ete Hegi Honored For 50 ears Of Banking Here

By DALTON WOOD

. B. (Pete) Hegi, rman of the board of National Bank of ka, will be honored with a reception at the bank Sunday afternoon for a half century of service to the bank and to the citizens of the area, a milestone he reached Sept. 1.

During that 50 years, Hegi has done about every job a person can do in a bank and has seen vast changes in banking from the time he first started, when most of the figuring was done by people instead of machines, the bank employees worked 18 hours a day, and the head man drew a salary of $250 a month.

Hegi was reared at Petersburg, the son of pioneer Plains settlers, and began his banking career as a youth with the Petersburg bank. He came to Tahoka Sept. 1, 1929, as a bookkeeper, soon moving up to a depression-years salary of $125 per month. Through the years he moved to the jobs of teller, cashier, vice president, president and director, becoming chairman of the board in 1978.

Big Increase

When he came here, the bank's assets were about $774,000. Over the years they have increased to the current $36,500,000.

Pete played basketball on a very good team in Petersburg, and his team lost by one point to Ralls in a playoff to see who would go to the state tournament in his senior year, 1925.

Hegi's first name actually is Fred but he doesn't even remember how he got the nickname "Pete". Mention Fred Hegi at Petersburg, where he still is well known "and nobody would know who you're talking about" he smiled.

Among his professional affiliations, Hegi is a former vice president and treasurer of the South Plains Bankers Assn. He also is a member of Rotary Club, a former Lions Club president and a member of the Methodist Church. He married the former Madeline Cox on June 12, 1935. At that time she was home demonstration agent in Dawson County. They were introduced by Truett Smith of Tahoka. Mrs. Hegi later taught homemaking in Tahoka schools for many years.

The Hegis have two sons, John, vice president of Lamesa National Bank, and Fred Jr., treasurer of Cooper Industries in Houston. John is married to the former Sharon Jobe of Post and they have sons John Jr., 6 and Thomas, 4. Fred married the former Jan Vestal of Snyder, and they have sons Peter, 4 and Brian, 2½.

Hegi has no plans to retire, and said he will continue to be on the job as usual in his office at the bank.

When Hegi started out with the Tahoka bank, things were a lot different than they are today. "For several years, there were no vacations, and the bank stayed open from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. We would close an hour for supper, then come back at 7 and work until about midnight when we finished posting." He added that the posting was done standing by the posting machine, and at the end of those 18-hour days, the employes were plenty tired.

Five persons ran the bank in the early 30's, and the bank president, Walter Slaton, drew a salary of $250 a month for himself.

Praises Banker

Hegi praised Sla[illegible] as "the greatest banker I've ever known," and observed that many banks in this area closed during the depression years, bt that the Tahoka bank managed to stay in operation. Slaton died in the late 50's and Hegi said he always tried to maintain banking standards he learned from Slaton and keep the bank and community progressing.

"Many of our customers have been with us for years and years," he commented.

The First National never has been held up, even during the 30's when bank robberies were common, "but we did get some tips that someone was planning to rob the bank on a couple of occasions. When that happened, the sheriff (F.E. Redwine Sr.) hid in the bank, but no attempt ever was made...However, the O'Donnell and Wilson banks were robbed in those days."

Interest rates on loans haven't changed so much, although amounts of loans and collateral have. When Hegi came to First National, the interest rate was 10 percent, about what it is now.

"Loans weren't very big--a fellow could make a crop on $1,000," Pete recalled. He chuckled at the memory of the first time farmers in the area started using tractors and wanted to put them up for loan collateral. "Mr. Slaton threw a fit--he figured those tractors were worthless as collateral. He wanted livestock."

Reflecting over 50 years as a banker serving this community, Hegi commented that "Tahoka has been good to me, and I'm glad I stayed."

Without doubt, most people who have done business with him over the years also are glad. And they would surely add that Hegi has been good for Tahoka, too.

