Counts, McLaughlin square off in Sweetwater tonight

By CARLTON JOHNSON
Staff Writer

State Rep. David Counts, D-Knox City, and Republican challenger Scott McLaughlin of Big Spring will square off in a debate tonight in Sweetwater as the race for District 70 State Representative winds down.

Tonight's debate is being hosted by the Sweetwater Chamber of Commerce and will begin at 7 o'clock at the Sweetwater High School Cafeteria, 1205 Ragland.

Counts, who has held the District 70 seat since 1988 is seeking his fifth term, but faces a stiff challenge from McLaughlin, who is campaigning as a fiscal conservative and small businessman.

McLaughlin has often campaigned using the differences between himself and Counts, saying the difference is that Counts is a professional politician and the people in District 70 are tired of politics as usual.

He adds his business experience and community service has allowed him to stay touch with the people he seeks to represent.

During a Sept. 23 candidates forum in Big Spring, McLaughlin said, "I want more accountability in government because I'm concerned about the condition of our government. We can keep going towards a welfare state or we can return to Ronald Reagan's land of opportunity."

At that same forum Counts was represented by staff member James Beauchamp who stated Counts' record as a legislator is a matter of record, a good record and that Counts understands how to represent the people at home.

McLaughlin has stated that a victory for him means true citizen representation in Austin, which is what founding fathers originally intended in establishing a democratic society.

In a recent phone interview with the Herald, Counts stated he really didn't know what McLaughlin stood for and hadn't really though about the issues.

He added he hopes tonight's debate in Sweetwater is well-received.

The debate is being conducted by the Sweetwater chamber's State and Federal Committee, which is chaired by Homer Taylor.

"We've tried to make the debate fair for all involved," Taylor said.

Four weeks ago the debate was scheduled to be at Sweetwater's National Guard Armory, but Taylor said the acoustics are terrible in that building and the high school cafeteria allows for better acoustics, better lighting and there is plenty of parking.

Taylor added because the high school is right next to the football stadium in Sweetwater, Big Spring residents traveling to the debate will know exactly where it is.

Both parties agreed on the debate format, which was selected by the chamber committee.

"I think it will be a fair and independent format, "McLaughlin said.

Questions will be taken from the audience and asked by a panel selected by the committee. As spectators enter the cafeteria, they will be given a card on which to write their questions.

Taylor said questions will only be taken in written form and the cards must be signed. He added questions will be screened by the committee along with the Sweetwater Classroom Teachers Association.

To begin the debate, each candidate will be given five to seven minutes to make their opening remarks and two to three minutes to give a rebuttal before the questions begin. Candidates will have two minutes to make closing remarks.

Thomases given 'Family of Year' honor

By KELLIE JONES

City Attorney Mike Thomas and his family have been named Big Spring's "Family of the Year" by the Samaritan Counseling Center of West Texas.

The Thomas family, along with families from Midland and Odessa, will be honored at a banquet Thursday evening and tickets for the event are currently on sale.

This is the second year the counseling center has honored families in the Permian Basin. Individuals, civic groups and churches nominate the family they believe deserves to be honored for their commitment to each other and their community.

"Our family believes that the short time we have with each other as a family unit is very precious, as the children will go their separate ways all too soon," said Thomas. "We try to spend as much time together as possible and respect each other.".

Thomas has master's degrees in accounting and law from the University of Houston. He will become the Howard County attorney in January. Thomas' wife, Terri, has been a kindergarten teacher at St. Mary's Episcopal School for seven years. She also serves as president for the Dora Roberts Rehab Center and the Big Spring Woman's Club.

Allison, 16, is a varsity swimmer at Big Spring High School and has received district-wide recognition for her backstroke. She is a junior honor student and member of the Who's Who

Coahoma educators, parents compromise over class selections

By STEVE REAGAN

COAHOMA Faced with a potentially divisive issue, Coahoma Independent School District administrators and parents opted for compromise.

Trustees put their stamp of approval Monday to a class selection process that will give parents a degree of input into which class their child attends. At the same time, the process will ensure that state mandates on class makeup will be honored.

The new policy, which affects students in grades K-6, will begin next school year.

Class selection is an issue that is fraught with potential landmines, but the solution had people on both sides of the issue smiling.

"Compromises had to be made on every side," said elementary principal Jan Sanders, who headed the committee that devised the solution "But we're professionals, and we all want what is best for the children."

The new system will allow parents limited input into which class their child attends. At the same time, state mandated balances concerning the number of "over-achieving" and "under-achieving" students will be maintained.

Sanders said state and federal law requires that each class has a proportionate number of high and low-ranking students. That was the major stumbling block to allow parents any choice in the matter.

Under the new system, however, Coahoma parents will have at least some input into which class their child attends at elementary school.

Beginning next school year, after children have been assigned classes, balances have been checked and teachers randomly assigned to each section, parents will be allowed to request a class assignment.

The requests, which must be done by appointment, will be made with Sanders and one of the school's counselors. At that Lois Thomas, an employee of Canterbury North (left), and County Clerk Margaret Ray (right) explain the voting process to Canterbury resident Richie May Smith. Early voting was held at Canterbury North today and will be held from 9-11 a.m. Wednesday at Canterbury South. Voting for the Nov. 5 general election continues at a brisk pace with Ray reporting that 266 people voted Monday, bringing the early voting total to 1,208. Another 283 ballots have been mailed out. The record for early voting in a general election is 4,261 in 1992, while 3,283 persons cast early ballots in 1994. Early voting continues at the county courthouse from 8 a.m.-5 p.m. Monday-Friday until Nov. 1. This Saturday, Ray's office will be open from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Proud Citizens slated to receive accolades tonight, Nov. 15

By CARLTON JOHNSON
Staff Writer

A grassroots clean up effort by a few local citizens will be rewarded by the Big Spring City Council tonight and by the Texas Natural Resources Conservation Commission (TNRCC) on Nov. 15.

Proud Citizens of Big Spring, a local cleanup and recycling group, will be recognized at tonight's council meeting with a resolution declaring the month of November "Proud Community Month."

TNRCC officials will be in Big Spring Nov. 15, Texas Recycles Day, to present the city with a Clean Cities 2000 designation, which was the primary goal when Proud Citizens and the city of Big Spring got involved with TNRCC this summer.

The council proclamation reads: "Whereas, the citizens of Big Spring take pride in their community, its people, its accomplishment, and its future; and

"Whereas, the city of Big Spring is dedicated to the prevention of fires, diseases, and other casualties through the removal and elimination of trash and other debris; and

"Whereas, the city of Big Spring strives to improve the health, safety, sanitation and cleanliness of the city by encouraging the placement, planning and/or preservation of trees, shrubbery, plants and flowers in order to beautify the streets, highways, alleys, lakes and springs, lots, yards and other similar places within the city of Big Spring; and

"Whereas, the city of Big Spring will work to improve quality of life, enhance economic development and tourism, and preserve public and natural resources through education and public awareness activities that encourage proper solid waste management and responsible behavior by all Texans and visitors to Texas, including those in our city, as set fourth in the Keep Texas Beautiful mission, it is proclaimed by the mayor of the city of Big Spring that the month of November, 1996, be 'Big Spring Proud Community Month' in honor of all efforts put fourth by the citizens of Big Spring."

