NOBODY'S BUSINESS

BY JULIAN CAPERS JR.

Austin.—A determined drive to end a cruel and profitable "racket" by which Texas citizens are robbed of thousands of dollars annually, will be inaugurated when the legislature meets again in regular session next January. The scheme involves the operation of a certain type of statewide mutual assessment life insurance company. Operating under charters which antedate the state insurance regulatory laws, these companies are subject only to the most nominal regulation by the state insurance department. Many, of course, are honestly managed, but unscrupulous operators have acquired control of a number of these concerns, and it is entirely possible for them to stay within the existing laws and at the same time loot the companies, rob the policyholders and escape punishment. The average citizen has no way of discriminating between a company that is honestly managed and one that isn't.

These dishonest operators have even perfected a scheme of wrecking hte companies, going into receivership, and thus wiping out the pending claims, then buying back the remaining business, and robbing the policyholders all over again. They swap and trade the companies about at will. One policyholder recently complained to the insurance department that he took out a policy in one of these concerns, and was traded and sold into six other companies within two years.

HOW IT WORKS

The plan of operation, when one of the racketeer gang gets control of one of these charters, is to appoint a flock of agents all over the state, pay them high commissions, and urge them to write any risk they can collect a premium from. Aged persons, and persons suffering from serious diseases are especially sought after, because they buy eagerly, being unable to get insurance from a reputable concern. The racketeers require no examination, merely asking the applicant to sign a statement that he or she is in good health. If the applicant dies, the company contests the claim on the grounds of misstatement of fact regarding health. Claims are allowed to pile up, and the racketeers meanwhile collect high premiums from the aged person still on their books. Finally, when claimants begin to complain to the insurance department, or when periodic examination of the books reveal the company is insolvent, the department brings a receivership suit and forfeits the charter. It has been the practice in the past for an associate of the original operator of such a bankrupt company to buy in the business remaining on the books, and put it into another similar company. The claimants, of course, get little or nothing.

DANIEL ON WARPATH

But Judge R. L. Daniel, chairman of the board of insurance commissioners, has put a stop to this part of the game. He has obtained a pretty definite idea of the identity of the racketeer ring, and by co-operating with the attorney general, he is preventing the sale of the business of bankrupt companies back to members of the gang. And he is refusing to approve permits for the racketeers when they seek to form new companies.

Friends of the insurance department in the legislature are planning to offer legislation next session that will give the insurance department rigid control of these companies, and prevent the robbery of policyholders, who in most cases are poor persons. Negroes, and aged persons unable to obtain insurance from legitimate sources.

27 Boys Out For Football Practice

Coach Newby Pratt is elated this week over the addition of twelve men to his football squad since school opened Monday which gives him a total of twenty-seven men. He said Tuesday that the boys looked pretty good in practice but he is not setting his pegs too high. The Bulldogs have an unusually hard schedule this fall with six conference games ahead of them. Two practice games have already been secured and Coach Pratt is wanting a third game to be played here on Thanksgiving Day. The first practice game is to be with Post at Post on Friday night, September 18. The second game will be with Coahoma on September 25, in Loraine.

The conference schedule follows: October 2, Colorado at Colorado (night); October 9, Roby at Loraine; October 23, Snyder at Snyder (night); October 30, Rotan at Rotan (night); November 6, Roscoe at Roscoe; November 30, Merkel at Merkel.

FAMILY REUNION

The children of W. S. Thomas met in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Thomas Sunday for a reunion. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Elliott and children of San Angelo, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Inman of Lubbock, Mr. and Mrs. Will Herrington and children of Idalou, Mrs. Boyd House of Big Spring, Willie Thomas of Lubbock, and Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Thomas and Ronel of Loraine. After an elaborate dinner the afternoon was spent in talking.

PREFERENTIAL PRIMARY OUT

The selective or preferential primary system, where a voter registers a first, second, and sometimes a third choice in the field of candidates for each office, has proved unsatisfactory in many states where it has been tried out, according to a study made by University of Texas government professors at the request of Gov. Allred. As a result, a number of these states have gone back to the first and second primary system, as used in Texas. The governor, therefore, has announced he will not seek to change the primary system at this time, but will content himself with asking the legislature to make other less important corrective changes in the Terrell election law.

ALLRED BLASTS LANDON

Taking the field to aid the Roosevelt-Garner ticket in the national campaign, Gov. Allred this week-end journeyed to Oklahoma, addressed a Young Democrats' convention, charactered Gov. Alf Landon as a "sport model, stream-lined Hoover," and told of Landon's advocacy of a "dictatorship" for the oil business a couple of years ago. He lauded the Roosevelt record of achievement, rapped Landon's economy during depression days, made plans for other addresses in doubtful states later.

SPECIAL SESSION

Those who believe a special session will be held point to Old Age Pension Director Orville S. Carpenter's statement that pension payments can be made out of current available funds until Jan. 1 only, as a certain indication of a session. They point out tax legislation at the regular session will take four months to pass, three more months to become effective, and declare pension payments would have to be suspended from January to August without it. Pensioners have passed the 70,000 mark, and many think it will total 120,000 when all eligibles are approved. Sept. 21 and Sept. 28 are convening dates for the special session that guessers here are suggesting.

Cotton Crop Reported Low

Drouth damage to this year's cotton crop, reflected in an official government estimate of 11,121,000 bale production Tuesday sent prices for the staple soaring.

Dry weather in the western end of the cotton belt caused the federal crop reporting board to reduce its forecast of this season's yield 1,360,000 bales below its August 1 estimate.

The estimate for this year, however, was still above the short crops of the past two years —10,638,000 bales in 1935 and 9,636,000 bales in 1934—but well below the five-year average of 14,667,000 bales in 1928-32.

The drouth damage is most serious in Oklahoma and northwest Texas, where many fields are almost a complete failure. In South Texas losses from boll weevil have been heavy.

Cotton advanced $1.45 to $2.25 a bale on the New York exchange Tuesday.

COTTON REPORT

A total of 605 bales of cotton had been ginned by the four Loraine gins at four o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

G. Miller is reported on the sick list this week.

ITALIAN BAPTIST PREACHER TO PREACH HERE SUNDAY

Here is something new for the people of Loraine. You hear our American preachers, know their style, and almost what they are going to say, but to hear a man who was born in Rome, Italy, reared a Catholic, came to America and amassed a fortune, had it swept away, followed by a tragedy that robbed him of his family, found the Lord in conversion in what we usually think of as "wicked New York City" and like Paul, was not disobedient to the heavenly vision but threw himself on God's mercy and is going out to suffer hardships and persecutions from many angles, because of the new life he has found which may be obtained by others. He was converted in a street meeting, therefore Rev. H. S. Bernabey, who is an Italian, has been preaching throughout Texas for the past four years especially among his own people the Italians.

Rev. Mr. Bernabey comes to Loraine well recommended by our Baptist leaders in Texas such as Dr. Truett, Dr. Marshall Craig, and the State Mission office.

Saturday afternoon at 3:30 he will preach on the street corner, and Sunday morning at eleven o'clock in the Baptist Church. If you have never heard an Italian preach do not fail to hear him Saturday or Sunday. Everybody is welcome.

STUDENTS OF W. T. S. T. C. TO HONOR PRESIDENT HILL

Ex-students of West Texas State Teachers' College at Canyon will gather around the banquet table Thursday night. Sept. 10, to honor Dr. J. A. Hill, veteran president of the school, who will be a Sweetwtaer visitor on that day.

The banquet will be held on the Blue Bonnett roof beginning at 8 o'clock and will be attended by former students of the college living in this section.

Dr. Hill will be in Sweetwater to address delegates attending a seated tea sponsored by the Athenaeum Club honoring members of the Federated Clubs of the district being held on that date.

A committee, including Miss Jeanette Wade and Mrs. L. C. Curry, are in charge of arrangements for the banquet, and invitations are being extended to every ex-student of the college in Nolan and surrounding counties of Fisher, Scurry, Mitchell, Taylor and Coke.

Beer Election Held Void

In a district court hearing in Sweetwater Monday the beer election held August 1 in Roscoe was held illegal and void by Judge A. S. Mauzey, presiding judge of the 32nd judicial district.

The contested suit, following the election, was brought by J. A. Prat, Roscoe cafe owner.

The court held the election void for the following reasons:

The petition on which the election was ordered and circulated in and called for the election in precinct No. 9 was changed after circulation, without consulting signers, to call the election in justice precinct No. 5.

The order of the commissioner's court ordering the election called for legalizing the sale of beer, and since the beverage had already been legal in the county since 1934, the order should have been called for prohibiting the sale.

Notices of election did not comply with the order of commissioner's court, since it was called for a different election.

Ballots actually used by voters were entirely different from forms ordered by commissioner's court or in notices of election or any other form provided by the statute.

SHOWERS FELL MONDAY IN PARTS OF TERRITORY

Showers that ranged from light sprinkles to an inch of rain fell in various parts of the territory Monday. The heaviest rain fell in the Landers community and a narrow strip north of town.

In some places the showers will be of benefit to late feed, especially cane, but will do the cotton very little, if any, good.

E. P. KUCK FOUND DEAD FRIDAY MORNING

The entire Loraine community was shocked Friday morning when it was learned that E. P. Kuck, a prosperous German farmer who lived two miles north of town, had died suddenly at his home at 7 o'clock. His death followed an illness of many months of an incurable heart ailment.

Funeral services were conducted from the Methodist tabernacle in Loraine Saurday afternoon at four o'clock by the Rev. F. W. Henkel, pastor of the Lutheran Church at Sweetwater. Interment was made in the local cemetery.

