50,000 Nazis Trapped As First And Third Link Up; Bridgehead Expanded

PARIS, Saturday, March 10. (AP)—The first major battle of the U. S. First Army's Rhine bridgehead was taking form today as German columns converged on the American toehold east of the river and began pumping heavy shells at the bridge on which the crossing was made.

A field dispatch said the enemy forces were seen approaching the scene last night with all lights on—presumably evidence of violent reaction to the Allies' threat to inner Germany.

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
Associated Press Staff Writer

PARIS, March 9.—The U. S. First Army drove probably more than five miles east of the Rhine today after smashing the first tank-led counter-attack at its Remagen bridgehead, and to the south trapped an estimated 50,000 Germans by linking up with the Third Army.

Men, guns, tanks and supplies poured into the expanding bridgehead 28 miles south of Cologne across the great Ludendorff bridge, officially disclosed to have been taken intact.

German planes in ones, twos and threes tried repeatedly to knock out the bridge during the day, but were shot down or driven off by alert antiaircraft gunners guarding what for the moment is the key to the whole battle against Germany on the west.

News Blacked Out

Supreme headquarters blacked out the scope of the advance, but it was possible that a breakout on the road to Berlin might be disclosed at any hour.

(A Blue network correspondent broadcast from the front that the bridgehead had been doubled in size and width since yesterday and that "a number of towns and villages" had been captured.)

Bonn, Rhineland city of 101,000 fell to the First Army north of the middle Rhine bridgehead, and the Third Army to the south battled within four miles of the traffic center of Coblenz after sweeping the enemy from the Coblenz plain west of the Rhine.

Bad Godesburg, the resort town three miles south of Bonn where Hitler and Prime Minister Chamberlain held their second meeting in 1938 to arrange "peace in our time," was captured by the First Army's Ninth Infantry division and doughboys cleared the west bank of the Rhine as far south as Remagen.

Bonn Bridge Blown

The only bridge at Bonn was blown today by the Germans after they had shot up some of their own tanks with artillery in a determined effort to prevent an American crossing.

On one of the blackest days for Germany since Hitler plunged Europe into the Second World war within a generation, the Allies handed the enemy more bad news by disclosing that the U. S. 15th Army now was on the Western front at an undisclosed sector.

Under Lt. Gen. Leonard T. Gerow, a corps commander on D-day, the new 15th gave Gen. Eisenhower nine armies—five of

Nazis On Last Lap

Final Defeat May Be Only Weeks Away

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

WITH ITS Rhine defense moat crossed, the Nazi high command is confronted by a situation that has in it all the elements of potential complete and final military disaster in a matter of weeks, not months.

American capture of a double track steel rail bridge at Remagen, now officially announced, changed over night the whole war scene in Europe. It invalidates the Nazi scheme of a prolonged last ditch defense of the great central plain of Germany, utterly upsets the present two-front deployment of the battered wermacht and could lead to a breakdown in German Army morale and a quick end of all organized resistance.

Psychological Impact

Quite aside from the strategic and tactical possibilities the seizure of that bridge span presents, its psychological impact upon both Allied and Russian troops and upon German foemen, military and civilian, is yet to be measured. That it instantly spurred General Eisenhower's armies in the west with renewed determination to shorten the struggle is reflected in every field dispatch. Nor can it be greately doubted that the news sent a wave of creeping despondency through German armies as well as through disrupted civilian life between the Rhine and the Oder.

The effect of that will become apparent cumulatively, not immediately, particularly in the German Army. Military discipline and morale rests largeiv on confidence that comrades to right and left or on other fronts will not fail in any crucial test. The loss of A great Rhine bridge intact and virtually without a fight to let a flood tide of American troops and armor pour night and day across the river must serve to shatter that confidence in German ranks.

Plan Not Discernable

Just how the Allied high command will move to exploit the Rhine breakthrough is not yet discernable. The best chance appears to lie southward down the right bank of the river to free other crossing sites to the north for other armies massing along the west shore.

General Eisenhower is already straining every nerve to rush heavy forces through the fine breach, not merely to consolidate the daringly won east bank bridgehead but to use it as a jump-off base for power blows into the heart of Germany. Disclosure at his headquarters that he has a newly organized American Army, the Fifteenth, ready for action indicates that.

Its whereabouts "on the continent" is not revealed, nor has the mystery of the missing British Second Army, not yet so far as known engaged in the swirling and Nazi-lost battle of the Rhine, been solved. Both may be available either to plunge across the river or to take over front from other forces nearer the crossing site.

Even within the dwindled defensive perimeter now held by German forces there has been every evidence that the lines were drawn too thin for security. The course of events west of the Rhine and now overlapping on the east bank has shown clearly that Nazi leadership took extreme risks in reducing strength on that front in order to find the troops to bolster the Oder line against mighty Russian armies.

Frantic Nazis Report Heavy Soviet Blows

By ROMNEY WHEELER
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Saturday, March 10 The Germans said last night that the Russians had captured part of the Oder fortress town of Kuestrin, 38 miles east of Berlin, and were pouring reinforcements by day and night across the river on both sides of that stronghold in a flaming prelude to the battle for the Nazi capital.

Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's First White Russian Army troops were reported in enemy broadcasts to be extending their west bank Oder bridgeheads and trying to link them up "to create a jumping board for further operations against Berlin."

Five Miles of Stettin

While the Soviet high command ignored for the third day these Nazi reports of heavy battles on the Berlin front, the regular Soviet communique announced that Red Army forces had rolled within five miles of the docks of Stettin, Pomeranian capital and Berlin's main port, and were only nine miles from Danzig city.

The Pomeranian strongholds of Stolp, Chlawe, Ruegenwalde, and Stolpmuende, all fell to the Russians yesterday, along with 200 other localities as Marshal K. K. Rokossovsky's Second White Russian troops gained up to 17 miles and hurled the Germans into a shrinking 2,570-square-mile trap along the Baltic coast.

These rapid Soviet strokes in the north and northeast, in which Moscow said that a total of 16,500 Germans had been killed or captured in two days, were preliminary steps in the approaching showdown battle for Berlin.

Fight Into Kuestrin

But the Germans said that Zhukov's central forces had fought their way into the heart of Kuestrin and were engaged in fierce struggles on a 21-mile front from Kienitz, west bank village 10 miles northwest of Kuestrin, down to the area west of Lebus, 11 miles south of Kuestrin.

Adolf Hitler was said to have visited the Oder front several days ago on a morale-raising tour, apparently in the belief that the all-out assault toward Berlin was imminent, if not already begun.

Far to the northeast, five or six Soviet armies were closing swiftly on surrounded Danzig, having pierced the outer defenses of that former free city. Albert Forster, Nazi gauleiter, again called on civilians and soldiers to fight to the death.

None of these enemy reports was confirmed by Moscow, but Premier Stalin announced in an order of the day the fall of Stolp, nine-way Pomeranian junction and stronghold 63 miles west of Danzig. Stolp was one of the last few enemy strongholds left in Pomerania east of the Oder. Other Soviet forces were reported only 10 miles outside Danzig on the

(By The Associated Press)

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Guam, Saturday, March 10.—Grinding ahead from rock to rock, American Marines today fought against continuing bitter resistance for the tiny northern corner of Iwo Jma which the Japanese are trying to hold at all costs.

The hour for the issuance of this morning's regular communiquen passed without its appearance. There was no word to indicate whether this suggests a stalemate or a blackout of sinificant developments unavailable to the enemy.

Japs Hold Only Tips

As the all-out drive to conclude the invasion went into its fifth day, the Leathernecks held all but the extreme northern end of the volcanic island and a sector several thousand yards long on the northeast coast.

The Fourth, Third and Fifth Marine divisions were strung across the battle line from east to west in that order. Although the terrain was almost prohibitive, some use was being made of tanks in ferreting out the enemy troops from pillboxes and caves.

From their sheltered positions, the Nipponese poured out an intense curtain of smallarms and machinegun fire, augmented by mortars.

Warships Pound Area

Rocket and strafing attacks by carrier aircraft and pinpoint shelling by American warships standing off shore supported the Leathernecks. It was necessary, however, to rely largely on flame throwers, grenades and hand to hand combat to dislodge the Japanese remnants for their numerous strongpoints.

"Small advances in all sectors" were made through Thursday, said the official communique covering that day's fighting. Field dispatches said the Fifth division had driven along the northwest coast to within a mile of Kitano point. The Third was atop a cliff overlooking the ocean, only 300 yards off the northeast coast but still 1,500 yards from Kitano point, the island's northern tip. The Fourth, which has been making slight progress up the east coast, was still but a short distance from its invasion beachhead.

Japs Said Giving Up

Possiblity that the Fourth might have cracked the resistance ahead, however, was seen in a report from that division saying some Japanese were observed withdrawing from caves immediately ahead.

With American air and naval forces in complete control above and around this strategic island 750 miles from Tokyo, the Japanese were without hope of rescue or reinforcement.

Record Raid Hits Capital

Air Giants Pour Incendiaries Over City; Fires Raging Over Big Areas

By ROBIN COONS
Associated Press Staff Writer

TWENTY-FIRST BOMBER COMMAND HEADQUARTERS, Guam, Saturday, March 10.—A record force of more than 300 Superfortresses spilled an estimated 1,300 tons of incendiaries in a 10 square mile congested area of Tokyo today and one returning flier said "hellish fires were spread across the whole town."

Tokyo radio acknowledged that flames set by the raiders shortly after midnight still were unchecked at dawn.

The first incendiaries quickly touched off an inferno which sent smoke as high as 10,000 feet.

No Previous Comparison

Brig. Gen. Thomas E. Power, commander of Guam-based B-29s, told AP correspondent Elmont Waite he stayed over the target two hours observing the spreading conflagration and reported:

"There is no comparison with any previous attacks—it seemed at least 50 times as devastating."

"We saw two or three square miles all aflame before we left," reported Col. Carl R. Storrie, of Denton, Tex., an observer on one of the B-29s.

The target was a rectangular section extending roughly four miles from north to south and three miles from east to west.

The Tokyo railroad station, just east of the imperial palace, was in the area attacked. The average population within the 10-square miles is 103,000 to a square mile.

Gathering reports of the raid, Brig. Gen. Lauris Norstad, chief of staff of the 20th Air force, said fleets of 1,000 or more B-29s will be put over the Japanese homeland if that is necessary to win the war.

The huge bombers struck from bases on Guam, Saipan and Tinian.

For an hour and a half, they poured incendiary bombs upon the sections of the city selected for destruction.

The force was the largest of the Superfortresses ever put into the air.

First Big Night Raid

The raid was the first large night attack on Japan's homeland. There was a previous light raid.

It was the first announced all-incendiary strike at the Japanese capital.

The weather was clear and the bombardiers could see their targets.

They reported fires rapidly spreading in the target area—10 square miles of small industrial plants and other military targets in the center of the city.

After hearing the initial reports, Maj. Gen. Curtis Le May said at his 21st bomber command headquarters: "I can say with conservatism that this looks good from our point of view and grim from the point of view of the enemy.

Conflagration In Tokyo

"There is a conflagration in Tokyo tonight."

(Tokyo radio admitted "some fires" were burning and in another broadcast quoted a Japanese imperial headquarters spokesman as consoling the people with a reminder that citizens of London, Berlin and other cities had "courageously fought air raids and survived them.")

Appeal Made In Red Cross Drive

Regardless of quota, it is hoped that every person in Lubbock county will make some kind of contribution to the Red Cross War Fund before the end of the campaign April 1, George P. Kuykendall, chairman, said yesterday.

"With our drive an assured success, we want people to keep on bringing in or mailing in their checks until Lubbock county is 100 per cent in the campaign"

Give To The Red Cross

Total Is $66,204.50

A total of $66,204.50 had been deposited at 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon, leaving only $6,296 to be raised to meet the county's quota. Reports are not yet in from Slaton, Lubbock Army Air field and several rural communities. All workers who have funds that have not been reported are asked to turn them in by 11 o'clock this morning in the hope the quota could be reached today.

