BROWNFIELD, TERRY COUNTY, TEXAS, FRIDAY, MAY 14, 1943

NUMBER 41

FAYE HOGUE IS BRIDE OF STAFF SGT. FOX

Miss Faye Hogue, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Hogue of Brownfield, became the bride of Staff Sgt. Ted Fox, son of Mr. L. C. Fox, of Lansing, Michigan, in service read at Bryan, Texas, Saturday evening, May eighth, at six o'clock. Rev. J. H. Landes, pastor of the First Baptist church, performed the single ring ceremony.

The bride wore a two piece aqua dress trimmed in white lace with black and white accessories, and a corsage of white rose buds. For something old and borrowed, she wore a lavalier that was a gift to her mother from her father. Among the wedding guests was Mrs. T. C. Hogue, mother of the bride.

Mrs. Fox is a graduate of Brownfield high school, and after attending Draughtons Business College, at Lubbock, has been employed by E. G. Akers, for the past three years. Sgt. Fox was employed by the Chevrolet Co. of Lansing, Michigan before entering the service. He is now stationed at the Bryan Army Flying School, Bryan, Texas, where the couple will make their home for the present.

McLeroy Graduates From Tech. School

On April 17th, Staff Sgt. Geo. B. McLeroy, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. McLeroy of Gomez, graduated from the Air Force Technical School at Grand Rapids, Mich. He was among the first class to be graduated from this school, and majored in meteorology, and is now qualified as a U. S. Weather Forecaster.

He has been assigned to the Army Air Base at Hobbs, N. M., and stopped over a few hours last week on his way to Hobbs, to visit home folks briefly. He has been located for a week at Sioux City, Iowa, before being assigned to Hobbs.

MRS. T. J. PRICE HAS FAMILY DINNER FOR SON

Mrs. T. J. Price gave a family dinner Sunday noon for her son, Sam, who is leaving for St. Augustine, Florida. He has joined the Coast Guard. Those at the dinner were: Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Price, Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Price, Mr. and Mrs. Money Price and family of Plains, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Price and family, Mr. and Mrs. N. L. Mason and children of Odessa, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Simpson and family of Lubbock, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Whitney and family.

Cpl. Terrell Fowler is now getting his Herald at New River, N. C., Marine Base.

Pvt. T. J. Luckie Jr., who is stationed at the Army Air Forces Flying School at Pampa, spent the week end with his parents.

Pvt. and Mrs. Frank Johnson of Lubbock, are visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Primm. Mrs. Johnson is a sister of Mr. Primm.

Seaman 1/c R. D. Jones, Jr., was home from naval training at San Diego on a ten day furlough the past week. He was visiting his parents in the Johnson community. Junior was looking fine.

Capt. and Mrs. William Porter, and his mother, Mrs. Walter Porter of Terrell, came in Wednesday to visit their sister and daughter, Mrs. Homer Nelson and Mr. Nelson. Capt. Porter is on his way to Roberts Field, Calif.

A son weighing 8 pounds was born to Mr. and Mrs. Rufus J. Purcell of Brownfield at 9:47 o'clock Wednesday Morning in St. Mary's hospital, Lubbock.

A Reader Writes

Terry county Herald:

In speaking and writing about the many suggestions for improvements in our economic order, including social security, many people fail to exhibit a clear understanding of the distinction between an economic system and a political system. Few people seem to realize that under our system of government it is possible to choose almost any method for the production and distribution of goods and services without altering our form of government. The only requirement of our system of government is that methods must be desired by the majority of the people and permissible by the Constitution. Laws, although desired by the majority of the people and not permitted by the Constitution, must be made Constitutional first by amendments unless we depart from our true system of government. The minority who would have certain things done under our system of government must first convince a majority of people that those things are desirable. Thus an individual's power to govern may go as far as his power to convince and no further.

I feel that what our forefathers really fought for was given to us after the revolution by the framers of the Constitution. What they really fought for was not any given economic pattern, not even free enterprise, necessarily. It seems to me that the matter of how to produce and distribute goods and services was left for us to decide from time to time by exercising power of choice through chosen representatives. Our political system is a far greater heritage than any given economic pattern could ever have been. Given our political system, we can work out all other matters to the better satisfaction of all. Our Constitution, itself, is flexible, however, and may be changed provided a majority of the states desire a change. This prevents our having to follow any fixed political or economic practice until it becomes so undesirable, until it works so many injustices and until wrongs can be righted only by bloody revolution. It has been said that we have a bloodless revolution every election day.

It seems that advocates of many unpopular plans are being falsely labeled as subversive as long as their suggestions involve nothing contrary to our fundamental political system. A truly subversive element should be one advocating something contrary to government by the consent of the governed, contrary to a form of government as provided in the Constitution, contrary to adoption of laws only by a majority of the people or their chosen representatives as permitted by the Constitution. Sometimes our professed ideals of freedom of speech, tolerance, democratic spirit are hard to live up to.

Respectfully,
Hardy E. Williams.

BROWNFIELD BOY GETS MCMURRY JACKET

Twenty-seven football lettermen were presented sports awards last week at McMurry College, Abilene, Texas, by Dean W. B. McDaniel. Seniors were given blankets and the other lettermen were presented with jackets.

Ned Kempson, sophomore, received a jacket. He has taken part in football, basketball, track tennis, and baseball.

Ned is the son of Mr. G. I. Kempson of Brownfield Texas.

Mexican Arrested With 10 Cases Of Beer

Deputy Sheriff Mon Telford stated Wednesday that they had apprehended Martha Gomez (he's a man) here Tuesday, as he came in from Wasson, Gaines county, with ten cases of beer.

Telford stated that this was the second or third time Martha has been caught with beer, peddling or transporting it.

Mahon Brands John Lewis A Traitor

WASHINGTON — Congressman George Mahon, in condemning John L. Lewis and the coal strike recently, said that Lewis was guilty of treasonable conduct and should have been shown months ago that he is not greater than the U. S. Government. The people are aroused, and they have every right to be, he said.

In a speech in Congress Mahon said that Lewis had in effect repudiated our government and joined our enemies and that this latest act against the government by Lewis had fully vindicated all those who have been fighting for legislation to prevent strikes in war time and for a firmer policy by the President against our enemies within the U. S.

Mahon and many other members from the South have been demanding for months that strikes should be outlawed for the duration. The President had secured a pledge from Lewis and other national labor leaders that there would be no strikes and had not favored legislation. A firmer policy against strikes is now thought probably.

District 2-T Lions Convene In Lubbock

LUBBOCK.—Over 200 official delegates from the 66 Lions Clubs in District 2-T of Texas are to be in this city May 16 and 17 for the 1943 annual meeting of the district, which will be in the form of a "War Conference." The central theme is to be, "What Can Service Clubs Do In The War Effort?"

All local arrangements for entertaining the visitors and presenting the various features of the business programs of the two-day event have been completed under the direction of Harry Morris and Dr. Marshall Harvey, president and secretary, respectively, of the Lubbock Lions Club.

D. A. Skeen, Salt Lake City, Utah, second vice-president of Lions International, will be one of the speakers on the Monday morning (May 17) session. Others who will participate include Roy Keeton, Austin, state secretary of the Texas Lions Clubs, H. C. Pender, Lubbock, past district governor, and Murry H. Fly, Odessa, retiring district governor of District 2-T.

Axis Partners And Stooze, Lewis Burned

Last Saturday night a large and merry crowd at Seagraves, following the Allied victory in north Africa, burned in effigy, four figures, Hitler, Tojo, Mussolini and their American stooge, John L. Lewis.

You probably read the account in your Sunday paper of the burning, but like us failed to see the dummies. Photographer Fred Lowe has a large picture of the four criminals in front of his studio on north Fifth, just north of the National bank. See it.

First Lady Selects Cotton

Leaf Worms Make Appearance Early

Cotton leaf worms made their appearance in Texas Cottonlands earlier this year than usual. According to the information received by A. L. Hartzog, County Agent the pest made its appearance on April 7th near San Benito about three weeks earlier than its usual appearance in early May or late April.

The cotton leaf worm is a traveler. It doesn't overwinter in the United States, but the motes fly up from the tropics each spring and spread northward as the season advances. Some years the leafworm defoliates cotton over a large part of the cotton belt and is found in all cotton growing areas excepting California.

