Craig Warned 'Repeatedly' Says Moseley

Plot To Overthrow Government Claimed By Dies Witness

WASHINGTON, May 31. (AP)—Major General George Van Horn Moseley, retired, shouted to a congressional committee today that President Roosevelt ought to use the army to fight Communism in the United States.

"He ought to free the army from the restrictions now imposed on it," the former commander of the fourth corps area and one-time deputy chief of staff told the House Un-American committee.

"The army can make plans to fight Germany but it can't do a damned thing to protect us from the enemy within our gates."

A short time earlier he testified, thumping the table for emphasis, that he had "warned" General Malin Craig, army chief of staff, of a plot to overthrow the government.

The information, he said, had come to him through James E. Campbell, of Owensboro, Ky., a reserve officer. He said the army intelligence service agreed the reports presented a serious situation. Moseley knew, he added, his blue eyes snapping, what General Craig had done about one case but he did not disclose the nature of the action.

Would Empower Army
Moseley asserted the "disease of Communism" now attacking the United States could be cured "in five minutes from the White House."

He explained this could be accomplished if President Roosevelt would empower the army to investigate subversive activities.

Shouting frequently at members of the committee seated across the table from him, Moseley declared vehemently he thought there were several emergencies confronting this country.

Among these he listed subversive activities and "a plan on foot from coast to coast to get us involved in war."

"The first thing I would do if I were in the White House," the general said, "would be to fire every Communist in the employ of the United States government and then I would release the army so that it could fight this enemy within our gates."

The general clashed angrily with the committee over the method of presenting his testimony. He finally began testifying. He demanded, but was denied, opportunity to read a prepared statement.

Moseley, who attracted wide attention at the time of his retirement by criticizing the New Deal, had been portrayed by previous

Farmers Distribute Four Tons Poison

Gray county farmers are going after the grasshoppers this year with four tons of the hopper poison compound distributed from the mixing station Monday and five tons yesterday.

The mixing station is located at the county warehouse, south of the flats in southwest Pampa.

Due to the necessity of conforming to WPA monthly hour work schedule, it was necessary to alter the hours the station is open on two days of the month. The station customarily opens at 8 o'clock and closes at 5 p. m.

County Farm Agent Ralph B. Thomas said farmers should arrive at the station and receive their compound before the station closes for the day and should not try to obtain the compound after the closing hour.

Eight men are employed at the station, in charge of Charlie Mullin. The station was opened May 5.

Barrymore Given Oxygen Treatments

CHICAGO, May 31. (AP)—John Barrymore was given oxygen treatments today and was placed under constant medical care as a heart condition attributed by his doctors to complete exhaustion forced at least a temporary cancellation of his show here.

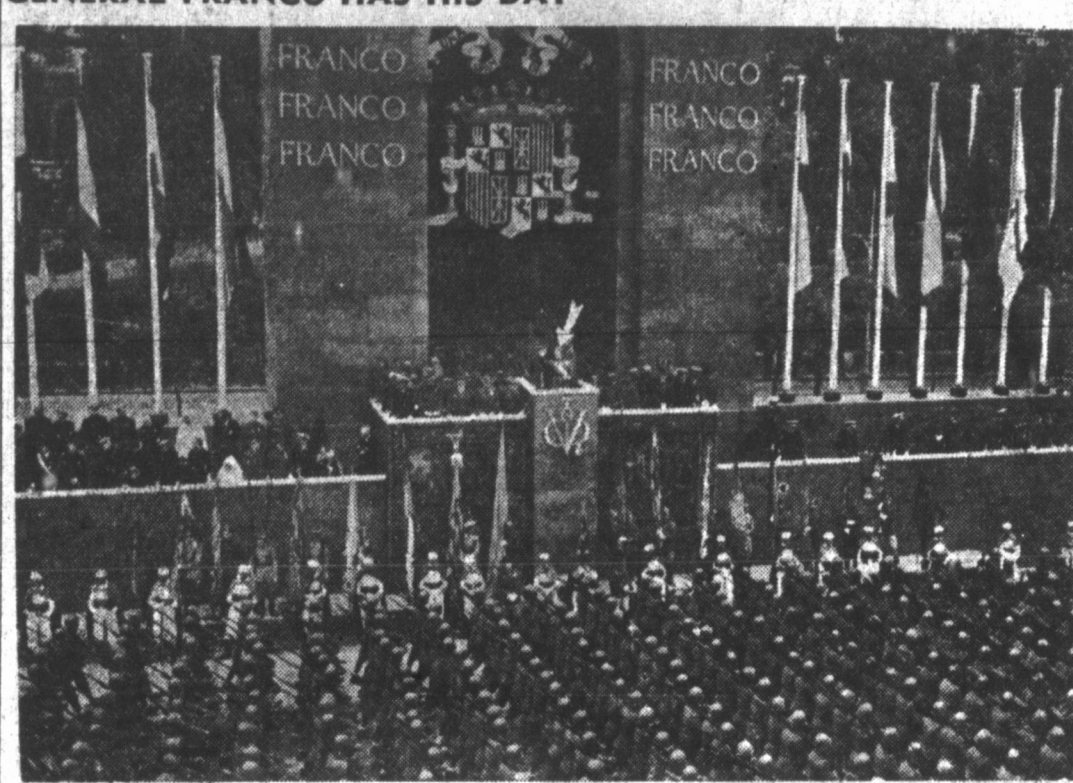

The great lover was placed on a special diet and was ordered under nurses' care for 24 hours a day. His physician said he required a complete rest.

Aids said the 37 year old actor, long known to the state as a fine trouper, insisted he would resume his role in "My Dear Children" next Monday night.

Little Drilled 4th Well At Spindletop--Started Out In 1896

By THE ROVING REPORTER.

Oil field workers may live dangerous, exciting lives, they may be injured in accidents, or their lives may be in danger often, but they seem to remain active as long as or longer than most people.

Take William F. Little, caretaker of the Woodrow Wilson school, a real old-timer in the oil industry, especially in the Texas fields in which he pioneered.

Mr. Little first began working in the Corsicana oil field as a roughneck in October, 1896, for George A. Boughton, the inventor of the first rotary drilling machine. Mr. Little worked under J. C. (Bud) Baldwin, the first rotary driller to operate a rotary rig anywhere. That rig was located in the Corsicana field where the American Well and Prospect Company shop now stands. It was known as Walling No. 4. It was also the fourth oil well in Texas, or west of the Mississippi.

Wages Low Then.
The only producing wells at that time were located in Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Ohio, Indiana, and a very few in Southwest New York. Roughnecks were paid $1.50 per day, 12 hours a day, and drillers $100 per month, and night drillers $3 per day. They were paid $1.50 for moving and rigging up. The day crew consisted of a driller, fireman and derrickman, the night crew of a driller and fireman. The day crew did all pipe-ripping, for changing bits. Wood was used almost exclusively to fire up the boiler. Oil was selling for three cents a barrel at the well.

Drilled Discovery Well.
It took about a month to drill a well to a depth of 1,400 feet as the rigs were so crude and light. The derricks were built of wood and were about 64 feet high, with rag line, wood crown, two little Buffalo 35 horsepower pots. There was also no Sunday oil field work in Texas until Spindletop came in in 1901.

Mr. Little roughnecked on the Corsicana rig until August, 1897, then began drilling for F. C. Strickling. He drilled the discovery well in the Powell field, the second oil field in Texas. It was a shallow pool 10 miles east of Corsicana.

Cowgirls For Parade To Meet Tomorrow

A meeting of all women who will form the first unit of the Top O' Texas Fiesta parade on June 13, the cowgirls carrying American flags, has been called for 8 o'clock Thursday night in the city community rooms at the city hall, by Wayne Phelps, chairman of the parade committee.

"As the cowgirls will be the first part of the parade, it is important that this unit be thoroughly instructed so that the cowgirls will be the most colorful part of the procession," Mr. Phelps said.

71 Riders Registered
At the meeting tomorrow night we will give instructions to the riders and assign them their positions. We want every one of the riders to attend this meeting. Arrangements will be made for horses for the riders."

Cowgirls registered for the parade are: Mrs. Hub Burrow, Je-

Wanted: American flags for each of the 50 cowgirls who will form the color guard in the Top O' Texas Fiesta parade on June 13.

That was the appeal Wayne Phelps, chairman of the parade committee, was making today. Mr. Phelps asked that merchants who have flags to loan for this purpose, notify the Pampa Chamber of Commerce, telephone 384.

Boy Scouts will call tomorrow on merchants and collect the flags, Mr. Phelps said. Each flag will be tagged with the name of the owner, will be properly protected, and will be returned in good condition.

Police Arrest 14 In Detroit Strike

DETROIT, May 31. (AP)—Fearing a new outbreak of factional violence in connection with the Briggs Manufacturing company strike, police today arrested 14 men and seized blackjacks, baseball bats and lengths of rubber hose.

Nine men were released quickly but the other five were detained for additional questioning.

At 3:45 a. m. guards at a hall of the United Auto Workers union (UAW), which called the Briggs strike 10 days ago, asked for police help, saying they feared an attack. Officers of the special detail arrested three men they said were members of the Homer Martin Independent faction of the UAW who came to Detroit "to settle this union fight."

Shortly afterward police cruiser guards brought in 11 men accused of besieging a restaurant in search for a pro-Martin auto worker said to be opposed to the Briggs strike. The police found Jesse Taylor, a Briggs employee, hiding in the cellar of the restaurant. Taylor said he was beaten Monday night and feared further violence.

House Calls For Investigation Of Tax 'Loopholes'

AUSTIN, May 31. (AP)—A legislative investigation of possible tax evasions, particularly evasions of the gasoline tax, was ordered overwhelmingly today by the house of representatives.

Rep. Lon E. Akamp of Carthage, who introduced the investigation, contended tax loopholes were costing the state between five and six million dollars a year. His proposal called for an investigating committee of three house members to be appointed by Speaker R. Emmett Moore.

