Death Penalty For Negro Slayer To Be Asked At Tahoka

Killer's Case Will Start In Lynn Today

No Violence Is Anticipated By Officials But Negro Is To Be Well-Guarded, Says Sheriff B. L. Parker

Is Still Missing

Defendant Being Held In Unnamed Jail But Will Be Produced Today; Held In Death Of F. E. Redwine

(Special To The Avalanche)

TAHOKA, March 11. — Death for Elmo Banks will be asked when the 34-year-old negro, indicted for murder of Deputy Sheriff F. E. Redwine, goes to trial in 106th district court Thursday morning.

A special venire of 100 men is to report in district court at 9 o'clock.

Arrested On Sunday

Banks, arrested early Sunday morning 14 miles southwest of here, will be produced from some West Texas jail in time to be present when selection of the jury is begun.

Sheriff D. L. Parker declined to identify the jail in which the negro murder suspect has been held since capture. Banks will be well-guarded, the sheriff said.

Although hundreds of Lynn county persons were aroused by the wanton slaying of Deputy Sheriff Redwine when Banks broke from the jail here late Friday, violence is not anticipated when Banks is returned here, said the source. Close friends of the sheriff have said they would follow the wishes of the deputy sheriff.

Let Law Take Course

Although he was near death of nine wounds inflicted by Banks, Deputy Sheriff Redwine requested that the law be permitted to take its course.

Banks, held in Lynn county jail on a charge of incest, snatched Deputy Sheriff Redwine's revolver and turned it upon the officer about 7 p. m. Friday.

One of the greatest manhunts ever conducted here followed, with of-

NEGRO HELD HERE

A jailer's wife, Mrs. L. E. Pool, in Nolan county Wednesday night informed the Associated Press through an Abilene newspaper that Banks was being held in Lubbock county jail and would be taken to Tahoka for trial by Lubbock authorities.

He was kept at Sweetwater from Sunday morning until 3 p. m. Tuesday, said Mrs. Pool, speaking over telephone from her home in the jail building.

Sheriff Tom Abel and Sheriff B. L. Parker, of Lubbock and Lynn counties, respectively, vouched for the truth of the statement after being informed the Associated Press had released the story at Abilene.

Famous Merchant Talks Freely Here As He Pays His First Visit; Hard Work Is Advice Given For Success

A dignified, white haired merchant prince of 60 who had to begin buying his own clothes at the age of 8 and who was laughed at by other children because he did not wear "boughten" clothing, today is as unassuming as success might well have made him assuming, a reporter found in talking with J. C. Penney in his single room Wednesday night at Hilton hotel.

Penney, whose 1,500 stores in every state of the union have made him internationally famous, is in Lubbock for the first time, and Wednesday, made a tour of the city, accompanied by George A. Simmons, A. B. Davis, E. J. Parsons, manager of the Penney store at Lubbock, Dr. Bradford Knapp, president of Texas Technological college, and Ray C. Mowery. The party inspected cattle and cattle feeding operations at Tech and at Standard Milling company.

Impressed By Interests

"I didn't know there were so many cattle," said Penney, smiling. "Too, I particularly was impressed by Lubbock's diversified interests and could readily understand how the city has stood up so well during the trying years of the depression."

Having only one pair of shoes when his father delivered the clothes-buying ultimatum, "just to teach me the value of money," and those with "holes in the bottom," Penney has become the product of unceasing work and of a homespun philosophy, part of which was handed him by his old-school Baptist minister father.

"If I could get a message over to the youth of this country it would be that it does not take genius to succeed in life. Any young man of ordinary intelligence, who is morally sound, open and above board in his dealings, not afraid of work, and who will play the game

Banquet Staged For Fort Worth Group Here Wednesday

FORT WORTH and Lubbock business men last night exchanged greetings, ate together, enjoyed an hour of comradeship and then held a general fellowship meeting that lasted until a late hour. It was the occasion of a visit here of 72 men, with the North Texas Agricultural college band of 34 members, to advertise the coming Southwest Exposition and Fat Stock show and the Frontier Centennial to be staged this summer.

Arriving on schedule time, 6:15 o'clock, a large group of citizens met the city's guests at the Santa Fe depot. The Tech Matador band headed the march down town, with the North Texas college band following and the visitors marching. A number of Lubbock people with friends in the delegation, drove them to town. A motorcycle police escort led the party.

Brief Entertainment

Staging a brief entertainment at Broadway and Avenue K, the two bands, 84 strong, played several numbers. Don and Gene McLaughlin, junior rodeo stars, five and seven years, performed. Cowgirls, Fay Kirkwood, Cleone Halcombe and Thecla Hannan, rode on horseback and Homer Halcombe, the clown, riding his famous mule "Mae West," caused considerable amusement. Ralph Logan was marshal of the parade.

Four airplanes accompanied the party, arriving several minutes ahead of the train. F. A. Baker, Slaton, trainmaster, was escort for the Santa Fe. The visiting band, led by Col. Earl D. Irons, director, gave a concert in the lobby of the Hotel Lubbock before the banquet.

Bradley Toastmaster

Durwood Bradley, member of the Board of City Development, was toastmaster. E. G. Parker, First National bank of Fort Worth, presided over their part on the program.

O. L. Slaton, president of the First National bank, on behalf of the city of Lubbock, extended a welcome to the visitors. He told of his arrival in Lubbock 34 years ago and of the development of the city and the South Plains. Slaton quoted figures showing the position Lubbock has as an industrial center. He pointed out that Lubbock had emulated Fort Worth in many ways in its development along commercial and industrial lines.

Agreement Is Reached On Western Plan

Agricultural Delegates From 11 States Approve Report Drafted At Meeting Held In Salt Lake City

Payments Sought

Cattlemen And Farmers Submerge Historic Differences At Parley; Methods Of Payment Recommended

(By The Associated Press)

SALT LAKE CITY, March 11. — Western agricultural representatives from 11 states, agreed at a regional conference here today upon a program for application under the federal soil conservation act, AAA successor.

Cattlemen and farmers submerged historic differences and voted for government payments for land withdrawn from other agricultural uses and planted to pasture or hay, but at a lower rate than if it were not so used. Crops were classified as to soil conserving or soil depleting, and farming practices were listed as to their effect upon the fertility of the land.

Payments Recommended

Maintenance payments for continuing soil conservation practices were recommended, but at a rate one-third of diversion payments for acreage changed from soil depleting to soil conserving crops.

Adopting the report of a committee of which Charles M. Kearney of Morrill, Neb., was chairman, the conference recommended that the beet sugar industry be handled under a separate program.

"It is vital that the quota provisions authorized and enacted by the congress be effectively maintained if the sugar beet industry is to survive," the report said, and urged that benefits paid beet growers in 1934 and 1935 be continued.

Termed Special Crop

Cotton, grown in New Mexico, Arizona and California, likewise was termed a special crop. A declaration for a division payment of 5 cents a pound was stricken from the report, however, on the ground that specific diversion payments for no other crop were approved by the conference.

Benefit payments to be received from the soil conservation appropriation would be divided between landlord and tenant in the ratio named in the lease, provided the tenant did the work incident to the program. Should the landlord do the work, payments would be made in inverse ratio. Where rent is in cash, the renter would receive his share of the federal grants.

The range conservation report,

Adventure In Far-Off Land Being Sought

Two Honeymooning Couples Are Off For South Seas; Plan To Forget Cares Of World And Find Paradise

(By The Associated Press)

SAN FRANCISCO, March 11.— —Two honeymooning couples from Michigan sailed in high spirits today for the South Seas, to "escape from mediocrity" by living in thatched huts and eating fish with the natives on a tropical isle.

The expedition is a sequel to the double wedding February 28 in Pontiac, Mich., of Murrill F. Walls, 28, Pontiac High school teacher, to Amber Penny, 21, a pretty brunette; and Archie Hogan, 23, Albion college football letter man, to a schoolmate from Detroit, Marjorie Faddis, 21.

Decided Within Hour

"We decided it all inside an hour —to get married and go to Tahiti, I mean," explained diminutive Mrs. Walls.

Said brown-haired, serious-eyed Marjorie Hogan, "our folks think we are just a wee bit cracked."

Said her husband, who postponed taking a hotel management course at Cornell for this adventure: "This proposition appealed to me more. I expect to gain from it."

Aspires To Be Author

"I don't like alarm clocks," remarked Walls, senior member of the party, who aspires to be an author.

It was Walls who had rebelled against "mediocrity."

He didn't like Pontiac High school teaching with the prospect of "working hard all your life and getting nothing for it at the end except maybe being called an honest man."

Walls sketched what plans are so far made—to leave the liner

Change Of Color Suggested For Republicans' Elephant

WASHINGTON, March 11. (AP)— Rep. Marcantonio, left wing Republican from New York City, proposed today that the color of his party's symbolic elephant be changed from gray to pink.

"Pink means liberatism," he explained with a smile. "Unless we change the elephant's color, he might turn out at the last minute to be another color—white."

Henry P. Fletcher, Republican national chairman, replied:

"If anyone wants to see pink elephants, let them, but I'm still for the big gray kind."

Col. Knox Gets Kick Out Of Prediction By Own Columnist

HOUSTON, March 11 (AP)—Colonel Frank Knox, publisher of the Chicago Daily News, laughed heartily today when interviewers recalled that a columnist on the News had written in his column that his boss did not have a "Chinaman's chance" to receive the Republican presidential nomination.

The columnist was Howard Vincent O'Brien.

"I began reading it and smiling and chuckling and then roaring with laughter at the wallop in the last line. I told the editor: 'I don't dot an "I" or cross a "T" — let her go!'"

Bond Election Is Asked In Petition Filed Here; Many Signatures Listed

Third Action Being Sought For Voters On Gas Proposal

A PETITION with approximately 1,520 signatures was filed Wednesday afternoon at City hall, asking that City commissioners order an election on their proposed issuance today of $1,200,000 revenue bonds for construction of a municipal gas system.

Signatures were represented as those of qualified taxpaying voters. The petition was filed with W. O. Stevens, city secretary, shortly after 3 o'clock by W. H. Meador.

Started On Feb. 25

Circulation of the petition had been started Feb. 25 by persons who desired an election to determine whether Lubbock citizens approve or disapprove of the issuance of the revenue bonds, and by employes of the West Texas Gas company.

The number of signatures obtained is considerably larger than the minimum of 10 per cent required. Approximately 6,500 voters in the city qualified for general elections this year through payment of poll taxes and securing of exemption certificates, although out of that total hundreds do not meet the property taxpaying requirement, it was estimated.

Planned Action Thursday

City commission had announced in a resolution adopted Feb. 3 its intention to issue the bonds at their March 12 meeting, today, provided a petition, signed by not less than 10 per cent of the qualified property taxpaying voters of the

The bill is designed to place the Mississippi gulf coast on a competitive basis with Reno, Nev., in the granting of divorces.

Southwestern Cattlemen Face Heavy Program At Closing Sessions Today

(By The Associated Press)

AMARILLO, March 11.—With committee reports, election of officers, and selection of the city for the 1937 convention on the program, southwestern cattlemen face the final and heaviest program of the three-day convention in the general session tomorrow morning.

Taxation problems, meat marketing, and transportation were subjects before the convention meeting this morning—the second business session of the 60th annual gathering for members of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers' association.

Sen. Clint C. Small, Amarillo, presented what he termed a "sensible, well-founded" tax plan to the meeting this morning. The plan provides for a general sales tax and in addition increased levies on most of the revenue sources that already are being tapped.

