Smoke Of Battle In Viet Nam

Wives, Children Meet Returning Astronauts

Begin Answering Many Questions

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Astronauts James McDivitt and Edward White—wearing bright, broad smiles—stepped jauntily into the arms of their wives today and gave great bear hugs to their children in a heroes' welcome home from space.

With one sweep, command pilot and father McDivitt picked his three children off the ground and into a big hug. Both men kissed and embraced their wives.

LOT OF MILES

"We've traveled a lot of miles," McDivitt said. "I read in a newspaper on the ship it was something like 1,700,000. But the last 800 or 900 miles are the greatest.

"Today is my birthday," McDivitt told the some 500 people who had gathered to welcome him back to the astronaut base. "But I've never had anything like today." It's his 36th birthday.

"Being back in Houston, next to landing on the carrier, is the biggest moment of the flight," said White, the man who strolled in space last Thursday.

His blonde wife, Pat, kissed him several times tenderly and dabbed at an occasional tear in the corner of her eye.

PRIVATE CHAT

After the brief greeting to the crowd, the heroes were led to a nearby NASA lounge for a private chat with their families.

As McDivitt, still dressed in a light blue flight suit and canvas shoes, walked off, his youngest son, Patrick, begged: "Daddy carry me, carry me."

"Sure I'll carry you, son," McDivitt answered swinging the boy in his arms.

White walked away, one arm around his wife's waist and the other hugging Eddie, his 11-year-old son.

It had been two weeks since the astronauts last saw their wives, and even longer since they had seen their children.

A paper banner some four feet long across the front door of the White home proclaimed in child-drawn letters:

SIGN

"Welcome home, Daddy. We missed you."

Just one week ago, the astronauts blasted off from Cape Kennedy for their four-day space journey. Today, the aircraft carrier Wasp, their home for the past three days, delivered them to Mayport, Fla., for their first step on U.S. soil, and solid earth, since June 3.

McDivitt and White moved through the ranks of sailors and Marines as they debarked to the tunes of "Around the World In 80 Days," and "Happy Birthday" — the last for McDivitt's 36th birthday celebration.

CHEERING CROWD

Their four - engine Lockheed Jetstar took off from a runway not far from a pier where they were welcomed ashore from the carrier Wasp by Florida's governor, an honor guard, a band and more than 2,000 cheering spectators.

The crowd cheered when the astronauts walked side by side down a red-carpeted gangway.

Florida Gov. Haydon Burns presented each of the astronauts with a 10-inch plaque of the seal of Florida.

"Welcome back to terra firma," Burns told White as he handed him a plaque.

"It's good to be back on," White replied.

McDivitt said, "We started here (Florida) and ironically we returned here."

Seven minutes after the astronauts came ashore, they were aboard and the plane turned on the pier and taxied slowly toward the runway.

CAPSULE

The Gemini 4 capsule was lowered from the carrier after the plane had rolled away.

"I have known a lot of people and a lot of big times, but the biggest day of my life was June 7 (the day of splashdown)," Command pilot McDivitt told the officers of the aircraft carrier USS Wasp.

Warm Welcome For Astronauts

Astronaut James McDivitt picks up his three children and tries to hug them simultaneously at Ellington Air Force Base near Houston, Tex., today as he and his fellow astronaut, Edward White, are reunited with their families for the first time since their four-day space flight. Viet Cong Overruns U.S. Camp, 21 Lost

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—A curtain of machine gun fire cut down Vietnamese reinforcements today as they jumped from helicopters at Dong Xoai, a district capital overrun by 1,500 Viet Cong. All the 21 Americans at a nearby special forces camp were listed as dead, missing or wounded.

HEAVIEST

A U.S. military spokesman said the losses at Dong Xoai, 60 miles north of Saigon, were the heaviest suffered by the United States in a single engagement of the Vietnamese war.

The casualty reports varied. Official reports said one of the Americans definitely was killed, six and possibly seven were missing and 13 wounded.

But at Phuoc Vinh, an advance command post from which reinforcements were being dispatched by helicopter, officers said all living Americans —only nine wounded — had been evacuated.

(In Washington, the State Department said its latest figures were seven Americans dead and 13 wounded).

FIRST REPORTS

First reports from the battle area said 14 Americans were killed and at least 13 wounded.

Some of the American casualties were believed to be Navy Seabees at the special forces camp. They were constructing an air strip. This might account for discrepancies in the casualty figures.

The special forces camp has been abandoned and survivors fled to a district compound. Hard - pressed government troops were holed up there as the battle raged on this afternoon.

Vietnamese casualties were staggering and still mounting.

About 400 Vietnamese soldiers were at Dong Xoai when the attack began Wednesday. They felt the brunt of a full regimental offensive by the Communists.

A relief battalion of about 400 Vietnamese army men landed by helicopter at an airstrip near the town this morning. It was cut to pieces by enemy fire. A count of casualties was impossible at this point. Many of the men got only a few steps from the helicopters.

Brig. Gen. Cao Van Vien, the Vietnamese commander, indicated he was trying to keep it a Vietnamese battle.

"We think the Viet Cong is trying to suck the Americans into this one for a pitched battle," he said.

Consideration was believed being given to committing the U.S. Army's 173rd Airborne Brigade. If so, this would be the first American battle of the Vietnamese war.

Meanwhile, U.S. Air Force and Navy planes pounded targets in North Viet Nam. A U.S. Navy propeller-driven Skyraider fighter-bomber plunged into a ridge while diving on a power plant at Co Dinh, about nine miles southwest of Thanh Hoa.

'DEFEATISTS, APPEASERS'

Sen. Dodd Blasts Critics Of U.S. Viet Nam Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Thomas J. Dodd assailed today "teach-in" critics of President Johnson's policies as defeatists and appeasers who encourage the Communists to prolong the Viet Nam war.

Dodd, a member of the Foreign Relations Committee, said in a Senate speech that the outcome of the Southeast Asia struggle may be determined on the domestic front.

The Connecticut Democrat said that while polls indicate an overwhelming majority of Americans support the administration's policies of pressing the war against the Viet Cong, a "noisy minority" is clamoring for U.S. withdrawal.

"They probably number somewhat less than 10 per cent of the total population," he said. "But this minority of defeatists and appeasers, by dint of their incessant clamor, their seemingly boundless energy, their hundreds of newspaper advertisements, and the apparently limitless funds which fanaticism always generates, have had an impact that is out of all proportion to their actual members.

COMMITMENTS

"I am convinced that President Johnson had weighed and measured every word when he said that we intend to live up to our commitment in Viet Nam, no matter what the cost, and that there is no power on earth that can force us to withdraw."

Dodd spoke out after the White House had made it clear Wednesday that U.S. troops would go into action to aid the South Vietnamese forces only if the latter request help and are in trouble.

Even this limited commitment to combat provoked a round of Senate discussion about the growing U.S. involvement in Viet Nam.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., told his colleagues he believes the United States is "moving in the direction of a massive bog-down land struggle in Asia." He said before Johnson commits this country to large-scale ground operations he should ask Congress to pass a resolution approving his course.

PROTESTED

Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., protested that any such action would take the President "off the hook and give him exactly what he wants."

Sen. Gale W. McGee, D-Wyo., a strong supporter of Johnson's course, said he doesn't think any resolution is needed. Sen. Ernest Gruening, D-Alaska, a critic, said Congress already has given Johnson authority to use troops anywhere in Southeast Asia.

Dodd said that in following the statements of opponents and the arguments at teach-ins he had been "appalled by the degree of ignorance displayed by the majority of those who have spoken out against government policy" in Viet Nam.

He suggested that students and professors be sent to Viet Nam for the summer to see for themselves what is happening there.

'Poplin' Eliminates Don In National Contest

WASHINGTON — Michael Kerpan Jr. a 12-year-old Boy Scout from Tulsa, Okla., won the 38th National Spelling Bee today.

He battled for 17 rounds with the other finalist among the 70 youngsters who began the contest for $5,700 in prizes Wednesday.

Second place winner is Judy Marie Guarr, also 12, from Topeka, Kan.

WASHINGTON (Spl) — Don Hickson, Big Spring's champ and the regional representative in the National Spelling Bee, went down Wednesday afternoon on a word he never heard before.

And he contended he didn't hear it right then. The judges agreed, but held he had misspelled it.

'POPLIN'

The word was "poplin."

"I know about dacron and nylon," said Don, "but I never heard of poplin."

The pronouncer had called it pop-e-lin, and Don questioned twice. A phonetic speller, Don then spelled it pop-e-lin. When he was ousted, the pronunciation was challenged and the pop-e-lin pronunciation was borne out on the tape recorder. The judges, however, held that since there was no such word as pope-lin, Don had missed.

He was 49th in a field of 70 when he was ousted.

Words fired at the contestants are taken at random from Webster's third New International Dictionary, a volume with no fewer than 350,000 words. Among the words selected were a number of French and other foreign words which have found English usage.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Hickson, who are with their son in Washington, said they had made the sessions Thursday morning.

PROUD

"The words called this morning were relatively well known, and Don could spell them," they said. "However, we're mighty proud of the showing he made."

This afternoon Don goes on a steamer trip on the Potomac to Mount Vernon and will also view the tombs of George and Martha Washington. Friday he will have a tour of the White House and the Smithsonian Institute. Friday evening the final banquet will be held and awards will be made. Don will receive a check for $50. The Hicksons will fly back to Dallas on Saturday, then drive home Sunday.

* * *

WASHINGTON (AP) — The words got harder today and the contestants faltered more frequently as the 38th National Spelling Bee entered its second and final day of competition.

Nine youngsters of the 30 who survived Wednesday's first eight rounds of spelling were dropped from the competition during the first round this morning. Five of the first eight who spelled in today's opening round were eliminated.

Seventy boys and girls from 32 states, the District of Columbia and Guam began the competition Wednesday.

There were occasional long pauses, requests for the definitions and roots of words and repeated pronunciations of the same word by the judges and Dr. Richard R. Baker, chairman of the Department of Philosophy at the University of Dayton, Ohio, and official pronouncer for the bee.

CAREFUL

"You have to be careful in pronouncing the words so you don't mislead the speller," Baker said.

He was overruled twice Wednesday by the judges who felt pronunciations might have misled the contestant.

NO PICTURES OF MYSTERY SPACE OBJECT

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The mystery satellite sighted on the Gemini 4 flight is likely to remain a mystery—space officials cannot find the pictures astronaut James McDivitt took of the object.

Julian Scheer, National Aeronautics and Space Administration public affairs officer, said technicians have looked at every frame of film taken by McDivitt and can't find the satellite.

Lightning Kills Pecos Farm Hand

By The Associated Press

Lightning killed a young farm worker, deluges of up to 7.5 inches fell and tornadic winds struck at least three places as more turbulent weather whipped Texas today.

Tornadoes struck in three places but no one suffered injuries.

A twister struck near Bula, 28 miles southeast of Muleshoe during the night, along with heavy rain which continued after daylight. Later reported Bula rainfall was 7.5 inches.

The Bula tornado smashed a number of small buildings but injured no one. The Bailey County Electric Cooperative reported 30 to 40 poles knocked down.

A farm area 14 miles south of Muleshoe measured 5.6 inches of rain by 8:30 a.m. with rain continuing. The total includes 2.5 inches of rain that fell in less than 30 minutes.

Muleshoe itself reported 2.5 inches.

The storm belt stretched from near Pecos, where a 5-inch deluge blocked some roads, northward past Dumas in the upper Texas Panhandle.

Twisters and severe thunderstorms started breaking out by midafternoon Wednesday and maintained the attack much of the night. Scattered showers continued into morning in the Panhandle and South Plains.

Temperatures continued to work higher at most points, but cooling showers held the top mark down to 70 degrees at Dalhart in the Panhandle. Presidio in the Big Bend country recorded a scorching 108 for the second day in a row.

Burl Holloway Jr., 17, a high school football star, was killed by lightning as he hoed cotton 3 miles east of Pecos during a shower.

Five inches of rain poured down at a big automobile and tire testing facility south of Pecos, halting traffic on all routes in the vicinity for a time.

Near Lazbuddie, 75 miles northwest of Lubbock, a tornado unroofed several dormitories for farm workers, wrecked five cotton trailers and overturned a gasoline storage tank, likewise in the afternoon. It also toppled oil well derricks and snapped utility lines in the area.

ALERT

The Weather Bureau placed a large area of West Texas under a six hour tornado alert until 8 p.m. The area is centered by a line from Fort Stockton to a point 40 miles west, northwest of Childress.

In the zone are Odessa, Midland, Big Spring, Snyder and Lamesa.

The forecast spoke of "the possibility of tornadoes, large hail and locally damaging wind-storms."

Torrential rain and hail accompanied the storm around Muleshoe, 15 miles southwest of Lazbuddie. Gauges measured 2.25 inches of rain in the Needmore community south of Muleshoe.

Residents spotted a tornado near Bula, west of Littlefield, but the funnel cloud stayed off the ground. A gauge holding 3 inches of rain overflowed at Bula.

Still another twister dipped to earth near dusk at Enochs, 60 miles west of Lubbock, but apparently inflicted no serious damage.

Several counties to the north near Dumas, in the upper Panhandle, vicious winds damaged several farm buildings. Some persons blamed a tornado.

Weather Bureau observers foresaw no letup in the unusually severe June weather. Forecasts called for further showers and thunderstorms in Northwest Texas tonight and Friday, with some of the storms spreading into North Central Texas by Friday.

Severe Weather Hammers Plains

By The Associated Press

Stormy weather hit areas in the central and southern Plains today and floods forced hundreds of persons from their homes in central and eastern Kansas.

June's spell of severe weather — tornadoes, heavy rain, hail and strong winds — again hammered the Plains region Wednesday and Wednesday night.

Twisters struck areas in the Panhandle-Plains country of Texas, near North Platte, Neb., and Oberlin and Coldwater, Kan. Funnel clouds were spotted near Stover, Mo., south of Cheyenne, Wyo., and northwest of Palm Beach, Fla. No injuries were reported in the storms.

In Kansas, heavy rains from Wichita eastward to the Missouri border caused flooding of the Cottonwood, Neosho and other streams. The hub of the overflows appeared in the region west of Emporia where the Cottonwood flows into the Neosho. Flash flooding was reported in some areas.

The Weather Bureau said more heavy rain may hit areas in Kansas as storms appeared headed from Wyoming and Nebraska.

Key Republicans Pledge Support

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Key Republican leaders, with Barry Goldwater of Arizona absent, have pledged full support to their new party chairman in the hope he can unify them for another lunge at the White House in 1968.

Goldwater, the 1964 GOP presidential nominee, was not mentioned publicly Wednesday night as leading Republicans, guided by their best vote-getter of all time, former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, urged the party to unite behind National Chairman Ray C. Bliss.

NOT INVITED

A party spokesman here said Goldwater was not invited to Wednesday night's series of dinners saluting Bliss in his home state.

Eisenhower and seven other Republicans, some of them presidential possibilities, sounded the call again and again, unity and Bliss.

"I salute this tireless, dedicated man on whose ability so much depends," said Eisenhower.

"Ray Bliss can lead the Republican party to victory across the nation in 1966 and 1968," declared former Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

"He has full and complete support on anything he wants us to do," said Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania.

The hour-long television salute to Bliss was over closed-circuit television in eight major Ohio cities.

10,000 ATTEND

Party spokesman said more than 10,000 attended the $100-a-plate dinners, raising $1 million for the party. Viewers in a dozen other cities watched the series of five-minute speeches on commercial television.

Bliss, sharing the platform with Eisenhower and Gov. George Romney of Michigan at Cleveland, said he had no "secret cure-all potion" for the party, except hard work.

But Eisenhower termed him a man of political "professionalism unexcelled in either party."

Cap Rock Reports Higher Power Demand In May

Power demands on the Cap Rock Electric Cooperative pulled back slightly ahead of last year on the strength of May consumption.

During the month the system metered 9,910, 559 KWH to its members, compared with 9,161,-270 for the same month a year ago. This was down, however, from the peak of 10,396,170 in April before showers came to the irrigated district.

During the first five months, Cap Rock has metered 36,903,-571 KWH, up slightly from the 36,554,222 for the same period a year ago.

At the end of May there were 2,486 miles of line energized, a gain of two miles for the month and 50 miles for the year. There were 5,664 members connected, or to more than the previous month and 86 more than at the end of May in 1964.

Network Sets Sights On The Younger Set

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV - Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Broadcasting Co., highly conscious that much of its current success is due to its large audience of young people, makes special efforts to attract them.

On June 28 it will completely overhaul — with a new name, new characters, new viewpoint, even new title — one of its daytime serials, "Flame in the Wind," specifically to attract more young housewives.

When its "12 O'clock High" returns next fall in an earlier time period it will have replaced its star—Robert Lansing playing a general — with Paul Burke playing a major. The switch was dictated by the network's theory that the added young viewers of the World War II drama would identify closer to a more boyish-looking officer of lesser rank.

On the other hand, NBC appears to be actively engaged in sloughing off some of its younger fans.

Next week, for instance, it moves its early evening rock 'n' roll hour, "Hullabaloo," to the end of its Tuesday night prime-time schedule, a late hour for kids on the East and West Coasts.

Congressmen Recommend Ambitious Water Study

WASHINGTON (AP) — Five congressmen from West Texas joined Wednesday in discussing an ambitious proposal to move surplus water to dry areas of the state from points with a more bountiful supply.

In the group were Reps. George Mahon of Colorado City, Omar Burleson of Anson, O. C. Fisher of San Angelo, Walter Rogers of Pampa and Richard White of El Paso.

The project would include a series of reservoirs along the Colorado River from near Colorado City to near the Gulf of Mexico. A pipeline or aqueduct would move the water to the El Paso area. Abilene, Big Spring, Midland and Odessa might be served along the way.

After a discussion of the project with acting Reclamation Commission G. G. Stamm, the Texans said they had concluded it would be desirable for Congress to provide $200,000 for a feasibility study of the project.

"It is not known at the time just what consideration the House may give this proposal but the group felt that early action would be in the public interest," their statement added.

They noted that if the money should be provided, it would be used only for a study of the long range project.

No cost estimates have been made.

The Texans met with Stramm shortly before the House Appropriations Committee released transcripts of testimony given by Interior Department officials in April.

Discussing at that time money needed in the fiscal year starting July 1, Reclamation Commissioner Floyd Dominy said it would take about $200,000 to conduct a study of the trans-Texas water proposal.

* * *

The plan under immediate discussion is one advanced by Harry Burleigh, Austin, in charge of Bureau of Reclamation projects in Texas. The idea was taken up by Rep. White, Rep. Pickle and others.

FEDERAL RESERVE

Patman Urges Martin To Quit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Wright Patman, chairman of the House Banking Committee, urged William M. Martin Jr. today to resign as Federal Reserve chairman and let President Johnson replace him with an appointee of his own choosing.

CHALLENGED

Patman said in a speech prepared for House delivery that Martin has challenged the President on economic policy, caused a stock market drop by a speech comparing present conditions with those of 1929 and is advocating what Patman called disastrous monetary and credit policies.

The Banking Committee chairman, a long-time adversary of Martin, rejected the comparison between 1965 and the eve of the 1929 crash which he said Martin made in a recent Columbia University speech.

But Patman said there is one parallel: "The fact that for the past six months the Federal Reserve has been carrying on a 'squeeze it' policy. That is, they have tightened, tightened, tightened credit. That is what happened prior to the Hoover depression.

CUTTING

"Mr. Martin's Fed has caused every single depression and recession in our time, and always by tightening credit and increasing interest rates, and cutting down on the money supply."

In the Columbia speech June 1, Martin said there are "disquieting similarities" between the present prosperity and the boom that preceded the depression of the 1930s.

He said the 1929-33 disaster was caused by "maladjustments born of the boom of the 20s," and added, "we must continuously be on the alert to prevent a recurrence of maladjustments — even at the risk of being falsely accused of failing to realize the benefits of unbounded expansion."

Halfway House Activities Are Being Studied

The Halfway House board of ports and considered possible new activities in a meeting Wednesday. Desmond Powell, social worker at the Big Spring State Hospital, suggested development of a type of handicraft workshop at the house.

He said such activity would be particularly useful during winter months when jobs are more difficult to obtain. The training might be used in teaching skills or trades to the men, he pointed out.

Some minor repairs have been made at the house recently. The account now includes $774, from earnings of the men and from donations. More than $300 was received in donations last month.

Powell said the grant from the Hogg Foundation had been approved and would pay for operational expenses until January. Commodity foods are being received for use. Twelve men are now assigned to the house.

South unwittingly laid the groundwork for his own downfall in today's three no trump contract, when an opponent's passive line of defense lulled the declarer into a state of overconfidence.

West opened the jack of hearts and declarer won the trick with the king. A diamond was led from the closed hand and the king was played from dummy. East could see no profitable avenue of attack open to his side, and he decided to let South find his own way. He accordingly followed to the trick with the nine of diamonds; however, in doing so he was careful not to give anything away by an undue hesitation.

Declarer tried to reenter his hand for another diamond play by leading a spade. East put up the eight, hoping that his partner would read that as a come-on. South played the jack of spades and West won the trick with the ace.

