Home Town Talk

By B. D. D.

George W. Truitt of the Great West Lumber company offers a good suggestion in a letter to Talker. Mr. Truitt writes as follows:

"Dear Talker:

"The site for our new federal building, I am afraid, is very unattractive to tourists passing through here and also to those living in nearby towns who come here to trade. Those of us who live here know that the church building and others were razed to get the ground ready for a $750,000 building to be built there one of these days. But those not so well acquainted here are apt to think that it is just another example of more buildings being torn down here and in seeing the bare lots with a part of an old basement showing think perhaps some unpleasant rumors they have heard about conditions must surely be true.

"Now how would a nice big sign reading like this do: 'This site is being cleared for the erection of the new Wichita Falls $750,000 federal building.'— or words to that effect.

"Kathleen Norris says when you think of something tell it and I thought of this but didn't know whether to tell my good friend, Walter Nelson Jr., as mayor, T. J. Waggoner Jr., as president of the junior chamber of commerce, John Boswell, manager of the senior C. of C., J. S. Hargett, J. L. Jackson Jr., 'or who.' But I thought you would know and, since you make a profession of talking about the Old Home Town, might think the idea worth talking to one of them about. Now drive by there and see how that corner would look to you if you were a stranger shopping here or passing through as a tourist."

Talker endorses the suggestion right off and is sure the publication of Mr. Truitt's letter will bring action.

If any one else has a good suggestion send it in.

So many good ideas are lost because we fail to follow Kathleen Norris' advice to tell about them.

By the way Kathleen didn't fail to speak her mind in Sunday's Times in her article on "Father's Day." She started off by expressing wonder whether fathers, as a class, are a good deal of a failure and goes on to show there isn't much doubt about it after all. She says half the marriages in America are spoiled because the husband has never been taught anything about being a good husband and father. She says a lot of men do not want to become fathers and want their wives to avoid motherhood.

And here's the result as Mrs. Norris sees it:

"The girl naturally does what women have been doing ever since Eve hurried past the angel with the flaming sword. She tries to please her man. She can't help it; the sex is made that way. When men wanted women to be shapeless, good-natured cooks and mothers, women went in whole-heartedly for lemon meringue pies, black bean soup, sons and daughters.

"When men began to run after

SECOND MISHAP DELAYS GIRL'S OCEAN HOP

Sun-Blinded Pilot Misjudges Distance at St. John

AIRPLANE DAMAGED

Flier Meets Trouble After Flight From New York

ST. JOHN, N. B., June 22. (AP)—Ruth Nichols, who sought the honor of being the first woman to make a solo flight across the Atlantic, was lying in the general hospital here tonight, injured in the crack-up of her plane on landing from New York.

Her injuries are believed to be confined to a wrenched back, a gashed leg and general shock, but hospital authorities said an x-ray would be taken. A report that she had suffered an injury to the base of the spine was denied at the hospital.

Ruth Nichols

She damaged her plane in landing with the sun in her eyes. Her left leg was hurt and she suffered other bruises and from shock. The plane, which she brought down here shortly after 8 o'clock, daylight saving time, was believed not seriously damaged.

Miss Nichols, on the first leg of her flight from New York to Paris, arrived over the local airport at 8 o'clock (New Brunswick daylight time). The accident occurred 15 minutes later when she is understood to have misjudged the distance required for landing her plane.

She took off from Floyd Bennett Field, Barren Island, New York, at 3:24 o'clock this afternoon, after repairs had been made to her plane, previously damaged in an unsuccessful effort to take off last Thursday.

The aviatrix planed to spend the night in St. John and then continue on to Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, there to await favorable weather conditions over the north Atlantic.

Col Clarence Chamberlin, her technical adviser, accompanied Miss Nichols on her flight today in another plane. He is scheduled to fly to Harbor Grace.

$10,000,000 Blaze Destroys Harbor

ST. JOHN, N. B., June 22. (US)—The entire west side of the St. John harbor was in ruins tonight —virtually leveled by fire with a loss estimated at $10,000,000.

Only an off-shore wind saved the entire city from destruction.

All of the large freight sheds, with their inbound and outbound merchandise; two large grain elevators, two small steamers and several residences were among the property consumed by the flames.

No loss of life occurred, although several firemen suffered burns and others were overcome in their efforts to stem the advancing flames.

The fire raged unabated for hours and finally burned itself out late this afternoon in a number of small sheds along the waterfront.

City Draws Program To Force Lower Gas Rates; New Sources Possible

Pending further action of the Lone Star Gas company upon the city's recent demand for lower gas rates here, every effort is being put forth by members of the council and other city officials to prepare the way for more aggressive action should such a program become necessary, it was learned by The Record News at the conclusion of Monday night's meeting of the council.

Officials Investigate

A demand for a lowering of the present 75-cent gas rate to a maximum of 50 cents was made by the city upon the Municipal Gas company, subsidiary of the Lone Star concern, several weeks ago. After 30 days, the gas company's officials replied with a proposed rate amounting to a material increase in fuel cost to practically the entire population of the city. Two weeks ago, the city dispatched a letter flatly rejecting the proposed new rate schedule, and declaring its intention of continuing the fight for lower gas rates.

Investigations now being made by City Attorney Thelbert Martin, City Manager George Fairtrace, Mayor Walter Nelson Jr., and members of the council are designed to establish the city's rights in the situation which may develop, and to formulate a plan of procedure which will guarantee the desired lowering of the gas charge. Officials of other cities in this section of the country, who have engaged in, or now are engaged in, campaigns for lower utilities rates, are being interviewed daily, it was said.

Members of the council pointed out that different cities, entering upon a fight to defeat rates imposed by franchised utility concerns have been forced to spend large sums of money in the fight because of oversight. For that reason, it was pointed out, every legal phase of the city's position in the situation which may develop here is being determined by careful investigation.

Program Expected Soon

Within a few days, it was indicated, the avenues open to this city for compelling a surrender of the franchise now held by the Municipal Gas company will be definitely determined; arrangements for the launching of such a program will have been established; sources of a gas supply immediately available will have been tentatively fixed; and a course to be followed by the citizenship of this city, in case the Municipal Gas company still refuses to lower its rates as requested, can be definitely prescribed.

Further conferences on both legal and practical phases of the situation are scheduled for the remainder of this week, council members said. Members of the council, and other officials active in the campaign for lower gas rates, declared that every preparation consistent with thoroughness and economy is being made for assuming a new aggressive position should such a step become necessary.

Special to The Record News.

SEYMOUR, Texas, June 22.—With two bullet wounds from a 22 rifle in his head, Johnny E. Holman, 52, well-to-do farmer, was found dead in his barn near Mabelle this morning.

An inquest was held on the spot by H. W. Emsoff, justice of the peace, who went to the farm from Seymour with Seth Cockrell, county attorney, and Clo Shawver, deputy sheriff. A verdict of suicide was returned.

Findings of the inquest indicated that the man had braced the rifle with the muzzle against his head, pulling the trigger with a thin board, which was found on the floor.

The first shot passed through his ear, grazing the skull. A blood-smeared handkerchief in his hip pocket led to the belief that he had wiped away the blood from the first shot and placed the handkerchief back in his pocket before firing the second shot, which pene-

FOUR TOWNS JOIN IN DEMAND FOR CHEAP GAS

Special to The Record News

CHILDRESS, June 22.—City officials of Memphis, Wellington, Quanah and Childress have made demand upon the Northern Texas Utility company, owners of the gas distribution systems at the town mentioned, that a substantial reduction in rates be made on or before July 15.

This action was the result of a conference of city officials of the above-mentioned towns at Childress. The meeting was called by Allen Grundy, mayor of Memphis. The city officials of Memphis have entered suit against the gas company, claiming the company has failed and refused to make the annual report to the city council as required by law, and asking a penalty of $100 per day.

While no definite statement has been made by officials of the company the patrons have been led to believe a reduction will be made in the rates before cold weather arrives. At this time the new owners of the company are making a complete survey of their property. The lines from the gas fields of Wheeler are being surveyed and a valuation fixed. The same action is being taken within the cities.

It is not expected an answer will be received from the gas company until the time comes for the reduction in rates. The patrons are anxious for a reduction before winter weather sets in.

Sale of Land in Small Farm Tracts Scheduled in October

Mr. Bridwell traded the property for 1,065 acres of land near Raymondville, Willacy county. He has no immediate plans for development of the South Texas property.

The Bridwell farm is one of the largest agricultural units in the county. Most of it is what was formerly known as the Butler Moore farm, having been owned for many years by R. M. ## Sterling Meets Cranfill Oil Curb Plea With More Talk Of Special Session

AUSTIN, June 22. (AP)—Gov. Ross S. Sterling today frankly told sponsors of the Cranfill plan of East Texas oil stabilization that he did not think it would work.

The oil men called on the governor after they had petitioned the railroad commission to issue an order in line with their plan, which was inaugurated voluntarily by operators Saturday.

Governor Sterling repeated he hoped the scheme would work. He stated however that any plan which did not have a law to back it up but which depended for success only upon a gentleman's agreement was likely to fail.

Trial Urged

The chief executive wanted to know what objections the oil men had to a special session of the legislature to give the railroad commission power to enforce such a plan. Most of them replied they were against a special session, at least until the new scheme had been given a fair chance. They expressed doubt that a sane law could be passed during this period of emergency and bitterness.

Tom Cranfill of Dallas, originator of the plan, said he was opposed to any new law similar to the Howsley bill introduced during the regular session of the legislature. Cranfill and the other conferees, while admitting there were still some violators, expressed confidence the scheme would succeed.

The governor said he was receiving about 10 requests for a special session to every one against it, and that pressure for an extra session was being exerted every hour of the day.

Violator Cited

Capt. J. F. Lucey of Dallas, chairman of the group asking support of the Cranfill method of stabilization, read a telegram from Ray Richmond, umpire of the Kilgore and Henderson areas, stating there were only eight violators today in those districts. Richmond expressed confidence some of those would come into line. The East Texas production has been cut 55,000 barrels daily since Saturday, Richmond was quoted as saying.

R. D. Parker, supervisor of the oil and gas division of the railroad commission received reports this afternoon that there were 13

FRANCE ALONE HESITATES IN TAKING OFFER

Acceptance Hoped Despite French 'Compensation' Demands

CONFERENCE TODAY

Washington Optimistic as Allied Countries Join In Acclaim

(By The Associated Press)

The immediate effect of President Hoover's pronouncement for a one-year war debt moratorium was to send stock and commodity markets booming from New York to Bombay.

