IN ALL IT'S FURY — This deadly tornado is shown moving toward Wichita Falls, Texas, Tuesday afternoon. The gigantic funnel wreaked havoc on this Texas town leaving at least 44 known dead and causing damage in the millions.

Mayor fears fires, deaths

WICHITA FALLS, Texas (AP) — Stunned by loss of life and crippled by power outages, Wichita Falls limped toward normal today while its mayor remained fearful of fires and an increase in the number of deaths caused by a mammouth killer tornado.

Mayor Kenneth Hill said power had been restored to about 50 percent of the city's 100,000 residents but water pressure was still too low to fight fires from the city's hydrants.

Hill said the death count remains at 42. But, he said, it still could rise to 100. No more bodies had been found by late this morning, he added.

As many as 8,000 residents were left homeless, the mayor estimated. He said there was no estimate yet as to how many were missing. Hundreds of persons were injured, and power and water in all of the city were knocked out for 24 hours.

Residents in Vernon, where a twister killed 11 and caused heavy property damage, and Harrold, where one died in a tornado, also tried to get their lives and property back in shape.

Dozens of search teams, bolstered by airmen from nearby Sheppard Air Force Base, continued today to comb Wichita Falls' ravaged area, a swath eight miles long and more than a mile wide in some areas through the heavily populated southern sections of the city.

"Maybe I'm speaking more from a standpoint of fear than knowledge. I just don't see how we can keep from having more (deaths). It's a huge area," Hill said.

"We'd been in terrible shape if we had had a fire. We'd just have to let it burn," he said.

An emergency curfew aimed at preventing looting was in effect in the city last night. Hill said three persons — two adults and one juvenile — were arrested and charged with looting.

"That's really not many at all," the mayor said.

Except for Red Cross shelters and National Guard jeeps, the downtown area appeared virtually normal today. Traffic signals again were operating, some gas stations were pumping precious fuels and retail businesses were open.

As reports of looting and price gouging flowed in, the city council passed the emergency curfew ordinance Wednesday night setting a citywide curfew and freezing the costs on all essential items.

Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, returned to his hometown and said, "I've seen the damage of hurricanes, a tornado, of American bombers over Japan, but I never have seen one equal to this in terms of damage."

Texas Gov. Bill Clements toured the site by helicopter Wednesday and estimated damages between $200 and $300 million. He said he would ask for federal disaster aid.

More than 500 persons were crammed into the rooms and wards and halls of Wichita Falls' two hospitals. James Lee, medical coordinator for the Red Cross, said all would require surgery, hospitalization and extended doctors' care.

Another 200 persons were treated for minor injuries at emergency aid stations.

About 60 persons were hurt in the Vernon twister.

Partial power was restored Wednesday night in downtown Wichita Falls, but the residential areas were still dark.

This tornado was the worst in Texas since May 11, 1953, when a twister swirled across downtown Waco, in the heart of the state, killing 114 persons, injuring 597 and leaving behind $41.1 million in damage.

After the curfew, the devasted southern section of the city was dark and silent, bathed only in the faint light of a full moon, dimmed by a dust storm and the glow of undamaaged neighborhoods nearby.

Two police helicopters flew over the area, using searchlights to probe for looters.

DPS releases list of tornado victims

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Texas Department of Public Safety has released the names of 42 persons known to be victims of the tornado in Wichita Falls and of 11 persons known dead at Vernon.

The DPS revised its list Wednesday night, saying four names should be stricken from its previous fatality list: Joe Ayers, whose body later was identified as that of Harry L. Jones; Renee Graves; a Mrs. Leach; and Christy Reasor.

The DPS also revised three names: a Mrs. Glance should be spelled Mrs. Glantz; Terry Swift should be shown as Audrey Michelle Swift; and Kerry Swift should be shown as Kari Marcia Swift.

The death list:

11. Ben Willis, Wichita Falls.

President Carter declares Texas major disaster area

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter today declared Texas a major disaster area as a result of the tornadoes and other severe storms that hit the state Tuesday and Wednesday.

Carter's declaration, issued by the White House shortly after the president left for an Easter vacation in Georgia, will make federal funds available for relief and recovery efforts in designated areas of the state.

The federal assistance from the president's Disaster Relief Fund will include aid for disaster victims as well as funds for debris removal and the repor of damaged public facilities.

In addition, low-interest-rate loans will be made available by the Small Business Administration and emergency loan aid will be made available by the Farmers Home Administration.

Texas Gov. Bill Clements estimated the cost of rebuilding at up to $300 million.

Sen. Tower returns to ravaged hometown

WICHITA FALLS, Texas (AP) — Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, who has seen the damage inflicted by three hurricanes, the Lubbock tornado of 1970 and American bombers in Japan, returned to his tornadoravaged hometown Wednesday and said the devastation was the worst he had seen since World War II.

Tower said he was a member of the American Occupation Force in September 1945 that took over Aomori, Japan, a city of 100,000 that was heavily damaged by American bombers.

Wichita Falls, also a city of 100,000, was slashed by a tornado Tuesday.

"This is reminiscent of what our bombers did to that town," Tower said after reviewing the city. "I've seen the damage from Hurricanes Carla, Beulah and Celia, and the tornado in Lubbock.

"But I've never seen one to equal this — including the hurricanes — in terms of wind damage. Of course there was water damage with the hurricane," he said.

Tower a former professor at Midwestern State University near the devastated southern section of Wichita Falls, no longer owns any property in his hometown. He has been a senator since 1961.

109 confirmed deaths in two months

Islamic forces execute eight more today

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's firing squads executed eight more of the shah's men in the provinces today, raising the confirmed total to 109 in two months of Islamic power.

Tehran's Kayhan newspaper reported that revolutionary gunmen rounded up 141 persons in Tehran and elsewhere over the past three days, including an ex-deputy prime minister, two senators, university professors and a Moslem clergyman.

More than 4,000 persons are believed held in a central Tehran prison on various charges leveled by Khomeini's revolutionary government, but the exact number here and in other jails around the country is not known.

The state radio said Mahmoud Moini, former chief of the SAVAK secret police in the holy city of Qom, was executed at 1 a.m. on charges of "corruption to the core, fighting against clergymen and warring with God and his emissaries."

The radio said a new revolutionary court in the northwestern city of Zanjan found army officer Abbas Kamali, 53, guilty at 4:28 a.m. of being "corrupt to the core" and had him executed immediately.

In the southwestern oil center of Ahwaz, four others were executed at 4:25 a.m. on the same charge, the radio said. They were the former mayor of the city of Boostan, Shaey Mazrae; Mazrae's brother, Hamid; Ali Reza Shojai, not further identified; and Hossein Rahimi, a military officer involved in energy work.

Teamsters angry with Carter's adviser

WASHINGTON (AP) — Angry Teamsters officials say President Carter's inflation adviser is encouraging a rank-and-file contract rejection by hailing the union's tentative agreement with the trucking industry as a victory for the president's elastic wage guidelines.

"This idiot out there is trying to shoot down our contract with his idiotic statements," union spokesman Bernard Henderson charged Wednesday after inflation adviser Alfred Kahn declared that the settlement meets Carter's 7 percent pay raise standard even though the union and industry estimated wage and benefit increases totaled more than 9 percent a year.

Kahn also said the increase in wages and fringe benefits in the new contract is "substantially less" on a percentage basis than in the last contract negotiated by the union.

That comment in particular threw Teamsters President Frank Fitzsimmons into a rage, said union spokesman Henderson.

It is understood that other administration officials also were alarmed by Kahn's statements, fearing a rank-and-file backlash that would send negotiators to the bargaining table once more in search of a settlement that, the next time around, would break the guidelines.

"It's as if he (Kahn) is deliberately trying to sabotage ratification," said Henderson, who called Kahn's comparisons between the new and old contracts "absolutely, totally incorrect."

A Kahn aide later acknowledged the new contract might provide more new money than the old pact.

Henderson said it will take about four to six weeks to complete a ratification vote.

Meanwhile, the union and major trucking firms prepared to resume normal operations today for the first time since April 1, when the two sides became locked in a nationwide work stoppage over the contract dispute.

The two sides agreed to end an industry lockout of striking Teamsters after reaching tentative agreement on a new three-year contract late Tuesday.

Focalpoint

Action / reaction: Runoff registration

Q. Is it possible to register in time to vote in the city commission runoff? If so, what are the date deadlines?

A. Voters must be registered 30 days before an election. The city commission runoff is April 28 so the date deadline was March 29.

Tops on TV: 'The Robe'

NBC will try to boost its anemic ratings with the premiere of "Highcliffe Manor" at 7:30 p.m. It stars Shelley Fabares (remember "The Donna Reed Show"?) as a widow who inherits a castle full of wierdos. Fans of religious epics shouldn't miss one of the best, "The Robe," airing at 10:30 p.m. on ABC. Richard Burton comes off very well as the Roman soldier who wins Christ's robe in a dice game.

Calendar: Chancel choir concert

TODAY

The Chancel Choir of First Christian Church performs a musical narrative, "The Week That Shook the World," at 7 p.m. today at the church at 911 Goliad. There will also be a candlelight communion worship service.

Big Spring Independent School District Board members will meet Thursday at 5:15 p.m. in the board room of the high school.

The local chapter of the Texas Nurses Association will meet at 7:30 p.m. in the Refrence Library of the Horace Garrett Building at Howard College. The annual convention in Dallas will be discussed.

Inside: Mass looting

UGANDAN CITIZENS, amidst invading Tanzanian forces, are looting every house, business or establishment that they can get into and no one is doing anything to stop them. See page 7-A.

Texas is still the place to be

In a recessionary period, Texas is the place to be. So says Texas Business Magazine.

Even though the nation's best minds in economics and government range business conditions from tepid to terrible, the bloom is not off the boom in the Lone Star State, according to the publication.

THE MAGAZINE'S staff has painstakingly pieced together its recent special issue, using scores of experts from business, government and academia in the state as its source.

The state is still growing — anywhere from 22,000 to 24,000 a month. Already the fastest growing of the nation's ten largest states, Texas passed 13 million last year and the rate is accelerating.

Almost half of the population gain in recent years is attributed to in-migration, yet the large influx of new workers and their families — a net gain of more than 870,000 since 1970 — has failed to materially change Texas' traditionally low unemployment rate or to inhibit average annual growth in personal income.

Unemployment in the state is well below the nation's average — 4.8 percent as compared to 5.8 percent for the country as a whole. Personal income in Texas has been rising at 11.6 percent annually since 1969, compare to 9.4 percent nationally. Collectively, in 1978, income in Texas rose 13.5 percent to $99.06 billion from 1977's $87.28 billion.

SOFTENING IS beginning to show in some sectors, according to Texas Business Week. That is particularly true in residential construction and the declines in such construction in some of the biggest metropolitan areas in alarming — 63 percent in Dallas, 81 percent in Houston and 11 percent in Austin during the month of January.

Money and mortgage credit availability have been hard to come by everywhere, says the magazine.

A Houston observer reminds that a great strength of the Texas economy is its diversity. "The balanced blend of agriculture, manufacturing and mining make the state economy less suspectible to the cyclical fluctations that afflict many other areas."

The state has any number of things going for it, not the least of which are its location, its climate and the fact that it remains the nation's chief source of domestic energy. That's a combination hard to beat.

Margaret's confessions

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — In Margaret Trudeau's discreet book, "Beyond Reason," she reveals that she fell in love with another man when she visited New York with her husband, Canada's Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau, to attend the RFK Pro-Celebrity Tennis Tournament. Without naming the person, she describes him as a Southern gentleman, who was tremendously handsome, charming, a terrific dancer and a passionate person.

Since I was at the RFK Pro-Celebrity Tennis party that year, I feel I owe it to the people of Canada to issue an unequivocal denial that I was the chap who played a role in breaking up the Trudeau marriage.

IT'S TRUE that Margaret and I did dance that evening and, while she may have been smitten with my savior-faire, I did nothing to encourage her to think there was the slightest chance of our having a more intimate relationship. Friends who know about my personal indiscretions will testify that I have never made a pass at the wife of a head of state in all the years I have been playing tennis.

There are many reasons for this. One is that I know how easy it is for a woman who has to attend one official function after another to fall hopelessly in love with somebody like myself. But I am also aware that she is not falling in love with me but with my tremendous serve and my defensive lob.

It's hard for many women to believe that off the court I am just like anybody else, and while they fantasize about my vicious backhand and unbelievable drop shots, I still put on my sneakers one foot at a time.

IT'S TRUE THAT while we tangoed Margaret did reveal to me that all was not going well in Ottawa between her and Pierre. But I thought she was talking about tennis. Many women who play tennis find their husbands are not up to the game, and they tend to look for happiness in someone with a faultless overhead.

A smart player will not be taken in by this flirtation. The stakes are too high. If I ever decided to have a fling with the wife of a head of state, it could be so time-consuming that I might easily let my volley shots go to pot.

Many people have asked me, "Well, if you weren't the person at the RFK party, then who was it?"

It's hard for me to say. There were at least 200 people at the party, 50 of whom could fit the description. The Southern gentleman part of it is a red herring, because most Canadians think anything below the Canadian border is south. Also, Margaret could be disguising the man with whom she fell so madly in love. For all I know it might have been Buddy Hackett or Rosie Grier or Howard Cosell.

I do recall that during one fox trot Margaret asked me, "Who is that beautiful senator sitting with Ethel Kennedy?"

"That's Jack Javits of New York," I told her. Yet when I think back on it, I don't believe Jack and Margaret said two words to each other all night.

The revelations in Mrs. Trudeau's book came as a surprise to all of us who have had anything to do with the RFK Pro-Celebrity Tennis Tournament. Because the party precedes the tournament and is held on a Friday evening, Ethel Kennedy has a strict rule that anyone playing in her tournament has to be in bed with lights out by midnight.

I can understand why many people would suspect that I was the great love in Margaret's life, as it seems likely that she would fall for the top-seeded celebrity in the tournament. But anyone who knows how much I love tennis will tell you that if I have the choice of a romance with the wife of the Prime Minister of Canada or being in top physical shape to play the next day, I will always be asleep by 11 o'clock.

Menstruation lack-- primary or secondary?

Paul E. Ruble, M.D.

Dear Dr. Ruble: Please explain the difference between primary amenorrhea and secondary amenorrhea. My doctor says I have the primary kind. — G.W.

Amenorrhea is the absence of menstruation. When the doctor says yours is primary he just means that you never have menstruated. The other kind, secondary amenorrhea, means that a woman who had established her menstruation had it stop because of some secondary problem.

The causes of primary amenorrhea are many. Some are related to an abnormality in the uterus, others to faulty hormone production, a glandular problem. The uterus may have developed abnormally or the ovaries or pituitary gland may be defective. That does not always mean the problem originated at birth, though. Tumors of the ovaries or of the other glands may have developed in the early pre-pubertal years.

Secondary amenorrhea is caused by the development of a disease of the same glands after a woman's menstruation has begun. Such things as severe and sudden weight loss, anemia, diabetes, overactive thyroid, fear, tension, or use of bith control pills may cause absence of menstruation of the secondary type. Anything that inhibits established menstruation falls into that category.

Dear Dr. Ruble: I am addicted to Excedrin. I am almost positive about it. Doctors have found I have an ulcer. I am scared to tell my personal doctor about this, but I have a hunch this is what caused the ulcer. He always asks if I'm taking aspirins. I say no. What can I do to overcome this addiction? — P.L.

How much of the product are you taking? Your doctor is talking about aspirin and you are talking about a product that contains aspirin. Excedrin is a combination of drugs containing aspirin and caffeine. Both of those ingredients should be avoided by people who have ulcers.

If you have headaches there are substitutes (such as acetominophen) that are less irritating to the stomach.

Aspirin in any form is not addictive. Other terms such as "habit" are more appropriate. Another condition worth investigating is called "pica."

Some people consume large amounts of strange substances (cornstarch, ice, etc.) for no particular reason except compulsion. Some just get hooked on the taste. This very likely is what happened to you. With pica there is often a nutritional deficiency in the background.

