SEAL PLAN TO COLLECT FROM FORMER FOES

France and England United on Reparations Attitude Toward War Payments.

Capacity of Defeated Enemy to Pay Will Come Up Before Premiers.

PARIS, Nov. 12.—A definite agreement concerning the procedure to be followed with regard to the reparations due by Germany was reached today between the French and British governments.

The agreement calls for a meeting at Brussels of allied technical experts with the Germans, and also a meeting of the allied premiers in Geneva in the first half of February to discuss the total amount due and Germany's capacity for payment.

M. Leygues, French premier, in a note to the British ambassador, the Earl or Derby, notified the ambassador of the definite agreement between France and Great Britain, based on the four points previously arrived at. The four points referred to are as follows:

1. At Brussels conference of experts.

2. A meeting at Geneva between representatives of the Allies and the German government.

3. Consideration by the reparations committee of the findings of the first two conferences.

4. A meeting of the premiers to consider the decisions of the reparations commission.

The note shows that the Geneva conference of the allied ministers will be held after a plebiscite had been taken in Upper Silesia, or, at the latest, in the first fortnight of February. It also indicates that the fourth stage of the meeting of the premiers will discuss the plebiscite and sanctions, and that steps will be taken to obtain the consent of other interested states to the procedure arranged.

By Associated Press.

SPOKANE, Wash., Nov. 12.—Tom Dalton, Spokane railroad worker, today made public a letter he said he received from President-elect Harding, in which Mr. Harding declared he has "all along sympathized with the aspirations of the Irish people and have said so without hesitation when I could do so with propriety."

"I have not thought it becoming for me to make this a feature of our presidential campaign," the letter said. Dalton declared the letter was written in answer to a telegram he sent to Mr. Harding.

AUSTRIA ASKS LEAGUE BERTH

Vienna Applies for Entry; Germany Silent Says Geneva Secretary

By Associated Press.

GENEVA, Nov. 12.—Austria's formal application for admission to the League of Nations signed by Herr Mayer, minister of foreign affairs, was received by the secretariate of the League this morning.

Attention is called in the application to the fact that Austria was given assurance when she signed the treaty of St. Germain that she would be admitted to the League at the proper time, and it says the proper time has come. Austria, it explains, being ready to fulfill all her international engagements, thinks she ought to belong to the family of nations.

The secretariat has received no intimation that Germany will apply for admission. By some interested persons here, it is believed, the chances now are that Germany must apply for admission herself or the question will not come up although certain circles hold that Lord Robert Cecil is likely to propose her election.

Delegations from Georgia and Danzig are among the latest arrivals. The Georgians hope their country will be admitted to membership, while the Danzig representatives will bring up the question of organization of the free city of Danzig, although it is not on the Egenda.

The countries whose admission will be voted on besides Austria and Bulgaria are: Iceland, Monaco, San Marino, Lichtenstein, Luxembourg, Costa Rica, and the new states of Esthonia, Finland, Georgia, Letvia and Ukraine.

The telegram was filed November 8.

RESTRICTED TEXAS LAND RELEASED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Release of 32,171 square miles of quarantined area in the cattle tick infested states of the south was announced today by the department of agriculture, effective December 12. Failure of county officials to co-operate in eradicating the tick in their areas caused the re-quarantining of 7,917 square miles, the statement said. Under the revised quarantine, approximately 218,000 square miles is held to be infested.

In Texas, Bell, Brown, Burnet, Camp, Coryell, Delta, Denton, Falls, Franklin, Gillespie, Hill, Hopkins, Lampasas, Limestone, Mills, Navarro, San Sabia and Wise, and a portion of Comanche and Lamar counties, were released.

Work against the cattle tick generally is progressing very successfully, the announcement said, and with full county co-operation, "more substantial areas will be freed from quarantine" next year.

THANKSGIVING CALL HOPES DAY OF PLENTY AND PEACE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—President Wilson issued his Thanksgiving proclamation tonight, saying that "in plenty, security and peace, our virtuous and self-reliant people face the future," and setting aside Thursday, November 25, for the usual observance. The text follows:

"The season approaches when it behooves us to turn from the distractions and preoccupations of our daily life, that we may contemplate the mercies which have been vouchsafed to us, and render heartfelt and unfeigned thanks unto God for his manifold goodness.

"This is an old observance of the American people, deeply impended in our thoughts and habits. The burdens and the stresses of life have their own insistence.

"We have abundant cause for thanksgiving. The lossons of the war are rapidly healing. The great armies of free men, which America sent to the defense of liberty, returning to the grateful embrace of the nation, have resumed the useful pursuits of peace, as simply and as promptly as they rushed to arms in obedience of the country's call. The equal justice of our laws has received steady vindication in the support of a law-abiding people against various and bitter attacks, which have reflected only the baser agitations of war, now happily passing.

"In plenty, security and peace, our virtuous and self-reliant people face the future, its duties and its opportunities. May we have vision to discern our duties; the strength, both of hand and resolve, to discharge them; and the soundness of heart to realize that the truest opportunities are those services.

"In spirit then, of devotion and stewardship we would give thanks in our hearts, and dedicate ourselves to the service of God's merciful and loving purposes to his children.

"Wherefore, I, Woodrow Wilson, president of the United States of America, do hereby designate Thursday, the 25th day of November next, as a day of thanksgiving and prayer and I call upon my countrymen to cease from their ordinary tasks and vocations on that day, giving it up to the remembrance of God and His blessings, and their dutiful and grateful acknowledgment."

IRSLINGER TAKES TWO FALLS FROM WOODS

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, Nov. 12.—Henry Irslinger had little trouble in taking Sailor Jack Woods for two straight falls in a wrestling match here tonight. Irslinger obtained the first fall in fifty-four and a half minutes with a double wrist lock. A double arm lock placed Wood on the mat in 13 minutes for the second fall.

Although Irslinger was never in danger, Wood fought hard during the first forty minutes and successfully worked out of several holds of his opponent. The match was attended by a crowd of 700.

Lasker Satisfied; Helping Boy to Be Shortstop

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—A. D. Lasker, originator of the Lasker plan of baseball control, tonight let it become known that he had given up a trip to Panama with President-elect Harding to attend today's baseball meeting and that Mr. Harding had request him to remain at the meeting here.

"I'm through with baseball now, the club owners have done a big thing, and they deserve a lot of praise. As for me, well, from now on I'm a business man and my only interests in baseball will be to help my young son to realize his ambition of becoming a great shortstop."

WILSON SCANS PACT ON FIUME

Reports as to Adriatic Settlement Put Before President

By Associated Press.

SANTA MARGHERITA, Italy Nov. 12.—The treaty between Italy and Jugo-Slavia was signed this evening at Rapallo.

The preamble of the treaty reads:

"The kingdoms of Italy and of the Serbs, Croats and Slovans are sincerely desirous to establish cordial relations between the two countries for their common weal.

Italy recognizes the constitution of the neighboring state as the realization of one of her highest aims."

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Such reports of the Adriatic settlement between Italy and Jugo-Slavia as have been received by the state department have been transmitted to President Wilson, it was stated at the department today. The president will decide whether the agreements meet with the approval of the government, but whether he will make formal expression of his views has not been indicated.

Secretary Colby would not discuss the agreement today further than to say that it had "all the majesty of an agreement between the two principals."

Besides the information contained in a telegram from the Italian government to its embassy here, the department has received the formal statement "on the subject of the disposal of Fiume" made by Secretary General Contarini of Italy yesterday. As made public by the department, it follows:

"With the exception of Zara and Cherso, which go to Italy, Jugo-Slavia obtains Dalmatia, including Sebenico. The new frontier assigns Idria, Adelsburg and San Pietro to Italy and runs through Monte Nevoso to the Adriatic, which it touches between Volosco and Castua—the latter being given to Fiume. The Istrian line of frontier is to be contiguous with the independent state of Fiume. The railway Fiume to San Pietro is assigned to Italy. The country south of Monte Nevoso is divided between Jugo-Slavia and Fiume, on a basis whereby the higher altitudes go to Jugo-Slavia and the lower altitudes to Fiume.

"Jugo-Slavia also will get Longatico and the adjacent valley.

"A commercial treaty also is being negotiated at Rapello."

MINE WORK SLUMP ACCOUNT ELECTION

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Election day and the celebration of religious holidays in the coal fields was responsible for bituminous coal production falling below 12,000,000 tons a week for the first time in a month, said a statement issued tonight by the American Railway Association. Production was estimated at 11,300,000 tons for the week ended November 6, a decrease of eight percent the previous week.

SHIPPING BOARD PROBE AIMS TO BARE 'POLITICS'

McAdoo's Name Brought in but Without Accusers; Only Protests Aired.

Says Vessel Worth $75,000 Costs $200,000 Repair Bill Without Results.

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Alleged "political activity" previously referred to in testimony and reports before the Walsh commission now investigating facilities of the United Statets shipping board, was again touched upon in testimony presented here today.

Congressman Israel M. Foster, questioning John T. Meehan, deputy chief of the board's bureau of investigation, asked if there had been any loss to the government through "political influence."

The witness replied that he could not say that there had.

Asked if there had been any complaints of such influence, the witness said he had heard some criticism of William G. McAdoo after he had resigned the office of secrtary of the treasury. It was charged—or rather complained of—the witness added, that Mr. McAdoo had appeared before the board on behalf of the Morse interests.

"I do not want to be misunderstood" the witness said, "as saying that it is even inferred that Mr. McAdoo had interfered with or has been harmful to the board in any way," he explained he was testifying only as to criticisms he had heard.

Inquiry Went "Very High"

Meehan also said that while most of the investigations of his department had been of the activities of minor employes, his department had not overlooked officials. He added they had gone "very high" in the board's personnel. He repeated previous testimony that no irregularities of his department had been of the activities of minor employes, his department had not overlooked officials. He added they had gone "very high" in the board's personnel. He repeated previous testimony that no irregularities had been discovered among the board's officers. References were made, however, to department heads, particularly in southern district shipyards where dismissals had taken place at his recommendation.

One of these dismissals, which was brought about, he said, by what he termed undue and unnecessary delay as well as by exorbitant expense in repairs to a wooden ship. The final repair bill on this ship, he said, amounted to fully $200,000 and the ship could not be sold today for $75,000.

Going into details of alleged graft among ship's officers, he related details of a case on the steamship Dio. On this ship, he testified, three of its officers, including the captain, had managed to conceal the presence of 400 tons of fuel oil when it arrived from Rotterdam.