State recognition of Big Spring's cleanup efforts began in February when Big Spring High School senior Paul Haney, chairman of BSHS' Student Council Energy Committee, wrote a letter to State Rep. David Counts. As a result of Haney's efforts, Big Spring became the site of a TNRCC pilot program in August.

Haney wrote to Counts, chairman of the House Committee on Natural Resources, asking him what more could students do to help in the recycling effort. Counts relayed the message to TNRCC officials asking them to respond.

The pilot program, Solid

Cold snap brings shivers, but won't last long, experts say

By CARLTON JOHNSON
Staff Writer

The cold spell that dropped temperatures into the low 30s early this morning won't be around long enough to sneeze at, according to National Weather Service Meteorologist George Matthews.

Matthews said people often take an early cold spell as a sign of a lorig cold winter and that's just not the case.

Big Spring and the surrounding area received .33 inches of rain as a result of the cold spell, bringing the year's rainfall total to 16.11 inches.

After reaching an afternoon high of 66 degrees Monday, the cold air dropped the official overnight low temperature by 30 degrees to 36 degrees in the Big Spring area, but several Permian Basin residents woke up Tuesday to find a thin sheet of ice on their windshields.

The forecast for the local area called for temperatures to range from 55 degrees to 60 degrees today wind northwest winds 10 to 20 miles per hour, gradually increasing to about 70 degrees for Wednesday. The overnight low tonight is expected to dip into the low 30s with a light freeze possible.

The cold blast, which did leave some winter-like reminders in parts of Texas, is the result of a Canadian front, according to Matthews, which is usually the colder type of front.

"If something like this front locks into place for about a month or so, we could be concerned about the upcoming winter," Matthews said.

A separate front, spawned thunderstorms in North Texas, producing baseball-sized hail.

Hamilton County reported a tornado Monday afternoon, and about 23,000 resident in the Dallas-Fort Worth area were without electrical power as the storm moved through that area.

High winds, estimated at 80 miles per hour, tore roofs off several buildings at a Dallas apartment complex, injuring seven people.

Temperatures across Texas were expected to reach into the 40s and 50s, except for the 60s expected across West Texas.

Waste Assistance Partnerships Program (SWAP), was introduced by TNRCC officials in August following the unanimous approval of a July resolution authorizing Mayor Tim Blackshear to enter into a partnership with the TNRCC in connection the SWAP program.

Big Spring entered the program because the TNRCC offered the city free technical assistance offering a practical approach to planning and implementing cost-effective waste reduction programs on a community level; and the SWAP program is an approach-based program on pollution preventions and recycling technical assistance, rather than one dealing with inspection or enforcement; and benefits from this program may include increased recycling participation, reduction in landfill disposal, cost savings and perhaps revenue from the sale of recyclables.

The Clean Cities 2000 program began with 15 cities and now is up to 60 cities.

When the SWAP program was introduced in Big Spring, Mayor Tim Blackshear said, "The SWAP program is an excellent tool to move Big Spring into the forefront of solid waste management and reduction efforts. I would also like to thank our home team for donating their time and talent to make this program such a success. The city of Big Spring will support this program with renewed dedication to waste reduction and increased support of recycling efforts in our community."

time, the parent will be allowed to make two class choices and demonstrate a reason for those requests.

Sanders said the first 20 percent of requests would be accepted, provided that class balance is not affected. Requests would be handled on a first-come, first-served basis.

If not a perfect solution, it is one both administrators and parents could live with.

"I think both sides ended up meeting in the middle for something that was mutually beneficial," Superintendent L.D. Monroe said. "There's some parental choice, but classroom integrity is maintained also."

"They gave us a chance to request classes, which is what we wanted," said Debbie Barnes, whose son is in the sixth grade. "I think it will be fine."

Howard College committee looking for roof solutions

HERALD Staff Report

Howard College officials are looking for solutions to roof problems at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

The May 10 hail storm severely damaged the coliseum, especially the metal panels on the building's roof.

To fix the problem, members of the college's building and grounds committee are examining whether to install devices known as ice and water shields. The shields would prevent leaking behind the panels which currently plagues the coliseum, college president Cheri Sparks said.

The proposal will be brought before the college board of trustees during their Nov. 4 meeting.

Committee members also examined plans for the new dormitory at SouthWest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf during their meeting Monday. Plans for the new dorm will be finalized at the trustees' meeting.

Autopsy ordered to determine cause of death of Big Spring woman

HERALD Staff Report

An autopsy has been ordered in the unexplained death of a 43-year-old Big Spring woman.

Diana Nichols was found dead in her home on Chaparral Road at about 12:41 p.m. Monday, according to Howard County Sheriff's Office reports.

Justice of the Peace China Long, who was called to the scene, said that the lack of illness in Nichols' medical history led Long to order an autopsy in the case.

Long stressed, however, that she does not believe Nichols' death was the result of foul play.

"This is not a suspicious death," Long said. "There were no foul play indicators."

Funeral services are scheduled for 4 p.m. Wednesday at First United Methodist Church.

Residents can still cast early ballots

Early voting for the Nov. 5 general election continues at a brisk pace.

Howard County Clerk Margaret Ray said today that 266 people voted Monday, bringing the early voting total to 1,208. Also, 283 ballots have been mailed out, and 20 of those ballots have been received back at the clerk's office.

The record for early voting in a general election is 4,261 in 1992, while 3,283 persons cast early ballots in 1994.

Ray's office will have mobile voting booths at Canturbury South from 9-11 a.m. Tuesday.

Early voting continues at the county courthouse from 8 a.m.-5 p.m. Monday-Friday until Nov. 1. This Saturday, Ray's office will be open from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Hundreds of prospective jurors fail to appear

BELTON — At least one civil lawsuit was postponed Monday after hundreds of prospective jurors failed to show up at a Central Texas courthouse.

Only 135 of 500 Bell County residents summoned for duty Monday complied with the order, District Clerk Shelia Norman said.

Litigants and attorneys in the 169th District Court of Judge Oliver Kelley had to postpone for a day jury selection in a case involving a truck-train accident two years ago at a railroad crossing in Harker Heights.

Jury selection for the case was expected to begin at 9 a.m. Tuesday using jury panelists left over from selection of juries in two criminal cases Monday, Kelley said.

Rick Morris, 146th District Court and Judicial District administrative judge, said the postponement in Kelley's court was costly not only to the litigants but to the several lawyers involved.

Failure to report for jury duty is punishable by a fine ranging from $100 to $1,000.

Man convicted in shooting death of off-duty police officer

SAN ANTONIO — A 21-year-old man was convicted of capital murder Monday in the 1995 shooting death of off-duty police officer Fabian Dominguez.

Jurors found Jonathan Moore guilty in Dominguez' Jan. 15, 1995, slaying as the officer stopped to investigate a burglary in a San Antonio neighborhood.

Moore, who had pleaded innocent by reason of insanity, could get the death penalty. The trial's punishment phase was set to begin Tuesday.

Dominguez, 29, was shot in the face while investigating a burglary shortly after leaving work from the West Side substation. Bexar County's Dominguez State Jail is named in his honor.

Investigators alleged Moore and two other men discussed ambushing a policeman before they carried through with the plan.

Study finds Dallas County sixth in nation in new jobs

DALLAS — Lots of jobs in Dallas and Houston. That's the finding of a survey released by the Census Bureau.

