

Behind The Headlines

By DeWitt MacKenzie

One of the striking developments of the week-end is the demand of half a million arms workers in 300 key factories of England that the government immediately open a second battle front to aid Russia.

The suspicion that Britain is letting Russia down was voiced at the conference of the National Council of Engineering and Allied Trade Shop Stewards who voted this demand. The chief speaker, Walter Swanson, declared:

"We need to end all illusions that others have of the fact of doing all the dying and fighting while we in Britain are not called upon to make such gigantic sacrifices."

This isn't the first time that such a call has been made upon the British government.

Invasion Not Feasible

If the people of England feel this way about the matter, it's easy to understand why many Americans should be puzzled over the inability of the British to render greater aid to their new ally. I have been hearing that question raised daily for weeks now, and down in Tulsa, Oklahoma, where I talked on the war at the week-end, that was one of the persistent queries shot at me.

Well, it's easy to answer the specific inquiry as to why the British haven't tried an invasion of Western Europe, because that great operation has been so far from feasible that it would have been committing hara-kiri to attempt it. However, one must admit that it's far more difficult to explain why some other measure hasn't been undertaken—a more vigorous bombing of Berlin, for instance.

One can understand the feeling of the British public that perhaps the government has been playing it a bit too safe. This is a crisis in which great risk must be taken. War is largely a risk, and one reason why Hitler has achieved such great successes is because he not only has grasped greedily at opportunity but has taken chances.

GOP Senators May Ask Total Repeal Of Act

By William B. Ardrey
WASHINGTON (AP)—A group of Republican Senators, actively backed by Wendell L. Willkie, were reported ready Monday to demand outright repeal of the Neutrality Act.

Such a demand would impart a bipartisan character to the complete repeal movement, for Democratic Senators Glass (Va.), Pepper (Fla.) and others already have announced they would work to wipe the legislation off the books in the forthcoming test.

Leaders of the Republican repeal group in the Senate were reported reliably to be Senator Austin (D-Vt.), the assistant minority leader; Senator Bridges (R-NH) and Senator Gurney (D-SD).

Willkie Urged Change
Informants said they had discussed the neutrality issue with Willkie and had agreed with him that the party should take aggressive leadership in revision of the present statute.

Willkie, 1940 GOP presidential nominee, has urged repeatedly that the Republican party stand for "internationalism" rather than "isolationism."

It will be several days before the Neutrality Act revision reaches the Senate floor for full dress debate. The Senate foreign relations committee started its consideration of the revision question Monday.

Solves Problem Of Drilling Priorities

TULSA (AP)—The problem of obtaining priorities for its drilling campaign during the national emergency is gradually being solved, the Independent Petroleum Association and the National Stripper Well Association were told Monday.

Robert E. Allen, production chief of the office of petroleum coordinator, and Wirt Franklin, OPC District No. 2 senior director, spoke at a luncheon of the combined conventions of the associations.

Both were optimistic that the 1942 drilling campaign would be maintained at the 1941 level of approximately 30,000 wells, but warned that infallible predictions were impossible.

Germans 'Mop Up' Each Foot Of Way To Moscow

Moscow Braces For Nazi Impact

By The Associated Press

Heightened tension in the Far East, an increasingly grave situation for Moscow and indeed all Russia and the controversy between the United States and Germany over the torpedoing of the destroyer Kearny were Monday's outstanding developments in the war and threats of war girdling the earth.

Japan's new premier, General Eiki Tojo, declaring that Japan had reached a crossroads in her destiny, called for "iron unity among all the fighting arms and the people to cope with the encirclement of Japan by foreign powers." Japan imposed a drastic censorship on mail.

Negotiations for a united Pacific front composed of the United States, Britain, China, The Netherlands East Indies, Australia and New Zealand were reported in Canberra as complete.

A Chinese Army spokesman estimated that Japan had meted out the equivalent of 29 divisions in Manchukuo at Soviet Russia's Siberian "back door," and that three or four more divisions were enroute there.

Moscow, under a state of siege proclaimed by Premier Stalin, braced for the impact of German forces only 57 miles away at one point.

The German high command said that new wedges had been driven into the Moscow defenses, with two more Red Army groups wiped out, and that German soldiers and their allies in Southern Russia were sweeping anew toward the industrial Donets Basin and Rostov, gateway to the oil riches of the Caucasus.

