New Cheese And Locker Plant Opening

BIG ASSET TO FARMERS OF THE ENTIRE SURROUNDING TERRITORY

DAIRY SHOW ON MARCH 2 TO FEATURE OPENING

A committee from the Loraine chamber of commerce met with the directors of the Loraine Cooperative Association Thursday night and it was decided to hold open house for the cheese and locker plants on March 2. At the same time a dairy show will be held which will give an opportunity for all who have good milk stock in the area to exhibit them.

Prizes ranging from a registered heifer down will be offered to exhibitors in the dairy show. It is possible that more than one registered heifer will be offered for anyone to show their prize milk stock. Prizes will also be offered to those who visit and register in the cheese and locker plant.

Begin now to prepare your milk cow or good bull for the dairy show, and enter them for exhibition. The committee to prepare for the dairy show is composed of Edward F. Brown, Frank Crowner and Dr. Bruce Johnson.

BLANCHE ROSE WALKER

The Blanche Rose Walker Circle met Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. Dan Butler with 6 members present and we did not have a lesson as this was our regular time for business. We are planning to use each 4th Tuesday afternoon for visiting; our circle reported 10 different homes we visited in Tuesday afternoon.

Let us all show our love and concern for one another that we should for we know that a Christly life is almost irresistible.

MRS. ESTH R. GRUBBS ANNOUNCES FOR OFFICE OF COUNTY TREASURER

I want to thank the people of Loraine and precinct No. 4 for the fine support you gave me in the last election. With your help I was elected to the office of County Treasurer for which I am grateful.

I am beginning my second year and feel that I am now able to carry the work of this office on in a more efficient manner.

I am ever ready to serve you in any way I am able and hope that you will call on me.

Thanking you so very much for your past support, I am hoping that you will allow me to continue serving you in the coming term as your County Treasurer.

Funeral Rites Held For S. D. Dunnahoo

Funeral rites were held Sunday afternoon in the Methodist Church for S. D. Dunnahoo, with Rev. W. E. Moore, pastor of the Church of Christ of Sweetwater officiating and assisted by Rev. J. E. Shewbert and Rev. M. H. Godfrey, who passed away Saturday at six o'clock at the Johnson Clinic.

Mr. Dunnahoo had been in failing health for several weeks with much suffering. He was born in Lockhart, Texas Jan. 1st, 1872. His family moved near Austin when he was a child. Leaving Austin they moved to Carlton, Texas where he married Flora Cowan 41 years ago. To this union was born 5 children, three surviving him at the present time. He came to Loraine in March 1906 establishing the first Blacksmith shop here. This he operated until 1920 and then moving to his farm two miles north of town. He was a member of the Methodist Church for 4 years at one time serving as Superintendent of Sunday School at Carlton.

Besides his wife he is survived by three children M. A. of Loraine, Buster of Corpus Christi and Mrs. Wallace Perry of Corpus Christi and two brothers and one sister namely: T. M. of Austin, S. J. of San Saba, and Mrs. Mattie Brown of Hale Center.

Pallbearers were Russell Cope, Jack Coffee, John Scown, Wiley Walker, Robert Bruce and Virgil Wimberley. Interment was in the Loraine Cemetery under the direction of G. W. Hendrick Funeral Home.

Trucks To Start On Opening Day

CHEESE PLANT READY TO RECEIVE MILK FEBRUARY 15

The board of directors in regular meeting last Thursday night decided to start manufacturing cheese on Thursday, February 15th. The plant will be ready for a few days before that.

in order to be sure that everything is in readiness and has been thoroughly tested and approved the directors decided to give plenty of time for all of these things to be taken care of.

Twelve trucks will start operating on the morning of February 15 to bring in the milk. The field manager will have to go over each of these routes with the driver and get everything lined up which will take some time itself. Every member of the association on each route must be notified when to have his milk ready.

That the farmers of the area are interested in the plant and want to try out the new way to market their milk products is evidenced by the fact that on one route Monday of this week four teen new members were signed up.

OFFICIALS OF ASSOCIATION ASK YOUR COOPERATION

The directors, manager, and everyone officially connected with the Loraine Cooperative Association are duly proud of the accomplishments of the organization thus far and invite the cooperation of everyone in making the cheese factory and locker plant the success that such an organization deserves. Such a plant will furnish a market right here at home for your milk and milk products of which we should all be justly proud. It will take the cooperation of all to maintain the market and the directors are very anxious for you to give the plant an opportunity to show you a better market for your products.

The frozen food locker plant will be the nicest establishment of its kind in this section of the country and the organization is glad to offer this service to the people of this territory. The management invites you to call and inspect the plant at any time and make your arrangements for a locker.

The cheese factory will have patrons in Mitchell, Scurry, Nolan, and Fisher counties who will ship milk to the plant by trucks that travel all over this section. There are perhaps some communities that have not been contacted because of the lack of time. They will be worked and new routes established just as fast as possible.

Directors are Wiley Walker, Loraine, President; Elmer Taylor, Ira, Vice President; U. D. Wulfjen Colorado; Ross Hargrove, Colorado; W. T. Brooks, Westbrook; J. E. Lewis, Dunn; and Joe Hairs ton, China Grove.

Momentous Question Faces U. S.
In Matter of Helping Finland

Places Our Country at Forks of National Policy; Possible Involvement in Current War Seen as Great Peril; Other Nations Might Come Begging.

By WILLIAM BRUCKART
WNU Service, National Press Bldg.,
Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON.—The question of aid to valiant little Finland is a proposition that is getting right close to home. Whether we like it or not, it can hardly be denied any longer that the proposal to extend money help to the Finns has brought the United States to a fork in the road of national policy.

It is accepted as a fact that our sympathies as a nation and as individual human beings are with the Finns. There can be no question that almost all right-thinking persons hope that the butcher, Stalin, and his dastardly schemers meet ultimate destruction. That is the hope. The end, of course, may not be what we hope, but it is no sin to hope for results with which we agree in the matter of freedom for any distressed people. The amazing thing is that the Finns have accomplished as much as they have. Nor has anyone of common sense paid any attention ever to the Stalin's preposterous lies of the reasons for the Russian attack.

But those things are behind us. There is confronting us, now, today, a momentous question. Our national decision must be of momentous importance. This is so because, as I stated above, we are at the forks of the road of national policy.

Moreover, we cannot be blind to the fact that the question of aid to Finland comprehends a decision wherein domestic matters are just as vital as those involved in the international relationship concerned.

I think we can forget about the amount of money involved. After all, the $60,000,000 that would be loaned is a mere drop in the bucket when measured by the gigantic totals with which the Roosevelt administration has made the nation familiar. So, the intrinsic worth of the aid can be passed over.

American Involvement in War Is Crux of Question

Succinctly stated, the question which lies in the background; the footpad that awaits an opportunity to slug unsuspecting innocents; the man-killer that must be watched for is American involvement in the current world war! That is the heart, the crux, of the question, although I believe it is not as apparent as it is real. It must not be overlooked.

I am unwilling at this moment to assert, as a personal conclusion, that granting of a $60,000,000 loan will lead definitely to the brink of American participation in that European catastrophe. But I am more unwilling to declare a conviction that we can remain out of the bloody maelstrom if such a loan is made.

It is a situation so fraught with dangers to our future, as a nation, that almost anything can happen.

It may be said that a gift of money—that is what it will result in for the chances of repayment seem to be nil—will do no more than cause a fresh wave of hatred for us on the part of the Russians and Germans.

Let us picture it this way and suppose the decision of congress is to loan the money: Russia and Germany start a vigorous press and propaganda attack upon the United States. We will be called every sort of vermin that has a name, if the propaganda follows the usual Russian or German pattern. Ignorant citizens of the two countries will be driven to angry passion, willing to do anything to punish America. The chain of events moves to the open sea. An American ship, not bound for warring countries, guiltless insofar as war rules are concerned, is sighted by a Russian or German raider. Our ship goes down. American blood has been spilled. And, the next step?

Other Nations Then Might Come Begging Help From Us

Now, let us examine another possibility. It is this: if we extend financial assistance to the Finns, does it seem likely any of the other nations—Norway or Sweden, if they get into the Baltic trouble, or England or France—will overlook the opportunity to beg help from us?

HELP FOR FINLAND

The crux of the question is the possible involvement of U. S. in war.

Sympathy of American people is with the Finns. But national policy is involved. Loan to Finland would start other nations seeking financial aid.

Selling goods and lending money entirely different propositions.

And, further, does anyone hold the conviction for a minute that there would not be a veritable deluge of propaganda in this country in behalf of loans to Norway or Sweden or even England and France, once the ice is broken by help to Finland. The second point, therefore, is that if a precedent is established by extension of aid to Finland, it is surely possible that loans to the others would follow. I said it was "possible," I believe it is probable.

What then becomes of the iron-clad Johnson act? That law, pushed through by Sen. Hiram Johnson, the California Republican, makes it impossible for any government to borrow money within the United States if that nation has not paid its war debts to the United States.