In Berlin, where Chancellor Bruening described the offer as a "historic event of the greatest significance," the market rose 10 to 30 points on the strength of Germany's formal acceptance of the proposal, and despite assertions in the opposition press that Germany is "the victim of American bluff."

Britain Accepts

Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald in London told the house of commons that the British government accepted the offer and he was joined by Stanley Baldwin, the conservative leader, and David Lloyd George, head of the liberal party. England is turning its attention to the details which would make the moratorium effective.

The French cabinet received the text of the president's offer and the government let it be known France wants to raise no obstacle to acceptance. Political opposition rallies, however, about the contention that Germany's unconditional reparations payments must not be postponed. The opposition wants to know whether France was consulted before Mr. Hoover's proposal was made public.

Washington Hopeful

Rome has accepted the offer informally with the stipulation that Germany must utilize the relief accorded her for economy rehabilitation only. Other governments throughout the world have received the president's suggestion in much the same spirit.

In Washington Mr. Hoover is giving all his attention to the situation which his offer of a moratorium has created. Secretary Stimson has reiterated the warning that there must be no bargaining and that prompt action by all the nations is imperative. Washington is optimistic that all the nations concerned, France included, will accept the proposal as it stands.

FRANCE MOVES WITH CAUTION

PARIS, June 22. (US)—The French government is proceeding most calculatingly and deliberately in its consideration of President Hoover's proposal for a year's postponement of reparations and war debt payments.

It was tonight unofficially learned that its answer to Washington cannot be expected for some time, even though the cabinet plans to

FREE CLINIC OPENS TODAY

The Wichita County Tuebrculosis association will hold its first clinic for the needy at the Wichita General hospital Tuesday afternoon, it was announced Monday by Miss Mary Quinn, who is in charge.

Drs. F. R. Collard and Austin F. Leach will conduct the first clinic which will be held monthly on fourth Tuesdays. About two hours will be required. Examinations will begin at 1 p. m.

The move to educate indigents to take steps to prevent tuberculosis before the disease is contracted and the proposed work of stamping out out tuberculosis by the association has been endorsed by the Wichita County Medical society. The object of the monthly clinics, Miss Quinn explained, is to remind that tuberculosis can be discovered before symptoms of it appear, especially in the case of children and young people, and to teach how the disease can be prevented.

Only worthy cases will be handled free by the clinic. Miss Quinn will investigate each application for examination, and appointments will be given to only those that are unable to pay.

Those desiring examinations should communicate several days before a clinic is to be held with Miss Quinn at 207 City National bank building, telephone 2-5320.

The tuberculosis association will also be of aid in securing commitments for those unable to pay to state sanatariums. The clinic workers will go to homes and teach protection against tuberculosis and will distribute preventative literature.

Members of the Kiwanis club at Altus, Okla., will be present at the next meeting of the local club, on June 29, and will furnish the program for that day, it was announced. The visitors will attend the baseball game at Spudder park in the afternoon.

$50,000 Damage Suit Continued to July 20

Suit of Mrs. Odie Anderson for about $50,000 against the Texas Electric Service company, scheduled for hearing before Judge W. W. Cook in the 78th district court Monday, was continued to July 20 when the court was unable to secure a jury.

Relying upon the special venire summoned for the Vernor Donohoe trial in the 89th district court for a supply of jurymen, the 78th district court was unable to obtain only half the required number, Judge Cook said.

The plaintiff in the suit seeks damages as the result of her husband's death from electric shock at Bridgetown in 1925, the charged wires allegedly having belonged to the defendant company.

Some farmers are providing bins and will keep their wheat until later in the fall believing it will be impossible for the prices to be lower than at this time. The yield is running from 15 to 30 bushels and the grade is good.

STATE MAKES ROAD AWARDS

Contracts Let for $2,000,000 in Construction

relief bridges for Duck creek was cancelled for failure of the county to furnish needed right of way.

Contracts awarded today called for improvement of 193 highway miles and included 56.9 miles of concrete paving, 100 miles of grading and drainage structures, 36.8 miles of other hard surface construction, two railroad overpasses and 15 bridges.

The commission tomorrow was to award contracts for improvement of approximately 193 additional highway miles and 14 bridges.

Work on Mankins Road

All applications for new designations of state highways were refused but one designation was reinstated. It was an extension of highway 66 from Clarksville to the Red river and was made on condition the state will not take it over for maintenance until constructed and that efforts be made by the county and the adjoining county in Oklahoma to obtain an agreement to operate a free bridge across the river.

Construction of concrete paving on highway 114 from Grapevine in Tarrant county to the Wise county line was ordered and the contract will be awarded at the next meeting. The distance is 22 miles. A 20-foot strip will be laid at an estimated cost of $500,000. Contract for the construction of highway 114 from the Wise county line to Rhome probably will be awarded at the September meeting.

Agreement was made with Archer county to construct grading and drainage structures on highway 25 from Archer City to Mankins if the county will furnish the right of way.

Decision probably will be made tomorrow or Wednesday on construction of highway 70 from the Cooke county line to San Angelo, the commission told a Tom Green county delegation. Requests for bridges across the South Concho river and Pecan creek on highway 30 were taken under advisement.

New Routes Asked

Requests of a delegation from Sutton, Edwards and Tom Green counties for a road from Sonora to Rock Springs was taken under advisement, the commission evidencing a desire to save construction of a new road by relocating highway 30 from near highway 3, north. Highway 30 has been designated but not constructed. Highway 30 would be shifted east several miles to care for a territory not served by a state route.

A proposal from a Taylor county delegation that a route be designated from Abilene, southwest to Bronte and that highway 36 be extended from Abilene to Comanche was presented, the commission indicating it probably would favor one of the designations in 1932. Commissioners Cone Johnson and D. K. Martin indicated they favored the Abilene-Comanche designation over the Abilene-Bronte designation.

War Debt Plan Booms Markets

discuss the Hoover plan thoroughly tomorrow.

That France is most reluctant to be hurried into anything was emphasized tonight after a conference between President Doumer and Finance Minister Flandin who called at the president's Elysees palace. Although nothing official was obtainable relative to the course of the current conversations, it was indicated that France will be most cautious.

'Compensation' Wanted

In some quarters it is declared that only the extreme pressure of events coupled with the unwelcome prospect of isolation in world affairs will drive France into accepting President Hoover's proposal without being granted "compensating" political advantages.

This belief gained further credence as Premier Laval, Foreign Minister Briand and M. Flandin were closeted with other members of the government in a series of conferences preparatory to the full cabinet meeting tomorrow.

The news that the British spokesman has "whole heartedly" accepted Hoover's plan came late this afternoon and served to confirm fears that London will throw the fullest weight of its influence behind the proposed moratorium.

Nation Dubious

While the governmental press continues to view somewhat askance President Hoover's proposal, seeing in it an attempt to protect the German investments of American citizens, there reigns in American official quarters tonight an atmosphere of optimism, described as based on the substance of today's conversations between the foreign and finance ministries.

Le Temps, frequently the unofficial voice of the government moreover ventures to voice the hope of finding a formula which, while protecting the French special right of payment of the unconditional portion of the German reparations, will enable the carrying out of the American plan.

BAYLOR MAN SHOT TO DEATH

Mabelle Farmer Found Dead in Barn

trated the brain after entering just over the right eye.

The wife, who was in the home, heard the shots. Going to the barn to investigate their cause, she found her husband dead, sprawled upon the floor.

No reason for the shooting could be determined by relatives. An inquiry at Holman's bank in Seymour revealed that his finances and business matters were in good order. He was said to have been afflicted with an illness at irregular intervals over the past few months, but it was not of sufficiently serious nature to have caused despondency over ill health.

Long Time Resident

The body was taken to a mottuary in Seymour to await the making of funeral arrangements. Funeral services probably will be held here during the late afternoon Tuesday, it was said. Completion of arrangements await word from relatives.

Holman had been a resident of Baylor county for the greater part of his life. He had been moderately successful in his business of farming and conducted a large farm of more than 500 acres situated a few miles south of Mabille.

In addition to the widow, he is survived by three sons, J. C., J. E. and Phillip Holman who resided with him on the farm; three sisters, Mrs. Cody Tucker and Mrs. Bob Reeder, also residing on the farm, and Mrs. F. Tucker of Seymour; and one brother, Oscar Holman, of Los Angeles, Calif.

State Keeps Check on Stays of Execution

AUSTIN, June 22. (AP)—Strict precautions against deceiving the state are taken every time the governor has an important verbal communication with the state penitentiary at Huntsville.

Several times stays of executions have been ordered by chief executives over the telephone a few hours before the time set for the death march.

On each occasion, Pat Daugherty, the governor's secretary, telephones the warden and informs him of the governor's desires and hangs up. But the routine does not stop there. In a few minutes the warden places a return call and repeats the message.

"We want the warden to be sure it is the governor calling and not someone trying to put something over on us," Daugherty said.

violators in the entire East Texas field. Parker "guessed" that some 30 wells were not yet curbed.

Major Dissenter

Captain Lucey stated the Arkansas Fuel Oil company, a Henry L. Doherty concern, was the only major dissenter from the Cranfill plan. He admitted that company alone could wreck the scheme. He stated he would ask President Hoover, his friend, to make a personal appeal to Doherty.

An order of the railroad commission is needed to put the plan completely into operation, Captain Lucey said.

COMMISSION DELAYS ACTION

AUSTIN, Jue 22. (UP)—Although Commissioner Pat M. Neff observed that he saw no reason why the Texas railroad commission should not issue a temporary order putting into effect the Cranfill voluntary stabilization plan for East Texas oil production, the commission concluded a conference here today with 30 oil operators without issuing any orders.

Neff said at the hearing he thought an order for the Cranfill plan could be issued and ratified next Monday when the commission holds an announced hearing on new proration orders for the state for the next quarter. His suggestion met no response from the other commissioners.

Opposition to the Cranfill plan was expressed by Charles F. Roeser, Fort Worth, who said it would still allow production of 450,000 barrels of oil daily, or more than market demands. Former Governor Dan Moody, who represented Carl Estes of Tyler in his suit for an injunction against proration, countered with the statement that the plan would allow production of only 250,000 barrels daily.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

While young Senator La Follette declares "a new set-up of society is necessary," saying "the philosophy of laissez-faire has ended in disaster"; while the Atlantic Monthly, seemingly always a conservative, announces that "America demands a national plan"; while the presbytery of New York, speaking for 63 congregations, affirms there is needed an economic reconstruction of society; while Mr. McAdoo and other prominent Americans affirm "there must be a new orders of affairs," the housewives of America go about making budgets, remembering with affection their grandparents and dreaming wistfully of their grandchildren.

