Seeking Shade

A smart Pampa cat Sunday sought shade in Central Park in the 90 degree weather. He might as well stay under the tree because local forecasts call for more of the same. Clear to partly cloudy skies are forecast today and Tuesday. Highs will be in the 90s and lows in the 60s.

Crime Rate Climbs Here

By ANNA BURCHELL
Pampa News Staff

Police activity is up 50 per cent in Pampa. The crime rate is climbing faster than crimes can be solved, according to Police Chief Richard Mills.

A detailed report released Friday by the Pampa Police Department shows a marked increase here in almost every area of crime except vandalism and murder.

The report compared the first seven months of year with the previous year.

The police activity report doesn't mean that crime increased by 50 per cent, Mills said. It shows that police are making more arrests and cracking down on drug abuse and other offenses.

"Like every other city in the nation, we are showing an increase," explained Chief Mills. "But we are far better than most — ahead of the vast index. There are cities that would give their souls to have only the increase that we have."

The national crime rate is up 18 per cent. Pampa's average for the first seven months on felony (Class I) offenses shows a 8.5 per cent rise. While 54 miles away, Amarillo shows a 38 percent increase. The chief said he was thankful he isn't chief in Amarillo. However, he added that Amarillo has a good department.

"I admire them for not trying to hide the increase," he added.

The chief said the crime report indicates this city is growing slightly and that "we are an affluent community."

"We are victims of prosperity," he added.

The lack of murders has been a key factor in the low crime rate increase, the chief said this morning.

Police are clearing more cases this year, an average of 19 cases monthly as compared with 17 1/2 last year.

Drug and alcohol arrests climbed this year as officers attempted to keep the city streets free of drunk drivers and others who might endanger their lives as well as others.

Burglaries are up 22 per cent. Records show 11 cases of burglary occurred during July with vandals entering through unlocked doors and windows.

The police department's public education program will be continued in an effort to get people to safeguard their own property, the chief said.

Mills said policemen are paid to take up crime at a certain point — "when the citizen cannot protect himself."

Class I offenses include homicide, rape and robbery (which remains unchanged), assault, burglary, larceny-theft and motor vehicle theft.

The Class I total in 1975 stands at 512 with 135 cleared. The total last year was 472, and 210 were cleared.

Almost every phase of Class II offenses showed an increase.

They include driving while license suspended, forgery and counterfeiting, fraud, embezzlement, stolen property (buying and receiving), vandalism, illegal use of weapons, sex offenses, narcotics, gambling, offenses against family and children, driving while intoxicated, contributing to the delinquency of a minor, drunkenness, disorderly conduct, traffic, prowlers and animal problems.

Runaways were down from 89 to 52. Four were reported in July.

Frost Interviews Nixon for TV

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (UPI) — Former President Richard Nixon may talk about Watergate in a "no-holds-barred" 90-minute television segment with English television personality David Frost — but the broadcasts won't be aired until after the 1976 presidential election.

Frost, a former talk show host, told reporters at a news conference Sunday Nixon signed a 15-page contract that specifies the former president will talk about Watergate.

"The former President has neither requested nor has he received any editorial control," Frost said, "whether in terms of the content or editing of the programs, the use of newsreel footage or by way of prior knowledge of any of the questions."

"No subject, including Watergate, has been barred."

Frost said Nixon agreed to more than 20 taping sessions. The tapings, at his San Clemente, Calif., home later this year, will run as four 90-minute segments and will be aired internationally after the 1976 elections.

"The amount of money involved is confidential," Frost said. "I'm relying on Mr. Nixon's word that he would speak out in candor. I cannot even give you a ballpark figure on the financial arrangements."

According to Frost, he was acting on behalf of an international consortium of broadcasting organizations. But he refused to name the broadcasters or the networks.

"I have a number of verbal agreements with broadcasters," he said. "I won't say who until they are signed."

The contract for the tapings was signed at Nixon's home Saturday night after a five-hour discussion with Frost and Nixon's agent, Irving Lazar.

Frost, who interviewed Nixon in 1968 when he was a presidential candidate, said the negotiations for the taped memoirs had been going on for more than a month.

Nixon requested they not be shown until late next year so they would have no influence on the upcoming election, Frost said.

The dispatch of two high-level Israeli delegations to Washington to discuss U.S. aid and details of a new Sinai pact gave further indication today that a new Israel-Egyptian settlement was near. Israeli newspapers today raised the prospect of new Israeli-Syrian negotiations.

Mordechai Gazit, director general of Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin's office, and Meir Rosen, legal adviser to the foreign ministry, left Tel Aviv for Washington today and talks with Assistant Secretary of State Joseph Sisco.

A delegation of Israeli economic and military aid experts departed for Washington Sunday to seek $350 million annually in compensation for Israel's return to Egypt of the Abu Rudeis oil fields and another $150 million for construction of a new defense line in the Sinai.

This money is in addition to the $2.5 billion in grants and loans Israel is seeking for the fiscal year 1976 that began July 1, about $1.8 billion of it for weapons.

Israeli officials expressed optimism about the success of the aid negotiations for the simple reason of Washington's willingness to receive the delegation. The United States postponed all talks about military and economic aid following the breakdown of Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's March shuttle diplomacy.

Cairo reports said the United States delivered to Egypt today Israel's latest proposals for a new interim peace agreement on the Sinai front.

U.S. Ambassador to Egypt Hermann F. Eilts passed on the Israeli position first at a meeting with Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmi in Alexandria. Fahmi then took Eilts to see President Anwar Sadat for detailed talks on the proposals and Egypt's reaction to them.

It was the fourth round of American-mediated diplomatic talks on a second Sinai disengagement pact since the United States resumed its step-by-step peace diplomacy seven weeks ago.

The sources said Eilts was expected to get Egypt's reply at the end of today's meetings, as was the case when he brought earlier Israeli proposals July 31 and received the Egyptian response on the spot.

In contrast with increasingly optimistic notes sounded in Israel, Egyptian officials and American diplomats here maintained complete silence on the progress of the negotiations.

Israeli reports from Washington said President Ford sent a message to Syrian President Hafez Assad last month saying Israel has agreed in principle to conduct negotiations with Syria on a second troop withdrawal pact on the Golan Heights.

The reports in the newspapers Ha'aretz and the Jerusalem Post said Israel's expressed willingness to hold such negotiations "made a recognizable contribution to Egyptian concessions in the current negotiations" on a Sinai withdrawal.

The negotiations with Syria, demanded by Egypt and to be mediated as well by Kissinger, would begin only after Israeli forces completed their withdrawal to a new defense line in Sinai, the reports said.

Court Rules Federal Program Unconstitutional

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A federal appeals court today ruled unconstitutional the administration's program to reduce oil imports by imposing tariff fees.

"We recognize that we are overturning an honest attempt by the President to find a solution to a difficult crisis," the three-judge panel said. "At stake is nothing less than our country's economic freedom and survival."

But they said the President and the Federal Energy Administration are "without substantive authority to impose license fees of the magnitude at issue here."

The suit involved was brought by eight states and their governors and 10 utility companies, among others. They protested President Ford's Jan. 23, 1975, order which provided a significant increase in license fees imposed initially by former President Richard M. Nixon.

Ford's order raised the fees on imported crude oil to 21 cents per barrel and to 63 cents per barrel on petroleum products. A lower court ruled that those who brought suit were suffering irreparable harm, but refused to order any relief.

"There is no controversy over the need for action to extricate this country from its increasingly dangerous dependence on foreign petroleum," today's decision said. "Spending on foreign oil has increased from $2.7 billion in 1970 to about $24 billion in 1974."

"In 1973 the United States was subjected to an oil embargo with disastrous economic consequences," it added.

The judges noted that the appellants in the case contended the license fees were beyond the President's power to "adjust imports." Only direct import control such as quotas should be allowed under the law, states and utility companies had argued.

The court said it agreed that fees are not authorized, "after studying the consistently explicit, well-defined manner in which Congress has delegated control over foreign trade and tariffs."

City To Consider Bonds for Sewers

The Pampa City Commission will consider the sale of $300,000 in general obligation bonds for sewer improvement purposes during the Tuesday meeting, scheduled to begin at 9:30 a.m.

Other matters slated for consideration include a request from Southwestern Public Service Co. in regard to modification of the street lighting contract.

The commission will receive the proposed budget for fiscal 1975-76, and consider setting Tuesday, Aug. 26, as a public hearing date.

Other items to be discussed Tuesday include:

— Consider on first reading an ordinance setting out the details of the sale of $300,000 of general obligation bonds.

— Consider on first reading an ordinance annexing a portion of the North Crest Addition to the City of Pampa.

— Consider the appointment of one member to the Canadian River Municipal Water Authority Board.

— Consider appointment of a city health officer.

— Consider acceptance of a fire protection contract with Robert County for 1975.

— Consider salary changes for the month of July, and current accounts payable.

Cuba Returns Ransom

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Cuba has returned nearly $2 million in ransom money given hijackers of a Southern Airways flight in 1972. Sen. John J. Sparkman, D-Ala., said today.

At a news conference, Sparkman urged the Ford administration to begin "a staged removal" of the U.S. embargo against the government of Fidel Castro, including elimination of restrictions on trade of food and medicine.

"The decision to return the ransom is, I think, very solid

L. F. Noe at 98 Years

Happy Birthday, Mr. Noe

Ramblin' Man Slows...a Little

By THOM MARSHALL
Pampa News Staff

There are many reasons why there won't be a candle for every year of L.F. Noe's life on his birthday cake — by the time the last one was lighted the frosting would be coated with wax. The weather's too warm to have that size of fire going in the house. It would require too much cake to put them all in and too much wind to blow them all out.

Noe is 98 years old today. He gave several reasons for his long life. "I never paid very much attention to politics," he said. "I never worried over it. I took care of myself — never went to extremes at anything. Been very active all my life. I've enjoyed good health."

Noe is visiting one of his four children, Mrs. Frances Perkins of 2000 Coffee.

"He taught us the basic principles of life," Mrs. Perkins said of her father, "honesty, thrift, and respect for others."

Noe said he first came to Texas in 1894 when he was 18. He left the family farm in Kentucky.

"I was tired of pulling worms off tobacco plants," he said. "I thought it would be more fun to come to Texas and be a cowboy."

But when he got to Cleburne, "I couldn't get a job. Nobody wanted a green cowboy who didn't know what a lariat rope was. So they put me on a hoe handle. I was allergic to that. That's when I started ramblin'."

Noe said he worked in most of the states west of the Mississippi, often traveling by freight train.

On one occasion he traveled by bicycle, "from Chama, N.M., to Rocky Ford, Colo.," he said. And while in Colorado, he pushed the bicycle to the top of Pikes Peak.

In 1898, during the Spanish American War, Noe was a member of the Missouri volunteers. But the day his outfit was to leave for the fighting, the war ended.

Noe kept ramblin' and experiencing different ways of earning a living.

"I think I worked in every occupation there's except a bank," he said. "My main object was having a good time and seeing the country."

When he was 90, Noe drove a car from Pampa to Kansas City, Mrs. Perkins said.

She has a picture of her father at age 94. He is sitting astride a motorcycle with helmet on and a cigar between his teeth and held at a rather jaunty angle. It was not disclosed if he actually rode the motorcycle.

Shortly after that picture, however, he gave up tobacco. "I chewed and smoked too," he said. "I just took a notion to quit. Didn't bother me at all to quit."

Noe looks back on many changes and a lot of progress. He has been around for 98 per cent of the developing that has taken place in the last century. What has changed the most?

"Transportation, I suppose," he said. "As a boy he helped his father farm with mules and haul with an ox cart. He got his first car — a Model T Ford, when he was 34 or 35, he said, and he recalled no difficulty in learning to drive it. Noe's desire to travel around lasted after his marriage in 1909. Each of his four children were born in a different state. But in 1916 Noe and his family traveled in a covered wagon from Arnett, Okla., to Morris, near Spearman. After 22 years on the ranch Noe moved to Sunray in 1938. He worked first in real estate and later in a drugstore. He moved to Pampa in 1951 and he has been staying in Amarillo for the past several months. "About a year ago I fell and hurt my hip," he said. "And about three weeks later I fell again. That's what I'm doing now, recovering from those two falls."

