Trans-Atlantic Fliers Due At Mitchel Field Today

GERMANS AND IRISHMAN IN SILENT FLIGHT

Report of Plane Near Ireland Believed Unfounded

NO ANXIETY FELT

Poor Visibility Would Prevent Glimpse Of Plane at Sea

ST. JOHNS, N. F., April 12. (AP)—Midnight, Atlantic time, 10:30 p. m., Eastern Standard time, brought no word of the German trans-Atlantic fliers from the light houses, wireless stations and telegraph stations along the coast tonight. A report, heavily discounted, was received from Shoal harbor in Trinity bay that two persons there heard a plane at 8:30 Eastern Standard time, but saw nothing owing to thick weather.

FLIERS FACE HEAVY GALES

NEW YORK, April 12. (UP)—Three intrepid aviators, flying into fog and gales, were presumed tonight to be on the second half of their trans-Atlantic flight from Baldonnel Airdome, Dublin, to Mitchel Field, N. Y.

They started from Baldonnel at 11:38 a. m. C.S.T. today and should be over the Atlantic coast, near New Foundland, at about 11:30 a. m. Friday and at Mitchel Field about 11:30 p. m.

Former War Enemies

Hermann Koehl, German war ace; Baron Gunther Von Huenefeld, monocled intimate of the Former Crown Prince and an officer in the German army; and Colonel James Fitzmaurice of the Irish Free State air force, a British world war veteran, are the aviators.

All three flyers, ex-enemies in the world war, are risking their lives in what experts say is an almost hopeless gamble. No one ever has made the North Atlantic flight westward. The seven starters—five men and two women—who did not turn back in face of the constant adverse winds disappeared at sea.

Koehl made one start last summer, but turned back when he found his plane almost stationary over the sea out from the Irish coast. Fitzmaurice has seen other trans-Atlantic planes pass overhead to oblivion. Von Huenefeld, who staked the last mark of his fortune to finance the flight, is unperturbed at the dangers, and said when he first arrived at Baldonnel Field that he was determined to fly either "to Mitchel Field or heaven."

Gloomy Reports

Reports from mid-Atlantic and from the New Foundland coast are not encouraging.

A United Press correspondent on the liner Majestic radioed this morning that the weather at sea along the flyers' course was perfect.

This afternoon he wired:

"Heavy head wind developed past two hours sufficent seriously affect flyers."

Wind, fog, and rain were in prospect over the Atlantic nearer the American coast—fog to obscure their course; rain possibly to freeze their plane so that it could not be manoeuvered; wind, beating in their faces, to slow their progress so that the racing propeller of their plane might do little more than permit the plane to hold its own.

BOMB AIMED AT ITALIAN KING CLAIMS 14 LIVES IN MILAN

Mussolini Personally Directs Search for Terrorists Who Barely Fail in Assassination Attempt.

MILAN, April 12. (US)—Miraculously saved by a 10-minute delay from death by an annihilating bomb that killed 14 of his subjects as they waited to greet him, Victor Emmanuel, king of Italy, tonight is the hero of his country.

The nation's pledge was contained in a telegram from Premier Mussolini, in Rome, addressed to the monarch at the royal palace. The message read:

"The soul of the whole nation goes to you most devotedly at this moment, while discipline, Italy-wide, continues for the glory of the dynasty and the power of the fatherland."

Duce in Charge

Simultaneously, Il Duce took personal charge of directing the hunt for the terrorists whose plot against the life of the king brought tragedy to Milan at the height of the festival on the opening of the annual international trade fair.

Milan received the following telegram from Il Duce:

"Bear flowers on the bodies of the victims killed by the beastly criminality of barbarian, but powerless anti-fascism. Our enemies will not win."

Despite the shock of the attempt on his life, the king insisted upon going through the formality of in-

JOE BAILEY IN STRANGE ROLE

Former Senator Joins Moody Against Love

Special to The Record News.

AUSTIN, April 12.—The Democratic harmony meeting, and political reactions following it, have defined three elements or factions, as clearly set apart as the three parts of ancient Gaul.

These are:

The "Democrats of Texas," supporters of Gov. Dan Moody's program.

The "Constitutional Democrats," followers of Thomas B. Love and R. Harper Kirby, otherwise known as the ultra-drys or the potential party bolters.

Bailey Backs Moody

The pro-Al Smith forces, as led by Joseph Weldon Bailey, with James E. Ferguson also speaking up in its support.

But while they are definitely defined groups, still the effect of Former Senator Bailey's program really seems to be to back up Moody in bringing into line the county groups hostile to harmony.

Strange as it might seem to see the veteran warhorse of Texas politics through 30 years, Bailey the veteran campaigner, giving aid to the program of Dan Moody and the Younger Democracy, still it has been pointed out this would be no stranger than the fact that four

YOUNG DOHENY 'SURPRISE' OF TEAPOT TRIAL

Millionaire's Son Goes On Stand as Government Witness

BEATTY ON STAND

Chain of Evidence To Imprison Sinclair Strengthened

WASHINGTON, April 12. (US)—Edward L. Doheny Jr., son of the California oil multi-millionaire, will be the government's "surprise" witness in the Teapot Dome oil conspiracy trial, it was learned tonight.

He will take the stand here next Monday as the final prosecution witness in the government's effort to convict Harry F. Sinclair of conspiring to defraud the nation of its Teapot Dome oil reserve.

Through young Doheny, Owen J. Roberts, the federal prosecutor, will seek to show to the jury how Albert B. Fall, ex-secretary o fthe interior, "borrowed" $100,000 from Edward L. Doheny Sr., while the Doheny oil lease to the Elk Hills naval reserve was pending before Fall.

Defense to Risist.

The prosecutor, from the Doheny "loan" story, hopes to be able to convince the jury that the total of $404,100 which Fall obtained from Sinclair and Doheny was not an incidental, above-board business deal, but designed to make the then cabinet officer friendly to the proposal to lease the oil empires to them.

The defense, it is thought, will strongly risist the effort of the government to force young Doheny to testify.

Today, through the testimony of a dozen witnesses, the government continued to strengthen the chain of evidence with which it hopes to place Sinclair behind prison bars for his part in the oil cases.

Promise Heard.

From one witness, Birch Helms, an official of Blair and company, New York bankers, the jury heard how Fall actually promised to give the oil company of which Helms was then vice-president, an opportunity to bid on the lease.

This promise was given, the witness said, at a conference held in Fall's office in the interior department on April 10, 1922, three days after the lease had in fact been signed by both Sinclair and Fall.

Amos L. Beatty, president of the Texas company, one of the largest of the so-called independent companies, told a story of similar import.

John C. Schaffer, Chicago publisher, told of his successful efforts to get a lease and explained how Fall arranged with Sinclair that certain alleged placer mining grants owned by Schaffer would be sold to Sinclair.

The whole of the claims were later sold for approximately $1,000,000, it was developed.

GIRLS SAIL AS STOWAWAYS

Naval Ships Forced To Harbor by Culprits

WASHINGTON, April 12. (AP)—Courts of inquiry have been ordered as a result of the discovery yesterday of four girl stowaways on board vessels of the South Atlantic fleet.

Naval authorities here declared they were informed that only four girls were found, but a report from Key West announced that four girls were landed there and St. Petersburg, Fla., police said they had information that Albert Pool, a 15-year-old high school girl of St. Petersburg, had been put off the destroyer Billingsley, at Mayport, Fla.

The names of the four girls landed at Key West were given in the reports from that place, as Billy Lacer, Rose McGuire, Flossie Rice and Ramilda Avary. Navy authorities said the girls landed in Key West were from New Orleans.

The discovery of the four stowaways, it was said, by navy department officials, resulted from a telegram received last night by Secretary Wilbur from the chief of police of St. Petersburg, Fla., asking that a search be made for a girl on board the destroyer Billingsley. The commanding officer of the Billingsley, who was directed to make a search, notified Admiral Frank H. Clark, in command of the destroyer force, who in turn instituted a search on board the other ships.

The stowaway on the Billingsley, Secretary Wilbur said, was only 15 years old and has been put ashore at Mayfield, Fla., although the captain of the Billingsley had at first requested authorization to put back to St. Augustine. Stowaways on board the light cruiser Concord and the destroyer Sands, the secretary added, were put ashore at Key West, Fla., at 8 o'clock this morning and a message had been received saying that the destroyer repair ship Dobbins with another would put in at the same port.

Coroner's Jury Finds Dam Rocks Faulty

LOS ANGELES, April 12. (UP) Collapse of the St. Francis dam March 13 was due to the poor grade of rock structure upon which it was built and because the design of the dam was not suited to these inferior conditions, according to a verdict of a coroner's jury returned late today.

FINAL ACTION ON PRORATING PLAN TODAY

Operators Meet at Austin To Tackle Problems In Winkler

NO PROTESTS SEEN

Committee Certain To Adopt Plan For Handling Oil

FORT WORTH, April 12. (AP)—Final action toward the prorating of Winkler county production, considered by some the one uncertain factor in the restoration of health to the oil industry in this country, is scheduled for Friday at the state capitol at Austin.

At this time, producers, royalty owners and pipe line operators will be given an opportunity to protest before the railroad commission the issuance of an order for prorating along lines recommended by operators and outlined by the commission in its call for the hearing, issued last week.

Prorating Certain

It is certain that an order for prorating in some form will come from the Friday hearing, to be put into effect as soon as possible, oil men say.

No protests are expected if the commission decides to allow excess above prorated production for the filling of existing contracts. Strong protests will probably be evoked if the commission decides on prorating without recognition of these contracts. In its call, it left the way open for either action.

Delay Likely

If decision is made in favor of appointment of a "steering committee" consisting of a representative of each company in the field, with a secretary who will be umpire, organization of the committee may delay the putting of any order into effect for a few days.

It is expected that the hearing Friday will draw a full attendance of interested spectators, as the contract feature is the principal problem of prorating.

50 CONCERNS TO BE REPRESENTED

AUSTIN, April 12. (AP)—Representatives of approximately 50 oil companies, operating in the new Winkler county field will meet here Friday with the state railroad commission for a hearing on proposed rules to curb the reported waste and over-production in the field.

The commission has been informed that there exists "extraordinary, unnecessary and preventable waste of crude petroleum and natural gas" in the Winkler field.

Senator Moses Retracts Shot Made At Couzens

WASHINGTON, April 12. (US) Senator George H. Moses, republican, of New Hampshire today made public apology before the senate to Senator James Couzens, republican, of Michigan.

Amid dramatic circumstances Moses retracted his recent accusation that Couzens' fight for treasury department tax reforms was a "private feud" between the Michigan senator and Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon.

Couzens had just begun a lengthy address on his noted controversy with the treasury department when the apology was made. He denied Moses' charge of a "private feud," and that his attack on Mellon was "vicious, malicious and in most parts untrue."

TEXTILE PLANT COMES HERE

Tuf Nut Company Will Build Factory

Wichita Falls is to have a textile mill in operation by June 15 if present tentative plans proceed without interruption. The Tuf Nut garment manufacturing company plans to build and open a factory here by that time.

This information was given out at the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce Thursday. R. A. Nelson, president of the company, was due in Wichita Falls early Friday morning from Little Rock, Ark., to close the deal. He is accompanied by his attorney.

Some time ago negotiations were opened with the company by the chamben of commerce. The Tuf Nut organization said that if Wichita Falls subscribed $100,000 in stock in the parent Tuf Nut company, that the company would build a branch factory here, according to the chamber.

Business men subscribed to the stock and J. W. Chatham, traffic and industrial commissioner of the chamber, was made trustee of the subscriptions.

The parent company is located at Little Rock, Ark., and is capitalized at $500,000. Wichita Falls' $100,000 makes it a $600,000 corporation. It is now operating branches at Columbia, Tenn., and McComb, Miss.

Two-story Building.

A building will be built close to the business district of the city, yet just outside of the high rent district, according to announcements, and it will be about 75 by 100 feet and two stories high. VETO IS BLOCKED

Two-Thirds Majority To Overrule Veto Assured

(UP)—The new McNary-Haugen farm relief bill, authorizing a $400,000,000 federal fund for the stabilization of American agriculture in periods of price deflation, was passed by the senate this afternoon for the second time in two years. The vote was 53 to 23. Last year the measure passed 47 to 39.

The bill as passed today contains the equalization fee provision which prompted President Coolidge to veto it last year.

The vote is more than the two-thirds which would be required to pass the bill over a presidential veto although in such an event some switches might occur to change the result.

The senate vote last year was 47 to 39, indicating a substantial gain for the bill.

THE "CANARY" MURDER CASE

AIEA FICTION VALUE by S. S. VAN DINE AUTHOR OF THE BENSON MURDER CASE © Charles Scribner's Sons

CHAPTER I

In the offices of the homicide bureau of the detective division of the New York police department there is a large steel filing cabinet; and within it, among thousands of others of its kind, there reposes a small green index card on which is typed: Odell, Margaret, 184 West Seventy-first street. Sept. 10. Murder: Strangled about 11 p. m. Apartment ransacked. Jewelry stolen. Body found by Amy Gibson, maid."

Here in a few commonplace words is the bleak, unadorned statement of one of the most astonishing crimes in the police annals of this country—a crime so contradictory, so baffling, so ingenious, so unique, that for many days the best minds of the police department and the district attorney's office were completely at a loss as to even a method of approach. Each line of investigation only tended to prove that Margaret Odell could not possibly have been murdered. And yet, huddled on the great silken davenport in her living-room lay the girl's strangled body, giving the lie to so grotesque a conclusion.