"Laissez-faire," according to Mr. Mark Sullivan, means "let alone." He tells what that system was, and in brief it means the American theory of managing one's own business; of bringing up one's own children instead of merging family and state as in Russia; of going to school as long as one has money and ambition; of adopting the profession which one likes; of marrying, buying a home, starting a savings bank account and keeping the branches of the family tree green and sturdy.

The Russian experiment as described in the current Saturday Evening Post, is not a happy thing. The heart of life lies in the family and home and church. The Russian system under the five-year plan makes everything subsidiary to the state and the church is done away with. What will a nation have to build ideals upon without family and church?

The "American plan" suggested by speakers and writers on the subject is a vague thing in my mind, and since no plan has been outlined, during the past months of depression, it must be vague in the minds of those who talk so bravely of it. Mr. McAdoo calls for a national economic council, with representatives of the manufacturers, merchants, labor, mining and transportation industries.

I am glad that in these unjointed times I am not the one born to set them right. I can imagine Mr. McAdoo's council agreeing just as amicably as the farm relief board; as the railroad commissioners and oil operators; as the representatives in a state legislature and as the assembled Republicans and Democrats, who lie down like lambs together in congress.

Meanwhile, women look at their amputated allowances and figure nobly. Where taxes or rent have not been decreased, a slice is cut off food. When Johnnie graduates, Jimmy must do without clothes. Food is lower, but some one may be ill. It would be a grand move if the government took over hospitals and their running and standardized all expenses of illness.

Shelter must be an item figured and insurance must be paid. The great American comfort and menace, the automobile, must be financed. And women go painstakingly over budget figures and think wistfully of their grandparents and dream longingly of their children's children.

Nerves Bad After Baby Came

"I just had to do Something"

MY nerves were so bad I just had to do something. I am taking Lydia E. Pinkham's medicine again and am going to take it till I get good and strong.

"I sure recommend it to all of my friends and relations."

This hopeful letter came to us from Mrs. James H. Davis, Jr., of 913½ East Indianola Avenue, Youngstown, Ohio.

98 out of a 100 women report benefit. If you are sick and want to be well—why don't you try taking this medicine for a few weeks?

Lydia E. Pinkham's VEGETABLE COMPOUND

Now—Skin 3 to 5 Shades Whiter Overnight

Way Found to Remove Ugly Flaws

Now — women are discovering this new, scientific way to remove weather stains, freckles, blackheads, roughness and wrinkles —and overnight makes the skin whiter — three to five shades whiter. It is without question, the safest and surest way known to make the skin beautiful, all pink and white — and keep it that way.

Instead of wasting your good money on costly creams and new-fangled, fancy-named lotions, just get three ounces of Orchard White from any druggist and follow the easy directions. Pat a little into the skin at bed-time and by morning you can see a big improvement. Ugly flaws disappear. The skin gets whiter and soon it is eating smooth, gratifyingly fresh and beautiful. What's more, it stays that way. For in Orchard White there's a remarkable ingredient not found in any other preparation. It preserves the beauty of the skin and protects it from the ravages of the wind, rain, sun and dirt. If you really want a smooth, soft, beautiful pink and white skin—try this successful way. You'll be happy that you did.—Adv.

Pilot Takes Plane On Flight Without Touching Controls

LOS ANGELES, June 22. (AP)—G. Wilbur Cornelius, Burbank, Calif., transport pilot, said today he had flown a newly designed monoplane from here to San Francisco and back without having to touch the ship's balancing controls, in a test run, part of which was through fog.

He said he negotiated the fog without aid of any blind flying instruments, keeping the ship on its course with the help of a compass. The only control work done by the pilot was through the ship's rudder bar to keep the nose pointed toward its goal.

The plane, an open-cockpit, two-passenger, high-wing affair, is different from others in that the wings are connected to the fuselage with only a single steel tube. Cornelius said this allowed them to change their angles of air attack according to the air forces encountered and permitted the pilot to ignore the control stick.

"I set the automatic elevator at 8,500 feet as I left the airport and relaxed," said Cornelius. "The ship levelled off at that elevation and I kept my course with the rudder.

"From Salinas to Oakland (about 75 miles) I never caught a glimpse of the ground."

Cornelius claims the ship will not spin or stall, its wings changing the center of lift before flying speed is lost.

I. O. Boosters and Civic Leader to Confer Today on Plans for Market

Plans designed to effect an early opening of the proposed public retail market for farm produce will be taken up Tuesday morning by representatives of the I. O. Boosters club, sponsoring organization, and of other local civic clubs together with members of the agricultural committee of the chamber of commerce, it was announced Monday noon at the weekly meeting of the club at the Holt hotel.

Development of intensive small-farm cultivation of the irrigated valley and further agricultural development of this entire section were named as imperative objectives by Fred M. Haskett, publicity director of the chamber of commerce, in a short talk before those present Monday.

"Wichita Falls carried all her eggs in one basket for many years," Mr. Haskett said. "All those eggs were filled with oil. No permanent basis of industrial stability could be expected until that basket was dropped. That has happened, and we are now learning to carry other baskets and other kinds of eggs."

Grain exhibited during the recent harvest festival here, the speaker said, demonstrated the capacity of this section of Texas for agricultural production. Development of adequate marketing facilities in this city for vegetables and other produce, he continued, will aid greatly in developing more varied and more extensive cultivation of the irrigated Wichita valley.

Mr. Haskett referred briefly to public markets seen in Europe during a recent tour of that continent. He discussed establishments seen in Holland, Germany, Austria, Italy, and France.

"The most intensively developed farming area I saw in Europe," he said, "was in the vicinity of Nice, in Southern France. Lands are high priced. Farms are very small. Cultivation is expert. Products are of high quality, and bring fancy prices. Much attention and space is given to the production of flowers along with vegetable and fruit production. It takes 25,000 pounds of rose petals to produce an ounce of the essence which is the base of perfume. The petals are strewn upon a metal plate covered with what appears to be a light oil. Some 48 hours later those petals, having sacrificed their essence of aroma by absorption, are taken off and others put on. When the required amount has been used, the oily material is scraped from the plate, and from it is distilled the essence of the flowers' fragrance."

Members of the club voted to continue the I. O. Boosters baseball team in the City league during the second half-season which begins next week. They also voted to participate in the Fourth of July celebration now being planned by Pat Carrigan post of the American Legion, and to enter a float in the parade being arranged for the day.

GAS TAX

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., June 22. (AP)—A bill that would place a tax of eight cents a gallon on gasoline in Florida was passed by the state senate today.

Mayors Come Back Cross at Criticism Of French Conduct

NEW YORK, June 22. (UP)—Tired and travel-worn, and somewhat resentful at public criticism of their actions in France, 19 American mayors arrived in New York today aboard the Ile de France after one of the most strenuous junkets of modern times.

In the course of five weeks these mayors and their wives, represeting every quarter of the United States, have traveled 8,000 miles, eaten 66 formal dinners, listened to 128 speeches consuming, in all, 34 hours, and explored 14 French cities. They have been toasted in everything from the oldest of port wines to the dryest of champagnes, and to most of them today, the question of prohibition holds an academic interest.

Of the group only one mayor remained a teetotaler throughout the trip. He was Mayor Porter, Los Angeles, who declared at the outset that the constitution of the United States would follow him wherever he went.

CROSSING COSTS

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 22. (UP)—Oklahoma City today was ordered by the corporation commission to pay $10,815 as its share of the overhead crossing now under construction at Reno and Grand streets.

Reno's Broad-Minded Ideas Stop At Prospect of Society Duelling

By CAROL CROSS

RENO, Nev., June 22.—Wide open Reno legalized gambling and five-minute divorces, but won't stand for society duelling.

There are but two loopholes to this ruling. Duelling with eggs—vintage unspecified—may be practiced under police supervision and, in exceptional instances, unloaded guns may be used.

The announcement of Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr., writer and scion of the multi-millionaire Vanderbilt family, that he planned to "get" Peter Arno, satirical artist, evoked the ruling from Chief of Police J. M. Kirkley.

The chief's concern, however, proved unnecessary today when Vanderbilt explained that when he said he intended to "get" Arno, he did not mean it in any sense of physical violence.

He promised, however, to "make things unpleasant" for the man he accused of "kissing Mrs. Vanderbilt."

Vanderbilt was one up on Arno in the matter of divorce. He already had a suit on file against Mrs. Mary Logan Vanderbilt, his pretty wife, charging extreme cruelty.

Arno was scheduled to file a divorse suit this week against Lois Long, the New York writer and Miss Long was reported all ready to come right back with a cross complaint and ask for the decree herself. It was expected to be a 10-minute divorce and some doubted whether Arno would continue his residence long in Reno after the decree had been granted.

It was understood that he would leave for San Francisco and Los Angeles soon after the case had been settled.

CORSICANA, June 22. (AP)—Beauford H. Jester, member of the board of regents of the University of Texas, said today the board would have important matters of building and finance to consider at the next meeting, July 11.

Texas Facts

By BILL EDWARDS

Texas is harvesting the greatest wheat crop in its history, the department of agriculture's estimate being for a total of 46,175,000 bushels or nearly 28,000,000 bushels more than the near-record total of 1930. Other small grain crops are also unusually good in all parts of the state.

HELPING BUILD TEXAS

Miscellaneous improvements, under way in many parts of Texas, show the whitherwards of the Texas economic winds . . . Huntsville has a new $52,000 telephone building . . . Mineola is to have a new refinery, 2,500 barrel capacity ultimately . . . Kilgore reports expenditure of $750,000 in utility improvements and extensions alone in that section since oil development started. . . . Beaumont's project of a $4,000,000 elevated track for the Southern Pacific tracks across the city became appreciably nearer actuality in the announcement that the company is ready to sign contract for its share of the cost—$3,100,000 for the railroad, $900,000 for the city. . . . Galveston will benefit from removal of a $100,000 luggage factory, employing 100 workers, from St. Louis to the Texas port. . . . Longview is to get a new office building. . . . Brownsville has secured location of a 150-employe dressmaking factory formerly operated in New York.

First Comanche Wheat Marketed

Special to The Record News.

LAWTON, Okla., June 22.—The first load of Comanche county's wheat crop was marketed here by K. V. Rhoads, farmer residing east of the city. Chickasha Milling company purchased the wheat, paying 40 cents per bushel. The wheat tested 62. Mr. Rhoades stated his crop would make 30 bushels to the acre.

