Hill Wins Judgment

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Texas Atty. Gen. John Hill today won a $927,000 judgment against the operator of a chain of 11 private business schools in the state.

State District Court Judge Robert Murray granted Hill's motion ordering San Antonio businessman Carl D. Wehling to return $927,793.60 in unearned tuition to 1,505 students.

Hill's office in Austin said the judgment was the largest ever obtained under the state's Consumer Protection Act.

The attorney general sought the refunds for students who paid for education which they never received.

Carter Mum On Report

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter said today he would have no immediate statement about a report that the CIA secretly funneled millions of dollars over two decades to Jordan's King Hussein.

Asked by reporters whether he wanted to comment on the report, Carter said: "No. Jody will have a statement later about it."

The matter was expected to come up at White House Press Secretary Jody Powell's regular news briefing.

The State Department also declined comment on the story, published today by the Washington Post.

Texas Temps Climb

By The Associated Press

The warmest weather so far in 1977 has taken over Texas.

Temperatures climbed into the 80s at many points Thursday, and a feeble cool front promised no big changes today.

By early morning the frontal system lay nearly stalled along a line linking Texarkana, Dallas and San Angelo. Dry air and variable high clouds were the rule in its wake. Farther south the skies were mostly clear but patches of fog formed near the Middle Texas Coast in early morning.

Tax Bills Moving

WASHINGTON (AP)—Legislation is moving forward in Congress to enact President Carter's economic stimulus package, including $50 rebates for most Americans and permanent tax cuts for 44.6 million households.

The legislation, approved Thursday night 26 to 8 by the House Ways and Means Committee, could be ready for House action later this month or early next month.

Keeping tab on our neighbors:

J. Tom Graham of the Big Spring Herald, commenting on the West Texas water situation, notes that water is a resource that is plentiful in some areas like oil is in Texas.

"Oil is piped out of West Texas; water can be brought in," says Graham.

"West Texas is a grain and fiber basket which will be needed more and more, not less and less, as the year 2000 approaches and the world's population doubles again.

"Unless a water plan can be developed soon, it is possible that the West Texas bread basket will be declining just when the world needs it most."

There's nothing that makes a person forget a hard winter more quickly than a bunch of pretty days. And, in retrospect, the Post Dispatch says we were fortunate in this area this winter.

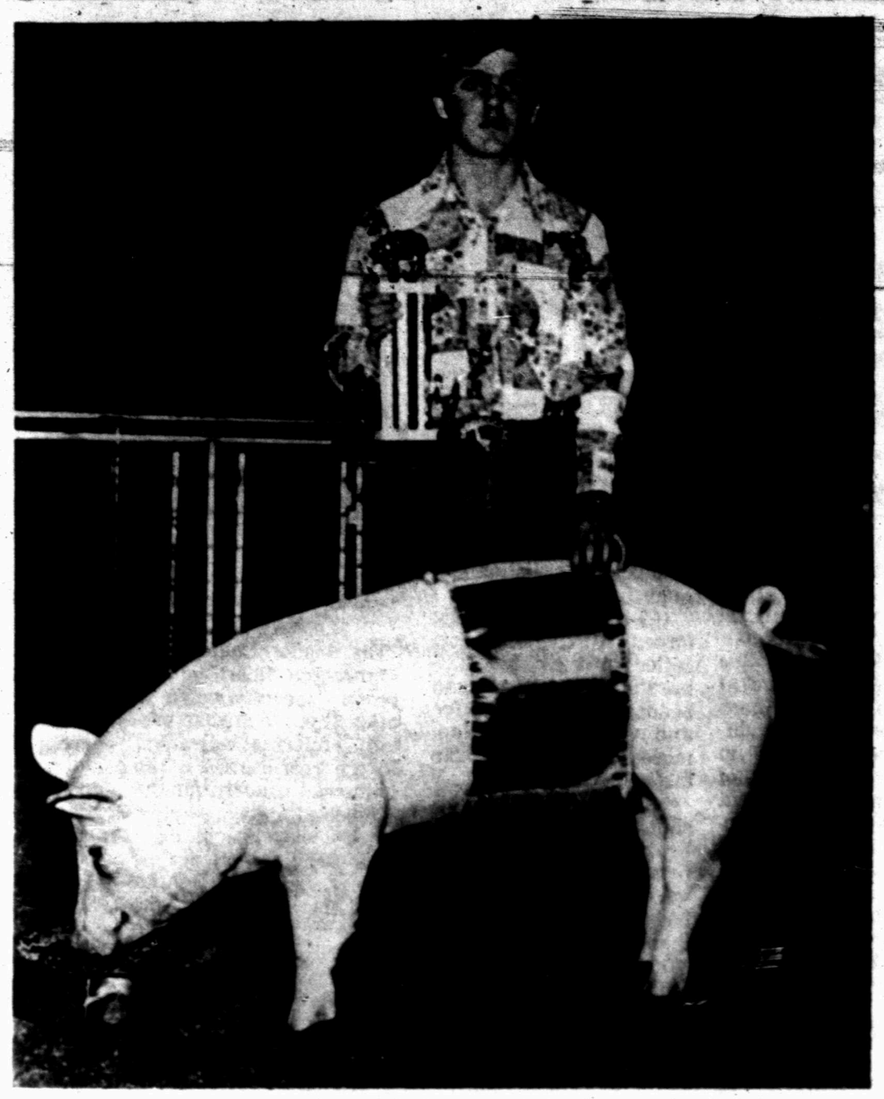

"We got better than average moisture last year. Of course we got practically nothing at all in January, but that is normal. We are in other words having normal weather," the Dispatch observed. "We haven't had too much like the northeast, or too little like the northwest. We wouldn't say it is just right because nobody ever says that about the weather. But we certainly don't have a whole lot to complain about."

So we don't, if it keeps on like the past week.

Calling for deregulation of interstate natural gas prices, the Odessa American raises this question that foes of the free market might ponder: "Would you rather have gas at $2.50 per thousand cubic feet, or not have gas at $1.42 per thousand cubic feet?"

Food, Fuel Feed Inflation

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sharply higher prices for food and fuel drove consumer prices up eight-tenths of a per cent in January, the biggest monthly inflationary surge in 18 months, the government said today.

In addition, the Labor Department indicated there could be worse news in months ahead since it said its January price index failed to reflect the full price impact of severe winter weather that has affected much of the nation.

The January price report was certain to add to fears that inflation may be much worse this year than in 1976, when prices rose only a moderate 4.8 per cent.

The Labor Department said food prices alone rose nine-tenths of a per cent in January, more than in all of 1976 when they were up six-tenths of a per cent. Prices rose for most types of foods purchased in grocery stores, it said.

Prices of commodities, including fuel oil, autos and clothing, advanced seven-tenths of a per cent last month, and prices of services, including natural gas and electricity, jumped ahead nine-tenths of a per cent.