Grand Jury To Probe Hoffa Case

DETROIT (UPI) — U.S. Attorney Ralph Guy Jr. today said he will launch a federal grand jury investigation into the disappearance of former Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa.

The announcement came after the 12-day-old investigation lost its most promising lead — a blood-stained car belonging to the son of a reputed Mafia leader Hoffa set out to meet the day he disappeared.

An FBI analysis of the dried blood Sunday found the substance was not from a human being but had apparently leaked from a frozen salmon carried in the car by Hoffa's foster son.

Guy said he would begin issuing subpoenas "later this week," ordering witnesses who he said have not fully cooperated with investigators to appear before the grand jury already seated in Detroit.

Elimination of the blood stain lead was believed a serious setback in the investigation, leaving

FBI agents to concentrate on tips pouring in from throughout the country.

The FBI scheduled its first news briefing in the case for today.

Hoffa, 62-year-old former president of the 2.2 million-member Teamsters Union, was fighting to regain his former post when he disappeared July 30.

He was last seen in the parking lot of the Machus Red Fox, a suburban restaurant where Hoffa was to meet with reputed Mafia leader Anthony "Tony Jack" Giacalone and two other men. The restaurant is halfway between Hoffa's Lake Orion home and Detroit.

Charles "Chuckie" O'Brien, Hoffa's foster son and a key figure in the investigation, told the FBI he borrowed a car from Giacalone's son, Joe, to deliver frozen salmon to the wife of Detroit Teamsters official Robert Holmes the morning Hoffa disappeared.

FBI agents seized young Giacalone's 1975 car Saturday after they learned of bloodstains in the front seat. But both O'Brien and Giacalone told the FBI the stains were dried fish blood and called the FBI's action harassment.

"If everybody would get over this Ellery Queen stuff and get serious about finding the man who is missing we would all be better off," O'Brien said. O'Brien, believed by Hoffa's family to be connected with Hoffa's disappearance, has ignored requests he take a lie detector test. He told UPI Sunday he is remaining silent at FBI insistence but would like to speak out and clear his name.

"We have kept our commitment (of silence)," O'Brien said. "But someone in the government is leaking information and with all this flying around it puts me in a pair of scissors — they're making me look like an idiot because I have to stand there and say 'no comment.'"

FBI agents have kept O'Brien under surveillance at his West Memphis, Ark., home — "They're sitting out in front of my house now," he told UPI.

Investigators suspected the abduction was tied to an internal struggle for leadership of the world's largest labor union or to an attempt by organized crime to seize control of Teamster operations on the East Coast.

The Chicago Sun-Times today quoted a source close to the Hoffa family as saying the family now believes Hoffa was abducted and slain by gangster friends who turned on him.

Imaginative Boondogglers

By PETER GRUENSTEIN Pampa's Washington Bureau Chief

WASHINGTON — That the federal government wastes a significant amount of our money each year should come as a surprise to absolutely no one.

In fact, Uncle Sam has been indulging his prodigal tendencies for so long that he has become rather creative at it. Take, for example, the recent government-funded studies of love that Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis. complained about, or the federally-financed study of how sourdough is made in San Francisco.

Projects such as these are not the products of empty bureaucratic heads, but rather of fertile minds searching for new horizons of previously uncharted boondoggles.

To demonstrate that "boondoggling" is highly sophisticated art, requiring both ingenuity and hard work, I have gleaned from my research some other creative examples — all from the Pentagon, which has been a leader in the boondoggling field — that I submit forthwith.

Under the code name "Project Pacer Journey," one air force general spent $670,000 in federal funds to give his aircraft a VIP configuration and bring it up to presidential standards.

what one congressman described as a "world-wide shopping trip."

Generals, admirals and high-ranking civilian officials luncheon daily in the Pentagon on such full-course meals as cold vichyssoise, sirloin steak and baked Alaska for $2.50 or less.

A Navy captain on a ship based in Spain who needed a pair of aluminum masts for a personal sailboat he was building dispatched a Navy C-130 transport to England to pick up the vital supplies.

The commander of the Army's 143rd reserve transportation brigade in Orlando, Fla., used Army planes on five occasions to take his son to Miami Beach.

A special country estate, valued at $250,000, is maintained by the Pentagon for the commander-in-chief of U.S. Forces in Europe.

The Pentagon recently paid $34,000 for butler uniforms to be worn by enlisted servants. The uniforms consist of black tuxedo pants, white swallow-tail coats and cummerbunds.

In 1974, the U.S. Army in Germany paid $116,000 to lease foreign cars at generally higher prices than it would have cost to buy them outright.

The army spent $25,000 to build a "splitter-free" reviewing stand for top brass and their wives had complained of getting splinters from the old wooden reviewing stand. The new stand was not only splinter free but came with a glassed-in broadcast booth.

It might seem unfair to single out the Pentagon for creative boondoggling when virtually all federal agencies are ardent practitioners. But, probably because the Defense Department has had more money with which to refine its artistry, it has become the envy of dedicated boondogglers throughout the federal empire.

Battin' Around

Butt Out, Big Brother

By C. R. BATTEN

The federal land use bill has been defeated in the House Interior Committee. Some observers believe the bill failed because of a lack of general public support.

What they got was a state coastal planning commission and several regional commissions. The commissions have absolute power to approve or prohibit any action that may change the view within a "permit zone" which extends inland 1,000 yards from the Pacific beach.

By next December, the Commission must present to the state legislature a coastal zone plan for the coastline inland to the "highest elevation of the nearest coastal mountain range," or, in the southernmost counties, inland five miles.

The preliminary plan is now available for public review. The Coastal Commission recommends that the coastal plan be implemented by local governments under the supervision of a permanent state agency. That agency, of course, would be a continuation of the existing coastal commission, which would be expanded to a state-wide "multi-purpose comprehensive land use planning agency."

Each local government along the coast would be required to include a "coastal element" in its general plan, which must be in conformance with the coastal plan that is adopted by the state legislature.

The present permit system would remain in effect until the Coastal element in any local plan is approved by the state agency. If any county or city fails to develop a coastal element within three years after the adoption of the state's coastal plan, then the coastal commission may order that government to stop any development within any area where it may conflict with the coastal plan.

Any national land use planning act would simply be another bureaucracy superimposed on top of the 50 state bureaucracies — dictating the required policies to the states. Each state would add to those policies, and pass them on to the city and county governments, which would be required to enforce them.

Behind it all would be the promise of federal and state grants to the good little boys and girls who follow the dictates of Big Brother, providing the illusion that "it doesn't cost us much."

It could well be that there was no great clamor for the Federal land use bill because the people have seen enough of Big Brother messing with their property, and want no more of it.

HONG KONG (UPI) — Tour groups from different parts of the world are already making plans to visit the Hong Kong toy and gift fair Oct. 11.

The Trade Development Council announced three tour groups will be coming from the U.S., two from the United Kingdom and two from Japan. Groups in Holland, Switzerland, Italy and South Africa also plan to attend.

COMMAND SIGNALS CONFUSING.

Why Guerrillas?

One of the articles of faith of those who accepted everything the Viet Cong and the National Liberation Front ever uttered was that once South Vietnam came under their noble leadership and ideological tutelage, things there would settle down in a state of tranquility and workers' paradise. No more bloodshed. No more guerrilla efforts. No dominoes.

Whereas now that the Communists have control of the south, you'd think the national purpose would be for 100 per cent reconstruction. It's not. Vietnamese radio, monitored in Bangkok, Thailand, reports that thousands of young people are being subjected to training which includes "methods of patrolling, use of weapons, military strategy and three-man fighting techniques applicable in urban combat." The broadcast added that "guerrilla units have been set up in 22 villages comprising more than 2,000 of the best women and men selected from the youth force in the area." We suppose that most nations are expected to train and maintain standing armies. But bloody conflict in Southeast Asia was to have ended once South Vietnam and Cambodia were Communized; there were to be no more, remember, dominoes. Our question is just what sort of hostilities the Communists anticipate in that area; just where are those guerrillas going to be needed? Surely not — Thailand?

Lesson of Turkey

U.S. military bases in Turkey held an obvious strategic importance in the Middle East and in the Mediterranean. The sight of Turkish troops marching in to take command of those installations — an act that would have transformed Teddy Roosevelt into a grizzly bear — brings forebodings of more trouble on that part of the globe. That is, if you accept the premise that U.S. presence there contributes to stability.

The strategic issue aside, the Turkish episode illustrates the sheer maladroitness of the American Congress, whose pious arms embargo against Ankara was, whatever else was behind it, clearly not intended to forfeit the bases. Congress saw the embargo as a means of forcing the Turks to retrench on Cyprus, where they now enjoy dominance over the Greek population. By drying up the stream of weapons, Congress imagined, Turkey would be made to initiate a unilateral settlement of its conflict with Greece.

What happened instead was Ankara's recent retaliation against the United States, a move which could be seen as driving one more nail in Israel's coffin. It is a blunder the possibility of which Congress surely never wanted to gamble; yet it happened, and the blame rather directly falls back on Capitol Hill.

To be sure, a Turkey preoccupied with Greece will not be so inclined to enter a scrap with Israel. But it can now veto U.S. air support to Israel via Turkish bases; the takeover would seem to guarantee that Turkey can now be a bigger partner in its Arab allegiance.

If there is a lesson, it is that you can not always count on a group of Washington politicians to know what they're doing when they act to enhance peace. Indeed, that may be precisely the time to run for cover.

Abby Has Low View of High-rise Relationship

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I certainly don't agree with the advice you gave THE GIRL ACROSS THE WAY. Her apartment faced a 10-story high rise. She could see into the apartment of a gentleman who was always alone. Since she is alone, too, she asked you how she could meet him. You told her to pull down her shade and forget it.

Abby, that's the trouble with this world. If more people met strangers half way, there would be a lot less loneliness. I would have told that girl to put a big sign in her window as follows: "WHAT'S YOUR PHONE NUMBER?" FRIENDLY IN PHILLY

DEAR FRIENDLY: That kind of "friendliness" is asking for big trouble. Exhibiting such a sign in a large city might be too "successful" to succeed.

DEAR ABBY: Shame, shame, shame!!! This is 1975, and I am disgusted with your old-fashioned advice to the 28-year-old woman who inquired about the best way to meet an apparently lonely gentleman across the way.

A little casserole, a bottle of wine and a knock on his door will tell her all she wants to know. Wake up, Abby. Honesty is still the best policy. What's wrong with saying, "Hey, I'm lonely?" CATHY IN BARRETTON, O.

DEAR CATHY: "A little casserole, a bottle of wine and a knock on the door" sounds like Little Red Riding Hood revisited — complete with wolf. I'm all for honesty, honey. But I believe in safety first.

DEAR ABBY: I was saddened by the cold finality with which you dismissed GIRL ACROSS THE WAY's letter. May I offer a solution? Honey, if you want to meet that dude, hang a sign outside your window: "Want to come over for a cup of coffee?" Or maybe a safer, "Meet you at the corner drug store in 15 minutes." If he doesn't show up, THEN she can pull down her shade and forget him. LIBERATED IN SANTA ROSA, CALIF.

DEAR ABBY: I have a solution for GIRL ACROSS THE WAY. I'm in advertising and believe in it. If I were that girl, I'd put a big sign in my window, reading, "GOOD MOVIE ON CHANNEL 6 AT 8 P.M." And even if the gentleman responds with a sign that reads, "IT'S A RERUN," at least she's gotten his attention and might get something going. FT. SMITH, ARK.

DEAR ABBY: Where does that 28-year-old, lonely working girl live? She wants to meet a guy she sees across the way and says she doesn't even care how old he is. She sounds like my kind of gal. I'm 56 and could use some female companionship. If she's in the state of Rhode Island, I'll go get her. SAM IN PROVIDENCE.

DEAR ABBY: You will probably be hearing from a lot of kooks who will be blasting you for telling that girl across the way to pull down her shade and forget the guy she sees sitting in his apartment night after night, all alone. Well, I applaud your good sense! Lord only knows what kind of nut he could be. I'm not saying he couldn't turn out to be a very nice person, but it sure isn't worth the gamble. Sign this, "Fools rush in where angels fear to tread," or NOBODY'S FOOL IN SEATTLE.

DEAR NOBODY'S: Thanks. I needed that.