Almost 95 per cent of the wheat crop in this county will be harvested with binders, according to Ray Dyer, county farm agent. This is requiring more harvest hands but no outside labor is being employed in the county as the amount of employment is insufficient to supply local laborers. Prevailing wages in the harvest field are $1.25 to $1.50 per day, with board.

Practically all volunteer oats have been placed in shock and the wheat and barley crops harvests are well underway. While the worms have shortened the crops in places, the long period of sunshine and hot weather has practically destroyed them and no loss of crops has been sustained through wind and hailstorms.

Censorship and Sense

WHEN the supreme court recently knocked out the Minnesota press-gag law, the ordinary citizen was reminded once more that efforts at censorship are still being made, and that eternal vigilance, now as always, is the price of liberty.

What the ordinary citizen failed to realize was the fact that there is actually in force, today, in the United States, censorship of half a dozen kinds—each variety of which affects him directly, although he may not be aware of it.

The National Council on Freedom From Censorship, composed of upwards of a score of the nation's leading writers, recently issued a little booklet showing just what types of censorship are now in existence. There are moving picture censorship boards, postoffice censors, customs censors, radio censors and various "back door" censors who operate through the city policeman.

Most of these censors fight chiefly against "obscenity." But just what is obscenity? Here are the attitudes the different movie censors display:

"Maryland bars a kiss on the neck, but winks at a drinking scene. Kansas censors can't stand the sight of a whisky bottle but kisses on the neck are entertaining. In Virginia all passion must be blessed by a marriage ceremony. Ohio doesn't like pictures dealing with jail breaks and considers an actress in her underwear as 'indecent'—though lingerie advertisements in the newspapers are not. New York, of all places, bars scenes showing a policeman or an official accepting graft. Pennsylvania, the strictest state board of all, is likely to bar anything.

So much for the movies. Then there is the postal censorship. The postoffice solicitor can bar books or papers from the mails on the grounds of obscenity, and the courts will very seldom overrule him. The custom censors can prevent the importation of foreign books. Often the books that the customs men frown on are passed as legally pure by the postal censors; and books barred from the mails are often given a clean bill of health by the customs men.

Many books that are sold everywhere cannot be dramatized as plays. Many plays cannot be made into movies. Many expressions used in the talkies cannot be broadcast by radio. Some books can be sold in one city but not in another. Some plays can be produced in one city but not in another.

All of this, of course, is rather ridiculous. But it is also a little disturbing. Despite our traditional reverence for freedom, we are more bound around with a web of censorship today than we usually realize.

Passing of Coal Mine Police

LIBERAL-MINDED men and women throughout the country will be glad to learn that Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania plans to cancel the commissions of all "coal and iron policemen" effective July 1. The move should have been made many years ago, but even though tardy it is extremely welcome.

The coal and iron policemen, of course, are private guards employed by the big coal and iron companies who are actually sworn in as officers of the law. Obviously, such a system is open to terrible abuses; two years ago a miner was killed by the coal-and-iron pluguglies of Allegheny county, and it proved impossible to convict his quasi-official murderer.

Governor Pinchot says that state police, after July 1, will be used to prevent disorders around mining or manufacturing properties in case of strikes. That is as it should be. There never was any excuse for the coal and iron police, and no one should regret their departure.

Modern Fagins

WHEN Dickens wrote "Oliver Twist," it was generally taken for granted that Fagin, the professional corrupter of youth, was about as scoundrelly a character as any novelist could invent—too scoundrelly to exist in real life.

Compared with some of the underworld rats of today, however, Fagin looks almost like a gentleman. What, for example, would Dickens make of the Cleveland bootlegger who was convicted of hiring a 15-year-old boy to undertake the dangerous work of "hi-jacking" liquor from rival bootleggers—at $5 a gallon?

Dickens probably would be interested, too, to note that this modern Fagin got off with a year in the workhouse and a $500 fine. There are times when the charge that we coddle our criminals seems to have a bit of truth.

I believe the situation is sufficiently serious to demand that the world grant a delay in the payment of all interest and principal on political debts, including reparations and war debts, for a period of, say, five years.—Melvin Traylor, Chicago banker.

WALTER WINCHELL On Broadway

(Copyright, 1931, Daily Mirror, Inc.)

Portrait of a Man Talking to Himself

So far as the musical comedy show is concerned, the depression has been on for two years . . . At least Ray E. Goetz so stated, and he ought to know . . . He was saying that not one musical show made a dime in the last two years . . . Not even his own "Fifty Million Frenchmen" or "Sons o' Guns" . . . The latter made money only from the movie rights . . . And that "Flying High," a terrific smash, made money here, but dropped it on tour . . . Amazing! . . . Ray added that between two and two and a half millions were lost producing musicals . . . And that "The New Yorkers" lost 100 Gs . . . And that "Fine and Dandy," after a long run, just about got back its production cost . . . And "Girl Crazy," listed among the topnotchers with a longer run, only profited from the chin-emas . . . Yet, Sucker Coin is easy to find, from the way the new musicals are being prepared . . . The irony of it all is that the only show that made money was "Wonder Bar"—in Yurrup! . . . A German product, no less—which triumphed in 25 different foreign cities simultaneously . . . Failing only in New York City, where it collapsed with a thud . . . A risky racket, at best . . . "Three's a Crowd," another hit, was ahead $20,000 three weeks before it closed—only to lose it back trying to stretch a triple into a homer . . . It all makes me feel so wretched and so sorry for the producers that henceforth I'm going to give a good show a good notice.

Wonder how the editor of that magazine feels . . . I mean the mag that still is running a serial on Nancy Carroll's "Happy Married Life?" After most of us who cover the Broadway Scene have paragraphed the observation for a year, Miss Guinan finally discovers what is wrong with the Night Club Business . . . "You know what?" Texas whispered last night, "this business is shot! Everybody now goes to those speakeasy restaurants!" . . . And she calls everybody "suckers!" . . . John and Christo, who have been around since Rector's, Churchill's, Shanley's, etc., were The Spots To Go To, have finally fallen in line . . . And they've joined the No Couvert Charge brigade . . . Their new annex to their Pavillion Royal near Valley Stream is a handsome rendezvous . . . With real trees growing in it! . . . Like the Ambassadeurs in Paree, they say . . . It enticed a great crowd on the Sabbath night . . . Leave it to the actors themselves to sock their brethern . . . Jack Osterman, frixample, who is a columnist at heart . . . He is going around telling everybody that after seeing Al Trahan's act at the Palace, it must have been Charlie King he made laugh! . . . Maybe Trahan knows a good gag on Osterman . . . I love to start gag wars.

Well, I see my pal Rudy is in another controversy . . . Because one of his violinists is suing him for back pay, charging that Rudy kicked him and then aired him . . . Vallee, it appears, retorted in court that he dismissed the fiddler because he caught him selling things to other members of the band . . . In reprisal, the fellow will assert that Rudy, himself, sold things to the boys, and that he bought a couple of pairs pants from Rudy—which shrunk! . . . The fiddler also tells intimates that in case he loses the action for back pay of $640 he will auction off the Vallee pants to Rudy's femme admirers—a mean trick, of course . . . Rudy, however, says you can't make him sore, any more . . . That he welcomes quarrels in print, for it "attracts attention," which is exactly what he wants to keep his name alive . . . Reminds me that Argentinita got a lot of space, too . . . Wonder why they altered Ding's editorial page cartoon on Monday in the Herald Tribune? . . . In the early edition the drawing showed Uncle Sam collaring Capone with "Chicago Politics" up a tree . . . The early edition caption read: "Arrest That Man. He's wanted for murder!" . . . The alteration made it read: "Arrest That Man. He's a Desperado!" . . . Libel-proof?

William T. Woodin, the president of the American Car and Foundry outfit, denies vigorously that he is backing a musical show for any amount because it was said his music would be played in it . . . He points out that although he is immensely interested in music he has no interest financially or otherwise in productions . . . That his hobby is melody and he has written excellent compositions which have been played privately . . . Perhaps if he contributed his coin and mind to the sponsoring of shows they would improve . . . The legit branch of the profession needs executive talent—it helped the movies . . . My pity goes out, too, to the average night club master of ceremonies, who is incessantly getting the other guy a big hand . . . What a novelty it would be if, some night, a master of ceremonies could get one for himself.

That "Dancing in the Dark" melody is lovely . . . I go for that stanza in "Star Dust," too . . . That part that swings—when love was new and each kiss an inspiration—but that was long ago and my only consolation is the star dust of a song . . . I fall for a pretty ditty, I know, but Mr. Parrish, who did the lyric for that chune, wrote poetry . . . Wonder how many of Mr. Ziggie's fol-de-rollies are New Yorkids? . . . I hear most of the current crop were country-bred . . . The only thing I like about the country, anyhow . . . Perfect beauty, Blanaz thought, is generally allied with coldness and silliness—yet the boys keep burning up the gals with, "Aw, you're beautiful, but dumb!" . . . I wish they'd cut that out . . . Numb yes, but not dumb . . . For if the pretties keep hearing that they'll finally get too wise, and then they won't have anything to do with us smart alecs . . . Miss Guinan broke me up last night with: "Do you know the hardest time to put a baby to sleep?" . . . So like a sap I bit, and said: "No. How?" . . . So she snapped: "When she's 18 years old!" . . . Better, I thought, was the repartee I heard ever so many editions ago—"What's the dangerous age of a girl?" the retort to which was "Between 17 and 18—and any time after 19!"

The Starr Faithfull (what a pretty name!) murder yarn in the papers appears to give the average reader . . . But, I find myself skipping through most of it . . . The Faithful yarn, I mean . . . I know too many Star Faithfuls . . . I just listened to two of them who were "fighting the world across a speakeasy table" . . .

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

PROF. THEODORE NICHOLAS GILL, FAMOUS ICHTHYOLOGIST — Prof. Theodore Nicholas Gill (1837-1914) performed his amazing feat of memory in Buffalo when the American Association for the Advancement of Science was meeting in that city in August, 1896. Prof. Gill, who occupied the chair of zoology at the George Washington university, is famous for his extensive work and numerous papers on systematic ichthyology. When the advisability of Latin nomenclature for fishes was questioned, Prof. Gill proceeded to quote 25,000 Latin fish names, most of them containing 20 letters and over.

AL BRAUN LOST THREE FIGHTS IN ONE NIGHT — Braun was booked to meet Dick Demery for a 10-round go at Huron, S. D., April 7, 1931. In the seventh round Braun became confused and struck the referee, who returned the blow and knocked Braun out. The crowd booed the referee out of the ring, but before leaving he awarded the decision to Demery. Braun and Demery wanted the fight to go the full 10 rounds, and in the end the decision was again awarded to the latter, Braun thus losing three fights in one night in the same ring.

