Iran Sees World Peace Peril In British Build-Up Of Arms

TEHRAN, Iran, June 30. (AP)—Britain headed at least one more frigate toward the Persian Gulf today and sent a tank landing ship to join the cruiser Mauritius off the refinery port of Abadan.

An Iranian spokesman protested bitterly that Britain is building up her land and air power as well as bases threatening Iran from the West.

This was denied at the Defense Ministry in London. A British spokesman said "there have been no recent movements."

The Iranian spokesman, Hussein Maki, told newsmen at Abadan that if the British try to take possession of a single inch of Iranian territory in the quarrel over Iran's oil nationalization law, "the first shot fired will signal the start of World War III." Maki is secretary-general of Premier Moha med Mossadegh's Popular Front government.

He declared two British warships have appeared at the mouth of the Shatt-el-Arab, a frontier river between Iran and Iraq, to back up the 8,000-ton Mauritius, which has Abadan under its guns. These apparently were the two frigates sent with the cruiser to Bahrein Island early in June, the Wren and the Flamingo.

"A British troop carrier has entered the Shatt-el-Arab and gone up the river past Abadan," Maki said. "It is loaded with British troops and carried tanks. We also have learned the British now have 150 planes in the area of Basra, Habbaniya, Shuaiba (all in Iraq), and Kuwait.

"If they are trying to create a third world war, I will tell you flatly that Britain would be destroyed in such a war long before Persia. If they are just trying to threaten us, Iran is not frightened by bluffs."

Britain opened her case for an injunction before the World Court today and declared in a note to Tehran the crisis arises solely from the Iranian government's attitude on the seizure of AIOC installations.

Tehran police and justice ministry officials raided the home of the AIOC's liaison officer, N. R. Seddon, and seized official papers.

Maki said Iran has protested firmly to Iraq against the use of Iraqi territory "for a threat against Iran," though Britian has rights to use bases and transit facilities there under a mutual aid treaty.

(A dispatch from Basra said it is believed the British military command has about 300 fighters and bombers, 2,000 parachute troops and 4,000 other soldiers at nearby bases which could be brought into action in a matter of minutes.)

Two Iranian frigates are standing watch, one near the Mauritus at Abadan and the other down the river.

Government Is Given Month's Money Supply

WASHINGTON, June 30. (AP)—Congress tonight passed and sent to President Truman an emergency money bill permitting the federal government to go on operating in July.

The unusual Saturday night action was necessary because none of the big appropriation measures for the fiscal year beginning at midnight tonight had yet been approved.

A Senate-House conference committee agreed late today to give President Truman most of the money he wanted for the month. It heeded a plea by the President that amendments originally tacked onto the bill by the Senate would cause a "disastrous cutback" in foreign aid spending.

The bill as revamped by the conference committee was passed by the House, 256 to 12, and by the Senate by a voice vote.

Plans were to speed it to President Truman so he could sign before midnight. He was cruising down the Potomac on the yacht Williamsburg, but planned to tie up at a convenient point where a messenger carrying the bill by auto could reach him.

A considerable number of Congressmen played hookey from today's emergency session to attend the National Press Club's annual picnic in nearby Maryland. As the vote approached, however, House functionaries notified them and them and they came flocking back to the Capitol. Some of them missed the lobster which was on the picnic menu.

War in Korea Costs Lives Of 621 Texans

By The Associated Press

The undeclared war in Korea has cost heavily in Texas lives. Texans fallen there now number 621 — more lives than Texas lost in its revolution against Mexico in 1836.

In addition to the 621 killed in action, 2,598 have been wounded in action.

Actually, the figures are higher. The Associated Press compilation is based on the casualty lists released by the Defense Department. Those lists lag considerably behind actual battle action.

Figures on the number who died of wounds, were injured or are missing in action were not available. Many are missing in action.

By contrast, only 546 lives were lost in the rebellion against Mexican rule more than a century ago.

The Korea casualties are not nearly so heavy as those which Texans suffered in the two great wars — World War I and II. But those battles stretched over several years, and involved huge masses of men.

The Korean conflict is only a few days more than a year old. It was June 25, 1950, that the North Korean Communists invaded South Korea.

In World War I, 2,722 Texans were killed, and 7,331 wounded. In World War II, 13,810 Texans were killed.

Best available records show these Texas casualties in the revolution against Mexico: Battle of San Jacinto, April 21, 1836, nine killed and 30 wounded. Alamo, Feb. 22 to March 6, 1836, 187 killed. Goliad massacre, March 27, 1836, about 350. That adds up to 546 killed.

138 Vote $650,000 School Bond Issue

A $650,000 school bond issue was approved 99 to 39 yesterday by voters in the Snyder Independent School District but only 138 persons voted in the big bond issue.

Meanwhile in Borden County, another school bond election appeared to have the approval of the voters—if the box at Gail was indicative of the whole county's general reaction. Big majorities in Gail favored all six issues in the election there, including bonds for schools and roads. Eleven other boxes in Borden had not reported late last night.

The Snyder election will provide funds for the completion of four school buildings and an administration building now under construction and more than $40,000 worth of paving on streets adjoining school property. The election was made necessary by increases in building costs since the election last December when voters approved an issue of $3,500,000.

In the Gail Box in Borden County voters approved the leveying of an ad valorem tax of 30 cents per $100 valuation for road purposes by a vote of 39 to 8. The school bond issue of $500,000 carried 52 to 11, and the road bond issue of $420,000 was approved by a vote of 40 to 2. Reallocation of county taxes — to provide more funds for roads and improvements — was approved 46 to 1. The approval of a maintenance tax issue was voiced by a vote of 52 to 11. In the approval of the road bond issue, voters also approved the proposal to construct about 35 miles of hard-surface roads connecting the county's schools.

In an election June 5, voters throughout Borden County approved the consolidation of their five common school districts, forming one district of four schools and creating the county's first high school. New buildings are to be constructed for each with funds provided in yesterday's election.

County commissioners and other officials there are seeking promise of state maintenance of as many of the proposed roads as the state highway department will agree to accept, according to C. S. Harris, county judge and superintendent of schools. No promise has yet been made by the state highway commission, however.

Texas Co. Gasoline Plant Being Built In North Scurry

Construction has begun on the multi-million dollar Texas Co. gasoline plant 18 miles north of Snyder in the Fuller field, but no completion date is in sight, J. W. DeFore, superintendent of the plant, said.

The plant is being built a little at a time as materials become available. When completed, it will be among the largest in the county.

Original plans for the size, cost, and capacity of the plant have been altered, and it is not known just how big the plant will be ultimately.

Some 200 men are working on the plant and the pipelines that will feed it, DeFore said. When in full operation the plant will probably employ a staff of 40 to 50 permanent employes.

"Right now we can't tell just what the availability of materials for construction of the plant will be, nor can we accurately predict the size of the plant we will need to service this area," DeFore said.

"So far, the Texas Co. has not hit a dry hole in the more than 170 wells drilled on the Fuller ranch, and we don't know what the limits of the field are yet," he said.

At present plans are for the plant to process casinghead gas from all the wells within a five mile radius of it, and all the Texas Co. wells.

From the casinghead gas the plant will make propane, butane, and natural gasoline. Liquid production figures cannot be predicted because it is not known how many wells will furnish gas to the plant.

Holder Construction Co. of Snyder has the contract for laying the pipelines both for feeding the plant and for delivering the products to Fullerville, a siding on the Santa Fe railway tracks about 20 miles northwest of Snyder and about 10 and one-half miles from the plant.

Three lines will be laid from the plant to the railway tracks, DeFore said.

The O. L. Olsen Construction Co. of Houston is the contractor for construction of the plant.

This plant will differ from the other three in the area in that it will be an electrically operated plant instead of a steam plant.

The Standard of Texas Plant 10.8 miles north of Snyder on the Clairemont Road, Sunray's Snyder Gasoline Plant three miles northwest of Snyder, and the Lion Gasoline Plant in the Diamond M field 15 miles southwest of Snyder all use the steam system.

Difficulty in obtaining a dependable water supply caused the Texas Co. decision to use electricity, DeFore said.

The company has drilled more than 40 water wells in the area, all of which are light producers.

"We will produce our own current out here to operate the plant," he added.

Engines which burn natural gas will pull the generators at the plant to generate the power needed to operate it, DeFore explained.

Some Spots Dry, But Record Texas Cotton Crop Possible

By The Associated Press

Despite hail, heat, bugs and high water, Texas should produce a bountiful cotton crop this year.

It could even be a record crop — in the unlikely event that everything goes right.

To be a record crop, it would have to top the 6,040,000-bale mark set in 1949.

But it looks good now. Here is the way some cotton men see it:

O. L. Whaley, Dallas cotton buyer just back from a 1,500-mile study of the crop: "With normal conditions, it might run around 6 million bales. But I don't think any living man could safely predict the crop this year."

"VERY PROMISING"

John L. McCollum, area manager of Production & Marketing Administration's cotton branch: "The crop looks very promising. But remember it's a long way between a promise and a bale of cotton. There are dry spots."

C. W. Lane, the Santa Fe Railway's crops expert: "A record cotton crop is indicated for the South Plains." On other areas, he was cautious.

It's a peculiar cotton year. High market prices and release from acreage controls have attracted new growers. Ruined wheat fields have been planted to cotton, boosting the acreage. Cotton has been planted where it had never been planted before or hadn't been planted for years.

MOISTURE VARIES

Moisture conditions vary — from too much to too little. Along the Coastal Bend, in Nueces and San Patricio County, the drouth is severe. The cotton is in bad shape there, and not much better in Dawson and Howard counties. If they don't get rain soon, the crop will be seriously hurt.

In Central and Northeast Texas, including the Blackland belt, there has been too much rain on many fields. The result: Heavy weeds. But hand laborers are quickly getting the weeds out.

In the South Plains, the hope is for periodic rains to help along the replanted acreage.

With all these imponderables, it's hard to find a cotton man who will stick his professional neck out and guess the crop.

The 6 million-bale crop predicted by Whaley would be more than double last year's crop of 2,946,000 bales (which was the poorest crop since 1946.) But the 1950 crop was held down by a severe acreage allocation program.