"Increased governmental activity requires increased taxation," Senator Small said. "When

French Claim That Carnage Is Inevitable

Talk Of Preventive War Is Coupled With A Threat To Quit League; Momentous Parley Is Scheduled

Honor At Stake

Frontier Fortification Being Inspected; Mussolini Likely To Throw His Support To France And Her Allies

BY ROBERT B. PARKER

(Copyright, 1936, by Associated Press)

PARIS, March 11.—French talk of a "preventive war" against Adolf Hitler was coupled tonight with a threat of France's withdrawal from the League of Nations with her allies on the eve of momentous conferences on Germany's violation of the Locarno treaty.

Foreign Minister Pierre-Etienne Flandin went to London for vital conversations beginning tomorrow, French officials said, "almost" convinced he should make a "preventive war" against Adolf Hitler now, rather than "submit to carnage two years from now when treaty breakers will be strong."

Mandate To Stand Firm

The French delegation carried with it to the London Locarno and league talks a mandate to stand firm for punishment of the reich.

France, officials said, is resolved to throw her all into the crisis if necessary to preserve "the future peace of Europe," as Premier Albert Sarraut told parliament yesterday.

An authoritative French spokesman said:

"We know war is coming in two years anyhow. We might as well have it now, while we are prepared.

"The only way in which Hitler's troops will leave the Rhineland is for the Locarno signatories to drive them out, but a stitch in time saves nine.

Ready To Draw Sword

"There comes a time when a nation refuses to be humiliated in front of the world. French honor is at stake and we are ready to draw the sword if necessary to keep it unsullied."

The army commission of the chamber of deputies viewed the situation so seriously that it decided to send a six-man delegation to inspect frontier fortifications tonight.

Amid fears of possible war, 20 deputies made a pilgrimage to the battlefields of Verdun, where

SCATTERINGS

THE upholstery fabrics for spring are gayer than ever. Huge birds, big flowers, enormous tropical vines will spread all over your recovered furniture if you will let them. . . . Nothing quite so irksome as having to wait when you have no idea when you will be received. We're thinking about our experience of one and one-half hours wait to have aid in rendering our tax for "excessive thriving," as the Reader's Digest puts it. . . . Harold Griffith looks like this new matinee idol, Robert Taylor. . . . Painting that white strip down the center of the highway at that curve made by the Shallowater road leading into College Avenue is an aid to night driving. . . . First Christian Woman's council, the Lubbock Garden club and other clubs will miss flaxen-haired, gentle-voiced Kate Keathley, who left Wednesday afternoon for California to make her home. This frail young woman has lent enthusiastic support to many worthy drives and civic enterprises. Her home was a mecca for college girls.

SUNDAY SCHOOL TEACHERS

DECRYING the "dilatory fashion in which laymen enter religious teaching as compared to their enthusiastic campaigning in civic and service clubs," Bishop Ralph McGee, head of the Methodist Episcopal church of the St. Paul area in Chicago, startled clergymen by asserting that many Sunday school teachers are morons and hamper, rather than aid, the children they are teaching. He made the statement in addressing a group of Methodist clergymen assembled in Chicago.

Now you'll agree that it is altogether possible that in Chicago and other metropolitan areas finding a teacher who is qualified to prepare children for moral responsibilities of life may be a difficulty and so it is that we point with pride to the local condition.

A CHURCH CENTER

WE believe that Lubbock, which is known far and wide as a "church going town," is fortunate in having as its church school teachers many men and women who are well prepared to teach proper ethics and standards. Off hand we think of Judge E. L. Pitts, superintendent of the First Christian church school, and Dr. A. W. Evans, who holds a similar office at First Methodist church. We've heard young people sing the praises of Mrs. A. N. Gamble, Mrs. A. W. Evans, Mrs. Ethel Terrell, Mrs. A. T. Cocanougher, Judge Clark M. Mullican, Prof. C. S. Mast, Mrs. J. D. Carnett, Jack M. Randal, Mrs. William Dingus, Mrs. J. J. Smelser and J. E. Hartley, to list only a few.

Most Lubbock churches conduct standard training schools which are filled to the overflow with new teachers and those already with classes who are anxious to keep up with what's new in the field of religious education.

Of course young people and those not so young know that in youth's climb to adulthood there is "a long way which he must tread alone", at least so it appears. That's why we are so quick to challenge the bishop in his blanket statement. We are sure that there are many good men and women who are anxious to give their time and energy to seeing that youth's feet are guided in the right paths.

ONE MAN'S VIEW

SPEAKING of morals of youth, the morale of the student body at Tech must have improved since the first few years. At least that's the opinion of Jack Hightower, who has been nightwatchman on the campus since the first day (or night) and has seen the worst as well as the best natures of the hundreds who have passed through its portals.

Hurrying home through the late twilight Tuesday as eddies of white sand were swept through the chilled air we saw this cheery little man walking fast with his head bowed against the storm, carrying his lunch pail. We stopped and gave him a ride to the campus. He remembered us; there have been few students he has ever forgotten of the many that he has met.

Answering our question he asserted his belief that "things are getting better at Tech, the kids are better maybe because they are poorer." As Jack put it, "when you are rich you can get into more meanness than when you're worried over whether or not you can stay in school."

"Well then, were the dormitories a factor for improvement in the campus morals?"

"At any rate they didn't worse it any," he replied.

Directors Of Rotary Named

Run-Off Primary Is Staged At Meeting Held Wednesday; Memorial Service Is Being Planned Next Week

Second or "run-off" primary for directors of the Rotary club was held yesterday at the regular luncheon, with five men out of 14 being named for directors for the coming year, beginning July 1. Announcement was made of the selection following the meeting in the Hotel Lubbock.

James I. Kilpatrick, George M. Garrett, Dr. F. B. Malone, C. I. Wall and Roy Furr were the five selected, the committee announced. In the first primary 14 names were voted, five being a tie. They were: S. E. Cone, George W. Dupree, H. D. Grant, M. B. Hilburn, Tom Gaston, W. S. Posey, R. C. Smith, Dr. C. J. Wagner and Riley F. Hule.

Holdover Directors

Holdover directors are: Kenneth E. Oberholtzer, J. L. Quicksall, R. F. Bayless, Don L. Jones and Alex McDonald. The new board is to meet within a week and select officers for the coming year.

President R. F. Bayless named H. L. Allen, Jack M. Randal and L. Wesley Read as the election committee. The name of J. B. McCauley was proposed as a new member.

Dr. Malone announced the Centennial religious rally Friday and invited members to attend. J. A. Raley, jr., announced the Fort Worth booster visit in Lubbock Wednesday night and E. J. Parsons invited Rotarians to meet J. C. Penney, head of the store system bearing his name, who will be here Thursday.

Memorial Planned

Harold Griffith, program chairman, asked Kenneth E. Oberholtzer, chairman of the vocational committee to introduce the speaker, George M. Garrett, division highway engineer. Chairman Griffith announced a memorial service for the late Roscoe Wilson, next week.

This division has 1,103 miles of state designated highways, 152 miles of temporary designated roads, 656 miles of graded and drained highways and 512 miles of paved roads, 402 of which have caliche-asphalt top and 112 are concrete. There are 190.8 miles under construction, Garrett said.

Contract jobs are underway in Floyd, Lynn, Lamb, Dawson and Briscoe counties and relief projects in Hockley, Swisher, Lynn, Garza and Terry counties.

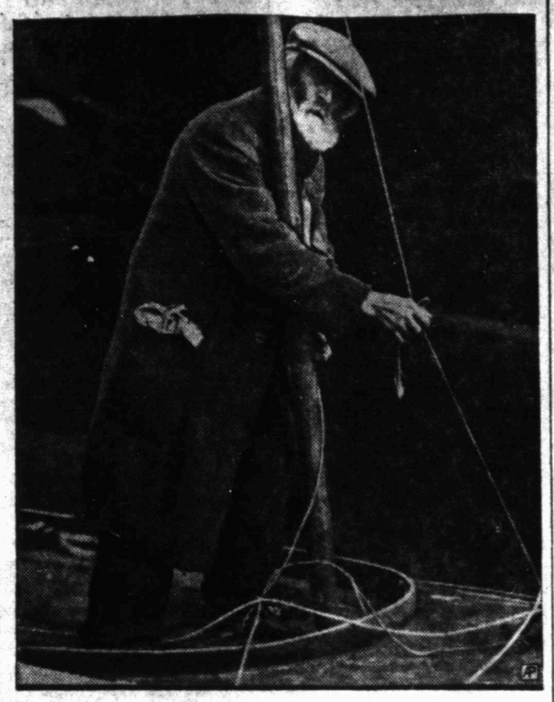

Comparing the division of 19 counties, with the state of Indiana, he said the division comprised 18,000 square miles with a population of 185,000 while Indiana had 2,100,000 population on 36,000 square miles.

Roads built by the Romans two thousand years ago, were three feet thick, he said. Based on the number of "man-hours" used on this construction, at modern costs the roads were built for $135,000 a mile. Modern caliche roads, that will last 25 years or more, cost at the rate of $25,000 per mile for base and asphalt surface. Mr. Garrett detailed a brief history of federal road work since 1913.

THREE ARE KILLED

"Barnacle Bill" Puts To Sea

Salt water quite naturally gets into the blood stream of Gloucester residents and that probably is the best explanation of "Captain" William Elwell. Elwell, well over 70, spends much of his time cruising about Gloucester harbor in a 12-foot dory, which he has decked over and rigged as a schooner. Everyone along the waterfront knows "Barnacle Bill" Elwell and no wharf owner would think of refusing him a berth. Although he never ventures outside the breakwater, his mild response to the call of the sea has struck an understanding chord in the hearts of the Gloucestermen who sail the North Atlantic. "Barnacle Bill" betrays only one landlubberly weakness; he is almost never without a wilted boutonniere in the lapel of his coat.

House Thrown Into An Uproar When Epithets Are Tossed By Two Solons

WASHINGTON, March 11. (AP)—The house was thrown into an uproar today when the epithets "fool" and "jackass" were exchanged by two representatives.

Rep. Zioncheck (D-Wash) told the house he would not object to Rep. Ekwall (R-Ore) discussing communism and free speech "if he wants to make a fool of himself."

"If anybody has made a bigger jackass of himself this session than the gentleman from Washington, I don't know who it is," Ekwall reported.

Rep. O'Connor (D-NY) demanded that the "words be taken down," a preliminary parliamentary move to determine whether they should be expunged from the record.

"Take 'em down," Ekwall said.

Representatives Zioncheck, O'Connor, Blanton (D-Texas) and others all tried to talk at the same time while Speaker Byrns rapped for order. Rep. Snell (R-NY), the Republican leader, stilled the furor by forcing a quorum call.

Trussed Body Being Sought

Grappling Hooks Rake Frisco Bay For Body After Man Says He Killed Another Because Of Blackmail Threat

(By The Associated Press)

REDWOOD CITY, Calif., March 11. — Grappling hooks raked San Francisco bay today for the rail-weighted, trussed body of a man Jerome von Braun Selz told Sheriff James J. McGrath he killed because of threatened "blackmail."

Selz already has admitted slaying Mrs. Ada French Rice and police pressed investigation into violent deaths of two other persons, Mrs. Lena Coffin, 34, San Francisco, and James Anthony, Richmond, Calif., service station employe.

Grapple For Body

Deputies under Sheriff McGrath set out early today to grapple for the body of a man Selz named "Barovich" or "Baronovich." He said he tossed the body into the bay from the San Mateo bridge last November. The killing climaxed a struggle for possession of a gun, he said, after "Barovich" threatened to tell authorities about Selz' slaying of Mrs. Rice.

Mrs. Coffin's mutilated body was found last April in a San Francisco waterfront (bay) hotel. She had been strangled to death. John Smeins, hotel clerk, said Selz was the man who registered with her and then disappeared a few hours later.