THE STORY SO FAR

Sally Blair, in love with Peter Douglas, has been forced to give him up at the request of Linda Davidson, who is also in love with him. Linda had seen Peter come to Sally's room while on a yacht cruise and threatened to expose them to Harvey Davidson, Linda's father and Sally's employer. Ann Seymour, Sally's former roommate and now married to Mac Tierney, confesses that John Warner, her boss, has been asking her out. The Tierneys need money and Ann fears she will lose her position if she refuses. Sally decides to win Mr. Davidson.

CHAPTER XXIX

Sally was jubilant. Harvey Davidson had been something of a human being today. Not his usually clammy business self at any rate. True, he hadn't said much, but he had noticed her for the first time in the week that she had worked for him.

Before she had been nothing but a stenographer. Today, this afternoon, at 3 o'clock to be precise, he unbent. Without a word of warning, too. Out of a clear sky, a compliment.

"Kent Roper said when I took you away from him, Miss Blair, that you were too pretty to be a stenographer. You know, I quite agree with him." Just like that, during a pause in some letters he was giving her. Sally had gasped a little, and the pencil she was holding had fallen to the floor. Then, as if he had forgotten the remark, he went on with his dictation, the old Harvey Davidson, unapproachable, chilly.

After a while Sally didn't believe he had said anything. She was quite sure she must be mistaken. Yet she must be right. She couldn't have dreamed the compliment. She wasn't the kind who dreamed things like that. And she had been waiting all these days for something, and when it had come she was totally unprepared. So unprepared she had dropped the beastly pencil. But she was glad of that. For as she stooped to pick it up, she knew she was hiding her hot flushed face.

Sally Is Complimented

Anyway, Mr. Davidson thought she was pretty. He had said so, even if after he had said it he had apparently forgotten his comment.

Strange man, Mr. Davidson. She didn't understand him at all. Especially now, after what had happened. Such a little thing, but it meant so much to her.

The rest of the afternoon when she was writing the letters he had dictated she thought of what he had said. She knew, too, just where in her notes he had said it, because there was a big scrawl on the pad of paper where her pencil had slipped, and fallen. She hoped Mr. Davidson hadn't noticed her confusion. She thought he hadn't, because when she had looked up from the floor quickly, his head was bent over his notes, and he was frowning. His usual attitude when he was thinking of his correspondence.

The job was easy, too, even easier than her position with Kent Roper had been. Davidson didn't get to the office until 10, and sometimes he only stayed a few hours and then left. However, when he was there, she was busy every minute, and expected to be. She was getting sixty-five dollars a week, which seemed a small fortune to her, and she knew she would get more later.

Linda came into the office rarely, and when she did it was only to get something from her father and dash out again. Once in the week Mrs. Cross had come up, and had had lunch with Davidson on the roof garden. Sally hadn't notified Linda, because she hadn't promised to, even if Linda had asked her.

All in all, the berth was a soft one.

Sally's Calendar

Peter, she hadn't seen, because she hadn't gone downstairs purposely. Now and then she had wanted to see Ann, but had phoned her and met her outside the building. The 20th floor meant Peter, and to see him brought back all the pain she wanted to forget.

Ann, she noticed, hadn't been confidential lately during the luncheons they had together. When Sally asked her about John Warner, Ann was evasive. So the girl didn't really know whether Ann had gone out with him or not. She hoped she hadn't.

All Ann would say was that Mac was looking for a fill-in job for the month, and that he was getting impatient because he couldn't find one. They were all right. They didn't need money. This when Sally offered to lend some.

Another week passed, but Mr. Davidson did not repeat his compliment. He had slipped back into his old habit of ignoring his secretary. Several times during this second week Sally looked at the notebook she still kept in her desk to remind herself that once he had noticed her, that once he had told her she was too pretty to be a stenographer. The wandering pencil assured her that she was right. She was glad she had some proof, for the days were long, and at times when Mr. Davidson was more distant, more cold than usual, she was wont to glance into that special page in the pad.

She was looking over her calendar at home Friday evening before she went to bed. The calendar was one she had purchased when she had decided on her great venture. A year of days. Some of the days were blank, and others were marked with tiny crosses. The crosses were important only to herself, and they meant that the days which were so traced were days she had advanced on her program.

Mac Comes for Ann

The day she had become John Warner's secretary, the day on which she had first seen Kent Roper, the day she had been hired by him. The day Linda had promised her the job with her father. The final cross had been made last week, when Mr. Davidson had complimented her.

Silly, of course, but she wanted a record of the things that had happened to her, showing her progress. No one would understand the calendar but her. Indeed, she didn't want anyone to understand it. If she had been living with Ann she would have told her, but no one else. As it was, even Ann didn't know anything about the block of days on her dresser.

She had come far, she decided, since June 10. Farther than she had expected in her wildest hopes. And she would go farther yet, she told herself sternly. She had the apartment, and she had two good looking dresses, and one hand made French nightgown of the sheerest ninon. Other things would come in time.

At ten-thirty just as she was preparing to slip off her dress, the bell rang, and she went to the door, wondering who could be coming at this time of the night. It was late for callers. Some one in the apartment probably to borrow something. The landlady . . .

But it wasn't the landlady. It was Mac standing there, hat in hand, smiling at her.

"Why, Mac?"

"I came for Ann. She told me not to but I had to come. I could not think of her coming home alone."

"Ann?" Sally's mind was whirling. Ann wasn't there. She hadn't been all evening . . .

Mac had stepped into the room and was looking around.

"She hasn't gone, has she?"

"Ann—yes, she has Mac," Sally said quickly. "Just left. She'll probably be home when you get there."

Sally Is Worried

"Too bad. I thought surely I'd be in time."

Silly knew now. Ann had lied to Mac. Told him she was going to spend the evening with her, and she was out with John Warner. It couldn't be anything else. And John Warner certainly would not let her go home at ten-thirty.

"Come in and have a cup of coffee with me," she invited, stalling for time. Mac mustn't go home and not find Ann there. She must keep him here for a while.

Crazy Ann. Doing a thing like this. Lying to Mac.

"Havn't time, Sally. Ann will be worried about me when she gets home. She told me not to come, but I could'nt help it. I didn't come the last time, but that was because Jimmy Dale was home with me."

"The last time?" So Ann had done this before?

"Yes, last week she was over here."

"Oh, yes—"

"I told her I didn't care if she spent an evening once in a while with you. She gets awfully fed up with me at home, I know. I'm not such good company lately. Well, good night." And Mac was gone, almost running down the hall in his effort to overtake his wife.

Sally stood at the door for some time, wondering what to do. She was glad she had realized right away that Ann had lied to Mac. Glad she had been able to protect her for a time. But if Ann wasn't home when Mac reached there—

Mac Calls

When she finally shut the door, she started to pace the living room floor nervously, looking at the phone standing on the table. Aching to call the Tierney number, but not daring to. Perhaps by this time Mac was home—yes, he was. He could get a subway and be home in 15 minutes. Perhaps Ann was there, too.

Tomorrow she would give Ann a good talking to. Very apparently Ann hadn't taken her warning. For there was only one place where Ann could be and that was out with John Warner.

At 11, she was still nervous, but at 11:20 she was a little calmer. Ann must have come home, else Mac would have called.

At a quarter of 12, the phone rang, and Sally went to it, weak, shivering with cold, although it was warm in the room.

"Sally? This is Mac. I'm almost crazy. Ann isn't here yet. I had to call you. I know something must have happened. I'm going to call the police."

"Wait a while yet, Mac," she said, her voice husky with fear, "wait until 12:30. She must have met some one—"

The receiver clicked. Mac had hung up, and Sally was left holding her end, looking into the mouthpiece with frightened, worried eyes.

Of course, Mac had a right to be afraid. A right to be worried when he didn't know where Ann was. But what would he say when she came in? When he asked where she had been? She'd have to tell him—something.

Mac so jealous of Ann. Mac so possessive.

Will Mac understand the motive which prompted Ann to go out with Warner? Or is she with Warner?

Health and Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK McCOY
Author of "The Fast Way to Health"

Questions in regard to health and diet will be answered by Dr. McCoy who can be addressed in care of this paper

(Copyright, 1931, by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

The Meaning of Thirst

A number of people have gone without food for 50 days and longer and lived, providing they had plenty of water to drink. But usually, if all the water is taken away, one will die within three days. Water is, therefore, more essential to you than food. The body can easily do without food for a month, but seldom longer than 72 hours without water.

Man is dependent upon a continuous supply of pure water for he has not developed the protective habit of being able to store water like the camel, this animal being able to go without a drink for many days. About two-thirds of your body is water, and each cell is literally floating in a sea of water all the time. The body also is constantly losing water. The kidneys throw out the most—from two to three pints a day. Every one of the four channels of elimination from the body—the skin, lungs, kidneys and bowels—require water to flush out poisons and impurities. Water is also needed to dissolve the food eaten. In fact, no normal process can go on in the body without water.

The various parts of the body contain different amounts of water. For example the lungs are about 80 per cent water, the muscular tissues about 75 per cent and even the teeth which you might consider solid are one-tenth water. The gastric juice comes very near being pure water, being 99.5 per cent.

When deprived of water for a time we feel the pangs of thirst. We think of the sensation called thirst as being located in the throat, as one of the first signs of thirstiness is a dry, parched sensation in the throat. Thirst appears very quickly when the water in the body fluids is slightly diminished, and you become thirsty long before there is much danger of being injured from the lack of water. However, if about one-fifth of the water needed in the body is depleted, the danger of death ensues.

There are many disorders in which it is helpful to drink abnormally large quantities of water. I always advise anyone on a fast to drink plenty of water in between the hours for taking the fruit juice, as the extra supply of water helps to flush impurities from the system. It is usually necessary with those suffering from kidney trouble or bladder trouble to use a great deal of water as this excess of water dissolves the heavy poisons which are being eliminated through these organs, making these impurities less concentrated and irritating to the inflamed membranes.

Those who wish to get well from nervous diseases should make it a point to use from two to three quarts of water a day. Any one with a cold finds he recovers more rapidly if he forces himself to drink large amounts of water. They amount of water needed by the average person, however, varies greatly. Those taking salty food, or much of the dry food, such as bread and cereals, will crave more water than those who make their menus principally from fruits and vegetables which are largely water.

Those living in warm climates will need to quench their thirst much more often than those living in cooler ones. Any unusual exercises, such as dancing or running, increases the body's need for water.

