Five Inmates Stage Revolt At Amarillo

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP) — The mother of a Potter County jail prisoner said today her daughter was being held in a revolt in which prisoners held two jail guards hostage.

The prisoners have threatened to kill the two jailers, identified as Don Sidwell and Stan Snitter, unless they are given freedom.

Sheriff T.L. Baker said four prisoners armed with knives were being led by Darwin "Red" Meharg. Baker said a fifth inmate, Barbara Ann Thiel, 40, joined the four prisoners in the revolt shortly before midnight Monday.

But Louzetta McGregor, Mrs. Thiel's mother, said her daughter telephoned her estranged husband's employer from jail earlier today and said she was forced by Meharg to join the revolt.

"She told Herman's (Thiel) boss that Red made her join them in this thing. She was crying and everything and then suddenly the telephone went dead," Mrs. McGregor said.

Mrs. Thiel and Meharg were arrested last month in Amarillo on charges of robbing a liquor store.

"He's a mean, mean man. I've known him for years," Mrs. McGregor said. "I've heard him say over and over again that he'll kill or be killed before he goes back to jail again."

Meharg is an ex-policeman and former convict with a long police record, officers said.

"He was never much of an officer—out of line most of the time," a Wichita Falls police spokesman said. Meharg was employed for a few months in

GREAT TEAMMATE—President Ford introduces Nelson A. Rockefeller as his choice for vice president at the White House today. Ford said the former New York governor will "make a great teammate." (AP Wirephoto.)

Congress Approval Certainty

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford today nominated Nelson A. Rockefeller to be vice president, saying the former New York governor will "make a great teammate."

The choice is subject to congressional approval, a virtual certainty.

Rockefeller said he was deeply honored at the call to serve Ford and "through him all the people of this great country."

Ford said he was confident Rockefeller will be approved by the required majorities in the House and Senate. "I wouldn't have picked someone who wouldn't be," the President said.

Ford presented Rockefeller in a nationally televised, Oval Office ceremony. Then he took his chosen partner to the White House press room, where Rockefeller, answering questions, said he assumes Ford will be a candidate for election to the presidency in 1976.

Rockefeller, 66, said he had not discussed the political future with Ford. Asked who he thought would be on the ticket with Ford in 1976, Rockefeller replied: "You're way down the road ahead of me."

Formally announcing the nomination, Ford said Rockefeller will be "a good partner for me and I think a good partner for our country and the world."

Then, in the press room, he added: "I think he'll make a great teammate. I think he will be good for the country. I think he'll be good for the world and I'm looking forward to working with him."

At his brief news conference, Rockefeller, a member of one of the nation's wealthiest families, fended off questions about his personal finances, but said he will make whatever disclosures are required in the congressional confirmation process.

He refused to divulge his net worth at the news conference, bluntly telling questioners: "You're not the committee of Congress."

"I will do two things," he said. "I will conform totally with whatever the law requires and I will answer any questions members of Congress feel appropriate."

As for his vast holdings, he said he assumed they would be placed in trust.

Ford said the selection was "a tough call." Rockefeller said the President first contacted him directly Saturday — the day the White House dismissed published allegations that Rockefeller money had financed efforts to disrupt the 1972 Democratic National Convention.

Rockefeller said Ford told him Monday night that he was the choice for vice president.

Korean Leader's Top Aides Quit

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — Thirty-nine of President Chung Hee Park's top government and political associates resigned today in the wake of last week's assassination attempt on Park. The gesture was a symbolic one that's customary in Korea after embarrassing incidents.

The president, however, accepted the resignations of only two men: Home Minister Hong Suo-chul, whose ministry controls the police, and the chief presidential bodyguard, Park Chong-kyoo, one of his most trusted aides.

The resignations were to show that the men assumed responsibility for the failure of the security forces to prevent the attempt on Park's life.

Park named Park Kyong-won, 51, as himself a retired army general, to be home minister. Park said he would name a new chief of the presidential protective force in a few days.

The new home minister has served twice previously in that capacity and once as communications minister under President Park.

Resignations had poured in from Premier Kim Jong-pil; the 14 members of his cabinet; the top five officials of Park's ruling Democratic Republican party; the national police director; mayor and police chief of Seoul; Korea's ambassador to Japan; Park's chief secretary and chief protocol officer; four economic and political assistants; Park Chong-kyoo and eight other senior officials of the presidential protective service.

Official resignations are customary in the Far East whenever an embarrassing incident occurs. Even had Park accepted all the resignations, the mass turnover would probably not have affected government policy since the president exercises dictatorial powers.

Information Minister Yun Chu-yong announced that the cabinet was quitting to show its deep regret over its failure "to prevent the assassination attempt carried out in the capital at the instruction of the North Korean puppets."

Joint Committee To Probe Alleged Discriminatory Hiring Practices On Job Forms By Congressmen

By The Associated Press
 Alleged discriminatory practices by U.S. congressmen will be investigated by the Joint Committee on Congressional Operations, the committee's chairman announced Monday.

The announcement was made by Sen. Lee Metcalf, D-Mont., following disclosures last week by the Fort Worth Star-Telegram that congressmen specified the applicants' race and religion on job forms submitted to Congress staff-hiring offices.

Most of the congressmen whose job forms reportedly specified racial, religious or other preferences when considering job applicants denied that they practiced job discrimination. Some called the job forms forgeries.

Metcalf, however, said "the authenticity of the forms is apparent." He said he had assigned top staff members to the investigation rather than persons who worked directly in the congressional placement offices.

Meanwhile in Washington, a former woman employee of the staff-hiring office said Monday that "whites only" and other discriminatory restrictions were common and involved "a lot more than 20 congressmen's offices."

More Hot Weather Promised In State

Damp air billowed slowly into Texas from the Gulf of Mexico and clouds thickened over the central part of the state today.

Although occasional showers strayed across the state line from Eastern New Mexico into parts of West Texas, more hot weather was promised in all areas.

The Tall City has a 20 per cent chance for rain tonight and about the same chance Wednesday, the National Weather Service at Midland Air Terminal said.

The weatherman said the maximum temperature here this afternoon should be in the middle 90s, with a low tonight in the upper 60s. A high in the low 90s is forecast for Wednesday.

Midland's top reading Monday was 96, and this morning's low was 70.

Forecasters looked for scattered showers Wednesday, the National Weather Service at Midland Air Terminal said.

PROVIDES WATER TO TINY VILLAGE— Owner Of One-Man Utility Wants Out

LOWPOINT, Ill. (AP) — For 22 years, Lynn L. Banta has operated a one-man utility providing water to this tiny Midwestern village. Now he wants out. Residents will vote in a referendum Aug. 31 on whether to form a water district to take over the Lowpoint Water Co. And Banta says he doesn't even want to remain on as a trustee. "I would prefer to have nothing further to do with it," said Banta, 63, who lives in Peoria. "I think 22 years is probably long enough for one individual. They might have somebody else who could do a lot better job really."

Lowpoint is a quiet rural community in Woodford County with a population of about 200. But Banta, who also operates four grain elevators, has problems not unlike the giant utilities that serve metropolitan areas. "It hasn't been that much of a care really," he said. "We handle our bookkeeping right through our regular grain office."

"But we do have to go around and read the meters. And if for some reason or another a pump goes out and you don't have water tomorrow morning you get about a dozen phone calls awfully quick," he said. The water works was set up in the early 1950s to serve the employees of Banta Bros. Inc., which ran a general store, "but since that time it grew until everybody seemingly wanted in on it," said Banta.

Fords Move Into White House

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford and his family have settled into the White House and spent the first evening at their new home entertaining. The Fords hosted a private cocktail reception Monday night for 60 Secret Service men and their wives. "It was a way of saying goodbye and thank you" to the men who guarded the Ford family in their Alexandria, Va., home before they moved into the White House.

Mrs. Ford's personal secretary, Nancy Howe, said. A new detail of secret service took over Monday. The family's belongings were moved from their suburban home in a single van by the time the President and Mrs. Ford returned from a day's trip to Chicago Monday. The only furniture moved into the White House was the Ford's double bed and a blue leather easy chair that is the President's favorite. Other furniture and furnishings will go into storage while the Fords rent their Alexandria home during their White House occupancy, which Ford said probably will be 2 1/2 years.