West dutifully led back a spade and South was in with the queen. When he played another diamond and West showed out, declarer's prospects dimmed perceptably. He put in the ten of diamonds from dummy. East covered with the jack and then he cleared the spade suit.

South observed that he could no longer afford to establish diamonds, for when East got in with the ace he would be in position to cash the setting tricks in spades. Declarer tried the club finesse next and, when this lost to West's king, the latter exited with a heart.

South had reached the end of the road. He cashed out his eight tricks—two spades, three hearts, one diamond and two clubs—and conceded himself to be down one.

Declarer's decision to lead diamonds from his hand was valid; however, the only safe reentry was in hearts, despite the fact that West had led that suit originally. When it develops that East has two diamond stoppers, even if he holds a third heart with which to drive out declarer's last stopper, the defense will have only one card left to cash in that suit. They can score, at most, one spade, one heart, and two diamonds.

Fears Low Pay Sapping Strength

WASHINGTON (AP) — In exasperation, Rep. Mendel Rivers peered down at the Army brass from his dais as chairman of the House Armed Services Committee.

"I never in my life undertook anything where I ran into more opposition trying to save a man's life," he drawled.

The South Carolina Democrat has voiced fears that low pay is sapping the strength and skilled personnel from the military, and he has introduced a bigger, more extensive pay bill as a rival of the administration's.

So far, the Army, Navy and the Marines have followed Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara's lead and sent spokesmen to the hearing to support the administration bill.

Today it's the Air Force's turn.

All the services have acknowledged that they are having troubles getting and keeping top quality personnel. But speaking for the Army, Secretary of the Army Stephen Ailes said Wednesday the Army is not sick. "It's very healthy," said Ailes.

As to McNamara's contention that Rivers' proposed 10.7 per cent average pay increase and structural changes in the pay system should wait a more intensive study, perhaps next year, Rivers asked: "Can we wait... when you see a drowning man you don't ask the price of a life preserver." The administration bill provides about 5 per cent increase.

Pisa Plans Big Welcome For Pope's Visit Today

By PIERO DE GARZAROLLI

PISA, Italy (AP) — The city of the Leaning Tower prepared a tumultuous welcome today for Pope Paul VI, making his fifth big trip outside Rome since becoming pontiff two years ago.

An estimated half a million people jammed Pisa — five times the normal population of the ancient city of the Arno River.

Thousands were already here to attend the Italian Eucharistic Congress. Other thousands of Italians and foreign tourists came to witness the first visit to Pisa by a pontiff since Pope Pius IX came here in 1857.

American servicemen and their families from Camp Darby, a U.S. base under the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, were prominent in the crowds.

Premier Aldo Moro and Defense Minister Giulio Andreotti came from Rome to greet the Pope at the airfield after his 165-mile flight.

A military band was on hand to play the Italian and Vatican anthems for his arrival. An air force honor guard was resplendent in parade ground uniform.

A large open car was ready to carry the Pope the 7 miles into the heart of the city to the Square of Miracles, where the Eucharistic Congress opened June 6 and where the Leaning Tower stands.

At the last meeting of the Mates and Dates, new officers were elected. They include Neal Henry, president; Jimmy Henry, vice president; Terry Jenkins, treasurer; Virginia Jenkins, secretary.

Claims Hurt By Monopoly

AUSTIN (AP) — A lawyer for Russell Maguire claimed in court Wednesday that the Dallas gas producer is a victim of a large company's monopoly, unable to move his gas from a well at the southern tip of Texas.

Rio Grande Valley Gas Co., contesting a Texas Railroad Commission order, will not extend its pipelines to take the gas from the West Port Isabel Field, lawyer Dee Kelly of Fort Worth said.

The three-month-old commission order requiring natural gas purchasers to extend their pipelines to all producers in a field and Maguire's application to link up with Rio Grande's lines are being challenged by the company. It is the first court test of the order.

During a second day of arguments before Dist. Judge Herman Jones, Kelly said by refusing the commission's order Rio Grande may bring federal regulation of the state's oil and gas industry.

J. W. Stayton of Austin, representing Rio Grande, said Tuesday the order is impossible to follow and not final because it does not provide a method for the pipeline firm and the well owner to reach a price agreement on the gas.

His company seeks a temporary injunction against the order and Maguire's application.

Jones said the price fixing method "has stuck out like a sore thumb to me."

"What procedure would be used for hailing an alleged violator into court?" he asked. "If no agreement can be reached between purchaser and producer, would the plaintiff (complaining party) be subject to a penalty suit by the state?"

Jones' questions touched off a sharp exchange between Kelly and Stayton, with Kelly contending the Rio Grande suit did not involve the penalty question.

"Rio Grande would never have to pay one penny of penalties as long as they pay Maguire the same price for his gas as they pay the other producers in the field," Kelly said.

Jones gave the lawyers permission to file additional briefs in the case, which he recessed until July 22.

"It wouldn't hurt them (Rio Grande) one bit to buy from Maguire," Kelly said. "They would be required to take one cubic foot more of gas, and the quality would be the same."

He said Rio Grande had even refused Maguire's offer to pay the cost of extending the company's pipeline 3,610 feet to his well, a job estimated to cost $1 a foot.

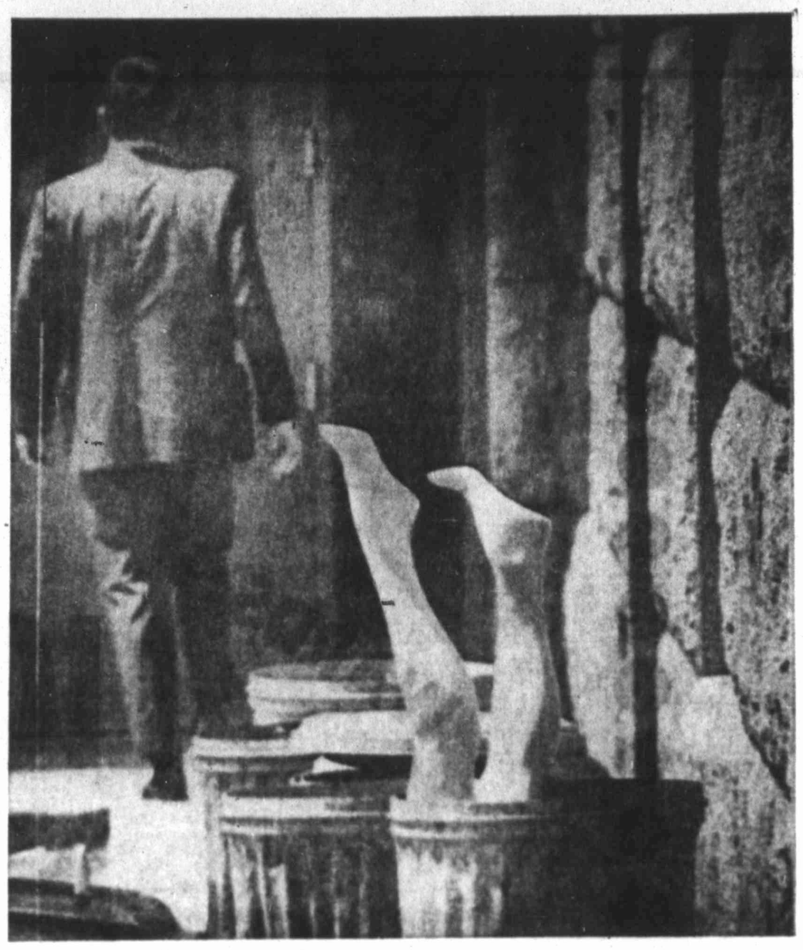

"They wouldn't let us come to them," he said, adding:

"Rio Grande is above and below us, and has us strapped in. In effect, they have a monopoly on the outlets and are gaining one in production."

The commission's order said the company is bound by the Texas Common Purchaser Act of 1930 to buy from all gas producers in the area on a non-discriminatory basis.

The state also contends Rio Grande is a public utility with a legal monopoly and therefore cannot prefer its own gas over that of other producers in a field when making purchases.

Kelly said extending the lines would not hurt Rio Grande and refusal to link up with Maguire "cuts him adrift without any market ... leaves him with 7,000 acres of undeveloped land."

You Can't Fight City Hall

How it happened went unexplained at Wilmington, Del., Public Building when this pair of legs from a discarded mannequin wound up in the trash can. But there they were, sticking up in eye-catching manner. A passerby paid no attention, however, and the shapely gams remained there for several hours until they were taken from the garbage container. Lario Stakes Penn Try Near Von Roeder Field

A wildcat has been staked on the northwest side of the multi-pay Von Roeder field in Borden County, and a completion listed in the Gordon Street South (Lower Wolfcamp) in Martin County.

Lario Oil & Gas Co. has staked No. 1 Murphy Unit as a 7,100-foot Pennsylvanian try in Borden County 16 miles southeast of Gail. It is on the northwest side of the multi-pay Von Roeder pool, 1,980 feet from the south and 660 feet from the east lines of section 92-25, H&TC survey.

Connally Oil Co., Inc. of Abilene, has filed a completion on its No. 2-2 Jim Tom well in Martin County. The initial daily production flow was 344 barrels of 49 gravity oil, with 1 per cent water, through a 12-64-inch choke.

Operator drilled to 10,175 feet, set 4½-inch casing at 10,056 feet and perforated the Lower Wolfcamp from 9,300 to 9,985 feet. He treated the formation with 20,000 gallons of acid. Gas-oil ratio was 1,290-1, and tubing pressure was 420 pounds.

Location is 1,000 feet from the south and east lines of section 31-35-1s, T&P survey, four miles southeast of Stanton.

DAILY DRILLING

GARZA

Fairway Oil & Gas Co., Inc., No. 1 Carl E. Rains, an Ellenburger wildcat seven miles east of Southland, was making hole at 3,760 feet in dolomite. It was staked 535 feet from the south and 760 feet from the west lines of section 24-D-19, D&SE survey, one mile west of the Sims (Glorieta) field.

HOWARD

Apache Corp. No. 1 P. B. Adams, 660 feet from the north and 1,980 feet from the east lines of section 42-33-3n, T&P survey, seven miles southeast of Ackerly, was drilling in lime and shale at 4,748 feet, to test the Pennsylvanian.

MARTIN

Murphy H. Baxter No. 1-B Allar, a Fusselman prospector 15½ miles north of Stanton, was drilling ahead at 7,980 feet. It was spotted 1,980 feet from the south and east lines of section 15-35-2n, T&P survey.

Hanley & LeBland No. 1 Mabee, drilled to 4,804 feet as a San Andres wildcat, was dry and abandoned. Location was staked 1,980 feet from the north and 660 feet from the east lines of section 7-38-1n, G&MMBA survey 17 miles northwest of Stanton.

STERLING

Southland Royalty Co. No. 1 Wilkinson-McEntire, a Wolfcamp wildcat 10 miles northwest of Sterling City, was making hole at 7,342 feet in sand and shale. Spot is 1,980 feet from the south and 660 feet from the west lines of section 12-23, H&TC survey.

Families Fleeing Ahead Of Flood

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — Hundreds of families in the small cities of central-eastern Kansas were moved out of their homes early today as rivers gushed along toward the record heights of 1951, when floods dealt a $1-billion blow to the state.

But unless greater rainfall develops to the north and east toward the larger cities, no such catastrophe looms for the industrial areas that culminate at the mouth of the Kaw River in Kansas City.

Heavy rains from Wichita on eastward to the Missouri border brought the Cottonwood, Neosho and other streams out into cities and farmlands, some of which were flooded a week ago.

The hub of the flood appeared in the area west of Emporia where the Cottonwood flows into the Neosho.

The Cottonwood already was out of its banks and at Strong City some 200 persons had moved to higher ground alerted by reports that the river would cover at least half of the town and go nine feet above flood stage.

Interest Gains In Road Bonds

Interest seems to be growing in the $600,000 special bond election, for purchase of right of way for rerouting and improving FM 700 west from Goliad to US 80 in west Big Spring, for extending FM 700 north to the Snyder Highway (State 350) from IS 20 east, and for improvements on US 87 at the intersection with FM 700.

Seventeen absentee votes had been cast at 10 a.m. today in County Clerk Pauline Petty's office. She had also mailed one ballot.

The special election, set for June 22, is seeking voters' approval of the bond issue to provide right of way for work already engineered and approved by the State Highway Department.

Absentee voting for this election will close June 18 at 5 p.m.

Band, Choir Students Due Back Tonight

Some 50 students from the Big Spring High School band and choir left Sunday for Austin to compete in the State Music Contests. The students and four sponsors went by school bus and are due to return tonight.

The four sponsors making the trip with the students were Mrs. Forrest C. Gambill, Mrs. Joseph L. Christensen, Mrs. Owen Ivie and Mrs. David Elrod.

Doug Wiehe, band director, did not accompany the group as he is in school this summer.

Calls For One-Price On Cotton

WASHINGTON—Continuation of a one-price cotton system was urgently called for today as necessary to the preservation of the cotton industry.

In brief but strong testimony prepared for delivery to the House agriculture committee, J. Craig Smith, appearing as spokesman for the textile industry, said, "We have faith you will not let this great cotton industry be destroyed by a return to a two-price system."

Smith, who is president of Avondale Mills, Sylacauga, Ala., declared that since cotton is the principal textile fiber and the textile industry purchases over $1-billion-worth of cotton a year, the economic health of the cotton farmer depends upon a thriving textile industry.

He declared that since passage of the present one-price cotton law in 1964, mill consumption of cotton has risen dramatically, looms are operating at historically high levels, employment has increased 29,000 to 924,000, wages have increased, expenditures for new plant and equipment have reached record highs, and mill earnings have increased substantially.

Smith pointed out that for the 1964-65 crop year the textile industry will consume an estimated 9.3 million bales of cotton, an increase of 800,000 bales over 1963-64.

Committee Okays Bill Cutting Excise Taxes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Finance Committee today approved a $4.7-billion excise tax cutting bill wiping out nearly all of those levies except on tobacco, alcohol and highway-related activities.

As approved 14-3, the bill covers virtually all of the items listed for repeal in the House version of the legislation passed June 2.

The measure is expected to bring lower prices on automobiles, appliances, air conditioners, television and radio sets, handbags, watches, cosmetics, cameras and many other items.

It also will mean the end of the tax on many services with the biggest reduction coming on local and long-distance telephone calls.

An amendment adopted today by the committee would move up the date for repeal of practically all the excises scheduled to take effect July 1 under the House bill.

The amendment would change the date to the day after President Johnson signs the bill.

Bid Opening Delayed Again

More conflicts and the need of time have caused the Big Spring school board of trustees to reset the date and time for receiving bids on additions and remodeling of the high school building. It will be June 25 at 5 p.m.

Supt. Sam Anderson said that some bidders would be appearing at other cities on other building jobs June 22, the date set Tuesday night. They also needed more time for figuring the $3.5 million job in Big Spring, since the plans and the specifications are voluminous.

Bid opening will be in the high school cafeteria, Friday, June 25.

'No Room For Gloom'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson said today after meeting with William M. Martin, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, and other advisers on economics and finance that he sees "no reason for gloom or doom" at this time.

Johnson summoned reporters to the White House Cabinet Room after the conference and predicted "solid but moderate gains" for the economy during the rest of the year.

Aggies Prep For Feast

The eleventh annual Aggie Scholarship Barbecue is set for June 17th at the City Park amphitheatre, Aggie Club president Paschal Odom has announced.

Last year 1,200 persons attended, and Odom said this year's barbecue was expected to attract 1,200 to 1,500. The traditional serving of barbecued beef, beans and potato salad will begin at 7 p.m.

Tickets are on sale by A&M exes at $1.50 per person, with children 12 years and under admitted free. Net proceeds are used for a $1,000 four-year scholarship to A&M.

Absentee Total Climbs To 23

Twenty-three absentee ballots had been cast in the office of County Clerk Pauline Petty at 10 a.m. today in the special election for representative of the 78th Legislative District. Two applications for ballots had also been received.

The election, set for June 26, is to name a representative to fill the unexpired term of Ed Carpenter, and three candidates are in the race. Counties included in the district are Howard, Martin, Glasscock, Sterling, Reagan, Irion and Coke.

Candidates, all from Big Spring, are Frank Hardesty, Roger D. Brown, and Harold Hall, and are listed on the ballots in Howard County in that order.

Absentee balloting will end June 22 at 5 p.m.

Teenagers To Perform At VA

Two teenage boys from Odessa will present a musical program for patients at the VA hospital at 7 p.m. today. The two boys are donating their time through the sponsorship of the American Legion Auxiliary of Odessa.

"The boys have been here before and they are excellent in their program," Mrs. Gene Barlow, of the Odessa Auxiliary, said.

Y Enrollment Reaches 382

Enrollment for the Summer Fun clubs reached 382 Thursday. The clubs are part of the Summer Recreation Program, sponsored by the city, the Big Spring Independent School District, the United Fund and the YMCA.

Monday-Wednesday program signees were 176, and 136 registered for the Tuesday and Thursday sessions. The Lakeview branch Y signed 70.

The program begins Monday. Jim Gilbert, program director, said Thursday that the program is available to all children in the city. Parents should register children at the Big Spring YMCA or at the Lakeview branch.

Mr. T. At Work As Usual On His 25th Anniversary

There was a 25th anniversary today, but no public note given to it.

It was on June 10, 1940, that Raymond L. Tollett was moved into the presidency of the then-new Cosden Petroleum Corporation. This was a new company that had risen from the wreckage of the collapsed Cosden Oil Corporation, and it was up to the new administration to make it go.

The quarter-century's story has been told. Under Tollett's leadership, a run-down refinery in Big Spring was developed into the largest inland refinery in the nation, and an advanced petrochemical complex was brought into being. Cosden's growth has been little short of fantastic.

Within months after taking over as president in Fort Worth, Tollett decided to move all general offices to Big Spring. The community has shared in Cosden's growth since.

Although the company has been sold to the Petrofina organization, it retained its identity as Cosden Oil & Chemical Company, a wholly-owned subsidiary. And Tollett continues as president.

It was a routine day for him, and his 25 anniversary found him in Fort Worth and Dallas on business. Only intimates in the company knew that a quarter-century milestone had been reached.

Indictments Dismissed Against Three Cubans

NEW YORK (AP) — A State Supreme Court justice has dismissed indictments against three anti-Castro Cubans charged with firing a bazooka at the United Nations. He ruled the indictments contained insufficient evidence after the exclusion of confessions.

Justice J. Irwin Shapiro, who quashed the indictments Wednesday, ruled June 2 that the defendants' confessions were inadmissible because they were not allowed to consult with their attorney. He held this as a denial of the defendants' constitutional right to counsel.

Queens Dist. Atty. Frank D. O'Connor said Wednesday that a notice of appeal would be filed but that his office had "reservations" about pursuing the case further.

The three men are Ignacio Novo, 27, of Manhattan; Julio Carlos Perez, 30, also of Manhattan; and Guillermo Novo, 26, of North Bergen, N.J., Ignacio's brother.

In court, a detective was asked about Perez' claim that he worked for the Central Intelligence Agency in Cuba. The detective said a police check had proved the claim to be true.

A shell was fired from the Queens shore into the East River last Dec. 11 as Maj. Ernesto Guevara, a chief aide of Prime Minister Fidel Castro, was making a speech to the United Nations General Assembly.

Dies In Booth

FORT WORTH (AP) — Sherri Simpson was killed Wednesday when a car involved in a collision careened into a street corner booth where she was using the telephone. The vehicle then struck a third car and another woman, who escaped serious injury.

Kate Morrison To Be Closed

Kate Morrison school, which has served the local district here for three and a half decades, will be closed.

The school board approved this action at its Tuesday evening meeting. It also fixed a new geographic boundary between the Lakeview and Bauer elementary schools effective Sept. 1.

Also the board restated its policy of not permitting transfers from one school attendance area to another, and instructed Supt. Sam Anderson to firmly enforce the policy.

Action on the Kate Morrison closing came after the Office of Health, Education and Welfare refused to accept the certificate of compliance with the Civil Rights Act in allowing pupils living in the Lakeview and Kate Morrison areas to choose their own schools. The HEW office said only geographic boundaries were acceptable, and that choices allowed by the district for Negroes and whites, including Latin Americans, to choose their schools were not permitted.

The decision was made on a three to two vote of board members present. Joe Moss, Jack Haralson and Dr. Carl Marcum voted "yes," and Jimmy Felts and Mrs. R. B. G. Cowper voted "no." Bennett Brooke was not present when the vote was taken.

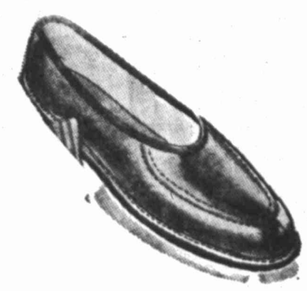

Anderson said the six teachers scheduled for Kate Morrison would be shifted to Lakeview, and absorbed in other schools where vacancies occurred. At least four will go to Lakeview.