The true story of this crime, as it eventually came to light after a disheartening period of utter darkness and confusion, revealed many strange and bizarre ramifications, many dark recesses of man's unexplored nature, and the uncanny subtlety of a human mind sharpened by desperate and tragic despair.

Margaret Odell was a product of the bohemian demimonde of Broadway — a scintillant figure who seemed somehow to typify the gaudy and spurious romance of transient gaiety. For nearly two years before her death she had been the most conspicuous and, in a sense, popular figure of the city's night life.

Her notoriety was due in part to certain legendary tales of her affairs with one or two obscure potentates in the backwashes of Europe. She had spent two years abroad after her first success in "The Bretonne Maid"—a popular musical comedy in which she had been mysteriously raised from obscurity to the rank of "star"—and one may cynically imagine her press-agent took full advantage of her absence to circulate vermilion tales of her conquests.

Her appearance went far toward sustaining her somewhat equivocal fame. There was no question that she was beautiful in a hard, slightly flamboyant way. I remember seeing her dancing one night at the Antlers club—a famous rendezvous for post-midnight pleasure seekers, run by the notorious Red Raegan. She impressed me then as a girl of uncommon loveliness, despite the calculating, predatory cast of her features. She was of medium height, slender, graceful in a leonine way, and, I thought, a trifle aloof and even haughty in manner—a result, perhaps, of her reputed association with European royalty. She had the traditonal courtesan's full, red lips, and the wide, mongoose eyes of Rossetti's "Blessed Damozel." There was in her face that strange combination of sensual

Don't Forget That Rabbit's Foot Today—Friday Thirteenth

Alas! You know the cause too well;
The salt is spilt, to me it fell.
Then, to contribute to my loss,
My knife and fork were laid across;
On Friday too, the day I dread!
Would that I were safe at home in bed!
—Gay: Fables, Pt. 1, Fable 37.

Friday, the thirteenth, will be jinx day for many Wichitans. Friday the thirteenth, whether in April or December, always is. That Friday is also the birthday of Thomas Jefferson, father of Democracy, will have no effect on the evils which abound for all on this hoodoo day, according to the best authorities on the subject.

Although one Friday the thirteenth already has passed safely in 1928, the superstitious shake their heads with a presentiment of the evil that is to come.

Those who passed by January 13, which was on Friday, without mishap merely were lucky, and can hardly hope for a repetition. However, if the jinx lets them alone today, there's still another gauntlet of Friday the thirteenth to be run, and the third time is the charmed time. This is what the aged ones who follow the history of the world in the coffee grounds in their cups have to say about it.

July brings the year 1928 its third and last Friday the thirteenth.

SENATE PASSES FARM RELIEF

$400,000,000 Appropriation Approved

Smoot, Gould, McLean, republicans, and Walsh of Montana, and King democrats.

It was announced Senator Johnson, California republican, would have voted for the bill had he been present.

Board Created

The bill creates a governing board of 13 members, one from each of the 12 federal reserve districts and the secretary of agriculture, to administer a revolving fund of $400,000,000.

The federal farm board, to be appointed by the president, is given broad powers to aid co-operative associations, lend money, negotiate marketing agreements and withhold crops from markets, under provisions of the bill.

The present bill proposes two distinct and separate remedies for the solution of agriculture ills. First loans to co-operate associations at low rates of interest and, second, in case of failure of the first, to negotiate marketing agreements, the cost of which would be paid by the equalization fee levied on the commodity receiving the benefit.

Marketing Provision

In event an agricultural commodity requires stabilization the bill authorizes the federal board to create an advisory council of seven members, to be selected from lists submitted by co-operative associations and farm organizations. Each commodity requiring attention is given a separate council, the members of which serve without pay.

If a marketing agreement is entered into, the federal board is authorized to estimate the cost, losses and charges and levy an equalization fee to cover the cost of marketing. The fee can be collected during any period of marketing.

When an agricultural commodity is under treatment by the federal board a stabilization fund for the special commodity is withdrawn from the revolving fund to act as an insurance against the producer receiving a lower price for his commodity at the time of marketing than the average at the time he placed his goods on the market.

Soul Thirst Not Satisfied By Worldly Pleasures, Pastor Says

"A Text With All of the Gospel in It," was the subject of a sermon delivered Thursday night at the First Baptist church by Dr. Millard A. Jenkins, pastor of the First Baptist church at Abilene, who is conducting a series of meetings here.

Dr. Jenkins, using the text "Christ Is All," pointed out that Christ is the whole gospel, using quotations from the book of Revelations to show that He is "all of the Bible, all to the thirsty soul, and all to the future home."

"For people who seek the ambitions, pleasures and philosophies of the world, the search for the Savior is a constant chase of a mirage," declared Dr. Jenkins. "This sould thirst cannot be satisfied with things. It demands a personality. And this demand has been answered by Christ."

The pastor spoke at the Thursday morning service on "Crooks in the Church and How to Get Them Out."

Friday morning, he announced, he will speak on "The Wisest Man in Town," and Friday evening he will give his "baseball sermon." The subject, he said, will be "Dying On Third Base," and is designed especially for the young people.

COTTON MARTS CO-OP URGED

Rep. Adkins Wants "Cards Laid On Table"

WASHINGTON, April 12. (UP) Declaring that cotton marts should cooperate in regulatory measures to eliminate "gambling" Rep. Adkins, Illinois, republican, demanded today that cotton exchange officials appear before the house agriculture committee and "lay their cards on the table."

Adkins denounced all forms of speculative exchanges, stocks as well as cotton, at the committee hearing on the Vinson bill for regulation of exchanges.

Safford Praised.

"I don't think the Louisiana lottery had anything on any of them," he said.

H. G. Safford, legislative representative of the American Cotton Shippers' association, who appeared before the committee again today, was commended by committee members for his "frankness."

Safford has endorsed the Vinson bill. He presented an amendment to it today whereby exchanges would be required to limit business volume in any one month, the limit to be fixed by a committee of the Cotton Exchange, whose recommendations along this line would be subject to approval of an administrative board which the Vinson bill would set up.

Safford explained to the committee that his amendment is designed to ultimately stabilize trading in cotton.

"Straddling" Defended.

At the senate agriculture subcommittee's investigation of the cotton situation, "straddle" operations of cotton merchants were defended by W. L. Clayton, head of the firm of Anderson, Clayton and company, of Houston, Texas, largest American cotton dealers.

Clayton told the senate sub-committee that "straddling," a process of buying futures contracts in one market and selling simultaneously in another thereby taking advantage of the disparity between markets, helps to maintain the equilibrium between the various cotton markets.

augurating the fair, and then rushed to the hospital to which the 30 or more injured had been taken. There, he spoke words of comfort to those able to receive him and pledged his personal attention to their welfare.

King Cheered

On his way to the palace, he was enthusiastically cheered. After his arrival at his royal home, he was compelled to appear again and again on a balconv in answer to the cheers of his people, shouting: "Long live the king! Long live the monarchy!"

The municipality of Milan offered a reward of 100,000 lira for information leading to the capture of the terrorists. Every resource of the nation and the city is concentrated on the hunt for the guilty.

The bomb was placed at the foot of a lamp jost in Julius Caesar square, and was timed, apparently, for 10 o'clock this morning, half an hour after the arrival of the king's train at Milan. The program called for the monarch to be in the square at that time, but a change in the schedule saved him.

Thousands of Italian men, women and children were awaiting his coming when the bomb exploded. The effect was appalling. Two children who had been clinging to the post were torn to bits. Others in the vicinity were horribly mutilated.

The prevailing belief is that anarchists were responsible for the outrage and a general round-up has been ordered. Some are known to have entered Italy secretly within the last few days, and the authorities believe that among them are the individuals who set the bomb on the eve of the festival.

ODD FELLOWS HOLD BANQUET

109th Anniversary To Be Observed April 30

Wichita Falls Encampment No. 16, I. O. O. F., held a meeting and banquet Thursday evening in their lodge rooms at 807 Austin, celebrating the completion and removal to their new quarters.

The meeting was a strictly stag affair and turned out to be a hilarious gathering.

A short business session was held at 8 o'clock after which a delicious chicken dinner was served to approximately 100 members of the lodge and guests from Vernon, Burkburnett and Dallas. Following the banquet short talks of a humorous nature were given by a number of those present.

C. B. McConnell acted as toastmaster and presented the following program:

E. F. Bohmfalk leading the gathering in a sing-song.

At this time a moment's silent prayer was given for the safe deliverance of the German Atlantic fliers.

"Why Birds of a Feather Flock Together," Judge P. A. Martin.

Sleight of hand and other stunts, by Bob McCulloch.

Remarks on members present projected by a lantern slide.

On the fifth Monday in this month, April 30, a meeting will be held in the lodge rooms commemorating the 109th anniversary of Odd Fellow in the United states, it was announced. Gatlin Hearing Slated Today

GRAHAM, Texas, April 12.—Attorneys for B. A. Gatlin, charged with the murder of his son-in-law, O. N. Miles, Thursday announced ready for the habeas corpus hearing to be held here Friday morning. Gatlin is seeking to secure a writ of habeas corpus granting him the right to make bond.

Application for the writ was filed by attorneys for Gatlin before Judge Thornton Tuesday, but the district attorney's office asked for time to secure witnesses from Breckenridge and the hearing on the application was set for Friday in Graham.

Mr. Miles was shot to death in the tailor shop of R. C. Goode here on the morning of April 6. Gatlin immediately surrendered to Sheriff Jim Foster and since that time has been held in the county jail without bond.

Ben Allred, district attorney, Thursday said he would not attend the hearing at Graham, but that George Berry of Graham, assistant district attorney, would represent the state. The district attorney said that any attempt to secure bond for Gatlin would be fought by his office.

Judge Thornton, who is to hear the case, left Wichita Falls Thursday night for Graham, stopping overnight at his home in Archer City.

Joe Bailey in Strange Role

years ago Bailey was supporting James E. Ferguson in state politics.

For Bailey's fight long has been against Thomas B. Love; and Love, as the cards have been stacked this year, is the central force in the bolters' coterie, the principal faction in combat with Moody and the harmony program of the "Democrats of Texas."

So Bailey's call to the Democrats of Dallas for a mass meeting Wednesday is easily explicable. Thomas B. Love lives at Dallas. He is the senator from Dallas. The ultra-drys have their headquarters at Dallas, though R. Harper Kirby of Austin, notable Saharist, bears the title of state chairman.

Love Challenged

Last Saturday, while the "Democrats of Texas" heard Governor Moody's demand for a dry, prohibiton-enforcement platform, coupled with his demand for a delegation pledged to support the nominee but uninstructed as to nominee, the Dallas county Democratic executive committee met in the same city. This committee had before it the instructions of the Democratic state committee, as adopted at Austin, directing that only those might take part in precinct and county conventions who would pledge themselves to support the nominee. The Dallas county committee refused to accept and to invoke this pledge, and held its position of being ready to bolt the nominee if it saw fit, and to admit into its precinct and county conventions anybody who wanted to bolt or otherwise. This committee had received a ruling from Attorney General Claude Pollard saying there was no legal force to this pledge.

That was in line with Love's ideas. That was in line with Harper Kirby's demands that the delegates should be instructed against any person except an ultra-dry acceptable to the ultra-drys.

Now Bailey has issued his challenge to Love, as affecting the Dallas county delegation. He has called a mass meeting for Wednesday, the purpose of which is to declare for the pledge, and, unless the pledge is invoked by the county convention, to hold another convention conforming to the instructions of the state committee, and to send another set of delegates to Beaumont, who will ask to be seated as the only legally-chasen Dallas delegates.

He was taken to a local hospital where his leg was amputated a few inches above the wound. He was in a critical condition. No witnesses to the accident were found.

An air transportation line to either Dallas or Midland, Texas, was announced Thursday by Fulcher Armstrong of the Wichita Falls Air Transport company. At one of these two points the line will connect with the proposed transcontinental route of the Maddux air lines.

Maddux was flying a tri-motored Ford monoplane with a full cabin which included Mrs. Maddux, J. N. Kerwin and wife, A. A. Alton and wife, J. Miller, and L. L. Fritz, pilot.

Mr. Armstrong announced that he intends to purchase a cabin plane for service on this feeder line as soon as the Maddux line is in operation.

Burglars Take Auto, Cash and Property

Burglars and knob-knockers, active in Wichita Falls Wednesday night, after several quiet nights, made off with an automobile, $50 in cash and property valued at $50, according to reports received by Chief of Police Frank Burns Thursday.

The automobile of the Taylor Wheel and Body works, a safe belonging to the Ruby-Howard Battery station and an overcoat belonging to R. G. Appel of Iowa Park, valued at $50, were taken by burglars. The automobile, police believe, was used to transport the stolen safe to a place on the Iowa Park road, where it was broken open and the $50 in cash taken.

The offices of the Ruby-Howard battery station and the Taylor Wheel and Body works both were ifled, but nothing was missing from the latter office.

Mr. Appel's overcoat was stolen while his car was parked at 1513 Giddings street, he told police.

Breneke Pool In Coleman County Gains Best Well In Rex-Tex No. 1

COLEMAN, April 12.—What will likely be by far the best well yet drilled in the Breneke pool, six miles south of Coleman, appeared assured today as the Rex-Tex No. 1 J. M. Byrd, 150 feet from the south and west lines of the farm in the S. Sprague survey No. 664, was flowing each two hours estimated heads of 10 barrels each, from the sand barely touched at 1,851 feet.