Former Magazine Editor Dies At 90

MONTEREY, Calif. (AP) — William Ludlow Cheney, 90, editor for 25 years of the now defunct Colliers magazine, died Sunday at a convalescent home. Cheney worked for newspapers in Colorado and New York before moving to Colliers in 1925. He hired Ernest Hemingway to cover the Normandy invasion for Colliers during World War II. He retired from the magazine in 1956. It folded seven years later.

Banta says the Lowpoint Water Co.'s flat rate of $4.50 a quarter for all but quantity users has remained unchanged from the time he acquired the firm. Quantity users pay $1 for the first thousand gallons of water, 80 cents for the second, 55 cents for the third and 50 cents for each additional thousand gallons. He says he pays $40 to $70 quarterly for water at his Peoria home. Banta thinks that because of his age someone else should take over but he's not certain village residents will vote to go along.

The former Miss McIntosh is a production assistant at Britain's National Theater.

U.S. Trying To Smooth Relations With Greece While Awaiting British Initiative On New Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is trying to smooth its relations with Greece while awaiting an undisclosed British initiative for setting up new Cyprus peace talks.

Chairman Benjamin S. Rosenthal of the House Europe subcommittee said he will move to suspend all $242 million in U.S. aid to Turkey despite her pledge to negotiate. "I just want to keep the pressure on. We've been through this before," the New York Democrat said.

Rosenthal announced his intention of trying to cut off the aid during a subcommittee hearing at which the American policy on Cyprus came under heavy fire. "I think American policy was severely tilted in favor of Turkey," said Rep. Paul S. Sarbanes, D-Md.

Testifying at the hearing, Asst. Secretary of State Arthur A. Hartman blamed the Cyprus flareup on "stupidities" of the fallen Greek military junta for deliberately upsetting Cyprus' stability last month. He contended the ensuing Turkish military invasion could not have been stopped with anything short of U.S. armed force.

Britain, a guarantor of the 1960 treaty establishing the island's independence, is expected to sound out the Greek and Turkish Cypriots before enlisting U.S. aid and reviving the Geneva conference.

Knowledgeable U.S. officials believe Britain is likely to try to work out some preference agreements so that when the parties, including Greece and Turkey, return to the negotiating table there are reasonable prospects of success. A breakdown in Geneva preceded the onslaught by Turkish forces that led to their control of about 60 per cent of Cyprus.

In a gesture to Athens, which strongly suspects Washington of having tilted toward Turkey, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger told a news conference on Monday that "upon calmer reflection the responsible Greek leaders will recognize that the United States has shown deep sympathy for the Greek government."

Kissinger added "we welcome the present democratic government in Greece" and any negotiated settlement must be "consistent with the dignity and honor of all of the parties."

He said the first imperative at this point is to "get the parties to the conference table."

Kissinger spoke of a British initiative in this regard, but other officials here said the details of the British approach were not yet clear.

Kissinger said he has received assurances from Premier Bulent Ecevit that Turkey is willing to negotiate a pull-back from positions it holds on Cyprus and that it would reduce its forces on the island.

"We believe it will be necessary for Turkey, as the stronger power on the ground, to display flexibility and a concern for Greek sensibilities," Kissinger said.

Alcoa Will Stop Production Of Household Aluminum Wrap

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer
Forty-three years after it started making household aluminum foil, the Aluminum Co. of America has announced it will stop production of the shiny wrap by Dec. 31.

Other major household foil manufacturers said they would continue production. It was too early to tell what effect Alcoa's action would have on the price of foil. According to some industry spokesmen, a more important factor is the steadily rising price of aluminum ingots.

A spokesman for Reynolds Metal Co., the major producer of aluminum foil, said the basic price of an aluminum ingot has risen from 25 cents a pound last December to 35 cents a pound at the beginning of August.

Part of the reason is higher taxes imposed by the governments of countries like Jamaica that produce bauxite. There is about one-fourth of a pound—or nine cents worth—of aluminum in a 25-square-foot roll of regular Reynolds Wrap, a spokesman said. The rest of the price, which varies from area to area, but generally is less than 70 cents, covers such things as labor, packaging, production costs, advertising and markup.

Alcoa said it was stopping production of Alcoa Wrap, Wear-ever Foil and private label brands for supermarkets and other retail stores because of a shortage of aluminum, not to divert the available aluminum into more profitable items.

Alcoa, which produces about 20 per cent of the household foil sold in the U.S., said it will continue to make heavy-duty foil for use by institutions and restaurants. Reynolds, which sells household foil under the names Reynolds Wrap and Diamond Foil, and Kaiser, which markets aluminum foil for private-label brands, said they would continue production.

'Mansion On Rails' Soon To Be Used For Vacations

By DAN BERGER
SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — The thick pile carpeting makes walking a silent experience. The deep red velvet settee is framed by elegant side tables with gilt edges. Each of the four bedrooms has a separate bath attached.

Sound like a mansion? It is, but it's on wheels and the rail car—valued at a half million dollars—soon will be available for post vacation trips. "Victoria" is her name and since she was built at a cost of $100,000 in 1927 the grand old lady of the Pullman Co. has brought up the rear of hundreds of coast-to-coast trains, carrying opera stars, political dignitaries and presidents.

Heads of state visiting the United States were given the car for their travels. Franklin D. Roosevelt used the car in 1935 for his second presidential campaign. The opulent, 83-foot car was purchased by the Burlington Railroad in 1944 and renamed the "Blackhawk."

In 1966, the car changed hands again. It was purchased by two San Diego distributing company executives, S. Steve Sourpas and John Cuchna. They renamed the car the "Victoria."

Now they are turning over the plush pullman to the Pacific Southwest Railway Museum Association of San Diego, which plans to prepare it for future travels.

"This is a real rarity," said Jack Stodelle, director of the museum. "It has a diesel stove, two rear staterooms, a solarium lounge that seats 12 and it can sleep eight. We'll have it on display to the public for a while, but when we get the money we'd like to get her ready to get back in service."

He said the museum needs $2,000 to put new couplings on the car to conform to modern equipment and then "she'll be ready for charter."

How much will it cost to rent the car?

"In the neighborhood of about $200 a day plus rail costs, which run about a dollar a mile," he said. "Of course, that's not bad if you're taking 20 people."

The robber shot Miss Adams in the face. Then he calmly reloaded his shotgun and repeated his demand for money to another teller, who handed over an unknown amount of cash.

No Dinner At The Captain's Table

DEAR ABBY: My husband is 49, a wonderful man in all respects, and I love him dearly. I am 43, but I'm told I look a lot younger. Not to brag, but I'm also attractive.

Living in our apartment building is a handsome, 40-year-old Army captain. (He's a bachelor.) My husband travels a lot, and this bachelor told me if I ever got bored or lonely when my husband is away, I should call him and he will invite me over for a gourmet dinner. (He belongs to a gourmet club and loves to cook.)

So far I haven't taken him up on it, but I've thought about it. I've been a faithful wife all these years and have no intentions of being otherwise. I told my husband about this captain's invitation, and he said: "I don't like the idea. It's not that I don't trust you, but I wouldn't trust any man alone with a beautiful woman. Also, I don't want to give the neighbors anything to gossip about."

Abby, shouldn't a woman my age be allowed to do what she wants to do?

ON THE FENCE

DEAR ON: A woman of any age should be allowed to do what she wants to do. However, even though the captain's "gourmet dinner" is 100 percent kosher, and he has a good conduct medal to match yours, if your husband doesn't like the idea, don't pursue it. If you're lonely in your husband's absence, get off the fence and go with a group. There's safety in numbers.

DEAR ABBY: I've often considered writing to you about this, but then I would think: "It's too silly!" Now, I've had it.

We share a duplex with two of the warmest, kindest people in the world. They are always so nice. That's the trouble, they are TOO nice!

When the mister cuts his grass he cuts ours, too. I know this is silly, but it bugs me. I LIKE to cut my own grass. I've told him not to bother that I would do it in the evening, but then he says: "That's all right. I already have my lawn mower out."

Abby, I've gone out and started mowing my lawn, and he has the nerve to come over.

Abby, I truly like this great old neighbor, but he is carrying a good deed too far. How can I tell him?