Pallbearers were: Henry Hackfeld of Roscoe, Virgil Wimberley, Dan Butler, J. N. Narrell, Earl Jackson and A. Gabler, all of Loraine. Flower bearers were: Brittie Lynn Rice, Tillie Marie Rice, Laura Althof, Velma Althof Mrs. G. Baumann, Alma Hackfeld, Emily Darden, Irene Zetzman, Josephine Palmer, Doris Narrell, Mrs. E. A. Narrell, Ruby Rannefeld and Thresa Rannefeld.

Mr. Kuck was born October 26, 1873, in Oldenburg, Germany, came to Lavaca County, Texas, in 1896, and there he married Miss Ella Francis Wemken December 20, 1900. Mr. and Mrs. Kuck moved to Mitchell County in 1906 where he resided until his death.

Mr. Kuck was received into the Lutheran Faith at the age of 14 years and lived a Christian life. He was noted for his uprightness and fairness in all of his business transactions.

He is survived by his grief stricken wife and one sister, Mrs. Henry Reichardt of Shiner, Texas and a host of friends and neighbors.

MEMBERS ADDED TO CEMETERY ASSOCIATION

New members secured for the Cemetery Association since the report last week are: Mrs. C. A. Land, Mrs. T. J. Coffee, Mrs. J. R. Coon, Mrs. R. W. Hall, Mrs. Willie Mae Thompson, Ed Hallmark, Mrs. Edwin Hallmark, Mrs. Lillie Bennett.

Safe Blown In Local Postoffice Early Last Friday Morning

The safe at the local post office was blown open some time during the night last Thursday, presumably about five o'clock Friday morning, and about $80 in cash and stamps taken. Blank money orders and saving bonds were also taken but the bonds were found later under a small culvert north of town.

The robbery was discovered by J. T. Nelson about seven o'clock Friday morning when he came down to open the office. He noticed the rear door partly open and instead of going in he went to the front where he saw the safe had been blown open. He went to get Postmaster R. B. Cope before entering the building. Local officers were called, including postal inspector Joe Lisman of Sweetwater, who conducted an investigation.

Walter Honea, nightwatchman, saw a car leave town and go north about five o'clock which fitted the description of a car seen parked near the Cocoa-Cola Bottling Company plant in Sweetwater earlier in the night. The bottling company had been entered and the knob knocked off the safe. Entrance was not gained to the safe but a few dollars were taken fro mthe cash drawer.

Officers arrested Floyd C. Hill in Fort Worth Saturday when caught driving the car which tallied with the one seen in Sweetwater and here. He was brought back to Colorado where charges were filed against him. A companion of Hill's got away.

The safe at the postoffice was completely ruined. So far noone has reported having heard the report of the explosion.

School Enrollment Less Than Year Ago

Congressman George H. Mahon delivered the opening address at the opening of school Monday morning, which was heard by one of the largest crowds ever to assemble in the auditorium.

Enrollment in the school dropped 26 on opening day from the opening day last year. Monday morning a total of 325 students enrolled with 126 in high school and 199 in grammar school. Last year on opening day the enrollment was 351 with 125 in high school and 226 in grammar school The enrollment this year, however, will probably equal or surpass that of last year when cotton picking is over.

The two new subjects offered this year, typewriting and home economics, seem to be very attractive to the students. In fact more pupils have asked for these subjects than can be taken care of with the present equipment. 45 students are wanting to take typewriting and 32 are asking for home economics. 25 students are taking band.

REV. HALEY TO PRESENT PROGRAM FRIDAY NIGHT

Superintendent Ed Williams announced Tuesday that the school has secured Rev. Haley, pastor of the First Christian Church in Colorado, to present one of his famous programs of magic tricks at the high school auditorium Friday night of this week. Rev. Mr. Haley will be assisted in the program by several numbers from local talent. The entire program is to be about an hour and a half long.

There will be a small charge of ten and fifteen cents for the program, the proceeds of which will be used to purchase medicine and other first aid materials to be used at school.

NEIGHBORS GATHER COTTON CROP OF FARMER

Friends and neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. O. P. Blair who live near Inadale gathered at their farm Monday and picked five bales of cotton for them and had them ginned, the four gins in Loraine and the Inadale each ginning one bale free of charge.

Such acts as these makes it easier to live in this country. The kind deed was done because of the prolonged illness of Mrs. Blair.

COLORADO MAN ELECTED BAND INSTRUCTOR

Clarence Snivley of Colorado was elected by the board of trustees last week to fill the vacancy in the school system caused by the resignation of Paul Brannom. Mr. Snivley will be teacher of the sixth grade and instructor of band music in the school.

TO START MISSION SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASS

J. M. Neely announced Wednesday that he will teach a Mission Sunday School class each Sunday morning at ten o'clock, beginning next Sunday, at the home of J. W. Burrier. He is inviting anyone who does not attend Sunday School to come, big, little, old and young. He is to give a special lecture for children Sunday morning.

LORAINE MASONS INVITED TO MEET

G. B. Tartt, Worshipful Master of the Loraine Masonic Lodge when it demised, is extending an urgent invitation to everyone who was ever affiliated with the Loraine Lodge to be present at a meeting to be held at the chamber of commerce building Friday night of this week at eight o'clock. There are important matters that every Mason should hear discussed at this meeting.

CITY TAX RATE REMAINS THE SAME

The city council in a recent meeting voted to leave the city tax rate the same as last year. The rate is $1.50 on the hundred dollar valuation. Valuation of property in the city totals $344,000. The rate this year, however, is to be distributed different. 90 cents of the rate will go into the sinking fund to pay bonded indebtedness, and 60 cents will go to the city's general fund. Last year the rate was split $1.10 for bonds and 40 cents for general fund.

SUSPECTED BURGLAR TRIES TO BREAK JAIL

Floyd C. Hill, suspected of burglarizing the local postoffice last week, was brought to the local jail Tuesday afternoon at one o'clock and remained here until the early part of the night when sheriff Gregory and deputy Cook came after him to return him to the county jail.

Some time during the time he was in jail here he made an attempt to break out, and would have been out in a short time if the officers had delayed a little while in coming after him. He had prized the top of the jail cell loose along one side and a part of the front with a large bar, but the officers did not notice anything wrong when they went to get him except that his face was bloody where he had hurt himself in the attempted break. They discovered later the damage done to the cell.

The tools used were lying on the floor of the fire truck room in the city hall about five or six feet away from the cell. A small rope fashioned from the quilt in the cell was used in roping the tools and dragging them to him, it is apparent.

Jack Tillison, city secretary, left the office at five o'clock and before he did so he gave the prisoner a drink of water and he did not notice anything wrong and he is sure that all the work was done after that time. Walter Honea was at the jail about night and the prisoner was sitting on the cot at the time, and he did not suspect anything.

Hear the Noble Lord
He Sees a New Germany
A Must for the U. S. A.
Strength Alone Protects

An association called "The Anglo-German Fellowship," a name which shows that men forget wars as easily as they do seasickness, gave a dinner in London in honor of the Duke and Duchess of Brunswick, who are Germans, as was the British royal family originally.

Arthur Brisbane

Among other speakers at the dinner, Lord Lothian talked about war, the importance of doing something to satisfy Germany, now that Germany is strong enough to fight back.

Lord Lothian has discovered that it is one thing to deal with dissatisfied populations when they are unarmed, and a very different thing to deal with the same dissatisfied populations when they are fully armed.

The British made that discovery for themselves long ago, before Lord Lothian was born, in the process of building up their great empire. If the Boers, Hindus, Zulus and some others had been as thoroughly armed as they were thoroughly dissatisfied, the British empire would be smaller.

Americans who want to know what Europeans, including the English, are thinking and planning, will be interested in the following statement by Lord Lothian concerning Germany. It has been suggested that England and France should pacify Germany by giving back some of the colonial properties taken from Germany at the end of the war. Lord Lothian is one of the numerous Englishmen who do not believe in "giving things back." Said he:

"Personally, I do not believe that the problem can be solved along the lines of the restoration to Germany of the old German colonies. That would not solve Germany's difficulties, and things have changed since 1914. The question must be considered on much wider lines. All the colonial nations must be willing to make their contribution to a transfer of territory. The new world as well as the old must be willing once more to reopen its doors to trade and migration."

The statement of the noble lord that "the new world as well as the old Must be willing," etc., has no pleasant sound in American ears. The word "must," especially, is one that a wise Englishman could hardly apply to the United States after 1776. Lord Lothian probably meant that the United States "ought," not that it "MUST," once more reopen its doors to trade and migration.

The United States, it is to be hoped, will decide for itself about reopening its doors to trade and immigration. This country needs more of the immigration that made it what it is—it is NOT a redskin country, its people came from Europe, and it needs many millions more of the same kind. It also needs, and the majority of its people intend to keep, American jobs, American wages and American money for the people who live and work in the United States.

There is nothing like being strong and prepared for trouble. You notice how differently Germany appears in the eyes of France and other nations surrounding her today, as compared with the years after the war. Hear Lord Lothian on that subject:

"Germany now has both equality and strength. Reparations have gone. Part V of the Treaty of Versailles has gone. The demilitarization of the Rhineland has gone, and the sooner that recovery of her natural right to self-defense is accepted without further discussion the better. Germany is rearmed. It only remains for the British government to abandon once and for all the fatal system whereby she first has a conference with her friends and then presents the results as a kind of ultimatum to Germany—the system represented by the recent questionnaire—and to substitute for it free and equal and frank discussion around a table. The old system is not equality, either for Germany or for ourselves."

What telephone girl in America has the softest, most beautiful, most easily understood voice? That question was asked in England and a Miss Cain won the competition arranged by the British postoffice, which owns British telephones and telegraph. The finest voice having been selected, a robot was manufactured to imitate that voice by phonographic process. Now, when you want to know the time in London, you dial "Tim" and the soft voice of Miss Cain, perfectly reproduced, tells you: "At the third stroke it will be four twenty-seven and fifteen seconds—"

Mussolini Takes Part in European War Dance

IT WAS Benito Mussolini's turn to go into the European version of the Indian war dance, following Hitler and Stalin, and he gave a great performance. At Avellino, center of the Italian army maneuvers, Il Duce announced to a cheering throng that he could mobilize 8,000,000 soldiers "in the course of a few hours and after a simple order." The premier declared the world is in the throes of an irresistible re-armament race and Italy must reject the idea of eternal peace, which he said is "foreign to our creed and to our temperament." He asserted that the armed forces of Italy are more efficient than ever as a consequence of the Ethiopian war and that the 60,000 men engaged in the maneuvers are but a modest and almost insignificant part of the country's actual war strength.