With connection to tankage and tools reduced, preparations were advancing to drill the well into the sand which is thought to be fully nine or ten feet thick from the logs of two other wells in that territory producing from the same horizon.

The well is a direct east offset to the Smith & McManmon No. 1 J. Breneke, discovery well, and a north offset to the same company's No. 1 T. B. Hill which is now being completed for a small pumper after a shot in the extremely hard sand. It is thought by geologists that the largest wells in the Breneke pool are yet undeveloped to the north and east of the three producers. A precedent fast becoming typical of Coleman county was broken when two offsets to a discovery well have been completed for production and oil men in general were highly elated over the fact that at last a pool has been opened which limits have not been defined by two offset wells.

KELLEHER-BURNS

Kelleher and Burns have spudded in on their No. 1 J. C. Garvey, located in the northeast corner of block 55, Harris subdivision, Archer county.

HINES AND MUNSIE, ARCHER

Harry Hines and associates No. 1 Andrews in the R. R. Rainey survey, south Archer county, are drilling in a lime at 1015 feet.

STRUCTURE SKIDDED

After drilling to a total depth of 1615 feet without encountering any of the productive horizons peculiar to the Archer county uplift, Fain and McGaha interests decided to abandon the wildcat test located in the southwest corner of block 3, section 98, George Parrish farm in A. T. N. C. L. survey, Archer county.

EAST OF ARCHER CITY

Consolidated Oil company No. 1 R. C. Kinder, 150 feet each way from the east and west lines of the northeast corner of lot 54, block 5, Clark-Plump survey, is rigging up.

SOUTHEAST WILBARGER

Harry Hines and associates No. 1 W. T. Waggoner, located in section 35, block 6, H. T. C. R. R. survey, southeast of production on the Carter lands in southeast portion of Wilbarger county, is drilling at a depth of 1600 feet.

STUMP AND ASSOCIATES.

After showing the earmarks of a nice producer, the No. 1 well of E. J. Stump located in block 10, Denton county school lands, Mrs. Crudup farm, northeast of the Shappel production at Murphy's Corner in Wichita county soured up. The well which topped a sand early in the week at a depth of 1807 feet filled with 600 feet of fluid and no water, later after bailing and drilling a little deeper salt water rushed in and the hole was abandoned at a depth of 1813 feet.

In Crockett, Grayburg No. 1 and No. 2 Halff are showing 30% water, and R. B. Covle's No. 1 Halff, trying to case off sulphur water showing, are taking attention.

NEW ATTORNEY FOR CHICAGO

State Official To Be Asked To Fill Post

CHICAGO, April 11. (US)—Attorney General Oscar Carlstrom will be asked by the Chicago Bar association to take over the office of state's attorney, it was reported today.

The report followed the appointment of a committee by Carl R. Latham, president of the association, to assist Coroner Oscar Wolff at the inquest into the death of Octavius Granady.

Shooting Probed

Granady, a negro candidate on the Deneen slate for ward committeeman, was shot down by hoodlums riding in an automobile carrying the sign of Morris Eller, the Crowe-Thompson candidate for ward committeeman.

It is expected that Coroner Wolff will call Mr. Eller as a witness in the inquest, and will glean from him the names of members of his organization and what their tactics have been.

Following the inquest it was expected the bar association would petition the circuit court, asking that Mr. Carlstrom take over the duties of State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe, defeated in the Tuesday primary for renomination.

Under the new law, the attorney general is the only official who can take over the duties of a state's attorney, and only then under orders of the circuit court, which will take action when a petition is presented by a group of responsible citizens.

Thompson Rally

Forces of Mayor William Hale Thompson began reorganizing today in preparation for the expected battle at the state convention when delegates to the national convention will be selected.

Mr. Thompson will fight for the instruction of delegates to draft President Coolidge, while the forces of Secretary of State Louis L. Emmerson will fight for delegates instructed by Former Governor Frank O. Lowden.

It is expected that Mr. Lowden will be awarded not less than 38 of the 50 Illinois delegates.

$250,000 SUIT FILED AGAINST THOMPSON

CHICAGO, April 12. (UP)—Suit for $250,000 damages was filed against Mayor William Hale Thompson today by attorneys for William McAndrew, ousted superintendent of the public schools.

The declaration of the suit alleges that Mayor Thompson attacked the superintendent without grounds, and through his efforts exposed him to public hatred, contempt, ridicule and public injury.

The suit sets forth many instances which injured Mr. McAndrew, and adds:

"Mayor Thompson has repeatedly attacked Mr. McAndrew on flimsy ground for purely political reasons. He will prove these charges at law or suffer the consequences To anyone who heard the slush that was passed as evidence at the McAndrew trial it is apparent that there was no legal ground for Thompson's charges."

Mr. McAndrew was ousted by the school board on the grounds of insubordination and being the "stool pigeon for King George."

EARLY VOTE ON FLOOD CONTROL

Debate On Measure Starts Tuesday

WASHINGTON, April 12. (US)—An early vote on the Jones-Reid flood control bill in the house was assured when the rules committee today allotted six hours of general debate to proponents of the measure and a like amount of time to its opponents. The measure will come up for consideration in the house beginning Tuesday.

At the same time the committee designated Representative James A. Frear, progressive republican from Wisconsin, to control the time of the bill's opponents.

Frear Returns.

Thus Frear, who with other Wisconsin progressives was dropped from important committee posts by the G. O. P. leaders for having supported the late Senator Robert M. LaFollette for the presidency in 1924, will arise as the champion of President Coolidge's contention that local communities should pay part of the cost of flood control in the lower Mississippi valley.

Frear will vote against the bill, he said, unless it contains a provision at least for an economic survey to determine the ability of local communities to pay a part, as has been the policy of the government in these projects.

Reid Timekeeper.

Controlling the time of advocates of the bill will be Chairman Frank Reir, Illinois, chairman of the house flood control committee. Reid caused a stir at a recent meeting of the rules committee, when he characterized Frear as a "political outcast." They will be pitted against each other in the showdown in the house.

Frear will have fighting with him against the measure Representative Martin B. Madden, republican of Illinois, and other staunch administration supporters. But the outlook today was that the supporters of the bill would carry off the laurels, despite the president's opposition.

Dorothy Dix Confirms That Virtue Of Fools Is Being Consistent

A woman accuses me of being inconsistent.

I hope to goodness I am. I would hate like poison to be consistent, because that would mean that I had ceased growing.

I would hate to be so stupid that I could not learn anything more. I would hate to be so dull that I could not get a new point of view on anything. I would hate to be so narrow and bigoted that I could not recognize my own mistakes, and try to correct them, and to get a wiser and broader outlook on life.

Somebody has said that consistency is the virtue of fools, and it is true. The only people who never change their minds are those who have no minds to change.

All nature differs from minute to minute. There is never twice the same light on a landscape. There is bud and bloom, seedtime and harvest, the coming and going of the seasons. The particles of our bodies change so that practically we are being made over continuously. The quality of the flesh, the hair, the eyes of a middle-aged person, or an old one, are not those of a child.

The world we live in today is no more the world of thirty or forty years ago than if it was a different planet.

Why, then, should our opinions be the only fixed and immutable thing? What merit is there is continuing to believe a thing, because you once believed it, after you have had its untruth proved to you? What good is there in hanging on to old ideas and prejudices after the times have outgrown them, because they once fitted you? It is as silly as trying to squeeze yourself into the clothes you wore when you were slim and 20 after you are fat and 40.

The men and women who pride themselves upon being consistent, and who boast that what they said yesterday, they say today, and are going to say tomorrow, might just as well vaunt themselves upon being morons. They are advertising that their intellectual development stopped at a certain age, and that they have learned nothing since. Experience has taught them nothing. They have gained nothing from observation. The years have not made them more broad nor tolerant, nor given them more sympathy.

Their eyes have been so blinded that they could not see new truths when they were presented before them. Their brains and souls have become so case-hardened that it would take a surgical operation to open them up enough to get in a new idea.

Yet nothing can make these consistent people see that opinions and theories and beliefs that were perfectly good and useful and up to date in 1890, are just as incongruous and useless and hampering in 1928 as bustles and trailing skirts would be, and that it is just as ridiculous to cling to the one as to the other.

We have to change to meet the changing times, and adjust our views to altered conditions, and this makes it necessary for us to shed our opinions from time to time as a snake sheds its skin.

Those of us who are middle aged remember when we scoffed at the idea of the automobile, and proclaimed that nothing would ever induce us to risk our necks riding in one of those death-defying contraptions, but we are all doing it today and raging against the speed laws that won't let us go faster. And in a few more years every family will have its airplane just as it now has its flivver.

Thirty years ago every one of us would have said that it was an utter impossibility for a human voice to carry across the ocean, and for a man in New York to talk to a man in London. We would have thought any one should be locked up in a madhouse who was crazy enough to believe that you could sit in your room in Squeedunk and listen to a concert in Boston or Havana or the City of Mexico, yet that is the way that thousands upon thousands of families now put in their evenings.

Even the most consistent have had to change their opinions about things in the physical world, but a lot of people still cling to the theories they formed in their early youth about what is right and proper in conduct and manners and they cannot see that changes in conditions have altered our standards and made the thing that was taboo yesterday permissible today.

Most of the hullabaloo over the younger generation is just the sobbing of the consistent people who said years and years and years ago that it was perfectly shocking for girls to go out without chaperons, or to dance anything but square dances, or to go joyriding, or lunch or dine alone with men. And they are still saying it and holding up their hands in despair despite the fact that the whole status of girls has changed since they were young.

They forget that the girl of today is no longer a sheltered flower, protected from every harsh wind that blows. She is out in the world standing on her own feet, earning her own living, working shoulder to shoulder with men. Where she goes mother can't go to watch her and protect her. She has to look after herself and if she can do that in an office there is no reason why she cannot do it out of an office.

Nor is there any reason why men are more dangerous across a dinner table than they are across a desk. While as for the comparative propriety of going joyriding in an automobile and buggy riding, as mother used to do, the advantage goes to the automobile, which requires two hands and the more attention than old Dobin did.

And there is the matter of modesty over which the consistent hold up hands in horror. Rolled stockings. Knee-length skirts. A wisp of chiffon for a bodice. And the things girls and boys discuss. My dear! Shocking! We never did it when we were young. And we used to turn our heads away when we met a woman with a painted face and rouged lips. And you can't keep your own daughter from doing it.

What are we coming to?

Nothing unless we have sense enough to change our viewpoint and see that modesty is merely a matter of custom, and that nobody notices what everybody is doing. Men used to leer at a woman's ankles. Now they never observe her knees unless they are knobby.

So, sister, I snap my fingers at consistency. I pray God my opinions may always be flexible and subject to alteration at a moment's notice when I get more light on the subject and a broader view on it. When I get so that I can't change my mind, I'll know I am old, for that is the one never-failing proof of age.

MODISH MITZI — LELONG STYLES — By Jay V. Jay

We didn't expect to see the Goofer again this week and neither did Mitzi. She told him she was going to be busy finding out about Paris styles in a serious way. The Goofer was not downhearted. He realized he couldn't compete with Paris fashions, but he remembered (he is so thoughtful) all his cousins and his sisters and his aunts.

The Goofer went to see the Paris styles, too. He even bought a lot and now he wants expert opinion on them. Polly is trying on the gown, designed by Lelong, that he got for Cousin Arabelle—pointed neckline, pointed trimming lines and a skirt that falls in points. And a shoulder flower with buds that drip their way from shoulder to waistline.

Adelaide is modelling the pajamas the Goofer bought for Aunt Hattie—also designed by Lelong. A pajama ensemble of white crepe de chine pajama set and a three-quarter length coat of black and white print. Adelaide thinks of Aunt Hattie and sighs. It doesn't seem right, and they all begin to think something should be done about it without delay.

Something will be done about it. The Goofer's female relatives will have to do without their Paris frocks because the Goofer is going to sell them now. It was all settled when Mitzi put on this Lelong evening gown of black lace which drapes so perfectly and suggests a long bolero and was certainly never intended for the Goofer's grandmother.

Tomorrow—More Paris Styles.

LINDA -:- A Love Mystery of Collegiate Life

By Virginia Swain.

And at the moment there was only one way of reaching the hotel—on her own two feet. She started out with a forced briskness, under the stark tree branches of Faculty Row. Soon the strong wind and the biting cold forced her into a combat which thrilled and invigorated, blotting out the minor conflicts which civilized society had set up against her.

The clerk at the Tavern had been all agog for an hour or more. The porter had announced to him that the notorious Linda Waldron was about to descend upon the hotel, that her trunks were already brazenly proclaiming her name in large letters in the baggage room.

Marbury papers had already, even in that little backwater town, taken on some of the color of the New York tabloids—to the extent of referring to Linda in all the murder extras as "the beautiful blond co-ed on whom suspicion has fixed his cruel and steely eye."

That may have been why the clerk, looking up from his ledger directly into Linda's face, knew her at once for what she was. Coming in from the boisterous race before the wind, she had whipped up a rich color that belied her shadowed eyes. Her hair, flying out from the little felt hat, was unmistakably blond and beautiful. The clerk trembled and stammered as he handed her the pen, and tried to read the name she wrote without seeming to read it.

Linda found herself at last in a large square bedroom overlooking Broadway. She stood in the midst of her baggage, looking about her. The big corner room, with its curtained windows and its smooth white bed, seemed a citadel of peace and solitude. Here, at least, she had reached a haven shut off from all the feverish, raucous life of the campus. No one knew where she was. No one could annoy her.