Tell your doctor about the whole business. There is nothing wrong with these products when they are used sensibly by patients who have no ulcer. For some other ulcer tips, I have a booklet I can mail to you. "How to Heal Ulcers and Keep Them Healed." For a copy send 25 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me care of the Big Spring Herald.

Dear Dr. Ruble: I am puzzled about the advice given to people with a history of diabetes in their families. The advice is always to keep weight down, but a reduction in sugar intake is never mentioned. I don't understand this. I realize all foods have sugars, but shouldn't the potential diabetic cut down on pies, cakes, candies, etc.? Am I off the track? — P.K.

The purpose of the diet is to keep weight down to normal. Doing that through a balanced diet eliminates the danger of ingesting too many carbohydrates (starches). Too many carbohydrates (as from pies, cakes, etc.) would mean that something is being sacrificed, and that is usually protein. One can only eat so much food, after all. So you are not off the track. Some authorities advise total elimination of refined sugar, the kind you get from the sugar bowl and which contains what are called "empty" calories.

Good eating habits, established early by the person with diabetes in the family history, may be a blessing for the future. I'll discuss diabetes control and diet in a later column.

Dear Dr. Ruble: Is there an ideal time for a woman to have an IUD put in place? Does a woman have to have had a baby before it can be done? — J.D.

The IUD (intrauterine device — for birth control) is usually implanted in the uterus at the end of a menstrual period or after delivery. A woman would not want one installed unless she was sure she was not pregnant. The installation is easier for the woman who has gone through childbirth, but it is not a requirement by any means.

Never take a chance on diabetes! For a better understanding of this disease, write to Dr. Ruble in care of the Big Spring Herald, for a copy of his booklet, "Diabetes — The Sneaky Disease." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Ruble welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Was war chant misinterpreted?

Idi Amin, the Ugandan president who may shortly be disenfranchised, reportedly visited the war front in his nation's struggle against neighboring Tanzania.

The eccentric dictator is reported to have found his troops 'ready to fight to 'he last man.'

What he probably heard was the 'last Amin.'

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Does God have a body? If not, what does it mean when the Bible says man is made in the image of God? — M. T. W.

DEAR M.T.W.: No, God does not have a physical body. The Bible says, "God is spirit, and his worshipers must worship in spirit and in truth" (John 4:24, New International Version). It is true, of course, that the Bible often talks God in human terms, such as mentioning the "voice" of God — but these are to help us understand God better. One reason the Bible forbids the making of idols is that God is higher than any created thing and any idol of Him is untrue.

God, the Bible says, is the One "who alone is immortal and who lives in unapproachable light, whom no one has seen or can see" (1 Timothy 6:16, NIV). He is "the King eternal, immortal, invisible, the only God" (1 Timothy 1:17, NIV). Everything material is not eternal nor immortal — it was created by God.

The Bible tells us that in the beginning "God said, Let us make man in our image, after our likeness . . . So God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he male and female created he them" (Genesis 1:26-27). This, the Bible indicates, refers especially to man's spiritual nature. We are more than physical beings — we have a spiritual nature also because we bear the image of God himself. You are here because God created you and gave to the human race His image — His likeness.

But the Bible says we have turned against God. The Bible calls this sin, and it says that sin has marred the image God gave us. Now God has sent His Son into the world to restore us to Himself. Now we are called "to be confronted to the image of his Son" (Romans 8:29), and that will happen as we seek to follow Him.

Motherhood

Around the rim

Eileen McGuire

I forgot who said it, but someone recently told me that he forgot who said it, but someone else once said that when she marveled at the works of God, it wasn't the mountains or the oceans or the trees that awed her, but the tiny things He created — like ants, a blade of grass and new babies.

What I marvel at is the mothers of new babies, old babies, young children, older children or a combination of the four. I appreciate the working mother's lot, but now, after four weeks of "vacation" with my newborn, it's the stay-at-home nurturer and hearth warmer that I marvel at.

I THINK THAT sometimes us working moms tend to slight the woman who elects to stay at home full-time with her offspring and oven. Our society has indoctrinated us to classify anything for which we are paid as "work" while other activities fall into categories ranging from "chores" to "leisure." Before recent years of consciousness raising, the stay-at-home's typical answer to the question, "Do you work?" was "No, I'm just a housewife." "Yes, I'm a full-time mother!" is the answer that should be given, respected and even applauded.

I call my job "work", but it isn't really. Writing is something I used to do at home, for fun, for free. The fact that I now get paid for something that I use to consider a hobby continues to thrill me.

My work is work only in the sense that I am now financially committed to doing it five days a week whether I want to or not.

Real work is doing the same thing day after day no matter how much you'd rather not because it makes life a little nicer for someone else. Work is preparing a meal that disappears in 20 minutes three times a day, doing the dishes and laundry and then watching them get dirty again, and patiently pulling the splinters out of a child's hand after forewarning him not to play in the woodpile.

During the past four weeks of interrupted sleep, interrupted meals and interrupted interruptions, I've developed a new respect for the mothers who choose to stay at home with the kids to personally tend to their upbringing. I also have a renewed respect for working mothers who don't work out of choice, but out of necessity.

WHILE SCOURING Big Spring for a suitable day care center for my own infant, I discovered something I hadn't noticed before about our day care centers — they're full of babies. That may not be news to you, but I hadn't previously realized how many of the really little ones are being brought up, some from the first few months of life, by replacement mothers.

Some are the children of single parents who have no choice but to work; a few are the offspring of mothers who work out of choice; but most are the sons and daughters of married women who should have a choice, but don't. Inflation does more than empty pockets; it robs many mothers of the opportunity to really get into and enjoy motherhood.

Most of us have children because we want to be parents, but in order to afford to be parents, we have to give up our shot at parenthood for eight or more hours a day. The "weekend father" has now become the "weekend family".

Either way, whether you stay at home with the kids or place them in the care of someone else while you tend to the necessary business of earning a living, there are putdowns on both sides. While working moms put down the stay-at-home mothers, the work moms are criticized by those who stay at home or stayed at home while their children were young and living didn't cost as much.

NONE OF US really enjoy getting up at 6 a.m. to feed the kids, bathe and dress the baby, clean up the kitchen, make the bottles, pack the diaper bag, undress and dress the baby again before making a well-mapped-out route of human deliveries to day care centers and schools before arriving at work at 8 a.m., exhausted, to begin a day of "work".

But people who haven't looked at our checkbooks lately add guilt to the guilt with remarks like "That baby belongs at home with its mother" or an emphatic and sometimes sarcastic "I didn't work until my kids were in school." Lucky you.

Rather than working mothers sympathizing with other working mothers while stay-at-home mothers respect and encourage like mothers, I think it'd be nice if all mothers began to truly support all other mothers in their efforts to bring up the kids with as few bad side-effects as possible.

We all have three things in common — we give them life, we provide for their needs in one way or another and we love them. As for the time element, how we spend it is more important than how much is spent.

Billy, Lee and Jusity, I'm doing the best I can!

Won no points

Jack Anderson,

WASHINGTON — Federal judges are appointed for life to guarantee their independence. For this reason, it is essential that they be both honest and unbiased.

We have seen disturbing evidence that U.S. District Judge John H. Pratt of Washington, D.C., tried to cover up an impropriety on the bench, then apparently lied to FBI agents about the incident, and finally tried to get the investigation called off by reminding the G-men that as a judge he has been "very pro-government and especially pro-FBI."

If Judge Pratt was exaggerating his boasted bias to influence the agents, it would be bad enough. Attempting to block an FBI investigation constitutes obstruction of justice.

BUT IF PRATT told the truth about his pro-government attitude on the bench, the implications are even more serious. It would mean that anyone who has appeared before Pratt since his appointment in 1968 was at a crippling disadvantage if the case involved a federal agency.

Our sources tell us Pratt wasn't kidding about his pro-government prejudice. This may explain the Justice Department's reluctance to pursue the investigation of Pratt.

By coincidence, we were involved in the original indiscretion that led to Pratt's more serious misconduct. Crack Washington private detective Richard Bast appeared in Pratt's courtroom on Jan. 30, 1978, and the judge remarked that "there's a rumor" Bast's Information Acquisition Corp. was "the creature of Mr. Jack Anderson."

Bast truthfully denied the rumor, and Pratt, belatedly realizing the impropriety of spreading gossip from the bench, ordered the entire colloquy deleted from the court record. He did this without consulting the attorneys in the case, as is required by law.

Not long afterward, Pratt's secretary and office manager, Kathleen McTiernan, allegedly ordered court reporter Dennis Bossard to destroy his stenographic tape of the judge's improper remarks. A conspiracy to destroy court records is a felony punishable by up to five years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

Bossard indignantly refused McTiernan's order; instead, he wrote a memo about the incident minutes after she left. "She told me to tear up my notes," the memo stated. "When I told her I wouldn't do that, she told me to lie and say I didn't take it down."

Informed of the situation by Bast, the FBI decided to investigate the judge and his secretary. Justice Department officials — evidently leery of setting the FBI loose on a federal judge and one of their favorites, at that — stalled the investigation for several days.

THE FBI AGENTS persisted. Because of the clear possibility of a criminal violation, the Justice Department finally gave a reluctant go-ahead. On Feb. 14, 1978, two agents — accompanied by a Justice Department official — interviewed Pratt.

The interview was apparently rocky from the start. When one of the FBI agents read Pratt the standard "Miranda" warning that he had the right to remain silent and to have an attorney present, the judge "went bananas," according to courthouse sources. He complained bitterly, courthouse sources told us, that it was "demeaning" and "insulting" for a federal judge to be read his rights like an ordinary suspect.

The agents asked Pratt whether he had spoken with the court reporter, Bossard, about the incident. They knew he had spoken with Bossard just the day before; the reason they knew it was that they had a secret tape recording of the conversation.

Incredibly, a source at the Justice Dept. told us one of his colleagues wanted to warn Pratt about the existence of the tape before he was questioned about the conversation. But the FBI agents correctly pointed out that this could compromise the case and furthermore, Pratt was not entitled to special consideration.

Pratt told the agents he had spoken to Bossard on Feb. 5, 1978. He was asked repeatedly if he had discussed the case with Bossard "in the interim" — that is, between Feb. 5 and the time of the FBI interview on Feb. 14. Pratt never mentioned the conversation in his chambers the previous day, though the only topic he and Bossard had discussed then was the deleted remarks and the ensuing controversy.

Our sources say the FBI agents were convinced that Pratt could not have forgotten a conversation he had less than 24 hours earlier, and that he was in fact lying to them. In any case, they have the tape to prove the conversation took place.

Pratt met with the FBI agents again on Feb. 16. Sources familiar with this meeting say the judge remarked that the case against him and his secretary was "cheap" and "not of prosecutable merit," and that interviewing his secretary would constitute "needless harassment."

VAMC chief of staff writes book on hypothermia, liver

Dr. Jack Margolis, Chief of Staff at the Veterans Administration Medical Center has recently published another of his studies in the "Archives of Internal Medicine."

Dr. Margolis, who spends his spare time researching a variety of medical topics, says that such private research can provide physicians with diagnostic tools in detection, and possibly finding of a cure for many illnesses.

In his most recent study, Dr. Margolis considered the relationship of hypothermia to the condition of patients with diseases of the liver.

"I just noticed on our charts that in liver failure patients where death occurred, the temperature almost always showed a significant drop several days before death, while patients who improved and were discharged retained normal temperatures throughout their hospitalization," Dr. Margolis said.

"This observation had never been noted, so I set about studying each of the liver failure patients who entered the hospital until I had evidence conclusive enough to support my theory," the doctor continued. "Knowing this can help doctors by making them aware of the chances a patient has for survival. In addition, the temperature drop is a sign, a symptom that the liver condition is deteriorating to a level where the patient will almost certainly die.

"With that information, doctors can begin to seek why the temperature drops, and perhaps find a way to treat the condition and save lives," Dr. Margolis noted.

The VAMC Chief of Staff has already begun preliminary work on another study, relating to the bacterial flora located in the mouth

"Work has already been done establishing the fact that alcoholics have different bacteria living in their mouth than do other people, and I believe that the bacterial flora could be used to diagnose diseases, perhaps earlier than other symptoms show up," Dr. Margolis said.

The physician explained that a healthy person living in West Texas will have certain bacteria growing in particular percentage combinations in his mouth. Someone living in another area of the country would have the same bacteria in different combinations.

"When some disease or unhealthy condition is present in the body," Dr. Margolis speculated, "I believe that the percentages of the different bacteria in the mouth will change predictably, and I think it is very possible that each condition will be evidenced by a single particular bacterial flora.

"If I am right, then a simple bacteria culture from the mouth could become a diagnostic tool for doctors," Dr. Margolis said, "and that is what I am studying now."

"I'll take credit for this study, if it advances to the point that I try to get it published, but I didn't do one on Walrus meat," the physician laughed.

Since he published the hypothermia article, Dr. Margolis has received requests for reprints of that article, but he also received requests for reprints of an article on Walrus meat.

"Someone, apparently of the name Margolis or something similar published an article on Walrus meat and I've received two reprint requests.

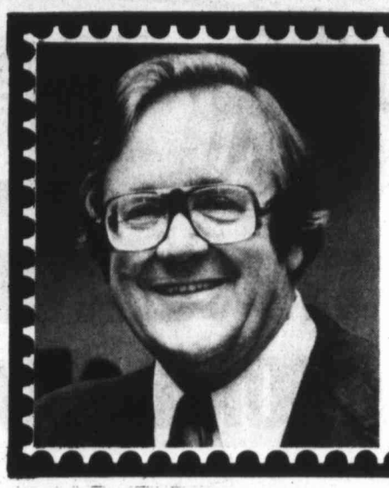

SCRAMBLED EGGS OR GOLDEN SMOKE — This is one of the very dominant yellow flowered annuals that have put out this spring. There have been two suspected cases of livestock poisoning. This is a pretty, but poisonous plant to livestock. Fitweed is another name for the Fumarlaeae Corydalis Aurea. Livestock will go into fits and snap and bite at things or sudden noises. An alkaloid is the cause of poisoning and the plant is not distasteful to livestock, especially if grass supplies are short.

Triskaidekaphobia, friggaphobia

Superstitious America

WASHINGTON (AP) — Millions of Americans are superstitious about $2 bills. But some might even shun a $1 bill because it has 13 stars above the eagle's head, 13 arrows in one talon and an olive branch with 13 leaves in the other.

Such types are extreme triskaidekaphobes, people who fear the number 13. And they face a double whammy this year with Friday the 13th tomorrow and a second jar coming in July.

Friday fraidies? They're friggaphobiacs, after the Norse goddess Frigge. On Friday, Eve tempted Adam, the great Biblical flood started, the Temple of Solomon fell and Christ was crucified, to name origins.

On Friday the 13th, triskaidekaphobia and friggaphobia combine to create the worst problem. The economy slows as businessmen shun deals, restaurant dining declines and even shopping and marrying are affected.

Operators of ocean liners hold ships until at least 12:01 a.m. Saturday following a Friday the 13th. That's to calm the superstitious, not because the H.M.S. Friday, whose construction was started on Friday, set off on its maiden voyage on a Friday and was never heard of again.

For fear of plain 13, airlines omit Chair No. 13 and real estate men the 13th floor in hotels and skyscrapers. House numbers in France skip from 12 to 14.

Back in the 1950s, the town of French Lick Springs, Ind., tried to help the cause by ruling that all black cats had to wear bells on Friday the 13th.

The day has some historic credits, including: Friday, June 13, 1498 — Columbus first set foot on the North American continent; Friday, Oct. 13, 1792 — construction began on the White House; Friday, Sept. 13, 1814 — "The Star Spangled Banner" was written.

And on a timely note, on Friday, Aug. 13, 1943, gasoline rationing was cut from four to three gallons a coupon.

Babe Ruth always touched first base for luck while heading for the outfield on a Friday the 13th game.