BUMPER CROP IN NORTH

Whaley said the Valley might make a bale to the acre in the 400,000 to 450,000 acres under irrigation, but wouldn't hazard a guess on the 450,000 to 500,000 dryland acres. Central and North and East Central Texas, he said, are in a position to produce a bumper crop.

Here's what the Santa Fe expert has to say:

"Corn, cotton, vegetables and other crops in Central, Midwestern and Northern Texas were severely damaged by hail and windstorms, and thousands of acres are being replanted.

"Cotton in the Houston district is fruiting heavily and has normal height and color. Central Texas cotton varies in size, but most fields have been worked. North Texas is almost as far along and South Texas cotton is being harvested. While planting varies with some late shifting to grain sorghums, the cotton acre age will show an increase over last year.

"A record cotton crop is indicated for the South Plains; however, much of the acreage had to be replanted, due to heavy rains and hail storms which caused extensive damage."

Tempest In Labor Teapot

DETROIT, June 30. (AP)—Question: If Walter Reuther is a "Pseudo-intellectual nit-wit," then what is John L. Lewis?

Answer (from Reuther): An "embittered, petulant and argumentative minor public figure."

That's how the battle of the invectives between the two rival labor leaders stood Friday as the smoke cleared from Reuther's counter-blast.

Reuther, president of the CIO United Auto Workers, fired the latest volley Thursday night in the form of a statement by his 23-man executive board.

The six-page statement was the UAW's first since Lewis opened fire here last Saturday in a much-ballyhooed outing billed as a 10th anniversary celebration of the signing of the first UAW contract with the Ford Motor Co.

Clues Are Followed In Telegraph Robbery

Investigation of the Western Union robbery last week in which nearly $1,000 in cash and travelers checks was taken, was continuing yesterday, police said, but no suspects had been apprehended.

However clues left at the scene had been narrowed down and police said that record checks were being made on a number of persons through the State Department of Public Safety in Austin.

Watering Ban Holds; Slow Storage Gains

The city's water reserves in storage grew Friday night and Saturday, due to the cooperation of residents in refraining from watering lawns.

But the amount of water in storage still is dangerously low, and it is building up slowly.

This was the picture outlined yesterday by W. J. Ramsey, city superintendent, who Friday called on the city to start voluntary conservation measures and to forego watering of lawns.

40,000 GAIN

"We had about 40,000 gallons more water in storage Saturday morning than Friday morning, but the shortage still is critical," Ramsey said.

"We appreciate the cooperation of the citizens, and we must ask everybody to continue not to water lawns until the city's new pumps arrive or until it rains so that storage can be built back to a safe level," he added.

If the voluntary ban on lawn watering had not been effective, the city would have been without water Friday night, he said.

Ivan Gatlin, fire department supervisor, said that everybody should be especially careful with fires and not let trash accumulate during the water shortage.

"A fire now with the water supply as low as it is could be disastrous," he said.

HIGH CONSUMPTION

Ramsey said that Snyder usually experiences its heaviest water usage on Mondays, but that week end consumption is usually lighter than on other days.

A rain, or even a heavy shower that would give lawns enough water to survive, would put us in good shape and we could probably have enough water to last until the new pump and pump parts arrive about July 10, Ramsey said.

"If we do not get rain, however, it will take many days to build the water storage back to a safe level at the rate we are gaining now," he concluded.

Men On Front Skeptical Over Peace Feelers

EASTERN FRONT, Korea, June 30. (AP) — United Nations infantrymen at the front in Korea are hard to convince about a possible peace. Red mortars make it difficult.

Since Russian UN delegate Jacob Malik first made his 38th Parallel cease-fire proposal, Allied soldiers have been skeptical. They have been disappointed by peace talk before.

The typical foxhole view is:

"I won't believe it until I'm on the boat home."

Of course, the men hope the shooting will stop.

But the Red mortar shells fall daily. United Nations operations maps are dotted with the paths of ceaseless patrols into Red territory. Some men are killed or wounded every day.

So for days, the men have talked peace and waged war. It's hard not be be skeptical.

On one high hill east of the Hwachon Reservoir where Communist mortar shells fall regularly at dawn, First Lt. Johnnie L. Carter of Waynesboro, Ga., counts his men after each barrage. He shrugs when you mention peace.

Nor is his corporal, John Eager of New York City, hopeful. He has two foxholes, one with a log roof.

"I'm in that one when the mortars come in," Eager said. "I'll buy a cease-fire, but it's hard to believe it will happen."

"They can't bring back the guys who have lost their lives over here," said a Marine corporal. He would not give his name.

"If they don't stop this skirmish pretty soon, there are going to be more people killed."

Most of the men are hopeful about Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's radio message today setting out the possibility of a meeting with Communist field commanders. Allied staff officers, usually pessimistic, think maybe this is it. "When Malik and the Russians put it in black and white, I was convinced," said one. "But you just don't know until a thing is signed."

Guardsmen Leave By Train for Camp Polk

Men of the Snyder National Guard unit entrained at 9 o'clock last night for Camp Polk, La., where they will spend a two-weeks training period.

A convoy of the units motor vehicles left Wednesday and were to have arrived in Camp Polk at noon yesterday.

More than 50 enlisted men and three officers were in the group which left by train last night.

During their stay at the camp arrangements have been made for a daily report on the men's activities to be mailed to the Snyder Daily News so that local citizens can keep abreast of the training operation.

War Fronts Quiet Awaiting Reply to Ridgway Invitation

TOKYO, Sunday, July 1. (AP) — Powerful American radio receivers in Japan and Korea listened in vain today for any Red reply to the United Nations offer to discuss an armistice in Korea.

They heard only the usual budgets of Communist propaganda, broadcast from Peiping and Pyongyang, the Chinese and Korean Red capitals.

Apparently there had been no response to Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's invitation, first broadcast a full day earlier, starting at 8 a.m., Saturday, Tokyo time, in a number of languages. He proposed a conference in the North Korean harbor of Wonsan aboard a Danish hospital ship, the Jutlandia, following up the Soviet suggestion of June 23 that a cease-fire could be arranged.

BATTLEFRONT QUIET

The 100-mile Korean battlefront was relatively quiet, although both sides hurled artillery and mortar barrages as small Allied units continued aggressive patrolling. Allied air attacks continued as usual as the war went into the sixth day past its first anniversary.

In the South Korean port of Pusan, the 8,457-ton Jutlandia was ready to leave on two-hour notice for Wonsan, 80 miles north of the 38th Parallel.

Counseling patience, a high Allied officer in Tokyo said, "Folks ought to calm down a little. It's my guess that not a thing will happen for hours at least."

NO TIME LIMIT

There was no hint of any time limit in Ridgway's invitation, which still was being broadcast repeatedly in 45 languages, with emphasis on Chinese and Korean.

It was reported that the United States would like to negotiate an armistice on the present general military line rather than precisely on the old 38th Parallel boundary of North and South Korea.

Except in one small area in the West, United Nations forces are north of 38, in some places as far as 20 miles north.

An informed staff officer said negotiations probably would be conducted on a chief-of-staff level, as was done in the German and Japanese surrenders ending World War II.

NO PRISONER EXCHANGE

If custom is followed, it was explained, there would be no exchanges of prisoners during an armistice or cease-fire. If no permanent agreement is reached, the war would be resumed.

General Ridgway calmly went about his military and social duties in Tokyo as usual. He was at his office in the Dai Ichi Building during the day Saturday. He appeared confident and relaxed Saturday night.

There was high hope in Tokyo for a cease-fire, but AP Correspondent John Randolph reported from Korea that frontline soldiers showed "a 50-50 mixture of interest and skepticism."

The South Korean government, which has long opposed any settlement short of complete unification of Korea, announced cabinet adoption of "five minimum requirements" for a cease-fire. These included withdrawal of Chinese Red troops from Korea, disarming of North Koreans, and no aid for North Korea.

General Ridgway's broadcast message to the Reds fixed no conditions.

The Eighth Army reported light ground action, although fighting definitely had not ceased.

Searchlights Saturday night ferreted out Red groups for Allied artillery fire.

Eighth Army patrols knifed north and northwest of Seoul above the Imjin River on the Western Front Saturday with little opposition. The Reds hurled sporadic mortar and artillery fire.

Allied units withdrew after a brisk firefight with Chinese forces northwest of Chorwon.

The Communists still stood firm before their new buildup base at Kumsong, 11 miles northeast of Kumhwa. U. N. troops repulsed Red probing attacks early Saturday east and northeast of Kumhwa.

NAVY RUMORS BANGKOK DUTY

MANILA, June 30. (AP)—United States Navy personnel on leave in Manila Saturday night were rounded up by shore patrols who told them, "get back to your station, you are going to Bangkok."

Rear Adm. Richard H. Cruzen, who took over as Naval commander in the Philippines today, admitted that the shore patrols had been recalling sailors on leave on his orders. He refused to comment further.

There was speculation here that some of the Navy ships based in the Philippines were putting to sea tonight to be available in case they were needed to protect American lives in Bangkok.

Crashed Liner In Colorado Texans Aboard

FORT COLLINS, Colo., June 30. —A United Airlines DC—6 with 50 aboard smashed into the side of Hague's Peak in the Rocky Mountains early today and the air line said there are "apparently no survivors."

Two victims were believed Texans.

The air lines spokesman confirmed late this afternoon identification of the wreckage as that of its missing flight, 610, which had been hunted for nearly 11 hours.

It will be many hours, because of the rugged trails, before ground parties can reach the scene of the crash 25 miles west of here.

The wreckage was first sighted by Ralph Johnson, Wyoming director of aeronautics and a former United Airlines test pilot. It was later seen by Major John Carrol of the Fourth Air Rescue Squadron at Lowry Field, Denver.

The plane debris was scattered over 150 yards at an altitude of around 8,600 feet, Johnson reported by radio to the Civil Aeronautics Administration at Cheyenne, Wyo.

The plane, one of the first to take to the air after the United pilots' strike ended Friday, was last heard from at 1:46 this morning (Mountain Standard Time) over Cheyenne.

At that time the plane, en route from San Francisco to Chicago by way of Salt Lake City and Denver, reported conditions normal and that it would land in Denver in 24 minutes.

Six aboard the liner were officials of the Rural Electrification Administration, including George W. Haggard of Washington, D. C., REA deputy administrator and native Texan.