Two Great Battles Rage

Emphasizing the seriousness of the situation confronting the Soviet capital was a decree by Russian Premier Joseph Stalin proclaiming a state of siege in the city.

The proclamation appealed to the Moscow population to lend all possible aid to the defending Red army, ordered summary execution of provocateurs and spies and placed all traffic under strict supervision.

The Russians reported that gigantic battles were raging on the two main approaches to the city—in the region of Mozhaisk and Maloyaroslavets, which are 57 miles west and 65 miles south of the city.

The Germans declared their armies had pierced strong Russian defenses at several points on the central front before Moscow, and said fierce Soviet counter-attacks had failed to pinch off the spearheads.

Total number of entries was estimated at 75 to 100.

Two Assassinate German General

VICHY, France (AP)—General Holtz, German commandant of the Nantes region of Occupied France, was shot to death Monday in the center of the city by two men who lay in wait along a street he passed on his way to his office.

He was the highest German officer yet attacked in the wave of terrorism throughout the occupied zone. One report said he suffered both pistol and shotgun wounds as he fell shortly after 8 a. m. before a blaze of firing which shattered the Monday morning quiet along Cours Saint Pierre in front of Saint Pierre Church.

The assassins, said to have opened fire without warning, disappeared before a cordon of French and German police could be thrown around the tree-bordered boulevard.

Conoco 1 Jones Ellenburger Top Picked At 6,045

By Frank Gardner
Oil Editor

Ellenburger, lower Ordovician, was topped at 6,045 feet, datum of minus 3,571; by Continental Oil Company No. 1 Evans B. Jones et al. at Southwestern Crane County deep test.

The Ellenburger top in No. 1 Jones checks from 450 to 500 feet lower than that in Ellenburger producers in the south extension area of the Sand Hills field, one and one-quarter miles to the north. However, the Conoco test logged exactly 500 feet of Simpson, Middle Ordovician, while the Sand Hills wells find little or no Simpson present.

No. 1 Jones was cored from 6,050-68 feet, recovering 12 feet of Ellenburger dolomite carrying fractures and slight porosity in the bottom four feet. At last reports it was being cored ahead. Location of the well is 690 feet from the northeast and northwest lines of section 12, block 3, H. & T. C. survey.

In the Sand Hills area, Gulf Oil Corporation at No. 2-B J. B. Tubbs is drilling lime at 3,265 feet; Gulf No. 6-A Tubbs is drilling at 4,125 feet, also in lime, and Humble Oil & Refining Company at No. BX-2 Tubbs has passed 2,568 feet in lime and anhydrite.

Yates in Terry Wildcat
First frosted quartz grains in the Yates sand horizon were reportedly logged at 3,200 feet, datum of plus 328, by American Drilling Corporation No. 1 W. T. Huffnall, Western Terry County wildcat. The marker is flat to slightly lower than that in Yates Company No. 1 S. T. Murphy, Terry failure one and one-half miles to the southwest which barely fell short of attaining commercial production. No. 1 Huffnall is drilling ahead at 4,140 feet in anhydrite.

Honolulu Oil Corporation No. 1-13 H. W. White, Eastern Yoakum County wildcat two and three-eighths miles southwest of Texaco No. 1 Murphy, logged increase in salt water from 5,293 to 5,304 feet. At the latter depth it was bailed dry then bailed 40 gallons of salt water, with a scum of oil, in one hour and 15 minutes. The test is drilling ahead at 5,311 feet in lime. Four miles east of Plains in Central Yoakum, Sinclair-Prairie Oil Company No. 1 Charles J. Kleiner is drilling past 4,176 feet in anhydrite. Samples are being examined to determine the Yates sand top. The well is running high on basis of anhydrite marker, logged at 2,535 feet, datum of plus 1,095.

In Northeastern Hockley County 15 miles northeast of the Slaughter field, Anderson-Prichard Oil Corporation and American Drilling Corporation No. 1 W. L. Ellwood estate has completed derrick, cellar and pits, and is moving in rotary. Anderson-Prichard and Osage Drilling Company, Inc., No. 1 Clayton, Northwestern Borden County wildcat, is scheduled to drill plug immediately from 203 feet of 8 5/8-inch surface pipe.

Deep Projects
A scheduled 11,000-foot test three miles northwest of Monahans in Northeastern Ward County, Shell Oil Company, Inc., No. 1 Sealy-Smith Foundation, has passed 6,677 feet in an unreported formation. It is rumored to have logged oil stained.