Lewis Engman's Crusade

However incongruous it must seem for the chairman of one of the most gargantuan regulatory agencies, the Federal Trade Commission, to go around assailing regulatory laws, Lewis A. Engman is nevertheless doing just that. Presumably it is because he has survived some time in Washington with his perceptions intact, which does take some intellectual struggle. The gadfly commissioner has resolutely refused to be taken in by the philosophy of regulation ever while presiding over an agency known to be waging war against free enterprise because of its regulamania.

Speaking in Williamsburg, Va., last week, Engman asserted that state regulatory laws have the opposite effect of their (supposedly) intended results. That is nothing new to critics of governmental bureaucracy, but it is pretty unusual to hear the FTC chairman saying so. Mainly such laws serve special interest groups and insulate the public from the advantages of free competition.

That of course is what libertarian - inclined critics, among them The Register, have been saying for several decades: the popular justification for regulatory laws was to protect and increase competition, but actually they served to limit competition. Protection became protectionism, and the laws actually worked to prevent entries into given markets of new competitors.

"If we are to restore our economy to a vigorous footing," Engman told the Southern Legislative Conference of the Council of State Governments, "we must return to free enterprise in the market — place." Truer words have not emanated from Washington.

Engman went on to describe how regulation amounts to nothing other than price-fixing. For instance, many states prohibit advertising of prices for prescription drugs, which can vary in price for the same item by as much as 1,200 per cent. And he noted that, whereas licensing of certain businesses was supposed to protect consumers from shady operators, it has turned out to mean a restriction of competition from within the profession.

Meanwhile, Engman, who was lecturing to state government officials, administers this massive bureaucracy called the FTC. The FTC in recent weeks has harassed cigarette manufacturers because they didn't print the surgeon general's warning in large enough type, has issued fatuous rules governing celebrities in television commercials and has carried on as the parent bureau over the Consumer Products Safety Commission, which plays fussy mother to every free-born American.

Perhaps this maverick bureaucrat can do something about his own house. Surely he perceives what's wrong with it?

The CIA, Castro, Et Al.

We are in a free-associative mood, so don't imagine there is a larger point to this other than the one we spell out. It is just that in our reading of the CIA-Castro investigation, now passing off a few politicians with great coverage, we landed on something of an anomaly.

Sen. George McGovern, who is Fidel Castro's newest friend, has released a summary of what the Cuban dictator claims are 24 CIA-inspired assassination plots against him. Senator McGovern is in a righteous lather (come to think of it, he's always in a righteous lather) over such purported villany. In 1968, it was McGovern who picked up the assassinated Sen. Robert Kennedy's presidential campaign. Few but McGovern, the South Dakotan implied, could as well and as ably represent all the ideals the slain Kennedy represented.

Interestingly, when Robert Kennedy was attorney general he worked in tandem with his brother, the late President John F. Kennedy, orchestrating the anti-Castro vendetta. Robert Kennedy did in fact order numerous CIA plots, never quite ruling out the possibility of assassination, against Fidel Castro. Indeed, those years of the Kennedy White House, as Harper's magazine documents this month, were characterized by mutual paranoia between the Brothers Kennedy and Castro.

While an American politician runs for his office, an English politician merely stands for his.

40 Years for Social Security

Faces Financial Problems

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Social security has perhaps more impact on the life of Americans than any other government program. It currently involves 100 million contributors and 31 million recipients.

The system sending out more than $60 billion in old age, survivors and disability benefits this year alone celebrates its 40th anniversary this week — still growing but struggling to make ends meet. Its financial problem is basically this: High inflation means greater benefits for recipients and high unemployment means smaller contributions to the system.

A government history of the social security system calls it the most durable product of the New Deal. The term "social security" was an American invention, brought into national and then international use by authors of the legislation.

In many other nations, social security now includes some form of national health insurance, not just for the elderly but for the entire population.

At 40, social security faces financial problems caused in part by heavy unemployment. When the system was created in 1935, 11 million workers were unemployed.

Inflation and unemployment now are devouring the system's emergency reserves at a rate that will deplete them — unless new sources of funding are provided — sometime after 1980, the administration has told Congress.

The original legislation included unemployment compensation, family welfare, child welfare, crippled children's services and maternal and child health care.

Those services since have been farmed out to other Health, Education and Welfare agencies. But new responsibilities added over the years include Medicare health insurance for the aged, black lung benefits and Supplemental Security Income for the needy aged, blind and disabled.

"We can never insure 100 per cent of the population against 100 per cent of the hazards and vicissitudes of life," President Franklin Roosevelt said when he signed the Social Security Act into law Aug. 14, 1935.

"But we have tried to frame a law which will give some measure of protection to the average citizen and to his family against the loss of a job and against poverty-stricken old age."

IRS Investigates Estes; Did He Hide Millions?

DALLAS (UPI) — In the late 1950s, West Texas financial wizard Billie Sol Estes put together a multimillion dollar paper empire of fraudulent fertilizer and grain storage facilities.

The empire collapsed in 1962. Estes went to prison with creditors claiming he owed them $38 million when he declared bankruptcy.

Now the Internal Revenue Service appears to be investigating the possibility Estes hid some of the millions he gathered in the fraud.

In a copyrighted story Sunday, the Dallas morning news reported the IRS also is investigating the financial affairs of Ray K. Horton, a Midland businessman and longtime friend of Estes, for possible partnership between the two.

"On the surface, Estes is living moderately in Abilene and has not reduced $21 million in federal tax liens against him that existed when he went to prison in 1965," the story said.

The story said Horton also has tax liens — amounting to $127,255 — pending against him in Midland County.

The newspaper said an IRS spokesman in Dallas would neither confirm nor deny the investigation. Estes' probation officer, William Schuford of Fort Worth, said Estes' records indicate no investigation is in process.

"The News learned that the 6-month background phase of the IRS probe is completed and special intelligence agents are now lining up witnesses in Abilene and other Texas areas," the News said.

Estes began serving a 15-year prison sentence in 1965 for mail fraud and conspiracy to defraud.

Grain Sails to USSR

BEAUMONT, Tex. (UPI) — Despite a wildcat strike and other protests, longshoremen finally loaded the Yugoslavian freighter "Banija" with grain bound for Russia during the weekend.

The ship sailed for Russia with 24,000 tons of American wheat aboard.

Members of the International Longshoremen's Association walked away from the vessel and the Continental Grain Co. elevator Thursday in protest of the Soviet transaction. They returned Friday but left the docks a second time when an ILA clerk began picketing.

L.J. Champagne, a member of ILA Local 1924 Clerks, Checkers and Timekeepers, said he was picketing because his local was not getting its share of the work.

"This is an individual picket," Champagne said. "I have nothing against the vessel or Russian grain. I've had it in my mind for quite a few days and decided to begin Friday morning. They are not using clerks and checkers from the union and I want a job."

Champagne was not picketing when longshoremen reported for work early Saturday to finish loading the ship. The ship sailed for Russia later Saturday.

"The nagging question left behind was where all the money went," the News said. "An associate of Horton's has told the News that there may be substantial amounts of Estes money in trust accounts in numerous small West Texas banks." The story said those funds may have been used to purchase real estate in the Dallas-Fort Worth area.

One of the requirements of the parole Estes received in 1971 was that he not "engage in any self-employment or promotional type activities without specific prior approval" of the U.S. Board of Paroles.

Cabot, Northern Natural Agree on Exploration

Cabot Corporation has announced that it has entered into an agreement with Northern Natural Gas Company under which Northern will advance to Cabot up to $19.5 million for exploration and development costs on 10 tracts Offshore Louisiana, in the Gulf of Mexico.

Northern has preferential rights to purchase gas produced from the tracts. Cabot will repay the loans, without interest over five years from initial production on the tracts.

The tracts include Cabot's 25 per cent interest in West Cameron Block 543, its 25 per cent interest in East Cameron Block 129, its 8 per cent interest in South Marsh Island, South Addition, Block 143, and its 8.75 per cent interest in seven tracts acquired in October 1974.

Production from West Cameron 543 is scheduled to begin this fall.

United Klans Recruit 'Pure American Men'

MACON, Ga. (UPI) — The United Klans of America, seeking "100 per cent pure American men," says a stagnant economy has boosted membership in the "invisible empire."

Imperial Wizard Robert Shelton pointed to a cross-burning rally in South Georgia Saturday night as an example of renewed interest in the Klan.

Shelton said Klan membership rose as the economy declined because whites are afraid of losing jobs to blacks, or having foreign competition wipe out American jobs.

"We've reactivated seven old units in Bibb and Jones Counties," said Shelton, packing up his Bible and America flag in the trailer that converts into a stage for Klan rallies.

As always, Shelton declined to estimate how many new Klanmen were signed up during the rally. He also refused to say how big the Klan is nationwide. But about two dozen men slipped inside a darkened camper trailer to talk to a UKA recruiter at the rally.

"Our membership has increased and let off," he said. "It runs in cycles."

Shelton, who spent "nine months, three days, 12 hours and 16 minutes" in federal prison at Texarkana, Tex., for refusing to divulge Klan membership to a congressional committee, said the hooded order he runs from Tuscaloosa, Ala., is as big — or bigger — than when it attracted the attention of the defunct House Un-American Activities Committee a decade ago.

Then, President Lyndon Johnson went on television and denounced the Klan and said "their loyalty is not to the United States of America, but instead to a hooded society of bigots."

Shelton said the Klan thrives on such adversity.

"The House committee is gone. Lyndon Johnson is gone, but Robert Shelton and the Klan are still here," he said.

Shelton said he wouldn't trade the Klan's cow pastures and stock car track meeting places for any more sophisticated political forum.

Famed Composer Dies in Moscow

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet composer Dmitri Shostakovich, whose controversial career rose and fell at the whim of the Kremlin, has died of a heart attack at the age of 68. Shostakovich's family said the composer died at his Moscow home Saturday night after a decade-long struggle with the debilitating effects of heart disease.

Funeral plans were not announced.

The national television news program failed to mention the death Sunday night even though Shostakovich's name had been a household word in the Soviet Union.

Shostakovich, whose work often provoked controversy at home and abroad, was judged by most critics to be one of the outstanding composers of the 20th century.

He was capable of writing music that offended the tastes of the Communist party hierarchy as well as propaganda pieces that pleased the Kremlin and irked Western critics.

At the Berkshire Music Festival in Tanglewood, Mass., Soviet cellist Mstislav Rostropovich and his wife, singer Galina Vishnevskaya, said

Shostakovich reflected "the great contradictions of the epoch in which he lived."

Shostakovich, who had suffered from a series of heart ailments since being hospitalized in 1964, had recently finished a new sonata for viola and piano.

But the shy, near-sighted composer was perhaps best known for his symphonic works, including the first, fifth, seventh and ninth symphonies.

His seventh symphony, known as the "Leningrad Symphony," was composed during the World War II encirclement of his native city. It provided a musical symbol of Soviet opposition to the Nazis.

But the late dictator Josef Stalin disliked his 1932 opera "Lady Macbeth of Mzensk" and rained abuse upon the composer. Shostakovich responded by thanking Stalin for his musical advice.

It was to set a pattern for his turbulent life.

Shostakovich also came under harsh criticism during the Soviet Union's cultural purge at the end of World War II and the reign of the late Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

Gem Group Sees Film

Members of the Canadian River Gem and Mineral Society viewed a film, "Blades and Pressure Flaking," during its recent session in Opportunities Center, Borger.

The film depicted the punch techniques and direct percussion method used by the Upper Paleolithic culture of France in making arrowheads. The film also showed tools which were used as knives, scraping and boring.

Alice Allen, park ranger with the National Park Service, presented the film.

"The basic material used," stated Allen, "was flint, but chert, quartz and obsidian." She told the group that obsidian blades are now used in delicate rain and heart surgery. Mrs. W.G. Mancill presided over the business session where reports were presented from area shows in Roswell and Clovis, N.M.

Displays will be shown soon at banks and other locations in Pampa and in Borger.

The club's 15th annual show at M.K. Brown Auditorium in Pampa is scheduled in October.

Mr. and Mrs. C.W. Foote of Perryton was accepted as a new member. Guests were E.W. Bland and Norman Cain.

Hostesses for the August meeting were Mrs. J.S. Schroder and Mrs. Bob Ryan. The September 2 meeting at Pam - Cel Hall in Pampa will be a family picnic.