Since Lakeview Junior High has been closed the school has additional room, in an almost new building, to handle the expected 356 students in the combined area. At the close of school, there were 170 elementary students in Lakeview and 156 in Kate Morrison, for a total of 326.

The old section of the Kate Morrison school may be used for storage, and disposition of the new section will be determined later. One suggestion was that the overflow from Bauer Elementary school might be housed there until additions to that school are completed under the Master Plan bond program. For example, the old South Ward school building is being used for sixth graders at Washington Place School. The possibility of moving the new section to Bauer will also be investigated, since the building was constructed on a concrete slab.

Two Are Killed

MALVERN, Ark. (AP) — Hyman Massin, 56, of Port Arthur, Tex., and his wife, 54, were killed Wednesday when a highway surface roller fell off a passing truck and hit the side of their car. The accident happened 7 miles south of here on U.S. 67.

BIG SPRING DAILY HERALD

SECTION C — BIG SPRING, TEXAS, THURSDAY, JUNE 10, 1965 — SECTION C

WITH HELP FROM UNITED STATES

Chilean Town Is Recuperating

VALDIVIA, Chile (AP) — She still bears many scars, and she still requires massive doses of U.S. aid, but Valdivia has almost recovered from the 1960 earthquake that nearly killed this South Chilean city.

The rebuilt Pedro de Valdivia Bridge should be open within a couple of months, meaning that day students at Austral University can go to school by bus or auto instead of in an open boat rowed across the Calle - Calle (Cah-yee Cah-yee) River.

HOSPITALS

Two hospitals will reopen shortly taking much load off crowded John F. Kennedy Hospital, whose overworked staff includes six nurses from the U.S. Peace Corps.

Blue-uniformed girls chatter happily as they move through the halls of a new three-story wing of the Girls' High School, whose front wall has a sign identifying it as "Another work thanks to the Alliance for Progress and the collaboration of the peoples of Chile and the United States."

Another Alliance for Progress sign overlooks the completed section of the Avenida Costanera, much of which sank into the river when the quake hit this city of 100,000 people on Sunday afternoon May 22, 1960.

The quake was among a series which shattered 100 cities in a 900-mile-long area, killing 5,000 people, leaving an estimated 500,000 homeless and doing $500 million worth of damage.

COLLAPSED

Many buildings along the river collapsed. Others sank as much as 10 feet into the mud and water. Most have been rebuilt or razed, but a few boarded-up structures still attest to the fury of what scientists said was the second strongest earthquake in history.

Continued use of some of the buildings required adjustments both on the structures and in the habits of their occupants. Steps which led up to the front doors prior to the quake now lead down to the same doors—seven or eight feet below ground level.

One of the most vivid relics of the destruction is a section of four-foot-thick brick wall topped by a cross—all that remains of the Roman Catholic Cathedral of Valdivia.

On one side of the piece of wall is a prefabricated metal auditorium which became the new cathedral. On the other side is a small park-like expanse of grass, planted after the rubble of the church was cleared away.

PROBLEMS

Officials and residents of the area are proud of the progress, but are candid about the problems that remain. The city's population dropped by 20,000 after the earthquake, and several major industries moved away for good. An estimated 6,000 people are unemployed, and the jobless ranks will swell when the reconstruction work is finished, unless new jobs are created in the interim.

Business and government leaders hope to attract industries, particularly those which can take advantage of Valdivia's access to a nearby Pacific. Paradoxically, the earthquake left Valdivia better off in this respect: the river is an average of seven feet deeper now than before the quake, and 10,000-ton steamers which formerly had to stop at the mouth of the river now can reach port facilities which are being built just downstream from here.

NO SKILLS

One problem that concerns Valdivians is the decline in the percentage of skilled laborers in the population of the area. When industry left, they say, skilled labor went with it, and most of those who have come to Valdivia since are unskilled and often uneducated people from rural areas.

"Valdivia is dying," said one resident, "but I still love it."

U.S. and Chilean officials who have supervised the relief and reconstruction efforts disagree with this pessimistic view. They believe that the approximately $32 million which the United States has put into improvements in the area will pay immeasurable dividends in the years to come, through better lives for the residents.

Rebuilding Along River

Valdivia, Chile, with considerable U.S. financial aid, is reconstructing its buildings, streets and boat landings after the second strongest earthquake in history.

Doctor Predicts Licenses For Babies In The Future

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—The beginnings of test-tube babies? Sperm and egg banks for delayed procreation? A license to have children? All by 1984?

Possibly, says a geneticist—Dr. Bentley Glass, Johns Hopkins University professor of biology who recently was named academic vice president of the State University of New York at Stony Brook, N.Y.

Glass emphasized in a recent interview he was not forecasting that "you can grow babies in bottles" in the next 20 years.

But he envisions growing test-tube human embryos for a reproduction process he calls "prenatal adoption."

A female egg would be fertilized by sperm in a laboratory culture. The resulting human embryo would be nurtured in the laboratory up to 10 days and then implanted in a woman's uterus to mature and be born—in the conventional manner.

"The offspring would not be the genetic child of the couple," Glass said, since both the egg and the sperm would be taken from donors.

Glass considers "prenatal adoption" superior to regular adoption and to artificial insemination for couples who could not normally have children.

In artificial insemination, the fertile wife is made pregnant by a donor sperm.

In prenatal adoption, both husband and wife are equally not responsible genetically and yet the pregnancy and birth resemble the natural process so much that it would "produce the same kind of parental reaction," Glass thinks.

He believes this is possible within 20 years.

"Within two decades it will be possible to take material from selected individuals and grow supplies" of donor male sperm and female eggs and mate them, he said.

"I believe the creation of life in this matter is ethical," said Glass, who is the son of Baptist missionaries.

Glass also thinks the storing of sperms and eggs for future artificial mating will be possible within the next two decades, and perhaps desirable as a general practice.

The radiation one normally absorbs through the years causes mutations in the genes, which can result in deformed children, he said.

Birth control enables some couples to wait until they can afford children. While their bank account grows, so do the gene mutations.

"To avoid this, sperm and egg banks could be established for every individual," Glass said.

Glass suggested that before the century is out, couples in some overpopulated countries may be issued licenses to have a limited number of babies, along with their marriage licenses.

This Is The Place To Kick Addiction To Dope

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — There are thousands of ways and thousands of places a person can start the narcotics habit. This is where he may end it.

When John Doe, a dope addict, steps inside the gate at the U.S. Public Health Service Hospital, it can be the end and the beginning for him.

More than 57,000 John and Jane Does have passed through the gate since the hospital, one of two of its kind in the world, opened 30 years ago.

They arrive handcuffed to a federal marshal or voluntarily. After that, the procedure is about the same for everybody.

First stop is the admission suite, where the new patient is given a physical examination and gives his medical history. Doctors find out what kind of drugs he has been taking, where he got them and how much he has consumed.

Then, if he has not already undergone withdrawal from drugs, that chore begins.

The time needed to get the patient off drugs usually ranges from four to 12 days. During that time, he gets smaller and smaller doses of methadone, a synthetic drug that helps relieve withdrawal symptoms.

"We let them down reasonably easy. They are uncomfortable, complain a lot, don't eat much and don't rest well, but it is a very humane method," Dr. Robert W. Razor, medical officer in charge of the hospital, said.

"Most of us don't think it is too difficult to get a person off drugs, but the real job is to keep them off," he said.

Most prisoner patients don't need the withdrawal phase. They have undergone what they call "cold turkey" — the nerve-shattering complete withdrawal, without aid, in jail.

Mrs. R. A. Seger Recipes Contain International Flavor

By JO ANN PHINIZY

With Gallic eyes twinkling and hands flying, Mrs. R. A. Seger, 1704 Yucca, verbally builds a description of an exotic dish. When she has finished, one can only stare, misty-eyed and famished, at the spot where the imaginary food would have been had it not been imaginary.

Mrs. Seger can easily create such a spell for she is of many facets. First of all, she is of French descent, by nature and by heritage. She is also a transplanted "Yankee" who is trying to acquire a Texas accent. She is a world traveler. Above all else, she is a "short order cook" or a gourmet, depending entirely on the occasion.

MRS. RAYMOND A. SEGER

Chief Warrant Officer and Mrs. Raymond A. Seger have followed, with unlimited delight, the route of a career Air Force meteorologist. They have lived in such places as Guam, Africa and Spain. They have traveled extensively in Europe and the Far East.

Mrs. Seger is hardly the sort to pass through a country with the attitude that the natives are the foreigners. Instead she chooses to blend into the culture of a country by learning its history, its language, and its cooking methods. For her efforts, the rewards have been Olympian.

Her home is artfully decorated with carefully selected memorabilia from other countries. For just one example, the brick wall surrounding the den fireplace is highlighted with a statue found in an abandoned cathedral in Malaga, Spain. Its age has been estimated to be in excess of 200 years.

DIFFERENT RECIPES

From each brush with other nationalities, Mrs. Seger has acquired several intangible benefits. She is bi-lingual in both languages and cooking. Mrs. Seger speaks French, Spanish, a little Italian, and "defensive Norwegian." She has accumulated an absolute mosaic of different recipes and cooking methods.

"I just enjoy cooking," she said, "and luckily, my family likes to eat different foods." The family includes two children, Kevin, a 15-year-old photography bug; Maria Teresa, 10 years old, and a dachshund dog by the name of Heidi.

As an entertainer, Mrs. Seger can go either way—formal or informal. For formal festivities, she is a meticulous planner. She follows a carefully-constructed table decoration and seating diagram; and an even more carefully-planned menu. Such an affair will follow the European style of meals with wines, soups, several varieties of meats and vegetables, desserts and after-dinner drinks.

Mrs. Seger explains that Europeans prefer the lengthy, several course meals because they stress the art of conversation.

For a more informal type of party, Mrs. Seger prefers to serve buffet style. "That way, guests can try several dishes and eat at their leisure," she said.

Nor is Mrs. Seger above springing a "come-as-you-are" breakfast for neighborhood families. "There is a certain conversation aid there, also," she remarked.

In explaining the cooking modes of the various countries, Mrs. Seger points out that the difference between French and Spanish cooking is in the oils. The French prefer butter as their basic ingredient; while no Spaniard would be without his olive oil.

OLIVE OIL

"Cooking with olive oil is an art in itself," she explained. First of all, the expensive refined oil should be purchased, and the real secret is in the cooking. Olive oil should be heated until it is just beginning to smoke.

"At the first whiff of smoke," she said, "adjust the flame to maintain the heat but not to burn." Proper preparation of olive oil adds a chestnut flavor to meats and vegetables.

Mrs. Seger also believes that the heavy ovenware used by generations of Europeans has its value in preserving flavors and aromas of cooking at its best.

Mrs. Seger shares some of her many varieties of recipes. She says that the Cheese Potato Balls are straight from New England, and that the Spring Eggs and Chicken in Garlic Sauce are favorites of Spaniards.

MELON SOUP

½ teacup stale bread crumbs
2 tbsps. ground almonds
3 cloves garlic
2 tbsps. oil
1 medium-size yellow melon
1 dessertspoon vinegar
½ pound ice
Salt and pepper

The bread is grated and the garlic is crushed with salt and pepper. Then the almonds and bread crumbs are pounded together with the oil and garlic in a mortar, and the vinegar added.

The melon is skinned and chopped in slices about the size of a finger. The mixture is poured over the ice in a soup tureen and left to cool there together with the chopped slices of melon.

SPRING EGGS

1 small green cabbage
3 tbsps. butter
3 artichokes
4 thin slices of ham, chopped
½ lb. French beans
4 red peppers, quartered
1 bundle asparagus
1 cup tomato sauce
¾ cup fresh picked peas
2 tbsps. grated cheese
12 eggs

The vegetables are all parboiled separately. They are then well drained; the cabbage, artichokes and French beans are chopped and the cooking is completed in a pan with the butter, ham and red peppers. The tomato sauce is mixed in last.

When cooked this is placed in a flat, open oven dish. Twelve eggs are broken over it. They are seasoned, sprinkled with cheese and then cooked in the oven.

A FAVORITE TORTE

1 cup sugar
1 cup crushed graham crackers (12 crackers)
1 tsp. baking powder
½ cup finely chopped nuts
3 egg whites, beaten stiff
Whipped cream
Fold sugar, cracker crumbs, baking powder, and chopped nuts into the beaten egg whites. Spread in a greased 9-inch pie pan. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) for 30 minutes. Cool. Serve with whipped cream.

CHICKEN IN GARLIC SAUCE

1 fowl weighing about 3½ lbs.
6 ozs. butter
Salt
3 cloves garlic
Juice of 1 lemon
1 tbsp. chopped parsley
Salt and pepper
1 bay leaf
1 wineglass olive oil
Yolk of 1 egg

Four ounces of the butter are mixed with the cloves of garlic, salt and lemon juice which have been pounded together in a mortar. The chicken is then spread with this paste and put in the oven to roast. It is frequently basted, and when brown, but not cooked through, it is taken out of the oven.

The remaining butter, parsley and the oil are then heated in a large casserole or saucepan. The chicken is placed in this and the liquid from the roasting pan is poured over it. It is seasoned with salt and pepper and about ½ pint of hot stock is added. The casserole or saucepan is then covered and the chicken cooked slowly until tender. It is then placed on a dish, the sauce is thickened with the yolk of an egg, passed through a sieve and poured over the hen.

CHEESE POTATO BALLS

Peel, boil and mash white potatoes, season well with butter, salt and pepper and use lots of hot milk. Allow to cool slightly for ease in handling and to stiffen somewhat.

Between palms of hands roll a heaping tablespoon of potato around a cube of young American cheese. Roll ball in rather finely crushed corn flakes and dip in melted butter.

Place in baking pan to brown and reheat in a hot oven just before serving time.

Two small balls make a more interesting serving than one large ball.

Hams Need Pre-Cooking

One of the outstanding meat marketing developments of the decade may well be the fast-processing method for smoked, precooked hams.

Marketing researchers in the Agricultural Research Service of the U. S. Department of Agriculture and meat scientists at the Oklahoma Agricultural Experiment Station are testing this fast processing.

In preliminary tests with hams which require the longest processing time, scientists cut hog carcasses immediately after slaughter instead of chilling the meat 24 hours before it's cut. After processing, cuts are rapidly chilled in a compartment constructed to cool the meat with air at temperatures as low as minus 80 degrees F.

Preliminary studies indicate that the fast - processed hams are of the same high quality as conventionally processed hams. Results of moisture and shear press (tenderness) tests show that fast - processed ham are just as juicy and tender as hams from the same carcasses processed conventionally.

Although the techniques used in this processing are not new, it was formerly believed that they could not be used successfully with hot pork, because of the difficulty in cutting for acceptable retail cuts. And the quality of the hot meat was expected to deteriorate too rapidly for use under commercial conditions.

But special holding techniques for hot meat and rapid chilling successfully used in ARS-Oklahoma experiments show that the obstacles can be overcome.

Rapid processing could reduce pork processing costs by several million dollars a year, if applied industrywide. And such savings could make a difference in the price consumers pay for smoked, precooked hams.

Men Will Give Recipes At Benefit Tasting Tea

The public has been invited to attend a Tasting Tea Monday evening from 4 to 6 p.m. in the home of Dr. and Mrs. Fred Lurting, No. 3 Highland Cove, in the Highland South Addition.

The tea is being sponsored locally by the Permian Basin Medical Auxiliary to assist the Flying Physicians Auxiliary in purchasing an airplane or use as a transportable medical dispensary. The airplane will be given to the Thomas Dooley Foundation for their work in the Orient.

The foundation, inspired by the young Naval doctor who dedicated his life to fighting the misery and suffering of the Asian people, has grown tremendously during the four years since Tom Dooley died of cancer while working in Viet Nam. Headquartered in San Francisco, the foundation has expanded its program into five Asian countries. It has saved thousands of lives, eased suffering and taught Asians to run their own hospitals and be self-reliant.

Admission to the tasting tea will be seven pages of trading stamps or $1. An abundance of dishes will be provided at the buffet for sampling, and the recipes may be purchased for one page of the trading stamps or 15 cents each.

Serving on the tasting tea committee are Mrs. B. Broderick, Mrs. J. M. Woodall, Mrs. Floyd Mays and Mrs. M. W. Talbot Jr.

Mrs. Lurting has announced that a highlight of the tea will be the "Men's Corner," where dishes and recipes will be provided by local men known for their culinary talent.

Officers of the auxiliary are Mrs. R. B. G. Cowper, president; Mrs. J. L. Branscum, vice president; and Mrs. J. H. Fish, secretary-treasurer.

Russian Dressing Made With Meat

The Russian dressing is used for an open club sandwich, combining an assortment of unusual ingredients.

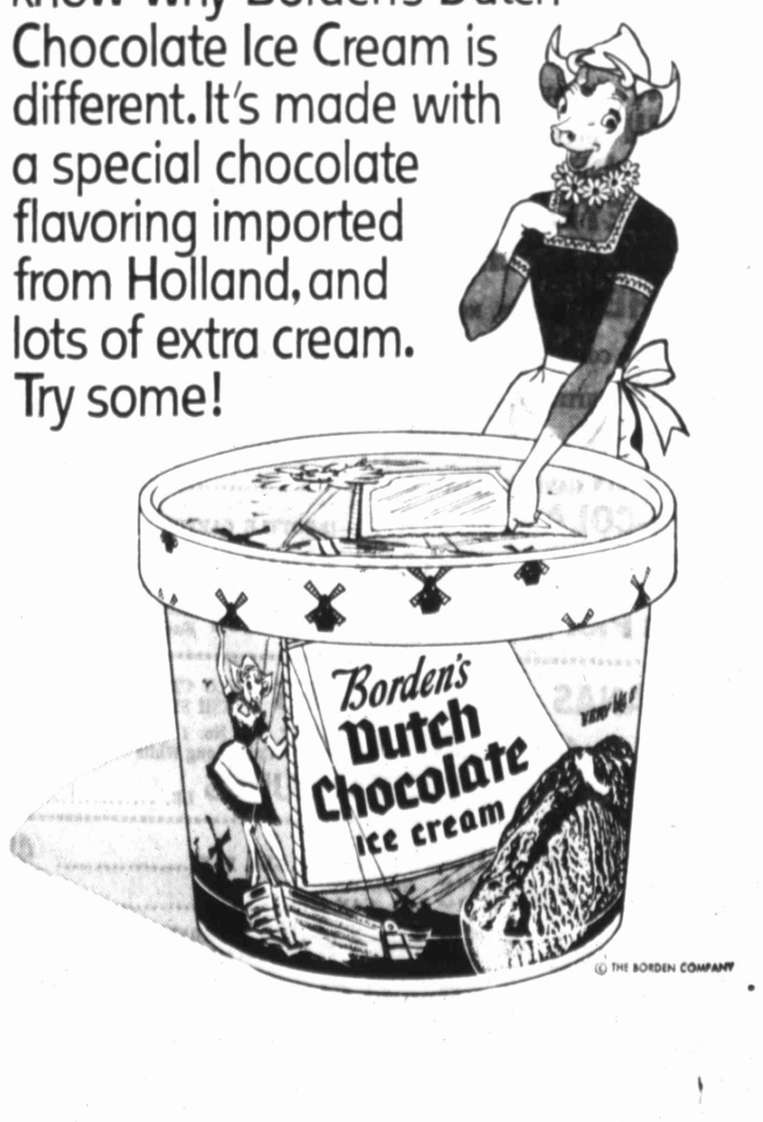

½ cup mayonnaise
¼ cup chili sauce
¼ cup chopped sweet gherkins
¼ tsp. celery seed
Lettuce leaves
2 medium sized tomatoes, sliced
4 slices crisp cooked bacon, cut in half
4 slices cooked chicken
4 sweet gherkins, sliced
4 slices buttered toast

Combine mayonnaise, chili sauce, chopped gherkins and celery seed; mix well. Arrange lettuce, tomatoes, bacon, chicken and sliced gherkins on toast.

COVERED KETTLE CASSEROLE
This will please the whole gang

Barbecue Cooks Can Always Try This One

Cookout recipes don't have to be complicated to be elegant and tasteful. Using a covered barbecue kettle lets the backyard chef prepare just about anything—including casseroles. For this menu, rings of pineapple have been added to give the cookout a Hawaiian touch. To cook ham, acorn squash and a casserole serving six, use about 60 charcoal briquettes and spread around so there is a medium thick layer of charcoal over bottom of barbecue kettle.

SCALLOPED POTATO CASSEROLE

6 to 7 raw potatoes
1 small onion
1 can consomme
1 tbsp. monosodium glutamate
1 tbsp. parsley flakes

Butter the casserole dish, then slice the potatoes thin. Add remaining ingredients. Bake in covered barbecue about two hours.

HAM SLICES

Use slices of ham about ¾ to 1 inch thick. Spread mustard on ham, add pineapple rings, and bake on barbecue grille about 15 to 20 minutes. Not necessary to turn. Two large slices will serve six.

ACORN SQUASH

Select two good size squash, cut in half lengthwise and clean out seeds carefully. Pierce the inside about 10 times with a fork, then add pat of butter and teaspoon of honey to each half. Piercing allows butter and honey to penetrate squash. Season with salt and pepper. Wrap outside (but not top) with aluminum foil. Cooking time: About one hour.

