or not they be called by that name, which are featured in practically every Texas newspaper.

Texas editors are uncovering industrial opportunities and exposing them to the world. They are painting attractive pictures of prosperous Texas industries. In one way or another, they are all insisting upon the superior industrial advantages which are concentrated within the Lone Star Empire.

Bearing in mind the fact that editors faithfully reflect the state of public mind, no man need be a prophet to read the handwriting on the wall.

The new Texas will be an industrial Texas, with flourishing industries located in a thousand thriving villages and cities. Payrolls will contribute to happiness and contentment.

Towns and cities which desire to play a part in the future picture of prosperity and contentment, must begin now to look to their industrial opportunities. For the price of progress is eternal watchfulness.

Did You Ever Stop to Think?

By EDSON R. WAITE
Shawnee, Oklahoma.

William McIntosh, publisher of the San Antonio (Texas) Light, says:

That it is generally conceded that there is no such thing as an independent man or woman. Men of great wealth are dependent upon others for their comforts and safety. Men of humble circumstances are dependent upon men of wealth for the means of employment. All of us, in countless ways, are interdependent upon each other for our very lives and happiness. That being true, the more we cooperate one with the other, the better will we make our material existence and the happier will our spiritual lives.

Others serve us and we serve others. For all the necessities of our lives, men and women unseen and unknown, have direct participation in our daily existence just as we participate in their lives although they too are unaware of the fact that we serve them. The greatest thing in life is to produce a smile. It will travel far. A smiling face and cheerful mien spread a happy contagion that makes life easier and better. The true spirit of cooperation is what builds cities, develops communities, relieves misery and suffering and sustains the nation.

Wise as we will or not, each of us must by the very force of things, cooperate to some extent with our fellows. When we render this cooperation in fullest measure, intelligently and cheerfully, we contribute our just share to the debt of humanity and do our tiny bit in the upbuilding of civilization.

Curtailed Market for Oil Belt Gas Is Threat

MEETING ON ISSUE HELD AT RANGER

Fort Worth Action Is Seen as Threat to This Section

Many millions of feet of gas that are produced in the Oil Belt will be without a market if Fort Worth carries through a plan to obtain a municipal supply of gas from Oklahoma or Amarillo, declared representative citizens who attended a meeting last night at the Ranger chamber of commerce offices.

Cisco and Breckenridge as well as Ranger were represented and Eastland citizens had previously indicated their support of the meeting though no one could attend from that city. J. E. Spencer, secretary of the chamber of commerce, and J. C. Collins, attended from here.

The sale of gas is vital to Cisco, Ranger, Eastland, Breckenridge, Strawn, Desdemona, Rising Star, Albany and other cities of this section, declared John M. Gholson of Ranger, and will be of increasing importance to Cisco as the field to the north of here is developed.

Many wells are producing a small amount of oil and the sale of the gas represents the margin of profit. Destroy the market for the gas and many wells would have to be plugged, which would of course be detrimental to operators, workers and royalty owners. The sale of residue gas is also of great importance to the natural gasoline industry.

This section has built Fort Worth, it was pointed out, and any move by Fort Worth that would cripple the prosperity of this section would react to the disadvantage of Fort Worth. It was agreed that Fort Worth business men probably had not considered the matter from the standpoint of the welfare of its trade territory and that when the matter was submitted to them in this light, they could be counted on not to take action adverse to the interests of these counties.

Mr. Spencer and Mr. Collins, as well as Otto Peters and H. E. DeLane of Breckenridge spoke. W. D. Conway, chairman of the Ranger chamber of commerce, launched the discussion by telling of letters that had already been written by the C. of C. The various towns will act as they deem best, each apprising the movement can be kept going others of the action taken so that forward until success is attained.

To the right of Mrs. Williamson is Captain George Fried, of rescue fame. Mrs. Nicholas Norman Neck, chairman, Gold Star Mothers' Committee; General Charles P. Summerall, chief of staff, and Mrs. Virgil McElure, national president, American War Mothers. Inset shows Gold Star Medal.

Every gold star mother and widow going abroad as a guest of the United States Government on the pilgrimage to visit the grave of her son, is being presented with a gold star medal and an engraved certificate which she can always treasure as a souvenir of this sacred journey. These mothers will continue to go abroad on American ships this year until the latter part of August, returning as late as the latter part of October.