The County Agent recommends that every cotton producer make an attempt to relieve the transportation shortage which will develop later, by securing a "going over" of calcium arsenate from local dealers at the earliest possible date their supplies will permit. Leafworm infestations in Terry county are a practical certainty in some degree and if enough poison for one application is in the hands of the producers at poisoning time the warehouses can obtain other shipments in time to bring the pest under control. Don't feel like you are hoarding by buying a small supply early. Buying at the earliest possible date is recommended simply because it will be impossible to command a flood of materials when the demand becomes acute.

Knight To Conduct Farm Machinery School

For one day only, Saturday, May 22, and beginning at 8 P. M., the Knight Farm Machinery department on West Broadway, will conduct a repair school for the repair and upkeep of Allis-Chalmers farm machinery. This company will be more than pleased to have you as their guest at that time.

Right now, when farmers are called upon to produce the largest food crop in our history, it is imperative that the farm machinery be in prime condition and kept that way.

By attending these schools, in many instances it will be possible for the implement owner to make their own repairs quickly right on the farm, and keep the machinery rolling.

And The Rains Came To Terry

The sky scanners for the past several weeks were rewarded the past week end, when the sky juice descended. Some had begun to think that the skies were brass, and not a drop of water in a thousand miles, but they were mistaken. We have heard many state that they never saw a rain come more timely in their lives. If we had received abundant rains in April, perhaps it would have turned cold, and intermixed with a few howling sandstorms to level the rows.

But from the 10th to the 20th of May has always been considered the ideal time to plant cotton in Terry county, with feed crops and corn a bit later. With the three-fourths to two inches that fell in Terry County the past week-Saturday night, Sunday and Sunday night, hundreds of tractors and some teams, dragging two and four row cotton planters will start this week to plant the some 100,000 acres to cotton. It is now warm enough to come right up; the sandstorm season has about passed, and in a week or ten days, we can expect to see cotton shining up and down the rows. Cotton planting time is a great event on the South Plains, which in the past few years has become the leading cotton section of Texas, if not the South.

Here on the high, level fertile plains, there is never a thought of expensive fertilizers, yet the yield runs almost as high as where fertilizers are used extensively. There are no hills and stumps to mess up the often mile long cotton rows, and the tractor, followed by the planters, can be run night and day if necessary. It is surprising how soon a farmer will plant 100 to 600 acres or more of cotton; come to town and tell you about it. But this year Mr. Farmer will have to follow the cotton planting right off with the corn, maize and higeria, and a patch of cane or sudan for early grazing.

Brownfield received almost an inch of rain. There was much more west and northwest, and less perhaps east of town. But all believe they have enough moisture to plant on.

Cotton Still Our Main Product

Next week, from the 17th to 24th, will be National Cotton Week, and Terry county, along with most of the South and Southwest, will be celebrating. While Terry is and always has been a big producer of feed, with corn leading most years, it nevertheless began the production of cotton in a small way when the West Texas Gin Co., put in the first gin plant here in 1918. Less than a thousand bales were ginned the first year, but there was a steady increase for the next several years.

The bumper crop was produced in 1937, when some 57,000 bales were produced in the county. Yet, last year, with a reduced acreage, and two long hail streaks in the county, more than 43,000 bales were ginned, valued, with the seed, at nearly five and a half million dollars. So, you can see why Terry's 1600 farmers are cotton-minded—why its business and professional men are cotton-conscious—why the cotton plant and its products enters directly or indirectly into almost every business consideration in the county.

That is the reason we, along with the rest of the southern half of the nation, are celebrating Cotton Week. We are lodged right here in the western fringe of cotton production in Texas, and then right on the east fringe of a great cattle production section of Western Texas and eastern New Mexico, and the twain go together. Grass will grow a fine specimen of white faced and other cattle, but it will hardly put them in prime shape for the market. In order to get the best from Kansas City steaks from these blooded cattle, they must be fed for some 120 to 180 days on a diet of shredded bundle stuff, crushed corn, supplemented by cottonseed meal and hulls.

So, there is where farming meets the cattle interest. And this may be said just as well about sheep and hogs, except the hogs will require just a bit more of the corn and less protein supplement. Feeders have found it a fine idea to let a bunch of hogs follow the steers that are being fed. They clean up all the waste feed and by the time the steers are fat, so are the hogs. With this combination, stock farming is made easy with the feed processed right here where the animals are found.

Not the Only Uses for Cotton

A person would almost have to be a chemist to understand and be in a position to explain all the uses to which cotton is applied. Let us just take up a few that all of us are familiar with. As a product for the manufacture of clothing, there is no substitute. Technicians have gone a long way in improving clothing made of cotton. Today, it is indispensable in the manufacture of most of our summer wear, as well as summer uniforms for our men under arms, and those of our allied armies. We could hardly keep house without the aid of cotton cloth, and surgical cotton and dressing bandages are made exclusively of this southern product.

Food for Human Consumption

We could go on and on. We could mention the urgent need of lint in the manufacture of high explosives our army and navy must have. Linters are the very short staple cotton that oil mills strip from the seed before they are processed. Then, when the processing starts, we find that the oils obtained from the seed are one of the prime cooking fats of our nation, supplying millions of families with essential fats for household uses. Then there is a fine substitute for butter made from this fat, known generally as oleomargarine.

That is why the nation is urging its farmers to plant every acre they have allotted to cotton. We need it for clothing, and worst of all, we need its products to fatten livestock for our service men and for home folks. We also need the oils to make shortening and butter for civilians and the military. We need the by-products for

War Manpower Commission Job Changing Regulations

Workers in the Panhandle of Texas were advised today by F. A. Wells, Acting Field Supervisor of the War Manpower Commission, to consult their present employers or the nearest United States Employment Service Office, for information regarding new WMC job changing regulations, before leaving a job or taking a new job to avoid violation of the regulations.

"Virtually every WMC region in the nation has adopted, or will adopt within the next few days, Regional Labor Stabilization plans similar to the one adopted Wednesday in our Region X, including Texas, Louisiana and New Mexico," said Wells.

"Because there is considerable variation between the stabilization plans of the different regions, in order to meet different local conditions in the respective regions, every worker should consult his employer first before he quits a job or accepts new employment. If the employer is not yet informed on the regulations, either workers or employers may obtain full information from any United States Employment Service office. This is especially important for any worker who plans to move from one community to another, because he may find, on arriving in another town, or another state, that he has failed to comply with the regulations, and he cannot be hired by any employer in the new location. Employers hiring new workers should also inform themselves about the regulations, or they may find they have violated national regulations which carry penalties for both worker and employer, if willfully violated. The burden of ascertaining what the regulations provide in each case rests jointly upon the worker and the employer. Great inconvenience and loss of valuable time may be saved if both workers and employers learn the regulation before attempting to change jobs or hire new workers. The United States Employment Service offices can furnish this information."

A BUNCH OF HOUSE-BREAKING BOYS

Reports come to us that there is a bunch of juveniles a loose in the town that are practicing breaking into homes. Sooner or later they will be apprehended and suitably punished, but the burden of the punishment will fall on their parents.

We understand that they have recently broken into the Frank Ballard home, as Frank now is living in Amarillo, but has the house rented, furnished most of the time.

The home furnishings and plumbing and electrical fixtures were badly wrecked and mused up. These boys may not realize it, but they are headed for a one way trip to Huntsville, just as fast as possible.

Parents should know where their children are, and what they are doing.

Most of us here in Brownfield or in the vicinity can now say that they have shook the hand that shook the and of President Roosevelt. All who have ever shaken the hand of Austin Green, have shook the hand, etc. We can all say, our Austin has been about, some.

Newspaper employees are frozen on their jobs. This industry being considered one of the essential industries, employees seeking another job, especially one not considered essential, had better consult with their draft boards and get their permission for the transfer to some other essential employment. Otherwise, employer and employee both might get their tails in the screen door.

Most people who have a mother living, were honoring them last Sunday, with a visit if possible, by gifts, if that was out of the question. Many gifts came from across the oceans, where millions of American soldiers, sailors and marines are now located. Some gifts will perhaps be arriving for a few weeks yet, that are delayed in their long transit. But whether or not it is possible to visit or send gifts, few if any of the boys forgot that it was Mother's Day.