Place the casserole in the covered barbecue, let bake for about one hour, then add squash. Last 20 minutes, add ham slices.

Coffee Time Lingers On

A delightful sweet quick bread — so good to taste when you linger over coffee.

FRUIT GEMS

2 cups sifted flour
3 tsps. baking powder
1 tsp. salt
¼ cup plus 1 tbsp. sugar
¼ cup butter or margarine
1 egg (slightly beaten)
¾ cup milk
1 cup well-drained canned fruit cocktail
1 tsp. grated lemon rind
¼ tsp. mace

Sift together the flour, baking powder, salt and ¼ cup sugar; cut in butter until it is in fine particles.

Blend slightly beaten egg and milk; add to flour mixture with fruit cocktail.

Stir only until flour mixture is moistened. Turn into buttered muffin pans, filling 2-3 to ¾ full. Mix together the remaining 1 tablespoon sugar, lemon rind and mace; sprinkle over batter.

Bake in a hot (425 degrees) oven 20 to 25 minutes or until cake tester inserted comes out clean. Serve hot. Makes 12 gems if muffin-pan wells are 1-3 cup size.

Pan-Cook Peppers

Ever pan-cook thin green pepper rings with a little butter and water? Use a big skillet, a cover and fairly low heat.

ROCKET BURGER SPECIAL
This will delight your teenagers

'Jet Set' Fuel Supplied For Busy Teenagers

What do teens look foward to most after school? Parties, of course! Today's cool teenagers know that to keep a party spinning in orbit the fuel must be solid, and that means good food and plenty of it.

For example, Rocket Burgers — tastier - than - ever hamburgers spicily seasoned with Tabasco liquid red pepper sauce, mustard and Roquefort cheese. Serve them on crisp poppy seed rolls, and the crew will say your hamburgers are way out — way, way out!

ROCKET BURGERS

2 lbs. ground beef
¾ tsp. Tabasco, divided
2 tsps. salt
2 ozs. Roquefort cheese
1 tbsp. butter or margarine
1 tsp. prepared mustard

Combine ground beef, ½ teaspoon Tabasco and salt. Shape into 7 or 8 patties. Melt butter in electric frying pan or large skillet; add patties. While browning, crumble Roquefort cheese with a fork and blend in remaining ¼ teaspoon Tabasco and mustard; mix to a smooth paste.

When patties are brown on one side, turn over and spread browned side with cheese mixture; continue cooking until meat is of desired doneness. Serve on poppy seed rolls with sliced onion, tomato and pickles.

YIELD: 7 or 8 burgers.

Celery Has Long Story

"Take your medicine, now." With those instructions, early Abyssinians with a headache reclined comfortably on a pillow stuffed with celery leaves. It wasn't long until the headache was gone.

Other early civilizations also credited celery with high medicinal value. Chinese used celery as a blood purifier. The Greeks cited celery's sedative effects.

Today, celery seed oil is still used in sedatives. But most of us enjoy celery because it's so flavorful, so "eatin' good."

If you're in the rut of eating celery only as an appetizer, maybe with a dash of salt, give some thought to variety of use, now that the supply of tender celery, especially from Florida, is being rushed to all parts of the country. Consumer and Marketing Service's market news offices remind us that supplies this spring are excellent in all markets.

Ogden Nash alluded to the wide choice of celery uses when he penned:

"Celery raw
Is good for the jaw.
Celery stewed
Is more quietly chewed."

But that's only part of the picture. In France, celery was first used in 1623, only as a flavoring. It didn't take them long, though, to realize that the stalks and leaves were delicious, so celery also becamse popular in crisp salads.

Celery Seed Slaw

Celery seeds do wonders for cole slaw! Add a couple of teaspoons to enough slaw for six portions.

Thin Dipped Veal

Thin veal (for scaloppini) may be dipped in seasoned flour before pan-frying.

Pasta Sauce Done The Easy Way

When butter and cheese make the sauce for pasta, the Italian way is to use plenty of these ingredients.

ITALIAN PASTA

1 pkg. (8-ozs.) thin spaghetti
½ cup (1 stick) butter
½ cup grated Parmesan cheese

Cook the spaghetti according to package directions; drain. Immediately add the butter and Parmesan cheese and toss the spaghetti strands with two forks so they are evenly coated with the butter and cheese. Serve at once. Makes 4 servings.

Note: If you use sweet butter in this dish, as some good cooks do, yo,&u may wish to add extra salt.

Roman Diners Used Egg Dish Recipes

Imperial Rome was noted for its elaborate banquets.

And several egg dishes were always featured on the menu. For the Romans were fully aware of the delicious flavor of eggs.

Eggs were served as a part of the first course. Then they were often mixed into a pastry for the main course.

But the popularity of eggs didn't stop with the Romans. In some of the monasteries of medieval France, on days of fasting, the monks were served what appeared to be small cabbages or even sprays of roses—all made from eggs.

And still the popularity of egg reigns supreme. We Americans average eating about an egg a day.

Take advantage of the current egg abundance by incorporating them in some of the following recipes:

Scalloped Eggs make a tasty entree item for brunch, luncheon or dinner. Have ready butter, ¾ cup buttered cracker crumbs, 4 hard-cooked and finely chopped eggs, 2 cups white sauce or 1 can cream of mushroom soup diluted with 1 cup milk and ¾ cup chopped cooked ham, chicken or turkey.

To prepare, sprinkle the bottom of a buttered baking dish with 1-3 of the crumbs. Spread half the eggs over the crumbs. Combine the sauce and ham, chicken or turkey and pour half of the mixture over the eggs. Repeat layers. Sprinkle top of casserole with remaining crumbs, and bake at 375 degrees F. until thoroughly heated and the crumbs are nicely browned.

For Harlequin Eggs, you'll need 1 cooked carrot, 1 cooked beet, ½ cup minced green beans, ¼ cup mayonnaise, ¼ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, 4 hard-cooked eggs and paprika.

Shred carrot and beet, mix with beans and blend with mayonnaise and seasoning. Cut eggs into halves lengthwise, remove yolks and fill with vegetable mixture. Sprinkle with sieved egg yolks and dust with paprika. Makes eight harlequin eggs.

Swedish Eggs offer another hard - cooked egg variation. You'll need 8 hard-cooked eggs, 1 slightly beaten egg white, 1 pound of sausage meat and sieved dried bread crumbs.

Shell the eggs and brush with slightly beaten egg white. Cover with sausage meat and dip in egg white. Roll in bread crumbs and fry in deep fat at 370 degrees F. until brown. Cut into halves lengthwise and serve hot. Makes 8 servings.

Egg Spreads can be your answer to snack time. Any of the following will offer some mighty tasty eating:

—Four hard - cooked, sieved egg yolks, 1 teaspoon prepared mustard, 3 drops Worcestershire sauce, ¼ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, 1 teaspoon catsup, 1 teaspoon grated onion.

—Four hard-cooked, minced eggs, 4 tablespoons ground walnuts, almonds or pecans, 3 minced sweet cucumber pickles or ¼ cup India relish, 2 tablespoons mayonnaise.

—Four hard-cooked, mashed eggs, enough catsup to bind mixture.

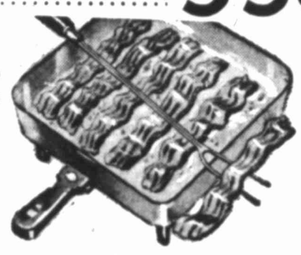

—Three hard-cooked, mashed eggs, 6 minced sweet pickles, 1 tablespoon peanut butter, prepared mustard, pickle juice to moisten.

—Four hard-cooked, mashed eggs, chopped watercress, mayonnaise to moisten.

AVOCADO POTATO SALAD
Fine for outdoor parties

Concoct Zippy Picnic Salad

Potato salad and picnics are almost synonymous, and "Avocado Potato Salad" is the newest in a long line of distinguished potato salad specialties.

Cubed potatoes and California avocados are tossed with celery, cucumber, onion, crumbled bacon and other zippy ingredients, then garnished with avocado slices and chilled for this hearty picnic treat. Frankfurters on buns would be excellent with it.

Make sure the avocados are eating-ripe. Summer varieties of California avocados are thicker-skinned than the winter fruit, so use gentle but firm pressure when you cup them in your hands to see whether they "give." If they do, or if a toothpick poked into the stem end glides in easily, the fruit is ready to be eaten. Summer varieties may have purplish-black skins or green skins; inside, the fruit is always the same—velvety-smooth, light green-yellow and delicious!

AVOCADO POTATO SALAD

3 cups cubed cooked potatoes
1 cup sliced celery (and a few minced leaves)
½ cup chopped cucumber
¼ cup chopped onion
1 can (2 oz.) sliced pimiento
4 slices crisp bacon, crumbled
2 to 3 tsps. vinegar
1 tsp. salt
¼ tsp. pepper
2 California avocados
½ cup Italian or French dressing

Combine all ingredients except avocados and dressing. Cut avocados lengthwise into halves; remove seeds and skin. Slice enough avocado for garnish; dip into dressing, then drain. Cube remaining avocado; add to salad with remaining dressing. Toss lightly. Garnish with avocado slices. Chill and serve. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Puffers To Pay More

By JACK KEEVER

AUSTIN (AP) — A traveling woman dancer, horse racing, pinballs or just a cigarette puffer meant business for the legislature.

But after lots of shouting, only bills on smokers, traveling female dancers, tattoos and free pinball games cleared both houses for Gov. Connally's signature into law.

NO CHANGE

Liquor and obscenity rules were not changed. The horses stayed in the stable.

Smokers will pay more because of a 3 cent cigarette tax increase, from 9 to 11 cents a pack. It's expected to bring $73 million more into the state treasury in two years.

Tobacco distributors said the tax boost would mean more bootlegging.

The legislature decided tattoo parlor operators could go to jail for six months for decorating anyone younger than 21.

A "dancing girl bill" was approved, wiping out a law preventing women from traveling around to dance in public.

"What we're doing is doing away with a statute that prohibits naked women dancers," said Rep. Joe Shannon of Fort Worth.

REWARDS

Another measure which passed both houses allows free games on pinball machines, removing them from the legal definition of gambling. Opponents said this might start a love for gambling in high school and college pupils. Not so, said Dallas Rep. Ben Atwell, "This would keep 'em off the streets — some of these thugs that are beating and robbing and raping people."

A constitutional amendment outlawing all forms of gambling never got out of a House committee.

A flood of bills tested legislative opinion, and horse racing fans brought back a pari-mutuel betting proposal for the seventh time since it was outlawed in 1937.

A House committee also considered "when a lewd nude is a good nude" and suitable to be shown to the public. But Houston Rep. Don Garrison's bill providing penalties of up to five years in jail and a $10,000 fine for persons showing obscene films to minors never came to a floor vote.

NO SUCCESS

Brownsville Rep. Maurice Pipkin tried his hand at guiding the pari-mutuel bill with no success.

As usual, clergymen helped halt the bill, which languished in a subcommittee for the final two months of the session.

Pipkin failed later in an attempt to introduce a bill calling for a November referendum on pari-mutuel betting on horses.

Also dying in committee was San Antonio Rep. Red Berry's proposal legalizing pari-mutuel betting in Dallas, Tarrant, Harris, Bexar, Galveston, Hidalgo, Cameron, Webb and Midland counties, if residents approved in local option elections.

The proposal to allow eating places to serve liquor in two-ounce bottles died in a senate committee. Edinburg Sen. Jim Bates sponsored the bill, which supporters said would aid the tourist industry and provide "an aura of gracious dining in Texas."

"It'll only mean more drinking, more drunk driving," asserted Dr. Don Morris, president of Abilene Christian college.

A bill liberalizing Texas' curfew law won quick approval from a House committee but was never brought to the floor for a vote. The measure would have allowed alcoholic beverage sales until 2 a.m. each night of the week.

A "beer and ale" bill came close to approval. It passed the House and a Senate committee, but was never voted on by the full Senate. The bill said ale and malt liquor, which contain 4 to 8 per cent alcohol, shall be treated the same for wholesale purposes as beer, which contains less than 4 per cent. Under present law any beverage containing more than 4 per cent is treated generally as hard liquor.

Liquor by the drink bills by San Antonio Rep. Jake Johnson, including miniature bottle sales and a new definition of "open saloon," fell by the wayside.

New Embassy Too Small

By CONRAD FINK

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Beautiful it is; practical it isn't.

This is the U.S. Embassy building in New Delhi, an edifice famed for its beauty but which has proven much too small in these days of large diplomatic staffs.

The $1.4-million Edward Durell Stone creation, completed in 1959, is clearly inadequate for American diplomats and a new $1.7-million annex is being built.

The embassy essentially is an oblong structure with offices along the four outer walls — which cannot be expanded. A handsome pond, open to the sky, occupies the center of the building.

Ducks, sparrows and pigeons make their home in the pond and its lush green tropical plants. Tourists by the thousands come to see this wildlife sanctuary inside an embassy.

After it was completed, the American diplomatic, military and aide staffs in New Delhi grew by leaps and bounds. The Americans — now totaling more than 1,600 — rented all over New Delhi.

Silt-Hungry Machines Keep Texas Channels, Ports Open

ROCKPORT (AP) — Driving along the coastal country you may see, miles from the nearest habitation, an ungainly, monstrous craft low on the water with great steel arms protruding from it.

Ugly as it is, the vessel is very much a cog in Texas' economic machine and a lot of business would die were it not for its labors.

The machine is a dredge, and it keeps open the state's harbors and the Intracoastal Canal.

At all times, dredges are lifting sand and silt from the waterways and spewing the material onto spoil banks. It takes from $170,000 to $180,000 a month to operate a dredging barge.

At the Galveston district office of the U. S. Engineers, contracts were let for more than $24 million in dredging in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1965, and during the 1964 fiscal year, the district paid out around $18 million in dredging contracts.

One federal dredge, the MacKenzie, is based in Galveston, but most of the work is done by contractors. One Port Lavaca firm is working on three contracts totaling $2,431,740.

A New Orleans dredging firm is receiving 20.96 cents a yard for dredging material from the bottom of the Houston Ship Channel. Other contractual rates range from 8.2 cents to 25 cents.

Twenty - eight Gulf Coast dredges perform most of this work, and ten contractors, operating from Texas and Louisiana ports, are sharing the work.

PROTECT INVESTMENT

When the work contracted for is completed, there will be plenty more waiting for the dredges. The Galveston Engineers' office has a backlog of some $15 million in approved projects.

The channels along the Texas coast represent an investment of more than $250 million, but a study made by the Intracoastal Waterway Association of Texas and Louisiana has shown that the canal has been worth the cost.

In 20 years, as the channels have been widened and deepened, commerce and industry along the path of the waterways have grown tremendously.

In the shrimp industry, alone, easier access to offshore grounds has turned the Texans into one of the most aggressive groups of fishermen in the nation. They have graduated from 30 and 40-footers, powered with old automobile engines, to the most modern type of steel fishing boats.

The Intracoastal Waterway Association says $14.80 in benefits is achieved for every dollar that has been invested in its construction and upkeep.

TONNAGE GROWS

The 1963 tonnage moved over Texas waterways was an increase of five million tons over the 1962 total of 34 billion (B) tons. To accommodate this increase, the canal and its many branches must be improved continually. The Mexican government is planning to continue the waterway from Brownsville to Tampico, Vere Cruz, and perhaps even farther.

Widening and deepening projects are approved for the Sabine - Neches Ship Channel between Orange and Sabine Pass. The Engineers are also considering a shallow draft channel from Echo, north of Orange, to the vicinity of Longview.

Lectures While He's Working

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — When 75,000 bees alighted on the fender of a car at a truck terminal Tuesday, a secretary called Victor L. Franklin, the only beekeeper listed in the city telephone directory.

Franklin arrived with gloves, face mask and portable hives. As he swept the bees into a box with a brush, he delivered a running commentary for the crowd which had gathered:

"I've been getting a call about every 35 minutes. There are bees swarming all over town—in buildings, trees and cars. That's because there are not enough hollow trees here. Bees are attracted to hollow places. A hollow spot acts as a resonator and that is what bees are after.

"No, they won't sting me. They sting only when they haven't had any honey or when they're riled up. As long as I don't move too swiftly, they won't get excited.

"This is about a 15-pound swarm, and there are about 5,000 bees to a pound so there are about 75,000 here. I'll put them out to swarm in orchards and fields.

"You can't kill bees because they are projected, just like geese and ducks. Bees are important to our national defense. Beeswax is the only material that can safely waterproof ammunition. These new plastic materials clog up gun barrels.

Capital Of Greatest Nation Not The Safest Of Cities

By TEX EASLEY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Crime has been so rampant in the nation's capital that many Texas congressmen have sounded warnings to constituents coming here on vacation.

Rep. Walter Rogers of Pampa in a letter to constituents first told of the things to see in Washington, then added:

"It is hard to believe that so much danger lurks in the shadows of these great monuments—dangers brought about by a crime wave in the nation's capital that seems so difficult to stem . . .

"It would be well for all those planning to visit Washington, whether adults or children, to realize the seriousness of the situation. There are very few nights in the District of Columbia that are not filled with robberies, burglaries, muggings and more serious offenses . . .

"Anyone who walks the streets after nine o'clock in the evening is asking for trouble unless they stay within well and brilliantly lighted areas and are not alone."

Rep. W. R. (Bob) Poage, Waco, had this to say:

"I want to invite all our people, especially our school groups, to visit Washington. Such a visit is well worthwhile, but I feel that I must warn every prospective visitor that danger lurks everywhere in this city—even in broad daylight."

• • •

AROUND THE CAPITAL:

Rep. Jim Wright, Fort Worth, and two colleagues from other states, returned to Capitol Hill by taxi after attending a conference downtown with federal highway officials. During the ride the three congressmen talked about the millions of dollars that should be spent this place and that. Imagine the taxi driver's reaction, after such conversation, when it developed that between the three of them they didn't have the $1.45 to pay the fare.

Wright, telling the story, said they were saved by a secretary to one of the congressmen who happened by as they were pooling their resources in front of the Rayburn House Office Building.

C. H. DeVANEY, president of the Texas Farm Bureau, probably won't forget his appearance as a witness before the House Agriculture Committee June 3.

He had hardly begun his testimony on cotton legislation when Chairman Harold Cooley, D-N.C., interrupted and announced a temporary suspension of the hearing.

The reason was immediately obvious: A committee aide lifted a television set and placed it on the committee table so all congressmen and the 50 or more spectators in the committee room could see the final two minutes of countdown and the blastoff of the two-man Gemini 4 spacecraft.

Council Cites Safe Cities

CHICAGO (AP) — The National Safety Council cited Dallas, Fort Worth, Lubbock, Amarillo and Waco today for traffic safety. They were among 123 cities picked in the nation.

Dallas, Fort Worth, Amarillo and Waco received Certificates of Achievement for high levels of traffic engineering.

Honored for having traffic safety education in the schools were Dallas, Lubbock, Amarillo and Waco.

Lubbock also was cited for having good accident records.

To qualify for an award, a city must meet standards established for programs in the various fields of traffic safety.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy has awarded a $1,165,115 contract to Texas Instruments, Dallas, for manufacture of spare parts for air indicator equipment for aircraft.

Winner Of Moon Race Will Gain Rich Rewards

By HOWARD BENEDICT
AP Aerospace Writer

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The United States and the Soviet Union are locked in a tight race to reach the moon first. The winner's rewards will be great: national prestige, scientific knowledge, perhaps military domination of space.

The flights this week of Gemini 4 and the Soviet Luna 6 are dramatic evidence that both nations are very much in the race.

LONG WAY

Astronauts James A. McDivitt and Edward H. White II advanced the United States a long way on the lunar highway with their four-day flight during which White took a 26-minute walk in space. Manned flights in the Gemini and Apollo programs now are scheduled at two-month intervals in a drive toward a manned lunar landing, which could come as early as 1968.

It is suspected that Luna 6 will attempt the first soft-landing of an instrumented capsule on the moon if it reaches there as scheduled Friday. Success of such a maneuver would provide vital data on the strength of the moon's surface — information needed before men set foot there.

The United States plans to attempt a soft-landing with an unmanned Surveyor craft in October.

Why go to the moon?

This question has been debated in scientific and government circles since President John F. Kennedy committed the United States to the race in 1961.

Most scientists favor sending men to the moon. But from the start the Apollo lunar landing project has had its critics. Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower called it a "stunt race." Several respected scientists believe the money and brainpower could be better spent to improve the lot of man through medical research, anti-poverty programs and the like. Some contend automatic spacecraft could do the job better than man.

The one aspect that seems to bother the American public is the estimated $20-billion price tag.

LOT OF MONEY

"That's a lot of money," says James Webb, administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. "But as big as that $20 billion looks, we are spending only one per cent of our Gross National Product on space—so we can afford it.

"It is not being spent on the moon as some people like to infer. It is being spent right here in the United States. In fact, 90 per cent of it goes directly to private, free-enterprise companies, many of them small local businesses.