The eight-tenths of a per cent increase in the Consumer Price Index in January was double the December increase and the largest monthly price rise since July of 1975 when the index increased nine-tenths of a per cent.

Like a needle on a broken record, the national debate for several months has been stuck on the subject of creating jobs to help solve our unemployment problems. There is nothing wrong with this. It is the positive approach.

But while accenting the positive has its virtues, it has tended to make us forget the negative: Some basic, untreated causes of unemployment.

The new 95th Congress can do something about these root causes of unemployment, since they stem from federal laws that legislate or mandate wages higher than the market will bear.

In an excellent little book, Dr. William H. Peterson, who teaches business philosophy at Campbell College, Buies Creek, N.C., discusses these laws, as well as the overall necessity to free up funds for capital investment as a means of creating jobs.

His book, "Who is the Real Employer? - The True Source of Jobs," has just been published by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. It underscores the fact that consumers are the ultimate source of jobs because they decide what goods or services produced by working Americans that they will buy. In today's job market, says Dr. Peterson, we suffer from wage unemployment. Some labor is overpriced.

"Wage inflexibility means workers and business can't get together on terms satisfactory to the consumer," Dr. Peterson writes in the book.

He cites an impressive list of federal laws that attempt to legislate wages for the private sector. These include:

Minimum wage laws that price unskilled labor, parficularly teenagers and blacks, out of the market.

Labor relations laws that grant excessive powers to unions, encouraging strikes. Thirty-one states, for example, pay unemployment compensation benefits to strikers.

Certain featherbedding practices protected by federal laws which reduce productivity and inflate wages.

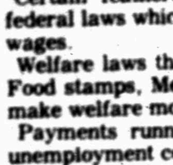

Welfare laws that deter many from taking jobs. Food stamps, Medicaid and housing subsidies all make welfare more attractive.

Payments running as high as $165 a week in unemployment compensation.

Full employment laws that force government into deficit - financing, thereby helping to fuel inflation.

Dr. Peterson's analysis is more than borne out by the actual experience of the British people in recent years. Besieged by the host of economic problems which has become a fixture in British life, Britain's Labor prime Minister, James Callaghan, told his Labor party colleagues in a speech last year:

"We must ask ourselves unflinchingly, what is the cause of high unemployment? Quite simply and unequivocably it is caused by paying ourselves more than the value of what we produce. This...is an absolute fact of life, which no government, be it left or right, can alter...We used to think you could just spend your way out of a recession and increase employment by cutting taxes and boosting government spending. I tell you in all candor that option no longer exists, and that insofar as it ever did exist, it worked by injecting inflation into the economy. And each time that happened the average level of unemployment has risen. Higher inflation, followed by higher unemployment. That is the history of the last 20 years."

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Add another name to the list of potential Republican presidential candidates for 1980: George Bush, freed from the tongue-tying restraints of the Central Intelligence Agency, is back on the political market.

Bush, 48, one of the GOP's most articulate and versatile figures, has just returned to Houston to resume a business career and rebuild his partisan political credentials in case opportunity beckons four years hence.

Although Congress has barely finished counting the 1976 electoral votes, the line of Republicans who may seek a shot at Jimmy Carter in 1980 keeps growing. Bush is merely the latest addition to a list that includes:

Even before he unpacked, Bush dashed off to Alaska for a round of Lincoln Day speeches, his first political appearances in three years. (As head of the U.S. mission to the People's Republic of China and later as CIA director, he avoided partisan events.)

"I'll be doing some of that kind of thing, hopefully to help the party," Bush told us. "I've told people that, sure I want to stay alive politically."

Bush won't need to scratch around for invitations. As GOP national chairman for 20 months in 1973-74, he delivered hundreds of speeches on the rubber-chicken circuit during the darkest days of Watergate, when Republicans needed all the help they could get. The party activists haven't forgotten his dedication.

Bush can also count on assistance from a small but talented group of political operatives who returned to Houston from Washington at the same time he did.

coffee drinkers facing high costs, taste change

Editor's Note: What's ahead for coffee drinkers? Will prices come back down? Will supplies go back up? Here is a look at some of the possibilities.

By DAVID C. MARTIN and
TERRY KIRKPATRICK
Associated Press Writers

Don't expect cheaper coffee any time soon, but do watch for a change in the taste.

The turnabout in the world coffee market since 1975 leaves American coffee drinkers with these prospects:

-Continued high prices over the coming months until the world production moves back to prefrost levels.

-Deteriorating quality of U.S. coffee blends as firms try to hold down prices by buying cheaper, harsher coffee beans.

-The chance that some small coffee roasters will be forced out of an already concentrated industry.

These things will likely be aired in congressional hearings on coffee prices planned later this month.

Meantime, more price hikes already have been put in motion. They won't be felt at the retail level for several months because of the normal lag between wholesale and retail prices moves.

Maxwell House, the nation's largest coffee company, recently announced an increase of 20 cents in its wholesale price to $3.11 a pound. Second-largest Folger announced an increase to $3.28.

Government and industry officials are reluctant to predict future prices.

The price of the bean itself isn't the only thing that has gone up. Governments of producing countries boosted export taxes, increasing their direct revenues. In Brazil, the export tax went from $21 a bag in the fall of 1975 to $103 this January.

On a per-pound basis, the tax went from 16 to 78 cents. You can't apply that figure to the price you pay, however, because it takes more than a pound of green beans to make one pound of ground coffee and the coffee you buy is a blend of coffees from different nations.

Supply has a lot to do with price.

Coffee production had been increasing steadily in the first half of the '70s, due to new techniques of planting and increased use of fertilizer. Much of the increased supply came from Brazil.

But the July 1975 frost in Brazil cut production sharply, although the country dipped into stockpiles and exported more last year than it did a year earlier.

The 1976-77 crop also will be lower than the prefrost level; U.S. experts estimate it at 9.5 million 132-pound bags; Brazilian officials say 5 million to 6.5 million bags.

Because it takes three years for a new tree to produce its first beans and another two to reach full production, it will be 1978 or 1979 before the Brazilian harvest again approaches previous levels.

The demand for coffee this year is estimated at about 5 million bags more than the supply. The difference can be made up from world stockpiles of about 25 million bags, but the future depends on factors that are difficult to predict:

-Any new weather disaster or outbreak such as the war in Angola could cause real shortages and send prices soaring still further.

-A coffee fungus has been reported in Nicaragua and the U.S. Agriculture Department says it "could appreciably affect future coffee production in the whole region if the disease is not brought under control and properly treated."

-Brazil may choose not to replace all the coffee trees destroyed by the frost. Farmers may switch to quicker-bearing crops such as soybeans.