Some have been inclined to criticize Gov. Coke R. Stevenson for not being in the company of President Roosevelt and the President of Mexico, on their recent tour of Texas. Gov. Stevenson was like the little lad who failed to be invited to a party, "he didn't have a seat." In most, if not all, the other states, the governors and other state officials were invited to travel with the presidential party. But Texas officials were ignored. It is a well known fact that Gov. Coke Stevenson, who wears no man's collar, has sharply disagreed with some of the New Deal policies, one of them being gas rationing. Therefore, there is little love for this outspoken West Texas governor by the mighty in Washington, and we might add, there is no love lost. Coke don't think a great deal of some of them.

Texas schools went over the top with a bang in their Jeep Fund Drive. The national goal was set at ten thousand jeeps, of which Texas was given a quota of 354. Texas school kids took the bits in their teeth and surged forward not only to snow under their quota, but when the final count was made, it was found that Texas children had subscribed enough to buy 4,000 jeeps, or two-fifths of the national quota. We have heard the boast that Texas Democrats are of the "brass collar" variety and can be depended upon to vote for a "yellow dog" before scratching a candidate, but right now Democrats and Republicans alike, regardless of geographical location, need to be on the alert against bureaucracy after the war. It may be necessary to have some of it during war times, but we want no part of it in peace time and here is a good place to practice the "eternal vigilance" that is said to be the price of liberty.—McLean News.

CITATION BY PUBLICATION
THE STATE OF TEXAS

TO: W. M. Lloyd, and the unknown heirs of W. M. Lloyd, deceased. Annie Lloyd, and the unknown heirs of Annie Lloyd, deceased. W. B. Lloyd, and the unknown heirs of W. B. Lloyd, deceased. GREETING:

You are commanded to appear and answer the plaintiff's petition at or before 10 o'clock A. M. of the first Monday after the expiration of 42 days from the date of issuance of this Citation, the same being Monday the 28 day of June, A. D., 1943, at or before 10 o'clock A. M., before the Honorable District Court of Terry County, at the Court House in Brownfield, Texas.

Said plaintiff's petition was filed on the 12 day of May, 1943. The file number of said suit being No. 2852.

The names of the parties in said suit are: Rebecca Sawyer, a widow, A. A. Sawyer, U. D. Sawyer, Oscar Sawyer, Laura Cotton and husband J. W. Cotton, Nettie Barrier and her husband Raymond Barrier, Allie Graham and husband A. E. Graham, Ida May and husband Tom May, Ora Lewis and husband Clyde Lewis, Ima Lewis and husband Clarence Lewis, Ticia Givens and husband John Givens, Larue Tankersley and husband Cy Tankersley and Christova Sitt and husband W. T. Sitt are Plaintiffs and

W. M. Lloyd, and the unknown heirs of W. M. Lloyd, deceased. Annie Lloyd, and the unknown heirs of Annie Lloyd, deceased. W. B. Lloyd and the unknown heirs of W. B. Lloyd deceased are Defendants.

The nature of said suit being substantially as follows, to wit: A suit in Trespass to Try Title. Plaintiffs allege that on January 1, 1943, they were the owners of and entitled to the possession of the hereinafter described lands and premises, including all Oil, Gas and other minerals in and under the N. W. 1/4 of Section 121 Block T Terry County, Texas, containing 160 acres of land. The Plaintiff Rebecca Sawyer owning all surface thereof and an undivided 7/8 of the minerals and other plaintiffs named owning jointly 1/8 of the minerals. That on said date the defendants unlawfully entered upon said premises and ejected plaintiffs therefrom to their damages in the sum of $100.00.

That the defendant M. B. Lloyd is asserting and claiming some right or title to same but that any right or title he may have is inferior to the title of the plaintiffs. Prays for title and possession and for writ of restitution and general and special relief.

Issued this the 12th day of May, 1943.

Given under my hand and seal of said Court, at office in Brownfield, Texas, this the 12th day of May, A. D., 1943.

TRIM SHIP
FOR ACTION!

We are engaged in a war to save our American tradition of liberty and opportunity for ourselves and our children. Our leaders have committed us to become the arsenal of democracy; to furnish food for our allies; through our lend-lease to help finance the Allied war machine and, finally, to raise and equip an army of some 10 million men.

Any one of these jobs is a tremendous undertaking. We are thousands of miles from the theater of war, and this involves tremendous problems of transportation. All of these jobs together will tax every resource of the United States. Already we face rationing and priorities in our materials and acute shortage of manpower, and a burden of taxes which indicates our financial resources are strained to the utmost.

Of a certainty, we must have complete unity if we are to do this job, and face the postwar future with hope and confidence.

American industry, agriculture and finance must use to the maximum the productive power, initiative and intelligence latent in every American.

No Time or Place for Drifters

There must be no drifters hidden away on public payrolls, engaged in peacetime experiments which are useless under the emergency of war. Every branch of our military service is devoted to the sole purpose of fighting and winning this war. Our government, both local, state and national, should inspire and lead in the support our civilian population gives to the war effort. Unnecessary civic expenditures, surplus payrolls, useless economic and social experiments have no place in a war emergency.

The new Congress is tackling this job with a will and a purpose. Those Congressmen are our representatives and we, the people, should support them to the limit. Right now they are trying to bring some order and efficiency in the prevention of excessive profits in war contracts by the Army, Navy and Maritime Commission. The present law, passed by the old Congress, provides for a "renegotiation" of their war contracts by each department.

New Bureau Not Needed

There are over three million of these contracts. Not more than 5 per cent will show any excessive profits after taxes have been paid. The ordinary man on the street would say that the Internal Revenue Department can easily discover any excess profit from any war contract. Certainly we can use the manpower that would be wasted to much better advantage in other places.

We, the people, want Congress to adopt the most direct, efficient and economical method of doing this job. None of us believes in excess profits on war contracts. There are ceiling prices on most things we produce. Now let's get at the job of cutting down unnecessary civic expenditures and cutting unnecessary payrolls off the payroll.

WE ARE AMERICANS

Our United States is a government by all, conceived and dedicated by and with the consent of the governed. It constantly promotes individual dignity, worth and opportunity; guarantees to every citizen freedom of religion, speech, assembly, press and petition; safeguards private property; maintains equal justice before the law; provides free schools for all, and constantly seeks social and economic security and the blessings of liberty for young and old.

This is our country. Individuals or groups may have fallen short or failed in their duty, but we, the people, press on to our destiny. We, the people, love and cherish our Republic. We pledge support for its institutions with our lives and sacred honor.

First duty is to Red Cross.

Hurrying along "K" street in Washington a few weeks ago, the cab in which I was riding narrowly escaped an accident. Somebody, absorbed in thought, carelessly stepped off the curb in front of the taxi and the driver veered sharply to the left to avoid striking him. I saw the man. He was tall, dreamy-looking, carried a big package and needed a haircut rather noticeably.

Of course, I wondered who he was: maybe a hopeful inventor going to the Patent Office with some contrivance he believed would win the war, or perhaps some learned bureaucrat pondering weighty figures such as fill the pages of the federal budget. Imagine my emotion at hearing the driver remark, "Wake up, you dumb farmer! Dis ain't no corn field."

Did He Mean It?

The driver meant "lout" but he said "farmer", and set me to wondering how many people in America think these words mean the same thing. Not all of them, certainly. But all too many are not aware that farming is a real art at which louts do not succeed. Not enough people realize that the farm problem ought to be receiving far more intelligent attention than it is getting. One of America's gravest dangers in the present crisis is a low appraisal of the skill required on American farms.

The average farmer in the United States is an alert, thinking individual. Even a good farm hand is amazingly versatile. He is obliged to be, in order to do his work. Farming is a calling of many skills. A farmer does not have to be a veterinary surgeon but he must know how to breed and feed and care for livestock. A farmer need not be a graduate meteorologist but he has to know something about forecasting the weather if he hopes to succeed.

It's a Broad Field

There are many kinds of farms and many kinds of farmers but they have a great variety of fundamental, scientific knowledge in common, most of it unknown to men of other callings. In fact, one real farmer can do more on a farm than five equally strong, intelligent men who are not farmers. For this reason I honestly believe that a large percentage of the farmers now working in factories ought to be sent back home to protect America's armed forces and the civilians, too, against a food shortage of growing seriousness.

The agricultural manpower problem of 1943 cannot be solved by relegating miscellaneous industrial misfits to the country. If they can't learn factory work there is no place for them on the farm. A neighbor's son, now holding a position of some responsibility in an eastern war-production plant, visited home recently and told me some things that illustrate the point perfectly. The young man is earning $200 a month now at a job he learned in four days. His daily output was above average when he had worked there a month. Starting green, as he started factory work, it would take nearer four years than four days to learn farming.