Thompson Asks Bigger Flow At State Hearing

Chairman Says Industry Should Ask Government To Increase Allowables

By The Associated Press

AUSTIN.—Ernest O. Thompson, chairman of the Texas Railroad Commission which regulates the oil industries in the biggest producing state of the nation Monday called for all the production of oil possible without physical waste.

Speaking at a statewide production hearing, Thompson, former chairman of the Interstate Oil Compact Commission, asserted in times like these, crude oil should be gotten above the ground.

The commission chairman, a colonel in the Texas National Guard who returned temporarily to his state office from active duty, expressed the hope the oil industry would ask federal officials for "the full amount of oil which can be produced without physical waste."

"In this time of emergency, oil is the first line of defense for our country," said Thompson. "It is especially in Texas, if they do not produce as much crude oil without physical waste as they can."

Limitation Is Un-American
"You cannot train an army without oil."

"Currently the oil stocks above ground have been reduced about 19,000,000 barrels below the safety point."

Thompson asserted that to hold down production in the hope of boosting the price of oil would be un-American.

Many states can produce more oil without physical waste, he went on, adding that the time to build up stocks for the spring is winter. "In times like the present, it is more comfortable to get oil above ground," he declared. "Production as needed is alright in peace time."

He stated Texas might make up the 100,000 barrels which he asserted Oklahoma had been authorized to produce but had not produced. At the start of the hearing, intended to receive evidence on which to base further allowable crude production, the commission disclosed purchasing nominations for oil in November totaled 1,892,039 barrels daily, an increase of 55,267 over October figures.

The commission also announced the U. S. Bureau of Mines estimate of market demand for Texas oil in November was 1,454,700 barrels daily, an increase of 34,600 over that in November of the current month.

Low Cold Test Crude Demand
A number of oil producers requested increased allowables, declaring there was strong demand for their crude, partly as a result of National Defense needs which might not always exist.

Rex Baker of Houston, representing the Humble Oil and Refining Company, one of the largest in the state, asserted there was a strong demand for low cold test crude and asked for an increase of 23,000 barrels daily in the production of about 30 fields which yielded that type of oil.

He said 15,000 barrels daily were needed to meet potential U. S. navy contracts alone. "There is a strong demand for this type of crude, coming chiefly from the navy on lend-lease contracts," Baker declared. "This demand can be met only from fields producing this grade of crude and any increase is authorized should be produced ratably."

Baker told the commission the navy had inquired about the Humble Company filling a contract of 65,000 barrels of that type of oil in December. He asserted the company could not bid on the business because it did not have the oil under its allowable.

Early requests to the commission for increased allowables were made for the Goldsmith, North Ward, Waddell, Estes, McCamey, Colea Creek and Cordell pools.

Thompson's meeting was banneted officially by the Amalgamated Engineering Union Executive Council and was frowned upon by labor leaders, it turned out to be one of the biggest workers' demonstrations since the beginning of the war.

Opponents Cry 'Gag Rule' As Senate Votes To Hold Closed Hearings On House-Approved Bill Arming Ships

WASHINGTON (AP)—With opponents crying "gag rule," the Senate foreign relations committee voted 12 to 9 Monday to hold closed hearings, beginning Tuesday on the House-approved ship arming bill.

Chairman Connally (D-Tex.) said the committee had voted to conclude the hearings at 5 p. m. Friday. He added that Secretary of State Hull probably would be the first witness.

Asserting that the procedure was "gag rule," Senator LaFollette (Prog-Wis.) told reporters that opponents of the legislation had been denied a right to present all of the

Hull Rakes Germany For Torpedoing Ship

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON.—Secretary Hull Monday characterized the torpedoing of the United States destroyer Kearny as another in a series of incidents illustrating Adolf Hitler's known and confessed effort to seize control of the seas as well as the continents.

Hitler has notified all nations to keep their ships out of an area covering a large portion of the North Atlantic on penalty of having their ships sunk. Hull told his press conference, because he proposes to drive all other nations off the seas by intimidation.

If such intimidation were successful, the secretary continued, he supposed Hitler then would want other nations to get off the earth.

The secretary of state's outspoken denunciation of the attack on the Kearny followed a navy announcement that 10 of the destroyer's crew had been injured and that it was "missing" and the direct charge that the attack was by a "submarine, undoubtedly German." The torpedoing represented the first personal losses suffered by the Atlantic fleet.

Asked whether the United States had made or was contemplating a diplomatic protest to Germany, Hull replied with asperity that one does not often send diplomatic notes to international highwaymen.