KEEP OFF THE GRASS

DEAR KEEP: Tell him that you WANT to cut your own grass because you NEED the exercise. Now what warm, kind, sweet old neighbor would deprive you of your exercises?

DEAR ABBY: A reader signed "Angry" asks: "Do I have a right to complain?"

Her question caused me to recall what the late William Ernest Hocking wrote in the Types of Philosophy:

"Anyone can complain, but to see precisely what is wrong is a gift; accurate diagnosis comes from a unique power of vision and indicates the likelihood of an equally unique capacity to remedy the fault."

Abby, you have both!

POLLY'S POINTERS

Who Drives Young From The Church?

By BETTY CANARY

(Chicagoer Magazine Association)

DEAR POLLY — I hope some mother can tell me how to remove sticky bubble gum from a child's hair. — MISS K. C.

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peave concerns those people who are always finding fault with the young people attending church. Too many people are looking at the boys' too long hair and the girls' too short skirts. Then there are those like the lady who complained about those who took babies into church rather than leaving them in the crying room. My comment to people like this is, "Have you read up on the rate of decline in church attendance, especially among young people?" They should remember church is for ALL people and should be thankful these young people are coming to church rather than always finding fault with them. — S. W.

DEAR POLLY — and Edith, the gal who has stem stuck to her electric percolator — Fill percolator with water. Let it go through the entire parking cycle. When this is completed the stem should come out. The parking evidently causes the well in which the stem fits to expand so it can be easily removed. I learned this by experience and after breaking a stem when I tried to remove it when the percolator became cold. — MRS. L. L.

DEAR POLLY — If Edith will plug her percolator in for just a FEW SECONDS (until she starts to hear it hiss) and unplug it, she will find the stem will come loose immediately, especially if the pot is empty. I usually "work" the stem as soon as I plug the pot in and it comes loose more quickly. — V. L. T.

DEAR POLLY — My Pointer is for knitters who may be making things where pieces are to be joined together such as for a Granny Afghan. Use the "ball stitch" that is named after the method used for sewing baseballs together. I call it "shoe lacing" because that is how the needle is used. Such joining makes it perfect and smooth with no lumps or bumps or problems with matching patterns. I hope this helps those who have trouble smoothly joining knitted pieces. — CHARLOTTE.

DEAR POLLY — My husband bought several plastic garbage cans when they were on sale for one dollar each to use for storage. One holds my yarns and felt pieces and other items for sewing and handwork. One holds outdated magazines we want to keep for various reasons and bulky current catalogs. One is filled with out-of-season clothes that will not go in cedar chests and dust bags. They are all neatly covered and in the basement. Next year we may invest in more cans on sale — to hold the family treasures. — I.L.A.

'Hippieville, U.S.A.'

We haven't heard as much about hippies in this particular region as we did for awhile a few months back. Which is perfectly all right.

This isn't the case, however, in the mountain country of Colorado.

Sheriff Jim Miller of Georgetown, Colo., says the "long hairs" have invaded the mountains in that particular part of Colorado.

He said they live in caves, use drugs and eat food bought with government food stamps.

Yes, that's what he said... government food stamps are used to purchase their groceries. And jobs in that area perhaps are going begging.

"It makes me sick to get in line and watch them buy the groceries with stamps that I can't buy with the money I make," the high sheriff said. "I'm talking about the best of hams, good meat and imported sardines — that kind of thing."

He said he doesn't know how many street people had drifted into the mountains back of Georgetown and Idaho Springs but it "looks like Hippieville, U.S.A. It's unreal."

The sheriff went on to say that the transients use drugs they buy with money from stolen goods. This has brought on a rash of burglaries "that won't quit." And the worst part about it is that the sheriff doesn't have the force to control it.

Georgetown, incidentally, is a community of approximately 8,500 persons. It was a rather quiet and peaceful town... until the hippies moved in.

The sheriff is of the opinion that some of the transients were chased into the mountains and out of the suburbs surrounding Denver by a new special crime team in the capital city.

And now when Sheriff Miller goes after some of them, they see him coming and drop back farther into the mountains.

This is a difficult situation for any community to face, but particularly a smaller one.

And the answer to the problem... well, the sheriff at Georgetown apparently hasn't come up with one yet. But you can bet he is working at it.

The isolated mountains would be an ideal place for the hippies to be — and stay — were it not for the troubles they cause the good people of Georgetown, Colo., and other towns in the area.

It could be that the frontier people of that region may find it necessary to revive the vigilantes to control a bad situation. This would be something new to the hippies.

Meanwhile, the federal government should tighten up on the food stamp program in the Colorado mountains.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Jack Anderson Says: CIA has infiltrated foreign police forces.

WASHINGTON — The Central Intelligence Agency has admitted in an extraordinary private letter to Sen. William Fulbright, D-Ark., that the agency has penetrated the police forces of friendly foreign countries.

The remarkable confession by CIA Director William Colby came in the course of a discreet but intensive lobbying effort to keep alive U.S. support for foreign police programs.

Colby told Fulbright that the "relationships" built up with policemen through these programs have been highly useful in "obtaining foreign intelligence" from foreign constabularies.

The friendly foreign cops, like national police everywhere, are privy to their nation's darkest secrets. And while Colby does not say so, our government sources tell us the foreigners are not above trading a national secret or two for a little CIA cash.

Colby, in his message to Fulbright, delicately skirts the matter of corrupting foreign police, conceding only that the liaisons bring the CIA vital information on "illicit narcotics traffic, international terrorism and hijacking."

Colby's covert lobbying was directed against a bill by Sen. James Abourezk, D-S.D., that would kill U.S. aid to foreign police and prison operations. The measure was drafted after shocking abuses were disclosed in South Vietnamese prisons constructed with the U.S. taxpayers' funds.

The CIA director, who as a top U.S. hand in Vietnam saw the abuses first hand, nevertheless, said, that the Abourezk measure would "appear to restrict activities... by the CIA." The main outbreak would be in "obtaining foreign intelligence information" from friendly espionage services and agents "within national police forces..." Colby went on.

Some of the agents in foreign police forces, Colby indicated, had been developed during "specialized training and other support" given by the CIA. In sum, concluded Colby, the CIA recommended that the Abourezk bill "not be adopted."

Colby's lobbying proved effective. In secret session, the committee permitted the CIA to go on supporting foreign police operations.

Insiders suspect that Colby's effort to defeat the Abourezk provision actually was aimed at preserving the International Police Academy, an institution dear to the hearts of the spooks. According to Victor Marchetti and John Marks, authors of "The CIA and the Cult of Intelligence," the agency has funded training of foreign police at the academy and recruited spies there.

Colby himself wrote to Abourezk last January that the academy, ostensibly run-by the State Department, had "called on us in the past for some support for their program. But, he added, "all such support has been terminated."

We also reported last September that the CIA was involved in a Texas bomb school where the academy trained foreign policemen on explosive devices. A State Department of-

In addition, some $15,000 in federal funds were spent to convert a conference room into a private library for the prestigious author.

Boorstin conceded that none of his royalties will be used to reimburse the U.S. treasury. He told my reporter Ed Tropeano that he divided his work day between his book and museum matters, and that his project had the approval of the Smithsonian.

Footnote: Both the CIA and the academy say no CIA funds are now going into the school. Colby also personally has said support by the CIA for the school has been terminated.

HISTORY LESSON: Famed historian Daniel J. Boorstin used approximately $85,000 in government employees' time and federal facilities to help him write his Pulitzer Prize-winning book, "The Americans — The Democratic Experience."

According to government attorneys, the use of taxpayers' money for such private activities is against regulations. Boorstin claims it is common practice for universities to allow scholars use of students, researchers and office space.

Boorstin, director of the Smithsonian Museum of History & Technology, used two of the museum's historian researchers, Peter Marzio and Louis Gorr, to work on the book. They alternately shared the duties over a three-year period. Their salaries, while on the project, totaled more than $35,000.

RAY CROMLEY There Is Reason For Hope In South Vietnam

WASHINGTON (NEA)—In a guerrilla war, there is a time for friendly foreign military troops to leave. The local government and its military must then clean house, get rid of its corrupt generals and inefficient bureaucrats.

A State Department expert on Southeast Asia once told this reporter with some amazement of the improved performance of the Laotians after U.S. pullout. Years ago, Vietnamese experienced in war and politics anticipated the South would surprise us in the years after the last U.S. troops departed. And these were men deeply appreciative of the role the United States and its troops played in the crucial years when South Vietnam had its back against the wall.