The gold star medals are being presented to the mothers by Paul W. Chapman, president of the United States Lines. The initial presentation was made at the official and final farewell given these mothers when the first contingent sailed aboard the America, in command of Captain George Fried, of rescue fame.

The medal, designed and made by Tiffany, is accompanied by the certificate with the name of the recipient inscribed. Each one bears inscriptions by President Hoover, President Doumergue of France and General Pershing. The inscription by President Hoover is as follows: "To the patriotic mothers who gave their sons, to the many other loyal women who lost those dear to them for their country's sake... we owe a deep debt of gratitude."

President Doumergue's tribute is: "On the occasion of the contemplated pilgrimage of the Gold Star Mothers of America to the places where their heroic sons rest, I take the opportunity of addressing to them in the name of all France, a message of respectful understanding and of cordial welcome."

General Pershing says: "We silently bow our heads in sympathy with the mothers and widows whose willing gift to the nation was more precious than life itself."

The certificate also carries a photograph of both sides of the medal and has inscribed, below the name of the Gold Star Mother: "In memory of the supreme sacrifice we have the honor to present to you this star medallion symbolizing your pilgrimage to the battlefields of the world war."

During this year 4,000 Gold Star Mothers are expected to make the pilgrimage which continues in 1931 and 1932. They will all be transported aboard American ships to and from Europe.

Backswing From Personal Issues of 2 Years Ago Brings Economic Questions to Fore

By RAMOND WOODS

The deepest cleavage in public affairs this year for the first time seems to be between issues that are economic and issues that are political.

This year's developments in campaign events and the interpretation of the law by courts even threaten to abolish the division in state affairs between republican and democratic parties.

There are 15 candidates to be on the ballot for governor but with the complex, conflicting and intricate cross-pattern of public issues, political and economic, the prevalence of candidates may well be understood.

There aren't enough candidates to go around when the major divisions or issues are considered.

The upgrowth of economic issues is marked this year. It comes apparently as a swing-back from the personal political controversies of two years ago, and as a protest against the dominance of prejudices in the shaping of governmental affairs. Particularly when such prejudices obscure serious needs of the state and its people.

The set of economic issues which have come to the front may be bracketed as including, among others:

Highway financing. Tax policies, including income tax; occupation, receipts, production and wealth taxes, severance taxes; the shifting of present property taxes to productive sources rather than to non-productive sources.

Reform of prison affairs from the financial side to obviate losses and instill business methods in the administration.

Financial policy condemning schools and eleemosynary institutions; this including the manufacture by the state of supplies; the adequate financing of buildings.

The question of big corporations influence in legislative matters; lobbies and the election of lobbyists to membership in the legislature.

General Issue. The general issue of "business in government."

Set off against those who advocate specific phases of the economic bracket, or who represent all or several of the particular issues, may be considered a corresponding observe group. None of the reforms or improvements is without opposition. None will be more strongly contested than the shifting of taxes to sources better able to meet the drain.

This economic question sets up a whole series of issues and counter-issues.

Next, perhaps, in importance, and clearly transcending the arbitrary and crumbling division of republican or democratic fealty, is the confluence of issues over the prohibition question and the personality involved.

That this issue is more important than the arbitrary political labels may be shown by the fact that this year it promises to send some democratic-labeled individuals

The significant thing, this year, apparently, is the rise of the economic aspects of government, forced upon reluctant, uncomprehending politicians of the old school.

Perhaps the most significant thing of the next several years will be the accession and dominance of the state government by these same issues of which this year is a turning point, its developments, small in themselves, of incalculable importance because germinal of all the transition and achievements of future years.

Fast Gulf Nine Comes to Cisco for Game Next S

TWO STRONG TEAMS PLAY AT 3 P. M.

Legion Team Cancels Game Slated For Hamlin

Baseball fans of Cisco will be treated Sunday afternoon to a diamond meal of rare flavor when the powerful Gulf team of Breckenridge invades Chesley field to clash with the equally powerful Cisco American Legion nine at 3 p. m. The local boys had previously scheduled a game with Hamlin at Hamlin but this was called off when the opportunity to bring to Breckenridge crew here presented itself.

The Gulf nine has been sweeping things baseball ruthlessly before it this season and presents one of the strongest amateur lineups that this section has seen in years.