Decade Later, Could Watts Erupt Again?

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — It was evening, 10 years ago today. Marquette Frye, 21, and his stepbrother Ronnie were driving home in their mother's car. A highway patrolman stopped them, a small crowd gathered. The trooper radioed for reinforcements — and from that small incident mushroomed a race riot that went on for six days. When it was over, 34 persons were dead, 1,032 injured and $40 million in property destroyed. That was Watts, 1965. It was the first of the big city holocausts. Newark and Trenton and Detroit were to follow, like so many trees in a forest fire. Glenn Reeder was astounded by what happened to Watts, which he knew as a drowsy-Negro section of Los Angeles. His television set showed him a battleground, bodies in the streets, buildings aflame, youths running from shattered storefronts with looted merchandise. Reeder since has had an education — one that most people still don't have. He was chosen last year as one of 23 members of the Los Angeles County grand jury. Its primary function is returning indictments in criminal cases, but it also has an investigative function in looking into the problems of the community. Reeder, soft-spoken, middle class WASP and a retired beer company distributor from the white suburb of Rosemead, headed a subcommittee which went into the black community of Compton, next door to Watts, and heard from residents there. Compton is adjacent to Watts, a city of 78,000 population. The black area of south central Los Angeles stretches south from the edge of the downtown district to the northern fringes of Long Beach, and Compton is one of a dozen black neighborhoods. What Reeder found was not encouraging. "Yes, I think all the ingredients are there for another riot," he said. "As a matter of fact, I think you might say conditions are twice as bad as they were before. I am very disheartened. All they need is a little traffic incident. Some professional agitators. The feeling among the people is frustration — unemployment, welfare, crime, uncontrollable kids, violence in schools, the security of their homes."

Compton are on some kind of welfare. — Unemployment is an estimated 48 per cent. — Last year there were 4,000 burglaries in Compton. — Its schools have a 40 to 50 per cent dropout record. — Two thousand homes have been abandoned because of residents moving out in fear or unable to keep up the payments. — The mortality rate at birth is twice that of the rest of the country. — Youth gang-related murders in Los Angeles increased from 11 in 1971 to 29 in 1972, 39 in 1973 and 66 in 1974. The prediction for this year is more than 100. Those are statistics. Here are some of the other things Reeder heard from more than 100 persons who appeared before his panel: From Larry Benjamin, a 17-year-old high school student: "It takes me three weeks to read a short book and I find it hard to do." Helen Mason, a nurse and parent: "There are so many problems ... We have a lot of nice things but the kids don't want them. Once the police pick them up, they know they can get away with it. The kid is ruined before he gets to be 16. Their mothers are scared of them." Monroe Smith, Compton fire chief: "People put iron bars on the windows and even the doors of their homes, and when they catch fire they are death traps."

Joseph Cochee, Compton police chief: "We need employment to create jobs for these kids. We need to give people employment so they can make a living. The criminal's basic needs are the same as yours and mine. And he will satisfy these needs one way or another." Rev. James Gayles: "They are killing every day. Life is cheap. Everybody is carrying a gun. Nobody is doing anything about it. When I leave here tonight, I don't know whether I am going to get home or not."

One of the few successful self-help groups has been the Watts Labor Community Action Committee, funded by federal state and local governments and also receiving support from the United Auto Workers, Teamsters and a number of AFL-CIO unions. It is headed by Ted Watkins, probably the best known citizen of Watts. It has a $30 million annual anti-poverty program including a giant shopping center, a supermarket, auto repair and teaching shops, its own food stamp center, gardens in lots ravaged in the riots. But a decade later, Watts still remains a bleak example of how the nation has failed to cope with what may be its No. 1 social problem. Los Angeles police chief Edward Davis: "There's a state of despair with a lot of people. In almost any way of measuring, things are worse than they were 10 years ago."

Belfast Riots Kill Two, Destroy Homes

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — The worst Northern Ireland religious rioting in four years has wrecked a Roman Catholic neighborhood, killed two children and threatened the six-month-old cease-fire. Jeering Protestant and Catholic mobs battled with rocks, bottles and bullets along the "peace line" in divided Belfast Sunday, climaxing three days of violence across the province. Officials said the meeting between Stanley Orme, deputy secretary for Northern Ireland, and British Army and police chiefs centered on measures to prevent renewed outbreaks of street fighting.

Orme chaired the meeting because Northern Ireland Secretary Merlyn Rees was on vacation.

He married Ruby Ethel Maxwell, March 6, 1935 at Erick, Okla. She died April 27, 1966.
Survivors include two stepsons, Donald McLaughlin, Mangun, Okla. and Calvin McLaughlin, Amarillo; his mother, Mrs. Myrtle Whiteley, Pampa; two brothers, John, Lefors and Warren, Pampa; one sister, Mrs. Lorene McCathern, Pampa; and four grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

White House Children Swim In Underwater

FORT SMITH, Ark. (UPI) — A new style in swimwear appeared at the White House when the Ford and Rockefeller families celebrated the first anniversary of their administration.
The Rockefeller children and Jack Ford swam in the outdoor White House pool in their underwear.
According to a book by former White House kennel keeper Traphes Bryant, President Kennedy and members of his clan used to skinnydip with friends in the old indoor pool at the White House.
But Ford press secretary Ron Nessen told reporters with a broad smile Sunday of the new wrinkle.
He said that after President and Mrs. Ford and their son dined with Vice President and Mrs. Nelson Rockefeller and five of the Rockefeller children, including three of Happy Rockefeller's daughters by a former marriage, the young people decided to go for a dip Saturday night.
The lack of swimming suits did not deter Jack, who is 22; Carol, 19; Melinda, 15, and Wendy Murphy, 22, and their half brothers, Nelson Jr., 11, and Mark Rockefeller, 8.

He married Ruby Ethel Maxwell, March 6, 1935 at Erick, Okla. She died April 27, 1966.
Survivors include two stepsons, Donald McLaughlin, Mangun, Okla. and Calvin McLaughlin, Amarillo; his mother, Mrs. Myrtle Whiteley, Pampa; two brothers, John, Lefors and Warren, Pampa; one sister, Mrs. Lorene McCathern, Pampa; and four grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

Ford Calls Tour 'Nonpolitical'

By United Press International
President Ford's current western visit was the beginning of a series of trips that will take him to eight states by the middle of next month, but his chief spokesman says the traveling is not part of the re-election campaign.
A meeting between Ford and state political leaders in Arkansas Sunday was "the most nonpolitical political meeting I have ever attended," press secretary Ron Nessen said.
Nessen, traveling with Ford as the President stopped to inspect a Vietnamese refugee camp in Arkansas on his way to Vail, Colo., said Ford's visits to Arkansas, Colorado, Montana, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Illinois, Iowa and California are not political.
The press secretary quoted Ford as telling the Arkansas officials, "Between now and the election, I intend to spend my time primarily being President. I am going to maximize my time on the job."

California, which Ford will visit next month, "is a key primary state and the home base of potential Ford challenger Ronald Reagan, the former governor.
The new governor, Democrat Edmund G. Brown Jr., has declined to rule himself out as a presidential candidate next year. He told UPI's Carl Ingram in Sacramento such questions are "speculative," but "that's not to say that six months from now I might see it differently." He said "the Democratic party and the country seem to be moving along quite nicely without my services and advice."
A Democratic presidential candidate, Rep. Morris K. Udall of Arizona, is investigating whether he also may seek re-election to his House seat.
"I haven't made a decision. I'm just floating the idea to get public reaction," Udall said in an interview.

Udall said the Arizona attorney general gave a tentative opinion that nothing in state law would prevent him from being a candidate for both offices at the same time.
The Arizona deadline for filing for Congress is July 12, 1976, and before that date Udall will know the results of presidential primaries in New Hampshire, Massachusetts, New York and Wisconsin — all of which he plans to enter.
In an airport news conference in Detroit Saturday, Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., said he intends to sample opinion to see if he could become a "credible candidate" for his party's presidential nomination.
Last week, a Bayh for President Committee was announced in Washington.
Campaign backers of Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey's 1972 presidential bid owe $900,000, but the Minnesota Democrat's 1976 Senate re-election campaign chest is $6,000 in the black.

The Minneapolis Tribune reported Humphrey campaign committees recently raised $22,550 in New York to help retire the $903,968 debt for his 1972 presidential bid. Most of the money is owed to wealthy individuals.
The July report of the Committee to Re-Elect Senator Hubert H. Humphrey showed receipts of $6,000 since opening for business.

Senators Term Ex-Cons Without Vote Hypocrisy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The right to vote in America is fundamental and to deny it to an ex-con who has served his sentence and completed his parole is hypocrisy, according to two Senators determined to broaden the voting rights laws.
Congress approved the Voting Rights Act in 1965, now extended through 1982, and it is credited with swelling voter lists by a million blacks, particularly in southern states.
A Constitutional amendment, ratified in 1971; lowered the voting age from 21 to 18 and opened the polls to an estimated 11 million youths.
Congress now plans to consider legislation giving the vote to criminals who have paid their debt to society.
Sens. Charles H. Percy of Illinois and Barry M. Goldwater of Arizona, both Republicans, have convinced Chairman John V. Tunney, D-Calif. of the constitutional rights subcommittee to hold hearings.
Similar legislation was introduced in Congress last year but was never reported out of committee.
Each state sets its own voter qualifications and in the case of criminals and former criminals, they vary greatly.

Only 19 states, according to the Criminal Law Review, provide automatic restoration of voting rights once a criminal has served his time. Seven others withhold the vote for a fixed time, four deny the vote for a fixed time for specific crimes only, and all but seven have a provision that a governor's pardon can restore the franchise.
Almost all states disenfranchise citizens convicted of a felony. Others also specifically deny the vote to persons convicted of so-called infamous crimes, crimes of moral turpitude, election crimes, treason, and a host of other crimes specified by the states.
Thirty-four states, however, let persons in prison or under sentence vote unless they are barred by some other provision.
The Percy-Goldwater proposal states simply that no citizen, otherwise qualified to vote in federal elections, can be denied that right because of a criminal conviction if he has completed his sentence and served parole.

Percy said these persons represent a "very sizable class of people" and adds that "they are systematically and purposefully discriminated against at the polls."
"There is no right that is more basic and fundamental to the maintenance of full citizenship than the right to vote," Percy says. "By systematically denying that right to individuals deemed qualified and responsible to take an active and constructive role in society, I think we are displaying a very basic hypocrisy in our criminal justice system."
Percy adds that the normal justification for prison sentences — deterrence, retribution, protection and rehabilitation — have nothing to do with the right to vote.

Less Drilling

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An oil industry spokesman forecast a decline in oil drilling in the last half of 1975 because the oil companies cannot afford it.
American Petroleum Institute API President Frank N. Icard said 7,973 wells were completed during the second quarter of this year — a gain of 3.2 per cent over the corresponding months of 1974, but a drop from the 8,568 reported in the first quarter of 1975.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Folks:
 Today we are going to see how those of you who sent in your schedules for housecleaning set up your plan of attack.
 Most of these will work on a house or apartment.
 It appeared that the ladies with the schedules were full-time homemakers and had a great part of their days free.
 Mrs. J. Gillcrest, sent in an "overall" outline that she says works for her.
 The Plan: divide up your rooms into four weeks.
 Before doing anything, make a list of everything that must be done in each room. Dusting, vacuuming, etc.
 Monday: pick which room will be done in the first week, the second, and so on. Do the room of the week well and the others lightly. Always check your list of things to be done.
 Weekly: Every Monday and Tuesday wash and iron.
 Wednesday and Thursday clean lightly in all rooms. Clean the special room of the week thoroughly.
 Friday: tie up loose ends. Kitchen: sweep and mop, clean oven, refrigerator or pantry. Wash windows or clean curtains. I do one of the latter on Friday, and Saturday I prepare food for Sunday and enjoy the family.
 Miscellaneous: keep things in place. Clean the living room before going to bed. In the morning, pick up what others might see. No one sees the bedrooms.
 Set all dirty dishes in the sink, rinsed or in water. Wait until you are ready to do them. Insist all family members do the same.
 One dear lady sat down and typed out her detailed schedule of how she runs her house.
 Daily: wash dishes and clean up counter tops, stove top and outside of refrigerator. Make beds early and pick up bedrooms. Tidy up bathroom. Empty all the ashtrays, store newspapers and put things in their place.
 Dust lightly anything that needs it and do one weekly job.
 Weekly: Every Monday wash clothes (or do a small batch everyday).
 Tuesday: Iron. If you have wash and wear, your ironing load should not be very much.
 Wednesday is my lazy day. Enjoy yourself. Do something for yourself or a volunteer job.
 Thursday: wash inside of refrigerator and stove. Grocery shopping and any errands that need to be done. These are sale days in newspapers so watch for the ads.