Body Is Hacked

Chief of Police L. E. Jones at Richmond asked Sheriff McGrath to question Selz about Anthony, an apparent murder victim Jan. 27, 1935. Anthony's body lay across his bed, hacked with an axe and bound with wire. Chief Jones said Selz had worked in Richmond until shortly before Anthony's death.

After 72 hours' questioning, Selz yesterday admitted killing Mrs. Rice, divorced wife of a former Nome, Alaska, mayor. Selz insisted it was accidental; that he swung a poker wildly in a darkened room believing there were intruders present and hit Mrs. Rice.

Preference Is To Be Given To Construction Of Bridge

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 11. (AP)—The state highway commission has agreed to give preference over other highway projects to the construction of a $350,000 bridge across the Red river near Bonham, Texas, and Durant, Okla., on state highway 22. Van T. Moon, Oklahoma highway engineer, said today.

Moon said the commission recently signed an agreement to receive bids soon and build the bridge in conjunction with the Texas highway commission. Flood waters last year changed the river channel and it now will be necessary to build a structure larger than that contemplated originally, Moon said.

Luckies a light smoke

OF RICH, RIPE-BODIED TOBACCO—"IT'S TOASTED"

Luckies are less acid

Excess of Acidity of Other Popular Brands Over Lucky Strike Cigarettes

PROPER AGING

Tobacco in its natural state is harsh and strong. Though "cured" by the grower before sale, it is unsuited for use without further aging. During this aging period (which ranges in the case of Lucky Strike from 1½ to 3 years) important changes occur. These "Nature" changes result in the partial "smoothing out" of the original harsh qualities of the leaf. Our process of manufacture carries these improvements many steps further—as every Lucky Strike Cigarette exemplifies: A Light Smoke of rich, ripe-bodied tobacco.

LUCKIES ARE LESS ACID!

Recent chemical tests show* that other popular brands have an excess of acidity over Lucky Strike of from 53% to 100%.

Five Nations Back Protest

German Militarization Of The Rhineland Lacks Favor With Others; Entente Countries Hold Conference

GENEVA, March 11. (AP) — Five nations, one of them Turkey, a German ally in the World war, agreed to back France today in her protest to the League of Nations against Germany's militarization of the Rhineland.

This decision was taken at a meeting of the Little and Balkan Ententes over which Nicholas Titulescu, Rumanian foreign minister, presided.

Czechoslovakia, Rumania and Yugoslavia make up the Little Entente. Rumania and Yugoslavia also are members of the Balkan Entente with Greece and Turkey.

Agreed In Principle

No communique was issued but sources close to Titulescu said it was agreed in principle to support France in the Locarno crisis. Titulescu left tonight for London.

Soviet Russia was generally expected here also to back France.

The league has not yet posted any official notice that the council will meet Saturday in London instead of tomorrow in Geneva, as originally scheduled.

However, Dr. Joseph A. C. Avenol, secretary-general of the league, and a number of other members of the secretariat prepared to entrain for England.

The newspaper Journal Des Nations said France's minimum demand for settlement of the Locarno crisis is that Germany must withdraw some troops from the Rhineland and pledge not to construct fortifications there.

Marriage For King Rumored

Indications That Edward VIII Will Take Bride In Near Future Seen; Royal Request Sent To Commons

By BURDETTE JOHNS
Associated Press Foreign Staff

LONDON, March 11. — Edward VIII, the first bachelor king of England in 176 years, opened the way tonight for a queen to sit beside him on the British throne.

His action consisted only of a royal request to the house of commons to take account of financial provision for a prospective queen, but it spurred speculation throughout the nation of possibility of a regal wedding.

Request Is Made

"His majesty desires that the contingency of his marriage should be taken into account so that, in that event, there should be a provision for her majesty," said the king's message which was read by Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer.

Actually, he asked the lower house of parliament to bear in mind that his queen, if he marries, would need to be placed on the payroll.

Excited ponderings of the significance of the monarch's communication recalled the names of five royal princesses considered "eligible" to wear the British consort's crown.

Theoretically, however, after the question of finances has been settled, the choice of a mate remains up to the king himself—qualified only by the marriage law that she must be a protestant.

Would Accept Advice

While he probably would accept the advice of his family and inner government council, the British law allows him to wed a woman of royal, noble, or common blood. The sole provision, in event of the latter, would prohibit any of the couple's children from succeeding him as head of the empire.

At the head of the list, in the opinion of the advisers, stand the five princesses—Irene and Catherine of Greece, sisters of the Greek king, Juliana of the Netherlands, Eugenie of Greece, the Greek monarch's cousin, and Kyre of Russia, daughter of Grand Duke Cyril.

One close observer of the royal family said the king might even marry a "charming American girl" if he chooses. This observer's statement admittedly widened the field considerably but matchmakers expressed the belief the bachelor monarch would be unlikelyl to wed anyone of less than noble rank.

Missionary Will Appear In City

People living in the world today are seeing, or have a chance to see, fulfillment of one of the chief Biblical prophecies in the return of the Jews and prosperity to Palestine, Dr. George T. B. Davis, noted missionary, will say at 7:30 o'clock tonight, when he makes an illustrated lecture at Grace Gospel hall, Sixteenth street and Avenue N.

Dr. Davis recently returned from Palestine. The country presents a "glowing picture of prosperity, with new industries started, the population and wealth increasing fast," he said. More than 300,000 Jews have returned to their home land.

"Palestine well may be termed the most prosperous country in the world today," he said. "The eyes of the nations are focused upon it. Men everywhere are wondering why the land of Palestine is enjoying abundant prosperity.

"It was prophesied in the Bible that Palestine should be rebuilt and restored in the latter days. Writings in the Old Testament abound in reference to return of the Jews and to transformation of their country. More than 2,500 years ago, Isaiah said:

"'And they shall build the old wastes, they shall raise up the former desolations, and they shall repair the waste cities, the desolations of many generations'."

Pastor Is Having Trouble On Trip

AMHERST, Mass., March 11. (AP)—Five weeks of pavement pounding have left the Rev. Arden M. Rockwood, of Pasadena, Calif., in the care of an orthopedic surgeon but he still is confident he will make the Amherst college reunion in June.

Mr. Rockwood, class of '96, announced in January he would walk the entire distance from California to Amherst. A note from El Paso, Texas, indicated, however, he is having difficulties.

It read:

"I shall have to acknowledge that owing to unexpected foot trouble I was not able to walk all the way. I am hoping my feet soon will be in shape to travel my full straint, 25 miles a day, six days a week."

Cotton Picker Is Perfected

Brother Inventors Claim That Their Machine Will Prove A Blessing Rather Than A Curse To Man-Kind

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 11. (AP)—John D. and Mack D. Rust, inventors of a mechanical cotton picker, announced today that they will forego large profits from their invention so that "it may be a blessing and not a curse to man-kind."

With the machine practically perfected and ready to go into production, they appealed, they said, "to the world" to help them perfect a plan by which theirs may be the first labor-saving machine to be put into use with assurance that it will not bring distress to labor.

To Limit Returns

For their own service in inventing the picker, the brothers have set up a novel scheme of limited returns.

"As compensation for our invention," John, 43, said, "we will accept an income that will not exceed 10 times the salary of the lowest full-time paid employe of the corporation.

"We do not believe all salaries should be leveled, but that each should be paid according to his services. But there should be a maximum. Ten times the lowest salary, which should represent at least a minimum living wage, seems a fair place to stop."

In addition to the salary so computed, the brothers will receive profits as stockholders. But, John said, they intend to give all such additional income to organizations devoted to human betterment.

Arkansas Smears Lumberjacks, 53-24, To Win Southwest Olympic Cage Crown

Poole Catches On Fire, Sets Hot Goal Pace

Porker Star Shoots 24 Points As Southwest Champions Go To Town In Olympic District Tourney At Houston

(By The Associated Press)

HOUSTON, March 11.—Inspired by the amazing play of Ike Poole, handsome 20 year old senior center, Coach Glen Rose's Arkansas Razorbacks here tonight defeated the Stephen F. Austin Lumberjacks of Nacogdoches, 53 to 24, for the right to represent the Southwest in Olympic basketball eliminations.

Poole scored 24 points, gave the victors virtually every tip at center, and played a topnotch game.

Standing on the side of the court and with his back to the basket, Poole once flipped the ball over his head. It went through the basket without even touching.

And From The Center

Just before the game ended Poole stood in the center of the court and chunked the ball through the payoff station.

Coach Bob Shelton's Lumberjacks, who had shown so much class Tuesday night in eliminating Rice institute 49 to 48, were sadly off against the towering Razorbacks. In the first half the Lumberjacks had numerous scoring chances but the fine accuracy which distinguished their play against Rice was lacking.

At the end of the first half Arkansas led 14 to 9. But the Razorbacks really went to town in the second half, scoring almost at will as Poole caught on fire and scored field goals from all distances and angles. In that second half Poole scored eight field goals.

Revolta, Picard To Meet Sarazen And Jimmy Hines

MIAMI COUNTRY CLUB, MIAMI, Fla., March 11. (AP)—Johnny Revolta and Henry Picard, 1935 winners, today defeated Willie MacFarlane and Willie Klein, five and four, to enter the final of the 12th annual $4,000 International four-ball golf matches.

Tomorrow, in 36 holes of play, they will contest for the $2,000 top prize with veteran Gene Sarazen and young Jimmy Hines, who today rallied in the last three holes to oust Tommy Armour and Bobby Cruickshank one up.

Out over this morning's first nine holes in 31, five under par, Revolta, the Milwaukee star who is reigning PGA champion, and his Hershey, Pa., teammate went four up on MacFarlane, professional at Old Oaks, N. Y., and Klein, who divides his time between Wheatley Hills, L. I., and Miami Beach.

After that, they were content to play it safe, posting conservative 34's for the second and third nines to maintain their margin and picking up one more hole in the last five of the match.

Meanwhile, "Farmer" Gene Sarazen, of Brookfield Center, Conn., and Hines, who hails from Garden City, L. I., were furnishing fire works throughout the 36 holes of their ding-dong battle with the veteran Scotchmen, Armour, of Boca Raton, Fla., and Cruickshank of Richmond, Va.

Arizona-Texas League Hopes Flutter With Pirate Denial

TUCSON, Ariz., March 11. (AP) — Leon T. Knapp, president of the Arizona-Texas Baseball association, said reorganization of the circuit appeared less possible today as a result of the Pittsburgh Pirates' inability to furnish financial backing to Phoenix or Tucson.

"Unless funds can be secured elsewhere," Knapp said, "reorganization plans will fall through."

E. E. Richards, McAllen, Tex., citrus grower, claims to have produced Texas' largest grapefruit. His prize specimen measured 26 inches in circumference. The former record was 24 inches.

Tigers

GORDON STANLEY COCHRANE, better known as Mickey, is ready for action at Lakeland, Fla., where the Tigers are mapping the campaign designed to keep the world baseball champion hip in Detroit for the second straight year. Manager Cochrane hit .319 in 1935.

LEON A. (GOOSE) GOSLIN, who broke up the World Series last fall by driving Mickey Cochrane across the plate with the winning run, is ready for another big league season at the age of 35 plus a few months. The Goose batted .292 last year for Detroit.

AL SIMMONS becomes a teammate of Mickey Cochrane again and he has promised to improve the .267 batting average he had with the White Sox last season. Costing Detroit $75,000, he is slated for the Tiger centerfielder assignment and fifth place in the batting order.

TOMMY BRIDGES of Gordonville, Tenn., had the best earned-run average of any of the Detroit pitchers in 1935—3.51. The fragile but effective right-hander pitched the Tigers to 21 American league victories and was charged with 10 losses.