Finland, of course, is the only one of the world war borrowers that has even attempted to repay its borrowings and so a loan to Finland does no violence to the Johnson act.

Yet, I have a feeling that if the ice is broken, and passionate appeals are made for help for the others on the side of freedom—if those things come about, I am very doubtful that supporters of the Johnson act will be able to hold the line against the onrushing waters of propaganda which our own government would quickly employ.

President Roosevelt, I believe, was a bit tricky in the way he presented the proposal for a Finnish loan to congress. At first, we writers were informed from mysterious sources that there was a drive under way at the Capitol that was to lead to a loan for Finland. There were quick denials of that from congressional quarters.

President Avoins an Open Frank Recommendation

Eventually, the situation was clarified. Mr. Roosevelt sent identical letters to the speaker of the house and the president of the senate. He called attention to American sympathy for the plight of the Finns. He indicated that the bulk of the people hoped that, if anything should happen to Stalin, it would be something of consequence. But he avoided an open, frank recommendation. The President made a case in his argument for the loan, yet he did not follow the usual course of making a recommendation. It was unusual restraint on the President's part, something quite different than he always had done theretofore.

What Mr. Roosevelt did on the proposal for a Finnish loan, therefore, was to say to congress, in effect: "I am for such a loan but the responsibility is yours and if it has a bad flareback or if it gets us into trouble, you will have to take the blame."

The President's course respecting his letters on the Finnish loan had the unexpected reaction of recalling his position concerning repeal of the arms embargo. Most persons will remember how vigorously the President insisted on repeal of the arms embargo because, as he wrote congress, "such a statute is unneutral." It will be recalled, moreover, Mr. Roosevelt and his spokesmen in congress said with a great show of patriotism that this nation must do nothing at all that will involve us in a war that is distinctly Europe's trouble.

Distinction Between Selling Goods and Lending Money

It seems to me there is a distinction to be drawn between permitting the warring nations, or any of them, to come here and buy supplies and pay cash on the barrel-head for them, and the course that is not suggested. They buy them, pay for them, cart them away in their own ships that are manned by sailors of their own nationality. To make a loan of United States government money to one of the warring powers, however, is a national and not a private, act. It is official. It represents a determination of policy by the constitutional methods that are prescribed. These same methods are used in the declaration of war.

There are numerous other phases of less importance. None of them strikes me, however, as affecting the inescapable conclusion of the dangers inherent in the proposition.

As I said at the beginning, I am not willing to assert that extension of the loan will bring about entrance into the war and that no other result is possible. I certainly am not going to say that refusal of the loan will keep us out. There are so many possibilities, so many things that can happen, that I believe we will be better off if we do not make that loan. My position is selfish, admittedly. I have consistently argued that it is a foreign war—not ours. Surely, we cannot help ourselves by allowing our sympathies to control our judgment.

NEWS QUIZ

Can you answer the following questions about the following people? Perfect score is 100. Deduct 20 points for each question missed. Score of 80 is excellent; 60, good; 40, average; 20 or less, poor.

1. Giuseppe Motta, five times president of a mountainous European country, just died. What country?
2. Edwin Carewe became famous as a movie director. Why was he in the news recently?
3. Ignace Paderewski, world-famous pianist, has just been named president of what government-in-exile?
4. Earl Russell Browder, U. S. Communist leader, was tried on a federal charge of passport fraud. What was the trial's outcome?
5. Wang Ching-wei, an Oriental, is about to become head of what government?

News Quiz Answers

1. Switzerland.
2. He died.
3. Poland-in-exile; government located in France.
4. Browder was sentenced to four years in prison. He appealed.
5. Japan's puppet government in China.

POLITICS:
Break

"I am convinced that, with the conditions now confronting the nation and dissatisfaction now permeating the minds of the people, his candidacy would result in ignominious defeat."

Thus, before his United Mine Workers convention at Columbus, did C. I. O. President John L. Lewis score Franklin Roosevelt. Since Mr. Lewis had already blasted at Candidates Garner and McNutt, this latest attack only heightened suspicions that C. I. O. will favor the Democratic candidacy of Montana's Sen. Burton K. Wheeler.

Next day he explained his speech. "I intended (it) to be a distinct jar to professional politicians in the Democratic and Republican parties. I intended it to serve notice that labor was not to be taken for granted."

But though John Lewis thought the New Deal had broken faith with labor, his mine workers did not necessarily agree. Introduced at the convention were at least 45 resolutions urging a third term for the President. Observers wondered whether this indicated a coming break in the strangle hold Mr. Lewis has held over his unionists.

JAPAN:

Treaty Lapses

In a single week the Tokyo government found its relations with two major nations approaching the crisis point. The English were persona non grata for having searched Japanese ships (See GREAT BRITAIN). The Americans were regarded disdainfully because abrogation of the 1911 trade pact went into effect, placing commercial relations between the two nations on a day-to-day basis.

Peace talks between U. S. Ambassador Joseph Drew and the Japanese foreign office were ended abruptly while Tokyo sat on its hands, hoping for the best. Obviously there was no chance for a new treaty in the near future, because state department had Japan right where it wanted her. If the present repudiation proved insufficient to make Nippon quit interfering with U. S. rights in the Orient, there still remained the highly potent embargo weapon.

Although the senate foreign relations committee indicated there was little chance for an embargo (which would hamstring Japan's war in China), there was plenty of pressure forthcoming from U. S. church groups. Why, they demanded righteously, should American scrap iron be used to kill Chinese?

THE WARS:

Russo-Finnish

Helsinki claimed 20,000 Soviet troops fell when the Finns repulsed Russia's strongest invasion of the war northeast of Lake Ladoga. Estimated Red casualties to date: 100,000. While foreign legionnaires swarmed into Finland from Scandinavia, the Baltic states, Hungary, the U. S. and elsewhere, the defenders still had no adequate defense against Soviet bombers, who enjoyed a field day strafing civilians in small mid-Finland towns.

Allied-German

Only four days after Britain's destroyer Grenville was torpedoed with a loss of 81 men, the destroyer Eschmoltz went down in the North Sea carrying 175 crewmen to the bottom. It was her twenty-third acknowledged naval loss since the war began five months ago. On the western front, meanwhile, all was peaceful.

MISCELLANY:

Protest

In Rome the Fascist press complained that the liner Orazio, which burned at sea, might have reached Barcelona safely had it not been stopped by a French warship. At Berlin, under Adolf Hitler's direction, the pocket battleship Deutschland was renamed Lutetia after slipping home through the allied blockade. Its old name will go to one of Germany's new 35,000-ton battleships.

Last Newsmen to See Borah
Recalls How 'Lion of Idaho'
Kept Mum in 1936 Campaign

Didn't Favor Landon, So He Played Ball With Home State Dems.

By ROBERT S. ALLEN
(Co-author, with Drew Pearson, of "The Washington Merry-Go-Round.")
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

WASHINGTON.—The Senator just doesn't seem the same without Senator Borah.

He was the first leader I came to know intimately as a cub Washington reporter 15 years ago, and I saw him last the day before his fatal accident. I think I am the last newsmen he talked to.

It was late in the afternoon. I knew that the President's message on the Finnish loan was due the next day, and I dropped into Borah's office to get his views. Wrapped in an army blanket, he was lying on a couch, reading an article on trade treaties. He motioned me to a chair, which I pulled up near him. On the marble mantle directly over him was a striking new photograph of himself which he liked very much.

Duty Came First.

Borah looked well, but frail, and recalling that during the Christmas holiday he had told me he was thinking of taking Mrs. Borah south, I said, "What about your trip?"

"I guess that's off, Robert," he replied. "Mrs. Borah won't stay if I don't, and I can't."

"Why not? Things aren't so active now. A few weeks of warm weather and sunshine would do you a lot of good."

"Yes, but I can't leave. Those trade treaties are up, and I've got to be on hand to keep an eye on developments. It's a close fight and we can't take any chances. I would like a little rest, but I feel it's my duty to stay on the job and oppose this act."

"What about the Finnish loan?" I asked.

"That's a very distressing dilemma for me, Robert," he said. "My heart goes out to those gallant people, but at the same time I have grave misgivings about lending money to anyone in Europe. Once we let down the bars we can't foresee what it may lead to. We must keep out of that mess regardless of our personal sympathies."

Dilemma of 1936.

I remember another time when he was in a dilemma. It was in 1936. That spring, at the age of 71 and for the first time in his long career, he decided to make a serious try for the presidency. There was considerable popular response, but the machine politicians were against him. He went to the Cleveland convention empty-handed—and he knew it. The night Herbert Hoover made

HE WATCHED LANDON—Senator Borah waited for Alf Landon's campaign before "prejudging" him, but he later confided: "I am not for him."

his speech—which he secretly hoped would stampede the delegates—I countered Borah leaving his hotel. It was past midnight, hot and sticky. "Come along, Robert, and walk with me," he said. "It's cooler out here."

So we walked about the deserted streets and he talked about Hoover, the convention, and Alf Landon.

Doubted Landon's Ability.