Says Loot Was "Split"

At Norfolk more oil was taken aboard a voyage to Rio de Janeiro. At this port the officers paid for the delivery company, only 600 tons were delivered. The difference between the value of the 600 tons delivered and the 1,000 tons paid for—amounting to about $9,000—was "split" between the parties implicated in the transaction.

The officers of the ship, in addition to the split, also took the usual percentage for sale. The captain, the witness alleged, also connived with a repair company for certain al-

PLAN CRUSADE ON HOME BREW

Government to Prosecute Those Who Make Booze for Family Table.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 12.—The internal revenue bureau in formal statements today confirmed reports that a crusade against home brewing of alcoholic beverages is planned by the government's prohibition enforcement agencies.

The bureau did not reveal the means it proposed to employ nor admit it had approved preliminary instructions by Prohibition Commissioner Kramer, directing sales of malt and hops be restricted to bakers and confectioners.

"If malt extract, hops, isinglass, gelatine, or other materials are sold or advertised for sale in circumstances which show they are advertised or sold for use in the unlawful manufacture of intoxicating liquor," said a statement issued tonight by Commissioner Williams of the Internal Revenue Bureau, "it is the purpose of the bureau to prosecute persons so offending."

Family Brew Illegal

"The so-called home brew beer manufactured in the home for beverage purposes, even though for the sole use of the family and bonafide guests, is, under the bureau's construction of the law, illegal, and the sale of materials for the purpose of such manufacture, is likewise illegal."

Commissioner Kramer was still absent from the city tonight. The statement of the prohibition director of Ohio, however, that he had received instructions from Mr. Kramer to prevent sales of malt and hops except to makers and to confectioners, has not been denied by the Internal Revenue Bureau, although it is understood that Commissioner Williams has not yet approved the specific orders.

There was an apparent difference of opinion between officials of the

'THE CITY THAT FAITH BUILT'

NEW SOUTH'S HARDING THEME

President-Elect to Carry Anti-Sectionalism War to Louisiana City

By Associated Press.

POINT ISABEL, Texas, Nov. 12.—President-elect Harding, whose outing at Point Isabel ends next Wednesday, has agreed to deliver an address in New Orleans on the following day, just before he sails on his voyage to Panama. He will speak at a luncheon of the New Orleans Association of Commerce and is expected to discuss in particular the economic possibilities and requirements of the new South and the need for a national industrial policy uninfluenced by sectional interests.

Many invitations to speak at other places in the South and Southwest have come to the president-elect, but he is declining all of them. Leaving Brownsville at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning on a special train, he will try to avoid rear platform speeches on the way northward along the Gulf coast and by a fast run will reach New Orleans Thursday morning. His steamer sails that afternoon.

Senator Harding's decision to accept the New Orleans speaking invitation means that in consonance with his oft-repeated ambition to obliterate sectionalism, his first three formal addresses as president-elect are to be delivered within the territory o fthe old Confederacy and in states that long have been pillars of the democratic "solid South." The first of these addresses was delivered in Brownsville, Texas, yesterday, and the third has been scheduled for December 5, at Bedford, Va.

To Shun Foreign Talks.

Speeches outside American territory are to be avoided, and Mr. Harding indicated today that he did not expect during his Panama trip to go within the boundaries or waters of any foreign country.

Among other invitations, he has received one from Preston McGoodwin, American minister to Venezuela, asking that he go to Venezuela and Columbia, and during his stay here he has been asked informally several times to pay a visit to northern Mexico. He is said by those to him to feel that such visits at the present time would be inadvisable. The exact time of Mr. Harding's departure from Point Isabel has not been fixed.

On Tuesday he is to go into Brownsville to exchange greetings with Governor Hobby of Texas and he may spend the night there to avoid an early morning motor ride to catch his train at 10 a. m. the next morning. It is considered more likely, however, that he will come back here for the night.

Most of today the president-elect devoted to golf, motoring the 29 miles to the Brownsville links through a cold, damp norther that had broken up his tarpon fishing off Point Isabel. Despite the disagreeable weather he tramped over the muddy course for 18 holes.

CITES $32,000 OF INSURANCE AGAINST TIEUP

Witness Says Contractor Promised Labor Leader Fee for Protection.

Mayor Hylan Strives to Get "Whitewash" Letter Before Committee.

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—After another tumultuous session with Mayor Hylan, the joint legislative committee investigating the "building trust" heard testimony alleging the payment of $32,000 by a big contractor to Robert P. Brindell, president of the Building Trades council for "strike insurance."

Testimony by Hugh S. Robertson of Todd, Irons & Robertson, that he had paid this amount as part payment on an agreement to pay the labor leader $50,000 for protection against strikes, came as a startling climax to the afternoon session of the committee, which spent the day probing into the city's school limestone contracts. Despite protests by Samuel Untermeyer, the committee's counsel, that Mayor Hylan was trying "to turn the pig into a circus, and this orderly investigation into a general beer garden," the mayor persisted throughout the session to get a letter before the committee exonerating him of any responsibility of having the school building contracts changed from terra cotta to limestone.

Failing in this, the mayor gave the letter to newspapers for publication. Many times the committee's hearing was interrupted by scenes of unusual disorder, in which the spectators participated, expressing their disapproval of the committee's ruling at one time with a storm of hissing.

The testimony by Robertson, whose concern has building contracts for the Cunard pier terminals in New Jersey, a project involving between $35,000,000 and $40,000,000, revealed a new form of alleged graft.

Walton, Shreveport, was badly hurt about the head. One engine, a caboose and two cars of canned goods were destroyed in the wreck, the cause of which is undetermined.

PRIEST BEATEN IN ITALIAN RIOT

By Associated Press.

LONDON, Nov. 12.—Serious rioting has occurred at Genona, near Potonza, Italy, according to a Milan dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph company. A priest is said to have been severely beaten during a church ceremony, at which he praised Italian soldiers, and a general strike followed the arrest of 200 persons accused of having participated in the disorders. A strike also has been called at Forenza, a town in the Apennines, 15 miles northeast of Potenza.

HUNGER STRIKERS WILL RECOVER

By Associated Press.

DUBLIN, Nov. 12.—A statement issued tonight at Dublin Castle said the hunger strikers in Cork jail who had been without food since August 11, resumed taking nourishment at 3 o'clock this afternoon with an entire absence of unfavorable symptoms.

The meal, the statement added, was administered under the direction of the medical officers of the jail, who believe that with careful treatment, the prisoners ultimately will recover.

DALLAS MASONS TO HAVE NEW TEMPLE

Special to The Record News.

DALLAS, Nov. 12.—Ground was broken in Dallas Friday for the erection of an auditorium by Masons of the Scottish Rite bodies of Dallas. The structure will cost between $750,000 and $1,000,000.

The first shovel of dirt was turned by George Fleming Moore, thirty-third degree, of Washington, D. C. The auditorium is to be erected on a lot adjoining the present Scottish Rite cathedral.

terations to the ship, for which the board was charged $11,000.

The captain, the witness added, received $500 from this contract as his "bit." It was afterwards ascertained that a reasonable price for the repairs would have been about $2,000, also before sailing the ship took aboard sufficient beef to last nine months, much of which was later thrown overboard, he said.

14 Trunks Also "Sail."

Meehan testified that the captain, chief engineer and another officer were indicted. The latter two confessed and received light sentences from the court. The captain was released on bond and he is due to appear here for trial November 15. The witness said he had been informed however, that the captain and his wife and "fourteen trunks" had sailed from Key West for Buenos Aires. The shipping board is now seeking him.

Calls It "Petty Grafting."

Details of alleged irregularities in overcharges to shipping board vessels, collection of double fees and many other offenses have been run down, Meehan asserted ,and in some cases restitution made and in others prosecutions instituted. Testifying as to commissions paid ships' officers, he said that the majority of these were small, what he termed "petty grafting."

One firm, however, refunded to the board $76,000, which it had paid in "commissions" in one years and in turn had charged to the board as "supplies."

The witness also testified that, in addition to prosecutions, it had "broken" a large number of officers, meaning they could not again obtain positions at their profession. He said there were at least 25 old and efficient captains now ashore in New York because of the activities of his department. He further said that men guilty of drunkenness aboard ship were discharged.

When informed of the testimony given by Meehan, Mr. McAdoo issued the following statement:

"Some time after I left the treasury, my law firm, McAdoo, Cotton & Franklin, was associated with the regular attorneys of the Virginia Shipbuilding company as counsel in a controversy which had arisen with the shipping board under a contract for the building of ships. Our relation to the matter was purely professional, entirely within the proprieties and beyond criticism. The resulting settlement was greatly to the advantage of the government."

CEREALS DROP TO LOW MARK PRICE LEVELS

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—Notwithstanding the severity with which grain prices have been slashed during the last fortnight, new cuts were witnessed today, and quotations for all cereals dropped lower than at any time within the last four years.

The fresh downturns today were notable chiefly for the fact that they came after a week's decline of more than 20 cents a bushel in wheat and 10 cents a bushel the week before. Today's setback in wheat ranged from 2¾ to 3 cents, with December delivery closing at $1.76 to $1.77½.

Traders who have recently been on the bear side of the grain market disclaim any satisfaction in the huge losses with which owners have been confronted.

HOW DOCTORS TREAT COLDS AND THE FLU

First Step in Treatment Is a Brisk Purgative With Calotabs, the Purified and Refined Calomel Tablets That Are Nauseless, Safe and Sure.

Doctors have found by experience that no medicine for colds and influenza can be depended upon for full effectiveness until the liver is made thoroughly active. That is why the first step in the treatment is the new, nauseless calomel tablet called Calotabs, which are free from the sickening and weakening effects of the old style calomel. Doctors also point out the fact that an active liver may go a long way towards preventing influenza and in one of the very important factors in enabling the patient to successfully withstand an attack and ward off pneumonia.

One Calotab on the tongue at bed time, with a swallow of water—that's all. No oath, no nausea nor the slightest interference with your eating, pleasure or work. Next morning your cold has vanished, your liver is active, your system is purified, and you are feeling fine, with a hearty appetite for breakfast. Druggists sell Calotabs only in original sealed packages, price thirty-five cents. Your money will be cheerfully refunded if you do not find them delightful.—Adv.

MERCURY GOING DOWN; FALLS TO 33 AT MIDNIGHT

Unofficial reports of thermometer readings at midnight Friday showed the mercury at 33 degrees, a fall of one point since 9 p. m., indicating a decided increase in atmospheric frigidity, as compared with the same hour Thursday night.