Friday: I like to wash bedding. Vacuum entire house. Scrub bathroom and kitchen. Make beds with fresh linens. Open all the windows and let in the fresh air.
 Saturday and Sunday are to be spent with the family and free of chores. Just tidying up and cooking.
 Mrs. Carol Griffith has a great little thought about schedules. A schedule is like calorie-counting. Hard to live with!
 (But, oh, aren't the results wonderful if you do—or can.—Heloise)
 This schedule is for women who work and want to be organized. This dear gal said this is her general schedule which she follows now that she is working even though sometimes it is hard.
 Daily: shower, dress and eat. Rinse off the dishes. Make bed and pick up. Throw batch of clothes in washer.
 Upon returning from work, put clothes in dryer, fix supper. Dust and vacuum lightly (when needed).
 Mondays are the main wash days. Tuesday I iron what is needed for the week.
 Wednesday clean bathroom good.
 Thursday I do my grocery shopping after work, fix an easy supper and relax.
 Friday I like my weekend free so I vacuum and dust when I get home, fix supper and check the living room to see that it is neat.
 The kitchen is cleaned every night with the supper dishes. I spend one night each week defrosting the refrigerator and the next week cleaning the oven.
 Be sure to read tomorrow's column for other ideas from some of our readers and also an overall yearly plan on cleaning your house or apartment.
 Heloise
 Dear Heloise:
 After working late one night, we came home to fix a bite to eat and found no water. It had been temporarily turned off.
 What to do without water? We put the hot dogs in the pan, added a half dozen ice cubes, also put ice cubes in the coffee pot and had coffee.
 Don't ever let your ice cubes run low—never know when you may need them for water in an emergency.

Toi Libby, Eddy Johnston Exchange Vows in Arkansas

MRS. EDDY CARL JOHNSTON
 ...nee Miss Toi Laine Libby

The marriage of Miss Toi Laine Libby and Eddy Carl Johnston was solemnized at 7:30 p.m. July 25 in First Baptist Church of Mansfield, Ark.
 The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Beth Allen Libby of Greenwood, Ark., and is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. D.L. Allen, 1301 W. Rham, Pampa. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Johnston of Fort Smith, Ark.
 Officiating for the double-ring ceremony was the Rev. Richard Mannes, cousin of the bride. Organist, Buck Hamby, accompanied vocalists, Mr. and Mrs. Carlisle Richard, who presented wedding music.
 The bride was given in marriage by her grandfather, D.L. Allen and uncle, Bob Dorris, wearing a formal gown of peau de soie designed with an empire bodice of re-embroidered lace and seed pearls, a high neckline and softly gathered sleeves. Lace appliques complemented the bodice, sleeves and skirt of the gown with lace edging accenting the hemline which extended to form a chapel train. Mrs. Bob Dorris, aunt of the bride, designed and created the attire.

 Serving her cousin as matron of honor was Mrs. Richard Mannes wearing soft blue with a matching garden hat. Jennifer Holmes, identically dressed to the honor attendant, was flower girl and ringbearer; were Michael Dorris and Blaire Ward Dorris, both cousins of the bride. Tommy Johnston, brother of the bridegroom, lighted the candles.
 Teddy Johnston served his brother as best man and ushers were George Dorris, cousin of the bride and Tim Rose.
 The bride's grandmother crocheted the white cloth covering the serving table at the reception at the church. Silver appointments completed the setting.
 Assisting with houseparty duties were Miss Denise Frihs, Mrs. Mary Rose, Mrs. Teddy Johnston and Miss Joanie Johnston, sister of the bridegroom. Mark Rose distributed rice bags.
 The couple will reside at Fort Smith, Ark. where both are presently employed.

Karpin on Bridge

By FRED KARPIN

Many bidding situations arise where one is in doubt as to what action to take. There are those who subscribe to the belief that, when in doubt, one should bid (bridge being a bidder's game). There are others who say that, when in doubt, "pass" (usually the conservative action).
 In today's deal, the winning philosophy turned out to be: "when in doubt, pass." The deal arose in a duplicate game.

 The bidding:
 West North East South
 1 ♣ Pass 1 ♣ Pass
 2 ♣ Pass 4 ♣ 4NT
 Pass Pass Pass
 Opening lead: Ten of ♣.
 With respect to the bidding, East's jump to four spades despite his deficiency of high-card strength, was a good call.
 As he correctly viewed the setup, his club holding, in support of partner's first bid suit, more than compensated for his lack of high cards. Actually, thanks to a successful finesse in spades, 11 tricks would have been made at a spade contract.
 South's nonvulnerable four notrump call shouldn't have been misinterpreted by North. South couldn't have had a good hand, since he had failed to bid over East's initial one-spade response. Hence his bid stated that he wanted North to name the latter's longer unbid suit (hearts or diamonds). North, therefore, should have bid five diamonds instead of passing.
 From East's position, he felt that with the expected spade lead, he could slaughter the four notrump bid. But he also felt that if he doubled, North-South would find a haven in one of the two unbid suits (probably diamonds, the suit in which he was void). So East made the decision to pass—and how right he was. When play had ended, East-West had made five spade tricks, four clubs, the ace of hearts, and the ace of diamonds, thus sending declarer down to an eight-trick defeat, for a loss of 400 points.
 Had East doubled the four notrump bid, North would probably have bid five diamonds, his longer of the two unbid suits. This contract would also have been doubled. But, as can be observed, North's only losers would have been a spade, a heart, and a diamond, for a loss of 100 points.

Issues Honor Women

By LEA BLAUVELT
 Copley News Service

The design of a 10-cent commemorative honoring International Women's Year was unveiled by the U.S. Postal Service during the recent IWY Conference, sponsored by the United Nations, in Mexico City.
 The first day of issue ceremony for the stamp will be held at Eisenhower College, Seneca Falls, New York, on August 26. Seneca Falls was the site of the first Women's Rights Convention held in the United States in 1848 and was also the first-day city for the 1948 Progress of Women commemorative.
 Many countries have issued stamps saluting the IWY and many others have signaled their intention to do so. Together the many issues should form a sizeable topical collection.
 The U.S. contribution features a white dove emerging from the top of the universal symbol for women. In the upper right corner is an "equal" sign symbolizing the equality of women, while the background, in blue and white, is an artistic representation of a pattern used by globe makers in making globes, emphasizing the international significance of International Women's Year. It was designed by Miriam Scotland of New York City.
 First-day cancellation requests should be sent to "IWY Stamp, Postmaster, Seneca Falls, N.Y. 13148." The cost is 10 cents per stamp to be affixed to the self-addressed envelopes accompanying the orders. Remittance should be by check or money order, instead of cash. Stamps will not be accepted. A filler of post card thickness helps to assure clear cancellations and to prevent damage to the covers. Postmark orders no later than Aug. 26.

 OTHER IWYs — Our northern neighbor, Canada, marked the IWY with an 8-cent stamp. It was designed by Susan McPhee and used a graphic variation of the female symbol.
 The government of Guyana, working through its Council on the Affairs and Status of Women, has fully aligned itself with the purpose of the year. In observance it released stamps of 10, 35, and 50-cents and 1-dollar values on July 1, plus a souvenir sheet composed of the four stamps. The designer, C. Henriques, utilized the IWY logo in a design featuring match-figures of men and women tied by equal signs.
 The United Nations brought out four stamps as its tribute. They were of 10 and 18 cents, for use in the New York headquarters, and of 60 and 90 centimes, for use in the Geneva complex. Designed by E. Kurti and A. Kalderon of Israel, they presented a simple sphere divided in half by different colors and holding a man in one and a woman in the other with an equal sign between. The U.N. wreath circles the sphere.

 Surinam's contribution was a couple of semipostals of identical design bearing the IWY symbol and a woman looking upward at the legend "Equality, Education, Peace" in Dutch. They were of 15 plus 5 and 30 plus 15-cents values.
 Sweden, where a delegation has been working for equality between men and women since 1972, offered two IWY specials. On 75-ore stamps in booklets of 10 was shown two building engineers consulting a blue-print, one male and one female. The other stamp, a 1-krona, features "the Swedish nightingale," Jenny Lind, the famous 19th Century singer.

 Ireland issued two stamps showing a woman's hands and a dove with olive branch, in denominations of 8 and 15 pence, while Australia chose a symbolic embodiment of the sun, the moon and womanhood for its 10-cent issue.

Check Sealing On Home Canning Jars

COLLEGE STATION — If you preserved foods in "loud mouth" jars that keep "talking" all year on the pantry shelf, help is at hand to prevent it happening again.
 Marilyn Haggard, foods and nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, pointed out these "talking" jars often spell spoilage.
 She cited reasons jars don't seal and suggested some solutions.
 — Small particles of food left on rim of jar.
 Remedy: Wipe off top of jar with clean damp cloth before placing lid on jar.
 — Sealing compound or lid doesn't seal.
 Remedy: Lids may be old. Usually, they last five years. Some may have a year date on them, such as 1-75, to indicate the lid was manufactured in the first quarter of 1975 and should be used before the end of the first quarter of 1980. It's a good idea to mark date of purchase on the box of lids.
 — Bent or rusty rings.
 Remedy: Bent or rusty rings can cause the lids not to seal properly. Always remove rings when jars have cooled thoroughly and seals are tested.
 Rings are necessary for the processing, but are not needed after the seal is made. Rings left on can rust and become difficult to remove — so store them in a dry place in a container that prevents them from being bent out of shape.
 Examine rings before the start of each canning season and discard rusty or bent ones. Never use lids more than once, because they are designed for a one-time seal.
 — Rings screwed on "too tight" or "too loose."
 Remedy: Rings which are screwed too tightly on the jar do not allow space for venting (escape of air from the jar). This makes pressure build up in the jar, causing the lid — and sometimes even the top of the ring — to buckle.
 Rings not screwed on tightly enough will not seal, because the compound is not pressed firmly enough against the top of the jar.

 This specialist said that the main point to remember is to follow manufacturer's directions. Do not use lid tighteners recommended for zinc caps. Two-piece lids don't require tighteners, she said.
 The firm is Jerry Guttenberg, Ltd., where Capraro is a vice-president. "Business has just skyrocketed," said the delighted designer.
 "We were in the black by last December and we won't be one year old until next July. I understand we've gone from about $1.5 million (wholesale) to $4 million volume."
 And that, any way you count it, is a lot of what the industry called a "Ford" long before Betty Ford was First Lady. A "Ford" is a design that repeats and repeats in sales and Capraro obviously has several.
 Just what the First Lady may select from Capraro's fall and winter collection is not yet determined. Mrs. Ford hasn't seen it. And the designer said he had no plans to go to the White House, as is his custom, before late May or early June.
 What Mrs. Ford will see in any event is a collection strong on casual looking clothes, but she can wear so many silhouettes, there's no problem," said the designer who first touched base at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue with some selections from his spring collection. Both Mrs. Ford and daughter Susan bought.

 For fall, Capraro slimmed the silhouette from last year's "big" look in most costumes, but held on to the wrapped coats, with vast cape tops, and wrapped skirts which flared slightly, via bias cut, and closed at the side.
 Plenty of Capraro designs looked like narrow-trunkers tucked into suede boots, but the designer said they actually were pants which could be worn just as well outside with slippers.
 He put hoods on quilted jackets, combined tweeds and suedes in a dozen ways, showed jumpers in flecked tweeds with printed challis blouses, and produced the shirred look every way for day and evening.
 There was some of the oriental flavor—everyone in the New York garment industry seems to be doing the Eastern kimono sleeve and collar coat.

