Drive extended to Dec. 15

United Fund reaches 85 percent of goal

First National Bank of Rockport became the first Aransas County business to have 100 percent of its employees participate in the Aransas County United Fund's 1983 campaign, UF Publicity Chairman Jim Blankenship announced this past week.

In addition to the employee contributions, First National Bank President James Sorenson Jr. presented Blankenship with a check for $750 as the bank's own contribution to the 1983 fund drive — which has been extended until Tuesday, Dec. 15.

Through this past Friday, Dec. 2, the '83 United Fund campaign had attained $25,368.72, approximately 85 percent of its goal of $30,000. Blankenship expressed confidence the campaign could reach goal by its deadline next week.

Blankenship said most of the contributions to this year's campaign have come from the private rather than the business sector, adding, "The business community has contributed less than 5 percent." He said he is hoping more businesses will "come through" before the end of this year's campaign.

Among the businesses that have contributed, he said, is H.E.B. which recently donated $506.72 to the campaign.

Other recent contributors of more than $100 to this year's campaign include Don Douglass, $150; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Evans, $150; Mr. and Mrs. R. J. O'Brien, $250 and J. B. Williams, $125 in pledge.

Recent $100 contributions have been received from Lola L. Bonner, Coastal Dispatching, Irwin Real Estate, Dr. W. T. Kemmerer, Key Allegro Marina, Ledbetter Interiors, Live Oak Medical Clinic, Peninsula Development Company, the Rockport Area Board of Realtors and Rockport Cable TV.

Also contributing $100 recently were Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Koutnik, Col. and Mrs. Gerald Ladner, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Nystrom, William Price, J. Milton Sorem, Janis G. Wolvoord, Clifford Ponton, Robert L. Dewar, Joseph A. Durkin, Mariolivie Flume, Cyrus H. Nathan, Rip Nichols, Bert Petersson, Wilbur Sherman, Earl E. Shouse, Austin Taylor, Mrs. J. D. Williamson and Alfred Mortensen.

Additional $100 donations were received from Sam White, J. P. Archer, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Armstrong, Bruce Bieber, Marjorie Hailey, Otto Knippa, Mrs. Everal West, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Hansen, Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Greenlee, Aaron Mandel, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Wendell, Mrs. Robert P. Dunn, Judge and Mrs. Blair Reeves.

Other recent $100 donors are Kenneth Calloway, Fred Gwinn, Mr. and Mrs. Cam Leonard, Mrs. H. J. Bussa and Mr. and Mrs. James W. Bailey.

Earlier large donations, Blankenship said, included $2,000 from the Richardson Foun-

Chief Appraiser Groseclose resigns

Chief Appraiser Jack Groseclose has announced his resignation from that office with the Aransas County Appraisal District, according to Dan Shelton, chairman of the present appraisal district board of directors.

Shelton said the board had been made aware this past September that Groseclose was considering resigning from the post which he has held for about the past three years.

Shelton said he understood Groseclose was planning to remain with the district for a period after Jan. 1 in order to help orient his successor.

A successor to the chief appraiser cannot be named until after the first of the year due to the changeover from the present board of directors to an entirely new board that was recently appointed by the taxing entities which the appraisal district serves.

The new board — composed of Gordon Eckert, Al Johnson, Lenora Beck, Tom Rogers and Daughtry Roberts — is scheduled to have its first meeting on Jan. 3, Shelton said.

No members carry over from the present board which consists of Shelton, Harold

Earlene keeps her promise — plus

Collects 150 dolls for Toys for Kids

By PAT BLAIR
Managing editor

Just about a year ago, Earlene Martin pledged that she would donate 100 dolls to this year's Toys for Kids campaign.

With some help from friends, she's kept that promise — and a little more as, this past week, she gave 150 dolls to the program whose goal is to make Christmas a little brighter for Aransas County children.

Earlene said she wouldn't try to name all the friends who helped her collect the dolls, "because I'm afraid I would leave someone out," but she did name one — Juanita Crenshaw, who collected and dressed 30 of the dolls that were turned over to Toys for Kids this past week.

The project began last year at a Lions Club function which Earlene was attending with her husband John. John is a member of the Lions and it is the Lions that sponsor the annual Toys for Kids drive.

"I was visiting with Frances Iles (who has been involved in the project until this year), and I knew the Gold Stamp program was fading out," Earlene recalled during an interview at her residence.

"I've always loved dolls, and collecting dolls, and I saw this (the Toys for Kids) as a chance to do something good." So she volunteered to provide 100 dolls for this year's Toys campaign.

In past years, Toys for Kids relied heavily on Texas Gold Stamps to buy the toys which they distribute each year to parents who are financially unable to buy toys for their children at Christmas. With the discontinuance of the Gold Stamp program, Toys for Kids is having to rely solely on donations of cash and new toys.

Earlene said she collected the dolls gradually for Toys for Kids, buying one or two at a time on shopping trips. "My husband's been very supportive of the project," she added, and of course, she had help from her other doll-collecting friends.

Earlene said she and her friends tried to look for dolls that have a broad appeal, and the Toys for Kids collection includes a number of different Barbie dolls and Strawberry Shortcake characters as well as some that aren't on the market anymore — such as the Vogue and English Ginny dolls.

The 150 also include several bride dolls — "little girls seem to like bride dolls" — and a reproduction of the Byelo dolls that were popular during the 1920s.

A native of Oklahoma who grew up in Kansas, Earlene says she has "always" loved dolls and started collecting them about 10 years ago when she helped a friend buy dolls as a civic project in Lyons, Kans.

"Once you start collecting dolls for yourself or someone else, you can't stop," she said. "It's partly a matter of staying young — if you have a doll to dress, you can't think too much about getting older."

The Martins — who've been married 41 years and have four children — began coming to Rockport as Winter Texans eight years ago and moved here permanently four years ago. John is an amateur gardener who is "into organic gardening," Earlene said, and she sews, "loves to cook," is a Castaways volunteer and designs and makes her own jewelry.

She has just started an eight-week cassette course to teach her to play the piano by ear.

A little shy of receiving publicity at first for her Toys for Kids project, Earlene agreed to an interview in hopes of inspiring others to collect dolls — or other toys or books — through the year for the campaign.

"If several people would try this," Earlene said, "this project (Toys for Kids) would have no trouble next year.

"I've probably had as much fun out of this project," she added, "as any little girl will get at Christmas when she receives one of the dolls. These dolls are twice-blessed and I've had one of the blessings.

"It really has been," she said, "a very pleasant project."

PISCES seeks review of commercial fishing ban

AUSTIN — PISCES (Professionals in Seafood Concerned Enterprises) officials have announced plans to seek a review of the statewide ban on commercial fishing for red drum and spotted seatrout with an eye toward ending the ban which has been in force since 1981.

D. L. (David) Steed, executive director of PISCES in Austin, said the organization plans to go before Texas Parks & Wildlife Commission early next year with a formal request for a review of the ban. Hopefully, Steed said, the review would result in an end to the ban.

The ban was ordered by the Texas Legislature in 1981 in an effort, among other goals, to end the illegal taking of red drum and the spotted seatrout.

At a Nov. 9 meeting of the parks & wildlife commission, Steed told commissioners the illegal taking of the two fishes has continued despite the ban and maintained that evidence suggests those persons illegally harvesting the red drum and seatrout for resale are frequently not licensed commercial fishermen.

At that meeting, Steed called for improved enforcement of licensing requirements and apprehension of persons illegally selling fish to restaurants and other retail outlets. At the Nov. 9 meeting, PISCES briefed the commission on its plan to formally request a review of the commercial fishing ban. Steed pointed out that the 1981 legislation that ordered the ban also provided for a review of the ban at any time after Sept. 1, 1983.

In a telephone interview Monday, Steed said the parks & wildlife commission's next hearing is scheduled for January, "but we've been told that agenda is full."

Steed said PISCES was told their request probably would not get on the commission's agenda until February or March. He added he does not expect the commission to act on the request until later.

Steed's Nov. 9 presentation to the TP&W Commission disclosed results of several meetings by fishermen and a workshop held in Austin on Nov. 3 and 4 in which representatives of the professional fishermen, coastwide, agreed on the basic framework of a proposal to reopen commercial access to red drum and seatrout.

The plan contains provisions for documenting all catches and for cooperation from the commercial fishing community in effecting improved enforcement policies.