The American Legion team, however, has gradually built itself into a strong organization boasting an infield that is as fast as they made made 'em in the amateurs. This combination of Stone, Hill, Stewart and Miller functions with a snap, speed and accuracy that reminds one of the work of a professional club.

Thus far this season the Legion nine has lost but one game. Since that time its ranks have been strengthened by the addition of new talent so that a far stronger and more effective combination exists now than when the club was first organized.

WICHITA NINE DROPS GAME TO INDIANS

The seventh place San Antonio Indians today boasted a 6 to 4 victory over the Wichita Falls Spiders in the opening game of their tripe series Monday. The Indians staged a three-run rally in the seventh inning and scored one run in the eighth and ninth frames to win over the league leaders.

Houston and Fort Worth split a double header, 3 to 5 and 6 to 3. In the first game the Cats drove Floyd Rose off the mound with a rally in the eighth. Houston, however, came back to bunch their hits and win the nightcap.

Waco defeated Dallas, 6 to 4, by scoring two runs in the first inning and then taking advantage of the Steers' errors to score two more in the seventh.

Bunching their safeties, Shreveport defeated Beaumont, 10 to 9. Games today:

Waco at Dallas.
Houston at Fort Worth.
San Antonio at Wichita Falls.
Beaumont at Shreveport.

BAD FIX AFTER LONG SICKNESS

Cardui Proved Helpful to Lady In Her Effort To Recover Lost Strength.

Muskogee, Okla.—"About a year ago I began taking Cardui," writes Miss Myrtle Blake, of 202 1/2 S. Cherokee Avenue, this city. "I had been sick all the winter before. I was feeling bad. I was in bed for three weeks.

"I had the headache all the time, and couldn't keep anything on my stomach. I lost weight until I looked like a shadow of myself.

"I tried a good many things, but nothing seemed to help me. I kept going down and losing strength.

"My mother had known about Cardui for some time and had me take it. After three weeks of this treatment I began to feel better. I was improving so much, I kept taking it. After three weeks I began gaining in weight.

"I looked and felt much better. I feel so much better this year, and look like a different person.

"I took the Cardui Home Treatment for several months and can recommend it.

Cardui is a reconstructive tonic, of genuine medicinal value.

Over $700,000 Gate Predicted for Match

NEW YORK, June 10.—Pugilism's "million dollar gate" passed out of existence with the retirement of Jack Dempsey, but promoters of Thursday's world heavyweight championship contest between Jack Sharkey and Max Schmeling believe the bout will draw between $700,000 and $750,000 and establish a record for bouts in which Dempsey has no part.

The five record gates in prize history were made with Dempsey in one of the corners, receipts being as follows:

1927—Dempsey vs. Timney (second bout) $2,657,660.

1926—Dempsey vs. Tunney $2,000,000.

1921—Dempsey vs. Carpentier $1,626,580.

1923—Dempsey vs. Firpo $1,118,000.

1927—Dempsey vs. Sharkey $1,033,529.

Garden officials—Always optimistic in their predictions—have estimates of Thursday's receipts on the advance sale and reservations, which exceed $500,000.

Sharkey Plans to End Training Today

ORANGEBURG, N. Y., June 10.—Jack Sharkey planned to complete his training with a four round ring workout today, but will remain at Gus Wilson's camp until Thursday morning, arriving in New York just before the weighing in ceremonies.

ENDICOTT, N. Y., June 10.—Max Schmeling has cancelled plans to fly to New York for his fight with Jack Sharkey Thursday, and will leave by train Wednesday afternoon spending the night before the fight at the home of a friend in New York.

Eastland Loses Match to Albany

EASTLAND, June 10.—Eastland lost to Albany in the 8th match of the Oil Belt Golf association played in Albany Sunday afternoon by a score of 10 to 6. The Eastland club now has a percentage of 375, having won three and lost five of the eight matches played.

Sam Connor, of the Eastland club, is the only member who has a perfect score, having won each of the eight matches in which he has played.

Only two others in the association, Raymond Tollett and Jake Langford, both of Albany, have a similar record, every other member in the association having lost one or more of the matches in which they have played.

France Davis Cup Opponent Uncertain

With European zone competition advanced to the semi-final round and the United States squad on hand to meet the survivor in the inter-zone finals, France's opponent in the Davis cup challenge round is more uncertain than at any time in the past decade.