GUY I KNOW keeps after me to write ething about air conditioning for turkeys, but is such an unlikely topic that I have been at a to know how to proceed. Actually he is the person I know who has ever brought up the ect, and I tried to explain to him that I never seen any facilities for cooling off turkeys.

e insists, however, that he has seen truckloads urkeys pull into places along the highway re they cool the turkeys down with fans so they 't die until the proper time. He also said that n you see a truckload of turkeys going down oad with all those old turkeys sticking their s out and looking on down the road, they're trying to see where the next cooling off spot is ng up.

ter re-reading the above, I have decided the e subject is birden-some and I'm not going to e it any feather.

CCASIONALLY when I'm looking for an ual topic for column or conversation, I will to one of the releases from the Mother Earth s, which is a magazine I don't get.

e reason I don't get it is because I already get e stuff in the mail than I can read, and besides send me releases regularly which are esting enough. I have seen copies of the azine on news stands, but don't know if ne here sells it.

uch of the content of the Mother Earth News evoted to using things from nature, including nic foods, I guess, and saving money by ding a lot of things people have come up with e way of synthetics, additives, packaging and e latest release points out that earlier issues e publication showed the average person how uild a wood-burning still, prepare the mash get a permit to legally produce home-brewed ol fuel. And that the current issue tells how to vert almost any carburetor to run on e-brewed alcohol "in only an hour."

other Earth obviously is accustomed to ing with people who are handier than I am at ing up things. They sent a copy of the uctions, and it would take me more than an to figure those out. Judging from the ram and list of things needed to convert the uretor, I guess it would take me about two s (providing I did nothing else in the ntime).

ill, it might be worth it, if it works.

that isn't enough to whet your curiosity, the also mentions running trucks on soybean oil, how a woman can build a log cabin, and tells one Florida family designed and built its own -powered water heating system for only .31.

Three More Burglaries Of Homes Investigated

Three more burglaries of homes in the county were reported during the last week, as residents continued to be victimized in daylight break-ins.

On Friday the home of Joe Wagner was burglarized, and stolen were a color television set, gold pocket watch, silverware and small items.

Two other homes were hit Tuesday. At the W. J. Kahl home, nine guns were stolen, plus a microwave oven and clock-radio, and the B. L. Miller home lost a hunting bow and some arrows, a black and white TV set and camera.

All three homes are in the southeast part of the county.

City Police questioned a suspect in the theft of two pigs here two weeks ago and the man implicated three other persons. One of the pigs was recovered in Brownfield and returned to the owner, Willis Pennington. The other has been located, officers said, adding that they expect to file charges in the case.

There was another prowler call at Lynn County Hospital during the week, and officers questioned four youths in connection with an altercation involving a gunshot and a beating, but no charges were filed.

Police also arrested a 32-year-old Tahoka man Wednesday night for being drunk in a car, and Thursday he paid a fine of $51 in city court.

Bulldogs Host Stanton Friday In Opener Here

The Tahoka Bulldogs, rated as high as ninth in the state in an Associated Press pre-season poll last weekend, will open the 1979 football season here at 8 p.m. Friday against an experienced Class A team, Stanton.

Stanton will bring 16 seniors from last year's team, which was 6-3-1, and Bulldog coaches expect the Buffaloes to be strong on defense, headed up by senior linebacker Keith Hull, 185-pounder.

Coach A. D. Shaver will send an experienced, sizeable and speedy team onto Kelley Stadium turf to start what Bulldog fans hope will be Tahoka's greatest season ever. But a scrimmage with Springlake-Earth last Saturday sounded a clear warning to Bulldog players and fans not to take Class A teams too lightly.

The Wolverines gave the Bulldogs plenty of battle before finally caving in during a series of downs starting from the 10-yard line after the regular scrimmage of 40 offensive plays for each team from its own 30 had ended. For a couple of hours the two teams fought on even terms before Tahoka scored on the very last of the second 20-play offensive series.