According to the report, Dallas County employers created about 23-thousand jobs between 1993 and 1994. Only five counties in the nation did better. Harris County, which includes Houston, was 10th on the list, adding more than 19-thousand jobs.

Job creation in Dallas has been running at double the national rate for four years.

Economists say job growth in Dallas and Houston show that local economies have been participating in the nationwide recovery that began in 1991. More recent data suggests that the Texas economy continues to grow and create jobs.

Analysts say companies have continued to relocate in Texas, especially high-technology companies.

Former police chief gets probation after no contest plea

GREGORY — Former police chief Daniel Deleon has been sentenced to two years probation after pleading no contest to three counts of misusing public funds during the two years he was in office.

State District Judge Joel Johnson handed down the sentence Friday, officials said.

The judge also ordered Deleon to serve community service and pay other fines and restitution.

Deleon was fired Feb. 26 by the City Council, which said it lost confidence in him.

Operations of the city's three-member police department were suspended last October, when the council called for an investigation of the department's finances.

Deleon was indicted in July on two counts of abuse of official capacity and one count of felony theft. In exchange for Deleon's plea, the theft charge ws reduced to abuse of official capacity.

Capital murder trial begins in Jourdanton

JOURDANTON — Heightened security is in place for Atascosa County's first capital murder trial in three years.

Everyone must pass through a metal detector before entering the courtroom, and three deputies have been ordered to be within eight feet at all times of the defendant.

Dennis Bagwell, 32, is accused in the shooting and beating deaths of his mother, Leona McBee, 47; her niece, Libby Best, 24; the niece's daughter, Reba Best, 4; and Tassy Boone, 14, the granddaughter of his mother's common-law husband.

Bagwell also is accused of sexually assaulting the granddaughter.

Far fewer voters believe Dole addresses issues that matter

NEW YORK (AP) — Bob Dole's stepped-up attacks on President Clinton do not appear to helping the Republican challenger, according to a new national poll.

The number of voters who say Dole is addressing the issues that matter to them has been shrinking since he began vigorously attacking Clinton's ethics and character a week ago, said the CBS-New York Times poll.

And only 24 percent of those surveyed said Dole spends more time explaining what he would do if elected, down from 40 percent just a week earlier; 63 percent now say he spends more time attacking Clinton, up from 50 percent.

The poll found that as Dole accuses Clinton of being untrustworthy, somewhat fewer voters trust either candidate to keep his word. Forty-five percent said that of Clinton in the survey, down a bit from 50 percent the previous week; 49 percent said that of Dole, down from 55 percent.

Forty-three percent said Dole is addressing issues that matter to them, down from 55 percent in the Oct. 10-13 poll. Six in 10 voters continue to say Clinton is addressing issues that matter.

Overall, Dole trailed Clinton by 24 percentage points in the new survey and by 15 to 21 points in three other national polls released Monday..

Only 10 percent of likely voters in a CNN-USA Today-Gallup tracking poll said they have changed their minds at any time in the past two months about which presidential candidate to support.

OUR VIEWS

Mack Underwood loved his community

Mack Underwood was an average man, we suppose, by most standards. He wasn't physically imposing and he wasn't a "leader" in the community.

But in so many ways, he was so much more.

He grew up on the community's east side — one of the "East Side Gang" that went on to do so much for their respective community.

Underwood, who died last Saturday at age 83, loved this community.

He wanted people to be active and he wanted to be able to make a difference.

He did make a difference.

Mack Underwood was the founder of the Cannibal Draw Reunion some 19 summers ago because he wanted those who grew up on the community's east side to be able to stay in touch with one another.

He also was the catalyst behind the rebirth of the Howard/Glasscock Old Settlers Reunion this summer.

We always looked forward to Mack's visiting the Herald offices because he always had something to share with us that he hoped might be newsworthy.

It's funny, but thinking about it, it seems as if every "item" he shared with us made its way into the newspaper.

Mack was proud of his Democratic leanings and the fact he had served as chair of the Howard County Democrats.

And he loved his community — all the way from Cannibal Draw to Jones Valley — and he wanted it to be the best it could be.

Our community was blessed because of Mack Underwood and his love for the people with which he shared his hometown.

Thanks, Mack, for all you did. For all the news items you passed along and for caring enough to make certain we have the Cannibal Draw Reunion and the Old Settlers to remind us of our roots.

We'll miss you, old friend.

OTHER VIEWS

Postmaster General Marvin Runyon came to Washington from the Tennessee Valley Authority with a reputation for protecting consumers by cutting payroll pork, and, indeed, early on he crowded 48,000 Postal Service employees out the door through early retirements. But evidence mounts that Runyon has stayed too long in Tax City. Now to spruce up his agency's balance sheet he would double the fee for renting a post-office box in America's small towns.

The nation's rural postmasters were not long in jeering Runyon's vision of a 100 percent increase in box-rental fees from, typically, $8 a year to $16. About 400 of them wrote the National Association of Postmasters of the United States to complain that this hike would provoke many patrons to close out their boxes and, furthermore, disrupt a central social institution of small-town America. Of some 5,000 postmasters who responded to a NAPUS survey, 98 percent hooted the Runyon idea.

Reason favors the postmasters. One study shows that a chronic shortage of rental boxes exists in only 10 other places, including Beverly Hills and several Mexican and Canadian border towns. Where demand is low, it is nonsensical to raise rates.

Runyon's proposal is economic folly in another way. Every miffed box renter who refused to pay the doubled fee would then put up a home mailbox that a rural letter carrier would have to serve. Since the Postal Service pays these carriers by the box and by the mile, it likely would end up with a net loss.

If Runyon really wants to improve his bottom line, he should look again at labor costs, which account for more than 80 percent of the agency's outlays. "There are more postal employees on the rolls now than when Runyon came to town," NAPUS President Hugh Bates, postmaster of Clanton, Ala., tells us. The Postal Service's 800,000-plus payroll makes it the nation's largest civilian employer.

If Carvin' Marvin wants to become Rotund Runyon, so be it. But he shouldn't send his postage-due notices to Small Town, USA.

Best wishes to my mother ... the bride

By BILL MAXWELL
St. Petersburg Times

My mother, Jeanette, and Wilbert Sippio, both in their late 70s, began new lives last Saturday.

They were married.

Their wedding, held in my mother's church, was an affair to remember. More than 75 people attended, relatives, friends and more than a handful of curious strangers who had heard about "the two old folks gettin' married," as a young woman in the parking lot said.

Parts of the ceremony had to be changed because my mother, whose left leg was amputated about two years ago, wears a prothesis, and because the groom, also an amputee, has an artificial leg.

My brother Charlie and I escorted our mother down the aisle to the altar. Charlie held one arm and the flowers; I, the other arm and walker.

Nervous and trapped in a new dress, the fiercely independent bride walked heavily, annoyed that she had to lean on her "boys" for balance. As the three of us inched forward, ignoring the rhythmical urging of Mendelssohn's overture to "A Midsummer Night's Dream," quiet anticipation fell over the guests, who were standing.

Staring at faces, I saw admiration and awe, and I was amused to see harmless envy in the eyes of some unmarried women my mother's age.

Halfway down the aisle, she regained a bit of composure, placing less of her weight on me. Alarmed, Charlie felt the shift and looked to me for a cue. After I smiled, he was reassured and we let the bride carry much of her own weight. At the altar, where the equally nervous groom waited, Charlie let go of our mother's arm and returned to his seat. After "giving the bride away," I handed her the walker and took my place on a nearby pew.