Local prognostigators prophesied a noticeable freeze Saturday morning at edges of the river, and some went so far Friday afternoon as to predict heavy snowfalls in the immediate future.

General snowstorms, ranging in depths from an inch and more, were reported during the day Friday in Oklahoma. According to weather bureau registrations, a cold wave is sweeping from the north and will continue indefinitely.

Bureau of Internal Revenue and Commissioner Kramer's staff of advisers as to the powers granted under the Volstead act with respect to prohibiting the sale of articles employed in the manufacture of beer at home. Commissioner Williams conferred during the day with aides familiar with the act.

Commissioner Williams' statement declared it had "never been the purpose of the Internal Revenue Bureau to interfere with any legitimate business," but added there appeared to be a misunderstanding as to the right to manufacture malt liquors even for home consumption.

Still Equipment Banned

The commissioner cited provisions of the law which state specifically that articles and contrivances intended to be used in the manufacture of liquors cannot be sold except under permit. It was indicated prohibition officials believed they could restrict the sale of malt and hops under these provisions.

Frequent proof has come to prohibition headquarters of the rapidly increasing spread of home brewing among all communities. Officials have said it was becoming the best method of circumvention of the dry law, but have felt powerless to check it. The attempt now to control home brewing by restricting sales of articles used in the manufacture of intoxicants was regarded as the most extreme step yet taken by enforcement officials.

PICTURES TELL PRESENT CONDITIONS IN BOLSHEVIST RUSSIA

Electrical employes in Moscow factory waiting in bread line and women digging trenches under direction of soldier.

These pictures, just received from the land of Lenine and the Bolshevists, show more vividly than stories the conditions there. The upper photo shows a group of electrical employes, many of them experts, in a Moscow factory waiting for their rations of bread. Judging by their looks they obtain plenty of food, but the variety and manner of getting it are unsatisfactory. That women are not being considered in the new order is shown by the lower picture. The women are handling the shovels while the soldiers — Lenine's men — direct the work.

BARUCH SEES AMERICA AS WELL PROTECTED BY TREATY

In the first authoritative analysis from an American source of the reparation and economic sections of the Treaty of Versailles, Bernard M. Baruch asserts that the national interests of America were fully protected in these phases of the peace negotiations. Mr. Baruch, who was formerly chairman of the war industries board, was an economic adviser to the American commission to negotiate peace, a member of the economic commission, and the supreme economic council.

In a book just published by the Harpers, entitled "The Making of the Reparation and Economic Sections of the Treaty," Mr. Baruch writes dispassionately and nonpartisanly from a business man's point of view. In discussing the conditions and atmosphere at Paris in which the treaty was made, he says, "It is a curious but true fact that peace seemed very beautiful during the war, but almost hateful when the war ended." He adds, "From a superficial survey of the conditions that prevailed at the peace conference one would have been quite justified in assuming that many of the participants preferred war with all its horrors to any peace short of that which they demanded. Their demands had their genesis in deep-rooted and almost ineradicable hatreds, and in the insistent desire for self-protection against future danger."

"The Making of the Reparation and Economic Sessions of the Treaty," while concerned only in an impartial exposition of the drawing ot these clauses, refutes many of the statements of John Maynard Keynes, the British treasury representative, in "The Economic Consequences of the Peace."

Ideals Disastrous

"If the ideal peace which some demanded had been actually undertaken with all that it seemingly involved of sacrifice and unselfishness," declares Mr. Baruch, "the result would have been the overthrow of at least three of the major governments present. It would have been followed further by the substitution of other representatives, who would have come into power under a popular mandate requiring them to be even more exacting in their terms."

Mr. Baruch points out that Premier Hughes of Australia insisted that every Australian who had placed a mortgage on his house to buy a bond was as definitely entitled to reparation as was every Frenchman whose house was burned down by the Germans; that three hundred members of the house of commons addressed a telegram to Lloyd George demanding a crushing and relentless peace, and requiring him to proclaim his intentions; and that there was repeated insistence on the part of Mr. Hughes and of Minister Klotz of France, chairman of the reparation commission that Germany be made to pay the entire cost of the war.

"In the reparation clause," Mr. Baruch says, "the conference was not writing a mere contract of dollars and cents; it was dealing with blood-raw passions still pulsing through the peoples' veins. It was impossible to ignore the human factors, but provision was made whereby they could be reduced or eliminated later, and whereby the reparation commission in the processes of enforcement might become a flexible instrument o fwisdom and justice."

To illustrate the wide divergence of opinion as to how much Germany should be made to pay, Mr. Baruch points out that the amounts mentioned by the allied experts ranged all the way from $8,000,000,000 to $120,000,000,000. He states that the Americans contended throughout for a fixed sum, but that one of the obstacles thereto was the unwillingness of the various delegations to present official estimates of the amount of their damage.

Wanted to See Germans

In one of the illuminating footnotes to the text Mr. Baruch states that

"The American, with the approval of the president, made an effort to arrange a meeting with the German economic advisers for the purpose of discussing reparational and economic matters. In this effort they were supported generally by the economic and business advisers of the various governments. The military advisers almost without exception were opposed to this meeting. But it was impossible to obtain the unanimous support of the leaders of state."

While the Americans, in the economic interest of the whole world, constantly pressed for fair play in the settlement to be arrived at, Mr. Baruch has this to say about German depradations: "Wherever, on land or on sea, or in the air, the German power had been exercised, it had left an aftermath of misery, or bitterness, or hate."

Declaring that the coal clauses of the treaty had been misunderstood, Mr. Baruch points out that the reparation commission is empowered to postpone or cancel deliveries of coal if it considers that the export of this fuel would unduly interfere with Germany's industrial requirements. He adds, "when normality in production of coal in Germany and Europe returns, the producer will find the most available market for coal where it has previously existed. This will take place only when that section of Europe containing coal gets back to work. This is largely within the hands of the Germans themselves."

Efforts for Restoration

Mr. Baruch's discussion of the economic clauses of the treaty tells the story of how provisions were made for re-establishing the disrupted social and business relations between the central empires and the rest of the world. It relates how the allies effort to boycott Germany was avoided. It explains to the American business man all the clauses of the treaty affecting commercial relations, debts, property, rights and interests, contracts and industrial property, including the disposition of the billion or more dollars worth of German private property in America. On these subjects, as well as a whole, the book is a first-hand source of ready reference for the American business man and for economists, lawyers and writers.

Mr. Baruch discloses, among other things, how he, as the American representative, opposed a division of raw materials by the interested nations on the ground that questions of this kind were, so far as the United States was concerned, matters to be handled by congress.

The volume also includes not only the speeches of the various governmental representatives on the reparation and economic clauses, but the reparation and economic clauses themselves, with copious marginal notes explaining, in simple terms, the meaning of the clauses.

In concluding the introduction to his book, Mr. Baruch says, "It is a fundamental mistake to assume that the treaty ends where it really begins. The signing of the document on June 28, 1919, at Versailles did not complete its history: it really began it. The measure of the worth of the treaty lies in the processes of its execution, and the spirit in which it is carried out by all of the parties to the contract."

CIVIC BODIES TO DISCUSS PLANS WITH KESSLER

The first of a series of meetings which George Kessler, landscape architect, will have with city officials, the Chamber of Commerce and various civic organizations of the city will be held today. It is expected that Mr. Kessler will meet during the day with Mayor Cline and members of the city council. The meeting was scheduled to be held Friday, but due to the non-arrival of John Noyes, Kessler's assistant, the meeting was postponed until today. Mr. Noyes is expected here today.

The purpose of these meetings, Mr. Kessler's explained Friday, is to make known the plans for civic development as outlined and receive any suggetsions that may be made by citizens as to modifications that may be necessary. Mr. Kessler emphasized the fact that he did not intend to recommend final plans which could not be carried out by the city in its future development. For that reason, he stated, he is anxious to alter his present plans, if necessary, so that the city can carry them out as soon as possible.

The present plans call for a zoning system, which Mr. Kessler states, has served to stabilize property values when adopted in other cities. The plan calls for general improvements, including parks, swimming pools, driveways and other features looking to civic betterment.

MEXICANS SAY LAND IS CONFISCATED

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Landowners in the Mexican estate of Jalisco have organized to right Article 27 of the Mexican constitution because of its alleged confiscatory provisions, according to Mexico City newspaper arriving here today. The newspapers also state that the leaders of the opposition, the first organized attack on the article by Mexicans, propose to enlist in their fight landowners throughout the republic.

Article 27, against which for three years the government of the United States, Great Britain and France have protested, is characterized by the Jalisco landowners as "an alleged 'law of vindiction' which has been merely a law of spoilation." The effect of the operations of the article which expropriates land above a certain acreage held by individuals or corporations, the landowners assert, "has been to destroy little by little, agrarian property, to reduce production, to spread terror among agriculturalists and to paralyze all their activities."

CONCRETE WORK ON TENTH DONE, BARRICADES UP

The repair of the concrete paving on Tenth street has been completed, according to City Engineer Montgomery. Te barricades at places where the repairs have been made will remain for several days, Mr. Montgomery said, the delay being due to the cold weather, which slows up the hardening of the new cement.

The co-operation of automobile drivers during the repair work has been commendable, according to the engineer, who said little trouble had been experienced in having the barricades torn down and the repair work ruined.

The repair of the asphalt paving on Tenth street and other streets will be under way as soon as the weather moderates. One of the first places to be repaired will be in front of the William and Mary hotel where the condition of the street is probably worse than in any other part of the city.

A car load of wood blocks have been ordered by the city and work on the repairing of the wood block pavement in the down-town district will start as soon as the shipment arrives.

"A Heart and a Dollar" Still Do the Work

WICHITA COUNTY CHAPTER RED CROSS

WALTER D. CLINE, Gen'l Chm.

T. H. MORGAN IS HELD TO FACE CHARGES HERE

A chase which began exactly one year ago Wednesday and which has led operatives of two detective agencies over an area covering approximately the whole of the south and southwest, ended Thursday with the capture by a correspondent of the Shelton Detective Agency at Tulsa, Okla., of Thomas H. Morgan, who is wanted here in connection with an alleged swindle against the American National Bank on November 10, 1919 involving more than $4,000.

Morgan was turned over to county authorities late Thursday after being questioned by Ira Shelton, head of the agency, on a complaint charging embezzlement and filed against him by an official of the American National Bank in June, 1920.