The telephone rang insistently, while she still stood gazing at the bare spaciousness of the room.

"Linda," said Thomas Moonlight, "I'm in the lobby. I want to come up and talk to you. I've got to come right away."

Linda swallowed convulsively two or three times before she could reply. Forming her lips for a "No," she uttered a faint "All right," and dropped the receiver on its hook.

She was sitting, still in hat and cloak, on the bed, staring into space, when his impatient rap sounded on the door. The spurious color of her cheeks had drained away.

Thomas Moonlight walked straight toward her when she opened the door and took her in his arms. "Linda," he said, very low, with his lips against her hair. "Linda."

She clung to him, unable to speak, unable even to weep.

He picked her up bodily and carried her to the ugly overstuffed couch by the window and laid her upon the cushions. She did not move, even to lift her lids and look at him.

"I've been calling you, looking for you, all day," he said, kneeling beside her, with one arm under her head. "I was frantic when they told me again and again that you were not there. I've been so worried about last night, Linda. Tell me, was it right for me to leave, or would it have been better for me to stay and face it out? I didn't dare let her catch you in negligee after midnight, with me like that."

She smiled a little. "It didn't matter. She knew someone was there, but she didn't know whom. After all, what difference? I'm suspected of an amour with Simon and with Doyle. Why not you too?"

The boy caught his breath and drew away from her. "I don't see how you can speak like that." He got up and strode across the room nervously. She lay with eyes closed. He turned and saw her face, white and drawn, against the dark green cushions, and he came back to her.

"Linda, dear, I don't blame you for being angry with me. I was an awkward fool, to propose marriage to you like that. Linda, dear, it wasn't just a way out of the scandal. I think you know that. But you didn't give me a chance to explain. You go around with that wretched chip on your shoulder, just waiting for someone to knock it off. Your pride is what has always stood between us, Linda. You wouldn't give me a chance. You wouldn't trust me."

Linda opened her eyes and smiled wearily. "If you'd waited on table and made beds and emptied slops and been insulted by drummers and looked down on by a whole village, maybe you'd have a chip on your shoulder too, Tommy."

His arms tightened around her. "You will marry me, then, Linda? You will marry me and go away from Marbury at once and be happy ever after?"

She frowned and drew away from him a little. "Go away at once, Tom! But wouldn't that look as though—"

"It would look as though you loved me and didn't give a damn for these old maids and cats and Babbitts in this town," he interrupted fiercely, tightening his arms about her.

Linda sat up and gently lifted his arms away. Then she sat gazing at him, all flushed and young and towzle-headed as he was. The two locks of brown hair over his temples were doing the Pan act again, and he had a smudge of soot across one cheek.

She leaned forward and drew him to her. "I don't give a damn," she said very softly.

A pounding on the door struck them apart as though a physical arm had been thrust between them.

Ramblin'
with
Marie Theresa

THE Wichita Falls Symphony orchestra under the direction of Eithel Allen Nelson is planning a trip to Altus, one of our neighboring Oklahoma towns, to feature the program of a week's musical entertainment in that city which is being termed "Music Week."

The Altus Chamber of Commerce and the MacDowell Music club of that city have gone to a great deal of trouble and expense to be able to engage the Wichita Falls musical group as a climax to their week of musical entertainment.

When a town from outside the state goes to considerable expense to import a musical organization from this city, it serves to remind Wichitans that they have a pretenttious musical organization whose services are sought after.

Probably when the call is issued for the formation of a Symphony Orchestra society, the organization of which has been afoot for some time, there will be a creditable number to respond.

A NUMBER of the younger girls of the city are manifesting a great degree of interest in the Joyzelle Summer camp for girls at Monte Ne, a beautiful resort in Arkansas and one of the loveliest spots in this section of the country.

This particular camp, under the supervision of Miss Iris Armstrong, has "pitched her tents on the top of the world" in the heart of the Ozarks. From this camp may be seen the purple hills, unexcelled in this section of the United States, covered with their morning mists and their last long evening shadows which breathe the kind of message that makes the young girl or boy feel that there is something of the spiritual in life, after all. The custom of sending adolescent girls into summer camps is growing in this country, and the idea is reaping its result in a healthier and more capable crop of young women.

THE members of the Womans Forum participated in an unusual and interesting luncheon yesterday. Under the supervision of a group of native Russians who are making their homes in the city, they planned and staged a Russian luncheon, the hostesses for which were American women dressed in Russian costumes. This idea follows the world citizenship plan that intrigues Marie Theresa and which may frequently be the topic of conversation with the readers (if any) of this column.

It was evident that guests at the luncheon entered into the spirit of the occasion and found something of the spirit of the hearty Russian, as they listened to interpretations of Russian novels and ate the Russian food especially prepared by native Russians.

That's the spirit that will bring about world peace and an end to this eternal chain of wars. When the lady who had such a good time saying to luncheon guests as they appeared at the club house door, "I am Mrs. So-and-So from Russia" realizes that a Russian woman dressed in American clothes and operating under the identical circumstances, would have felt just about as she felt, matters would be approaching an ideal condition of understanding. But the thing that is difficult for one nation to understand of another, is that the human heart is the human heart, no matter what the latitude of the country or the depth that has been reached by his national philosophy.

Dramatic Reader Presents Program Thursday Evening

Presenting an entertaining program made up of a series of life pictures taken here and there from human experiences, Miss Iris Armstrong, dramatic instructor in the Joyzelle summer camp for girls at Monte Ne, Ark., and head of the Iris Armstrong School of Dramatic Art in Little Rock, Ark., featured the program given Thursday evening by the Junior Forum department of the Woman's Forum, before an enthusiastic audience in the club house.

The dramatic program instead of bearing out a narrative content, was a series of human characterizations of comedy and pathos as well as a display of the everyday phases of life. Miss Armstrong was exceptionally clever in depicting the various characters of her program and brought down a well merited storm of applause.

Her first characterization was that of Nicoletta, a maid of Naples who was bidding her lover farewell as he embarked for American shores. Other characterizations included that of black Mammy Lou, a bit of nonsensical and humorous southland life; the dinner hour in a midwestern town home with the wrangling and homeliness of everyday life; the typical plight of a dear old lady who faced the age-old tragedy of renouncing the four walls in which she had been sovereign for may years.

A picture of rollicking humor was seen with the delineation of a Swedish immigrant maid about to have her photograph made to send to her lover in the northland; bits of broad humor for the younger members of the audience including impersonation of a child; the picture of a modern "colored lady;" a freckle-faced stuttering boy at 11 years of age and at 21; observations of a young man, in pantomime, and a picture of simple mountaineer life, and the meditations of an inefficient club woman.

The speaker was introduced by Miss Virgie Mae Adams, president of the Junior Forum.

The program by Miss Armstrong was sponsored by the Junior Forum to replace the May festival planned for May.

Mesdames Darrold Kahn and Claude B. Woods aided the members in presenting the event, which was well attended.

Forum Literature Department Gives Lovely Russian Party

One of the unusual society events of the month was the Russian luncheon and program given by the literature department of the Womans Forum Thursday, with Mrs. Max Shain in charge of details.

With the russian atmosphere carried out in the decorations, program, menu and costumes worn by the hostesses, the luncheon was an affair somewhat out of the ordinary.

Flags of soviet Russia were placed about the stage of the auditorium, which had been converted into a dining room. A Russian tea table with its handsome wrought urn-like tea pot and covered with an attractive Russian cloth, was on the stage. The hostess table was centered with a huge mass of red carnations. The hostesses were attractively attired in Russian peasant costumes and Russian boots.

Mrs. Fred R. Jones of Denver, Colo., was in charge of the program. Mrs. James C. Berney was in charge of the literary program, while Mrs. J. C. A. Guest planned the social phase of the event.

Hostesses were: Mesdames J. A. Fisher, Ted Harris, C. W. Gilliland, T. T. T. Reese, W. J. Grisham and Miss Clara Schulz. In the dining room were: Mesdames W. W. Cook, C. W. Snider and Harry Hines. Decorations were planned by Mesdames O. T. Gorsline, J. C. A. Guest and Berney.

The following program was given between the three courses of the luncheon: Russian dance by Charlotte Maer and Ruth Grisham; violin solo, "Eli Eli," by Joseph Rabinowitz, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Cortes Slaughter; interpretation of the Russian novel, "Bread Givers," by Anzieska Yelseska, a story of the family life of a Russian immigrant family living in New York, by Mrs. John McDonald; interpretation of "A Passion Flower" written by Edna Underwood, a story of the changing social status of Russia, by Mrs. Alvin Horwitz.

The native Russians among the guests were presented by Mrs. Berney, chairman of the department.

Guests present, many of whom also made reservations for guests, were: Mesdames Grover C. Johnson, Sam Egger, N. M. Clifford, Joe Bulton of Nocona; E. Garonzik, C. W. Clark, Davis, C. E. Bailey, J. C. She was attended by Miss Mary Jane Nelson while the bridegroom was attended by his brother, Drummond Harris. Miss Nelson was attired in a dainty frock of light blue georgette with harmonizing accessories and carried a bouquet of pink rose buds. The bride entered on the arm of her father, S. W. Larry Russell Sproles has evidently inherited a sense of color for most of his time is spent in coloring pictures. That is, the time that he is not spending playing out of doors and in reading. For a person only a little more than three years old, reading is an art that is difficult to understand, but we have it straight, his mother says he reads.

Larry Russell is the only child in the Lyle R. Sproles home which may account in part for the fact that he has begun his reading this early in life. He has his reading and painting studio at 1905 Pearl street.

Control of Flood Waters

"MUCH of the Mississippi flood could have been prevented if the flow from the tributaries could have been retarded," reads a Washington dispatch.

Which told the story of an important session of the house flood control committee. This committee adopted an amendment to the flood control bill appropriating $5,000,000 for a general tributary survey to determine their bearing upon floods in the lower Mississippi valley.

This survey is to determine what steps, if any, may be taken to control the tributary streams in the discharge of their flood waters. Congressman Luther Johnson of Texas is a member of the committee and the adoption of this amendment as to tributaries will include the Red river, the Arkansas river, the Canadian river, the Washita river, the Cimarron river, the Verdigris river and many streams in the southwestern country.

Vast reservoirs have been suggested for the impounding of the flood waters. Two of these reservoirs are proposed in the Red river basin near Denison. Why not the control of the waters of the tributaries to the Mississippi river? Why not reservoirs?

There are millions of acres of land which could be irrigated and made to blossom like unto a Persian rose garden. Water is the life giver of the world. Why permit it to be carried by the upper tributaries into the lower valley and thence into the Gulf of Mexico? It is said that the cost of flood control will reach $500,000,000. Why not utilize the angry flood if eminent engineers are convinced that the scheme is practicable and impound the water for the use of man?

Where They May Find Themselves

STATE COMMISSIONER GEORGE B. TERRELL is a farmer. He was born on a farm, he was reared on a farm, he was educated as a farmer, he owns a farm and when his political work is over, including his official work, he may return to the farm. Commissioner Terrell has been a dry all his life. He is for party harmony. He is for the return of the house of Jefferson to power in the nation. In a recent communication to the press of the state he made this declaration:

"Those who publicly declare they will bolt unless a prohibitionist is nominated for president and who are not willing to abide by party usage as practiced from time immemorial may find themselves on the outside of the Democratic breastworks at Beaumont and Houston."

Coming the merry month of May. Coming on May 5 the precinct conventions. There is a test prescribed by the state committee. That test has not been rescinded. All men who call themselves Democrats are asked to pledge themselves to support the nominees of the party. Champions of the test say that there is only one way to play the political game.

Those who enter the primary, precinct or otherwise, should agree to abide by the rule of the majority in county and state and nation. Those who are unwilling to abide by the rule of the majority should organize a party of their own. They do not hold to the age old doctrine that a pledge is a pledge.

Moody in the Open

GOVERNOR DAN MOODY, it is said, has no objection to the pledge subscribed by the state committee. He will vote in Williamson county and if the pledge is administered he will take it. Furthermore, if the question of prohibition comes up, "he will surely vote for it." A democrat is a democrat.

Headed for the United States Court

NOW it is said that the San Saba water bonds case is headed for the United States court, as the Texas board of water engineers desire the matter clarified so the securities can be sold. Isn't it possible for the lawmakers of Texas to enact legislation which is not full of blow holes? There will be a new legislature elected in November. It would be well for the people of Texas to send picked men to the senate and the house. They can be drafted. They should be made to serve.

Another Trial at Judicial Reform

THERE is to be another judicial reform campaign. Now it is announced a plan looking toward improvement in the court machine of Texas has been submitted by Samuel B. Dabney of Houston to the committee on judicial reform of the Texas Bar association. Elimination of excessive expenses of legal matters, simplification of procedure and lengthening the terms of the judges, are among the outstanding points stressed by Dabney. These measures and others are to be sought by constitutional amendment. Will it be another "swat 'em all" campaign?

Down On the Rio Grande

LAREDO is covering a large place on the map of Texas. And the Laredo of the future will occupy a very prominent place. A new 12 story hotel nearing completion in that city at a cost of more than $500,000, is said to be one of the most attractive buildings on the Texas-Mexican border. There is a new Texas civilization in the lower country. Bond issues for public improvement including irrigation, have had a vast deal to do with the making of this new Texas and its new civilization.