China's Mao Tse-tung, probably the world's greatest expert on unconventional war, has said repeatedly that in the long pull of guerrilla war, except for arms, money and diplomacy, a country must depend on its own troops and its own people, not on foreign intervention. The time then has come to evaluate the situation in Vietnam, a year and a half after the final American military pullout.

The word from friends in Saigon is that South Vietnam is not collapsing, economically, politically or militarily. The U.S. has not kept up one-for-one replacement of Saigon's equipment. North Vietnam has built its forces in the South to their highest level since the war began and improved their equipment in violation of the accords. But there seems little doubt the South could hold against another big Hanoi push.

The Russians and the Chinese have cut their military aid to Hanoi markedly. If North Vietnam does attempt another all-out attack it may find replacing its arms a very difficult task. The heavy troop levels in the South may thus be more of a burden than an asset unless the North Vietnamese find it easier to feed these men in the South than in the homeland.

Both the North and the South are having their economic problems. While cutting military aid the Russians and Chinese have recently more than doubled their annual economic assistance to the North, to roughly $1.3 billion, almost three times what it is estimated Congress will vote to send the South this coming year. Despite this advantage, visitors to the North report the administrative setup is dreadfully weak for handling economic aid and translating that assistance into improvements in the economy.

The French, who have sent aid men to Hanoi, have estimated it would take at least $7 billion and some years to put North Vietnamese agriculture alone on its feet, so badly has that area been handled. It's less the war than bad management that is responsible for Hanoi's troubles.

With rough financial problems, lowered military support from its allies and a stronger than expected South, it's calculated by Americans on the spot that the North's strategy will be limited to nibbling and stirring trouble on a low key for the indefinite future, while waiting for some more promising opportunity.

Economically, the South is plugging along slowly. The outlook for the next two years is continued struggle, with unemployment high, especially among trained men. But there's a great deal of optimism for the future, once the fighting settles down.

A half dozen western oil companies are dickering for offshore petroleum drilling rights. Firms from Japan, the United States and several European nations are making advances for business investment. The estimate, possibly over-enthusiastic, is that once there's a reasonable amount of peace, South Vietnam may take off economically as spectacularly as South Korea and Taiwan did

Dear Editor: I see where the Senate has been working on a bill to set up a Consumer Protection Agency to guard us citizens from greedy old Business.

Basic assumption of the promoters of this bill is that most of us consumers are stupid and need guardians.

Which is a little hard to dispute, considering that we keep on sending back to Congress the same type of tax-raising, squandering parasites who have spent us into the inflationary mess we are in. D. E. SCOTT Crossroads, U.S.A.

RALPH NOYAK Stewing The Pentagon In Its Own Kool Aid

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The Pentagon has been getting a lot of bad press lately because its money has been used in experiments on retarded children and beagles, among other beings. The critics are, however, overlooking the great value these experiments contribute to mankind and the universe in general, not to mention the military-industrial complex.

Consider, for example, the Pentagon's hitherto top secret experiment involving the entire state of Idaho. Now try to think when it was that you last heard anything about anybody from Idaho or read about an event occurring in Idaho. Exactly.

What has happened is that the whole population of Idaho — plus four tourists who happened to be trapped in Boise — have been shanghaied for a Pentagon experiment designed to determine what would happen if the earth were struck by a giant meteor in the shape of a surgical scalpel.

Every effort is made, the source added, to make sure the subjects of the experiment are comfortable, though they are by the necessities of the experiment kept in a permanently upside down, 128-degree environment to see how they react to stress.

The source was just castigating what he called "bleeding heart critics" when he received an urgent message. "What's this!" he cried. "US — the subjects of an experiment! They want everyone at the Pentagon to give up our choice of kool-aid flavors at lunch to see if we can endure hardship! That's barbarism! It's fiendish! It's..."

What, Pentagon experts wondered one day between classes on the Trojan wars, would happen if such a meteoric scalpel should slice into the Earth, cut out a chunk of land and send it zooming off into space? How would this affect the national defense posture? What would it do to our deterrent-credibility? Most important, would it mean that the number of generals and admirals would have to be reduced?

To help answer this question, all Idahoans were collected one day in an unannounced roundup and sent off on a satellite that was put into orbit around the Astrodome.

Pentagon officials are reluctant to discuss the project and usually tell anyone asking about it that they have never heard of the experiment, the state of Idaho or their own mothers. But one highly placed source got angry when he was passed over for promotion and agreed to talk about the project off the record.

"So far the most interesting effect is that only three people in the country have noticed anything strange," the source said. "And they were all magazine subscription clerks who were worried about unpaid invoices. Otherwise the most interesting reaction has been for motorists who are glad they can drive through Idaho a lot faster now that there isn't any traffic to contend with."

The source conceded that it can be argued there is a certain cruelty in yanking people out away —. Proverbs 15.

TIMELY QUOTES

"It has been clear for a long time that we have taken the low price of clean drinking water too much for granted. The reigning philosophy in too many localities has been to hold down the water bills. Too often the public assumes that the absence of typhoid and cholera means its drinking water is safe."

— Ann L. Dore, director of the Office of Public Affairs, U.S. Environmental Protection Agency.

Nation Faces Canning Jar, Lid Shortage

NEW YORK (AP) — A worsening shortage of tin plate and soda ash has made still another consumer product hard to get: Canning jars and tin lids.

The shortage is especially pressing this time of year as many parts of the nation are in the midst of harvest time or near it.

Manufacturers of the jars and tin lids, including the two biggest, Ball Corp. of Muncie, Ind., and Kerr Glass Manufacturing Corp. of Los Angeles, say they are being besieged by angry customers from every state wondering why their stores have run out of canning jars.

Black Market Reported
 W. A. Kerr, president of Kerr Glass, says he has heard reports of black markets in at least four states—Utah, North Carolina, West Virginia and Georgia.

Because of rising food prices, unprecedented numbers of Americans are canning their own peaches, pears, apples and berries. In fact, Kerr says demand for canning jars and lids has grown some 170 per cent this past year.

But the firms haven't been able to keep pace with the demand.

Short Tin Supply
 Kerr said steel makers that make tin plate—U.S. Steel, Bethlehem Steel, Jones & Laughlin and Youngstown Sheet and Tube—are having to allocate their resources to cope with heavy worldwide demand.

He says U.S. Steel just notified him that tin supplies will be curtailed even further in the fourth quarter of 1974.

And, he said, there is a two-year-old shortage of soda ash, necessary for the manufacture of glass products.

Kerr says that a forced shutdown by the Environmental Protection Agency of a Pittsburgh Plate Glass plant in Barberton, Ohio, and an Olin Chemical Co. plant in Saltville, Va.—both for water pollution violations—touched off that shortage.

Nebraskan Says Texas Acts Right

HOUSTON (AP) — The director of the Nebraska prison system says action by the Texas Department of Corrections during a recent prison siege insured the lives of correction officers across the country.

"TDC set a new type of precedent that they would not consider negotiating release of prisoners in exchange for hostages," said Joe Vittek.

Vittek commented Monday at the opening sessions of the 104th annual congress of the American Corrections Association.

Warden On Panel
Hal Husbands, Huntsville prison warden who dealt with the hostage situation in the longest prison hostage siege in United States history, appeared on a panel at the convention.

TDC officials refused to negotiate hostages during the 11-day siege in which convict ringleader Fred Carrasco and two other convicts held TDC employees in the prison library. Carrasco and another convict and two hostages died Aug. 3 when the convicts attempted to escape.

Walter Dunbar, who figured strongly as a correction official three years ago when Attica Prison in New York erupted, described the TDC technique as a reaffirmation of the basic penal philosophy that inmates cannot break out of prison by taking corrections officers hostage.

Husbands said Carrasco was in Huntsville due to his medical classification and he emphasized Carrasco was not a trustee.

New Security Measures
"We have to treat them like decent human beings whether they're dogs or not," Husbands said. "A majority of the men are not like this but we have some more dogs out there."

He said additional security measures will be set up for the library, including screening of all prisoners entering. He added that armed guards will sit inside a special cubicle in the library which will have two new stairways and entrances.