According to Shelton's report which was submitted to District Attorney Fletcher S. Jones, Friday, Morgan came here in November of last year and registered at a local hotel. He was introduced to an official of the bank on November 10 as sales manager for a well known tire and rubber concern who was establishing a branch office here. He was said to have stated that he had just arrived from Casper, Wyo., and that he had an account in a bank there of something more than $3,000, which he wished to transfer here.

Negotiations were finally completed between Morgan and the bank, it was said, with the result that he was alleged to have drawn a draft on the Wyoming National Bank at Casper for the amount which he said he had on deposit there. He deposited this draft for more than $3,000 in the American National Bank and subsequently deposited two more drafts on the same bank for $1,000 and $50 respectively.

On November 18, according to the report, the American National received its first communication from the bank at Casper to the effect that they had never handled such an account and that they knew no such man as Morgan was alleged to have represented himself to be.

An operative of the Shelton agency reported that Morgan had left the city. Checks covering the full amount on alleged bad paper which he had deposited here were found which are said to have shown that he spent it all for an automobile and diamonds.

From time to time various reports reached the Shelton agency that Morgan had been seen in different cities but orders for his arrest were always received too late and he continued throughout the year to elude pursuit.

On November 5, however, Shelton received information from his correspondent at Tulsa that Morgan had been seen there. An operative for the agency was at once sent. He succeeded in arresting Morgan Wednesday. Operatives of the Burns agency at Tulsa assisted in the capture.

Officials of the American National Bank Friday announced that they have engaged Attorney C. C. McDonald, former assistant attorney-general of Texas, to act as special prosecutor and assist district officials in the trial of the case.

FORCED LANDING MEANS DEATH IN FLIGHT OVER ALPS

A flight over the Alps furnishes aviators with one of the biggest thrills in the game—which makes it popular, of course. A forced landing, due to engine trouble or a broken wing, practically means death or serious injury, at least, to the flier, as the mountain peaks and rocky gulches present no landing places. Fallen fliers also face death by freezing.

HARDING AND EUROPE

President-elect Harding, who talks as glibly of scrapping the League of Nations, already embracing a membership of forty-three, as did Candidate Harding, should take notice that sentiment in Europe is not exactly in sympathy with his program. In France and in England important organs of opinion are pointing out the difference between the United States entering the league with reasonable reservations and the United States demanding the abolition of the existing league and the creation of a new one.

The league now functioning more or less efficiently happens to be the one instrumentality to which the nations victorious in the war can look for the enforcement of the treaty of peace, for the stabilization of the world and for the renewal of credit, industry and commerce. Opposed to the idea at first, as most of the representatives of the old European diplomacy were, they see in it now the only guarantee they can possibly have of reparation, order and security. America can remain out of the combination if it will, or it can enter it upon conditions not destructive of the covenant, but it cannot wreck the present organization and give Europe over to chaos.

In his most irresponsible moments Candidate Harding always spoke of the League of Nations as though in joining it the member countries had surrendered their independence and liberty. He was proposing every day or two "a new association of free nations." He would have America enter it without any obligation of any kind apparently, as though a society held together by a rope of sand could be of any service whatsoever, now or hereafter. When President-elect Harding talks in the same strain the nations now members of the league, still regarding themselves as free and independent, naturally take alarm. They have never questioned their own sovereignty and they will not allow him to do it.

This attitude on the part of Mr. Harding is a reflex of the position taken by Senator Lodge when as chairman of the committee on foreign relations he reported the treaty with many amendments and reservations. "The other nations will take us on our own terms," he said, "for without us their league is a wreck and all their gains from a victorious peace are imperiled." One would hardly have supposed from that utterance that the United States had any interest in the victorious peace or that "their league" was also our league. Yet it is in this spirit that opposition to the treaty has been carried on and a great party has made common cause against its associates in arms with very alien faction that could be drilled into discontent.

Critical as the condition of Europe may be, if it ever had sunk so low as to heed Senator Lodge's bullying and Senator Harding's patronizing, such is no longer the case. It is not going to be revolutionized by the republican party. It is not going to give up the peace won at such fearful cost. It is not going to scrap the League of Nations which underwrites that peace. The day when the other nations were under the necessity of taking us on our own terms has passed.—New York World (Dem.)

Senator Harding's victory is warmly welcomed in France, and there is good reason for this rejoicing. The French, who desire above all things cordial relations with the United States, have felt for nearly two years past that the way to a sympathetic exchange of ideas was hopelessly blocked.

Ever since the Armistice the French have had a case to present to us, but have been hindered in presenting it. France was the chief war sufferer on the allied side. She bore the brunt of the German attack. Her sacrifices saved western civilization until Great Britain and America could arrive. Her northeastern departments were ravaged. She came out of the war exhausted and with the strongest possible claims for reparation.

The American people, always friendly to France and appreciative of her heroic war effort, would have been glad to see her liberally compensated. But Mr. Wilson went to Paris too much in the mood in which he wrote his famous "peace without victory" message. He was cold to the appeals of plain justice. Clemenceau's advances were brusquely rejected. The president cruelly distrusted France's purposes. He declined to visit the devastated regions. He had laid down as a criterion of the settlement: "The impartial justice meted out must involve no discrimination between those to whom we wish to be just and those to whom we do not wish to be just."

While Mr. Wilson remained in power and the question of the succession was open the French couldn't go over his head to state their case to America. He has unfairly charged their government with being "militaristic" and "imperialistic." Yet some degree of armament is essential to France. Her army is her only sure reliance at present. Instead of a secure eastern frontier and allies pledged to protect it, she has had to take the League of Nations and the now almost forgotten promise of a Franco-British-American military alliance. To her the league is, of course, better than nothing, but she does not regard its safeguards as adequate.

The end of Wilsonism therefore removes the barrier to an American-French rapprochement, based on old friendships and future common interests. The French value the League of Nations in its present form chiefly as a partial guaranty of the treaty. They would value more our firm moral support of her integrity and our help in realizing the indemnifications due them, but now slipping out of their hands.—New York Tribune (Rep.)

According to the president-elect the League of Nations "is now deceased," but from a Paris dispatch we learn that "application for membership in the League of Nations will be made at the meeting of the assembly of the league in Geneva this month on behalf not only of Germany, but of Austria, according to information here. Bulgaria, it is learned, will make a direct application." Only the other day it was stated that Costa Rica would soon seek membership in the league.

There would be more respect for Senator Harding's mental processes if he would drop the idea that it will be within his power as president of the United States to scrap the League of Nations. All that he will be able to do will be to urge upon those countries already associated in the league that they make certain changes in the covenant to meet the objections made by America, and possibly change the name now in use, so as to save the face of those who have sworn undying enmity to the league. In its essentials that organization will remain what it is today, and as it is functioning regularly and steadily extending its range of activities, there is no more propriety in asserting that it is deceased than there would be in declaring that the next president of the United States is dead from the neck up. Senator Harding is, we believe, enjoying excellent health, and so the league seems to be.—Philadelphia Record (Dem.)

On the Spur of the Moment

ANYHOW, IT CAN'T BE DONE

Not so very long ago
Vicente Blasco Ibenez,
The Spanish gentleman,
Was given credit by the papers
For the statement to the effect
That American men should
Return to the caveman style
Of treating their wives,
"Treat 'Em Rough"
Was the headline
Over the particular article
That we happened to read.
According to the story
He advised us to use force
In compelling wifely obedience.
We don't know how many men
Took this advice home with them,
But we know one who did.
We're willing to try anything
Once, and we tried that.
It didn't work the first time,
And it didn't work the second time
Loud language had no effect,
And the same person as always
Remained the head of the house,
"The master mind," so to speak
And we had to lower our colors
And give up the fight.
And buy a Hudson seal coat
And a new suit and hat,
And a lot of theater tickets.
And now—now, Ibanez
Has sent a cable from Paris
To the effect that he Never said it. And if he
Is a married man,
We don't believe
He ever did, at that.

We have been reading recently a great deal of newspaper matter concerning the frugal of certain gentlemen who are in the public eye in one way or another. We read, for instance, that Mr. J. Ogden Armour a poor man out in Chicago, makes one pair of shoes last two years. Also Governor Calvin Coolidge hasn't bought a suit of clothes in two years. There are many other cases of the sort.

We feel that, in spite of our inherent modesty, we should take advantage of this opportunity to show these gentlemen up. We have beaten the records of all three in every department named by them. Although we are very rich we believe in sitting a good example in frugality. Our last overcoat was a bearskin affair that we bought out west in 1908. We have found it impossible to wear it out. We had a new suit some time before the late war started. We mention these things just to keep the record straight and not to be superior.

New York wife has just secured a divorce on the ground that her husband woke her up every morning by mixing cocktails and highballs.

It will be no use to write in. We have mislaid the gentleman's address.

A man in our neighborhood had some bad luck. His car was stolen, and he was just about to collect insurance and get a brand new one of a kind that he wanted when the old car was discovered and brought home.

A man wrote on a postal card to a Wabaunsee county newspaper: "Please find inclosed $1 to apply on subscription." The editor pronounces that a mighty careless way to send money.

WALSH SUCCEEDS IN WALL STREET FILM

George Walsh, William Fox star, energetic, plunged into greater favor than ever with the patrons of the Empress theater last night in his new celluloid drama of love, adventure and "big time" finance in the yilds of Wall Street. "The Plunger" was made to please—and please it certainly did. People who had been smacking their lips for more Walsh ever since they saw him in that memorable photodrama of the underworld "From Now On," went home with their appetite perfectly satisfied.

"The Plunger," in which Walsh plays the title role as "Take a Chance" Schuyler, is steeped in the almosphere of Wall Street, and in the unfolding of the story every interesting phase of hectic activity in the nation's great financial district has been brought out. There are excellent scenes of the spot where the recent fatal explosion occurred, the curb market, an upward panorama of the Stock Exchange taken from the roof of the Morgan building and a riotious—almost panicky—shot of a closing hour on the floor of the exchange. Many exterior and interior scenes were made on the two-million-dollar suburban estate of a financier.

The love element is very strong in the production, but is given a new twist in portrayal as the two lovers, "Chance" and Alice Houghton, do not realize that they are actually in love until it is almost too late.

DEMAND FOR WOOL IS SLIGHTLY INCREASED

BOSTON, Mass., Nov. 12.—The Commercial Bulletin will say:

"There has been a slight increase in the demand for wool in the American markets this week but generally at the expense of values. Some choice Ohio delaine is reported sold at about 50 cents in the grease and some Montana fine and fine medium wool in the original bags at about 32 @33 cents.