The Day Book of a New Yorker

By BURTON RASCOE

NEW YORK, April 12.—One does not get a true perspective of the piles of stone and steel that bear the name of New York, until one has seen them from the air. From the Woolworth Tower, a human is as insignificant as a fly, from a plane 5000 feet up, moving 125 miles an hour, the same tower is as unimpressive as city hall in Lexington, Ky. From the air the city's enchantment is enhanced, and one discovers beauties hidden to the wanderer in the skyscraper canyons.

The Daily Worker, published by the Communist party, recently attacked New York dramattic critics because they made fun of "Hoboken Blues," written by a Communist and supposed to be a serious revolutionary play. The Worker explained to its readers that of course the critics were vindictitvs in the reports be cause they were hirelings of capitalism. "The Interests" would not allow such a play to survive.

Possibly the Worker didn't know that "Hoboken Blues" was produced with money generously advanced by Otto H. Kahn, head of one of the greatest banking houses in the world, and renowned patron of the arts. Kahn is the "angel," or financial banker of numerous "art" theatrical ventures.

Pity the poor millionaire who lives in the country! Roads are so congested with auto traffic that his limousine has to move at a snail's pace going to and from the city. Some wealthy residents of Long Island are avoiding this by commuting in fast motor boats. Harrison Williams, New York banker, is building a 90-mile-an-hour hydroplane, to bring him to his Manhattan office from his Glen Cove, L. I., estate. Another Long Islander makes frequent trips to and from his estate in a seaplane.

The circus isn't what it used to be. While the glittering wagons of the "world's greatest show" were being pulled by hired horses into Madison Square Garden for the final rehearsals before opening the season, the biggest circus man of them all, John Ringling, was up at the Metropolitan Museum, of Art buying Greek antiques for his home in Sarasota, Fla.

The horses that pulled the wagons were not prancing Belgians, Percherons and Clydesdales, sleek and dreadnaught-footed, but ill-assorted, bony, unkempt equines such as circus agents were able to find here and there in the city. The circus is going to be here a month, and the efficiency expert of the organization figured it'd be cheaper to hire horses than to feed the regulars here for four weeks.

HIGH SCHOOL RECORD OF "A FINE YOUNG MAN"

We have been reading the high school record of what appeared to be a most promising young man. Here it is: Vice president of senior class; president of Webster club; president of school chapter National Honor society; member debating team, member of student council three years; business manager of school newspaper; literary editor of school annual; president of school's classics club; junior aide of Thucydides club; selected by seniors as the "best boy orator." By all the rules, such a young man should be expected to attain prominence. He did. Everybody has been reading about him. His name is William Edward Hickman, murderer of little Marion Parker of Los angeles; also convicted of a previous murder, and under sentence of death. All of which proves nothing, except that one can never tell how a youngster may turn out.

ANOTHER VOICE FOR MANAGER GOVERNMENT

I'm for the city manager system. It may be undemocratic, the fellows who follow politics for a living say it is, but Tammany hall is also undemocratic and a lot of fairly respectable people are rallying to that bunch. I prefer to remain rock-ribbed in the latter case.

THE "CANARY" MURDER CASE

by S. S. VAN DINE AUTHOR OF THE BENSON MURDER CASE

© Charles Scribner's Sons

promise and spiritual renunciation with which the painters of all ages have sought to endow their conceptions of the Eternal Magdalene. Hers was the type of face, voluptuous and with a hint of mystery, which rules man's emotions and, by subjugating his mind, drives him to desperate deeds.

Margaret Odell had received the sobriquet of Canary as a result of a part she had played in an elaborate ballet of the "Follies," in which each girl had been gowned to represent a variety of bird. To her had fallen the role of canary; and her costume of white-and-yellow satin, together with her mass of shining golden hair and pink-and-white complexion, had distinguished her in the eyes of the spectators as a creature of outstanding charm. Before a fortnight had passed—so eulogistic were her press notices, and so unerringly did the audience single her out for applause—the "Bird Ballet" was changed to the "Canary Ballet," and Miss Odell was promoted to the rank of what might charitably be called premiere danseuse, at the same time having a solo waltz and a song* interpolated for the special display of her charms and talents.

She had quitted the "Follies" at the close of the season, and during her subsequent spectacular career in the haunts of Broadway's night life she had been popularly and familiarly called the Canary. Thus it happened that when her dead body was found, brutally strangled, in her apartment, the crime immediately became known, and was always thereafter referred to, as the Canary murder.

My own participation in the investigation of the Canary murder case—or rather my role of Boswellian spectator—constituted one of the memorable experiences of my life. At the time of Margaret Odell's murder John F.-X. Markham was district attorney of New York, having taken office the preceding January. I need hardly remind you that during the four years of his incumbency he distinguished himself by his almost uncanny success as a criminal investigator. The praise which was constantly accorded him, however, was highly distasteful to him; for, being a man with a keen sense of honor, he instinctively shrank from accepting credit for achievements not wholly his own. The truth is that Markham played only a subsidiary part in the majority of his most famous criminal cases. The credit for their actual solution belonged to one of Markham's very close friends who refused, at the time, to permit the facts to be made public.

This man was a young social aristocrat, whom, for purposes of anonymity, I have chosen to call Philo Vance.

Vance had many amazing gifts and capabilities. He was an art collector in a small way, a fine amateur pianist, and a profound student of aesthetics and psychology. Although an American, he had largely been educated in Europe, and still retained a slight English accent and intonation. He had a liberal independent income, and spent considerable time fulfilling the social obligations which devolved on him as a result of family connections; but he was neither an idler nor a dilettante.

Vance was not yet 35, and, in a cold, sculptural fashion, was impressively good looking. His face was slender and mobile; but there was a stern sardonic expression to his features which acted as a barrier between him and his fellows. He was not emotionless but his emotions were in the main intellectual.

I kept a fairly complete record of the cases in which vance participated, little thinking that I would ever be privileged to make them public; but Markham, after being defeated, as you remember, on a hopelessly split ticket at the next election, withdrew from politics; and last year Vance went abroad to live, declaring he would never return to America. As a result I obtained permission from both of them to publish my notes in full. Vance stipulated only that I should not reveal his name; but otherwise no restrictions were placed upon me.

I have related elsewhere the peculiar circumstances which led to Vance's participation in criminal research, and now, in the face of almost insuperable contradictory evidence, he solved the mysterious shooting of Alvin Benson. The present chronicle deals with his solution of Margaret Odell's murder, which took place in the early fall of the same year, and which, you will recall, created an even greater sensation than its predecessor.

A curious set of circumstances was accountable for the way in which Vance was shouldered with this new investigation. Markham for weeks had been badgered by the anti-administration newspapers for the signal failures of his office in obtaining convictions against certain underworld offenders whom the police had turned over to him for prosecution. As a result of prohibition a new and dangerous, and wholly undesirable, kind of night life had sprung up in New York. A large number of well-financed cabarets, calling themselves night clubs, had made their appearance along Broadway and in its side streets; and already there had been an appalling number of serious crimes, both passional and monetary, which, it was said, had had their inception in these unsavory resorts.

At last when a case of murder accompanying a hold-up and jewel robbery in one of the family hotels up-town was traced directly to plans and preparations made in one of the night clubs and when two detectives of the homicide bureau investigating the case were found dead one morning in the neighborhood of the club with bullet wounds in their backs, Markham decided to pigeonhole the other affairs of his office and take a hand personally in the intolerable criminal conditions that had arisen.

Hers was the type of face, voluptuous and with a hint of mystery, which rules man's emotions and, by subjugating his mind, drives him to desperate deeds.

Health and Diet Advice

Shower Baths Best.

In this generation we of America are so used to taking baths that it does not seem possible that bathing is really a modern practice, and that Continental Europe even today lags far behind in this hygienic practice.

In the time of the French kings they had no bathrooms or wash tables, and seldom washed at all. In 1780 a student in the theological school of Leipzig university was not allowed to pass his examination for the bachelor's degree because of his modernism, which consisted in washing his whole body. It was whispered that the miscreant actually took baths! The Belgian medical authority in the 18th century advised that if bathing was too difficult an undertaking, people ought to put on clean linen at least once every six weeks.

In the case of the Dutch Calvinists it was good hygenic form to wash one's feet very seldom and the head never, although it was common practice to wash the hands quite frequently.

In the diary of Pepys the washing of his feet was such an extraordinary event that he marked it down on his diary as having occurred on May 30, 1663.

It will be seen from the foregoing that we are in an anvanced state of sanitary evolution, and that there is no reason for pessimism regarding the matter of public hygiene.

It is only within the last 50 years that the use of the bathtub has become quite general even in America. The doctor occasionally finds a patient who believes that it would be injurious to his health to take a bath every day, but the common practice among our best citizens is to take one or two baths daily.

The increase in bathing has been so general during the last five to 10 years that it is now my custom to warn patients against taking too many baths, and to advise them which is the best kind to take. People sometimes develop almost a mania for taking too many tub baths, and consequently weaken themselves by the use of too much warm water which makes their tissues flabby and depresses the circulation on account of the relaxing effect of the heat upon the blood vessels.

The best kind of a bath for all purposes is the shower bath. This can be taken in an ordinary bathtub if you do not have a built-in shower. You can secure an attachment for the bathtub in any drugstore at a cost of about a dollar, which is suitable for the purpose. A good plan is to take some exercises upon arising in the morning, and follow this with a cold shower bath, allowing the water to first play on the feet, then higher up on the body until the whole body has been wet for five or 10 seconds. There is no advantage of taking a long bath even if it is a shower bath. The body should be dried vigorously with a coarse towel, and the skin made to glow under the effect of the rubbing.

Another good time of the day to take a shower bath is late in the afternoon, before dinnertime. It is always a good plan to take some vigorous physical culture exercise prior to the shower, as this will increase the circulation and open up the pores which can then be cleansed by the flowing shower bath. If you are ever going to use warm water, take a warm shower just before retiring, when it will act as a seditive, and tend to relax the nervous system.

The only danger in taking too many baths is that you are apt to take too many tub baths, especially of warm water. It is almost impossible to take too many of the shower baths, particularly if you use cold water as much as possible.

Questions and Answers.

Question: Mary J. asks: "What causes hard skin around the fingernails? How may I stop this? Also, what is lime water good for? Is it good to take when one has boils?"

Answer: There is a natural hard ring of skin around the fingernails. This is made tougher if it is trimmed or cliped during the manicure. Lime water is used to counteract stomach acidity and, with other alkaline water is frequently recommended for the treatment of boils. But it takes more than this to stop the cause of boils which come from a combination of outside infection and thoroughly taxic blood stream.

Question: Housekeeper writes: "You mention wholewheat mush in your menus for breakfast. Can one buy this kind of wholewheat where the health foods are sold?"

Answer: Almost every small city now has a store where you can buy real wholewheat flour or the coarse grained wholewheat which may be used for mush. Wherever you find a health food store you will surely be able to get this ground wholewheat.

QUESTION: B. R. B. writes: "I am 24 and have had an enlarged gland in my neck since I was 5. It is about the size of a pea. Causes me no trouble, but I do not like the looks of it. Sometimes when I have a cold it is larger. Should I have it removed by surgery?"

ANSWER: The enlarged gland is probably an over-distended lymph node which gets larger when you have a cold due to the increased amount of waste carried by the lymphatic circulation. This enlarged gland can doubtless be reduced through treatments and a careful diet, or it can at least be kept from getting any larger. If it is removed surgically, there will only be an added burden on the other lymphatic glands which usually then enlarge, creating more trouble.

Texas Mother Finds Best Plan

When Nature fails you, try and help yourself by the most natural method! That's the advice of leading authorities nowadays; and for over fifty years it has been the plan of the makers of California Fig Syrup. The quick, easy way this pure, wholesome product relieves children of those symptoms of stubborn bowels, such as headaches, biliousness, coated tongue, bad breath, no appetite or energy, etc., and makes them strong, energetic and rosy-cheeked again shows there's no use drugging a child, with harsh purgative medicines. And Fig Syrup helps give tone and strength to weak, flabby stomach and bowels so they continue to act of their own accord and you don't have to keep dosing them. Its popularity is shown by its sales record of over four million bottles a year and by the praise thousands of mothers are fairly showering on it. A Texas mother, Mrs. M. H. Goodrich of 1530 S. Olive St., San Antonio, enthusiastically declares: "My big, fat boy, Milton Jr., is now six. He is strong and energetic and weighs 43 pounds. I give California Fig Syrup a lot of credit for his condition. I have used it with him since babyhood for every cold or upset spell. It always regulates him quick and starts him to eating right and improving in every way."

Your protection against inferior substitutes is the word "California," which always appears on the carton of genuine California Fig Syrup.—Adv.

Favorite Jokes of Famous People

As Told by Them to

FRANK ERNEST NICHOLSON

By ZANE GREY.

Zane Grey, as every one knows, writes stories of the great open spaces of the west, where men are men and women are women and a nickel is 5 cents.

He has written over thirty books, most of which have been serialized in the leading magazines and made into motion pictures. Some of his best-known novels are "The Thundering Herd," "The Call of the Canyon," "Wanderers of the Wasteland" and "Riders of the Purple Sage."

Mr. Grey practiced law in New York for six years. It was his early ambition to become a judge, but finally he decided that a judge has too many trials, so he turned to fiction writing.

Mr. Grey favors a fishing story—a topic that is always popular with him. This is it:

Captain George Walker, of Savannah, used to have an employe on his Georgia plantation who loved ease and fishing. When he wasn't fishing he was loafing.

"One night there was a rain almost heavy enough to be called a cloudburst, and the next morning all of the low places on the plantation were flooded with water.