"And I cannot for the life of me think of any other kind of endeavor that could benefit our nation in so many ways at once," Webb said. "It advances knowledge and stimulates our education. It creates new jobs and skills. It perfects our technology. It strengthens our national security and it adds to our total national wealth in many ways."

Concerning the prestige factor, President Johnson has said:

"Surely the country which combines the ability, the resources and the courage to go to the moon will sit high at international negotiating tables. If such a country is one which protects freedom, a strong blow is made for a world of peace instead of a world of subjugation."

Dr. Homer Newell, NASA associate administrator for space science and applications, is one of many scientists who believe the moon may hold the key to the origin of our solar system, generally believed to have been created about 4.5 billion years ago.

Says Newell: "On the earth, the atmosphere and the oceans wear away surface features in 10 to 50 million years. Mountain-building activity turns over large areas of the surface in about the same time.

RECORD

"But on the moon there are no oceans and atmosphere to destroy the surface, and there is little if any mountain building.

"For these reasons the moon has retained a record which probably goes back billions of years to the infancy of the solar system. The moon is the Rosetta Stone of the solar system, and to the student of the origin of the earth and planets, this lifeless body is even more important than Mars or Venus, whose properties resemble earth."

Newell and others believe men can conduct lunar exploration much more efficiently than machines. A trained geologist, they say, could obtain more information in a few hours than a series of unmanned probes could over several years.

IDEAL BASE

The moon, with its lack of obscuring atmosphere, also would be an ideal base for a manned observatory to study the stars and planets. Because it has no atmosphere, the moon also could serve as a launching base for planetary journeys.

The moon program also will contribute to the defense and security of the country. The powerful rockets, control and guidance systems, rendezvous techniques, life protective measures and manned flight experience all are applicable to a military man-in-space capability. The result could be a series of orbiting police patrols to maintain the peace.

Still More Excitement

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — A space agency official, commenting on the remarkable flight of Gemini 4, said: "You ain't seen nothing yet."

He was looking to future U.S. man-in-space flights which will be launched on an accelerated schedule as a result of the success of astronauts James A. McDivitt and Edward H. White II.

Gemini spacecraft will hook up with other satellites; the pilots will perform intricate maneuvers during trips up to two weeks; and men will walk and work outside their orbiting spacecraft for longer periods than the excursion made by White.

Then on to the moon—perhaps only three years from now — and man's greatest adventure.

Even as McDivitt and White were being hoisted from the Atlantic Ocean Monday after their four-day trip, the Titan 2 rocket for Gemini 5 was being erected at Cape Kennedy.

The crew will be veteran Astronaut L. Gordon Cooper Jr., whose 34-hour American space-flight record was shattered by Gemini 4, and rookie pilot Charles Conrad Jr. They have a late August date with the stars.

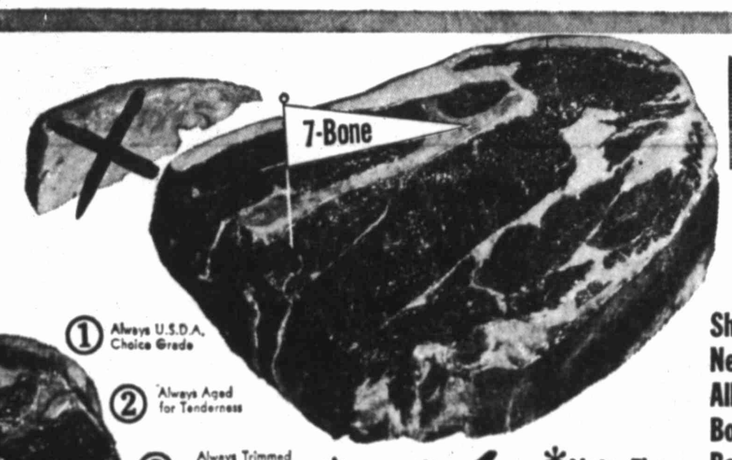

Cooper and Conrad are to stay in space for seven days, but space agency offieials hinted they could be up for a longer time — based on preliminary data from Gemini 4.

Dr. Charles A. Berry, director of Gemini medical operations, said that preliminary examination of McDivitt and White indicates that "we've knocked down a lot of straw men with this mission."

He said that weightlessness apparently is not as dangerous as was feared, at least not for four days. Cooper had shown some disquieting symptoms, especially in the heart and blood vessel systems, as did Soviet cosmonaut Valery Bykovsky after his record five-day space trip.

A Devotional For The Day

(Christ) breathed on them, and saith unto them, Receive ye the Holy Ghost. (John 20:22)

PRAYER: Heavenly Father, we thank Thee for Thy loving and tender care and provision for our lives. We thank Thee for the Holy Spirit sent to guide and direct us. Bless us in all that we do. May we do it for Thy glory and for the Master's sake. Amen.

Too Much Noise

The Acoustical Society of America should be cheered on in its effort to help make the great society to which we aspire also a quieter society.

It was brought out in the ASA's national convention in Washington recently that the average level of urban noise has increased at least a decibel annually for the past 30 years. Most major cities have adopted various types of anti-noise ordinances, but these have not succeeded in checking the steadily rising clamor.

The most dramatic unsolved noise problem now in metropolitan areas is the takeoff whine and sonic booms of jet aircraft. But there are other problems, in the agregate perhaps more serious, ranging from construction clatter through automotive snarls and emergency sirens to the gurgling and rasping and snarling of household gadgets and lawn tools.

Dr. C. P. Bonner, University of Texas acoustics expert and former ASA president, declares that excessive noise is defintely detrimental to physical, mental and emotional health. Certainly it reduces the pleasantness of life in cities.

The problem of urban noise has surely become serious enough to be considered along with air and water pollution control and beautification in the effort to improve American cities. The results that can be obtained through stricter anti-noise ordinances would appear to be limited but worthwhile.

More effective probably will be a growing public demand for more attention to quietness in technological development, a demand that science and engineering should be able to meet. Public discussions such as that on "The Noisy Environment" by the Acoustical Society of America should help stimulate that demand.

Good For Debate

Senate Republican Minority Leader Everett McKinley Dirksen has raised an intriguing constitutional question: Does the President of the United States have the right or duty to take any position on a consitutional amendment proposal?

Dirksen thinks not. He points out that the President has no legal role in Congress' submission of amendments to the state legislatures for ratification. The wily Illinoisan's real reason seems to be that he is afraid Lyndon Johnson will oppose the Dirksen amendment, which would allow the states by popular referendum to apportion their senates on factors other than equal population representation.

The fear has some grounds. Johnson in a recent news conference said he is "generally sympathetic" to the U. S. Supreme Court ruling that both houses of state legislatures must be apportioned on the basis of fair populatiob representation.

Actually the Dirksen amendment is a bit belated. By the time Congress can submit it to the state legislatures, most of them will be reapportioned and less likely than their rural-biased predecessors to ratify a partial nullifaction of the court's one man, one vote ruling. Also a majority of the voters in a state would have to approve the Dirksen amendment's application, and most voters live in cities that have been crying for fair representation in state legislatures.

But back to the question of the President's role in the constitutional amendment process. Whether he takes a position pro or con on any such proposition would seem to be within his prerogatives and up to his discretion. As the chief of state of the government whose constitution would be amended, surely he has the clear right to voice an opinion. And as head of the political party in power, he also has the right to voice party policy.

It is doubtful that Dirksen would have raised this admittedly arguable issue of presidential powers if he were sure the White House favored his amendment. But be that as it may, discussion of the question is a good academic exercise for civics classes.

New Ruling Protects Commies

WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court of the United States, by a 5-to-4 vote, has just ruled, in effect, that members of the Communist party cannot be prevented from holding office in labor unions and causing political strikes in national emergencies. The law which Congress passed has been declared invalid.

This means that, although the Communist party in the United States is dedicated to the objective of bringing about the overthrow of the American government, its members cannot be prevented from carrying out their purpose by subtle methods of intrigue and control over labor unions.

MANY COUNTRIES are today suffering from Communist control of labor organizations and in the last several years Congress has attempted by statute to prevent such control from being achieved in this country. In fact, a governmental agency, known as the Subversive Activities Control Board, has found that the Communist party's "principal leaders and a substantial number of its members are subject to and recognize the disciplinary power of the Soviet Union and its representatives," and that there is evidence of the domination and control of the Communist party here by the Soviet Union for the purpose of advancing "the objectives of the world Communist movement."

THE SUPREME Court did uphold the findings of the Subversive Activities Control Board in several cases nearly 10 years ago, but now the new ruling of the Supreme Court raises the question of whether even the subversive activities control act will become taboo by a future Supreme Court ruling. Justice White, who was joined in his dissenting opinion in the case this week by Justices Clark, Harlan and Stewart, said that the reasons given by the court for invalidating the law that prohibits Communists from holding office in labor unions can also be applied throughout the government. He said:

"BY THE SAME token, a statute disqualifying Communists, or authorizing the executive branch to do so, from holding sensitive positions in the government would be automatically infirm, as would a requirement that employes of the Central Intelligence Agency for the National Security Agency disclaim membership in the Communist party, unless in each case it is proved by evidence other than membership in the Communist party, the nature of which has already been adjudicated, that the individual would commit acts of disloyalty or subordinate his official undertakings to the interests of the party."

WHAT THIS MEANS is that in the future it will have to be demonstrated to the satisfaction of the court in each instance that a Communist has the intention of actually doing something to overthrow the government.

THE MAJORITY in the latest Supreme Court ruling — consisting of Chief Justice Warren and Justices Black, Douglas, Brennan and Goldberg — contends that the language of the law inflicts a punishment on individuals in preventing them from holding office in a labor union and that, while an individual can be convicted of disloyalty, he cannot be prevented from holding office in a labor union merely because he belongs to an organization that seeks the overthrow of the United States government. It is judicial technicality carried to extremes.

Billy Graham

I have two teenaged boys. One failed in college because of good times and drinking, and the one who is in high school is a carbon copy of the first. They went to Sunday school since they were four.

Where have I failed? . . . J.P.G.

You make no mention of maintaining a Christian home. You merely say your boys went to Sunday school since they were four. It is possible that you are a parent who thinks that "sending your children to Sunday school," is all that is required to assure their spiritual safety. Nothing could be farther from the truth.

It is possible that by your absenting yourself from the church, by your failure to have family devotions, and by failing to be dedicated Christians as parents, that your boys got the impression that Christianity was just a farce. Perhaps, since it meant little to you, it meant nothing to them.

Parents must remember that two forces are exerted upon children. First there is the strong pull of a secular world, with its cynicism, its temptations, and its unChristian philosophy. If this influence is not countered by a strong, virile Christian faith in the home, the children will go the way your boys have gone.

However, there are instances where dedicated parents have children who depart from the faith for awhile, but the Bible says: "Train up a child in the way he shall go, and when he is old he will not depart from it." In time they will rediscover themselves and the faith they were taught.

Where Are We Going?

WASHINGTON (AP) — At one time the direction of the Johnson administration seemed clear but it is complex now and the question can fairly be asked: Where are we going?

The clear part was in the administration's heavy concentration on home problems. But suddenly, and with increasing intensity as time passes, the administration spread its attention to foreign affairs.

AND THE DEEPER the United States gets involved in the war in Viet Nam—to take one example—the more complex the future looks.

For more than a year after he succeeded the assassinated President John F. Kennedy in November 1963, President Johnson put almost all his attention on the field where he was expert, domestic doings and dealings with Congress.

He did extremely well and under his prodding Congress made remarkable progress. If Johnson had been able to occupy himself this well until the end of his elected term, the final judgment on his record appeared certain to be excellent.

BUT WITHIN a month after taking office on his own last January, Johnson plunged into the foreign field where his experience was limited and his ability never proven because it was never tested.

He moved in a big way, ordering the bombing of North Viet Nam, an order still being carried out although the North Vietnamese have not visibly budged an inch.

Ironically, unless there is a quick solution in Asia where none is in sight, the final judgment on the success or failure or wisdom of the Johnson administration may have to be made in this field least familiar to it, foreign problems.

AT THIS MINUTE no one outside the administration, and perhaps no one inside it, can say whether the United States is going to get into a big land war in Asia.

Adding to the uncertainty is the way in which American involvement is being stepped up until what looked once like a limited role for American forces now seems much less limited.

AND NOW the American's role seems a lot less limited. Last Friday a military spokesman in Saigon said these U.S. forces had a duel role: of defense and taking part in battle in support of Vietnamese forces when help is asked.

A State Department spokesman indicated the same thing Tuesday, which seemed to be putting U.S. forces far deeper into war. And Wednesday a White House spokesman said that while the Americans are in Viet Nam to guard important bases they can be used in combat to help the Vietnamese under certain circumstances.

So gradually American involvement has increased. There was a similar stepup in explanations when Johnson sent troops into the Dominican Republic. First, he said it was to save American lives; then he added that it was to prevent a Communist takeover.

There is another uncertainty about Johnson's future foreign policy. Will he be as quick to use American armed forces in other situations which may arise in these next four years as he was in Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic?

A Tense Moment

DA NANG, South Viet Nam (AP) — It was a tense moment for all.

Artillery boomed in the distance. Warplanes roared off on missions perilous to many.

At the edge of the great air base here, just outside the main security checkpoint, hundreds of men stood in sweating anxiety outside a large white-painted building.

IN THE DENSE throng were airmen just back from bombing and strafing North Viet Nam. There were dust-caked Marines, worn by days of patrol on mountaintop and across rice paddies.

There also were clerks and bakers and mechanics and demolition men and beret-capped Army officers who had journeyed in from lonely outposts for "the big operation."

A murmur ran through heat-weary men:

"What the hell is holding this thing up?"

Inside the big building, Marine Lt. George F. Hoffman of Johnstown, Pa., was just as tense. He knew the beleaguring force outside couldn't be held at bay much longer.

HE GAVE a final inspection to his 60 Vietnamese and American assistants. He looked at his watch. It was 11 o'clock—zero hour.

"All right, let 'em in," said Hoffman.

The doors swung open—and the great breakthrough was under way.

The long-awaited opening of the Navy Post Exchange at Da Nang had taken place. Troops grabbed up shopping baskets and rushed pell-mell from counter to counter, buying everything they saw.

It was like the opening of a huge supermarket back home only bigger. It was payday for most of the men, and they were as eager to spend their money.

The 70 cases of beer in stock were gone in five minutes. Some 2,000 cases of soda and soft drinks went quickly, too.

LUCKY FIRST comers staggered out of the $100,000 warehouse burdened with cameras, watches, tape recorders, deodorants, film packs, clothing, and $28.15 portable refrigerators and small electric fans.

Scores of Marines and airmen, unable to enter the packed building, left after long waiting.

When the doors finally closed, some 7,000 men had spent $31,000.

"Soon we'll have a million-dollar-a-month operation here," said Lt. Hoffman, who also will open five field post exchanges in the five northern provinces that make up the 1st Corps area in South Viet Nam.

Like any good businessman, the lieutenant believes in expanding in prosperous times. The indications are that Uncle Sam's nephews in uniform will be spending more rather than less money here in the future.

Kidney Infection Not A Cause Of Sterility

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Recently my husband had a kidney infection. I have reason to believe this condition may have made him sterile. Is there such a thing as being temporarily sterile? If he is sterile, can the condition be corrected? — Mrs. M. E.

You say you have "reason to believe" that the kidney infection made him sterile, but you don't mention the reason.

Frankly, I doubt that you have reason to believe it. Oh, you may suspect that he is sterile, and attribute it to the kidney infection, but that isn't real "reason to believe."

I don't mean to argue over the meaning of words, but here's the way it looks to me:

First, the kidneys and the reproductive system are separate, and hence there is no reason to think such an infection would cause sterility.

Second, is he sterile? There's nothing to be gained in speculating on infection that he had recently. The real question is his condition now. So by all means have tests made to determine whether or not he is sterile.

Third, yes, there can be temporary sterility.

And fourth, yes, many cases of sterility can be corrected, although not all. Correction depends on finding the cause and curing it. So I think you are probably leading yourself astray by speculating about the kidney infection instead of going directly at the question of sterility.

Dear Dr. Molner: Every now and then I have a slight fluttering in my upper left eyelid. Could this be something serious? — Mrs. S. H.

Nothing to worry about. This can be a tic or muscle spasm of the eyelid.

* * *

Dear Dr. Molner: On rising in the morning my legs are normal size but after walking a short time my ankles and calves increase. They also ache, and I have no idea what is causing this condition. My doctor mentioned that it was the veins, but I have none that show. Can you advise me? — Mrs. W. S.

Faulty circulation could do just that. It is possible for weakness in the veins to retard circulation even though the veins do not show. Some veins lie deeper than others, you know.

Or there might be some other cause of faulty circulation—a narrowing of the big artery which carries blood to the legs, for one. I suggest a thorough examination by a specialist (internist). You may thereby nip serious trouble before it goes too far.

Around The Rim

Justice Vs. Entertainment

The reaction to the Supreme Court's ruling on television in the courtroom has drawn many comments, perhaps the silliest that the ruling blocks "the public right to know." The mere fact that the television producers have made no effort to televise every single case that comes before a judge is proof that they are not deeply concerned with informing the public.

RATHER, THEY are interested only in the more sensational trials, those already in the public eye and certain to gain a lot of audience. And in such a trial, the courtroom may be transformed into an arena of entertainment. Let's face it, as of now television is primarily an entertainment medium — by its own choice. Very rarely does the medium ever step beyond these bounds—again, by its own choice.

CERTAINLY, the home screen CAN do quite well with SOME news events, as it often demonstrates. And if the economic (sponsor) pressures were reduced, it could be unsurpassed as an entertainment medium. But as a protector of the public's "right to know," it falls far short of the all-encompassing coverage of news events necessary to claim such a proud title.

The more knowledgeable of the TV people have said as much in recent days—David Brinkley for one.

AFTER ALL, the public's interest goes far beyond what may be in the public notice at the moment. And often, it may involve something for which an advertiser cannot be found to sponsor. To truly represent the public interest, I suspect any media must first put this interest ahead of any dollar value it might gain from its work.

Aside from all that, I think the court ruled wisely in this field of personal rights. What man would want to be tried before the Kleig lights, complete with producer, director, make-up men, and all the other impedimente of a carnival? All that's missing from such a show would be a script.

MOST COURTROOMS are more than ample for those seriously interested in seeing that justice is done. The various news media have no difficulty in finding a place to sit. In such a calm, collected atmosphere, with no distractions, the court can conduct its business, and any media can help itself to protect the public interest, without disrupting the proceedings or selling peanuts. It would be difficult to find a better arrangement.

LBJ Cites New Era For Negro

WASHINGTON — Every now and then comes a landmark that promises to divide one era from another. It may not be immediately recognized but sooner or later the long shadow it casts is bound to be evident.

President Johnson's commencement speech at Howard University is already beginning to achieve that recognition. In the boldest and most eloquent way he confronted the harshest truth. That is that everything done so far to right the centuries of injustice done the Negro is only the smallest beginning.

WHAT MAKES this even more impressive is that the President, above all others, knows what the cost has been in the progress achieved to date. He knows the hours upon hours of intensive effort spent in helping to guide the voting rights bill through the Congress.

But, quoting Winston Churchill in another context, he said that the victory was not the end nor even the beginning of the end but the end of the beginning. As commentaries have begun increasingly to observe, this was the speech of a President who might have rested on a political claim to a score that in view of all the obstacles out of the past was impressive.

INSTEAD HE chose to look at the hard facts of Negro inequality that "equal rights," in the sense in which it has been understood in the decade of struggle, can never cure. Speaking to the graduating class at Howard, one of the first institutions of higher learning for the Negro, he recited the figures on Negro poverty, Negro unemployment, Negro losses in almost every area in relation to white gains.

He spoke of the Negro as belonging to "another nation," in which he had been deprived of freedom, crippled by hatred, the doors of opportunity closed to hope. The two nations existing side by side under the comforting and, as events have shown, wholly false doctrine of "separate but equal," to bring these two nations together in one whole, that was the meaning of the Howard University speech.

THE TWO NATIONS in this country today are separated, as the President frankly recognized, by color as well as by poverty and physical isolation. One of the remarkable aspects of the speech was the way in which he, a Southerner born and bred, faced up to this barrier and the profound difficulties in the way of its removal.

Characteristically, Mr. Johnson did not stop with words. He proposed a conference in the fall with the theme and title, "To Fulfill These Rights." Jobs, welfare programs, decent houses — these are all within reach with the realization that what has been undertaken so far in the war on poverty is only the smallest token beginning.

BUT THEY ARE only part of the answer. The conference in the fall is intended to search deeper for the answers beyond the formal programs and the proposals thus far put forward within the current political framework.

Having staked out this new territory and dedicated the expanding efforts of his administration to its conquest, the President was clearly aware of the landmark nature of his speech. Whatever else comes and how great the demands of crises in far corners of the earth, it will hardly be possible to ignore a new bench mark indelibly inscribed on the political terrain.