"Incentive" Wages

He is an energetic young fellow but he can't earn $200 a month on his father's farm; couldn't do it if he owned it. That's why he left home when his country could not rightly spare him from the farm. The food administration would have to pay him quite an "incentive" to put him between plow-handles again, I fear, although he says the country boys in factory towns are all homesick.

The food problem at a glance is this: Farmers can't net anything at today's fixed prices but they can learn in a week to earn good wages in a factory, so they leave the farms to old men and small boys who will unavoidably produce less this year than they did last, although more is needed. Farmers in the armed forces under 38 can't be brought back but those in factories can and ought to be. Somebody else can do their work in the mill but not at home.

SEARS TO ISSUE TEN SCHOLARSHIPS

LUBBOCK. — Sears-Roebuck and Company foundation has authorized Texas Technological College to issue ten freshman scholarships in the sum of $100 each for the year 1943-44.

These scholarships will be administered through the head of the department of agricultural education.

As has been the case in the past, need, promise of leadership, intelligence, and definite agricultural interest will be considered in awarding the scholarships. This year the applicant's draft status and age must be clear in the application, as it is contemplated that the scholarships can be awarded to prospective freshman students who will be permitted to be in college at least one full year, Dean A. H. Leidigh, head of the division of agriculture, said.

PULLMAN TROOP MOVEMENT PASSES TEN MILLION

More than ten million troops have been transported in Pullman sleeping cars since Pearl Harbor, at the end of March. Organized troop movement in Pullman cars in March reached a new monthly high. A total of 2,360,000 troops in mass movement were transported in Pullman cars during the first quarter of 1943, an increase of 85 per cent over the corresponding months of the preceding year. Troop travel currently is running about equal to the civilian travel, and an increasing proportion of the sleeping cars available for all uses being required to accommodate military movements.

WAR BOND DRIVE BIG SUCCESS OVER NATION

When the count is completed by May 10 it will be found that citizens of the U. S. invested 17 billion dollars in War Bonds instead of the 13 billions asked.

It will give old Tojo and Shicklegrubber the jitters to find the citizens of the United States are solidly behind our fighting men.

Truth About
Farmer's Income

College Station.—Income to the nation's farmers rose to a new high in 1942, but the increase was not evenly distributed, says C. E. Bowles, specialist in organization and cooperative marketing for the A. and M. College Extension Service.

He explains that the net return from agricultural production to farm operators for their labor, capital investment, management and unpaid family labor was about 10 billion 200 million dollars, according to the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Benefits of the higher farm income were largely wiped out since prices paid by farmers for farm and home necessities reached the highest point in 20 years. Farmers make up 22½ per cent of the population but receive only about 13 per cent of the national income, Bowles adds.

Farmers in different sections of the nation and growers of various crops shared unevenly in the increased income. Income from crops was up 37 per cent over 1941 but was considerably below the figures for the last war period. Certain crops relatively unimportant in Texas, such as flaxseed, soybeans, potatoes, winter cover crop and vegetable seeds, brought growers about twice as much income in 1942 as in 1941. Income from cotton and cottonseed reached the highest point in 13 years and for Texas was 29 per cent over the previous year. For each dollar of this increase in cotton income 95 cents came from the sale of lint and only five cents from the sale of cottonseed. Livestock producers fared better with incomes about 39 per cent above 1941.

Bowles says that for each $100 of income received by Texas farmers in 1942, only $5.67 was from government farm programs. For the nation as a whole, government payments to farmers were up 19 per cent during 1942, while government payments to Texas farmers were five per cent below 1941 and 30 per cent lower than in 1940.

MY PLEDGE

I am an American. I am the richest man on earth. I inherited from my forefathers a fortune so colossal that it can not be expressed in figures—FREEDOM—the right to toil how, when and where I please—the right to make of myself what I please—my attainments limited only by my will and ability to do—the right to enjoy the fruits of my labors how, when and where I please.

In this dark hour my fortune is in jeopardy. My fellow Americans are spilling their blood to lie in an unmarked grave somewhere "over there" to protect my fortune. I am, therefore, charged with two solemn and sacred obligations: The one—not to reason why, but to do—to stand four square behind that "man over there"—to toil and sacrifice and yield up my all to him to the end that his job may be well done. The other—to see to it that when this job is done he may come back to a land where he and his posterity may forever enjoy his heritage of FREEDOM.

To these two sacred obligations I this day consecrate myself.

FFA NEWS

The annual Parent-Son Banquet of the Brownfield FFA was given on Thursday night, April 29. After the opening ceremony, Earl Sears, the vice-president, gave a brief report on the work of the Chapter. The following menu, which was served by the Home Economics girls, was enjoyed by the club boys, their parents, and their teachers: Baked chicken, dressing, giblet gravy, salad, potatoes, pickles, rolls, pie, and iced tea. After the eats, the president, Billy Joe Shodgrass, called the name of each member who responded by introducing his parents and giving his projects for this year. The closing ceremony was then given. Every one had a very enjoyable evening.

Maid Of Cotton Picks Cotton

Bonnie Beth Byler, 1943's charming Maid of Cotton, proves she knows the cotton industry from the ground up in this photograph snapped on her farm near Lepanto, Arkansas. Back from two week's training in New York and a visit to the nation's capital at Washington, where she participated in inaugural ceremonies for the president of the National Press Club, Miss Byler begins her official tour as Maid of Cotton late in February. She now is visiting at her home at Lepanto, in between appearances at nearby Mid-South army and navy posts.

Time To Cull Your Unproductive Hens

Now is the time to start your first job of culling those hens in the laying house that are doing a set-down strike, according to A. L. Hartzog, County Agent. You should be able to remove about 10 per cent loafers now and next month you will be able to get rid of the same number. Feed is too expensive and too scarce to waste it on any hen that won't pay for her keeps.

It's not hard to do the job and won't take much time. If you have Leghorns, the job is very easy; if some of the other breeds like Barred Rocks or Reds, it is a little more difficult but not impossible. Here is how you can do it fast and fairly accurate and at the same time not upset production.

Pen your birds in the house and get a good catching hook. Walk around among the hens so as not to disturb them and keep that good chicken eye open for loafers. If you spot one with a shriveled comb pick her up and examine her. If she is a low producer, cull her. If she is still in good production, turn her out so she won't confuse you again and cause repeated handling. Those that are molting should be culled. If you spot one with yellow pigment in the beak and shanks, pick her up—chances are she is a loafer. Look for those with saggy abdomen—this is a good indication of egg organ breakdown. Watch for those birds that have a bad diarrhea. If you spot a few pale, and weak looking hens, get them out. Now while you are looking them over, keep a sharp look-out for birds showing grey eyes. It is a wise practice to sell these.

You can do a good job of culling if you look for these few things. It will save on feed, give more housing room, and cull hens will bring you a good price on the market.

Next month do the job over again.

She: "Would you like to see where I was operated on for appendicitis?"

He: "No, I hate hospitals."

Meat Animals
At All-Time High
On Texas Farms

College Station.—Beef animals, sheep and lambs, and pigs on Texas farms and ranches on January 1, 1943, were at an all-time high, according to figures released by V. C. Childs, principal agricultural statistician for the Austin office of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Moreover, the record number of chickens on Texas farms stood 17 per cent above a year ago and 44 per cent above the ten year average. The average one hundred hens produced 1,047 eggs in February of this year compared with 985 in the corresponding month a year ago.

Employing these figures for an analysis of the current year's food outlook, C. E. Bowles notes also an intention by Texas farmers to increase acreage in cereals and feed for 1943. He is the specialist in organization and cooperative marketing for the A. and M. College Extension Service. For example, Bowles says, sweet potato acreage promises to be 56 per cent above 1942. Regardless of reduced labor and shortages of machinery and equipment, farmers plan to plant two per cent more corn; four per cent more barley and rice; 15 per cent more peanuts, and increase the acreage of all sorghums 11 per cent above last year.

Unusually good calf crops and reduced death losses more than offset the increase of 29 per cent in marketing Texas cattle and calves during 1942 over those of the preceding year. Indications are that the 1943 spring pig crop will be about 30 per cent larger than that of a year ago, which in turn was 44 per cent greater than the 1941 spring production.