-A strike by American longshoremen when their contract comes up for renewal in September could cause a coffee shortage in this country, regardless of the world supply.

-Coffee consumption in the United States and abroad could decline, easing the pressure on prices.

The coffee drinker's only weapon is to drink less coffee. Statistics available through the end of 1976 show no appreciable drop in U.S. comsumption, however.

One consumer research firm says that in nearly every month of 1976, coffee drinkers bought 2 to 10 per cent more than they did in the same month a year earlier.

Another firm, Selling Area Marketing Inc., says U.S. retailers sold only one-tenth of a per cent less coffee in 1976 than they did in 1975. The dollar value of the sales was 44 per cent more than a year earlier.

There have been scattered signs that the coffee drinker's willingness to put up with higher prices is changing.

Tradewell food stores in Oregon, Washington and California urged a boycott starting Jan. 1. In the first three weeks of the month, sales of coffee fell by 40 per cent.

In the past, higher prices have invariably led to lower consumption. A Folger executive cited a 10 per cent decline in buying in 1950, when prices rose 43 per cent, and a 3 per cent decline in 1954, when retail prices went up 25 per cent.

Demand for a more indispensible commodity - oil - declined in 1975 after the sharp, postembargo price hikes. And sugar buying dropped when prices zoomed in 1974.

The oil shortage was the creation of international politics and prices remained high. The sugar price advance was traced to natural causes and prices plummeted when supply recovered.

Coffee resembles both. As with sugar, its supply will eventually recover. As with oil, the producing countries have made no secret of their desire to regulate output.

Meanwhile, Americans are paying more money and getting what has been described as less quality.

"Rising prices ... are being accompanied by a deterioration in the quality of the product," said Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner and Smith, in an analysis of the coffee situation last August.

"U.S. roasters are being forced to use 'inferior' coffee in their blends - harsher-tasting African beans as Brazilian coffee and Colombian coffee, more suited to American tastes, becomes scarcer."

As one indication of this shift, U.S. imports from Brazil and Colombia in the first 11 months of 1976 were about 1.7 million bags or 25 per cent less than in the same months of 1975.

In the same period, U.S. imports of the harsher Robusta coffee from the Ivory Coast and Indonesia rose by 700,000 bags or almost 44 per cent.

In the first 10 months of 1975, beans from Brazil represented about 20 per cent of all U.S. coffee imports; in the same period last year, Brazilian coffee accounted for only 13 per cent of imports.

Behind these immediate symptoms looms the prospect of an even more concentrated U.S. coffee industry.

Folger and Maxwell House already represent about 56 per cent of the U.S. coffee market, but dozens of small roasters compete on a regional basis.

"Consumers no doubt have benefited from that competition," said Rep. Joseph Vigorito, D-Pa., as his agriculture subcommittee opened hearings into coffee prices last year.

"Can the smaller roasting firms secure their needed supplies of green coffee in today's market at prices that allow them to compete with the nationwide firms?" he asked. "If so, can they withstand the competitive pressures when the nationwide firms reduce their margins on coffee temporarily to keep consumers coming?"

The number of roasters has fallen from more than 300 in the 1950s to about 100 today. Current prices seem likely to accelerate that trend.

Joe Donovan, president of the Donovan Coffee Co. in Birmingham, Ala., said, "Nineteen seventy-six was the worst year we had in a long time."

"Our gross profit percentage points have dropped drastically," said Lloyd Donnelly, president of the E.B. Miller Coffee Co. in Denver.

Maxwell House and Folger say they too are suffering, but their resources are greater. Maxwell House is a division of General Foods; Folger is part of Procter & Gamble.

As one small roaster put it in referring to another of the industry giants, "Coca-Cola which markets two brands of coffee doesn't have to worry about whether it makes money from coffee or not."

Following a similar Brazilian frost and price spiral in 1953, the Federal Trade Commission concluded that, "Most roasters found their costs mounting faster than they were able to advance prices and remain competitive with producers of the large-selling national brands."

$1,000 REWARD

The Snyder Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors recently voted to offer $1,000 to anyone providing information leading to the recruitment of an industrial concern for the Wickes Building employing at least 20 people.

The Midland Reporter-Telegram ran an editorial recently, promoting the endeavor. The editorial read:

"The Snyder Chamber of Commerce, an alert and determined organization, believes that offering a cash reward can be effective in most any endeavor, including the apprehending and delivering of new industry.

"The civic organization has posted a $1,000 reward for the person or persons successful in bringing a new industry to occupy the building vacated by a mobile homes company.

"The new industry must employ 20 or more persons, and may either lease or buy the building.

"This is a completely new angle--in these parts, at least--in industrial development.

"Claiming of the $1,000 would be most rewarding experience, both for the person receiving it and the organization and the city offering it."

WORDS APPRECIATED

The chamber is grateful to the Midland newspaper for its editorial endorsement of our project and the kind words it printed concerning the organization.

The idea isn't that new and certainly not an idealistic effort in propaganda. For the Chamber, a $1,000 payment to get an industrial concern into the Wickes Building would certainly be an excellent investment to enhance our economic well-being. Secondly, recruiting industry in a community rests with all who live here, not just with chamber officials and staff members.

The economic benefits will certainly be shared by all in the community through additional payroll, tax and spendable dollars. Everybody gets a piece of the action when new industry comes to town from the grocery store owner to the realtor to the insurance agent.

For every new dollar which comes into the community, it turns over an average of five times before it leaves. That mounts up pretty quick. A 100-employe firms pays an average of $1 million in payrolls each year. That's a $5 million economic impact when all is said and done. There's another $300,000 in taxes paid and about $3 million in goods and services purchased.

Those dollars mount up pretty fast while circulating in the community, and everybody gets their share.

OTHER NEW DOLLARS

Playoff games, of which four are scheduled during the next week, also bring in additional dollars to the community. Take the ballgame scheduled Saturday, for example, between Stephenville and Canyon. Both teams are going to spend the night, eat three meals and buy gasoline. The fans will probably get here ahead of game time and spend some money in our retail stores, and buy gasoline.

About 1500 people were on hand for our games the first part of this week. The majority of them had something to eat in town before or after the game and brought gasoline. They were all pleased to be in Snyder and were treated courteously by our fine group of Gold Coaters. Because of this community goodwill, they'll probably be back in Snyder sometime and spend more time with us. They'll certainly be anxious to play additional athletic contests here if they have an opportunity.

INTANGIBLES

Much of this community goodwill gained through playoff games cannot be earmarked with a dollar figure, but look at the statistics and growth we've seen recently. Look at our sales tax rebates compared to other communities.

We're far above any towns our size in the state in the amount of money we're receiving from the sales tax. We're continuing to get inquiries from commercial establishments concerning construction in our area. This means more dollars in circulation and a more varied amount of merchandise for local and area citizens to choose from.