Both children and babies should have plenty of water offered them during the summer. On warm days it is a good plan to use a quart or more of pure water between the hours of 9 and 10 in the morning and the same quantity during the afternoon between 2 and 4. If you will do this I am sure you will be cooler during the summer while others about you are worrying about the heat.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Red Nose

Question—K. S. asks: "Will you please tell me what I do for a nose that is always red as a beet, especially at the point?"

Answer—A red nose is an evidence of continued intoxication, either from the over-use of alcoholic stimulants or from dietetic errors which produce autointoxication. The latter is the most common cause of red noses, and even our most sincere prohibitionists often carry around a red, shiny nose that, in the old days, we used to think was acquired only by the "town drunkard."

Zucchini

Question—Mrs. R. D. asks: "What is zucchini, as sometimes mentioned in your menus?"

Answer—You probably missed the menu on which a footnote was made explaining about this vegetable. Zucchini is a small Italian squash similar to the ordinary summer squash, and may be used freely as a non-starchy vegetable if cooked by boiling or baking. As this vegetable is difficult to obtain in certain parts of the country, the ordinary summer squash may always be substituted when you are unable to secure the zucchini.

Tubercular Bowel

Question—M. J. L. asks: "What is the best diet for one suffering with tubercular bowel?"

Answer—The diet must be well balanced, but with a minimum of starches and sugars. The most effective treatment is to use two or three warm water enemas a day. At the same time, it is necessary to build up the general strength of the body in order to overcome any form of tuberculosis. Strength will come only from exercising, and so you must take calisthenic exercises and walk increased distances each day.

The Rambler's Corner

His First Error

Bob Fuss was charged with his first error of the season Sunday. It robbed the right fielder of a record seldom achieved in this or any other league—a half season without an error. That was the goal Fuss was heading for, and in another eight days, provided he continued to play errorless baseball, he would have reached it.

The score-keepers obliterated this hope in the second inning of the first game when, with two out, Edwards, San Antonio center fielder, hit one midway between right and center field. It was labeled a hit and all Fuss could hope to do was to pick it up on the bounce. He was in front on the on-coming ball, when suddenly it got away from him, bounding over to his left. From the position of the scorer it appeared Fuss had failed to hold the ball. Fuss' story, however, is different. He said the ball took a bad hop off a grass mound in the pasture, and that he never got his hands on it.

Situations like this are what turn both ball players and scorekeepers gray. It is hard to chalk up an error against a man so near a half-season record, but in our judgment it is best to let matters stand as they are, in this case. A scorekeeper is liable to error, just as anybody is; and in numbers of cases the ball players who disagree with a scorer are wrong. But invariably it turns out that at the end of the year the accounts between the scorekeeper and the ball players are square. It is much the same with the work of an umpire. He may seem off-color in some cases, but his decisions through the year balance well, and are as near the truth as it is possible to get.

Fuss naturally feels he has been given the raw deal, but if he has any hard feelings toward the person who chalked that error against him he certainly does not show it. Indeed, Fuss is a complete and unadulterated mystery to this writer. It is not uncommon to see a sports scribe limping around with numerous broken bones after an argument with a player about errors. But Fuss, though definite in his stand that he made no misplay, made his protest in such a dignified manner I felt like buying him a square meal!

It is also significant to state that in our conversation, Fuss was heard to emit about 178 words!

Undoubtedly this was more talking than Fuss had done, among outsiders, since his arrival at Athletic park. If the Sunday error robbed him of a half-season record, it at least gave him a chance to set up an all-time conversational record, for Bob has not been at all oratorically inclined.

In view of the fact that neither this writer nor his customers are likely to hear Bob utter more than 100 words again this season, we think it fitting to record a few things he said, in order to get inside slants on what kind of fellow this swatting right fielder is.

First, it is the policy to accept the decisions of an umpire with the least bickering possible. "I never argue with an umpire," he said, and that ended that.

Second, it is his opinion that the reason baseball players, despite their youth, sometimes look old and jaded, is that they have plenty of worries, what with chasing up and down a field shagging flies, and worrying, meanwhile, about base hits.

Third, he doesn't think gold tooth fillings are particularly appetizing.

Recently Bob had a tooth plugged with the precious metal. He turned in at Beaumont one night on the recent road trip, and awoke the next morning without it. He had swallowed it in his sleep. Monday he was on the trail of a local dentist.

No Fun at All

Ask Guy Airey; he can tell you plenty about what a tough life the boys lead on a road trip. Particularly one as lengthy and grueling as the last, which embraced 20 games. Many were the times the Spudder secretary had to keep a train waiting as the boys scampered into civvies after a night game and rushed to the station in service cars. In Fort Worth, a most brilliant taxi company delivered all the team's baggage at one depot, while the boys were entraining at another. The error was discovered just as the train was pulling out, and Airey had to hold up the train until the baggage could be recovered. Playing ball until about 11 o'clock, and being forced out of bed the next morning at seven bells! It was a strain, both on the players and the officials. The fact that the Spuds came back with more victories than defeats seems all the more praiseworthy when these things are considered.

After reading over the respective thesis subjects one finds, with delight, that at least one of the students signed his name Huey.

PIRATES HERE FOR TWO DAYS

Dates for Voting on Divided Schedule Nears

After playing 23 games without a let-up, the Spudders rested their weary bones Monday, and made ready to take on the Galveston Buccaneers today and Wednesday as a curtain raiser to another long stretch of working days.

If the baseball the team played in the San Antonio games is an indication of what the boys will do in the two-game Buccaneer series, the Spudders, on Thursday will have avenged themselves of the loss of a series to Galveston the last time Papa Pratt's boys were in town. Galveston won two out of three games on the last visit to Spudderville.

With a record of 14 victories in their last 23 games, the Spudders will go after the Pirates today at 4 o'clock with Milton Steengrafe or Lester White available for the pitching duties. The other three starters saw duty against the Indians, Pressnell winning Saturday's game, while Hillin and Cooney turned in victories in the double-header Sunday.

Though the Spudders are virtually out of the running so far as the first half is concerned, speculation grows here concerning the split season. Clubs in the circuit must vote on the question by Thursday, five days before the end of the first half. It was said that instead of conducting the poll by mail, the club owners this year might call a meeting at Dallas or Fort Worth, and decide whether the schedule will be split.

The Spudders were knocked out of a shot at the first half championship by their four defeats at San Antonio. A methematical possibility to win still exists, but only a miracle could put the Williamsmen ahead of Fort Worth, Houston and Beaumont in the remaining eight days of first half play. Before Monday night's games, the Spudders were trailing six and one half games.

Cochet Defeated At Wimbledon

WIMBLEDON, England, June 22. (US)—While America's four ace tennis players upheld their reputations by swinging easily through Wimbledon's opening day in the men's singles today, three American casualties marred the quest for Big Bill Tilden's relinquished title.

Gregory Mangin, of Newark, N. J., was defeated by the Irish giant, G. L. Rogers, in four sets; Watson Washburn fell before F. W. Matjka in straight sets, and Bernard Law, of Montana, was eliminated in the 36-game match by A. Brown of England.

The elimination of Henri Cochet, the French genius, by Nigel Sharpe, young Britisher, supplied the sensation of the day, and hereafter America's four youthful Davis cup stars are looked upon to supply the color this international tournament needs, now that Tilden has turned professional and Cochet is off the lists.

Frank X. Shields, sensational Eastern U. S. singles champion, opened the center-court contests by outclassing P. D. B. Spence of South America in straight sets, 6-1, 6-1, 6-2.

Wimbledon fans were impressed with Shields' all-around brilliance. His ground and overhead shots and his service were superb, and Frank is being tipped strongly as a finalist.

George M. Lott of Chicago carelessly dropped the first set to his young French opponent, B. Berghet, but then went on to take the next three sets in convincing fashion. Lott triumphed by 3-6, 6-3, 6-0, 6-2.

Next Sunday's Schedule

Rhineland at Weinert.
Goree at Sunset.
Knox City at Munday.

Rhineland was bounced out of the three-way tie for top honors in the Brazos Valley league Sunday via a 13 to 8 defeat at the hands of Knox City, but at the conclusion of the day's games the pinnacle was still unoccupied by any one club, Knox City and Goree being deadlocked at six victories and two losses each.

Goree stayed in the fight for first place by blanking Munday, 9 to 0, while Sunset was taking a close game, 3 to 2, from Weinert.

If things run true to form, the league standings will remain unchanged through next week, as the three top clubs are pitted against their weaker sisters, Rhineland being scheduled against Weinert, Goree against Sunset, and Knox City against Munday.

A dash of color was added to the teams last week when big league titles were given the entrants. Knox City's team became the Tigers; Goree's, the Senators; Rhineland's, the Cardinals; Munday's, the Red Sox; Weinert's, the Indians, and Sunset's, the Athletics.

Harry Geyer let the Noble-Little Hardware company team down with only four hits Monday afternoon on Harrison field to win, 10 to 0, and put Malones Beauty Shop into a tie for second place in the Commercial league. Geyer whiffed nine men to run his season's total of strikeouts to 129. Mann and N. Smith were the only men able to solve Geyer's fast ball, this pair dividing the four hits. ## Empire Nine Added To Commercial League

The Commercial league underwent a shakeup Monday by placing the Empire Paper company team in the loop in the spot left vacant by the withdrawal last Saturday of the Bankers. Empire Paper comes into the league charged with two defeats, the club having agreed to take the losses. The suggestion was offered to draw up a new schedule, but the protests of Dixon Sign who had taken an early lead with two wins made it necessary for Empire Paper to take the two losses as a starter.

Empire Paper comes into the league with a record of something like 40 wins already this season.

DALLAS WOMAN LEADS FIELD

Wichitan in 80's in Texas Women's Championship

By BILL PARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

DALLAS, June 22.—Stroking a 43 on the front nine and coming home with a 45 for an 88, Mrs. W. T. Stafford of Dallas won medalist honors today in the first annual Texas Women's Municipal Golf association championship tournament at Tenison park. Mrs. Stafford had an ideal round over the difficult Tenison course, taking four 6's in her card but never a 7 or over.

Mrs. F. C. Rochon of Wichita Falls, who was seventh low in the recent Texas Woman's Golf association state tournament at the San Antonio Country club, was second today with a 45-44—89. Mrs. Rochon's huge 7 on the ninth green ruined her chance to win medalist honors. She missed her approach shot and then required three putts, but after this bad hole, she played brave golf on the back nine to finish with a 44.