I heard only snatches of the vows because I was struck by how fragile and how small my mother seemed as she leaned on the walker. Mr. Sippio, as everyone calls him, stood next to her. As he tried to compose himself, I also became aware of how thin and boyish he seemed. And although both had been married before, they were like children embarking on the adventure of their lives.

After all of the years of hardship and pain both have experienced, what a gift they are to each other, I thought. What a perfect time for them to find real happiness.

My mother was unhappy during her brief time with my father, a hard worker and hard drinker who often became abusive. She routinely kicked him out of the house but always took him back after he begged long enough. He finally deserted us for good when I was 11 years old, leaving my mother penniless, with a stack of bills, a vermin-infested migrant shack, five strapping children and one on the way.

She supported us as a field hand in South Florida's vegetable fields part of the year and as a motel maid during the tourist season. We never had anything fancy, always staying one pot of Great Northerns and neck bones and a frying pan of hot hoecakes ahead of hunger.

She made us attend school and complete our homework each day even when we had after-school jobs or played a sport. Today, my siblings and I have our mother to thank for our work ethic and stubborn pride.

When her leg was amputated, we did not think that she would survive. If the pain does not kill her, I thought, the loss of independence most certainly will. But she survived, quickly recuperating — cooking, sweeping and mopping, catching the bus by herself, going to barbecues, traveling to family events as far away as New York and Michigan.

And, of course, meeting a companion at a convalescent facility who would become her husband.

When the minister told Mr. Sippio that he could kiss the bride, he had difficulty lifting the veil. Undaunted, he kissed her through the fabric, held his arms aloft and gave the guests twin peace signs. The place broke into laughter and handclapping. After that moment, the mood remained festive and intimate. During the reception, the ambiance mellowed as the familiar aromas of hot soul food filled the air, and guests piled their plates to overflowing.

My emotions were bittersweet. For the first time as an adult, I was not the most important man in my mother's life. No longer was she simply Jeanette Maxwell. She had become Mrs. Sippio — another man's wife. I was sad.

But my sadness became joy as I realized that no longer would my mother be alone in that tiny apartment, at the mercy of strangers. Now, she would have a loving companion and a new home, a spacious and comfortable place in a neighborhood free of violent drug dealers, hookers and young hoodlums.

No longer would I wake up in a state of panic in the middle of the night, wondering if she is safe. Mr. Sippio, a retired, self-employed cement finisher, will take good care of her.

On Sunday morning before driving back home to St. Petersburg, Fla., I visited the newlyweds, who were sipping coffee and grinning from ear-to-ear. My mother was a new woman. She glowed, looking younger than ever. Mr. Sippio, a naturally affectionate man, wore his usual calm and wise expression.

Turning to say goodbye, I glanced at the space between the couch and the recliner, where their prostheses stood side-by-side. My mother and Mr. Sippio looked, first, at their artificial legs and, then, at me. Suddenly, we were overcome with laughter.

I left Fort Lauderdale, Fla., knowing that Wilbert and Jeanette Sippio will be happy for the rest of their lives.

Too much emphasis on getting rather than being

By BONNIE ERBE
Scripps Howard News Service

Sometimes good messages come in strange packages.

I am referring to the Oct. 7 edition of Christianity Today, a magazine for contemporary Christians. The cover story is, "Why the Devil Takes Visa." It is a protracted essay on commercialism and consumerism in modern society and their ill effects. It traces the history of Christianity's attitude toward commercialism all the way back to Christ's very own.

Such thoughtfulness provokes a loud round of applause from this reader, who frequently ponders why we have become such a materialistic, and, therefore, shallow society, and wonders whether there is any other or better way.

There are few things I find of great comfort in modern theology, principally because current church doctrine (among all the major religions, not just Christianity) has strayed so far from the prophets' original intent.

Wise philosophical ponderings and exhortations eventually became rules. Church leaders extruded from those wise teachings rules that would benefit them, before benefiting their followers.

Cases in point: Would Mohammed have condoned Louis Farrakhan's preaching of hate, and his calling the white man, "Devil?" Obviously not. Would Yahweh have approved of battles between Jews and Muslims? In a word, "No."

Similarly, He would not have approved of people, supposedly following His teachings, buying fancy cars, clothes and jewelry, and all the while failing to give to the poor. Christ himself had no possessions. He urged the wealthy and powerful of his day to care for the poor and powerless.

As author Rodney Clapp notes in Christianity Today, Christian philosopher Augustine said, "Business is in itself an evil."

In the early church, the charging of usury was considered a sin. Even as late as 1635, a Puritan merchant in Boston was brought before the General Court of the Commonwealth for selling his products at 6 percent profit instead of the 2 percent allowed by law.

Clapp's point is that consumerism and capitalism are not native to the human personality. They are acquired tastes. We acquired them too well, he points out.

Throngs of articles have appeared in the media of late, all noting a peculiar trend: money is no longer the thing Americans want most. Instead, it is time. In the '60s and '70s we wanted more money. Now we forsake overtime or a second job so we can spend more time with our friends, our family or just plain chillin'.

Despite the media hype, this is not new, Clapp informs us. Max Weber, the German sociologist, noted that during the industrial revolution people would turn down extra work, when offered, after they made enough money to maintain even modest lifestyles. They didn't want more money, they wanted more time.

What that means is even we have our limits. But advertisers have apparently not recognized that yet. For Clapp also notes the average American is exposed to 3,500 ads per day (which is why I don't watch commercial television or listen to commercial radio) and that we have become completely desensitized to diurnal barrages of posters, TV ads and radio ad.

Commercialism is clearly beneficial in some respects. It makes for a hell of an economy and produces a lot of jobs. But Clapp's point, and mine, is that it has swept a lot of us to the point where we are more concerned about the type of car we drive than the kind of person we are.

Wins by Sweetwater, Lake View keep pair on top of 4-4A grid standings

By CLIFF NEWELL
Sports Editor

DISTRICT 4-4A ROUNDUP

Wins by No. 5-ranked Sweetwater and San Angelo Lake View left the two teams tied atop the District 4-4A standings with 2-0 records and moved the two teams a week closer to their first-place showdown.

Games this week feature Pecos (3-4, 0-2) at Sweetwater (7-0, 2-0), Lake View (6-1, 2-0) at Andrews (3-4, 1-1) and Fort Stockton (3-4, 0-2) at Big Spring (2-5, 1-1).

Big Spring's Steers gained respect but lost the game when they fell to two-time defending district champion Lake View 28-20 in Lake View Stadium.

The Steers had a great first half in which they shut down the balanced and dangerous Chief offense and took a 7-0 lead, thanks to a tremendous performance by tailback Antwoyne Edwards and the offensive line.

The second half was a different story as the Chiefs' standout quarterback Sterlin Gilbert turned on the steam. He scored two touchdowns and passed for another as Lake View scored 28 unanswered points. Contributing to Big Spring's troubles were a blocked punt and the loss of three key defensive players to injury, middle linebacker Brock Gee and ends Jeff Denton and Jess Bravo.

Behind quarterback Gabe Mendoza the Steers rallied late in the game. Mendoza threw touchdown passes to John Smith and Tory Mitchell to narrow the gap to 28-20.