Details of the proposed plan, Steed said, are to be worked out in collaboration with Parks & Wildlife staff and interested sportsmen's groups. This proposal is expected to be presented to the commission at the same time PISCES presents its request for formal review of the fishing ban.

The consumer alert

Senior citizens are often easy prey for unscrupulous individuals

AUSTIN — Many businesses are offering special services to senior citizens. While most of these businesses are legitimate, there are some unscrupulous individuals who attempt to profit at the expense of senior citizens.

Some of the common frauds aimed at senior citizens are:

1. Home Improvements (especially those claiming to cut fuel costs):

— Siding and Storm Windows;

— Insulation;

— Heating and Air Conditioning;

— Roof Repair.

2. Business Opportunities (to make money in a short time with little effort):

— Work at home (envelope stuffing, art work, home assembly);

— Investment "opportunities";

— Distributorships and Franchises.

3. Self Improvements

— Dance Studios;

— Health Spas.

4. Medical/Health Frauds

— Miracle drugs or cures;

— Hearing Aids;

— Health Insurance.

5. Funeral and Burial

6. Charitable Solicitations

There are ways you can protect yourself from unscrupulous businesses:

1. Be suspicious of anyone who appears at your door uninvited. Before letting them into your house, ask them to show you identification. If they say they are representing a company, call the company and ask if this person works for them.

2. Don't rush into signing a contract, especially in your home. If the salesman has a really good deal, it will be available tomorrow. If the salesman won't leave a copy of the contract for you or says you have to sign now, it should be a warning to you to not do business with him.

3. Before doing business with any company, call the Better Business Bureau to find out the reputability of the company. It pays to check in advance so you won't have dealings with a known bad business.

4. Shop around before buying. You may be able to save a great deal of money by checking with several companies for price comparisons. This is especially true with home improvements when you are solicited at your home.

5. Deal with established firms. Companies who have been around for years have their reputation at stake and are more likely to satisfactorily take care of complaints.

6. Ask for references of satisfied customers and check them. If the company is unwilling or unable to give references, there may be something they are trying to hide.

7. Remember: Free inspections and expert advice may be available from reliable sources. The fire department may give free advice on smoke detectors, utility companies may inspect your heating and electrical system and the county may have other inspection services at little or no cost.

8. Don't make payment until you are satisfied. Be wary of repairmen who say they need to be paid before the work is completed. Check merchandise such as appliances, televisions and air conditioners before you pay. If the merchandise is delivered, be sure to see that it works before the delivery person leaves.

9. Be wary of miracle cures or quick ways to make money. Remember that if it sounds too good to be true, it probably is.

By following these few suggestions, you may be giving yourself peace of mind and security. You will be protecting yourself from getting into situations that may be difficult and time consuming to correct.

If you do have problems or more questions, call your local Better Business Bureau or the nearest Attorney General Consumer Protection Office in Austin, Dallas, El Paso, Houston, Lubbock, McAllen or San Antonio. The Attorney General's office is here to help you.

IRS offers advice on taxes

Like to stop paying taxes?

That's a very tempting idea, and proponents of this notion are making speeches and offering seminars around the country on the "How-to's" of tax evasion. The Internal Revenue Service, however, has some words of advice on the subject, too.

Working toward tax reform certainly is not illegal, the IRS points out. For example, urging changes in the tax laws is the right of every individual, as is arranging one's affairs to pay the lowest possible tax within the law. Also, if you hold securities so as to have a long-term instead of a short-term capital gain, the law supports your move.

But illegal tax protest, such as advocating or participating in a scheme that results in the unallowed underpayment or nonpayment of taxes, or not filing required tax returns, is illegal, the IRS states.

The IRS has the duty and tools, given by Congress, to enforce the Federal tax laws. When some individuals remove themselves from the law, the burden of taxes is greater for those who willingly comply.

In the interest of fairness for all taxpayers, the IRS says it will continue to enforce all Federal tax laws, including laws governing those who attempt to place themselves above the law by illegally refusing to pay their just share of tax.

Feed sale authorized

Congressman Bill Patman, D-Tx, has welcomed the U.S. Department of Agriculture's announcement of an emergency feed assistance program authorizing sale of low-grade corn to drought-affected farmers and ranchers.

But he criticized USDA's long delay in making the decision.

"For many livestock producers in Texas, the decision comes too late. Many have taken heavy losses and some have been forced to sell out because they coud not get relief when they asked for it during the height of the drought last summer," Patman said.

For those who still can benefit from the program Patman urged that they prepare immediately to sign up for corn from Commodity Credit Corporation owned surpluses. The bulk of such corn is located in Texas, Iowa, Minnesota, Nebraska and Illinois.

The signup period is Dec. 6 through Dec. 14 at county offices of the USDA's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

The ASCS offices will provide livestock producers a list of counties where they may choose to pick up their grain.

GAS BURNS CLEANER THAN ELECTRICITY

"I fry 'em up with gas because I know that even though electricity looks clean, somewhere something has to burn to turn the generators."

"If they burn anything but gas to make electricity, it's not burning as clean."

And even if they are using gas, you'd use a lot less with a gas appliance in your home.

RFSA soccer finals

Raiders take division title

Soccer season officially came to an end Saturday with the Raiders winning the Junior Division Championship 3-1 over the Mustangs.

The two teams had met four times during the regular season, and each team came away with one victory each, plus tying twice, so the stage was set.

With bad weather blowing in Saturday, the game had only gone a few minutes when the Raiders took advantage of a corner kick by Charlie Lozano, and teammate Russell Crawford played the kick and blasted a shot into the Mustangs' goal, giving the Raiders a 1-0 lead.

The same combination put together a play later in the first half as Crawford stopped a Mustangs clearing shot and fed Lozano who worked his way past Mustang defenders and nailed the second goal for the Raiders.

Throughout the first half there were great defensive plays by both teams, with Duane Solis and Alan Kohl rising to the occasion to stop the Raiders' other assaults. But it was the midfield play of Bubba Kellough, Paul Wilson, Danny Cox, Jason Moon and Ricky Romero that cooled off the Mustangs attempts to try and set up scores.

Leading Mustang scorer Robert Schoen, who was slowed by an injury during the week, was held in check by the Raiders defense.

In the second half both teams cranked up again and played hard. The Mustangs tried to use John Valdez, Eric Flores and Mario Hernandez to shoot at Nathan Arispe in the Raiders net, but Arispe, along with Matthew Birk, Darby McLead, and J.R. Martin kept the Mustangs away from the goal.

The Raiders got an insurance goal in the second half when Martin sent a clearing pass to Lozano who beat Kohl in the Mustang goal.

The Mustangs weren't finished, however, as they worked the ball down, and rushed the Raider goal. A bouncing ball was played by both Mario Hernandez and Eric Flores, and Flores directed the ball into the goal, cutting the margin to 3-1.

With the scoring over for the day, the game ended with the Raiders on top.

All-District football selections corrected

An error regarding All-District football selections was made in the Pilot weekender. Pirate linebacker Doyle Parr was selected for the second All-District defense team and this was not included in the article which appeared. The Pilot regrets the error.

Sheriff's deputies deal with burglaries, vandalism

A residence in the 700 block of Garrett Lane was reported burglarized on Nov. 26. According to the Aransas County Sheriff's Department, entry was gained through a back window. A list of missing items has not yet been given to investigating officers.

Wilfred Manuel of Rockport reported theft of a pickup truck valued at $500 between Oct. 13 and Nov. 13. Manuel had agreed to sell the pickup for a downpayment and additional weekly payments but has not received his money. Sheriff's deputies are investigating the incident.

The carcass of a slaughtered calf was found last weekend near a local holding tank area. No livestock thefts have been reported the sheriff's department recently.

The manager of a county motel reported criminal mischief last week when an unknown person or persons turned a control handle on the swimming pool filter system causing the water to be drained out of the pool. A damage estimate was not available.

Lee Meador reported that a building located in a holding tank area had been broken into and several cans of paint taken. Numerous other items in the building did not appear to be disturbed. The incident occurred sometime between Friday, Nov. 25, and Monday, Nov. 28.

Mochell Morris Larragee reported an incidence of criminal trespass after her residence was broken into at approximately 8:30 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 26. Nothing was reported missing.

A television set valued at $300 was reported missing from a resort in Fulton on Saturday, Dec. 3. The Aransas County Sheriff's Department is investigating the incident.

A golf cart battery worth $50 was taken from Live Oak Country Club sometime between 11 and 11:57 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 4.