SHALLOWATER OVER TOP

Shallowater community contributed $1,872.25 to the Red Cross fund at a meeting Friday night at the Shallowater school gymnasium, Roy Boyd, rural chairman, reported. Goal for the drive had been set at $1,500.

Already "over the top," the women's division had collected $12,528 late yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Hub Jones, chairman, said that the committee would probably raise $13,000 before the drive ends.

No complete report has been turned in on rural communities, but rallies have been held every night this week at rural schools and those reporting have either almost reached or gone over their quotas.

Pick-Up Continues

Members of the Junior Welfare League, under the direction of Mrs. Alton Hall, expected to complete their pick-up canvassing of the residential area Friday. No report has been given from the teams working in the Negro and Mexican districts, which are expected to raise the women's collections well over the original goal.

Friday booths will be set up in the banks and hotels to contact those who want to add their first contribution or those who were missed in the solicitation campaign.

Checks can be made out to the Red Cross War Fund and mailed to 1115 Thirteenth street or brought to that address, which is financial headquarters for the drive.

George Duval, Long Time Resident, Dies

George Duval, 62, of 910 Ave. Q, a resident of Lubbock for the last 23 years, died of pneumonia at 5:20 o'clock Friday afternoon at West Texas hospital.

Duval, who was a civilian employe at Lubbock Army Air field, had been ill for about two weeks.

Survivors include his wife; two sons, George W. Duval of Norman, Okla., and Morgan "Tiny" Duval of Lubbock; three brothers, E. Duval of Abilene, Jess of Gustine, Tex., and V. B. Boxite, Ark.; a sister, Mrs. M. A. Clifton of Haskell, Tex.; Mrs. Sara E. Duval, wife of Morgan Duval.

Funeral services will be conducted at 4 o'clock this afternoon at the First Baptist church, with Dr. C. E. Hereford, pastor, and Dr. H. I. Robinson, pastor of the First Methodist church, officiating. Burial will be in Lubbock cemetery, Sanders Funeral home announced.

Pallbearers named were Clark Abbott, Marvin Barnes, H. W. Sims, A. E. Clark, Earl Lockhart, Jimmie Stahl, E. D. Smallin and B. L. Cogdill.

Thousands Of Japs Suffocate In Fantastic Maze Of Caves As Yanks Bottle Up Openings

By C. YATES McDANIEL
Associated Press Staff Writer

MANILA, Saturday, March 10 Several thousand Japanese have been suffocated in a fantastic maze of caves 14 miles east of Manila by a clever campaign of closing tunnel entrances, Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced today in a communique silent on Japanese reports that Mindanao has been invaded.

The communique mentioned a 107-ton bombing of Zamboanga, on the southwest coast of Mindanao, but did not substantiate Tokyo broadcasts that Allied troops invaded that point Friday after a bombardment by two task forces.

Intricate Defenses

MacArthur described at great length the intricate cave defenses of the Shimbu line east of Manila and the manner in which Yanks are sealing them with small loss to the attackers.

Saturation bombardment by planes and artillery, ground attacks with phosphorous grenades and flamethrowers, followed by planting of demolition charges are turning the trick.

By virtue of the successes, the Shimbu line is crumbling with tough American foot soldiers now sitting atop its first line of defense and knocking on the door to the second.

Once it is broken through, the Japanese will be broken up into small disconnected parties, doomed to a campaign of attrition.

The new gains constitute an enveloping movement against the southern anchor of the Antipolo-Wawa (Shimbu) line.

Substantial Gains

MacArthur said the First (dismounted) Cavalry division and the Sixth Infantry division have made substantial gains on the south flank of the defense-studded line in the vicinity of Bayanbayanan.

The enemy line "consists almost entirely of caves in the hillsides closely spaced for interlocking fire."

"A cave normally consists of a 10-foot shaft large enough for a man to climb up or down a rope ladder," MacArthur said in emphasizing the difficulty of the operation.

"At the foot of the shaft, a small tunnel leads to a compartment some 20 by 30 feet. Four or five lateral tunnels lead from the compartment. Just before a lateral reaches the surface slope of the hill, it makes a sharp bend to prevent shells from entering the tunnel."

137 Caves Captured

In the past 48 hours, 137 such caves have been taken and 446 outlets blown up "with practically no loss" to the Americans.

The method of attack has been to confine the enemy with air and

Frenzied Nazis Order All Males 16-62 To Register And All Troop Furloughs Killed

By RICHARD KASISCHKE
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, March 9. — Faced with mounting reverses in the west and east, Germany today ordered every male in the Riech between the ages of 16 and 62 to register with military authorities "for active defense of the nation" under penalty of being punished as deserters.

The decree, broadcast by DNB, hinted that the utmost confusion prevailed in the Reich. The order had the multiple purpose of scraping the manpower barrel, rounding up deserters and calling back soldiers lost from their units.

To enforce compliance with the decree, which applied even to Nazi party "political leaders and sub-leaders," it was provided that "pension payments and ration books would be distributed only to those who can prove their proper registration."

The American crossing of the Rhine was not told to the German people until late this afternoon in a DNB home service broadcast. This attributed it to a "surprise thrust which, by a lucky chance, succeeded in capturing an undestroyed railroad bridge."

Failure of the enemy to destroy the bridge was laid to confusion in "German river defenses." The broadcast said successful German counterattacks had been immediately opened against the bridgehead. The Germans said other Allied crossing attempts were imminent.

Hitler Visits Eastern Front

At the same time the German radio announced that Hitler, in an effort to buck up the defenders of Berlin had visited the Oder river front in the east. The time and exact place of Hitler's visit were not revealed.

The new decree declared that "many people have sought shelter in the interior of the Reich during the last few weeks," and that "workers and officials have lost their working places and soldiers were cut off from their units," suggesting chaotic conditions inside Germany.

"In order to give them a chance to intervene actively in the defensive struggle of the nation," the decree stated, "the following measures have been taken.

"1—No furlough for deeds of bravery except in the case of ill health.

"2.—The declaration of unfitness of men in enemy-occupied territory is no longer valid. (This apparently was a summons to 4-Fs in the overrun provinces to try to reach the interior of the Reich.)

"3—All members of the wehr-

Another U. S. Army Goes Into Europe

PARIS, March 9. (AP)—American armed might in Europe has been increased by an additional Army, The U. S. 15th, under command of Lt. Gen. Leonard T. Gerow, former commander of Army Ground forces in Britain and onetime chief of the War department's war plans division, supreme headquarters announced tonight.

Gerow, (pronounced "Jerow," the "E" as in jet, and "O" as in show), 56-year-old native of Petersburg, Va., was commander of the Fifth corps in the U. S. First Army at the time of the Normandy campaign when the First Army was under Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley, now 12th Army group commander.

Gerow's new command increased Gen. Eisenhower's forces to nine armies. On the Rhine are the U. S. First, Third, Seventh and Ninth, the British Second, the Canadian First and the French First. The Allied First Airborne Army has not been reported in the current campaign.

Littlefield Man Dies In Action In France

LITTLEFIELD, March 9 (Special) —Pfc. David Storey, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. T. Storey of Littlefield, was killed in action in France on Feb. 21, the War department has notified his parents.

Pfc. Storey, a graduate of Littlefield High school and 1942 graduate of Texas Tech, entered service in 1942 and first trained in the artillery at Fort Sill. He attended the ASTP at Lehigh university and later was in the transportation division and later the Quartermaster's department.

He went overseas to England July 1942 and was sent to the southern sector of France as an infantry replacement. He had been at the front only a short time when he was reported killed.

His father is postmaster of Littlefield.

Capture Of Remagen Bridge Is Classic Example Of Daring And Quick Thinking

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Staff Writer

ACROSS THE RHINE, March 9. —The capture of the bridge at Remagen, which took advantage of a cataclysmic German fumble, was a classic example of brilliant daring and quick thinking in the American tradition.

There were just ten minutes to spare. The Yanks made the most of them, and in the next few hours changed the entire picture of the war. Here is the story:

The bridge had been prepared for demolition and a small explosion in the great steel structure occurred even as a company of American armored infantrymen stormed across through German anti-aircraft gun fire, staking their lives on a desperate gamble to grab the bridge intact.

Before German engineers could make further efforts to destroy this vital causeway to Berlin, American doughboys and tanks swept over in power. They quickly knocked out a number of 20 millimeter ackack guns guarding the bridge, took hundreds of prisoners from disorganized retreating German units who had just pulled across the bridge themselves a few hours before and drove on without pause to take the village of Erpel and push on.

The first troops rushed over at 3:50 p. m. Wednesday and for seven hours one battalion of armored infantry held the bridge alone. They also seized a 300-foot bluff at the eastern exist and drove the Germans off surrounding heights giving direct observation on the crossing area.

The security news blackout still prevents telling the full story of the bridge capture in detail but military observers rate it as a classic case of quick thinking exploitation of an enemy blunder—an example of ingenuity and daring which Americans like to think is a native characteristic on or off the battlefield.

Spearheading over the biggest barrier remaining before final victory climaxed a spectacular sweep from Euskirchen to the Rhine by the Ninth Armored division under command of Maj. Gen. John W. Leonard of Toledo, O.

The bridge was taken by combat Command "B" led by Brig. Gen. William H. Hoge of Lexington, Mo., builder of the Alcan highway across western Canada

Ike's Men Destroy 58 Nazi Divisions

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, March 9. (AP) — Gen. NAZI GENERAL KILLED

LONDON, March 9 (AP) — The German radio announced tonight that Lt. Gen. Wolf Dietrich Ritter von Xylander, chief of staff of an Army group on the Eastern front, had been killed in action on the same day he received the Knights Cross.

Some European Vets To Get Leaves Enroute To Pacific

WASHINGTON, March 9 (AP) — The Army plans to bring at least part of the troops in Europe back to the United States for furloughs before sending them to the war in the Pacific. Some discharges are planned.

The first official disclosure of the program came tonight from Lt. Gen. Brehon Somervell, chief of Army Service forces. In an address over the Columbia Broadcasting System on the third anniversary of ASF, Somervell said the problem of redeploying forces after V-E day will be the most difficult yet faced by the War department.

Somervell's outline was presented this way:

"We will face a big load in moving troops back to this country, handling their furloughs, re-equipping them and shipping them to the Pacific. There will be a movement of men and supply directly from Europe to the Orient."

The general said that "we have closed about one-fourth of the capacity of the posts we manage in the United States and are holding them ready for troops back from Europe for redeployment or return to their homes."

The War department insists, however, that it is utterly impossible to estimate at this time the number of soldiers who will be discharged after victory in Europe.

Approximately 5,000,000 now are deployed in all overseas theaters, with perhaps slightly more than 3,500,000 across the Atlantic.

Producers Say Lewis Strike Plans Void

WASHINGTON, March 9. (AP)— The Southern Coal Producers association, employing one-third of John L. Lewis' mine workers, petitioned the NLRB today to halt plans for a strike vote among the miners March 28.

Lewis on Feb. 26 served notice on the National Labor Relations board that a dispute exists within the meaning of the Smith-Connally war labor disputes act, and the board interpreted the act as leaving it no discretion. Accordingly, NLRB is preparing to take the strike vote.

The Southern Coal Producers association challenged that interpretation of the act and said a vote was not automatically required.

Lewis' notice was filed with the start of negotiations with the nation's operators on a new contract to replace the one expiring March 31.

DEAR _____:

Although the Red Cross War Fund drive in the county is far from its set quota, the women went over the top in their collections and this afternoon were several hundred dollars beyond their allotment of $12,000.

Mrs. Hub Jones is chairman of the women's division which has a lot to do with its extraordinary success because she not only knows how to get others to work with her but she does an amazingly amount of it herself.

There's no doubt that the commendations given to the Red Cross by the fighting men and the prisoners of war were instrumental in inspiring Lubbockites to contribute to the fund.