The investigators were instructed "to make a detailed examination of all revenue statutes of this state and of their operation to the end that legislation may be recommended to eliminate or minimize evasions, discriminations and delinquencies." They were authorized to spend up to $1,000 and meet anywhere in the state.

Reps. A. B. Tarwater of Plainview and C. L. Harris of Spur headed the opposition to the proposal.

"If more people are getting gasoline tax refunds than should be, let's give the comptroller's department additional money and it can make a thorough examination of all claims," said Tarwater. "I don't think there is any appreciable evasion of the gasoline tax. In my country, the use of gasoline to pump irrigation wells and for the other non-highway purposes has increased immensely in the last three years."

Children Hurt In School Blast

AKRON, O., May 31. (AP)—An explosion blew out a wall of a two-story frame schoolhouse in suburban Barberton today, injuring between 30 and 40 children.

Some of the students, bleeding about their faces, were taken to Barberton's Citizens' hospital and Barberton clinic. Others suffered bruised legs, arms and bodies. None was burned, doctors said.

The explosion, ripping out the north end of the public school building, plunged some third and fourth grade pupils to the basement, and debris fell on others.

One teacher and a janitor also were reported injured.

The school, at Third and Hope streets, is one of the several temporary structures used by the suburb for "overflow" pupils.

Some authorities expressed the informal opinion that a gathering of natural gas, which heated the building, became ignited in some way to cause the explosion.

Neighbors described the blasts force as "terrific." A blackboard was blown across a street.

Approximately 75 pupils from the first through the fifth grades were in the temporary schoolhouse.

When the wall blew out, the entire structure toppled into the basement.

Rescuers pulled children from under debris and all available Akron ambulances were summoned.

Russia Turns Down British Alliance Plan

Soviet Not 'Cat's Paw' For Nations, Says Minister

MOSCOW, May 31. (AP)—Premier Foreign Minister Molotov tonight rejected as inadequate the latest British-French mutual aid pact proposal but left the door slightly ajar in case London and Paris are willing to meet Moscow's position.

MOSCOW, May 31. (AP)—Premier Foreign Minister Molotov skeptically and caustically described British-French efforts to build a "peace front" today as insufficient and ineffective and said "it is impossible to think now whether they really want to end aggression."

"That is why we must be vigilant," Molotov said in an address before the Supreme Soviet (parliament). "We must remember Stalin's warning about pulling chestnuts out of the fire."

(Joseph Stalin, on March 10, said that Soviet Russia would not be "dragged into conflict with Germany as a cat's paw" to pull British and French chestnuts out of the fire.)

Rejecting the latest British-French offer as not going far enough—especially where the Baltic states are concerned—Molotov intimated that trade negotiations with Germany may soon be resumed.

Molotov said that the latest British-French offers showed that the principle of reciprocity with Russia in any mutual aid agreement had been accepted but "modified by many clauses so that it may be only formal."

He said no progress had been made with regard to the small countries on Russia's borders. Britain and France, he stated, "only think of those whom they have guaranteed."

"The Soviet Union is not what it was in 1921," Molotov continued. "We are compelled to remind the world of this, for it seems that even our neighbors forget it. Our strength has risen."

"If more people are getting gasoline tax refunds than should be, let's give the comptroller's department additional money and it can make a thorough examination of all claims," said Tarwater. "I don't think there is any appreciable evasion of the gasoline tax. In my country, the use of gasoline to pump irrigation wells and for the other non-highway purposes has increased immensely in the last three years."

"Now, about other Mongolia. According to our mutual assistance agreement we must help guard her frontiers. Our attitude is serious. We will defend those frontiers as firmly as our own. It is time to see RUSSIA, Page 5

Senate Turns Down Omnibus Tax Bill

AUSTIN, May 31. (AP)—No hits, no runs, no errors and two cripples left on bases.

That was the score in the legislative today after the members had engaged in old-age-pension-tax battling practice for almost five months.

The final out yesterday—last day of the record-breaking session—came when the Senate state affairs committee sounded the death knell of the House-approved gross receipts tax bill and then turned down, 13 to 3, the omnibus tax bill, also passed by the House. The latter possibly can be brought to the floor on a minor report. But whether it would be was another question.

The legislation was worse than any which the legislature convened Jan. 16, for both Houses have approved a pension liberalization bill which adds thousands to the rolls but have failed to raise any revenue.

Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel, who campaigned on a more and bigger pensions platform, has until Friday to sign the bill.

The two cripples left on base were the omnibus bill and the Senate's sales-natural resource tax constitutional amendment. Four times the amendment had been brought up in the House and as often it has been battered to the floor, each time by a wider margin.

On the surface there was no indication of weakening in the ranks of the amendment's foes. On the contrary, they insisted their position had been strengthened, first by O'Daniel's searing speech Sunday in which he flayed the group opposing it, and again by the Senate committee's action yesterday.

Charges of driving while intoxicated were filed against R. M. Holley of Skellytown and C. R. Campbell of Pampa at a hearing before Justice of the Peace Fred Rice in Pampa at 10 o'clock today.

Both men charged waived examining trial and posted bonds of $1,000 each. The case is to be heard by the 34th district court grand jury when it meets on August 28.

The third automobile accident on the Pampa-Borger road since the asphalt-topped highway was opened to traffic on May 25 occurred at 1 o'clock this morning, 10 miles west of Borger, injuring two persons, one seriously.

Condition of Mrs. Grace Adair Shaffer hotel, Pampa, was reported as slightly improved this afternoon at Worley hospital. Mrs. Adair suffered a crushed chest, and a fracture of all front ribs, cut lips, and facial injuries that sheared the skin from lips to forehead.

C. R. Campbell was dismissed from Worley hospital at 11:30 o'clock this morning. Campbell's address is also the Shaffer hotel, according to officers who investigated the accident.

The accident occurred when the 1936 Ford sedan in which R. M. Holley, Skellytown, Cooper company ganger, headed west toward Skellytown, was in collision with a 1938 Buick sedan driven by C. R. Campbell, who was accompanied by Mrs. Grace Adair. Left front wheels of both machines were interlocked, according to officers.

Following the accident, Holley was arrested and taken to Pampa, where he spent last night in the county jail.

The injured were removed to the Worley hospital in a Pampa Mortuary ambulance.

Sheriff Cal Rose, Chief Deputy Sheriff George A. Pope, and Byron L. St. Clair, Pampa patrolman of the Texas Highway patrol, made a trip to the scene of the crash, soon after being notified early this morning.

Three persons were injured in a collision four miles east of Borger on the same road at 10 o'clock Monday night, and were given medical attention in the North Plains hospital in Borger.

At 1 o'clock Sunday morning cars of two Pampans were in collision at a point 200 feet west of the packing plant near Pampa. No one was hurt in the crash. One of the cars involved was arrested and paid an $18 fine in justice court here.

Officers Kill Accused Slayer

LOCKNEY, May 31. (AP)—Blazing guns have ended Ernest Williams' marital troubles.

Charged with slaying his former wife, Mrs. Bessie Mae Smith, Williams was killed yesterday during an exchange of bullets with officers who cornered him in a hayloft near here.

Mrs. Smith, who obtained a divorce from Williams a year ago, was shot to death in the garden at her home Monday night.

Deputy Sheriff Barlow Hill of Lockney said Captain Jim Lines of the Texas Highway patrol and Texas Ranger Pat Taliaferro entered the barn where Williams was hidden in a mound of hay. In an exchange of shots, Williams was killed.

Buster Williams, brother of the slain man, said Ernest admitted he shot Mrs. Smith.

One Killed, One Injured In Collision Of Trucks
HUNTSVILLE, Tex., May 31. (AP)—Claude Stanley McDonald, 21, of Houston was injured and Rufus Moseley, about 25, Fort Worth negro, was killed in a head-on collision between two trucks 13 miles north of Huntsville yesterday.

Count Swen Morf Nelots, member of a Danish royal family, narrowly escaped injury on the new Pampa-Borger highway shortly after noon today when his car was sideswiped by a skip-driver.

Count Nelots, in the United States on a petroleum research tour for his government, was riding with his chauffeur in the front seat when the accident happened. His car left the road, careened dangerously and then righted itself, according to reports sent back to Pampa.

The accident occurred about four miles out of Pampa.

CLINTON, Okla., May 31. (AP)—A heroic girl who sensed danger in the "quinine capsules" her destitute mother gave her and the four other children was credited today with saving all but one from death by poison.

Sheriff Everett Stambaugh said the mother, Mrs. Ida Watson, 34, was found in her tourist cabin home with a six-inch gash in her throat. She had inflicted the wound with a butcher knife.

Hospital attendants predicted she would recover.

Rainey Hails Education For 'Common Life'

HOUSTON, May 31. (AP)—Dr. Homer Price Rainey believes secondary education in the next ten years will be the battleground upon which "the success of our Democratic experiment in education is going to be tested."

"The new president of the University of Texas, speaking at mass commencement exercises of Houston High schools last night, declared America must educate its youngsters 'for the common life.'"

"The type of education of which I am thinking is essentially a movement comparable to that in Denmark and Scandinavian countries," he told a crowd of 20,000 persons, including 2,300 high school graduates.

"It should be an education that would acquaint all of us with the essential factors of our national life, interpret to us our national ideals, make us intimately familiar with our literature, develop within us a love for an appreciation of good music, encourage wide participation in folk dances and group games. It should place a new emphasis upon poetry and religion."

Dr. Rainey said America's experiment in educating all classes and the desire of educated persons for "white-collar jobs" coupled with the fact that "white collar jobs" are becoming scarce would result in a crisis.

He declared the traditional curriculum of the classical high school is ill suited to a very large percentage of the secondary school population.

No Friend Of Poor Folk, Says Critic

Violated Campaign Pledges, Youthful Speaker Claims

AUSTIN, May 31. (AP)—Withering criticism of Governor W. Lee O'Daniel as a man who had been elected as a friend of the common people and had abandoned his colors and violated his most sacred campaign pledges electrified the House of Representatives today.