After the ball was put on the 10, however, and each team given 10 plays, Springlake scored once and Tahoka five more times.

Tracy White, Kenny Scott, Clifford Oages and Randy Chapa were among those running over the goal line, and QB Todd Brown hit Charles Bryson with a scoring pass. One of White's 10-yard runs was behind a good block by Guard Jacky Jolly.

All of that was nice, but the real action starts at 8 Friday, Shaver told about 60 persons at a Booster Club meeting Tuesday night, after players were introduced. Shaver and club president Jerry Brown urged everyone to wear blue all day Friday and to the game to show a lot of school colors.

Boosters decided to start a "coach of the week" program, in which a person whose name is drawn at the booster meeting will wear a jacket so designating him, and will go down on the sidelines and in the dressing rooms with the team, making a "coach's report" to the boosters the following Tuesday. John Curry will be the first coach of the week.

Cemetery Board Is Appointed

Tahoka city councilmen Tuesday night appointed a cemetery advisory board to have regulatory power over operations at the cemetery and to help upgrade the facilities there.

Chairman of the group is Mrs. Billie Embree White, and members are Edward Bartley, Milton Uzzle, Nadine Dunlap and Mrs. C. D. Childress.

Councilmen also discussed the weed ordinance with representatives from the chamber of commerce, rejected a proposed oil lease of city property, appointed Mayor Mel Leslie as city judge and adopted a resolution related to obtaining funds for paving and street improvements under the Community Development Block Grant program.

Lynn County Weaver To Have Own Exhibit At Snyder

By DALTON WOOD

Needle-weaving is one of the most ancient of arts, and after losing much of its eminence in more recent years it now is making a comeback of sorts. And at least part of that revival of interest in weaving is taking place right here in Lynn County.

More specifically, there's a talented artist doing some very pleasing work in her home near Wilson and she's pleased enough to have her own one-woman exhibit featured at the Scurry County Museum in Snyder starting today and continuing through the month of September.

The artist is Mrs. Eual (Janet) Davis, who was invited to put the exhibit on display at the museum, where she plans to have 17 or 18 pieces of tapestry for viewing and for sale.

Family Activity

Tapestry weaving is a family affair at the Davis home. Although Mrs. Davis is the artist on the threads, she is assisted in many ways by her husband and their three children, daughters Freida, 22; Cindy, 20; and Justin, 17. She explained that there is a lot of preliminary work involved in weaving, and also some intricate work in finishing off and outside of a tapestry that the family members help do. Also her husband builds the frames to hold the tapestries.

Freida and Cindy are both Tech students and Justin is a senior at Wilson High School. The family home is west of Wilson about three miles.

Although Janet was an art student at Stephen F. Austin, she never finished there, leaving after her husband graduated and began his work with the Soil Conservation Service. They lived several times in the next decade or so, but it was back in 1970 while they were living in Muenster that Mrs. Davis became more or less accidentally became interested in weaving.

Sees Looms

She signed up for courses leading to an associate degree in nursing at nearby Cooke County Junior College in Gainesville. Then, she said, "I was walking down the hall and saw this room with some looms in it. . . I thought it looked like fun, so signed up to take a course in weaving."

Later she decided against the nursing course, and when she transferred to Texas Women's University in Denton she planned to be an art major. Weaving was required of all art majors at TWU and she finally became so interested in weaving that she decided to major in that area of art specialization.

Mrs. Davis said she had a little difficulty convincing her husband that she should major in weaving, and some other friends and members of the family also thought it a bit odd.

"I told my mother I was majoring in weaving and she thought I was making baskets," she laughed.

Most people have little conception of the amount of work and knowledge and talent that goes into a hand-woven tapestry. Mrs. Davis also does work on looms, but mostly she concentrates on the beautiful textures and colors of needle weaving by hand. Examples of her art work are everywhere in her workshop and around the home, and she says she averages working four or five hours a day on the tapestries.