"They'll nominate Landon tomorrow," he said. "The stage is all set. Hoover tried to run away with the convention tonight, but they don't want any of him. It will be Landon and Knox, you mark my word."

"And then what are you going to do, Senator?"

"I don't know. I'll wait and see what Landon says. But what I'm wondering is what can he say. He knows nothing about national or foreign affairs. I am told he is a nice gentleman, but the country needs more than that in the White House in these times. I don't want to prejudge Landon. I shall hear him out, but I have a strong hunch I will not support him."

He Didn't, Either!

Borah's premonition was right. Three months later I spent a day with him in Boise as he campaigned for his sixth senatorial term. We had a long talk that night in his room before he retired. I remarked that I hadn't heard him say a word during the day about Landon.

"And I don't intend to say anything about him," Borah replied quietly. "I am not for him."

"Are you for Roosevelt?"

"Well, Robert," he said, "I've got a lot of Democratic friends in Idaho and I think they know where I stand." And then with a gentle smile he added, "That's a pretty good news story, isn't it?"

It certainly was. It was the big scoop of the campaign.

Mannerisms Mark the Man—
They All 'Perform' Off Guard

NEW YORK.—Al Smith jingles coins in his left pocket and the duke of Windsor straightens his necktie. Franklin D. Roosevelt jerks his head sideways.

Call them habits, mannerisms or just plain nervousness, but they're among the distinguishing features you've noticed when famous men make speeches or appear before the newsreel camera. Most of us, great or little, are thumb twiddlers, button twisters, arm swingers or fist clenchers in our forgetful moments.

'This Is the Point.'

A widely known Boston professor used to enter his classroom holding a short, well-sharpened pencil which he twirled as he talked.

"Now this," he would say at intervals, "is the point." Each time he would jab the pencil at the class, until his amused students finally made up sweepstakes on how many times he'd do it each hour.

The late William Jennings Bryan combined his mannerism with practicality. Before his platform appearances he would have someone bring an old-fashioned dishpan with a piece of ice to the rostrum. As his fiery speech-making warmed him, Bryan would run the palm of his hand over the ice, then over his forehead. To break this routine he would occasionally step to the front of the platform, weaving back and forth while the audience gasped for fear he would topple into the front row.

A Monocle Swinger.

Bertha Wells of Boston, who was formerly in Chautauqua work with Bryan, recalls the platform gestures of many other speakers. Dudley Crafts Watson, director of music at the Chicago art museum, went through a repeated routine of talking off his monocle, swinging it around in his hand and replacing it to the eye.

"One woman speaker asked me for a handkerchief just before she went on," Miss Wells remembers. "All through her lecture she stood twisting it in her hands. When she returned it, the handkerchief looked like a cruller."

Sen. James Reed of Missouri used to have a habit of chewing tobacco in the courtroom, while Sen. David I. Walsh of Massachusetts can never speak without thrusting his left thumb into the corner of his trousers' pocket. Ex-Gov. John G. Winant of New Hampshire used to hang his arms straight down his sides and walk sideways across the stage like a small boy reciting his "piece."

Emerson Had It Too!

Such mannerisms are not exclusively a modern device. Many years ago the highly intellectual Ralph Waldo Emerson had a habit of placing the thumb and forefinger of one hand between the thumb and forefinger of the other, moving them gently while speaking. Henry Ward Beecher would emphasize the climax of his speech by rising to his feet and throwing his arms over his head, virtually pulling the audience up with him.

Psychologists who have watched such carryings-on from the spectator's seat don't believe it's necessarily a matter of nervousness. Sometimes the speakers are merely throwing off excess energy. Or, as one psychologist suggested, it may not be so much the energy or the audience as what the speaker had for dinner.

If the Lights Go Out,
Look for a Muskrat!

ADRIAN, MICH.—Twice the headlights of John Bates' car went out and twice he went to a garage to have defective wiring replaced. The third time he suspected that some strange agency was at work so he placed a trap under the hood—and caught a muskrat which had been gnawing the wires.

A General Quiz

The Questions

1. What is the expansive force exerted at the moment of freezing of water?
2. Why is the Latin language used in the medical field?
3. What is the origin of the bugle call, "Retreat"?
4. Who invented the zipper?
5. Which country is the largest in the world, and which has the largest population?
6. How many popes has England provided?
7. Why are not marionette shows popular with Mohammedans?
8. Were garnets ever used as bullets?

The Answers

1. Probably not less than 30,000 pounds per square inch.
2. Because of its unchangeableness, it is an old language and the most universal.
3. It is of very ancient origin and is one of the few known to have been used by the Crusaders.
4. The hookless fastener was invented by Whitcomb L. Judson in 1893.
5. Russia (8,144,228 square miles) is the largest country. China (over 400,000,000 people) has the greatest population.
6. England has provided only one pope, Nicholas Breakspear. As Adrian IV, he held office from 1154 to 1159.
7. Most Mohammedans will not produce a marionette show because, according to their teachings, those who make puppets and pretend they are living characters will be called upon to provide souls for them on Judgment day.

Kidney Action

Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by grateful users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

Edward L. Baker, vice-president and general manager of Baker Bros. Nurseries which are located in Fort Worth, Lubbock, Midland, Albuquerque, and Dallas.

Fifty six years of continuous service to West Texas is the coveted record held by Baker Bros. Nursery. Founded in 1883 by two brothers, the late William Baker and J. B. Baker, now president, the business has continued to thrive and grow until now there is not only a modern nursery established of over 200 acres in Ft. Worth, but also the same type of well-equipped nurseries in Lubbock, Midland, Albuquerque, and Dallas. The meritorious service given to customers throughout these many years and the high quality stock produced is responsible for their tremendous growth and expansion, according to Edward L. Baker, vice-president and general manager of the nurseries, whose father and brother are president and vice-president. "Specializing in the production of all varieties of nursery stock for the particular adaptation to this climate, Bakers' have cultivated lost unusually sturdy and productive breeds of evergreens, shrubs, rose bushes, fruit trees, shade trees and vines for West Texas soil and climate", Baker said.

Thousands of these varieties add distinctive beauty to West Texas regions and bear bountiful fruit to countless homes who have found that the continuous grafting, budding and breeding experiments of this reliable nursery assure them of the best stock obtainable.

A free landscape service, that is done by well-experienced and capable men trained in this field is offered to all Baker Bros. customers in the wide spread territory covered by them, and any one interested in obtaining this service or who should like a free catalog of their stock are requested to call or write any of the Baker Bros. Nurseries of which this territory is served principally by the Lubbock and Midland branches, Baker pointed out.

"At this time of the year, the ground is well-seasoned and weather conditions are right for planting. Home grown, fresh dug quality stock at most reasonable prices may now be obtained at any of the Baker Bros. Nurseries by mail order, as a large volume of business is handled through this channel," Baker said.

Historians Make Expansion Drive

AUSTIN, Texas—A two-volume handbook of Texas history was today named cornerstone for a 1940 expansion drive by the Texas State Historical Association.

Dr. Walter P. Webb, University of Texas historian and author said the association planned this year to: (1) begin compiling source material for the handbook, (2) increase association membership to 2,500, (3) encourage the study of Texas history in Texas high schools, (4) aid libraries throughout the state in compiling Texas collections, and (5) seek establishment of local historical societies.

Recently Dr. Webb disclosed that association plans were underway to establish a network of junior chapters in the high schools of the State to focus attention on young Texans on the rich heritage of their state.

Number one objective for the history society, the Texas handbook the University historian believed, would rank as "one of the most useful pieces of scholarship ever issued from this State."

He said the association also planned pushing publication of biographies of famous Texans and other historical accounts yet unpublished.

Woodmen of the World Celebrate 50th Anniversary

The local camp Woodmen of the World is joining eight thousand and similar units in formulating plans for the celebration of the 50th anniversary of the founding of the society. On June 6, the anniversary date, thousands of celebrations will be held from coast to coast, with a gala affair in Omaha, Nebraska, the national headquarters city, setting the pace.

Parades, pageants, picnics, log rollings—all are planned for this national recognition of the golden anniversary of the Society. Programs will include an outline of the past, present and contemplated service of the institution to the homes of America.

Leading up to the anniversary date is a nationwide membership campaign, the greatest in the history of the Woodmen of the World. This campaign began January 1 and will conclude on June 6, with coveted awards offered to the camps and individual Woodmen for outstanding activity in enrolling members.

A special edition of the Woodmen of the World Magazine is also planned for the month of June. It will contain early pictures and historical data as well as articles on camp activity, field work, hospitalization—in fact, on every branch of fraternal service exemplified by Woodmen of the World.

Organizing Cheese And Locker Plant Is Hard Task

It has been two years or more since the first talk was started in this community about building a cheese plant. It has taken a lot of hard work and some money to get the organization where it is today. The merchants of Loraine, when the project was first started, financed a survey to find the number of milch cows in the territory and then hired several men to solicit members for the organization. A lot of farmers were held and finally the group organized permanently in February 1939 and elected seven directors. The directors made effort to collect the down payment of the stock subscribed by farmers with indifferent success.