The association endorsed the employment of former offenders in public and private agencies working in the rehabilitation of criminals.

The group said in a position statement that it encourages the concept and practice of such employment in business and industry as well, "based upon the abilities of the individual," not the history of the individual.

Strauss Brushes Off Liberal Bolt At Kansas City

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Planning for the Democrats' mid-term convention here in December continued Monday after Robert Strauss, the national party chairman, dismissed a walkout on the Democratic Charter Commission as a publicity stunt.

The two-day meeting of the Charter Commission ended abruptly Sunday afternoon when about 50 liberals bolted, leaving the commission without the necessary quorum for action. The walkout was led by California Assemblyman Willie Brown Jr.

"Let's get this walkout in perspective," Strauss said Monday during a break in a meeting of the arrangements committee, which is preparing for the mid-term convention.

"Willie Brown came here on Friday—remember that—and he told the press then he'd be walking out. He felt he had to do something. He's in political trouble in his own state."

Brown had thrown his support to former California Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti in the Democratic gubernatorial campaign. Moretti lost the nomination June 4 to Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr.

Brown signaled for the walkout when Don's Hardisty, a recent Strauss appointee from Rockville, Md., proposed a change in an article concerning delegate selection for national conventions.

Fans Miss Excitement

By TED BATTLES
 Amarillo's Giants belated the Midland Cubs 7-2 and since the home team was on the receiving end of the country licking, it was a real yawner Monday night at Cubs Stadium.

The fight after the game was much more exciting. The sparring broke out as the teams headed for the clubhouse after the game and Cub General Manager John Cox was livid about it. "Sure, I tried to break it up. I told them this was no place for that sort of thing. It belongs out on the field during the game," Cox deapanned.

Surprisingly, it wasn't between Amarillo DH Mike Minster, who sprawled in the batter's box twice on successive pitchers in the eighth inning, and Midland pitcher Dennis Lamp, whose high inside pitches put him there.

The actual scuffle took place between Giant shortstop Manny Perez, who had homered in the third, and Midland pitcher Donnie Moore, who had already dresed.

MIAMI (AP) — The uniforms were the same and so was the result, but the Super Bowl II wasn't as the Miami Dolphins defeated the Minnesota Vikings 21-9 in a National Football League exhibition game.

Both coaches admitted their clubs weren't playing Super Bowl-quality ball in Monday night's game.

"They didn't do all the things tonight they did in the Super Bowl," said Miami Coach Don Shula, whose team won last January's title confrontation 24-7. "Our team didn't, either."

Minnesota boss Bud Grant didn't get his veterans into camp until the players' strike moratorium began last Wednesday, while 34 of 46 Miami veterans reported early.

"The Dolphins were sharp," Grant added, adding that his veterans tired in their first-half workout and made execution errors.

"Those two reverses they ran were excellent," said Grant of a 58-yard scamper by Mel Baker and six-yard touchdown run by Nat Moore for the final Miami score of the game. "We haven't even given reverses to our players yet."

Lee, Segui Foil White Sox Power

By HERSHEL NISSENSON
 AP Sports Writer

Chicago Manager Chuck Tanner gave the Boston Red Sox his best 1-2 punch right off the bat Monday night but Lee and Diego Segui saw to it that the not much punch at all came off the White Sox' bats.

Remembering back to May 31, when he had slugged Dick Allen and Bill Melton batting in the 1-2 spots and they delivered consecutive third-inning homers off Lee for all the runs in a 3-2 Chicago triumph, Tanner tried it again.

This time, they managed only a single apiece and Allen ended Chicago's only real threat with a double-play grounder in the eighth inning as the Red Sox rolled to a 6-1 victory and Diego Segui saw to it that the not much punch at all came off the White Sox' bats.

Badcock Hurls Tonight

Lefthander Tom Badcock, the hardluck pitcher, who with a little run support could be 5-2 instead of 2-5, will go for Midland in tonight's 7:45 game against Amarillo at Cubs Stadium while David Fuqua will be his mound opponent.

It's 10 cent beer night and also Merchants' night with Montreuil also hurt, it necessitated moving Joel Green from Midland to Wichita to give the Aeros help.

Dave Geisel, 12-5, the Cubs leading winner, will pitch Wednesday's series final against the Giants while doubleheaders are on tap against El Paso Thursday and Friday.

Kinsey Sex Sensation Of '53 Just 'Old Hat' Today

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. William Alfred Kinsey died at the University of Kansas. While at Indiana University a few years ago he did research on Alfred Kinsey and the press. Part of his work was used in his doctoral dissertation. Today is the 21st anniversary of Kinsey Day, and Dr. Kinsey has made available to the Associated Press a summary of his Kinsey research.

By DEL BRINKMAN

Sex isn't what it used to be. At least, public reaction to books on sex and sexual behavior is not what it was 20 years ago.

Today, books on sex and sexual behavior come and go from the bestseller lists without much controversy. Books by David Reuben, Masters and Johnson, the Sensuous Woman and the Sensuous Man, plus their many imitators, have come to be an accepted part of the publishing business. But such was not the case with the Kinsey Reports of 1948 and 1953, which caused a swirl of reaction that reached its peak in August 1953.

Today is the 21st anniversary of Kinsey Day, the day in 1953 when the press revealed what Dr. Alfred C. Kinsey and his associates at Indiana University had found out about the sexual behavior of the female.

His name had become a household word in 1948 with publication of his research report on male sexual behavior. The public and professional reception accorded the Kinsey name became sort of a synonym for sex.

Kinsey could not have predicted the controversy and turmoil when he began his research at Indiana University at Bloomington in 1938. He had come to IU in 1919 as an assistant professor of zoology and his early research was with insects.

But in 1938 he turned to human sexual behavior and set out to study and classify human sex patterns with the same scientific precision he had applied to his study of the gall wasp.

In July 1938 he interviewed his first subject with the aim of taking a complete sex history that could be broken down into uniform statistical measurement. In the next six months he took 62 histories and in 1939 accumulated 671 more. His first subjects were recruited from among his faculty colleagues, his students and acquaintances.

Gradually, he carefully selected specially trained young men to assist him in the mass interviewing project that was taking shape.

On April 19, 1947, preceding publication of the book on male sexual behavior, Kinsey incorporated his research under the title of Institute for Sex Research, Inc. The institute continues its sex research today with Dr. Paul Gebhard, one of Kinsey's associates, now directing the work.

"I sometimes think that Kinsey's greatest contribution was that he made it possible to talk about sex in the living room," Dr. Gebhard says.

The Kinsey research was developed amid great controversy and in spite of many problems. Suits were threatened, a rural sheriff launched an investigation, a school board dismissed a teacher who had cooperated in obtaining case histories.

The university was pressured to have the Kinsey study discontinued and his ouster from the faculty was demanded.

Unlike the male report published in 1948, the report on the female aroused curiosity and anticipation long before it was ready for print.

In preparation for publication of the book on his female research, Kinsey took more care in explaining his research to journalists and arranged a series of briefing sessions.

He drafted a three-page agreement on the use of his research findings which journalists were asked to sign.

The release date for pre-publication material on the book was set for Aug. 20, 1953, by Kinsey. The date became known around the world as Kinsey Day, or K-Day.

Five national magazines hit the newsstands Aug. 20 with articles on Kinsey's book. Two more were out the next day.

Even with the widespread magazine coverage, perhaps the greatest press impact was to come from newspapers. Many persons estimated it was the largest news play ever to greet a new book. Many papers headlined the story in front-page streamers. But some spurned it entirely, on the grounds the findings were not fit to print, or constituted advertising.

Time Magazine said that in reporting Kinsey's findings, newspapers revealed as much about themselves as Kinsey did about women.

The New York Times refused to sign the prepublication agreement, used a 1,000-word condensation of The Associated Press story, and put it back on the book page.

The Chicago Tribune reported the news, but in an editorial denounced Kinsey as a "real menace to society."

The Philadelphia Bulletin signed the agreement and sent a reporter to Bloomington, but killed his 3,900-word summary. It told readers it was impossible to present an adequate summary of the findings without giving unnecessary offense.

The San Francisco News left out the story, saying it was adult reading. The Rocky Mountain News of Denver cut out the data on teen-age peeing. The Great Bend (Kans.) Tribune got so many protests from religious groups and individual readers that it stopped a series after the first installment.