The first group of German prisoners of war to be transferred from the McLean POW camp at McLean to the branch camp at Lubbock Army Air field arrived Sunday. The Avalanche learned 80 to 90 men were in the group which at its full strength will number about 250. Information concerning the contracts for work in this area and what employers would use the prisoner of war labor is unavailable at the present time, it was said.

The German prisoners of war at the branch camp at LAAF are being housed in what was an unoccupied area in barracks like those which are used for military personal at the field. The POWs will be fed the same rations as those fed the military personnel at the installation at which they are located, in keeping with provisions of the Geneva convention.

A report of the Bureau of Business Research of the University of Texas reveals that Lubbock ranked eighth in building permits for cities in Texas during January.

City commissioners have taken action to improve health conditions in Lubbock by authorizing the inauguration of a typhus fever control program, instructing the health department to make recommendations for the construction of a new city dog "pound" and extending the inspection service of health department for dairies and milk plants.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Morrison of Lubbock left Thursday for New Orleans from where they will fly to Puenta Arenas, Chile, where he will direct oil drilling for George P. Livermore, Inc., of Lubbock and a Chilean corporation.

Funeral services were read Tuesday afternoon for Mrs. Mark Schwab, who died early Sunday at her Lubbock residence. Burial was in the Lubbock cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Cone were seriously, though not critically, injured in the crash of their private plane in a heavy fog 20 miles south of Bakersfield, Calif., Tuesday. Mrs. Cone suffered a back injury and her husband received bruises, cuts and suffered from shock. They had to walk five miles before they got transportation to the hospital.

And now for some news of the military personnel:

Col. James A. DeMarco, commanding officer at South Plains Army Air field until its recent inactivation, has assumed command of the Pampa Army Air field.

Paul White, formerly of Lubbock, has been commissioned a second lieutenant in the field. He is attached to the public relations section of the American Army headquarters in Paris.

Pfc. Robert Travis Canon of the U. S. Marines, son of Dr. and Mrs. R. T. Canon, is in a hospital on the island of Guam after service on Iwo Jima. The cable giving notification indicated young Canon, who will be 21 this month, was sick, rather than injured.

Lt. Leete Jackson is on his way home after service as a pilot of an Avenger in the Southwest Pacific for the last 13 months. Recently he crashed into the ocean 10 miles off a Marine base in the Western Carolines and he and his two gunners were fished out of the drink by a destroyer, little the worse for their experience.

Capt. Robert K. Seagraves, who previously was reported as missing in action since June 6, is now known to have been killed in action, the War department has informed his wife, who lives at 1316 Fifteenth. A bombardier on a B-26 he was shot down over France on D-day. He was holder of the DFC, the Air Medal with five bronze and one silver cluster.

W/O Frank Tolbert of the Marines and his brother, Capt. Bill Tolbert of the Army Air Corps are visiting their mother, Mrs. Frances Lee Tolbert and Thursday afternoon went out to Spade ranch to take part in a roundup.

Easter holidays at Tech college are slated to begin March 29 and continue through April 3. We'll all be glad when your holidays start and continue indefinitely.

Goodbye until next week.

Group Organizes To Aid Smith's Fight For Funds Division

Twenty-five Lubbock business and professional men, representing all the city's civic organizations including the directorate of the chamber of commerce, yesterday afternoon voted to establish a committee of five to actively chart plans for aiding Rep. Preston Smith in his effort to bring about a fair apportionment of public monies for state institutions of higher learning.

The committee will be headed by former State Sen. G. H. Nelson and Mark Halsey. Those two will choose three other men to aid them in outling a program of support for Smith here and over the state.

Friday afternoon's meeting was held in chamber of commerce offices in the City Hall and was presided over by Nelson, who summed up work already done by Representative Smith and others. Smith's resolution calls for a statewide vote on a proposed Constitutional amendment through which institutions other than the already tremendously rich University of Texas and A & M college may share in millions of dollars annually coming from state-owned oil properties.

A floor fight in the House on Smith's bill was assured when proponents of the plan, out voted in committee Thursday when the bill was unfavorably reported, said they would carry the fight to the House floor.

Ex-Con And Bride Lodged In Clink

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 9 (U.P.) The honeymoon of a pretty 17-year-old "bobby sox" bride from Spiro, Okla., and her ex-convict husband today had ended behind the bars of city jail.

Police reported the arrest of Deward S. Loudermilk, of Stigler, Okla., and his bride of three days, Ella Lee Davis Loudermilk. Loudermilk was accused of passing worthless checks — one to the county court clerk at Conway, Ark., for the couple's marriage license.

Police said the couple was married on March 6, three days after Loudermilk was released from the McAlester, Okla., penitentiary, where he had served four sentences and escaped once.

Russians Hoping For Speedy Allied Drive

MOSCOW, March 9. (AP) — The great hope expressed here tonight was that now that the Americans are across the Rhine, they will move on Berlin and take up the battle there alongside the Russians.

The general impression here is that withdrawal of German forces from the west has made the Allied advance possible.

Fatal Train Wreck Is Held Avoidable

WASHINGTON, March 9. (AP)—The Interstate Commerce commission today said a Southern Pacific railroad collision at Bagley, Utah, last December, killing 50 persons, could have been prevented through use of automatic signaling devices.

The report said the accident, which occurred when a slowly moving first section of a westbound passenger train was struck from the rear by the 50-mile-an-hour second section during a dense fog, could have been averted, if "an adequate automatic train-stop or train-control system had been in use in this territory."

Such a system, the report said, would have automatically applied the brakes of the second train when the engineer failed to act.

Brownwood Editorial Gets Arizonian's Pat

BROWNWOOD, Tex., March 9. (AP) — The Brownwood Bulletin, which recently championed editorially the cause of "poor little" Arizona, had a backer of its own today — Rep. Bob Barber of the Arizona legislature.

Barber, in a letter to the Bulletin's editor Ernest Jones, said he had read "with a great amount of approval and satisfaction" the editorial which chided the Texas legislature and Gene Howe, Amarillo publisher, for quarreling with Arizona because a movie about Texas was being filmed in Arizona because a movie about Texas was being filmed in Arizona.

"Let Arizona have the doubtful listinction of providing landscape for a Texas story. Texas is big enough to overlook such things. And, after all, Arizona was settled by Texans. Sheepherders and Indians, and the white folks out there are our blood kin," the editorial maintained.

"This letter is definite proof of the correctness of your statement," Barber wrote.

P. S. Barber is a native Texan —born and educated at Abilene.

More Texans Reported Freed In Philippines

Amvets Plan March On Detroit Unless Strike Is Settled

DALLAS, March 9. (U.P.) —National Vice-Commander LaMarr Bailey of the American Veterans of World War II, announced today that plans were complete for an Amvet march on Detroit if the strikebound Briggs Mfg., Co., plants were not back in production of war materials by Monday.

He alerted the organization's members in 38 states Wednesday night for the march after word from United Automobile Workers (CIO) union officials that no immediate settlement in the walkout of 13,000 men was in sight.

Call Is Challenged

As a result of his call, a group of Tennessee labor leaders last night challenged Bailey's right to speak for the 12,000,000 members of the U. S. armed forces.

"This blast against labor by a man who purports to represent war veterans is typical of many fulminations heard recently from the state—Texas — where the notoriously anti-labor Christian American association had its origin," said the joint statement released by the railroad brotherhoods, the teamsters, and the Tennessee State Industrial Union Council, CIO.

"Our veterans, those still on the fighting fronts and those who have returned, have no better friends than the trade unions," the statement said.

Issue Is Against Strikers

Answering the Tennessee labor charges, Bailey said today that "this is not an issue of veterans against labor, but veterans against strikers."

"I challenge these labor leaders or any other strike-minded labor leaders to poll the men in uniform and those that are out as to their ideas toward strikers," Bailey's statement said.

"If such a survey is taken, I suggest that you send your strikers out to take it, and let it be known that they are strikers."

There are now 770 named luxury trains in service in the United States.

OPA Seeks To Halt Standard Oil Sales

CHICAGO, March 9. (AP)—The OPA, in a suit which it said "may involve millions of dollars," today charged the Standard Oil company of Indiana with selling gasoline at overceiling prices and asked that the company be required to cease all gasoline sales 30 days after a court order or maintain proper pricing records.

The suit, filed in the Hammond division of the U. S. District court of Northern Indiana, did not state the amount of damages. However, Rae E. Walters, regional OPA administrator, said it "may involve millions of dollars since it alleges overceiling prices on gasoline, fuel oil and other petroleum products throughout the nation."

Chester Bowles, national OPA administrator, in a statement released here termed the suit part of an action "to eliminate refiners' overcharges on gasoline, fuel oil and other petroleum products in the Middle West and to relieve the squeeze on jobbers and retailers."

Texan Takes German's Gun, Puts It To Use

WITH THE 103RD INFANTRY DIVISION (Delayed) (AP) — In a recent scrap for an Alsatian village, Pfc. Robert L. Hennig of Brownsville, Tex., captured a German wearing a German pistol of a type much coveted by doughboys.

Hennig relieved the captive of the gun, then hauled him into a building out of shellfire range and made him give a quick demonstration of the technique of operating the pistol.

Then, satisfied he could use his trophy, Hennig turned the prisoner over to a guard and waded back into action with his new weapon.

Used Car Violation Brings $500 Levy

PITTSBURGH, Pa., March 9. (U.P.)—Barney Bedford, 28, of Fort Worth, Tex., was fined $500 in federal court today on an Office of Price administration violation.

Bedford was charged with attempting to buy used cars from Pittsburgh dealers at $100 above the OPA ceiling.

Legislature At Halfway Mark Has Great Amount Of Work Ahead

AUSTIN, March 9. (AP)—Approximately half of the time of the general session was spent today and the 49th legislature faced a tremendous backlog of work in the 60 remaining days.

Biennial appropriations, tax measures, labor regulatory bills, natural resource conservation, scores of proposed amendments to criminal and civil laws, many constitutional amendments and other proposals await final determination.

With a midnight deadline for introducing bills, except by rules suspension, the House received 88 new proposals in today's session, running its total to 701. The Senate had adjourned Thursday but left the gate open to introduction of bills through next Monday. More than 250 Senate bills have been introduced.

About 25 Per Cent Enacted

Usually about 25 per cent of all legislation is finally enacted and of this 25 per cent less than half is of general application. Local and special laws compose the remainder.

Because they are in some respects the most important of all bills those making appropriations for the next two years to state departments, eleemosynary institutions, the judiciary and colleges and universities are given right of way in the last half of a session.

The House Appropriations committee expected reports from several subcommittes on these bills next week and it was possible two of them, eleemosynary and education, would reach the House floor soon thereafter.

Committee Work

Committee work of the House and Senate will remain at a peak for two or three weeks in order to weed from those introduced those which will win floor consideration. As committee work diminished floor work will lengthen. Night sessions will be in order within a few weeks.

Although the constitution does not limit the length of a general session it suggests that 120 days is sufficient. Some sessions have greatly exceeded this suggestion while others have stuck close to it. The length of the current session will depend chiefly upon the dispatch with which the many controversial bills now awaiting action can be disposed of.

County Salary Plan

House adjournment until Monday stopped temporarily debate on a bill giving county commissioners authority to raise their salaries an average of 20 per cent. The suggested maximums are graduated upwards in a series of brackets based on assessed valuations in the counties.

Many amendments to the bill, by Rep. Charles V. Lansberry of Round Rock were pending adjournment. The bill will be before the House again next week.

Before adjournment the House sent to the Senate two bills. One validated the organization of independent school districts except those whose organization is in litigation and another appropriating $500 for a monument at the grave of Mrs. Susana Dickinson Hannig, mother of the one child in the siege of the Alamo. The Hannig grave is in Oakwood cemetery in Austin.

Five months after Richard Wagner's birth, his father died of an epidemic fever brought on by the carnage during the battle of Leipzig, Oct. 1913.