Finally, however, enough money was gotten together to make a down payment on a cheese and locker plant. A contract was made with Baker Ice Machine Company for the equipment and a lease signed with W. S. Wimberley for two buildings to house the plants. The buildings were finished recently and almost two months have been consumed in installing the equipment. Now it is ready for operation.

CHEESE FACTORY PATRONS SHOULD KNOW VALUE OF SKIM MILK AND WHEY

Farmers who are contemplating patronizing the cheese factory here in Loraine should know the value of skim milk and whey and to give some light on the subject we are quoting below from Damrow Bulletin No. 1, issued by Damrow Brothers Company, cheese factory and creamery equipment, of Du Lac, Wisconsin.

"The object of this article is to show in dollars and cents the feed value in by-products of milk which every patron of the cheese factory and creamery should know and try to utilize every pound of this skim milk and whey.

"Let us see what the feed value of whey is compared to skim milk:

Solids in skim milk, lbs.	Whey
Sugar ----- 5.00	5.00
Albumen ----- .75	.75
Casein ----- 2.7	2.7
Ash ----- .7	.4

"total solids skim milk, 9.15 pounds; whey, 6.15 pounds, or whey contains a little better than two thirds as much solids as skim milk, and naturally is worth two

Cold Storage Lockers Installed

The amazing growth of the public cold storage locker system in the last few years can be explained only by the fact that it has fulfilled a definite public need. It has demonstrated its positive economic value in every community that it serves. Basically, the modern cold storage plant offers facilities for handling and insuring the preservation of meats, fruits and vegetables over an extended period. Here, in individual lockers, readily accessible, families may store fresh food that will retain its original goodness until used. The flavor of many foods is actually enhanced by quick freezing. Vitamin content is retained. Meat is made 20 percent more tender and loses nearly 80 percent of the bacteria that is present shortly after slaughtering. Housewives need no longer be faced with the yearly drudgery of canning vegetables and meat. With the use of cold storage lockers fresh fruit, vegetables and meat can be enjoyed the year round by everyone. Of even greater importance is the fact that this is accomplished at a substantial saving, for it is estimated that the average locker renter saves $100 yearly in food bills.

theirs of the feed value of skim milk."

Quoting further from the bulletin we find the following experiment made by Milton Stockbridge, Wisconsin:

"Bought eight three-months old pigs from a farmer who was selling whole milk, and was short of feed, and, of course, had no by-products to feed to the young stock. These pigs were pastured for three-months and fed on all the whey they wanted; they received but little ground corn. Mr. Fingle had about 450 pounds of milk and got about 400 pounds of whey daily, which was considerably more than the hogs could consume.

At this rate if the pigs consumed all the whey, 36,000 pounds were used at the end of four months, when they were sold for $138.85. Cost of pigs and ground feed, $48.00. This left a profit of $90.85." If the pigs consumed all of the 36,000 pounds of whey, the value of the whey would have been 25 cents per 100 pounds.

Patrons of the cheese plant in Loraine will receive their whey back for their hogs and chickens if they want it.

Here's New Dignity For Old Chair Set

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

ANY dining room may be made fresh and smart with built-in cupboards, a little paint and inexpensive curtains. But what may be done to bring a set of outmoded chairs up-to-date? The one sketched at the upper right is typical of many that are substantial and sturdy though scarred by long use. All that they need is an up-to-date frock to make them perfectly at home in that modern dining room.

If your chairs do not have the supports shown at the sides of the seat they will be even easier to slip-cover. This cover is of medium blue cotton rep with darker blue for the bias binding and the cotton fringe around the bottom. Large button moulds are covered with the slip cover material for the button-up-the-back opening. If you are not expert at making bound buttonholes, snaps may be used under the buttons. The narrow ties sewn to the corners of the inside of the seat cover hold it neatly in place.

NOTE: Mrs. Spears' Sewing Book No. 3 contains six other interesting ways to use slip covers, with step-by-step directions. There are 32 pages of fascinating ideas. Spool shelves; braided rugs; crazypatch quilts; many embroidery designs with numerous stitches illustrated. Ask for Book 3 and enclose 10 cents coin to cover cost. Address: Mrs. Spears, Drawer 10, Bedford Hills, New York.

Common Sense About Constipation

A doctor would tell you that the best thing to do with constipation is get at its cause. That way you don't have to endure it first and try to "cure" it afterward—you can avoid having it.

Chances are you won't have to look far for the cause if you eat the super-refined foods most people do. Most likely you don't get enough "bulk" and "bulk" doesn't mean a lot of food. It means a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines.

If this is what you lack, try crisp crunchy Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast. It contains just the "bulk" you need. Eat All-Bran often, drink plenty of water, and "Join the Regulars." Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. If your condition is chronic, it is wise to consult a physician.

"No wonder Gabriel knew more about things than I do," Helen said. "I'd know things too, if I were paid a salary for learning them. I'm afraid he wasn't the old palsy-walsy I thought him; he didn't tell me what he was finding out."

Even Aunt Olympia thought it was amusing. She said she wasn't at all surprised; she declared that half the ambassadors and all of the diplomats in Washington were spies. She said, "I give you my word, before I go to an embassy reception I take the safety pins out of the broken straps on my slip and have Hilda sew them on. I'm too proud to have foreign spies looking through me at those safety pins."

"It's an outrage," said the Senator, bristling all over with Americanism. "They ought to be shot."

"Not just for looking at a safety pin, Del, surely," said Aunt Olympia.

On the next Sunday Len Hardesty arrived at Shires, too late for church but in ample time for dinner.

"I'm supposed to be down in Washington touching the Committee for more funds," he explained cheerfully. "We're running short. In fact, we're low. We were reduced to hamburgers last night, though I see you have an abundance of fried chicken here. Farley must be doing all right by you."

"You'd better get along down to Washington," said Aunt Olympia, "or you'll be reduced to canned dog food."

When dinner was over the Senator begged to be excused; he had important work on hand. Aunt Olympia got up and walked off; she was going to take a nap, but whose business was it? Helen had letters to write and Limpy took the box of nuts and the funny papers and went out to the porch. Adele and Len Hardesty, thus considerably left alone, wandered down through the garden and on out into the orchard where they selected a big apple tree, far removed from the house and sheltered by a hedge, and sat down.

For a long time they devoted themselves to the tender, personal things natural to a young couple very much in love, but eventually settled down to speak of other things, of politics, their daily activities, their hopes, their plans.

"Oh, Len!" Adele cried suddenly. "Wasn't it exciting about Gabriel d'Allotti?"

"Exciting! I don't see anything exciting about it, but that they didn't catch him months ago. Quote: 'The lousy worm.' End quote."

"But that he should turn out to be a spy! We never dreamed of such a thing! We've had no end of fun with Helen about it."

"With Helen?"

"Don't you remember? Gabriel d'Allotti was the man who spent all last spring studying the American system with Helen. I told you about it."

Len, who had just started to light a cigarette, paused suddenly, his hand in midair.

"The American system! With Helen," he repeated.

"Oh, it was perfectly all right," she said hastily. "There was nothing flirtatious about it. Helen is dead serious about being engaged to Brick, you know . . . Sh! It's a surprise for Aunt Olympia . . . Gabriel said he was gathering material for a book on the American picture and he got Helen to help him. Though she says he knew more about it than she did. They used to argue for hours about pacifism and armaments and military preparedness and all that. Why, he even warned her against Canada—in an indirect way. We call her the First Assistant Spy."

Len lit his cigarette slowly. "Did she see much of him?"

"Oh, he was hardly ever out of our sight. He went every place we did—not with us! He just met us there by accident, the way you do. He came to the house three or four times a week, afternoons, mostly."

"I see," Len stood up. "Well, beautiful, I've got to be a-flying myself down to Washington, so don't sit there blinking your lashes and looking lonesome, trying to get my mind off the salvation of the nation. According to the papers, Sloppy is taking a few days off to rest his corns. Will you be here the rest of the week?"

"Till Thursday. It isn't for Uncle Lancy's corns. It's so Hilda can get us mended and laundered and fed. It's terrible cooking in that trailer. We all have to work at once, you know, for the sake of the photos, and there's not room for three. Our digestions pay the penalty."

"I'll be over before Thursday. Thank Ollie for the chicken . . . Hamburgers!"

And to think if it hadn't been for the shortsightedness, the hopeless inefficiency of old Sloppy, I'd be with you on fried chicken instead of over there with the brats on hamburger."

Aunt Olympia, shrewd as she was, could not understand Cecil Dodd. In the beginning, though she had certainly made it clear that as assistant director of publicity he was chiefly to take care of the woman angle, he had flung himself into the campaign with such assiduity that she could hardly get hold of him long enough to take the girls horse-back riding. Dave Cooper assured her the kid was doing all right, that there was real stuff back of his gentle smile, but Aunt Olympia felt that her plan had been somewhat of a failure. Now suddenly all this was changed. Cecil had become ubiquitous, constantly underfoot, as Olympia complained. When Dave, who had come to rely on him, flatly ordered him off on certain missions, he went, but with reluctance.