Weekend News Summary

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Ashland Oil Company in recent years made more than $700,000 in illegal campaign contributions to American politicians and payments to foreign leaders, according to company documents filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Among the payments was $200,000 to former President Richard M. Nixon's last two presidential campaigns, half of which was later refunded, and $50,000 to Arkansas Rep. Wilbur Mills.

The Kentucky-based firm also outlined about $375,000 in payments overseas, the SEC said, to persons in Gabon, Nigeria, the Dominican Republic and Libya. About $150,000 of that went to Gabon's President Albert Bongo in 1972.

Smaller donations went to Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn.; John Tower, R-Tex.; Birch Bayh, D-Ind.; Vance Hartke, D-Ind.; James O. Eastland, D-Miss.; Milton R. Young, R-N.D.; and John Sparkman, D-Ala.

$1,000 PER DEATH

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government spends $60 million a year to subsidize the tobacco industry, and that works out to one lung cancer death for every $1,000, says a Ralph Nader health research group.

It recommended Saturday that the subsidies should be abolished and the money used on a government sponsored antismoking campaign.

A Tobacco Institute spokesman attacked the proposal, saying the tobacco support program "serves to reduce the amount of tobacco on the market" because production is limited under it. If it were abolished, he said, more tobacco would be grown, prices would fall, cigarettes would become cheaper and more people would smoke.

"It is a measure of the intelligence of those who make such recommendations that they fail to perceive this," he said.

VOTING ACT NEEDED

MONTREAL (UPI) — Deputy Attorney General Harold R. Tyler Jr. said that continuing attempts in the South to dilute minority voting indicates the 1965 Voting Rights Act is still a necessary.

Despite the vast gains under the landmark legislation, Tyler said Sunday, federal officials still overturn about 30 proposed law changes submitted for preclearance each year from covered states — mostly Southern — because they are discriminatory.

In a speech prepared for the Lawyers' Committee for Civil Rights at the American Bar Association convention, Tyler said this showed a need for federal preclearance of any state laws that affect minority voting.

He said the act "has brought about a prompt, visible, dramatic increase in political participation by Southern black citizens," and that the number of blacks registered to vote nearly doubled from 1.2 to 2.1 million in the seven Southern states covered by the Voting Rights Act.

EMBEZZLER SOUGHT

CHICAGO (UPI) — A man who allegedly embezzled over $600,000 from the bank where he worked left approximately $144,000 in cash for his parents and wife.

Carl H. Johnson is being sought by the FBI in the disappearance of $615,000 from the National Bank of Albany Park on Chicago's North Side, where he was assistant controller.

The FBI said he left $52,000 with a note in a room in his parents' home and $92,000 under a stereo at a local church for his wife.

"I have never asked any favors before," the note at his parents said, "but now I ask a big one. Please look out for the welfare of the boys."

The FBI said it believes Johnson may try to leave the country with the $470,000 still missing.

HEALTH CAMPAIGN

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Public Health Service is beginning a five-year campaign to persuade Americans to eat nutritiously, drive safely and stop smoking and drinking so much.

The effort raises the question of whether the federal government should concern itself with attempts to change human behavior.

"While there can probably be no entirely satisfactory philosophical answer to that question," the PHS says, "it is clear that the government's function is to enable people to make sound decisions about their health, to equip them with the information...to translate these decisions into action, and to aid in the removal of legal, economic, physical or other barriers that might prevent them from acting accordingly."

LOST IN THE OZONE

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Paul Rogers, D-Fla., has enlisted a wide assortment of allies in his drive to ban the use of aerosol cans, which are thought to pose a danger to the Earth's protective layer of ozone.

A rock music group, hundreds of grade school children and others have joined Rogers' mail campaign. The letters to his office supporting the bill included one fifth-grader's concern there would be no fresh air left in the world by the time she is 39.

"Commander Cody and His Lost Planet Airmen," a country-rock group whose first album was called "Lost in the Ozone," has formed the Select Ozone Patrol and will send membership cards to anyone writing Rogers in support of his efforts.

Churchill to be honored in Oslo

CRATFIELD, Suffolk, England — Ivor Roberts-Jones is working at his studio here on a nine-foot statue of Sir Winston Churchill which will be cast in bronze and stand in the city of Oslo as a symbol of gratitude to the British people for their assistance in restoring Norway's independence in World War II.

The statue will be unveiled in May, 1976. — CNS

We Hold These Truths... A Chronicle of America

August 12, 1775:

Declaring that the "inhabitants [of New Jersey] should have frequent opportunities of renewing their choice and approbation of the Representatives in Provincial Congress," that colony's Provincial Congress becomes probably the first to authorize a system of annual elections. As a specific reason for its decision, the Congress — which convened in Trenton on the 5th — cites the heavy tax burden that the incipient war is imposing on the citizenry. For the most part, elections are to be held on the third Thursday of each September in the county courthouses. A qualified voter may choose as many as five representatives from the "substantial freeholders" of the county in which he lives. In addition, the Provincial Congress directs every township in the colony to form a Committee of Observation and a Committee of Correspondence.

Son of Seagram Baron Reported Kidnaped

YORKTOWN HEIGHTS, N.Y. (UPI) — The 21-year-old son of Edgar Bronfman, board chairman of the Seagram liquor company, has telephoned his father to report he has been kidnaped, according to sources close to the investigation.

The sources said Sunday night Bronfman's eldest son, Samuel, called him early Saturday at his Yorktown Heights estate to inform him of the abduction.

However, there were no immediate reports of a ransom demand. Asked to comment on the case, a spokesman for the FBI's New York office said, "We are neither confirming or denying the reports of a possible kidnaping." Yorktown Heights police also refused comment.

However, both the New York Daily News and the New York Times in Monday editions quoted an FBI spokesman in Washington as saying, "At 2 a.m. on the 9th, the son called his father and said he had been kidnaped by three unknown males and said he or they would be in contact with his father later."

The spokesman also reportedly said the son was last seen Friday night driving from his father's home on his way to a party in Purchase, N.Y.

Uncle Sam Wants You To Stop All That Stuff

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Public Health Service this week launches a five year campaign to coax Americans into a healthier lifestyle by publicizing the dangers of smoking, drinking, overeating and bad driving.

The drive, which gives the federal government a new advocacy role in public health matters, is disclosed in a five year master plan for public health prepared by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

UPI obtained a copy of the plan, which will be published this week.

It includes recommendations to restrict the sale of high tar and high nicotine cigarettes, limit alcohol advertising and require vehicle drivers and passengers to wear seatbelts at all times.

The plan would clearly take HEW's Public Health Service beyond its traditional role of supplying information and make it an active advocate of healthy lifestyles.

"The broad view of prevention reflected in this theme... calls for the active involvement of the individual in reordering his way of living to a more healthful existence, and it requires changes in how social and economic institutions use and interact with the environment," the plan says.

"The Public Health Service responsibility, therefore, is to identify and call public attention to the major causes of disease and death in the country and recommend alternative ways to prevent or control them."

The plan singles out smoking, drinking, overeating, dangerous driving, environmental pollution, occupational hazards, infectious agents and inherited defects as targets for special public education.

"A wide range of actions to attack these problems must be undertaken by government and the private sector, either through legislation, research, health education or economic incentives," it says.

The plan raises the question of whether the federal government may properly concern itself with attempts to change human behavior.

"While there can probably be no entirely satisfactory philosophical answer to that question," it says, "it is clear that the government's function is to enable people to make sound decisions about their health, to equip them with the information...to translate these decisions into action, and to aid in the removal of legal, economic, physical or other barriers that might prevent them from acting accordingly."

Accuse Government Of Buying Lung Death

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Every $1,000 of the $60 million the government pays in subsidies to the tobacco industry each year helps, in effect, to buy one smoking-related lung cancer death, Ralph Nader health researchers said Saturday.

They told President Ford the program should be abolished and the money used instead to mount a government antismoking campaign.

A spokesman for the Tobacco Institute attacked the recommendation, saying the program actually "serves to reduce the amount of tobacco on the market" because production is limited under it. If it were abolished, he said, more tobacco would be grown, prices would fall, cigarettes would become cheaper and more people would smoke.

"It is a measure of the intelligence of those who make such recommendations that they fail to perceive this," he added.

The Health Research Group report said there are about 74,300 lung cancer deaths in the United States each year, 85 to 90 per cent of which are linked to smoking.

The government program, it charged, "is equivalent to about $1,000 for each U.S. death caused from lung cancer."

"Like other agricultural commodities, the U.S. tobacco program guarantees tobacco farmers a minimum price, restricts production to maintain high prices, regulates marketing, funds research and promotes tobacco exports," the report said. "Unlike other commodities such as wheat, soybeans and dairy products, which sustain life, tobacco predictably causes disease and death."

Parliament Protects Gandhi in Legal Acts

NEW DELHI, India (UPI) — The upper house of Parliament passed a constitutional amendment bill Saturday protecting Indira Gandhi and all her successors as prime minister from any legal action, criminal or civil.

Information Minister V.C. Shukla, meanwhile, accused a section of the nation's news media of "injecting poison into the land of the people" and said the government was contemplating restructuring the entire Indian press.

The amendment passed by the lower house — by a vote of 154 to 0 — extended to the prime minister immunity already provided to the president and the state governors under the Indian constitution and added a new feature.

An article of the constitution already bars court action against the president or state governors for acts they commit while in office.

The amended article goes a step farther. It stipulates that no legal action, criminal or civil, can be instituted against the president, the prime minister or the state governors for action they committed even before they "entered upon (their) office" or during the tenure.

The measure also states that the officials cannot be prosecuted even after they leave office for acts committed before or during the time they hold their positions.

The bill has no effect on Mrs. Gandhi's court conviction last June 12 for election law violations during the 1971 parliamentary campaign.

That conviction was nullified in parliamentary measures passed earlier this week that bar courts from hearing petitions challenging the election of a prime minister and strike down a guilty verdict against Mrs. Gandhi.

All measures in the current session of Parliament have passed by vast majorities, because Mrs. Gandhi's ruling Congress party dominates both houses and opposition members boycotted the session three days after it convened July 21 to ratify the state of emergency declared June 26.

Information Minister Shukla's statement on a restructuring of the Indian press was seen as heralding a government move to institutionalize the state of censorship introduced under the national emergency.

Shukla told a newspaper convention in Calcutta that some parts of the press were "injecting poison" and said "the government is determined to correct the situation as quickly as possible."

He said, however, that the government had no intention of taking over the newspapers in the country.

Doomsday Book: U.S. 'High Risk Areas'

By DANIEL F. GILMORE
WASHINGTON (UPI) — A new map of the United States prepared by the Pentagon is a chilling, state-by-state atlas of the death and destruction that Americans can expect in the event of nuclear war or "accidental" attack.

Red spots indicate high risk areas subject to direct nuclear attack. Green areas, some encompassing as many as three entire states, show where radioactive fallout is likely. And there are no-win regions where both direct impact and fallout could be expected.

There are tables showing how many people risk being killed in any particular part of the country if they are not evacuated or otherwise protected from a nuclear blast.

The revised "High Risk Areas" atlas was published in April by the Defense Civil Preparedness Agency to help state and local officials make shelter and mass evacuation plans. It reflects not only official U.S. assumptions about likely American targets but the best intelligence estimates of Soviet targeting.

The agency's critics say the reasons behind the book make no sense, and actually increase the risk of nuclear war.

"This new emphasis on civil defense is simply the most visible aspect of the Pentagon's new counterforce policy," says retired Rear Adm. Gene La Rocque, referring to the concept of a selective attack wiping out a Soviet nuclear missile site or other strategic offensive targets.

La Rocque cited recent remarks by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger that first use of American nuclear weapons against the Soviet Union has never been ruled out in U.S. strategic planning.

Kissinger and Schlesinger were not talking about a preemptive "first strike" but the possibility of being the first to use nuclear weapons in a controlled action against military targets during an escalating conventional war or threat of war.

"If you want to make nuclear wars fightable, as the secretary of defense seems to want to do, then it makes sense to have a big civil defense program like 'crisis relocation,'" La Rocque said.

"The administration is engaged in an effort to make nuclear war reasonable and acceptable," he added. "If this country accepts a counterforce strategy it will be taking a big step toward removing the fire break between nuclear and conventional warfare."

Civil defense planners respond that prudence demands the United States be prepared for nuclear war and take advance precautions to save millions of lives.