Dale Cameron reported criminal damage to his boat after he was fired upon as he was in his boat in a canal behind Perch Street. A .22 caliber pellet was recovered from the side of his boat. Sheriff's department officials are investigating the incident.

Scouting takes big step forward

By Uncle John Leslie

Friday night, Dec. 1, was a great step forward for the Boy Scout program in Rockport and other coastal counties.

At the annual and final meeting of the Mustang District (a subdivision of the Gulf Coast Council of Boy Scouts of America), steps were taken to divide the district into two parts.

Rockport and the coastal communities will be in the Southern Part as of Jan. 1. The remainder of the towns now serviced by the Mustang District will be in the Northern District. More definite names are being voted on for the new year.

The South District, as well as the North, each will have a District Scout Executive. Richard Siemens, the new executive for the Southern District, with his wife and two sons has reported for duty and moved to Rockport. A complete set of officers will be elected and announced soon.

The first step in this reorganization, insofar as the South District is concerned, was the election of Bill Janecek as district chairman. He is the former owner of Radio Shack.

He is a very special man as far as Scouting is concerned. He has been involved in the program in many ways for several years. He leaves his position as financial man — a post he has held for three years and which has won him admiration — and will immediately assemble the rest of the district committee who will take over the supervision and promotion of the Scouting and Cubbing programs in Rockport and other coastal towns.

Those of us in the Rockport-Fulton area look to see more boys taking part in the program in the near future.

This last statement is going to require many new adult leaders, so be ready to volunteer.

Conference set Dec. 12-14

There's a lot of turf in Texas, business booms

COLLEGE STATION — There's a lot of turf in Texas — turfgrass, that is.

Taking into consideration golf courses, parks, cemetaries, athletic fields, grounds around business establishments and home lawns (but excluding highway rights-of-way), Texas boasts more than a million acres of turfgrass.

And the Texas turfgrass business is a booming one. Each year some $750 million is spent to maintain the one million acres of turf.

All this points to the importance of the turfgrass industry in the state and is a major reason for the annual Texas Turfgrass Conference and Show, points out Dr. Richard Duble, turfgrass specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

The 38th annual conference and show is slated for Dec. 12-14 at the Adam's Mark Hotel in Houston. Duble expects more than 500 individuals to attend, including grounds maintenance personnel and managers of golf courses, parks, athletic fields and cemeteries.

One of the conference highlights will be the opening session on Monday afternoon, Dec. 12, says Duble. Titled "Turfgrass Research in Texas," the session will feature discussions on the latest research findings relating to new grass varieties, water conservation, winter injury and new products.

The conference will also feature concurrent sessions on "Basic Turf Management," "Lawn-Grounds Maintenance" and "Golf Course Management." Each of these sessions will deal with a wide range of topics, including fertilization, cultivation, and weed, disease and insect control.

More than 100 exhibits and booths will be set up to display a host of turfgrass products and services, adds Duble.

Windows damaged, gun and lawn mower stolen

A plate glass window at a local furniture store was shot out at approximately 3:15 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 4. An alarm was triggered at the time of the incident but no other damage to the building was found by Rockport police officers.

A mini-stereo valued at $120 was taken from a burglarized building on Young Street sometime between Wednesday, Nov. 30, and Thursday, Dec. 1. A broken bedroom window was found to be the means of entry.

A shotgun was taken from a locked vehicle parked in the lot of a local discount store between 7:15 p.m. and 7:50 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 1. The owner of the vehicle, Billy Bechtol of Rockport, reported that the vent window on the driver's side had been broken out, the door opened and the gun removed from a rack at the rear window. Police are investigating the incident.

Diane Juroska of Fulton reported an incident of misdemeanor assault and criminal mischief under $20 after a woman damaged one of her high school class tassels and broke a silver chain. Juroska reported that a verbal argument had ensued and the woman pulled her hair.

Martha Luigi reported theft of a lawn mower valued at $300 from her Harbor Oaks residence. She said it is possible the theft could have taken place anytime within the past two weeks. The case is under investigation by Rockport police.

Police arrested one man for driving while intoxicated during the past week. In addition, three arrests were made for public intoxication and one man was arrested on charges of disorderly conduct and evading arrest.

AARP news

By Lucille E. Skrobarcek

The winners of game afternoon on Thursday, Dec. 1, were Maxine Eckhart and Mable Commo in bridge. The finale was won by Mable Ogle.

The hostesses for this party were Amy DeLeeuw and LoVern Scott. Refreshments were served during the afternoon.

The next game afternoon will be Thursday, Dec. 8, at 1 p.m. at the Paws and Taws Building.

The AARP-sponsored dances at 7 p.m. each Thursday are very well attended.

As an added interest, there will be a contest each Thursday night beginning Dec. 8, when the couple who can dance the best Polka will be the winner.

So join the festivities at Paws and Taws to the danceable music of Gene Rickles. The public is invited.

On Wednesday, Dec. 14, the AARP business meeting and Christmas party, will be held at Paws and Taws, beginning at 10 a.m.

The business meeting will be short. This will be followed by the annual Christmas program of the Rockport-Fulton High School Choir conducted by Martha Luigi. This is always an inspiring program and we urge all members to attend.

Santa Claus is next on the agenda. He will distribute gifts brought by the members and placed under the tree. The ladies' gifts will be marked "hers" and the men's gifts "his."

Each member attending is asked to bring canned and dried foods to fill the baskets for the needy. These will be distributed by the Aransas County Council on Aging and the Department of Human Resources.

The formal installation of newly elected officers for 1984 will be conducted by Robert Albritton, assistant state director.

After the installation, a turkey dinner with all the trimmings will be served, furnished by the chapter. Members are asked to bring a vegetable, salad or dessert.

Land board accepts first bids on VHA bonds

AUSTIN — Texas Land Commissioner Garry Mauro announced the Veterans Land Board accepted the first bids on the recently authorized Veterans Housing Assistance Program bonds on Tuesday, Dec. 6.

"I want the people of this state to have the opportunity to 'Buy Texas' by investing in some of the best, most secure bonds in the country," Mauro stated.

The Veterans Land Board authorized sale of $85 million in bonds at the Tuesday meeting. Following the sale, the Veterans Land Board will lend, at below market interest rates, up to $20,000 to help qualified Texas veterans purchase a home.

"The Veterans Land Board will finance the Veterans Housing Assistance Program by issuing bonds backed by the financial muscle of the State of Texas. These bonds will be financially self-supporting so they will not alter the traditional Texas conservative fiscal policy," Mauro said.

Since the inception of the Veterans Land Program 35 years ago, more than 80,000 loand have been made to Texas veterans to purchase over four million acres of land. "These loans have earned more than $100 million in additional revenue to secure favorable rates that are not only reflected in the Veterans Land Board bonds, but in all other Texas bonds as well.

Additionally, the program has never lost a single dollar and has pumped more than $830 million into the Texas economy," Mauro noted.

Following the sale of the bonds, Mauro said the interest rate which will be charged to the veteran will be published by Dec. 15. The Veterans Land Board will then be able to accept applications from lending institutions for loans from the Veterans Housing Assistance Program.

Veterans will apply directly to private lending institutions and be qualified prior to the money being loaned from the Veterans Land Board.

"As chairman of the Veterans Land Board, I am pleased to be able to offer Texas investors the opportunity to help Texas veterans help themselves," Mauro stated.

Now is the time to fish for sand seatrout

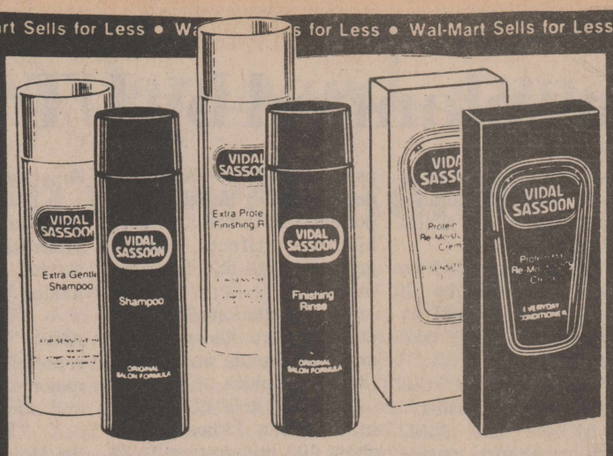

November and December are excellent months to catch sand seatrout, according to biologist Larry McEachron of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department. He said fishing around bay oil rigs, in channels or around jetties can produce large strings of the silvery trout.