"We must be strong," cried Mussolini. "We must be always stronger! We must be so strong that we can face any eventualities and look directly in the eye whatever may befall!"

Germany's new army of a million men, created by Hitler's order doubling the term of compulsory military training, is to be financed by increased taxes on all companies and corporations by 25 per cent for 1936 and by 50 per cent for 1937. This increase brings the corporations tax up to a minimum of 25 and 30 per cent on new profits.

A government communique carefully explained that corporations which have enjoyed heavy earnings due to government orders frequently pay "only a tax of 20 per cent on reserves they accumulate while private business men pay up to 50 per cent."

Germany is rapidly increasing naval armaments. It was announced that a second U-boat flotilla will be formed in addition to the first flotilla named for the former submarine commander, Otto Weddigen.

Polish Army Chieftain Visits the French

SHOULD war break out in Europe, France counts on having the powerful Polish army on her side. Consequently the week long visit of Gen. Edward Rydz - Smigly, inspector general of that army, and a Polish military mission to France was made the occasion of elaborate ceremonies. The train carrying the Poles crossed the border at Belfort and there General Rydz-Smigly was received by the commanding generals of the area and reviewed thousands of troops of the frontier regiments. Going thence to Paris, the Poles were accorded the highest military honors and the crowds in the decorated streets cheered them lustily.

Gen. Rydz-Smigly.

Dinners for the guests were given by President Albert Lebrun, Premier Leon Blum and Foreign Minister Delbos. Later they were taken to the Franco-German frontier where they inspected the famous Maginot defense line of concrete and steel strongholds and passages. A great military review at Nancy ended the tour. The Paris press is sure that Hitler's action in lengthening the term of German military service has drawn Poland closer to France.

American Destroyer Periled by Spanish Bombs

SIX bombs dropped from an unidentified Spanish airplane fell perilously near the American destroyer Kane, which was en route from Gibraltar to Bilbao to help in the removal of Americans from the war zone. The Kane fired several rounds from an anti-aircraft gun at the plane. Naturally our government was roused to protest. Secretary of State Hull instructed his agents abroad to request both the Spanish government and Gen. Francisco Franco, leader of the rebel forces, to "issue instructions in the strongest terms" to prevent another "incident of this character."

The rebel forces in the north were making a powerful air attack on Irun, scattering many bombs on that border city, and an assault by land and sea forces was expected at any moment. The government troops there had refused to surrender and their officers said rightist prisoners, including some prominent men, would be exposed in the most open places during the bombardment.

The Madrid government admitted its troops had sustained an "important reverse" in a battle at Oropesa, 100 miles southwest of the capital and were driven back to Talavera. Later a loyalist victory at that place was claimed, though London heard the rebels had scored another victory there. The fighting in the Guadarrama mountains continued indecisively, and in Toledo the loyalists were still hammering away at the ancient Alcazar in which about 2,000 rebels were besieged.

Ten foreign envoys accredited to Spain sent a note to the Madrid government calling on it to "humanize" the war," and they expressed the hope that "both parties" would stop the killing of hostages and non-combatants and refrain from bombarding non-defended cities. The American and Japanese representatives did not sign the appeal.

Ruth Owen Resigns as Minister to Denmark

MRS. RUTH BRYAN OWEN, now the wife of Capt. Boerge Rohde of the Danish king's royal life guards, has resigned as American minister to Denmark in order to be free to campaign as a private citizen for the re-election of President Roosevelt, and the President has accepted her resignation. This was done in an exchange of telegrams, that from Mr. Roosevelt saying:

Ruth Owen.

"While I am very loath to have you discontinue the very fine services you have been rendering as United States minister to Denmark, I appreciate your reasons for wanting to resign and the motives that prompt you. I therefore reluctantly accept your resignation."

Mrs. Rohde, daughter of William Jennings Bryan, has had a long career of public service. Before entering the diplomatic service she served in the Seventy-first and Seventy-second congresses, 1929 to 1933, from Florida. Captain Rohde, to whom she was married in July last, is her third husband. She divorced her first husband, William Homer Leavitt. She entered politics after the death of her second husband, Maj. Reginald Owen of the British Royal Engineers.

American Bar Association Against Court Limitation

RESOLUTIONS adopted by the American Bar association at its meeting in Boston declare firmly against any attempt to limit the power of federal courts to pass on the constitutionality of laws. The association avoided what had been expected to be a lively debate by taking a noncommittal attitude on the report of another committee which denounced in great part the alleged invasion of the rights of citizens by the New Deal. This report, to which there was a minority report appended, was received and filed by the assembly, but not accepted, and the committee which filed it was discharged from further duty.

Frederick H. Stinchfield of Minneapolis was unamimously elected president of the association for the coming year.

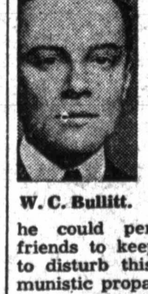

Farmers' July Income Best Since 1929

PERHAPS the farmers of America don't realize it, but during July they enjoyed the largest cash income they have had since 1929. Figures given out by the Department of Agriculture show the sales of farm products brought them $711,000,000 against $582,000,000 in June and only $451,000,000 in July, 1935.

To their income from sales, the farmers added $24,000,000 in various forms of government benefits, bringing the total cash at their disposal to $735,000,000. The rental and other benefits totaled $57,000,000 in June and $19,000,000 in July, 1935.

Transfer of W. C. Bullitt to the Paris Embassy

TRANSFER of William C. Bullitt from the embassy in Moscow to that in Paris is not surprising. He it was who was chiefly responsible for the recognition of the Soviet government by the United States, and when he was rewarded with the ambassadorship it was expected he would be able to swing a lot of Russian business to American concerns. Also it was hoped he could persuade his Russian friends to keep their promises not to disturb this country with communistic propaganda. In these respects at least Mr. Bullitt has been a disappointment. But he retains the confidence of President Roosevelt and will not be out of place as ambassador to the leftist French government.

W. C. Bullitt.

Some observers think Mr. Bullitt is sent to Paris for the purpose of secretly sounding out the major European powers on the possibility of reconvening the world economic conference in 1937.

Roosevelt Will Tour Country

Democrats Admit There's Hard Fight Ahead; but Expect Sweeping Victory

By EARL GODWIN

WASHINGTON. — Well, the Democratic high command has quit fooling and admits there is a tough fight ahead to defeat Landon. My old friend, Jim Farley, Democratic National committeeman, who has been claiming the entire 48 states for Roosevelt now privately gives Landon as many as eight states.

The time has come, too, to tell exactly what is going on politically. These things I now report are facts which have been given privately to the President by his close advisers:

The private opinion of those on the inside is that President Roosevelt is not going to have a "walk over" in the campaign. They feel sure of the New Deal's victory; but they know there must be fighting every inch of the way, lest such things as their hoped-for 500,000 majority in New York state, for instance, may be turned into a defeat of the same size. For this reason the President himself seems to be counted on to bear the brunt of the fight; and as I see it now he will start out in mid-September for a red-hot campaign which will encircle the country. He will make a trip as far west as the Pacific coast and will probably retrace the course of the "Victory March of 1932."

There can be no doubt about the vote from the solid south. Those 114 electoral votes are as safe for Roosevelt as anything can be safe politically. All the yipping and yammering by the plush lined Democrats who have tried to discredit Roosevelt among the masses of southern people have been ineffective. If there could be any dissatisfaction in the south it would be in Florida, and that would not occur had it not been for the dissension over the trans-Florida ship canal.

Roosevelt's chances in Ohio are none too promising but they seem to be getting better. That state is the strongest of the Father Coughlin outposts. Illinois looks safe for Roosevelt, odd as that statement may sound to a lot of Republicans. However, the internal Democratic fight between Mayor Kelly of Chicago and Governor Horner is apparently settled amicably, and the Lemke third party in Illinois is going to split the Republicans rather than the Democrats. I would not, however, depend too strongly on any promises made between Kelly and Horner. So Illinois might be classed as merely "fair to middlin'," but likely to be good for F. D. R. Indiana, I think, is in Roosevelt's bag right now. I disagree with my Democratic friends who say that Iowa is a hundred per cent for Roosevelt; my reports indicate it is doubtful enough to warrant some good hard work. Wisconsin and Minnesota are reported OK for the President; and while there should be a special chapter on the tremendous state of New York, all there is to say is that the Democrats claim it by half a million. If the Empire state goes for Landon, then these Democratic predictions are frightfully wrong.

Michigan interests me. I think it doubtful, but Republican Senator Couzens' attitude is helpful to Roosevelt. Couzens, richest man in the senate, and a Republican, endorses and will work for Roosevelt. Michigan, old time Republican state, went for Roosevelt in 1932 and swung back Republican to Senator Vandenberg two years ago. It should provide a terrific battle.

Pennsylvania would be a hard state for the Republicans to lose; but there is a good chance they will lose it. It has been a hard boiled Republican state for years, dominated for half a century by such bosses as Boise Penrose. But the Republican bosses have died physically or politically, and a new machine is set up, operated by Democratic Governor Earle and Democratic Senator Joe Guffey—a machine of deadly accuracy. Democrats are better organized in Pennsylvania than ever before. Democrats also make strong claims about New Jersey. New England by rights should go Republican, but Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut are giving the Republicans lots of trouble. Vermont seems to be the one rock-ribbed Republican state in the Union. Those Vermonters are so anti-New Deal they even resent the work the C.C.C. boys have done for Vermont roads and forests; and they hate to see them riding to work in government trucks. If Vermont had its way, there'd be no federal aid for anybody; and wherever there was federal aid Vermont would make 'em work like slaves and walk to work even if the job was twenty miles away.