Coahoma High School snares second place

COAHOMA — Second place honors were brought home by members of the Coahoma High School University International team from the District 6-AA Literary contests held Saturday in Abilene.

In addition, ten of the 20 Coahoma students who competed in the contests, which took place at McMurry College, earned places in the regional meet to be held April 21 in Lubbock.

Advancing to the regional competitions are Dana Hodnett, first in Newswriting and fourth in Informative Speaking, Roxanne Daniell, second in Ready Writing; Shana Anderson and Jean Wanner, second in Debate; Debbie Hinsley, second in shorthand; Cindy McAdams, third in Shorthand; Chip Balzer, second in Feature Writing, third in Newswriting and fourth in Editorial Writing; Steve Sargent, second in Prose Reading; Janene Shive, third in Persuasive Speaking; and Shanna Cobb, third in Spelling.

Faculty sponsors who accompanied the team were Sue Ridlehuber, Harry Herbst, Mrs. Lorene Barbee and Mr. Jewel Stovall, U.I.L. Director.

KMOM-TV, KWAB-TV sale 'deal' reached

W.F. deTournillion, executive vice president and spokesman for Grayson Enterprises Inc., owner of KMOM-TV Channel 9 Monahans and KWAB-TV Channel 4 Big Spring, has announced an agreement has been reached for the sale of the two stations to Silver Star Communications.

Principals acting for Silver Star Communications in the business arrangement were John Robert Lee, Larry Reed, Wayne Embry, Daniel Nevasier and Robert Dudley.

The actual application for transfer will be filed within the next 60 days and approval of sale by the Federal Communications Commission is expected shortly thereafter.

No change in personnel is planned by Silver Star Communications.

KWAB-TV keeps only an engineer on duty at its relay station here, located on the Howard College campus. The firm's main studios are located in the Odessa area.

Bishops, priests renew celibacy vows with Pope

VATICAN CITY (AP) — More than 2,500 priests, bishops and cardinals renewed their vows of celibacy with Pope John Paul II today as he opened four days of Easter celebrations in the largest concelebrated Mass in Vatican history.

A crowd of 10,000 watched as the pontiff, 22 cardinals, 40 bishops and 2,500 priests — half of Rome's diocesan clerics — celebrated Mass and renewed their vows before the huge main alter of Saint Peter's Basilica.

The concelebration, a Mass celebrated in unison by a group of priests, came three days after John Paul II upheld mandatory celibacy for Roman Catholic priests in one of the strongest pronouncements in his six-month old pontificate.

In Monday's document, the pope called Holy Thursday, the day on which Jesus instituted the Eucharist in the Last Supper, as "the annual feast of our priesthood" to renew the vow of celibacy as "our giving of ourselves to the exclusive service of Christ in the Church."

Weather

More thunderstorms on menu for Texas

Another round of thunderstorm activity is on the menu for Texas later today, according to the National Weather Service.

The weather men say partly cloudy weather is expected today with widely scattered showers in the Panhandle and possible thundershowers in the extreme northeast.

A sandstorm was forecast for the South Plains of West Texas.

Volunteer onion packers help during strike

RAYMONDVILLE, Texas (AP) — About 60 of Willacy County's leading citizens have turned out to help a local onion grower, whose operation has been slowed by a strike, get his produce to market.

The volunteer onion packers Wednesday were escorted through picket lines of striking farm workers by law enforcement officers.

The bankers, businessmen, farmers and ranchers helped Charles Wetegrove as negotiations between striking workers and the company broke down. Willacy County Sheriff Oscar Correa said one man was arrested here Wednesday when tempers flared.

Onion harvesters, who are demanding higher wages, went on strike one week ago. Packing shed workers joined the strike Monday.

Bill Thornton, a Raymondville city commissioner and president of the Raymondville Bank of Texas, was among the volunteer laborers.

"I think it's fantastic that we are able to help (Wetegrove), but I'm glad I went to school as long as I did. I wouldn't want to do this for a steady diet," Thornton said.

Charles Washmon, owner of a local farm implement company, also worked in the packing shed as Texas Farm Workers Union pickets marched outside.

"This is showing the people that if they want to work they will be protected. Most of the people want to work, but they are just too afraid," Washmon said.

Carlos Merendez, editor of the T.F.W.U. newspaper, said the pickers are demanding $1 per 50-pound bag of onions and better field conditions. He said Wetegrove has paid workers as low as 35 cents a bag.

Carter heads for secluded coastal island

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter, planning to sun, fish and jog during his long Easter vacation, headed today for a secluded Georgia coastal island.

The president, accompanied by his wife Rosalynn and daughter Amy, headed for Brunswick, Ga., aboard Air Force One. From there, the family was to be taken by helicopter to Sapelo Island.

Mrs. Carter carried an aluminum pie plate filled with dyed Easter eggs and Amy carried a stuffed dog as they boarded a helicopter on the White House South Lawn for Andrews Air Force Base.

This will be the first time the Carters have spent a vacation at the island, 30 miles north of Brunswick. In the past, they have vacationed on St. Simons Island, across a causeway from Brunswick.

But the recent indictment of their St. Simons landlord, Smith Bagley, on federal fraud charges apparently prompted the Carters to try out a new vacation site. Bagley has pleaded innocent.

The Carters will stay on the island until April 20, when they plan to fly to their home at Plains, Ga. They will visit their son Jack at Calhoun, Ga., the next day, and return to the White House April 22.

Undercover cop testifies to shooting

HOUSTON (AP) — An undercover agent on the scene during the final moments of an attempted escape from Huntsville state prison by three inmates said he shot one of them in the head twice from close range to protect a wounded hostage as well as himself.

Winston Padgett, an undercover agent for the Department of Public Safety who testified Wednesday in the retrial of Ignacio Cuevas, described the Aug. 3, 1974, scene for the jury and told why he shot Rudolfo Dominguez.

"He was a threat to me. He was a threat to Father (Joseph) O'Brien," said Padgett.

Padgett said police managed to overturn the makeshift shield protecting armed convicts Dominguez, Cuevas, Fred Carrasco and their hostages, and first saw O'Brien, a seriously wounded hostage.

"I shouted a warning to the other officers nearby," Padgett said. "He (Dominguez) started pulling his right hand out from under Father O'Brien and I shot him in the head.

"Dominguez was lying on his back partially under O'Brien," the officer continued. "He moved again, and I shot him again in the head."

Carrasco and two women hostages, Julia Standley and Elizabeth Beseda, also were slain during the escape attempt.

Cuevas survived, and was convicted of murder in connection with Mrs. Standley's death in a 1975 trial. He was sentenced to death.

The conviction was overturned by the state Appeals Court because of an error in the jury selection process and a new trial ordered.

Also testifying Wednesday was Willard N. Stewart of the state Department of Corrections. He told the jury about how he freed eight hostages outside the shield who were handcuffed to ropes attached to it.

Stewart said he cut the ropes and led them to a safer area.

"I was as much afraid of being shot by the officers from the mess hall as I was by the armed convicts inside the shield," he said.

Ugandan houses being ransacked

KAMPALA, Uganda (AP) — Men, women and children ransacked house after house in Kampala today, and the invasion force of Tanzanian troops and Ugandan exiles occupying the Ugandan capital made no attempt to check the looting.

"There's nobody trying to stop them any more," said a European resident. "I can see them from my window carrying out everything — chairs, curtains, everything. I can't leave my home."

In the Tanzanian capital of Dar es Salaam, informants said officials of the new provisional government announced Wednesday might fly to Kampala today to try to restore order.

The Uganda National Liberation Front, a coalition of Ugandan exile groups in Tanzania, announced creation of the new government after Kampala fell to the invasion force that fought its way up through southwest Uganda. Yussufu K. Lule, the former head of Makarere University in Kampala and one of Africa's most respected educators, was named provisional president, defense minister and armed forces chief.

Meanwhile, President Idi Amin was broadcasting from a Radio Uganda transmitter in eastern Uganda, repeating in English and Swahili a long tirade against the invaders.

Alternately plaintive, bitter and defiant, he declared:

"I, Idi Amin Dada, would like to denounce the announcement that my government has been overthrown....

"I am speaking as the president of the republic and the commander-in-chief of the armed forces. I am in full control of the Ugandan armed forces."

Province by province, he listed areas in the east, north and northeast he said he still controlled. He recited long lists of damage allegedly done by invaders and looters to farms, factories, homes, hospitals, utilities and "innocent people."

"Kampala is in flames because of enemy artillery given by zionists and imperialists," he asserted.

Funeral home garage turns into morgue

WICHITA FALLS, Texas (AP) — Jerry Van Lohs' voice cracked with emotion and weariness as he surveyed what had once been the garage of his funeral home. It was now a blood-spattered morgue, lined with shrouded bodies.

"We had no other place to put them. I never thought the garage would be used for this. I hope it won't be again," said the owner of Owens-Brumley Funeral Home, one of two local funeral homes where the dozens of victims of Tuesday's deadly tornado were taken.

He cast another look at the 17 bodies on the concrete floor, some swaddled in bloodspecked sheets, others zipped up in plastic body bags. The floor was marred by blood stains where other bodies had been.

"It's so overwhelming. These are just people. People like you and me. People you meet on the streets every day. When they died, especially those in the shopping centers, they were doing the things we do every day."

His voice choked. "All of a sudden ... they can't, they aren't allowed to do them any more," he said as his voice trailed off. He hadn't slept for 38 hours.

The first victim arrived at 7 p.m. Tuesday, a mere 45 minutes after the twister cut through the heavily populated southern section of this North Texas city of 100,000.

Twenty-four others arrived, and Van Loh and his staff worked on the embalming tables for the next 20 hours. Electricity and water had been knocked out by the funnel, so their lights were powered by the generator from a borrowed camper and their water came from a borrowed tank truck.

"We would go for a long time. We were working, just like always. But then we would get to thinking about all those people. All of a sudden, the realization hit and there was no way to keep from crying about this."

Some of his staff members, Van Loh said, were embalming friends and neighbors.

On Wednesday, he watched numb families come to his garage throughout the day, visiting there as a last resort in their search for missing relatives.

"I can't imagine what it would be like to search through a city for someone you love. That's something none of us should have to go through. They came here only as a last resort. They didn't want to, but they came," he said.

Tornado was fifth worst

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — A tornado specialist at the University of Kansas says the twister which hit Wichita Falls this week is the fifth worst on record in terms of damage.

"From what I've heard so far, this ranks behind the tornadoes that hit Topeka in 1966, Lubbock in 1970, Omaha in 1975 and Xenia, Ohio, in 1975," said Joe R. Eagleman, a professor of meteorology.

"It's only the fifth tornado to cause more than $100 million in damage in history," Eagleman said Wednesday night, in an interview with the Kansas City Times.

He said he and his staff had expected tornadic activity in the Wichita Falls area two days before it struck.

Larry Wilson, a meteorologist with the National Severe Storms Forecast Center in Kansas City, said Wichita Falls residents had ample warning.

"We issued the tornado warning for Wichita Falls at 1:55 p.m., four hours before the tornado hit," Wilson said.

JANE CELEBRATES ANOTHER VICTORY — Actress Jane Fonda, recent recipient of an Oscar for best performance by an actress, celebrates with rent-control supporters in Santa Monica, Calif. Tuesday after their victory at the polls. The rollback measure provided for establishment of a five-menber rent-control board, and callas for a temporary rent freeze and rollback to last year's levels.

No state income tax bill losing support

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Advocates of a constitutional amendment prohibiting the Legislature from ever passing a personal or corporation income tax lost ground in the House Wednesday.

They could muster only 86 votes for the proposal (HJR102), compared with 99 on Tuesday and the 100 needed to send the constitutional change to the Senate.

The measure remains alive, however, for another vote.

Rep. John Bryant, D-Dallas, chief opponent of the constitutional change, won an 82-51 vote to add a provision allowing an income tax if proceeds were used entirely to replace property taxes.

Bryant also warned the House that if it approved the proposal, the Senate probably would, too, despite Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby's declared opposition.

"Governor Hobby usually craters when he talks tough about these things, and he'll probably crater again," Bryant asserted.

Bryant called the whole idea of forever banning an income tax a "ridiculous, embarrassing joke" and assailed "the absolute political cowardice on the part of many members of the House" who had voted for the measure.

"This childishness of trying to show everybody you are the biggest tax hater of all is absurd," said Bryant, adding that the day might come when Texas needs an income tax as a last resort to finance state government.

Rep. Al Brown, D-San Antonio, the sponsor, said Bryant and others had engaged in "as good a chub as I've seen down here in 32 years" and objected to Bryant's assertion that supporters were "childish."

"Chub" is legislative slang for delaying tactics and other similarly indirect strategems to defeat legislation.

In Wednesday's long work sessions, senators passed and sent to the House bills that would:

—Allow state-chartered savings and loan associations to offer inducements, such as S&H Green Stamps, for opening or adding to savings accounts.

—Empower county governments to control dogs and other animals on beaches.

—Raise the maximum fine for limiting access to a beach from $200 to $1,000.

—Make it as serious an offense to drive while intoxicated or speed on a beach as on a highway.

—Give the state land commissioner and county commissioners of coastal counties authority to establish rules to protect sand dunes.

—Drop most uses of the word "rape" in Texas criminal laws and replace it with the word "assault." The bill would make murder committed incidental to a "male-to-male" rape a death penalty offense, just as murder of a women during the course of a rape now is.

—Eliminate Columbus Day in October and "Presidents' Day" in February as state holidays and replace them with two wild card holidays chosen by each employee.

House members, meanwhile, voted preliminary approval, 122-10, to a bill returning Texas public schools to the two-semester academic year in place of the three-quarter system used for the past four years.

Sponsors said school districts had used the flexibility given by the quarter system for "frills" while basic courses had lost the continuity they had under the semester system.

The House passed and sent to the Senate bills that would:

—Establish a pilot program in the Houston area of voluntary inspection and maintenance of motor vehicles to curb air pollution. The bill would give "public members" of the Texas Air Control Board a 5-4 majority over members appointed for their expertise.

—Extensively revise the Texas Probate Code, including a grant of power to judges to remove administrators of estates.

$15,413 grant for HC okayed

Howard College has been informed by Luther W. Thompson Jr., Director of Occupational Administrative Services for the Texas Education Agency, that funding has been approved in the amount of $15,413.58 for a secretarial-clerical training program.

In cooperation between Howard College and the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act, 15 young persons will spend 40 hours per week for 14 weeks learning a wide variety of secretarial-clerical skills.

The outline for the course includes instruction in typing, communications skills business English, shorthand, telephone usage, filing, operating various office machines and general office procedures. It is anticipated that when the program is completed in July, the participants will be ready to begin office jobs.

Central, northern plains

Winter weather lingers

By the Associated Press

Winter weather lingered over the central and northern plains today, while to the south, tornadoes and thunderstorms that produced death, injuries and property damage earlier in the week swirled through in several states.

A winter storm warning was in effect today in southeastern Montana. Travelers advisories were posted for most of the Dakotas, eastern Wyoming, northeastern Colorado, northwestern Kansas and the higher mountain passes of far west Texas.

Thunderstorms spread from central Mississippi, across western Kentucky to northern Lake Michigan.

Rain or snow fell across portions of Nebraska, Iowa and a large section of the Dakotas. A few widely scattered snowshowers dampened the western mountains in Utah and western Montana and along the Oregon coast.

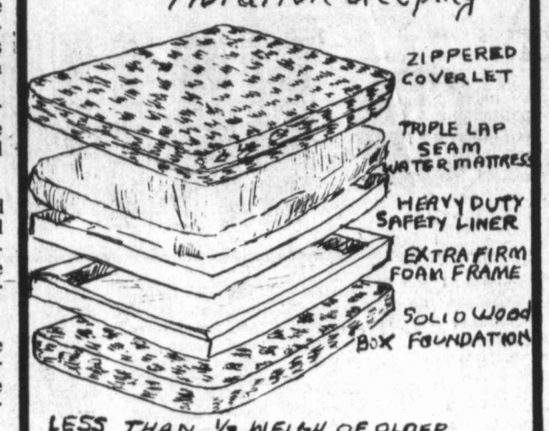

Tornadoes have raked the lower and middle Mississippi Valley since Tuesday. Tornadoes were reported in northeastern Texas, Oklahoma, Alabama, Arkansas and Missouri.