This increases our tax rebates and gets even more establishments interested in us. Things just keep moving along.

Sew With Luxurious Silk

By Joanne Schreiber

Have you ever sewed with silk?

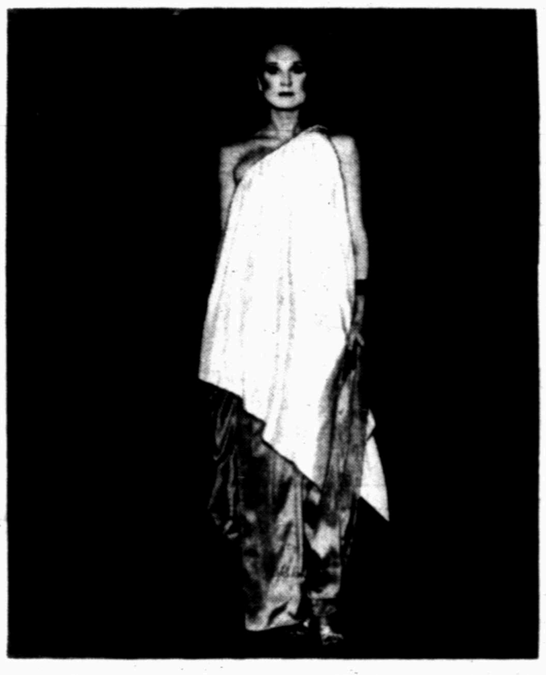

Silk is the world's most luxurious, most romantic fabric. It is the cloth of Chinese Empresses, of the wealthy and the royal, of Queens and Princesses. Yet it is also the cloth of the ordinary American woman who sews, because it is widely available over-the-counter, at a reasonable price.

From February to April, American Silk Mills is touring a sew-with-silk show across the country, featuring pattern fashions from such top designers as Anne Klein, Carol Horn, Edith Head, Leo Narducci, Jerry Silverman, Bill Blass, Diane Von Furstenberg, and Calvin Klein among Americans; Dior, Saint Laurent, Ungaro and Nina Ricci from Paris.

Since silk is so versatile, it will be shown in everything from sportswear to bridal gowns. And for those home sewers who were raised on nylon and polyester, the many virtues of silk may come as a surprise. Because it is one of only four natural fibers (the others are cotton, linen and wool), it has the ability both to insulate and to absorb moisture. Therefore, it feels warm in winter and cool in summer -- unlike synthetics, which behave oppositely.

Because silk has such a high protein content, it takes colors more beautifully than any other material. And silk was being worn - and washed - long before dry cleaning was invented. Silk should be hand-washed, hung or rolled in a towel till damp-dry (never put silk in the dryer!) and pressed with a warm iron.

The following tips for sewing with silk are offered by the experts at Logantex, the only firm which distributes American Silk Mills silks to home sewers:

SEWING WITH SILK—Only silk flows so beautifully and has such an elegant luster. Here, two tones of gray pure silk crepe de chine are made into one-shoulder toga, designed by Christian Dior. Thanks to Logantex, silk is now available over-the-counter for American women to sew.

Cutting: Before cutting, press fabric to remove wrinkles. A steam pressing will eliminate any shrinkage. Use silk pins, set at close intervals. Silk does ravel, so you may wish to leave more than the usual five-eights inch seam allowance.

Marking: Carbon markings may show through fine fabrics, so use tailors tacks.

Basting: Silk is slippery. Baste with a small hand needle, using mercerized thread and working just outside the stitching line, in the seam allowance.

Stitching: Use a new No. 11 needle for all silk fabrics. Use your straight-stitch foot and throat plate - not the ones which accommodate a zigzag stitch - for better fabric control. If necessary, sew over tissue paper to prevent puckering. Use silk or mercerized thread - never a synthetic. Set your machine for light tension, 10-12 stitches per inch; be sure to run a test swatch to check settings.

Seam Finishes: The neatest finish is a French seam. Otherwise, hand-overcast the raw edges, or turn the seam edges under and machine stitch.

Linings: The sheer silks are not lined, because their beauty is in the way they seem to float. Broadcloth and crepe de chine are among the usually-unlined silks. Heavier silks - shantung, linen or twill - are usually lined or underlined, since they take to more tailored styles. China silk is often used as a lining: this is a plain, lightweight material similar to the most-used synthetic linings.

Closures: An ordinary zipper may be too heavy for a fine silk. Choose the lightest zipper you can find, and put it in with small hand stitches. Snaps may be more suitable than buttons with buttonholes, unless the buttons are tiny and the buttonholes hand-made.

Pressing: Use a silk to wool setting, with steam. Use a damp press cloth on the face of the fabric.

Check the new styles in the pattern books. You will find many beautiful new fashions which will make up beautifully in silk. Try a silk dress - you'll discover a whole new dimension to your sewing. After all, those miracle synthetics were all invented as copies of silk, the original luxury fabric.

East signalled with the jack of hearts at trick one so West continued with the ace and another heart. East ruffed and South overruffed.

South cashed one of his high trumps, led a second trump to dummy, led the queen of clubs and dropped his jack under it. West gathered in the third defensive trick with the king and led a club back.

With three tricks down the drain, South paused to study the diamond situation. He could take a simple finesse against the queen but that finesse wasn't going to succeed. A Review of the bidding found that West had been totally quiet like the dog that failed to bark in the night. With six hearts to the ace-king and the king of clubs, West would surely have opened the bidding if he held the queen of diamonds.

There was still a ray of hope. West could hold the diamond 10. So South won the club with dummy's 10 and led the jack of diamonds. East covered with the queen. It wasn't going to do him any good to duck. East took his ace, led a second diamond, finessed dummy's nine and was home.

We raise to two diamonds. This bid is generally superior to our second choice of one notrump.

De la Garza Defends Pay Raise

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. E. Kika de la Garza, D-Tex., is going to take the extra $12,900 in annual pay that Congress begins receiving this weekend. He has children in college and two homes to maintain. He feels he needs and deserves the extra money.

But de la Garza still feels a little uncomfortable when a reporter comes around to ask about it.

"I know it sounds like a lot, and it would be if I lived in Mission," he said of the $57,000 annual salary that congressmen will now earn. "But people in the district just don't realize expenses involved. Just moving my family back and forth costs several thousand dollars a year."

Like many of his colleagues, de la Garza is aware that his pay raise is accompanied by an unwelcome glare of news coverage while other people win higher salaries in private.

"The media make a big deal about this thing. They talk about how we have subsidized this and subsi-

De la Garza was one of 10 Texas congressmen who voted to adjourn for the weekend Thursday, thereby letting the pay raise go into effect without a recorded vote by the House.