The blistering speech on personal privilege by Dr. Albert Darden of Marlin followed action of a Senate committee yesterday in summarily rejecting a general tax bill approved by the House as a solution of a Social Security financing problem.

It also was an answer to scathing denunciation by the governor Sunday of a group in the House which has bitterly opposed a constitutional amendment levying sales-natural resource taxes which O'Daniel favors.

In stentorian voice, the youthful Darden declared he came before the House in defense of its members and good government, speaking on the floor because members of the legislature, unlike the governor, could not broadcast to the people "what is going on in the capital."

"Let us examine the record and determine whether we should stand in fear and tremble at his shadow."

Darden said the governor on many occasions in his campaign and since had called himself "the friend of the common people" and had talked of the "man in overalls."

"I remember the speech I heard him make during the campaign, about the families in two and three-room cottages and a lump arose in my throat," he said.

"On that platform of friendship for the common man he was elected governor of Texas."

"In that campaign he also advocated $30 a month pensions for all over 65 years of age and said flatly no new taxes would be needed. His words were: 'I have a plan that will require the levying of no new taxes.'"

"In no uncertain terms he said he was opposed to a sales tax."

"Let us follow him to Beaumont and the state Democratic convention. At that convention I saw the governor first weakening on his campaign pledges and abandoning the common people."

"I saw him lining up with the men who long had been dominating the affairs of Texas."

Abandoned Colors
"In Beaumont he first abandoned his colors and took under his wing a group of men who had been defeated and retired from public life because they stood for the very things O'Daniel had denounced in his campaign."

"I heard him quote from an address O'DANIEL, Page 5

Girl Defends Honor With Chocolate Pie

RUSTON, La., May 31. (AP)—With a well-aimed chocolate pie, Miss Anna Holstead defended her honor today in a unique duel with another Louisiana Tech co-ed who had criticized her literary efforts.

For Miss Holstead, who hails from Shreveport, the affair marked her farewell to the Tech campus. She was graduated last night. Her opponent, Miss Varnelle Plastow of Bay Shore, N. Y., is a sophomore.

Miss Holstead objected to Miss Plastow's somewhat blunt description of her literary style.

"It smells," Miss Plastow declared—and the duel was on.

Attended by a few students and seconds bearing towels, the duellists met this morning behind the stadium. Each carried a drippy chocolate pie in a tin pan.

"They got most of the pies over themselves trying to take them out of the tins," reported Professor H. F. Hewins, a witness.

Each girl wore shorts, a Jersey and a bandanna to protect her hair.

They stood back to back, took five paces, and let fly. Miss Holstead's aim was the better.

"Touche," she cried as the pie splashed over her opponent.

A classroom judge said the southern girl was the winner. The seconds rushed up with towels, and the two girls parted friends.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

By ALICIA HART.

NEA Service Staff Writer.

The June bride who plans to wear a different coiffure for her wedding ought to have her hair done the new way at least a week before the date of the ceremony. It takes a little time to get used to a new hairdo. The average woman usually is self-conscious about one until she has worn it a while and had it set at least a second time.

Having made up her mind to change her hairstyle, the bride should take her wedding veil at the same time as she goes away hat to the operator who is to create the new coiffure. She must insist that the hairdo she suggests be flattering when she is hatless, or wears the veil or her going-away hat.

Once a decision has been reached, and her hair has been dried, brushed and re-arranged, a small sketch of the coiffure should be made. That is, unless she and the operator are absolutely certain that they can remember just where every ringlet and every wave is placed. The bride won't want to take the veil and the hat along when she goes back to the beauty shop before the ceremony—hence the sketch.

'LITTLE GIRL' TYPE IS POPULAR FAVORITE.

Among the new summer coiffures flattering to the young girl of medium height, whose features are rather small, the "baby" is outstanding. For this hair on top of the head and at sides is cut until it is no more than three inches in length. Back hair may be slightly shorter. Unless the hair is naturally curly, a new permanent wave is required. In either case, the hair is set in tiny ringlets all over the head. When the dry, these are brushed out, then brushed back into small, soft curls. Bride, or not, it is a mistake for any woman to allow the drier to be turned off until her freshly set hair is thoroughly dry. Afterward, the operator who set it ought to brush vigorously, then arrange the waves and ringlets. The wave which won't stand a good brushing simply isn't worth paying for.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE

Without Colman's—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning With a Cold

The liver should pour out two pounds of bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sick and the world looks pink.

A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes Colman's Little Liver Pills to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel top and up. Tasteless, gentle, yet moving in making bile flow freely. Ask for Colman's Little Liver Pills by name. 25 cents. Refundable unless satisfied.

SMART enough for shopping and lunch in town, yet not too dreary for spectator sports and country weekends is this Molyneux suit of soft tweed in beige, brown and copper checks. Crops Saved By Rains In Western Area

CHICAGO, May 31 (AP)—Prospects for normal seasonal farm operations blossomed today in the wake of drenching rains over much of the grain producing and livestock raising plains region.

Rains that wet dusty plains west of the Mississippi river the past week, saving crops in many fields and reviving dying plants, arrived in the nick of time, agronomists said, to prevent very serious crop losses.

Although some fall sown grains, particularly in the southwest plains, were damaged irreparably, there were few sections of the belt embracing the nation's reduced 1938 wheat and corn acreage, that did not derive genuine relief.

Crop experts emphasized their opinion, however, that continued rains were necessary, particularly with the season of hot weather at hand, if the threat of drought was to be permanently allayed.

Greening pastures and plains promised to stem the increasing marketward flow of cattle which last week glutted livestock slaughtering centers and caused the sharpest Chicago price break in almost a year.

Receipts at seven principal markets increased approximately 12 per cent compared with previous weeks. At the week's beginning however, cattle supplies were 32 per cent smaller than a week ago and hog and sheep marketings also were smaller.

The grain market was in an unsettled period, with prices reacting slightly from the highest levels of the season, due to the improved moisture situation. Crop experts reported winter wheat prospects were improved by the rains in many districts of the southwest which escaped irreparable damage.

A week or ten days ago many traders were privately estimating the winter wheat crop around 500,000,000 bushels compared with the last government estimate of 544,000,000. Most experts today said ideas have been revised, but none ventured a forecast pending release of reports within the next ten days.

Prior to the rains, serious moisture deficiency existed through an area roughly described as embracing the Texas and Oklahoma Panhandles and western portions of three states, western Kansas, and large areas of Nebraska and the Dakotas as well as many districts of the Canadian wheat belt. The soft winter wheat belt of the Missouri and Ohio valleys experienced generally favorable conditions. Rains the past week, while not general any day, were spread liberally in varying quantities particularly in the spring wheat, and soft winter wheat belts.

Indians Hire Lawyers, Give Sam A Headache

WASHINGTON, May 31 (AP)—The white man's "smart piece of business" in dealing with the Indians years ago is giving Uncle Sam a headache.

There currently are a score of disputes, some serious and some amusing, which have arisen from the economic and political strategy of the forefathers in giving about 300 treaties to obtain Indian land cheaply.

Seneca Indians, for example, are pressing on the government an alleged treaty claim to the bed of the Niagara river. Officials say the title, if established, may interfere with a power company's application to divert additional water from the river.

In lighter vein, Arizona officers and the Apaches are at loggerheads over Indian attempts to hire a white man to kill bears which are destroying large numbers of cattle on the Fort Apache reservation. For traditional reasons, no Indian will

'Go North!' King George Urges Youth

By FRANK H. KIN G

VICTORIA, B. C., May 31 (AP)—Britain's touring sovereigns—all Canada at their feet—about faced today for their return trip through the broad dominion, with Washington, D. C., their major objective.

Due in the United States capital on the morning of June 8, the royal train awaited King George and Queen Elizabeth at Vancouver station, to pull out this afternoon on a more northerly route than the western trip.

King George's regret is that although he has seen much of Canada's vastness, and is going to see more, he will have to skip the Arctic, which he said holds so much of Canada's future.

Cull statistics show Canada's youth up to the present has been more interested in hunting the gold in the hills and cities of the United States than in the unsettled spaces of the north, but the king's advice to them given at the official government luncheon here, was to go north where he said there is a field of enterprise for youth which will take generations to exhaust.

The twelve-car royal train with King George and his smiling queen, their suite, servants, scarlet coated mounties, Scotland Yard detectives, secretaries, equerries and advisors; their Canadian political sponsor Prime Minister MacKenzie King, and a pilot train full of reporters, photographers, railway officials and odds and ends of governmental functionaries was ready for the homeward journey as soon as the royal couple arrived by boat from Victoria.

Nazis Learn For First Time Of Deeds In Spain

HAMBURG, May 31 (AP)—Several thousand German soldiers who fought for Generalissimo Franco in Spain came home today to a stirring Nazi welcome at this German "gateway to the world."

As five "strength through joy" ships bore them slowly up the Elbe, after several hours of delay by fog, the soldiers of the Condor Legion were saluted by Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering on behalf of Reichsfuehrer Hitler.

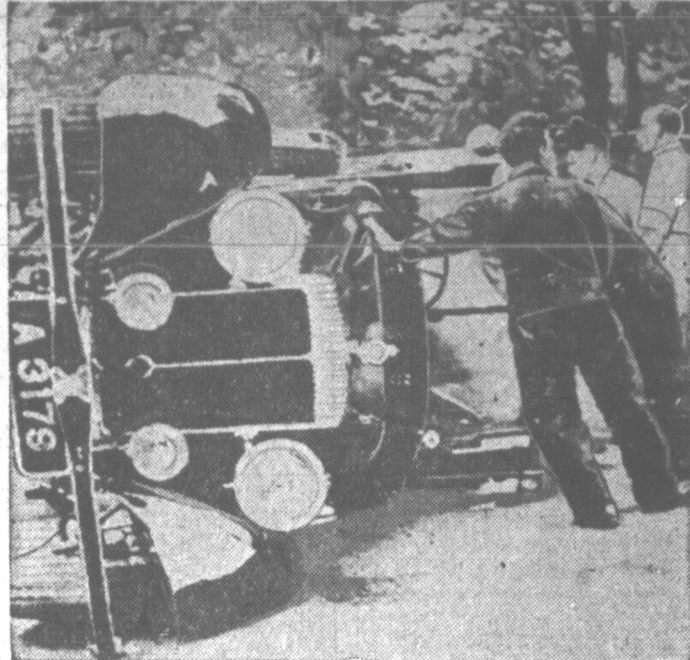

Goering stood on the bridge of the yacht, Hamburg, beaming expansively and obviously proud of the men of his air force who were being hailed by the press as Franco's mightiest arm "in the defense of Europe against bolshevism."