Lt. Glenn Burleson Is Missing In Action

The War department informed Mr. and Mrs. Vivian N. Burleson of 1115 Thirty-first Friday that their son Lt. Glenn W. Burleson, 19, had been missing in action over Austria since Feb. 21.

The officer recently had been made squadron bombardier of a 15th Air force B-24 Liberator group based in Italy.

He had been overseas 10 months and participated in many missions over Germany and Austria. The Air Medal recently was awarded to him.

Entering the Army Air Forces May 18, 1943, Lt. Burleson received his bombardier's wings and second lieutenant's commission at Big Spring, Tex., April 29, 1944. He was graduated from Lubbock High school and prior to entering the service, was attending Texas Tech.

Six Adventists At Barkeley Sentenced

WASHINGTON, March 9. (AP)—The War department reported today that six Seventh Day Adventists at Camp Barkeley, Tex., had been court martialed for refusing to obey an officer's command.

It made its report to Sen. Briggs (D-Mo) who had asked an inquiry into complaints that Charles O. Eastham, Poplar Bluff, Mo., had been sentenced to six months at hard labor for refusing to drill on his sabbath.

An investigation was said by the department to have shown:

Eight Adventists refused to attend guard mount scheduled for 6:15 p. m., on Saturday, Dec. 23, 1944, because Saturday was their sabbath and they could not perform such duty prior to sunset, which on that date was at 6:40 p. m.

The commanding general explained to the men on Dec. 27 that the Army's policy was to give the men every opportunity to observe Saturday as their sabbath to the same extent that men observing Sunday were given an opportunity to worship.

Those who observe Sunday as the sabbath do not get a full 24 hour off duty but have to perform guard duty and kitchen police.

The Adventists were told that although no other soldier could have every Sunday off, Adventists regularly had been allowed the full 24 hour period from sundown Friday to sundown Saturday except when they were detailed to guard duty and had to attend guard mount.

Only two of the eight said they were willing to attend the ceremony of guard mount and the other six were court martialed.

While on patrol duty the Adventists were not required to carry arms on their sabbath.

Eastham was sentenced to six months at hard labor and $33 of his monthly pay was forfeited for six months.

W. P. Fullingim Funeral Today

LORENZO, March 9. (Special)—Funeral services for W. P. Fullingim, 69, pioneer school teacher, postmaster and merchant of Lubbock and Crosby counties, will be conducted here at the First Baptist church Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Officiating at the last rites will be the pastor, Rev. Henry West.

Burial will be in Lorenzo cemetery under the direction of Marr Funeral home.

Mr. Fullingim died Friday morning at his Lorenzo home following an illness of two weeks.

Mr. Fullingim came to the Plains in 1897 from Red River county. He was among the first school teachers of Crosby county and at one time was postmaster at Estacado. He was in the general mercantile business at Estacado for several years in the early days of that thriving Quaker settlement.

To Lorenzo In 1924

The family moved to Lorenzo in 1924 and since that time Mr. Fullingim has been a cotton buyer, insurance and real estate dealer.

He is a Master Mason and a deacon in the First Baptist church. He had been in ill health the last year.

Survivors are his wife; two daughters, Mrs. Earl Bonine of Ralls, Mrs. Cecil Fitch of Abilene; one son, Rev. P. D. Fullingim, pastor of the First Baptist church at Wheeler; one step-son, F. W. Merchant of Lubbock; one brother, H. E. Fullingim, rancher and farmer of Petersburg; one sister, Mrs. Mattie Murphy of Siloam Springs, Ark.

Pallbearers were announced as Cecil Fitch, Earl Bonine, Fred Wiese, Buck Stobaugh and Bunch and Austin Fullingim.

Pilots Of Strafing Planes Are Praised

HOUSTON, March 9. (U.P.)—American airmen who handle the strafing raids are the men who have "done the major job in knocking out the Japanese air force," Capt. Robert H. Baker, P-38 fighter pilot home on leave from the Pacific theater, said today.

Capt. Baker, who has flown wing-to-wing with top American ace Richard Bong and has 240 combat missions on his record, said the men who skim low over Jap airfields, shooting up equipment and personnel are the real heroes of the Pacific.

"And don't think strafing enemy planes on the ground is tame," said Baker. "It's the most spectacular kind of raid. And, brother, it's tough."

SERVICE SOLON REPORTS

AUSTIN, March 9. (AP)—Sixty days late through no fault of his own, Rep. John J. Bell of Cuero showed up today and took his oath of office. He has been serving in the armed forces.

Class AA Cagers Reach Semi-Finals

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Editor

AUSTIN, March 9. — Milby's favored Buffs from Houston surged into the Class AA semi-finals of the Texas schoolboy basketball tournament tonight with a 39-24 triumph over El Paso and tomorrow morning will meet Paschal of Ft. Worth.

Paschal had reached the penultimate round with a 44-29 decision over Austin.

The Milby-El Paso game was a thriller for three periods with the lowly rated El Pasoans holding a 13-12 lead over the heralded Houston quintet at the half. During the game the lead changed hands eight times but midway of the third period the Buffs went out in front to stay mostly on the deadly shooting of Billy Joe Steakley. At the end of the third quarter Milby held an eight-point lead, the largest margin by either team to that time.

El Paso faded badly in the fourth quarter as the Milby outfit finally started clicking as it had been expected to.

Panthers Bump Maroons

The Panthers came from behind to completely outplay the Maroons for more than a half, gaining a tie mid-way of the second period and forging ahead to stay. Austin had gotten away to a four-point lead in the first two minutes and was in front 12-8 at the end of the first quarter.

Slender Jack Robinson, who set scoring records in the Fort Worth district race this season, looped in 18 points tonight to not only lead his team but to be high man of the game.

Greenville and Lufkin will meet tomorrow morning at 10:15 o'clock in the first class AA semi-final battle. These teams went through the first round today with victories over Pampa and Waco respectively.

Greenville, with 6-foot-8½ inch Marcus Freiberg pitching in 15 points beat Pampa 30-20 in today's first round. Lufkin licked Waco, 43-31.

Lions Beat Harvesters

Greenville's Lions led except in the first few minutes, boasting a 7-5 margin at the end of the first period and 15-11 at the half. Pampa didn't score a point in the third period while Greenville picked up six. Jim Ripley whipped in 11 for the Lions to be second top scorer of the game.

Waco rolled up seven points before Lufkin could dent the bucket but late in the first period the Panthers tied the score. Waco, however, surged to a 11-9 lead at the end of the quarter. Two minutes after the second period started the count was tied 13-13 and shortly afterward Lufkin took the lead and never relinquished it again. At half-time the speedy Panthers, with Harmon Carswell and H. P. Shands of football fame leading the offensive were in front 23-17. Craswell flipped in 16 points and Shands got 14.

Quitman's Tigers meet Sidney Lanier's Voks of San Antonio for the Class A championship and Prairie Lea battles Mt. Enterprise for the Class B title.

Finalists in both divisions were determined today with Lanier and Prairie Lea, the defending champion of its division, favored to come through.

Prairie Lea and Mt. Enterprise play at 2:05 p. m. tomorrow while Sidney Lanier meets Quitman at 3:20, these games being a prelude to the banner event of the tournament—the final battle for the Class AA championship. Finalists in that division will not be known until tomorrow noon.

Quitman reached the Class A finals with a 29-20 decision over Baird while Lanier was getting there with a crushing 42-17 defeat of East Mountain (Gilmer).

In the Class B semi-finals Mt. Enterprise beat Ingleside 35-20 and Prairie Lea downed Prairie Valley of Nocona 31-16.

Baird led Quitman until late in the second period when Travis Gilbreath, Luther Rushing and Jim Douglas alternated at sinking field goals to send the Tigers ahead. They held a margin of 17-12 at half time, and never were seriously threatened the rest of the way.

Whitharral Out Of Girls Meet

HILLSBORO, March 9. (AP) — Friona in Parmer county, Acquila of Hill county, Union of Howard county and Hermleigh of Scurry county went into the semi-finals of the state high school girls basketball tournament's championship division as a result of the quarter-finals here tonight.

Pairings in the semi-final rounds beginning tomorrow at 9 a. m. are Friona vs Acquila in the upper bracket, and Hermleigh vs Union in the lower bracket. Finals are slated to begin tomorrow at 7:30 p. m.

Several of the contests tonight were close shaves for the victors. Friona nosed out Mesquite of Dallas county 24-20; Union won from Whitharral, of Hockley county, 23-21; Hermleight won in the last minute of play from Follet, Lipscomb county, 34-32.

Acquila, defending champion, defeated Comfort of Kendall county, 49-29.

China High school's high flying sextette from Jefferson county passed out of the tournament in the consolation division here today losing to Jonesboro of Coryell county, 25-27.

The score changed frequently, but Jonesboro managed to stay on top throughout most of the contest. Until its defeat at the hands of Hermleigh last night, China had won 97 consecutive games and had not been defeated since November, 1942.

Results of other consolation games Friday were: Novice 31, Lott 16; Aledo 30, Comfort 9; Avinger 36, Bloomington 10.

HERB WARMS UP

PHILADELPHIA, March 9 (AP) General Manager Herb Pennock of the Phillies, one-time New York Yankees pitching great, says he'll be back on the mound this season—but only to toss out a few to Phillies hitters at practice. He denied he planned a regular hurling stint.

Texas Gets One National Title

CHICAGO, March 9 (AP)—Gilbert Garcia, a tough, rough Mexican from Houston, brought the Lone Star state it's only National title here tonight at the 18th annual Golden Gloves tournament. A crowd of 20,000 turned out for the semi-finals and finals.

Garcia upset Pvt. Robert Wilson, Sioux City, Ia., to win the welterweight title. Garcia was always crowding close to inflict punishment and had his taller opponent in distress most of the third round.

Texas sent three battlers back to Chicago for the final show, and all three moved into the finals, all of them winning their first fights with knockouts.

Another Texan, fighting with the Los Angeles team knocked out Tom Attra of Brooks Field, San Antonio, in the first round of the light heavyweight finals, and Hector Marquez of El Paso dropped a decision to Bob Jarvis of Kansas City in the 118 pound class.

The championship results:

112 pounds—Jackie Boyd, Chicago, defeated Frank Rivera, Kansas City.

118 pounds—Bob Jarvis, Kansas City, defeated Hector Marquez, El Paso, Texas.

126 pounds — Virgil Franklin, Oklahoma City, defeated William Stevenson, Cleveland.

135 pounds — Bernard Paige, Chicago, defeated Roscoe Scally, Los Angeles.

147 pounds — Gilbert Garcia, Houston, Tex., defeated Pvt. Robert Wilson, Sioux City, Ia.

160 pounds—John Garcia, Los Angeles, defeated Dick Smith, Oklahoma City.

175 pounds—Cpl. Adolfo Quijano, Los Angeles and El Paso, Tex., knocked out Cpl. Tom Attra, Brooks Field, San Antonio, 1:40, first round.

Semi-final results included:

118 pounds — Hector Marquez, El Paso, Texas, knocked out Sam Patton, Columbus, Ohio, 1:25, second round. Bob Jarvis, Kansas City, defeated Russell Dungy, Gary, Ind.

147 pounds—Pvt. Robert Wilson, Sioux City, Iowa, knocked out Yalo Berezzo, Cleveland, 1:10, first round. Gilbert Garcia, Houston, Texas, knocked out Bill Guerry, Columbus, Ohio, 1:45, third round.

175 pounds—Cpl. Adolfo Quijano, Los Angeles, defeated Sgt. George Siebert, Peoria, Ill. Cpl. Tom Attra, Brooks Field, San Antonio, knocked out James Lee, New Orleans, 1:14, first.

Finance Cagers Cop Squadron Loop Crown

Closing out in a fast finish, the Finance cagers were crowned champions of the Lubbock Army Air field squadron basketball league Friday afternoon at the LAAF gym, nosing out Section C Line, 28-27, in the final game of the playoff series.