MANDAMUS DENIED

Agreed Judgment In Bail Bond Suit

Judge Wayland G. Holt has denied a writ of mandamus in a suit styled Truman L. Isaacs vs. Keith Collier after both parties in the suit agreed to some special provisions.

The suit was filed after the plaintiff, represented by the law firm of Alex LeFeuvre and James Clark, claimed that Collier, Scurry County Sheriff, had refused to accept a bond on Jan. 31 signed by Isaacs, owner of Ike's Bail Bond Service of Odessa. The bonds in question had been presented by Craig Alexander and James Clark.

Collier said in testimony that he rejected the bond because the surety's oath was not properly executed and that he was not satisfied that the sovereign property owned by the plaintiff was sufficient security for the bond. Another bond presented on Feb. 10 by Alexander also was rejected on the same grounds, the sheriff testified. In testimony before the court, Isaacs said that he did not own part of the property listed on the affidavit and that he did not own such property at the time the affidavit was filed. He also testified that he was in the process of selling other property listed in the affidavit.

Ultimately, a consent judgment was agreed upon that property bonds by Ike's Bail Bond would be accepted up to $5,000 by Collier, provided they are approved by the Sheriff of Ector County. Also, insurance bonds would be accepted when they comply with state laws. It was further agreed that Ike's Bail Bond would bring its property affidavits up to date periodically.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government, using the threat of fund cutoffs, is launching a drive to end discrimination by schools against girls and women.

The action announced Thursday means that the government will enforce existing rules against sex segregated physical education classes, single-sex organizations such as honorary service fraternities and scholarships restricted to members of one sex.

Exempt from the ban on sex discrimination are contact sports and sex education classes. Otherwise, the federal rules apply to all areas of school life, including hiring, admissions and athletics.

Affected by the rules are 16,000 school districts and 2,700 institutions of higher education that receive federal funds.

The action by the Carter administration constitutes agreement with the long-standing complaint by women's groups that HEW has been slow in enforcing a 1972 law banning sex discrimination in schools.

After the law went on the books, HEW took three years to formulate regulations to implement the law.

"Only scattered enforcement efforts have been undertaken, and these were only in response to individual complaints and were not initiated by the department," said new HEW Secretary Joseph Califano Jr.

Califano directed that a list be compiled by March 15 of colleges and school systems that have assured HEW they are complying with the 1975 regulations. Schools are supposed to review their own policies on equal treatment of both sexes, and to list any corrective measures needed.

After 60 days "those that do not comply will face the initiation of legal proceedings leading to termination of federal funds," he said.

A HEW spokesman said schools and colleges have filed the compliance statements haphazardly in the past and the department has not been diligent in examining or processing them.

College athletic administrators have campaigned unsuccessfully for a congressional waiver of the rules for their top revenue-producing sports, football and basketball.

Califano also promised to cut off federal funds for any school district found to be guilty of racial discrimination. No school district in the nation has lost federal education funds for civil rights violations in the last five years.

An HEW administrative law judge on Thursday ordered federal funds to Chicago's public schools cut off because of alleged violations of the civil rights laws. His ruling would be final unless the school district appeals within 30 days. Chicago's schools get more than $100 million a year from the federal government.

Orr Resumes Crusade To Regulate Garages

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - Rep. Fred Orr has resumed his interrupted crusade against dishonest auto repairmen, saying regulation worked in Dallas and it ought to be imposed statewide.

Orr, D-DeSoto, failed to get his bill through the 1971 legislature and didn't serve in 1973 and 1975.

Since 1971, he said, "the abuses in this field have grown to unbelievable numbers."

"As one who has a long record of opposition to government interference, it may seem curious for me to seek such legislation, but from my own experience and those related to me by consumers, I am convinced we cannot let the industry go unchecked any longer," Orr said.

He is sponsoring a bill that would place garages and repair shops under regulation by the state highway department.

He says, however, he might settle for a bill that simply would set standards and let an aggrieved motorist take his case to the local district or county attorney for prosecution.

Dallas, the first city in the nation to license repair shops, had more than 3,000 complaints in 1975, Orr said. In Harris County, nearly 200 complaints are filed each month with the district attorney, he said.

The bill Orr introduced would create a Division of Automotive Repair Dealers Registration within the highway department. All repair shops would be required to register, and the division would conduct spot-checks on a continuing basis throughout the state.

Registration could be denied or revoked for misleading statements to customers or committing any fraudulent act. Each customer would be entitled by law to an estimate, and work costing more than that could not be done without his consent.

A later draft does not contain the registration requirement but retains the estimate provision. It would prohibit by law the making of repairs that are not necessary to correct the malfunction for which the car was brought in for repairs.

Cele Briscoe Is Not Talking About Prince

DALLAS (AP) - Can the pretty daughter of the governor of Texas find happiness in Buckingham Palace with Prince Charles, the heir to the British throne?

Don't hold your breath waiting for the answer.

Cele Briscoe, 20 and a student at Southern Methodist University in Dallas, doesn't want to talk about it.

She has never met Prince Charles, never mind dated him. Nevertheless, she is being linked to the prince in print, the Dallas Morning News said in Friday editions.

"I'm getting an awful lot of teasing from my friends," Cele said. "I just don't want to talk about it."

The News cited stories in a London publication calling Cele, daughter of Gov. and Mrs. Dolph Briscoe, a "blue-blooded heiress" who American society matrons feel would be perfect for Prince Charles.

"I've just had to stop answering the phone," Cele said, "reporters from everywhere are calling me. You wouldn't believe the questions they are asking me. I don't know how all this started. I wish it would stop."

The News said British writer James Drummond called and said he was writing a "life story" on Cele. "I tried calling her," Drummond told the News, "and she said she didn't want to talk. So we'll do a story about a beautiful American heiress anxious to meet the Prince of Wales. Do you know if she dates any celebrities? Does she know any rock stars?"

Cele keeps a low profile, but was a representative of the United States at the International Debutante Ball in New York in 1975.

Drummond said, "Who knows? Maybe this will get him, Prince Charles, interested. He's still eligible, you know."

Eligible or not, the Prince hasn't called Cele.

And that suits her just fine.

Dear Abby

Gardener Accuses Wrong Rose Thief

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1977 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I've always gotten along well with my neighbors, but listen to this. The woman next door has a lovely Peace rose bush.

Last June she planned to take a large bouquet to decorate our church, but when she came out early Sunday morning to cut the roses, she discovered that the bush had been stripped!

Meanwhile, guests whom we had for dinner on Saturday night brought me a large bouquet of Peace roses, which I had placed in our front window.

When my neighbor discovered that her roses were gone and she saw the bouquet in my window, she immediately assumed that they were hers, so she rang my doorbell and awakened me. Then she forced her way into my house, took my flowers and said some terrible things to me. I was too shocked and bewildered to respond.