A tornado watch was in effect for western and middle Tennessee, portions of central and eastern Mississippi and portions of northern and west central Alabama.

Flash flood watches were posted for a large portion of the Mississippi Valley, for northern and central Mississippi and portions of central Illinois, and for southwestern and west-central Wisconsin.

Temperatures were below freezing over much of the western portions of the central and northern Plains.

Food stamp benefits maybe cut this summer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Unless Congress provides more money in the next two months, food stamp benefits for about 17.8 million people — approximately 5.6 million families — will be cut by one-third this summer, according to a senior Agriculture Department official.

When Congress overhauled the program in 1977, it estimated that food prices would rise less than 4 percent a year. But groceries have gone up more than that, meaning food stamp benefits also have exceeded estimates.

The problem involves a ceiling — called a "cap" by politicians — that Congress put on the program based on the estimates at that time — $6.16 billion for this budget year and $6.19 billion for fiscal 1980.

The Carter administration initially thought the cap would be reached in August 1980 and asked Congress to raise it or remove it entirely by then.

Assistant Secretary Carol Tucker Foreman told the Senate Special Committee on Aging that the lid may be reached in a few months.

Since the estimates for the cap were made, food prices have increased more than 26 percent and are still rising.

Also, more than 1.8 million low-income people who had not sought the aid have requested it since Jan. 1. New rules under the 1977 act, designed to attract them, took effect then.

If the ceiling is still in effect July 1, she said Wednesday, "I am going to have to cut benefits to all recipients by onethird or issue no stamps at all in September," the last month of the fiscal year.

Robert Greenstein, acting head of the Food and Nutrition Service, which oversees food stamps, said that the rolls are still growing, especially in rural areas, although 7 percent of the able-bodied 1978 recipients under age 65 have been cut.

No action has been taken on the bills to lift the cap. In drafting proposed 1980 spending targets, both congressional budget committees have assumed it will be passed.

"We have a much more serious problem than what you are talking about here," she told the committee. "This heari n g is o u t o f synch(ronization)."

The chairman, Sen. Lawton Chiles, D-Fla., called the hearing to discuss the impact of the 1977 reforms on the elderly poor, saying many are having their benefits cut even though their food and medical expenses are rising.

Experts from the Congressional Budget Office and Ms. Foreman's staff presented estimates showing that up to 2.3 percent of the elderly households were cut from the rolls and that 13.6 percent to 29.1 percent lost more than $5 a month in benefits.

Those dropped had incomes over the poverty line, even though they still were low, Greenstein said.

The same charts were used and discussed at length in 1976 and 1977 during committee and floor debate.

The losses — below average for the caseload as a whole — stem from detailed provisions in the law designed to limit the grocery-buying aid to families at or below U.S. poverty lines.

Medical bills, for example, no longer can be deducted in figuring the net income on which benefits are based. A series of itemized shelter-cost exemptions have been replaced by standard deductions for all families.

"Overall, the data we have available shows that the new law generally benefits the elderly" by making stamps more available to more of them, Ms. Foreman said.

Grain supplies get help

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new Agriculture Department program to help build additional grain storage facilities, mainly in the Northeast, should help farmers have adequate feed supplies when transportation systems are unable to keep up with demand.

Ray Fitzgerald, administrator of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, said Wednesday operators who build or expand storage facilities in qualified areas will be guaranteed that most of the additional capacity will be used for corn and other feed grains.

"Periodically, transportation problems will cause farmers in storage-short areas to run out of feed for their livestock and poultry," he said. "This happens most frequently in the Northeast in winter, but parts of the South and West have similar situations."

Complaints have been received by the agency that because of inadequate reserves of stored grain, some price gouging has occurred when supplies run low. The program also is intended to remedy that by making more grain available.

Some of the most critical problems are in Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts and Connecticut, officials said.

Water pollution pilot project to be operated in 20 states

WASHINGTON (AP) — A $4.3 million pilot project to help curb water pollution on farms will be operated in selected counties in 20 states and Puerto Rico, says Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland.

The project will be carried out as part of the department's $190 million Agricultural Conservation Program (ACP), officials said. It is intended as part of a broader goal of improving the nation's water quality.

Officials said the measures will include lagoons to help dispose of animal feedlot wastes, ditches, diversion pipes, vegetative cover, land grading and shaping, tree planting and terracing.

15-days-earlier bill fails

Shrimp season holds

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A.R. Schwartz, the Senate's coastal watchdog, accused a colleague Wednesday of trying to take advantage of baby shrimp before they grow and can escape to the Gulf of Mexico.

Schwartz's argument apparently was effective as the Senate rejected Sen. Lindon Williams' proposal to start the shrimp season 15 days earlier in Harris, Galveston, Chambers and Brazoria counties.

Several other coastal and beach measures breezed through the Senate.

Schwartz, D-Galveston, threatened to filibuster Williams' proposal to start the shrimp season on May 1 instead of May 15.

He did not have to stall, however, as the vote to bring the bill up for debate was only 17-10, two short of the total Williams needed.

"Aren't you killing baby shrimp?" asked Schwartz.

"No, sir ... we're trying to eliminate the waste that's going on," replied Williams, D-Houston.

Williams' bill would have allowed commercial shrimpers to keep smaller shrimp. Catches now must total 65 headless shrimp per pound. Williams' bill would have raised that to 85 shrimp per pound.

It also would have removed the 300-pound per day limit on the spring shrimp catch.

"I'm not going to have every baby shrimp in Galveston Bay killed," said Schwartz.

He asked to be allowed to remove Galveston County from the bill, but Williams refused.

"Your bill doesn't have the endorsement of a single conservation society in Texas," Schwartz said. "It is opposed by every Gulf shrimper in the state of Texas. You're trying to take advantage of shrimp in the bays before they get to the Gulf."

Approved without a dissenting vote — or discussion — were proposals that would:

—Allow county governments to regulate animals at the beach.

—Increase from $10 to $50 the minimum penalty and from $200 to $1,000 the maximum penalty for attempting to limit access to a public beach.

—Apply the same penalty provisions for speeding and driving while intoxicated on public roads to private and public beaches. The speed limit on beaches is 25 miles an hour in daytime and 20 mph at night.

—Authorize county governments in coastal counties and the state land commissioner to establish rules to protect sand dunes, which "offer the best natural defense against storms."

—Direct the Texas Coastal and Marine Council to coordinate a state effort to evaluate the possibility of raising marine life in controlled conditions to "fulfill the present and future recreational and nutritional needs" of Texans.

The Senate also voted, 26-0, to establish a 15-member committee of hurricane experts to recommend coastal building standards to the State Board of Insurance.

National guard pounds guerrillas

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — President Anastasio Somoza's national guard laid siege to the northern city of Esteli and used planes and a tank to pound more than 400 leftist guerrillas controlling the city for nearly a week.

Refugees who fled Wednesday despite heavy firing said there were many casualties, but the Red Cross was pinned down in its compound and unable to get to the wounded.

Those who got away said the national guard, Somoza's military and police force, was using a Sherman tank, armored cars and planes against the rebels, who overran Esteli on Saturday.

Red Cross sources estimated that 5,000 of Esteli's 35,000 people had escaped from the city.

It was the second time that Esteli, 90 miles north of Managua, the capital, had become a battleground in the past seven months. There was heavy fighting there last September during an abortive uprising against Somoza in which an estimated 1,500 persons died.

Guerrillas of the Sandinista Liberation Front, fighting to end 40 years of Somoza family dictatorship, were waging a new offensive while the Nicaraguan strongman was in Florida for an Easter vacation with his children.

"Shooting between the guerrillas and the national guard ... was heavy and continuous," said Miguel Schibel, the national Red Cross chief who returned Wednesday night after taking medical supplies to Esteli.

He said the firing prevented the three-car convoy from getting to the San Juan de Dios Hospital, where about 400 persons reportedly have taken refuge.

"The guerrillas are mostly in the southwest sector and the national guard is advancing on three fronts," said Col. Aquiles Aranda Escobar, spokesman for the 10,000-man army.

Reliable sources in Managua said the guard held the Pan-American Highway on either side of Esteli, the local military barracks and an airport on the outskirts.

Aranda said the guard was leaving the guerrillas an escape route to the mountains southwest of Esteli.

"We don't want them in town. We don't want to fight them there," he said.

Guard officers are "in constant communication with President Somoza and he is planning on returning Saturday or Sunday," Aranda said.

Witnesses said the Sandinistas were fighting from trenches and behind street barricades.

The guerrillas are fighting to end 40 years of rule by the Somoza family begun when U.S. Marines created the national guard and installed the current president's late father, Anastasio Somoza Garcia, as its chief. The Sandinistas take their name from Augusto Cesar Sandino, a Nicaraguan who fought against the Marine occupation of Nicaragua.

On the light side

Sweet smellin' stogie

CINCINNATI (AP) — To anyone who was ever trapped in an smoke-shrouded elevator with a cigar smoker, the nation's leading cigar manufacturer says — relax. The age of the sweet smellin' stogie is upon us.

The Consolidated Cigar Co. unveiled the "aromaless" cigar Wednesday and expects to market it nationwide within the year. It's available now only in Ohio.

Cigar sales have plummeted in recent years, from 8 billion in 1973 to 4½ billion last year, a company official said. The industry conducted a survey to find out why.

"People said it's the aroma," said Consolidated President Alexander Brainard. "Women don't like it on the drapes, and men are becoming more responsive" to non-smokers' complaints.

Brainard said the non-smelly cigar, called "Flite," has a built-in filter that "captures chemicals that impart aroma." The cigar still produces a perfumed scent, but not the objectional "cigar smell."

"I don't expect a typical cigar smoker to find it (the new cigar) as enjoyable as his present cigar," he said, "because it's milder in taste."

A petroleum playground

CHESTERHILL, Ohio (AP) — If you can't drill on it, play on it.

That seems to be the thinking of an Islamic group, which is trying to turn a depleted oil field in southeast Ohio into a summer camp.

The Federation of Islamic Associations in The United States and Canada collected small oil royalties in the late 1960s from a few low-volume "stripper" wells on the 138-acre tract in southern Morgan County.

"There were some old oil wells there when we bought the property," in 1967, said Frank E. Rushten, federation treasurer, who lives in Logan, W.Va.

"And I understand there is some coal there. But we didn't buy it for that. We hope to develop the site for a camp for the children, and in fact (for) all young Moslems in this country."

Rushten said the federation envisions developing a summer camp on the site. "You know, a lake and trees and some buildings. But that takes a lot of money and so far we don't have it."

Until they get funds for the development, Rushten said the group likely will continue to rent camp sites as the need arises. He said the federation now rents a campsite between Detroit and Toledo.

Jobless rate of blacks not accurate indicator?

NEW YORK (AP) — The jobless rate for blacks, more than twice that for whites, is often cited as evidence that employment discrimination continues and that government and private policies have failed.

The statistics seems to support the notion, because the March jobless rate for black men was 8.8 percent, or 2.6 times that of white men, and that for black women was 9.8 percent, or double that for whites.

But what the statistics don't always reveal is that black workers in the past three years have been making proportionately greater headway than whites, regardless of what those jobless rates say.

The jobless rate isn't the only indicator. Important too is the rate at which blacks have been finding jobs and the numbers of blacks that now hold them. In that respect, the figures are improving.

The reason for the jobless rate remaining high, despite the fact that more blacks are finding jobs, is that more of them have been entering the labor force. Those who once didn't seek are now looking for work.

When a person actively seeks, he or she is said to be a labor force member, albeit an unemployed one. The mere act of looking, it is said, means they feel opportunities exist where they didn't before.

Janet Norwood, acting commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, explained to Congress recently that the proportion of labor force blacks declined "slowly but consistently" after post-World War II.

But then as the economy emerged from the recession of 1974-1975 the pattern changed, she said. More blacks sought work, "apparently as the result of expanded job opportunities."

Statistically, the situation portrayed itself in a high and stagnated jobless rate. Though improvements were being made in tackling the great problem, the administration couldn't prove it by the jobless rate.

But explaining how the statistics have hidden the improvement doesn't mean that the fight is being won. Vast problems remain, and they aren't likely to be overcome quickly. There are, as Norwood explained to Congress, three important elements of data that are strikingly different for whites and for blacks.

"The first is educational attainment," she said. "The proportion of black workers who have completed four years of high school is increasing, but it remains lower than the proportion for whites."

A second factor, she said, relates to occupational differences. "Despite a significant degree of occupational upgrading, black workers are still overrepresented in less-skilled jobs." Such jobs are marked by high turnover and unemployment.

The third difference, said the acting commissioner, is that jobless blacks tend to be concentrated geographically to a greater extent than whites. About 60 percent of unemployed blacks live in central cities.

Conclusion: Progress is being made. Much more progress has to be made.

Tax on oil profits has no structure

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House is backing away from President Carter's threat of federal curbs on the use of new oil profits, and officials concede they have no clear idea how such restrictions would even be fashioned.

No legislative proposals or regulatory actions are in the works, say officials at the White House and the Energy and Treasury departments. Some concede it would be difficult to come up with workable ideas.

Carter, in a nationally televised speech last week, pledged to "demand that they (the oil companies) use their new income to develop energy for America, and not to buy such things as department stores and hotels, as some have done in the past."

But that line, a White House official, requesting anonymity, said, was inserted without fully exploring how Carter could enforce investment curbs.

Then, at Tuesday's news conference, the president added circuses and timber lands to the list of oil company investments of which he disapproves.

"I would favor," he added, "any constraints placed on the oil companies by the Congress or administratively within my own sphere of influence to encourage that use of increased revenues for oil and gas production."

Carter said oil companies will net $6 billion over the next three years from his decision to lift oil price controls, even if Congress enacts his proposed "windfall profits tax" on the new income.

But Powell Wednesday backed away from the threat of government investment curbs.

"Our hope and our belief is that such action will not be necessary, that these companies will in fact act in a responsible manner," he said.

Powell refused to discuss how restraints on oil company profits would work. "Thought has been given to that," he said. "There are various ways...I'm not going to get into that now....I don't consider it to be productive."

But other officials said little attention had been given to the idea of profit curbs. Energy Department spokesman Jim Bishop said "nothing solid" was in the works.

Polish forces raising money for widow

DETROIT (AP) — A coalition of Polish-American leaders in the Detroit area is trying to raise at least $5,000 to help the widow of executed Army Pvt. Eddie Slovik with medical bills and living expenses until Congress approves benefits for her from her husband's insurance.

Slovik was the only American GI shot for desertion in World War II.

Antoinette Slovik, who was recently released from a hospital after undergoing treatment for a series of crippling ailments, is "at the end of her resources," said Roman Ulman, head of the coalition.

"A country that is great enough to be the arsenal of democracy... to come to the aid of countries that were our enemies during the war, should be a nation just enough to help one of the victims of that war," Ulman said.

Slovik, from Detroit, died in front of a firing squad Jan. 31, 1945, in France. In 1977, the Army Board for the Correction of Military Records upheld the execution's legality, thereby denying Mrs. Slovik's request for the face value of her husband's $10,000 GI life insurance policy plus interest amounting to nearly $70,000.

Midseason restocking set by NBC

LOS ANGELES (AP) — NBC, that giant supermarket of TV shows, has restocked its schedule yet again. This week's specials: a revamped "Supertrain" and a pair of debut series called "Whodunnit?" and "Highcliffe Manor."

Following a tradition NBC established in its several miniseasons this year, most of the new shows in the spring season were unavailable for early preview. But "Highcliffe Manor" was. It was a fortunate circumstance.