"The goods market is still unsettled, although it is hoped that with the termination of the wholesale clothiers agreement on prices for suits on November 15 and overcoatings, December 1, that prices will be substantially reduced by wholesalers and retailers alike, to the end that improved demand may be induced from the ultimate consumer."

WICHITA COUNTY HEALTH BETTER SAYS PHYSICIAN

"There is no comparison between health conditions existing in the county now and those prevailing at this time last year," Dr. M. M. Walker, county health officer declared Friday as the first freezing weather of the season struck Wichita Falls.

"At this time last year we were having a number of flu cases, there was much pneumonia and general illness. Conditions in the county today are better than they have been all year. No cases of flu have been reported; the little diphtheria scare is practically over and pneumonia cases are very few, the health officer declared. The epidemic of colds that almost inevitably accompanies the first cold weather is very light this year, Dr. Walker reports.

Smallpox, a few cases of which are always found about the county, is less prevalent now than at any other time this year, statistics show.

The general statement was issued in connection with Dr. Walker's monthly statement on vital statistics for October. During that month, there were 30 births in the county against 26 deaths. Natural causes were responsible for the death of 20, three were killed by accidents and two through violence, the report shows. Heart failure was assigned as the cause of death in seven of the cases; intestinal trouble in five, tuberculosis three, kidney trouble two, and miscellaneous disorders nine.

Eckerty Sure To Get Shrine Entry Ring-If

Maskat Temple, A. A. O. N. M. S., will hold its second ceremonial next Wednesday, November 17th, at which time Russell Lowell Eckerty, chief clerk of the Gulf Production Company, will be presented with a diamond ring indicative of the fact that he was the most popular novice taken into the Shrine—that is, Eckerty will receive the ring if it isn't given to someone else.

Eckerty's press agent is authority for the simple, modest statement that, except for the press agent himself, Eckerty is probably the most honest, truthful and popular young man in the United States today. He is as popular in Wichita Falls, even, as is Governor Jimmie Cox in Texas—and hot dawg! that's saying a lot.

They say that when Russell Eckerty was a small boy he smoked dried corn silk one day, and it stunted his growth. Be that as it may, he's a little feller today with a big heart. His friends are really putting up this fight to prove his popularity and to obtain the Shrine ring for him—Eck himself is so darn tickled at being permitted to take the Shrine that he's personally willing for anyone else to take the material honors.

Stealing gasoline is the only dishonest trait in Eckerty's make-up. He has devised a bookkeeping system whereby he can steal an unlimited supply from the Gulf Production Company—and this fact will probably give him the vote of every auto-owning Shriner in the city.

He's a bright youngster at that. Take for instance the cotton situation. Eckerty is convinced that the boll weevil can be eradicated, simply by giving each weevil a passport to Cuba. Sounds reasonable, doesn't it?

Eckerty favors a League of Nations but he does not see how it can be a success unless the Imperial Potentate of the Ancient Arabic Order of Nobles of the Mystic Shrine is president of the league.

He still contends that Harvey Grubb is not a third baseman.

All of these little matters show that Russell Lowell Eckerty is a clever gink, and that his press agent is correct in his statements. But this story would not be complete without some reference to Eck's stand on the income tax question. You all know what a vital matter is—then consider this:

Eckerty believes great financial relief could be obtained through the passage of a federal statute forcing bachelors who are fond of other men's wives to assist the husbands in paying community income taxes!

FIND BERT COONS GUILTY OF THEFT

A jury late Friday afternoon in Eighty-Ninth district court returned a verdict of guilty in the case of Bert Coon, charged with theft of two mules, and sentenced him to serve two years in the penitentiary. The trial began Thursday before Judge P. A. Martin.

It was charged that Coons was found in possession of two mules which had been stolen from a teamster in the oil fields.

The case was prosecuted for the state by District Attorney Fletcher S. Jones and Attorney Hicks and Williams acted as counsel for the defendant.

Judge Landis Named High Tribunal of Baseball in Big Leagues

MAJORS DIVIDE IN TWO GROUPS AS HERETOFORE

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—The warring baseball factions in the major leagues today made peace, each side conceding certain points to the other in the battle over the reorganization of professional baseball control. After a three-hour session the representatives of the 16 clubs voted unanimously to appoint Federal Judge K. M. Landis, supreme dictator of the leagues' destinites, but did away with the civilian tribunal proposed by the Lasker plan, voting instead that Judge Landis should be a committee of one in complete charge of the administration of the leagues' affairs.

To Remain on Bench.

Judge Landis immediately accepted the position, but stipulated he would remain on the federal district bench and hold both positions. Judge Landis' salary as chairman of baseball will be $42,500 a year and also will receive $7,500 a year as federal judge, giving him an annual salary of $50,000. Originally he was offered $50,000 as baseball chairman, but it was reduced by the amount received as judge.

The fundamental principles of the Lasker plan of reorganization were agreed to by President Johnson and the Philadelphia, Washington, Detroit, Cleveland and St. Louis American league clubs—who sided with President Johnson in opposing the Lasker plan.

"A Real Peace."

After the meeting the magnates came out arm in arm, and a majority of them proceeded to Judge Landis' chambers to inform him of their decision.

"We've made a real peace, one that will last," was the comment of President William Veeck of the Chicago National league club, as the meeting broke up.

"The full details of the reorganization have not been settled, but we expect to issue a formal statement soon, telling all about it. It's enough to say now that the war is over and every one of us is mighty glad of it."

Landis National Figure.

Judge Landis is a natonal figure, the important cases he has passed upon and his wit and sarcasm—sometimes humorous and sometimes caustic—which he directs at prisoners and counsels from his bench, have made him famous.

Baseball always has been one of his hobbies. In the town of Logansport, Ind., where he was reared, the judge played on amateur and semi-professional teams. His brilliant playing brought him many offers to turn professional, but he always declined, saying he played merely for sport and love of the game.

In 1914 Judge Landis presided in the legal battle which resulted from the greatest baseball war in history—the fight of the Federal league against the National and American leagues. The judge never rendered a decision in the case, however, for it was settled out of court while he was still forming his official opinion. While studying the case, the judge spent many hours looking into baseball history, the national agreement and documents giving information concerning baseball. The knowledge acquired during this period made him a legal authority on the administration of the game's affairs.

Judge Landis attends many major league games here every year and seldom misses a world series. At the annual fall classic he may be found in a box back of third base, his old black slouch hat pulled down over his eyes and a long, black cape falling from his shoulders. He never talks during a game, but studies every play closely and enjoys analysing the strategy used by opposing players. One of his bobbies at a game is to try to guess the next play.

Judge Landis was born in Millville, Ohio, November 20, 1866, and was named for Kenesaw mountain, near Atlanta, Ga., where his father was wounded in the Civil war. He first became nationally prominent when he fined the Standard Oil company $29,240,000 after forcing John D. Rockefeller to come here to testify. The decision was reversed by the appellate court, however.

Sentences I. W. W.'s.

During the world war he presided at the famous I. W. W. trial, sentencing "Big Bill" Haywood, secretary-treasurer of the organization, and 92 other members to prison. Shortly afterward an explosion in the Federal building killed several persons, but the judge was uninjured. He also sentenced Congressman Victor Berger to prison for alleged obstruction of the nation's war preparations.

Judge Landis drew congressional attention shortly after the world war. He found that most of the lawyers appearing before him who were wearing wrist watches had not been in the service.

"Have all these wrist-watch lawyers file a statement what branch of the service they were in," he ordered his clerk.

Senator Thomas of Colorado, in an address in the senate, said Judge Landis should be impeached for his order. The judge's only comment was:

"Don't it beat the devil what some senators will do to pass the time away?"

Judge Landis' caustic—or humorous—verbal attacks from the bench are directed at men in all stations of life. One day he scathingly denounces a corporation and the next day sympathizes with and helps some unfortunate prisoner brought before him. His favorite expression is, "Take this man up to Mabel's room"—the jail—or "Take him to room 33 and give him the easy chair."

MINOR MOGULS MOVE SESSIONS TO WINDY CITY

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 12.—The arbitration board of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues concluded its sessions here today and left at 6 o'clock tonight for Chicago, where sessions will be resumed tomorrow.

As today's meeting the board passed judgment on the rating of the Texas League. It was raised from Class B to Class A and is now on a par with its big Southern neighbor, the Southern Association, as to rating.

The board rendered decisions today on various claims of clubs and players all of a minor nature.

Drumright, Okla., will remain in the Western Association and Muskogee is free to take out a franchise in the proposed new Southwestern Association, according to J. H. Farrell, secretary of the National Association.

Muskogee had been endeavoring, according to Mr. Ferrell, to move the Drumright club to the former city but this action will not be allowed by the board.

Springfield, Mo., was awarded the purchase price for Player Don Brown claimed by both Galveston, Texas and Springfield. Brown goes to the Chicago Nationals.

Pitcher Deason, sold by Fort Smith to Omaha, but drafted by Spartansburg, S. C., was awarded to Spartansburg.

JUDGE ACCEPTS; MOGULS WAIT FOR COURT TO END

By Associated Press

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—Federal Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis today accepted the "chairmanship of professional baseball," after it had been tendered him by unanimous vote of the sixteen major league clubs and thereby became the final court of appeal in all matters of administration which may come up between the National and American leagues and any minor leagues which voluntarily join in the proposed reorganization of baseball.

Judge Landis was hearing a case in which $15,000 bribery, in connection with an income tax, was charged, when a committee of eight owners called on him. As the magnates filed into the courtroom, hats in their hands, the judge sharply banged his gavel down and ordered them to make less noise. When informed of their mission he had them escorted to his chambers where they were kept in waiting for fifty-five minutes before the judge would listen to the offer which increased his annual salary from $7,500 a year to $50,000.

Scores Bribery Offenders

While the magnates waited, the judge conducted the bribery trial in his usual fashion and gave vent to some scathing remarks about the men who falsify their income tax returns.

"The penitentiary is too good for them," he remarked.

At first the judge refused the offer of the committee on the grounds that he "loved his position as judge," too much to quit the bench. Finally, however, he agreed to hold both positions, but specified his baseball salary should be decreased by $7,500—the amount he received as judge. It was agreed that as chairman he should receive $42,500 a year instead of the $50,000 orginally offered.

After the meeting, Judge Landis took Clark Griffith, a personal friend, over to a window.