She also worked for about 18 months for an internationally-known weaving artist, Romeo Reyna, now of Lubbock. For example, she assisted in the weaving of the 150-foot-long tapestry in the Lubbock Memorial Civic Center banquet hall. Reyna designed the tapestry as a tribute to Lubbock tornado victims.

Actual weaving time on a piece of tapestry naturally varies with the size and design, but she explained that one article which she had almost completed last week, measuring about 4 by 6 feet, took about two weeks of weaving time. Janet does 10 or 12 pieces of work per year on her own, in addition to what she has been doing for Reyna.

As an example of the amount of preparatory work involved, she explained that yarn comes in bulk and has to be wound by hand into balls. Then the artist may need to take several of the balls and then ply them into a single heavier strand to be used for a variation in texture in the finished product. She said family members spend hours rolling up yarn into balls as they watch television.

Mrs. Davis said that weaving in ancient times and in the Renaissance period produced a very flat product which was intended to reproduce an artist's work exactly and that they did so with skill and beauty. In more recent years, she said, texture and color design have been given more importance and tapestries have a livelier, more three-dimensional look.

There will be a reception in the museum at Snyder from 1 to 5 p.m. Sunday, and Mrs. Davis' exhibit, called "Trees" will remain through the month.

The tapestries will be priced from $250 to $2500, she said. And judging from both their appearance and the amount of work and talent which go into making them, they should be well worth it.

TO BE ON DISPLAY — Weaving artist Janet Davis shows a sample of her work which will be among items on display all this month in the Scurry County Museum at Snyder. Mrs. Davis completed this tapestry in about seven days of difficult weaving.

IN GOOD HANDS — Weaving of this sort is all done by hand, using a needle on a homemade frame. Mrs. Eual Davis of near Wilson just about has this piece finished, after two weeks of actual weaving, plus a lot of hours of preparatory work. The yarn is pulled down tight by the fingers, which requires hands which are strong as well as talented.

Harvest Festival Coming Up

Plans for the annual Harvest Festival here Oct. 12-13 were discussed briefly by Tahoka Chamber of Commerce directors who met at noon Tuesday in the Cafeteria and voted to provide funds to pay festival expenses until some money could be raised for the event.

Chamber President Richard White noted that the festival will coincide with homecoming here Oct. 12 when the Bulldogs host Roosevelt, and that there would be a parade Friday, queen's contest and dance and drawings for prizes on Saturday, with entertainment on the square.

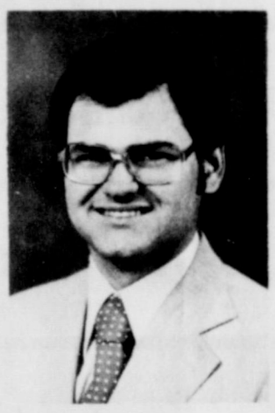

A planning session by the festival committee is scheduled at 8 p.m. today (Thursday) at the Reddy Room and any interested persons are invited to attend.

C-C members also discussed the cleanup situation in town.

THIS IS A FOOTBALL — Coach James Wall of New Home appears to be giving basic instructions to his quarterback, Mickey Kieth, who actually already knows what to do with a football, as he is one of the returning starters from last season and is being counted on to lead the offense. When Kieth is throwing the ball, one of his primary targets should be end Bob Villerreal, No. 81, at left.

New Home Coach Stressing Desire

The New Home Leopards will line p for the opening football game of the season at home Friday night against Seymer with a lot of new faces on the team, including a new head coach, James Wall, former New Deal assistant.

Wall expects the young Leopards will have some early-season problems, because only three seniors are on the squad, but he also thinks the team has a good positive attitude and anticipates that they will be highly competitive by the time district play starts.

New Home is in the tough 3-8 west zone, where Klondike is the favorite this season.

Coach Wall does look for good leadership from Quarterback Mickey Kieth, a veteran who is rated among the top quarterbacks in the district, and who will direct Wall's I-formation offense. Kieth is a left-hander who can pass well and who also will do the punting.