Six torpedo boats led the sea parade into Hamburg harbor. The homecoming troops, in gray-green uniforms, were lined up in precise military formations on the decks.

Most of the men were of the air force which the German public was just learning had been used to ferry at least 15,000 Moors into Spain from Africa in the first days of the civil war which ended two months ago. Others were technicians and instructors.

There still was no official announce-

Indians Seek Way To Cash Checks

MIAMI, Fla., May 31 (AP)—Freedom loving Seminole Indians, who still recognize no greater authority than their own tribal council, sought a way today to cash WPA checks without endorsing them.

O. B. White, attorney who represents the tribe in most of its legal matters, said the council feared that countersigning checks paid to braves employed on a reservation road project would indicate obligation, thereby abrogating the tribe's traditional non-peace with the government. No peace terms were ever agreed.

Billion More Being Spent By Congress

WASHINGTON, May 31 (AP)—Despite a session-long economy drive, the cost of the federal government for the year starting July 1—exclusive of relief—was shaping up today to be almost $1,000,000,000 bigger than for the current fiscal year.

The 11 regular appropriation bills, already passed by the house, carry $694,445,987 more than for the present year. Several supplemental estimates, including $239,002,500 more for the army, still are pending.

Some of the increase, however, may be offset, when congress votes relief funds for the next year. President Roosevelt has requested $1,762,490,000 for this purpose, in contrast to the $2,250,000,000 appropriated during the current year.

National defense, parity payments to farmers and flood control account for sizable chunks of the increase. A $200,000,000 boost was charged up against the forthcoming decennial census, which must be taken in 1940.

Five appropriation bills have been signed by the President. Others are pending before the senate or joint senate-house committees.

Although the house held all but two of the measures below the budget estimates, the senate increased the totals on several, notably when it added $338,000,000 for parity payments to farmers and disposal of surplus commodities. This appropriation has not yet received final congressional approval.

This house exceeded budget estimates in voting funds for flood control and river and harbor improvements. It added $50,000,000 to the war department (non-military functions) appropriation bill.

Townsend Bill Reaches House

WASHINGTON, May 31 (AP)—The Townsend bill to pay old age pensions up to $200 a month reached the House floor today after years of intensive nationwide campaigning and political controversy.

But no amount of debate, both Democrats and Republicans agreed, will keep the House from defeating it when the roll finally is called tomorrow.

Representative Boland of Pennsylvania, the Democratic whip, estimated there would be not more than 50 Democratic and 75 Republican votes for the bill.

Rep. Hendricks (D., Fla.) author of the measure, said he had requests for speech-making time from 30 proponents. Each side was allotted two hours for presenting its case.

Only two chances remained for upsetting the Democratic leadership's carefully laid plan to kill the bill by a resounding majority. Some Republicans were understood to be fighting parliamentary procedure which would prevent any change in the measure on the House floor. If they should succeed—and Democratic leaders predicted they would not—the bill might be so modified as to win more supporters.

Benes Still Sees Liberty Ahead In Czecho-Slovakia

NEW YORK, May 31 (AP)—Dr. Eduard Benes, former president of Czecho-Slovakia, dedicated his "ghost" country's pavilion at the New York world's fair today with a challenge to the legality of the German protectorate over Czecho-Slovakia and a prediction "the coming of liberty for the Czech people is inevitable."

The pavilion, one of the major edifices in the foreign section, was begun before German troops marched into Czecho-Slovakia and since then has been maintained, as cited by an inscription on the facade, "By its Friends In America."

Dr. Benes, recalling the United States "refused to recognize the occupation by military force of the republic of Czecho-Slovakia and continues to recognize the representatives of the Czecho-Slovak republic as the only representatives of the Czecho-Slovak people in this country," declared:

"This act of international law and order, of justice and fairness, has helped us to underline in the face of the whole world the sound, firm basis of the legal existence of our state—in spite of what happened in Europe during the last months."

DAREN'T START DRY

EVEN if this is the camel that holds all records for going-without-more-drink, how long could he last if he had to start dry? Your car and your engine oil can't last either if you keep starting dry this Summer. But how can you help it?

You can't . . . not with any of these oils that are always in a rush to drain down to the crankcase completely.

You certainly can help it though, by getting your engine OIL-PLATED.

NEVER all down in the crankcase, no matter how long or how often you park your car, OIL-PLATING is lastingly close-knit to every inner engine surface by the action of Conoco Germ Processed oil. Patented Germ Processing creates the strong "power of attraction" that fastens non-detachable OIL-PLATING throughout your engine. Does chrome-plating drain down at a stand-still? Neither does OIL-PLATING. Therefore actually in advance of starting, OIL-PLATING is ready to slide every working part into easy motion, without rasping dryness. And since OIL-PLATING doesn't fly off or fry up it helps your engine to shatter the record for going-without-more oil. That's why you want to OIL-PLATE today with Germ Processed oil, at Your Mileage Merchant's Conoco station. Continental Oil Company

Call For Genghis

The Japanese, it is reported, are hatching a plan to seize the remains of Genghis Khan, which have lain for seven centuries in a silver casket at Elsinhor, Suiyuan, and place them within their own conquered territory in China. The idea would be to win the allegiance of Mongol descendants of followers of the Great Khan who carried his conquests across Asia and half-way across Europe in the 13th century.

Well, it's not a bad idea. But it could be carried still farther. Why not seize the bones of the most ruthless and unscrupulous of all conquerors and carry them instead to Europe. Then the peaceful country of Switzerland could be overrun, the inhabitants bombed and butchered, and the bones of Genghis Khan enshrined atop the tallest Alp, in the midst of a desert.

That would be setting up an appropriate idol in the very midst of Europe which should inspire the armament race in all countries during the next 20 years until Genghis Khan's ideals are finally completely triumphant and civilization returns to the point where he dominated so much of it, back in the 13th century.

Arkansas, Realtor

The state of Arkansas, which owns one of every 16 acres of land within the state, is considered by the American Society of Planning Officials to have adopted land policies which place it in the front rank among the half dozen states which have this problem in aggravated form.

The state has named a land commissioner who will classify the 2,000,000 acres of land, mostly tax-reverted, which belongs to the state. Land suitable for such purposes may be put back into private hands in "family-sized" tracts by sale or outright grant. But some effort will be made not to sell indiscriminately land for this purpose at $1 an acre only to see it inevitably bounce back on the state for taxes in a year or so. Proceeds from land sales will be used to pay administration expenses and protect and maintain the remaining lands.

Only one thing is certain about situations like this: any plan is better than simply allowing such land to remain uselessly fallow, producing no taxes for the state, no benefits for individuals.

Behind The News Of The Day

BY BRUCE CATTON
Pampa News Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, May 30—A left-wing farm belt attack on Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace is gathering strength behind the scenes.

It may not break at this session of Congress; that depends partly on chance. If it does not, it is quite likely to pop up in 1940 as a serious embarrassment to the New Deal's political chances.

It centers on two demands—that the domestic price for American farm products be lifted above the world level, and that activities of speculators in commodity futures be curbed.

It is being headed up by a determined western farm leader, Ervin E. King, master of the Washington State Grange. King, who has just gone back west after several weeks of intense activity in the capital, drove a resolution for a cost-of-production farm bill through last fall's session of the National Grange, and leads a western and southern Grange bloc which is somewhat to the left of the Grange's national leadership.

He is primarily interested in seeing this bill, or some variant of it, get through Congress. The chances are that such a bill would pass, if the administration did not oppose it pretty strongly.

That is, in addition to the senators and representatives who are openly committed to the idea, there are a good many more who would go for it if left to follow their own inclinations, but who don't want it badly enough to defy the President and the secretary of agriculture.

In addition, King is out for Wallace's scalp. Part of King's support comes from the elements which see in the grain speculator a logical explanation for the plight of the farmer. This group holds that Wallace's policies have failed to put the grain speculator where he belongs, and wants the whole subject of grain speculation investigated by Congress.

There is little chance that it will get its wish just now, but if a congressional hearing on the subject is ever obtained, some double-shot guns are going to be trained on Wallace.

Closing the quotes on the famous canned beef row:

Last year American processors produced approximately 2,500,000 pounds of this commodity. And of this amount, 1,000,000 pounds were used by the U. S. Navy—where projected purchase of 48,000 pounds of canned corned beef from the Argentine caused all of the hullabaloo.

In a queer, back-handed way the settlement of the nation-wide coal shutdown, or strike, whichever you prefer, has taken off some of the pressure for killing the Cuffey coal act.

Early this spring a number of prominent coal operators formed a committee pledged to seek amendment of the coal act—and now the committee finds itself hampered for want of funds. The scope of its activities is narrowed considerably, its staff has been cut down . . . and some of the pressure is off.

In addition, Mr. Roosevelt's act in killing the coal commission and transferring its functions to Secretary Ickes has deprived the committee of its most visible target.

Tip for the G. O. P. President-makers: A rather surprising number of middle-western congressmen report that, when visitors from their states come to the capital, the one congressman they're interested in having a look at is Bruce Barton of New York.

WHAT HAVE WE GAINED?

Most of the New Deal advocates contend that the Roosevelt administration has saved us from the mob taking possession of things. They contend that if Roosevelt had not stepped in and established the principle of made-work, we would have had chaos.