Since then she's been avoiding me, but her husband still talks to my husband. Now it turns out that on the Monday following the episode, another neighbor had come to her to apologize for her preteen daughter, who had sneaked into her yard that Saturday evening and taken her roses!

My neighbor's husband says his wife is too embarrassed and ashamed to face me, and I should swallow my pride, go over there and make up with her.

Abby, I can't forget those shameful things she said to me. I feel terrible about the whole thing, but since she's in the wrong, I think she should come here and apologize to me. How can this be settled so we can be friends again?

ROSE FEVER

DEAR FEVER: She SHOULD come to you and apologize, but since she hasn't and you want to be friends again, swallow your pride (thorns and all) and make the first move. Be mature. Defer.

DEAR ABBY: I am 12. I told my father to go jump in the lake. We live by a lake, but it is frozen over now, so he should have known I didn't really mean it.

He grounded me indefinitely. How long is "indefinitely?"

GROUNDED IN MINNESOTA

DEAR GROUNDED: It's for as long as it takes your father to cool off. (Apologize and promise to be more respectful, and it may break the ice.)

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a 55-year-old Mama's boy who gave his girlfriend an engagement ring in 1970 but does not allow her to show it to anybody because he doesn't want his mother to find out?

Well, I am the girlfriend. I have gone with Arthur for 10 years, and I am pretty sick of this setup. I met his mother just once, when Arthur brought her to the eye doctor. He let me go along for the ride. He never told her I was his girlfriend, though. The problem is, Arthur's mother has money, and she says if he marries, she will leave it all to the church.

He was so confused two years ago he wrote to you, and you told him to talk to his pastor. He said he did, and the pastor told him he was lucky to have such a wonderful mother.

What am I supposed to do now? I am 48 and not getting any younger.

ARTHUR'S GIRL

DEAR GIRL: Put the ring through Arthur's nose and send him to his mother.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Weatherford Clips Dusters

WEATHERFORD--Weatherford Junior College defeated the Western Texas College Dusters, 66-50, here last night in a non-conference basketball tilt.

The Dusters led 4-2, but Weatherford jumped ahead, 22-8, and coasted the rest of the way. The Dusters were never able to catch up.

Cathy Hooper and Lesa Wardlaw sparked the Weatherford attack with 17 and 17 points, respectively. Patti Dunlap contributed 12 points.

For the Dusters, Pam Tatum roped 13 points, and Temi Baker put in 10. They were the only two girls in double figures for the Dusters. Janice Verden tried to play on a sore ankle. She did her best under the circumstances but was able to score only four points.

The Dusters now are 15-9 for the season. They lead the Western Junior College Athletic Conference by a full game and have a 5-1 conference record. They meet Howard College in Big Spring Saturday night.

DUSTERS (50)--Tillman 2-4-6; Scott 1-0-2; McIver 3-1-7; Luttrul 4-0-8; Baker 5-0-10; Verden 2-0-4; Tatum 4-5-13; totals 20-10-50.

Brief Texas Sports Stories

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — Starting Texas Tech guard Steve Dunn may be lost for the rest of the regular season because of a dislocated finger, Coach Gerald Myers said Thursday.

Dunn is definitely out for Saturday's contest with Baylor and may miss the regular season finale Tuesday against SMU.

Myers said Keith Kitchens will start against Baylor, but that the Red Raiders will be hurt by Dunn's absence.

Tech has wrapped up a third place finish in conference play, one of the favored spots for the post-season SWC tournament.

DENTON, Tex. (AP) — North Texas State took out its frustrations on North Carolina A&T Thursday night, bouncing the Aggies 110-80 in the Super Pit.

North Texas suffered road losses last week against Creighton and Oral Roberts, ending the school's hopes for an NCAA tournament bid.

Fred Mitchell scored 21 points to pace the victory and five of his teammates hit in double figures.

North Texas ran its record to 18-5.

DALLAS (AP) — Minor league infielders Greg Pryor and Brian Dyle have been sent to the New York Yankees by the Texas Rangers in exchange for second baseman Sandy Alomar and cash.

Pryor and Doyle played for the Ranger's club at Sacramento, Calif., last season.

Alomar hit .239 for the Yankees in 67 games last year, with one home run, 10 RBIs and 12 stolen bases.

Aggies Cool It; Metcalf Happy

HOUSTON (AP) - Texas A&M basketball coach Shelby Metcalf says the Aggies played their latest game without so much emotion and that helped his nerves.

The Aggies, hoping to finish in the first division and gain a home court advantage in the upcoming Southwest Conference tournament, held off a second half Rice rally and defeated the Owls, 79-61, Thursday night.

It was the only game of the night involving SWC teams and the Aggies held on to fourth place with the victory.

Arkansas has already won the regular season championship and will get a bye to the finals while the second through fifth place teams will have the home court advantage in the first round games Feb. 26. The four winners will advance to The Summit here to continue the tournament.

The Aggies quickly moved ahead of Rice and led 41-22 at the half and led by 22 early in the second half.

However, the Owls, paced by Elbert Darden, who scored 21 points, began chipping away at the Aggie lead and twice cut it to seven points, the last time at 66-59 on Alan Reynolds, jumper with 6:09 to play.

Then the Owls went cold and didn't score for nearly six minutes. In the meantime, the Aggies were scoring 11 points to win going away.

Steve Jones led A&M with 20 points and Wally Swanson added 19 for the Aggies, now 8-6 in conference play and 12-12 for the season. Rice, in eighth place, is 2-12 in League play and 8-16 for the season.

Asked if he was nervous, Metcalf replied, "I stay nervous. This is the first game we've played without emotion for a long time. That helped. We've played some close ones recently."

Rice Coach Bob Polk said the Owls had too many bad things happen to them in the first half.

"If you can't pass and catch better than that, you're in trouble," Polk said.

The Aggies return to Houston Saturday night for a game with the Houston Cougars. The Saturday schedule also has Texas at Arkansas, Baylor at Texas Tech, TCU at Rice and Oklahoma City at SMU.

COACH OF THE YEAR—University of Arkansas Basketball coach Eddie Sutton has been named by The Associated Press Southwest Conference Basketball Coach of the Year. (AP Wirephoto)

Hogs Dominate All Southwest

By The Associated Press

Champion Arkansas placed its trio of 6-4 jumping jacks on The Associated Press all-Southwest Conference basketball team, while Houston's Otis Birdsong ran off with Most Valuable Player honors.

Birdsong, Texas Tech center Mike Russell and Marvin Delph of Arkansas were unanimous picks on the all-SWC team selected by the loop's nine coaches.

Ron Brewer and Sidney Moncreif of Arkansas also won first team honors.

The all-SWC squad was almost preordained - only three other players got first team votes. They were Steve Jones of Texas A&M, Ron Baxter of Texas and Larry Spicer of Baylor.