His brother, Murray Kieth, a junior, will be at tailback, and Billy Paul, 150-pounder junior, is likely to be one of the running backs.

A couple of good-sized linemen, tackle Alan Eades, 236, and guard Randy Bell, 200, are expected to anchor the line. Tracy Smith will snap the ball. Ends will be Mickey McClintock and senior Bob Villarreal, one of the players from whom Coach Wall and assistants Mike Banks and Jimmy Fillingim expect good things.

Seven seniors were lost from last year's team which posted a 6-4 mark, but Wall believes desire and attitude will compensate a lot for the lack of experience and depth.

Mustangs Counting On Experience In Line

Wilson's Mustangs will open the season Friday night by playing host to Class A O'Donnell and Coach Danny Chisum expects to learn from this very tough opener some things which will help the defending Class B zone champions on down through the season.

Wilson was 9-2 last season, winning the west zone of District 3-B and then losing a 21-20 cliffhanger to Jayton for the district title. From that team, Coach Chisum and assistants Pat Mouser and Mike Carroll have a lot of experience and talent returning in the line, but none of last year's starters in the backfield are around this season.

This backfield inexperience may be a problem, particularly in early games, but Coach Chisum figures some of the players will come around and do a good job, with the help of the good-sized linemen.

Four all-district performers are back to do even better things. They include center Randy Mocyzgemba (195), guard David Weaver (155), tackle Quintin Talkmitt (183) and tight end Mitch Bartley (185). With these in the line are expected to be guard Rick Schwertner (160) and tackle Robbie Autry (200).

On defense, Mocyzgemba moves to tackle along with Autry, and Talkmitt and Bartley will man the two linebacker spots.

Jon Cox, 170-pound senior who played some at running back last year, is expected to handle the quarterbacking chores and also may play defensive end. Only other back with any experience last season is Randy Hall, 145-pound junior. Also figuring in the offensive backfield plans are Jay Ross, Tim Bednarz, Don Frietag, Billy Bishop and Bobby Garcia. Some of these also likely will wind up in the defensive secondary, where there are no returnees. Freshman Kendall Wilke may crack the starting lineup in the secondary.

Chisum says Klondike should be favored to win the west zone this year, with Wilson, New Home and Meadow close in talent.

Playoff experience last year should be a plus for the Mustangs this season, though, and Chisum and his players know they can win it all if they work hard and everyone stays healthy.

State Tax Rep To Be Here Tuesday

State Comptroller Bob Bullock announced he is sending a representative from his Lubbock office to Tahoka next Tuesday, Sept. 11, to assist local taxpayers and answer questions about state taxes.

Bullock said Enforcement Officer Margaret McClung will meet with local taxpayers at the Lynn County Courthouse, Court Room from 10 a.m. to noon.

"If Tahoka area merchants, or anyone else for that matter, have any questions about state taxes or need help in preparing tax forms, Mrs. McClung will be there to assist them," Bullock said.

"We're trying to cut the red tape in this office and we believe these face-to-face sessions with taxpayers help do just that," Bullock said.

Bullock reminded those taxpayers who are unable to meet with his representative on Tuesday that they can still get their questions answered quickly by calling his toll-free tax information number in Austin. That number is 1-800-252-5555.

The Lubbock office, headed by Vance A. Porfirio, serves Lubbock and surrounding counties.

President Of SWPS To Speak To Rotary

Berl M. Springer, president and chief operating officer of Southwestern Public Service Company, will be the guest speaker at the Sept. 6 luncheon meeting of the Tahoka Rotary Club. Springer will speak on "The Energy Crisis: You and SPS."

Springer is a native of Lakeview, Texas, located 10 miles west of Memphis in Hall County. He graduated from Memphis High School in 1938 and Texas Tech University in 1943 where he earned a bachelor of science degree in industrial engineering. In 1975 his alma mater honored his with the Distinguished Engineer Award. The Texas Tech Alumni Association named him "Distinguished Alumni" in 1978.