"Griff," he said, "I'm going to tell you just why I took this job. See those kids down there on the street? See that airplane propeller on the wall? Well that explains my acceptance.

Boy's Remark Swerved Judge

"You see that propeller was on the plane in which my son, Major Reed Landis, flew while overseas. Reed and I went to one of the world series games at Brooklyn. Outside the gate were a bunch of little kids playing around. Reed turned to me and said:

"'Dad wouldn't it be a shame to have the game of these little kids broken up? Wouldn't it be awful to take baseball away from them?'

"Well while you gentlemen were talking to me, I looked up at this propeller and I thought of Reed. Then I thought of his remark in Brooklyn. Griff, we've got to keep baseball on a high standard for the sake of the youngsters—that's why I took the job; because I want to help."

Judge Landis' official acceptance was made in the following statement:

"I have accepted the chairmanship of baseball on the invitation of the sixteen major league clubs. At their request and in accordance with my own earnest wishes, I am to remain on the bench and continue my work here. The opportunities for real service are limitless. It is a matter to which I have been devoted for nearly forty years. On the question of policy all I have to say is this:

"The only thing in anybody's mind now is to make and keep baseball what millions of fans throughout the United States want it to be."

FROM THE JUDGES' STAND

Assorting the News From the Sport Realm

The Giants and Yankees are going to be well managed next season. At least, they ought to be.

With two veteran major league pilots at the head of each team the New York Nationals and their rival American League "bunkies" at the Polo grounds are setting a precedent in a managerial way, for though many major league clubs have coaches who either have been managers or are experienced enough to qualify, 1921 will mark the first time in baseball history that so many high-salaried field generals have been signed by two clubs.

John McGraw, as vice-president and manager of the Giants, will have the veteran Hugh Jennings as his first lieutenant. McGraw has several times been on the verge of retiring from the active management of the team, according to the wags, but once a pennant race gets hot it would be just as hard to keep McGraw "out of there" as it would be to keep a jazz band silent.

McGraw and Jennings are old teammates. They played together on the old Baltimore Orioles and were roomies during their playing days. They have been friends ever since and it is almost a foregone conclusion that they will "get along." There is an old saying—the one about the cooks and the broth—but the Giants should be well managed, regardless.

The Yanks, with Miller Huggins and Ed Barrow to handle the reins, were the first to sign two "managers" for 1921. Barrow was signed as business manager of the team the same day that Huggins autographed his 1921 contract, and though Barrow's duties are supposed to be largely confined to the business end of the club, it is almost certain that he will lend Huggins his assistance in handling the team on the field, and especially the players.

Huggins, because of ill health, has often found himself unequal of curbing his players. With Barrow at his elbow he will find the task much easier, for Barrow is a baseball man of the driving calibre, as any player who has been under his management will testify.

Barrow's success with the Red Sox has proven his qualities as a manager. Huggins, who knows baseball inside and out, and Barrow, always ready for any emergency, should be able to drive the Yanks at break-neck speed.

The value of an assistant manager or a coach is attested to by the fact that seven American League and five National League clubs have adopted the system of carrying them. The Yankees have Charles O'Leary, in addition to Barrow. The Browns have Lee Fohl; the Indians, McAlister; the Red Sox, Eddie Holly; the Athletics, Danny Murphy; the Senators, George McBride, and the Tigers, Jack Coombs. In the National League the Giants have Hughie Jennings; the Braves, Oscar Dugey; the Cubs, Cozy Dolan; the Cardinals, Joe Sugden, and Carl Ludgren; and the Pirates, Bill McKeenchnie. Not all of these men have come to the end of their careers as players and now and then break into a game. Others are men who have gnown gray and wrinkled in the game which they began to play before most of the present crop of players were born.

Tom Miller, who covered the center garden for the Spudders for a short time last season, and who was later sold to the Petersburg club of the Virginia league, clouted the horsehide for an average of .294 in the latter league, according to the figures which have just been released.

The list of players reserved for the Spudders next season, as issued by Secretary Farrell of the National Baseball association, is as follows: J. F. Burch, D. C. Clark, C. Darrough, Karl Eberhard, F. E. Edgar, H. H. Grubb, Frank Hudspeth, J. G. Josefson, Frank Kitchens, Lonnie King, J. L. Mokan, Jake Miller, L. S. McElwee, A. D. Tanner, A. L. Trash, Wilson, White, Cecil Wetzel, J. E. Zinn, J. W. Sewell. The following have been suspended: Richard Blunk, Edward McDonald, J. M. Paske, A. Ruth. The following are ineligible: George Duddy, Robert Sutherland. The following have voluntarily retired: Roy Fentress, Charles Miller, Clarence Sims and O. F. Weaver.

Looks pretty good on paper, but it is a trifle early to predict just how the 1921 Spudders will look on the field.

Local football followers will have a chance to see plenty of action this afternoon, when the local high school squad will match with the team from Mineral Wells. Not much is known here of the team from the Crazy Water city, but they have always had a strong team in the past, and a real battle is looked for. The locals emerged from the Burkburnett game with only a few minor injuries, and Coach Cantwell will send his eleven best into the game this afternoon.

The Yale-Princeton game in the Yale bowl holds the center of interest in the East today. Tim and Mike Callahan, brothers, and captains of Yale and Princeton, respectively, probably will be the center of interest. This is the first time in the history of football that brothers, both captains, and playing the some position have met on the gridiron. The family is neutral

TURNING POINT NOW FACES ILLINOIS

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—Illinois tomorrow faces the turning point in the 1920 football schedule, for Coach Zuppke's men must defeat Wisconsin, one of the strongest elevens in the Western conference, in order to meet Ohio State the following Saturday with a clean slate in the struggle which will decide the Big Ten championship.

Chicago battles Michigan at Ann Arbor for the first time since 1904, and Purdue plays Northwestern at Evanston in other conference games. The Illinois-Wisconsin game will be held at Madison. Indiana goes out of the conference to play Notre Dame, while Ohio State is idle. Ohio State and Illinois are each undefeated, with four victories, while Wisconsin has lost to Ohio State.

TIGERS, SLIGHT FAVORITES O'ER YALE SATURDAY

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Chief interest in the eastern football games tomorrow centers in the outcome of the Yale-Princeton contest.

Princeton enters the game a slight favorite over Yale and with an excellent record of victories and play which appears to indicate the Tigers' ability to cope successfully with the smashing but rather crude attack of the Blue.

Man for man, the Yale line is probably stronger than the Princeton forwards but not as well drilled in the science of scrimmaging as a compact combination. Back of the line, the Tigers have what appears to be a faster quartette, adept in forward passing and broken field running.

In direct line plunging, the Elf's are thought to have a slight advantage.

SOUTHERN OVAL LOVERS EXPECT BITTER GAMES

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 12.—Some of the hardest football games of the season are in prospect tomorrow, for besides the Tulane-Mississippi A. & M. contest at New Orleans, in which neither team has yet lost to another Dixie eleven, there are at least three other contests in which one of the elevens is out for "revenge" as a result of previous losses.

Auburn's powerful team is expected to try to make its game in Birmingham with Washington and Lee an occasion for wiping out the sting of the Plainsmen's 7 to 0 defeat by Georgia, and the Generals, too, are hard after a victory as a result of their loss a week ago to West Virginia.

Georgetown university invades the South for a game in Atlanta with Georgia Tech bent on paying back with interest her 27 to 0 defeat of last year.

The Vanderbilt team faces Virginia tomorrow at Nashville with another chance to make a showing against a strong team. Centre college, whose game with Georgia Tech October 30 was followed today by both sides announcing a severance of athletic relations, so far as football goes, will meet Kentucky State at Lexington, Ky.

The battle at Chattanooga between Tennessee and Sewanee promises to be a hard-fought one with a bearing on the state title.

Virginia Military institute's "flying squadron" meets the Catholic university eleven at Lexington, Va.

South Carolina invades Annapolis for a game with the hard-hitting Navy team, which appears to be a different eleven from that North Carolina State defeated early in the season.

The owner of the nationalists and the newspapers voicing the sentiment of the right party in parliament, however, express a certain amount of discontent and demand a more radical solution of the controversy.

KANSAS GRAIN MILLS FACING GENERAL TIEUP

TOPEKA, Kans., Nov. 12.—The Kansas flour milling industry is on the verge of a shutdown according to a statement made here today by John H. Ismart, head of a large company which operated mills here and in Kansas City. He added that a number of mills including his own, had suspended operations.

Seven Topeka milling concerns yesterday were ordered to appear before the state court of industrial relations and show why they should not be held to be violating the industrial court act "for curtailing production in an essential industry to influence prices."

The millers maintain that reduction of production and cutting of forces have been necessary by the basis of law of supply and demand, for the following reasons:

First, because northwestern millers who have been buying Canadian wheat can manufacture flour for $1 a barrel cheaper than flour can be manufactured in Kansas.

Second, action of the United States shipping board two weeks ago in cutting the "differential" (duty) on wheat from 25 cents to 5 cents and not cutting the export duty on flour.

His plan is to pool producing interests in the marketing enterprise.

Mr. Garrett said that a misty rain and wet streets were responsible for the accident which so unnerved him that he found he was unable to drive his car to the hospital with the young woman and her companion after the accident occurred.

OFFICERS ASK THAT GIRL IN PEN BE FREED

Sheriff Bob McFall late Friday mailed a petition signed by every deputy in the department to the board of pardons at Austin making application and recommending that Ruby Taggart, young girl, who recently began a five-year sentence at the penitentiary, be released on parole.

The girl was recently convicted and sentenced to a term in the penitentiary after entering a plea of guilty to the charge of robbery which were made against her by the grand jury for her alleged connection with the activities of two men, who were also charged with robbery and given terms in the penitentiary.

As set forth in the petition, during the girl's confinement in the county jail before and after the trial, authorities observed her general deportment and became convinced that she was not a criminal but that she could have been easily influenced into the commission of a crime.

The conclusion has been reached, according to the petition that she was made a "victim of circumstances," and that she was "influenced into the robbery" for which she was convicted.

Authorities hold that with the conviction of the two men named in the charges jointly with Miss Taggart, that the parties responsible for the commission of the crime have been sentenced and that justice has been accomplished. It is believed that her confinement to the county jail and penitentiary is substantial punishment and that she has received an object lesson which will cause her to refrain from the commission of future offenses.

In submitting the petition, authorities say that the best interests of the state are considered, that their duties as officers in the enforcement of the law are recognized, and that by recommending the parole it is done so in their belief that the girl concerned deserves it.