This is a Gothic sitcom about a mansion full of looney scientists. Its aim is absurdity, its humor off-the-wall. The loose structure of the story goes something like this:

One Berkeley Blacke, founder of an island hideaway thinktank, has passed on from this world, leaving his foundation in the hands of his cute and naive widow, Shelley Fabares. This foils the plans of the resident scientists, who'd wanted control of the foundation so they could implement their plan to clone the world's leaders.

It's a tongue-in-cheek spoof, a parody of bad guys and sweet widows and sitcoms themselves. It doesn't try to present even a thread of plausability, which allows for fuller enjoyment of the crazy humor. And these folks are nutso.

A Frankenstein-type, the creature of Highcliffe's lady scientist, complains because his creator "won't let me go out and socialize."

And there's the visiting vicar, a strango who arrives on the back of a big black guy who announces, "I am Smythe the negro." When the mansion's residents are puzzling over two recent murders in the house, the vicar offers his wisdom:

"You know, I've often attended the ballet and I've sat there thinking, 'These gorgeous creatures in the tutus could well be homicidal maniacs.'"

As I say, these folks have a sense of the absurd. It's a little self-conscious, perhaps, even calculated. It's not sophisticated wit, and some of the humor is a little twisted. But it makes you laugh, and it is a rare creature in another respect — it is different.

One of the scientists, a Dr. Felix Morger, develops a lust for the good Widow Blacke. He puts a rose-and-green-striped sheet over his head and sneaks into her room, hoping she'll think he's the spirit of her late husband.

She doesn't immediately recognize him. "Berkely, I'm sorry. You so seldom wore sheets."

The "ghost" makes a move. She repulses him. "It's so beyond the bounds of good etiquette," she says, "I don't believe in making love to the dead."

Tasteless? Yeah. Cheap shock attempts? Sure. But I couldn't help laughing. Uh-oh. I wonder what that means?

Customs agent sues Playboy

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Playboy Enterprises, Inc., publishers of Playboy magazine, is being sued for $350,000 by a former U.S. customs agent along the Texas-Mexico border.

The libel suit claims the magazine's February issue said Thelma Meyers Torres was convicted of planting marijuana in cars crossing the border.

Although the article does not name the woman, the suit states, Mrs. Torres was the only female ever to be employed as an agent there.

Residents of the area therefore would be able to identify her, the suit claims.

Mrs. Torres was tried last June on a variety of drug-related charges.

Deaths

EARL (DICK) DAVIS

Dick Davis

Earl L. (Dick) Davis, 61, died at 11:25 a.m., Wednesday in a local hospital following an extended illness.

Services will be at 2 p.m., Friday at the East Fourth Street Baptist Church, with the Rev. Guy White, pastor, officiating, assisted by the Rev. Robert L. Smith, Conroe. Burial will occur in Trinity Memorial Park under the direction of Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home.

Mr. Davis was born Feb. 20, 1918, in Stamford, Tex. He moved to Big Spring in 1933 and attended public school here. He was a staff sergeant in the Air Force during World War II in the European Theater. He married Latrice Ellis Nov. 20, 1945, in Amarillo.

Mr. Davis worked for Merchants Motor Freight as a driver for 20 years, retiring due to ill health in 1975. He was a member and deacon of the East Fourth Street Baptist Church.

Survivors include his wife, of the home; a son, Charles Wayne Davis, and a daughter, Lynda Carroll Davis, both of Big Spring; three brothers, R.F. Davis, Big Spring, B.W. Davis, San Angelo, Grady, Davis, Waco; a sister, Mrs. Jim Radle, Waco.

Pallbearers will be Roy Hester, Bo Anderson, Harold Cain, C.G. Evans, Ben Hitt and W.J. Kizer.

All deacons of East Fourth Baptist Church are honorary pallbearers.

WILLARD SULLIVAN

Willard Sullivan

Willard B. Sullivan, 76, long-time pharmacist and civic worker here, died at 4:55 a.m. Today in a local hospital following a short illness.

Services will be at 10:30 a.m., Saturday inNalley-Pickle Rosewood Chapel. Burial will occur in Trinity Memorial Park. Other arrangements are being completed.

Mr. Sullivan was born June 7, 1902, in Big Spring to Mr. and Mrs. L.H. Sullivan. He married Tennie Lee (Tot) Bradshaw June 10, 1923, in Midland.

He was raised in Big Spring and attended public schools here. He first managed and later owned and operated the Cunningham and Phillips Drugs Store No. 2 and the Settles Drug Store. He was associated with the Settles Drug Store for the past 40 years.

He had served as a member of the Big Spring City Council and was mayor pro-tem for a number of years. He had also served as a director of the Colorado River Municipal Water District.

He was a member of the First Christian Church. He was a member and past master of the Staked Plains Masonic Lodge 598, Big Spring Chapter 178, RAM, Big Spring Council 117 R&SM, Big Spring Commandery 31 and KT, Dallas Valley Scottish Rite, Suez Temple of the Shrine, Lions Club and Knights of Pythias.

Survivors include his wife, of the home; two sisters, Mrs. H.M. (Frances) Fritts, Teguesta, Fla., and Mrs. E.G. (Grace) Davenport, Farmington, N.M.; five cousins, Miss Pauline Sullivan, Will A. Sullivan, Mrs. R.H. Carter and Mrs. Horace Been, all of Big Spring, and Mrs. Paul McCracken, Waco.

The family suggests memorials for the Knight Templar Eye Foundation.

Big Springers asked to delay aid to stricken

The local Salvation Army has requested that anyone wishing to donate to the Wichita Falls disaster wait until an order of procedure is issued before doing so. The order will be forthcoming after food and clothing distribution centers are established in the stricken area.

There are about 30 Salvation Army officers on duty in Wichita Fallas and Vernon at the current time. Six canteens and mobil serving centers with radio connections have already been established.

The area director and divisional officer of Dallas plan to travel to the area to determine needs. They will then hand down orders to local officers.

Rev. Compton, family 'safe'

Although they had been unable to talk with him since the storm struck Tuesday, Mr. and Mrs. Escol Compton have learned their son, the Rev. B.E. Compton, and his family escaped injury in the Wichita Falls tornado.

The Compton home, a Presbyterian Manse, was about ten miles from the area hardest hit and no damage resulted to the residence.

However, the power and water went off in the Compton home with the result that the Comtpons and some of the parishoners went to the church, which is located nearby, to prepare a meal.

The Escol Comptons are looking forward to the restoration of telephone service in the stricken area so they can talk to their son and his family.

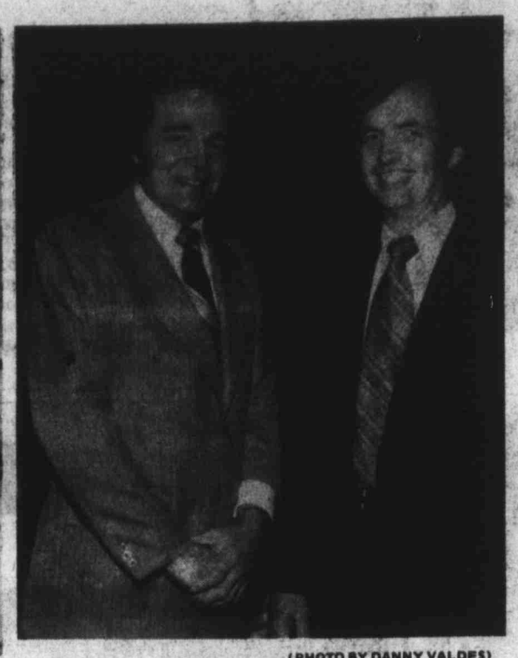

Bond posted

Billy Smith, Jacksonville, Miss., was released on bond Tuesday. He was arrested on suspicion of criminal mischief. He was taken into custody Tuesday by the Howard County Sheriff's Office at the Ector County Sheriff's office. Bond was set at $3,000.

GOOD FRIDAY NOON PROGRAM ENDS SERVICES — The Rev. Bill Henning, (right), pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, is shown with Robert D. Miller of Atlanta, Ga., Director of National Missions for the Presbyterians, who made his final appearance in the local pulpit today. The church will have its traditional communion service this evening and pre-Easter ministry will end with Good Friday services from 12 noon until 1 p.m., tomorrow, at which the program will be broken into 20 minute segments.

Police beat

Jewelry, boots stolen

A 1974 Plymouth Roadrunner belonging to Terry Lynn Kinsey, Sterling City Route, was assaulted by a "mean" pickup driver recently.

According to reports, a man known to Kinsey, driving a pickup, forced the Roadrunner off of the road, and then backed the pickup into the car's front end. Damage was estimated at between $400 and $500.

A thief lifted a ladies yellow-gold ring set and a man's Seiko watch from the home of A.E. Clanton, 409 E. 2nd, sometime between 1 a.m. and noon Tuesday. The items were valued at $3,475.

E.W. Henderson believes he knows the man who entered his Wyoming Hotel room, between 1 p.m. and 6 p.m. Tuesday, and stole Henderson's boots. The boots were valued at $70.

Vandals broke into a car belonging to Lillian Hinez, 1606 State, sometime Tuesday, while the auto was parked on Willia Street. The intruders sliced the vinyl top, the passenger seat and the fan belt, and stole two cans of brake fluid. Loss was estimated at $222.50.

A thief entered the body shop office at the Bob Brock Ford Dealership, 500 W. 4th, Wednesday morning, and stole an electric adding machine. The machine was valued at $70.

Two mishaps were reported Wednesday.

A parked vehicle belonging to Nadine Teague, 3618 Hamilton, was struck by a vehicle that left the scene at 801 Owens, 10:50 p.m.

Vehicles driven by Grace L. Kemper, Ackerly, and Virginia Rivera, 509 Aylford, collided on the 1000 block of Scurry, 3:11 p.m.

CRMWD wins 'the big one'

Stacy Dam will solve area's water problems

The Colorado River Municipal Water District has undertaken its most ambitious project ever in the Stacy Dam and Owen Ivie, general manager of the district, said he and his board of directors are optimistic that the district can get an early start on the lake.

Ecstatic in his praise of the many people who have helped during the early planning of the project, Ivie said he is supremely confident that this area's water problems can be solved for half a century or more by addition of the huge reservoir to the CRMWD's system.

CRMWD board members are still receiving congratulations from West Texans who see the great lake becoming a reality sometime in the early 1980s, despite harrassing action inspired by the Lower Colorado River Authority.

The general consensus is that the Colorado River Municipal Water District won "the big one" when the Texas Water Commission ruled unanimously in favor of the water district in its application for a lake permit, that any challenge offered by the LCRA would do little other than possibly delay the construction of the dam and then only for a short time.

It is generally agreed, and the TWC seemed to concur in its decision, that (1) there is a great need for additional water supplies in West Texas and (2) that this area cannot develop to its fullest potential without ample water. The Stacy Lake, which will be built below Ballinger on the Colorado River, will give the CRMWD the means to supply that water.

Not only member cities like Big Spring, Odessa and Snyder will avail themselves of the lake's water but it will be sold to neighboring communities like Midland, Stanton and San Angelo. In addition, there will be industrial subscribers for the precious liquid.

The Colorado River Municipal Water District is regarded as a model agency which has functioned since its beginning without the help of federal funds, an entity which has always met its commitments and which has done much to encourage the continued growth of population and industry in the area it serves.

Contrary to a story circulated by the Associated Press, the CRMWD and not the power companies will build the dam in its entirety. Its staff will put to use the experience it accumulated in planning and constructing the Lake Spence and Lake Thomas reservoirs.

Mike Coleman wins top honors

Mike Coleman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Coleman of the Ackerly community, recently won top honors in skeet shooting competition in Mexico City.

Top competitors from 35 countries, including the 1978 world champion, took part in the Mexican shoot.

Young Coleman is regarded as a leading contender for the 1980 Olympic team.

Midland Realtor discusses national pending legislation

An estimated 60 persons gathered at the Big Spring Country Club Wednesday night to hear Don Harvey, president and manager of the Don Harvey Realtors in Midland, discuss pending legislation affecting the real estate business.

Harvey currently is serving as a director of the National Board of Realtors.

The week of April 15-21 has been proclaimed by Big Spring Mayor Wade Choate, who was on hand to present the certificate to Pat Medley, president of the Big Spring Board of Realtors.

It was announced that Jamie Phillips, an eighth grade students at Runnels Junior High, had been awarded a $25 savings bond for his winning theme which he entitled "This Land is Your Land."

Phillips' theme was one of 42 submitted by local students in a contest sponsored by the local Board of Realtors.

Comer, Lyle stifle Indians on one-hitter

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Sparky Lyle, as usual, didn't have it in spring training.

And Wednesday night he couldn't even get the ball to curve in the bullpen.

But he made his Texas Ranger debut a memorable one when he took the mound.

With a tiring Steve Comer departing after seven innings of one-hit pitching, the former New York Yankee forced six Cleveland batters to ground out meekly to clinch a 4-0 victory.

The Rangers, who got a combined seven-hitter out of Doyle Alexander and Jim Kern Tuesday night in a 5-0 victory, have now gone 23 consecutive innings without allowing a run.

"I wasn't digging spring training too much," said Lyle, who was blasted almost every outing.

"He was terrible," said Ranger Manager Pat Corrales. "But he always is."

Lyle said, "I hadn't been in a game since we broke spring training April 3. I pitched a lot on the sidelines. But it's funny. I couldn't do a thing in the bullpen tonight. Something happened, though, between the bullpen and the mound."

Comer baffled Cleveland with his changeup but tired, asking Corrales for help as early as the fifth inning. The only Cleveland hit of the game was a sharp single to centerfield by Ted Cox in the third inning.

The Rangers chased starter Eric Wilkins in the fifth inning with Al Oliver's run-scoring double the big blow. Wilkins was making his major league debut.

Cleveland's Bobby Bond, hitless in four trips, praised both Comer and Lyle.

"They had their best pitches working, and Texas played strong defense," said Bonds. "I look back and think about just how good the Rangers would have been last year if they had made an effort to get genuine relief pitchers like Lyle and (Jim) Kern."

Cleveland Manager Jeff Torberg said he wouldn't mind working a trade with the Rangers for some pitching.

"I'd like to work out a deal with 'em right now for some pitching," said Torberg. "We're hurting on the mound, and we have to get some help.

"I'm not worried about our hitting. We'll get some hot bats from Toby Harrah, Bobby Bonds, Rick Manning and some of our other guys soon."

In the series finale tonight, Fergie Jenkins (1-0) of the Rangers will meet Rick Waits (1-0).

BLOCK AND REACT — Houston Rockets' Dwight Jones (13) kicks high to block out Atlanta Braves' Jack Givens (21) and Tom McMillen (54) Wednesday night as he went for a loose ball in the second quarter of the NBA playoff game at Houston.

Atlanta, Philly score playoff wins

By the Associated Press

The Houston Rockets can't stand too much of a good thing — namely winning.

The Rockets, who had won their last seven regular-season games to get the home-court advantage in the opening game of their best-of-three series with Atlanta, lost to the Hawks 109-106 Wednesday night in the National Basketball Association playoffs.

"We don't live with prosperity very well," said Houston guard Mike Newlin. "It's only when we are presented with a futile situation that we seem to come out and play our best."

New Jersey Nets Coach Kevin Loughery often feels his situation is futile, where refereeing is concerned.

The Nets lost to the Philadelphia 76ers 122-114 after their coach was ejected from the game. The volatile Loughery, who was assessed 42 technical fouls during the regular season, got two more Wednesday night and was ousted with 7:32 left in the third period.

"It's a league rule that you can't talk about officiating," he complained later. "But I think we should be able to talk about officiating."

With Wednesday's games, all four NBA divisions had played their first games. Action resumes Friday with the Rockets and Hawks moving to Atlanta and the Sixers and Nets going to Piscataway, N.J.

Teams that did battle Tuesday also resume first-round play Friday, with the Phoenix Suns joining the Trail Blazers in Portland and the Denver Nuggets visiting the Los Angeles Lakers.