Springer is a past member of the Texas Tech Industrial Advisory Board, and presently a member of the Texas Tech Foundation, the Electrical Engineering Visiting Committee of the University of Texas and the President's Council of West Texas State University in Canyon. He is also a director of the Food and Energy Council.

Springer began his career with Southwestern Public Service Company Dec. 9, 1946, as a draftsman in the Company's Amarillo office. Springer was elected vice president of rates and budget in 1969 and executive vice president in 1972. 'he became a member of the SPS board of Directors in 1974 and was elected president and chief operating officer in 1976.

Springer has been active in community and civic affairs in Amarillo for the past 32 years. He is a past president of the Amarillo Chapter of the American Cancer Society. Springer has served as the co-chairman of the United Way and has been a member of the Administrative Board of the Polk Street United Methodist Church for the past 21 years.

Springer's remarks to the Tahoka Rotarians will address the present energy crisis and what SPS is doing and planning to assure its customers a continuing supply of dependable electric service.

Southwestern Public Service Company, in its present form, came into being in Sept. 1942. Through mid-1976, the company was virtually 100 percent fueled by natural gas. However, in 1970, SPS management had decided that coal was the fuel of the future and started making plans for the company's first coal-fired plant. In August 1976, shortly after President Carter's energy speech requesting electric utilities to switch to coal, the first of three 350-megawatt coal-fired units at Harrington Station went on the line. The second unit went on the line in the summer of 1978 and the third unit is scheduled for completion about June of 1980. When the third unit is on the line almost 60 percent of Southwestern's generation will be from coal.

neered the use of the sewage neered the se of sewage effluent as cooling and make-up water and, with further treatment, as boiler make-up water at its Jones Station in Lubbock, saving thousands of gallons of fresh water daily. Sewage effluent is also used at Harrington Station and Nichols Station in Amarillo.

When SPS went to coal, a scrubber was installed on the Harrington Unit 1 to make sure that the company was in compliance with all clean air standards. Then for Unit 2, a fabric filter system, commonly known as a baghouse, was installed. It was the largest baghouse ever built.

Southwestern has actively supported nuclear development and has waged a strong campaign for a helium breeder reactor program. It has also been active in the research and development of thermonuclear fusion for the generation of electric energy. SPS is a charter member of the Texas Atomic Energy Research Foundation (TAERF) which was created in 1957 by ten investor-owned electric utilities in Texas for the advancement of energy knowledge, particularly nuclear energy. Research in the field of nuclear fusion is now being carried out by TAERF on the campus of the University of Texas AT Austin.

Sothwestern recently announced that the Department of Energy has awarded SPS and General Electric a grant of approximately $500,000 to study the feasibility of repowering one of SPS's generating units with a solar system. If built, it would be one of the largest solar projects of its kind in the United States.

In November of last year, SPS was selected by Electric Light and Power magazine as the Outstanding Electric Utility in the United States for 1978.

The 70th Annual Field Day of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station (TAES) will be held at 1:00 p.m. Tuesday, September 11, at the Texas A&M Research and Extension Center, three miles north of Lubbock International Airport on FM 1294.

The following two days, September 12 and 13, the West Texas Agricultural Chemicals Conference is scheduled at Lubbock Memorial Civic Center, and officials of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., Lubbock, are urging High Plains farmers to attend as many of the Field Day and Conference activities as possible.

The TAES Field Day will provide farmers with the latest research information on weed control, soil fertility, cotton breeding, water use efficiency and grain sorghum breeding. Grape vineyard tours and soybean research will be among added attractions.

Registration for the Chemicals Conference begins at 8:00 a.m. Wednesday, September 12, and the program begins at 1:15 p.m. Theme of the Conference is "Living with Legalitis." Both state and federal regulations which concern producers and agricultural chemical manufacturers will be examined.

Two awards for outstanding contributions to West Texas agriculture will be presented at an awards banquet beginning at 7:00 p.m. September 12. Speaker for the banquet will be humorist Justin Wilson of Baton Rouge, Louisiana.