Senator George Norris' influence in Nebraska will turn that state to Roosevelt; and the Pacific coast states are, I believe, 100 per cent Roosevelt.

On the basis of present trends, then, Roosevelt should get more than 300 electoral votes out of 531. He can do this without New York, too, which is more than Landon can do.

TAXES

Landon, doing a better job at the radio microphone than when he started with his Topeka acceptance speech, delivered a speech on taxes which was as easy as a preacher taking a firm stand against sin. All candidates for anything assail existing taxes and, without being specific, try to make the country feel that if elected this bright rising star will fix it so that everybody gets the benefits of government—but the other fellow will pay the bill. Landon will, if elected, recommend a repeal of the taxes on corporations' surpluses; and will probably try to put over a direct tax on industry and individuals.

Both Governor Landon and the President seem to be in agreement on the undesirability of so-called hidden taxes. Landon attacked the fact that practically everything from soup to nuts has hidden taxes somewhere. All clothing and other things that enter into every day buying are cleverly taxed, he asserts, and the fact that they have not raised enough revenue for years past is the reason for additional taxes on incomes, on tobacco and liquor, and on gasoline for instance.

But hidden taxes were not invented by Roosevelt. He's been hammering at them for years, and is as much opposed to them as Landon.

If Governor Landon stops with his Buffalo address all we will have had from him will be his phrase "cock-eyed taxation" as related to the taxes on corporation surpluses. That tax, which was a last ditch, desperate measure to dig out enough money to go through with the bonus and other extras congress enacted, was the one alternative congress could think of as against more taxes on the breakfast table, on clothes, tobacco, gas or what not. If corporations, hiding money by the millions, are to be defended by Landon as against the ordinary wage earner, then the sooner he be anchored to Topeka the better.

So when Landon goes on a search for more taxes, having relieved the corporations, where is he going to get them? He does not like hidden taxes so he will go to incomes. It is shown here by the Treasury that Landon would levy an income tax on at least six million people who are now receiving so little that they do not have to pay an income tax at all. Is that wise? The very rich, if taxed to the utmost limit, could not contribute enough to make up the needed amount—so it is the poor man's tax that Landon would have to collect.

In the last year the expenses of government were $5,500,000,000 and receipts only $4,000,000,000. Extra expenses were occasioned by relief to the tune of $3,000,000,000 Even had Landon been President and had paid no relief to anyone, he would still have had a deficit on the regular expenses of government. How would he have paid them? He could not have paid them; that's the answer. He would have borrowed, and then set out to cut to the bone—just as Roosevelt is now doing.

LANDON ON RELIEF.

I have been trying to get a line on the Landon relief policy, but at this writing about the only thing the governor has said indicative of his views was a statement at Buffalo that the G. O. P. would be generous in relief but would not be foolish. This indicates he would not follow some of his party and put the burden of relief entirely on the states. You could tell by Landon's Kansas experience that he favors the states doing as little as possible and the federal government doing as much as possible—but I didn't think he dared say so in public. I have heard so many of the idle rich in the Republican party speak of relief as "spending millions on no-good bums to induce them to vote for Roosevelt." Now the problem of the Republicans seems to be to keep on calling these unfortunate poor "bums" and still get them to vote for Landon. The G. O. P. rich hate federal relief.

In another of Landon's eastern speeches—a better effort than his earlier fumbles — he spoke to a group of educators and highbrows on education. Of course, the governor was for education — who wouldn't be. The question was asked of him: "If you are so strong for education why have you subjected the Kansas schools to such a hazing?" All teachers know that Kansas teachers were reduced almost to a starvation wage and that many schools were closed — had it not been for federal aid there would have been almost a complete dearth of public education in Kansas under Landon.

But the Landon speeches are still second rate, sophomoric high school utterances on platitudinous subjects. He deals in "unctious inanities" as Secretary Ickes puts it. And, still following the vinegar tongued Ickes, "no one has yet pussyfooted his way into the White House and the precedent will not be broken in this year of grace."

Hay Fever Without Hay

Hay fever, strangely, is but in comparatively few cases caused by hay—and only in rare instances is it accompanied by fever. The cause of from 80 per cent to 85 per cent of all hay fever is said to be ragweed pollen. This pollen has been known to have been carried by the wind as far as 100 miles from its source—and has been found one mile and higher in the air.

BY ONE VOTE

RUTHERFORD B. HAYES of Ohio, nineteenth President of the United States, can be designated "the man who was elected by a single vote."

His contest with Samuel J. Tilden of New York, the Democratic nominee, threatened for a time in 1876 and early 1877 to bring about a resumption of the Civil war. Perhaps it explains in some measure the bitterness of battles today between Republicans and Democrats.

Hayes faced the disadvantage of running in the wake of the eight years of the Grant administrations, followed as they were by sensational accusations of financial frauds. There was little to choose between abilities of the candidates and when first returns were in, Tilden was acclaimed as winner.

Shortly after election day, it was revealed that Tilden's managers were uncertain as to the results their party had achieved in Florida, South Carolina and Louisiana. Normally Democratic, these states still were in the hands of carpetbagger governments.

Tilden had 184 electoral votes and the ballots of any of the three states named would have elected him. Hayes, with 166, needed all of them to have one more electoral vote than Tilden. In Louisiana, the canvassing board threw out 13,250 Democratic votes and gave the state to Hayes. Republicans asserted their candidate had won in both South Carolina and Florida. But Democrats of the three states returned votes for Tilden.

To make the situation a typical American scene, congress was divided, one branch being Democratic, the other Republican.

It was decided finally to appoint five congressmen from each party and five judges of the Supreme court to make the decision as to which set of returns from the disputed states should be accepted.

The election of Hayes was assured by the vote of Justice Bradley, whose participation gave the deliberative body a margin of eight Republicans to seven Democrats. And congress approved these momentous findings just in time to enable Rutherford B. Hayes to take the oath of office as President.

NAMING A PARTY

IRONICALLY enough, the names of the two principal political parties once were combined as Democratic Republicans, a group of which the standard bearer was Thomas Jefferson, referred to perhaps oftener than any other leader when Democrats trace their political origin.

Under Jackson the party name was shortened to Democrat, which it continues to bear.

Republicans emerged as a separate party as early as 1854, although its first nominating convention was held two years later. Up at Ripon, Wis., in a corner of the campus of Ripon college, stands the Ripon Congregational church, scene of the first G. O. P. meeting.

The Ripon meeting had been called by Major Alvan E Bovay, a Whig lawyer, who generally receives credit for suggesting the name of the party.

He had passed on his idea to Horace Greeley who later advocated the name Republican at a convention in Jackson, Mich.

Although Ripon had a voting list that hardly exceeded 100 in those days of exclusively male suffrage, more than half of them attended Bovay's first gathering. The impulse which brought them together was the conviction that the slavery question was coming rapidly to a head and that those who opposed must unite in a new group, regardless of geographical lines.

Northern states naturally proved the most fertile ground for spreading the new doctrine. Before the party's first national convention, which was held in Philadelphia on June 17, 1856—a firm "toehold" had been secured by senatorial representation at Washington.

History fails to record what part, if any, Major Bovay played in the Philadelphia meeting. The delegates were unanimously in favor of nominating John C. Fremont and he was selected on the first ballot.

Another Republican attended, however. He was the gangling Illinois rail-splitter, Abe Lincoln, and some of his colleagues had the temerity to advance his name as a candidate for vice-president. "Honest Abe" lost the nomination but four years later he was to carry the party to victory.

Rivers That Flow North

The St. Johns River in Florida is supposedly the only river in the United States which flows northward throughout its entire course There are others, however, which flow north for a part of their course. These include the Monongahela in Pennsylvania, the Tennessee in Tennessee and Kentucky, the Red River of the North in Minnesota and North Dakota, Big Horn in Wyoming and Montana, Powder in Wyoming and Montana.

DRAGONS DRIVE YOU

They were still two days out from Sandy Hook when Agnes read in the radio news an explanation. Philip Linsdale, brother of Arthur Linsdale who had shot himself, was indicted with two other officers of his company for misappropriation of trust funds. He had been jailed in Chicago and released on a fifty-thousand-dollar bond. Another brother, Emery, had fled to Canada.

As there were few on the ship, few stood on the dock awaiting the landing.

"There's Father!" said Agnes, and felt choked as she waved at him.

Her mother saw him, and that he was safe. Tricie wondered whether "Cash" might be lurking elsewhere along the dock to look at her. Tricie conquered this feeling before the gangplank was down, and she went to the arms of her husband.

He kissed her, and she clung to him; then, feeling him release her, she let him go.

"Hello, Light One!" He caught his daughter and kissed her.

His wife watched him, her eyes never leaving him. She was trembling from her contact with him. He turned to her again, after he let their daughter go.

"You're older Bob," she said bluntly.

"Yes, of course—a year," he tried to say lightly but he did not like it. "That's all."

"Just older, Bob? she challenged him She had to demand it of him immediately, at the very moment of meeting. Nothing else mattered in comparison. He knew what she meant Had he become only older through this year of trouble and separation? Otherwise was he unchanged? Was he continuing to draw those checks to—Cash?

He answered her: If she had to ask him there on the dock, there she had a right to know.

"I suppose I'm poorer, Tricie," he said, and smiled ruefully.