If "Big Bill" Tilden is available for play the United States will be a favorite to defeat the Japanese.

Paris, July 18-20, but if Tilden stands by his retirement from Davis cup play America may fail to reach the challenge round for the first time since the world war.

French hopes of retaining the cup improved yesterday with Jean Borotra's surprising 5-set victory over Henri Cochet, French star who is recognized as the world's greatest singles player.

The American team arrived in Europe yesterday, Wilmer Allison and John Van Ryn going to Paris, while the remainder of the team proceeded to London to play in the London and Wimbledon championships.

Stribling Begins Grind for Porat

CHICAGO, June 10.—W. L. "Young" Stribling, the Georgia peach, began training here today for a fight next Monday night in which he intends to ruin the heavyweight championship aspirations of Otto Van Porat.

W. L. came here in perfect physical condition and he is confident that he can defeat the Norwegian, who is famed as a puncher who never has beaten anybody of any consequence.

PRONOUNCED SUCCESS

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 10.—Night baseball was pronounced a success today by the Indianapolis American association club after 7,500 persons attended the first game ever played here under floodlights last night. St. Paul won the game, 3 to 1.

HOOKS AND SLIDES Henry L. Farrell

The Mills of the I. A. A. F. Grind Slowly Indeed

FRANK WYKOFF ran 100 yards in 9.4 the other day, and sometime in the next few years you may be reminded of the fact by the acceptance of his performance as a world record by the International Amateur Athletic Federation. Meanwhile, the world record of Eddie Tolan, Michigan's negro sprinter, stands on the books and 9.5 is supposed to be the shortest time in which a human being can travel 100 yards on his own power.

I used to wonder why a mark made so quickly took so long in traveling to the record books. But I have cut it out. The I. A. A. F. has tried to sacrifice speed in these matters to the interests of accuracy—and hasn't succeeded in even that. Why waste time with such people?

Beating the Champion

TOLAN is on the record books as the world champion in the 100-yard dash, yet this year he has taken a dusting nearly every time he has entered competition. Cy Leland, the Texan, beat him at the Kansas and Drake Relays. George Simpson, defeated the Michigan sprinter at the Ohio Relays and twice at the Big Ten meet in Chicago.

There is a chance for the question of sprinting supremacy to be settled once and for all at the National Collegiate track and field meet in Chicago June 6 and 7. Here Simpson, Tolan, Wykoff, Bracey, Leland and Meier will run it out. George Simpson, who has won eight races out of eight starts this year, will be the favorite. If Tolan or any of the others can beat George, the airy title of "fastest human" should be his.

For My Money

MOST of the young men who sprint, hurdle or vault are simply young men in college, and furnish no very colorful job of copy to the reporters. They run their races, a few of their names linger on for several years, another young man in college breaks their record and there they are forgotten. But there is one lad many of the reporters who have covered track meets will never forget. He was my favorite because he was a fighter, and in any argument among the boys in the back room upon the subject of great sprint-

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

MICKEY COCHRANE paid $150 for a suit the other day.

In Boston is a ferocious young man whose chief desire is to pound one of his fellow townsmen to a pulp. The ferocious young man is Ernie Schaaf and his fellow townsman is Jack Sharkey. When Schaaf was a young gob aboard the U. S. S. Denver, Sharkey almost ruined him in a bout.

So Ernie took up ring sport in earnest after that, with the sole idea of some day repaying the Sharkey man for that lacing.

I only hope that stiff doesn't get knocked off before I get up to where I can get him," says Ernie, smiling. Schaaf, by the way, was the model for the prizefighter atop the Muldoon-Tunney trophy. Bobby Jones uses 14 clubs: driver, brassie, two spoons, driving iron, mid-iron, mid-mashie, mashie-iron, mashie, driving mashie, mashie-spadie, mashie-niblick, niblick and putter.

ers. I always have insisted that this chap was the greatest. His name is Percy Williams.

Rheumatic fever made an invalid of Percy Williams when he was a boy 15 years old. Doctors pronounced his heart leaky and advised him never to run for a street car. He was a frail youth, with an Adam's Apple as big as a Baldwin in his thin neck. He weighed about 110 pounds. A couple of years before he ran in the Olympics of 1928 he fell from a shed and broke a leg.