Nazis To "Be Good" During Olympic Wars

Religious Discrimination To Be Banned During Games At Berlin, High Officials Say; Jews To Be Recognized

(Note: This is the first of a series of stories on the Olympic situation in Germany, based upon first hand study by an Associated Press sports writer, who covered the winter games and has spent considerable time in Berlin, scene of the forthcoming summer sports.)

BY GAYLE TALBOT

BERLIN, March 11. (AP)—Regardless of the effect of past or present developments on Germany's relations with other countries, the Nazi regime of Adolf Hitler has planned, honestly and meticulously, to present to the world next August the greatest set of Olympic games in history.

The Germans have built an athletic plant eclipsing anything heretofore constructed in any sports capital. The entry list for the summer sports is a record breaker. Short of another world war, against which all diplomatic fingers are crossed, the world's best athletes will perform here in a domestic atmosphere calculated to spread nothing but sweetness and light.

"For The Present"

Despite a tendency in some quarters to "rock the boat," official Germany has banned racial or religious discrimination in athletics, at least for the time being. The famous girl fencer of Jewish extraction, Helene Mayer, has been welcomed back home and named to represent Germany in the Olympics. Visiting Jews, whether athletes or spectators, will be safer from indignities here than they would be on any New York subway during rush hour.

Olympic leaders, headed by Dr. Theodor Lewald, aged president of the German Olympic committee, have sought to eliminate any trace of anti-Semitism in Berlin. They accomplished generally the removal from walls and windows of little stickers bearing the fanciful portrait of a Jew, with the legend: "He who buys from a Jew is the enemy of his country." Only a few may be noted now, on the side streets.

Propaganda Vehicle?

The extent to which the Olympics have been or will be used as a vehicle for alleged Nazi "propaganda" is another problem for international authorities to worry about. The games, throughout, have been calculated to impress the rest of the world with the greatness of Hitler's Germany.

A somewhat similar situation would have existed in 1932 if the Republican campaign committee in the United States had taken over the Los Angeles Olympics, dedicated them to Herbert Hoover, declared him the guiding spirit and attributed their success to his genius for organization.

It is fair to explain, however, that those actually in charge of Olympic preparations—Dr. Lewald and his associates—are interested only in the Olympics, ardent Nazis though they may be. They are the ones who insure the success of the summer games, regardless of who claims the credit of the glory. To them, as well as to sportsmen generally, they are "the games," not "our games."

Stratton Pins Rod Fenton In Straight Falls

Strong Man Remains Unbeaten With Two-Fall Victory Over Canadian Terror; 2 Matches End In Deadlocks

Displaying a new and surprising aggressiveness, Walter Stratton, Iowa muscle man, took Rod Fenton, Canadian bad boy, to a neat cleaning in straight falls to win the main event on Promoter Sled Allen's grunt and growl show at the Auditorium last night.

It was Stratton's 47th fight since he entered the West Texas circuit early last fall. It was his 43rd victory in that time. He has yet to be defeated. Four of the 47 fights were 30-minute deadlocks in semi-final fights, although the big majority of his appearances have been in main events.

Too strong, too well-knit, well-trained and ambitious for any man he's met in main event battle, Stratton took Fenton so handily last night that no end of the stout boy's reign is in sight.

Fenton Disappointed

Fenton, it had been bruited about in dressing rooms and on the street, was "laying" for Stratton this time. They met once before, Walter taking him in three falls. Fenton challenged for a return match, and that was it last night. Fenton, better than the general run of rasslers, put up a brave try. He was overly ambitious, and there was a referee who did not let him get away with his usual rough stuff. He tried plenty of it in what seemed a determined effort to stop Stratton, but he was repeatedly broken from holds for employing illegal tactics.

The referee was George Poulos, who is very much of a man, a well-stacked Greek from New York. Poulos worked in the preliminary, his debut here, impressed the fans with his speed, his wickedness and his showmanship. He was unable to throw Ernie Arthur, claimant to Canada's middleweight title, in their 20-minute razz-a-ma-tazz, but it was a fast, rowdy match. Arthur, veteran professional ice hockey star and grappler, was back for the first time this year. He came here straight from Vancouver, and points north, where he has been spending the winter.

Poulos Wrestles, Too

Poulos did a lot of "show off" stuff in his debut, clowned around considerably, displayed an aggressive and cruel attitude at times, begged for mercy at other times, but was satisfied to fight just slow enough to make it a draw. Arthur swapped holds with him frequently, messed up his classic features, and was more graceful than ever with his falls and slams to the mat. Arthur can tumble as if hit by a freight train, frequently upon the slightest provocation.

The Greek from New York, however, went over big as an official. Tall and stately, he moved about briskly, stood for no monkey business whatever, broke Fenton off for nearly every violation.

Stratton took the first fall in 19 minutes with his full nelson, spin and body smother. He tore in after Fenton with a spirit of attack new to fans here, forgetting his special strong-arm play to mix in a lot of wrestling. A self-strangle hold he fixed on Fenton almost did the job, and Fenton took a lot of torture. He rowed for the ropes, however, then lost to the full nelson.

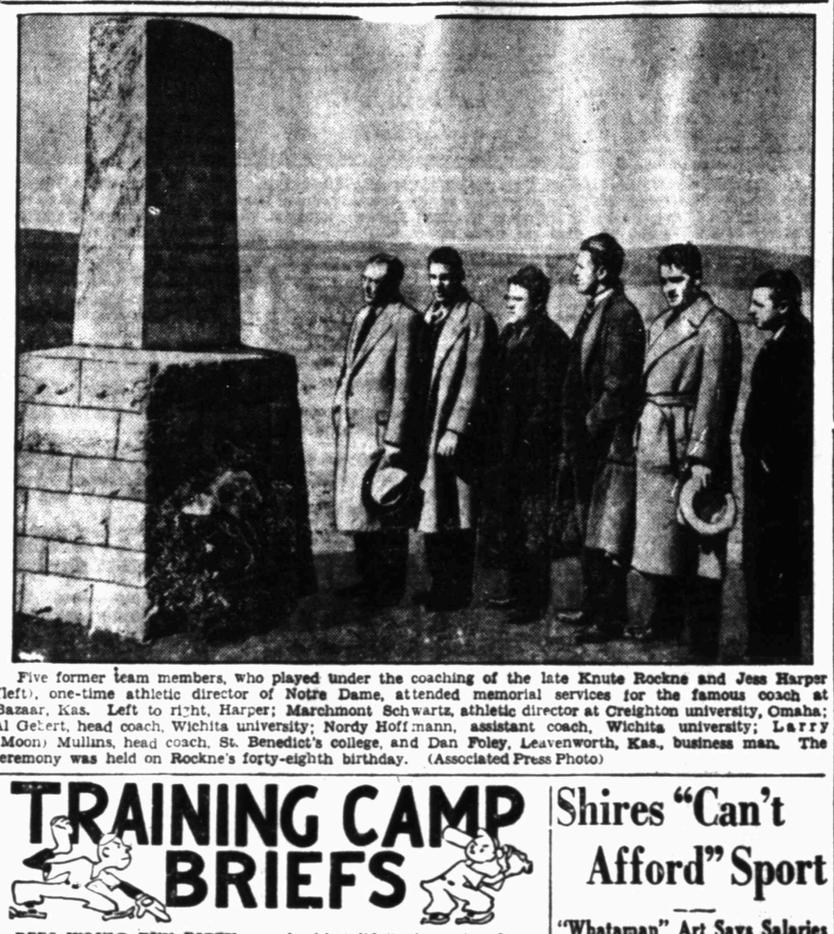

Rod Is Trapped

The second fall lasted 13 minutes. Fenton, more businesslike than ever, fixed a surfboard that threatened to win the fall, but Stratton came out slowly with a fine display of muscular control. He flipped Fenton several times in hard body slams, and Fenton got up to use his usual lethal weapon, the drop kick. It was the hold he had boasted would whip Stratton. He landed once, twice. Then Stratton ducked the third one, jumped up and pushed Rod, face forward, into the ropes, squatted behind him, and, as Rod bounded back, tripped the Canadian, applied a reverse crab and it was all over.

There was a semi-final on the card, too. A fast, bouncing affair that ended in a draw with Dale Haddock, tough customer from Detroit, swapping punches with Ray Meyers, serious-faced veteran from Louisville. Haddock chose to play dirty, and the fans were a trifle disappointed when Meyers, who made his debut here three weeks ago, didn't mix it up.

After about 20 minutes, Meyers went to work and lambasted the dickens out of his troublesome adversary. The mob yelled for Haddock's blood, but Ray wasn't very thirsty for that kind of blood. He refused to rush in for the kill, letting Haddock recover outside the ropes after each fresh attack. He had Haddock groggy as a seasick sailor on a drunk, so groggy that Dale tangled with Referee Clements, thinking he was Meyers. It was quite ludicrous. To all appearances, Meyers had the fight in his belt, but he wouldn't take it.

TRAINING CAMP BRIEFS

BEES WOULD BUY DIZZY

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 11. (AP)—President Bob Quinn and Manager Bill McKechnie of the Boston Bees, let it be known today they were ready to make serious offer for Jerome "Dizzy" Dean, the Cardinals' eccentric holdout.

Convinced that the Cards would rather send Dean to the Bees than to any of their dangerous National League rivals, Quinn and his manager will go to Bradenton tomorrow to negotiate for the great right-hander.

The Bees put on a nine-inning practice game today.

DAFFY "SIGNS PAPERS"

DALLAS, March 11. (AP) — Paul (Daffy) Dean signed up today—not with the Cardinals, but with Uncle Sam.

Tax payers at the federal building saw the younger Dean filling out his income tax return.

"Tougher than pitching to the Giants," was all he had to say.

GOODMAN MOVES IN

TAMPA, Fla., March 11. (AP)—Ival Goodman, holdout outfielder, watched his fellow Cincinnati Reds from the sidelines today but moved his equipment from his hotel to the clubhouse, indicating he and General Manager Larry MacPhail were approaching a solution of their contract difficulties.

CARDS BEAT ATHLETICS

BRADENTON, Fla., March 11. (AP)—Four Athletics pitchers gave the Cards only four hits today but their wildness and three errors enabled the National Leaguers to win an exhibition baseball game, 9 to 8.

SOLTERS SOCKS 'EM

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Mar. 11. (AP)—Julius Solters showed today he was ready to pick up where he left off last year as the Browns' leading hitter.

The 205-pound outfielder clouted the ball to all corners of the field as the team went through one of its best workouts.

An ultimatum was wired to Jack Burns, holdout first baseman, to come to terms or take a reduction in the salary already offered him.

CUBS BREAK CAMP

AVALON, Calif., March 11. (AP)—The National League champion Cubs took their final intensive drill today before leaving Catalina Island, with Owner P. K. Wrigley looking on the first time this season.

The squad will take a light drill tomorrow morning and will leave for the mainland shortly after noon.

FROM SCHOOL TO DODGERS

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 11. (AP)—Jim Sullivan, a New York boy who attended Bill Terry's baseball school but didn't win a minor league diploma won himself a tryout with the Dodgers today after reaching camp by the hitch-hike route.

Casey Stengel put the 19-year-old pitcher to the hill with the bases full and none out. He retired the Yanrugans without a hit in that inning, although two runs scored on an error, and gave only one single in three innings.

SOX INFIELD SHAPES UP

PASADENA, Calif., March 11. (AP)—The Chicago White Sox infield, a makeshift quartet most of the training season, lined up today as it probably will at the start of the championship campaign and looked impressive.

Mule Haas was at first, Tony Piet at second, Luke Appling at short and Manager Dykes at third. Appling, who reported late, set the pace in the strenuous drill before the Sox meet the Cubs in the opening of the "city" series Friday.