"We're not asking people to start running for the bomb shelters and we're not trying to scare anyone," one official said.

The agency laments the loss of the urgency and credibility that civil defense enjoyed in the early 1960s, and argues that while Soviet tactics have changed in an era of detente, the world Communist goals remain the same.

The Defense Civil Preparedness Agency, headed by former Gov. John E. Davis of North Dakota, keeps a low profile. It has been working for years with state and local authorities to designate fallout shelters, and is now proceeding quietly on plans for mass evacuation of whole and other likely target areas in event of a major international crisis or imminent war.

Presenting his $88 million budget to Congress in April, Davis said:

"Reducing the vulnerability of our people to the effects of nuclear attack can help deter war by providing our leaders with additional strategic options to resolve a crisis before it escalates to military action. We must modify our civil defense program as strategic requirements change."

His state-by-state atlas is part of the plan. High risk areas include U.S. military installations and surrounding populations and, generally, industrial areas and cities of 50,000 or more.

Listed among prime "counterforce targets" are such Air Force bases as Loring in Maine; Westover in Massachusetts; McGuire in New Jersey; Plattsburg and Griffis in New York; Homestead, McDill and McCoy in Florida; Warner-Robins in Georgia; Grissom in Indiana; Little Rock, Ark.; five prime and 13 secondary bases in Texas, and five in California.

There's not a 100 per cent safe state in the country.

Aside from outright aggression, civil defense must consider the possibility of accidental or unauthorized use of nuclear weapons.

Davis cites warnings by "highly competent authorities" that proliferation of nuclear technology and fissionable material carries the threat that terrorists or small nations might secretly build weapons for use as nuclear blackmail.

"Civil defense would be more effective in saving lives than any other active or passive defense measures," Davis told Congress.

Nicklaus Returns To PGA Throne

AKRON, Ohio (UPI) — Tom Weiskopf said it and Jack Nicklaus agrees. "I'm sure Jack will look back at this year as the year he gave the grand slam away," said

Weiskopf. "Yes," said Nicklaus following his fourth PGA title and 10th major tournament win Sunday at the Firestone Country Club. "I suppose of the four major tournaments, I had a better chance to win them this year than ever before." "The Open I had and gave it away," he said, "and the British was almost given to me."

Nicklaus, who this year has won $248,599, finished two shots behind playoff winner Lou Graham and John Mahaffey in the Open and was only one shot behind Jack Newton and winner Tom Watson who played off for the British.

However he left little to chance in Sunday's final round. He shot a one over 71 for a 72-hole score of 276, four under par.

He went into the day with a four shot edge over Bruce Crampton and after the first three holes, two of which he bogeyed, played like a finely tuned engine until he had it wrapped up. Crampton, who hung in gamely through 14 holes, finished with a 69 and a 278 total, one better than Weiskopf who had a closing 69 and 279.

Andy North, with the final round's best score, a five under 65, finished fourth a 281, while Hale Irwin, with a final round 73, and Billy Casper, who had a 70, finished at 283.

Nicklaus, who said he played the best four rounds he had ever played in one tournament at Firestone, bogeyed the first hole, birdied the second and bogeyed the third in a rather erratic start. But he settled down and from the third hole to the 18th, which he double bogeyed after driving under an evergreen tree, he was near perfect.

Nicklaus, who now has four PGA titles, can tie Walter Hagen for the most PGA wins next year at Congressional in Washington, D.C. "I'd like to be able to tie that record," he said.

Although Sunday's victory was his 10th major victory, Nicklaus said he savored it as much as the rest, except possibly the first.

"Each one adds its own dimension," said the Golden Bear. "Anytime I whip a tough golf course and a field like this, it's pretty satisfying."

Crampton pretty well summed up his feelings by saying: "I guess I'll be in a familiar role in this tournament next year — defending runner-up."

Weiskopf, who trailed by six shots going into the final round, made a quick charge with two straight birdies, but quickly fell back and was never really a factor.

Sunday's attendance was 21,511 on a hot and humid day which saw one brief suspension of play when a thundershower went through. Total attendance for the four days was 69,373.

Rams Outplay Cowboys, 35-7

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Los Angeles Rams were of one mind — get to the other side. They succeeded — five times, to be exact — to romp the Dallas Cowboys 35-7 in an NFL exhibition opener for both teams Saturday night.

The Cowboys will be looking for revenge when the two teams meet the next time for the season's opener Sept. 21 in Dallas.

In the meantime, the victors savored the in, but with some precautions.

"We have a long way to go," said head coach Chuck Knox. "This is just the beginning. We had 80 people in uniform tonight and we'll have to be down to 60 — plus our two College All Star players — by Tuesday."

"It's going to be difficult to cut that many. We'll just have to evaluate what we saw tonight and what we've seen in practice and hope we make the right decisions."

Knox admitted his team gave a good showing, but he also acknowledged his Rams aren't perfect.

"I know we looked real impressive... but we still have a lot of rough edges to take care of before we're going to be a good football team."

The loss was no surprise to the Cowboys' Tom Landry. He almost expected it.

"I'm surprised we were beaten as badly as we were," he said. "The Rams could do anything they wanted on offense and we couldn't stop anyone."

But Landry and his Cowboys won't be sitting around until their next encounter with Los Angeles.

Workouts To Begin

The state's AAA, AA, A and B classification high schools will begin two-a-day non-contact football workouts today starting next week the teams will don pads.

AAAA schools, including Pampa, Borger and Amarillo, will start non-contact work next week and practice in pads the following week.

Area teams to begin work today include Groom, Lefors, Miami, Wheeler, McLean, White Deer and Canadian.

Walt Not Quitting

NEW YORK (UPI) — Walt Alston sits in the manager's chair the same way he always has. His expression seldom changes. He sits with his back straight against the chair and with his eyes taking in everything around him.

Things haven't been going that well for him generally, even though his Los Angeles Dodgers have won their last three straight, but he is far from being defeated. On the contrary, he looks like a winner.

So far, his Los Angeles Dodgers have been a disappointment this season. National League champs last year, they trail Cincinnati's disappearing Reds in the NL West by 15 1/2 games now with less than eight weeks left, but the farthest thought from Walt Alston's mind is giving up.

"That'd be the last thing you ever do," he says. "We're not out of it yet. What we have to do is play better. I have not given up and the first ballplayer on this club who gives me the impression he has, his butt will be out of there so fast, he won't know what hit him."

Alston, 63, is completing his 22nd consecutive year managing the Dodgers. When it comes to uninterrupted service with one club, no other manager around can touch him. He has survived a trans-continental move, a couple of last-place finishes and even a couple of earthquakes and is in less danger of losing his job now than when he was first hired in 1954.

Naturally, Alston saw that four major league managers lost their jobs within the past three weeks, and naturally he felt badly for each of them. Mostly for Yogi Berra because he was a bit closer to him than the other three.

"I've always liked Yogi," says Alston. "We've been buddies, except on the field."

Alston reaches into his locker for his Dodger shirt, puts it on and I ask him if he was ever worried about being fired.

"Funny as it may sound, I never gave it much thought," he says. "When I first got the job, I was so thankful, I made up my mind I wasn't going to worry about something I had no control over. It's been that way all my life. I've been through some good and some bad years, but even in the bad years, if I did all I felt I could, I didn't worry about what was going to happen."

The Dodgers have more good young talent than most clubs. One of Alston's biggest problems is determining which player to use and which to keep on the bench on any given day.

While Alston is talking in his private office, centerfielder Jim Wynn is teasing rightfielder Willie Crawford in the clubhouse, trying to get a rise out of him. Wynn sees that lefthander Jerry Kosman is starting for the Mets against the Dodgers.

Crawford, a lefthanded hitter, isn't in the lineup, so Wynn decides to agitate him about it.

"Yeah, yeah, you can't play against left-handers anymore, jive turkey!" Wynn shouts at Crawford even though he's less than two feet from him. "If you have any guts, you'll go in there and tell Alston you wanna play centerfield."

Dome Screen Choosy About Instant Replays

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — On the opening kickoff of the New Orleans Saints-Houston Oilers game in the Superdome last Saturday night, Billy Johnson romped 76 yards for the Oilers down to the Saints' 20.

Seconds later Johnson's run was being shown again on the six large television screens that hang from the Superdome ceiling.

A little later New Orleans' Archie Manning threw a long pass toward flanker Joel Parker only to have the ball knocked away by cornerback Willie Alexander.

The New Orleans fans thought Alexander had committed interference. They booed lustily and then waited for the replay to show up on the screen.

It never came. "We had the capability of showing that play," said National Football League office representative Jim Heffernan. "But we chose not to."

That set the tone of how the most sophisticated replay screen in existence will be used in the $163.5 million complex.

Heffernan and Art McNally, supervisor of NFL officials, attended the opening game at the Superdome chiefly to see the capabilities of the television screens.

"With time and with some adjustments, they are going to be something," said Heffernan. "The fans really like it."

But judging from the type of replays shown on opening night — and there were close to two dozen of them — controversial calls likely will not prevail.

"A representative of the Saints will control the replays in each game," said Heffernan. "Common sense will prevail."

Although replays in the press box of the Manning-to-Parker pass showed that Alexander made a clean defensive play in knocking the ball away, that play was apparently deemed too close to unlease on the Saints fans who did not like the call.

But there was no hesitation to show other key plays that involved close — but obviously correct — calls.

Many of the replays dealt with particularly violent collisions and a few of the replays showed clearly where a breakdown came in blocking or pass coverage.

In time coaches may use the instance replay capability to help in making adjustments from the sideline. But there was none of that Saturday night.

"I never looked at the replays," said Oiler coach Bum Phillips.

King Runs Texas By Oklahoma In Oil Bowl

WICHITA FALLS, Tex. (UPI) — Clarendon's Kenneth King rushed for 140 yards and led the Texas high school all-stars to a 20-6 win over Oklahoma in the 38th annual Oil Bowl Saturday night.

King, who scored Texas' first touchdown in the opening quarter on a one-yard run, rushed for 140 yards, besting the old 131-yard mark set by Tyler's Charles Milstead in 1956.

Texas took a 14-0 lead early in the fourth period when Henderson's Arthur Tatum hit Wichita Fall Rider's Brian Nelson with a 60-yard scoring strike.

The Sooners cut it to 14-6 after Jenks' Mike Baab recovered a blocked punt in the end zone. But Texas put it away with Rider quarterback Mike Patterson running 24 yards for the final score. The win gives Texas a 23-6-1 advantage in the overall series.

Pampa Pair Ties For 5th At Clarendon

CLARENDON — Eddie Duenkel and David Parker of Pampa tied for fifth with two other teams in the championship flight of the Clarendon Country Club Partnership Golf Tournament Sunday here.

Duenkel and Park tied at 132 with Lamesa's J. Brownles and Steve Krier and Borger's William Blackshear and Junior Salinas. Also at 132 were Amarillo's John Shankle and Barry Fpss, who won fourth in a playoff.

Bobby McAfee and Bobby Huff of Chickasha, Okla., won the tourney with a low ball 129.

But there was no hesitation to show other key plays that involved close — but obviously correct — calls.

Many of the replays dealt with particularly violent collisions and a few of the replays showed clearly where a breakdown came in blocking or pass coverage.

In time coaches may use the instance replay capability to help in making adjustments from the sideline. But there was none of that Saturday night.

Bryant Snares Crown

David Bryant of Amarillo lived up to his No. 1 seeding by whipping Alton Settiff of Lubbock, 6-1, 6-3, in a championship match involving AAAA tennis coaches in the Pampa Open Tennis Tournament Sunday at the high school courts.

Bryant, Tascosa tennis coach, downed Wayne Goodwin of Amarillo, 6-1, 6-0, in Sunday's semifinals. Settiff, Monterey tennis coach and formerly at Pampa High School, edged Slaton's Terry Wood, 1-6, 7-5, 7-6. Wood had previously upset the tourney's No. 2 seed, Rick Sasser of Amarillo.

Borger's Kim Hood, Amarillo colleged netter, whipped Amarillo High's Elise Richardson, 6-4, 6-1, in the women's singles finals. Miss Richardson, in the semifinals, surprised Janet Mason, an AC player, 3-6, 6-3, 6-1, while Miss Hood beat Ellen Dawson of Pampa, 6-0, 6-0.