No one expects people to starve if they are willing to work. But the principle of made-work established by Roosevelt has been fastened on to us and, as Mayor La Guardia said, if we abandon the principle of made-work, the results will be "too terrible to contemplate."

If anyone thinks we can continue to have private enterprise and have the government pay people three or four times as much for the work they do as private enterprise pays and go into debt three, four or five million dollars a year, indefinitely to do this, then they must believe in economic miracles. The riot that will come if this scheme is continued will be infinitely worse when it comes than it would have been, had we established in the first place a sound policy of giving needy people their needs in kind, instead of fictitious wages. We have fastened on ourselves this socialistic theory that it is the duty of the government to furnish work. And it is infinitely more difficult to stop, now that it is started, than it would have been to establish a sound system of giving people in need the actual things they needed rather than giving them money for made-work, that is not worth what they received.

We have only procrastinated the day of reckoning; and while people contend that Roosevelt has saved us from trouble, it seems he has only aggravated and increased the difficulty and made it, as La Guardia says, "too terrible to contemplate." Every thinking person knows we cannot go on indefinitely borrowing money to create made-work and every person who becomes destitute, because of this principle of consuming more than we are producing, will only complicate the final adjustment and make results, as La Guardia says, "too terrible to contemplate." It is not a pleasant picture but it is at the feet of those theoretical people who do not hire labor and, thus, do not know that people will not work when they can live better without work. The load is getting heavier every year and the outlook is getting darker and darker the longer it goes. The more people there are added to the destitute class the sooner we realize that relief must not be more pleasant and agreeable than work, and the less suffering we will have to face in the future.

A MONUMENT TO WPA
(Hartford Courant)

If the WPA exhibit at the New York World's Fair was designed to give the country an appreciation of the humanitarian qualities of the administration's relief measures, it also serves to exemplify the profligate methods of the New Deal. The building that houses this exhibit is by no means an imposing structure. Although designed to serve a temporary purpose only, its estimated cost was $250,000, but it has already cost $544,000 and it is not yet complete. Whereas other buildings more pretentious were erected on the fair grounds by private builders at a cost of 20 cents a cubic foot, this WPA building represents a cost slightly in excess of 43 cents a cubic foot under exactly the same scale of wages. About a thousand men have worked on the project, and these were supposed to be recruited largely from the ranks of the unemployed. Yet an investigation discloses that only a little more than 17 per cent of this number were actually relief workers. They set the tempo, however, and it seems not to have been charged by the government supervisors.

As a monument to the waste and inefficiency of WPA this building is an unqualified success. When fully completed it will have cost twice the amount set aside for it, and instead of providing relief work for one thousand unemployed craftsmen it will have served the needs of less than a fifth of that number. This sort of thing, if in less exaggerated form, has been going on all over the country since the advent of WPA and it will continue, with all its prodigious and unnecessary expense to the taxpayers, until relief is turned back to state and local governments with such federal grants in aid as may be required. Not until this is done will the relievers themselves get their full share of the tax dollar.

HITLER TAKES ON THE PRESS

(By Samuel B. Fettingill in The L. A. Times)

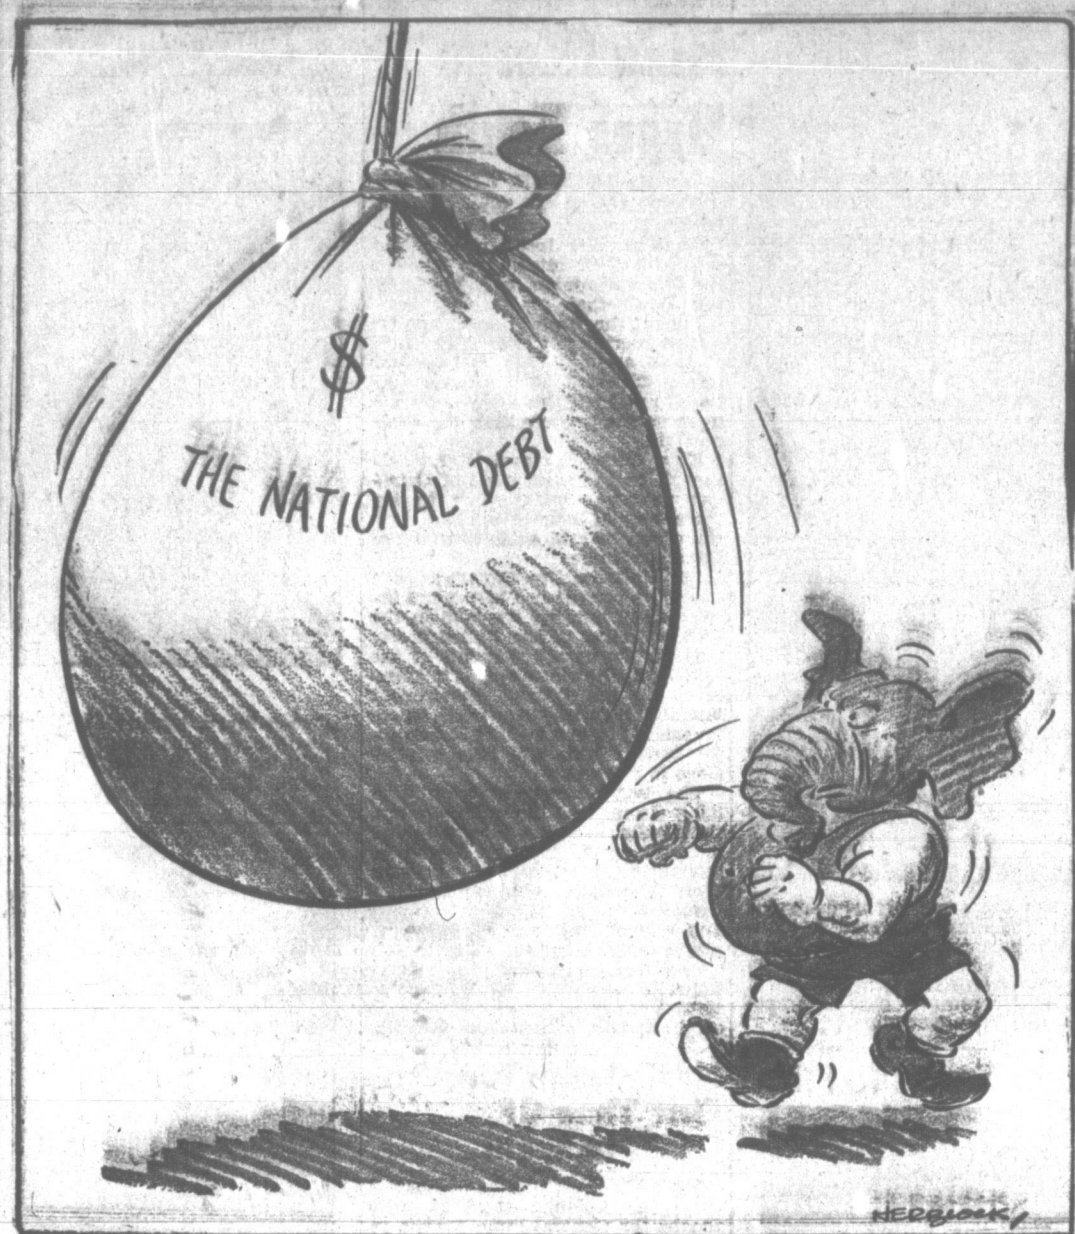

Hitler fumbled the ball in his reply to President Roosevelt. Appealing for world opinion and particularly for American opinion he slapped his jury in the face. With that incredible stupidity with which diplomatic Germany short circuits enormous efforts in peace and war, Mr. Hitler demanded that the American press be muzzled.

Can you beat it? Knowing that relatively few Americans understand German, knowing still fewer would get up at 6:30 a. m. to hear him on the radio, knowing American newspapers were the chief vehicle he had to get his story to America, he asks why the democracies "are not capable of controlling their newspapers." That would mean they would not print his speech. How can you explain wood-enheadness like this? Is it possible that Secretary Ickes ghost-wrote Hitler's speech?

With a frightened and angry world all around him, immersed in a sea of domestic difficulties, Mr. Hitler has to take on the free press of America. He is a glutton for punishment. Better men than he have monkeyed with that buzzsaw.

Mr. Hitler, our democracy includes much more than a free press. Yet democracy in a vital sense is a free press. For democracy is discussion. We hold, Mr. Hitler, that "governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed." And that consent must be free and informed. And so we have newspapers. You and Stalin and Mussolini deny that principle. To you "democracy is a rotting corpse." Nevertheless we believed, passionately that even if you and your fellow dictators turn out the lights, perhaps for a new Dark Age, yet the day will come again, as it did in ancient Greece, as it did at Galilee, in the free cities of medieval times, in Wilhelm Tell's Switzerland, in Scotland and Ireland, in America in 1776, when men, just because they are men, and not human cattle, will shake their bleeding fists in the faces of such as you, and demand once more to be free.

There are such men in Germany. There always have been, thank God. Pastor Niemoller is one, if he still lives. And did you never read of the Student Revolution in the '30s and '40s—century ago? Is the great name of Carl Schurz unfamiliar to your ears? He had to seek in America the freedom men like you denied him in the Fatherland.

Did your own Schiller never write of freedom? And was it not he who said "Against stupidity the gods themselves contend in vain?"

Did your advisers fail to tell you of the Bill of Rights of the American Constitution? Did you think our Constitution was a plaything, to be tossed aside? Did you never read of Huey Long's efforts to tax a free press cut of existence? Are you ignorant of what the "Nine Old Men" of our Supreme Court said of his efforts? Let me remind you. The court said this:

"Since informed public opinion is the most potent of all restraints upon misgovernment, the suppression of a free press cannot be regarded otherwise than with grave concern. To allow it to be fettered is to fetter ourselves."

We want a free press, not for the benefit of publishers. We want it for ourselves. We want to form our own judgments on public affairs. We don't want them formed for us. We want to make our own decisions. We want to make our own mistakes. We have had to fight for free courts, for a free Congress, for a free people. We know who came to our aid. It was the newspapers. We know that, when the story of these troubled times is written there will be a gold chapter on the free press of America.