The other Texan was Robert Bigley, about 29, loan officer in the REA telephone program, recently transferred from Washington to Texas, believed to be the same as "Robert E. Beighley" of Abilene shown on the airline's list.

Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Haggard, were aboard the plane. They had planned to meet him today in Big Spring.

Haggard was executive secretary of the Texas Farm bureau federation and general manager of the Texas Power Reserve Electrical Cooperative, a federation of REA-financed groups, before he joined the REA in Washington.

Haggard was on his way to a Lubbock meeting. His wife, a daughter, 16, and a son, 12, live in Washington. Haggard was graduated from Hardin-Simmons University in Abilene and taught there before entering government work.

Truman Signs Stopgap; Price Curb Ordered

WASHINGTON, June 30. (AP)—Balked by Congress from rolling back prices during July, the Office of Price Stabilization tonight froze manufacturers prices of a wide range of goods at today's figures.

It acted a few hours after President Truman had signed into law a stopgap bill extending for 31 days—but curbing—his power to control prices, wages, rent and credit.

The President's signature was affixed just eight hours before his control powers were due to expire altogether, at midnight tonight.

Mr. Truman issued no statement today, but he plainly didn't like the bill — because, among other things, it bans any price rollbacks or new price ceilings during July, and his administration had planned to order price cuts running far in excess of $2 billion.

The goods on which manufacturers prices were frozen tonight included cotton textiles, shoes, apparel, many household appliances and machinery.

OPS had planned to put these articles under a new type of control which, in most cases would have become effective Monday. Their ceiling prices would have been based on pre-Korean levels, plus certain cost increases since that time.

Since rollbacks are banned, OPS said it had decided on "an indefinite freeze" at June 30 levels of goods which would have been affected by what it technically known as the "general manufacturers order" and companion regulations.

Michael V. DiSalle, OPS administrator, issued a statement expressing hope Congress would let these regulations go into effect later. He said they "are altogether fair and consistent with effective price stabilization."

Mr. Truman is expected to renew shortly the fight for the stronger controls legislation he wants.

One of his chief congressional opponents, Senator Taft (R-Ohio), said meawhile that price rollbacks and livestock slaughtering quotas are "wholly unnecessary to effective price control."

Rich Iron Deposits Discovered In Mexico

MEXICO CITY, June 30. (AP) — Discovery of a rich iron deposit in the state of Michoacan was announced today.

Antonio Martinez Baez, secretary of economy, said a mountain known as Cerro Del Cubero contained 15 million tons of ore which is 67 per cent iron. The mountain is near the Pacific coast. Martinez Baez said a steel mill might be set up there.

FEDERAL HIRING IS ON INCREASE

WASHINGTON, June 30. (AP) —Senator Byrd (D-Va) said today civilian employment in the executive branch of the government increased in May at a rate of more than 1,000 a day.

Total employment reached 2,443,076 — a net increase during the month of 33,955, Byrd said. Of the total increase, 25,196 civilians were added to the payroll by the military establishment.

Cease-Fire Would Put Added Pressure On Local Draft Boards

LOUISVILLE, June 30. (AP) — A cease-fire in Korea, although welcome to all concerned, would complicate the job of Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, the nation's director of Selective Service, he said here.

Hershey spoke to Kentucky draft officials and told them he wants local draft boards to have the final say in deferring college students.

Local board members must use their own judgement, he declared.

Remarking about a possible cease-fire in Korea, he said if that happens, "Everyone will yell, Don't draft me now?"

Pressure of those already in service to get out will be great, he added.

Hershey said, however, he is reconciled to the problem, having gone through a similar one at the end of World War II.

AUSTIN, June 30. (AP) — The Railroad Commission has set public hearing for Aug. 9 on the application of R. W. Mott for discovery allowable rights and a new field designation for the producing reservoir of his Carraway well No. 1 Sherman Field, Grayson County.

Umpires Will Return To Park

FORT WORTH, June 30. (AP) — The Big State League president turned down today what he called a "ridiculous demand" that umpires Bob Fisher and Barney Smith not to be assigned to any more games in the Sherman-Denison park.

Howard L. Green, president of the league, released a wire he sent to Dirk King, business manager of the Sherman-Denison club.

Several hundred fans stormed the umpire's dressing room at the park after the game Thursday night with Texarkana, Green said. Fisher and Smith, "narrowly escaped to their hotel."

Fisher had ejected Manager Bill Capps, and players Mario Diaz, Roberto Montelongo and Julio Ramos during the course of the game.

Green's wire to King said:

"I can not acquiesce to your ridiculous demand that future umpire schedules keep Bob Fisher and and Barney Smith out of the Sherman - Denison park. Fisher and Smith will return for the Texarkana - Sherman - Denison double header of July fourth and it will be your personal responsibility to ascertain that there is adequate police protection."

Green said he had fined King $10 earlier in the season for verbally assaulting umpire Bill Chapman."

WOMAN'S FORUM

Churchgoers who are distracted by the crying or talking of children in the audience often wish the children's parents had left them at home or in the nursery. However, it isn't always such a simple decision for the parents to make.

Just when is a child old enough to be expected to sit quietly during the service? Many children four or five years old cause more disturbance than younger children because they have not been taught that they must be still.

Mrs. T. Gerald Cates, wife of the pastor of the Calvary Baptist Church, thinks that young children definitely should be taken to church services so they will learn proper behavior. Her own son, now four years old, has been taken to church since he was three months old and has only had to be taken out for spankings twice.

Mrs. LaWayne Hulse, 3725 Rose Circle, also believes children should learn to behave while they are young. Both her children, three and one-half years old and one-year-old are taken to services.

Four other mothers who also believe children should be started attending services early make the age factor more flexible. They say the age definitely depends on the child.

Mrs. C. C. Miller, 2807 Avenue T, has five daughters and one grandson, who is three years old. She took her daughters to church while they were young, and said that her grandson behaves himself quite well. Mrs. Miller is a housewife. Mr. Miller is a rancher.

Mrs. B. S. Fairchild, 401 East Twentieth, said children should be taken to church when they are old enough to realize just what is expected of them. She added that it is excellent training for them to attend services at as early an age as possible. Her daughter is now 12 years old, her son eight. Mr. Fairchild is day foreman for Morris & Blount Tool Co.

Mrs. Mike Weatherly, 1703 Eighteenth Street, has not yet started taking her 10-month-old son to church, but plans to take him when he is a little older. Mr. Weatherly is employed by Halliburton.

Mrs. W. R. Newton, 2308 Avenue S, who has three children, believes young children are capable of learning to be quiet during the service. Her children are now 10, 13, and 14 years of age. Dr. Newton is owner of Snyder Hospital, and Mrs. Newton assists him there.

Mrs. W. W. Adcock, wife of the Methodist pastor, also favors taking young children to church. She adds, however, that the ability of the parents to keep the child quiet is an important factor. She always took her children to church even when they were small, but said that many parents find it more satisfactory to leave children in the nursery until they are two years old.

Natural Gas Price Law Seems Certain In Next Legislature

By BO BYERS

AUSTIN, June 30. (AP)—The threat of a state price-fixing law hangs heavy, heavy over the purchasers and consumers of Texas natural gas.

Two years ago there were only vague hints that independent producers and royalty owners might go to the legislature for help in boosting field prices.

But this year, four price-fixing bills were introduced. One passed the House, 72-43, and gained Senate committee approval, 9-8. It never gained the two-thirds Senate support needed to reach floor debate but might have won a simple majority for passage if a vote had been ordered.

NEW ASSAULT COMING

Almost tasting victory, the organized independent producers and royalty owners already are laying the groundwork for a new legislative assault in 1953.

They say they need a price-fixing law to win a "decent" and "fair" price for marketed gas being drained from Texas reservoirs at an average rate of 9,860,000,000 cubic feet per day.

That includes both gas-well gas and casinghead gas withdrawn in the production of oil.

The average price for gas at the head the past year was slightly more than 5 cents per 1,000 cubic feet. Gas usually is purchased under long-term contracts — frequently for the life of the well. Some of the old contracts give as little as 1 cent per 1,000 to the producer.

However, there is very little 1-cent gas now, according to the state comptroller. Some gas is bringing as high as 12 cents.

PUBLIC PRESSURE

The better price in recently drawn contracts probably can be attributed to an improving competitive situation and the pressure of public opinion.

The thing that makes small independent producers and royalty owners unhappy is the disparity in prices paid for gas from a single field. One man may be getting only 4 cents per 1,000 cubic feet while another producer in the same field gets twice that amount.

The Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners Association — better known as "TIPRO" — is spearheading the fight for higher prices.

TIPRO's executive committee last week assigned a special committee the job of urging gas pipeline companies to correct instances of price discrimination and inequities. The executive group called for voluntary renegotiation of contracts which were "dictated on terms not wholly fair to producers and royalty owners."

GENTLE REMINDER

To put pressure behind that request, TIPRO dropped a gentle reminder that unless the problem can be settled within the industry TIPRO will renew its cry for a minimum price.

Bills which would have set a flat minimum of 10 cents per 1,000 cubic feet were rejected by a House committee. Then a bill to allow the state's oil and gas regulatory agency discretion in setting minimum field prices was introduced.

This was approved by the Texas House despite denunciations of the evils of price-fixing.

Backers of the measure used the added argument that fixing of a minimum price would help prevent or lessen waste of gas and would help to stall off federal control of gas.

Opponents turned this latter argument around and said state price-fixing would encourage the federal government to step in and regulate gas moving in interstate pipelines.

THOMPSON GOES HOME

HOUSTON, June 30. (AP) — State Railroad Commisioner E. O. Thompson has been discharged from Hermann hospital here. Attendants said he was discharged Friday and has returned to Austin. He was hospitalized for more than a week for a rest.

No Shows Reported From Kent Field Well

Sun Oil Co. No. 1 H. W. Davis, field location one mile south of Clairemont, is coring in shale below 6,699 feet. No shows have been reported. The drillsite is 660 feet from north and 671 feet from east lines of the southwest quarter of section 9-98-H&TC.

Two Possible Extenders To Vealmoor Pool

Lario Oil & Gas Co. is to begin drilling immediately on two projects outside proven production on the east side of the East Vealmor field of Central-North Howard County.