"Sand trout are easily caught on dead shrimp or cut bait, fished on the bottom," McEachron said. "They offer an excellent way to introduce youngsters to the excitement of catching fish." He added that sand trout spoil easily, so it is advisable to put them on ice immediately.

Touring art exhibitions planned by UT

AUSTIN — For the next two years, all the arts exhibitions in Texas won't be just in big city museums.

Under a new program of the Texas Arts Exchange, located at The University of Texas, 26 arts exhibitions will be available for touring throughout Texas.

Target populations are particularly those in the smaller communities and rural areas of the state.

Local communities or nonprofit organizations may arrange with the Texas Arts Exchange to sponsor an exhibition. Exhibition durations generally are from three to six weeks. Some are available for longer periods.

Information about the touring arts exhibitions may be obtained from Allan Longacre of the Texas Arts Exchange, 471-1655.

An activity of UT Austin's College of Fine Arts, the Texas Arts Exchange is an alliance of the Texas Commission on the Arts, the Mid-America Arts Alliance and the Western States Arts Foundation.

Some financial assistance (up to 50 percent) is available to support part of the costs of sponsoring an exhibition. The funds come from the Texas Commission on the Arts.

The 26 shows available for touring represent a smorgasbord of items—from lithographs to Asian textiles, from photographs to etchings, from Navajo weavings to films, from Indian baskets to poster art, from Korean ceramics to old master drawings.

The available exhibitions include:

"Spirit of the Weaver," 22 contemporary and historical Navajo weavings.

— "Ceramic Art of Korea," 41 works illustrating ceramic techniques dating from 57 B.C. to 1910 A.D.

— "Old Master Drawings," 30 works by French, Italian, English, American, Dutch and Flemish artists from the 16th to 19th centuries.

— "New Releases: Works by New England Independent Filmmakers," five films by winners of the 1982 New England Regional Fellowships.

— "Ben Shahn: Photographs," made by the noted artist for the Farm Service Administration during the 1930's.

— "Through the Looking Glass: Drawings by Elizabeth Layton," 31 colored drawings, posters and brochures by "Grandma" Layton of Kansas, who took her first and only art class in 1977.

— " 'From the Tree Where the Bark Grows': North American Basket Treasures from Harvard's Peabody Museum," 61 containers, bags and hats that are rare examples of Native American baskets. Some are from the Lewis and Clark expedition.

— "Hokusai: Views of Mount Fuji," woodcuts made in 1834-35 by one of Japan's most distinguished artists.

— "Edward Steichen: The Portraits," about 100 portrait photographs made by the master photographer.

— "Juegos Y Juegetes, Toys and Games," a multidimensional exhibit illustrating the games and toys of Hispanic inhabitants of New Mexico and the Southwest.

— "Hollywood 1924-28: Paintings of Batiste Madalena," 44 paintings created as posters to depict memorable stars and films of Hollywood's silent screen.

— "Lithography in New Mexico," lithographs by 20 New Mexico artists and 33 photographs depicting the lithographic process.

— "Pathways to the West: the Art of the Poster," works by the late A.M. Cassandre, a French master of poster art.

— "John Sloan: Printmaker," 101 etchings by a noted American painter, draftsman, printmaker.

— "Crystal to Burnt Water: Navajo Regional Style Textiles," 11 mounted textiles showing major regional styles from Navajo reservations.

— "Sacred Paths: Aspects of the Native American and Hispanic Religious Experiences in the Southwest," historic artifacts, photographs, maps and interpretation.

— "Revolutions Per Minute (the Art Record)," 21 original sound works and related graphics.

— "The Role of Women in American Lithography," about 100 lithographs by 25 well-known women artists.

— "Large Scale Drawing," one or two works by each of 15 contemporary artists such as Alice Aycock, Christo and Philip Pearlstein.

— "Of Dust Bowl Descent, 40 Years on the Great Plains," documentary photographs of the 1930's and 1970's of rural life in Middle America.

— "How Movies Move," an interactive exhibit demonstrating processes involved in the creation of motion pictures.

— "Offset: A Survey of Artists' Books," contains reproductions of works by major visual artists in U.S. and abroad.

— "Flower Cloths: Art of the Hmong," appliqued and embroidered textiles sewn by Hmong women (from Southeast Asia) now living in Oregon.

— "American Images," 60 photographs by 20 important American photographers.

— "Paul Strand, 50 Photographs," works spanning his 60-year photographic career.

Hightower announces service to deliver corn to ranchers

AUSTIN — Texas Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower has announced his department will offer a special referral service to help drought-sticken West Texas ranchers arrange for low-cost transportation and processing of the federally-owned corn that is stored in the Panhandle.

"Our ranchers have been waiting a mighty long time for the Feds to turn this stuff loose," Hightower said, "and we don't want them to have to waste even more time trying to figure out how to get the corn shipped and processed into livestock feed.

The Reagan Administration insisted that provisions for transportation be deleted from Sen. Bentsen's legislation forcing them to release the corn, so a lot of our ranchers were still going to be left holding an empty sack while the corn sat 200 miles away.

"To give them a helping hand, our department will provide those ranchers with a complete list of options for hauling and processing the corn, assuring a competitive market for the ranchers' business," Hightower said.

"If the federal government allows the proper discounts for damaged corn, the ranchers ought to be able to buy it for about $1.80 per bushel or less, compared with a market price of about $3.10. But they will still have to move it out to the ranch in a form they can use, and this added expense could put it out of reach for many of these hard-pressed ranchers," he said.

"For sheep," Hightower continued, "the corn won't have to be processed, but it will have to be bagged for storage; almost all of the cattle ranchers will have to have the corn mixed with hay or processed into range cubes. All of that is going to add to the cost, and it will take a concerted effort to keep shipping and processing prices as low as possible, so these financially-strapped ranchers can make full use of the program.

"Our survey of the market shows that the corn can be delivered to Ft. Stockton, one of the most distant points, and bagged there for less than $3.08 per bushel, knocking about half off the regular market price. And in Sweetwater, where No. 2 corn was selling bagged for about $5.88 per bushel, we think ranchers can carry home discounted federal corn for around $2.80. We've been talking with many of our ranchers out there and their county agents about pooling their orders and using volume to get even better rates on both transportation and processing," Hightower said.

One man injured in pedestrian accident

A Rockport man was injured when he was struck by a car while walking across the 900 block of E. Market Street at 8:43 a.m. Monday, Dec. 5.

James McNeil Cowan, 84, suffered minor injuries when he was struck by a vehicle driven by Carmen Hernandez Garcia of Rockport. Garcia was eastbound on Market Street when Cowan walked out in front of her car. No tickets were issued in the accident.

No injuries were reported in an accident at the intersection of North Live Oak and Enterprise Streets on Dec. 1. Neither of the two drivers, James Huffman of Rockport or Rodolfo Zavala of Rockport, were ticketed.

Fifth graders to publish newspaper

The fifth grade honors English class at Rockport Elementary School is publishing a newspaper as an enrichment activity. The newspaper, Pirate Mania, will be entered in the Mini Page Newspaper Contest sponsored by the Universal Press Syndicate. Students throughout the nation in grades kindergarten through sixth will be competing in the contest.

Students have been busy conducting interviews, writing news stories, creating original art work, composing poetry, gathering facts, conducting surveys, writing entertainment items and taking pictures in preparation of the final product.

A highlight of this continuing project was a visit by Rockport Pilot reporter Leslie Abrams, who spoke to students about newspapers. She brought newspapers as well as actual layouts and negatives of one paper. She also took pictures of the students.

A followup activity was a tour of the Rockport Pilot which was conducted by Bob Scott, Pat Blair, Becky Werhan and Abrams, who told students details of their individual jobs. Demonstrations were given of various machines and students received a copy of their first names in headline type. The pictures which were taken in the classroom were developed as the students watched.

Presently, three fifth grade newspapers are being planned. The first issue will be distributed on Dec. 15 to fourth and fifth grade students.

Upcoming events:

RFHS Band concert, 7 p.m. Friday, Dec. 9

RFHS football banquet, 7 p.m. Monday, Dec. 12

Live Oak Elementary Christmas program, 7 p.m. Tuesday, Dec. 13

New program to stimulate state economy

The people of Texas overwhelmingly decided on Nov. 8 that we need the Veterans Housing Assistance Program and the Veterans Land Program. More than 70 percent of those voting gave their approval for these programs which will allow Texas veterans to purchase either a home or land at no cost to the taxpayer.