Eddie Sutton of Arkansas was a near-unanimous choise for Coach of the Year.

Baxter and Houston's Mike Schultz, a junior college transfer, tied for Newcomer of the Year honors.

Birdsong, the only senior on the first team, is averaging better than 30 points per game and has been among the top five national scorers all season.

Junior Delph and Brewer and sophomore Moncreif have combined for an average of more than 50 points per contest and they anchor a defence that has given up less than 60 points in most of their games.

Russell, a junior, has averaged nearly 22 points per game for the Red Raiders and is the conference's leading rebounder.

Joe Toore, New York Mets first baseman against southpaws, says he shot two "Bicentennial year scores" in the recent El Conquistador celebrity golf tournament in Puerto Rico - a pair of 76s.

WTC Golf Team Nips New Mexico

The Western Texas College golf team defeated New Mexico Junior College in a dual match at the Snyder Country Club course yesterday by seven strokes. The Westerners fired an 8 over par 428 compared to 435 by the visitors.

Each school plays seven players and counted the six low scores in medal play.

WTC golfer Donnie Loerwald and NMJC golfer Montie Watson tied for medalist honors with 69, one under par.

Coach Bob O'Day stated that he was pleased with the consistent play of the Westerners in the dual match with NMJC.

"We were only 11 over par for seven players. NMJC played well, but we played better. They lead the conference, being 2½ points ahead of us, and have an outstanding team. They have beaten Texas Tech University twice this spring. We will have to play consistent golf this spring like we did today if we are going to catch them in the conference race."

Next action for WTC is a conference tournament in Big Spring Friday, Feb. 25, and at Snyder Feb. 26. These are back-to-back conference tournaments.

NMMI Wins In Overtime, 50-49

New Mexico Military Institute slipped past Western Texas College, 50-49, here last night in a Western Junior College Athletic Conference contest in overtime.

The score was tied at 44-44 at the end of regulation play, and the Military outscored WTC 6-5 in overtime. The Military got off the last shot in the regulation game and missed, sending it into overtime.

Allen Corder hit a bucket to give WTC a 46-44 lead, then Darryl Smith hit the front end of a 1 and 1 for a 47-44 lead. Then Reg Franklin hit two baskets for the Military to give the visitors a 48-47 margin with 30 seconds remaining. Lawrence Butler hit a 22 footer for a WTC for a 49-48 lead. Allen Corder fouled Reg Franklin with two seconds remaing. WTC called time out, then Franklin hit both free throws for the victory. Butler got off the last shot of the game for WTC. The ball went in the basket, and then bounced out as NMMI held onto their lead.

The Military led throughout the first half. They got ahead and began a stalling game. WTC came out and pressured trying to get the ball, and NMMI was able to get some easy layups. They led by nine points at one point of the game in the first half, but WTC closed to within three points at 28-25 at halftime. The lead changed hands several times in the second half. NMMI executed its game play well. The Westerners didn't shoot very good, and they missed some crucial free throws in overtime.

Also last night, Frank Phillips beat Howard College to give the Westerners undisputed claim to the Western Junior College Athletic Conference title.

Darryl Smith led WTC shooters last night with 19 points. Allen Corder contributed 10. Lawrence Butler, who has been averaging 26 points a game, saw action only in the second half last night due to a knee injury. He only scored four points.

Reg Franklin won scoring honors for NMMI with 22 points. Marty Zeller and Harvey Daniels each contributed 10 points.

The Westerners next game is Monday night at Howard College.

Several basketball coaches from other schools attended the game. Included among those present were Sonny Allen of Southern Methodist, Gerald Myers and George Davidson of Texas Tech, Steve Moehler, assistant at the University of Texas, Steve Sparks of Weber State, Utah; Mike Pollio, Old Dominion University, Norfolk, Va., Morris McHone, assistant at Florida State; and, Robert Trammell, assistant from the University of South Alabama.

NMMI (50)--Zeller 5-0-10; Franklin 10-2-22; Daniels 5-0-10; Franken 4-0-8; totals 24-2-50.

WTC (49)—Person 1-1-3; Butler2-0-4; Corder 5-0-10; Orton 3-3-9; Worthington 2-0-4; Smith 6-7-19; totals 19-11-49.

Mr. Massengale Is Leading Field

LOS ANGELES (AP) - "We call him 'Mr. Massengale'," said Lanny Wadkins, who just missed a share of the lead in a late-afternoon fog.

"I'm tickled to death to be just one shot back of Mr. Massengale - we call Rik 'Mr. Massengale' when he's playing like he is right now," Wadkins observed after an opening 66 that wasn't quite good enough Thursday in the first round of the $200,000 Glen Campbell-Los Angeles Open Golf Tournament.

Massengale, a record-setting, runaway winner of last week's Bob Hope Desert Golf Classic, still has his string going. He now has led the last six rounds of competition on the pro golf tour and is a total of 29 under par for those days of play.

"When," someone asked, "are you going to cool off?"

"Too soon," Rik said with a smile. "I'm not sure when it'll be, but it'll be too soon."

"I just want to keep it going."

His pace hasn't slackened at all.

Massengale, who led all five rounds of the Hope and won by six strokes with 23 under par scoring total, followed up with a six-under-par 65 - including birdies on the first four holes - in the first round of this tournament, an event he'd originally planned to skip.

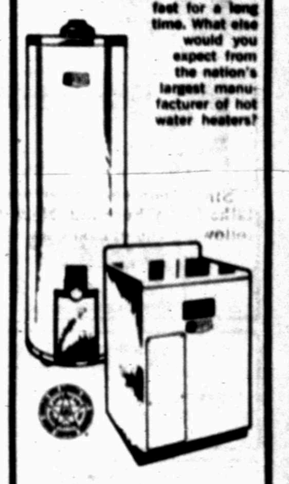

"I'm real glad I changed my mind," Massengale said after his effort over the old, tough, 7,029-yard Riviera Country Club course.

"I'm not doing anything in particular that's different," Massengale said. "My brother touring pro Don helped me a little with my putting a couple of weeks ago, but it's mostly just that I've got it all together right now."

Wadkins, fighting his way out of a lengthy slump, was the only one to challenge, and he had to birdie two of his last three holes to close within a single shot.

WALKING IN HIS STEPS

"He that would become chief of all, let him first become servant of all."

So Jesus spoke, and so He laid His finger at the very root of trouble in most men's personality. Greatness is not the sum total of how much power a man wields. Egotism is the illegitimate child of pleasure-seeking with power; and many men who consort with power reap only the deadly harvest of a death-dealing egotism.

God has made the only great men this world has ever known. And they have invariably been men who were humble and pure hearted toward their fellow men.