TIGERS READY FOR WORK

LAKELAND, Fla., March 11. (AP)—The Detroit Tigers wound up their pre-exhibition training today with a long batting and fielding drill and a four and a third inning practice game which ended when Gerald Walker slapped out a double with two men on base to gain the "A" team a 4 to 3 edge. Buddy Bates accounted for the three "B" team runs with a home run in the third.

MEET THE WALKERS

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 11. (AP)—The Yankees' collection of Walkers, Fred (Dixie), his younger brother Harry, and Leo, who is no relation to them, played some important parts in the camp game today as the regulars defeated the Yannigans in a full nine-inning contest. Dixie brought in the only Yannigan run, then Harry, playing right, had to stand by and watch George Selkirk's home run clout sail over his head. Leo turned in a snappy fielding performance at third.

Coast League Prexy Turns Blast On Boss Of Cardinals

LOS ANGELES, March 11. (AP) — President W. C. Tuttle of the Pacific Coast league placed a crown of thorns on the oft-decorated brow of Branch Rickey today, charging the St. Louis Cardinal official with bad faith in the Card purchase of the Sacramento club.

In brief, the Coast Loop president said Rickey apparently was attempting to place a team of "sandlot players" in Sacramento uniforms to compete against the coast's double A Class baseball clubs.

"Rickey," declared Tuttle, just beginning his first year as an official in organized baseball, "is not going to be permitted to make monkeys out of the club owners of the Pacific Coast league. He must comply with the league's regulations — which so far he has not done and seemingly does not plan to do."

Pointing out that the league requires each club to have at least 15 players of proven Class A caliber by the start of the season, Tuttle said Sacramento can't at this moment claim one Class A man.

Yanks Due For Big Season In Joe's Opinion

Marse McCarthy Disputes The Experts' Word; Says Yanks Better Off Than In 1935, Will Be "One, Two" Club

By EDDIE BRIETZ
Associated Press Sports Writer

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 11.—While the experts are busying themselves picking the New York Yankees to finish no better than third or fourth this season, Manager Joe McCarthy rises to object.

"Give us our share of the percentage and we'll show you a one, two ball club," he said here today.

Most observers around the grapefruit circuit regard the Yanks as strictly an "if" club. "If Gehrig does this" and "if Gomes does that" and "if di Maggio does something else," etc., etc.

"All right," says McCarthy, "let them build us around a question mark if they want to. We finished second last season and we did so with several cylinders missing. They'll start hitting again this year and we'll surprise a lot of people.

"Stars Will Perk Up"

"Lou Gehrig didn't have such a bad year, but it was a poor year for Gehrig. Lefty Gomes was below par all the way. Bill Dickey was just so-so. Can you imagine these fellows having two off years in succession? I can't. It isn't in the law of averages.

"Let them get back to normal and we'll be a contender from the start. Remember, there was no Japanese tour last winter to throw the boys off their stride."

After a barnstorming tour of the Orient during the winter of 1934-35, Gehrig got off to the poorest start of his career. He finished with a batting average of .329 but didn't strike his stride until after the halfway mark was passed. Gomez turned in only 12 victories against 15 losses.

Outfield Problems Solved

One of the reasons for McCarthy's optimism is he feels he has ironed out his vexing outfield problem.

During the winter the Yanks obtained Roy Johnson, a better than .300 hitter, from the Boston Red Sox. With the addition of Johnson and Joe di Maggio, the high priced recruit from the West Coast, McCarthy thinks the Yanks now have one of the strongest outfields in either major.

"Johnson is bound to help us. If di Maggio lives up to expectations he'll be a power house in himself. George Selkirk can't be counted out. He had a tough job last season, trying to fill Babe Ruth's old spot and wearing that 'No. 3.' Still he hit more than .300 and I'm figuring on using him in right field again.

"If Ben Chapman signs he'll go back to center, leaving Johnson and di Maggio available for left and utility purposes."

Infield Is Intact

The Yanks will have their 1935 infield intact—Gehrig on first, Tony Lazzeri on second, Red Rolfe on third and Frank Crosetti at short. Crosetti's broken leg is completely mended. McCarthy looks for Rolfe to have his best year yet.

Gomez, Charlie Ruffing, at present a holdout, and Johnny Broaca, the bespectacled Yale scholar, are figured starting pitchers with a fourth to be chosen from Irving (Bump) Hadley, obtained during the winter from Washington; Johnny Murphy, who starred in relief roles last year and Monte Pearson from Cleveland.

Bill Dickey again will head the catching department, with Joe Glenn and Arndt Jorgens as assistants.

McCarthy says Detroit, with Al Simmons' big bat, will be the club to beat again . . . The Red Sox are improved but they've yet to show they can play together . . . Cleveland would be as tough as any team in the league with a top flight catcher and another left-hand hitting outfielder.

Shires "Can't Afford" Sport

"Whataman" Art Says Salaries In Minors Not Worth "His" Efforts; Doing Well With "Refereeing Racket"

INDIANAPOLIS, March 11. (AP) — Art Shires, one-time loud speaker of the major leagues, would like to have a baseball job this summer but he's afraid he can't afford it.

The prominent wrestling referee was caught strolling down the street looking in show windows for a shirt loud enough to suit his taste. He'd come to town, without even a toothbrush or clean shirt to officiate at a local scuffling match and at the early hour—for him—of 9 a. m.—was out to remedy that lack.

"No, nothing has shown up yet that a poor boy like me can afford," he said when he was questioned as to his baseball prospects. "This salary limit in the minor leagues makes it hard for a fellow to get along.

Likes Movies, Too

"I'd love to play this year but I'm doing pretty well for myself in this wrestling referee racket and with the outdoor season coming on I'll do even less work and make better money.

"I've got a family to support and I'm afraid I can't afford to play baseball in the minors."

Art, who played a part in a movie a few years ago and has never recovered from the infection, wouldn't mind having a place at the first base in some Pacific Coast league and since his wrestling duties carry him that way soon it may be he can land something there.

Since his major league adventures, which saw him captain of the White Sox in his first year as a regular and later embroiled with Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis over his ring activities, Shires has been playing and managing teams in the minors. He managed Harrisburg of the New York-Penn circuit last year but asked for and was given his release this spring.

Final Appeal Draws Denial

James D. McAllister, Under Death Sentence For Slaying Of Percy A. Calkins, Loses In Appeal Court

AUSTIN, March 11. (AP) — The court of criminal appeals today denied the appeal of James D. McAllister, under death sentence from Hidalgo county for the slaying of Percy A. Calkins, Houston salesman, March 30, 1935.

McAllister and Richard A. Palmer, hitch-hiking near San Antonio, were given a ride by Calkins, and McAllister confessed that between Edinburg and Falfurrias he shot the salesman in the back.

He said that he and Palmer, released from the Eastham prison farm a short time previously, had conspired to commit highway robberies.

Found By Hunter

Calkins' body, stripped and concealed in bushes was found by a hunter. Palmer was arrested at Rio Hondo and McAllister at San Antonio.

The court also affirmed the 99-year sentence of Tense Martin, convicted of killing Elmer Barnes in Collingsworth county, Aug. 18, 1934.

The life sentence of W. E. Stroud, who fatally stabbed his estranged wife in Childress county, was reversed, the court holding the jury was charged improperly.

French Claim

France and Germany once locked in a world conflict.

Seek Sanctions Removal

Premier Mussolini's willingness to stand with France was said frankly by officials to have brought France to pledge to work for the removal of sanctions against Italy. France, they added, probably will shortly abolish a prohibition against Italian goods and loosen financial restrictions without awaiting action by the league.

Should France do this, they said, her allies probably would follow, especially Yugoslavia and Rumania, whose sanctions against Italy were never enthusiastic. If France quits the league, they added, these others also probably would do so.

Flandin left for London late today accompanied by four advisers.

Officials said Britain must back France at this time in order to prevent "the death of the League of Nations."

One of them asserted: "This time, France will be satisfied with no gestures. Germany must remove at least 70 per cent of her troops from the Rhineland. The world must know that Germany has ceded."

The administrative committee of the chamber of deputies approved a bill authorizing the organization of the nation on an emergency basis in wartime and preparations were hurried to expand the air fleet by large appropriations for the next four years.

The general staff estimated German forces in the Rhineland at 90,000 men. France for the moment is merely manning her fortress system and intervening spaces by utilizing only a few regiments from interior garrisons, but is holding in reserve an estimated 300,000 soldiers now on the French mainland.

French troops along the border are estimated at about 100,000. France's total army is about 700,000, including the mobile guards and gendarmerie, and nearly 200,000 of these are abroad in colonial service.

Cattle from the college have also won high honors, for four consecutive years a steer won the dressing out championship.

One Of Eight Trips

Parker, after responding to the welcome talks and thanking the local group for its cooperation, introduced Jack Hott, secretary-manager of the Fort Worth Chamber of Commerce. Hott said this trip was one of eight his group had staged this year to advertise the livestock show and the Frontier Centennial in five states and 135 cities.

The Frontier celebration, starting July 1 and closing November 20, was glowingly pictured as a 3-way show, a million dollar livestock show, a horse show and a huge rodeo.

The two juvenile rodeo stars gave a rope twirling exhibition at the close of the program.

Tuesday night the party left Fort Worth in a special train of five coaches and a baggage car for the livestock brought along. They had 22 stops on their two-day trip, which will take them back to Fort Worth tonight. From Lubbock this morning they stop at Plainview, Amarillo, Childress, Wichita Falls and other towns.

J. A. Raley jr., and a committee went to Slaton to greet the train there, returning with them on the special. Chairman D. N. Leaverton and his reception committee were complimented on all sides for their welcome.

Former Bank Employes Are Sentenced To Prison Terms

WACO, March 11. (AP) — H. G. Surghnor, former cashier of the First National bank of Temple, was sentenced to 30 months in the federal reformatory at El Reno, Okla., and John E. Lastovica, former assistant cashier of the same bank, was sentenced to two years here today in U. S. district court.

Surghnor pleaded guilty Monday to making a false entry in the bank's books. Lastovica was found guilty last week on a similar charge.

WALL STREET REPORT

NEW YORK, March 11. (AP)—Industrial specialties surged upward in today's stock market, far outdistancing many of the recent leaders.

Gains of 1 to 6 or more points were scattered over a broad front as Wall street's nervousness over European war possibilities continued to fade and economic brightness appeared in the prospects of various corporations.

Bullish sentiment in brokerage houses was restrained only by the comparatively smallness of the day's trading volume. While the Associated Press average of 60 stocks pushed up 1.07 of a point to 93.6, transfers totalled 2,304,300 against 2,239,700 in the previous session.

The list got off to a fairly brisk start, with farm implement, oil, alcohol and aircraft equities pointing the upward way. Most of the favorites held or bettered their gains and the majority were around their best at the sound of the closing gong.

Farm machine stocks leaped ahead briskly following the 1936 statement of the J. I. Case Co., disclosing earnings of $5.80 a share against a deficit in the previous year.

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, March 11. (AP)—Buoyed by better foreign demand, the tight spot cotton situation and trade buying in the new crop deliveries, the cotton market marked up net advances of 35 to 45 cents a bale today.

March closed at 11.35, a decline of one point from the opening.

The average middling price of cotton at government-designated southern spot markets today averaged 11.39 cents a pound.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, March 11. (AP)—Helped by trade buying and steady Liverpool cables, cotton edged a little higher today, closing very steady, 1 to 9 points higher.

A more active demand for March from trade or speculative shorts was supplied by selling through brokers believed to be operating for the pool at a point or two above yesterday's closing quotations.

Spot steady; middling 11.41.

the people of Texas voted old-age pensions they placed the responsibility upon the legislature to find additional sources of revenue.