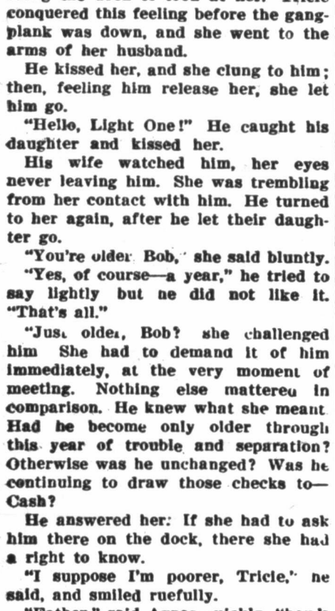

"Father," said Agnes quickly, "how's Bee?"

"Dark One's fine, Light One."

"I came on account of her, Bob," his wife cast at him gratuitously. She knew that her daughter in September was to bear her third child. "My place seemed to be with her now. Are you going home with us?"

Bob nodded. "This afternoon. You heard about the Linsdales?" he offered another topic.

"Arthur Linsdale killing himself!" Beatrice said, and caught her breath;

"You Heard About the Linsdales?" He Offered Another Topic.

she almost told her husband that, having heard, she had hurried home to him.

"And Phil indicted, and Emery in Canada. Do you know who's to defend Phil Linsdale?"

"Who?" said Agnes.

"O'Mara. He's getting a lot to do, these days. He can't take half the cases coming to him."

"From women shooting their husbands?" Beatrice asked.

Bob shook his head. "From people you'd never figure would get into trouble, Tricie, and are exceedingly likely, unless Agnes' friend saves them, to spend their next ten or twenty years in Leavenworth or some other Government jail."

CHAPTER XII

Change!

Bee out of her house and back home, with Davis and her babies. It was one thing to contemplate it when you were abroad; another to lie in your berth on the train and know that tomorrow morning your sister, to whom this had happened, would meet you.

Change. A change in Father, more than that he was a year older, and poorer. He had lost something. A confidence, a certainty. Changes for the worse, all of these.

But there was a change for the better which Agnes felt; and it played its part in keeping her stirred and wakeful.

A change in Cathal O'Mara, rather in his regard. It had been declared when her father mentioned him; and now the Chicago newspapers, which Agnes had procured in New York, made it manifest.

She read about the Linsdale affairs and the demand for the return of Emery Linsdale from Canada: "Mr. O'Mara promised an answer tomorrow. . . . Mr. O'Mara says . . . This was denied by Mr. O'Mara."

He represented and defended men recently among those first in the city, men accused but not yet pronounced guilty, men with rich and powerful friends, who, however, were themselves helpless to save them; and so they had sought—Cathal O'Mara.

As the train entered Chicago, she sought alterations in the physical aspect of the city to correspond to what here had happened. There were none.

When they stopped under the station train-shed and stepped down, then the change was sufficiently declared.

She saw it, first, in the face of Davis. She halted on the train-step; then she sprang down and went to him and kissed him. Her sister was there. She kissed Bee. "All right, Bee? All right?"

"Of course. . . . Hello, Mother!"

Jeb was there; her father had said he might be.

Jeb had changed, but not enough. More ought to have happened to him, if so much had happened to Davis. But she kissed Jeb; and he kissed her twice and held her.

She could feel he was excited. "What's the hurry, Glen? There's no one else here. Stay with me, now." But she freed herself from him and turned back to Davis, and pulled him down to her and kissed him on his tight-pressed lips.

"See here," Jeb complained. "He's married. And I think I'm pretty good to come to meet you."

"You are, Jeb." But she could not feel for him at all. Had something more happened to Davis today?

Agnes asked Bee this, as soon as she got her sister aside. "No; why?" said Bee; and Agnes knew he had broken so gradually that those with him scarcely realized it.

Her father did not proceed home with them. He and Jeb went to their offices; and Davis departed to his.

Before long they heard Baskerville baying; a moment later they were before the house, and Selma stood with a little boy on each side of her, waving.

Agnes and her mother were home.

"It's a dizzy world," observed Bee, loosening her clothes and lying back on her bed. "One can't start at anything, however praiseworthy at the moment, and be sure her enterprise will still be considered creditable when it's accomplished."

"You mean?" said Agnes.

"I do, my child. The world no longer groans for increase. It doesn't want any more children, or cotton or wheat or railroads, or any of the good old products and improvements that the best citizens used to pray for.

"You've lovely instincts, darling," the Dark One added, reaching her hand to her sister. "It's lucky you don't indulge them."

"Bee, how bad are things for us?"

"Well, Father probably still has a little; not much, but maybe more than he owes. Thank God, Jeb got him into a big block of insull stuff; and that's been standing up. Father's got it at the banks; but they give him money on it. He'll keep going; but he's in no shape to put up a quarter-million to save us again. Father bought him out of the original mess; but not even Father can do it now. After Father paid his debts, Davis got his new start by borrowing on his life-insurance; and he's borrowed the limit since then to keep on. Now he's at the end of it. What's our next move? I don't know."

Even Agnes' sense of security was shaken.

Jeb phoned; and this was as it had been a year ago.

"Hello, Glen! Hello! This is old times! Lord, how I like it! . . . I'm alone in my office and on my private wire, so we can talk. . . . What's the matter with you, Glen? Who's there?"

"Nobody's here."

"Then tell me a little of what it means to be back to me."

"It's so different, Jeb."

"Not so different. I'll show you. I'm coming right out, to cheer you up."

"I don't want cheering up, Jeb."

"You certainly do."

"Tomorrow then, please, Jeb."

"Why the devil tomorrow? Why not now? Why—"

She did not know why, except that she could not feel like having him cheer her up by reassuring her of his fortune; she did not feel like meeting his claim to kiss her and hold her.

Her father came home: "When'll Jeb be along, Light One?"

"Not tonight."

Her father gazed straight at her. "All right," he said. "Your business."

The talk at the table, and later, while the family stayed together, carefully avoided discussion of their own situation, but it dwelt on others'—and the Linsdales' particularly. And this brought mention, more than once, of their lawyer.

"Your friend's tackled a tough case, Light One."

It was nine o'clock when Cravath announced to Agnes: "Mr. O'Mara asks for you on the phone."

Agnes jumped.

"He's at Phil Linsdale's, probably," her father said, watching her. "Phil certainly leans on your lawyer, Light One."

Agnes turned slowly and went straight to the phone. What was he to say to her? And she to him?

He said: "Yesterday morning I read at last that you had landed—your mother and you."

"Yes," she said, "we did." What did he mean by "at last"? Had he been reading the papers all year for report of her return?

"This afternoon the papers said you are home."

"Yes."

"So tonight I am at one of your neighbors."

"Staying there?" said Agnes. What was this man to her? It was hard for her to speak.

"No. I'm leaving now."

"Will you come here?"

Agnes returned to her family. "He's coming here," she told them.

"Tonight?" demanded her mother.

"Now." And she left them again, and stood near the door.

At the Linsdales', Cathal returned from the telephone to the study, shut off from other rooms, where waited the man threatened with imprisonment for the rest of his life.

The room was dark, save for a cone of yellow light from the shaded lamp over the accounts and records they had examined together—over and over, and would never finish. Phil Linsdale sat pushed back just beyond the edge of the light.

"Going now, O'Mara?"

"Yes, sir. Good night."

"Not for a minute, O'Mara. Give me another minute, will you? Sit down again. . . . That's right. Now I've nothing to say. But I can't let you go. What in hell will I do? . . . Go over it again with my wife? Or sit with her and not go over it again? And my daughter! . . . Damn it, O'Mara! You went to college too; did you study Shakespeare? . . . He said too many things too well. To pat for you—you can't forget them.

"'I have lived long enough; my way of life is fallen into the sear, the yellow leaf.' Know it, O'Mara?"

"Yes, sir."

"'And that which should accompany old age, as honor, love, obedience, troops of friends, I must not look to have.' That's me, even if you get me off, O'Mara. Do you suppose my brother was right—my brother Arthur? He 'should have died hereafter.' That's another great line, O'Mara. Macbeth said it of his wife when they told him she was gone. 'She should have died hereafter.' Arthur should have stayed. He was far the best of us. He was twice me, twice my brother Emery, in Canada. . . . Come tomorrow night early and stay late, will you, O'Mara?"

Cathal drove slowly from the house He could not let the man whom he had left hear him hurrying away.

Agnes at last heard his car.

She was in white, as he had left her a year ago, and so he saw her.

"I couldn't come sooner," he said.

"I know," she said. What was this man to her, when the sight of him and his voice, after a year, so stirred her?

Her father asked: "How's Phil Linsdale tonight?"

"He's not changed much since they released him on bail—and he buried his brother."

"He can't be really guilty!" Beatrice Gleneith protested. "He can't be!"

Cathal looked at her, and thought of long, long ago—11 months ago, before any of this had happened, and it had been Myrtle Lorrie who had required defending.

"Why?" he said.

"They accuse him of stealing funds. Mr. Linsdale would never steal. It is inconceivable. He is a friend of ours. I have known Mrs. Linsdale for years."

"Yes," said Cathal. "She told me."

Davis said nothing. He had risen and shaken hands with Cathal, and then lapsed into his chair.

Cathal O'Mara was changed too. It was not that his consequence was increased. She felt that, but not from him; it was in the attitude the others took toward him.

There had been nothing tonight—there could have been nothing—like the moment they had shared in the breaking storm under the lightning on the shore. They remained with her family, but she did not want him to go; he arose, however, and she went to the door with him. There they were alone.

"'Twill be strange," he said, gazing down at her, "not to be watching the social columns tomorrow. All year I've bought every paper, every day, for chance of mention of you. Now you'll be staying home?"

"Yes," said Agnes. "Wouldn't you?"

"I would," he said, quite soberly. "Especially regarding your brother-in-law."

"Davis." Agnes almost whispered his name. "How did he look to you?"

Cathal answered in one word: "Desperate."