Phoenix beat Portland 107-103 Tuesday, while Denver downed Los Angeles 110-105 that night.

The Hawks would seem to have a big advantage at home in the Omni, where they have won 34 games this season — 18 in a row — and lost just seven.

But, said Atlanta Coach Hubie Brown, "We don't think this is a one-game series because we won. They could come to our place Friday and do a great job."

Houston, which has lost four of five games to the Hawks this season, seemed ready to reverse the tide when they took a 57-50 halftime lead.

But Atlanta started the third quarter with a 16-6 scoring spurt and they gave up the lead, as Dan Roundfield scored 23 points and got 18 rebounds before fouling out with 2:07 left. Atlanta's usual high scorer, John Drew, hit only four of 24 shots and finished with 15 points.

"If you'd told me that Drew would go four for 24 and we'd still win, I'd have bet $5,000 against it," Brown said. "We had a lot of unsung heroes going for us tonight."

Moses Malone led the Rockets with 28 points and 17 rebounds while Newlin added 16.

In Philadelphia, Julius Erving scored 28 points and the 76ers never fell behind, even though the Nets' John Williamson poured on 38 points before his ejection on a second technical with 1:29 remaining.

The 76ers led twice in the first period by margins of 10 points. Erving's fast break made it 33-22 at the end of the period.

Williamson kept the Nets in the contest, hitting 12 of his 15 first-half points during the second period. A 15-foot jumper by Henry Bibby made it 55-45 at the half.

Forsch, Astros whip Dodgers

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston's Ken Forsch had little time to worry about becoming only the second major league pitcher ever to throw two consecutive no-hitters.

"I wasn't thinking at all about another no-hitter," said Forsch, who lost his bid for his second gem of the young season on the third pitch of the Astros' 10-3 victory over Los Angeles Wednesday night.

"I was just thinking about trying to keep the lead off runner off base," Forsch added. "I had just as good stuff tonight as I did in the no-hitter, but I gave up 10 hits. I can't explain it."

Forsch, 2-0, surrendered a lead off single to Davey Lopes in the first inning. The veteran right hander went the distance as Houston roled up its fifth victory in six starts, the club's best start since 1968.

Cesar Cedeno's three-run homer broke a fifth inning tie against losing pitcher Don Sutton, 1-1, and helped Houston to its most productive offensive performance of the year.

Los Angeles took a 2-0 second inning lead on rbi singles by Sutton and Bill Russell, but Houston came back to tie the score in the bottom of the inning on run-producing base hits by Enos Cabell and Bob Watson.

Cabell's throwing error following Dusty Baker's single allowed Steve Garvey to score from third on the same play in the third inning as the Dodgers went ahead 3-2.

Watson's sacrifice fly tied the score again in the fourth before Cedeno put the Astros ahead to stay with his first home run of the season one inning later.

A two-run single by Alan Ashby highlighted a four-run Astros outburst in the eighth inning against reliever Charlie Hough, as Houston sent nine men to the plate in its biggest inning of the season.

"You can't get too excited about winning like this or get too down in the dumps about losing early in the season," Houston Manager Bill Virdon said. "But if we can continue playing like this, it could turn out to be one of those years."

Nastase advances in Monte Carlo

MONTE CARLO, Monaco — Fifth-seeded Ilie Nastase of Romania advanced to the quarterfinals of the $175,000 Monte Carlo Open tournament when Geoff Masters of Australia defaulted with a heel injury.

Masters, who reported trouble with a bone spur on his left heel after winning a firstround match against Johan Kriek of South Africa, was advised to rest after being examined by a doctor.

In second-round action, Yannick Noah of France beat Zeljko Franulovic of Yugoslavia 6-4, 6-4, and Jose Clerc of Argentina defeated West Germany's Ulrich Pinner 3-6, 7-6, 6-1.

Indy faces dilemma

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The two sides in championship auto racing's biggest high-stakes poker game, reluctant but ready for a showdown, have tightened their belts, put their chips on the table and dared the other to call.

The battle lines are drawn, and with three days left before the entry deadline for the $1 million Indianapolis 500, neither side seemed likely to back down, or at least give the impression to the other that it might.

The U.S. Auto Club and the Indianapolis Motor Speedway are adamant they won't give in to Championship Auto Racing Teams. And CART, which numbers most of the sport's top drivers in its ranks, has threatened to boycott the Indy 500 and stage its own million-dollar race the same day unless it is given more control.

The time of truth is rapidly approaching.

"There is no consideration being given to extending the date" past Sunday's deadline for entering the 500, USAC President Dick King said Wednesday.

CART, a breakaway group of championship car owners and drivers, has run one race of its own already this season. Basically, CART is seeking an increase in manifold pressure settings, which would raise an equal voice with USAC in inspection of the race cars at the Speedway.

King said, however, "there will be no major changes made in the rules for the 1979 Indy 500 and the balance of the championship racing season."

Lyle to fight LeDoux

NEW YORK (AP) — Ron Lyle, acquitted of murder charges in the death of an aide, will resume his quest for a heavyweight title bid by fighting Scott LeDoux in a 10-rounder May 12.

In his first bout in nearly a year, Lyle scored an eighth-round knockout over Fili Moala of San Diego last week. He'll fight LeDoux in Las Vegas, and the bout will be nationally televised, co-promoters Bob Arum and Don King said Wednesday.

The 37-year-old Lyle, an exconvict, has a lifetime record of 37 wins — 25 by knockout, five losses and one draw. He fought for the heavyweight title May 16, 1975, wen he was stopped by Muhammad Ali in the 11th round.

LeDoux, 30, of Crosby, Minn., is undefeated in his last six fights, both draws against Leon Spinks and Bill Sharkey. His lifetime record is 25-6-3 with 17 knockouts.

Sports magnate Cooke settles divorce

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Jack Kent Cooke, owner of the Los Angeles Lakers and Kings and majority owner of the Washington Redskins, will retain control of his sports empire under a divorce settlement filed in Los Angeles Superior Court.

The agreement will divide equally assets estimated at $80 between Cooke and his wife of 42 years, Barbara. The two were divorced in October, 1977, but the property settlement was left for later proceedings.

Under the agreement, Cooke, will get 72 percent of the Raljon Corp., a Nevada firm that owns the National Basketball Association Lakers and the National Hockey League Kings, and the Forum in Inglewood, Calif. Also included are Videotape Enterprises Inc., a ranch in Woody, Calif., and 180,000 shares of Teleprompter Inc.

Cooke, 66, will also retain his 86 percent ownership Pro-Football Inc. of Maryland, which owns the National Football League Redskins.

Barbara, 62, will get 28 percent of Raljon as well as all of the outstanding stock of Ercil Corp., a Nevada company that owns 1,529,000 shares of Teleprompter.

Colorado City captures 6-AA boys' tennis title

The Colorado City boys won the District 6-AA boys' tennis title yesterday by scoring a total of 45 points. Coahoma finished second with 15 points, followed by Stamford with ten, and Ballinger with five.

Two weeks ago, Ballinger won the girls' division.

In the junior high girls division, Coahoma won first with 35 points. Colorado City's Pam Matthews won the girl's singles title, defeating Cassie Aberegg of Coahoma 6-3, 4-6, 6-4. Polly Barbee and Robin Etheredge of Coahoma defeated Robbie Ritchey and Stacy Swann of Coahoma 6-4, 3-6, 6-4 to take the doubles title.

Watson disdains favorite role

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Tom Watson, relaxing in the locker room at the Augusta National Golf Club, was careful to preface his remarks with a disclaimer.

"I don't place too much importance in favorites, or who's picked as the favorite.

"If Jimmy the Greek had to make a living betting on golf, he'd be broke yesterday."

But, Watson said, looking ahead to the Thursday start of the 42nd Masters golf tournament, "there are certain categories of players."

And he began ticking off some of the more likely to succeed to the green jacket that will be draped around the shoulders of the winner of this annual spring rite.

"Raymond (Floyd) obviously is playing very well right now," Watson said. "He's at a peak.

"Gary (Player) had a strong second place finish last week. He's got his act together.

"Jack (Nicklaus), well, he's played this course so many times — and experience is so important here — and he's such a smart player, he could play just mediocre and win."

And Watson, of course, the heir apparent to Nicklaus as golf's premier performer, didn't discount his own chances in the tournament he won in 1977 and in which he was a runnerup last season.

"I'm playing well enough to be there," said Watson, a runaway winner of the prestigious Heritage Classic in his last start.

"I'm swinging reasonably well. I'm a little fast with my rhythm, but that's something I fight all the time.

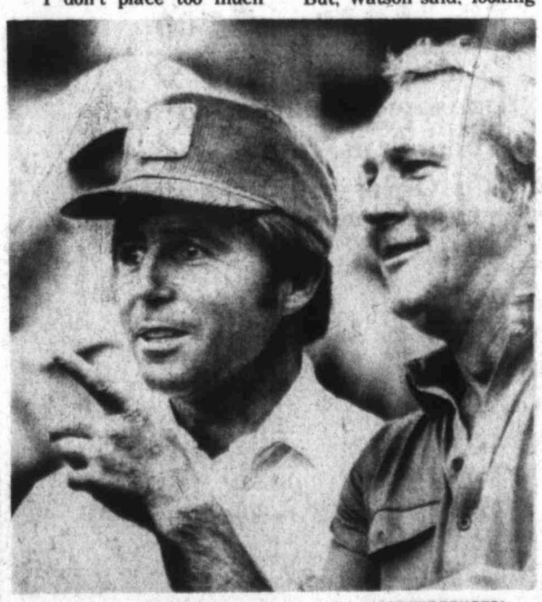

"I'm just going to try to minimize my mistakes. I'm going to try not to make any big mistakes and make any big numbers. I'm going to try not to make any mistakes at all. There's a lot of places out there on Augusta National where a mistake can cost you a lot of strokes."

Watson, currently heading the money-winning list and Player of the Year the last two seasons, said the famed golf course "is in the best condition I've ever seen it. The greens are much faster, much slicker than last year. Given the same weather conditions as last year, the scores will be higher.

A couple of first-timers in the elite, international field of 72, distance-hitters Lon Hinkle and Fuzzy Zoeller are given betterthan-average chances by most observers.

Among the other major standouts are Hubert Green, Hale Irwin, Bruce Lietzke, Ben Crenshaw, U.S. Open champ Andy North, Jerry Pate and Lanny Wadkins, the only twotime winner on the PGA tour this year.

Traditionally, the purse will not be announced until the weekend. Last year the total purse was slightly over $250,000, with $45,000 to the winner.

SWC schools sign prize roundball recruits

By the Associated Press

Texas Tech lured a Mississippi all-stater, Texas signed a 7-footer and Southern Methodist outdueled several schools for a Kansas all-stafer as Southwest Conference basketball coaches inked players Wednesday to national letters of intent.

Texas Tech's prize was 6-6 forward Joe Washington of Tupelo, Miss., who averaged 18.5 points and 11 rebounds per game. Washington, a three-time all-stater, was courted by Mississippi, Mississippi State and Alcorn A&M and led his team to a 31-3 record.

Texas Coach Abe Lemons, who desperately needed a large, dominating center this past season in tying Arkansas for the SWC championship, landed 7-foot, 1-inch Steve Frederick of Pasadena Dobie.

Frederick, a two-time all-district player, averaged 17 points and 10 rebounds a game his senior year and had a game high of 40 points.

SMU hauled in a big catch in 6-2 guard Dave Piehler of Newton, Kan., who was pursued hotly by Oklahoma, Arkansas and Kansas. Piehler averaged 28.5 points for a team that won the Kansas state title with a 20-4 ledger. Piehler was the most valuable player in the state tournament, scoring the winning basket in the title game.

Although losing Piehler, Arkansas Coach Eddie Sutton signed 6-6 forward LeRoy Sutton of South Bend, Ind., to a national letter. The Razorbacks also won the services of 6-2 guard Keith Hillard of Northeastern Oklahoma and 6-8 center Scott Horrell of Marmaduke, Ark., High School.

Robert Williams, a two-time all-state guard from Houston Milby, signed a national letter with the University of Houston. The Cougars also signed 6-10 David Bunce, an all-district performer from Conroe who averaged 17 points last season.

Williams, scheduled to play for the Texas All-Stars Thursday night in the second annual Roundball Classic here, led city scorers with a 26.3 average last season and paced Milby to a 24-6 record. UH won a recruiting duel with San Francisco for Williams' services.

Baylor's Jim Haller signed 6-5 James Bailey of Waco Richfield, who averaged 23 points and 14 rebounds.

Texas A&M Coach Shelby Metcalf said it would be several days before the Aggies would announce any signings because of the schoolboy allstar games being played.

FISTS FLY AT SHEA — Rookie National League umpire Lanny Harris attempts to break up fight between Montreal Expos Gary Carter, right, and John Stearns of the New York Mets Wednesday. Fight erupted in ninth inning of game at Shea Stadium when Carter barrelled into Stearns attempting to beat the ball home. Fight precipitated a brief bench clearing brawl before order was restored.

Umpires' attorney asks for Kuhn's help

NEW YORK (AP) — Charging that the integrity of baseball is being damaged by amateur and minor league umpires working games, attorney Richie Phillips called today for Commissioner Bowie Kuhn's intervention in the labor dispute between the two major leagues and their regular umps.

"I think a committee of owners and the commissioner should step in and resolve this thing," said Phillips. "I don't think baseball can go much longer this way."

The umpires picketed in front of National League headquarters in midManhattan Wednesday, passing out cartoon handbills to passersby. They also visited the American League office, a short walk away.

"The fans have been great," said Ron Luciano of the American League, president of the umpires association. "Public opinion is with us. Those same people who yell 'Kill the umpire!' and make you sleep with your light on are behind us now."

The umpires are seeking increases in salaries that now range from $17,500 to $40,000 and expense allowances now at $53 per diem. Phillips said that American League President Lee MacPhail and Chub Feeney, president of the National League, have taken a rigid position and refuse to budge.

"In 3½ months, they've offered two $500 raises and one $1,000 raise," Phillips said. "That's not negotiating."

The umpires' attorney sees little hope for a quick settlement to the stalemate, especially if baseball leaves the matter solely in the hands of the two league presidents.

"There is such a chasm now between them and the umpires that I don't know if it can be overcome," he said.

Fifty of the 52 regular major league umps refused to report at the start of spring training. Baseball has been using one minor league umpire teaming with three local umps to replace them since the season started last week. Phillips thinks that system is doomed.

"The commissioner always talks about the integrity of the game," he said. "Three local umps isn't exactly integrity if you ask me. What kind of objectivity can three local umps who are essentially fans give the game?"

Midway, Hawks win Y basketball tourney

Midway Baptist won the Church League Tournament and the Hawks won the Industrial League Tournament held at the YMCA last weekend.

The First Christian-First Methodist team, who captured the regular season championship with a record of 13-1, finished second to Midway in the tourney. Midway took a 63-61 victory in the tourney for the crown. After First Christian and Midway in the regular season, the order of finish were Hillcrest and First Baptist tied for third, followed by Phillips Memorial, St. Thomas Crestview and College Baptist.

The Hawks, who were sponsored by Cue and Triangle, also captured the regular season crown in the Industrial League. Cabot was second in the tourney and in the regular season. Dibrell's finished third, followed by Sportsworld, Small Tool, Texas Electric and Cosden.

Caulkins shatters records

LOS ANGELES — Tracy Caulkins, a 16-year-old schoolgirl from Nashville, Tenn., shattered two American women's records to highlight the opening finals competition in the National AAU Swimming Championships.

Caulkins set an American mark in the 100-yard breaststroke with a time of 1 minute, 1.82 seconds. Tami Paumier finished second at 1:02.60, and Renee Laravie was third at 1:03.65.

The American record was 1:02.06, set earlier this year by Caulkins.