Only Two in 80's

Mrs. Stafford and Mrs. Rochon were the only two from the starting field of 29 players to break into the eighties. A card as high as 114 made the championship flight of 16 players, but a swatfest was necessary for the 16th place between Mrs. Tom Sockwell and Mrs. Erwin Hardwick, wives of the two professionals at Tenison park. After halving the first hole in 8's, Mrs. Hardwick won the next to enter the championship bracket, while Mrs. Sockwell dropped to the second flight.

Miss Betty Jameson, the 12-year Dallas girl who has been scoring low at Tenison, found her first tournament experience trying today, and the best she could do was a 57-58—115. Mrs. Mae Dixon, the 62-year-old woman playing in her first big tournament, scored an 81-71—152. Florence Lipman of Dallas, twice an all-American basket ball player with the Sunoco team of Dallas, gave golf a tryout today with a qualifying score of 62-60—122 which placed her in the second flight.

Match Play Today

Qualifying scores included:

Mrs. Walter Sikes, Amarillo, 53-56—109.

Match play starts tomorrow with 18-hole tilts each day until Friday when the finals will be over the 36-hole route. The first 16 low today placed in the championship flight. Play tomorrow morning starts at 8 o'clock with second and third flight matches the first to leave the tee.

VAN WIE LEADS CLEVELAND GOLFERS

CLEVELAND, June 22. (AP)—Honors in the qualifying round of the women's national invitational golf tournament at Kirkland Country club here today went to Miss Virginia Van Wie of Chicago, whose 39-38—77, lowered by two strokes the women's course record, and gave her first place among the qualifiers by a four-stroke margin.

Miss Mary K. Browne of Cleveland, shot 41-40—81, for second place. Miss Peggy Wattles of Buffalo, Miss Fritzie Sterfel, Wheeling, W. Va., and Miss Ada Mackenzie, of Canada, were tied for third with 82.

Reese and Ahern Lead In College Golf Tourney

OLYMPIA FIELDS, COUNTRY Club, Chicago, June 22. (AP)—Jack Reese, a slender son of old Yale, and Randall Ahearn, a husky lad from Detroit, City college, paced the best college golfers in the country through the first qualifying round of their 35th annual tournament today, each scoring 37-36—73, three strokes over par.

The field of 119 starters followed their example so well that the finalists of last year were in danger of not qualifying at the close of tomorrow's second round. George T. Dunlap Jr., of Princeton, the defending champion, took 40-38—78, while Lawrence Moller of Notre Dame runner up last year, had 38-42—80.

Browns Win Third Straight From Yanks, 14-10, to Capture Series

ST. LOUIS, June 22. (AP)—Jumping on Charlie Ruffing in the seventh inning for five hits and as many runs, the Browns came from behind today to hand the New York Yankees their third straight defeat, 14 to 10, in a three-hour struggle. The victory gave the Browns the edge on the five-game series.

Of the 20 St. Louis hits, four were credited to Ro Rick Ferrell. Lou Gehrig led the losers' 15-hit attack with his 15th and 16th homers of the year and a single. Melillo of the Browns was up six times, hit three singles, drew three walks and scored five runs. Score:

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, June 22. (AP)—An active, general demand stimulated by the proposal for a war debt holiday resulted in an advance of approximately $3.50 per bale in cotton today.

October contracts sold up to 10.03 on a final spurt of covering in the late trading and closed at 9.98, with the general market closing firm at net advances of 67 to 71 points.

The opening was firm 48 to 53 points higher on the Washington news, reports of an excited advance in markets abroad and heavy general buying. The initial bulge attracted a good deal of realizing by recent buyers and there seemed to be considerable southern selling, while the demand tapered off somewhat after the first rush of buying orders had been completed. Reactions of about 20 to 27 points followed during the middle of the morning, but they brought in increased trade and commission house buying.

It checked the decline and turned the market upward again during the afternoon when the continued strength of the stock market seemed to be impressing cotton traders with the importance in the proposed move in the matter of international finances, and the buying became particularly active in the late trading when it was said to be coming from local, western and southern sources. Houses with foreign connections were also among the buyers today and some of the early sellers seemed to be covering or rebuying in the late trading. July sold up to 9.62 and December to 10.25 making net advances of about 70 to 73 points on the active months and the close was within a few points of the best.

Liverpool cables attributed the advance in that market to extensive covering and world wide buying on the proposed moratorium in reparations payments. Egyptian cotton futures in Alexandria were 66 to 169 points net higher and the continental markets also showed sharp advances, which naturally contributed to the strength locally.

The increased activity and strength in the stock market encouraged the bullish view of the Washington news, and while the weather reported over the week-end was considered favorable for the most part, there was talk of need of rains in some sections. Exports today 6,666, making 6,562,794 so far this season. Port receipts 3,209. U. S. port stocks, 3,087,801.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, June 22. (AP)—Cotton prices advanced approximately $3.50 a bale here today in active buying and covering induced by President Hoover's proposal for a year's moratorium on war debt payments. The market was active and on the upgrade from the start with but a few minor reactions due to profit-taking. The best prices of the day were reached in the final trading and the market closed steady and near the top, showing a net gain for the day of 66 to 68 points.

Trading was probably the most active of the season.

Liverpool came in 28 to 29 penny points better than due and private cables stated that there was extensive short covering with world wide buying on the reparations proposals. Egyptian cotton advanced rapidly. Bremen gained 130 points.

Stocks Soar as War Debt Plan Stimulates World-Wide Demand

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, June 22. (US)—Another day of spectacular strength on the stock exchange today represented the financial markets' additional response to President Hoover's concrete suggestion for one year of intergovernmental debt moratorium. The announcement over the week-end, while not wholly unexpected in view of the preliminary and immediately preceding official assurances of the American government's intent, nevertheless produced a startling effect on a market already favored by sensational strength during Saturday's half-session.

Whereas Saturday's advance appeared instigated in large part by a centralized buying wave, today's further upturn was achieved on world-wide demand. The opening transactions of enormous amounts evidenced a combined revival, over the week-end, of buying desires not only on the part of investors and speculators for the rise but also of bears. The turnover of 4,600,000 shares, largest since February when prices reached their peak for this year, reflected the tremendous effect of the presidential announcement and its world-wide repercussions.

From the purely psychological viewpoint, there can be no reason to doubt that the debt plan, whatever its final consequences, effected a remarkable response throughout the world, anxious for a eladership which would carry it out of the economic morass in which it now wallows. The brisk and sometimes spectacular recovery in prices not alone in the New York market but in London, Paris, Berlin, demonstrates the hunger for this leadership and the anxiety to follow any concrete suggestion even remotely promising of eventual success.

Having constructed a new hopefulness, it now remains for the would-be leaders to bring about additional developments in a sequence which would leave no doubt of the course of events. If such further developments are in store and can be effected before a renewed mental depression resumes command, the market may be in the initial stage of a vast and prolonged recovery.

If the revived optimism is allowed to peter out for lack of sustaining fuel all of the current enthusiasm will prove but another false premise.

There is a factor of immense significance in the debt program. It is to be regarded in all reasonableness as the second prime development of recent times; the first having been the railroad rate and merger steps. The immediate response of the markets to the railroad news emphasized the general disposition to capitalize any potentially cheering development.

The market has had to absorb a tremendous amount of uninterrupted pessimistic developments and the price decline can hardly be stemmed unless and until there are offsetting influences of greater importance and in greater number. A serious dent has been made in the wall of gloom and depression; the debt proposition may definitely forecast the collapse of the "continuity of depression and defeatism" which has been so repeatedly emphasized here as an essential to maintained recuperation.

That the president's suggestion at least represents a progressive movement in the sense that it inaugurates concrete action on one of the most vital of all international problems cannot be doubted.

The uncertainty surrounding the German situation, with its quite evident disclosure of the severity of that nation's economic structure, produced the most unnerving effect upon the banking fraternity in particular. Successful termination of the present program might well mark the signal for constructive activities on the part of the banking world, a quite essential prerequisite to sustained recovery.

Today's market was spectacular from its start and its performance quite plainly related a panic in the bear ranks, specifically in European market quarters where the American situation had been viewed with pessimism mso long as their own internal affairs continued disturbing. Such covering as came from Europe, and it is understood to have been enormous in quantity, was also accompanied by renewed buying of investment character both for European and American account.

The market has now, roughly measured, recovered about one-third of its decline earlier in the year, a technical development which might have been expected almost without the stimulation of any external development such as the debt proposals. It remains for the market to demonstrate that its two-day recovery of violent proportions is based on more than exceptionally favorable technical considerations. Heavy profit-taking may have to be endured and it will be significant should the market demonstrate ability not only to absorb such selling, with the almost certain renewal of short-selling operations, but make further progress in face of such pressure.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, June 22. (AP)—Stimulated by reports that price and time restrictions concerning disposal of United States government sponsored wheat holdings would soon be announced, grains rose briskly today. Talk was current that Chairman Stone of the federal farm board had been called back to Washington for consultation in regard to taking the old crop wheat surplus out of the market entirely. Widespread belief was expressed among wheat traders that such a procedure as to the wheat surplus would fit in with President Hoover's general rehabilitation program.

After the market closed, however, authoritative word came from Washington that there had been no change of farm board policy, and that Chairman Stone had not been summoned.

Wheat closed irregular, varying from 1½ cents decline to 2¼c advance, corn ⅝@1⅝c up, oats showing ⅝@1¼c gain, and provisions at a rise of 2 to 20 cents.

Rumors were persistent today that President Hoover was taking immediate steps to remove bearish effects of the big wheat surplus now in the hands of farm board allies. Grain trade leaders urged in this connection that resulting higher prices on farm products would bring about speedy general revival of business. Specific reports near the end of the board of trade session that the farm board was expected to announce it would sell no more wheat this year hoisted the market to the day's highest figures, helped also by indications of enlarged export demand for North American wheat, all offers abroad over the week-end appearing to have been accepted.

Corn and oats fluctuated with wheat, and came back strongly in the late trade. On the bulges, country offerings of corn to arrive increased.

Provisions went sharply higher with hogs, grain and stocks.

Closing indemnities: Wheat, July, 57¢, 61⅞; Sept., 58½@58¾c. 63@63¼c; Dec. 62¾, 67½c. Corn—July 57⅝, 68⅜@68¾c; Sept. 56, 58¾@58¾c; Dec. 49½, 52⅛@52¾c.

FARMER HURT IN ACCIDENT

Wichitan Injured When Auto Hits Mower

With both legs broken, E. W. Gomillion, farmer residing on the Iowa Park road, was taken to the Wichita General hospital shortly before 9 o'clock Monday night after an automobile had crashed into the rear of a mower and rake he was driving with a team of horses on the highway a short distance from his home.