The Raleigh Times set the type, then decided not to run it, but offered galley proofs free of charge to any reader sending a stamped, addressed envelope.

The London Mirror used three-inch type for a single banner headline: WOMEN. The London Daily Express omitted the report and wrote instead about "our sex-laden newspapers."

Much of the criticism and reaction came before the book even had been published.

The over-all reaction from the press and from the public to Kinsey's report on the female was almost completely the opposite reaction of the male report. With the male book, there was almost no interest before the book was published, but an overwhelming reaction after publication. With the female book most of the reaction came before publication and interest seemed to fade afterward.

There was praise along with the criticism and Kinsey remained optimistic about the future of his sex studies. Despite financial problems, he went ahead in 1956 with plans for at least 19 major studies.

But Kinsey never was to see the full measure of the acceptance of his work. He died in Bloomington Aug. 25, 1956, at age 62.

Taylor Files Application For Habeas

An application for a writ of Habeas Corpus was filed in 142nd District Court Monday on the grounds that witnesses will no longer testify in the same manner as they did at the examining trial of Maurice Taylor.

Taylor is presently being held in Midland County Jail in connection with murder charges stemming from the Oct. 20, 1973, shooting death here of Joe Nunez.

An examining trial conducted earlier this month in Justice of the Peace Bob Pine's court resulted in Taylor being charged with capital murder. He denied Taylor bond.

If the witnesses' testimony is changed or disregarded, there would be insufficient evidence to hold Taylor, the application states.

The state may seek the death penalty in the case which is expected to bring out the fact that Nunez was murdered during the course and scope of a burglary.

A hearing on the Habeas Corpus application will be held at 8 a.m. Wednesday in Judge Perry D. Pickett's 142nd District Court.

Military Hardware: High Stake Action

By JOHN WHEELER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The name of the game is military hardware and it's the biggest high-stake action in town.

The principal players are the military, congressmen and defense contractors, with the taxpayer a sort of off-stage banker providing billion-dollar chips each time one of the players announces, proposes or approves a cost increase for new weapons.

The chips are flowing for 51 major weapons systems now being developed or built. They range from the B1 supersonic bomber and the Trident missile-launching submarine to Army tactical missiles.

The original price was $84 billion for the 51 weapons systems, some of them under development for a decade. But this has risen to $133 billion today, the General Accounting Office reports. And cost will continue to rise, say government experts, until the last of the new weapons is completed in the 1990s.

"The patience of the public has been worn thin by repeated experiences with contractor and Defense Department cost forecasts... that are unrealistic," Elmer B. Staats, the U.S. comptroller general, said of the weapons cost explosion. "The public has become skeptical of not only the Defense Department but also of the Congress on defense issues."

The Congress this month approved $22.2 billion for weapons purchase and research in fiscal 1975. That was only $1 billion less than the Defense Department sought. The total projected military budget is $85.8 billion.

The B1 supersonic intercontinental bomber, now being developed for the Air Force's Strategic Air Command as a replacement for the aging B52, is a case study of how - in the world - did - all - those - billions - get - added - on. Four years ago, when the first contracts were signed, the Pentagon estimated that the cost of a fleet of 244 B1's would be $11.2 billion. Last year, the cost estimate went to $13.3 billion and this year the Air Force says that $15 billion is the correct figure for the B1 fleet. The first prototype is to be flown this year and the planes are to be operational by 1980 or 1981.

The B1 story began in an early 1960s when the Air Force became concerned about the improving quality of the Soviet Union's air defenses and the future combat reliability of the mammoth B52s. The men gathered around the Pentagon conference tables a decade ago had three major problems to consider:

—What sort of technical breakthroughs could American air frame, engine and electronics systems manufacturers logically come up with over the next 10 to 15 years?

—Could they design a bomber that Soviet plane, missile and electronics manufacturers could not outsmart and make totally obsolete by the time the bomber became operational?

—Given increasing public resistance to the huge costs of the defense establishment, how could the program be sold without touching off a taxpayer revolt?

As the concept of the plane evolved, major gambles had to be taken, according to interviews with those involved in weapons planning. It had to be assumed that future aircraft design would permit construction of a fast plane carrying heavier nuclear weapons over longer ranges than in the past. The plane had to be strong enough and electronically smart enough to fly close to the ground at high speeds, the best way to elude Soviet air defenses. At the same time, it was assumed that jet engine makers, in the coming years, could increase the power of engines while reducing their weight.

A mistake in any of this gambling would lead to higher costs because of design changes, delays and the added cost of inflation resulting from delays.

By 1970, the B1 had jelled in the Pentagon's thinking, and development contracts were let in June of that year. Rockwell International Corp. is building the 380,000-pound, four-jet bomber and General Electric the engines, each in the 30,000-pound thrust class.

The B1, described by critics as the most expensive weapons system in military history, is a swept-wing aircraft with a supersonic speed capability at high altitudes. But it could be flown 200 to 300 feet off the ground at just under supersonic speed to avoid enemy radar.

The B1 is two-thirds the size of the B52, but will carry four times the payload, fly faster and farther on less fuel and pose tougher defense problems for the enemy, the Air Force says. The plane's primary weapon is to be a nuclear-tipped short-range attack missile (SRAM), which can be fired 70 to 100 miles from a target, thus avoiding anti-aircraft weapons massed around major Russian cities.

What would it all cost? The Pentagon's 1970 reports to the General Accounting Office, Congress' watchdog over the executive branch, said development would be $2.685 billion and production $8.5 billion - totaling nearly $11.2 billion.

Did anyone in Washington really believe in 1970 that the B1 could be delivered at that price? "There is no doubt that key congressmen, the Pentagon and defense contractors all work to bring in low cost estimates to get the momentum going for weapons," Rep. John F. Seiberling, D-Ohio, said in an interview. Once rolling, new weapons are politically almost unstoppable, adds Seiberling, an outspoken Pentagon critic.

Government experts explain that the $11.2 billion figure represented "then" dollars, or the money needed to produce the plane during the years of planning, not during the period of actual production in the late '70s. In late-1970s dollars, the cost is $14 billion plus another billion, the Air Force says, because of the technical problems that have arisen, a period of congressional indecision, inflation and other "normal" unforeseeables.

A General Accounting Office expert, in an interview, said the actual cost estimate today is about $16 billion, with future cost increases probable. That would be $65 million for each plane. By comparison, a 747 jumbo jet costs about $30 million.

What concerns such B1 critics as Seiberling and Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., a World War II bomber pilot, is that even if B1 costs can be held at $16 billion, which they doubt, the full cost of the bombers will be higher because of the B1 support system. They estimate $70 billion based on research by their staffs. The Pentagon says nonsense, but issues no figures on the expected cost of missiles, nuclear warheads, maintenance, replacements and the like.

The Pentagon, stressing national security as a justification for cost problems, notes that a pre-World War II Congress nearly let the B17 Flying Fortress die because the congressmen thought the bomber would cost too much to produce. The B17 became the mainstay of the U.S. bomber force in the opening years of World War II.

Real Estate Sales In Tall City Far Ahead Of '73

Midland real estate sales are still breaking records, with the value of sales this year running 59 per cent ahead of 1973. Sales volume so far this year is $24,136,735.80, compared to $14,330,851.94 for the same period in 1973. The total number of units sold this year—963—represents a 60-per cent increase over the 577 units sold in the comparable period last year.

The June totals of 113 units worth $2,756,143.01 were the lowest for this year but still were higher than any other month of any other year in the history of the Multiple Listing Service in Midland. In June 1973, 66 units sold for $1,676,406.52.

July sales volume of $3,175,309.29 was an 83 per cent increase over July 1973's $2,659,150.99. Units sold in July increased 79 per cent to 122 from 97 units in 1973.

RETALIATION THREATENED— Democrats Are Back To Same Kind Of Strife That Hit Party In '72

By DON McLEOD
AP News Analysis
WASHINGTON (AP) — After two years of trying to settle their reform controversy, Democrats are back to the same kind of hair-pulling strife which tore the party apart in 1972.

Probably the last chance to salvage the party's reconciliation effort in time for the 1976 presidential year will come this December at the first mid-term Party Conference, a miniaturized version of the national convention.