"Passing his tenant's cabin, Captain Walker found him seated in an easy chair just outside the kitchen door fishing in a small puddle of water that had formed there.

"'Henry, you old fool,' said Captain Walker, 'what are you doing there?'"

"'Boss,' said Henry, 'I'se jes' fishin'.'"

"'Well, don't you know there couldn't be any fish there?'"

"'Yessuh,' said Henry, 'Ah knows dat. But dis yere place is so handy.'"

KIEFER IS EFFECTIVE AND SPUDDERS BAT HARD TO WIN AGAIN

JOE TROUNCES SPORTS, 5 TO 1

Champs Field Brilliantly; Sears Leads Attack

By LARRY DAILEY
Record News Sports Writer

Our Spudders are on their way again. Playing like the real champions they are, in which they batted hard and timely and accorded excellent support to superb pitching by Joe Kiefer, the home nine took the second straight yesterday from the Sports out at the orchard. The score was 5 to 1, indicating it was the Spudders' game all the way.

Which it was. We got off to a three-run lead in the first inning, and with Kiefer keeping the Shreveport blows well scattered and bearing down when threatened, it was just a breeze for the stocky right-hander.

The clan of Williams pounded Homer Blankenship, brother of the famous Chicago White Sox Ted, right merrily. In fact, 12 knocks were made off Homer, with a majority of the champs getting at least one knock and five of them clouting a brace of singles each.

Sports Get Eight Hits

The Sports were held to eight hits and in only one inning did they make more than one blow. Their sole run was due to an error, the only Spudder misplay of the contest.

Ziggy Sears, the veteran left-fielder, was the big factor in the enemy's attack. Ziggy hammered three hits, one a double.

Turgeon, Fitzgerald, Jenkins, Stanton and Kiefer each whaled two hits, Wally Swenson smacked a triple, the Spudders' first extra-base hit of the season, and Lamb clouted a single for the champions' blows.

Stanton Again Stars

Young George Stanton, the rookie first baseman, whom some of the critics and fans at Fort Worth are inclined to view with skepticism as a Texas league ball player, again played scintillating ball. In addition to his batting Stanton fielded with skill and grace.

Benton and Fitzgerald also flashed some speedy defensive work and all the Spudders were steady afield. This was in contrast to the five errors made by the Sports.

The Spudders reversed the procedure of opening day when the Sports scored three runs in the first inning by tallying a trio of markers. Benton's grounder went through Kilduff. Turgeon singled to center, Benton racing to third. Fitzgerald's hit to right scored Benton, Turgeon going to third. Lamb crashed to center, sending Turgeon home, and Fitzgerald to third. Kilduff tossed out Jenkins on Tom's grounder deflected by Blankenship, Fitzgerald scorind and Lamb reaching second. Swenson was safe on Bloxsom's boot. Stanton hit into a double play, Bloxsom to Kilduff to Whelan.

Sports Score in Third

The Sports counted in the third. Swenson's error on Kilduff's bounder gave Pete a life with one out. Sears singled to right, Kilduff going to third. It was Ziggy's second hit. Wilson forced Sears, Turgeon to Benton, Kilduff scoring. Swenson took Holman's foul.

Wichita Falls added one in the sixth. Cox made a fast play on Jenkins' hit off the right field wall and threw out Tom at second, Kilduff taking the throw. Swenson smashed to left for three bases. Stanton strolled. Swenson scored and Stanton went to second on Bloxsom's error on Kiefer's roller. Benton lifted to Cox.

Williams' hirelings counted a fifth run in the eighth just for good measure. Jenkins led off with a hit to left, Swenson sacrificed, Blankenship to Whelan. Stanton singled to left, Jenkins scoring, and George went all the way to third when Sears let the ball roll by. Joe Cobb struck out. Blankenship tossed out Kiefer.

Notes of the Game

In an effort to sweep the series Manager Williams will start Tom Estill on the mound in the final game today.

It will be the last game at Athletic park until Sunday, April 22, when the Panthers open a three-day stand. The Spudders leave tonight on a road trip opening at Fort Worth tomorrow and including Shreveport and Dallas before they return to their own bailiwick.

Frank Tobin, a former Spudder, got a hand from the fans when he went to bat in the second inning yesterday. He caught a good game, threw out two Spudders trying to steal and whacked a hit.

The Sports protested in the third inning that Cox had caught Fitzgerald's shoestring drive. But Umps Donnelly decreed that the ball was trapped.

Fast fielding helped Kiefer in the sixth. Benton made a sparkling stop of Holman's grounder and Stanton snatched Swenson's high toss and tagged Whelan for the last two outs, with Sears on third.

Bloxsom made a difficult catch of Lamb's lift in the seventh and doubled Turgeon at second.

Dick Cox can hit. But the Sports' right fielder has been at bat eight times in the two games without a blow.

Benton played errorlessly again for the second straight game. He handled eight chances yesterday without a misplay.

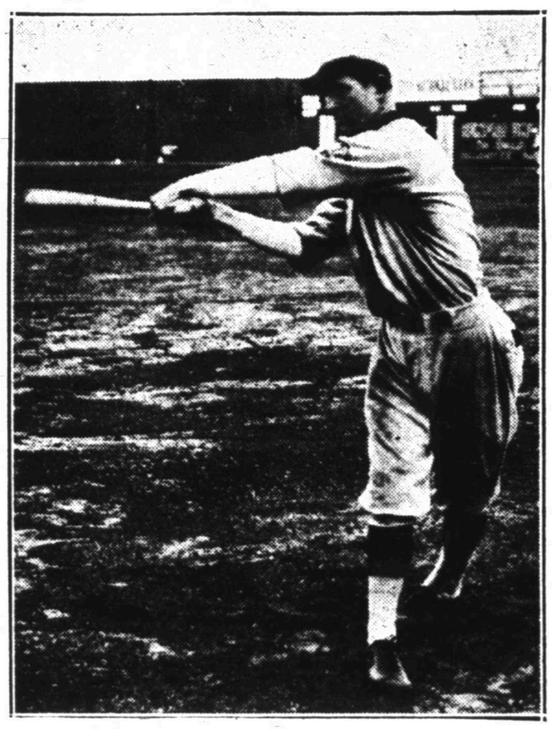

Fitzgerald was deprived of a possible chance to make it a perfect day at bat, when the ball hit his mace and bounded fair while he was dodging one of Blankenship's hooks in the fifth.

Kiefer and Swenson won prizes yesterday. Joe gets two awards for being the first winning pitcher for nine innings, a Silvertown tire from the Silvertown Tire company and a box of candy from Fell's confectionery. Wally Swenson will received a hat from the Loeb Liepold company for his first three-base hit.

In the past year nearly $20,000,000 worth of crude drugs was ground for preparation of medicines in this country.

Austrian government railways now operate 2579 locomotives, 31,455 freight cars and 5641 passenger cars over 2916 miles of track.

THE KID LOOKS GREAT

Any doubt that George Stanton would fill the shoes of George LaFayette as Spudder first baseman has been removed. The youngster from Virginia has played brilliant ball at bat and defensively in the first two games with the Sports.

Ordinance Prohibits Throwing Snowballs

LOS ANGELES, April 12. (US)—It's against the law now to throw snowballs in Los Angeles county. No, there's no catch in this—even though most people don't know there are ever any snowballs handy here. But every year, Mount Lowe and other mountain peaks in the county are covered with snow. And small boys, fighting winter battles across the highways, have broken many automobile windshields. So the county supervisors have passed an ordinance making it a misdemeanor to hurl snowballs across the roadways.

Color Mingling Riles Senators

WASHINGTON, April 12. (UP)—Southern democrats in the senate and house threatened further steps today in the campaign started by Senator Stephens, democrat, Mississippi, to persuade Secretary of Commerce Hoover to rescind his order mingling colored and white clerks in the census bureau.

Stephens made public late yesterday an exchange of correspondence with Hoover in which Stephens contended the Hoover order would be opposed by all those who had the interests of both races at heart.

In reply, Hoover said that newspaper accounts of the change were "in a large degree foolish untruths" and pointed out that no complaint had been made to the department by the employes.

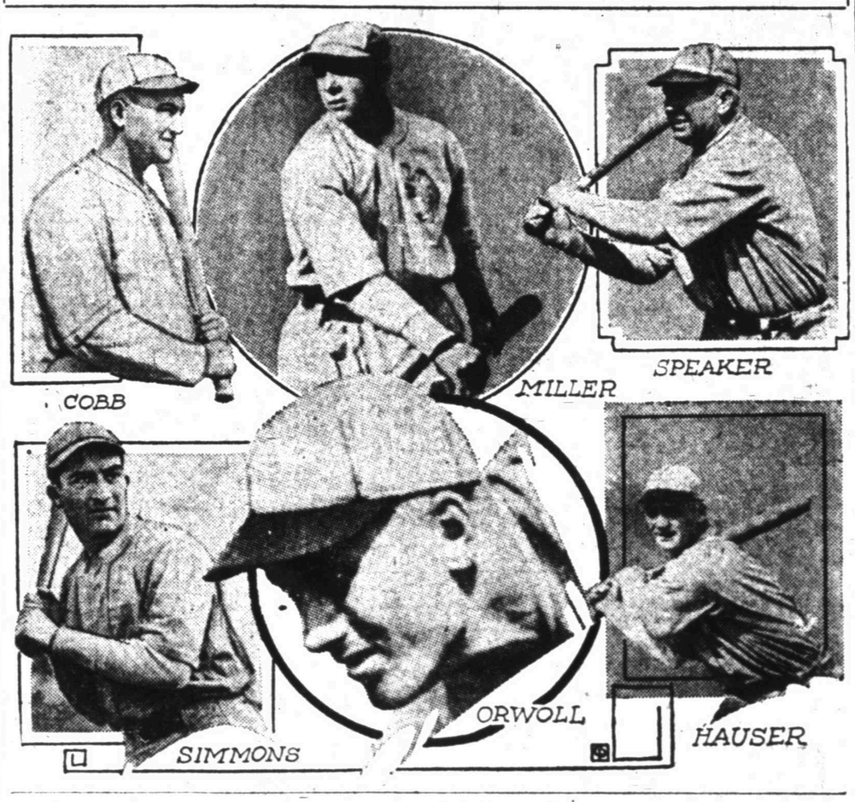

Stephens then wrote Hoover urging him to rescind the order, saying the clerks were afraid to complain for fear they would be discharged.

Investigation had determined that there are 65 colored employes out of 1000 in the bureau, scattered so that there are only one to four negroes in the same wings with 100 white clerks.

COCKRELL TIES SPRINT RECORD

Texan Equals Paddock's 100-Yard Dash Mark

AUSTIN, April 12. (AP)—Aubrey Cockrell, Austin Athletic club running star and last year's captain of the Texas university track squad, equalled Charlie Paddock's world record of 9.5 in the 100-yard dash at a triangular university track meet here Thursday, running in a special event, with three Texas university freshmen.

Although Cockrell's mark was doubted at first, a later check up showed the 9.5 time on four stop watches. Only a slight wind was behind him—not as much as the breeze helping Claude Bracey of Rice Institute to equal Paddock's mark at the recent Texas relay games here.

Cockrell is a candidate for the Olympic games. Taking 12 first places, Texas university easily won the meet with 99 points. Southern Methodist university registered 27 and Baylor university 28.

VIGARE BREAKS LEG AND PEEL INJURES ANKLE AS WACO WINS

CUBS TROUNCE BUFFS, 8 TO 5

Both Hurt Players Out Of Game Several Weeks

HOUSTON, April 12. (AP)—The clouting Cubs Thursday socked out an 8-to-5 victory over Houston, but the result of the ball game is insignificant, for in the seventh Homer Peel, brilliant Buff left fielder, and Felix Vigare, stellar third sacker of the Waco Cubs, suffered injuries that may keep them out for the rest of the season.

Vigare broke his left leg just below the knee. Early Thursday night an X-ray was being taken to determine whether Peel's right ankle is broken. At any rate, Peel will be out of the game for several weeks. Score:

BEARS COP SECOND STRAIGHT

SAN ANTONIO, April 12. (AP)—After the sporters started scoring in the opening round on a couple of two baggers they were unable to hit Jack Robertson with runners on the bases in any of the succeeding innings while the Bears worked on three pitchers to win the second game of the series Thursday, 10 to 1. Bases on balls, coupled with a costly error and opportune hitting netted the Bear runs.

Ray Flaskamper led the hitting with a couple of triples after he had beaten out a bunt and taken a walk. He came through with a three bagger in the eighth with two runners on the bases.

Trade Winds That Blew In Winter Harsh and Balmy in Springtime

Browns Profit While Tigers Seem to Have Made Bad Bargain —But Season Is Young Yet, Remember.

By FRANK GETTY
United Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, April 12. (UP)—The Major league baseball season is only about one and one-half days old, what with high winds, low temperatures, and April showers in the east, but already in a number of instances fans have had a chance to judge the effect of the trades which were the sensation of the winter stove league period.

For instance: The Chicago Cubs have lost both games they have played through infield errors. To the fans who followed the winter trading, this is most significant, for Joe McCarthy took quite a gamble when he swapped his efficient—his only efficient—second baseman, "Sparky" Adams for "Kiki" Cuyler, an autfielder who was not as badly needed by the Cubs as he was elsewhere.

Freddy Maguire, elected to "Sparky's" shoes, has done well enough at bat, considering the fact that Cincinnati's pitching has been unseasonably effective, but Freddy has kicked in with a bobble in each game. So has Elwood English, who is McCarthy's only present bet for shortstop. English's second error of the year started Cincinnati's scoring in their big six run inning today.