LEAGUE CHAIRMEN HAPPY O'ER ISSUE

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—President John Heydler of the National league made the following statement to the Associated Press:

"I am very happy over this solution of the baseball problem. It is an unward step for baseball and forever eliminates politics from the national game. One of the chief worries of a league president is to vote fairly in the national commission, and I am glad to be relieved of that responsibility."

WACO HI FAILS TO DOWN FT. WORTH

FORT WORTH, Nov. 12.—Quarterback Fall's fumble of a punt in the shadow of his own goal paved the way for Waco's defeat at the hands of Central High of Fort Worth today in a game that has an important bearing on the state championship. The score was 7 to 0.

ARMISTICE SCENES AND THE BOYS WHO BROUGHT IT ABOUT

A typical regiment of American boys, photographed "over there," Chateau de Francport, near Compeigne, where German armistice delegates stopped night before asking armistice, and railroad car in which Marshal Foch and other allied representatives received the delegates near Rethiondes.

Two years ago today the armistice, which brought to an end the fighting in the greatest war the world has witnessed, was world conquest shattered and her man-power diminished by millions in the futile attempt to defeat the allied powers, acknowledged defeat and laid its case in the hands of the victorious powers. The million American fighting men actually at the front and the knowledge that the U. S. had millions more ready to send across the Atlantic was the big factor bringing the war to a sudden and dramatic close.

PEDIGREE IDEA ALL WRONG FOR THOSE WHO WOULD WED

By MARGERY REX
International News Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK—Tempers are to be tabulated along with tendencies to bad colds, if the pedigree bureau for the about-to-be-married, proposed by the International Alliance of Physicians and Surgeons ever becomes a state or federal institution.

Imagine your devoted fiance or fiancee looking up your pedigree, only to find you had been engaged before, to discover that the old auntie who had bequeathed you all that money (maybe that was the great attraction) had gone raving crazy in her latter days, thereby leaving you not only her cash, but also an imperfect constitution.

"Oh, yes, you want to see that pedigree," the clerk would grin. You see, one of your former rivals had looked it up and found it wanting, or it has been hauled out anyway when both pedigrees were compared and you decided you didn't want him because he had a tendency toward blood pressure, and all the things you like to eat are apt to aggravate that condition.

But if the plot of these physicians and surgeons works out headquarters will be established in all the large cities of this country and Europe. Physical and mental capability will be noted in candidates for marriage, since it is considered as necessary to pedigree humans as dogs and horses. The name of the organization is to be the National and Internation Bureau of Physical and Metaphysical Registration.

Several physicians of note have expressed their approval of the proposed institution, but a note of disapproval comes from a criminal lawyer, a woman, Mrs. Pauline O. Field, lately elected president of the Criminal Bar association.

"I do believe in a physical examination before marriage," said Mrs. Field, "and I think this test should include the establishment of the candidate's sanity. But I do not believe the superficial qualities should be taken into consideration.

"Marriage should not be discouraged, and the making of pedigrees would, I believe, have that very detrimental effect upon our young people. I do not agree with the doctor who says a mate should be selected by the pedigree method.

"Suppose two young people fall in love. Under the proposed system they plan to marry. If uncertain temper is on one side, and somewhat weak, although not diseased, constitution is on the other, the match would not be consummated, and heartbreak for one or the other or for both would ensue.

"A man or a woman may say: 'I don't want my physical and mental qualities placed on open record.' A young woman might be severely disappointed to learn that her intended had had his pedigree scanned by other young ladies than herself.

"Dr. Anson H. Bingham gave as his opinion that the pedigree system is a good theory, but would never work out in practice. I agree with him and I think that a marriage, whether romantic or not, should not be preceded by an investigation beyond such facts as are vitally necessary.

Sanity and Health First

"Disease or tendencies to very serious illness make a man or woman a menace to society and to the marriageable partner. A sound mind and body should be required, but purely mental qualities or the lack of them, providing the mind is sound—do not directly affect happiness.

"Take, for instance, a woman with a shrewish temper. Love and attention might transform her into an ideal wife and mother, but if the pre-marriage quality, possibly induced by her lonely state, were generally known, it would prevent her ultimate happiness. What man would undertake to make her happy?

"Often a good-natured wife will offset a man of choleric disposition whose angry moments might cause a bystander to think him crazy.

"But in spite of all the examinations before marriage that ever could be put into effect, this thing is certain: No one knows another until that person has lived with that man or woman.

"The most perfect combinations of mental and physical qualities might bring about unhappy results in marriage. After all, the important thing is suitability of temperaments, love of the same things and respect for each other's opinions.

"My experience in criminal law has shown me that anyone who commits crime more than once is weak mentally. Now, breeding environment and heredity are the causes. Not always heredity, though. The cause of crime has more to do with mental deficiency than physical weakness. Both should be discovered before marriage, but not recorded in public pedigrees."

PASTOR TO TALK ON MEDICAL MEN

"At 11:00 a. m. Sunday" said Dr. H. D. Knickerbocker, pastor of the First Methodist church, south, "we are going to have a great sermon by a great bishop on a great subject. Who it is and what it is, and all other mysteries appertaining thereto will be revealed at that hour. It is very certain, however, that anyone who misses it will suffer a great loss.

"At 9:45 at the Olympic theater the subject of my lecture to men will be "Why God Didn't Abolish the Medical Profession." One of the exceedingly interesting sub-topics of this lecture will be 'an Explanation and Demonstration of a Miracle.' I will perform all the essentials of the miracle myself. At this service the 'Rusty Hinge Quartette' will sing.

"At 7:30 at night in the church, the fifteen-minute prelude concert will precede the preaching service. The subject of my sermon will be 'What Does a Lost Dog Think of You?' This subject leads thought in a gamut that runs from tender sentiment to deepest philosophy, and is guaranteed to intrigue the interest of every class of hearers."

ASK WICHITANS VERIFY INCOME TAX RENDITIONS

Letters summoning several hundred Wichitans, whose own estimates of their incomes do not tally with the compilations of internal revenue collectors, to appear for conference with these collectors Monday, November 15 have been mailed out from the revenue office at the post office as the first maneuvere in the drive against delinquents in the payment of 1919 income taxes.

The several hundred letters will have grown to several thousand before the end of the drive, according to data in the hands of the collectors. Eight deputies are at work in the local office. They will be on hand to hear why income tax reports were not filed, or why the reports do not tally with income receipts collected by the investigations. Officials at the office do not estimate the duration of the drive. Several hundred letters will be mailed each day.

The opening of the drive puts into active use voluminious information collected during the past several months from the offices of the county clerk, from banks and other sources.

The greater number of letters were addressed to citizens delinquent in filing reports, the number of reports containing underestimates of property being comparatively small.

Letters mailed contain quotations from the income tax law, which indicates the penalty for failure to file a report as a fine of 25 percent of the amount of the tax. Failure to respond to the summons to pay the tax demanded by collectors is declared a misdemeanor, finable at not more than $10,000 and involving a jail sentence.

PRICE OF GRAIN LOWEST FRIDAY IN FOUR YEARS

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—All grain smashed down in value today to the lowest record since 1916. Financial and industrial uncertainties were largely responsible. The wheat market closed nervous, 2 3-4 to 5c net lower, with December 1.76 to 1.77½ and March 1.69 1-4 to 1.69½. Corn lost 1½ to 2 1-8c and oats 2-8 to 1 1-8c. In provisions the outcome varied from 5c decline to 15c advance.

General selling started wheat prices down grade right from the outset, with the bears making the most out of unfavorable aspects of the business situation.

Corn gave way in sympathy with wheat, despite some buying on the decline.

USE STEAM LINE TO HEAT STATION

Sufficient heat for the union station is assured by the completion of a steam line from the Fort Worth & Denver round house across the main tracks from the station. The line was completed just before the present cold weather started. No difficulty has been experienced in obtaining sufficient heat for the station during the last two days.

The station in former years was heated from a boiler in the building adjoining on Eighth street. With the removal of the Katy offices from that building the accommodation could no longer be obtained, necessitating thec hange to the round house.

OLYMPIC OFFERS FILM LOVE PLAY

Against a background of society idleness and frivolity, a realitsic story of shattered lives and human frailty is unfolded in "The Vice of Fools," an Alice Joyce Vitagraph special production, which is being shown at the Olympic theater today.

Housewarmings, parties, games, teas—all these empty pleasures—form a dramatic contrast and foil to the human narrative which is told simply and movingly against such a setting. Through the nervous gayety which marks all the scenes, the principal characters, two young people in love, move naturally and inevitably toward the crisis which is to tear them apart.

Miss Joyce, as Marion Rogers, and Robert Gordon, her leading man, as Cameron West, are the protagonists in the play. Marion's father has married again, and his second wife is Cameron's mother. They are in love, but Cameron's mother—Marion's stepmother—places ancestry above character and objects to the affair

QUOTED STOCK CURB VALUES YET DROPPING

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Quoted values in the stock market continued to crumble today, selling for both accounts, in which voluntary liquidation probably predominated carrying the list to lowest levels of the year.

In several instances today's prices were the lowest for a much longer period. United States steel declined to 82½, an extra loss of 1 3-8 points and the minimum since 1917. Many popular shares were 25 to 40 points under maximums of a few months ago.

Aside from the money market in which yesterday's promise of greater ease was not fulfilled, there were no new developments to account for the further collapse of the stock market.

Sales 1,250,000 shares.

Bonds were not especially affected by the break in stocks, although all Liberty issues and various convertible rails eased. Total sales par value $12,620,000.

TOM MOORE PINS FAITH TO "666"

"I expect 'Officer 666' will be my greatest picture," Tom Moore declares. "The reason is that number 666 has always been an omen of good fortune to me. When I came to this country from Ireland the number of my cabin was 666. The engine that pulled the first train that brought us to California was 666. I won a gold watch once on the lucky number 666. The number of my automobile license ends with 666. We had 666 takes with the camera in making this picture, and I hope there will be 666 laughs in it for the public."

"Officer 666" is the Goldwyn production of the stage play which is now playing at the Majestic theater.

COTTON PRICES GO LOWER ON WEEK

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Early week rallies were followed by renewed weakness in the cotton market owing to reports of continued depression in the goods trade and of an easier spot basis in the south. Prices made new low ground for the week and present movement during today's trading, with January selling just below the 18 cent level.

The appearance of freezing temperatures in the northern part of the belt toward the end of the week had no apparent influence.