Thirty-four minutes later, Caulkins rewrote the American 500-yard freestyle mark with a time of 4:36.25. Second-place finisher Sippy Woodhead of Riverside, Calif., also bettered the old mark with a time of 4:38.93. Woodhead held the record of 4:39.94, set last year.

Jazz moving to Salt Lake City

SALT LAKE CITY — The New Orleans Jazz, beset by booking problem in the Superdome, will move to Salt Lake next season if the National Basketball Association approves, Jazz owners said.

Team owners said they would meet in New York City with NBA Commissioner Larry O'Brien today to discuss moving the 5-year-old franchise, which finished this season with a 26-56 record, worst in the NBA.

Bob Brock Ford takes volleyball title

The Bob Brock Ford's women's volleyball team, after losing the opener 15-13, rallied to defeat Jack Lewis Buick 16-14 and 15-11 to capture the YMCA's Women Volleyball Tournament recently. Ted Fowler's Texaco defeated Pollard Chevrolet 15-9 and 14-8 to take third place.

Jack Lewis Buick had captured first place in the regular season play, with Brock Ford second. Pollard Chevrolet was third, followed by Fowler's Texaco, Jiffy Car Wash, Foodway Fems, Cosden, City Slickers, Mort Denton Pharmacy and the VA hospital.

The Y will open co-ed recreational volleyball beginning May 1. Action will take place on Monday nights from seven to nine.

The Y will also sponsor a Women's Invitational Tournament on April 20-21. Any teams interested in playing should contact Nadine Teague at 7-8235. Any men interested in playing in a men's league should contact the Y.

Can Couple Live In And Keep Love Out?

DEAR ABBY: I have a daughter who will be 20 soon. Her boyfriend, with whom she has grown up, is in the Air Force and is stationed in Florida. He's asked her to marry him in June of 1980, but he wants her to come to Florida and share a two-bedroom apartment with him for two months.

Our daughter was taught that premarital sex was wrong. She says she honestly thinks she can live with this guy for two months without having sex with him. She insists she would never give in to him, and says she's made that clear to him.

I still maintain that when two people are in love, plan to marry and are thrown into a situation of that kind, they will find it impossible to resist the temptation of sex.

We've always been a church-going family and I can't understand her reasoning. She wants my blessing, but says if I don't give it to her, she'll go anyway and I can't stop her.

Am I old-fashioned? Or do you honestly believe they can live together for two months and not have sex?

DOUBTING MOTHER

DEAR DOUBTING: If they exercise the strictest kind of self-discipline, it's possible. However, a person who's opposed to premarital sex should not go in for premarital living together.

DEAR ABBY: A lady I knew (not well) passed away, leaving a husband and two children. I want to express my sympathy to the husband and let him know that I'm available to do whatever I can to help him through his time of sorrow.

I know him only to say "hi" to. He is very well fixed financially. Attractive, too, so I'm sure there will be a lot of women after him.

I'm a divorcee, new in town, and I don't want to appear too forward or he might get the wrong idea.

I would like to write him a sympathy note that will be out of the ordinary. Something witty or eloquent. Any suggestions along that line?

VIRGO LADY

DEAR VIRGO: If you didn't know the lady well, and know her husband only to say "hi" to, write a brief condolence note. Don't try for wit or eloquence. And please restrain your eagerness to help him through his time of sorrow, or it won't be the "wrong" idea but the right one that might cause him to think you're after him, too.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married 46 years. We live modestly and have never been big spenders. We have a comfortable income and bank account and my husband is an honest and decent man, but here is my problem:

He hides money all over the house. I find it when housecleaning.

Last month I found a surprising amount in the cellar. I asked him why. He never answered. I tried to get him to put that money in the bank because the bills were getting moldy, but he wouldn't do it. He just took it to hide somewhere else.

Today I found some more money under the sofa cushions, and I am feeling very depressed.

Please don't write me a personal letter as my husband gets the mail first since he is now retired. Thank you.

WORRIED SICK

DEAR WORRIED: Get your husband to a doctor for a "routine" checkup as soon as possible. And be sure to tell the doctor (quietly in advance) what you have told me. Your husband needs help.

Mrs. Arthur Coots visits Beauceants

The Big Spring Assembly No. 211, Social Order of the Beauceant welcomed Mrs. Arthur G. Coots, Supreme Worthy President, on her official visit and inspection of the order when they met in regular meeting Monday in the Masonic Hall, Mrs. Steve Baker presided.

Ritualistic work was exemplified by the officers.

Mrs. Lee Porter, Supreme Aide District 24, Mrs. I.L. Edwards, Midland Assembly No. 143 president, four visiting past presidents and 15 past presidents of the Big Spring Assembly were introduced.

Mrs. Coots presented her official address at the close of the meeting, explaining the pearl embroidered symbols on the Supreme President's robe.

Prior to the meeting, dinner was held at K-Bob's Steak House where Mrs. Coots was presented with a key to the city by Mayor Pro tem Mrs. Polly Mays. She was also given a gift from the assembly. Also present at the event in addition to members, were Sir Knights and out-of-town guests.

Following the meeting, a reception was held in honor of the Supreme Worthy President in the banquet hall.

The next meeting will be held April 23.

Thoughts on dating 'younger men'

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

It's that time again when guest writers offer their views on a teen problem.

Victoria of Valparaiso, Ind., has a boyfriend who is younger than she is and wants advice.

Jim Hunt, 18, from Gadsden, Ala., and Rosemary Van de Kamp, 16, who lives in San Mateo, Calif., will share the teen thoughts. Welcome to you all.

Dr. Wallace: I am a 17-year-old and my boyfriend is 14, but very mature for his age. Both of our parents think that it is not a good idea for us to be seeing each other because of our age difference. Even our friends think our ages are too far apart.

He is a great guy and treats me the way a girl wants to be treated and I really don't want to lose him. We care a lot about each other, but don't know what to do.

Please advise us. — Victoria, Valparaiso, Ind.

Victoria: With ages of 17 and 14, I would assume you are a senior and your boyfriend a freshman. Things might seem great now, but soon the age difference will become significant, especially after you graduate.

Stay friends, but both of you should find friends in your respective age groups.

Hi Victoria: Take it from me a good guy is hard to find. If this boy treats you like a queen, he is a "keeper." Forget what your friends say. They are just jealous. Just in case you do dump him, I'm sending you my address. Give it to him. — Rosemary.

Hello Victoria: I don't see anything wrong with a 17-year-old boy dating a 14-year-old girl so why shouldn't a 17-year-old girl date a 14-year-old boy? Too many people put too much emphasis on age instead of maturity. Do yourself a favor and stay with this guy. — Good luck, Jim.

Dr. Wallace: I read recently in a women's advice column where a mother was complaining about her 17-year-old son's dressing mode. My mother clipped out the column and said, "See, I told you you were wrong. Read this."

What are your thoughts on teen clothes? — Cliff, Longview, Wash.

Cliff: I didn't read the column so I can be subjective in my response. Personally, I feel teens should be allowed to dress in any style or type of clothing they desire. They have good taste most times better than adults. Most teens will experiment with different modes of dress, but most know how to dress to suit the occasion.

More important than clothing style is the cleanliness and personal hygiene of the individual.

Write to Dr. Robert Wallace, TwEEN 12 and 20 in care of this newspaper. Please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Lodge members present Bible ceremony in Odessa

Big Spring Rebekah Lodge No. 284 met at 7:30 p.m. in the I.O.O.F. Hall, 9th and San Antonio, with Jewel Thompson, Noble Grand, presiding.

The commission of Lila Holland was read, authorizing her to act in her official capacity as Lodge Deputy. Her duties were outlined in a letter she read from Jerry Miller, president of the Rebekah Assembly of Texas.

Eight members of the lodge attended the West Texas I.O.O.F. and Rebekah Association in Odessa giving a Bible presentation ceremony entitled "The Lord's Prayer in Candles."

Olean Melton was the winner of an afghan which was raffled at the meeting. Marion Savell gave the Vice Grands Charge and was awarded $10 for first place. The next association meeting will be held in October at George Knauff Rebekah Lodge No. 119, Odessa.

Members discussed a "We Lost" dinner for the Odd Fellows and have tentatively set the event for May 7.

Mrs. Thompson announced that the cleaning day for the lodge has been changed to Monday at 1:30 p.m.

The next meeting will be April 17 at the I.O.O.F. Hall.

Bridal shower held Saturday

Mrs. S. Mark Young, nee Laurie Lynn Wooten, was the honoree at a bridal shower April 7 from 10-12 a.m. at the Brandin' Iron Inn.

Hostesses for the event were Mrs. Bob Parker, Mrs. Bill Lovelace, Mrs. Stan Garrison, Mrs. Ted Ferrell, Mrs. Bob Fuller, Mrs. Doug Warren, Mrs. Joe Horton, Mrs. Winston Wrinkle, Mrs. J.R. Bizzel, and Ms. Julie Shirey.

Guests were registered by Mrs. Lovelace and Mrs. Ferrell and greeted by the honoree, her mother, Mrs. Gerald Wooten and her mother-in-law, Mrs. Floyd Young.

Special guests were grandmothers of the bride, Mrs. Roy Bennett and Mrs. Opal Wooten.

The table was draped with yellow linen cloth and centered with an arrangement of fresh spring flowers. Crystal and silver appointments were used.

Attending from out of town were Mrs. Ron Farquhar, Lori Farquhar, Tressa Hight and Kristi Farquhar, all of Odessa.

Big Spring Squares hold workshops

The Big Spring Squares danced to the calling of Johnny Rogers of Crane April 7 with approximately seven squares attending the event.

Visitors participated from Snyder and Colorado City.

Workshops are continuing on Tuesday nights at 7 p.m. prior to lessons at 8 p.m.

Randy Phillips will be the caller April 21.

A special dance will be held April 27 with Andy Petrere.

The annual Big Spring Square and Round Dance Festival will take place May 5 at the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum. Everyone is invited to attend.

LA VANDA CHAMBERLIN

Girl Scout wins firsts

La Vanda (Boo) Chamberlin, daughter of Linda and Greg Chamberlin is now the proud possessor of six first place ribbons and an overall trophy from the West Texas Girl Scout Track Meeting, District IV, held April 7 at Blankenship Field.

She was the only participant in the meet to win first place in all events including the 50, 100, and 220-yard dashes, softball throw, high jump and broad jump.

The all-around winner is a first grader at Marcy Elementary School and is a member of Brownie Troop 29. Mrs. Carolyn Wallace is La Vanda's leader.

LGA prepares for Easter Parade

By ROBBI CROW
Family News Editor

"Did the Easter Bunny leave any eggs?"

This question will be answered Sunday at the Ladies Golf Association Easter Parade at the Big Spring Country Club.

"The Easter Parade is held primarily for the children," explained Cheryl Lain.

"After Easter dinner, the children parade to the front stage modeling their Easter frocks and then participate in an all-out easter egg hunt.

The dinner is held from 12-2 p.m. for members and their guests.

Other activities sponsored by the LGA include a golf tournament in June and a style show in December. Teen Splash Day is also sponsored by the organization.

This year's project is to assist in decorating the Country Club's Grill Room.

Present LGA officers are Sidney Arrick, president; Barbara Hall, vice president; Jill Heith, secretary; and Medena Thurman, treasurer.

Meetings are held the first Friday of each month at 11:30 a.m.

Below are some new and tasty recipes submitted by the Ladies Golf Association.

Ann McCann's
CHICKEN BREASTS
(with onion and mushroom soups)

4 breasts of chicken
1 can cream of mushroom soup
1 envelope onion soup
½ cup heavy cream
Paparika

Halve breasts and skin. Place in single layer in 3-quart glass baking dish. Mix together undiluted soup and dry soup mix; gradually stir in cream and spread over chicken. Sprinkle with paprika and bake at 350 degrees until chicken is done and top is light brown. Serves 8.

Cheryl Lain's
PRALINES

1 pound box light brown sugar
1 small can evaporated milk
2 cups pecans
1 teaspoon vanilla
pinch salt

Pour milk in saucepan and turn on medium heat. Add sugar and stir and bring to boil. Add pecans, vanilla and salt. Boil about 5 minutes, stirring frequently. Set aside to cool and put wax paper on cookie sheets. Beat mixture until cool enough to drop teaspoonfuls onto wax paper.

Sidney Arrick's
CANADIAN CHEESE SOUP

¼ cup butter
2 tablespoons minced green onion
½ cup thinly sliced carrots
¾ cup finely chopped celery
2 cups chicken stock (or 2 cups water and 2 chicken bouillon cubes)
½ teaspoon seasoned salt
¼ cup flour
1½ cup milk
2½ cups shredded American cheese (approx. 10 ounces)

Melt butter in large saucepan on medium-low heat; add onion and cook about 1 minute or until onions are golden. Stir in carrots, celery, chicken stock, and salt; simmer until vegetables are tender (about 10-15 minutes.)

Combine flour and ½ cup milk; blend into vegetable mixture stirring constantly until smooth and thick. Slowly add remaining 1 cup milk. Add cheese and parsley; stir and heat just until cheese melts. Do not boil. Serves 5-6.

Paula Duncan's
CHICKEN WAIKIKI BEACH

2 whole chicken legs and 2 whole chicken breasts
½ cup flour
1-3rd cup salad oil
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
Sauce:
1 can (1 pound 4 ounce) sliced pineapple
1 cup sugar
2 tablespoons cornstarch
¾ cup vinegar
1 tablespoon soy sauce
¼ teaspoon ginger
1 chicken bouillon cube
1 large green pepper, sliced

Wash chicken, coat with flour and brown on all sides. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Heat oven to 350 degrees. Make sauce: drain pineapple, pouring syrup into two-cup measure. Add water to make ¼ cups. Combine rest of ingredients, bring to boil, stirring. Pour over chicken. Bake uncovered, 30 minutes. Add pineapple slices and green pepper slices. Bake 30 more minutes. Serve with fluffy white rice.

Ann McCann's
EASTER BUNNY CAKE

Bake any 2 layer cake. Prepare a fluffy white frosting.

Cut one layer in half to make 2 semi-circles. Put halves together with frosting to make body. Place cake upright on cut edge. Cut a notch 1-3rd of the way up one edge of body to make head. Attach out piece for tail with wooden toothpick.

Frost bunny; sprinkle with coconut. Make ears out of white paper, color inside pink. Use pink jelly beans for eyes and nose. Surround bunny with green tinted coconut for grass and jelly beans for eggs.

Sidney Arrick's
CARROT CAKE

2 cups flour
2 teaspoons soda
2 teaspoons cinnamon
1 teaspoon salt
2 cups sugar
4 eggs
1¼ cups cooking oil
2 cups finely grated carrots

Sift dry ingredients together. Mix eggs, cooking oil, and carrots together. Add to dry ingredients. Beat hard. Bake in bundt pan for 45 minutes at 350 degrees.

Icing:
1 8-ounce package of cream cheese
1 stick oleo
1 box powdered sugar
1 cup chopped nuts

Cream cheese and oleo; and sugar gradually. Blend in nuts and spread on cool cake.

Cheryl Lain's
SOUR CREAM POUND CAKE

Preheat oven to 300 degrees.
Cream:
½ pound butter
2¾ cup sugar

Preheat oven to 300 degrees.

Cream ½ pound butter and blend 2¾ cup sugar. Continue beating and add one at a time, 6 eggs. Then add 1 teaspoon each of vanilla, lemon and almond extract.

Sift together 3 cups flour, ¼ teaspoon soda and ½ teaspoon salt.

Add dry ingredients alternately to the batter with 1 cup sour cream. Pour into a greased and floured bundt pan and bake 1¼ to 1½ hours in 300 degree oven. Remove from pan and cool on rack. Sift powdered sugar over top.

Paula Duncan's
PLANTATION GINGERBREAD

2½ cups sifted flour
1 teaspoon soda
1½ teaspoon ginger
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon nutmeg or mace
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup butter
1 cup sugar
3 eggs
1 cup light molasses
¾ cup hot water

Whipped sweetened cream

Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Grease well and flour 13"x9"x2" pan. Sift flour with soda, spices and salt. Set aside.