Kept Macaroni a Secret

Naples was the center of macaroni manufacture for so many years that the Pompeiian road leading into it was broken to bits by the continuous procession of wagons and trucks hauling in hard wheat and flour, says the European Cookbook for American Homes. The process for making macaroni was kept secret until the Fourteenth century, when a Frenchman got hold of it and took it back to France with him.

"What Does It Prove" Bout Gives Sailor $30,000 for Trouble

WHILE beating his Basque Woodchopper par in slapping over the Boston Bartender at Yankee Stadium, Joe Jouis was far short of his top Chicago Kingfish performance. Yet, even though it took one minute and two seconds of the third round before he could convince a trembly-legged, eye-scarred, thirty-three-year-old veteran that he had enough, this falling short of perfection should not be held against Joe. He did the job assigned to him and probably the whole Vassar Daisy Chain team could not have done it any better

Whether he is, by any chance, the same gifted athlete he was before the Schmeling mistake is something that need not be gone into here. Certainly he entered the ring more blithely than for any other New York appearance up to date. Even before he got his first glimpse of that dreadful Sharkey man, who, by the way was the round-heeled riot of two rounds and 1.02 later, he was grinning.

Jack Sharkey.

That, of course, may have been because he was getting his first glimpse of Leon Kettchel, the human beanpole who some day may be stood up to be bowled over in the same alley and under the same benevolent auspices as last night. It also might have been because a youngster, whose best ballyhooers had been doing masterpieces about his "shellshocked" reactions, was at last coming to realize that instead of going into a battle he was facing a pink tea.

Anyhow it hardly matters. Keeping his right up high, as he did not against the fairly young and fairly agile Schmeling, Louis started slowly. Perhaps a punch into those whiskers he has never yet had time to grow might have caused him some inconvenience and slowed him up even more. But, even though the leaden-footed, half-bald Sharkey made some motions, which indicated that Joe still has a bit to learn before being better than even money against such two-legged gents as Ettore, Pastor and John Henry Lewis, nothing much happened.

Sharkey went through the first round as if surprised that the bad news was so long delayed. So, he pawed his bemused way into the second round, scarcely landing a blow. He went down from a right to the jaw, got up and went down again shortly thereafter from a right, a left and a feeling of futility. In the third round he again was bowled over twice, once sprawling over the lower strand of ropes.

After this he got up. He was not as badly beaten as was Louis in the Schmeling fight and it is probable that he expected to go on. But Referee Donovan had already counted ten. So that was that. The battle of "What Does It Prove?" was over and, even though the radio and movie concessionaires may squawk to the high heavens, there will be no rematch. Sharkey now can go back to Boston and impatient customers who have been screaming can get some service again.

Sloughed Sailor Need Have No Regrets

While explaining how he held the Brown Bomber to a mere count of ten kayo three years after the stalwart Carnera won the championship from him by means of a slashing, lone uppercut, the sloughed sailor need have no regrets, though. He got a very handsome $30,928 for his scant moments of light exercise. So he departs with the pleasant feeling that in a town where 6,000,000 people take daily chances of being bowled over by autos, merely because they cannot afford carfare, at least 6,000,000 people are envying his pretty opportunity and his bright reward.

Not in the Box Score:

Dartmouth football fans are worried about Mutt Ray, who recently underwent a back operation. The crack center is far from right and chances are he will see little action this fall. The two star guards, Latta McCray, severely injured in a skiing accident, and Joe Hanrahan, who was stopped by the June exams, also may be unavailable.

NOT IN THE BOX SCORE:

BITSY GRANT'S European tennis tour cost him $250, exclusive of incidental expenses. His partner in the insurance business, who was supposed to take care of his renewals, fell ill while Bitsy was away and let a number of policies lapse . . . Bobby Riggs and Wayne Sabin, the young California doubles combination being touted for next year's Davis cup competition, have been parted by Jack del Valle, their "angel." The break came during the Rye matches and Del Valle explained it by saying he believed Sabin's influence on Riggs was not beneficial. It probably will be patched up before the national championships.

Although the Giants are in the midst of one of the most magnificent pennant drives of recent years gossipers still operate on them. The latest lowdown is that Hank Leiber and Harry Gumbert will be traded to the Cards for Jim Collins next winter. The whispered reason for this is that Terry and Leiber do not "get along." Another keyhole item is that several Giants' officials consider Mel Ott to be "an overrated player" and will peddle him to another club in 1937 if Terry agrees.

Pop Warner and Gil Dobie will be personally matching their football coaching wits for the first time when Boston college meets Temple in October. This is Warner's forty-second year as a coach while Dobie has been on duty for a mere 35 seasons . . . Eddie Borden, the sports writer and fight manager, will shortly publish a new boxing magazine tagged Bang . . . Princeton insiders are breaking down and admitting that the Frosh football supply is the best since the class of '36. They add that this manna will be very much welcomed by Coach Fritz Crisler since practically all of the present regulars will be blotted out by graduations next June.

Ohio State Fears Grid Date With New York U

Strange as it may seem Ohio State fears that early football date with N. Y. U. this fall. Buckeye track athletes, here for the World Labor meet, reported that folks around Columbus feel the Violets are going to be so tough that there is practically no betting money in sight . . . Yale men refuse to talk about gridiron prospects but there is a persistent rumor that Ducky Pond will surprise the nation with a powerful team this fall. Especially if some of the scholastically doubtful scphs regain good standing . . . Don't expect Lou Little to be overactive at Columbia this fall. Reports from his Leominster, Mass., home town are that his injured hip still pains him mightily.

George Varoff, the high-soaring pole vaulter, will stay away from sports until after Christmas. He feels that he has been spending too much time on such play and is anxious to catch up in his studies at Oregon, where he is a sophomore this fall . . . Sign of autumn . . . Six Youngsters tossing the Manhattan sidewalk season's first football on East Eighty - fourth street.

Although Jess Sweetser, president of the Metropolitan Golf association, is playing as good golf as any New York amateur this summer, his temperament still gets in his way during tournament competition. In spite of his many years of campaigning he still enlists in the club-throwing ranks when the breaks go sour . . . For a lad who's had a taste of Hollywood, Buell Patrick Abbott, the Californian who recently won the national public links title, has mild aspirations for a movie career. "All I want," he says, speaking of that fabled city where salaries always are quoted in the higher G's, "is a contract for $350 or $400 a week for four or five years. Then I'll quit."

This has been a singularly unfortunate summer for Bill Cook, captain and future coach of the Rangers. His mother died two months ago, just after the popular hockey veteran had moved his family east to the new house he bought near Hamilton, Ont. His two children had to have their tonsils out and, although that's ordinarily a simple operation these days, his younger daughter had a relapse and had to return to the hospital. Then Mrs. Cook became ill and had to undergo an operation. . . . Jughandle Johnny Morrison, former Dodger and Pirate, is now pitching for not too good semi-pro teams in Brooklyn and getting $3.50 per game.

Although he appears to be a quiet, well-mannered fellow, Wally Berger of the Bees likes practical jokes even better than base hits. His pet prank is to put eels in the pullman berths of his teammates . . . Handbooks take five-cent bets in Montreal . . . Watch North Carolina State's football team this fall. Hunk Anderson, the old Notre Dame, will be working with 26 letter men, most of them juniors.

Experts whisper that the best buys on the Philly mid-winter bargain counter will be Pitcher Claude Passeau and Catcher Bill Atwood. The Cubs and Giants already have been fingering the $50,000 price tags.

Quaint Sampler Will Keep You Occupied

Pattern 1187

No matter what the Season—a sampler's always fun to do, especcially when it offers as colorful a picture, as quaint a verse, as this. FOUR TEASPOONFULS OF MILK OF MAGNESIA IN ONE TASTY WAFER
HEARTBURN FROM OVEREATING?
Hurried or overeating usually causes heartburn. Overcome heartburn and digestive distresses with Milnesia, the original milk of magnesia in wafer form. Thin, crunchy, deliciously flavored, pleasant to take. Each wafer equals 4 teaspoonfuls of milk of magnesia. 20c, 35c & 60c sizes at druggists.

Watch Your Kidneys!
Be Sure They Properly Cleanse the Blood
YOUR kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as nature intended—fail to remove impurities that poison the system when retained.
Then you may suffer nagging backache, dizziness, scanty or too frequent urination, getting up at night, puffiness under the eyes; feel nervous, miserable—all upset.
Don't delay? Use Doan's Pills. Doan's are especially for poorly functioning kidneys. They are recommended by grateful users the country over. Get them from any druggist.

. . . Pledge . . .

I will think—talk—write . . . Texas Centennial in 1936! This is to be my celebration. In its achievement I may give free play to my patriotic love for Texas' heroic past; my confidence in its glories that are to be. . . . . .

The past few weeks we have heard rumors to the effect that some farmers in this territory are considering drilling of wells and placing equipment necessary for irrigation of several acres on farms. There are probably a number of farmers who would do this if the proper financial assistance is available. In talking to O. I. Griffin, president of the chamber of commerce, he stated that the organization would lend every assistance possible in finding financial assistance for such projects if the farmers are interested.

We have thought for several years that the underground water supply in this section is sufficient for irrigation purposes on a small scale and several times while at Roscoe we urged editorially that experiments be made along this line but so far nothing has ever come from our urgings. We still believe, however, that some day hundreds of acres in this section will be under irrigation.

AN INDUSTRIAL TEXAS

That Texans are commencing to think seriously of their state as an industrial empire as well as an agricultural and cattle empire is shown by the widespread approval given a recent suggestion of Matthew S. Sloan, charman of the board and president of the Missouri-Kansas-Texas Lines, for a state-sponsored effort to develop the state industrially. Serving as guest columnist for the editor of the Dallas Times Herald, the Katy Lines' chief executive declared the time is ripe for Texas to capitalize upon its manifold opportunities.