You tell your papers what to print, what to leave unsaid. You control your radio, your pulpit, your political platform, your lecture room. If you make, anyone, you hide them. And so you deny yourself and your people the chance to correct them. You deny yourself the benefit of honest criticism. You muzzle the watchman.

Your axis partner says "What are the three words of your dogma? Believe, obey, fight." The language of slaves. Believe what the newspapers are told to tell. The truth is what is expedient. And Stalin. His papers were ordered to say nothing of the famine of 1933. And three million Kulaks died, needlessly. The vital statistics were suppressed. What difference did it make to Stalin to know of the poor beggars with bloated stomachs, offering their wedding rings for garbage? We may occasionally have a "kept" newspaper, Mr. Hitler and Mr. Ickes. But if so, we Americans will take our chances with advertisers rather than dictators.

We cannot distinguish good dictators from bad ones, those with red shirts or black shirts. Political murder and mass exile, the crushing of human dignity, the denigration of moral values, the death of truth, the stinking gangrene that the state is all, and man and God nothing—all this cancels out every gain. It corrodes all progress.

Nevertheless, I see no point in becoming a war partner of red Russia against Hitler's Nazi Germany, or Mussolini's Italy. Nor have I ever been able to understand why no atrocity of Stalin's is ever rebuked by anyone in Washington.

People You Know

By Archer Fullingim

Well, some of the boys like Clyde Oswalt, Earl Isley, "Shug" Cobb, Shelby Gantz, Harold Wright, Bill Holt, Wayne Phelps shaved off their whiskers, and the rumor got out that "everybody" was mowing their grass. Even Red Breeding shaved off his magnificent red beard. They say the fairer sex coerced him into it. Well, when Red went to the barber shop we got worried and called up Vernon Stuckey over at Chandler's barber shop. Vernon, the only barber in town with whiskers, was indignant. Cracked he, "I'll say I have not shaved off a single whisker! Nary one! And besides that, I've even got three more. And what's more, I'm not going to shave them off until after the Fiesta!" Vernon hooted at the idea that "everybody" had shaved. "Just the discontented minority!" he said. "The resolute majority is still going strong," he declared.

Then he began among people up and down Cuyler who have not shaved their hirsute adornments. He talked for two minutes citing names, before we interrupted. . . Listen, you guys with whiskers, on the last day of the Fiesta, you're going to meet some place and have your pictures taken by Fletcher in a group. There'll be front, page announcements about it later.

Around Hollywood

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Practically under our collective noses is Bob Burns being transformed into a character who is not the Uncle Pud's nephew we've been knowing.

The process is under way on a Paramount sound stage, where Robin is portraying "Our Leading Citizen" under direction of Al Santell. Reports from the set, early in production, indicate that Robin found his first brush with Art a disturbing, if not distressing, experience.

Burns plays a substantial, respected leader of the community in an industrial town where Gene Lockhart, as a wealthy, selfishly benevolent autocrat, pursues policies which bring on labor strife. As such a "leading citizen," Burns' bill-billy stuff is "out"—definitely. He is made grey about the temples, and he has a grown daughter played by the radiant young Susan Hayward (a Warner Bros. "reject," incidentally, who has been good in Paramount's "Beau Geste"). In the character, Bob Burns' affinity for mules and such is gone—definitely. He has no hayseed in his hair. And he has, certainly, no Uncle Pud.

Santell, from the first, has been riding herd on the Burns dialogue. He has pounded down on the rising inflections of the hill-billy twang, and he has scotched the tendency toward "Wall, I'll tell yuh." Painful though it was, it has given Burns a "dignity" the bazooka never did.

However, Bob felt about it at first, by now he is reconciled. "I don't like slapstick," he says, "but I do like comedy. I'm still gettin' off a crack now and then—I'm stayin' away from silly stuff, like we had in 'I'm from Missouri.' That business of me and the mule in the steam bath, now, I didn't care much for. None o' that in this picture."

There have been subversive rumors that Paramount, materially solicited of its "new Bob Burns," has tried to persuade him to modify the hill-billy Burns of the old times. Bob says "Nothin' to it."

"I wouldn't change my radio character," he adds, "because after all, if it wasn't for that, I wouldn't be here in pictures. But I'm keepin' my radio work apart. That's fun once a week—but radio and pictures, they're two different things. If I was that fellow all the time, runnin' around, sayin' to everybody I met, 'Now that reminds me of my Uncle Pud,' why, pretty soon I wouldn't have any friends."

Bob puffs solemnly on his pipe, pursues his theme: "No-o-o . . . I'll tell yuh, I want comedy. I hope when I'm about to pass on I can rise up in my bed and think of a good last word. And that's somethin' like this picture. I'm doin' it. It's serious business, just like dyin' is serious business—but neither's good to be hurt by a little good clean fun. No slapstick, remember—just fun."

The bazooka which paved Burns' way into pictures via the air seems to have been laid away in mothballs as far as the screen is concerned. Bob has used it in only two of his films.

And you can lay away in mothballs, too, any picture you might have of Arkansas's homely philosopher a-settin' by a stream bank, a-dreamin' and a-fishin'. Bob still fishes when he gets the time—but he's just bought a 38-foot boat to do it from.

Tex's Topics

By Tex DeWeese

PAMPA'S GOOD FRIEND, "Jack" Estlack, owner-editor of The Donkey County Leader, at Clarendon, writes to say that he will be among celebrities of screen, press and radio at the Top O' Texas Fiesta Luncheon to be held here on the opening day of the Fiesta, Tuesday, June 13.

Editor Estlack, who comments that the 89-ers haven't been here long enough to know whether they like it, was born at Littleton, Colo., in 1882. "Realizing the horrible mistake of my parents at a very early age," Mr. Estlack says, "I brought them to Tuscumbia in 1883. For the past 56 years the Panhandle has been home to me."

"I'M NOT MUCH of a newspaperman, but as a cowpuncher in the '90s, I rated a job at $20 a month. I worked with Will Rogers during the summers of 1898-99, and was a bronch-peeler by profession. The reason I refer to that past history is that it is harder to trace than my ability as a newspaperman. . . . See you at the Fiesta. . . . Thanks for the note, Jack—we'll be expecting you."

Incidentally, Sam Braswell and his editor, Dick Cooke, also are giving the Top O' Texas Fiesta some time publicity in this week's issue of the Clarendon News. . . . The whole town of Clarendon is interested and will send fine Clarendon high school band to take part in the opening day parade. . . . Many towns over the Panhandle are planning the same kind of participation.

THE SKIPPER of this column made the mistake of not mentioning it before, but his family is in the East on annual vacation and he is open for invitations to chicken dinners, barbecues, fish fries, maple sugar parties, wienie roasts, etc., etc. . . . It's a little difficult for us to understand how we let nearly two weeks go by without mentioning this fact. . . . Regular cafe fare is proving a little irksome.

Incidentally, a letter from the Boy Wonder's mother carries the information that he is having the time of his life playing with tenderfoot boys and girls in the East. . . . They have dubbed him "Cowboy," feeling that it is an appropriate moniker because he is from Texas. . . . He has accepted the nomination, the letter states, and now packs a six-shooter around with him all day, and even to bed with him. . . . Like his old man, he prefers to take no chances.

ANY PAMPA KIWANIAN who misses tomorrow's regular weekly luncheon meeting of that civic club is going to miss some of the year's best laughs. . . . Emily Post says it's not correct to play golf in just shorts and shoes. . . . It may not be correct, but it sure is cool. . . . Mama, that Panhandle moon's here again. . . . The drugstore managers and curbstone coaches are having their inning these days, revamping that Pampa Oilers baseball team.

If you can remember when you were home-limited, wristled, you look younger with your hat on. . . . Then there is the sweet young high school girl who already has begun her familiar fall prayer. . . . It ends this way: "—and deliver us from Amarillo."

There was a young man from Pampa, Who went out one night with a vamp-a!

He asked for a kiss— Get smacked like this, And no more with the girls does he tamp-a!

WE'RE STARTING A little contest here to see who can write the Panhandle's screwiest limerick. The one you have just read is original as you've probably already guessed. . . . Is there anybody who can write one worse than that? . . . If so, send it along to The Skipper, in care of The News and let everybody read it.

Three Killed in Triple Train Wreck

Jumbled pile-up of steel locomotives and splintered box-cars, above, is center of triple train crash on Pennsylvania railroad at Bradford, O., which killed three crewmen, seriously injured four others. One freight, which had stopped to take on coal, was smashed into by another; then fast freight plowed into other two. Cars were derailed for half mile along right-of-way.

Soldier Spirit Praised As Ayers Is Honored In Memorial Day Rites

Though American soldiers suffered disillusionment for their service in the World War and though the democratic ideal and the end of all wars was not accomplished, the spirit of those who served was right. Travis Lively told a crowd of 300 persons at the Memorial Day service Tuesday afternoon in Fairview cemetery.

Mr. Lively also stated that the veterans living today abhor war and that veterans organizations are not militaristic.

Ayers Honored
The ritual ceremony of the Veterans of Foreign Wars centered about the grave of J. H. Ayers, Spanish-American war veteran, and the last veteran to be buried to date at Fairview. A list of the names of all veterans buried in Fairview cemetery was read by A. M. Monteith, 40 and 8 grande chef de train.

Franks Reads Ritual
L. R. Franks, commander of the Pampa post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, read the ritual.

Nobody Speaks At Campaign Meeting

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., May 31 (AP)—A speechless campaign meeting left 300 spectators speechless last night.

Sixteen candidates for the city council walked across a stage as their names were called, waved to the audience and walked off again.

"What is this?" amazed Mayor John H. Levi asked.

J. B. Lemmon, city park director, explained the group had gotten together a few minutes before the rally and agreed none would make an address.

Dean Of Football Officials Passes

EMMITSBURG, Md., May 31 (AP)—Michael J. (Mike) Thompson, dean of football officials, who spent most of his 62 years teaching others to play the game, died of a heart attack early today.