"Farmers were assisted in their patriotic efforts to meet the war needs for meat by bumper grain crops on the Plains, and by attractive prices for livestock," Bowles says. "But it should be pointed out that farmers now are squeezed between the skyrocketing feed prices and ceiling prices on meat. Farmers will need extra

ALEXANDER'S

BUFFET SUPPER FOR SCHOOLMATES

The home of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Stricklin was the scene of a gay affair Monday night, when their daughter, Mrs. Herman Trigg, had her old schoolmates for supper. The meal was served buffet style from a table covered with a beautiful Mexican drawnwork cloth and centered with a bowl of rosebuds and sweetpeas. After supper the time was spent in reminiscing. A lovely gift of lingerie was presented to Elray Lewis, bride-to-be.

Those present were Mesdames Jean Rhone Redford of Carlsbad, Evelyn Pippin Cruce, Ruth Tarpoley Huckabee, Cathy Hunter Primm, Scharleen Graves Schilling, Vondee Lewis Moore, of Amarillo, Minnie Hazel Gore Bowman, Ethelda May Edwards, Mary Jo Neil Hardy, Mattie Jo Gracey Neely, Imogene Wall Redford, Lorene White Haynes, Ona Faye Tittle Thornton, and Misses Elray Lewis and Martha McClish and the hostess, Sallie Stricklin Trigg of Brownwood.

JESSIE G. RANDAL PTA

The Jessie G. Randal PTA met May 6th in the auditorium of the Randal school. Mrs. John A. Bost had charge of the program which was titled "The Power of the Nation Depends Upon the Health of the Citizens."

After a business session, the Flag Salute was given. The assembly then sang "The Star Spangled Banner." An interesting report of the District Convention was given by Mrs. Fred Walker. Mr. E. E. Hancock installed the following officers in an impressive ceremony: President, Mrs. Leo Holmes; 1st. vice president, Doriene Criswell; 2nd vice president and chairman of room mothers, Mrs. E. L. Sturgis; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Nova Aven.

A social hour followed.

Pvt. Paul Auburg, of Pampa, was in Brownfield to spend Sunday with his mother, Mrs. J. T. Auburg.

Baptist Church News

Mother's Day Service was well attended last Sunday with the music conducted by the young people's choir, and an appropriate message by the pastor on the home and how our modern life is putting the old fashioned home into the discard and called us back to the importance of preserving the family circle and family relation that existed a generation ago. He called to the attention of the people the Bible story of the founding of the home by God for the good of the race and that to weaken it also weakened the Church and the Government itself and that the home was the first institution founded for man's good by God. He dealt with the modern quick marriage and early divorce which has had much to do with the weakening of home ties and the cheapening of American home life which was the strength of the early American nation. These are undeniable facts admitted by all but not recognized so readily by this generation but people who are fifty and above know how our homelife has been drifting and looking to be entertained by modern amusements until no time is left for Bible study and serious thinking as was the custom a few generations ago.

The Lord's Day is not being observed as of old and the first attack by paganism is to break down a day of worship which the Lord Himself established and we know that there are hundreds of families in our own community, some of whom profess to be Christian, who do not assemble at the place of worship with their families and study the Word of God as the Bible commands, but have come to regard the day as a good day to make visits and transact business.

We recall that the family was greatly cheapened in France and the Sabbath was degraded before they became an easy prey for overthrow by the German army. We would especially call these facts to the attention of our own people and every religious group will do well to preserve to posterity the religious homes of their people as well as the Lord's Day which the early New Testament churches observed as the first day of the week. Your regular attendance is much desired here.

Newspaper Workers Are 'Frozen' In Their Jobs

WASHINGTON. — As employees in an essential industry, newspaper and press association workers are "frozen" in their jobs by War Manpower commission order made effective.

There are modifications of that general statement. A reporter, for instance, may receive higher wages from his present employer with WLB approval or may move to another newspaper if his pay will not be raised by reason of the shift. Or he may take a higher salaried job 30 days after separation from his former post.

He may not accept employment in an industry not classified as essential, if it means increased pay.

Where doubt exists as to the application of the new order it will be resolved in the WMC regional office having jurisdiction.

JUST BEFORE THE ZERO HOUR

What does a war correspondent think about when he goes on a dangerous mission? As an answer to that question Collier's magazine recently published a cable written by their exceedingly able globe-trotting correspondent, Quentin Reynolds. Before he left London to cover the Commando raid at Dieppe, Reynolds cabled a friend in New York:

Operation of the rule is not confined to "critical areas" as defined by Chairman Paul V. McNutt. It is universal.

Newspaper and news syndicates are embraced in the essential classification of "Communication Services." That category also includes magazines of general circulation devoted primarily to dissemination of public information, radio broadcasting and several other lines of business.

EXPECTING THE BEST

A girl and three men got off a street car in Indianapolis one night recently. Two of the men looked like thugs.

The girl, a little apprehensive, turned to the third man and asked him if he would walk home with her. He complied, courteously going all the way to the door. There he stopped and said: "Lady, when I got off the streetcar, it was my intention to hold you up. But when you asked my protection, I didn't have the heart."

Expecting the best of a man often turns him into the kind of man you would like him to be.

"Leaving town for a few days and suddenly realized I have not paid all insurance premiums. Phone my lawyer and if not paid do so. I mean today. This is important."

"Ginny sent me floor plan of our new home. Looks wonderful. In case she misses me permanently tomorrow, I rely on you to take care of everything including not showing her this cable. With luck will cable you again in a couple of days. All the best, chum... Quent."

There's no need to underscore the significance of Quentin Reynolds' wire. But it is significant that as he faced the most dangerous assignment of his career his first concern was his life insurance and his second thought for his home... both tangible symbols of his far greater concern for his wife's security and happiness.

Any thinking man knows that when his life is "worth little," his life insurance may be worth a lot!

CARE FOR YOUR CAR
FOR YOUR COUNTRY

NO ABRACADABRA, no flip of a coin, can help you choose motor oil wisely. Yet the decision is of utmost importance because today cars must live to a ripe old age, and no car can ever be any younger than its motor.

To help you select the oil for your car, we give you sound, straight-from-the-shoulder facts. We tell you frankly and clearly which lubricant to ask for when you want our very best.

Just remember, we definitely specify that Phillips 66 Motor Oil is our finest quality... the highest grade and greatest value... among all the oils we offer to average motorists.

Why not try Phillips 66 Motor Oil? Ask for it by name when replacing winter-worn lubricant, or when making the recommended every-two-months oil change.

"Renegotiation" Might Touch You

Under no other circumstances is the fine spirit of neighborly cooperation shown to better advantage in a rural community than in the case of fire or other calamity. This friendly spirit is not based upon personal interest, but upon the deep sympathy that just naturally arises in case of disaster. Of course, there is a personal interest if the fire threatens our own property, but we like to think this unity of spirit in our rural life is typical of America.

There is this same community of interest between industry, labor and agriculture, although sympathy for each other's troubles seldom comes to the surface.

Every farmer knows that his best market for the produce of his farm is our local domestic market. He depends upon this domestic market to consume over 90 per cent of what our American farms produce each year. If anything happens to his domestic market, like the depression and loss of employment in the early thirties, agriculture is at once affected. On the other hand, if anything happens to the buying power of agriculture, industry is hurt just as badly.

Right now congress is considering the renegotiation of all government contracts. The law was passed on April 23, 1942. Some people are urging that these new renegotiation bureaus should examine contracts made long before the law was passed.

Take the case of a contract made in 1940. The work has been done and paid for; taxes have been paid to the government on the profits, if any; labor has been paid and the money balance distributed either in repairs to plant or perhaps paid in dividends to stockholders.

Danger of Retroactive Measures. Suppose that same thing happened to our local store, or even to our farmers themselves. Suppose the prices we received for our crops, or the conservation payments by the government for 1941 or 1940 were suddenly to be "renegotiated." Every farmer has either fed out or sold his crop, purchased new machinery or perhaps painted the barn, or bought a new dress for his wife. If, under a retroactive law, he were suddenly put up against the threat of renegotiation, all of his credit, and perhaps even his investment would be disturbed.

No one wants unfair profits or excessive dividends out of war contracts. Investigation has shown that over 95 per cent of industry and business made no excessive profit out of the war. Certainly no farmer has received excessive price for farm crops.