Cuyler Welcomed.

On the other hand, it must be admitted that the Cubs are glad of "Kiki's" presence in the outfield, for Hack Wilson is out for a week or ten days with a sprained ankle received in the opening game.

When George Moriarty of the Tigers traded Heinie Manush, hard-hitting outfielder, and Lou Blue, first baseman, to the St. Louis Browns for Harry Rice and Vangilder, the fans criticized him as being the only manager to fail to get the better of Dan Howley last winter.

The Tigers are engaging the Browns in the opening series, and whereas Moriarty had hoped to get the jump on his eastern American league rivals, Detroit has dropped the first two games of the year.

Today it was the former Tigers, Manush, Blue, and O'Rourke, who led the attack which won for the Browns, 7 to 2. Blue scored the first run against his former teammates, and Manush drove in O'Rourke a bit later. Both Blue and Manush figured in the big eighth inning rally which broke up the ball game.

Browns Profit.

Meanwhile, Harry Rice, upon whose outfield play Moriarty had counted so heavily, contributed one of Detroit's four errors. Gehringer, Tiger second baseman, made three bobbles.

It was Sam Gray, obtained from the Athletics, who pitched the Browns to victory in the opener, thus chalking up another to the credit of Dan Howley's winter trading. Yet Bing Miller, sent to the Mackmen, proved their most effective hitter in the one game played, and Ken Williams, sold to the Red Sox, led his team's hitting.

Burleigh Grimes, obtained by the Pittsburgh Pirates in a trade for Vic Aldridge who never did show up in New York, proved a bad bargain for Donie Bush today, since he was ineffective against the Cardinals and dropped a 5 to 0 decision to "Old Pete."

So it goes, some managers satisfied, others sore, but the winter trades are having their immediate effect upon the pennant races.

TEXAS SCORES EASY VICTORY

Longhorns Beat Frogs And Baylors in Meet

AUSTIN, April 12. (AP)—Texas university ran away with a triangular track meet here Thursday, scoring 99 points to Southern Methodist university's 37 and Baylor university's 28.

Conference records in the broad jump and discus throw were exceeded by Texas university athletes. Smith leaped 24 feet and 3 inches and Baldwin, former Wichita Falls football star, hurled the discus 147 feet and 2 inches.

Texas won 12 first places, Daniels starring in the sprints. Because of the Davis tennis cup team exhibition matches, only a small crowd attended the meet.

Frogs Leave On Baseball Trek

FORT WORTH, April 12. (AP)—Coach Leo "Dutch" Meyer and his T. C. U. Horned Frogs departed Thursday night on their first long baseball trip. They will invade Austin Friday and Saturday for two games with the Texas Longhorns and jump to Waco Monday and Tuesday for a two-game series with the Baylor Bears.

This trip will complete four game series for the three Southwest conference teams, the Frogs having met the Steers and the Bears in two game play offs in Fort Worth. The Frogs broke even in both series, winning the first game in each instance.

The victory over the Longhorns here Tuesday was very much of an upset as the Frogs were figured to be easy pickings for Coach Billy Disch's outfit.

Spudders Transferred To Farm at Abilene

A flock of Spudder rookies, who will serve on the Abilene nine this summer, left yesterday for the West Texas league town to train until the season opens, April 25. Abilene is a farm of the Spudders.

Those who were transferred to the Abilene club are Galeria, Hillin and Jackson, pitchers; Guerra and Ward, catchers; Kallina, first base; Bob Turgeon and McCarthy, infielders; Ray Fitzgerald, Irwin and Taylor, outfielders.

Trojans Start Football Drill

Southern California Will Have Veteran Eleven

By Universal Service.

LOS ANGELES, April 12. — Enough veterans and lettermen to fill every position with the exception of guard, reported to Coach Howard Jones in the first afternoon of spring football practice at the University of Southern California. Captain Jesse Hibbs, all-American tackle, headed the talented array of gridders who hope to make up the 1928 edition of the Thundering Heard.

If the first game of the year were scheduled for next Saturday, Jones could present team of men who played in practically every game last year. He has Lowry McCaslin, Francis Tappaan, Tony Steponovitch and Charley Boren, a quartet of veteran ends, back for the wing jobs; Hibbs and Cecil Hoff at tackles; "Marc" Anthony, Clark Galloway, John Porter and Alvin Schaub for guards; Nate Barrager at center; Don Williams, quarterback; Russ Saunders and Lloyd Thomas, halfback; and Harry Edelson, fullback.

Porter and Schaub are the candidates for the running guard position, left vacant by Hert Heiser's graduation. Every other man named made a letter last year. Anthony and Galloway play the same guard, and on a Jones-coached team, the various positions are not interchangeable.

The loss of Morley Drury, all-American quarterback, and Howard Elliott, from the quarterback position, leaves the job entirely up to Williams. He will be assisted by Rocky Kemp.

Tunney Signs for 1929 With Mr. Tex Rickard

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., April 12. (UP)—Gene Tunney admitted today that he has signed a contract with Tex Rickard, giving the promoter exclusive right to the heavyweight champion's services in 1929.

"Of course, if I'm not champion after the next fight, it doesn't count," explained Gene. He said he had agreed to fight no more than once this year.

COLEMAN NINE BOOKS GAMES

Bob Couchman Wields Ax; Hunts More Players

COLEMAN, April 12.—Two additional games have been added to the Coleman club's pre-season schedule with the San Marcos Teachers slated to tangle with Bob Couchman's proteges on April 16 and 17. Both games will be played on the Coleman lot, which is now being put into condition for the opening of the season and for the practice games scheduled here.

On April 18, Coleman will play Daniel Baker college of Brownwood here and the following day will return the game in the Billies' pasture, according to the schedule on file at the office here.

A comparison of strength between two league teams will be the first fire works Sunday, April 15, when Couchman takes his club to San Angelo for a tussle with Red Snapp and the club being amassed there.

Although wet grounds have hampered training in Coleman, Couchman is weeding his squad to a training limit of 20 players and is signing new men for trial in an attempt to put the best possible team on the field during the coming campaign.

Agricola, who was slated to do mound duty for the San Antonio Bears this season, has arrived to be under the tutelage of Couchman and will work for Coleman this season, it was announced. At present the Coleman entry looks like a bunch of sluggers with a fair fielding outfit. A formidable pitching staff will no doubt be the result of more than 10 hurlers working for a post on the roster.

Vernon High Tossers Work Under Coach May

Special to the Record News.

VERNON, Texas, April 12.—A baseball team has been organized here and has started working out. The team is without adequate equipment and no schedule will be arranged for the season, but it is likely that several games will be played. The squad is working under Coach May, and he expects the boys to be ready for competition within two weeks.

Morgan Defends Title Against Eddie Martin

NEW YORK, April 12. (AP)—Tod Morgan of Seattle, Wash., junior lightweight champion, signed articles today to defend his title against Cannonball Eddie Martin, former bantamweight king, in a 15-round bout at Madison Square garden May 4.

Martin already has signed for the match to be fought at the class limit of 130 pounds.

COYOTES PLAY LAST GRID TILT

Preps Close Spring Work Saturday at Haskell

Wichita Falls High school Coyotes will play their last spring football game with Haskell at Haskell Saturday.

Two months of spring training has furnished a great deal of drill to old players and new.

Kenneth Mills, all-district fullback last year, played with the Coyotes at Ranger last week. He is one of the best men in the Coyote lineup and will be back for the team next fall.

Jerry Elliott has looked good as a quarterback this spring and is a valuable man as an interference leader. If Elliott continues to improve in form and proves able to stand under fire he may lead the regular team next season.

M. A. Smith, a letter lineman from last year's team, has been transferred to the backfield and has shown such ability as a triple threat man that he is likely to finish his school days as a back.

West, Patton and Deane have shown a lot of fight as linemen and will be valuable men to the team next season.

NEW YORK COTTON.

NEW YORK, April 12. (AP)—Failure of improved weather reports to cause general or aggressive selling in the cotton market today promoted covering, and early declines were followed by rallies. After selling off to 19.46 July advanced to 19.61 and closed at 19.58, compared with 19.55 at the close the previous day. The general market closed steady, net unchanged to 7 points higher.

The opening was barely steady at a decline of 2 to 5 points. Active months sold 7 to 9 points net lower in early trading under liquidation combined with local and southern selling.

Liverpool was a considerable buyer here at the decline which had resulted in a widening of the differences between the two markets and after initial offerings had been absorbed, the volume of business tapered off. No doubt failure of the better weather to promote heavier offerings was a disappointment to recent sellers for a reaction, which led to covering, and the market acted as if the early buying had left it comparatively bare of contracts for the time being. Selling on the weather news possibly was restricted to some extent by uncertainty as to the showing of the census bureau report on domestic consumption for March, which is to be published at the opening tomorrow.

May sold up from 19.60 to 19.78 and October from 19.30 to 19.43, the relative steady ruling of May helping the tone of the general list. The close was a little off from the best under realizing.

Private cables said there had been London and Continental buying in Liverpool on the strength of the market for Egyptian cotton, but that the turnover in cotton cloths was disappointing with Shanghai auctions unsatisfactory.

Port receipts were 7783 bales. U. S. port stocks 1,644,756. Exports 6727, making 6,093,623 so far this season.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, April 12. (AP)—Cotton prices were without a definite trend in today's slack trading with the stimulating influence of higher Liverpool cables and expectation of favorable March consumption being offset by more favorable weather in the belt. The general market closed steady at net gains of 1 to 5 points.

Little response was shown in the opening to better Liverpool cables than due that resulted mainly from a sharp advance in Egyptian futures both at Liverpool and Alexandria. Shortly thereafter old crop months ascended 2 to 3 points with the new positions remaining unchanged to 2 points down. After strengthening to levels 2 to 4 points above yesterday's close, the market turned easier on selling prompted by favorable weather in the belt and a forecast of similar conditions in the west. Reactions followed with May trading down to 19.32, July to 19.16 and October to 18.84, 6 to 11 points under the early highs and 6 to 9 points under yesterday's close. The decline was checked by covering.

Reports of a constant shrinkage in certified stocks here and at Galveston and Houston was a large factor in starting the market on the upgrade during the afternoon session. The climb was accelerated during the afternoon session by anticipation of favorable domestic mill consumption figures which are to be issued tomorrow. May reached 19.48, July 19.16 and October, 19.11. These prices proved to be the day's highest.

A wave of profit taking swept the market near the close, leaving but a nominal gain for the day.

Exports today 6727 bales. Port receipts 7783. Port stocks, 1,654,129.

Bonds

Leading Issues on New York Market

NEW YORK, April 12. (AP)—Trading in the bond market today centered around the New York tractions and some semi-speculative issues, with prices firm.

St. Paul adjustment 5s were bought in large amounts, gaining more than a point. Anaconda and Andes Copper 7s continued moderately active around yesterday's closing quotations. Bethlehem Steel 6s invaded new high territory, but some of the other high-grade issues were inclined to heaviness. A small amount of buying lifted General Asphalt 6s 2 points to 112.

New York railways income 6s and Third Avenue adjustment 5s both moved to new tops, while the Interborough Rapid Transit issues hovered around their previous highs.

Mexican 4s moved to a new high at 28. Kingdom of Italy 7s turned heavy, but the foreign group generally was firm.

Fear of Rediscount Rate Advance Causes Narrow Price Range In Day of Many Sales of Shares

By BROADAN WALL

Universal Service Financial Expert.

NEW YORK, April 12.—Fear of a rediscount rate advanced clouded speculative enthusiasm in a 4,400,000 share session on the stock exchange, today and held most stocks to a narrow price range after a rather spectacular opening.

Steel jumped nearly 4 points overnight and the speculative community thought the advance of the general list would continue with greater vigor. Quite heavy offerings of all the recent pool favorites appeared after the opening bulge, however, and as a result a good part of the gain was lost. While it failed to gain ground there was good support in evidence and most groups closed but a little under the final prices of Wednesday.

Call money eased to 5 per cent from a renewal of 5½, and appeared to be in good supply. Sterling moved higher in a generally firmer foreign exchange market. Wheat and other grains continued their advance while cotton recovered after early realizing.

During the early trading it looked as though General Motors and Steel would lead the biggest market on record. Transactions in the first hour were well over a 5,000,000 share-full-day level but volume fell off as trading progressed.

The Federal Reserve has none too much sympathy with the work of the "Big Ten" who are leading the current bull operations so there is the constant fear on Thursday that the reserve governors may decide to adopt a more aggressive policy than heretofore pursued.

However, when the loan statement was issued after the close it contained a pleasant surprise for the bulls inasmuch as it showed only $15,000,000 increase in borrowings for a week.

At the same time the reserve statements showed the banks have been doing little to alter money conditions in the open market as government security holdings remained practically unchanged.

The most powerful interests in the various companies are all in favor of merging but each waits for the other to make an offer so that no definite development is likely for quite a while. Interborough and other local tractions dipped with the rest of the list after early advance.

The traction bulls expect the fare decision within a week or so, pointing out that it usually takes that time after all papers are before the court.

General Electric recovered in the face of the easing in other active industrials as the rumors of dividend increases were in circulation again. Bush Terminal was another of the few stocks to move against the reactionary trend as further reports were heard of the increase in income since the first of the year. Some buying was attracted also by analysis that showed the stock was yielding over 8 per cent. despite real estate and other equities. Bethlehem Steel was churned in a rather lively manner with a report of a new pool given wide circulation, it being claimed that some of the radio bulls were interested in the group operations. Briggs also kept climbing with enthusiastic forecasts of earnings heard that mentioned the contracts with Chrysler, Ford, Paige and other motor car makers.