His first job as an official was to referee the football game between Boston College and Brown in 1897.

In 1903 he caused a flurry in sports circles by allowing the Carlisle Indians to get away with their famous "hidden ball" trick against Harvard.

He was 62 years old.

He was born in 1831.

He was a native of Ohio.

Divers Foil Death In New Trip To Sub

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., May 31 (AP)—The thrilling story of death-defying bravery behind the laconic, seven-word navy report which sealed the fate of the 26 men dead aboard the ill-starred submarine, Squid, down in 40 fathoms off the Isles of Shoals, was revealed today for the first time.

"Opened hatch. Torpedo room flooded. Closed hatch," was all the report said, but officials aboard the rescue ship, Falcon, told today the tale hidden by that simple log entry.

It was the story of two navy divers, John Mihalowski, 28, of Worcester, a holder of the navy cross for work on previous rescues, and William Badders, 38, of Annapolis, who made the fifth trip in the big rescue bell.

Their descent in the nine-ton chamber after completion of the rescue was described by naval officials as one of the most dangerous feats "yet accomplished on the Squid job."

For four hours and two minutes last Thursday the two divers were in the chamber, under orders to "crack" a hatch and find out if there were further life aboard the Squid.

Their lives were in their own hands when they went down," one officer said.

Not only did they have to judge perfectly the pressure differences between bell and submarine before opening the hatches, they had to take a chance on carbon dioxide being built up in the bell during the 17 minutes they were attached, for no air vents could be opened in that time and there was no exhaust. After fastening the bell bolts to the submarine, they cracked open the hatches. Water oozed out around the torpedo room hatch-skirt.

Then it was fast action or death in a water-filled bell. They jammed the doors shut swiftly.

They got their decompression table by telephone and brought themselves up slowly by the bell's hand windlass. After the long ascent, delayed by frequent halts required because of the pressure changes, they were rushed to a recompression tank. That was the day's work.

All of it was crowded into seven words: "Opened hatch. Torpedo room flooded. Closed hatch."

Hubbers Leave Field In 5th To Heckle Ump

Third Tussle To Be Played Here Tonight

The Pampa Oilers will play their last home game for more than a week tonight at Road Runner park when they meet the Lubbock Hubbers in the rubber game of the present series. Game time will be 8:30 o'clock.

Last night Frank Grabek pitched masterful ball while his teammates hit in the clutch to pound out a 7 to 1 victory over the Hubbers. Grabek started the season with Lubbock but was released and then signed by the Oilers. Since then the tall right-hander has defeated the Hubbers twice.

Grabek limited the Hubbers to four scattered hits, one a double by Taylor and singles by Carr, Watkins, and Parker. The Oilers jumped on Rolf for nine hits before he was relieved by Gorski who walked four in a row after two were out. The only run scored on the walks was by Engle.

Watkins Chased. The game ended with Lubbock having only four players on the field. It all happened in the first of the ninth when Watkins, Hubber centerfielder, fanned for the third consecutive time. He didn't like the called third strike and he told Umpire Standifer in no uncertain terms. The outcome was that Umpire Standifer banished Mr. Watkins from the game.

Watkins' teammates on the bench decided to stick by him so they left the dugout and joined him in the stands where the bunch gave the umpire an unmerciful barrage of raspberries. To show that he still was boss, the umpire chased the whole bunch from the park, leaving only the batter, the man on deck and the two coaches on the field.

The Lubbock crew left the park but swiped a foul ball and had a game of their own in the street where they yelled loud and loud. With one away, Parker walked. Taylor made an infield out and Harris, who batted for the missing Gorski, fanned to end the game.

The Hubbers acted like a bunch of kids and the fans enjoyed the unusual happening. They had gotten tired of the managers and umpires fighting and squabbling. As on the previous nights, there were many, many decisions that frayed the nerves of managers and players and arguments were numerous.

When the Hubbers left their dugout and sat in the stands to boo the umpire, they were joined by several fans. Then the umpire stopped the game and proceeded to the wire to clear the players from the stands but when he arrived only one or two were in sight. The rest had dropped down behind the box seats and were hidden from view. Finally Manager "Salty" Parker of the Hubbers joined in an effort to chase the players from the stands but they paid little attention to him.

After a third attempt by the umpire, who threatened to assess fines, the Lubbock gang decided they had caused enough confusion and left the park, only to resume their noise outside the park.

The Oilers opened their scoring early. Cross and Bailey drew walks and Seitz sacrificed. Neil brought the runner's home with a single. Pietras went out, but Garbe singled. Neil stopping at third. On an attempted double steal, Neil and Garbe got their signals mixed and Garbe was run down between first and second while Neil stood around third and made no attempt to steal home.

Grabek Hits Triple. Grabek tripled to score Swift, who was hit, in the second inning but Swift missed third base and was called out. Grabek scored later on Bailey's single. Cross was caught at the plate on an attempted double steal and Manager Grover Seitz, who was at bat and over the play, protested loud and loud that Cross was safe after Umpire Standifer had paused for several seconds before making up his mind. But once more Manager Seitz lost the argument.

Singles by Bailey and Seitz and an error gave the Oilers another run in the fifth and two more crossed the plate in the next inning when Engle walked, Gyursan was safe on an error, Bailey walked and Seitz scored them with a single.

Batters Injured. Gorski walked four in a row in the eighth to allow another run. Lubbock scored in the fifth when Parker singled and later scored when a hot grounder went through the umpire, hit Swift on his sore ankle and rolled into centerfield. The umpire was in the path of the ball and Swift was unable to field the ball. After the play Swift left the game and Neil went to third. Pietras to second and Engle to rightfield.

Batters, new Pampa catcher, was on the sidelines with a broken little finger, received Monday night. The digit was broken in the third inning but he played the rest of the game. Gyursan replaced Batters and caught his best game of the season.

Despite his sore "dogs," Bill Garbe bagged two doubles. Bailey and Seitz also collected two hits and Grabek picked up a triple. Bailey made a couple of great plays at first base, once reaching far over the fence to take a foul fly with his gloved hand.

The Oilers played sparkling ball all the way.

Henderson Loses To Longview 4-0
(By The Associated Press)

The East Texas league race remained in status quo today because the three top teams couldn't win and the fourth-place outfit was too far behind to cause any worry—yet. Kilgore was but four games behind leading Henderson but in this close battle that's considered a healthy margin.

Henderson fell before Longview, 4-0, in a 10-inning melee in which

Associated Press Sports Writer.

If Memorial Day doubleheaders proved nothing else, they showed that baseball deserves all the nice things said about it in its centennial year.

That it still rates the honor of being called the national pastime—in spite of the invasions made by its little cousin, softball, and the other summer games—was demonstrated pretty clearly by yesterday's happenings.

A snug little group of 244,000 saw the eight bargain bills.

Up at Cooperstown, N. Y., they hung a portrait of Maj. Gen. Abner Doubleday, the game's founder, in the museum alongside tributes to others of the game's outstanding personalities.

And in New York's Polo Grounds the 56,296 who saw the Giant-Dodger feud witnessed an impressive ceremony when wreaths were laid on commemorative plaques for a quartet of old-time Giant heroes—the great "Muggsy" McGraw, Eddie Grant, Christy Mathewson and Ross Young.

So the quarter-million—give or take a few thousand—who saw the games weren't out merely for the sunshine. They were part of a great American tradition. But let's see what they saw.

First thing, of course, is the double shutout suffered by the rugged Reds of Cincinnati, the National league pace setters, at the hands of the Chicago Cubs. A couple of well-pitched games by the veteran Larry French and the young Vance Page—and the Redlegs were as meek as stuffed owls. That Cincinnati tragedy, by scores of 6-0 and 2-0, coupled with the Cards and the Pirates splitting their twin bill, left the Reds just two games ahead of the field.

The Cards won the first, 7-2, but couldn't stop Pittsburgh's Johnny Rizzo in the nightcap and he belted in enough runs—nine to be exact—to win three ball games. The Pirates won this one, 14-8.

The Dodgers held fifth place by winning the nightcap from the Giants, 3-1, after being humiliated to end by a 5-4 score in the first game.

The Bees and Phillies mated each other in the other National league offering, the Bees winning No. 1, 9-7 but losing No. 2, 5-3.

Highlight of American league play was the 8-4 shellacking handed the Yankees by the Boston Red Sox. The Yanks won the second, 17-9.

The Browns and Indians won the day's marathon honors, going 12 innings to a decision. It was in favor of the Indians by 3-2 and gave them a clean sweep for the day. They won the first game, 7-2.

The Athletics and Senators split, the A's winning the first, 3-1, and Washington the second, 8-4. Since Chicago won the first game from the Tigers, 6-2, and then dropped the nightcap, 8-3, all this left the clubs exactly where they were—way behind the Yanks.

Sports Roundup

By EDDIE BRIETZ
NEW YORK, May 31 (AP)—Rumor Factory: I. C. A. circles hear Brutus Hamilton of U. of California will coach the 1940 Olympic track and field squad.

The Athletics and Senators split, the A's winning the first, 3-1, and Washington the second, 8-4. Since Chicago won the first game from the Tigers, 6-2, and then dropped the nightcap, 8-3, all this left the clubs exactly where they were—way behind the Yanks.

Coach Dutch Meyer says: "Texas Christian will be just strong offensively in 1939; not as strong defensively."

Mail Box: Glenn Cunningham and friends: You guys will have to step up on the Princeton mile. Guess you noted Sydney Wooderson's 4:07.4 warm-up the other day. . . Don Meade: Your faithful followers can help but wonder what's become of your winning streak. . . Pepper Martin: Branch Rickey doesn't know whom he'd pick if he had the choice of all players in the big leagues, but he knows who'd be the last to go if he owned 'em all was peddling 'em—a chap named Pepper Martin—and how do you like that, boy?