The No. 1 Alice Cairnes and others is 330 feet from south and west lines of the southeast quarter of the northwest quarter of section 18-27-H&TC.

That makes it five miles north of Vincent.

Location for Lario No. 2 Alice Cairnes and others is 1,200 feet from south and 330 feet from west lines of the northeast quarter of the northwest quarter of section 18-27-H&TC, and five miles north of Vincent.

Rotary tools will be used to drill both tests to 7,500 feet.

New Rotary Officers Will Take Over Club

Old officers and directors of the Rotary Club served their last day in that capacity at the club's luncheon Thursday and new officers will take over at next luncheon, Bentley Baize, outgoing president, said.

Mrs. L. W. Dumas was guest speaker at the luncheon. She talked in "What women expect from service clubs."

Malven Stevenson, who will take over as the club's new president attended a meeting of the 37 new club presidents in the 103rd Rotary district in Ralls, Tex., Friday.

Tony Holcomb will take over as the club's new secretary, and five new directors will begin their terms. New directors are: A. C. Alexander, Ralph Geisenhoner, Weldon Kincaid, Simson Steinberg, and Walker Dabbs.

Baize, outgoing president, is automatically the club's new vice president as specified by Rotary by-laws.

Effects Of Iran Shutdown Are Pondered By Oil Industry

WASHINGTON, June 30. (AP) — How would any prolonged shutdown of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company's properties in Iran be felt in the United States?

(1) Probably in spot shortages of residual fuel oils before many weeks but (2) no gasoline rationing for some time, possibly not for a year — in the opinion of a top official of the Petroleum Administration for Defense (PAD).

This official, who has been watching the Iranian situation closely, told a reporter today:

"If we lost the entire Iranian production from the world petroleum supply, we could predict spot shortages of residual fuel oils, bunker fuels and so on, even in this country."

As for gasoline rationing, he said it isn't foreseeable now — as a result of the Iranian situation, that is.

But the gasoline situation in the United States next summer, he said, will depend on the drain on stocks and on whether domestic companies can get steel for drilling more wells and expanding refining capacity.

An indefinite shutoff of Iranian oil from the world market would be another matter. No one can hazard a guess, this official said, as to what the domestic supply situation would be, over the long pull, in thatevent.

Uncle Sam has been watching the Iranian situation carefully. The PAD has a plan ready to supply Western Europe, through American companies operating abroad, if Iran's oil is lost to the world market.

Meanwhile, according to the APD, some crude oil production in this country can't get to market because steel is not available for pipeline constructin.

The Defense Production Administration has made its allocation of steel to the PAD for the oil and gas industry for the third quarter. PAD said the demand for pipeline steel for the quarter totaled 281,700 tons, but it was able to provide only 118,000 tons — 42 per cent of the demand.

Borden Well Nearing Reef

Lario Oil & Gas Co. No. 1 T. L. Griffin, Southeast Borden County wildcat, is drilling below 6,856 feet in shale. Operator expects to encounter the reef at any time.

The well was started to drill to 8,000 feet for Pennsylvanian reef production or for production at a greater depth is the reef does not produce. It is located five miles north of Vincent and about one and three-quarter miles west and three quarters of a mile south of the nearest reef production.

Shallow Well Slated For Sterling Drilling

W. F. Stricklin is to start operations at ... No. 1 the J. Gunter estate, which is slated to be a 2,600-foot cable tool wildcat in Central-West Sterling County.

It will be 10 miles west of Sterling City and 330 feet from north and 2,310 feet from east lines of section 25, block 22, H&TC survey.

That makes it one and three-quarter miles east and one eighth of a mile south of the discovery from the Queen sand recently completed at Parochial Petroleum Company No. 1 Bade. That well and its offset, also recently finished, get their oil from upper Permian pay above 1,200 feet.

The Stricklin prospector in proposing to dig to 2,600 feet is to test through the San Andres section of the Permian.

Sharon Ridge-Canyon Well Is Completed

Devonian Oil Co. has completed the No. 2 Canning for 1,059.84 barrels of 44.1 gravity oil. The potential was based on an actual four-hour flow.

Gas-oil ratio on the test was 750-1. No water was made. The test was made through a 32-64th-inch choke. Casing was set in packer and tubing pressure was 600 pounds. Top of the pay was at 6,637 feet with total depth 6,715 feet.

Location of the No. 2 Canning is in section 125-25-H&TC and in the Sharon Ridge-Canyon field.

Dawson Well Gets Salt In Pennsylvanian

Seaboard Oil Co. of Delaware No. 1 Robinson, wildcat in South-Central Dawson County, took a drill-stem test of the Pennsylvanian reef at 9,910-9,980 feet. The tool was open two hours.

Recovery was 3,404 feet of salt water. There were no shows of oil or gas.

Operator has plugged back to 8,498 feet in the lower Spraberry. A liner will be swung at 7,445 feet, where the Spraberry will be tested through open hole. There is a slight chance that it might make a small well from that zone.

The No. 1 Robinson is 660 feet from east and 1,980 feet from north lines of section 18-36-t5n-T&P. That makes it seven miles south and a little east of Lamesa and six miles southeast of the Huddle-Manning field which produces from the Spraberry.

Upton County Wildcat Assured As Producer For Gulf Oil Corp.

MIDLAND, Tex., June 29. —Gulf Oil Corporation is assured of a commercial producer and the discovery of a new oil field at its No. 1-H McElroy, Northwest Upton County wildcat.

This exploration flowed 122 barrels of new oil and four barrels of basic sediment and drilling water in eight hours through a one-half inch tubing choke.

The flow was at the rate of 366 barrels of oil per day. Gravity was 41.3 degrees. Gas-oil ratio was 1,295-1. There were no signs of formation water.

The production is coming from open hole in the Pennsylvanian lime between the bottom of the 7-inch casing which is cemented at 9,109 feet, and the plugged back total depth at 9,250 feet.

That interval had been washed with 500 gallons of acid. Operator is now preparing to re-wash the pay section with another 500-gallon dose of mud acid.

After it is cleaned up the potential test likely will be run and the new field opener will be completed.

It is 1,980 feet from east and north lines of section 169, block E, CCSD&RGNG survey. That makes it six miles northwest of the Wilshire-Ellenburger — Pennsylvanian field and two miles east of the northeast side of the shallow McElroy pool.

Gulf No. 1-H McElroy got sulphur water in the Ellenburger in drilling to a bottom of 12,385 feet. It then plugged back to 9,250 feet.

Dodgers Get Seven Run In One Inning, Lick Phillies 14-8

BROOKLYN, June 30. (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers, abetted by five errors and nine walks, snapped out of the doldrums today and swamped the Philadelphia Phillies, 14-8.

The league leaders, who had lost five of their previous six starts, tucked the decision away in the fourth inning when they scored seven runs to assume a 13-4 lead.

Brooklyn sent 11 men to bat in the fourth, which Duke Snider highlighted with a three-run homer, his 17th of the season. The other runs of the uprising came as the result of singles by Carl Furillo, Rocky Bridges, Carl Erskine, a walk, fly ball and errors by Gran Hamner and Milo Candini.

Bubba Church, seeking his seventh straight victory, started for the Phils and stretched his streak of consecutive scoreless innings to 27 1-3 before he wilted in the second.

The Dodgers clipped Church for three runs in the second on a walk, single, error, ground out and two-run double by Johnny Schmitz. They tagged Church for three more in the third on a double, two walks, error and two-run single by Roy Campanella.

Church gave up the ghost in the fourth after singles by Cal Abrams, Pee Wee Reese and Snider's homer. Candini and Bob Miller saw action before the fourth was over.

Lefty Ken Johnson took over in the sixth. He yielded the Bodgers' final run in the seventh on an error and double by Car Furillo.

Hamner was hit on the left wrist by a line drive in the sixth and had to leave the game. His wrist appeared badly bruised.

Yankees Miss Lead By Sox's 3-1 Victory

NEW YORK, June 30. (AP)—Billy Goodman supplied the batting punch and Lefty Chuck Stobbs came through with a six-hitter today to pace Boston's Red Sox to a 3-1 victory over the New York Yankees.

The defeat cost the Yankees a chance to move into first place, as the Chicago White Sox fell before St. Louis, 4-3.

Goodman's two-run double was the big hit as Boston scored all its runs in the second inning. Stobbs' only mistake protecting his lead was a home run ball to Yogi Berra in the fourth inning.

The Wheeling, W. Va., southpaw never allowed more than one hit in any inning. His first walk came in the ninth, when the Yanks tied to pull the game out.

But Stobbs, a 21-year-old, six-foot-one speedster, would have none of it. When Berra opened the ninth with a single and Johny Mize drew a pass after a fly out, the big crowd — 33,581 — began whooping.

Acting like a veteran, Stobbs disposed of dangerous Hank Bauer and Jackie Jensen on soft pop flies to third base. It was his sixth victory over the season against three losses.

Actually the Yanks never had a chance after the Red Sox bombed Bob Kuzava in the second inning.

The victory put the third place Sox three games behind Chicago. The Yanks still are a half game out.

Monkeys Will Undergo Tests for Airman

AUSTIN, June 30. (AP)—Monkeys will be used in aviation medicine experiments to benefit the U. S. Air Force.

Use of the monkeys was disclosed in an announcement that the United States Air Force School of Aviation Medicine primate laboratory will be added to the national defense research laboratories at the University of Texas off-campus research center.

The announcement, by Brig. Gen. Otin O. Benson, Jr., commandant of the Air Medical School at Randolph Air Force Base, was made public here by J. Neils Thompson, director of the off-campus research center.

Pan Am Makes 10 Runs in 7th For 17-10 Win Over Pasotex

Ted Masters, the American Legion's new fireball pitcher, pitched and hit them to a 16-4 victory over Halliburton Friday night, and Pan American made 10 runs in the seventh inning to win 17-10 over Pasotex.

Three double plays highlighted good fielding in the Pan Am-Pasotex game, while at the same time both teams were stacking up big error totals.

TWO-HIT GAME

Masters pitched a two-hit game to Halliburton, but his batting Friday night was just as outstanding as his pitching.

He hit one home run, a triple, two doubles, and a single in four hits for his five trips to the plate to be the Legion's outstanding hitter for the night.