The Steers had the Chiefs in trouble again when Gilbert got them out of it with a 62-yard punt. The Lake View defense stifled the Steers' last-ditch rally attempt and held on to the victory.

Fifth-ranked Sweetwater had simply too much of everything for Fort Stockton, cruising to a 48-6 win on the road.

Jason Blueford was a Sweetwater standout, rushing for 212 yards on 27 attempts and scoring on runs of 21 and 2 yards.

Andrew Boatright, the other fine Mustang back, started the scoring splurge with a 67-yard run in the first quarter. He ended up with 138 yards on nine carries.

Sweetwater showed its power by racking up 509 yards in total offense, with 482 coming by the rush.

Andrews got a three touchdown, 248 yard rushing performance from sophomore Shaud Williams in Andrews' 30-7 victory.

The Andrews rushing attack blitzed Pecos for 407 yards as Williams had scoring runs of 7, 25 and 4 yards.

Raiders finally win AFC West game, 23-14

NFL

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The wait is over. After one year and 13 days, the Oakland Raiders finally won an AFC West game.

"It's been a long time since we won in our division," coach Mike White said after Monday night's 23-14 victory over the San Diego Chargers. "We have the toughest division in football. This was a real breakthrough for us, and now we have to keep on going from here."

The Raiders (4-4) certainly have more momentum than San Diego (4-3). Oakland won its third straight game, knocked out San Diego quarterback Stan Humphries early and never gave the Chargers' struggling running game a chance to get going.

It is Oakland's first three-game winning streak since November, just before it went on an 0-6 nosedive that left it 8-8 and out of the playoffs. Monday's lose reversed not only a loss at San Diego during that 0-6 streak last year, but a 40-34 defeat to the Chargers at Oakland on Sept. 22.

"It feels really good to see our team coming out of a hole now," cornerback Albert Lewis said. "Everyone's very, very positive in here. I think we've matured to the point where I think we have learned to fight our way through adversity — like when we got a bad call when (the officials) said San Diego scored that touchdown."

Lewis was referring to Tony Martin's second TD catch of the night, a questionable call that pulled the Chargers to a 20-14 deficit. Martin didn't appear to reach the end zone, and was pulled away from the goal line by cornerback Larry Brown. However, an official made a delayed call that it was a score.

But the Raiders got a big break to wrap up the game when San Diego's Darrien Gordon muffed a fair catch with 3:53 left, and Dan Turk recovered. That set up Cole Ford's third field goal of the night, from 34 yards with 2:11 left.

Shutting down the run — the Chargers had only 29 yards on 20 carries — and the play of tackle Chester McGlockton were huge for Oakland.

"I think our defense was exceptional," White said. "I think Chester McGlockton probably had the best game I've seen him play as a Raider."

McGlockton disagreed, saying, " I don't think it was even close to my best game."

But McGlockton helped turn the game when he stuck his helmet into Humphries' back as the quarterback slid at the end of a 5-yard run late in the first quarter. Rob Fredrickson also hit Humphries, who sustained a minor dislocation of his left (non-throwing) shoulder.

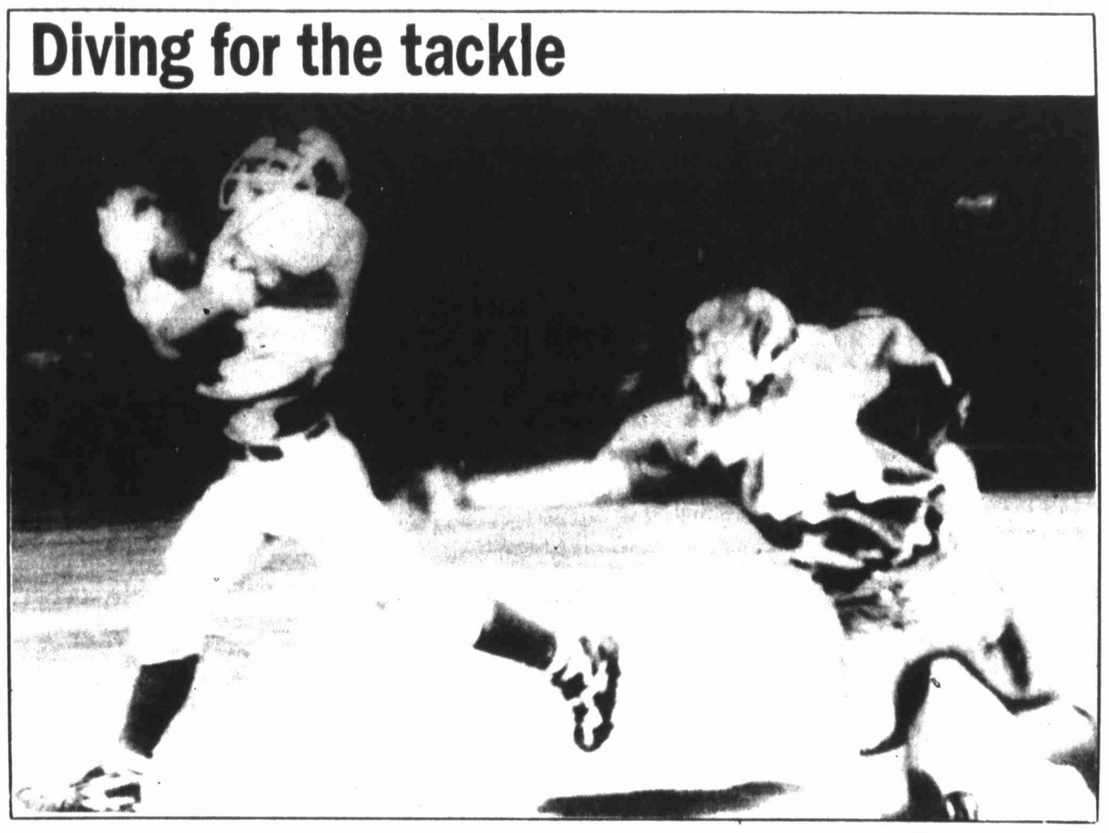

"When you slide, you're supposed to be down," Humphries said. "I've seen things less than that be called."

Said McGlockton: "I was in my motion and I couldn't stop."

Chargers coach Bobby Ross didn't think it was a late hit. As for his quarterback's shoulder, "I don't think it looks good," Ross said.

The injury is similar to the one Humphries sustained in the last game of 1992. He was able to play the following week in a 17-0 wild-card playoff win over Kansas City.

Coahoma defensive back Mike McMillan tries to grab an Ozona receiver in last Friday's 39-14 Bulldog victory. Coahoma faces perhaps its biggest game this season when the Bulldogs travel to meet district-leading Roscoe in a game that could determine the district title. Coahoma is currently tied for second in district with a 3-1 mark.

Jim Mora resigns as Saints coach

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — In the end, there were tears from Jim Mora, a man who hates public displays of emotion, and stunned disbelief from his players and coaches.

Mora, who led the New Orleans Saints to their first winning records and playoff appearances, resigned Monday, the day after the team's sixth loss of the season, a loss he termed embarrassing and humiliating.

"I know it was hard on him," fullback Lorenzo Neal said. "He's a great coach and a great man. He had a lot of hopes for this team."

The hopes were dashed by three straight non-wining seasons and a 2-6 start this year.

After a 19-7 loss to Carolina on Sunday that sparked a profanity- and anger-laced commentary, a shaken Mora read a handwritten statement on Monday.