Sheriff Perry Browning investigated the accident and said that a negro was driving the automobile which was en route to Vernon.

Gomillion was believed to have sustained no other injuries than the broken legs. The negro was unhurt. The mower and rake were heavily damaged.

HOME-TOWN TALK

By B. D. D.

bare kneed little girls whose lips were dragged down with paint, whose breath was thick with nicotine and liquor, whose ambition in life was more clothes—more shows—more jazzing—more night clubs—more money, then women began to take these things up in a big way.

"As men do the pursuing, so men have to be pleased. Men could decide tomorrow for decency, dignity, intelligence in women, and overnight 2,000 speakeasies would go out of business, and the marriage, home and baby-market would experience a sudden rise."

She goes on to say a lot more that ought to disturb the consciences of a lot of men—some of them fathers and some who have avoided that responsibility.

In a satirical article on "Nice People" in the July Harpers, Bertrand Russell says that nice people are to blame for some of the philandering of men. He says these "nice people" keep alive innumerable pleasures, which otherwise would be quickly ended by surfeit. "Above all," he writes, "they keep alive the pleasure of the hunt. . . In all these respects the hunting of human beings is better sport, but if it were not for nice people, it would be difficult to hunt human beings in good conscience . . . It is especially good sport when the victim is a woman, since this gratifies the jealousy of the women and the sadism of the men . . . The essence of nice people is that they hate life as manifested in tendencies to cooperation, in the boisterousness of children, and above all in sex, with the thought of which they are obsessed. In a word nice people are those who have nasty minds."

Talker wouldn't say Kathleen Norris and Bertrand Russell are in disagreement; he rather thinks they would be in agreement in much. The few short excerpts he has quoted from both, he hopes, will provoke at least a few to read both articles: American Fathers, This Is Your Day, in last Sunday's Times, and, Nice People in the July Harpers.

Fire Wrecks Home When Water Pressure Drops Near Zero Mark

The home of H. B. Riley, 3003 Avenue Q, was wrecked by fire early Monday night, according to fire officials. All furnishings of the home were saved. Damage to the house was estimated at $750.

The fire originated on a back porch, sweeping upward to burn in the roof. The blaze also damaged other parts of the structure. The fire is believed to have started in a paper basket on the porch.

Water pressure was very weak, making it difficult to control the blaze, according to Grover Habern, assistant fire chief. It is believed serious consequences would have resulted to the neighborhood had a wind been blowing. Spectators at the fire said at times the water pressure was so low as to appear almost useless.

Cards will be mailed by the county clerk's staff Tuesday to all Wichita county property owners whose 1931 renditions have been changed by the board of equalization, it was announced Monday.

Protests will be heard by the board on July 7, 8, and 9, the first two days being designated for the hearings on real estate. The third day will be reserved for oil companies, banks, railroads, etc., it was announced.

City Increases Staff Of Swimming Teachers

Further increases in attendance were reported Monday morning by those in charge of the free swimming lessons being given to children at Westmoreland park swimming pool under the direction of the city park department. Monday morning's attendance was 185.

Classes of beginners, intermediates and advanced pupils have been formed, it was announced. From two instructors on hand the first day, the staff of teachers has been increased to six, and will have two additional tutors at the next lesson on Thursday morning.

DONOHOE JURY IS COMPLETED

Testimony in Slaying To Start Tuesday

Introduction of evidence in the case of Verner Donohoe, charged with murder in connection with the death of Herman Walden in Wilbarger county in 1929, will begin before Judge P. A. Martin in the 50th district court at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning.

Selection of a jury was completed shortly before 5 o'clock Monday afternoon, the examination of prospective jurors having taken all of the day. The men chosen to try Donohoe on his third arraignment for the alleged offense are H. C. Alexander, carpenter, Electra; W. W. Talley, city employe, Electra; Frank Parsons, geologist, Wichita Falls; J. E. Calloway, Ball Brothers' factory employe, Wichita Falls; H. O. Beckham, auto body finisher, Wichita Falls; Dallas Ralston, truck driver, Iowa Park; B. F. Hawkins, Burkburnett, oil field worker; W. A. Ford, Electra, oil field worker; G. J. Day, farmer, Electra; J. S. Gore, Burkburnett, clerk; C. B. Wininger, Wichita Falls, salesman; and G. W. Allen, Wichita Falls, drilling contractor.

Defense Motions Refused

About 42 of the special venire of 100 men summoned for the trial reported Monday morning, and that body was exhausted about 3 p. m. with only 10 jurors selected. Ten additional talesmen were summoned by Sheriff Perry Browning, the last two named jurymen being chosen from that group.

At the opening of court Monday morning, the defense presented a motion to transfer the trial back to the 46th district court at Vernon, from which it was brought here on a change of venue. The motion was refused. The defense then sought to disqualify the special venire because its members were summoned by mail, instead of in person, as cited by law; and because only about 40 of those summoned appeared. The court overruled this motion, and also another asking continuance of the trial on the grounds that material defense witnesses were absent.

Questioning of jurors Monday indicated that the state again will depend upon circumstantial evidence in its case against Donohoe. In the defendant's first trial, in 1929, he was found guilty and given a 25-year term in the penitentiary. The case was reversed and remanded, however, and was tried again several months ago in Wilbarger county, resulting in a hung jury.

BUDGETS SHOW REAL MERIT

Many Fine Suggestions Listed in $175 Contest

Budgets submitted to The Record News and Daily Times in the budget contest for Tuesday, June 16, $175 per month, included some of the neatest and most artistic work that has been submitted at any time. Percentages permissable under each item were well divided with a few exceptions that barred otherwise perfect work from the contest.

Honorable mention is given to a budget submitted by Mrs. H. H. Hensley, 2011 Lucile street, that is possibly the most interesting in arrangement that has been submitted at any time. Every item was mentioned and save for the fact that automobile expense was not commensurate with the other percentages, the budget would have been winner.

Mrs. Luther Potts of Chillicothe also submitted an admirable budget which had an even chance with the winner of the second prize but for minor defect. Another work of art would have been among the first except that the house wife who compiled it forgot to include in the list, house rent or taxes.

Several out of town budgets did not carry local names. Contestants should read carefully the advertisements submitted each week. Several advertisements have been changed.

The City National bank has an admirable book estimating percentages for budgets which will help their patrons in arranging the figures that will help a family to live within the income and save the requisite safety margin.

Traffic Census to Close Wednesday

A traffic census of the state highway department to determine the number of vehicles that pass over the various highways of this section will be completed at 6 a. m. Wednesday, officials of the department here said Monday.

The survey made by the department of this district includes 13 counties adjacent to Wichita. The survey started at 6 a. m. Saturday with counting stations placed at advantageous points along all highways. Counts are made of the total number of vehicles to pass, the number of vehicles that are registered in the county, out-of-county machines, and horse drawn vehicles.

The survey is being made to determine what highways have the heaviest traffic, in order that road funds may be appropriated accordingly.

Optometrists Open San Antonio Meet

SAN ANTONIO, June 22. (AP)—Recommendation that a supreme court order be sought defining optometry and the profession of optometrists so as to exclude parties not actually members of the profession, was made at the opening session of the American Optometric association convention here today.

About 350 delegates heard Secretary E. H. Kickenapp of Faribault, Minn., denounce the tactics of quasi-members of the profession. He asserted they tended to bring discredit upon optometry and in consequence should be barred.

The sessions will continue through Thursday, with a trip to the Mexican border Friday.

Reports of officers consumed most of the morning session, with President J. Fred Andreae of Baltimore presiding.

Court Grants Release To Contempt Prisoner

AUSTIN, June 22. (AP)—The supreme court today granted Carl Newton Guinn, Fort Worth, a writ of habeas corpus ordering his release from jail on $500 bail. Guinn was sentenced to jail for contempt of court by Judge James E. Mercer for alleged failure to pay temporary alimony for support of his wife and two children.

He was sentenced June 8 to serve until he has purged of such contempt in such way as the court may seem meet and proper."

The writ was made returnable to the supreme court June 30.

40 Boy Scouts Leave For Diversion Camp

About 40 Boy Scouts of Wichita Falls and surrounding territory left early Monday morning for Camp Ephraim Griffin at Diversion dam, where they will hold a one-week's camp, closing next Sunday morning.

Plans had been made by Scout Executive Frank B. Creighton for two periods of one week each for two separate groups of scouts this year, but registrations were said to be insufficient to warrant more than one camping period.

The camp truck will make a trip to and from this city daily, it was said, to carry mail and packages from scout headquarters to the campers.

Miss Martha Hall of Mexia, Texas, is visiting at the home of her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Sherrill, 1805 Elizabeth.

VALLEY TOUR SET JULY 9-10

Key Farmers of District to Gather Here

Arrangements to entertain key farmers of this section with a tour of the Wichita valley July 9-10, were completed here Monday with the meeting of the agricultural committee of the Junior chamber of commerce, it was announced by Frank Wolf, chairman.

Key farmers of some 12 counties in this area will meet here July 9-11. The tour of the valley is planned as a feature of the gathering. Practically every county agent of the district will attend, it was said.

The touring party will leave the courthouse here at 1 o'clock Thursday, July 9. The trip will be continued through the greater part of the next day, covering numerous points over the valley where exceptionally fine crops are grown. The tour will, to a certain extent, cover the same itinerary as the business men's tour last week.

Key farmers and county agents of this section will be the guests of the Junior chamber of commerce. Invitations are extended to business men of the city to be present on the trip. A charge of $1.20 will be made to local trippers to cover the cost of three meals to be served on the route.

The evening meal and breakfast of the first day will be served at the Boy Scout camp at Diversion lake, where the night will be spent. The third meal, luncheon, will be served Friday noon at the state experimental station near Iowa Park.

Assisting the Junior chamber of commerce in the making of arrangements for the tour is G. C. McGown, Wichita county farm agent, and H. C. McDowell, superintendent of the experimental station.

The key farmer tour and the business men's tour held last week are a part of the Junior chamber of commerce program of work for 1931, and are held to stimulate interest here and over this section in the agricultural development of the Wichita valley.

Childress Mill Offers Flour Exchange Plan

CHILDRESS, Texas, June 22.—A local mill has made announcement of a plan to exchange flour and bran for wheat with the farmers of Childress county. This action, it is believed will cause a number of farmers to keep at least from 100 to 200 bushels on hand with which to purchase flour during the year. This action will bring the farmer a better price for his wheat and at the same time make it unnecessary to spend his cotton money for flour and feed.