"Then pensions are going to cost between 15 and 20 million dollars annually. The best and the fairest way of raising this revenue is to spread it over a wide range to include every man, woman and child in the state."

Col. Ernest O. Thompson, chairman of the Texas railroad commission; Albert Mitchell, of Bell ranch in New Mexico; R. C. Pollock, Chicago; and R. W. Doe, of Oakland, Calif., were other speakers on today's program.

The Panhandle Hereford breeders sale was the principal feature of the Amarillo Fat Stock show today.

ficers of all neighboring West Texas counties participating.

Craving for tobacco hastened Banks' apprehension. At 1 o'clock Sunday morning he appeared at a store at Wells, demanding tobacco, cigaret papers, and matches from B. Cook, operator of the store. Cook recognized Banks and called Deputy Sheriff John Johnson at O'Donnell when the negro had gone.

Is Found In Ditch

A hastily-organized posse went to Wells. Banks was found lying in a borrow ditch a short distance from the store. He surrendered without resistance, although he still carried Deputy Sheriff Redwine's gun.

He was spirited to a jail outside of Lynn county.

A 106th district court grand jury, which was to have met today, was reconvened Monday by Special Judge J. E. Garland. The grand jurors quickly returned an indictment against Banks, the trial was set for tomorrow, and the special venire was summoned.

District Attorney Truett Smith will be assisted in the prosecution of Banks by County Attorney C. H. Cain. An attorney to defend Banks will be appointed by the court.

Buffs To Play Owls; Mike Cvengros Reaches Houston

HOUSTON, March 11. (AP)—Rice institute's first baseball team in four seasons will tangle with the Houston Buffaloes in an exhibition match March 24, President Fred Ankenman of the local Texas League entry announced today.

The game with the Owls will be the fifth of twelve spring games carded by the Buffs.

Jupiter Pluvius and a brisk north wind halted the practice plans of Manager Ira Smith's charges today but the front office was humming with activity as Ankenman announced that Mike Cvengros, veteran left hander, had arrived from St. Louis and signed a contract; that Herschel Martin, outfielder, had agreed to terms offered him, and would arrive in several days, and that Leonard Backer, counted upon for regular third base duties, would check in tomorrow.

Johnny Rizzo, hard hitting outfielder, now remains the only unsigned player on the roster. Ankenman and Rizzo have held several conferences but still differ to the extent of about $25 per month. The Houston prexy has warned Johnny to sign tomorrow or take the consequences.

is planned mainly for cotton gins, about 40 of which are situated in the 23 counties.

The organization sometimes lost money under its present set-up, said B. B. Williams of Lubbock, director. Most co-operatives are operated on the stock plan, he said.

The corporation is to market cotton for its members every day, the member designating when he wants his cotton sold.

Attending the meeting Wednesday were Frank Triplett, Plainview; W. H. Hames, Crosbyton; R. D. Jones, Williams, Lubbock; V. C. Snodgrass, Idalou; R. N. Carpenter, Littlefield; Hudson; Tucker; and Bullard.

The name of the organization is to be changed. Details remain to be worked out.

New Drive Upon Criminals Being Launched By Federals

WASHINGTON, March 11. (AP) — In a new drive on "public enemies," the federal bureau of investigation today asked local police to "hold" all persons they arrest with mutilated finger tips.

This action was taken in an intensified effort to hunt down Alvin Karpis, branded as "public enemy No. 1," and other gangsters who are known to have tried — apparently unsuccessfully—to rub out telltale fingerprints by cutting or burning their fingers.

Kansas Cagers To Open Race For Olympiad Berth Tonight

KANSAS CITY, March 11. (AP)—The University of Kansas, having cleared every hurdle in its regular basketball schedule without a stumble, tomorrow night starts its quest for Olympic glory in the district trials here.

Only four of the 11 eligible teams are competing in the two-day tournament, and inasmuch as Kansas defeated Washburn and Nebraska, two of the other three entrants, twice each during the regular season, the Jayhawks rate as heavy favorites to win the meet and qualify to play the winner of the Rocky Mountain district in the regional playoffs.

Pairings tomorrow night find Kansas opposing Washburn and Nebraska meeting Coach Henry Iba's Oklahoma A. and M., quintet, with the winners meeting Friday night for the championship. As Nebraska is favored over the Oklahoma Aggies, a meeting between Kansas and Nebraska in the finals is in prospect.

Venzke And Mangan Figure To Outrun Cunningham Again

NEW YORK, Mar. 11. (AP)—Gene Venzke and Joe Mangan owe a vote of thanks to the Knights of Columbus games committee.

For the first time in the history of indoor track in Madison Square Garden, the committee announced today, the finish of the Columbian mile Saturday will be at the extreme end of the home-stretch instead of in the middle.

This change gives Venzke and Mangan, both gifted with powerful finishing "kicks," a decided edge over the third member of America's indoor mile triumvirate, Glenn Cunningham. Cunningham can not spring with either Venzke or Mangan, depending on a fast pace, steadily maintained, to kill off his rivals.

James Penney

fairly and squarely and keep everlastingly at it, should succeed in spite of obstacles and handicaps," he said.

To Be In Store Today

"It is not the poor boys to whom my heart goes out but, rather, the sons of rich men."

Penney today will be in his store to meet Lubbock and South Plains persons and tonight will discuss merchandising problems with employes of his store.

"The world, I think, fundamentally is honest," he said, referring to the fact he never has placed under bond any member of his vast organization, "not even the cashiers, and I have been disappointed few times."

The store owner said he believes 1936 has got off to "an auspicious start" for his organization. "In 1929, peak year, we did a business of $209,000,000, but this was exceeded in 1934 by $8,000,000 and in 1935 by $17,000,000," he said. He said the cross-section of national business was "something I merely read about in the papers, my own affairs keeping me busy."

Is Poorest Golfer

"I am the world's poorest golfer," he said, laughing. "And the poorest hunter. I like to ride horses and I am fond of walking. I have something else for diversion, however; I have several farms where I breed pue Guernseys and Percherons. His 2-year-old stallion won the grand championship at Chicago last December. I attribute to those diversions my good, in fact perfect, health."

The storeowner takes pleasure in recalling his restoration of the old "home place" in Caldwell county, Mo. He is making the building up process "pay for itself."

His first job was in 1895, with a leading merchant and for $2.27 a month. The next year, when he was offered only $50 for 12 months' salary, he asserted himself, and from then success began to manifest itself. He refused the offer. He got $200 instead.

Buys Butcher Shop

But ill health followed and he went west. Buying a butcher shop for $300 he eventually lost it because hotel trade would not cater to him since he would not buy the cook a bottle of whisky. He is an ardent prohibitionist.

An incident occurred about this time to show the qualities of the man and to cement regard in which he was held by his employers. He went to luncheon with one of the right hand men. When the courses were finished the other man leaned back to smoke, but Penney got his hat and left for the store.

Soon afterward, at Evanston, Wyo., a new store was opened and Penney was given a third interest. He bought a third interest in another, and gradually his acquisition spread to the present figure.

Penney is married and has five children. Friday he will leave for Amarillo.

When Henry Weil of Philadelphia tells his latest fish story, he'll produce this picture to prove it's true. His companion, Bill Gray, holds the bird as Weil extracts the hook to release the captive.

Trial Of Man In Slaying Of Prison Guard Set March 26

CROCKETT, March 11. (AP)—The trial of Reese Tipton, charged with the murder of Virgil Welch, prison guard, during a sensational break from the Eastham farm May 10, 1935, was set today for March 26 in district court here.

Tipton, Jack Peddy, Harry Lutlow and Sam Grant, convicts at the farm, shot their way to temporary freedom in a gunfight in which Welch was slain and Homer Parker, trusty who tried to prevent the break, was seriously wounded. Tom Stephens, a guard, was slugged.

Youth Dies In The Electric Chair For Murder Of Couple

COLUMBUS, O., March 11. (AP)—Twenty-two-year-old Norman Peacock died in the electric chair at Ohio penitentiary tonight for the murder of a Cincinnati couple from whom he tried to steal a pair of shoes.

Peacock entered the death chamber at 8:01 p. m., smiled feebly at the 90 men there to witness his execution, and remarked:

"It won't hurt, will it?"

Supreme Court Refuses To Review Lower Court Ruling

AUSTIN, March 11. (AP)—The Supreme court today refused to review lower court decisions that Eastland county was dry territory.

The district and civil appeals courts had declined to compel County Judge Clyde L. Garnett by mandamus proceedings to grant W. H. Mahew a license to sell 3.2 beer in precinct 6.

Involved in the suit was the issue of whether or not a wet precinct could exist in a dry county. The court in a previous case had held it could not.

'Gly-Cas Gave Her New Lease On Life'

Nervous Indigestion And Kidney Disorder Had Made Mrs. Neese Miserable For Years; Now Able To Carry On Her Work, Full Of Energy, Feels Fine

"Gly-Cas was remarkable in restoring me to health and after the repeated failure of so many medicines in my case," said Mrs. W. V. Neese, 706 Washington St., Monroe, La. "For years constipation and indigestion had caused me constant suffering. After eating the simplest of foods I would bloat, the gas pressing against my heart until I thought I had heart trouble. I could hardly get my breath at times and these smothering spells made me so nervous. My kidneys caused my back to ache constantly and I got but little unbroken sleep. I was always tired and worn-out, lost my energy and it was difficult for me to do my work feeling as I did. I had tried many medicines without receiving any benefit when I decided to put Gly-Cas to a REAL TEST on my own case."

MRS. W. V. NEESE

"I wouldn't take anything for the amazing results Gly-Cas has given me," she continued. "My bowels were regulated almost at once and in a most natural way, soon I was able to eat foods I dared not touch before. My kidneys were regulated and I now eat and sleep fine, my former energy has been restored and I can easily carry on with my work. All the poisons have been eliminated from my system and I am feeling so well again I must say Gly-Cas has given me a NEW LEASE on life."

Gly-Cas is sold by Mark Halsey Drug Store, 1319 Broadway, and by all leading drug stores in surrounding towns.

Western Plan

submitted by a committee headed by Hubbard Russell of Los Angeles, was adopted after Charles A. Myers, a cattleman of Evanston, Wyo., appealed for a united voice in behalf of the west.

The report provides for compensation of cattlemen for sacrifices involved in converting their lands to soil conservation uses, based on the reduction in the total grazing use. Lessees of government range would be granted non-use permits based on the number of livestock withdrawn from the range.

The cattlemen's fear of increased stock raising in other sections of the country as a result of withdrawing lands from agricultural purposes was reflected in a plea "that neither the farmers of the other parts of this country nor the administrators of the act do anything which will bring further distress to the livestock industry of the western range states."

Expansion of foreign and domestic markets for livestock and restriction of importation of livestock, livestock products and livestock feeds were urged.

Administration of the program by state committees and temporary county committees was recommended, together with a carefully worked out planning program for 1937. At the same time a campaign of education on soil conservation would be carried out by state and federal agricultural agencies among farmers of the nation.

A "Girls Week" In Lubbock

BY PROCLAMATION of the Governor of Texas, the week of March 16-21 has been set aside as "Girls Week". During those days, the Governor asks that the entire state join in a movement to "encourage a high type of womanhood", pointing out that such a movement will result in "betterment of the state and nation".

Governor Allred points to Tyler, which in East Texas occupies a position similar to that of Lubbock in West Texas, where a girl forum has been organized to give recognition to the accomplishments of girls and to stimulate their identification with worthy projects. The Governor feels that a statewide effort along those same lines will be good for individuals, good for Texas, good for the nation—and we agree with him entirely.