Tojo Asks For Unity Against Encirclement

TOKYO (AP)—Declaring Japan now stands at a crossroads in her national history, Premier General Eiki Tojo called Monday for "iron unity among all the fighting arms and the people to cope with the encirclement of Japan by foreign powers."

Tojo's appeal was issued in an order of the day directed to the war office in his dual role of premier and war minister.

He told officials in an address they must be prepared to sacrifice everything in order to surmount the "crucial hour" which he said is facing Japan.

To Reorganize Police

The premier, who returned to Tokyo by plane overnight after a pilgrimage to the temple of the Sun Goddess at Ise, immediately plunged into the task of revamping the Japanese civil and military administrations to bring them under strict unified control.

One of his first moves as home minister—a post he assumed along with the premiership and war ministry—was an unexpected and sweeping shakeup of the department's police bureau heads.

By "encirclement of Japan" the Japanese understood their new prime minister to refer to the military and economic measures taken recently by the United States, Britain, China and the Dutch East Indies and Russia's part in the war against the Axis.

Workers In Britain Demand Opening Of European War Front

LONDON (AP)—A sharp statement that British workers "insist on the immediate opening of a second front" to aid Russia was before Prime Minister Churchill Monday, sent there by the vote of more than 1,000 factory stewards representing arms workers in 300 key workshops in the land.

The government has turned down many such proposals before. The statement was adopted at the opening session of a war production conference of the national council of engineering and allied trades shop stewards. The men represented 500,000 workers.

Though their meeting was banneted officially by the Amalgamated Engineering Union Executive Council and was frowned upon by labor leaders, it turned out to be one of the biggest workers' demonstrations since the beginning of the war.

Witnesses they wished to be heard because of "gag rule."

Senator Clark (D-Mo.) said he had served notice in the meeting that he would not be bound by any rules of secrecy and would feel free to discuss publicly the testimony that was given behind closed doors.

The 12 to 9 vote came on a motion by Senator Gurnea (D-Va.) for closed hearings.

Subsequently, Clark moved that since the hearings were not to be public that no hearings be held. The committee voted this down, 14 to 7, with White and Gillette shifting the majority.

U. S. May Seize Airplane Factory

By The Associated Press
Unless President Roosevelt can find some way to reconcile differences between a CIO union and Air Associates, Inc., a vital supplier of parts for airplane manufacturers, it appeared probable Monday for the third time the government would have to take over a defense plant.

The Defense Mediation Board, which has been trying since July to resolve the dispute between the United Automobile Workers and the management of the Bendix, N. J., concern, conceded failure Sunday and turned the problem over to the president.

This prompted speculation whether he would find it necessary to pursue the same course as in two other stubborn defense strikes. In one, at the North American Aviation plant in Inglewood, Calif., he directed the Army to take over.

Main point presently at issue between Air Associates and the union is a CIO charge that its members were "locked out" after a wage controversy.

As the "Army and Navy Journal" puts it, the kindergarten stage of military training is now over. The summer maneuvers have definitely shown that the "New Army" is actually on the way to becoming an army.

The last year has been difficult. Camps have had to be built and weapons accumulated at the same time that hundreds of thousands of new recruits were being taught the rudiments of soldiering. Many of the men will now get a short furlough, and then return to their units to begin the "post-graduate" phase of their training, the welding together of real combat units for the kind of "team training" of which modern war is made. Defects shown by the maneuvers will be ironed out, officers shifted to duties better aligned with their proved abilities, team-work polished up.

We have succeeded in creating a million and a half soldiers. Now to build an Army!

Is The Door Locked?

Reports of strange airplanes and sea craft off Baffin Island at the mouth of Hudson Bay have come down from the north.

This "back door to North America" was set down as a grave danger more than a year ago by H. Dyson Carter in his book, "Sea of Destiny." He suggested that raiders could enter the narrow strait of the bay, block the entrance behind them, and come by sea and air far down into James Bay and the interior of North America, in a position to make disastrous raids, before being discovered.

The present warnings, together with the recent dismantling of a German radio station on Greenland, only 200 miles east of the strait's entrance, suggest that if the Canadian and American navies have not double-locked the northern "back door" of Hudson Bay, they had better be getting about it.

'We Don't Want Any Czechs'

Remember Hitler's words of three years ago when Europe was still struggling to avoid war, and the Nazi leader was insisting that his only aim was to restore Germans to the Reich? "We don't want any Czechs!" he shouted.