Under the Veterans Housing Assistance Program, eligible Texas veterans will be able to borrow up to $20,000 to apply toward the purchase of a home. Veterans will apply for the loans at their local lending institutions and use the $20,000, which will be loaned at a rate below the current market, to help lower their monthly payments.

Because the Veterans Housing Assistance Program will be financed through the sale of general obligation bonds, the program will not cost the taxpayers a single penny. Private lending institutions will be administering the program, so we will not have to create any new government bureaucracy costing additional taxpayers dollars.

Not only will this program benefit Texas veterans, it will also be a stimulus to the entire state economy. For every dollar we invest into the housing or the land program, another $7 will be placed into our state economy. That means we will pump an additional $5.6 billion of new money into Texas.

The Veterans Housing Assistance Program will also be creating new jobs for Texans. At least 45,000 new jobs will be created as a direct result of the Veterans Housing Assistance Program.

We have 619,000 Vietnam veterans in Texas and over 1.8 million veterans of all ages. We are especially hopeful the Veterans Housing Assistance Program will enable those veterans who have been unable to purchase a home to become first time homeowners.

The low interest $20,000 loan from the Veterans Housing Assistance Program will lower the payments a veteran must make by $600 per year. Because of the $20,000 loan from this program, a veteran can make $170 less in income per month to qualify for a loan from the private lending institutions.

During my campaign for Texas Land Commissioner and in my first 10 months in office, I discovered the people of Texas agreed with me when I said "we don't need to do the veterans a favor, just repay one." The Veterans Housing Assistance Program is one way in which we can repay our veterans for their service.

Livestock marketing hazardous

By MIKE ROTHROCK
County Extension Agent—AG
San Patricio & Aransas Counties

With the holidays season approaching, livestock producers need to be aware of the hazards of marketing animals during this time of the year. I offer these "tips" for marketing stock during the next few weeks:

— Remember, many local livestock auction markets close over the holidays. It pays to make a phone call before loading up any animals destined for market.

— Most market news reports are discontinued or skipped certain days during the holiday period. Price information may be hard to find.

— Many ranchers, because of some holiday vacation time, will be spending extra time with their livestock. Watch for some possible heavy movements of livestock to markets at times during the next few weeks.

— Christmas and New Year's Day are on Sunday this year and the official holiday is Monday. This normally is a heavy slaughter day—so the supply impact of two Monday holidays this year may be quite substantial.

— Kosher traditions also affect cattle demand. This is especially true when non-slaughtering, Kosher holidays fall close to Christmas holidays. Such conditions can easily cause several days of extremely low slaughter and thus drastically affect the demand for cattle.

— Price levels are influenced by the holidays. In general, if prices for cattle are moving upward going into the holidays, a period of stability occurs until the new year arrives.

If, however, prices are moving downward, further market weakness during the holidays is a certainty. Fortunately, this year prices should show strength for the holiday period.

— The demand for red meat is greatly influenced by holidays. Not too many consumers are eagerly anticipating a steak dinner on Thanksgiving or Christmas Eve.

Local men are featured in 'Yum Yum Tree'

Two Rockport men, Terry Beattie and Paul Pierce, are featured in the cast of "Under the Yum Yum Tree," the Lawrence Roman comedy now being presented at the Harbor Playhouse in Corpus Christi.

The play opened Friday, Dec. 2, and is being performed at 8 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays through Dec. 17. This is the last production of the year at the Playhouse, located in Corpus Christi's Bayfront Park.

Beattie has the role of Dave, playing to Peggy Glissen's "Robin," a young woman who wants to prove compatability then marry. A newcomer to the Harbor Playhouse, Beattie has stage credits from Garland College and the University of Texas at Dallas, including the role of Biff in "Death of a Salesman."

Pierce, a theatre professional and managing director of Repertory Theatre of America, has the role of Hogan in Roman's comedy. Pierce is making his local debut with this production.

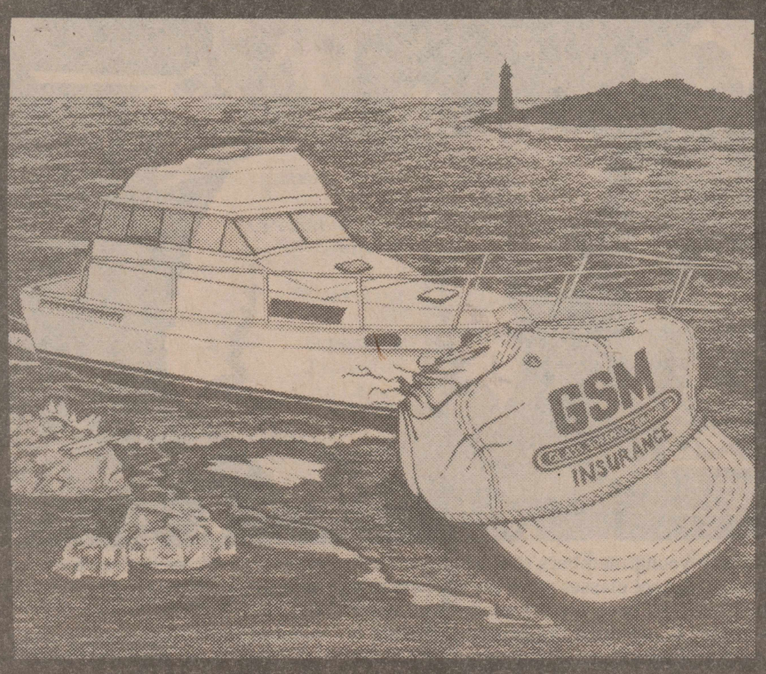

Rounding out the cast of "Yum Yum Tree" is Jan Stewart as Irene.

CORPUS CHRISTI — Groundbreaking ceremonies for Central Power and Light Company's new computerized Energy Control Center were held at 10 a.m. Friday, Dec. 2, at the site of the $1.2 million project in Corpus Christi Industrial Technology Park, South Padre Island Drive and Bear Lane.

The sophisticated 13,500-square-foot facility is designed to improve CPL's efficiency of operations and result in savings to customers.

The heart of the control center will be a redundant computer system which will continuously process data from the company's nine generating stations located throughout South Texas in order to maintain the lowest possible fuel costs.

The computer will "talk" to remote computers in San Benito, Calallen, Victoria and Uvalde to provide the means to monitor the status of CPL's bulk power transmission network. In addition, the computer will link with the Central and South West Control Center computer located in Dallas and along with CPL's sister companies — Public Service of Oklahoma, West Texas Utilities and Southwestern Electric Power Co. — provide the information necessary to economically schedule electric generation throughout the CSW system.

This joint dispatch of the four operating companies will make available to CPL customers lower-cost energy than can be produced by some of the generation currently within the company.

The control center, of hurricane-wind resistant prefab concrete design, is situated on a six-acre site and will initially be staffed with 23 employees.

The 24-room facility will have a 2,700-square-foot control room, a 1,700-square-foot computer room and a microwave communications center planned to meet the company's growing need to consistently assure economical, efficent and reliable system operation and energy production. Boeing Engineering and Construction of Seattle won the bid to supply the computer system, peripheral equipment and control programs.

The building was designed by McCord and Lorenz Architect and Engineer and will be built by Fondren Constructin Company. Construction of the center is expected to be completed by October 1984 with full operations expected in March 1985.

dation and $1,000 each from Mr. and Mrs. Earl P. Burke Jr. and Dennis O'Connor.

Shirey, Horace Naquin, Jerre Ledbetter and George Taggart, and under terms of the state legislation that created the county-wide appraisal districts, the present board cannot enter into any contracts that extend beyond their term of office.

The county-wide appraisal districts were created by state legislation passed in response to a statewide vote of Texas residents in 1976. The legislation was signed into law in 1978 and in 1982, the appraisal districts were officially activated statewide.

In Aransas County, the appraisal district — whose present duties are to appraise property at current market value for all taxing entities within the district — actually began performing some duties in 1980-81. Groseclose has been serving as chief appraiser for the district since it began operations.

The Aransas County district serves the cities of Rockport and Fulton, Aransas County, the Aransas County Independent School District, Aransas County Navigation Distr. and the Aransas County Municipal Utility District which serves Goose Island Lake Estates in Lamar.

The appraisal district collects no taxes but is funded by the entities it serves. The amount paid by each taxing entity is based on the percentage of that entity's tax base in the county.