Now Is the Time for Unity. We want to get on with this war. We must have unity. Unity is based upon mutual confidence in our government and in each other. We are all looking forward to a return of peace after the war has been won. We will then want to resume our domestic markets, replace worn-out farm machinery and resume our normal trade relationships. Industry and business will need all of their American ingenuity and strength to provide jobs which, in turn, furnish our domestic market after the war.

True, renegotiation at present is applied only to industry and contracts with the government. But we all recognize the good old American principle that what is sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander.

If business contracts can be renegotiated under a law passed long after the business contracts were made, how about the sanctity of our own contracts?

Just now the fire seems far from our own neighborhood, but if we look closely, our domestic markets, both now and after the war, are involved. We can well take time off to show a little neighborly spirit and help put out the fire.

WISCONSIN GOES AFTER STAR BOARDERS

Under the leadership of Wisconsin, there is a growing movement in states of the union against encroachments of Federal bureaus to usurp state functions and destroy taxable assets within the states. The development of the Federal government's great socialized power authorities, now well established in every section of the country, is bringing to a head this issue of centralized Federal control over local affairs.

These vast bureaucratic business agencies of government enjoy the privilege of doing business without assuming the cost of government which other industry must bear.

They pay no Federal income tax. They pay no state income taxes. They pay no state property tax. They pay no taxes to maintain roads, schools, or other functions of local government. Some of them make "contributions" in lieu of local taxes, but not on any basis of equality with other taxpayers. The ydo not come under the jurisdiction of state regulatory bodies as to rates or matters affecting all other endeavors. Their main allegiance is to centralized authority in Washington, rather than to localities wherein they maintain their operations, derive their revenue and destroy taxable assets by preventing private power developments.

These subsidized government agencies surround themselves with privileges and exemptions which make them masters rather than servants of the communities they invade.

Could you, Mr. Butcher, Mr. Baker, or Mr. Candlestick Maker, long expect to meet a competitor who was financed with public funds which your taxes helped provide, who was exempt from the taxes which you must pay, and who was not subject to the multitudinous state and Federal laws under which you are required to operate?

Why should privileged, official "authorities" be allowed to drive any private enterprise out of business in the United States? And why do they fight tooth and nail against submitting to laws and taxes which apply to all other businesses?—Amherst Argus.

The Connally Anti-Strike Bill

WASHINGTON, May 5.—Senator Tom Connally's anti-strike bill passed the Senate today by a vote of 63 to 16. It amends the Selective Service Act and authorizes for the duration of the war the President to take possession and operate any plant in which production of war munitions, airplanes, ships or military or naval equipment is delayed or impeded or hindered by existence of strikes or labor disputes in such factory or plant or mine. The government is also authorized to take possession of any plant that is equipped to produce such materials and supplies.

It is provided that any person who coerces or instigates or induces any interference with the continued operation of such plant by lock-out or strike or slow-down or other interruption or who aids any such lock-out or strike or interruption interfering with the operation of such mine or plant or providing funds for the conduct or direction or for the payment of strike or unemployment benefits to carry out such unlawful purpose shall be subject to fine and imprisonment.

The bill also strengthens the War Labor Board by conferring power upon it to subpoena witnesses or parties to labor disputes and provides for the adjudication and settlement of labor controversies. It is further provided that such plant or mine shall be returned by the President to private owners when it is determined that such plant or mine will be privately operated in a manner consistent with needs of national defense.

IGIVE YOU TEXAS by BOYCE HOUSE

"Come into office, prepared to leave for Arkansas."

So read the telegram from the managing editor of the old Fort Worth Record of which I was staff correspondent, with headquarters in West Texas. And that was the beginning of probably the most enjoyable trip your columnist ever made—back in February, 1925. First stop was Texarkana, the city that sits astride the boundary of Texas and Arkansas, where I was told the intriguing story of a man who was "wanted" in one state and arrested in the other. Extradition would be slow and expensive, so he was taken for a walk along State Line Avenue and was given a sudden shove, which landed him in the other state where two officers "happened" to be right on the spot and he was grabbed before he could scramble back across the line!—(or so I was told).

Next place visited was El Dorado where an oil boom was in progress. Then a trip up the mountainous western side of Arkansas in the course of which the train made a 15-minute supper stop. Not wanting to miss the train, I pitched in and hastily ate a salad, soup, half a fried chicken with potatoes and corn, and was just starting on a dish of ice cream when the conductor poked his head in the door of the Harvey House and said, "You have now been eating five minutes." (No doubt I had set some kind of mark for devouring nine-tenths of a full-course dinner.)

Visited Fort Smith and was told about the days when that was the law center for Indian Territory and the "hanging judge" would sentence two or three outlaws to death in a day. In fact, the executions of seven criminals were to take place in one day and the hangman was elated as he was setting a record for the United States but, at the last minute, one of the men was granted a reprieve and so the executioner got to hang only six and he was so mad about it that he wouldn't eat any supper that night!

On into Fayetteville and Eureka Springs in the picturesque Ozarks; Hot Springs, with its palatial bath houses lining the principal thoroughfare, and then to Piggott, my birthplace. I saw my grandfather for the last time—in some ways, the most remarkable character I have ever known; and looked too for the last time upon the old log cabin where so many happy vacation days of boyhood had been spent—it burned down two years ago.

That same day, I left Arkansas, cut across a corner of Missouri, and next morning landed in Memphis, Tenn., and there I saw C. P. J. Mooney, my first editor, for the last time; hopped down to Coldwater, Miss., where I had attended school in the seventh grade—(my last sight of that town, which soon is to be covered with water in a river project); then back to Memphis that night and boarded a Texas-bound train—having jumped, in 24 hours, over State lines like a small boy playing leap-frog—Arkansas, Miss-

A Memo To Lewis From Tunisia

Ernie Pyle, writing from the front lines in Tunisia, is not in a position to get much news from home. It is unlikely that he has heard of the coal strike.

Sitting on "a steep and rocky hillside that we have just taken," he describes that movement of a long line of American infantrymen returning on foot from four days and nights of battle. "Every line and sag of their bodies speaks their inhuman exhaustion—they are young men, but the grime and whiskers and exhaustion make them look middle-aged—there is an agony in your heart and you almost feel ashamed to look at them—"

"If you could see them just once, just for an instant, you would know that no matter how hard people work back home they are not keeping pace with these infantrymen in Tunisia." — Fort Worth Press.

Aid to Enemy

"Any American who willfully neglects to pay his taxes on time or to invest every cent he can in War Bonds is surely giving aid and comfort to the enemy. . . . We have a job to do and we are all called for service to our country. Our dollars are called to service too. Let us all ask ourselves, 'Shall we be more tender with our dollars than with the lives of our sons?'" — Secretary Morgenthau.

ouri, Tennessee, Mississippi, back to Tennessee and then to Arkansas.

Rolling into Fort Worth after exactly four weeks, without having had any definite schedule but never missing a train or bus. Had set out with "expense" money and turned back $1.20 to the newspaper cashier. (Any newspaperman will tell you that's unprecedented).

Yes, that trip through the "Wonder State" of Arkansas was filled with memorable memories.

SANDY HOOK PILOT INVESTS HEAVILY IN WAR BONDS

"My Way of Charting a Safe Course for the Future of My Country and Myself," He Says

Charles Onasch

Charles Onasch is a ship's pilot. It is his ticklish job to bring ships into New York Harbor—safely—through the tricky eddies and currents that run through the harbor.

On his skill and knowledge lie the safety of men and ships.

He says, "In my work as a pilot, I am constantly reminded of how much our country depends upon the ships that put to sea, and how many more ships will be required to see us safely through. That's why I lend my money—all that I can and then some—to the Government in the form of War Bonds."

Yes, Charles Onasch invests his money in War Bonds. Almost 16 percent of every pay check. And in 10 years, when his War Bonds mature, that's going to mean a handsome chunk of extra cash for him.

Perhaps, like Mr. Onasch, you too are fighting on the Bond front. But make it a good fight—make it the best fight you can. Boost your Bond buying, right now . . . today!

You've done your bit—now do your best!

RICH DEPOSITS OF FLOURITE DISCOVERED

AUSTIN—New deposits of an essential material—flourite—have been uncovered in Texas' Big Bend, the University of Texas Bureau of Economic Geology has announced.

Perhaps as much as 250,000 tons of milling grade flourite—required in the manufacture of steel, glass, hydrofluoric acid and other war industries—are available in Hudspeth County, in the area west and south of Hot Wells in the Eagle Mountains, the bureau reports.