In men's doubles, Bryant and Sasser nudged Woods a former Pampa High coach John Michie, 7-5, 5-7, 7-6, for the championship. Mason and Hood won the women's doubles crown by defeating Vickie and Lynn Robinson of Pampa, 6-3, 7-5.

Jim Hughes of Pampa knocked off arch-rival Bud Satterwhite of Amarillo, 1-6, 6-3, 6-4, for the Men's 35 Singles title, while Joe Davis of Pampa stopped Hobe Faterec of Miami, 6-1, 6-3, in Men's 45 Singles.

Satterwhite teamed with Amarilloan Don Roush to down Davis and Don Robinson of Pampa, 6-3, 3-6, 6-2, in Men's 45 Doubles. The 35 doubles match between Hughes and Davis and Roush and Satterwhite will be played Thursday because of the lateness Sunday.

Bryant and former student Mason won the Mixed Doubles crown with a 6-4, 6-4 win over Woods and Vickie Robinson.

William Douglas of Amarillo stopped Amarillo's Raymon Roy, 6-1, 6-2, for the Men's "B" Singles championship. Kay Thompson of Amarillo won the Women's "B" Singles title with a 6-4, 6-1 over Laurie Coahan of Amarillo.

In "B" doubles, Steve Webb and Paul Lockhart of Pampa won the men's crown over Pampans Ricky Brazile and Gary Davis, 4-6, 6-3, 6-2. Thompson and Sharon Galyon of Amarillo won the women's title over Pampa's Betty Blake and Dot Stowers by default.

In "B" Mixed Doubles, Jerry Allen, Jr., and Elaine Eddins of Pampa whipped Bob Blake and Becky King of Pampa, 1-6, 6-1, 6-0.

Kerr-McGee Opens Plant For Gas Near Canadian

A new, $5 million, fully automatic natural gas processing plant completed in April near Canadian has reached full operational status.

The Hobart Ranch Gas Processing Plant, designed to gather and process 45 million cubic feet of natural gas and 50,000 gallons of condensate per day, and to operate unattended for 16 hours daily, C.F. Miller, vice president of oil and gas operations, said.

The Hobart Ranch facility is a joint venture of Kerr-McGee Corporation and seven partners. Kerr-McGee, with 44.2 per cent ownership, is the major owner and plant operator.

The facility is the seventh gas processing plant operated by Kerr-McGee but is the first that used the cryogenic method of separating hydrocarbon liquids from the natural gas stream.

Plant capacity for liquid extraction is 150,000 gallons per day, Miller said.

The facility also is equipped with a condensate processing system that permits the recovery and sale of products from condensate that would be lost by venting at well-site storage tanks, he said.

Natural gas and condensate presently are being gathered from 36 wells, and the gathering system will comprise 40 wells by the end of 1975, according to the present production timetable.

The Hobart Ranch Gas Processing Plant produced its first product May 22, and went on fully automatic, unattended operation status for the first time on June 24.

The plant has a five-man staff that works a single eight-hour shift. During the 16 hours each day when the facility is unattended its performance is monitored electronically and the monitoring system is connected to an answering service in Canadian. If a problem develops, the answering service is alerted and a dispatcher contacts one or more members of the plant staff who go to the facility to correct the problem.

Cryogenic processing of gas involves condensation and separation of hydrocarbon liquids by lowering gas temperature.

Incoming gas first goes through two dehydration cycles to remove moisture. The dehydrated gas then goes through the cryogenic process where gas temperature is lowered gradually to minus 161 degrees Fahrenheit, condensing the liquids. This produces the plant's primary product — a single, liquid hydrocarbon stream composed of ethane, propane, butanes, and heavier liquids.

This product is delivered by pipeline to another company which separates it into its commercial components.

Gas remaining after the liquids have been removed is delivered to pipeline companies for transport to residential and commercial heating markets.

Condensate is processed through a stabilization unit which removes salt water and boils off gas vapors. The salt water is piped underground for disposal and the gas vapors are collected and routed to the gas processing system for liquids recovery.

The processed condensate is sold to refineries as a feedstock and blending agent for motor fuels. It is taken from the plant by trucks which load through a self-service loading facility.

Hobart Ranch facility partners with Kerr-McGee, and their ownership percentages, are Mesa Petroleum Co., 18.7 per cent; Western Gas Corporation, 10.7 per cent; Tenneco Oil Company, 10.4 per cent; Anadarko Production Co., 10.5 per cent; Pennzoil Company, 2.5 per cent; A.D. Weatherly, Amarillo, Tex., 1.6 per cent, and Malouf Abraham, Canadian, 1.4 per cent.

Alone at Night

The new Hobart Ranch Gas Processing Plant operated by Kerr-McGee Corporation gathers and processes natural gas and condensate unattended during evening and nighttime hours. The $5 million facility is located on a nine-acre hillside site about 11 miles south of Canadian.

Groups Wage War On Aerosol Cans

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A rock music group, a prison inmate and hundreds of grade school children have joined a mail campaign against the use of aerosol cans because of their suspected impact on the earth's protective ozone layer.

The letters to the office of Rep. Paul Rogers, D-Fla., supporting his bill to protect the ozone included one fifth-grader's concern there would be no fresh air left in the world by the time she is 39.

Commander Cody and His Lost Planet Airmen, a rock group whose first album was called "Lost in the Ozone," has formed the Select Ozone Patrol and will send membership cards to anyone writing Rogers in support of his efforts.

Rogers sought to add to a Clean Air bill being drafted by the House Commerce Committee a provision to ban, two years after enactment, spray cans using fluorocarbons.

Rogers said scientific evidence shows that fluorocarbons in pressurized cans harm the ozone, the atmospheric layer which protects against harmful radiation from the sun.

At this stage of the committee drafting, the ban has been dropped and the bill directs the Environmental Protection Agency to draft regulations on use of such cans after a two-year study of their impact.

Heather Bunt, the fifth grader from Coal Valley, Ill., recalled an article that predicted an end to fresh air on earth in 29 years if the offending cans are not eliminated.

"Well! I'll be only 39 years old," she wrote. "So what I'm saying is we should quit using spray cans so I could live longer."

Hoboes Crown Kid King

BRITT, Iowa (UPI) — The Hardrock Kid, a 70-year-old drifter from Trenton, N.J., was crowned King of the Hoboes Saturday.

A crowd estimated at 15,000 spectators crammed this small north-central Iowa community for the past two days to attend the carnival, art show and other activities connected with the colorful Hobo Convention.

The finale came early Saturday afternoon when several hundred persons chose John Misen, also known as the Hardrock Kid, from a total of 11 Hobo king candidates. Selected as his queen was a Iowa teen-age girl, Adventurer Jan-Jan Denfeld, 17, of Rockwell City, in real life.

Jan comes from royal bloodlines as she stole the crown from her mother, Long Looker Mic, also of Rockwell City. There were three queen contestants including past winner Long Looker.

In capturing the king title for the sixth time over a number of years, Hardrock edged Fry Pan Jack, the renowned Hobo cook, and incumbent king Slow Motion Shorty. Other candidates included well-known hoboes such as the feisty Pennsylvania Kid, Frisco Jack, Under the Bridge Willy, Lord Open Road, Montana Jack, Cheyenne Kid and Sparky Smith.

"I'm the happiest man in the world! God bless you!" Hardrock shouted after beating Fry Pan Jack and Sparky Smith in a runoff election. "Traveling is my life. It's the best education a man can possibly get. If I had to do it all over again, I'd do it all exactly the same way."

Handling the head judge's chore was the permanent king of the East—Steamtrain Maury Graham of Toledo, Ohio. Steamtrain, a perennial favorite at the Hobo festival, did not compete in the king contest this year.

The king was chosen according to the applause each received from the crowd which jammed an off-street parking area in downtown Britt. Each candidate gave a very short speech except for Under the Bridge Willey who favored the audience with a out-of-key rendition of the old Hobo song and his namesake, "Under the Bridge, Willy."

The hot sun beat down on the crowd with a slight east wind carrying the heavy odor of spicy Mulligan Stew. Some 500 gallons of the traditional Hobo fare was served to several hundred persons who provided their own pots and pans before and after the royalty contest.

MONTREAL (UPI) — FBI Director Clarence Kelley warned Saturday that a growing threat of espionage can only be met if Americans are willing to surrender some individual liberties.

Referring to demands that the FBI and other law enforcement agencies cease warrantless wiretapping and domestic surveillance, Kelley said "we must be willing to surrender a small measure of our liberties to preserve the great bulk of them."

"If we do not—if investigative agencies charged with national security responsibilities are so fettered as to be ineffective—then we shall surely finish last in the world arena."

Kelley's unusually tough warning was aimed only at espionage conducted by foreign powers in the United States, sometimes through American citizens.

The FBI chief told UPI he was not implying that domestic political protest groups posed a similar threat.

Kelley told a packed audience at the annual meeting of the American Bar Association that "our national security today is at a very critical juncture."

Later in his speech he said "with regard to our national security, I think we are justifiably alarmed about the increase in the numbers of persons who are engaged in activities antagonistic to our country."

"Faced with this threat—a real threat to the free exercise of the doctrines of democracy—we must have a certain amount of latitude," Kelley added.

He singled out for criticism demands that the FBI obtain wiretap warrants in the courts. Currently, only the permission of the President or the attorney general is needed for the FBI to conduct national security wiretaps.

"We feel that would be unwise in the national security field,"

Kelley said of proposals requiring a warrant.

He received a standing ovation from the ABA audience after his address.

Kelley indicated that individual liberties would be adequately protected by congressional oversight, and that he'd provide key congressional committees with knowledge of FBI actions and policies in national security investigations.

Kelley said national security is too important to be subjected to all of the same rules applying to criminal investigations.

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

TUESDAY, AUGUST 19

Your birthday today: You spend the first few months of this year disentangling yourself from unsatisfactory ties of various kinds. You then settle down to steady and enjoyable progress, and rally your resources to mount further ventures. Once past a rocky early period, relationships deepen and prove their strength. Today's natives are discerning and talented at judging large-scale business or political trends.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Passing confusion and minor compromises affect your business deals. Take the moderate course. Get your team together to start a creative project rolling. Odd news—waits in tonight.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Bounce right along with today's jumping pace, but restrain your impulses to complicate matters. Earnings show improvement, but that's no excuse for extravagance.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Money changes hands rapidly and goes in several directions. Be conservative about yours and leave others free to control theirs. Career problems become important; romantic contacts suffer.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Anybody with a strong emotional attraction or tie upsets your program, but don't goof off from work. Research and reevaluation go well. Home conditions take a giant step forward.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Energetic friends who are busy helping succeed in rocking the boat. Your relationships with acquaintances thrive. Highly emotional people find themselves in a crisis; try hard to be objective.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: You have fixed opinions on all local issues and know exactly what you want people to do. Pause and consider their viewpoints. Be sensible and leave everyone alone.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Spend the early hours redoing schedules and itineraries because of a last-minute change of plans. Avoid haste and be as accurate as possible while you have such difficult choices to make.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Seek a conservative approach, during early dissonance. As the day wears on, you get a good distance ahead of rivals and net some extra profit. Keeping up with friends proves very expensive.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: You revise arrangements once you see how your direction diverges from that of friends. Since they don't agree among themselves, chart your own course.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Stay away from the "bonanza" promoted in the morning. If you have done your homework and have all the facts straight, you can move into a promising new situation this afternoon.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Each person has his own story, but few, if any, relate to you. Resist the urge to meddle. Settle your own domestic problems. Pursue that great romantic dream.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Infinite patience brings you information you need to resolve old and new questions. Make your own financial decisions based upon your investigations. Avoid public attention.

He's not hoping for a college education...

he's banking on it!

Busy Boys Are Better Boys

If you think your son or some other youngster might profit by Newspaperboy Experience, why not suggest that he come in and talk to us.

The Pampa Daily News

Most newspaperboys are banking part of their savings for higher education.

Even if you can easily afford to send your boy to college, you might consider this—the boy who works and saves for part of his education is the boy who will get the most out of college.

He'll appreciate Pop and the checks from home more if he's already had a taste of earning money by working himself.

And while his route profits are important, this is only one of a number of reasons why so many of today's successful men encourage their boys to get the benefit of Newspaper Route experience—including service, salesmanship, collections and record keeping.