Tip for parents: try rotating your child's toys periodically

The growing child

Some time [maybe even now] your child will have more toys than she can use, or more than there is room for. When this happens, she may drift from one toy to another for only brief and superficial play, according to Growing Child, the monthly child development newsletter.

This is a sign that it is time to put some of the toys away for a while, leaving only current favorites. With a more limited selection of toys, a child will learn to be more inventive and resourceful in looking for new ways to play with each toy, and her attention span will get longer.

From time to time, switch toys from storage to playroom for an ever-changing variety. A rainy day is a good time for this activity: exchanging "old" toys for "new" toys can help overcome boredom. If a child is old enough, she can help decide which toys to put away and which to bring out.

These periodic switches offer you a good opportunity to examine the toys. If any parts are missing, write to the manufacturer for replacements. If any repairs are needed, do them. If the toy is damaged beyond repair, discard it or salvage whatever may be reusable. A "junk" box of old toy parts can be a treasure chest to an older child who likes to tinker with construction projects.

Never throw away a useable toy, even though you think a child has surely outgrown it. Children play with toys in different ways at different ages. A feature that might not have been evident originally may offer pleasure a year or two later.

A child who is sick in bed recovering from an illness often prefers a less challenging toy, one she has played with earlier. Besides, it's always good to have a selection of toys for younger children, whether visitors or your own. Save good toys; they may turn out to be another generation's treasures!

Growing Child has a catalog of unique, educational toys, books, and records for children up to 6 years old. To get a copy, send $1 to CATALOG, P.O. Box 620N, Lafayette, Indiana 47902.

Act responsibly when serving alcohol this season

COLLEGE STATION — Many holiday party hosts think serving alcoholic drinks demonstrates their hospitality.

Yet for their guests on diets or medication and those who want to be sociable without drinking, alcohol can cause problems. For guests with a drinking problem and especially those who drive, alcohol may bring disaster, says Dr. Mary Ann Huessner, a health education specialist with the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service.

According to figures recently released by the Texas Nommission on Alcoholism, says Huessner, 11 percent of Texans have drinking problems. And it's obvious that most party guests will drive home, whether they are sober or not.

True hospitality involves more than giving guests drinks, says the specialist. If alcoholic beverages are served, the host can help guests enjoy the refreshments without fostering drunkenness.

The following suggestions for party hosts will help insure a sociable but sober holiday party:

— Serve the food promptly if it's a dinner party. Cocktails are supposed to enhance a fine dinner, not compete with it. After too many drinks, guests may not know what they ate or how it tasted.

— For a cocktail party or buffet, serve food while the guests are drinking, not after. Food slows down the rate at which alcohol is absorbed into the blood stream. It also slows the rate at which people drink.

— Serve non-alcoholic drinks too. In Texas, 40 percent of all adults choose not to drink at all. Occasional drinkers sometimes prefer not to. Don't hide the non-alcoholic drinks in the kitchen. Make sure punch, fruit juice, soft drinks, tea or coffee are as easily available and attractively served as alcoholic drinks.

— Monitor a self-serve bar or keg. It's even better to have a responsible person serve as a bartender. Be wary of the eager volunteer who may use the opportunity to give every glass an extra "shot."

— Pace the drinks by serving at regular, reasonable intervals. A drink-an-hour is a reasonable rule of thumb.

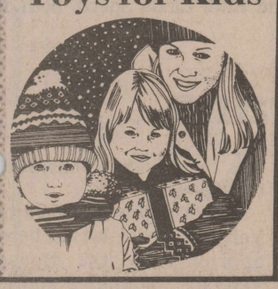

— Don't serve double drinks. Many people count and pace thier drinks. If you serve doubles, these guests will drink twice as much as they planned.

— Don't push drinks. Let the glass be empty before you offer to refill. And then don't rush, especially if someone comes up empty too fast. Don't insist or even protest if a guest says "no thanks" to an alcoholic drink.

— Set drinking limits. When a guest has had too much to drink, politely express your concern by offering a substitute drink such as coffee. This is a gentle way of telling the guest that he or she has reached the limits you have set for your home.

Pittsburgh Steelers veteran quarterback Terry Bradshaw, who is recuperating from offseason elbow surgery, said he did not feel like he was a member of the team and he is "bitter" about Steelers head coach Chuck Noll's recent comments about him. Noll was asked at a news conference why Bradshaw didn't attend Steelers' games. He replied, "If he can't play quarterback for us, he's not much use to us." Bradshaw said he was willing to work in the press box or on the sideline to help quarterback Cliff Stoudt call plays but he hasn't been asked to do so. He also said he asked to go on the road trips but "they told me no. Since I'm not a part of the football team, I act like I'm not a part," said Bradshaw. "All I try to do is get well."

One of the great sporting figures of all times was Pierce Egan who was one of the most prominent athletic authorities during the Regency years of England in the late 1700s. Egan was a gambler, a wastrel, womanizer, drinker and one of the great all-time authorities on boxing, explained Breck Wall, producer-star of the hit Nevada revue, "Bottoms Up '83" which has been on the boards for over 26 years. Wall went into independent producing when he was approached by freelance writer Valerie Sears with the Pierce Egan story.

"I thought it was an interesting project," said Wall. "It has chivalry, color, intrigue, glamor and, obviously, romance. I think that is all that it takes to make a popular motion picture today.

Los Angeles Raiders defensive end Lyle Alzado, who at the age of 17 yanked a young man out of a car and beat him into a coma in New York, has learned to control his temper. Two months ago Alzado auditioned for a television commercial in Hollywood. After reading the first few lines, he looked up and noticed the producer and three stagehands were paying more attention to their hamburgers and french fries than they were to his recital. Alzado resisted his primal urges to attack and simply called his audience "pigs" and offered to force-feed the producer the script for dessert. "I don't have that temperament anymore," said Alzado. "I still have a bad temper, but I'm not as temperamental as I used to be."

NFL commissioner Pete Rozelle said the players and owners are at peace with each other one year after the first strike in league history, with drugs the league's biggest headache now. Rozelle, speaking during an informal news conference before the Steelers-Vikings game in Pittsburgh, said the relationship between the NFL and the Players Association was "healthy," mainly because Gene Upshaw replaced Ed Garvey as head of the NFLPA. "I think for now the tenor of the players association has changed," Rozelle said. "When Garvey was there he wanted to make a controversy out of everything. It isn't that way now. I hope it stays that way." Rozelle said the NFL was using a "three-pronged attack" against drugs. "We use heavy education and treatment . . . if they (abusers) come forward," he said. "The third is if they don't come forward and run afoul of the law . . . we'll take disciplinary action."

Shep Messing, goalie of the championship N.Y. Arrows, has been bringing the entire team to Kokura II (82-89 Jericho Turnpike, Woodbury, NY) to get them all prepped up for next season in the Indoor Soccer League. Japanese gourmet food is always good for what ails you according to Messing. Japanese baseball commissioner Takeso Shimoda said that Japanese players were demoralized by the higher salaries paid to Americans playing there and indicated that there might come a day when the league consisted only of Japanese. Each of Japan's 12 pro teams is allowed to have two non-Japanese players on the roster. Nearly all of the foreign players are Americans, most of them coming to the league after careers in the U.S. major leagues.

Jim Brown's reaction to the probable loss of his NFL career rushing record to Franco Harris or Walter Payton — an offer to come out of retireemnt and play again at age 47 — may be considered by some to be a joke, but not by his old archrival, former New York Giants linebacker Sam Huff. "Jim Brown does not joke," Huff said in an interview with Warner Wolf, a New York television broadcaster. "Have you seen him?" Huff asked. "You know, he's never been out of shape. He's the best-looking 47-year-old you'll ever see. They'd have trouble getting the smile off Jim Brown's face. I'm wondering what they're going to pay him. I'm wondering what they'll pay me to come out of retirement to stop him."

The Islanders' Bobby Nystrom had to meet a couple of men for business and they suggested Sticks, the new spot just opened by the Rangers' Ron Greschner, Ron Duguay and Phil Esposito at First Avenue and 79th St. "Oh, no," said Nystrom, "Let's make it at Tuesday's '76' at First and 76th. I can't meet you at a place owned by Rangers!"