Vic Baze tripled with two men on base to be the next big Legion hitter.

Statistics for the game showed the Legion to have 16 runs from 15 hits, no errors, and six men left on base. Halliburton made four runs from two hits, had 10 errors and three men left on base.

The second game was more closely fought, with the score tied 5-5 at the end of the fifth inning.

In the first of the sixth inning the excitement started by Pan Am, making two runs before Pasotex stopped the rally with a double play.

Then, in the last of the sixth inning, Pasotex came back with what at first looked like a rally and made one run before the side was retired with Pan Am's second double play of the night.

Three pitchers were used in the first of the seventh by Pasotex when Pan Am started swatting everything that came by the batter.

HOME RUNS

Eddie Hight, losing Pasotex pitcher, was relieved after about four Pan Am runs had scored in the first of the seventh. Louis Beuerlein, who relieved Hight, had speed but Pan Am continued to hit off him. Jerry W. Shotts hit a homer off Beuerlein with two men on base and Leonard H. Dodd got a second homer with one on before Beuerlein was relieved by John W. Duckett who finished the inning without giving up any more runs.

Pasotex scored four runs in their last time at bat in an attempt to tie the score or win over the 11-run handicap.

E. L. Keller hit a home run for Pasotex as the first batter up in the last frame. Hight doubled, and scored on the next batter's sacrifice hit. Then Ernest Kinney doubled and was driven home by a triple by Billbury who also scored before the game ended.

The American Legion has been short changed through a typographical error in the "City Standings" box scores in the Snyder Daily News. Until Friday night's game they had an eight-four won-lost record instead of the eight-five record shown in the incorrect standings.

Their win Friday night gives them a nine-four won-lost record for a .692 average for the season.

Hot Batter In Amarillo Club

By The Associated Press

Crawford Howard, the Amarillo fence-buster, couldn't be called a pitcher's friend. The mention of his name in the West Texas-New Mexico league is enough to bring snarls from the hurlers.

Howard excels in the departments that give the twirlers their worst moments.

He has the most hits with 98, the most total bases with 156, is tied with Al Kubski of Lubbock in home runs with 13 and has batted in 65 runs, which ranks close to the lead.

The top hitter still is Ralph Rahmes of Abilene, who is clubbing .398 on 96 hits in 241 appearances at the plate. Howard is hitting a merry .371, fifth among the regulars.

Pedro Santiago of Lamesa has the most runs with 78, Earl Hochstatter of Lubbock the most doubles with 27, Art Cuitti of Albuquerque the most triples with seven and Don Stokes of Lamesa has driven in the most runs with 73.

Jesse Preist of Albuquerque has a pitching record that couldn't be improved upon. He has won 13 and lost none as top man of the circuit. The only other pitcher to win 13 games is Ed Arthur of Lamesa, but he has lost six.

Arthur also is the busiest pitcher. He has pitched the most games with 24, the most complete games with 13 and the most innings with 140.

Red Dial of Pampa has the most strike-outs with 93.

Lamesa leads in club batting with .317 and Albuquerque in club fielding with .965.

Pat Stasey Is Best Batter In Longhorn

By The Associated Press

Pat Stasey, the Big Spring playing manager, has pushed his way to the top in Longhorn League batting.

Stasey overtook John Tayoan of San Angelo last week by the process of adding 10 points to his average while Tayoan was dropping two.

The Big Spring clubber is hitting .393 on 86 blows in 219 times at the plate. Tayoan fell down to third with his .391 while Bill Cearley of Roswell arose from sixth to second place as he brought his average to .392.

The batting race is so close there's a new leader every week.

Tayoan still is getting the most hits and for the most distance. He leads in hits with 98 and in total bases with 140.

Leo Eastham of Odessa leads in runs with 82.

Stasey is a double leader. He also tops the league in two-baggers with 21.

Warren Sliter of Sweetwater has the most triples with nine and Wayne Wallace of San Angelo is the home run leader with 16. John Reimold of Vernon has the most runs batted in — 68.

Ray Sims of Odessa is the leading pitcher with a 10-1 record. Eddie Jacome of Midland is the hardest-working hurler.

He has twirled 165 innings and won the most games with 14. He also has pitched in more games with 29.

Marshall Epperson of Vernon leads in strike-outs with 86.

Big Spring tops in club batting with .310 and San Angelo in fielding with .963.

STORK WINS RACE

FORT WORTH, June 30. (AP) — Loss of a frantic race with the stork left a young Fort Worth couple undaunted today.

A 4-pound 9-ounce girl was born to Mrs. Mirton Tompkins, 16, in the back seat of an auto while her husband rushed her toward a clinic. All concerned were "doing fine" today.

Improving Anglo-Latin Relations Is Topic

AUSTIN, June 30. (AP) — Community leaders will meet in Austin July 13-14 to discuss ways of improving relations between Latin and Anglo-Americans.

R. E. (Bob) Smith of Houston, chairman of the Texas Council of Human Relations, said the meeting was the first major project undertaken by the council.

Jordan Holds Big State Lead

By The Associated Press

Austin's Tom Jordan is finding it rather easy to lead the Big State League in batting.

He didn't play a lick last week but still is on top with his .388 compiled with 69 hits in 178 trips to the plate. None of those who did play made enough progress to come close to him. Al Lawrence of Austin is in second place, eight points back.

Moe Santamauro of Texarkana and Dean Stafford of Sherman-Denison are doing the most damage to the pitching, however. Santamauro and Stafford each has 148 total bases while Santamauro leads in homers with 15 and Stafford in runs batted in with 69.

Bob Hyatt of Texarkana tops in doubles with 21, Sal Zunno of Temple in triples with seven and Jack Phillips of Wichita Falls in runs with 75 and hits with 101. Phillips is the only player who has 100 or more hits. The next highest is Joe Szekely of Texarkana with 97.

Billey Sweatt of Gainesville added a victory to his total and made his pitching record for the season 10-0. He has the best record of any hurler but hasn't won the most games. That honor goes to Stumpy Jones of Austin, who has taken 12 decisions while losing four.

Carmen Ferullo of Wichita Falls tops in strike-outs with 104.

Temple leads both in club batting with .296 and club fielding with .965.

The Phoenicians made woolen goods and sold them throughout the world known at their time.

Illinois City Helps Man In Snyder Crash

The citizens of Pekin, Ill., are making plans to settle a debt they feel they owe Jack Edwards, a former Snyder resident. Edwards helped build the Pekin baseball team to one of the best in Illinois during the war and early post-war years, and revived an interest in the sport that carried through to encourage the high school team this year.

Now Edwards is confined to his bed, paralyzed so that he can hardly lift his hand to his face. It was a result of injuries suffered in a stock car race in Snyder. He has been bedfast for the past 14 months, unable to support his family or pay his debts.

Edwards refuses to declare bankruptcy, still hoping that he will recover and clear all his debts. And the residents of Pekin are making an effort to help him in return for what he did for them.

The Mayor of Pekin is seeking to have Edwards admitted to the Illinois Research Hospital where specialists could study his case and perhaps cure the paralysis. He has ppetitioned Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, another Pekin resident, for aid.

Mrs. Edwards and their three children are in Hollis, Okla., while Edwards lives with his parents in Pekin.

Nuzum Plans Return To Ball

LAS CRUCES, N. M., June 30. (AP) Jerry Nuzum plans to leave the end of next week to rejoin the Pittsburgh Steelers football squad for his fourth season.

The 27-year-old professional gridder was declared innocent Friday by Dist. Judge Charles Fowler in the death in 1949 of Ovida Coogler, 18-year-old Las Cruses waitress.

The judge said the prosecution failed entirely to connect Nuzum in any way with the death of the waitress. Her body was found in a shallow desert grave south of here April 16, 1949.

Spectators in the jammed court room broke into applause in spite of a warning against it. Tears wet the eyes of many besides Nuzum's family.

"It does not solve or dispose of the crime itself," Judge Fowler said. "But only brings a verdict of innocent for the defendant in this case."

Up Average 30 Points To Lead

By The Associated Press

Anybody able to add 30 points to his batting average in a week is bound to get somewhere. Ray Mink of Corpus Christi found that out.

He went all the way from seventh to first place in the Gulf Coast League by raising his average from .360 to .390.

Mink replaced Stan Goletz of Brownsville at the top. Goletz dropped a couple of points and fell to third place at .385. Still second is Bob Hedington of Brownsville with .386.

Bob Moyer of Corpus Christi continues to be the one-man wrecking gang. Moyer leads in homers with 21, runs with 81, runs batted in with 88 and total bases with 186.

Don Petschow of Harlingen tops in doubles with 24, Art Edingtin of Port Arthur in triples with 12 and Keith Carpenter of Harlingen in hits with 101.

Mel Tappe of Corpus Christi has become the leading pitcher with a 9-1 record by Jesus Valezuela of Corpus Christi and Ramon Roger of Galveston have won the most games — 13 each. They have lost three and four respectively. Ramon Salgado of Texas City leads in strikeouts with 152.

Corpus Christi leads in club batting with .317 and Lake Charles in club fielding with .960.

SITES STUDIED FOR COUNTY PARK

H. W. S. van Arsdale, southwestern representative of the National Recreation Association, will meet with the park committee of the Chamber of Commerce and any interested citizens who wish to attend at 4 o'clock next Friday afternoon. Van Arsdale will discuss park location selection, and cost of building, equipping, and maintaining parks. Three possible park locations are being studied by the local park promoters. They are shown in the zig zag boundaries above. One is in Northwest Snyder along Deep Creek. A second is in Southwest Snyder near Highland Park and Towle Place, and the third possible location is between the Sweetwater and Colorado City highways southeast of Snyder. After a site has been selected, costs determined, and other details worked out a petition will be circulated calling for a county bond election to raise funds with which to build the proposed park.

Texas Tory Talks

Texas Has Its Own Candidates For 'Ambassador to Mexico'

By EVETTS HALEY

One thing for sure about this age is its insatiate demand for amusement. We've just got to have our fun. In fact a few years ago one of the chief concerns of our meddling bureaucracy was that of leisure and entertainment for the American people. An army of officials were working hard, to hear them tell it, on ways 'to guide the public in proper utilization of leisure forced on us by technological development." It sounded swell while millions of men were chiefly concerned with work.