"He's beginning to miss the sofas," said the Senator sympathetically. "That's the worst thing about cushions—they become habitual."

"Oh, I knew he couldn't keep it up," grumbled Aunt Olympia. "These fireworks that go off with the biggest explosion always sputter out first."

Still, Dave assured her, once he was dragged away from the insidious comforts of Shires or the clubby attractions of the trailer entourage, he worked both hard and well, "like a dog," Dave said; "and does what he's told."

On Saturday when the cavalcade returned to Shires for rest and renovation, Dave said he and Cece would go to town and do some intensive groundwork at Headquarters. Cece objected; objected gently, but firmly. He said he needed rest and renovation as much as anybody.

"Call up Headquarters and tell 'em we're coming," said Dave firmly. "Aunt Olympia gave him his hat."

On Sunday, except for the visit of Len Hardesty, which they had come to expect, the day was restfully calm and quiet. And then, on Monday evening, as they were having coffee in the cool of the east veranda, Hilda announced disapprovingly.

"It's Mr. Dodd on the 'phone and he wants Miss Limpy."

You could have knocked Aunt Olympia down with a feather. She said so herself, at least a hundred times in the days that followed. She couldn't open her mouth. She just sat, as if she had indeed been knocked there.

Limpy ran back from the telephone. "Oh, Aunt Olympia, Cece says the Young Democrats are getting up a dance rally at the Fire House and if he comes and gets me and drives carefully and brings me back early, may I go?"

Aunt Olympia, still suffering from the feather-blow, couldn't speak.

"Would you like to go, girls?" asked the Senator mildly.

"Did he invite all of us, Limpy?" asked Adele significantly.

"Um—ah—well—ah—perhaps not specifically. I'll go and ask him, shall I? He only mentioned me—a small party, I believe."

Aunt Olympia came to. "You can't go," she said in a strangled voice. "You can't go a step. And you needn't say 'Aw, Uncle Lancy' for I'm running this nursery and you can't go."

"He says all right," announced Limpy. "He doesn't care about the dance. He says he'll come over and make a report to the Senator."

You call him right up, Del, and tell him to stay where he is and do as Dave tells him. Here I am, just getting somewhere with my extemporaneous speech and now getting all upset about Limpy . . . You call him right up, Del. Tell him when we want him we'll send for him." Aunt Olympia tried to still the under-chin with a few fierce jabs. "With a feather," she muttered feebly.

On Tuesday morning, a surprising announcement temporarily distracted her from her maternal anxiety. Every paper in the state announced that Governor Wilkie had suddenly decided the time was ripe for him to make the most important speech of the campaign over a nation-wide hook-up. He was quoted as saying that "certain dramatic developments in Washington had impelled him to alter his original schedule and since the revelations he was about to make concerned not only their sovereign state but the entire nation, he had arranged for the national audience."

The family at Shires discussed it at length over their breakfast. "It's a fake," said Aunt Olympia. "There's nothing more he can say. He's said everything already, and more, too."

"Maybe he has found some new words in the dictionary," said Adele.

"Do you suppose he'll pause for applause so the listening world can hear the brats wave lollypops?" wondered Limpy.

Before they left the table there was a call from Dave at Headquarters.

"See the papers, Senator?"

"Yes, what's up?"

"Nobody seems to know. But the reports are that their Headquarters are agog. They've hired a college professor to check the speech. Maybe we'd better come out and listen in with you so we can cock up an answer."

"Yes, do that. It's a good idea," said the Senator.

When he remarked mildly that the boys were coming out to listen in with them and help frame his reply, Aunt Olympia bounded clear out of her chair.

"You call him right back and tell him to leave Cece where he is!" she cried. "I can't listen to speeches and look at that worm in the same breath."

"Adele, that's the most perfectly mixed figure I ever heard in my life!" said Limpy admiringly. "It's triple! It's unique!"

Aunt Olympia didn't hear her. "My dear," the Senator remonstrated, "we can't hurt the boy's feelings. Dave says he's working like a dog and making a good job of it, too."

"Why shouldn't he? What is he, anyhow, but a dog, a yellow dog, too!" Aunt Olympia smiled ever so faintly in appreciation of herself. "I tell you what to say, Del. You tell Dave one of them had better stay there to get the general reaction to the Governor's drive—and Cece can stay—and Dave can come."

That sounding reasonable, the Senator started for the telephone. "You needn't tell him it's my idea," said Olympia. "I'm willing you should take the credit."

The Governor began his speech with dignified and disarming mildness. He explained that he had known the Senator for many years, as his friend, and more recently, as Governor of his state. He made it very clear that, knowing him thus intimately, he could not brand the Senator as a wicked man, a vicious man, or a traitorous man. He was merely a hopeless inefficient, a courteous, richly comfortable gentleman farmer; one who knew nothing of "My friends, I do not suggest—nor do I believe—that my old friend the Senator would deliberately betray his country and sell its secrets to any foreign, inimical nation. I know the Senator; he is my friend. He is an innocent, trustful, unsuspecting gentleman farmer, but sadly lacking in political acumen and far-sightedness. Are you to trust to handle the intricate problems of statecraft, to represent you in the Senate of the United States, a man who innocently, ingenuously—and most unwisely—receives as his intimate a common spy? On these points, I challenge the Senator! Good night, and thank you."

The Senator was a good deal surprised. Olympia, scarlet with rage, was at work on her under-chin. Adele and Limpy, who had become accustomed to charges and counter-charges and knew there was nothing in them, snickered a little. But Helen, who had turned dead white, twisted her slim hands nervously in her lap.

"Who's the wop? Ever hear of him?" asked Dave briskly.

"Why, the girls have been talking about him! Yes, I must have met him."

"He never had dinner at our house in his life! He just came to call," shouted Aunt Olympia.

"How'd he get in?" persisted Dave.

"I invited him," said Olympia angrily. "He asked for it and I invited him."

"Oh, Uncle Lancy, it's—all—my fault!" Helen stammered.

"Not at all, not at all, my dear," said the Senator soothingly. "Everybody goes everywhere in Washington. Anybody calls on anybody. There's no crime in that."

"He said he was—writing a book," said Helen weakly.

"Writing a book covers a multitude of spies," said Olympia.

"Uncle Lancy, I—feel just terribly," wailed Helen.

"Terribly, my dear? What nonsense! There's nothing to feel terribly about. It doesn't mean anything. He can't substantiate his charges. It's just another red herring he's got hold of. It doesn't mean a thing."

"Oh, yes, it does," said Olympia grimly. "It means that louse, Len Hardesty, is buckling down to business and we've got to mind our P's and Q's. He wrote that speech from beginning to end."

"Of course," said the Senator. "And Dave'll write me one tomorrow that will show them up in great shape. They can look at my record. I'm clean—on that score, anyhow. Everybody is entertained in Washington, and you can't go around at tea tables sorting sheep from goats."

"Why, that fellow d'Allotti has even horned into the White House. Don't worry, my dear. Dave will take care of it."

CHAPTER IX

On Wednesday morning, after the Governor's speech, they had hardly started their breakfast when suddenly Aunt Olympia bounded onto the porch. She was in her dressing gown, very red of face, and had not taken time to remove the net from her permanent wave; nor to powder, although usually most punctilious about her appearance before the girls. The Senator, his bathrobe draped not too neatly about him, his thin hair standing up unbrushed on a very pink head, was close at her heels.

"Helen," she said abruptly, "what in the world did you tell that man?"

"What man, Aunt Olympia?" asked Helen.

"That dastardly varmint, Gabriel d'Allotti!"

"Gabriel d'Allotti!" repeated Helen. "Why, I didn't tell him anything! He knew lots more than I did. I couldn't tell him anything. I don't know anything."

"There you see, my dear! Just as I said. She doesn't know anything," said the Senator triumphantly.

Aunt Olympia looked up from the papers. Her eyes went first to Limpy, then to Adele and then to Helen. The three of them sat like one piece of sculpture, white of face, wide-eyed, motionless. Tears came to Olympia's eyes. Better betray the nation (and let the army save it, she thought treacherously) than lose these girls.

"I didn't mean to startle you, Helen," she said cheerfully. "Del, ring for hot coffee . . . It's nothing to worry about, girls. Limpy, you'd better eat your breakfast; your toast is getting cold. There's nothing to it, of course, Helen; we know that."

"What is it?" Helen asked, with white lips. "What has happened?"

"Oh, you know how those foreigners are! They love the limelight, even when they're in jail. Not like us Americans who commit our crimes confidentially . . . Fill their cups, Hilda! Del's, too . . . You see, Helen, it seems he told the press that he got his information from you—"

"From me?"

"He did not!" cried Limpy passionately.

"Of course not, darling. But naturally the papers are making quite a splurge of it. They have your pictures and—quite a lot of dope about you, and about us, too, for that matter. They've even got some pictures of him juxtaposed among you; fakes, of course, but it gives the effect. He told the press it was you who told him about our national defenses."