Youngstown Ohio, businessman Edward J. De.Bartolo, rebuffed by baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn when he tried to buy the Chicago White Sox several years ago, says he's definitely interested in the Cleveland Indians. "Sure, I want them. I've wanted them ever since I was a kid in the 1930s. I always liked to watch them." DeBartolo's name has been among those mentioned as potential buyers of the Indians since they went on the sale block after the death of majority owner F.J. (Steve) O'Neill in August. When DeBartolo tried to buy the White Sox, Kuhn led the fight against him, basing his opposition on DeBartolo's ownership of three horse' racing tracks. "Kuhn's a hypocrite," DeBartolo said. "People bet more on baseball than they do on horses."

A commemorative coin program designed to help alleviate world hunger was announced yesterday by former heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali. Ali told a news conference at the Waldorf Astoria Hotel in New York that as part of the project — officially called the Muhammad Ali Coin Program — he would work with organizations to raise interest and support for the hunger issue. The .9991-ounce silver coin will carry an image of Ali on the front and on the back will read: "Imagine: A world at Peace, A World Without Hunger." The retail price for each coin will be $45.

Basketball great Wilt Chamberlain had dinner at Jimmy Weston's and immediately recognized the manager Gene Weston, who he had not seen since 1961 in New Haven when Weston was referee at an exhibition game between Chamberlain's Philadelphia Warriors and the Boston Celtics, whose star was Bill Russell.

Tennis Ace John McEnroe, whose foul-tempered court antics have stuck him with nickname "Super Brat," is really a nice guy with a heart of gold when he puts down his racquet. McEnroe pleasantly surprised many observers with his gentlemanly good manners as he slashed his way to another Wimbledon title recently. But that was only one part of Mac's soft side. He heard of a local New York City school for the blind which was attempting to raise money for portable musical systems with headphones. Big-hearted John promptly bought a shop full of the gadgets and had them taken to the school.

There are countless other stories about his flawless demeanor away from the court. One time a woman who arranges transportation for top tennis players had to leave her switchboard. McEnroe quietly stepped in and eagerly took over her hectic duties for more than an hour. How does he explain this Jekyll and Hyde contrast in his behavior? McEnroe says he can only play his best tennis when he's extremely emotional and keyed up. And he asks not to be judged by his actions away from the courts, but by his near-magical tennis skills on it.

Cleveland Browns running back Charles White, who underwent treatment for drug dependency last year, says that he bought cocaine with the bonus he received for signing a National Football League contract in 1980. The 1979 Heisman Trophy winner told a mental-health group in Elyria, Ohio, that he also used his $50,000 in winnings from the 1980 ABC-TV "Superstars" competition to purchase cocaine. White, 25, said his alcohol and drug problems dated back to his freshman year in high school. "I started drinking and smoking dope my first year," he said. "By my third year, I was drinking almost every day. When the college scouts started coming around, I cleaned up, but that only lasted three days." He said he and other pro football players were speaking out about their drug problems "not so much for our football careers, but so we can survive after football. We're fighting for our lives."

The Orioles, by acting humble and together, offered a nice change of pace from Yankee pinstripes and from Tommy Lasorda's 'Great Dodger in the Sky.' "The Baltimore throwbacks didn't need to get angry to win, but they got angry, anyway, when they took one smell of the 'highfalutin' Phillies' cavalier attitudes. Frankly," Baltimore pitching coach Ray Miller said, "we thought they acted a little pompous toward us."

At 50, Ray Booth Sr. ponders the question, "How do you win the Homelite Tournament of Kings world chain saw cutting championship?" If anyone should know it is this soft-spoken timber feller from La-Grande, Ore., since he has won the championship in three of the five years the tournament has been in existence. He also is convined that he tried to calm down a little," he recalls. "I just tried to do everything right and not make any mistakes. I tried to get seven to eight points (out of a top score of 10) in each of the six events. If you look up the records, you'll see that seven or eight points an event will give you enough total points to win." The top score for each event will be 16 this year, since there are 16 contestants. Booth won the Tournament of Kings its first two years, in 1978 and 1979, and he finished fourth in 1980 and seventh in 1981, before recapturing the title last fall.

Much of the competition has come from his 23-year-old son, Roy Jr., who won the tournament in 1980, the first year he qualified. He finished second in 1981 to New Zealander Ron Hartill, now living in Canada, and was runner-up to his father last year. He failed to qualify this year and is conspicuous by his absence. Because the total prize purse had been increased from $1,750 in 1978 to $10,500 the last four years, Roy Jr., is the top money winner, having accumulated $11,000 with one first and two seconds in three years of competition. The elder Booth has taken home $9,500 with his three championships.

"Having Roy Jr. down to compete probably hurt me in the beginning because I was trying too hard with him there are really messed myself up," explains the three-time champ. "Some of the other contestants are faster with a chain saw and will go for broke — like Roy Jr. sometimes does. They'll get a top score in one event but score at the bottom in another. I do better when I pay more attention to the penalty lines and stay at the same consistent pace."

According to Donald Trump, the new owner of the USFL's New Jersey Generals, agent Howard Slusher "played Al Davis like a drum" — using the new league as a lever to pry a richer contract from the Los Angeles Raiders owner for reserve quarterback Marc Wilson. Appearing on NBC-TV's "NFL '83," Trump contended that Generals had very little interest in Wilson. "I understand he (Davis) signed him for close to a million dollars, which is just totally preposterous and ridiculous," Trump said. The Raiders have made no announcement regarding Wilson. Davis and his executive assistant, Al LoCasale, would neither confirm nor deny the signing. Trump then moved over to CBS' "NFL Today," where he contended that Miami Dolphins coach Don Shula wants to coach the Generals. "It's merely a question," Trump said, "of whether I want to pay a certain price."

Ken Dryden, the former Montreal Canadians goaltender, has just finished writing a book on hockey. "I thought it would take a year," he said, "but I needed three years to write it." Dryden has also decided against a career in law. "I've got other interests," he said. "Public affairs, those kind of things." Meanwhile, in his spare time Dryden plays defense — not goaltender — in a Toronto amateur league. "I tried to play forward," he said, "but I found that after playing goal for so long, I had a certain defensive bias in my constitution that wouldn't disappear. Even during a Saturday morning game I find it's annoying when the other team comes down on a rush and we don't have anyone backchecking."

The U.S. Open may be over, but tennis is always in season. Arthur Ashe, world champion tennis player is the First Annual Celebrity/United Nations Tennis Tournament which will take place Saturday and will take place Saturday and Sunday, Nov. 5 and 6, noon to 5 p.m. at the Midtown Tennis Club for the benefit of spina bifida, the number-one crippler of newborn babies. Celebrities such as Dustin Hoffman, Penny Marshall, Mike Wallace, Morley Safer, Storm Field and Jerry Orbach will play with UN ambassadors for this gala charity event.

Redfish are providing good fishing

SAN ANTONIO — Saltwater redfish are providing some of the most outstanding and unusual fishing anywhere in Texas at Lake Braunig just southeast of San Antonio.

Texas Parks and Wildlife Department officials estimate that about 8,000 pounds of redfish have been harvested from the 1,350-acre power plant lake since Feb. 1.

Department crews have stocked reds five times since the initial 2,000 were released in 1976. At that time it was not known how well the popular bay fish would adapt to the lake.

The fish survived and feasted on the lake's abundant forage, including overpopulated tilapia. Redfish growth rates have been outstanding, easily outstripping those of saltwater reds.

The 1976 stocking was followed by the release of 3,000 more in 1980. After 1980, improved culture techniques allowed biologists at the Palacios Research Station to produce enough redfish for stockings of 135,000 fingerlings each in 1981, 1982 and 1983.

"Anglers can fish for three age classes of redfish," said biologist Bill Dolman, who is project leader for the inland redfish program.

Dolman said fish from the 1976 stocking probably are no longer available, but the 1980 fish now are in the 15-pound-plus range. The 1981 models are 8 to 11 pounds and the 1982 stockers are in the 2-pound range.

"These fish are great for the angler because they can be caught on a variety of lures and live bait, and they also can be caught in both cold and hot weather," Dolman noted. The lake is closed each year in December and January.

Dolman said redfish probbaly accounted for much of the documented 180 percent increase in visitation to the lake during the past two years, although the reservoir also offers excellent fishing for catfish and hybrid striped bass.

In addition to the excellent forage base, Lake Braunig water apparently contains sufficient chlorides to support redfish. "Redfish don't require water as salty as that of Texas' bays, but they can't survive unless some chlorides are present," Dolman continued. "Another thing they need is fairly warm water, which most power plant lakes can provide."