McCarthyism Comes Back

WASHINGTON — The Republican leaders met last week in Washington and decided there was no sense pinning a Republican label on anybody running for local office. They encouraged John Lindsay to run as an "Independent" for Mayor New York, and even former Vice President Nixon was quoted as saying that in cities where Democrats outnumber Republicans to the extent they do in New York "Republicans don't throw it into the voter's face, the fact that they're Republican."

THE WRITING is on the wall and in a few years I can just see what will happen.

Sen. Eugene McCarthy, a Democrat from Minnesota, will get up on the Senate floor and, while he waves several sheets of paper, shout, "I hold in my hand a list of 153 card-carrying members of the Republican party in the United States government and I ask this house what it intends to do about it."

"These are serious charges," Sen. Mansfield says, "and while I am against witch-hunting, I believe that if there are any Republicans in the United States government the American people should know about it."

SEN. EVERETT DIRKSEN, who by this time is Minority Leader of the opposition Whig party, also makes a statement:

"This is a reckless attack on many innocent people, and the Senator from Minnesota is smearing people without giving them a chance to defend themselves. We haven't had any Republicans in the government since President Johnson was elected, and McCarthy knows it."

Sen. McCarthy stands his ground. "I have it on highest authority that Dwight D. Eisenhower never resigned from the Republican party and I have a photostat here of his party card."

THE SENATE is in an uproar and the afternoon paper headlines scream: "Dwight Eisenhower Accused of Being Member of Republican Party," "McCarthy Says Ike GOP Dupe," "Former President Named by McCarthy."

The country can't believe it. McCarthy goes on television and says that Richard Nixon, George Romney, Ray Bliss and Nelson Rockefeller all have Republican backgrounds and he intends to prove it.

NIXON THROUGH his lawyer, Edward Bennett Williams, says, "Will I always be hounded for a mistake I made in my youth?"

Romney, Rockefeller and Bliss say they're going to take the Fifth Amendment.

The McCarthy hearings open under the bright glare of the television cameras. He gets Dean Rusk to admit there are several Republicans in the State Department, but Rusk promises they will be weeded out. Secretary of Defense McNamara admits there is a dentist in the Army who was a registered Republican, but he is not working in any security areas.

FOR A WHILE the hearings go just the way McCarthy wants them to. But then he overplays his hand and on "Meet the Press" he says, "Mayor John Lindsay of New York City is a member of the Republican party."

Lindsay, outraged and aware that McCarthy made his charges without congressional immunity, decides to sue for libel for $1 million.

The American Civil Liberties Union takes the case and, when McCarthy is unable to find anyone to testify that they knew Lindsay as a Republican, Lindsay wins the suit.

THIS GIVES the Senate courage to bring charges against McCarthy and he is censured by his peers.

When this happens the witch-hunt is over and from then on the American people stop looking for Republicans under their beds.

Checking Up

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) — The Institute of International Cultural Exchange has been founded here for Nigerian students who have studied in West Germany.

Lutz Herold, the German director, termed his organization quasi-governmental. It is particularly interested in gathering information on how Nigerians trained in West Germany put their skills to use after returning home, he said.

Dear Abby

A Bridal Mix-Up

DEAR ABBY: My sister, who is planning to be married in September, has a problem I think maybe you can help her with. (I'll call her Sharon.) Well, Sharon borrowed her girl friend's wedding gown because she didn't want to go to the expense of buying one. About a week ago Sharon's fiance's aunt, who lives in Texas, sent her a beautiful brand new bridal outfit. This woman, has never met Sharon, but because Sharon's fiance is her favorite nephew she wanted to do something real nice for his bride. The outfit looks very expensive and it seems a shame for her to spend all that money on a bridal outfit when Sharon already has one. And besides, Sharon would much rather have a TV set. Should she keep it? She hates to hurt her girl friend's feelings by not wearing the gown after accepting it. But she doesn't want to hurt her fiance's aunt's feelings, either. What should she do? HER SISTER

DEAR SISTER: Although the aunt meant well, she should not have sent a bridal outfit as a gift without knowing whether or not it was needed—or wanted. Sharon should return it with a letter of thanks, explaining that she has her bridal ensemble. But no mention should be made about what she would prefer instead, unless she is asked.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: I am 21, not bad looking, have a good personality but I am a little shy until I get to know a person. I don't have a steady boy friend. I work in a very large office building, and keep running into a very nice-looking young man who must be about 24 or 25 years old. I know he's noticed me, but he has never made any effort to get acquainted with me.

One of the girls who works where I work was with me when he passed by and she said she didn't know his name, but she knew in which office he worked and she was sure he wasn't married. I would like to meet him. I have an idea that he would also like to meet me, but he is also shy. How do I break the ice? A nice girl can't just start talking to a strange man, can she?

SHY BUT INTERESTED

DEAR SHY: No, a "nice" girl cannot just start talking to a strange man—but if you want to "break the ice"—crack a smile, and leave the rest to Providence.

Not Likely To Help Much

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Cutting down the amount of silver in U.S. coins isn't likely to lick the shortage of metal for some time.

Industrial demand has risen too fast, and world production has lagged too badly, for any quick solution to the shortage problem. Some think it could take five years at least to bring supply and demand into line.

The Johnson administration proposes to eliminate silver in dimes and quarters and to cut use of it by half in 50-cent pieces. The idea is to save Uncle Sam's dwindling supply of the metal — once so huge as to be considered a burden — and to remove him as a competitor with industry for any new supplies.

About $500 million a year of the metal is going into U.S. coins as the mints strive to cope with the demand.

The rapid rise of vending machine living is only one reason for the growing demand for coins. Affluent Americans buying more things requires more change in more pockets. And the very growth of the population itself creates a demand for more coins.

But the industrial uses of silver have been the big new factor in the demand situation.

The silverware industry is only part of this picture. And it now accounts for only a minor part of the total industrial use. Photography uses considerably more than silverware. The use goes all the way from snapshots to X-ray films, industrial photography, defense photography.

Trail Riders Pull Out Heading South

The Johnson City Trail Riders, making the 390-mile, 30-day trip from Lubbock to Johnson City, left Big Spring early this morning after two nights and a day here. They plan to camp about half way between Big Spring and Sterling City tonight, and invite any one interested to join them for a part of the ride, for coffee, or for just plain "hoss-talk."

A street dance was put on for the trail riders and the public Tuesday night when Main Street was roped off from Third to Fourth. Grand Ole Opry Star Ernest Tubbs came in to present two programs at the municipal auditorium Wednesday. His appearance was sponsored by the trail riders.

Blackie Allen, trail boss, said the ride was planned in an attempt to get more people interested in horses, rodeos and as an honor to President Lyndon Johnson.

"Some have told us they were given the impression that the ride was a money-making and a political 'gimmick,'" he said. "This is not true. If everyone would compare the cost of participating in this ride with that of other trail-ride associations, where as much as $106 per day is charged for four people, to the $34 per day for the same number in our ride, he would see that it is by no means a money-making scheme.

"We have sent out invitations to sheriff's posses and riding clubs over the whole route to join us for just a short distance or for the whole ride," he continued. "Our interest is in getting more people interested in horses, and in getting them to exercise through horseback riding, along with reviving the spirit of the old time cowboys who rode horses wherever they went. We want to make this an annual ride, if possible.

"As for being political," he said, "we have Republicans, Democrats and others on this ride. President Johnson is the first 'cowboy' president we have had, and believe he is capable of sitting on a horse and working cattle along with most of us. The rodeo at Johnson City is simply to honor a cowboy president and not because everybody in the ride agrees with him politically. Come on out and join us for a good horseback ride."

The riders will be joined by others as they travel south. They will be spending the weekend in San Angelo where more entertainment will be provided, and will then travel south expecting to arrive in Johnson City July 1.

Food Chains Talk Merger

LUBBOCK—The boards of directors of Shop Rite Foods, Inc., and Food Mart, Incorporated, will meet jointly Monday to consider a merger of the two supermarket chains.

Shop Rite owns and operates 83 Piggly Wiggly stores in Big Spring and other cities in Texas, New Mexico and Oklahoma.

Announcement of the proposed merger was made by Herbert Wilcox, chairman of the board, and J. S. Reinhart, president of Shop Rite Foods, Inc. Their statement said:

"Shop Rite Foods, Inc., and Food Mart, Inc., confirmed today that officers of the two companies have held discussions concerning proposals to unite the two companies by a tax-free reorganization.

"It was announced that the two boards of directors will meet June 14 and that disclosure of any terms and conditions prior to such meetings would be premature and inadvisable.

"It was emphasized that the Monday meetings were designed to consider the proposal in principal and that conclusion of the transaction would, in any event, await the preparation of the necessary legal documents, the approval of the boards of directors and stockholders of each company, and the obtaining of appropriate tax rulings.

"It is expected that it will be several weeks before the matter can be presented to the stockholders for their consideration."

More Gifts To Center

Five donations, four of them totalling $450, were reported by the Howard County Rehabilitation Center Thursday, putting the equipment and fund total near the $4,000 mark—about one-fifth the amount needed to complete the equipping of the building.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Stafford will supply a water-softener, value undetermined.

Other donors include Mrs. T. S. Currie, $50; Agnes Currie, $50; Big Spring Lions Club, an audiometer worth $300; and $50 from the Texas Nurses' Association.

Those interested in helping the center have been asked to consider giving equipment rather than cash gifts, though donations in any amount are welcomed.

Descriptions of needed devices are contained in a booklet available at the center's offices at Third and Lancaster, AM 3-2880.

Builders Supply Opens Friday At New Location

A grand opening is planned Friday and Saturday for the new location of Builder's Supply, at 912 E. 4th.

The company previously was located at 210 W. 3rd, operating in that location for 26 years. Owner of the firm since it began business in Big Spring is H. H. Stephens.

The firm will give away free yardsticks, paint paddles, litterbags, rain caps and ball point pencils. Refreshments will be served.

Hours for the firm will be 7:30 a.m. until 5:30 p.m., six days each week.

The homeowner can obtain a range of paint and decorator needs at the store, with Benjamin Moore Paints stocked in a variety of colors. In addition, the firm has a mixer unit which can prepare any of 2,000 different shades of paint.

Accessories for painting are stocked, as well as varnish and other items for remodeling or construction finishing work. The company provides installation service for linoleum, tile and cabinet top materials. Armstrong vinyl floors and linoleum are stocked, and a selection of wallpaper is displayed.

Mrs. Cecil Nabors assists in the operation of the store.

Schools To Get CRA Certificate

Big Spring Independent School District has been assured that its Certificate of Compliance with the Civil Rights Act through voluntary integration has been approved. A telephone call from the Office of Health, Education and Welfare, Washington, D. C., Wednesday afternoon, informed Supt. Sam Anderson that approval was in the mails.

Action came following the board's decision to close Kate Morrison Elementary school and to establish North San Antonio Street as a geographic boundary between Lakeview and Bauer Elementary schools to set attendance areas and a telegram to the office confirming the action. The Office of Health, Education and Welfare had withheld approval of the Certificate of Compliance because the local district had permitted students of Kate Morrison and Lakeview to choose the school they wished to attend.

Approval from the Washington office was necessary to permit federal funds to be used in the district, including those paid to impacted areas where federal installations brought in students, and took property off local tax rolls. It also gives approval for approximately a quarter million dollars for site development, building, and some equipment for vocational facilities in the new high school construction, and for instructional use.

Mrs. Marshall Wonders About Husband's Death

BRYAN (AP) — "You just don't know. You just sit and wonder what happened."

Thus does Mrs. Henry Marshall speak of her husband's death four years ago last week.

Marshall was chief of production adjustment for the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Administration in Texas.

Four years ago last Thursday Marshall, 51, of Bryan, was found dead on his farm near Franklin. He had been shot five times. Near his body was a .22 caliber bolt-action rifle.

The question of suicide or murder, even after a grand jury investigation, remains unanswered.

Mrs. Marshall says four years have not changed her opinion that her husband was murdered.

"My husband didn't indicate anything wrong when he left here that morning," she said.

Mrs. Marshall, in an interview with the Bryan Daily Eagle, said her life has settled into a routine.

"I've learned to accept his death," she continued. "After all, I have my child to live for."

The years haven't been easy. There has been the curious public to deal with, a grand jury investigation just 11 months after her husband's death which called for the body to be exhumed, illness and major surgery twice.

One point in particular worries her—lack of an autopsy at once after Marshall's death.

"I don't know. It was done (embalming) so long before the investigation, sometimes I wonder." The autopsy came 11 months after the death.

"I didn't know about autopsies or how to get one," she continued. "Maybe if it was done then, there would be no doubts. But a man called and said he couldn't get one and I said okay."

She attributed this to her inability to make decisions at the time.

"I didn't know how to do anything," she said, noting her dependence on her husband. "But I've certainly learned a lot since.

"For three months I was just in a daze."

Christian Dior Presents

This white crepe, sleeveless evening dress, with a bow back panel, was one of the 140 creations by French designer Gaston Berthelot that were shown at the New York House of Christian Dior yesterday. The fall collection also featured jaunty fedoras, flashing pleats and fake curls. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Young People Tour Mexico

WESTBROOK (SC)—Wanda Whitehead, daughter of Mrs. Sybil Whitehead, and Vickie Sullivan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Sullivan, accompanied a group of young people and sponsors from Central Baptist Church, Colorado City, on a sight-seeing trip to Mexico recently.

Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Taylor and daughters of Houston are guests of his parents, the C. E. Taylors. They also visited his grandmother, Mrs. Jewel Smith, in Knott and with J. L. Oliver, who is seriously ill at McKnight Hospital, Carlsbad.

Mr. and Mrs. Charley Oliver were visited in Sweetwater Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Moody of Hico visited their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Moody, and sons , and Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Moody over the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Anderson were visitors in Odessa Sunday. Grandchildren, Linda and Terry Lee Anderson, returned with them for a visit this week.

Mrs. W. A. Bell was called back to Dallas Monday where her father, A. K. McCarley of Colorado City, is seriously ill in Parkland Hospital. She was accompanied by her sister, Mrs. Charles Walker of Odessa, and A. K. McCarley Jr. of Colorado City.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Scroggins and children, Stuart and Stephnie, attended the wedding of Tommy McAninch and Carolyn Anderson in Merkel Saturday night. They were in Tuscola Sunday for a family reunion and to celebrate their daughter, Stephnie's third birthday.

Susan Beach of Colorado City is spending the week with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Henderson.

Mrs. A. F. Criswell attended the funeral of Mrs. Cora Brewer in Sweetwater Tuesday.

Hair Comes From Spain

With the Spanish mood in fashions now in vogue, and with wigs already a major beauty and fashion accessory, it comes as no surprise that the American woman is looking to her Spanish sister as the prime source of hair for her wigs and hairpieces.

Currently, what is considered among the finest quality human hair for wigs is collected from women of the rural sections of Spain. They have not subjected their hair to colorings, permanent wavings, or other conditions that "break down" good hair and which make it unsuitable for quality wigs.

This, plus the combination of their southern European climate, their diet and general disposition appear to bring about all the natural and most desirable attributes of hair for wig work.

What makes these facts especially significant is that Spain's foremost manufacturer of handmade and machine-made human hair wigs is now distributing these products in the United States in a selection of 88 shades.

The wider the available selection of hair shades, the more likely will the prospective wig buyer successfully match her natural hair shade or the particular color she desires. Her first wig purchase is apt to be a color close to her natural hair shade, to afford her another "head."

Wigs are no longer luxury items purchased and worn only by movie stars and society's elite. They are the modern answer to the need for looking glamorous and chic seven days a week.

Now a woman can have a beautiful coiffure for emergency purposes, while traveling, for an impromptu dinner or party, for after-swimming, for the times when her own hairstyle has collapsed, or for the periods when her hair is growing out in length or color. And, a wig is a blessing in disguise for a woman with thinning hair.

Wig Tips:

A wig will not come off accidentally if fitted properly. A few pins will anchor it down, if needed.

High-quality wigs are comfortable and lightweight, and will not stifle or cut off air from the scalp.

A wig can be worn right after the owner's hair has been washed. She simply dries her hair and slips on her wig.

Cleaning and other wig-servicing should be performed only by the professional in the salon or beauty shop.

BPO Does Contribute To Projects

Donations were given to the Civil Air Patrol and to the Howard County Rehabilitation Center during the Wednesday evening meeting of the BPO Does. The group met at the Elks lodge with Mrs. A. D. Jenkins presiding.

Protem elected officers are Mrs. Elmer Mulkey, junior counselor, and Mrs. Curtis Arnold, secretary.

Mrs. Kathleen Williams gave a report from the card committee, and Mrs. L. D. Jenkins reported that the sale of cook books is progressing satisfactorily.

It was also announced that Mrs. A. D. Jenkins, president, would attend the national convention in Idaho Falls, Idaho, the last of June.

Mrs. Mary Ragsdale's name was called for the attendance prize.

Garden Clubbers Set Projects For Season

Projects for the coming year were discussed during the Wednesday afternoon meeting of the Four O'Clock Garden Club. The group met in the home of Mrs. Nelson Ball, 1319 Tucson, for the first meeting of the new club year.

Mrs. B. E. Reagan, president, conducted the planning for the new program. Topics and activities include the standard flower show to be held in October, Arbor Day planting at Hillcrest Park, Bird sanctuaries at member's homes, collection of canned goods and used clothing for a Thanksgiving basket for the needy, and slides for donation to the state program chairman.

During the program session, Mrs. B. W. Tubb, national flower show judge, gave a talk entitled, "Color for Every Day of the Year." She stressed that color, as applied to floral art is keyed to the texture and surface of plant material, and that a successful arrangement is found in the application of different tints and tones of color. She said that the most important features of flower arrangements are balance and restraint.

Mrs. Ball spoke on the benefits and types of mulches to be found in this area. Some of the mulches available are tree leaves, peat moss, wood shavings, sawdust, cotton seed hulls, and baled cane pulp.

New committee chairman are Mrs. Bill Swindell, civic beautification and constitution; Mrs. Guy Cook, therapy; Mrs. Tubb, flower show and yearbook; Mrs. Edward Kohanek, litterbug; Mrs. R. O. Linn, awards; Mrs. J. E. Swindell, pressbook; Mrs. C. J. Horton, budget; Mrs. E. D. Campbell, ways and means; Mrs. Ball, hospitality; Mrs. Charles Franklin, parliamentarian; and Mrs. Kohanek, telephone.

The next meeting will be July 14 in the home of Mrs. J. E. Swindell.

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Gives Tip To Bean Cooks

Dear Heloise:

If I forget to soak beans overnight, is there any way to soften them to shorten the cooking time and save on utilities?

I am on such a tight budget. Please help me. . . . . Marie

* * *

Dear Marie:

M-m-m . . . I love beans!

HELOISE

When I forget to put them in to soak the night before, I just sort them, put them in my colander and wash them under the hot water faucet. You'll find half of those "rocks" were not rocks at all but hard bits of dirt.

After they are washed, put them in a pot and cover with enough water to come about three inches above the beans. Put the cover on and bring to a boil for five minutes.

Now turn out your fire. This is where you will save on the utility bill.

Don't remove the cover. Let the beans set an hour or two.

Then I usually pour off this water (and you know why?) and replace it with fresh water, add my seasonings and cook 'em from there.

Beans (any kind) are delicious when sliced onions are canned tomatoes are added.

Never, never add salt until a few minutes before you are ready to serve them. This is what causes them to be hard-as-rocks.

Bless you, Marie . . . I'm going to have beans tonight, too! . . . Heloise

Dear Heloise:

These twin eight-year-old girls of mine are very active . . . always romping around.

Yesterday, when one of them skinned a knee, grandma went running for the mercurochrome, which, in her haste to apply, was spilled on Sally's new cotton plaid dress — a gift from her grandparents.

Sally is heartbroken!

Please tell me how I can remove the spots from her dress. . . . Mazie

* * *

To remove mercurochrome and merthiolate stains, soak overnight in a basin of warm water with four tablespoons of ammonia.

Or: If alcohol is safe for the dye, dilute with two parts water and sponge as long as any stain remains.

Or: Wet with liquid detergent and add one drop of ammonia, wash and rinse as usual.

Always be sure to spot test first and to follow instructions and cautions on the container.

And kiss those twins for all of us. . . . Heloise

Dear Heloise: . .

I am only 12, but I have a household idea.

If any readers of this column have wall paper sample books, I found it a good idea to cut the wall paper into place mat-size and scallop the edges.

They make cute throw-away place mats. . . . . Karen Linder

* * *

Dear Heloise:

My three-year-old son, took a good bar of soap and threw it into his sand pile. It landed on one side, so I removed it and tried to scrape off the sand, but could not. I put it away so that we might use it if we ever had an emergency.

One day, I found I had used the last bar of soap and was forced to use the one that had fallen into the sand pile. To my delight, I found I had never enjoyed a shower as much as I did when using the soap-with-the-sand for scrubbing.

Now, I soften one side of a bar of soap and put it in some sand myself. Just try it, and you will see what I mean about enjoying a shower.

This is especially good for legs, arms, and feet, plus your back. . . . Mrs. L. Feschbien

Women's Watches Lead Double Life

Women are much tougher on watches than men, despite their designation as the gentler sex, watch industry experts report.