It may be too late to restore unity for this year's elections in the wake of a walkout by blacks, women and white liberals from the final meeting of the Democratic Charter Commission on Sunday. They charged that party "regulars" were bent on an item-by-item overhaul of reform efforts.

The disenchanted reform wing left threatening to retaliate in the fall by withholding support from some Democratic candidates.

Although the party regulars outvoted the more avid reformers by three to one at the commission's closing session in Kansas City, the balance will be much closer at the conference in December.

Ironically, the blowup which derailed party chairman Robert S. Strauss' unity campaign was brought on by efforts to push through modifications he felt would avert just such a split.

The Strauss-backed changes were aimed at giving the reformers some of what they wanted but not enough to alienate the regulars who are still smarting over the McGovern Commission rules that kept many of them from the 1972 convention in Miami Beach.

But once the rollback got started and the regular-labor-conservative bloc saw how much muscle it had, Strauss' Democrats would be in dire trouble without the coalition of labor, blacks, liberals, the women's movement, the intellectual community and the various other groups which traditionally have formed the national party.

These divergent elements have been allies since the reign of Franklin D. Roosevelt. Now they are split over reform and over the power which reform rules can give or take away.

lieutenants lost control and were unable to stop it.

The break-up of Strauss' rapprochement began over an article designed to open up the party and which contained the ghost of the 1972 quotas.

The black members protested when the regulars began chipping away at this article. The Kansas City commission voted to report four alternatives to the mid-term conference which must now make the painful choice.

The alternatives range from required quotas to virtually no requirement to encourage minority participation.

The more moderate members wanted to report the draft charter to the December conference as it then stood.

But the labor forces, encouraged by their strength and angered by black and liberal threats of a walkout, pressed on. First they knocked out a plank that would allow the national party to "establish criteria for participation in the Democratic party."

Then they introduced an amendment that would have stricken, among other things, the ban on the unit rule which allows a majority of a delegation to cast all of the group's votes.

This is what brought the walkout, and with less than a quorum remaining, chairman Terry Sanford was forced to adjourn the meeting, saying the charter as it then stood would be forwarded to the December conference.

What Strauss has to do between now and December is either to take sides and let the losers take a walk or try to restore the fragile spirit of compromise.

An indication of his course came Monday when he called the walkout a publicity tactic by the black who led the move, California Assemblyman Willie Brown Jr.

The Democrats would be in dire trouble without the coalition of labor, blacks, liberals, the women's movement, the intellectual community and the various other groups which traditionally have formed the national party.

These divergent elements have been allies since the reign of Franklin D. Roosevelt. Now they are split over reform and over the power which reform rules can give or take away.

Cost Of Labor Percentage Remains Below That Of '60s

NEW YORK (AP) — The cost of labor in relation to industrial sales during the past few years has remained considerably below that of the 1960s. But it might end this year.

The ratio perplexes a good many people who note, for example, that unit labor costs last year rose 1.4 per cent in manufacturing and 5 per cent for all nonfarm businesses. Why, then, shouldn't the cost of labor percentage rise?

The explanation lies in sharply higher sales and output per manhour at the very time that controls kept labor's gains below their rate of earlier periods.

The annual labor cost study by Standard & Poor's, the investment research organization, shows that wages-salaries-fringe benefits accounted for 25.6 per cent of each dollar of industrial sales in 1973.

A year earlier the percentage was 26.4, and in 1971 it amounted to 25.9 per cent, but throughout the sixties it never dropped below 26, and more often ranged between 27 and 28.

Stock market analysts, among others, find such statistics highly useful in assessing the impact of changes in wages on specific industries and companies.

For example, when wage increases are general throughout the economy some industries find the impact far more pronounced than do others.

The oil industry, to illustrate, is highly automated, with labor costs amounting last year to only 9 per cent of sales. But for air transportation the equivalent figure was 40 per cent.

Here are a few others: Aerospace and aircraft, 37 per cent; automobiles and county officials to stop over-trucks, 31; meats and dairy products, 13; electrical-electronics, 38.

The figures for individual companies within these industries varies almost as much as between industries. In aerospace, the percentages range from 27 to 45, and in oil from 6 to 23.

However, indications are that the trend will end this year, a legacy of the removal of controls and a feeling among labor leaders that unions must make up for past restraints.

Economic fears are providing an incentive for labor to secure what it feels is a fairer share of the sales dollar, either through direct wage increases or fringe benefits.

The appeals court remanded the case back to Judge Hughes to enable her to make changes, "if any, as ought to be had in light of the ongoing circumstances."

The appeals court left to Judge Hughes to use "sound judicial discretion" in deciding the merits of criticism by the county that some reforms ordered were too sweeping or expensive. The appeals court said it would never order impossible deeds.

Judge Hughes had ordered county officials to stop overcrowding at the jail, building a new one if necessary to follow her instructions.

Dallas County Jail Reform Case Sent Back To Lower Court

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The federal appeals court here sent the controversial Dallas County jail case back to the lower court for possible modifications Monday while also reaffirming a part of the ruling.

The case had been appealed to the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals by Dallas County, which argued against implementation of the 1972 order by U.S. District Court Judge Sarah T. Hughes requiring improved conditions at the jail.

The appeals court remanded the case back to Judge Hughes to enable her to make changes, "if any, as ought to be had in light of the ongoing circumstances."

OF NEW MINI-CHEVROLET— GM Will Apparently Emphasize Manual Labor On Assembly Lines

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors is apparently bowing to criticism of its highly automated Vega assembly line by emphasizing more manual labor in planned 1976 production of a new mini-Chevrolet.

The swing back to more manual labor appears designed to stem any new outbreaks of "blue-collar blues" which plagued the Chevrolet Vega assembly plant at Lordstown, Ohio, two years ago.

At the same time, however, GM will be using more robots on underbody subassembly operations in an effort to keep assembly lines relatively error-free.

Officially, Chevrolet has yet to acknowledge the company will build the mini-Chevy.

But the trade newspaper American Metal Market said on Monday it had learned Fisher Body division's Grand Blanc plant will build the underbody line for the new car and will employ 22 robots.

The 22 programmable industrial robots would be the largest in any single system at GM outside of Lordstown. Ford is the automotive leader in use of robots with about 35 at its Kansas City assembly plant.

About 200,000 of the tiny cars, which will be roughly two-thirds the size of a Vega, will be assembled at GM's Wilmington, Del., plant starting next summer, the trade paper said.

Many observers believe that GM, by relying on more manual labor, not only will eliminate "blue-collar blues" problems, but also will be able to get into production with a lower initial capital investment and a quicker return of money.

South Dakota, Montana Hit By Thunderstorms

By The Associated Press
Thunderstorms rumbled across Montana today, just hours after tornadoes and other severe storms churned through sections of North Dakota.

The storms overturned a mobile home, damaged aircraft and farm buildings, flooded fields and washed out bridges near Braddock, N.D., as they moved from the center to the eastern part of the state Monday. No injuries were reported.

Tornadoes also were seen near Burnstad, Napoleon and Wishek, N.D. Heavy hail accompanied twister sightings near Lehr.

Winds gusting to 40 miles per hour hit Glasgow, Mont., today.

Mild thundershowers were widely scattered, stretching from the Northern Plains to Colorado, Nebraska and Minnesota and sprinkled along the southern Atlantic Coast and in the southern Rockies.

LARGEST IN CENTRAL ILLINOIS—

Black Pastor Says Stamping, Clapping Beat Of Choir Is Lifeblood Of His Baptist Church

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — The stamping, clapping gospel beat of a 100-voice choir is the lifeblood of his church, says a black Baptist pastor.

At Union Baptist Church, one of the largest black congregations in central Illinois, more than half of the two-hour Sunday service is filled with rollicking gospel songs and blues-tinted spirituals.

"If the black church does not have a vital choir, it almost dies up—dies," says the Rev. Dr. Rudolph S. Shoultz, pastor of Union Baptist. "I wouldn't want to pastor a black church without a choir. I wouldn't be going anywhere."

The choir inspires the pastor to preach and the congregation to listen, he said.

"The black clergyman takes his cue from the music," Dr. Shoultz said. "The music must be attractive to bring the people closer to him."

"The central point is the preaching, but the choir sings way to establish a reconciliation," said Gerry Condon, 27, a deserter from the Green Berets and managing editor of the war resisters' magazine Amex-Camus.