But at Amsterdam, the world's greatest sprinters followed him down the 100 and 200-meter path. He went on later to beat Tolan at 10 yards in 4.2-5 seconds; to beat Jack Elder at 45 yards in 14-5; to tie a world record at 60 yards in the Canadian championships at 6.1-5; to beat Wykoff, Bracey and Tolan last year at Vancouver in 100 yards at 9.3-5.

They say the outdoor life saved Williams' life after the doctors had given him up. A different word seems more expressive. That word is courage.

LOOP LEADING ROBINS PLAY LOWLY REDS

By United Press. The Brooklyn Robins, having gained a three game lead in the National league pennant race, today hoped to increase their advantage at the expense of the last place Cincinnati Reds.

All of the National league teams shifted opponents today, the second place Cubs moving to Philadelphia; St. Louis invading Boston and Pittsburgh opening a 4-game series with the New York Giants. All National league clubs were idle yesterday because of rain and wet grounds.

The Philadelphia Athletics increased their American league lead to three games yesterday, defeating Chicago, 3 to 2, while Washington was losing to Cleveland, and hoped to better their position by winning the finale of the 4-game series with the Sox today.

Walter Miller, who was knocked from the box in his first victory of the year to give Cleveland a 5 to 4 triumph over Washington.

Washington scored in the first half of the eighth to break a 3 and 3 tie, but the Indians came back with two runs in their half and won the game, 5 to 4.

Poston came from behind with a 5 run rally in the seventh and beat the Detroit Tigers, 7 to 6.

The New York Yankees pounded General Crowder and Chad Kinsy for 7 runs in the first three innings and Charlie came through to an 8 to 5 victory.

Dallas Hopeful of Getting Alexander

DALLAS, June 10.—Management of the Dallas Texas League Baseball club who have frantically combed the United States for talent to bolster the slipping Steers was optimistic today of drawing an ace shortly.

Bob Tarleton, business manager, said he had wired Grover Cleveland Alexander, Major league ace for 19 years and one of the all-time big three of baseball, and had received a reply indicating that the old master was interested. He was recently released by the Philadelphia Nationals.

"I'm willing to go a long way for him," said Tarleton, "and if he comes here he'll probably have the distinction of being the highest salaried pitcher in the Texas league's history."

Second Hunter

By RUTH DEWEY GROVES

doubting me even with my abominable behavior to influence him." Her aunt nodded. "I see you've made up your mind," she said understandingly. "Well, I wouldn't undertake to advise you anyway, but you want to be sure when you tackle a new job, that you know the size of it, Natalie dear." "I've thought of it night and day," Natalie told her. "If Alan won't believe me—he won't, but he might forgive me if he thought I deserved it, and I've thought of a way to atone for the crime I didn't commit. I'm going to tell him that I want to bring up Bernadine Lamont's son as my own." Aunt Emma was perturbed. "But, my dear, just to make up a quarrel..." "I want to do it!" Natalie exclaimed. "I may be blaming myself for too much wrong, but I've a feeling that if I hadn't been so unreasonably jealous of Alan, all this would never have happened." "Perhaps not all of it," Aunt Emma agreed. "But you couldn't have stopped the boy's mother from dying, you know."

"No, but it wouldn't have left Alan responsible for him. And I'm sure he feels that he is." "Maybe you're right," Aunt Emma said, with a relaxing sigh. And then: "Dear me, I hope it all turns out all right."

"It will," Natalie assured her brightly. She had found it a great encouragement to have made up her mind. "But if Alan should be... stubborn," she added gravely. "I'll do what I can for the little boy just the same."

Her aunt came and kissed her tenderly. "You're a good woman, Natalie," she said softly. "You ought to have children of your own."

Natalie smiled back at her. "Come and help me pack," she said breathlessly.

That afternoon Natalie arrived in New York, and sent word to Alan from a hotel that she wished urgently to see him.

He was inclined to refuse, but as the hour he had set drew near, he found himself going to her. And this being somewhat against his will, he justified himself by a decision to be unbending with her.

It was a quiet place Natalie had chosen, and they easily found a deserted reception room where they could talk undisturbed.

A great deal of Natalie's high courage fled with the first sight of Alan's forbidding countenance. And he immediately made it plain that he had no disposition to talk to her.