"But I don't know a thing about our national defenses," cried Helen. "Except what I asked Uncle Lancy."

Slip Is Dart-Fitted To Slenderize One

DESIGNED especially for large sizes, this slip (1821-B) assures a perfection to fit that you can't otherwise achieve. Not that it is difficult to make. In fact, it's very simple. But skillful designing has placed darts under the arms, to give ease and not a trace of looseness or bulkiness over the bust. Darts at the waistline mold it into your figure, a smooth silken sheathe beneath your fitted dress. You can make it either strap style or with built-up shoulders. Pattern provides for both.

You'll want a whole wardrobe of such slips, light and dark, and now's the time to make them, when you can get grand values in the fabric sales—luxurious pure dye satins and lingerie crepes. You can afford long-wearing luxury fabrics, when you make your own.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1821-B is designed for sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50, and 52. Size 38 requires 2 1/2 yards of 39-inch material for built-up shoulders; 2 3/4 yards with straps; 1 yard ribbon for straps.

For a pattern of this attractive model send 15 cents in coins, your name, address, style, number and size to The Sewing Circle Pattern Dept., Room 1324, 211 W. Wacker, Dr., Chicago, Ill.

Constipation Relief That Also Pepsin-izes Stomach

When constipation brings on acid indigestion, bloating, dizzy spells, gas, coated tongue, sour taste, and bad breath, your stomach is probably loaded up with certain undigested food and your bowels don't move. So you need both Pepsin to help break up fast that rich undigested food in your stomach, and Laxative Senna to pull the trigger on those lazy bowels. So be sure your laxative also contains Pepsin. Take Dr. Caldwell's Laxative, because its Syrup Pepsin helps you gain that wonderful stomach relief, while the Laxative Senna moves your bowels. Tests prove the power of Pepsin to dissolve those lumps of undigested protein food which may linger in your stomach, to cause belching, gastric acidity and nausea. This is how pepsinizing your stomach helps relieve it of such distress. At the same time this medicine wakes up lazy nerves and muscles in your bowels to relieve your constipation. So see how much better you feel by taking the laxative that also puts Pepsin to work on that stomach discomfort, too. Even finicky children love to taste this pleasant family laxative. Buy Dr. Caldwell's Laxative—Senna with Syrup Pepsin at your druggist today!

LOCAL TALENT DRAWS BIG HAND AT ENTERTAINMENT

Friday evening an entertainment was presented at the Junior High School of Colorado as a recreational project, the performers were all amateurs, and Melvin King with his trombone was quite the hit of the program.

A novelty number "Tom Thumb's Drum" with Reagan Martin as Tom Thumb and Mary Frances Cope, Ruby Jo Marshall, Frances Riden, and Gloria Martin singing. It was a very popular number. The performers were invited to return for another entertainment scheduled for February. These programs are free to the public. Mr. Truett Fulcher is supervisor.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Marshall accompanied the group to Colorado.

HOSPITAL NOTES

Several patients here are suffering attacks of influenza. Some of them are Mrs. Ed Preston and her son Carroll and daughter Mrs. Johnnie Miles, the eldest son and daughter of Jack Linam, and Mrs. Garland Carey.

Harmer Richburg is rapidly recovering after receiving internal injuries when he fell from a windmill last week.

The young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grady Hudson has been a medical patient at the hospital the past few days.

Mrs. Gib Bruce was a medical patient at the hospital the first of the week.

Horace Gipson of Roscoe was a medical patient last week.

Mrs. Fred Stubblefield was a medical patient last week.

Jimmy Hall, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hall, Jr. had his tonsils and adenoids removed Monday.

Tom Graham received a badly lacerated hand last week while working on a tractor, requiring several stitches.

Mrs. P. W. Sanders is suffering arthritis and a severe cold.

MRS. JOHNSON HOSTESS TO WILLING WORKERS

Mrs. Bruce Johnson was hostess to the Willing Workers Sunday School Class Thursday, Jan. 26.

The devotional was given by one of our former teachers, Mrs. T. R. Bennett. Using the 5th chapter of Matthew for the scripture. Then giving the class their past history.

The class decided to put a box at the Loraine Mercantile for the clothes we are to collect for our needy family.

The class voted to buy paint for the chairs and table for the primary department, and a book of Bible Stories. A committee composed of Mrs. Ed Williams, Mrs. W. R. Martin, and Mrs. J. E. Shewbert, to buy these articles and deliver them to the department.

A handkerchief shower was collected and sent to Mrs. Bob Brown one of our former members, who has moved to Lamesa.

The class expressed their sympathy to Mr. Homer Richburg who was injured in a fall, and to be of any assistance they could be to him during his illness.

Social service reports were as follows: 16 trays, 20 visits, and 13 deeds.

Refreshments were served to nine members.

The Beatys will be hostess and co-hostess to the class the fourth Thursday in February.

Contour Furrowing To Hold Rainfall In Prograss

Typical of the contour furrowing work as a means of holding soil and rainfall in West Texas is this scene on the John Treadwell ranch, 23 miles northwest of Menard. The work was done by the Menard County Commissioners' Court in cooperation with S. T. Logan, county agent, and the Texas A. & M. College Extension Service. A road scarifier was converted into a two-row furrowing machine.

In areas of more limited rainfall, the intervals between the furrows are usually increased.

COLLEGE STATION—New records were set in soil and water conservation work during 1939 in 39 West Texas counties as 2,470,321 acres were improved by various practices, annual reports of county agricultural agents show.

In the 39 counties that make up extension district 6—the West Texas area bounded by Gaines, Fisher, Val Verde, and El Paso. Counties—108,476 acres of range land were contour furrowed as compared with 36,599 acres in 1938, according to J. D. Brewitt, district agent of the Texas A. & M. College Extension Service, who supervises the work of county agents in the district.

In addition, 11,887 acres of range land were terraced and 55,925 ridged, while 62,033 acres of crop land were terraced. Midland County leads with 53,826 acres of range land contour furrowed.

Under the AAA range program 328 ranchers practiced deferred grazing on 1,388,000 acres. Andrews County alone had 19 ranchmen who deferred grazing on 209,000 acres.

Cedar was cleared from 79,000 acres, lechuguilla from 56,000 and prickly pear from 709,000 acres. Crockett County led the state in prickly pear eradication with 150,000 acres.

Farmers and ranchmen stored 467,000 tons of silage in 2,248 trench silos. The number of trenches showed an increase of 617 over the 1938 figure of 1,631.

Wild game preserve demonstrations, started only four years ago, now have 1,330 farmers and ranchers enrolled in 97 game management areas involving 8,504,130 acres. The two leading game management areas in the district are Reeves County, with 1,000,000 acres and Andrews, Ector and Crane Counties, totaling 713,000 acres.

NEW FSA WORKER TO AID COUNTY FARM HOUSEWIVES

Mrs. Johnnie R. Mason, of Jewett, Leon county, has been appointed assistant home management supervisor for the Farm Security Administration in Mitchell county, it was announced this week by Regional Director C. M. Evans.

A former home demonstration agent in Kent and Haskell counties, Mrs. Mason graduated in home economics in high school and comes immediately from a position as home economist for a Works Progress Administration housekeeping project in San Antonio.

4-H club work showed an enrollment of 1,468 boys with demonstrations in livestock and crops while 1,900 animals were exhibited at 5 district and 15 county livestock shows.

For the second consecutive year a West Texas 4-H livestock judging team—the Reagan County group of E. J. Martin, Jr., John H. Holt and J. A. Roach—won the International 4-H Livestock Judging Contest. In 1938, this honor went to Menard County.

Five West Texas 4-H club boys—Woodrow Mills, Sterling City; David Williams, Eldorado; J. B. McGuire, San Angelo; Harry D. Rotan, Sweetwater; and Garland Moore of Roby were awarded trips to Chicago for outstanding work.

The counties in district 6, with their county agricultural agents, are Borden, Frank Medley; Coke, H. E. Smith; Concho, R. W. Terry Crockett, C. J. Van Zandt; Culberson, A. H. Walker; Dawson, B. J. Baskin; Ector, Andrews and Crane, H. L. Atkins, Jr.; El Paso, W. S. Foster with Herbert Mills as assistant agent; Fisher, 4-H. Roensch; Gaines, C. E. Morris; Glasscock, V. G. Young; Howard, O. P. Griffin; Hudspeth, Berry N. Duff; Irion, J. T. Davis; Kimble R. E. Homann; Loving, Winkler, Lee R. Pool; Martin, G. A. Bond, Jr.; Menard, S. T. Logan; Midland, S. A. Debnam; Mitchell, Joe C. THE NEW UNIVERSAL VISION LINED TRACTOR

IT'S HERE! — the Universal "Z" — the leading 1938 model for certain! — and, if history repeats itself, as it has many times with M-M Twin City Tractors, the UNIVERSAL "Z" you buy now will be a truly modern performer for many years. It's as far ahead of the parade as was the famous Twin City 2-20 in 1919.