But that idea finally palled on the public mind and the quest for leisure was put in mothballs. It wouldn't hurt to keep it there from now on, for the average American is no slouch at finding his own amusement. Yet once in awhile when the football season is past some politician or investigating committee takes over the head lines, the microphones and the television screen and keeps us all amused.

* * *

The recent action of the Kefauver Committee, in spite of the obvious embarrassment of some of its members, pushed the professionals clear off the air as it inadvertently turned up the sordid connection between public officials and the racketeering underworld. Just as it began digging up its juiciest morsels, Mr. Kefauver managed to squeeze it off and hurry back to the impressive intimacy of his family life, a national hero in spite of himself.

Then the Texas Legislature took its cue and mounted its crusading chargers to dash off, like Don Quixotes on wobbly Rocinantes, to destroy crime in this fair state. It is a worthy objective but a rather large order for a legislative committee, especially when millions of Texans are obviously not concerned with the so-called social conscience or collective morality.

With the objective of tackling the top ones first and hiting the headlines hardest, the Texas Crime Committee trained its guns on Mickey Cohen. But that diminutive racketeer with the big name and the flabby face had been in Texas a few months before. In keeping with their forthright traditions, a welcoming committee made up of Col. Homer Garrison's Texas Rangers met him at once, and Mr. Cohen hastily headed back for the more salubrious climate generally associated with California. He had no desire to come back.

* * *

Since then an appearance of liquidating his business has been made through the familiar but not always too commendable process of charging him with income tax violation. He is supposed to have failed to whack up his illgotten gain with his pious partner, the Bureau of Internal Revenue. Well, if we can't stick 'em for murder, put 'm away in Alcatraz for refusing to divide with Uncle Sam. But that prospect isn't too dreary for them as long as presidential pardons hold out.

In view of the double-fisted reputation of the Texas law, built up through courage and the generous shedding of wayward blood, the biggest laugh of the season has just been turned up at Austin. The Texas Crime Committee has been prying into the dens of iniquity, as we recall the verbiage, run by oily-natured suspects and patronized by the "best people" on Galveston Island. That fabled location of outlaw loot has, in the last few years of loose money and flexible virtue, put the spirit of old Jean LaFitte completely in the historic shade.

The House Committee has been hearing a number of the leading citizens from the coast. The burly figure of Galveston's sheriff, Frank Biaggne—a name not exactly suggestive of the Anglo-Saxon traditions of Texas law—occupied the stand at Austin. He testified that he had once gone over to look into the Maceo gambling interests at the swank Balinese Room, all of which is in keeping with the earthy flavor of Texas.

* * *

Let us digress for a moment to envision the youthful Texans following this story with eager insheriff, the symbol of courage, justice and of law, marching on the den of iniquity, trusty six-shooter on his hip. The thud of his firm and booted steps seems to souhd the doom to all that is evil as he approaches the barred and guarded door. He raps for entrance. He is refused admittance. His eager supporters, who will soon be in the citizen's saddle themselves, are anxiously set for him to shoot the lock off, kick the door in, and gather the outlaws by the force of his righteous eye and his steady gun.

So Sheriff Biaggne, by his own testimony, rapped on the door of the Balinese Room. He was told that it was a private club and he couldn't come in. Shades of Jim Gillette, Lee Hall, Jeff Milton and Frank Hamer! Did he lay the guard on the floor and walk in over the corpse? He did not.

"How about getting in?" Sheriff Biaggne gently asked the guard.

"And he says to me, 'Nothing doing.'"

"And what did you say," pursued the Committee.

"Nothing," said High - Sheriff Biaggne. "I just walked away. They got a book there. Sort of like a hotel register and my name ain't in it." So much for the law on Galveston Island.

Now it goes without saying that the youthful Texan, bent in fancy on a flaming career in pursuit of valor for the unsullied flag of the Lone Star, feels let down. Courageous public service must be completely out of date. Well, if Texas were still a republic, it could honor Mr. Biaggne by appointing him ambassador to Mexico, in keeping with the national trend, where he could really be in congenial and experienced company.

* * *

Meanwhile the parade of sturdy Texans continued across the witness stand. Mr. Ambrose Lukovich, police commissioner at Galveston, frankly admitted that as an official "you do what your constituents want." With equal frankness the mayor took the stand to defend the wide open operation of his city in drinking, gambling and prositution "because the people want it that way." Evidently they do.

The disillusioned young Texans can pitch their stories of the knights of chivalry, of the men who died at the Alamo, and of those who valiantly lived to make Texas safe and free, into the ash cans. What we need now is a new dime novel entitled "Crime Really Pays." It should be set in the dreamy locale of an exotic Balinese Room instead of on the sun-bathed plains of Texas, with heroes hopped-up on marihuana instead of moral courage. Here is a fruitful field for "liberal literature," and the chance to make some money.

Nineteen Japs Finally Give Up The Fight

GUAM, June 30. (AP) — Nineteen Japanese soldiers of World War II surrendered today to a United States Navy tug at Anatahan Island in the Marianas, convinced after seven years that Japan lost that fight.

The hold-outs, who had waited since dawn for the Navy to come and get them, stood at rigid attention as a rubber boat from the tug U.S.S. Cocopa neared the beach. They flew a surrender flag.

The 19, with ashes of dead comrades strapped to their backs, bowed a formal farewell to their island home, and stepped gingerly aboard the tug.

They will be taken to Guam and eventually repatriated to Japan.

There were no incidents.

A preliminary examination aboard the tug showed the men were in excellent physical condition.

"Operation Removal" also ended two years of duty by Lt. Cmdr. James Johnson of Birmingham, Ala., as civil administrator of the Northern Marianas. Sunday Johnson will swear in Henry M. Hedges of Chicago as new district administrator as the Department of the Inferior replaces the Navy in trust territory.

The Japanese soldiers raised both arms in a rigid surrender gesture as the craft approached them. Johnson and Kan Akatani of Tokyo, an interpreter, were the first ashore.

Two of the Japanese, Ishiwata Tegori, 47, and Capt. Kapsusaburo Usui, 38, scrambled down the beach.

They greeted Johnson with a bow then shook hands.

The three Japanese leaders then retrieved rifles wrapped in palm leaves and inner tubes of a crashed B-29 superfortress and handed them over in a gesture of surrender.

The men were wearing assorted hand-made clothing. Some was made of salvaged parachute cloth, and five wore shorts and shirts knitted from canvas material. Some wore only a loin cloth.

The hold-outs accepted the idea that Japan was beaten after the Navy air-dropped leaflets and letters from friends and relatives in Japan. Another of the group surrendered earlier.

McAdoo Niece In Trouble On Fraud Charge

NEW YORK, June 30. (AP — A niece of the late William Gibbs McAdoo, former Secretary of the Treasury, is under charges of masterminding an income tax fraud which allegedly netted her and two men $40,000.

The three, arrested Friday and charged with conspiracy to forge signatures to United States treasury checks, were:

Mrs. Ann Brooks McAdoo Serge, 49, assistant chief of the tax bureau's third collection district auditing department; Sidney Jacobs, 46, a deputy collector on leave from the second collection district; and Charles A. Smythwick Jr., 42, Negro, an employe in the city controller's office.

Cove told United States Commissioner Edward W. McDonald that Mrs. Serge claimed to be a niece of the former treasury secretary and that she further stated:

"Does that have any bearing on this: Could we leave that out? I don't want to bring disgrace on an illustrious name, although I should have thought of it sooner."

Drunk On High Flying Spree

DETROIT, June 30. (AP) — Harry Sandlin, a man with a hangover, today knew how it felt to get high — 386 feet high.

But his spree could have been tragic.

He drank a pint of whiskey Friday and climbed a 386-foot tower on the Detroit side of the famous Ambassador bridge.

And there, swigging away at another pint, he shouted defiance at maintenance men attempting to rescue him. Hundreds watched in horror below.

Bridge foreman Bill Murphy, 50, was the first to get near the 24-year-old factory worker. "How about a drink?" Murphy asked.

That threw Sandlin off guard. Murphy grabbed him. Earl Foley, 47, a bridge painter, also closed in. Together they subdued him.

After Sandlin was lowered in a safety harness, he explained to police:

"I intended to jump when I went up there. I did it because of mother. She was no good to me."

He said he had lost his job 10 days ago and had been unable to find another.

"When I went up there I was going to do it. I feel all right now. But I felt all right when I was on top, too."

He was taken to the mental ward at Detroit Receiving Hospital.

Fisherman Keeps At It

MILLBURY, Mass., June 30. (AP) — Joseph Waskiewicz is only nine years old, but he already falls into the classification of persistent fisherman.

He went fishing Friday morning. It began to rain several hours later but no sign of Joseph.

Later in the afternoon, police were called by his family. They tried a nearby lake. There was Joseph nearly 12 hours after he started out, soaking wet but still fishing.

Doctor Kills Self In Los Angeles Hotel Room

LOS ANGELES, June 30. (AP) — Dr. William M. Peake, 45-year-old physician, killed himself, police said today, rather than face prosecution on morals charges involving four teenage boys.

The Long Beach physician's body was found in a downtown hotel room Friday. It was in a standing position, hunched over a dresser. Nearby were two empty sleeping pill bottles.

A note found in the room said, "I have died by my own hand."

Newsprint Increase In Price Will Go Into Effect Tomorrow

TORONTO, June 30. (AP) — The $10-a-ton increase in the price of newsprint — subject of many objections from the United States — goes into effect Sunday, for the greater part of Canadian production.

The new price is $116 a ton in New York and $112 plus sales tax in Canada.

The 11 companies who are known to have put in the increase, produce about 3 million tons of Canada's total production of some 5.5 million tons. Nearly 90 per cent of this is sold in the United States.

Construction Employee Falls Off Moving Truck

A. G. Hook, an employe of the Holder Construction Co., was injured when he fell from a moving truck about 3 o'clock Friday afternoon.

The accident occurred as the truck turned a corner about three and one-half miles north of Union.

Hook suffered cuts and bruises about the head, shoulders, and legs, but was not believed in dangerous condition.

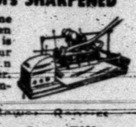

He was unconscious for about 20 minutes after falling from the truck.