A man usually owns one watch, wears it daily and avoids mishandling it because he relies on it continuously. And his watch is larger and more rugged than the smaller ones designed for women.

"A woman usually owns more than one watch and most of them spend relatively little time on her wrist," says Max Schwartz, technical director for a watch company. "But, on her wrist or off, a lady's watch has a rough life."

Except for nurses' watches, most women's watches are not waterproof, he notes. Yet their owners wear them in the kitchen while preparing recipes, cooking or washing up. They wear them while handling clothing in the washer, and when giving small children baths. It's not surprising, therefore, that water or humidity wets the watch, and rust in the movement results.

"When a woman isn't wearing a watch," Schwartz says, "it is exposed to many dangers. The watch is probably stuffed in a crowded handbag or dresser drawer, together with perfume, face powder, loose tobacco, and a variety of scratchy objects.

"Vaporized perfume is a menace because it will quickly destroy the lubricants in the watch movement. Face powder is dangerous because it slowly filters into the watch and clogs it. Finely shredded tobacco can have the same effect."

Scratchy objects such as lipstick holders, compacts, eyebrow pluckers, coins, hairpins, nail files and scissors scratch and crack the crystal of a watch. A cracked crystal permits perfume, water, other liquids as well as powders, lint and dust to enter the watch.

"Women seem to expect a watch to lead a double life," says Schwartz with no perceptible twinkle in his eye. "Part of the time they want a watch to be a glamorous, fine-crafted fashion accessory, and part of the time they expect it to be a tough, all-purpose timing device.

"And unfortunately they usually ignore the fact that a lady's watch needs to be cleaned and oiled more often than a man's watch. Because the movement is smaller and the arts are finer, cleaning requirements are more demanding and fresh lubricants are needed more frequently

Garden Club Council Receives Sears Grant

For the fifth consecutive year, Big Spring has benefitted from the co-operative program of community improvement and beautification sponsored by Sears, Roebuck and Company and Texas Garden Clubs, Inc.

Tuesday morning, Mrs. Mary Holland, assistant manager of the local Sears store, presented a $60 check to Mrs. D. S. Riley and Mrs. E. O. Sanderson who represented the Big Spring Council of Garden Clubs. Mrs. Riley is project chairman, and Mrs. Sanderson is the retiring president.

Sears has provided a sum of $6,000 per year for the past five years to Texas Garden Clubs, Inc. This $30,000 has been allocated by a committee of garden club members to various clubs and councils throughout the state on the basis of project outlines submitted by them, together with their applications for participation in the improvement program.

To date, more than 100 projects in over 40 Texas counties have received Sears grants to implement community improvement projects spearheaded by Texas Garden Clubs, Inc.

The local council received the grant for the patio project at the Big Spring State Hospital which has been in progress for several years. There are six clubs in the council, with over 100 gardeners being involved in the beautification work.

The patio, for use of patients, has been planted with honeysuckle, Youpon holly, miniature junipers, roses, ivy and vinca. An effort has been made to use some native plants, and temporary seasonal plants include irises, chrysanthemums, cannas and zinnias.

Five permanents lights have been installed, as well as two fish ponds, a bird bath and a walkway the length of the patio. Stepping stones to the pools and concrete benches have been provided.

New Slate Installed

Circle chairman were appointed during the Tuesday morning meeting of the Women's Society of Christian Service of Wesley Methodist Church.

The Martha Foster Circle officers are Mrs. E. A. Guinn, chairman; Mrs. J. C. Ray, vice chairman; Mrs. G. W. Sutton, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. E. R. Cawthron, spiritual life; and Mrs. Leonard West, telephone.

Mrs. Marshall Day and Mrs. E. R. Cawthron gave the prayers.

The Lalla Baird Circle officers are Mrs. H. B. Barry, chairman; Mrs. S. L. Thurman; vice chairman; Mrs. D. L. Milner, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Joe Jacobs, spiritual life; Miss Helen Ewing, telephone; and Mrs. W. B. Morris, local church.

Mrs. L. B. Barker and Mrs. Abbie Anderson gave the prayers.

Women Fail To Get New Laws On Status

..EDITOR'S NOTE: The issue of women's rights raised echoes in Capitol again this spring, but when the dust settled there was little for the women to shout about. This is another in a series of articles reviewing the accomplishments and shortcomings of the 59th Legislature.

By PEGGY SIMPSON

AUSTIN (AP) — The 59th Legislature talked a lot about women's rights, but when the books were closed no new laws upgrading the status of women had been passed.

The most significant accomplishment was a House resolution. It directed the legislative council to study all Texas laws dealing with women's rights and report to the 60th Legislature.

Five men and five women will be named by the council to an advisory committee on how to resolve discriminations.

Sponsoring the resolution was Rep. George Cowden of Waco, the House's foremost opponent of a proposed constitutional amendment to bar discrimination based on sex.

Women lobbying for more rights—principally those from the Texas Federation of Business and Professional Women—put top priority on the amendment route as a means to force the legislature to change various laws.

The proposal came up three times in the House—and on the last vote, still fell about 10 shy of the needed two-thirds.

The women vowed they'd take revenge at the polls.

In the Senate, Sen. Dorsey Hardeman of San Angelo held the line against the proposed amendment and seemed a bit surprised at his success.

Most senators voted for the proposal when Sen. Bill Moore of Bryan brought it u.p But enough went along with Hardeman to exempt present laws from the effect—and, in effect, hamstring the measure — that Moore pulled it back for a few weeks.

There were more talking sessions, with Hardeman and other senators predicting the destruction of Texas' community property system if the proposal was enacted.

At the end, neither chamber had approved the proposal. Two years ago the Senate approved it early and left the main blame on the House.

Two weeks before the session closed, the Senate passed a bill to revise 21 sections of law dealing with property rights of married couples.

This represented a truce between the State Bar of Texas and the B&PW, arrived at in Houston weeks before.

Mrs. Hermine Tobolowsky of the B&PW and Southern Methodist University law professor Joe McKnight had endorsed the revision, which made married couples legally equal in handling personal and community property.

Many separate bills dealing with the property question had been introduced but none passed.

The truce reportedly extended to the House, where Cowden and Rep. Paul Floyd of Houston said they would co-sponsor it. Time caught up with them, however, and the bill never came to a House vote.

Other notable bills which failed to clear included one to give wives the same shooting rights as their husbands in adultery cases, and another to outlaw common law marriage as a legal status.

Party Fetes Bride-Elect Monday

Miss Jane Tamplin, bride-elect of Lt. Michael Evan Davis, was honored with an informal mother-daughter party Monday evening in the home of Mrs. Zack Gray, 1305 Pennsylvania. Mrs. Sidney Clark was cohostess.

The guest list included 12 close friends of the bride-elect and their mothers.

The table decorations featured Miss Tamplin's chosen colors of green and white, and the centerpiece was a large arrangement of white daisies. A cook book was presented to the honoree from the hostesses.

The couple plans to be married June 26 at the First Baptist Church.

Pound Shrinkage Told By TOPS

A total weight loss of 45 pounds was reported at the Tuesday evening meeting of the TOPS Pound Rebels. The club met in the home of Mrs. W. R. Trim, 1508 Tucson.

The meeting was opened with the pledge led by Mrs. Arlis Scott, and Mrs. Ruth Fite was welcomed as a guest. The program consisted of a song fest accompanied by Mrs. Trim, pianist.

The next meeting will be June 15 at the Community Room of the First Federal Savings and Loan Association building.

Women View English Life

Life in England was compared to that in the United States in talks heard Wednesday by members of the Newcomers Club who met at Cosden Country Club.

Mrs. Luke Fortenberry introduced the speakers, Mrs. Horace Doyal and Mrs. Wheeler Stanley, members of the British Wives Club. The women described the customs, traditions and habits of the English people and listed the differences they have noticed since residing in this country. They displayed articles, typical of England, which included newspapers, magazines and children's books and answered questions from the floor.

Preceding a buffet luncheon, bridge was played with Mrs. Leland Pierce winning high score.

The resignation of Mrs. Roy Smith, president, was accepted and the announcement made that nominations to fill the vacancy will be made at a board meeting soon. Mrs. Smith is moving to Corpus Christi.

Mrs. Terry Bull was hostess and introduced a guest, Mrs. Elmer Ahrens.

The next meeting will be July 14 at Cosden Country Club.

Church Completes Study Sessions

The Reba Thomas Circle of the First Methodist Church completed a study of the Book of Genesis during its Tuesday evening meeting. The group met in the home of Mrs. Lewis Ceronne, 707 W. 13th. Mrs. W. S. Goodlett, chairman, gave the opening prayer. Mrs. Ceronne conducted the study program. The group will not meet again until September 14.

Awaiting Tee Off In Open

Pictured above are some of the golfers likely to be in the field in the third annual Big Spring Golf Open, which opens Saturday at the Country Club and continues through Sunday. From the left, they are Dick Pfeiffer and Gus Barr, both of Big Spring; and R. S. (Red) McCullah and his son, David, both of San Angelo.

Field In 3rd Annual Open Awaits Start

D Day and H Hour is nearing for the field in the third annual Big Spring Golf Open, scheduled to be held at the Country Club.

The linksters play their first 18 holes in the partnership, low-ball style meet Saturday and follow up with 18 Sunday. Tournament officials are hoping for a calm day with little wind, which may be too much to expect of West Texas this time of year.

Deadline for entry is 6 o'clock this evening. Pro Jerry Green and other members of the tournament committee will draw up pairings, complete with starting time, this evening in the clubhouse.

The tournament record is shared by Jack Montgomery, Fort Worth, and Big Spring's Frank Powell, who won the inaugural show two years ago with a score of 128, 14 strokes under par. Montgomery is now on the pro tour but he was an amateur then.

A total of 292 players entered the 1963 meet while 282 registered last year.

Last year, the low team consisted of Eddie Jones, then of Lorenzo and now of Casper, Wyo., and Jim Fullingim of Petersburg, who posted a 36-hole low-ball score of 133.

Roland Adams of Lubbock has been the low pro in both tournaments and won $100 each time. He sizzled with a six-under par 136 in 1963 and was one stroke off that figure last year.

Seventy-two teams will be permitted in each of the two flights and indications are the lower or True Amateur division will have the limit. The Open division still needed quite a few teams this morning.

Among latest entries in the Open division are:

Gail Shed and Bob McLeod, both of Abilene; Gilliam Stovall and Perry Houser, also of Abilene.

Robb Smith and W. O. Maxwell were among those who still had not lined up partners this morning.

The tournament has attracted some of the top area names in professional and amateur golf since it started, among them Charles Coody, Horace Moore, Jack Williams, Montgomery, Luke Thompson, Adams, David Bois, Dick Turner, Bobby Lockett, Charles Hopkins and many others.

Famed pro footballers like Charley Johnson, Bobby Layne, Sammy Baugh and Bob McLeod have also taken part in the event, too, and Layne along with McLeod are entered again this year.

The pro on the top tandem will be rewarded with $300 in cash. The other five pros sharing in the loot will be paid $200, $160, $100, $75 and $65, respectively.

In addition, the pro posting the low medal score will get $100.

The amateurs sharing in the awards will be given such things as sets of woods and shotguns.

No buffet supper will be held in conjunction with the tournament, as in years past. However, the Country Club is staging a Saturday night dance.

The early favorites are Earl Stewart Jr., and his son, Chip, both of Dallas.

At least 15 pros will be in the field. Most of the play-for-play fellows wait until the last day to enter a meet such as this.

El Paso Austin Shades Monterey In Even Set

By The Associated Press

Galena Park downed Houston Westbury Wednesday night for a berth in the state schoolboy baseball tournament while four other spots in the two top brackets will be determined tonight.

Galena Park blanked Westbury 7-0 for its second straight and decisive victory.

El Paso Austin nipped Lubbock Monterey 3-0 to tie the series and require a crucial third game tonight.

In another Class AAAA battle Dallas Samuell, leading 1-0, meets Marshall at Marshall today for the second, and if necessary, third game.

Brownsville has already won a berth in the Class AAAA division of the state tournament by eliminating San Antonio Lee.

In Class AAA, Kermit plays Snyder and Alvin meets Brenham today. Kermit leads 1-0 and if needed a doubleheader will be played today. Alvine and Brenham are tied 1-1.

South San Antonio and Waxahachie have already won their regional series for berths in Class AAA of the state tournament.

The state tournament will be staged in Austin June 15-16.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Hank Watkins of Odessa High, one of the newest members of the West Texas coaching fraternity, was most pleased with the development of quarterback Larry Gatlin and the ability of his Bronchos to put the ball up in the air in his spring drills.

The Broncs didn't throw the ball much under Bradley Mills. Mills was the conservative type who didn't like the thought of having the ball picked off by the opposition. He fielded a club of baby bull elephants and won the district championship with them, which is all that should be asked of any man.

Many of those goliaths have departed the scene, however, and Watkins figured he had to adjust with what he had. He came up from McAllen identified as a throwing coach. The aerial game he rallied in a game against Odessa last year almost paid off in victory and certainly caught the eye of Odessa officials who even then seemed fairly determined to change coaches.

Although Big Spring knocked off Odessa in district play last season, Gatlin put on quite a show here. He's a competitor and a leader and you don't find too many of those kind any more.

Watkins says he's desperately short of backs but he has speedy Ray Goddard to go along with Gatlin and a lot of coaches have had to settle for less.

• • • •

Incidentally, Watkins' chief coaching aide, ex-Big Springer Chop Van Pelt, is in Norman, Okla., attending summer school. He's completing work toward his master's degree.

Van Pelt was an outstanding guard here in high school, later played a year at HCJC (on the only football team the Jayhawks ever had) and ultimately coached on the high school level here under Emmett McKenzie.

• • • •

He would never take credit for it but Watkins helped Melvin Robertson land that coaching job at the University of Houston.

Watkins coached at Houston a few years ago and talked to head mentor Bill Yeomans about Robertson.

Last week's $100,000 Buick Open was only another in a series of summer golf tournaments that will line the pockets of the winners with gold.

The $125,000 Cleveland Open is scheduled this week. Then comes the U.S. Open at St. Louis, where the prize money will also be $125,000. On June 24-27, the $100,000 St. Paul Open is carded.

The Western Open is scheduled July 1-4 in Chicago and its $50,000 prize money will probably be upped. The $100,000 Canadian Open is slated July 14-17 (after the British Open), to be followed July 22-25 by the $50,000 Insurance Open at Wethersfield, Conn.; the $100,000 Thunderbird Classic at Harrison, N.Y., July 29-Aug. 1; the $100,000 Philadelphia Open Aug. 5-8; the $50,000 PGA at Ligonier, Pa., Aug. 12-15; the $200,000 Carling World Championship at Sutton, Mass., Aug. 19-22; and the $100,000 American Golf Classic at Akron, Ohio, Aug. 26-29.

When Big Springer John Pipes followed the Colonial National field in Fort Worth not long ago, he overheard an appraisal made by Doc Griffin, publicity director for the PGA, on young golfers now on the tour.

Griffin expressed the opinion that three of the best are Homero Blancas, Randy Glover and Billy Martindale. The PGA official said he fully expected one of them to win a tournament this year.

Blancas and Martindale are Texans. Glover hails from Sanford, N.C.

Giants Find They Cannot Spare Willie

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Herman Franks would like to give Willie Mays a day off, but every time the San Francisco Giants' star earns a rest he gives his manager another reason for keeping him on the job.

Weary Willie, who came into New York two days ago nursing a heavy cold and a deflated batting average, worked over the Mets Wednesday night for the second straight game, driving in three runs with a single and his 18th homer in the Giants' 4-2 victory.

The previous night Mays had ended an 0-for-18 famine by doubling home two first-inning runs that stood up for a 2-1 decision over the National League tailenders.

"I would like a real day off," the great center fielder said after that game. "I'd like the manager to tell me stay away from the park for one full day."

Franks has held Willie out of his starting line-up several times but invariably has had to call on the 34-year-old slugger as a pinch hitter or defensive replacement.

Wednesday's night's spurt gave Willie 41 RBI and a .324 batting mark for the season.

Ernie Banks rapped a three-run homer, lifting the Chicago Cubs past Milwaukee 4-2 in an afternoon game and boosting his RBI lead to 48. Philadelphia knocked off the Los Angeles Dodgers 7-3, Pittsburgh ripped Houston 11-3 and St. Louis beat Cincinnati 6-4 in other National League night games.

AT WORK EARLY

Mays put the Giants ahead 2-0 in the first inning with a towering drive over the left centerfield fence following a walk to Dick Schofield. The Mets pulled even in the fourth on Charlie Smith's two-run homer but Mays broke the deadlock in the eighth after losing pitcher Jack Fisher opened the gates by nicking winner Gaylord Perry with a fast ball.

Schofield singled Perry to second and the pitcher scored on Mays' hit to left. A walk to Jim Hart and Willie McCovey's infield single sent Schofield across with an insurance run.

Pickett To Pass Up Final Year

WACO, Tex. (AP) — Henry Pickett, who has been Baylor University's starting halfback for two seasons, will pass up his final year of eligibility and take his degree in August.

Pickett, from George West, said increased family responsibilities and a recent offer of a good job prompted his decision.

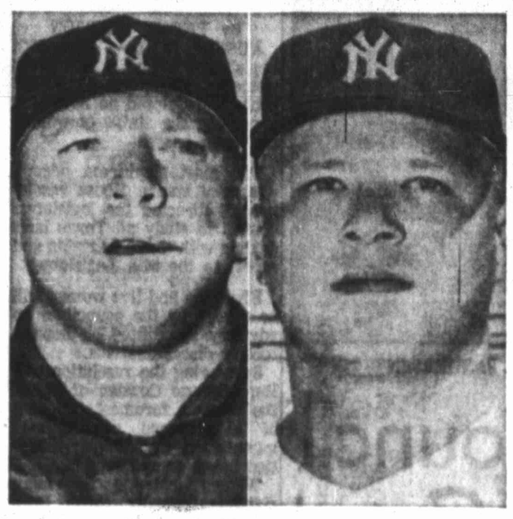

Tebbetts Stratagem Costly To Jim Kaat

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

If there's one thing Jim Kaat needs, it's a seamstress.

Kaat, the Minnesota Twins ace left-hander, found out about a stitch in time saving two runs Wednesday night when he was ordered to make some alterations on his sweat shirt during the ninth inning and wound up losing to Cleveland 2-1.

The incident occurred with Kaat working on a three-hitter in the ninth and trying to protect a 1-0 lead over the Indians.

Fined By Yankees?

New York Yankee slugger Mickey Mantle, left, and relief pitcher Hal Reniff, right, are reported by reporters traveling with the club to be two of the three players fined $250. New York Yankees general manager Ralph Houk announced that three players were fined and a few others talked to for breaking training, but he refused to divulge the names of the players. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Yanks Have No Ear For Music

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The New York Yankees, who last year gave up on harmonicas, have taken up whistling.

And the price still is the same—$250 fines.

The Yankees, mired in eighth place and apparently whistling in the dark in the American League pennant race, announced Wednesday that three players had been fined $250 each for breaking training.

The Yankees refused to divulge the names of the players and the nature of the incidents that brought about the fines. But reporters traveling with the club said the fines were levied for, among other things, whistling at waitresses in a restaurant.

The same newsmen also reported that two of the fined players were $100,000-a-year outfielder Mickey Mantle and relief pitcher Hal Reniff.

The fines were announced at a hastily called press conference by General Manager Ralph Houk, who flew to Kansas City after the baseball draft ended in New York.

"A few people broke training," Houk said. "Three players were fined $250 apiece. A few others were talked to."

Houk said he would not divulge the names of the players involved but was announcing the fines because "we didn't like it to go unnoticed. It got out of hand. It was a public show. If somebody wants to carry on, there's a place for it. That was not the place."

The incidents took place Sunday after the Yankees doubleheader in New York. The team had about three hours to spare before catching a plane and went to dine. When they eventually reached the airport, there was a 2½-hour delay and the Yankees again went to a restaurant.

Manager Johnny Keane, who resigned his job with the world champion St. Louis Cardinals to move over the the American League champion Yankees, called Houk about the incident Monday, then met with the club Monday night and settled the issue.

Houk's flight, meanwhile, was reminiscent of last year's flight to Boston in mid-August after the Great Harmonica Tooting Incident.

The player involved then was infielder Phil Linz, who became musically inclined on the team bus to the distress of Yogi Berra, then the Yankee manager. Houk flew in to Boston to announce a $250 fine had been levied on Linz.

Rent Demands Are High: Hofheinz

HOUSTON (AP) — The door of the domed stadium was left open Wednesday to any professional football team that may want to rent the $31.6 million stadium.

Roy Hofheinz, president of the Houston Sports Association, called a news conference to give his side of a feud with K. S. Adams, owner-president of the Houston Oilers.

Adams said last week the Oiler home games won't be played in the domed stadium as originally planned but at the Rice University stadium. He attributed the change to a disagreement with Hofheinz over the rent.

Hofheinz said Adams and the Sports Association, which owns the Houston Astros and holds a 40-year lease on the stadium, had agreed on all points of the contract.