Lubbock for years has observed some sort of a Boys week but if a Girls week has ever been featured here it was so long ago that most of us have forgotten it; or it was of so little moment that the public, generally, did not take part. There is just as much reason, we think, for observance of Girls week as there is of Boys week, so why not have one in Lubbock between the dates of March 16-21, or sometime later this spring if plans cannot be arranged now to feature the affair next week?

Civic clubs which annually have "fathers and sons" luncheons might well enter into the spirit of the occasion with "fathers and daughters" luncheons.

Leaders of Camp Fire girls and Girl scouts here might follow the pattern set by Scout leaders during Boys week and lay the framework for Girls week.

Churches and Sunday schools which generally take part in Boys week might well take a part in recognizing our girls and all in all Lubbock could easily have a good observance.

As important as our boys are in the future of Texas and the nation, they are not one whit more important than the girls.

In fact, if a choice had to be made, the Editor of The Morning Avalanche, who has three sons and no daughters, would rather see stress laid upon the future's womanhood than upon its manhood, for we all know that any nation's women make or break that nation's men.

We think Lubbock and the rest of the state as well have an opportunity of doing something good and far-reaching by cooperating in Girls week.

We should view with pleasure any effort along that line.

PROTECTIVE MEASURES DEMANDED

James J. Bambrick, leader of the New York elevator strike, announced "this will be a war to the finish", and "if our demands are not met we will tear up the town", then painfully pointed out that owners of property affected had employed armed men to guard their holdings.

Just what did he expect and why shouldn't property owners guard their properties in the face of his pronouncimentoes?

The Morning Avalanche makes no pretense of taking sides in the New York trouble.

For all we know, demands of the striking elevator operators may be just and they should have more money for less hours work than they have been getting.

But Agent Bambrick overlooks, apparently, that the inalienable right to strike does not carry with it the right to keep other persons from working, or the right to do damage to property.

Regardless of which side is right in the New York difficulty, the laws of this country permit persons who want to quit work to quit; permit those who want to work to work, and are aimed to protect life, limb and property.

Threats against any of these demand protective measures.

WITH OUR CONTEMPORARIES

"We lost," admits Buford (Scoop) Davenport in the Abernathy Review. "No excuses, no alibis and no mourning. Abernathy lost out in three tournaments last week-end. Characteristic of our three basketball clubs, they lost like good sports."

* * *

"You don't need a thermometer to keep tab on the weather," Bro. John Price notes in the Amherst Argus. "Just watch your gas bills. Lubbock is thinking about another gas bond election. Since we received this month's bill, we'd be in favor of even a gas bomb election."

SIXTH GOVERNOR OF TEXAS IN ONE YEAR

On December 31, 1935, Senator Wilbourne B. Collie of Eastland, Texas, became the 6th governor of his state during the year 1935. Gov. Allred succeeded his predecessor, Gov. Miriam Ferguson, on Jan. 15th. During his absence, Lt. Gov. Woodul has been governor at various times. However, when both are absent, the president pro tempore of the state senate assumes the executive post, and Senators Regan and Redditt preceded Senator Collie as acting governor during the year 1935.

'FARMERS' FOLLY"

At Alnwick, Northumberland, England, there is a monument erected in 1816 to the then Duke of Northumberland by his farmer-tenants, in recognition of his having reduced their rents when they complained of the ruinous season they had suffered and the impossibility of their being able to pay the original rent. Twenty Column is the correct name for the monument, but Farmers' Folly is the name by which it is popularly known—because the Duke, on the next rent day, raised the rents to the old levels, remarking that if the farmers had money to build a useless monument, they could afford to pay him the full rent.

The Country Doctor

BEGIN HERE TODAY

DR. JOHN LUKE, country doctor in the little north woods settlement of Moosetown, goes to Montreal to appeal to company officials to give Moosetown a hospital.

His nephew, TONY, who flew to Moosetown with antitoxin during a diphtheria epidemic, remains there, much interested in MARY MacKENZIE, daughter of the lumber company manager. The two admit their love for each other, but MacKENZIE, determined to end the romance, forces Tony into a fight, later obliging him to leave Moosetown.

In Montreal, Dr. Luke's appeal is refused. He returns home, learns young DR. WILSON has been sent to replace him. It is discovered that Dr. Luke has never received a license to practice and he is threatened with arrest.

There seems nothing to do but leave. Dr. Luke is on the boat, about to depart, when ASA WYATT appears, begging the doctor to come to his home. Dr. Luke goes and MRS. WYATT gives birth to quintuplets.

Doggedly Dr. Luke and NURSE KENNEDY work to keep the infants alive. Wyatt reports the birth of the five babies to the local newspaper.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XIII

Before nine o'clock, Dr. Luke was on his way back to Asa Wyatt's house. You learn to do with but little sleep when you are a country doctor, and besides that, there was no sleeping anyway. The telephone rang continually. Long-distance calls from Montreal, from Detroit, New York, Chicago, Cleveland. What was needed? What could be sent the babies? How did it all happen, Doctor? He had already told his story five times over the telephone, outlined the babies' desperate needs if they were to live, appealed for any and all help that could be given.

But beyond all this hubbub, there were five little living things in a basket out at the Asa Wyatts'. He felt as though he could hear their feeble cries as he backed his car out of the yard and started for the rocky little farm on the edge of the woods.

Picking up another nurse to relieve Miss Kennedy, the doctor set out again for the Wyatt place, fearful of what he might find there when he arrived.

Quintuplets!

After all, no such five babies had ever lived more than a few hours! His head whirled with the possibility, that these babies might be pulled through. The rugged people of the northland, with their large families! The clean pinewoods air, comparatively free from bacteria. The Wyatts' other six husky little children. By Jove, yes! There might be a chance! He'd fight it out!

Such thoughts filled the doctor's mind on the rough ride to the Wyatt house, and he was silent. Parking his car in the front yard, he strode to the door of the house, the new nurse at his heels.

Weary to exhaustion Nurse Kennedy had the situation in hand. Mrs. Wyatt was so much better that it was plain that, so far as she was concerned, the crisis was past. The babies, too, had seemed to take their warmwater ration a little more enthusiastically, as much as 14 drops from the indispensable eye-dropper.

Nurse Kennedy made a bed for herself on an old sofa, and lay down to rest. She was so utterly weary that at first she could not sleep. Her tired eyes followed the new nurse about the room as she took up the fight.

Asa, too, having at last recovered himself enough to fetch a large supply of wood went to bed in the loft, and Constable Jim Ogden went back to town. The doctor and nurse were left alone to carry on the fight.

"If we only had an incubator!" repeated Dr. Luke again and again as the constant strain of keeping a stream of warm blankets moving from stove to basket and back again began to tell. The flame of life in the tiny babies flickered so uncertainly that it could not warm them without outside help.

Gradually the doctor developed a design for living in the tiny Wyatt home. As Mrs. Wyatt gained strength, she was moved to another room, and the little alcove where the babies had been born was turned into a nursery. Willing help was enlisted from the open-mouthed and still incredulous neighbor women. One was told off as cook, and a general-utility handy man hired. Services of another nurse were secured and the Canadian Red Cross stepped into the breach when the doctor's slender pocket-book proved unequal to the sudden strain.

On the third day, the station-agent at Moosetown came driving up to the Wyatt home with a bulky package.

"It's for you and for the Wyatt babies—from Chicago," he told Dr. Luke, sliding the package from the back end of his car. They carried it in and unwrapped it. A thankful little prayer forced itself from the doctor's lips.

It was an incubator. Just an old wooden box with a glass top, and a pan on its bottom heated by a kerosene burner, a thermometer and a sponge-holder inside to keep humidity high. But it was a godsend, and within a few minutes the two smallest babies were resting comfortably and snugly within it.

The incubator was only the forerunner of a deluge of gifts, some useful and all well-meant, which descended on Moosetown.

Within a few days, commercial firms rushed blankets, refrigerators, diapers, cribs, packaged baby food, nursing-bottles, bootees, thermometers, bibs and bathtubs.

Individuals, their hearts instantly warming to the quintuplets, sent money, clothing, embroidered smocks, home recipes, medical recommendations, requests for autographs, and a flood of good wishes which arrived constantly by telegram and mail.

Montreal, the nearest great city, responded as soon as the story was blazoned across its newspaper pages. Immediately sensing the public interest which was shown, Sir Basil Crawford roused himself to action. He wired succinct instructions to MacKenzie at Moosetown.

The company manager scowled as he read the curt telegram. It said: "GET DOCTOR WILSON OUT OF THERE AT ONCE STOP RENDER ALL POSSIBLE AID DR. LUKE."

MacKenzie had no choice but to obey, but his call on Dr. Luke at one of the periods when the doctor was at home trying to keep up with his regular patients, was surly and ungracious. He felt that Sir Basil had thrown him down badly, a feeling that was not entirely unjustified.

Dr. Luke was not fooled by the tender of aid from MacKenzie. He did not know, but he suspected, that only the popularity of the babies and the focus of public attention on the situation had prompted the offer. But he thanked MacKenzie and promised to call on him for anything he might need. "All foolishness, calling Dr. Wilson back, though," he added. "I haven't as much time left for my regular practice as I ought to have."

With the flood of mail which came in on the doctor and which lay for the most part unopened on his desk because of sheer lack of time to attend to it, came a wave of reporters. From North Bay, from Detroit, Cleveland, Montreal, New York, Chicago, came the reporters and camera men, plaguing the doctor for details, pictures, signed stories. At first Dr. Luke was resentful. The quiet ways of Moosetown had included no such hectic whirlwind as this. But gradually, as money and aid began to pour in as a direct result of the stories the young men were filing at the crowded telegraph office, Dr. Luke became reconciled. This was the channel, he saw, through which a friendly and sympathetic curiosity was being satisfied.

Meanwhile Sir Basil had another inspiration.

He called Dr. Paul Luke at the Curzon Street Hospital.

"Ah, there, Doctor!" he beamed through the transmitter. "Quite an interesting affair up there in Moosetown, eh? I wanted you to know that, of course, we've always had the fullest confidence in your brother—yes. The company would be more than glad to co-operate in any possible way. Perhaps we might be able to arrange to have some mothers' milk sent to the—ah, children?"

Dr. Paul was slightly annoyed. "Very good of you, indeed, Sir Basil," he replied. "But this hospital and several others have been

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

REPUBLICAN issue-seekers welcome the Black committee's seizure of telegram duplicates like a college freshman greets a money order from home. As a result of some counter-sleuthing, they confide that the most sensational yarn hasn't been sprung yet.

When the time is ripe, they will charge that office telephone wires of Rep. Chester Bolton of Ohio have been systematically tapped. The eavesdropping is supposed to have started as soon as the Ohio Representative was named co-chairman of the Joint Republican Congressional committee. Telephone company experts are understood to have confirmed Mr. Bolton's suspicions, but the identity of the alleged tappers has not been discovered.

The point most people miss—though the Republicans don't—is that this issue can be tied in directly with the larger question of the New Deal's allegedly unconstitutional aspects. GOP-ers admit they were making no headway with their cry of "rally 'round the constitution." But if they can link it with wire-tapping and telegraph raiding, they think they dramatize it into a winning slogan next November.

INEXPLICABLE: Detailed dissection of the Roosevelt-Talmadge vote in the recent county contest in Georgia has upset several widely held economic and political theories. Although the President's overwhelming victory may depress anti-New Dealers who banked on Governor Talmadge as a powerful reinforcement, it also puzzles the White House.

Mr. Roosevelt defeated the Georgia governor 40-to-1 in the county's one good-sized city, and only 2-to-1 in the rural sections. In this district at least his policies appealed more to small merchants, manufacturers and artisans than they did to beneficiaries of AAA checks. If this sentiment prevails in other sections of the country, the political strategists in both camps may be forced to alter their battle plans.