Analyses of samples of these deposits reveal an average calcium flourite content of between 40 and 50 per cent, it was stated.

Possibilities of commercial development of these deposits is enhanced, bureau officials believe, by favorable milling conditions—the form in which the mineral is found, the high flourite content, and proximity of rail facilities.

Augusta

Augusta Travers—your know, the one who runs the little hat shop down on Main Street—she's always been dead set against gambling in any form. Never will forget when I was a kid and she found little Hammy, her youngest nephew, playing marbles for keeps out back of the shop. Took it on herself to give him a whaling and point out the evils of gambling. She's a strict woman, Augusta, real strict. Good as gold, of course. But mighty set against the lighter things of life.

Well, so you could have knocked us all over with a feather when Augusta started her gambling campaign for War Bonds and Stamps. Right out in the window of her shop. First she got hold of the photographs of every boy here in town who's joined up, and pasted them on a big board in the window, with little American flags at the corners. Half the town was down there watching her do it. She left the middle empty. Then she brought out a placard she'd had printed up and put it in the middle, and this is what it said: "These are the Local Boys who have enlisted in America's War—They are betting that you are buying War Bonds and Stamps—Hitler and the Japs are betting you aren't—Place your bets inside."

My wife couldn't wait to get herself down there and inside Augusta's shop to see what in the wide world had happened to her, turning right around about gambling like that. You know my wife. She kind of likes to talk. She went right up to Augusta and said, "Augusta Travers, seems like something's come over you. Why, I never thought I'd see you running a gambling campaign in your own shop."

Mean to tell me it's a gamble whether this country buys enough bonds to win this war?" Augusta asked.

I forgot to say. Wasn't just a hat my wife brought home. Was a hat and a $25 bond. (Story from an actual report in the files of the Treasury Department.)

Remember: It takes both—taxes and War Bonds (and more War Bonds)—to run the War and combat inflation! • U. S. Treasury Department

TIME TO SWAT THE COMMON HOUSE FLY

AUSTIN — Leaving behind wherever it goes a trail of sickness, suffering, and death, the common housefly has made its annual descent upon this community and is at present trying to force its unwelcome presence into every home and business establishment.

Advice received from Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, as to how best to combat this menace to public health among our citizens, states that complete elimination to houseflies is imperative because typhoid fever, tuberculosis, summer complaint, cholera, intestinal diseases, and many other serious ailments are spread from person to person by visit of the housefly.

"The most effective measure for control is to prevent breeding," Dr. Cox said. "Flies breed in filth and the removal and destruction of all waste matter will deprive the fly of a breeding place. One female fly lays from 600 to 1000 eggs during its life time and in a season which begins in spring and runs through into the fall of the year, she and her descendants will number countless thousands."

"Destroy all breeding places for flies," Dr. Cox advised. "Manure piles, garbage, and other organic filth furnish the required moisture necessary for the propagation of the fly. Inasmuch as they not only breed in filth but frequent such unclean places as open privy pits, it should not be necessary to urge that flies be kept from contact with food, drinks, and kitchen utensils."

The State Health Officer urged that all windows, doors, and porches be screened so that flies cannot gain entrance to homes and business establishments. The destruction of breeding places and proper screening can eliminate the danger of the fly in homes and public eating places.

Two young ladies were walking down Fifth Avenue. Suddenly one cut loose with a piercing shriek.

"Look," she cried in amazement.

"What's so terrible?" asked her friend. "That's only a midget."

"Thank God," said the other girl greatly relieved. "I thought they were rationing men."

HEAVY POST WAR DEMAND FOR ALKALIES

AUSTIN—For more than a decade the heavy alkali industry—caustic soda and its by-product—chlorine—has been shifting to the Southwest, and a University of Texas economist predicts extensive post-war expansion of this industry.

Elmer H. Johnson, industrial geographer for the University Bureau of Business Research, points out that three factors—(1) demand of other industries for alkalies (2) plentiful raw materials, and (3) access to water transportation—will contribute to this expansion.

He said numerous industries which require caustic soda and chlorine in their manufacturing processes are growing up in Texas, providing a substantial market for continued and expanding production of alkali. He cited viscose rayon, petroleum refining, pulp and paper, glass and aluminum industries.

"Folks," said the old colored minister, "the subject of my sermon this evenin' is Liars. How many in the congregation has done read the 69th chapter of Matthew?"

Nearly every hand in the audience was raised.

"Dat's right," said his reverence. "You is jes de folks I wan to preach to. Dere ain't no 69th Chapter of Matthew."

Drunk: "Look at that sign."

Drunk: "Whazzit say?"

Drunk: "Shays ladies ready to wear clothes."

Drunk: "Well, ish damn near time, ain't it?"

Where Will Money Come From?

People ask: "Where will the money come from?" to reach the thirteen-billion dollar objective of the Second War Loan. The answer is simple. The people HAVE the income.

When we produce munitions or peacetime goods, or anything else, we likewise produce income. For every dollar of production, there is a dollar of income.

The problem of war finance boils down to this—if individuals and businesses receive more income after taxes than there are things produced for them to buy, then excess funds arise. The government deficit is matched by the combined surplus of everybody else. This surplus should be put into Government securities to wipe out that deficit.

They give their lives . . . You lend your money.

Mrs. Geo. W. Neill enjoyed a real Mother's Day Sunday, as all of her children, in-laws and grandchildren visited her, they being: Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Burnett, of Abilene; Herbert Neill and family of Levelland; Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Buco of Carlsbad; Sgt. Jim Neill of the Air Force, from Del Rio; and Mr. and Mrs. Ted Hardy of Brownfield. Of course Judge hung around at dinner time.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee O. Allen and Mrs. McDuffie, were Lubbock visitors Tuesday.

Mrs. Sam Teague and baby daughter, of Fort Sumner, New Mexico, are visiting her parents Mr. and Mrs. Ches Gore.

Mr. and Mrs. Voris Myatts, of Lubbock, visited Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Pounds over the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Burt Tankersley, and children, of California, are visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Red Tankersley.

Yvonne Forbus visited her grandmother in Abilene over the week end.

Pfc. Tommie Hicks, of Shepard Field, visited in Brownfield over the week-end.

Miss Alva Lee Runnels came in Saturday from Austin where she attends the State School for the Deaf, to spend the summer with home folks.

"How's your wife's mental condition since she started going to that psychiatrist?" "Well she's better, but the poor psychiatrist has gone nuts."

EL RAY LEWIS
HONORED WITH SHOWER

Complimenting Miss El Ray Lewis, bride-elect of Lt. Elmer H. McKinney, Mesdames J. O. Gillham, M. G. Tarpley, Ruth Huckabee, Hayden Griffin, W. B. Downing, and Mon Telford were hostesses with a tea shower Tuesday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. Gillham.

The living room was beautiful with arrangements of pink and white rosebuds and other spring flowers. Those in the receiving line were Mrs. Gillham, Mrs. Clyde Lewis, mother of the bride-elect, El Ray, Mrs. Z. A. Moore of Amarillo, and Mrs. Tarpley. Mrs. M. B. Sawyer, grandmother of the bride-elect, presided at the bride's book. Mesdames Rebecca Ballard, Mon Telford, Hayden Griffin and Cye Tankersley presided at the gift tables. The gifts were displayed on small tables arranged in the entertaining rooms.

The tea table was beautiful with a Normandy lace cloth and centerpiece of pink and white roses, flanked with pink and white candles, in crystal holders. A bride and groom arranged in a wedding scene with a wedding party, decorated the buffet. The arrangement was also flanked with pink and white candles in crystal holders. Mesdames Downing and Tarpley presided at the tea service with Ruth Huckabee, Eleanor Gillham, and Glynola Akers assisting in the serving.

The honoree was charming in a formal frock of marquisette with a gardenia corsage.

NATIONAL MUSIC WEEK
OBSERVED BY LOCAL CLUB

Throughout the week the Cent-Tex Music Club has observed national Music Week, by putting on several programs in the schools and by several social affairs.

The program of Music in the Schools was observed with a musical program of various instrumental and vocal numbers in the High School Auditorium, Thursday afternoon. Rev. Fred Walker announced the numbers.

Friday night, Mesdames Money Price, C. T. Edwards, J. M. Teague and Roy Herod were hostesses to the club members at a seated tea in the home of Mrs. Roy Herod. The living room was beautifully decorated with bowls and vases of pink and white roses and honeysuckle.