The fishery has attracted the attention of a number of fishing guides who regularly go after reds and hybrid stripers. Many of them use downriggers and sophisticated depth finders to locate the cruising redfish schools.

The downriggers utilize a heavy weight to which the trolling line is attached with a snap arrangement. Downrigging allows the troller to place his lure at the exact depth where the redfish are expected to be concentrated.

Other fishing methods also are effective, including drift-fishing with live tilapia which are easily caught from the shoreline with cast net. Even bank fishermen often score on redfish, especially during cooler weather, and the fish have been known to take shrimp and other dead bait as well as lures.

Unemployed veterans eligible for job training

Unemployed veterans of either the Vietnam era or the Korean conflict may be trained for jobs in programs approved under the Emergency Veterans' Job Training Act of 1983.

By paying employers directly, the law makes it very attractive to hire veterans.

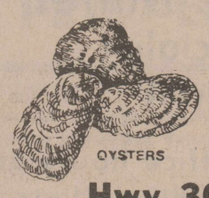

To qualify, veterans must have been unemployed for at least 15 of the 20 weeks prior to their applying. The maximum period of training is nine months, except for veterans with service-connected disabilities of 30 percent or more, or who have lesser rated disabilities but have a serious employment handicap. These veterans can be trained for up to 15 months.

Veterans who want to begin a program of training must get a certificate of eligibility from the Veterans Administration. This certificate will be good for a period of 60 days and may be renewed.

Applications may be obtained from any VA Regional Office or a local office of the State Employment Job Service. To speed up processing, veterans should turn in a copy of their DD 214 with the application.

For veterans benefits information and assistance, contact the nearest VA Regional Office.

Natural oil seep from ocean floor discovered in Gulf

AUSTIN — While conducting geophysical surveys in the northern Gulf of Mexico last year, researchers from the Institute for Geophysics at the University of Texas at Austin discovered evidence of an oil seep from the ocean bottom.

Additional exploration, along with analyses by scientists at UT's Marine Science Institute in Port Aransas, have provided the first direct evidence that reserves of petroleum may be found in deep water in the Green Canyon area off the coast of Louisiana and that natural gas probably is located there also.

Scientific findings of R.K. Anderson, doctoral student in chemistry at UT Austin; Dr. Richard S. Scalan, research scientist at the Marine Science Institute; Dr. P.L. Parker, professor of marine studies and chemistry at UT Austin; and Dr. E.W. Behrens, associate professor of marine studies and research scientist at the Institute for Geophysics, were published Nov. 11 in Science magazine.

"This is the first time anyone has found, verified and characterized an oil seep in the northern Gulf of Mexico," said Parker, noting that such seeps have been found offshore in California.

"We have analyzed cores of 10 percent oil per weight," he said. "The oil was found to be highly degraded by bacteria.

"What this means is that there is oil down there and it is real, natural petroleum," he said. "There is a pathway for the oil associated with a salt dome. The hydrocarbons probably reached the surface through faults and fractures above the salt dome."

Analyses of a total of 16 cores taken from a 200-square-mile area indicate the presence of "extremely rich and pure natural gas," Parker continued.

"The composition of the gas was very unusual and suggested that gas hydrates had been present," he said. "Natural gas under certain combinations of high pressure and low temperature found beneath the ocean bottom forms a solid like a piece of dry ice. By the time we were able to sample our cores they had warmed and re-gasified. However, the unusual composition not only suggested that hydrates had been present, but also that they were formed of true natural gas, not bacterial methane which is usually found near the surface."

The first sign that oil and gas deposits might be found much deeper than the present areas of production in the Gulf of Mexico came when a group of researchers led by Behrens took a core sample as part of a geophysical and geochemical survey of the upper slope of the Gulf.

After the first sample was analyzed and found to contain petroleum that occurred naturally researchers went back out on the "Ida B. Green," a UT research vessel, and took 15 more cores near the site of the first discovery.

Cores are samples of mud from the ocean bottom, obtained when plastic-lined pipes are driven deep into the earth by free-falling weights. In this case, cores brought up samples of mud older than 10,000 years — another indication that the petroleum was natural and not a refined product, Parker said.

In addition to their obvious value to oil exploration companies, the UT findings may be of value in studies of tar on Texas beaches, Parker remarked. He suggested that some of those oil balls might be caused by natural oil seeps.

"We think this is going to be a general phenomenon on the Gulf slope," he said of the discovery. "People just haven't been looking deep enough for oil."

The UT scientists are targeting other parts of the northwestern Gulf of Mexico for further exploration and studies, according to Parker.

Support for the research has come from Getty Oil, Gulf Oil Exploration and Production, Mobile Exploration and Production, Phillips Petroleum, Shell Development and Tenneco Oil.

Plans for new paper currency revealed

HOUSTON — Congressman Ron Paul (R-Tex.) announced at a recent Houston press conference the United States has begun developing a new paper money that will replace the familiar bills we now carry in our wallets, and distribution of this new currency may begin as early as 1985.

Congressman Paul, a member of the House Banking Committee, revealed that at a recent closed-door hearing in Washington, the Treasurer of the United States confirmed to him our American dollars may soon be a new color and have metallic strips sewn into them.

"We are told that the new currency is designed to control counterfeiting," said Paul, "Yet my reservations are many. I intend to monitor the plans for this new currency to guard against the American people losing any further control over their dollar.

"For instance, we must not forget that in recent years, a number of free-world nations have begun to limit the transfer of money out of their country," said the Congressman.

"Americans must have the freedom to travel out of the United States without any restrictions. The possibility that the government may one day try to restrain this free travel by limiting the amount of money we can take with us is outrageous and a violation of our rights.

"As a U.S. Representative, dedicated to the principles of freedom guaranteed by the Constitution, I will not remain silent about this issue and potential government abuse."

Several weeks ago, Congressman Paul asked the Banking Committee's Consumer Affairs and Coinage Subcommittee Chairman, Frank Annunzio (D-Ill.) to convene a meeting to get to the bottom of the Treasury Department's planned activity.

The meeting, held in Washington Nov. 2, was attended by representatives of the Secret Service, the Bureau of Printing and Engraving, the Federal Reserve and the Treasurer of the United States and four members of Congress.

At least six other nations are being consulted in the planning for the new currency. These nations include Australia, Canada, the United Kingdom, Japan, West Germany and Switzerland.

"I believe that if plans for the new currency have already reached the stage where we are discussing the effects of this action with six foreign nations, then the people of the United States deserve to have open-door Congressional hearings to know how this is going to impact on their lives," asserted the Houston area Congressman.

Congressman Paul displayed to reporters a chart of an artist's rendition of the new currency.

Congress acts to aid veterans

Bill Patman reports

"Eternal vigilance is the price of Liberty." Those seven well known words have been true throughout our history.

Being ever watchful of potential enemies and ever ready to respond to aggression are what has made us free and kept us free.

This has never been an easy task. At times, we have found our freedom in dire peril.

Since 1776, this nation has engaged in nine major wars. More than 1 million Americans died while serving in those conflicts.

It is only fitting that we preserve their memories and the ideals for which they fought so valiantly. Each Nov. 11, at 11 a.m., we pay tribute to the more than 28 million surviving veterans of this county, as well as to those no longer with us.

On that day this year — Veterans Day — as in years past, a wreath was placed at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier at Arlington National Cemetery, in tribute to the war dead. Thus, the nation maintains an eternal vigil of honor and gratitude.

In a much less dramatic way, Congress and the Veterans Administration maintain their vigils over the well-being of our nation's veterans and their dependents.

There were a number of actions that we took during this year's session of Congress in this regard.

As a direct result of the largest budget in the VA's history, $25.7 billion, the Department of Medicine and Surgery plans to add more than 2,000 employees. It has begun a major expansion and modernization program for its hospital system.

This is in preparation for demands on VA medical facilities expected to more than double in 10 years.

The House approved a 4.1 percent cost-of-living increase for service-connected disabled veterans and in dependency compensation for widows and children of veterans who died from service-connected causes. The increase will be effective April 1 if approved by the Senate next year.

Last summer, President Reagan signed into law the Emergency Veterans' Job Training Act of 1983, geared toward placing 50,000 veterans of Korea and Vietnam into good, permanent jobs by providing incentives to employers.

The Agent Orange Veterans Relief Act has been approved by the House Veterans Committee and is ready for floor action in 1984.

I know the American public is interested in these programs which our government provides in gratitude for the sacrifices that our military forces have made for our nation.