The Z is built "VISIONLINED" so you can see the jobs you're doing far better—and assures the utmost economy on all drawbar, belt, power take-off, power lift, and hauling jobs the year around—for more years. Full 50 horsepower.

The Z's Economy Engine has far fewer parts and is distinctly different. All parts, such as magneto, governor, water pump, oil pump oil filter, etc., that are usually hung on the side of the engine, are built-in features on the Z. This assures easiest accessibility and best operating vision ever offered. No conventional roller chain or base pan. Practically the whole engine can be serviced from the side — crankshaft runs on ball bearings — burns regular gasoline or distillate with maximum economy.

Conservation Course

AUSTIN, Texas—With the announcement that plans have been completed for the incorporating of wildlife conservation study into every branch of the curriculum of Prairie View State Normal and Industrial College in Waller County and for initiating a wildlife restoration project on the 1,494 acres of land administered by the college, conservation education continues to spread.

W. R. Banks, principal of the school, has appointed a committee of faculty members to incorporate conservation teachings into the curriculum. Extensive food and cover improvements for quail are planned on the acreage, including a dozen food patches, fifteen brush shelters and 150 cover plantings. L. A. Potts, director of agriculture, is in immediate charge of the habitat improvement work. R. S. Bird, professor of soils, and two advanced students will carry on life history and management work under the supervision of the regional game manager of the Texas Game, Fish and Oyster Commission, sponsor of the project.

Going even farther in the teaching of wildlife conservation, the subject is being incorporated in the elementary school at Prairie View, Boy Scout work and even before women's clubs. Wildlife will also have a place in future short courses at the college.

It is believed this project will be the means whereby colored people of Texas and other states will be reached with the Game Department's conservation work from both demonstration research and management standpoints.

GAR SCALES AS ARROW HEADS

The fact that Indians formerly made good use of the scales of garfish as arrowheads was recalled recently when two scales, shaped like arrowheads, were received by the Game Department's chief aquatic biologist from a Texan who had found fifteen of them in the stomach of a three-pound cat fish. He believed them to be arrowheads. However, they were gar scales which had been worn down to the extent that they were shaped like arrowheads. Gar scales are composed of chitin, a substance similar to that composing humans' finger and toenails. The Indians formerly used the scales to tip arrows with which they hunted small game.

SURVIVED FIRST NORTHER.

Contrary to popular opinion, whitewing doves do not leave Texas, presumably for Mexico, after the first norther of the year. Game Managers of the Texas Game Department found last fall. It was after the fourth cold spell that decreases in the ranks of whitewings were noted. An abundance of food was still present when the whitewings left Texas in late October.

TURKEYS DRIFT LONG WAYS

Wild turkeys generally locate themselves in one area, but the lack of food or proper cover will often force them to travel long distances in search of new range. During the past season a Texas hunter killed a banded turkey in the Center Point country that had been banded at the head of the Medina River more than thirty miles away, a check of the State Game Department records reveal.

Veteran game observers remember a large flock of turkeys which drifted out of Kerr County in the Hill Country into Sterling County, a distance of nearly 150 miles. The birds remained nearly two years before starting back to their native range.

EAST TEX. EAGLES BATTLE

Bald eagles are rare birds in East Texas, but a state game warden captain recently saw an old one fight with two young over a duck which the oldtimer had caught near Collegeport, Texas. The young attempted to tear the duck from the claws of the vet, but he fought off his young antagonists and flew to a high tree, where he leisurely finished his meal.

Health Suggestions

AUSTIN, Texas — America's public health forces in the campaign against syphilis and gonorrhea are at present concerned with the legion of opportunists who see in the campaign against these diseases a chance to cash in on the misfortunes of others.

Stressing the importance of correct information about the venereal diseases and how they spread, Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, said that "not until every thinking man and woman knows the simple facts about syphilis and gonorrhea, how to avoid them, and what to do if infected, can permanent gains be realized against them."

Doctor Cox stated that some health profiteers were taking advantage of public interest in venereal disease control, and that exploitation of the unwary by patent nostrum manufacturers and other unscrupulous opportunists was unfortunately too common.

"These individuals are seriously hampering efforts of physicians, health officers, and educators in their attempts to conquer venereal diseases," he said. "Until they are eliminated through non-patronage by victims of these maladies plus adequate law enforcement, they will continue to exact their heavy toll of human life and happiness. Such unscrupulous individuals remain one of the barriers to the control of the venereal diseases through recognized channels of medical care."

Doctor Cox stressed the fact that if persons infected with the venereal diseases would go to doctors, clinics or hospitals, they could be cured in a very high percentage of cases and in all cases could be rendered non-infectious to others. The best protection against spread of unscrupulous, fly-by-night opportunist in the field of venereal disease treatment is widespread education of the people, who through ignorance and gullibility, make up their customers.

Calling attention to the statewide observance of Social Hygiene Day in Texas on February 1, Doctor Cox said that the object of the event, sponsored by the American Social Hygiene Association in collaboration with state and local health departments and other organizations throughout America, was to increase our common fund of knowledge about syphilis and gonorrhea and the program directed toward their extermination.

Many cities and towns in Texas are scheduling observances of Social Hygiene Day, at lectures, exhibits, meetings, and displays, for as wide dissemination as possible of information on the control of the venereal diseases, and long range planning for the future.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

By HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D.
Dean of The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for February 4

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

HOLDING LIFE SACRED

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 1:27-31; I Corinthians 6:19, 20; II Corinthians 6:16-17.
GOLDEN TEXT—Ye are bought with a price; therefore glorify God in your body. —I Corinthians 6:20.

Moral action and right living can only be assured on the basis of right thinking. If our principles are right, our action will be sure and our life will be steady. Fundamental in our consideration of temperate living is a right understanding of life itself. Where did we come from? Whom do we resemble? What are the ruling forces in life? To whom do we belong? If he gets these matters straight, any honest man will come out right in his life decisions.

I. Man Was Created in the Image of God (Gen. 1:27-31).

"God created man"—so says Scripture, and all the forces of infidelity and unbelief have not been able to break down that simple statement. The creation story of Genesis stands and will stand. Let no critic of God's Word, no spinner of human philosophies, however plausible, take that assurance from you.

The important point for our lesson is the fact that God created man in His own image; in other words, made him an intelligent, moral and spiritual being. It takes a very glib person indeed to believe the theory (which, by the way, has never been proved) that man has evolved from some elementary substance by way of the animal into his present high estate. Man came from the hand of God ready to take dominion over the earth (vv. 28-30), able to name all the animals (Gen. 2:19, 20), and above all, capable of fellowship with God. Little wonder that God declared His creation with man as His crown to be "very good" (1:31).

Remember that you are God's creation and that you bear His likeness and you will have a high regard for your life. You will guard it, develop it, and above all you will commit it in glad surrender to God through Jesus Christ.

II. The Believer Is Indwelt by the Holy Spirit (I Cor. 6:19, 20).

Redemption at the great price of Jesus' blood not only makes the believer belong to God (v. 20), but also makes his body the temple of the Holy Spirit. When the child of God grasps that truth, his attitude toward his body and toward his life which it bears is revolutionized. Since the third person of the blessed Trinity dwells in me, I will not abuse, neglect, or misuse my body. I will not take it to places where the indwelling Spirit would not go. I will not use it or any of its members to do anything which does not honor God. On the other hand, I will yield it without delay and without reservation to the Holy Spirit and count on Him to empower and use it for God's glory.

The writer wishes to bear testimony that when this truth laid hold of him, even years after he was converted, it changed his whole life. It can do the same for every Christian who reads these lines. And what about the unbeliever? He can accept Christ right now and at once the Holy Spirit will indwell him too. Why not?

III. The Believer Should Live a Separated Life (II Cor. 6:16-17).

We have fallen upon evil days when it seems to be assumed by Christian people that only certain individuals in the Church are called to a life of separation from worldlyness. Men seem to say, "The preacher? Of course! The deacon? Oh, yes! The elders? Yes! The trustees? Well, not necessarily. Church members? Well, some do and some don't." It is felt that it is just a matter of choice or of disposition, and that the failure to live such a separated life is really no reflection on one's spirituality.

That erroneous view must have come directly from the devil himself. Christian man or woman, will you listen to Satan or to God's Word? Read again II Corinthians 6:16, 17. Note the blessed promise in verse 18, and then heed the admonition in 7:1. "Dearly beloved, let us cleanse ourselves from all filthiness of the flesh and spirit, perfecting holiness in the fear of God." As Christians, our response to such an admonition should be immediate and complete.

The command and the invitation are to you, Christian friend. If you will respond, there will be a revival in your own heart, and if all those who read these lines will respond to God's invitation and admonition, there will be a revival in thousands of churches all over America this week. Why not?

FISH FILLETS IN TOMATO CUPS

See Recipes Below

My Family Likes Fish!

"There's all the health of the sea in fish," according to an old saying, and modern home makers find that there's variety and economy for menus, too.

Fish and sea foods are available the year 'round in almost limitless variety. In most markets it's possible, now, to purchase (1) fish "in the round," just as it comes from the water, (2) fish that is cleaned, scaled, and ready to cook, (3) boneless fish fillets, and (4) fish steaks. Fish and sea foods may be purchased quick-frozen too.