"We shook hands, they patted me on the back and I thought all differences had been ironed out," Hofheinz said. "Then they announced they are going to Rice Stadium."

Hofheinz said the Oilers, motive might be that Rice Stadium seats 70,000 persons while the dome would seat 53,000.

His association proposed 17½ per cent of gate receipts as rent, compared to a reported 10 per cent charge at Rice.

"But bleacher fans in the domed stadium have better seats than $10 seats in Rice Stadium," Hofheinz said, "and they can sit in air conditioned comfort."

He said all American Football League team owners had inspected the stadium and agreed the 17½ per cent rental fee was not too much.

Adams had complained that a 10-year lease offered by the sports association gave it the right to renegotiate the contract each year.

"I pointed out that the terms could be adjusted downward as easily as upward," Hofehinz said, "but we dropped that provision from the contract."

Hofheinz said the University of Houston and the association have signed a contract for the school to play its home games in the stadium "and it is my guess we will be carrying other football games."

Oilers Seek Sixth Win

The Gage Oilers seek their sixth win in seven baseball starts in a game with Merkel in Merkel at 8 o'clock tonight.

Manager Jim Baum has nominated Roy New as his pitcher. New usually plays the outfield.

Following is the Oiler lineup, listed with batting averages in parentheses:

Jerry Barron (.333), shortstop; Tommy Young (.429), center field; Tito Arencibia (.700), first base Tommy McAdams (.400), third base; Dean Christian (.615), right field; Jack Blizzard (.533), left field; Jim Baum (.294), catcher; Jerry Spence (.000), second base; and New (0-0), pitcher.

The Merkel club has won eight of its 11 starts. The Oilers play in Lamesa twice Sunday.

James Cone New Coach At Olney

OLNEY, Tex. (AP)—James E. Cone, who has been basketball coach at Springtown the past two years, has been named head coach at Olney High School.

Cone, a graduate of Texas Wesleyan College, was head coach at Perrin before going to Springtown.

With a 2-1 count on Rocky Colavito, Cleveland Manager Birdie Tebbetts complained to plate umpire Bill Haller that Kaat had a hole in the left sleeve of his sweat shirt. The umpire ordered Kaat to the dugout to have both sleeves shortened, eliminating the hole and keeping the sleeves the same length.

When Kaat returned to the mound he proceeded to walk Colavito on two more pitches and then was tagged for a game-winning homer by Max Alvis.

It was the second time this season Tebbetts had complained about Kaat's tailoring. On April 28 at Cleveland, Tebbetts complained in the first inning that one of Kaat's sleeves was longer than the other. The two sleeves were evened out in the dugout.

When Kaat returned that time, Alvis was the batter.

Right. Alvis hit a homer.

Despite the loss, the American league-leading Twins remained 2½ games in front of the Chicago White Sox, who lost to Boston 4-2. Elsewhere, Detroit downed the Los Angeles Angels 4-2, Washington edged Baltimore 3-2 in 10 innings and the New York Yankees whipped Kansas City 5-1.

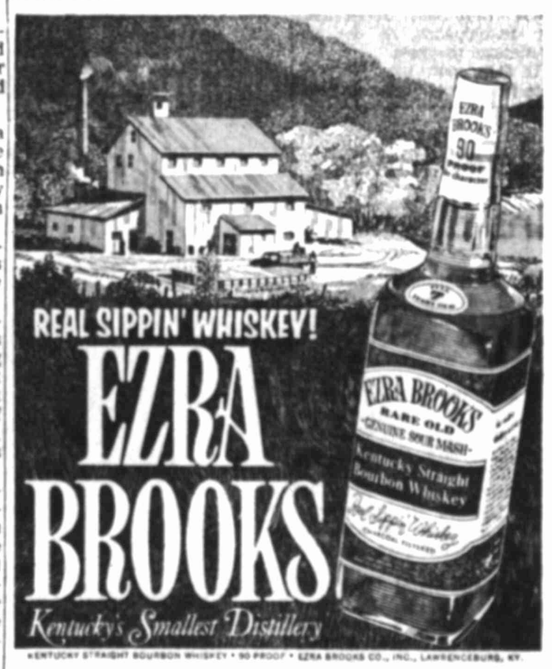

Kaat, now 5-6, was involved in a scoreless duel with the Indians' Ralph Terry until the Twins pushed across a run in the eighth on a double by Jerry Kindall, Kaat's bunt and a wild throw by catcher Joe Azcue on the play and a sacrifice fly by Zoilo Versalles.

Tebbetts then took a hand, apparently shaking up Kaat, and Terry finally posted the 100th victory of his career. Terry, now 5-3, had taken seven shots at No. 100.

Tony Horton, playing his second game since being recalled from Toronto, stroked three hits and drove in three runs for the Red Sox while Earl Wilson checked the White Sox on five hits.

Horton singled in two runs in a three-run third-inning uprising against starter Bruce Howard and hit a sacrifice fly in the sixth inning following Tony Conigliaro's triple.

Champ Miler Looks To Second Record

RENNES, France (AP) — France's Michel Jazy, who apparently runs his best against the clock rather than against tough opposition, today had the world's fastest time of 3:53.6 for the mile and solid confidence he'll break the 5,000-meter mark on Friday.

The 29-year-old veteran, a disappointment in the 1964 Olympics, Tuesday night bettered the world record of 3:54.1 set by New Zealand's Peter Snell. This brought the blue ribbon mile mark to France for the first time since 1931 when Jules Ladoumegue was clocked in 4:08.2.

In Tuesday night's race, Gerald Vervoort was second in 3:59.9.

Ironically, Jazy does not think of the mile as his best distance. He prefers the 5,000 meters. But he said outright before the race that he was going for a world record, and he made it. He then gave warning that he was going to shoot for a sensational exploit in the 5,000 meters Friday night in Paris.

In the 1960 Olympic Games in Rome, Jazy finished a badly beaten second in the 1,500 meters. For the 1964 Games, he decided to switch to the 5,000 meters.

But in Tokyo, he was bothered by the pace and used up his energy passing other runners, then being passed. When he saw he could not win, or even take second, he faded back to fifth and said that the only thing he really cared for was the gold medal.

That setback has rankled him since Tokyo. It took Jazy almost three years to get back his confidence after he was beaten by 30 meters by Herb Elliott of Australia in the 1,500 meters in Rome.

Jazy's mile record capped an amazing series of races in the space of one week. On June 2, he ran the fastest mile by a European with a time of 3:55.5 at Saint Maur, a Paris suburb. On June 6, at Lorient, he erased the old European record for the 5,000 meters with a time of 13:34.4.

In Paris he will be aiming for the 13:25.8 record for 5,000 meters set by Ron Clarke of Australia last week in Los Angeles.

Lions Turn Back Braves, 9 To 8

The Stripling Lions came from behind to edge the Kent Oil Braves, 9-8, Tuesday in a Texas Little League slugfest.

An 8-8 tie was broken up in the ninth on hits by center fielder Santos Olague and left fielder-pitcher Ernest Zubiate and an error by the Brave shortstop.

The Braves had gone in front, 3-1, in the first inning, and then by 7-1 in the third, but the Lions scored seven runs in the next two innings to tie up the game.

Ernest Zubiate, in taking the win, gave up seven hits to the 13 allowed by the Brave's Martinez.

Snyder Trailing In Playoff Set

SNYDER — Snyder has its back to the wall in today's Regional baseball series with Kermit.

Kermit won the opening game of the set in Kermit Monday, 5-3, on a home run by Benjy Lawrence.

Snyder must win twice today to earn a trip to the State tournament.

First game begins at 1 p.m. If Snyder wins, the two teams will play again immediately.

Either J. N. Wall or Jerry Owens will go to the mound for Snyder in the first game today.

Board At Milwaukee Pondering Brave Offer

By DAVE O'HARA
Associated Press Sports Writer

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Milwaukee Braves, high in the standings but low at the gate, may have to dig a lot deeper than a half million dollars if they want to flee to Atlanta this year.

The Braves offered a cool $500,000 for release from their Milwaukee contract at mid-season Wednesday, but the proposal received chilly, although somewhat mixed, reaction from county officials.

"To hell with 'em," snapped Milwaukee County Board Chairman Eugene H. Grobschmidt, a leader in legal action which forced the Braves last fall to fulfill their contract here before going to Atlanta in 1966.

Two of Grobschmidt's colleagues on the board, however, said they might entertain thoughts of letting the Braves leave — at a bigger price.

Supervisor Ted E. Wedemeyer predicted board members might be more receptive to an offer in the vicinity of three-quarters of a million dollars. Supervisor Donald F. Weber set a price tag of $1.5 million.

Although the Braves' hopes of an early migration to the south have been well known, a formal offer was withheld until Wednesday. Bill Bartholomay, the club's board chairman, made the proposal in six-page telegrams to Grobschmidt, county executive John Doyne and Teams, Inc., a civic group seeking another major league franchise for Milwaukee.

Bartholomay offered Milwaukee County $400,000 and Teams, Inc., $100,000 to sever contractual ties and permit the Braves to move to Atlanta after July 10. The offer carried a deadline of midnight June 21, but from initial reaction it might just as well be Dec. 31.

Bartholomay said that on the basis of projected figures the Braves' Milwaukee attendance this year will be "at least 400,000, some 1,200,000 below" the 12-year average. He admitted the Braves face "a substantial operating loss," but said the county will realize less than $90,000

"Acceptance of this offer will insure the taxpayers of Milwaukee over $300,000 more than they can reasonably expect under the terms of the lease for Milwaukee County Stadium," he said.

Grobschmidt disputed Bartholomay's projected figures and said a strong showing by the Braves would attract fans in the summer months.

"All of a sudden, Mr. Bartholomay is thinking about the Milwaukee taxpayers," Grobschmidt added. "That's a quick pitch. He has had no concern for them for the past two years."

Grobschmidt, reached while vacationing, said he would submit the Braves' offer at the county board's regular meeting next Wednesday. However, he said he believes the majority of the board shares his feelings and the public would be "99 to 1 against it."

The Braves have drawn only 125,606 for 22 County Stadium dates this year. In 1964, before their attempt to move to Atlanta, they had an attendance of 253,817 for the comparable period.

ABC Gains 3-2 Edge

The ABClub withstood a McMahon threat in the seventh inning to win a 3-2 Hi-Junior baseball league verdict here Wednesday night.

Johnny McCullough, on the mound for ABC, set the losers down with two hits. Junior Almazon had a first inning single and Doyle Parmenter a fourth inning one-baser for the Indians.

The ABC team collected five hits off Billy Scott, the McMahon flinger. A two-run surge in the third, when Dave Mitchell and McCullough crossed the plate, gave the ABC team the margin it needed to win. Larry McMurtrey scored the other run for ABC in the initial inning.

Devils Face Bills' Star

OMAHA (AP) — The prime question of the College World Series is "who's going to stop Arizona State?"

John Marcum, cool St. Louis left-hander, will face the ASU sluggers tonight. Major league scouts at the 19th NCAA Tournament give Marcum the best chance against the Sun Devils of any Series pitcher.

Arizona State has been the class of the tournament through three rounds. The Sun Devils are unbeaten in the double-elimination tourney. They handed Ohio State's Big Ten champs their first Series defeat Wednesday night 9-4 with highly touted Rick Monday smashing a home run, double and single.

Earlier, the Western Athletic Conference champs clipped St. Louis 13-3 and Lafayette 14-1.

Washington State, which ousted Connecticut 3-2, faces Ohio State tonight, with the loser eliminated.

A two-run triple by .417-hitting Tom Daly in the seventh was the winning blow for St. Louis, which eliminated Florida State 5-3. Marcum came in to get the last three outs.

Angels Bury Cubs, 20-3

The Saunders Angels flattened the Phillips' 66 Cubs 20-3 Wednesday in sophomore league play on three-hit pitching by Roy Thomas and 18 hits, including a homer by shortstop Gary Kelly.

Scoring started in the first inning when the Angels flew off to an 11-3 lead on three triples, two doubles and assorted singles and walks.

The Cubs' three runs came on two singles, a walk and a thirdbase error.

Veto Red Tour, U.S. Urged

HOUSTON (AP) — The secretary of the National track and Field Association asked the State Department today to refuse certification of a team of athletes scheduled to go to Russia this summer.

Seymour Lieberman said in a letter to President Lyndon Johnson that the team due to compete against an all-Russian team will represent an organization which controls less than 10 per cent of the track and field athletes in the United States.

"However, the team will be publicized as a team representing the United States of America," Lieberman wrote.

"Randy Matson of Texas A&M, the world's greatest shot putter, will be eliminated from this team, along with all other top collegiate and high school athletes amounting to more than 90 per cent of track and field in this country.

"This situation has arisen because the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States refuses to hold an Olympic-type tryout to choose the two top athletes for each event.

"They insist on choosing only athletes who compete in their meet, while more than 90 per cent of all track and field athletes representing colleges and high school cannot compete in their meet unless partial supervision of their meet is given to the United States Track and Field Federation, which supervises college and high school track meets. This partial supervision the AAU has refused to grant."

Pirates Downed By Jets, 14-2

The American Little League Jets thumped the Pirates, 14-2, in a game Wednesday.

Although they had 10 hits the Pirates didn't capitalize on them, except for a short-lived two-run lead in the first inning.

Sixteen hits, including a homer by center fielder Paul Desha and a double and triple by third sacker Graham Pitcock, plus a sparkling 4-for-4 at the plate for winning pitcher David Newman fired the Jets.

Eddie Nanny, relieved by Ricky Steen in the fifth, absorbed the loss.

Computer Works Out A Pretty Good Match

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Three months ago a computer matched Michigan State University seniors Paul Nelson and Sandra Titus for a campus dance. Now they are married, and they agree with the computer that they were meant for each other.

Nelson and his wife concede the machine missed a point or two when it paired them for the dance last fall, but they give it an average of .987 since their marriage last March 20.

FAR MORE

"What we found out happened was that there were far more similarities than had been catalogued by the computer," said Nelson, 25, a business major.

"We both squeeze the toothpaste from the end and roll up the empty part and put the cap on."

Mrs. Nelson, 23, a retailing major whose family lives in Lansing, said this came as a relief because she had always wondered how it would be to be married to a man who squeezed the toothpaste in the middle and dropped the cap on the floor.

But they've found they are incompatible, so to speak, in the fields of housing and interior decorating.

She likes Danish modern furniture in a ranch house. He likes massive, Gothic pieces in the kind of big, old house in which he grew up.

NO PROBLEM

This, however, poses no immediate problem. Right now they are living in an MUS married students' unit.

Before their marriage, they visited Nelson's home in Buffalo, N.Y., where people were amazed that neither uses mayonnaise on Waldorf salad.

They'd already found, too, each had a fondness for well-done steak and spinach.

The computer had paired similarities between them in religion, background, travel, hobbies and politics, noting that each was a "quite vocal" conservative.

"Computer matching is a kind of elimination process," Nelson said. "Instead of having to meet and date many people, discovering compatibilities, the machine does it for you."

Lynda Bird To Take Part In Apache Diggings

GRASSHOPPER, Ariz. (AP) — Lynda Bird Johnson will be among 21 students making a peaceful invasion of this remote region in the heart of Apache country.

Lynda Bird, 21, the President's daughter, will be the first person of her rank to visit the reservation, where Apache warriors in 1881 fought a bloody battle with U.S. cavalry.

GUEST STUDENTS

She will be a guest student starting Friday at an archaeological digging conducted by the University of Arizona under the direction of Dr. Raymond H. Thompson.

The excavation is at the site of an ancient pueblo ruin of a now extinct tribe which dates back to 1400 A.D. In its shadows the Coyotero Apaches rose against U.S. troops.

It was at Cibecue, to the north of Grasshopper that Col. Eugene Asa Carr led 79 troopers, six officers and 23 Indian scouts into the village to arrest a medicine man named Noday Delklinne.

They were opposed by 300 Apaches.

One officer and 10 enlisted men were killed and 47 Apaches taken prisoner before the battle ended.

During the battle the Indian scouts mutinied and three were hanged as a result. Three troopers were awarded Congressional Medals of Honor.

A White House spokesman said the idea for the trip was Lynda Bird's and she'll be treated like any other student. She will pay her own way and will receive no college credit for her work.

The Apaches are much more sociable today, but they remain protective of their lands. When word reached them of Lynda Bird's visit they immediately began making plans.

TRIBE MEMBER

During her two week visit the President's daughter will be made a member of the White Mountain Apache Tribe which inhabits this remote area of eastern Arizona.

About 2,000 Apaches are expected to gather for the ceremony on the grassy plateau which surrounds mile-high Grasshopper.

Secret Service men have put a stamp of secrecy on the entire operation.

Ludwig Named To Waco Post

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Youth Council said Wednesday J. Ludwick has been named superintendent of the Waco State Home.

Ludwick formerly served as educational director of the home for dependent, neglected and orphaned children.

Missile Holes For Storage

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — State librarian Ralph Hudson thinks one of the government's problems may be the solution to one of his biggest headaches.

The government has 11 air-condition and humidity-controlled holes in the ground in Oklahoma vacant since the Atlas missiles once stored there were declared obsolete.

Hudson proposed that he be allowed to use the silos as storage space for the mountains of documents which must be stored in just the conditions which the abandoned missile sites provide.

Hudson heard Tuesday from the Office of Health, Education and Welfare that his request for the silo space seemed to qualify as an educational need and to file a formal request.

Miners Killed

You May Not Own Your Prescription

Can you have your prescription cut in half if it's more than you want or the price is higher than you want to pay?

Can you go to the pharmacist and get back the prescription you had filled yesterday?

Can you get any prescription refilled anytime?

Can your pharmacist refuse to fill a doctor's prescription?

Dr. Esther Jane Hall, faculty member at the University of Texas College of Pharmacy, had the answers to these and a lot of other questions about requirements on pharmacists when she spoke Wednesday noon at the Settles to the Downtown Lions Club. She is professor of jurisprudence and pharmaceutical marketing.

CAN'T CHANGE

No, the pharmacist can't increase or decrease the amount of drug prescribed by your doctor.

No, you can't get back the prescription you gave your pharmacist yesterday. He may let you have a copy of it, but he is the legal custodian and owner of the prescription unless you had a specific agreement to the contrary before having him fill the prescription.

No, you can't have your prescriptions refilled any time unless your doctor, at the time of the original prescription, gave instructions to permit refilling. Moreover, certain prescriptions cannot be filled without a doctor's order under any circumstances—prescriptions such as narcotics, dangerous drugs, etc.

Yes, your pharmacist may refuse to compound a doctor's prescription under certain conditions. For instance, he may be convinced the dosage is in excess of the recommended amounts. He may know a health history which might make a certain drug potentially harmful.

NEW RELATION

This opens up a new relationship between doctor and pharmacy, said Dr. Hall, that of pharmaceutical consultant. Because of his constant and close association with drugs, the pharmacist may advise frequently with doctors on dosage, etc. Most physicians appreciate this information, said Dr. Hall, but they are under no obligation to take the advice. Neither is the pharmacist under obligation to fill the prescription if he thinks it is beyond specified limitations.

You don't have to take a prescription if the price seems too high unless you asked in advance of the filling. If you did, then you are obligated. If you accept and take it home, then it's too late to quibble about price.

Texas has strict laws regarding pharmacy, said Dr. Hall. For instance, it not only makes rigid educational and licensing provisions, but it also specifies a minimum of technical apparatus and equipment and stocks. Prescriptions can be filled only at the pharmacy. Pills sold you may not be received and taken back into stock by the pharmacists. It's against the law.

Plymouth sales in Texas prove it!

TEXANS LOVE PLYMOUTH BELVEDERE

One big reason for Plymouth's sales success in Texas is the '65 Plymouth Belvedere. It's the big buy in the intermediate class, and Texans know a good deal when they see it. Belvedere gives you dollar-saving economy with a look of quality. From the luxurious Belvedere Satellite to the Belvedere I two-door sedan, there's a model to suit your car needs perfectly. And every Plymouth has a 5-year/50,000-mile engine and drive train warranty.*

*HERE'S HOW PLYMOUTH'S 5-YEAR/50,000-MILE ENGINE AND DRIVE TRAIN WARRANTY PROTECTS YOU:

Chrysler Corporation confidently warrants all of the following vital parts of its 1965 cars for 5 years or 50,000 miles, whichever comes first, during which time any such parts that prove defective in material and workmanship will be replaced or repaired at a Chrysler Motors Corporation Authorized Dealer's place of business without charge for such parts or labor: engine block, head and internal parts, intake manifold, water pump, transmission case and internal parts (excepting manual clutch), torque converter, drive shaft, universal joints, rear axle and differential and rear wheel bearings. Required maintenance: The following maintenance services are required under the warranty—change engine oil every 3 months or 4,000 miles, whichever comes first; replace oil filter every second oil change; clean carburetor air filter every 6 months and replace it every 2 years; and every 6 months furnish evidence of this required service to a Chrysler Motors Corporation Authorized Dealer and request him to certify receipt of such evidence and your car's mileage. Simple enough for such important protection.