Today's Guest Star
John P. Carmichael, Chicago Daily News: "Once upon a time John McGraw tried to trade a rookie named Bill Terry for Johnny Cooney, a southpaw pitcher. Unfortunately for the Giants, the deal fell through."

The promoters were left holding a great big bag when the Armstrong-Roderick fight didn't draw enough to cover Henry's $48,500 guarantee.

Herman Taylor, Philly promoter, bounced in with the news that fans down there will buy $100,000 worth of Louisville tickets. Mike Jacobs told Herman to stay that again.

Bill Howell limited the Oilers to six hits.

Second-place Texarkana lost to Jacksonville, 5-3, because the Jacks pounded out 10 hits and Texarkana made six errors.

Third-place Palestine stayed in line by losing to Marshall, 6-4, on Cal Lowman's homer in the seventh inning with one aboard.

Kilgore nosed out Tyler, 3-2, as a result of Eddie Knoblauch's single in the ninth with the bases loaded.

Midland And Pampa Boxers Meet Tonight

Trainer Cliff Chambers and the Pampa Golden Gloves Amateur boxing team left this morning for Midland where they will meet the Midland-Big Spring champions at the formal opening of the new Midland Recreation building tonight.

Besides the dual boxing meet there will be a band concert, radio entertainers, wrestling exhibitions. Guests will include city and chamber of commerce officials from Midland, Big Spring, Odessa, Crane and other cities.

The local team will be strengthened by several top boxers from this section or enough to bring the squad up to 10 or 11 members. Mickey Simpson of Canadian, who was to have been the middleweight entry, was seriously injured in an automobile accident Monday night.

Making the trip to Midland will be Benny Moore and Frankie Bills, Shamrock; Taylor Miller, Clete Henke and Leroy Davis, Pollett; Frank Brown, Denver Hubert, Pampa; Joe Hornbeck, Canadian; Delmar Koch, Amarillo.

"MAKIN'S" TOBACCO THAT POURS RIGHT, ROLLS FASTER

HERE'S "makin's" tobacco that's a real joy to roll—Prince Albert! The magnifying glass shows you a close-up of P.A.'s famous "crimp cut." You can see how each bit of tobacco is cut right to roll up fast, even and smoke cool with an easy draw. Try Prince Albert for "makin's" smokes that are rich, full-bodied, yet extra mild. P.A. is better tobacco, "no-bite" treated!

P.A. is one swell team-mate in your pipes too!

PRINCIPALLY IS THE WORD FOR PRINCE ALBERT MAKIN'S SMOKES. P.A. HANDLES EASIER, SMOKES MELLOWER, TASTES RICHER!

Texas Today

(By The Associated Press)

Indians of Texas reckoned their wealth in terms of horses, wives and guns, but they had other customs and beliefs which weren't so easily tolerated. Their admiration for bravery, for example, went to the extreme of believing that the heart of a brave man killed in battle endowed anyone consuming it with his valor. There is no well-established verification, however, that Texas Indians practiced cannibalism.

Not all Indians were as brave as western folklore would indicate. There are countless stories of a handful of Texans chasing a band of marauding Indians across the prairie. Sometimes the Indians did this to bait the pursuers into a trap, but mostly they were fleeing for their lives.

If it appeared escape would be impossible the tricky Indians had a nice surprise waiting for the brave posse. He would fall off of his horse and hide in the grass and then begin pulling his arrow staff across the bow string. No horse, even if under a brave Ranger, likes to hear anything in the grass it doesn't understand. It could sound like a whine or a rattlesnake, but in neither instance did the horse wait to investigate. The posse would find itself out of control in no time.

Indians and alligators had one thing in common. Neither bothered the negro very much. Of course there were exceptions. The alligator might not have seen the dusky visitor at the side of the bayous, but the Indian could. Possibly he felt that slaves were not friends of the white enemy. No early Texan seemed to dwell upon the reasons for anything, although information has been handed down which declares these rules to be a fact.

Reason for Indians raiding during a full moon is fairly obvious. The greatest number of depredations were committed on these occasions. Unfortunately, the rule isn't the constant fact, for some of the most horrible massacres were done in daylight or in the darkest nights.

After they had captured a group of women or children they burned their feet over the campfire so that escape would be impossible. The girls generally were made slaves to the squaws and if children were young when captured it was possible to raise them in complete ignorance of their heritage. Cynthia Ann Parker was one who experienced this. She grew up to marry a young chieftan, Peta Nacona. Her son Quanah Parker became a powerful Comanche chief.

An Indian could sit still longer without moving than any enemy the pioneer had. This trait made it possible for him to avoid apprehension many times. Pioneer families frequently elected one of the family to stand guard at night and give the alarm if any untoward move or sound was betrayed. But an Indian could make a slip, then sit still until danger had passed and proceed with safety.

Faint-Hearted Widow

imitating birds or animals. Pioneers soon learned to study the natural sounds of every known animal and bird and the slightest flaw in presentation of a call would bring the family to the windows, guns in hand.

An illustration of this occurred in Bastrop county in 1842. Listening one night with some friends to the hooting of owls, James Boyce declared after a few minutes: "I'm getting out of here." His friends laughed at his fright. "Think what you like," he replied, "but I know owls don't cough!" he was right. In a few minutes his party was fighting Indians.

Another Indian trick was to remove the bell from a bell-cow and place it around his own neck. The pioneer farmer often followed his herd far away from his home before the Indians would ambush him. Such things were common in the days of the Texas Republic.

In a heated skirmish an Indian sometimes would fall to the ground as though shot. His enemy would come over and find himself face to face with a very energetic foe. In fact, if the Indians hadn't been so busy fighting rival tribes, they might have been more dangerous although they were bad enough. Not until after Lamar's frontier warfare did the Indians seek the assistance of all tribes in combatting the white man. After that date they rode in thousands in mass formation.

But they had delayed too long. That was one trick they learned too late. White men were marching in larger masses than he was by then.

Youth Fishes Out Cannon Ball And Eludes Sentence

WILMINGTON, Del., May 31. (AP)—Take it from Millard E. Dawson, 18, the good ole summer-time is still the best time for fishing—even though you're not after a prize bass but a Civil War cannon ball you rolled into a river "just to see how big a splash it would make."

Six months ago a judge sentenced Dawson to fish out a 30-pound cannon ball he removed from a war memorial and rolled into Brandywine river. If he failed, the judge said, he'd have to "face the consequences"—in other words a stiffer sentence for disorderly conduct.

Today after much fishing, one "retrieve" and many disappointments Dawson had the cannon ball back on dry land. He located it yesterday in chest-deep water, rolled it ashore with the aid of two companions, then lugged it home for safe-keeping until "I can give it to Judge John P. Lynn personally."

The Brandywine was icy when the sentence was imposed last December.

Higgins Students Home For Vacation

Special To The NEWS

HIGGINS, May 31—Misses Juanita and Irene Hughes, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Hughes, arrived home from Lubbock where they have been attending Texas Technological college.

Miss Juanita, after a week's visit, will return for the summer session. A major in home economics, she will graduate in July. Miss Edith Barnett, daughter of Rev. H. K. Barnett, Methodist pastor here, will also receive her degree in the home making department, in July.

Esther Laubhan, Richard Cole and Clifford Brown, students at Texas Tech and Miss Maxine Barnett, student at A. & M. Goodwell Okla., have all returned home for the summer holidays.

Miss Veda Mae Peterson, Miss Chloie Sawyer and Royce Jones who are attending school at Canyon, will return home at the close of school there and B. G. Hurn of Park College, Parkville, Mo., will return home early in June.

Miss Maizie Patton, teacher in the Goodnight schools and Miss Dorothy Patton, teacher in the Perryton schools, both daughters of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Patton, have recently returned home. Miss Maizie will attend summer school at Canyon.

Miss Joycelin Dauner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Dauner, sophomore student at T. S. C. W. Denton, after a short vacation at Turner Falls and Sulphur Springs, Okla., will return home for the summer the latter part of June.

Californian Free In Abortion Death

SAN DIEGO, Calif., May 31 (AP)—Dr. G. H. Perchen, San Diego chiropractor jailed Monday on a murder charge in connection with the asserted abortion death of a 16-year-old housewife, was free today on a writ of habeas corpus.

His son, Dr. G. H. Perchen, Jr., still was held on a technical charge of "suspicion of murder."

The victim, Mrs. Martha Wilma Anderson, died May 5 after an illegal operation. A Blake Mason, chief of the sheriff's homicide squad, reported. The body was taken to Luling, Texas, by William H. Bouldin, 22, a sailor, and buried there under an assumed name.

A party of peace officers, autopsy curgeons and the girl's father, John Rhodes of nearby La Mesa, is en route to the little Texas town to question Bouldin, held for the California officers on a murder warrant.

Mrs. Anderson had been separated from her husband in Los Angeles.

LULING, May, May 31 (AP)—California officers are expected to arrive here tonight to complete investigation of the death of 16-year-old Martha Wilma Anderson, alleged victim of an illegal operation, whose body was spirited from San Diego to Texas.

William H. Bouldin, 22, a sailor, is being held in jail at Lockhart on a murder charge and at San Diego, Dr. G. H. Perchen, chiropractor, faces similar charges. His son, Dr. G. H. Perchen, Jr., is held on a technical charge of "suspicion of murder."

The girl was buried in the Bouldin family lot at Harwood under the name of "Mrs. Willie Bouldin."

Shamrock Man Awarded 'Wings' At Kelly Field

Special To The NEWS
SHAMROCK, May 31—Word was received here today of the graduation from Kelly Field School of Aviation and the appointment to an instructorship in Randolph Flying Field in San Antonio of Bill Cherry, former Shamrock boy. He received his commission as a second lieutenant.

Cherry has been an outstanding member of his class in Kelly Field, known throughout the United States as one of the best training schools for aviators.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Cherry, former residents of Shamrock, who now make their home at Quail. He graduated from the Shamrock High school in 1932 and has since attended Hardin-Simmons University and Kelly Field Flying school. He is a brother of Ed Cherry, former Hardin-Simmons football star.