The game was close all the way, with the teams knotted at 12-12 at the halftime intermission.

Scoring honors of the game went to Colla of the losers, who looped in 12 points, closely followed by McNeelly of the Finance club, who scored 10 points.

Hensley Shines At Lubbock Invitation Track Workouts

Paced by the thundering spiked shoes of G. W. Hensley, the Lubbock Westerners set a fast pace Friday afternoon at Chapman field in the season's first invitation track workouts against a field of six visiting schools.

Hensley took three first places, and tied for first in a fourth to capture all the individual honors of the day. Hensley took first places in both hurdles and broad jump, and tied with his team mate, Keele, for first place in the high jump.

W. C. Harrison Shines

The most impressive performance for a visitor was turned in by little W. C. Harrison, the pride and joy of Coach Wilson Head's Denver City Mustangs, and the little speedster stepped off two first places and one second to stand out in the field of dashes for the day.

The short dashes were turned into a personal duel between Harrison and Lubbock's George Brewer, with the pair of speedsters dividing the honors at first and second. In the 440 yard dash, Jim Lowrey stepped down from his favorite 880 yard run to compete with Harrison, but found the youngster from the oil fields packed too much speed.

Moyer Wins Pair

R. W. Moyers, the Lubbock "strong man," stepped out with two first places, the only two entered, and took the shot put and discus, but his heaves in these were far below marks he had turned in earlier in the season.

Lubbock dominated the relays, taking first in both events in which the runners carry their baggage with them. Much of the success in this department was due to the great strides made toward perfection by George Etz, a youngster who is fast becoming one of the most "natural" runners on the squad.

Dean Tops 12 Feet

A note of warning was sounded to rival pole vaulters over the West Texas area, as Cliff Dean took the pole vault honors with ease. The last of his opposition fell by the wayside at 10 feet, 6 inches.

Dean asked for a boost in the level to 11 feet, and made it. He asked for 11 feet, 7 inches, and made this. As a last gesture, he called for 12 feet, and went over without quivering the cross bar, and there Coach Hayhurst called a halt to the sky busting.

Another practice meet has been set for March 30, and after the great success of Friday's show, the second event is expected to be one of the best meets of the year. E. J. "Pinkey" Lowrey extended an invitation to all schools here Friday, and made the field open to any others that might wish to make this event.

Visiting schools here Friday included Levelland, Denver City, Andrews, Tahoka, Wolfforth, Meadow and Union (Terry).

The summary:

120-yard high hurdles—Hensley, Lubbock, first; Rice, Andrews, second; Wall, Lubbock, third; Piland, Denver City, fourth. Time 17.8 seconds.

200-yard low hurdles—Hensley, Lubbock, first; Wall, Lubbock, second; Rice, Andrews, third; Mill, Levelland, fourth.

100-yard dash—Brewer, Lubbock, first; Harrison, Denver City, second; Elston, Lubbock, third; Funk, Lubbock, fourth. Time 10.6 seconds.

Petersburg Fighters Win Over Memphis

PETERSBURG, March 9. (Special)—The hard punching Petersburg High school boxing team thumped out a victory over the Memphis Cyclones here tonight, winning eight out of the 12 bouts on the card.

The fights tonight drew another packed house, and much interest is already being centered on next Friday night's battles with Friona in the local gym.

One of the best fights seen in local ring shows came tonight as Jack Monzingo of Memphis won a close, fast decision over Gordon DePriest in the 133 pound class.

Billy Evans of Petersburg, 129, won over Denzil Miller, 126, of Memphis in another fight that was a thriller all the way, and rated as one of the best battles of the season.

Ralph White, Petersburg welterweight, turned in the only knockout victory of the night, putting Lester Barker of Memphis to sleep in the second round.

Kenneth Glassgow of Canyon won by a TKO over Fluff Meyers of Plainview in an exhibition battle.

Other results on the night's card were:

Ralph Miller, 84, Petersburg, won over Leroy Green, 83, Memphis; Elmo Sims, 85, Memphis, won over Kenneth Shields, 91, Petersburg; Harry Surratt, 106, Petersburg, won over Adair Gilbert, 98, Memphis; Randall Stanton, 92, Petersburg, won over Carl Young, 105, Memphis; Johnny Phillips, 121, Petersburg, won over Bob Ellis, 122, Memphis; Herbert Stennett, 126, Memphis, won over Royal Blassingame, 122, Petersburg; A. C. Sams, 137, Memphis, won over Verna Young, 135, Petersburg; G. F. McGuire, 149, Petersburg, won over Dan McMillard, 148, Memphis.

DELAY NAMING CZAR

CHICAGO, March 9 (AP)—Appointment of an athletic commissioner for the Western (Big Ten) Conference, to succeed the late Maj. John L. Griffith, has been delayed at least until tomorrow by a joint meeting of athletic directors and faculty representatives of the conference.

NEW ORLEANS WINNERS

BATON OUGE, La., March 9 (AP) Two New Orleans teams, Holy Cross college and St. Aloysius, entered the quarter finals in Class A boys division of the state high school basketball tournament here tonight, with a probable third, Jesuit, favored to join its city rivals in the semi-finals tomorrow.

Favored Golfers In Semi-Finals

MIAMI, Fla., March 9. (AP)—Little Ben Hogan's bid for an upset fell short today, and the four seeded teams all moved into the semi-final round of the $7,500 International Four Ball golf tournament.

Hogan and his partner, big Ed Dudley, ran afoul the golfing magic of Byron Nelson and Harold McSpaden and were ousted by a 4 and 3 count.

The first-ranked combination, Nelson and McSpaden carded a seven-under-par 63 on the morning 18—with the help of a second nine 30—and went to lunch four up.

It was the first tournament play in seven months for Hogan, now an Army Air Forces lieutenant, but he showed flashes of his old-time form in the first round yesterday, and it appeared for a time as though he might add drama to the event by becoming a serious threat.

The layoff told on his game today, though, and the Gold Dust Twins never were in serious danger. "I couldn't concentrate," Hogan said.

Second-seeded Sammy Snead and Bob Hamilton, PGA champion, also had a morning round of 63, and went on to thrash Craig Wood and Tony Penna, 4 and 3. Snead had an eagle three on the 460-yard 13th hole for the second day in a row.

The opponents for Nelson and McSpaden tomorrow will be Henry Picard and Johnny Revolta, winners of the International event in 1935, 36 and 37. They scored a 4 and 3 triumph today over Chick Rutan and Claude Harmon—and fired a 63 this morning to show that they are on their game.

Winning the right to meet Snead and Hamilton tomorrow, Sammy Byrd and Denny Shute eliminated the darkhorse team of Frank Strazza and Joe Zarhardt, 3 and 2.

Shallowater Cagers Win Pair At Rally

SHALLOWATER, March 9 (Special) — Playing a Red Cross benefit basketball series here tonight, the Shallowater boys, both junior and senior, won over Robertson, but the Robertson girls took the second game to salvage one win from the three.

With Bob Galey shooting in 20 points, the Shallowater senior boys romped to a 54-29 win in the feature game. Cadell was high for Robertson with 12 points.

The Robertson girls evened the count in the second game with a 23-18 win over the Shallowater girls. Scoring honors were a three way tie as W. Woodward and J. B. Woodward paced the winners, and Glass topped the losers, all with eight points.

Shallowater's junior boys won 19-14 in the curtain raiser, with Wynn setting the pace for the winners with eight points. Anderson, Thompson and Blankenship each got four points for the losers.

Italian Golfers Set Pace For Rome Open

ROME, March 9. (AP)—Italian professionals outstroked American and British servicemen today in the second half of the first round in the Rome Open golf tournament while a freak storm sent hailstones bounding over the course.

Heading the field of approximately 300 at the end of the two-day qualifying was Ugo Grappasonni, twice Italian Open champion, who fired a one-over-par 72 over the layout that has an ancient Roman viaduct running alongside the first few holes.

This gave him a one-stroke edge over Pvt. Tom Bolt, Abilene, Tex., amateur, who led yesterday's qualifiers. Pietro Manca, home club pro who came back after three-putting the first hole, also had a 73.

The low 100 will play 18 holes tomorrow after which the low 60 will compete in a 36-hole final Sunday for approximately $800 in prize monies.

Sgt. Vic Ghezzi, who only recently arrived in Italy, was forced to default because of illness.

Today's best scores by U. S. shotmakers were posted by Air Force Capt. Jonas B. Weiss, 1938 St. Louis city champion, and Sailor Aubrey D. Turrentine, Durham, N. C. amateur who uses a cross-handed grip and putts lefthanded with a righthanded club. Each had a 78 and each had to finish in hail, driven by a 40-mile wind.

These two along with Bolt, Naval Technician Al Zimmerman of Portland, Ore.; Lt. Charles Dudley of Greensville, S. C.; and Pvt. Earl Howell of Richmond, Va., gave the U. S. five players among the top 13.

Hunt Pioneers Stay In Unbeaten Class

The Hunt Pioneers volleyball teams remained undefeated Friday afternoon, winning both ends of the crucial twin-bill with the Dupre Dogies. The Hunt girls rolled up an impressive 67-29 win, and the Hunt boys won, 39-27.

Central Ward Spurs and the Guadalupe clubs split even in their twin bill of the day, the Central Ward girls winning, 42-21, and the Guadalupe boys nosing out a 21-17 win.

Buses are overburdened as never before. A crisis is near. With more men, tires and gas going to war, present service can barely be maintained. Each day brings greater loads. When you must travel locally, let this be your creed:

1. Do Not Ride in Rush Hours, except to and from your job.
2. Have Exact Fare Ready, saves time and fuss.
3. Move Back When Driver Asks, speeds your ride.

This simple creed will work wonders.

One Toll We Can Cut

U. S. Has Too Many Accidents

THE mounting casualty list in this war leads every thoughful citizen to profound reflection and, particularly, to ask himself whether he is doing everything in his power to aid the war effort so that victory may be achieved more quickly and the frightful losses halted.

The ways and means by which the civilian can help the nation reach that objective are now so well known that a conscientious person need only ask himself whether he is performing his duty in each realm in which he can be of service, and then proceed to make up for whatever deficiencies he may find.

The most recent reports of the War and Navy departments show that total casualties since Pearl Harbor now have reached 823,632. The Army reported 142,285 killed and the Navy 34,513, a total approaching 800,000.

The figures are solemnly impressive. But there is another impressive list of casualties which also is thought-provoking. And as far as this second list is concerned, civilians almost entirely caused the injuries and death.

The National Safety council reports that since Pearl Harbor, 81,000 Americans have been killed in traffic accidents and at least 3,000,000 have been injured. These are casualties which could have been prevented, and their cost to the nation, economically at least, will be just as staggering as that covering a similar number of casualties on the battle fronts.

We civilians are not able to do as much as we'd like about stopping the death toll in the fighting forces, but we can stop much of the casualties here on the home front. That is, we can if we will. All we have to do is be more careful and use more common sense.

Selfishness Triumphs Again

THE FORCES of selfishness have won another of the long, weary rounds of West Texas' fight to secure fair representation in the state legislature and once again a majority of the members of the House of Representatives have morally violated their oath of office in which they pledged themselves to uphold the Constitution of the State of Texas.

We refer, of course, to the vote killing the latest bill calling for legislative redistricting. It went down in defeat before onslaughts of those who think more of petty politics than of fair administration, and West Texas remains "attached to the State of Texas for little more than taxpaying purposes."

The Constitution of Texas makes it incumbent upon the state legislature to redistrict for legislative purposes after each federal census. Yet the sorry records show that no such redistricting has been done since 1921.

As the result of this official and repeated flaunting of the Constitution of Texas, many older, more decadent sections of the state maintain legislative representation far in excess of that earned, while the newer sections, such as the South Plains, do not have anywhere near the representation their importance entitles them to have.