Selling toward the end of the week may also have been encouraged by the report of the local trade authorities estimating the crop at 13,000 bales, excluding linters.

According to reports reaching here from Georgia points today, cotton was selling in some places there at the lowest prices of the season, while other private advices said farmers were offering cotton from their wagons in the streets of Memphis without finding buyers.

Weakness in foreign exchange rates werer egarded as operating against a renewal of export demand and Liverpool trade advices received today complained of a poor demand from Manchester. There were indications of an improved retail business as a result of more seasonable weather conditions throughout the country.

PRICE CHANGES STILL PROCEED--BRADSTREET'S

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Bradstreet's tomorrow will say:

Price readjustments are going forward with, if anything, rather more celerity, and these, where accompanied by cool, bracing weather, have induced a larger distribution of seasonable goods, notably wearing apparel. The evidences of improvement are not very broad or very deep, and immediate needs seem to govern most buying, the result being that the usual summary in Bradstreet's trade at a glance column does not show much change of a strong factor.

Briefly summarized, wholesale and jobbing trade is slow to fair, retail, fair to slow, and manufacture and industry show a further slowing, with either an increase of unemployment of an extension of short time in going operations. The selling campaign inaugurated by large wholesalers and jobbers some weeks ago and which this week are featured by an increasing number of markets have met with a moderate degree of success.

Weekly bank clearings, $8,448,500,000.

SUGAR REACHES A NEW LOW RECOR

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—The was renewed weakness in the sugar market today and new low records were established for the season. Prices were ½c lower closing at 5½ for Cubas, cost and freight equal to 6.15 for centrifugal.

No further changes were reported in refined sugar, although with the raw sugar market again lower, some adjustment is looked for.

The continued weakness in raw caused another break in sugar futures and all positions sold at new low record prices for the season.

Excursion to the Rio Grande Valley

We will run our next excursion to the Valley on Sunday, November 21st, and return Friday, November 26th.

If interested in seeing this wonderful valley, where they grow three crops a year on the same ground, and where the flowers bloom in winter the same as in the month of May we will be glad to meet you and talk the matter over.

We go in pullman cars and serve your meals on the train. We go by way of Galveston and spend most of the day Monday on the beach and give you a boat ride on the gulf. Will arrive in the Rio Grande Valley Tuesday morning. There the party will take autos for inspection of the entire country.

You will be shown the richest farm lands in the world; lands that produce oranges, grape fruits and every other variety of citrus fruit, one to two bales of cotton per acre, 100 to 125 bushels of corn to the acre, 200 to 500 bushels of potatoes per acre, $1,000 to $1,500 an acre in tomatoes, cabbage, onions, etc.

This rich alluvial land is made to produce these tremendous crops by irrigation from the Rio Grande river and semi-tropical climate, a climate that excels southern California, cooler in summer and warmer in winter. We will spend three days in looking this valley over.

We will give a very low rate for the round trip. If interested, see me before the above date.

ARMENIAN RELIEF BY EIGHT AMERICANS

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 10.—The Rev. Dr. Ernest Yarrow, a missionary stationed in Turkey-Armenia, telegraphs from the Caucasus that eight Americans at Kars are protecting 40,000 orphans and the stores there. Refugees to the number of 25,000 have reached Alexandropol panic-stricken.

The Georgia national guard and the mobilized Georgian army, says the dispatch, now numbering 50,000 men. The constituent assembly has decided to maintain its war footing, apparently contemplating assisting the Armenians who are struggling against the Turks.

LASKER FOE PLEASED.

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—President Ban Johnson of the American league, leader of the opponents to the Lasker plan, received his first information concerning the meeting from the Associated Press and expressed pleasure at the action taken.

"I'm for Judge Landis and I think these club owners have acted wisely," he said. "Baseball will be placed on the highest possible standard now and there will be no more fights. I am well satisfied with everything that took place today."

TAGORE LOOKS TO AMERICA AS WORLD'S CULTURE CENTER

By MARGERY REX
International News Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK.—With highest faith in the spiritual strength of America, and with expectation that our country will continue to encourage those cultural ideals, once characteristic of Europe at its best, Sir Rabindranath Tagore, celebrated Hindu poet, has come again to New York city after an absence of four years.

The philosopher was found in his suite in the Hotel Algonquin harassed by callers and telephoen messages from the many who heard his addresses on his first visit to America. Tall, slender, dark of skin and gray-bearded the long robe of bluish gray, lined with pale brown, completed a picture that might have represented a prophet of old. His voice, somewhat high in pitch and of almost chanting peaceful quality, gives the effect of complete dissociation with the speaker, as though one were sitting by his side listening with him to a song of the far-off east.

Dr. Tagore, as he is sometimes called, says that Europe looks to us to carry on the culture of the old world shattered by war; that in these busy United States, where industry flourishes, we have also high spiritual tendencies and appreciations which are in many cases reactions from the struggles to amass fortunes.

Europe Is Exhausted

"I was once quoted," the poet smiled, "as saying that America is crude and noisy. That was, shall I say, not exactly the truth. America is young, impetutous, hungry, reaching out with both hands.

"The European is rather exhausted and spent. European civilization must find its new nest in America, where life is young, where men are not biase and where there exists faith in ideals. All that is shattered in Europe. The old world is unsettled and has found peace worse than war.

"But I am optimistic of humanity in general. I do not despair of the European countries passing through a bad state.

"The situation between England and Ireland is heart-breaking. When I was in France I used to read things in newspapers that made me physically ill. When matters come to such a pass, when the extreme has been reached of suffering, it seems that the solution must be at hand.

Spiritual Communication

"On the continent matters in many places are bad. People are hopeless. But in America the spiritual qualities have not been crushed so much by the war.

"About Mr. Edison's attempts to establish the fact of a personality surviving after death? Well, that is a spiritual matter, surely.

"The question is does the 'personality' wish to communicate with the earth it has left behind? Before our birth we had no notion of what life was going to be. Just so we have no idea of what awaits us after death. Directly we are born we find ourselves very much at home in the world; everything is provided for us.

"All we know of the next world is that it will be something good, otherwise death, the universal destination, would be terrible. In spite of death life goes on, has its joy, its hopes, its expectations of the future. There is harmony between all parts of life, between the new life that enters the world and the life that is already there to care for the new and between the life that is ending and the experience to come.

"As for Mr. Edison's machine, with which he is trying to find out whether personality survives, we cannot decide here whether or not a lasting personality would wish, or would have the means to answer a machine's signalling to it.

"I have hope and endless expectation of life after death, and I do not need a machine to prove it to me. Suppose the machine fails to speak to the personality, then it is not disproved to me!

Outgrowth of Life

"Death cannot be a continuance of life, but an outgrowth of it. Life must grow out of itself as the seed grows into the tree. The seed does not live only to be seed, but to develop into a higher form. It must give itself up to that purpose—outgrow the seed state and become greater.

"Many people think the next life is to be an exact replica of this, having all the accessories, even the furniture of this existence. That would be terrible, if true. I can't believe that.

"The chick may think existence in the shell is best, and that it is awful to be disturbed and forced to break out of the envelope. But, all the same, once out he finds life beter; more freedom surrounds him—and the life we will have after death resembles this in a way. It will be better for us; we will not continue this phase of life, but begin a new and different one. I believe, without the mistakes, the mishaps and the discordances of this period on earth.

"We must all work out our own future, though. I find in America a wonderful spiritual hunger and aspiration. The hunger is genuine, and is, I believe, a reaction to the pursuit of wealth that has characterized your industrial life. Wealth, its pursuit and possession, are too obvious to give lasting enjoyment and contentment. Hence the turning to search for a spiritual something. It is shown in a great hope and optimism."

Dr. Tagore is here for the purpose of lecturing on the literature and poetry of India. He says the proceeds of his lectures, of the sales of his books and the money received from the Noble prize will be devoted to the support of his university for boys at Bolpuh, in the province of Bengal. The poet hopes to inculcate in the youth of his country a love for the lore and philosophies of India, and to found courses in those subjects which cannot be acquired at welly-established universities.

JACK BARNES IS PUT UNDER BOND

Jack Barnes, who was arrested early Friday, on a complaint charging obtaining goods by fraud, is being held at the county jail in default of $1,000 bond pending examining trial.

It is alleged that Barnes bought an automobile tire and tube from a local concern and had it charged to an oil company at Burkburnett under the pretense that they would pay for it.

$190,000 ASKED FOR FAIR PARK GROUNDS SITE

A report of the committee appointed to consider the advisability of purchasing land near the ball park to be used as a fair grounds featured the luncheon of the Business Council of the Chamber of Commerce Friday. The luncheon was attended by the largest number of members who have been present since the weekly affairs were inaugurated. More than ninety members were present.

J. B. Marlow, who has been the chief instigator and sponsor for a fair association in this city, said that he would take stock in the association to cover the value of the land that he owns that would become a part of the fair grounds. He offered to sell his part of the land for $27,500.

Speaking of the uses of a fair grounds in this city, Mr. Marlow stated that he would give $10,000 for the privilege of putting on a round-up in this city next spring.

J. C. Hunt, chairman of the committee, reported that the entire 150 acres needed for grounds could be obtained for $190,000, a price which Mr. Hunt deemed fair. Mr. Hunt said that a grand stand to seat 20,000 people could be erected for $27,500. The fence around the grounds could be paid for with advertising.

Doubt was expressed by several present as to whether the money for the association could be raised at this time. The Business Council recommended the holding of the land until it was determined whether it could be advisable to attempt to promote the project.

George E. Kessler, landscape architect who was employed by various civic organizations several months ago to work out a plan for development for the city, spoke for a few minutes.

Plats of the city have been completed, Mr. Kessler stated, showing how the city should occupy its lands in the future. These plats will be available for study by the City Council, Chamber of Commerce and others interested. The next two weeks will be spent in outlining the details of the general plan as it will be finally drafted.

Postoffice Inspector Wallace was introduced by Postmaster Howard. He spoke briefly of the imrovements planned for the local office. Through the co-operation of the citizens of the town and work of Postmaster to supply between 5,000 and 7,000 residents with free mail delivery.

ED NAPIER SITS IN 78TH COURT

Judge Edgar Scurry, of the seventy-Eighth district court, left Wichita Falls Friday for a business trip to Austin. He announced that he will return early next week and resume trial of criminal cases, the first of which is set for Thursday.

During his absence Judge-elect Ed Napier will attend to any matters to come before the court.