Pointing to the success of the Texas Deparment of Agriculture Mr. Sloan said that by increasing the size and value of the state's crops it had paid its way a hundred fold. "Would not a similar department concerned with bringing new industries into being with finding ways for putting more of the state's natural resources into profitable production and with focusing attention of the industrial world upon Texas, also pay handsome dividends?" he asked.

During the two-and-a-half years he has been president of the Katy, Mr. Sloan has spent much of his time traveling over the state, studying conditions and becoming acquainted with business leaders. A director in several of the country's larger industrial and financial concerns and, prior to commencing his career as a railroad executive, and outstanding figure in the public utility field, Mr. Sloan's training and broad experience adds weight to his statement that "no other state has so many justifications for planning industrial growth through organized and systematically directed effort." Editorial comment indicates his suggestion is regarded as one worthy of the best thought of all Texas.

The Texas Weekly reporduced Mr. Sloan's article almost in its entirety and added that it speaks for itself and requires no comment, although, it is in order to remark that it shows once more how the sentiment for an industrial Texas which would not, as Mr. Sloan pointed out, have an adverse effect on agriculture in the state is growing.

"Mr. Sloan is right" commented the Dallas Times Herald, "a state like Texas must balance its economy. The state has offered many kinds of aid to farmers; the time has arrived for manufacturers to be given their share of attention. The tentative suggestion of Mr. Sloan that a state agency be created to encurage and assist industry is worthy of study."

"The proposal has obvious merit" commented the San Antonio Express. "Most recent governors of Texas have expressed concern with building up the state industrially. Such a state agency, as Mr. Sloan suggests would give that sentiment effective outlet and direction. It is time to be thinking of making a concerted effort to draw industries to Texas.

Q. Where is Fort Concho-West Texas Museum? A. H., Robert Lee.

A. In one of the buildings of old Fort Concho at San Angelo, being maintained by the city.

Q. When was the Odd Fellows Lodge first organized in Texas? F. F., Buffalo.

A. In 1836.

Q. Where was the first Methodist church in Angelina county? A. B., Crocket.

A. The first building used as a Methodist church in the county was built n a community locally known as Homer. It was erected in 1866 and, in a much dilapidated condition, is still standing.

Q. For whom was Baylor University named? R. E. T., Abilene.

A. For Judge R. E. B. Baylor, a native of Kentucky, who moved to Alabama, where he was a member of Congress, before coming to Texas. He came to Texas in the days of the Republic and was soon appointed district judge, a position he held after annexation and until he retired because of age. He was a delegate from Fayette County to the annexation convention of 1845; was much interested in religious education; died at his home near Independence in 1872.

Q. Where was Fort Martin Scott? M. B., Crawford.

A. About 2 miles from Fredicksburg; established by the U. S. Government December 5, 1848; named for Major Martin Scott, who distinguished himself at the battle of Monterrey; abandoned in 1855, but used by Rangers under McCullough as late as 1874.

Q. What is the papaya plant? E. F., O'Donnell.

A Papaya, or papaw, said to be the "bread" fruit referred to in the Bible, a specimen of which can be seen at the Dallas Centennial, is an oblong, thick-rined, many-seeded, yellow fruit somewhat resembling the banana, in appearance and taste. It grows wild in central and southern parts of the United States.

Q. What will become of the exhibits now being shown in the University Exposition at Austin? F. F., Sulphur Springs.

A. The University owns about 60 per cent of them and these will be placed in the Memorial Museum at the University when it is completed. Others will be returned to owners who have loaned them.

"I Saw It in the News Review"

is a common expression among those who keep well informed on current events. They know that in the "Weekly News Review," which appears regularly in this paper, they obtain a comprehensive interpretation of world events written by Edward W. Pickard, one of the nation's most widely-known news commentators.

Weekly News Review

deals with the important happenings and their effect upon our country. It is more than news—it is an interpretation of the news, and therefore much more valuable to the person who wants to understand what is going on in the world today.

● Read it carefully from week to week. You will find it interesting and helpful in your discussion of world events with your neighbors and friends.

Goodbye, Mr. Gloom!

. . . We're a jolly bunch of renegades . . . our sole purpose in life is to give Old Man Gloom the gate and usher in Mr. Sunshine by way of a million laughs. Turn to the Funny Page in every issue and let us help dispel those troubles!

● No man can really live by bread alone. Yes, we admit he'll EXIST, but there will be heavy lines of care running down his face, he'll forget how to smile.

● Verily, we humans need a few hearty guffaws now and then to chase away those wrinkles of care and give our spirits a lift. That's why this newspaper runs a collection of laugh-provoking comic strips on the Funny Page. Amid the depressing news of floods and earthquakes, crime and war, economic troubles and a host of other maladjustments on the face of Mr. World, it's a pleasant relaxation to shut your eyes on the day's bad tidings.

● You can get a joyful lift in spirits from the comics. We invite our readers to take a big swallow of this bottled sunshine. Turn to the Funny Page right now and forget your troubles!

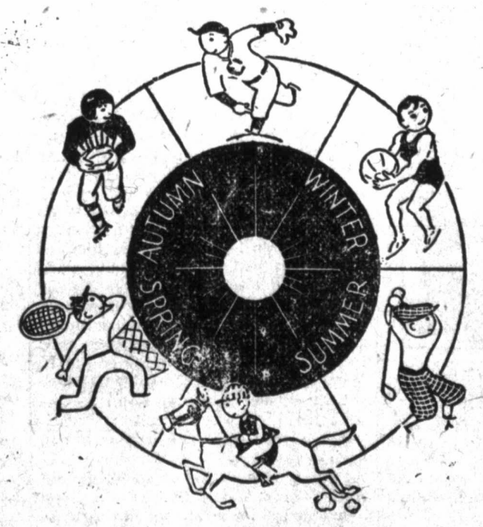

● Our comic characters are a versatile lot, as you'll notice by glancing down the accompanying panel. If you want to chuckle over real troubles, turn to C. M. Payne's strip "S'Matter Pop," and see what a whale of an order he has to keep these boys of his under control . . . Or glance at the adventures of the intellectual Adamson, as drawn by O. Jacobsson.

● Something that will truly draw tears—of laughter—are Gluyas Williams' mischievous but lovable youngsters, Junior and the Baby . . . Then there's "Finney of the Force," by Ted O'Loughlin, as comical and as true-to-life an Irisher as ever flipped a night stick . . . Life out in Cactus Center, as described in S. L. Huntley's "Mescal Ike," has its exciting moments when its rip-roaring citizens are on the loose . . . And when it comes to "The Featherheads," by Osborne, they speak for themselves. In fact, that's the best thing they do!

● Let these bearers of fun whittle your blues down to size. Toss trouble right out the window and get a new lease on life through the comic page—turn to it right now!

Sports Around the Calendar

Hugh Bradley Writes of Your Favorites

Follow Them All in This Newspaper

The sports of the various seasons, as they swing around the calendar, all receive attention from Hugh Bradley, ace sports writer, whose column of entertaining comment is a regular feature of this paper. From the time when the first warm breezes send millions of fans to the baseball parks to that same time the next year, each popular sport in turn is subject for his comments.

And Hugh Bradley knows all these sports . . . many through active participation in them during his college days and later . . . all of them through many years of critical observation.

All set to be a lawyer, Bradley was wooed away from his first love by an invitation to cover sports for the Baltimore American. He has been at it ever since and is now head of the sports department of the New York Post. His wide acquaintance among the stars of the present day and his intimate knowledge of sports history, his free and easy narrative style and the unswerving justice of his criticism have made him popular with readers of all ages.

Watch for Bradley's Column . . . You Will Find It Always Interesting and Informative!

PLAYERS! LEARN WITH THE AMERICAN BOY

Boys and young men who want to improve their crawl stroke, their basket shooting, their hurdling, their tennis backhand, or their ball carrying, can enlist the aid of the nation's foremost coaches and players by subscribing to THE AMERICAN BOY magazine and following the sports interviews and fiction stories that appear each month.

For the coming year staff writers have gone to two of the greatest football teams in the country—Minnesota and Southern Methodist—for first hand tips on strategy, blocking, ball carrying, passing, and the fine points of line play. They have written the story of Bobbie Wilson, All—American halfback.

They have interviewed famous track coaches like Bernie Moore and Bob Simpson. Have gone to the University of Oklahoma to learn how college champions wrestle, to Notre Dame for the story of the building of a great basketball team. They have sought out famous baseball players, swimmers, tennis champions and All-American backs, to get their story of how to play the game.

AMERICAN BOY fiction is jammed with instructive background details telling how to play a better game. And the rest of the magazine is jammed with adventure, exploration, vocational help and articles vital to boys.

Ohio State University's track head, coach of the famous sprinter and low hurdler, Jesse Owens, and himself a former hurdling star, first learned to hurdle from articles in THE AMERICAN BOY. "I used to cut out hurdling pictures and duplicate them in front of a mirror. Then on the track I'd follow that form."

Today thousands of future champions are just as eagerly following THE AMERICAN BOY.

Send your subscription to THE AMERICAN BOY, 7430 Second Blvd., Detroit, Mich. Enclose with your name and address $1 for a year's subscription, $2 for three years, and add 50 cents if you want the subscription to go to a foreign address. On newsstands, 10 cents a copy.

WEEKLY COTTON REPORT

The grades of cotton this week continued to improve over the previous week with Strict Middling and Good Middling representing nearly 59 percent against 53 percent last week. Middling decreased to 28 percent from 33 percent with Strict Low Middling and Low Middling representing 9 percent this week.

Slight increases are reported for the week over the previous week in the proportions of 13-16 inch and 7-8 inch staples. A pronounced increase, however, is shown in 15-16 inch staple this week representing 47 percent compared with approximately 37 percent last week. Inch staples decreased from 35 percent to 24 percent, while 1-1-16 inches and longer lengths decreased from 7 percent to slightly less than 3 percent.