The resignation came at the start of a bye week for the Saints, giving the team some time to regroup.

"After a great deal of thought, I have decided to resign as head coach of the New Orleans Saints," a red-eyed and shaken Mora said just minutes after he had told his players and assistant coaches of his decision.

"No one knew this was coming," wide receiver Lee DeRamus said. "Everyone was stunned and hurt. Now the question is, where do we go from here?"

Owner Tom Benson said Mora's decision caught him by surprise. He said he and general manager Bill Kuharich would immediately begin looking for a new coach.

"We expect that announcement to be made very quickly," Benson said.

Benson mouthed the word "tomorrow" as he left the Saints' camp late Monday.

Speculation was rife that Mora would be out of a job at the end of the season. But the resignation was unexpected. Not even his own son knew for sure what was in store at a hastily called news conference.

"I kind of had it in the back of my mind, but it was just a son's intuition," said Jim L. Mora, the Saints' secondary coach. "He didn't tell me he was going to do it. I feel a great sense of relief as a son."

As recently as two weeks ago, Mora said he would never resign. Sunday's loss, the second this season to NFC West rival Carolina, apparently changed that.

"It's a shock," defensive line coach Wayne Nunnelly said. "I don't know if even Jim knew he was going to do this. I don't think anybody saw it coming. I've been here a year and a half and what I know about Jim, he's not one to give up."

Mora, 61, had coached the Saints since 1986, until Monday the longest tenure with one team of any current coach in major professional sports.

Mora got out before a 2-6 season could become his fourth non-winning season in a row. His departure came a day after another of his trademark tirades — he blasted players and assistant coaches alike — following a loss to the Panthers.

Cincinnati fires David Shula

CINCINNATI (AP) — Some Cincinnati Bengals players think Bruce Coslet can succeed in one area where the mild-mannered Dave Shula failed time and time again.

Unable to win games or his players' respect, Shula was fired Monday and replaced by Coslet, the offensive coordinator with a no-nonsense reputation. The former New York Jets head coach promised change and sounded tough.

"I will say this: You will see a difference," Coslet said during his introductory news conference.

Coslet's manner is the biggest difference between him and Shula, who was considered a nice guy with a soft team. Shula lost 50 games faster than anyone in NFL history and was fired midway through his fifth season with a 19-52 record.

Part of the problem was that Shula couldn't motivate some of the younger players on the team. Coslet's style might work better.

Maddux masters NY, Braves take 2-0 lead

WORLD SERIES

NEW YORK (AP) — Even Ruth, Gehrig, DiMaggio and Mantle might have had a hard time coping with this.

Greg Maddux was so good, so totally in control, that the New York Yankees could barely get the ball out of the infield. He was so good that he actually allowed some pride to shine through his normally stolid exterior. He was so good that John Smoltz's Game 1 performance seemed forgettable by comparison.

And now, the Yankees have to hit against Tom Glavine. It seems the World Series won't get any easier for New York.

"You don't see pitching like this every day. Unfortunately, we have seen it every day," Yankees manager Joe Torre said after Atlanta beat New York 4-0 Monday night to take a 2-0 World Series lead.

In the 100th shutout in Series history, Maddux allowed six hits in eight innings and displayed the stunning control that has made him the best pitcher of the '90s.

He needed just 82 pitches against 28 batters, and threw just 20 balls. He went to two balls just four times, three balls just twice.

"I've had games where I might have pitched better," Maddux said, "but under the circumstances, this is a game that I'll probably take to the grave with me."

Maddux got 19 outs on grounders, all but two to the right side of the infield. The Yankees hit just one flyout against him.

"He doesn't set up a pattern. There's no set game plan," said Tino Martinez, who bounced out twice and took a called third strike. "If he got you out with a pitch early in the game, he'll get you out with something else later."

New York's best chance came in the sixth, when Derek Jeter and Tim Raines singled with no outs. But Wade Boggs hit a bouncer to second that the Braves turned into a double play, and Bernie Williams grounded to second, too.

"The Gibsons, Koufaxes and Drysdales mainly did it with power and intimidation," Torre said. "He does it with a lot of finesse and intelligence. He seems to do whatever he wants with the ball."

Maddux was so good that the joke was that more Yankees fans reached second base than Yankees batters. With the game out of hand, seven spectators ran on the field in the late innings.

"It's a little scary," Maddux said. "You kind of hope they keep it under control and nothing happens."

The Series shifts to more serene surroundings tonight, when Glavine pitches in Atlanta-Fulton County Stadium against David Cone. The Yankees are 5-0 on the road in the postseason this year, but only two teams have lost the first two Series games at home and bounced back to win: the '85 Royals and '86 Mets.

"We've been coming back from a lot of things people don't give us credit for doing," Game 2 loser Jimmy Key said.

While Maddux was masterful, Braves batters kept on thumping. Fred McGriff drove in three runs as Atlanta won its fifth straight postseason game since falling behind St. Louis 3-1. Since then, the Braves have outscored opponents 48-2.

"We're doing the little things," said Mark Wohlers, who struck out the side in the ninth. "We're playing good defense, getting good pitching and getting timely hitting. It's tough to beat a team that's doing all those things."

Mark Lemke's double and McGriff's single put Atlanta ahead in the first, Marquis Grissom's double and McGriff's single made it 2-0 in the third and McGriff added a sacrifice fly in the fifth. One inning later, Terry Pendleton doubled on a ball that popped out of the glove of shortstop Derek Jeter, and Grissom hit an RBI single.

Atlanta needs to win just two of the next five games to become the first NL team since the 1975-76 Reds to win the Series two years in a row. The Braves have a good chance to do it, but they say they're not looking that far ahead.

"We learned from the Cardinals series that we have to play hard and not take anything for granted," McGriff said.

NOTES: Of the 43 previous teams to take 2-0 leads, 33 have won the Series. ... The Yankees are hitting just .175 in the Series and are 0-for-9 with runners in scoring position. ... Jeter was hit on the left wrist by a pitch from Maddux in the third. ... While X-rays were negative, the bruise forced Jeter to wear an ice pack between innings. ... Atlanta's postseason ERA is 1.43 in 12 games.

New coaches with winning history lead teams back into AP poll

DALLAS (AP) — Brownwood brought W.T. Stapler back to West Texas this year in hopes of rekindling its glorious image.

Duncanville had an opening and brought in Bob Alpert, who had guided Aldine MacArthur to the Class 5A Division II title game in 1993.

Seven games into this season, both look like great hires as Brownwood and Duncanville returned to The Associated Press high school football poll Monday after long absences.

Those two were among six teams cracking the top 10s this week following a relatively upset-free weekend. The top four teams in each class remained the same.

Duncanville went 5-4-1 last year, then lost coach Scott Smith to his alma mater, Highland Park. In came Alpert, and back came the Panthers.

They're leading the district at 7-0 and now are ranked No. 10 in 5A. Duncanville hadn't been ranked since the 1988 season, when it was ninth after the second game, according to Walk Sports Services.

Brownwood, winner of a record-tying seven state titles but none since 1981, continued its recent slide by going 1-8-1 last season.

School officials lured Stapler back to West Texas, where he had shined at Sweetwater, after he spent a disappointing 1995 coaching in New Mexico.

His wizardry plus star running back Audie Mitchell have resuscitated the program made famous by Gordon Wood, returning the Lions (6-1) to the poll at No. 9 in 4A. It is Brown-wood's first ranking since finishing the 1989 regular season fifth.