She found herself rather haltingly telling him what she had come to say. And how different it sounded from the way she had meant to put it. He would believe she was admitting guilt if she continued in this way, a cooler portion of her brain warned her. Still she kept on, and the quieter Alan sat, the more penetratingly he looked at her, the more she floundered.

What a sorry mess she was making of it. She could have cried with humiliation. For Alan's mouth was beginning to twist into a sneer.

And he had expected it to give him a fierce satisfaction. For it had angered him that she had gone to the end in arrogance—her letter, it had infuriated him. She had seemed to have not a touch of meanness, not a trace of regret for what she had done. Haughty, disdainful. He had wished the time would come when he could humble her.

And now it was here. And he was going to show her what a miserable mistake she'd made about Bernadine. What a fool she'd been. Oh yes, he was going to do it—but he knew he was going to be cheated out of his anticipated gratification. Her beauty would do that to him. His eyes were feasting on it. He knew it. "But it isn't love," he denied hotly.

His face revealed his conflicting emotions. Natalie thought the rush of red to his face—that a moment before had been white—was caused by anger.

She caught her underlip, and held it sharply between her teeth. For one wild moment she was tempted to declare her innocence and beg him to believe her.

He must hate to have her think he was weak enough to take her back, she told herself, trying to restrain his changing expressions. All appeals would be useless. Still she felt she must convince him that she was sincere in her desire to have little Bobby Lamont as her own.

She made a heroic effort to speak calmly. "You know, Alan," she said, and her voice broke in spite of her. "whatever you may think of me, that I would make an intelligent mother."

He surprised her by nodding in agreement. In his present mood, she had thought he might take issue with her even on that point.

Her instant of elation vanished, as a sarcastic curl of his lips followed the nod. "Yes, I know that," he said witheringly. "But you should have had children of your own. For you cannot have Bobby Lamont. I am going to adopt him, and when you are granted your divorce decree, I'll marry the girl who is to be his mother."

WOMEN GUIDES ARE ORGANIZED BY COMMISSION

By JOHN WHITE

United Press Staff Correspondent
PARIS, June 10.—The lonely American tourist who once rented a "guide" to show him the works and woke up the next morning with a mild form of neuralgia and nothing but his underwear to fend off the chill, may now return in peace. The high commissioner of Tourism has taken over the guide business, hiring a bevy of home girls who wouldn't harm a fly to take the visiting firemen over the jumps in Montmartre, Montparnasse and elsewhere.

It is distinctly given to understand that young women need not apply for part time work at this new trade unless they are willing to promise to keep their hands off of their escorts' billfolds and the preliminary announcement of the bureau makes it plain that intelligent, serious-minded girls will be given the preference in case of a tie.

The wages scale from 50 francs for a quiet afternoon tramping around the parks and museums and poking into old doorways to 100 francs for a real night of good clean fun at the bars and music halls. Naturally the escort pays all the bills, but the assumption is that the girls will be able to steer the strangers clear of the usual tourist gouges, such as fake ushers in the lobbies of theatres, fake supplements on the bills and so on, not to mention the agility with which a native is also to calculate a stack of saucers.

One more promise is exacted of the applicant: She must, in the event some romantic soul insists on winding up a 24 hour cross country by stopping in the rue de la Paix and buying his benefactress a nice fur coat, repulse the gentleman. There is a ritual to be learned in this connection—something like "Oh sir, you misjudge the Frenchwoman."

Later on, if the plan works, young men may be hired to assist the lonely and fair tourist, although the high commissioner admits that this departure has its obvious pitfalls.

FORD STUDENTS EARN EXPENSES DURING SCHOOL

DETROIT, June 10.—Henry Ford's trade schools were organized from a humanitarian viewpoint to give the orphaned or fatherless boy a "useful, wage-commanding skill" which will make him a self-supporting citizen and not a burden on his parents.

Speaking before the delegates to the Boys' Club Federation of America convention here, Cameron described how 2,000 students now enrolled in the school are being trained by 300 instructors even as apprentices in the days of the Renaissance were taught by skilled masters.

Time in trade schools is divided between book work and practical shop work, he said. "Products of the shop work of the boys are purchased by the company but must be up to the standards required by engineers." This is in line with one of the motor magnate's favorite theories of education, he added.