Grades this season to date are generally much higher than those shown to corresponding date last season. The average staple length, however, is a somewhat shorter than last year, with 7-8 inch and shorter lengths, constituting 23 percent against only 12 percent last year, while a reduction is noticeable in the proportion of 15-16 inch cotton this season.

THE COLD GERM ..IS WAITING FOR YOUR DEFENSE TO BE LOWERED!

Don't give a "common cold" an even break! The fact that this is good advice is emphasized by the report of leading doctors who point out that fifty per cent of all disabling diseases start with a "common cold."

It is well known that sudden chilling of the body after overheating will often cause sneezing, watery secretions or nasal obstruction. Of this, there can be no doubt from the experience of generations of people everywhere. Any sudden change in bodily temperature during winter months such as going from a warm room into a cold one disturbs the heat regulating apparatus of the body and lowers your defense against the insidious attack of the cold germ.

If you heat only one or two rooms . . . if you "huddle" in these warm rooms while the rest of the house remains cold, sudden indoor temperature changes are unavoidable. It's good health insurance as well as good advice to provide adequate heat and a proper circulation of pure warm air in every room of your home during the coming winter months.

LONE STAR GAS SYSTEM

Soon the cold germ will marshal his forces for his health wrecking winter attack.

If you should catch cold, consult your family doctor before it has an opportunity to undermine your health.

HOW ARE You TODAY

DR. JAMES W. BARTON Talks About

Eating to Grow Thin

FROM time to time a new reducing diet appears, catches popular fancy for a while, and then passes out of existence, never to return.

Now these reducing diets if followed faithfully will take the weight off and take it off in a short time, but unfortunately they remove more than fat from the system. This is because, while removing weight, they fail to supply some of the needed minerals — lime, phosphorus, iron and some of the needed vitamins such as vitamin C which prevents scurvy and skin ailments, vitamin D the bone forming vitamin, vitamin A which helps to prevent colds and bronchitis vitamin B which assists appetite and digestion.

Dr. Barton

Therefore a diet that contains good nutritious foods may be too one-sided, as it were.

While the reduction of weight is being accomplished the body must be protected from loss of vital substances or rather these vital substances must be supplied by the diet while this same diet is reducing weight.

Thus the ideal reducing diet is a "protective" diet also.

Ten Diet Rules

One of the simplest yet correct diets for providing a protective reducing diet is that outlined by Dr. Mabel E. Baldwin in her book "Diet and Like It."

There are ten rules to follow:

Include in the diet daily:

1. At least one pint of milk) whole or buttermilk). The chief purpose of this rule is to provide lime (calcium). The only foods besides milk that are rich enough in lime to prevent shortage of this element are cheese and leafy vegetables.

2. About one-quarter pound of meat, fish or poultry, or about two-thirds cupful of beans or peas (measured after cooking). These foods provide protein (bodybuilder), iron, and phosphorus. Fish is only half as rich in iron as meat.

3. A small portion of butter. The chief purpose here is to provide sufficient A, butter containing more than any other common food. Eggs, fish livers, and the yellow and green vegetables are also rich in vitamin A.

4. At least one egg. This is to provide sufficient vitamin D. Of course everybody knows that cod-liver oil is rich in vitamin D, but eggs certainly suit the palate more than cod liver oil. Eggs also contain iron.

5. At least two servings of raw fruit.

6. At least one serving of raw vegetable. Some raw foods should be included in the diet because the vitamin C content of most foods is destroyed so rapidly during ordinary cooking that diets consisting entirely of cooked foods do not usually contain enough vitamin C. Canned or stewed tomatoes are an exception as they retain the vitamin C.

7 About one-half cupful each of three cooked vegetables. Any vegetables will do but on the days that fish is selected, one of them should be a green leafy vegetable. Vegetables provide the important minerals and also the roughage which by irritating the lining of the lower bowl prevent constipation.

8. At least one portion of whole-grain product. Whole grains provide protein (body builder), starch (energy giver), vitamins, minerals, and plenty of roughage. Whole wheat, for example, contains from three to five times as much iron, lime and phosphorus as white flour made from it.

9. Iodized salt. This iodized salt is to prevent any shortage in iodine. This provides all the iodine the body needs.

10. In addition to foods provided by the first nine rules, include whatever kinds of food may be desired, and arrange so that these amounts of food do not increase the weight.

As we consider the above ten rules, even those of us who are not wanting to reduce weight will recognize what an all-round diet is provided.

Salt Stops Heat Cramps

So serious is the loss of water in those individuals working in hot places—foundries, furnace rooms, bakeries—that some means had to be found to prevent severe heat cramps which affected hundreds of men during the hot weather. Fortunately it was found that a little tablet containing a quarter teaspoonful of ordinary table salt taken with each glass of water was sufficient to prevent the heat cramps and prevent too great loss of weight.

Lesson for September 13

THE COUNCIL IN JERUSALEM

LESSON TEXT—Acts 15:22-29; Galatians 2:1, 2, 9, 10.

GOLDEN TEXT—For ye, brethren, were called for freedom; only use not your freedom for an occasion to the flesh, but through love be servants one to another.

PRIMARY TOPIC—How to Settle a Quarrel.

JUNIOR TOPIC—How to Settle a Dispute.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What Is Christian Living?

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—How to Live as a Christian.

Although the first council at Jerusalem (Acts 11) had decided that "to the Gentiles also hath God granted repentance unto life, the question did not stay settled, for there were persistent Judaizing teachers who now contended that even though the Gentiles could be saved, they had to come into the church by way of Judaism and fulfill the Jewish rite of circumcision. This raised the vital and fundamental question of

I. Grace versus Law (Acts 15:1). The entire future of the gospel ministry was in a sense dependent on the solution of this problem. Christianity is the only religious faith in the world that presents justification by grace, all others follow the path of works. The question now was, shall works of the law be mingled with grace — can Jesus Christ alone save men, or is salvation through Jesus Christ, plus something else. How was such a serious question to be settled? Should argument and strife be permitted to go on until the stronger party prevailed? Better judgment indicated the desirability of

II. Council Rather Than Controversy (vv. 2-21). There may be times when it becomes the duty of the Christian worker to take an uncompromising stand for the truth of God and refuse to be moved, come what may. But certainly there should be no such spirit in dealing with differing interpretations of Scripture on the part of sincere and earnest Christian brethren.

The question was honestly and carefully considered by the second council at Jerusalem, with the result that there was a

III. Vindication of the Preachers of God's Grace (Acts 15:22-29; Gal. 2:1, 2, 9, 10).

After presenting a plain disavowal of those who had troubled them and subverted their souls (what a serious thing it is to teach error concerning God's Word!), the council being of one accord gave recognition to Paul and Barnabas as men who had "hazarded their lives for the name of the Lord Jesus."

No man should think more highly of himself than he ought. Humility is a Christian grace which well befits a sinner saved by grace. But the Bible abounds with admonitions to honor one another, to recognize the laborer as being worthy of his hire, to give recognition to those who are over us in the Lord. How long is it since you or your church comforted and encouraged some faithful teacher, preacher, missionary, or other Christian worker, by giving such recognition as the council at Jerusalem gave to Paul and Barnabas?

The final decision of the council is sent not only by Paul and Barnabas, but also by a committee from Jerusalem, a gracious gesture of fellowship. Courtesy is not out of place in dealing with even such difficult things as controversies on Christian doctrine — in fact it should be most in place in such a situation. But as a matter of record they also sent

IV. A Letter Which Brought Great Joy (Acts 15:23, 31).

After addressing the Gentiles as "brethren," this letter, which has been well called "the Magna Charta of Christian liberty," reviewed briefly the history of the matter, disposed of the subverters, commended Paul and Barnabas and then without mentioning circumcision at all puts upon the Gentiles "no greater burden than the necessary things." And what were these? Purity of life, as those who were enjoying Christian liberty. The law of Moses need not be kept as a ground of salvation. They were saved by grace. But grace can never be the cloak of careless living, nor can liberty in Christ be interpreted as license to live in sin. We are set free in Christ, not that we may sin, but that we may "go and sin no more."

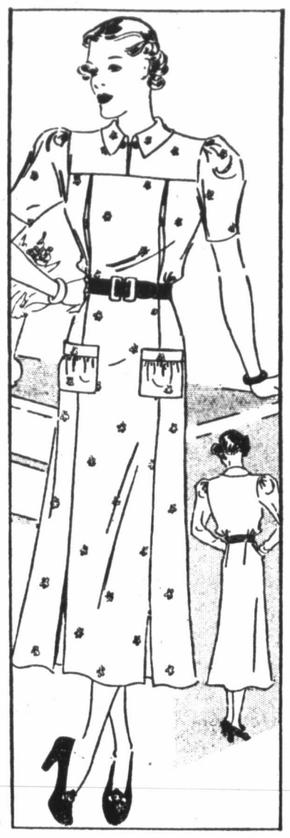

Following an Ideal

Blessed is he who carries within himself a God, an ideal, and who obeys it; ideal of art, ideal of science, ideal of the gospel virtues; therein lie the springs of great thoughts and great actions; they all reflect light from the Infinite.—Pasteur.

Our Own Pleasures

Household Questions

Do not uncover a steamed pudding for the first half hour of cooking.

* * *

Green bananas may be ripened by placing in a paper bag and keeping in a dark closet for a few days.

* * *

Aluminum pots and pans that have become discolored may be brightened by rubbing with a cloth moistened with lemon juice.

* * *

After bottles have been washed with soap and water they can be further cleaned and sweetened by dropping small pieces of fresh lemon into each bottle half filled with water and shaking.

* * *

To remove water spots from silk, dampen evenly and press material while still damp. This may be done by sponging carefully with clear water or by shaking it in the steam from a briskly boiling tea kettle until it is thoroughly damp.

Leftover juices if boiled and used instead of water to dissolve gelatin will give gelatin a richer flavor.

* *

Tarnish can be removed from brass articles with a mixture of lemon juice and wood ashes.