Also making the poll are:

- Denison (6-1) at No. 9 in 4A. The Yellow Jackets had been ranked as high as sixth this year before losing 22-8 to 3A power Atlanta in week four. They fell out of the poll but three straight wins brought them back.
- Monahans, last ranked following the seventh week in 1987, came in at No. 10 in 3A. The Loboes (6-0) had been a 4-6 team in 4A last year.
- Tenaha, a poll perennial earlier in the '90s, makes it back for the first time since being third at the end of 1993. The Tigers (7-0) are ninth in 1A.
- Granger, the preseason No. 1 in 1A, returns after a one-week absence. The Lions (5-2) are No. 10.

HIGH SCHOOL FOOTBALL POLL

- Midland Lee moves up to No. 7, Permian drops out of Class 5A poll.
- Sweetwater remains No. 5 in Class 4A.
- Iraan stays No. 6 in Class 2A while Stanton just misses Top 10.

Kentucky makes decision to fire Bill Curry at end of football season

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Kentucky athletics director C.M. Newton went as far as he could with Bill Curry.

It has not progressed on a competitive basis in a way that we feel that it should have," Newton said Monday, when he announced that Curry and his coaching staff would be replaced at the end of this season.

Curry has a 23-51 record in seven years, including 1-6 overall and 0-4 in the Southeastern Conference this season.

"For seven years, I have watched him put his heart and soul into the project and try to build the model program that we want at Kentucky," said Newton, adding that it was a difficult decision, both professionally and personally.

"Before he came to Kentucky, I admired and respected Bill Curry from a distance," he said. "After working with him for these seven years, I truly admire and respect him and all the things he stands for."

Curry took full responsibility for Kentucky's onfield failures.

"I have been given more than a fair opportunity, and have not gotten the job done," he read from a prepared statement on the practice field. "I accept total responsibility for that. The entire administration and athletic department have gone about these matters with dignity and compassion. That comes as no surprise, and I am grateful."

Curry, who did not take any questions, wiped away a tear while reading the statement. He then left the facility with his son, Billy, who had an arm around his father's shoulders.

Newton said Curry was informed Sunday night that Kentucky would be making a coaching change at the end of the season. He said he wanted Kentucky football fans to "rally behind the football team and finish this season with dignity and class."

Newton said there was no timetable to find a successor, and that an advisory committee would be named to screen applicants.

"We need the right coach," said Newton, who indicated that a new coach could possibly be named before the end of the season. "Winning is what's exciting."

Curry told the players of his impending departure at a meeting following his regular weekly news conference.

"We were kind of surprised," quarterback Billy Jack Haskins said. "It's unfortunate, but we're going to try to do the best we can do."

Newton said he didn't expect the coaches to take on a "lame duck status" and that Curry remained in full control of the program.

Newton said football, along with basketball, must succeed in order to draw enough fans to support the other sports at the school.

"Football must succeed at the University of Kentucky," Newton said. "It just has to succeed."

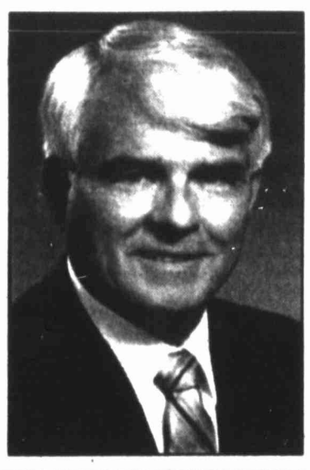

Kentucky, which has lost four straight games, assured itself of another losing season when it fell 41-14 to LSU on Saturday.

There was speculation last season that Curry would be fired after a 4-7 record, but Newton said at the time that the team had made marked progress from the previous season's 1-10 finish. Curry also recruited Tim Couch, considered to be one of the best high school quarterbacks in the nation.

Curry's best season was 1993 when the Wildcats finished 6-6 after losing to Clemson in the Peach Bowl. He has two years remaining on his contract that is reportedly worth $300,000 a year.

"I have given my all to this project," Curry said. "I am human and I have made mistakes, but they have never been intentional."

Curry has a career record of 80-104-4.

HOW TO PLAY

Select a winner from each of the week's games, listed below. Select in descending order of your CONFIDENCE in your choices. Win points at left for each correct selection toward possible total of 136 points. See complete rules below. You must be at least 8 (eight) years old to enter. To enter, clip along dotted line, then place game entry in POWER POINTS container at co-sponsor's retail outlet(s). Entrants must list name, address and phone number below.

LIMIT: You may enter only one coupon statewide per week.

DEADLINE : 2 P.M. FRIDAY

TIEBREAKER 1 ☐ Total points scored (both teams) in COWBOYS game.

TIEBREAKER 2 ☐ Total offensive yards (both teams) in this game.

Deposit Your Entries at these Merchants:

THIS WEEK'S GAMES

Carolina at Philadelphia	Dallas at Miami
Indianapolis at Washington	Jacksonville at Cincinnati
Kansas City at Denver	N.Y. Giants at Detroit
N.Y. Jets at Arizona	Pittsburgh at Atlanta
St. Louis at Baltimore	San Diego at Seattle
San Francisco at Houston	Chicago at Minnesota
Tampa Bay at Green Bay	Texas at Colorado
Buffalo at New England	Texas Tech at Texas A&M

POWER POINTS OFFICIAL RULES

1. Object of the game is to amass as many of the 136 possible points as you can. Simply review the week's schedule of games, listed on entry form, and decide which game you are surest of picking a winner in. Write the name of your projected winner on the 16-point line. If that team wins its game that week, you win 16 points. Write the name of your second-surest winner on the 15-point line, and so on down to the 1-point line, which game you figure to be a toss-up. Next, fill in Tiebreaker 1, the total points scored by both teams in the week's Cowboys or Oilers game. If this step fails to produce a winner, the judges will apply Tiebreaker 2, total offensive yardage from scrimmage in this game. If a winner still doesn't emerge, a drawing will be held among those contestants still tied. Decisions of the judges are final. The weekly winner of the contest will receive $1,000.
2. Any entry form that does not contain a legible name, address, etc., will be disqualified.
3. Entries that fail to forecast a winner from each and every game will be disqualified, as will entries that fail to distinguish between the Jets and Giants of New York and Pitt and Pittsburgh.
4. No points are awarded on tie games or in case any game is not played for any reason during its scheduled week.
5. Entering POWER POINTS constitutes permission by contestant for his or her name and photograph to be used for news and reasonable promotional purposes at no charge.
6. Employees of this newspaper and their immediate families are ineligible to participate.
7. Any inquiry about or protest of weekly results must be made by Noon on the Friday following the announcement of winners.
8. No purchase necessary. Facsimile game entry forms will be accepted. Enter contest by dropping entry form into POWER POINTS container at participating co-sponsors.
9. Weekly deadline for entry will be 2 p.m. Fridays except when noted otherwise on weekly entry form.
10. Neither this newspaper nor any co-sponsor will be responsible for illegible entry forms or those lost, stolen or damaged in any way.
11. Limit: one entry per person per week. Each entry must represent the original work of one entrant; "group" entries, "systems" or other attempts to enter multiple entries will be disqualified. Filling out extra forms and putting your friends' and relatives' names on them violates this rule. Any such entries are destroyed prior to grading.
12. Contestants must have reached the age of eight (8) years by the Sunday of any week's play.