Punch, cookies and mints were served from an attractive lace covered table with a centerpiece of pink and white roses, completely surrounded with pink and white candles. The Club's colors, which are pink and silver, were used in the color scheme throughout the decorations.

Children and grandchildren of club members presented a musical program, which carried out the theme of Music in the Home. At the conclusion of the program, every one joined in singing rounds. About sixty guests were present.

To observe the program of Music in the Rural Schools, the following went to Gomez Tuesday, and presented several musical numbers: Mesdames Money Price, D. P. Carter, J. M. Teague, Tyler, Miss Fields, and Pappy John Powell. Mrs. Teague directed the program.

The program of International Relations will be carried out with a buffet supper and musical program at the home of Mrs. Teague tonight. The International colors and theme will be used in the decorations and table appointments. This will complete the Music Week activities.

The Music Club wishes the public to know that they are sponsoring the show, "Star Spangled Rhythm."

MRS. BOWMAN HOSTESS TO THE PLEASURE CLUB

Mrs. J. T. Bowman was hostess to the Pleasure Club Wednesday night, in the home of Mrs. Ches. Gore. A set of ash trays and a vase were given as high and second high. Handkerchiefs were table prizes.

Tuna Fish salad sandwiches and cokes were served to Mesdames J. L. Cruce, Joe Shelton, C. C. Primm, Jack Hamilton, E. L. Sturgis, Mike Barrett, Lee Brownfield, Jake Gore, Jack McLaughlin and Misses Sue and Gertrude Jones.

JANICE BURKE CELEBRATES HER FOURTH BIRTHDAY

Cynthia and Don Tankersley and Betty and Bobbie Ferguson were guests of Janice Burke, Sunday afternoon, to a theatre party, to celebrate her fourth birthday. Before going to the show the guests met at the Burke home where birthday cake and ice cream were served. Richard Burke, brother of the honoree, was also a guest.

Mrs. Kenneth L. Turner, of Ogden, Utah, is visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Turner. Her husband, Capt. Turner, is at Camp Lee, Va.

A Pioneer Teacher Passes On

The many friends of Henry Clay Zorns, 62, were shocked last Friday when they learned that he had died suddenly at the local hospital after being rushed there from the farm home near Meadow, where he took ill just a short time before. Funeral services were held at the high school auditorium in Meadow, Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock, with Rev. R. L. Shannon, officiating. Interment followed in Meadow Cemetery.

Mr. Zorns was born in the state of Kentucky, but was brought to Texas in childhood, where he received his education. He devoted the greater part of his adult life to the teaching profession, but since 1928, has also been farming his own place near Meadow. Thousands of boys and girls in Terry county, many of them now fathers and mothers, can point with pride that this man encouraged and helped them go forward in seeking an education.

Thousands of boys and girls in Terry county, many of them now fathers and mothers, can point with pride that this man encouraged and helped them go forward in seeking an education.

He and Mrs. Zorns were married July 18, 1912. He leaves a devoted wife and the following sons and daughters to mourn his passing: Bruce, of this city; Tommie, also a teacher, but now in the armed forces; Leila May, Jim, Maude Alice, Dorothy and Henry.

Also two sisters, Mrs. Charles Starnes and Mrs. Carl F. Larson.

To Take Charge Of Cattle In New Mex.

Bill Pool has purchased a herd of cattle near Columbus, N. M., and as the pasturage goes with them till November, he is sending S. R. McLeRoy, who has been with him on the ranch for several years, to take charge of the herd.

Mrs. McLeRoy will remain on the ranch in Terry county, in the meantime. S. R. came in to get the Herald headed his way before he left for his New Mexico job.

Had a letter and remittance from Miss Gertrude Rasco, of Memphis, Texas, this week, so she would be able to keep up with what goes on in Terry. She stated that since reaching home, and resting, her eyes are much better.

MERLE MOORE PASSES FOLLOWING OPERATION

Miss Merle Moore, 28 daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charey Moore, passed away Tuesday morning at the local hospital following a major operation. Miss Moore had been in ailing condition, following an attack of flu, since Christmas.

She was born in Brownfield in 1914, and attended school here, graduating with the class of 1932. It was often stated to us that Merle always made fine grades in school, and was a model student. She has been a member of the church of Christ since childhood.

Besides her parents, she leaves a brother, Kenneth a Sea-Bee, located at Camp Perry, near Williamsburg, Va., who has notified his family that he is leaving for home to attend the funeral.

Funeral arrangements were delayed, pending the time of his arrival.

JOE DALE SCOTT HONORED ON BIRTHDAY

Mrs. Joe H. Scott entertained at her home Friday afternoon from 5 until 7 o'clock, for her son, Joe Dale, on the occasion of his eleventh birthday.

Games of interest were played on the lawn.

After the gifts were opened, birthday cake, ice cream and minis were served to Gene and Billy Patterson, Patsy Jones, Haraly and Carol Hinson, Mack Harris, Richard Hagan, Crawford Burrows, Jr., Billy Hart, Wendell Acker, Maxie Scott and Joe Dale.

Mr. T. D. Auburg is a medical patient this week.

Buelah Jo Lyons, of Tokio, is a surgical patient.

Mr. C. L. Tyler was a medical patient for a few days.

Those having tonsillectomies were Nancy Ann Edwards, of Brownfield; Valentine Day, of Loop; Eddie Sue Whisenant of Lovington, N. M.; Billy Dumas, of Seminole; and Mrs. Claude Cox

No Domino Parlors? Is Kendrick Mad?

You probably noticed in a recent issue of the Herald, a city ordinance, which put such a high tax on domino parlors in Brownfield, that they were forced to close. A state statute at the same time was put into effect to close all the pool parlors in the city. So, there are no more of either in public operation.

Now, there were some who do not work—much—who like to go to these places and spend a few hours of recreation, among them being R. M. Kendrick and W. A. Bell. Kendrick, for one, says he's as mad as an old wet hen. They caught him off on a vacation and closed the domino parlors while he was away.

Now, he is hunting some of the councilmen that he thinks he can whip, but all that he has found are too big and too young for him to tackle. Trying to console him, we suggested that he and Bell and other interested parties build their own pent house parlor atop the First National Bank. But this idea didn't catch.

"Who in thunder would be there to spung up our marks after each game," he roared. So far as we know, Checkers and Fox and the Goose are not prohibited, R. M.

Report On Terry County School Census

In spite of all predictions that the number of scholastics for the county would decrease there is a slight increase. The original enumeration gives the total for the county 3199 against 3143 last year.

County Superintendent of Schools, Lee Fulton, stated the county line report will increase this about 100 more for children who live in Terry County but are recorded in other counties.

The number by districts gives: Brownfield 1977 Meadow 505 Wellman 410 Union 307

This firm offers you its sincere congratulations in having completed the full course of study offered by the Brownfield Consolidated Independent School District. May success, happiness and good health attend you on through life, is the sincere wish of—

Nelson-Primm Drug

With the cooperation of Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Company, we are conducting a service school on the All-Crop Harvester, which we feel will be of direct interest and profit to you in your operations for 1943.

The school will be held in Brownfield at the J. B. Knight Farm Machinery on Saturday, May 22 at 8 P. M.

The school will be conducted for the purpose of helping farmers as much as possible in being certain that they have their All-Crop Harvesters adjusted and repaired, so as to get the highest efficiency and the best work from them. The farmers of America have a big job to do in the FOOD PRODUCTION PROGRAM, and much of it will have to be done with used and badly worn machinery. We intend to help you in so far as humanly possible for us to do.

It is the patriotic duty for everyone who has anything to do with farm machinery for 1943 to make certain that all this equipment is "ready to roll" and with assurance that it will be kept in that condition.

We are pleased to extend to you this invitation to attend this meeting and be our guest, and shall look forward to seeing you there.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASS HAS PICNIC

The Kingdom Seekers Sunday School class of the Baptist Church, enjoyed a picnic lunch at the old golf course Wednesday of last week. The class, which consists of girls, asked different boys to be their guests. Miss Marie Carter, their teacher, acted as chaperon.

After a business session at the church, the group adjourned to reassemble at the park for a delicious picnic supper. Games amused the guests after the meal.

friends with a dance Friday night, at the Legion Hall.

The hall was attractively decorated with white candles and red roses. Punch was served from a table centered with a bowl of red roses flanked with white candles. About 75 couples enjoyed dancing to the latest records.