Weed and insect controls, the integrated pest management concept, cotton scouting, soil testing and leaf petiole analysis are among other topics to be covered in the Conference.

"Many of the research achievements over the past 25 years, including those of chemical research, were made with the help of cotton producer money and guidance through PCG," notes PCG President Joe D. Unfred of New Home.

"So I am more than glad," he adds, "to join the sponsors of the Field Day and the Conference in urging producers to take advantage of the opportunities they offer, because maximum benefits from research can be realized only if producers keep informed about and utilize the latest developments."

The annual TAES Field Day is a presentation of the Experiment Station, High Plains Research Foundation, USDA, TAES and the National Weather Service Agricultural Meteorology Office.

The Chemicals Conference is sponsored each year by the West Texas Agricultural Chemicals Institute.

Canning Helps Offered

Canning season is traditional and this year is no exception. It should be a busy and rewarding season for canning enthusiasts.

If you haven't done canning, it's a great time to experience some canning of your choice.

There are a few basics however, some of which are listed.

1. Know that the experience is rewarding enough for you to invest food, money, energy and time.

2. Know there are no safe short cuts in home canning. Proper canning procedures are important and good instructions must be followed. When canning, select and work with the best products available.

3. Foods are different and so are processing methods. Fruits and high acid vegetables are processed with the water bath canner. (Water bath canners are well worth the investment and are usually available in your local town.)

4. Low acid vegetables as corn and green beans are processed with a pressure cooker canner. Follow directions for your specific pressure cooker.

5. Meal time favorites as meat and poultry may be canned; also home made soups and broths. Pickles, relishes and sauces will be welcome and will perk up any meal.

6. Always check for a good seal. Follow manufacturers instructions for use and care jars and matching lids.

7. The nicest part about canning happens when you serve a colorful, wholesome meal of nutritious foods canned by you. The economy of home canned foods is unbeatable. With jars of home canned food on your pantry shelf, costly trips to super markets can be reduced. Save a few extra jars of your favorite canned food for those special gift-giving ideas too.

8. For your canning procedure, have on hand enough jars and supplies for one days canning. They should be clean and ready for use.

9. Know that the boiling point of water varies with altitudes. In Lubbock, it is 206 degrees instead of 212 degrees F.

A person using water bath canning method should increase the boiling time for recipes requiring 20 minutes or less add three minutes; and for recipes requiring over 20 minutes, increase six minutes. A guide on this is provided in good recommended canning books.

Some canning books highly recommended are available:

Bernardin Home Canning Guide, cost $1.00, write Bernardin, Inc., 2201 W. Maryland, Box 725, Evansville, Indiana 47705. Enclose $1 and state your name and address. Allow 2 to 4 weeks for delivery.

The Ball Blue Book, cost is $1 for Edition 29 and Edition 30 is $2.50. The last one includes metric equivalents. Another book is available and is written in Spanish, available for $2.25. Write direct to: Ball Corporation, Direct Marketing Products, Dept. IQ, Muncie, Indiana 47302. Allow 4 to 5 weeks for delivery.

Another canning book is Kerr Canning and Freezing Book. Send $1 to Kerr Glass Manufacturing Corp., Sand Springs, Okla. 74063. Allow one to two weeks for delivery.

Also the following copies are available from Southwestern Public Service at no cost. They are Home Canning - Summer Harvest, Winter Feast, Gourmet Gift Giving Recipes, Summer's Saucy Spreads (this includes recipes for jelly, pickles and relishes and semi-soft spreads) and Facts About Home Freezing. Please write: Vivian Liner, Home Service Advisor, Box 631, Lubbock, Texas 79408. Copies will be sent as long as they last. Be sure to specify which publications you want mailed to you.