Cameron outlined the fundamentals on which schools are built: "Education should fit a boy for a place in the world. Work is an indispensable element in education. Educational work should be self-sustaining. Leadership should be developed along with craftsmanship."

Cameron explained that purchase of the products built in the school shops enables the schools to be self-supporting and make it possible for the students to earn a living wage while they study their professions. Since 1916 the company has purchased about 10,000,000 worth of products from the schools, he added.

"But this does not fully satisfy" Cameron continued. "Ford desires to do more than make competent mechanics. He desires to create conditions in which the elements of leadership may be discovered and developed."

"The Edison Institute of Technology, in connection with the historical village of Greenfield and the great museum, constitute the apparatus of the new expansion of our educational movement. Add to the institute the museum where all Ford collections will be housed with their wealth of informative and suggestive material and you will appreciate the type of inspiration which has been provided for the purpose of bringing any nascent or dormant faculty of leadership into active growth."

HAD SUFFERED TWENTY YEARS

"My Daughter Says She Now Feels Like a New Woman Since Taking Argotane," Says Cisco Mother.

"Two months ago when my daughter first started taking Argotane, no one could have told her she would have received the wonderful results which she has and when I say she has found her troubles are gone I feel like shouting for joy," said Mrs. S. V. Parrish, mother of Mrs. Eva Davis, residing at 251 E. Eighteenth St., Cisco, Texas, a few days ago.

"For more than twenty years," continued Mrs. Parrish, "my daughter had been suffering from stomach trouble and no one knows the suffering and worry she had to endure. Her appetite was very poor, indigestion bothered her all the time, and the hurting in her back was something awful. About two months ago, she was told about Argotane and although she had failed to get relief from anything else she decided to try it.

"Surely no poor woman ever suffered much more than she did and nobody could be more grateful for anything than I am for what Argotane has done for her. It has acted more like a miracle than a medicine with her and brought her the first real relief she has had in twenty long years. She has only taken three bottles so far, and has actually gained several pounds in weight, but the best of it all is, she feels like a new woman. Her complexion is clearing up and the indigestion pains have all disappeared, and anybody who knows the dreadful condition she was in, can see the wonderful change Argotane has made in her. Those stomach and back pains don't bother her like they did, her pain and misery is all gone. She sleeps like a child every night, and gets up in the morning feeling rested. I was almost distracted, over her condition before she took Argotane, but now I feel better over her than I have in many years and I hardly know how to express the joy I really feel over her wonderful relief. We gladly recommend Argotane, to all suffering women, because I honestly believe from what it has done for my daughter, that it is the best medicine that has ever been made."

Genuine Argotane may be bought in Cisco at the Dean Drug Store—Adv.

WICKERSHAM IN CENTER OF CONTROVERSY

BOSTON, June 10.—George W. Wickersham, chairman of President Hoover's law enforcement commission, became a central figure in the bitter wet-dry controversy today through his criticism of America's prohibition system.

Wickersham's attitude was revealed unexpectedly last night in a speech before 5,000 social workers attending a national conference here.

Although he did not espouse the wet cause, Wickersham indicated he believed the present prohibition laws in the United States were too harsh and that they had failed of their objective because they had stressed punishment rather than the education of the country to the idea of temperance.

"The penalties," he said in referring to the provisions of the Jones "Five-and-Ten" act, "are in the nature of vengeful reprisals upon those who question the wisdom of the legislation."

"Naturally, in this connection one thinks of the national prohibition law. One thing is perfectly obvious, and that is, that from the enactment of the Volstead act down to the present time, reliance upon carrying out the purpose of the amendment was placed upon the power of the government to compel by imposition of penalties of fine and imprisonment the general observance of the statute law."

This method, Wickersham said, reached its peak in the Jones law enacted in March, 1929, which in effect made every violation of the prohibition laws, with the exception of illegal possession and maintenance of a nuisance, a felony, he said.

"No process of education or attempted education of the public into the volume of prohibition to accomplish the maximum of temperance in the community was attempted during all this period," Wickersham continued.

Wickersham contrasted the use of force with the methods used in England. He said testimony given before the royal commission on licensing showed progressive decrease in drunkenness since the pre-war period, and ascribed it mainly to the general process of education the public to the evils of excessive drinking.