The trouble is that we do not realize that the price of greatness lies in our being willing to pay the price, and that price is the personal sacrifices of ourselves in service to others. Don't be fooled by the loud voices of those who rage and threaten. Their revenge and power are to be least feared. Jesus said, "Fear not them who can destroy the body but cannot injure the soul—instead, fear him who is able to destroy body and soul."

The man whom I admire and love as an example of manhood is the humble, God-fearing servant who early and late, in favorable and unfavorable circumstances, summer or winter, young or old, is found following his Master's example of "going about doing good." Watch for that in a man before you dub him "great."

Physical Fitness Session Is Set

Pete Nevin, associated director of the Midwest Region of the Physical Fitness Institute of America, will speak here Saturday at the National Guard Armory in Towle Park.

Nevin's speech is titled "Business for Busy People" and will stress the need for persons to develop physical fitness training programs.

Nevin will be addressing the local chapter of the Texas National Guard. The public is invited to attend. The speech will begin at 10 a.m.

The Physical Fitness Institute, Inc., headquartered in Peoria, Ill., was organized in 1972 by Nevin. Nevin and the institute base the majority of their fitness programs on a relatively new exercise concept called "total isokinetics."

According to Nevin, the data collected so far indicated that muscle fiber responds much more quickly to conditioning by isokinetics than by any other method. The isokinetic program, he said, offers fitness in five major areas: cardiovascular, strength, coordination, flexibility, and endurance.

"Many of the nation's serious illnesses," says Nevin, "can be directly or indirectly traced to the poor physical condition of the sufferers, especially in the areas of heart disease, stroke, high blood pressure, chronic back problems and obesity."

Nevin, a former California educator, now resides in Garland. He has helped develop physical fitness programs for police and fire departments and for football teams.

Identity Problem

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) - You might say the drug store customer had an identity problem.

Jim Hunt, who was with some members of his family and another man, made a purchase, paid by check, and gave the clerk his driver's license. She asked for his telephone number too.

But Hunt has been living at a new address for less than a month and didn't know his phone number. Neither did the others with him.

The clerk asked his address. He gave it - 200 North Blount Street.

At that point the man with Hunt identified himself as an agent of the state bureau of investigation and told the clerk the address she had just written down was the governor's mansion.

She had been talking to North Carolina's new governor.

Dr. Lamb

'Roughage' really is not rough

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Two years ago I passed out from lack of blood and was rushed to the hospital. An X ray showed I had a hiatal hernia. I was lucky as they were able to give me blood and stop the bleeding.

Would it be all right in my case to continue on the roughage diet you suggested in one of your columns? I am concerned about it being rough and passing the place where the hernia is located. The doctor wants me to take Tylenol instead of aspirin. I have heard that Tylenol has some bad side effects and shouldn't be taken.

I have had constipation for a number of years and have such wonderful results since trying your roughage diet. I know it isn't rough after it gets into the intestines but I am worried about how rough it is on the hiatal hernia or to the ulcer patient. I will be very anxious to hear from you.

DEAR READER — If you use one of the bran breakfast foods and allow the cereal to stand in sufficient milk it will be quite soft by the time you start to eat it. In this condition it will not harm the hiatal hernia or an ulcer.

You may have had a small ulcer of the lower esophagus where the hiatal hernia is located. That sometimes occurs and may be associated with bleeding — sometimes massive as you must have experienced.

Tylenol has some side effects as do all medicines, including aspirin. Since you are not taking any medicines that tend to prevent blood clotting, as used in heart patients, it is probably good advice in your case to use it instead of aspirin. Aspirin can prolong a normal person's blood-clotting time and in large amounts — sometimes not so large — can cause bleeding. With your history your doctor probably thinks it would be better for you to use a pain killer that is not going to increase your blood-clotting time. You didn't say why you needed pain relief medicines, but neither aspirin nor Tylenol are particularly good in relieving pain originating from the digestive system. Both are useful for muscular aches and pains or headaches.

I am send you two issues of The Health Letter, number 2-1, Spastic or Irritable Colon and Constipation, and number 4-8, Hiatal Hernia, Esophageal Reflux. Others who want either of these can send 50 cents for the issue they want with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Write to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I know this girl who takes birth control pills. She said she was sick of taking them so she told her husband to take them. I said a man couldn't take her pills. Is that right? What will they do to him?

DEAR READER — The birth control pills you are speaking of are female hormones. If he takes them in sufficient quantity she won't need to worry about sex or pregnancy. She won't even need to worry about her husband being interested in women at all.

Truman Award To Humphrey

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) — This year's Harry S. Truman Public Service Award will go to former Vice President Hubert Humphrey, says Mayor Richard King.

The Democratic senator from Minnesota will receive the award May 6 during ceremonies on the steps of the Truman Library and Museum at Independence.

"I think the purpose of this award is really to honor someone who has made an impact on government in the United States and is so doing has exemplified the qualities that made Harry S. Truman a great president," King said Thursday. "Sen. Humphrey certainly fills that bill."

Previous winners of the award are Henry Kissinger, former secretary of state; Leon Jaworski, former Watergate special prosecutor, and Stuart Symington, former Missouri senator.

NEW YORK (AP) — The decision of a federal judge canceling the federal government's first oil and natural gas leases in the Atlantic Ocean has stirred up two long-simmering controversies.

The first is the old conflict between environment and the need for energy. The second is the belief held by petroleum producing states, notably Louisiana, that they are being asked to sacrifice for others.

The ruling Thursday by U.S. District Judge Jack Weinstein nullifying the Interior Department's $1.13 billion sale of mid-Atlantic leases to 39 oil companies last summer comes at a critical time.

While the country endures natural gas shortages in its worst winter on record, the Carter Administration is hustling to formulate its policy toward energy and drilling on the Outer Continental Shelf.

For many years after the federal government started leasing its offshore lands in 1954, the process moved along routinely. In recent years, however, numerous lawsuits have attempted to block the leasing on environmental grounds.

One suit delayed a 1971 sale in the Gulf of Mexico, but the ruling Thursday was the first time that a sale already conducted has been voided.

The most visible case of environmental concern was the oil spill in California's Santa Barbara Channel in January 1969, after which the Interior Department itself halted drilling. Just last month, the department gave the go-ahead for development of existing leases there.

To be weighed against the environmental risk to marine life and coastlines are the rewards from the nearly 13,000 wells drilled offshore in the past 20 years.

These have produced more than 3.8 billion barrels of oil and more than 28 trillion cubic feet of natural gas. Offshore wells today account for about 17 per cent of the country's oil production and 20 per cent of its gas production.

About one-third of the country's natural gas comes from Louisiana, much of that from the Gulf of Mexico, where federal offshore leasing began. Gov. Edwin Edwards has frequently berated Northeastern states for not exploring their coastal waters.

"We are running out of gas and have run out of patience," he said Thursday, vowing to find a way to slow Louisiana's production after hearing of the court ruling.