Certainly, there must be some legal way in which the members of the legislature can be forced to follow the dictates of the Constitution, as well as of honesty and fair play, in this matter. Some believe court action, if properly pursued, would make unconstitutional every act of every legislature which has declined to redistrict. Whether this is true, or not, will never be known until such court action is pushed. But until something drastice is done, West Texans may expect to be continually "pushed around" by a selfish majority in Austin.

Let's Get The Job Done!

IT IS TRUE that Lubbock county is now within striking distance of its $74,500 goal in the 1945 Red Cross War Fund, but right now is a good time to remember the fable of the hare and the tortoise. In other words, we haven't achieved the goal yet; we will not achieve it until $74,500 has been collected — and we'll never make it if we adopt the attitude that it's all over but the shouting.

There are literally thousands of Lubbockites who haven't yet contributed. If you are one of those, won't you do your part today and take your contribution, large or small, to War Fund headquarters in the Kuykendall Chevrolet building, Avenue K and Thirteenth?

Let's get the job done!

A large number of persons are behind the eight-ball because of the natural affinity between it and their heads.

"Laughing at your own jokes will take the edge off your wit," says an author. Laugh and grow flat, eh?

"I don't like men because they are all alike," says a bored debutante. That's the very reason why most girls do like men.

CHICAGO—THE YOUNG GIANT

IV

"Wait a little while, Jeff," Charlie Henderson said after word of the fire had broken up his wife's party: "I'm going down with you. The Bully Bargai House is on the way to your hotel, and I'll go that far. I want to see if our building is in danger. The people going by in the street out there"—he pointed toward the front door — "say the horsecars have stopped running, so I think I'd better get out the horse and buggy. Then we'll start."

Jeff went with him to the stable and helped him get the horse in harness. They drove out to North Clark street and turned south. The street gas lights were out but there was plenty of light from the distant conflagration to see everything clearly. The illumination was almost horizontal; people walking in the street cast long shadows. The southern fronts of the houses were clear and visible to even small details, but their northern sides were quite dark.

Clark street was full of people and noise, which surprised the two men in the buggy, for they were still a long way from the fire. A group of intelligent-looking men, in workingmen's clothes, stood talking on a corner. Henderson pulled up close to them. "Can you fellows give us any news about the fire? How far down-town is it? Is it coming this way?"

One of the men came forward and said, "I've been down there, and have just walked back. At least 20 blocks are burning; it seems so, anyway. It's the hottest fire I've ever seen. Why, you can't get near it. When I left it hadn't got to the North Side yet, but the way red-hot sparks and burning planks were flying, I'd say it's over on this side now."

They drove on slowly. The fleeing crowds were all over the street. Hundreds of vehicles of all kinds were coming from the opposite direction. It was pandemonium—an inferno of oaths and yells and hurrying feet. Most of those who came out of the district were laden with their household goods and the street was littered with merchandise that had been dropped or thrown away.

"My God! Look at that!" This exclamation came from Jeff Martin who pointed to a column of flame that arose suddenly and stood high in the air far above the general level of fire. Henderson looked at it a moment and muttered sadly, "The Bargain House is bound to go, and I've worked so long and hard to build it up. All gone in a night."

"There's a fireman," Jeff said. "Stop him and let's find out whatever we can." The man in his blue fireman's uniform came over to the buggy. His clothes were covered with grime and ashes, and his face was dirty. "Why aren't you with your company?" Henderson demanded.

"I was," the man answered, "until about a thousand tons of brick wall fell on our engine. None of us was killed for we saw it coming. That was on La Salle Street, near Randolph. Then I went over to State, to join No. 12, but I hadn't been there half an hour before their hose went all to pieces—too much pressure, I guess. Anyway, it leaked and split, and we had to give up. There ain't nothing I can do, and I'm an my way home to get the wife and the kids and take 'em down to the beach."

"You mean that the fire's out of control?"

The fireman laughed sardonically. "Out of control! don't make me laff. This ain't no regular fire. This is hell bust loose on earth. Jes' look at that." He pointed toward the sky. Overhead there was a great fiery cloud, covering half the heavens.

Before they had gone a block farther Jeff Martin had to get out and lead the horse through the crowds and past drunken men who tried to seize its bridle. The barrooms stood wide open, selling liquor even while their roofs were blazing.

When they reached the Bully Bargain House the building was not burning; the fire was still about four blocks away. Henderson guided the horse to a hitching post in a wide alley that ran next to the store. "We'll be here only a few minutes," he said. "No use trying to save any of the stock now, but I want to get some papers and money out of the safe."

A strange sight met their eyes as they approached the front of the store. The doors had been broken open, smashed evidently by a sledge hammer, and not a pane of glass was left in any of the windows. The place was full of men—all of them from the slums, to judge by their appearance — and they were helping themselves to clothing. A large truck was backed up to the front door, and a number of men were filling it with men's suits, taking them from the shelves by the armsful.

Henderson stood for a moment looking on, his face pale and somber. Then he said, "Come on, Jeff, let's go up to the office." As they mounted the stairs Jeff said, "Aren't you going to speak to these thieves? They act as if the store belonged to them."

"What should I say? In half an hour the place will be burning down, and it's better for them to have the clothes. Now, here we are in the office. I want to get that safe open." It was apparent that the office had already been visited, for drawers stood open and papers lay all over the floor. "Stand with your back to that door, Jeff," Henderson said as the safe door swung open, "and, for God's sake, keep anyone from coming in. If they could see what I'm taking out of this safe I'd never get home, nor you either."

Normally in medieval drama all parts were taken by men, though in France there are records of women on the stage prior to 1550.

Looking At Life - - - - - - By Erich Brandeis

ACCORDING to the magazine advertisements we are going to live in a veritable wonderland when the war is over.

Everything, almost, is going to be done by electricity, we are going to push buttons and, presto, there will be service and food and refrigeration and music, right by our bedside, and all we will have to do is just to make the money to have all these conveniences.

BRANDEIS

Yes, it's wonderful — so different from the old days when you still had to do some of your own work!

But then, as I was reveling in all these marvelous improvements, I thought of the hurricane we had late last fall.

The electric wires and the telephone wires both blew down and there we were, we twentieth-century supermen, and a little wind put us back a century, just as reminder.

There was no heat, because our oil burner depends on electricity. There was no light, there was no water, because our pump runs by electricity. There was no way to cook because electric stoves don't operate without current and there was no radio.

The telephone was dead and all our clocks had stopped. My watch was out of order — so here we were, without any of the most elemental things of life.

It was two days and nights before the wires were fixed, and during these days and night we were worse off then our ancestors a hundred years ago.

We had a couple of stubs of candles — left over from the last time we had dinner guests and you know how nice a dinner table looks with candles burning, particularly when there are electric lights overhead.

Up in the attic we found an old sterno stove, with a little fuel left, so that we could at least make a cup of coffee. For water we had to walk half a mile to a neighborhood farmer's place who had one of those old-fashioned hand pumps. And, in the barn, there was an old lantern with a little kerosene left in it which gave a ghastly light to whatever little spot we carried it.

READING was out of the question. We didn't know what time it was, we didn't know how the war was coming along, we had no entertainment of any kind.

But the neighbors dropped in to see whether we were all right, and we went calling and we sat around and chinned and reminisced, and we chuckled and took the whole thing as a sort of a joke—

But were glad when the lights went on again and when the phone rang and the radio blared forth the virtues of that hand lotion and when once again water ran in the faucets.

We were back in the twentieth century once more — with all its troubles and all its wonderful comforts.

But when you come to my house now, you'll see several lamps, all filled with kerosene, and you'll see two dozen candles and a barrel filled with water and an oil-stove to cook on in case of emergency, and several flash lights and even a little battery radio.

Yes, there will be many new things after the war. But remember that electricity, just like life, hangs by a pretty slim wire!

Senate Ponders Polish Problem

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

THE YALTA partition of Poland has become the "yardstick," to use one of FDR's favorite expressions, for measuring and forecasting the kind of arrangements which the Big Three will make when the time arrives to recast boundaries and to redistribute people thrown out of their old homes by the earthquake of war.

In view of the far-flung responsibilities which this and similar agreements will impose on the American people, it will receive exceptionally close study by the body which must ratify it — the United States Senate.

The Crimean agreement as it affects the Poles has special significance for us in view of our historic sympathy for that race. It was a Polish nobleman, Thaddeus Kosciusko, who served as George Washington's aide and helped transform his raw troops into soldiers who could defeat the future conquerors of Napoleon.

But these sentimental considerations are not nearly so important as that President will ask Congress and the American people to underwrite the Polish settlement, sight unseen.

TUCKER

Congressmen acquainted with the historical background recall that careless flouting of peoples and boundaries at Versailles led straight to the present conflict. It gave rise to Hitler and Mussolini.

The Big Four — Wilson, Lloyd George, Clemenceau and Orlando — meant well. But they sowed the seeds of other wars by their arbitrary treatment of the same sort of problems dealt with by President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Marshal Stalin at the Black Sea resort.

The 1919-1930 statesmen juggled facts and figures to justify their decisions. In several major instances they relied on erroneous population totals; they used their own interpretation of history to support their program for remaking the map of Europe. And, despite their good intentions, the result of all their labor is the present strife.

CONTRADICTION: Even the most ardent Polish advocates in this country understand that there must be a give-and-take in the solution of these problems. They are willing to compromise to win a permanent and secure fatherland. But they do resent administration propaganda designed to prove that Polish land east of the Curzon Line belongs to Russia by right of population.

In their opinion, White House spokesmen have not been frank in seeking to win support of the partition of Poland. Speaking on a State department broadcast a few weeks ago, Assistant Secretary Archie MacLeish said, even before he knew the detailed terms of the compact:

"The Crimean decision was fair because it gave Russia a part of Poland settled predominantly by Russians and Ukrainians rather than by Polish people."

In his address before the joint session of Congress, President Roosevelt echoed his poet laureate. He declared:

"It is well-known that the people east of the Curzon Line — this is an example of why it is a compromise — are predominantly White Russians and Ukrainians — a very great majority — and not Polish; and the people west of that line are predominantly Polish, except in that part of Prussia and eastern Germany that would go to the new Poland."

POPULATIONS: The 1931 population of the disputed area, according to statistics collected by Polish officials, totaled 12,012,000, divided as follows: Poles, 4,794,000; Ukrainians, 4,139,000; Jews, 1,045,000; Russians, 120,000; Germans, 80,000; Lithuanians, 76,000. The balance consisted of miscellaneous peoples.

Even when the Russians and Ukrainians are considered together, as Messrs. Roosevelt and MacLeish emphasize, they do not match the number of Poles. But, although the Ukraine happens now to be a Soviet republic, the Ukrainians in Poland cannot be counted as Muscovites. The irony of it is that they fled to this region to escape the rule, first of the czars and then of the Communists. Moverover, they are chiefly of Catholic faith, which explains why they migrated.

1931-1939 population changes, according to Polish representatives, increased the number of Poles in this area. They flocked home to escape religious persecution after Hitler came to power in 1933. Many thousands left Russia because of Stalin's liquidation of the peasants during that period. So that prewar records would prove, by this theory, that the proposed partition does not square with the facts.

The present-day census, as tabulated by Russian experts at Yalta, may paint a different picture, however. Almost 2,000,000 Poles were deported to Siberia and other parts of the Soviet Union after the Russians invaded and occupied this territory in 1939. Another 2,000,000 persons died during the German occupation. Around 200,000 escaped, and are now fighting Germany and Japan with the Allied armies.

They have been branded as "Fascists" by Moscow, and many believe that they will not be permitted to return to Poland.

WINNING THE WAR
By Albert Leman

POSTWAR competition in the grocery business will mean that housewives can then buy a record-breaking variety of foods at lower prices. This prediction may give some hope to shoppers depressed by the endless monotony of today's diet.

Recent surveys conducted by New York trade associations show that manufacturers will offer a great many new preparations and mixes designed to reduce kitchen drudgery. Highly processed items and numerous kinds of ready-to-serve delicacies will be marketed. Better packaged goods in greatly expanded self-service departments will save the customer's time.