$40,000 Rewards Offered for Information in Murder of Reporter by Gangsters

CHICAGO, June 10.—Pat Roche, state's attorney's investigator, and Lieut. William Cusack of the Chicago police department announced today that they know the murderer of Albert Lingle, Chicago Tribune reporter, who was assassinated yesterday while en route to Washington park race track.

Roche and Cusack refused to reveal the name of the slayer. Roche said the killer was an ex-convict with several prison terms in his record. Cusack said detective squads were searching all haunts where the murderer had been known to stay.

CHICAGO, June 10.—Gangland had roused against it today every agency of the law-city, state and federal—as search was made for the slayer of Alfred L. Lingle, Chicago Tribune reporter, shot to death yesterday afternoon in a crowded subway.

Rewards totalling $40,000 for information leading to the conviction of the slayer or slayers of the reporter, who worked 18 years for the Tribune covering the underworld. Of this amount the Tribune offered $25,000, the Chicago Evening Post $5,000 and the Chicago Press club $10,000.

As many as six gangsters were believed to have participated in the murder. Witnesses told of seeing three men motioning at Lingle as he entered the subway and three others near him when he was slain.

Police admitted they were without a definite motive for the murder and the mystery of the slaying was further complicated by the mystery that surrounded Lingle's life.

Soon after he was shot a general roundup of possible suspects started and in the first drive Dominick Aiello, reported sharpshooter of the notorious Aiello gang of alcohol cooks, was taken into custody. Two .45 caliber revolvers and a shotgun, all of the weapons loaded, were found in his apartment.

Next Arrested
The next arrested was John J. "Boss" McLaughlin, former member of the legislature who was reported to have threatened Lingle because the reporter assertedly interfered in his attempts to open gambling resorts, according to Patrick Roche, chief of state's attorney's detectives.

Lingle was on his way to take a train for the Washington Park race track when he was shot down. His assailant, close behind him, fired a single bullet from a short-barreled .38 caliber revolver and the reporter fell forward, shot through the head.

Two of the witnesses to the shooting positively identified Sam Hunt, Capone gangster, as the man who killed Lingle. The names of the witnesses were withheld.

Lingle was known to have been acquainted intimately with "Scarface" Al Capone, gang chieftain, and was one of the few men who Capone trusted.

The degree to which Capone had confidence in Lingle was illustrated when "Scarface" Al refused when he was being held in jail during the investigation of the murder of Assistant State's Attorney William McSwiggen to allow anyone but Lingle to bring him food, for fear he would be poisoned.

Friendship Lessened
The friendship between the reporter and Capone, who at one time gave Lingle a diamond-studded belt buckle, was known to have lessened after the gangster was released from the Pennsylvania state penitentiary some months ago.

A score of witnesses were under subpoena today for the coroner's inquest into Lingle's death.

The gun used in the murder was turned over to Calvin G. dard, in the scientific crime detection bureau, in the hope that it would furnish a clue to the identity of the slayer. The numbers had been filed from the weapon, it was discovered, and it bore no finger prints, since the slayer wore silk gloves which later were found.

Lingle, who was 38 years old, married and the father of two children, was widely known among Chicago newspaper men as "Jake."

Born and reared on the west side, where gangsters' haunts are numerous, he became a reporter for the Tribune after several years of playing professional baseball.

He acquired sufficient wealth to permit his retirement, but continued with the Tribune because "he loved his work," it was said today in the Tribune. The paper attributed his financial independence to his friendship with Arthur Cutten, wealthy grain trader, whose investment advice was freely given Lingle.

During remoulding of the lines, the following developments also were noted:

1. Senator Borah, Repn. Ida, leader of the coalition opposition to the measure declared he would not consent to fixing a time for a final vote by agreement, although he expected the vote would be reached Friday.

2. Senator Robinson, Democratic floor leader, denied charges that sufficient Democratic votes would be given to the Republicans to pass the bill. "No Democratic vote that I am able to influence will be cast for this measure," Robinson said.

3. Doubts about the position of Senator Metcalf, Repn. R. L. were set at rest when Metcalf told the United Press he would vote for the bill, believing it contained some improvements over present law.

4. An influential cabinet member was reported in senatorial circles to have misgivings about the legislation, though not intending to oppose its signature by President Hoover, it was said.