Another unexplained factor is that the county has received almost no federal funds in the form of PWA or WPA projects. What New Deal enemies refer to as "political subsidies" apparently failed to influence the balloting. Though surprised at the trends, FDR's friends operate on the theory that all's well that ends well.

CHAFING: Inside word at the War department is that Major General Hagood will have plenty of time to repent before he is restored to active service. The unadvertised explanation is that he is expected to retire voluntarily if forced to chafe in idleness for long.

High officers who soldiered with him realize that detachment from duty is particularly cruel treatment for the high-spirited South Carolinian. He loves the restless life of an army post. Solving difficult technical problems of organization and preparation is his hobby. He detests the ordinary social stuff of many military centers, never attends teas and parties. Hence it is suspected that he will quit unless they give him work to do.

Though the White House doesn't appear to have heard of the Hagood incident, insiders say the order relieving him from duty was thoroughly discussed at a Cabinet meeting. The first five words of the order —"By direction of the President"—meant just what they said.

APPROPRIATION: Private utilities' nose-thumbing tactics have unwittingly swelled Harry Hopkins' relief chest by $90,000,000, although his spending policies pain them almost as much as FDR's public power program.

When President Roosevelt first announced that he had allotted $100,000,000 to Morris Cooke for rural electrification, he explained that private companies had contracted to borrow 80 per cent of it almost immediately. But Mr. Cooke has loaned only $1,000,000-odd in more than a year and hardly a cent has been taken by the private corporations. They didn't keep their bright promises to the President.

The reason is that their legal advisers counseled against it. The lawyers warned that the utilities would enter court with soiled hands in opposing PWA grants to municipal plants if their pockets were stuffed with Mr. Cooke's 3 per cent loans for construction of transmission lines. Some companies paid higher rates for money rather than borrow from Uncle Sam. So REA's $100,000,000 was cut to one-tenth that amount and the balance was turned over to the boondogglers.

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

POLITICAL sharps predict that Bill Borah won't land a single delegate from upstate New York and that he will be very lucky if he corrals one of two from New York City. As they see it, the cards are hopelessly stacked against him. He has no money and no organization and the regular GOP leaders will turn on the heat to smash the attempted insurrection one hundred per cent.

Keen observers cannot understand how such an experienced politician as Borah came to make such a tactical blunder. They say he should certainly know that the party machine has a special advantage in the primaries. That's one election where the regulars invariably mobilize full strength and the general public takes little if any interest. Moreover, with few exceptions, the Borah candidates for the New York delegation are not men of outstanding reputation even in their own communities.

The boner—if such it proves to be—may be costly. It would undoubtedly add to Borah's prestige at Cleveland to have a few New York delegates snatched from the enemy in open battle. But a bad licking in the primaries—which is much more likely—would go far to dispel the impression that he is a serious factor in the presidential race.

ASSETS: Secretary Hull's stress on the government's receptive attitude towards international currency stabilization in his Maryland speech last week checks with information financial insiders get from Europe. The word is that we are privately doing all we can to bring England and France to see the advantages of a monetary agreement. So far the proposition is still stymied by London opposition. Stabilization before election would be valuable to FDR as evidence that he has lived up to his platform promise to provide the nation with a "sound and adequate currency."

Bankers are confident that Hull would never have made such a statement in a political talk without specific approval from the White House. At the same time the President preserves the advantages of the trial balloon method. If the inflationists don't like it they cannot pick on him directly. He hasn't said a word about it.

Hull is expected to be very active in the campaign from now on. He and Morgenthau are rated FDR's most valuable assets in his bid to hold conservative Democrats in line.

TEN-STRIKE: Insiders learn that the Democratic lineup in New York State is all set for November. They understand that Herbert Lehman has finally been persuaded—against his personal wishes—to run again for governor. Rather than stir up friction by making other changes, the Democrats will go to bat with identically the same state ticket as in 1934.

It's a ten-strike for Roosevelt that Lehman is willing to lead the New York Democratic parade. Many keen observers in both parties believe his candidacy means the difference between victory and defeat for the President in his home state.

OATS: William B. Bell of American Cyanamid—head of the Republican financial committee—is doing a handsome job of filling the party's coffers. He appears to have that magic touch in persuading big contributors to come across.

A number of business men who had hesitated to kick in because they weren't sure whether the Republican party or the Liberty League would give them the most beat-Roosevelt value for their money have now decided in favor of the G.O.P.—thanks to Bell's missionary work.

TARZAN AND THE FIRE GODS, No. 148

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

As the warriors fell into line, the golden Arbela clung close to Tommy and wept. The American smiled reassuringly. "Aw, don't cry, kid. Everything'll be jake. My pal Tarzan and me has got this war in the bag. Soon it's me and you for New York—and a preacher!"

Jerry's leave-taking from Lady Beth was more restrained, but none the less poignant. "I-er-that is, when I get back," he stammered; "that is, if I get back, I'll want to ask you something. Meanwhile, may I hope?" For answer, Beth pressed his hand warmly.

As Iskander, Tarzan moved to the head of the curious legion. It seemed truly that the militant spirit of Alexander the Great had swept down through the ages and found lodgment in the giant form of the Jungle Lord. And now his voice boomed out: "Forward MARCH!"

At double quick step he marched his army to engage the foe. As he reached the edge of the plain, he saw a tide of savage black warriors surging over the enemy rampart. Then, unbelievably, a troop of Arab horsemen galloped spiritedly out upon the plain!

Roosevelt Plans For Tax Levies Receive Approval

WASHINGTON, March 11. (AP)—Senator Connally (D-Tex) endorsed the administration's new tax plan in principle today but expressed the opinion certain income tax levies might have to be increased.

"Understand, I'm not in favor of raising money by charging the income tax rates but we have to do it," Connally said. "Slight increases in the $5,000 salary classifications would bring in a lot of money."

He endorsed President Roosevelt's plans for the so-called "windfall tax" and advocated reinstitution of processing taxes at lower rates than set under the invalidated AAA.

Connally expressed the opinion it was time "we were getting back to shore" through reduced governmental expenditures and increased federal income but did not elaborate upon this procedure.

The sails of the remodeled U. S. S. "Constitution" were made at Shawmut, Ala.

Murder Trial Of Eskridge Delayed

HOUSTON, March 11. (AP)—The murder trial of the Rev. Edgar Eskridge of Orange for the slaying nearly ten months ago of Ed J. O'Reilly, Orange police chief, will be postponed again.

District Attorney H. C. Barkley agreed today to a continuance because of the illness of several defense witnesses including the pastor's wife, who was reported sick with pneumonia. The trial had been scheduled to start next Monday.

J. J. Collins of Lufkin, chief counsel for Eskridge, asked for the continuance. The case likely will be re-set for trial during the May term of court.

sending an adequate supply since the second day."

"H'm—aw, splendid," stammered Sir Basil. "If there is—ah—anything at all the company can do, I trust you will call on us. If you go up there yourself, I trust you'll convey my felicitations to your brother."

"Yes, I'll tell him," replied Dr. Paul, amused now, "I do plan to go up there soon." Then rang off.

"Old stuffed shirt!" muttered Dr. Paul to himself. "Nothing for Moosetown all these years. Now that they've got a public miracle under way, nothing's too much for them."

Miracle it was, for every hour, every day, every week added to the lives of the babies, broke another medical record.

The first week or so was a nightmare for Dr. Luke. Called from his bed at all hours, by telephone calls and poundings at his front door, he had to respond also to frantic emergency calls from the Wyatt home, and besides all this keep up the regular practice which again leaped upward with the departure of Dr. Wilson.

The entire Wyatt home had to be reorganized as a nursery, screens placed on windows to guard against the vicious black flies and mosquitoes. Long lines of diapers appeared in the back yard, and a laundry system begun.

The older Wyatt children remained at a neighbor's when several of them developed bronchitis. There was no room for them in the tiny Wyatt home anyway, with three nurses and a cook and "hospital orderly" on hand.

Mrs. Wyatt was soon up and around, and doing her share of the work, oscillating between her own home and that of the neighbor who was keeping her other children. Asa spent a great deal of time at the village store. His initial shyness began to disappear, and he soon began to blossom into a person of importance. Constant posing before the insatiable newspaper cameras had its share in this.

In the evening Dr. Luke tried to hide away in his study, to avoid the general hubbub. Even that haven was denied him, for the doorbell rang constantly. Promoters seeking his approval of this or that proposition for exploiting the miraculous children, producers of baby foods and supplies seeking endorsements, newspapermen and women imploring him to "give them a new slant on the case." So bad did this get that Dr. Luke was more than half inclined not to answer the bell one night when it interrupted him for the twentieth time. But he went wearily to the door and opened it.

Mary MacKenzie stood before him.

"Why come in, Mary!" he greeted her. "Nobody sick, is there? Your Daddy's arm getting on all right?"

Mary was obviously distressed. She sat nervously in a chair below the shelves of books that rose to the ceiling, twisting a handkerchief in her hands. Her eyes cast downward toward her nervously-moving hands, but she came finally to the point.

"Dr. Luke," she said, "have you heard anything from Tony? Is he—all right?"

"Why, yes," responded the doctor. "I had a short note from him last week. He's back in medical school. And I had a note from my brother that mentioned that he was doing very well."

"I'm so glad," Mary's relief was obvious. "You see—" she added hesitantly, "I haven't had a letter from him in a long time. I had one or two—and then—I'm not sure, but I think father's holding them up. I saw him go out to the mail box the other day, and tear up a letter. It was just when I was expecting to hear from Tony, and —"

"H'm!" The doctor said nothing, but indignation swelled within him. "I think maybe we can fix up a little plan—"

Rumor Blamed In Price Drop

Philadelphia Cotton Man Says That 90 Per Cent Of Responsibility Rested Upon Rumors Of Loan

WASHINGTON, March 11. (AP)—Rumors concerning continuation of government 12-cent a pound loans on cotton were blamed again today for last March's two-cent a pound break in the market price of cotton.

John H. McFadden, jr., senior partner in the Philadelphia cotton firm of George H. McFadden and brothers, told the senate agriculture committee—investigating the break which occurred March 11, 1935 — that "rumors" were principally responsible.

90 Per Cent To Blame

"Expressed in percentages, these rumors were 90 per cent responsible," he said. "The other 10 per cent of responsibility was caused by traders getting tired of waiting for the promised loans to materialize."

McFadden, second witness before the committee, gave his opinion in reply to a direct question by Alfred S. Wyllie, committee counsel.

The Philadelphia cotton merchant said the trade had constantly heard reports from Washington relative to the loans.

He mentioned Chairman Smith (D-SC) of the investigating committee as having predicted continuation of government 12-cent loans.

The 12-cent loans eventually were not continued, the government establishing a ten-cent loan policy supplemented by a subsidy to guarantee the farmer a 12-cent a pound return.

McFadden's testimony was in line with that of W. L. Clayton, Houston, Texas, cotton merchant, who yesterday completed a month on the stand.

Wyllie announced the legislative committee of the New York cotton exchange had made a bequest to appear before the committee.

McFadden opposed any change in the New York cotton exchange contract except a possible reduction in the number of southern delivery points.

Young Lady's Painful Condition Relieved By Cardui

For over fifty years, Cardui has been recommended by mothers to their daughters for the relief of functional pains at certain times and as a tonic to improve nutrition.

"I was very weak and nervous when a young girl at home," writes Mrs. J. H. Daniel, of Biloxi, Miss. "My mother was so uneasy about me, she did not ask me to help with the work. My mother decided to give me Cardui and she didn't want me to miss a dose, after she found it was helping me. I gained and it was splendid how I responded to the treatment. After six bottles of Cardui, I was regular and the pain and trouble stopped. I grew strong."

Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.—Adv.