Curb

Leading Issues on New York Market

NEW YORK, April 12. (AP)—Heavy buying over a broad list today gave the curb market what at midday promised to be the biggest trading day in its history. Trading was in such enormous volume that the ticker was running more than a half-hour behind the market. The upward movement appeared to be a continuation of yesterday's rise and in sympathy with the bullish demonstration on the "big board."

Creole Petroleum was lifted to 14¾, a new high, on a turnover of more than 500,000 shares. Buying appeared to be inspired by announcement the company plans extensive expansion, Pantepec, Prairie, Penn Mex Fuel, Standard of Kansas and Tidal Osage non-voting also reached new peaks. The pipe lines also were strong.

Wire Wheel, moving to new high ground at 35½, led the rise of the motor accessory issues. At one time the press of orders necessitated a conference and nearly 50,000 shares had changed hands at noon, the activity of the stock being based on a federal court decision granting the company a preliminary injunction restraining sale of wire wheels on certain motor cars in Chicago and the seventh federal district. Marmon Motors advanced about 2 points to a new high at 49¾, accompanied by Warner Gear, Bendix A, Caterpillar Tractor, Checker Cab and others. Acme Steel, Aluminum Co., Industrial Rayon, Mead Johnson, Nichol & Shepard and Ruberoid were among others to invade new high territory. Deere & Co., British-Celanese, Celotex and a few others sagged under profit-taking.

The utilities showed group strength, many issued reaching new high ground led by Puget Sound, Southeastern Power, American Superpower and United Light and Power A.

Grain

By THOMAS TEMPLE HOYNE.

Universal Service.

CHICAGO, April 12. (AP)—Wheat climbed into new high ground today, but late in the session fell away from its tops to a close that showed, however, a good gain. All the other grains sagged lower. Corn was a dog.

At the end wheat was up ¾ to 1¼c; corn was 1 to 1⅛c lower; oats were down ¼ to ⅝c and rye was off ⅛ to ¾c.

Wheat acted as was generally expected, but the action of corn was a mystery. The cash market in the latter was strong. The cheapest grade of deliverable corn was 1 to 1½c over the May future. There was an active demand.

The weakness in the corn futures market appeared to be due to the speculative situation. Professionals and outsiders, turning to wheat, have deserted the corn pit temporarily or sold corn short.

If a decided covering movement in corn sets in, the corn market could advance very sharply. With the strength that has prevailed in wheat and rye, in which corn has not participated the idea arises that the selling of corn may have been overdone by traders who have been making profits in wheat.

May wheat sold above $1.50 in the latter part of the session before there was a rush of profit taking toward the end. That is a high price and reports of rain in the southwest might scare some longs out temporarily.

Much rye in the state was winter killed owing to the scanty snow covering during the cold months.

In the cash market wheat was up 1 to 3c; corn, unchanged to 1c higher; oats unchanged; rye, steady to ½c better; barley steady.

Market Comments

R. O. Harvey and company, rooms 636-37 Harvey-Snider building, received the following Thursday on cotton and grain from their New York and Chicago correspondents:

Cotton

NEW YORK—Small market, some increase noticeable southern offerings, which are being well absorbed by trade and speculative buying, probably induced by the expectation of bullish figures on consumption for March, which will be issued tomorrow. Should these figures be in line with expectations, some advance would likely occur, but we believe that unless the weather again turns unfavorable any such advance would be likely to attract southern selling and prove only temporary.—E. A. Pierce and company.

Grain

CHICAGO, April 12.—Wheat met with good support on all minor dips and while there was considerable profit taking, market shows a net gain for the day. Domestic millers were credited with buying May wheat and there was much short covering and some commission house demand for that delivery. The general trade was large. Cash trading basis relatively steady to half cent higher with springs showing the advance. Liverpool closed 1c to 1½c higher, Buenos Aires 1c lower at noon. There were many complaints of dryness and dust storms in parts of Kansas and Nebraska. The forecast is for cloudy and cold. See no prospect of pressure on wheat, but continue to look for good support on dips and until the southwest is visited by moisture or a better line is available on the crop there look for our market to maintain an advancing tendency.

Corn firmer early with wheat but encountered local selling credited to some of the larger local floor traders and liquidation of long holdings. A little buying against privileges steadied prices for a time but lack of support and continued pressure and liquidation was in evidence on all signs of firmness. Receipts estimated at 119 cars. Cash trading basis was steady to 1c higher with a good demand. Liverpool parcel market was higher because of indicated small shipments from Argentina, but United Kingdom bids for United States corn were said to be far out of line. Little corn offered to come here from the country or from outside markets. Anticipate further liquidation in corn and with interest centering in wheat do not anticipate any important support, but feel that the market will continue its sagging tendency.

Oats—Commission house buying advanced prices early but locals sold on the weakness in corn and prices reacted to a discount from the previous close. Trade light.

Rye—Heavy realizing developed and prices held within a narrow range, although helped by the strength in wheat and seaboard report telling of export sales to Norway.—E. A. Pierce and company.

BOISTEROUS COMEDY

"Before and After Taking," a one-act comedy, presented by senior class members in the auditorium Thursday, was received with boisterous bursts of laughter by the audience. Three characters were portrayed. Angelina, the girl, Katherine Keller, Eddie, the boy, Kenneth Kieth, and poor papa, Henry Will Barton.

"Before" was represented as a time anterior to the marriage of Angelina to Eddie. Due to papa's mania for phrenology, palmistry and spiritualism, Angelina is having much trouble in finding a husband. Palmistry tells by the shape of Eddie's thumb that he is cruel and avaricious. The thumb has been mashed. Finally they get married.

"After" is a "quiet" home scene one year after marriage. Tempestuous quarrels are raging. The play ends with peace once more supreme. Many remarks were made by the students commending the excellent acting of the characters and especially of Kenneth Kieth, who played the part of a broken hearted suitor and a hen-pecked husband to perfection.

TWO LAUGHS AND THOUGHT

Iris Armstrong, noted reader and head of girls' camp, read three selections for the Junior college-high school assembly Thursday morning. In fulfilling her purpose to bring the audience two laughs and a thought she read "My Mary" which portrayed a red-haired, freckled, stuttering boy, "Walk Right Up and Say Hello," and a pantomime of a young man getting himself ready to go to see his lady love. The pantomime brought forth heavy applause from the students.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

"In the spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of picnics" might well have been Shakespeare's version judging from the class social activities. Thursday night the high school sophomores met at the new bridge on the Charlie road and from there went to suitable grounds and enjoyed a picnic lunch.

Junior college freshmen are going to have a picnic Tuesday night and they have promised all kinds of entertainment from games to eating. Wednesday night Junior college seniors will congregate and go for a wiener roast and hay ride.

George Nelson defeated Earl Costello and Bill Lawrence won over Howard Miller in the high school "barnyard golf" tournament.

KNOT HOLE PASSES

Eight Rotary Club Knot Hole passes have been issued to high school boys and one more is eligible and will receive his pass in the next day or two.

SPECIAL RATE MADE

According to announcement by Mrs. Vaughn, special rates will be given to the high school and Junior college students who attend the operetta, "Blue Moon," which will be presented Friday evening and Saturday afternoon.

The district singining convention will meet Sunday, April 22, at Allendale, about eight miles southwest of Wichita Falls, according to an announcement made by J. S. Gore, secretary.

An invitation is extended to the public. All singers are requested to be present by 2 p. m.

STATE AID TO TOTAL $158,085

Number of Students Drops Fifty-Eight

Wichita Falls will receive $158,085 from the state of Texas for the support of its schools this coming year.

This sum reflects the school census of the city which has just been completed and shows a decrease of 58 children of school age in the city from last year. The number of students of school age now is 10,359, according to announcement made by W. W. Brown, secretary of the board of education.

As the drop in school census is 58, it means that the city will receive $855 less than last year from the state. Texas pays out its money to the schools not on the basis of the moneys received from the counties but at the rate of $15 for each child of school age.

COUNTY SHOWS GAIN OF 150 SCHOLASTICS

With approximately 2300 children of school age, the rural school districts of Wichita county will show an increase of 150 scholastics over 1927 figures, according to Burl Bryant, county school superintendent. All of the 21 districts except the Valley View school had reported to the county superintendent, and indications are that the Valley View scholastic registration will remain practically unchanged for the year.

Two of the districts have no schools, Mr. Bryant said, and the children of school age are sent elsewhere. Children in the Harmony district are sent to the Iowa Park school and those in the Evert district are sent to Burkburnett.

Largest increase over last year was shown by the Weeth district where the scholastic population showed a gain of more than 100 per cent. While 10 of the school districts registered an increase in scholastics, nine showed losses.

Comparative figures for the districts of the county for 1928 and 1927 follow:

Vaudeville Friday, Harold Lloyd in "Speedy," Saturday. Palace-Majestic. All good.

It will soon be too late to hear Al Jolson on the vitaphone at the Strand. If you have not seen "The Jazz Singer" and heard Al Jolson sing in it, you have missed something exceptionally good in the theater world here. Better see it while the seeing is possible.

Houston Beach hit a new note when he wrote "Wildcat" which has been transferred to the screen as "The Showdown," now at the Olympic theater. It is a story of the oil fields, and depicts many things with which everyone in this part of the country is familiar. It is making a real hit in Wichita Falls.

"Rose-Marie," the brilliant musical comedy, has been adapted to the screen with James Murray, Joan Crawford and House Peters. It is scheduled to open here at the Olympic theater Sunday.

Attorneys Agree On Bail In Slaying Case

Mrs. Clara Nichols, indicted on a charge of murder growing out of the shooting of her husband, J. C. Nichols, Easter morning, had not made bond late Thursday, and still was lodged in the county jail. Mrs. Nichols was indicted by the grand jury which adjourned Tuesday, following her arrest by police officers shortly after her husband had been shot. Since her arrest she has been lodged in the county jail.

G. Thornton of the 30th district court. No application for a writ of habeas corpus was filed in securing the bond.

Realtors to Discuss City Plan Meeting

Realtors of Wichita Falls, who several months ago promised a delegation to the 20th annual convention of the national conference on city planning at Dallas May 8, 9 and 10, will take up the matter at their Tuesday luncheon, according to announcements made Thursday by President J. M. Baber. The first day of the session, May 7, will be held at Fort Worth to allow the delegates time to inspect the progress of planning there.

The Kessler plan association of Dallas, the Dallas Chamber of Commerce, the city plan commission, and G. B. Dealey, president of the Dallas Morning News, and general chairman on arrangements, have received many letters from all parts of Texas and the Southwest, pledging the sending of delegates to the conference. From other states an attendance of 300 city planners, engineers, architects and civic leaders is expected.

Three "Top Acts" On Week's Bill

Vaudeville Program One Of Best of Season

By The Record News Critic.

A bill of solid strength with three headline acts announced, opened at the Majestic theater Thursday.

"All In Harmony," a musical act by Ernie and Billy Loos, former radio artists of station KYW of Chicago, takes the high place in this show.

There is an artistry in the singing of this pair that classes them with the best in the business. If their act was of the slightly more sensational character, it couldn't be kept out of New York for any great length of time. At present it is mighty good, but lacks just that one little punch to put it clear at the top. Their work is above the average for acts seen here.

Slim Timblin, Raymond and Russell have a black face act that is loaded with laughs. It starts on the Mississippi and ends there. There is no point to it save that it gives a good chance to portray lazy negro character and also to get off some wise cracks that make the crowds laugh. They have a lot of hokum, some songs and dancing which, added to the black face characterization, give a good value.

Welder sisters and a male quartet composed of Arthur Cappo, Larry Kramer, Beernie Dorsitt and Joe Pastor have a higher grade song and dance act. The girls have comedy of their own that lends variety.

Joe Keno and Rosie Green, eccentric dancers and comedy artists, are former motion picture and musical comedy artists. They appear in "A Hilarious Hodge Podge." Hal Jerome and Gloria Gray are seen in "Hoo's Hoo," a comedy act on Webster.

Elinor Glyn's books and shows always register, and this one is no exception as her picture "The Mad Hour," makes a big hit.

Hobart Wins Conference Meet

DUNCAN, Okla., April 12. (UP)—More than 500 delegates and visitors at the western Oklahoma conference of Methodist Missionary's society voted today to hold the next annual conference at Hobart. This was done after Ardmore and Chickasha withdrew in favor of Hobart.

A precedent of years was broken when the delegates re-elected Mrs. J. A. Mercer of Oklahoma City, president; Mrs. H. A. Cherry, Chickasha, vice president; Mrs. R. F. Jones, El Reno, corresponding secretary; Mrs. S. T. King, Oklahoma City, recording secretary, and Mrs. M. M. Dodson, Mangum, treasurer. All superintendents also were held over for another year.

For frightening a horse by throwing a cat on its back, William P. Stedman was fined $10 in Caerphilly, Wales, recently.

CHEST PAYMENT

Donors to Charity Fund Urged To Meet Pledges

Wichita Falls has fallen down to such an extent in the payment of its first pledges this year to the Community Chest that Miss Myrle Neely, in charge of the chest office, Thursday issued an appeal to the city to remember its pledges and make every effort possible to pay those which are now past due.

"On the first of March $12,000 was due," Miss Neely said. "We have worked hard to get these pledges in, but so far have collected only $7068. This is $5000 shrinkage on the first payments."