LEMAN

Some of these commodities will be promoted in the near future; others will not be available until after the conflict. A "liquid apple" is on hand, made by a new technique that does not press the juice from the fruit. Culled pears now yield a sorghum for sweetening.

Meats will be cooked in cans with vegetables and even fruits. New formulas for lard have been developed by packers which, they think, will make this shortening as popular with housekeepers and commercial bakers as it once was. A synthetic butter-vanilla flavoring extract for pies and puddings is said to be as satisfactory as the original substances. Canned green tomatoes packed in tasty mild brine and edible herbs should please epicures.

DEHYDRATION: Merchants do not expect to handle a large volume of special war foods — certainly not concentrated Army rations. But they believe that several articles now taken almost exclusively by the armed forces will be on postwar counters —such canned combinations as ham and eggs, bacon and cheese, ham and lima beans.

Manufacturers of dehydrated products will try to hold the markets that they have won in the past few years. They know they will get little encouragement from former doughboys and gobs. Nevertheless, the industry thinks that, even though ex-servicemen's wives will not dare buy their wares, they will appeal to purchasing agents of hospitals, shipping lines, logging camps, jails, scientific expeditions and outlying hotels.

Important improvements in taste and conservation qualities have been made by the better companies, whose spokesmen complain that the reputation of the entire field suffers from the poor performances of fly-by-night firms. Department of Agriculture experts announced recently that progress in drying methods which normally might have taken decades to accomplish has been reached in a few years.

New Commerce Secretary Eyes White House

Wallace Opens His '48 Campaign

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON. — Henry Wallace's return to President Roosevelt's cabinet, with which he sat for eight years as Secretary of Agriculture and four as Vice President, has political significance which is duly appreciated by Democratic party politicians, by rank-and-file voters, and by Mr. Wallace.

He again has an advantageous postion in public office from which to create issues and to organize his campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1948. He has a head-start. So far the field of candidates is meager.

STOKES

Party leaders, particularly the Conservatives, are aware of the Wallace threat, though they do not quite understand it.

That they recognize the threat was apparent in the fight against his appointment as Secretary of Commerce. They wanted to kill him off early. They were successful in reducing his political potency somewhat by depriving him of control of the lending agencies which might have become a political asset because of the plans he had to utilize them in a postwar job program.

Something New Added

Henry Wallace has obvious weaknesses as a candidate for the Democratic nomination. But he also has peculiar strength, because he has assumed a peculiar position in American politics to which his enemies have contributed, unwittingly, by the nature of their attack on him.

He has become the symbol of a new rank and file uprising in the political activity of labor in the last presidential campaign. Politicians are just beginning to realize that something new has come into American politics, something they have not quite figured out yet.

IT has elements of a crusade, and the strength of a crusade. And furthermore it has a practical basis in organization.

Mr. Wallace has become the heir-apparent of this crusade. It has rallied about him. This crusading, organized labor is concentrated now in the Democratic party. Henry Wallace wants to keep it there and to use it as the leaven to keep the Democratic party a progressive party. Democrats only win elections as a progressive party.

But it is also virtually an axiom that a man cannot be nominated in a Democratic convention with only this support, even flaming and organized as it is today, because politically shrewd Conservatives, particularly of the Southern stamp, still go to Democratic conventions and have a lot to do with what happens. Franklin D. Roosevelt has always known that, and acted accordingly.

Plans "Missionary Work"

Henry Wallace's friends think he now has the opportunity, in the Commerce department post, to do some missionary work among the Conservatives represented in business, and take some of the curse off him in that vicinity. Figuratively, he has a chance to slick down his hair and prove he is no wild idealist and dreamer.

This does not mean that he will abandon any of his ideas. He holds them sound and applicable to the problems to be faced in the postwar period. In fact, he expects to continue to promote them, believing in this way that he may start a backfire among the people against the politicians who have tried to block him in the past.

HENRY Wallace has another source of strength of which politicians are aware, which is that he never knows when he is beaten.

He keeps coming back.

There was a time, when President Roosevelt gave him administrative jobs as Vice President, that it was rumored around that Mr. Roosevelt was grooming him as successor. Then came his row, as head of the Board of Economic Warfare, with Jesse Jones. The President rebuked the two of them, removing Mr. Wallace from the board and curtailing Jesse Jones' powers somewhat. Mr. Wallace, it was said, was through.

Then, with the President's consent, they traded him out of the Democratic vice presidential nomination at Chicago. They said he was through again.

But here he is back, and pretty much on his own now.

Claim Of Amarillo Firm Goes To FDR

WASHINGTON, March 9. (AP)— House passage sent to the White House a bill authorizing payment of $2,814 to the Jay Taylor Cattle company, Amarillo, Tex., for claims in connection with the poisoning of 33 Hereford steer yearlings.

The cattle died in March 1943, from grazing on land upon which arsenic was used in connection with the mesquite eradication project conducted by the Soil Conservation service.

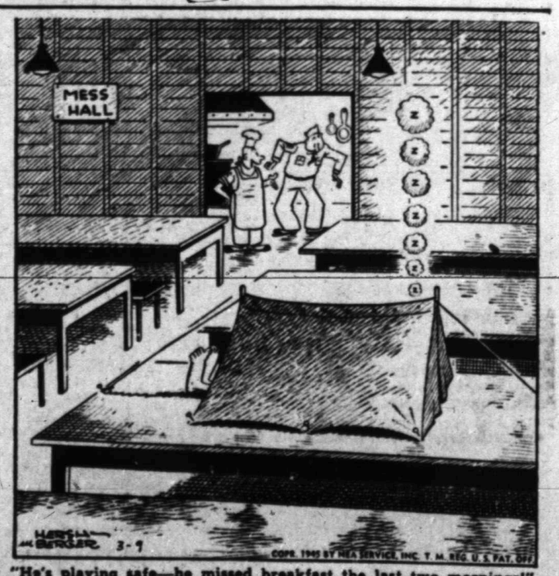

Broadways Turned Into Ghost Streets

NEW YORK, March 9. (AP) — Variety, the show business weekly, reported today that the amusement curfew had turned the nation's Broadways into ghost streets after midnight.

Night clubs throughout the country were estimated to be doing 25 to 45 per cent less business, motion picture theaters five to 10 per cent less.

southwest.

The Soviet communique announced the capture of 200 localities in Pomerania, including the strongholds of Stolpmuende, on the Baltic coast 10 miles northwest of Stolp; and Schlawe and Ruegenwalde to the west.

The Russians were only 12 miles southwest of Lauenburg, last German stronghold left in northeastern Pomerania, with the seizure of Darsin, and were less than ten miles from Danzig with the capture of Rheinfeld.

The Second White Russian Army, which made these swift advances, captured 1,500 more prisoners, while the First White Russian Army reached the edge of Papen Wasser, controlling the sea channel leading to Stettin, and captured 3,000 prisoners, the bulletin said.

Heavy fighting raged from Kienitz, west bank village 10 miles northwest of Kuestrin, down to the area west of Lebus, 11 miles south of Kuestrin, enemy broadcasts said, and Adolf Hitler a few days ago visited the Oder front on a morale-raising tour.

Reds Said Thrown Back

The German DNB agency said that Soviet troops had been thrown back from Seelow, 10 miles west of the Oder and 25 miles from Berlin, after penetration to that town on Thursday. Seelow, an important road junction, is 11 miles southwest of embattled Kuestrin.

The enemy said the Russians "undoubtedly are preparing a large-scale offensive along the Oder between Kuestrin and Crossen, 45 miles to the southeast, and declared the ferocious assault on Kuestrin was intended to knock out that vital crossing town before the main lunge.

Close quarter combat also still raged at Guben, east bank Neisse river town 51 miles southeast of Berlin, the Germans disclosed. One broadcast said that "Guben was liberated," although the Russians never have claimed the stronghold. The Neisse river is a southern continuation of the Oder defenses in front of the Reich capital.

There were 18,480 traffic deaths in the United States during the first 10 months of 1944.

PRICES CONTINUE DOWNWARD

NEW YORK, March 9 (AP)—The stock market continued on the downward course today but, while declines ranged from 1 to 3 or more points, selling seemed to lack the urgency that accompanied the sharp Thursday relapse.

Liquidation on the good war news, which kept reconversion apprehension alive, in addition to the trimming of accounts in preparation for further possible steps to stem speculation, again motivated trends. Extreme declines were shaded in many cases at the close.

The Associated Press 60-stock average was off 1.1 points at 60.3, on top of yesterday's slump of 1.2 which was the widest break in nearly 16 months. The retreat was broad, 1,013 issues registering. Of these, 937 were down against 176 up or unchanged. Transfers totaled 2,060,000 shares compared with 1,860,000 the day before. The final hour accounted for only 350,000.

Bonds trailed with stocks on the downside.

NEW YORK FUTURES

NEW YORK, March 9 (AP)—Cotton futures market fluctuated nervously today over a range of 85 cents a bale with activity largely influenced by the war news and Washington developments on price control. Flurries of liquidation and hedge depressed values as much as 60 cents a bale at times but the list rebounded in late dealings on mill buying and short covering.

Closing levels were around the best, up 10 to 40 cents a bale. Spot March was off 20 cents a bale on liquidating orders anticipating expiration of trading in that delivery on March 16. Private advices reported a somewhat beter mill demand for spot cotton.

Futures closed 20 cents a bale lower to 40 cents higher.

artillery saturation bombardments, then to send forward small demolition groups with flame throwers, white phosphorous and demolition grenades.

First the laterals are sealed off with several hundred pounds of explosives. The vertical shafts then is blown from the top of each cave. Thus the cave occupants are "suffocated to death and destroyed."

Each cave can hold as many as 25 Japanese.

The Shimbu line is in the Marikina watershed sector east of Manila.

Mindanao Battered

The communique for the second straight day told of a sizable air blow at Zamboanga, on the southwest tip of Mindanao where the enemy radio said Allied forces already have landed. The communique told of 107 tons of bombs, dropped by medium and fighter bombers, hitting personnel areas, fuel and supply dumps.

A 129-ton raid on Zamboanga, largest city on Mindanao, was reported yesterday.

Luzon Yanks have seized launching devices the Japanese used to fire eight-inch rockets. They fired three rockets simultaneously, each with seven propellent charges. Loaded with picric acid, the rocket had a range of between four and five miles.

MacArthur said "it is an extremely powerful weapon but its accuracy is very doubtful."

South of Manila

South of Manila in the Batangas area, 11th Airborne division units secured the highway between Lake Taal and Balayan bay and captured the towns of Taal and San Nicholas.

The Yanks, who only recently pushed to the shore of Verde passage in Batangas province, control the entire road network in the western part of the province.

Grain..

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, March 9 (AP) — Belief that grains may have been oversold in yesterday's closing break generated enough buying to rally futures markets today but liquidation, especially of new crop wheat deliveries, reappeared and most of the early gains were lost.

At the finish wheat was ⅛ to 1⅛ higher than yesterday's close, May $1.69⅛-¼. Corn was off ¼ to ⅝, May $1.14¼. Oats were unchanged to ½ higher, May 66⅛. Rye was ⅛ lower to 1 higher, May $1.13-1.13⅛. Barley was off ⅛ to ½, May $1.10⅞.

Capture Of Bridge

to Alaska.

The decision to try to seize it was made by Hoge after a hurried conference near the water's edge with a task force commanded by Lt. Col. Leonard Engeman, Minneapolis, Minn., and Maj. Murray Deevers of Hagerville, Ark., commander of the 27th Armored Infantry battalion.

"The task force," said Capt. Charles Gillett of Newport, Ky., "had been given the secondary mission to take the bridge if possible but no one really expected to. German Army engineers usually see that you don't get a chance to reach the bridges intact but this time we moved so fast we caught them by surprise.

"They had prepared the bridge for demolition but their traffic had been coming over from the west bank all morning.