If fish is purchased "in the round," that is with skin, bones, head, and tail included, allow one pound of fish per serving; if purchased cleaned and scaled, allow one pound for two servings, and if purchased in the form of fish fillets or fish steaks, allow one pound for three servings.

Fish cookery is simple, especially when you use fish that is cleaned and scaled, fillets, steaks, or the quick-frozen products. Remember, though, that the flavor of most fish is delicate, and that you need well-seasoned sauces and accompaniments to serve with it.

You'll find practical and easy-to-follow recipes for preparing fish and sea foods in my booklet, "Feeding Father." There are recipes for the old-fashioned cod fish balls men love, for delicious clam chowder, and for the other fish and sea food dishes you'll want to serve your family often.

Fish in Pepper Shells.

(Serves 6)

6 tablespoons butter
6 tablespoons flour
½ cup top milk
¼ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon lemon juice
½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
2 cups cold fish (flaked)
6 whole green peppers
1 cup bread crumbs
Paprika

Melt 3 tablespoons butter, add flour and blend; add milk and cook over low flame, stirring constantly, until thick. Remove from flame; add salt, lemon juice and Worcestershire sauce. Then add flaked fish. Place in cleaned green peppers, top with bread crumbs, combined with remaining butter (melted), and a dash of paprika. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) approximately 25 minutes. Serve with tomato sauce.

Fish Fillets in Tomato Cups.

(Serves 6)

6 to 8 tomatoes
1 package haddock, sole, or perch fillets
Salt and pepper
¼ cup butter (melted)
¼ cup lemon juice
¼ cup parsley (chopped)

Remove a slice from the stem end of each tomato and scoop out the pulp, leaving a firm cup. Sprinkle the inside with salt and pepper. Cut fillets in lengthwise strips. Brush each strip with melted butter, and sprinkle with salt, pepper, lemon juice, and parsley. Roll the strips firmly and place in the tomato cups. Brush tops with melted butter; sprinkle with parsley, and place in a greased baking dish. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 30 to 35 minutes. Baste occasionally while baking.

Baked Spiced Whitefish.

1 medium sized whitefish
Salt
¼ cup lemon juice
1 teaspoon parsley (minced)
2 peppercorns
1 tablespoon tomato catsup
1 bay leaf
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
3 tablespoons olive oil

Clean fish and sprinkle with salt inside and out. Place on a well-greased baking pan. Mix all other ingredients in the order given. Open fish and brush inside with the mixture and then spread about ¼ of it over the fish. Bake in a hot oven (400 degrees) approximately 40 minutes.

utes. Baste during the baking period with the remainder of the spiced mixture.

Oyster Stew.

1 pint oysters
¼ cup butter
1 quart rich milk
Salt and pepper to taste

Place oysters, strained oyster liquor, and butter in a saucepan and cook gently until edges of oysters begin to curl. Heat milk in a separate saucepan at the same time. (Caution: Milk should be thoroughly heated—but should not boil.) Add oysters to milk and season to taste. Serve immediately.

Sauteed Oysters.

(Serves 4)
1 pint oysters (large)
1 cup cracker crumbs
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
¼ cup butter

Drain oysters. Add salt and pepper to cracker crumbs, blend thoroughly, and then roll oysters in the seasoned crumbs, covering thoroughly. Melt butter in frying pan and saute oysters until they are golden brown on one side. Turn with spatula or pancake turner and brown on other side. Drain on absorbent paper and serve very hot with catsup or tartar sauce.

Hot Oven Baked Boneless Perch.

(Serves 4)

4 perch fillets
1 tablespoon salt
1 cup milk
1 cup hard bread crumbs
¼ cup butter (melted)

Dip fish in milk to which salt has been added. Drain and then roll fish in hard bread crumbs, covering thoroughly. Place in a well-oiled baking pan and brush thoroughly with melted butter. Bake 10 minutes in a very hot oven (550 degrees). Serve at once. It is not necessary to turn fish while baking.

Crab Meat Sunday Night Supper Sandwiches.

(Serves 5)

1 13-ounce tin crab meat
5 slices white bread
¼ pound Roquefort cheese
¼ cup cream
1 head lettuce
1 15-ounce can pimento-stuffed olives

Toast bread on one side only. On untoasted side, place a generous covering of crab meat — flaked. Cover crab meat with Roquefort cheese—softened in cream. Broil lightly until cheese mixture has browned. Serve on lettuce and garnish with stuffed olives.

Send for a Copy of 'Feeding Father.'

Father likes fish; he likes thick, hearty, soups, too, and hot breads and apple pie, and barbecued steak. You'll find he likes most of the recipes Eleanor Howe gives you in her booklet, "Feeding Father."

All you need to do to get your copy of this practical, every-day cook book is to send 10 cents in coin to "Feeding Father," care of Eleanor Howe, 919 North Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Illinois.

"Favorite Foods for Lent" are budget-stretchers, too.

Next week Eleanor Howe will give you menus and tested recipes for some of the simple meatless meals you've wanted. Eggs, cheese, and fish are first-rate substitutes for that important food, meat, and Miss Howe will give you, in this column, some new ideas for using them.

Star Dust

★ All Is Not Welles
★ Ingrid Has Promised
★ A Musician's Needs

By Virginia Vale
(Released by Western Newspaper Union)

PLENTY of bets were won in Hollywood when RKO decided to shelve the first Orson Welles film, "Heart of Darkness." People in Hollywood were against Welles before he arrived there; they didn't like him in advance, and lost few chances to prove it. It was too much for the film colony to have a man demand the world with a pink ribbon tied around it, and get it.

That was practically what Welles did. He insisted on producing, writing, directing and acting in whatever picture he decided to make. RKO agreed.

And after some weeks of trying to get started, and finally postponing the first picture while a second, "Smiler With a Knife," got under way, it was announced that all bets were off, so far as "Heart of Darkness" was concerned. The reason given was that the budget for the picture—well over a million dollars—was so high. It cost the company $160,000 to settle things up with Welles and the cast that he had assembled for the filming of the Conrad classic.

And various Hollywoodites are collecting bets made with friends who were sure that the picture would reach the screen.

When Ingrid Bergman arrived recently in New York on her way back to Hollywood to make "Joan of Arc," she made two definite statements to the press. (1) If she becomes famous she will not forget her husband, back in Stockholm. (2) During this stay in the United States she absolutely will not lose her head over American ice cream, as she did the last time she was here.

As a matter of fact, she has already become famous. Contrary to custom, she was introduced to the public in her first American picture, "Intermezzo," without the usual ballyhoo. She saved the picture, despite the fact that Leslie Howard, Edna Best, and two enchanting children were also in the cast—and an enchanting child can give the most experienced actress the toughest kind of opposition.

Miss Bergman should be perfect for "Joan of Arc"; her beauty, talent and sincerity make it fitting that the role should be hers.

ODDS AND ENDS—The boys in Johnny Green's "Johnny Presents" orchestra have discovered a new way of relaxing after rehearsals; they hold a jam session on toy instruments. . . . Robert Taylor got the coveted role of the hero of "Waterloo Bridge," opposite Vivian Leigh; it was rumored that Laurence Olivier, the hero of her private life, might get it. . . . Green Carson, instead of Norma Shearer, will do "Pride and Prejudice." . . . So Joan Crawford gets the lead in "Susan and God," for which Miss Carson was scheduled. . . . And Miss Shearer will do the film version of the Broadway success, "The World We Make." . . . Three cheers! Walt Disney has finished camera work on "Pinocchio" after two years; it will probably be released late in February.

The aim of many a student musician is to land a job in radio, preferably on a network staff orchestra. It's a 52-week a year job, at a substantial salary, offering a degree of security difficult to find anywhere else in music.

Frankie Masters, who has been conducting dance bands on the air for more than a decade, offers his advice to those trying to do it.

"Don't expect to get anywhere just on your ability to play one type of music well on one instrument," he says. "A staff musician's daily work covers a range from swing to symphony, and the musician who can't encompass that range hasn't a chance. And there's a constant demand for men who can play two or more instruments."

Joan Bennett seems to have been the very well dressed bride when she married Walter Wanger, the producer, in Phoenix, Ariz. She wore a beige jersey sports dress and a beaver hat and coat. And for the third time she selected a groom a good bit older than she was.

Until almost the last minute it was generally supposed that she would marry one of New York's young men about town. But that would have meant giving up her career—and when you have young children, it's nice to have a career.

Mystic Had Come Short On That Routing Service

The man sat with his hand outstretched as the fortune-teller read his palm.

"See that line?" asked the mystic, pointing to the fellow's palm. "That means that you are going to take a trip in the very near future. To Chicago, perhaps."

When he left the fortune-teller the fellow hurried to the railway station.

"A ticket to Chicago," he directed.

"Right, sir," replied the clerk. "Single or return?"

The fellow stuck out his palm. "I don't know," he said. "Take a look!"