In large bowl, beat butter, sugar and eggs until smooth and fluffy. About 5 minutes. At low speed, beat in molasses and hot water. Add flour mixture, beating until smooth. Turn batter into prepared pan. Bake 35 to 40 minutes, or until cake tester comes out clean. Cool partially in pan. Serve warm with cream. (Also great toasted with butter for breakfast.

Black pepper still surprises

Black pepper has been far and away the most popular spice for centuries. And yet, there are still plenty of delicious discoveries to be made about it — as the following recipes for Chicken Au Poivre and Peppersnaps will prove.

Chicken Au Poivre takes its flavor from a generous coating of black pepper and a springling of salt and garlic powder. All combine wonderfully in a white wine-based broth.

Just as chicken and pepper prove to be estimable partners, Peppersnaps, cookies spiced with black pepper and cinnamon, are a complementary combination you probably haven't tried before. As a matter of fact, we dare your friends to guess that pepper is a primary seasoning ingredient.

CHICKEN AU POIVRE

2-½ pound chicken, cut into serving pieces
2 tablespoons course ground black pepper
¾ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon garlic powder
tablespoon salad oil
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
½ cup chicken broth
2 tablespoons dry white wine or apple juice

Pierce chicken with fork on both sides. Rub both sides with black pepper; sprinkle with salt and garlic powder. Let stand for 30 minutes. In a large skillet heat oil and butter until hot. Add chicken and brown on all sides. Add chicken broth and wine. Bring to a boil. Reduce heat and simmer, covered, until chicken is tender, about 35 minutes, adding more broth if needed. Serve over rice, if desired.

Cow Belle Kitchen

By MRS. LARRY NIX

All easy-to-prepare dinners aren't quick. Some entrees save a homemaker's time by simmering long and lazily on their own.

A stew can be a "time-sparer," points out Reba Staggs, home economist of the National Live Stock and Meat Board. This is especially true when it's one that boasts single-step preparation.

With this recipe there's no need to brown beef cubes, adjust heat or thicken gravy. Preparation is simply a matter of combine and bake until the beef is tender and the stew delicious.

A low oven temperature, a tight cover and quick-cooking tapioca are responsible for the success of this method; beef plus an unusual vegetable combination account for unusual vegetable combination account for its appealing flavor.

SPANISH BEEF OVEN STEW

2 pounds boneless beef, cut in 1" cubes
4 medium-sized carrots, cut in half crosswise and lengthwise
1 pound turnips, pared and cut in quarters
1 leek (or three green onions), cut in 1" pieces
1 can (15-oz.) garbanzo beans, drained
1 cup tomato juice
¼ cup water
1-3rd cup quick-cooking tapioca
½ teaspoon rosemary
2 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper

Place beef, carrots, turnips, leek, garbanzo beans, tomato juice, water, tapioca, rosemary, salt and pepper in a Dutch oven. Combine thoroughly. Cover and cook in a slow oven (300 degrees F.) for 3 to 3½ hours until meat is tender. Stir occasionally. 8 servings.

Deft seasoning, sour cream sauce make beef loaf special.

What makes a meat loaf so popular? Undoubtedly, it's the mingling of flavors that takes place as the beef and seasonings bake. This gourmet loaf with its delicious sauce is outstanding, says meat expert Reba Staggs of the National Live Stock and Meat Board.

GOURMET BEEF LOAF

2 pounds ground beef
1 can (16 oz.) tomatoes
1½ teaspoons salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
¼ teaspoons sage eggs, beaten
1 cup cracker crumbs (about 24 crackers)
1 medium-sized onion, finely chopped
1 beef bouillon cube
½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
2 tablespoons catsup
2 tablespoons sliced ripe olives
½ cup dairy sour cream

Drain ¼ cup tomato juice from tomatoes and reserve for making sauce. Combine ground beef, salt, pepper, sage, eggs, crumbs, remaining to matoes and onions. Shape mixture into a 9x5 inch loaf, in an open roasting pan. Bake in a slow oven (325 degrees F.) 1¼ hours.

Serve with tomato-olive sauce made as follows: dissolve bouillon cube in ¼ cup tomato juice. Add Worcestershire sauce, catsup and olives. Bring to a boil, stir well. Reduce heat below boiling. Stir in sour cream slowly. 8 servings.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, APR. 13, 1979

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You have the chance now to work out a course of action that could bring added success in your line of endeavor. Contact persons whom you would like to be associated with in the future.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Get an early start on unfinished work you have to do and plow right through with enthusiasm. Show mate that you are truly devoted.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Talk over policy matters with associates and come to a fine agreement. Situations arise now that can prove advantageous for you.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Make sure all that accumulated work is taken care of before you start weekend social activities. Budget your money wisely.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Be sure to make early plans for weekend pleasure you wish to participate in with good friends.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You have fine ideas about handling home affairs, but be sure to use wisdom in putting them across. Keep active and feel better.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Study a puzzling matter and you can gain the benefit later. Try to be of greater service to others at this time.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Forget frivolity and get down to the most practical matters that need your attention. Sidestep one who imposes on you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You will have to persevere more if you are to gain your most cherished personal wish now. Show more devotion to mate.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Make the right decisions concerning personal matters and gain your aims. Strive for increased happiness.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Contact good friends of quality and plan the future wisely. Make the evening a happy one from a social standpoint.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Know just where you are headed in business affairs and use positive methods for best results. Show more consideration for others.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You have excellent ideas that should be worked out with precision so that you can gain the benefits. Be charming with others.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will have a very inquisitive mind and will study problems and come up with the right answer. Work in laboratories is best suited for your progeny, be it in medicine or whatever. A gifted person in this chart.

Ayers posts bail

Steve Truett Ayers, Sterling City Route, was released on bond Wednesday. He was arrested Tuesday on suspicion of theft by exercising control. Bond was set by Justice of the Peace Lewis Heflin at $5,000.

Judge hard to find for retrial of Davis

HOUSTON (AP) — District Judge Wallace "Pete" Moore is finding it hard to come up with a fellow judge willing to take on the Herculean task of presiding over the retrial of Cullen Davis.

Moore scheduled a hearing Friday to let attorneys present testimony and evidence for and against moving the murder-for-hire trial from Houston, where it ended January in an 8-4 deadlock after three months.

Defense attorneys want it moved, but Tarrant County prosecutors want to keep it in Houston. It originated in Fort Worth and was moved here due to the large amount of publicity it received.

The Fort Worth millionaire is accused of hiring someone to kill the judge presiding in his divorce case.

After receiving a telephone call from District Judge Herman Jones of Austin declining the case, Moore said, "I cannot imagine it would be retried here. We'll find someplace to try it."

Moore said Jones declined the case because of space and time reasons.

Check given to VAVS bus fund

The Veterans Administration Chaplain Service presented a check to Ken Cooper, Co-Chairman of the VAVS Bus Fund, for $1,181.75, the largest single donation to date, at the VA Medical Center.

The donation brought the bus fund balance to $22,543.74. The Chaplain Service plans to use the bus to transport patients to religious services in the community.

Cooper and Co-Chairman Pete Evans of Odessa expressed appreciation for all donations.

Donations are still being accepted toward the $30,000 needed to purchase the bus. Checks can be made payable to 'VAVS Project' and sent to VAVS Bus Project Committee (125), VA Medical Center, Big Spring, Texas 79720.

PUBLIC NOTICE

Pistol stolen by intruder

A burglary was reported to the Howard County Sheriff's Department over the weekend by W.W. Morris, Gail Rte.

The intruder, who apparently entered through a window, removed a .38 caliber pistol from beneath a mattress, ignoring other items of value in the house.

According to the sheriff's report, the burglary apparently left the premises through the front door, leaving it locked.

Mr. and Mrs. Morris had been visiting out of area overnight and found signs of the forced entry when they returned.

Cooke deputies quiz Crawford

Alvin D. Crawford, Hobbs, N.M., was taken into custody by County Sheriff's deputies Monday on a Cooke County warranty. Crawford pleaded guilty to a Howard County burglary Thursday and received a three-year sentence in state prison. He was arrested March 14. He will be transported to Huntsville by the Cooke County deputies.

Two guilty pleas voiced

James Ray Stearns, Clifton, and Steven Ray Gunthner, 1703 Donnelly, entered guilty pleas in 118th District Court today. Stearns pleaded to hindering a secured creditor. Gunthner pleaded to burglary.

Stearns received a five-year probated sentence. He drove a mortgaged car across a state line. Stearns was returned by Chief Deputy Bill Whitton Monday to Howard County. He took Stearn into custody at the Meridian Sheriff's Office.

Gunthner received a seven-year probated sentence. He broke into the Parents Without Partners office Jan. 6 and was arrested the same day.

Rape of child count changed

The charge against Raymond P. Mendoza, Rte. 2, was changed from rape of a child to indecency with a child after medical doctors examined the victim. Mendoza was arrested Saturday by sheriff's deputies Roubert Puente and Joe Lopez on the Gail highway.

Singing telegrams profitable business

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The sleepy newlyweds answered the rap at the door of their honeymoon haven and found a bearded young man in a blue-striped shirt, sleeve garters and old-fashioned conductor's cap, strumming "Ain't Misbehavin'" on a guitar.

Mike Fredrickson, delivering a singing telegram from the groom's mother, suggested the couple "Start Misbehavin." The newlyweds were speechless, Fredrickson recalls.

That visit was all in a day's work for Fredrickson, 34, the brains and lungs behind Sing-A-Gram, a thriving business run out of a roomy, high-ceilinged old apartment in Minneapolis.

His credentials are what you might call impeccable: Magna cum laude grad in English from Macalester College, two years on a Rhodes scholarship at Oxford, a master's degree in medieval literature from the University of Toronto.

Fredrickson started singing telegrams as a lark two years ago. Now he has a fulltime business, grossing several thousand dollars a month. His brother Steven, a Redwood Falls businessman, is a partner in the enterprise, and another brother, Mark, is one of three performers he hires to help out.

Fredrickson charges $25 to deliver a singing telegram in person in the Minneapolis-St. Paul area, a little more in the suburbs. A message delivered by phone costs $10.

He and his colleagues are doing 30 or 40 telegrams a week, mostly in person, in the Twin Cities area, and he recently hired three performers and opened a branch in Detroit. He also tapes copies of his performance for $3.50 apiece.

Others have gotten into the singing telegram business in the area, but Fredrickson seems to have the lead, in terms of volume and expertise.

His lyrics, delivered in a mellow baritone, often go beyond mere doggerel.

"I am, after all, an English professor," he points out with a grin. As a sometime entertainer in Twin Cities nightspots, he often is able to write musical messages with a professional ring to them.

Fredrickson says the results have been more profitable than running a 30-acre subsistence farm on New Brunswick's Bay of Fundy, which he did for five years before returning to Minnesota two years ago.

Straw ballot requests to be made in advance

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — People who want straw polls on the primary election ballots will have to declare themselves ahead of time, the Texas Senate said Wednesday.

The Senate approved on voice vote and sent to the House a bill that would require that county political chairmen be notified 10 days before a state political party votes to put a voters' referendum on the ballot.

The measure also would require that persons presenting a petition for the ballot must post a $1,000 bond to cover verification of naming the petition.

Sen. Grant Jones, D-Jones, said the bill was prompted by two issues on the 1978 Democratic primary ballot.

One was a referendum on horse racing that was forced on the ballot by thousands of names presented by a statewide horseracing organization.

The second referendum, asking voters if they wanted increased interest rates on loans under $5,000, was put on the ballot at the last minute by the State Democratic Executive Committee without any advance notice.

Federal paper chase

CHARLES W. STENHOLM, M.C.
17th District of Texas

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Federal paperwork generates almost seven million cubic feet of paper annually and contributes to an economic burden of more than $40 billion a year. This massive wasted effort stifles innovation, inhibits productivity, and accelerates inflation.

This information glut is a reflection of a society that is beginning to mistrust itself. Paperwork intensive programs are brought about because society begins to doubt the integrity of a certain sector of the economy. In the last several years mistrust and hostility have given us the Occupational Safety and Health Administration to regulate the health and safety in our businesses; ERISA recently extended massive regulation over many of our pension plans; the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission often tells employers who they can hire and fire; and the IRS, the biggest paperwork transgressor of them all, continually gives us conflicting and inaccurate information and then threatens reprisals for the ignorance of the law.

What government is saying is that I do not trust the way you run your affairs, therefore I am going to regulate them and make you disclose every detail no matter how trivial. This situation breeds hostility as people become resentful of having some one constantly looking over their shoulder and interfering in their affairs.

No comprehensive legislation has ever been enacted to alleviate this problem and concerned citizens are beginning to ask why. The answer is that bureaucracies are formed to respond to a particular need and once they perform their function they are not disbanded but continue in existence. In an effort to justify their existence they issue needless reports and require unnecessary paperwork. Also it is extremely difficult to form a concensus on how to approach this problem. Every one wants to lessen the burden but no one wants his fiefdoms to be touched. Environmentalists resist attempts to limit the authority of the EPA, OSHA is supported by labor organizations, and other regulatory agencies are often supported by the very industries they regulate.

Certainly I believe in such goals as maintaining a quality environment and protecting the health and safety of our citizens, but these results connot be attained efficiently by bureaucrats who promulgate uniform regulations for all sections of the Country. Certainly our problems in West Texas are much different from those of the people in New York City.

We must remember that we live in a good society, not a perfect society, and that we will never cure all the evils of the world no matter how many laws we pass or regulations we promulgate. Regulating every aspect of our daily lives in order to correct a few isolated abuses is like killing a fly with a sledge hammer; it may sometimes be effective, but it is certainly not efficient.

During my service here in Congress I intend to do something about the problem of federal paperwork and regulation. I have joined a committee called the Forum on Regulation which is make up of a bipartisan panel of 160 members of Congress. This organization will try to form a concensus on what needs to be done to alleviate this problem..

Also I serve on the Investigations Subcommittee of the Post Office and Civil Service Committee. This Subcommittee will shortly begin hearings on the paperwork issue. Your assistance in this effort will be helpful. I would welcome receiving your views about specific instances of federal paperwork that you consider excessive and unnecessary. With your help we can together seek a solution to this problem.

VA's $20.2 billion request considered

Administration programs for mental health, education and job-related training opportunities for Vietnam Era veterans and a cost-of-living increase in compensation payments for disabled veterans were highlighted by VA chief Max Cleland in recent testimony on his budget request to Congress.

Cleland said VA's $20.2 billion appropriation request for fiscal year 1980 "recognizes our obligation to help control the cost of government" while enabling the agency "to continue our activities in behalf of veterans and their dependents at a high level."

Cleland, appearing before a Senate Appropriations Subcommittee, chaired by Senator William Proxmire (D.-Wis.) sought authority for:

—Establishment of a program of psychological counseling and readjustment services for Vietnam Era veterans;

—Extending the period of training eligibility from 10 to 12 years for Vietnam Era veterans who have not received high school diplomas or who require on-the-job training to find employment;

—VA contracts with community halfways houses and other programs for a pilot drug and alcohol abuse treatment effort;

—A 7.8 percent cost-of-living increase in compensation payments, effective in October.

In seeking broader authority for services to Vietnam veterans, Cleland continued to express his concern over the difficulties he believes have been experienced by up to a fifth of the servicemen and women returning to civilian life from Vietnam Era military service.

His emphasis on the counseling program and on authority for VA to contract with community halfway houses, and on other programs for the treatment of drug and alcohol problems, highlights a personal commitment to deal with what he believes are major health problems being experienced by today's veterans.

Civitans will donate $100

The Big Spring chapter of Civitan International will present $100 to the Retarded Citizens Association at a meeting at noon Friday at Family's Country Kitchens.

The money will be used to defray travel expenses of retarded citizens to the 1979 Texas Special Olympics district meet in Midland and the state meet in Austin.

The district meet is April 19 and the state meet is May 28-30.