"Our men had to move fast because a prisoner told them that the German engineers would blow the bridge at 1600 hours (4 p. m.)"

It was then 3:50 p. m., and the Yanks had only 10 minutes to go.

American tanks began banging away at enemy gun emplacements on the other side to provide a covering fire and from a lofty perch on the western entrance to the bridge Capt. Charles A. Caswell of Kanapolis, Kas., called down for a smoke screen to hide the Yanks from the enemy artillery.

The first group over was Company "A" of the 27th Armored Infantry battalion.

Rites Set At Ralls For Frank Slaughter

RALLS, March 9. (Special) — Funeral services for B. Frank Slaughter, 36, of the Caprock community south of Ralls, who died Thursday morning at his home, will be conducted at 1:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon in the Ralls Baptist church.

Slaughter, who had worked recently in oil fields, died of a heart ailment.

He is survived by his wife; three children, Katie Lee, 11, Lester Franklin, 8, Bobby Kenneth, 13; his mother, Mrs. O. L. Slaughter, of the Owens community, south of Ralls; three sisters, Mrs. John Marsh and Mrs. Charles Williams, both of Owens, and Mrs. V. C. Huntsinger of Killeen, Tex.

Rev. Ross Payne, pastor of the Caprock Baptist church, will officiate and will be assisted by Rev. J. H. McClain, pastor of the Ralls church.

Burial will be under direction of the Marr Funeral home of Ralls.

them American — for the showdown battles of Germany.

Nazis Hurled Back

The Germans counter-attacked Lt. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges' First Army bridgehead in force for the first time today with elements of an armored division, but were hurled back. It was estimated that the bridgehead now was 10 or more miles wide.

Obviously, the German high command was marshalling all available forces to attempt to

REICH POUNDED FROM AIR

LONDON, March 9 (AP)—The biggest force of RAF Mosquitos ever sent to Berlin dumped more than 1,000 tons of explosives on the battered capital tonight after a thousand U. S. heavy bombers had smashed by daylight at the central German rail junction of Kassel. It was the 18th consecutive night attack on Berlin.

Enemy planes, the German radio warned, were over Brandenburg province, in which Berlin is located, early in the night and another force was crossing western Germany.

Heavy bombers from Italy joined today's attacks, striking communications systems at Graz in southern Austria while fighter bombers hit at rail targets from Vienna to Italy.

drive the Americans into the Rhine. Allied heavy bombers carried out two obliteration raids on Kassel, a rail city 110 miles east of the bridgehead, to keep enemy communications snarled.

Well Beyond Five Miles

It was considered likely here that the Americans were well over five miles beyond the river, for field dispatches told of the Americans boring steadily deeper into Germany while mountains of supplies, and strong reinforcements were built up to the rear.

More than 48 hours after the crossings, supreme headquarters took the wraps off the story of the bridgehead—one of the most dramatic of the war—and disclosed that daring American troops seized the Ludendorff double-track road and railway bridge intact at Remagen.

They then speared across the stream and captured a town on the superhighway leading northeastward to the Ruhr basin.

Join Up With Third

While the Ninth Armored division, which took the bridge, exploited its advantage today, other First Army forces sped eight and 12 miles farther south and met the Third Army's 11th Armored division at Brohl and at the Rhine ferry of Andernach, which has a population of 10,000.

Third Army troops moved so swiftly for this junction that they captured a general and his staff at Andernach, took 4,000 prisoners along its front and seized such huge quantities of booty that a front dispatch said it probably would take days to estimate it.

West of them in the Eifel mountains, five or more German divisions were caught in a gigantic sacks, with roads north, east and south under the guns of converging First and Third Army infantry and tanks.

"The Piano" Gives Out With Quickie Concert

KANSAS CITY, March 9. (UP) —Several strictly amateur singers who admit their talents are limited to the "Sweet Adeline" and "Roses of Picardy" types of repertoire boasted today that the great Jose Iturbi had played their accompaniments.

Wandering around the municipal airport station here between planes last night, Iturbi discovered a small piano. He began an impromptu concert featuring both boogie woogie and numbers more familiar to Carnegie hall audiences than the quickly expanding crowd which soon filled the room and flowed into adjacent hallways.

Then he began accompanying amateur vocalists. Finally he completed his "concert" with request numbers which ended only when a loud speaker announced the arrival of his plane.

News Briefs

Frenship High school at Wolfforth has increased its state affiliation three units, making a total of 33, according to G. L. Farrar, superintendent. Farrar announced Friday night that the annual inspector's report has been received from Austin, and that the increases in affiliation were officially reported. Farrar also said that Aubrey Edwards of near Shallowater has donated a set of reference books to the Frenship school library.

Fourteen dollars in dimes, two ten-dollar bills and one dollar in change was taken by a prowler from the 1509 residence of Mrs. Sallye M. Taylor, she reported to police late Friday. Police had other theft reports: bed clothing from the clothesline of Mrs. Martha James Sawyer, 2211 Main; foglights from Cpl. Arthur S. Cox of 810 Ave. Q.

Police in Memphis, Tenn., Friday night held one of two 15-year-old Lubbock girls who early this week "walked out" of the police station at Temple, Tex., after authorities there identified them from police radio descriptions. An official informed the sheriff's department here that the other girl possibly had been located. The pair used assumed names in an attempt to avoid detention at Temple. They escaped while their parents were en route to return them to Lubbock.

FDR Still Wants Work-Or-Jail Law

WASHINGTON, March 9. (AP) —President Roosevelt cited his January call for "total mobilization" today, when asked to choose between conflicting congressional plans for manpower legislation.

That call termed plant employment ceiling an inadequate tool for utmost war production.

And, since this is the mainspring of the Senate-passed manpower control measure, supporters of the more drastic work-or-jail bill which the House had passed took encouragement from his attitude.

We still are short of men, Mr. Roosevelt told his news conference.

Some time next week a joint conference committee from the House and Senate is to start work on reconciling the dissimilar measures. Chairman May (D-Ky) of the House military committee has said he will hold out for the House bill indefinitely.

Tokyo An Inferno

timated here at 1,300 tons, was the largest ever dropped on Tokyo. It was the 12th attack by B-29s from the Marianas on the Japanese capital. The largest previous attack was by more than 200 of the big bombers Feb. 25.

Le May remained up all night at his headquarters to follow the progress of the raid and greet the returning crews. He did not attempt to guess the size of the Tokyo conflagration.

Full Effects Unknown

"How big and devastating it will turn out to be must be judged later in the day when our crews have returned and have reported their observations in detail. And the final proof, of course, will be the photographs that will come in after that."

The target assigned and hit by the massive force was an area of 10 square miles in the center of Tokyo. It contains scores of small industries, factories and other military targets and a population of about 1,000,000.

It is considered the most congested area in the capital. In character it varies from sections comparable to a downtown business section in an American city, with administration buildings and many important business houses, to tightly packed residences.

Fire breaks, cut through the section in anticipation of incendiary raids, apparently failed to stop the spread of the flames.

The weather over the city during the 90-minute attack was a complete contrast to the heavy overcast and obscuring fog which forced B-29s to rely on precision instruments in the last two raids, March 4 and Feb. 25.

At headquarters, General Le May followed intently the reports of the earliest fliers leaving the target.

"Small fires," said the first to report.

"Large fires," came later reports.

"Conflagration," was the thrilling word received when only half the planes had reported.

Caught flat-footed as the first raiders swooped in, the Japanese sent up meager fighter opposition. Pilots reported heavy anti-aircraft fire, however.

Not a single plane had been lost as of Le May's latest word.

Mrs. W. H. Logan Dies Friday Night

Mrs. W. H. Logan of 2418 Twenty-fifth, wife of a Lubbock physician, died about 11:30 o'clock Friday night in Lubbock General hospital after an illness of several days.

She is survived by her husband; four brothers, A. B. Eddleman, V. E. Eddleman, T. J. Eddleman and A. M. Eddleman, all of Graham, Tex.; and a sister, Mrs. Bertha Yancy, also of Graham.

The body will be taken to Graham this morning, and services will be conducted there late this afternoon, Rix Funeral home reported.

President Extends Olive Branch To De Gaulle, Response Watched

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, March 9. — President Roosevelt held out the olive branch to General Charles De Gaulle today.

Whether de Gaulle would grasp it is a question. At the moment his problem seems to be clutching for straws in France's suddenly confused relations with Russia.

The President made his gesture when a group of visiting French newspapermen stayed behind after his regular news conference for presentation.

Friendly Words For Snub

They were stopped by long custom from initiating any newsworthy talk so the chief executive took the lead.

With friendly words for the man who snubbed him on his way home from Yalta by declining to meet him in Algiers, the President advised the French visitors not to pay any attention to the talk about himself and de Gaulle.

We're great friends, the president was quoted as saying, adding that when de Gualle was over here his visit last year they had a great time.

Too Busy For Visit

He also said that as far as the matter of his going to see de Gaulle in Paris was concerned he was too busy even to have time to see General Eisenhower. But he expressed regret that he had not been able to go to France.

American diplomats hoped this gesture of friendship might evoke equal warmth in response but were by no means certain it would.

The belief here now is that the real test of French policy on collaboration with the big powers will come in the world security conference at San Francisco. There is considerable concern lest France seek to gain a position of leadership of dissident counties which may try to upset Dumbarton Oaks plans.

France And Russia

However, there is evidence that France's main concern at the moment is with Russia. De Gaulle has the task not only of fitting his nation into the European scene, where Russian power promises to be dominant for years to come, but also of dealing with a very lively communist element inside France.

Maurice Thorez, secretary general of the Communist party in France, today lambasted the de Gaulle government for its failure to help sponsor the San Francisco conference.

"This attitude does not conform to the well conceived interests of our country," Thorez said.

Uncounted thousands of miles of nerve fiber comprise the brain and nervous system in the human body.

Curmudgeon Takes On New Role By His Own Confession

WASHINGTON, March 9. (AP)—The curmudgeon would like it known that he is a blushing violet.

"I hate rows, said Interior Secretary Harold L. Ickes who gets in more of them than anybody. He doesn't get in them—he wades into them.

This peaceable facet of the sardonic, sarcastic, biting Ickes came out today at one of his infrequent but usually hilarious press conferences.

He didn't want to comment on whether the United Mine Workers union would get their pay demands—he's also solid fuels administrator. So he dusted off an angelic look and observed:

"I don't care to be the bone of controversy."

It was suggested that is a new role for the secretary.

"I hate rows," he said with a hurt look. But the grin crept out, and he added: "Unless I set the stage for them."

Ickes said "we turned the corner" in the oil situation. Now, he said it could be told, there once was only two days gasoline supply in the District of Columbia.

"That shows how important it is to suppress news some times," Ickes crackled. "There'd have been the usual run. You can go ahead and have an ex-post facto scare now if you want to.

"Only we and St. Peter knew how tight the squeeze was."

Rape Case Trial Set Here For April 20

Alfred Homer Keeton, 22, laundry deliveryman, will be tried April 16 for rape, by agreement of the state and the defense, it was announced after his arraignment Friday before 99th District Judge G. V. Pardue.

By agreement, a special venire of 100 men was summoned.

Others arraigned on grand jury charges were:

E. W. Gentry, 42, of north of Lubbock, accused of incest with a 17-year-old daughter; L. V. Myers, 28, of Crane, burglary Jan. 30 of property owned by Earl Perryman; Richard Driggs, 22, burglary June 13, 1942, of property controlled by M. C. Boyd.

Keeton, who is accused of having raped Ruth Jameson, 20, a pretty redhead who was registered as a freshman arts and sciences student at Texas Tech, pleaded innocent, as did all other defendants. Keeton said he had employed as counsel W. W. Campbell, who appeared with him in the courtroom.

Myers said he had no attorney, but probably would employ one. Gentry had employed no counsel, Driggs had.

The cases of Gentry, Myers and Driggs will be called for trial the week of March 19, said District Attorney Burton S. Burks.