Dr. Shoultz said the style of music is shifting from the solemn strains of spirituals to the hand-clapping, foot-stamping beat of gospel.

"The beat is the difference," they would sing. "Meeting tonight, meeting tonight, meeting at the old campground." All the boss man would hear was the song.

Dr. Shoultz adds, "When the black man was in slavery, he was not privileged to communicate with other workers. They communicated through songs.

"For example, if the slaves were going to have a meeting, they would sing. "Meeting tonight, meeting tonight, meeting at the old campground." All the boss man would hear was the song.

He said the music eventually made its way into the black church and developed into a significant part of the service.

At Union Baptist, teens and senior citizens alike take up their hymn books and sing, accompanied by piano and organ.

Church officials said the choir and its style of music has much to do with attracting young people to the church.

"It's really their bag," said Hazel M. Taborn, minister of music.

And Louis T. Jones, a young organist, said, "It's the best part of the service."

Draft Evaders, Deserters Respond Coolly To Earned Re-Entry Proposal

TORONTO, Ont. (AP) — Representatives of American draft evaders and deserters living in Canada have responded coolly to President Ford's offer of "earned re-entry" for the exiles.

The President's offer was "no way to establish a reconciliation," said Gerry Condon, 27, a deserter from the Green Berets and managing editor of the war resisters' magazine Amex-Camus.

"Many people want to go back under conditions like this," he said.

Ford told the national convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars in Chicago on Monday that he would "throw the weight of my presidency into the scales of justice on the side of leniency."

In a major policy shift from the Nixon administration, Ford proposed a program of "earned re-entry," presumably some form of public service in lieu of prosecution, for the estimated 50,000 exiles.

But the president stressed that he rejected blanket amnesty.

"I reject amnesty and I reject revenge," he said.

Condon said the president had taken "a very tough stand." It's just asking for another pound of flesh from people who resisted a war they felt was illegal and immoral.

He estimated 25,000 Vietnam exiles are living in Canada.

D.E. Charles Knight, 28, a member of the U.S. National Council for Universal and Unconditional Amnesty, said Ford's position was "what we refused in January 1972."

"It's a far more sophisticated position than that held by Richard Nixon, but it is no less conservative and it won't be of interest to many war resisters in Canada," Knight said.

SPEED LIMITS are increasing as groups such as the 100 club get underway. Leading the 100 Club CARAVAN will be Debbie Russell, Susan Wallace, Judi Ottman and Brenda Ewan, as secretaries. Use similar CAUTION when choosing your other officers.

We want to thank the band for really MERGING, working out their WRONG TURNS, and doing a great job at Sophomore Orientation and Maroon Day. Loads of people were seen at Maroon Day last Saturday night at the Field House. They cheered for the Rebels to RESUME SPEED and get on to the ONE WAY to victory. The "Private Keep Out" signs were removed from the Lee Field House that night as the Rebelettes, leading groups of loyal Rebel supporters, made LEFT TURNS, RIGHT TURNS, and even a few U-TURNS while making tours of the Field House.

DEAD AHEAD will be the scrimmage at Lamesa with Lubbock Coronado on Thursday, Aug. 29.

Don't be SLOW Wednesday morning. All Rebelettes are to GO to the cafeteria at 7:45 a.m. where they will STOP, LOOK and LISTEN to squad strategy. The meeting will start promptly at 7:45, so be there on time.

DRIVE CAREFULLY to the LOADING ZONE at Bill Eiland's house where there will be SOFT SHOULDERS and MEN WORKING to organize the Senior Class Garage Sale. DO NOT PASS up the opportunity to come see what the Super Seniors are selling at the Youth Center, Aug. 24. Come early to avoid MERGING TRAFFIC.

BUMP, DIP, SLIP and SLIDE to the Youth Center to buy your Youth Center membership card. HAZARDOUS ROAD AHEAD if you don't get one soon. WARNING!

P.S. We hope the football team has recovered from the "Car Wash Blues."

Thug With Valise, Fake Bomb Collects $157,000

NEW YORK (AP) — A man armed with a valise, a threat and unshakable bravado made off with $157,000 in cash from an uptown savings bank after telling a bank officer he was prepared to blow the place up.

The robber, about 30, told the terrified woman he had dynamite in the bag. He waited 20 minutes Monday evening while a half-dozen unsuspecting depositors and a dozen other employees went about their business, and while the bank officer twice left his sight to go into the vault.

He escaped with the cash in an attache case. In the valise he left behind were railroad flares made up to look like explosives.

Police said the haul, at the Manhattan Savings Bank office at 86th Street and Third Avenue, was the largest in the area since a Westchester County bank was held up for $236,000 in September 1972.

Police said the woman didn't sound the alarm either time she went into the vault because she was too scared.

Police said the man had walked up to the officer, Kathleen Stephenson, with a request for a mortgage loan, then opened the valise, displaying the bogus explosives, and demanded $200,000 in cash. When she said the vault was closed, he told her she could set its time lock to open in 15 minutes—which she did.

When the vault opened, she scooped up stacks of money without counting it, police said. Most was in hard-to-trace $50 and $20 bills, but $50,000 was in easily traced $100 bills delivered Monday morning from the Federal Reserve.

Trucking Group Calls For Defeat Of Transit Bill

McALLEN, Tex. (AP) — The president of an independent truckers group is urging Congress to vote against a $20 billion mass transit bill which he says will take money from truckers and give it to "big city projects."

Millard Holden, of the Independent Produce Haulers of America headquartered here, said Monday that the truckers oppose the bill despite a weights and measures amendment that would allow them to carry heavier, longer loads.

"If Congress passes this bill and gives all this money to mass transit, then the trucker knows he has been ignored for big city projects," Holden said. "A truck shutdown may be in order to get Congress to take action. Hopefully this action will not become necessary."

Holden said that the truckers also are asking a one-year suspension of $210 per tractor levy because of inflation.

Jesusa Dominguez Jailed In Shooting Of Son's Widow

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — The mother of one of two convicts killed in an Aug. 3 shootout at Huntsville state prison was jailed Monday on a charge of attempting to murder her son's widow.

Jesusa Dominguez, 47, was held in lieu of $10,000 bond after being charged in the shooting Sunday of Eva Theresa Dominguez, 24.

Eva Dominguez was reported in poor condition at Bexar County Hospital with gunshot wounds in the chest and abdomen.

The shooting of the young widow occurred about 2:15 a.m. Sunday at a vacant service station, police reported.

Authorities said the shooting was the apparent outgrowth of a family argument over the younger Dominguez couple's children.

for an explosion which wrecked a warehouse.

Authorities said again Monday that the Saturday night blast which injured five persons and caused damage estimated at $5 million was an accident caused by a load of unstable chemicals contained in a truck parked at the site.

Curtailment Of Natural Gas Supplies To Northeast Is Feared This Winter

NEW YORK (AP) — The Northeast is likely to have a curtailment of natural gas supplies this winter that could lead to plant closings and layoffs, Federal Energy Administrator John C. Sawhill says.

Sawhill said it has not been determined how severe the shortage might be, but he said residential use would not be affected by any shortfall.

The federal energy chief did not specify at a "Project Independence" hearing on Monday what plants might be affected by a shortage of natural gas, but heavy users include the chemical and auto industries.

The hearing here was one of a series through which Saw-

The bomber, who has identified himself in tape recordings as Isaac Rasim, says he is the military spokesman for an organization he calls Aliens of America. He said it is dedicated to fighting for better treatment of aliens.

He claimed responsibility for an Aug. 6 bombing at Los Angeles International Airport which took three lives and for planting another explosive device at a Greyhound bus depot in downtown Los Angeles.

Red Wing Work Shoes GENERAL CLOTHING

Rasim's most recent communication came on Sunday, when he promised in a telephone call to the Los Angeles Herald-Examiner to continue a bombing moratorium. A day earlier, he said he was postponing plans to set off a bomb in a crowded area on Sunday.

Rasim said he was setting the moratorium because he has drawn public attention to alien problems.

Rasim was dubbed the alphabet bomber because he said he will spell out the name of his organization across the nation "in blood."

He said the first bomb stood for the letter "A," as in airport. The second—disarmed by police after Rasim tipped authorities to its location—was found at an "L" site, a locker at the bus station.