Dear Property Owner(s):
Current Tax Records of the City of Big Spring indicate that you are the owner of the property at the above street address. This structure is in violation of Section 103.4 of the Southern Standard Building and the following detailed report documents the condition which have rendered the structure unsafe to wit:
Dilapidated, sub-standard structure, plumbing and electrical do not meet City Code of Ordinances. Windows missing or broken out. Buildings have been vandalized and pose a potential health hazard to the public. Structures cannot be secured to keep out transients or children.
Therefore, by the authority invested in my office by the Big Spring Code, I have declared this structure or portions thereof unsafe, dilapidated substandard or unfit for human habitation, and have determined it or portions thereof poses a hazard to public health, safety and public welfare.
The Southern Building Code, Section 103.4 provides that "all buildings which are unsafe, unsanitary, or not provided with adequate ingress or adequate egress or which constitute a fire hazard or are otherwise dangerous to human life, or which in relation to existing use constitutes a hazard to the safety or health by reason of inadequate maintenance, dilapidation, obsolescence, or abandonment, are severally in contemplation of this section. Unsafe Building. All unsafe buildings are hereby declared illegal and shall be abated by repair and rehabilitation or by demolition in accordance with the provision of the Southern Standard Code for the Elimination or Repair of Unsafe buildings."
You are hereby notified that the Board of Adjustments and Appeals, of the City of Big Spring, will meet on November 6, 1996 at 5:15 p.m. in the Council Chambers, City Hall, located at 310 Nolan, to hold a public hearing to determine whether the subject structure(s) complies with the standards set out in the code. Further be advised that the Board may in its finding provide for any of the following:
1. Vacation of the premises
2. Relocation of occupants
3. Securing of the premises
4. Repair of the premises
5. Removal of demolition of the premises
6. Any combination of the above.
Should you desire to make a presentation to the Board, the following information shall be submitted in writing to the Chairman of the Board in original and 6 copies:
1. Identification of the building or structure concerned by the street address and legal description.
2. A statement identifying the legal interest of each appellant.

HOROSCOPE

HAPPY BIRTHDAY FOR WEDNESDAY, OCT. 23:

Steer a steady course in the year ahead. You might wonder what behavior is appropriate in dealing with different situations day to day. Sometimes you might be creating your own stress. There is a tendency to overdramatize. Work on relaxation techniques. Examine long-term goals. A change on the home front is indicated. If you are single, you will meet people easily through January. If attached, you might need to alter the way you deal with your relationship. Work together on a creative project that adds to the union's tenderness and spirituality. PISCES enjoys you.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be unwavering in your interactions. Unexpected news forces you to gather all your strength. Insight is needed to deal with confusion and the unexpected. You see with more clarity than previously. Listen, sense and be aware. Tonight: You have strong choices to make. ***

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Remain directed dealing with a child or loved one who is important to you. Startling transitions involve associates. Long-range plans need to be taken with a grain of salt. A positive attitude and willingness to adapt will bring excellent solutions. Tonight: Say yes to an invitation. ****

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Listen and consider what is appropriate with a co-worker. You might need to draw more lines of separation, as office gossip attests. Stay in charge. One-to-one relating doesn't solve much at the moment. Put in the extra hours needed. Tonight: Be willing to work to the wee hours. ***

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Reach out for another at a distance. You are seeking out perspective and news. Another's message to you might be unclear. Reserve judgment for now. Chaos may occur financially. Use caution, especially with a business partnership. Tonight: Brainstorm with a buddy. ****

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Nerves could be frayed. A partner's inconsistent behavior could be adding to this anxiety. Pay attention to what is said, and get down to the bottom line. Work-related matters are baffling. Keep the lines of communication open, even if they are frustrating. Tonight: Hang out with someone who makes you laugh. **

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Emphasize the creative process in you, especially when you can't get an answer about a money issue. Be careful with funds. Make choices that are in your best interest. A loved one may be pushing you to take a risk. Use your instincts. Tonight: Accept a dinner invitation. ****

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Gather information. Be more in touch with your imagination and wild, inspired thoughts. Come to a point of understanding with a family member, who is stressing you out. Recognize that enough is enough. Concentrate on work and release stress. Tonight: Work late. ***

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) Your ingenuity may be needed to jump the day's hurdles. You can do it. Don't let insecurity and nervousness get to you. Stay on top of what is possible and make it happen. You might not have the complete story. Still, focus on long-term desires. Tonight: It could get wilder. ***

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) Anchor in. You have the ability to make a difference. Money matters may not be pleasing. Be smart, and don't take a friend's advice. Stay on a steady and secure course. It is important to work with the unexpected and not let it throw you off. Tonight: Hang out. ***

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You might actually believe that your boss is speaking Chinese, he is so incoherent. Definitely, there is confusion in your communications. But you need to understand that the problem is mutual. You pull the wild card financially. Use caution. Tonight: Visit with friends. ***

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) You are instinctive with your choices about money and spending. Another has different ideas about what is workable with business funds. Don't worry about it. Honor an impulse that could take you in a new direction. A change in plans is for the better. Tonight: Buy some flowers on the way home. ***

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) You have the energy, good will and diplomacy to make what you want happen. Examine your long-term interests. It is helpful for you and allows another to gain a perspective. Trust your intuition with a partner who is acting up. Tonight: Know you have much to give. ****

Woman who has fallen off wagon needs help back on

Abigail Van Buren
Columnist

DEAR ABBY: I have a very dear friend who is an alcoholic. "Elsa" went through the 12-step program a few years ago and has been dry since her recovery began. We rarely see each other, but we talk on the phone regularly.

In the last few months, when we chat I have the uncomfortable feeling that Elsa is drinking again. I have not said anything to her (or anyone else) because there is no way I can be sure.

Several weeks ago, a mutual friend asked me if I thought Elsa might be drinking. When I asked why, she told me she, too, had noticed Elsa slurring her words, repeating herself, and becoming very argumentative.

I know I should approach my friend with my suspicions, but I cannot seem to find the words. We have been friends since we were very young, and I'm afraid I will lose her friendship if I confront her.

Should I confront her? If so, please help me find a tactful way to do it. — A FRIEND WHO CARES

DEAR FRIEND: Be completely honest with your friend. Tell her you love her, you are concerned she has resumed her drinking, and urge her to get back on the program. She needs to hear this from someone she knows is a caring friend.

DEAR ABBY: "Angela in Savannah," a pharmacy intern who expressed frustration at the ignorance of her patients, asked, "Have you ever known anyone to EAT a suppository?"

Well, I have. During my nine years of nursing, I have known doctors to prescribe vaginal suppositories to be dissolved in the mouth for oral yeast infections. Guess what? It worked beautifully.

What Angela perceived as ignorance was a lack of communication between patients and the medical community. Consider this: When did the use of suppositories come up in your normal day-to-day conversation? How is one correctly used? Proper use of medication is not intuitive. If we, as medical professionals, convey the message that people would "know" such things, we discourage them from asking. By doing this, we contribute to their ignorance.

Perhaps we've forgotten our roots. The word "doctor" comes from the Latin word "docere," which means "to teach."

The most important lesson I have taught my patients: "There is no such thing as a dumb question." — A LONG-TIME NURSE, MORENCI, ARIZ.