A. Bolger-Barnes Funeral Home ambulance took him to the Snyder Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Hall, Jr., 2242 Sunset Avenue, had as guests over the week end Mr. Hall's mother, Mrs. Clyde Hall, Sr., of Brady, Tex., and his sister, Mrs. J. K. Wood, of Iesa.

It angles across the lots to face the street intersection. Brown trim around the windows and a brown roof have been used to set off the white stone.

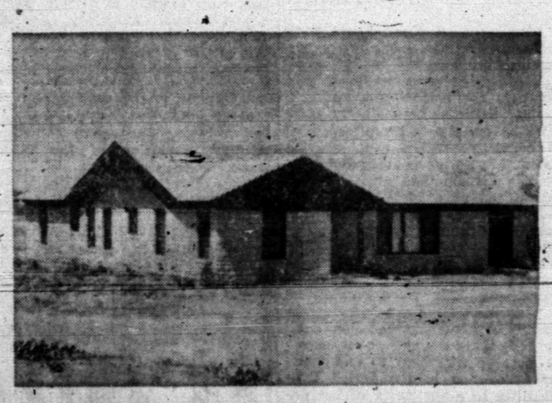

Porches are a feature of the Austin stone home of Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Sears at 3011 Avenue X. Smallest of the three is the front porch which faces Avenue X. Larger porches are on the south side, shown above, and the west side. The roof is red, with red trim on the house. The seven-room home was completed early last fall. It is air conditioned.

25 YEARS AGO

(Taken from the files of THE SCURRY COUNTY TIMES for July 1, 1926.)

The times-Signal inadvertently forgot to mention in last week's issue the fact that Hon. Dan Moody spoke in Snyder. This may seem strange to some, yet it is not strange. Something greater than a political saving of this state was going on in this town—a soul saving campaign in the nature of a great revival.

Mr. Moody was greeted here by what was perhaps the largest crowd that ever assembled in Scurry County on any similar occasion. His speech was similar to the other speeches he is making over the state, and among other things, he showed up the Ferguson administration and showed it up in a way that ought to have sufficiently convincing to everyone present.

This county will go strong for Moody, as will all West Texas. Moody seems to be the logical candidate, and the Times-Signal believes that he will sweep the state.

The Hogg co-operative revival truly deserves the name of a great revival. It was a revival in the generic meaning of that word, i.e. it revived the Christian people in a most wonderful way. The results were not carefully tabulated because Dr. Hogg said that he did not care to spend any time at an adding machine. But we know that about 225 agreed to establish family altars where daily Bible reading and prayer shall be held. Scores rededicated their lives to God; scores made profession of faith in Jesus Christ; and a large number presented themselves for membership in the different churches of our town. At the last service there were between 40 and 50 at the altar and 20 made a profession of faith in Christ. . .

Children Need Help in Staying Cool and Healthy in Summer

The old-fashioned summer complaint of babies is not nearly so frequent nowadays as it was in the past—this is largely due to the scientific approach to rearing babies, says a bulletin received this week from the Texas State Department of Health by the city-county health unit. In part the paper said:

"There are several good reasons why the heat of summer is more dangerous to babies than to grown-ups. A baby's body is closer to the ground and is more exposed to reflected heat from that source. The apparatus which regulates radiation of heat within the body is not as well developed in children as in adults. Children, too, are more inclined to be ceaselessly active, and through rapid motion or energy, generate more body heat to be thrown off.

DAILY BATHS

"Infants and children need special care if they are to maintain well being and growth during the season of intense heat, which comes during summer and early fall. Daily baths should be the rule. If these are given in the morning, additional baths in the afternoon and before going to bed will make the child much more comfortable and much less likely to develop prickly heat from excess perspiration.

"A great deal of sickness during combination of over feeding and too much clothing. Elaborate or fancy trimmed garments have no place in the baby's summer wardrobe. Both the mother and the baby was better off without them, especially if the mother must launder the garments herself.

"Starch clothes and lace about the neck of a little baby's dress are liable to irritate the tender skin and cause a great deal of discomfort. Summer clothing should be as light as possible and not tight at any place, particularly at the wrist. For small infants, cotton should replace wool next to the skin. During the heat of the day, a diaper shirt and a diaper are sufficient. Additional garments should be added as the temperature indicates.

"The most careful precaution should be taken to keep flies away from the baby and its food. Flies are disease carriers. Keep the baby in a screened crib if possible, and if, in spite of all this, the baby develops diarrhea or summer complaint, the doctor should be called at once.

LOTS OF WATER

"When it is warm, adults like to drink more water and so do babies, so give them tepid or barely cool boiled water several times a day.

"In very hot weather babies and young children, like grownups, have less appetite for food. Don't ever force the baby against his will to eat more food than he wants. Child experts tell us that there is no need to stop cod liver oil, tomatoes, orange juice, and such foods during the summer. At one time it was generally believed that cod liver oil might cause diarrhea, but we know now that germs, usually in milk, are responsible. These same child experts tell us that often babies nursed by their mothers are less likely to suffer from serious digestive disturbances during the summer than are bottle-fed babies. The baby will normally take all the milk it needs in a 20-minute feeding. Throw out the milk left in the bottle and clean the bottle thoroughly and sterilize it after each use.

"Let at least three hours pass between feedings. Four hours are preferable unless the doctor orders otherwise. Between feedings, give the baby cool boiled water to drink.

"Sun baths for babies in the summer have come to be regarded as a necessity. Direct sunshine, we know, has power to assist the body to use certain food elements, calcium, and phosphorus, to the best advantage in building bones and teeth, the proper use of these elements by the body prevents the development of rickets with its resulting deformities of bones and joints.

"Texas children are fortunate in having so much sunshine during the larger part of the year, as it makes it possible for them to enjoy sun baths over a longer period than children in other parts of the nation. For the average healthy baby sun baths can be started when the baby is young (at the end of the second month), or earlier if ordered by the family doctor. At short exposure starts this process and the time is generally lengthened as the skin becomes more and more accustomed to the action of the sun's rays. The goal sought is a slowly deepening coat of tan acquired without causing sunburn - - - "Like good toast, you brown them but never burn them."

'Certified Secretary' Should Just About Be Boss Keeper

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
Associated Press Staff

NEW YORK, June 30. (AP) — Hiring a secretary is something like buying a pig in a poke — but it shouldn't be for long.

The National Secretaries Association (NSA) hopes to change all that. Soon, it says, the harried businessman can demand a pretested secretary and hire her secure in the knowledge she not only can spell better, probably, than he can, but can perform other office functions with the same ease she policies his dangling participles.

It is all to be done with certificates. The NSA, with its 10,000 membership, has launched a nation-wide project to establish a corps of "CERTIFIED PROFESSIONAL SECRETARIES".

CARELESS WORD

The NSA has been distributed by the careless way employer and employed have been kicking around the word "secretary." It may be the hard-earned title of a dedicated care woman, married to her job, who keeps the whole office machinery running.

It may also be claimed by a youngster fresh from a high school typing-and-shorthand course who painfully makes potbooks to the tune of deliberately slow dictation and pounds a typewriter at 20 words a minute, including frequent halts for erasures.

The NSA feels a typist, should be called a typist; a file clerk, a file clerk; a stenographer, a stenographer. With the title of secretary a girl would move from the enlisted into the officer's ranks. A CPS, of course, compares with a general officer.

With all this in mind, the NSA has set up and underwritten an institute for certifying secretaries, composed of educators and experts in the field of business. These men and women, headed by Dr. Irene Place of the University of Michigan, took months to decide what a professional secretary should know and then devised ways to test her abilities. The first examinations will be held during August in 12 colleges and universities.

APPLICATION METHOD

(Applications by candidates must be made by July 1 to Dorothy Bentley, Chairman of the NSA Qualifications Committee, 611 West Ottawa Street, Lansing, Mich.)

To qualify for the examination, a candidate must be 21 or more years of age; have had a minimum of seven years experience if not a high school graduate; four years experience if a graduate of a secretarial training program in high school, business school or junior college, or three years if a graduate of a collegiate secretarial training program.

"If nothing else," said Dr. Place, "the examination will give them an idea of what tools they need beside a sharp pencil and ability to punch a typewriter keyboard."

SOME NOT SHARP

She said institute research indicated that many embryo secretaries are "not as sharp in grammar and spelling as they should be."

"A good secretary doesn't have to be a master accountant, but she should understand the reconciliation of a bank statement," she continued. "She ought to know how to set up and operate a filing system. She should know how to take minutes of meetings properly, how to set up itineraries, how to make out travel expense accounts.

"She ought to have a rudimentary idea of finance — how the market affects business and some knowledge of taxation. She should know some business law, particularly about contracts."

Personnel people all over the country stressed the necessity of a good personality and developing good will. In the examination, this phase of office work is handled by presenting a number of specific situations.

WIFE SITUATION

One test problem involves the employer who told his secretary that he was going to be busy and was not to be bothered by anyone. The boss' wife came in and asked to see her husband. What does the perfect secretary do (She lets the wife into the boss' office, says Dr. Place.)

Another: The secretary walks into the billing room and sees an invoice being sent to the client when it should be going to the customer. Should she (a) go back and tell her boss, (b) tell the employee who is missending the invoice, or (c) mind her own business? She should mention the error to the employee in a pleasant voice, says Dr. Place.

Miss Dawson of Coleman Is Bride of Edwin Stahl

Mrs. Edwin Stahl, Jr.

Miss Polly Dawson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vance Dawson, Sr., of Coleman, became the bride of Edwin Stahl, Jr., the son of Mr. and Mrs. Stahl in a ceremony read last Sunday in the home of the bridegroom's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. May, at Loraine.

The Rev. LaWayne Hulse, assistant pastor of the Northside Baptist Church in Snyder, performed the double ring ceremony.

Vases of yellow gladioli placed before the mantel and fireplace formed the background for the wedding.

The bride wore a ballerina length dress of white Chantilly lace over layers of net and satin, fashioned with a fitted bodice and short jacket with long sleeves which came to points over her hands. Her pumps were of matching lace. Her waist-length veil of net was held by a bandeau of net encircled with tiny seed pearls. She carried a nosegay of white orchids nestled in a cascade of satin ribbon and streamers.