Another wise method for managing food and energy is freezing. Freezing is one of the simplest and least time consuming ways to preserve foods at home. If you question any product as to how well it freezes, test it first. Test by freezing 3 or 4 packages, then sample. Green onions, salad greens and radishes do not freeze well. Tomatoes are questionable. They generally freeze better as a juice or cooked product. Use moisture vapor proof containers that will hold only enough for one meal for size family. Containers with flat sides and uniform shapes will stack well and save freezer space. Use ascorbic acid or citric acid according to directions for fruits and vegetables that may darken.

Practically every vegetable requires blanching. Green pepper is an exception. Dry pack is recommended for many vegetables because the preparation for freezing and serving is easier.

After blanching, chill by emersing in ice or cold water, drain or dry well and package. Package and label properly. Store immediately in quickest freezing section of freezer. Some home makers advance date of packages so as to be sure to use product before given date. Most fruits and vegetables maintain high quality for 8 to 12 months.

If freezer is left open or power is interrupted, keep freezer closed as much as possible. Food in a loaded freezer will stay 2 days and in a half filled freezer 1 day. Use dry ice if possible. If food is completely thawed or is questionable, call your utility Company. They can give you some guide lines on what to do.

Place ventilating fans in or near an open window to exhaust hot indoor air and draw cooler out door air inside.

A high-capacity ventilating fan can economically "cool down" a large area when outdoor temperatre is lower than that inside.

A 20-inch fan should change about 1800 cubic feet air per minute--the amount in a 15-by-15-foot room with an eight-foot ceiling.

Replacing hot stagnant air with cooler otdoor air will improve comfort, but a ventilating fan will not remove humidity from the air it brings into the home.

Ventilating fans are available in either portable or stationary form.

The portable form, a dual-purpose fan capable of either ventilating or circulating air, is known as a box fan.

On the other hand, window fans are mechanically similar to box fans, but they are designed for stationary use in a window.

Box Fans

Box fans are versatile because they are both portable and dual-purpose.

When set in or near an open window, they ventilate. They circulate air when placed within a room.

A box fan's capacity to suck air ot or blow it into an area is controlled in either of two ways:

1 a switch that reverses direction of the blades, or

2 physically turning the fan unit around to change direction of air flow.

Built-in thermostats are featured on many box fan models. Thermostat-equipped models will start up or shut off at a preset temperature.

Most units have two or three different speed settings which permit greater control of both air movement and noise during operation.

While separate window-mounting panels are available with some box fans, a few manufacturers caution against installing in an open window. Usually good ventilating performance is achieved by placing the box fan on a table 18 to 24 inches from an open window.

Windows Fans

Window fans are designed for semi-permanent installation in an open window.

They cannot be used to circulate air inside a room since built-in mounting panels are attached to the window frame with screws.

Window fans should be electrically reversible so the spin of the blades can change to blow air into a room as well as exhaust it.

Thermostats are also available on many window fan models.

Cooling a room or area with a window fan can be accomplished more effectively by remembering a few gidelines:

1 Outdoor temperatures must be lower than temperature inside for cooling to take place.

2 The larger the space being cooled, the longer it will take.

3 In cooling down a large area, open at least one window in each room to be cooled. Open those windows that will provide the largest possible sweep of air between the open windows and the one where the fan is located.

4 Close doors and windows in rooms that don't need cooling.

5 Check the fan to make sure it is set to exhaust inside air.

Unmolding Gelatin

-Rinse the mold pan in cold water and then coat with salad oil. Your mold will drop out easily and will have an appealing luster.

SOME MEDICINES NEED SPECIAL PROTECTION

You know what happens to a delicious custard if you permit it to be exposed for some time in a warm place. It can turn into a dangerous killer. Therefore, you refrigerate custards to prevent this. Many medicines must be protected against a similar change or they too can be harmful.

Pharmacists are taught at college how to store all medicines and to date those which lose potency after a certain time. Some of them must be kept aways from heat or light. Others we keep refrigerated till ready for use. When dispensing such medicines which are subject to change we will always inform you if there are any precautions you must observe.