She carried a lace handkerchef for something new and for something old and borrowed she wore a diamond dinner ring belonging to Mrs. Ed Stahl, Sr., mother of the bridegroom.

Miss Betty Birdwell, of Abilene, formerly of Coleman, was the maid of honor. She wore a yellow net dress over satin, designed with a sweetheart neckline and a fitted bodice. Her shoes were mint green nylon sandals and her bouquet consisted of orchid stock with streamers, styled similar to the bride's.

Vance Dawson, Jr., of Coleman brother of the bride, attended as best man.

Wedding guests were members of the families and close friends.

The bride's mother wore a black crepe dress with pink accesories and a corsage of pink gardenias. The groom's mother chose a cinnamon brown silk shantung dress trimmed with gold and beige accessories.

The refreshment table at the reception following the ceremony was covered with a lace cloth, and the centerpiece was of yellow and green candles with yellow roses. The three-tiered wedding cake was banked with yellow roses and fern and topped with a miniature bride and bridegrom. The miniature bride wore a dress identical to the one worn by the bride.

The newly weds are on a wedding trip to New Mexico and parts of Colorado. For traveling, the bride wore an original black and white dress with white accessories. Her corsage was of white orchids.

After a two weeks' trip, the couple will make their home in Snyder at 2701 Avenue G.

The bride attended school in Coleman where she was editor of "The Round Up".

Mr. Stahl was graduated from Snyder high school in 1947. He will be associated in business with his father.

71 West Texas Cattle Are Sold For $81,000

CHADRON, Neb., June 30. (AP) — Halbert and Fawcett of Sonora, Tex., sold a herd of 71 Hereford cattle Thursday for $81,300.

Jack Heinz of Henry, Neb., bought the top bull for 11,500. James R. and Earl Henderson of Hemingford, Neb., bought the top cow for $3,000. Buyers from 11 states were among 31 individuals who bought animals.

The average price for 61 females was $845.39. Ten bulls brought an average of $2,810.

The word cabbage comes from the French "caboche" meaning head.

Newlyweds Take Heavy Load As They Set Up House keeping

The father of the bride who tore his hair during June over the cost of getting his daughter launched on the sea of matrimony has at least one bright outlook for July—the cost of operating should now be off his shoulders.

Starting a home these days is a costly proposition. If the couple has had the usual round of gifts from showers or wedding guests, they will probably be in pretty good shape as far as household linens, kitchen utensils and other essentials are concerned. But they have to have a roof under which to shelter these possesions and themselves.

The house situation has definitely been eased in Snyder, although no apartments or houses are exactly going begging for tenants if the rent and facilities are reasonable Four-room apartmets or houses, unfurnished, are down to about $75 to $90, with location a major factor in the asking price.

Furnished apartments or houses of the same size still bring about $100 per month, although tenants can now afford to be more discriminating about the furniture and other details which are blotted out when there is less to choose from These prices are fairly typical of listings with a real estate agency here.

Rent is about 25 per cent lower than it was a few months ago, according to these figures. It is now comparable to that in other towns in this area, with the exception of smaller towns where business activity has not risen sharply.

BUYING HOUSE

If the couple decides to buy their own house, they will find a fairly wide price range in housing additions now being developed. The monthly payments, in most instances, can be made smaller than the rent on a house of comparable size.

Belmont Heights, five blocks north of the new water tower on the Clairemont Road, offers the most inexpensive four-room house for about $6,000. Their smallest house has 660 square feet of floor space, with two bedrooms, living room, kitchen and dinette combined and bath. The initial down-payment runs about $550 for this house, Ben Pennington, manager said, but a closing cost must be added to this. The monthly payments on this smallest house are about $35, with payments for larger houses running to about $42.50.

In Kittrell Heights, located about 10 blocks south of Twenty-fifth Street near Avenue C, the smallest four-room house can be secured with a down payment of $865 under a GI loan or about $1,735 under a FHA loan. Closing costs are in addition to this. Monthly payments on this smallest house average about $44.63 under either type loan floor space in the smallest dwellings there is 753 square feet.

Down payments on four room houses in Towle Place, west of Highland Park in extreme Southwest Snyder, run about $1,100 for the smallest houses. This figure includes a closing cost figured at about $250. Payments on this size house are about $45.50.

The demand for three-bedroom homes in Towle Place seems to exceed the supply, Joe Burkett, manager, said. Most of the homes being built there are two-bedroom houses.

OR BUILD ONE?

Any couple who plan to build their own home can start figuring for a cost of about $7,000 for a four-room structure, plus the cost of the land. This figure will vary widely with the type of construction, but for a frame house with attached garage it is a good average figure. Forrest Builders recently completed a house of this type which cost $7,000, which proves that it can be done.

E. V. Spence, manager of Forrest Builders, estimates that a modern three-room house could be built for $3,500 to $4,000.

If there is plenty of labor available without cost—meaning if the family or the bridegroom can wield carpenter tools, the cost could be lowered appreciably. Labor costs will make up almost 50 per cent of the total cost of the building.

FURNITURE

Now comes the matter of furnishing the house. Setting a cost on furnishings for any house is difficult because personal taste or the budget are the determining factor. However, figuring on a rough scale, the furnishings should cost about one-third of the cost of the house.

The living room and the kitchen will be the costliest to furnish, but it can be done for about $500 each. Frank Bernson, manager of Town and Country Home Furnishings said This to include a two-piece living room suite or three-piece sectional divan and occasional chair plus a few incidentals for the living room. It should buy the stove, refrigerator and dinette suite for the kitchen. Bedroom furniture will probably cost about $300 per room. When rugs and other smaller pieces of furniture are added, the absolute minimum cost will probably be about $1,600 for a four-room house. This will not include a washing machine, radio, draperies, and many other items which can be added later.

Words Can't Do Justice

KIMBALL, Neb., June 30. (AP) — When Kimball County's first oil well was brought in this week the Western Nebraska Observer, Kimball's weekly newspaper felt that mere words couldn't do justice to the news.

The publishers solved their problem by putting a spot of oil from the new well on the front page of each newspaper so subscribers could see for themselves.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Blanchard of Hamilton, N. Y., were guests Friday night with Mr. Blanchard's aunt and unele, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Blanchard, 3103 Avenue S.

Yugoslav Leaders See Prospect Of War With Ex-Ally, Russia

By JOSEPH ALSOP

BELGRADE — The remarkable group of men who run this country have had a special sort of training denied to most other statesmen. As pre - war Soviet agents, as front fighters in Spain, as members of the Communist underground in the old Yugoslavia, as friends and almost — equals of the Masters of the Kremlin in the honeymoon days after the war, they learned to know Stalin and the Soviet Politburo at first hand.

In the circumstances, therefore, their analysis of Soviet tactics and intentions deserves a very special sort of attention. What these Yugoslav leaders have to say — and they talk both brilliantly and freely nowadays, with none of the old constraints — is a grave warning to the whole Western world.

The warning is all the more arresting because it represents a decided change of heart. In May of last year, when this reporter was last in Belgrade, these Yugoslov leaders were still reluctant to believe that Stalin had utterly abandoned the methods of Karl Marx for those of Adolf Hitler. At that tome, Marshal Tito himself argued that the Soviets would never move without the support "of the broad masses," and argued that there was no need for the West to rebuild its defenses, because there was no present danger of a Soviet resort to naked force. Old faiths indeed die hard.

The Korean aggression was of course the event that killed this last remnant of Yugoslav faith in the Kremlin and its purposes. During the Summer's bitter drouth, the mounting alarm here was expressed in a total dedication of the State to the defense effort which the battered national economy could ill afford. And when the November disaster on the Yalu river looked like being the prelude to total defeat of the United Nations' forces in Korea, the Yugoslavs expected the Kremlin to press its advantage with a Chinese attack on Indo - China in the late Winter and a satellite invasion of this country in the Spring.

There are many reasons to believe that these Yugoslav expectations were correct, and that if events had substantiated Gen. MacArthur's prediction of inevitable withdrawal from Korea, Stalin would indeed have moved at once to destroy the Western coalition for good and all. Fortunately, a different outcome in Korea confronted the Kremlin with a different world situation. In the opinion of their former Yugoslav co-workers, the Soviet rulers have now recalled to seek a better chance.

Hence, for the present, the Kremlin is mainly shelling to divide and thus to paralyze the Western alliance. Such is the opinion of every important man in the government here including Marshal Tito, who has reportedly warned against the danger from his convalescent refuge at Brioni. This Soviet effort, which is of course intended to open the way to a Kremlin triumph in Europe and Asia, is also expected here to continue through the Summer and Fall.

Here is the reason in turn why the Yugoslav leaders are so widely quoted, in London for example, as "not fearing war." They are asked whether they expect an attack; they reply that there is no "immediate" danger; and their questioners, who long to hear only what is pleasant, hastily pass on to another topic. In the same fashion, when the Yugoslav Chief of Staff, Gen. Koca Popovic, flatly told the American Joint Chiefs that he expected war, his warning was rather lightly dismissed as mere exaggeration for the occasion.

In fact, however, there is no doubt at all that Gen. Popovic and one important group of the Yugoslav leadership seriously believe that Yugoslavia will be attacked next spring, when the Soviet effort to split the West has run its course and the satellite rearmaments has been completed. A second group, a shade more hopeful, merely regards war as probable. And the men here who see the future in the rosiest colors content themselves with saying that war is decidedly possible. These conflicts of emphasis — for they are hardly more than this, have in turn been reconciled by a formula that the astute Foreign Minister, Edward Kardelj, is reported to have offered the Yugoslav Central Committee.

"We cannot tell what may happen," he is quoted as having said, "but at least the situation is such that it would be a criminal betrayal of our country not to prepare for an attack with all urgency."

The reasoning behind this Yugoslav analysis must wait until another report. Meanwhile the Western leaders will disregard at their peril the warning that this analysis implies.

REFUSES REWARD

RICHMOND, Va., June 30. — Two city policemen watched from their patrol car as a motorist stopped to let two small boys snp across the street in a traffic jam.

The police thought that was a nice thing for the motorist to do. So much so that they decided to reward the deed with a "courteous driving" citation.

With this in mind, they cruised up alongside the motorist's car.

The motorist shoved on the gas and roared off like a jet. Police said he must have thought the cops were going to give him a ticket.