From Prague no news comes without the approval of the German conquerors. Hence they must have approved this blood-freezing little item from Prague. "Three persons, including a policeman, were executed for listening to foreign radio stations."

What Hitler would have said, had he been dealing with the world with the slightest trace of ordinary candor, is this:

"We don't want any (patriotic, liberty-loving) Czechs (to remain alive)."

"Mind If I Look Over Your Shoulder?"

British Invasion Is Stymied

By Paul Manning
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON.—The average person in London today cannot understand why Britain does not storm the continent, open up a real "Western Front" now that Germany is tied up in an all-out effort to smash the Russian armies.

But the big people, the generals, the air force chiefs, the men of the navy, the politicians of Whitehall, know the reason. Bluntly but, its military weakness. These men in "authoritative circles" are not deluding themselves that the Maginot Line type of defense they have built up since the chaotic hours of Dunkirk is yet a striking force.

England today could probably not land more than six fully equipped divisions in France. These would be met, despite the campaign in the east, by 20 to 30 German divisions.

Many critics of the current British military policy sense this, of course, but have had their outlook colored by the wishful thinking of refugees and the unrest in France. The latter, although possibly true, still remains too indecisive a military factor when planning a final campaign that could mean total victory or defeat for Britain.

Stories, too, of enormous RFA bomb damage in Germany and a German morale which is fast beginning to break, have also done their logic no good.

For the logic of the matter is, RAF raids, like those of the Luftwaffe, will not win any war unless in conjunction with land and naval forces. Proof is the battering which England received from a numerically superior German Air force stationed but some thirty miles from London during the winter of 1940-1941.

Great damage was done to London and to the other important cities of Britain but after one long winter of 1940-1941.

ing, the vital western docks and the important industries of England still remained intact and the morale good.

The RAF has admittedly done great damage to the invasion ports and the small cities which surround them. But because they do not have enough Flying Fortresses and British four-engine bombers, they cannot penetrate into inner Germany in sufficient numbers to do a job of mass destruction.

What London's authoritative circles tacitly admit they seek most, of course, is an American declaration of war followed by an American Expeditionary Force.

England today could not land more than six fully equipped divisions (against Germany's 20 to 30) in Europe. However, like the Royal Marines above, her forces are constantly practicing for a 'cross-Channel' attack. In addition, they believe nothing would boost American production and lower German morale more than an all-out war by the U. S.

And that is actually their hope for winning the war if Russia loses, though no one here officially admits that yet.

Blockade Prevents House-Cereal Trade

RABAT, Morocco (UP)—An attempt to negotiate a deal between Morocco and Switzerland for the delivery of several hundred portable wooden houses for French troops in North Africa has failed as a consequence of the blockade which prevented Morocco delivering cereals to Switzerland in payment for the portable houses.

Normally, France kept only 30 to 40 thousand troops in Morocco in peace time but the number was increased recently to 140,000, most of whom are concentrated in the western ports.

Applications Should Be Filed Quickly For Defense Priorities

DALLAS—Builders and contractors in defense housing areas, who are contemplating building vitally needed defense housing units, should not delay filing their applications for priorities assistance, according to Loren S. Greene of Dallas, chief housing priorities examiner in this region for the United States Office of Defense Housing Coordination.

"Because defense housing is needed, Midland has been designated as a defense housing area where housing priorities assistance is available to the builder to help him to obtain material that otherwise might be hard to get," Greene said.

"As the assistance is available for only 200,000 defense housing units in the United States, builders should not hesitate to apply for the assistance if they hope to erect some of those 200,000 housing units."

To obtain the defense housing priorities assistance, Greene said the builder should obtain the necessary applications form and instructions from the nearest FHA office. Then, after the forms are executed, they should be filed immediately so that they can be examined by men in Greene's office so they can be passed on to the nearest field office of the Priorities Division of the Office of Production Management, where authority has been given for the issuance of defense housing ratings.

Thus far, only a few priorities ratings have been issued in the Southwest. The big rush is expected in the next few days, Greene said, and as the applications increase, more time will be required for the examinations.

BOSTON (AP) (USDA)—Trading in the Boston wool market was very quiet Monday. A few small sales of Ohio Delaine were reported at 45 to 44 cents, in the grease, and graded countryblood coming bright wool brought 50 cents, in the grease. Country-packed lots of three-eighths blood bright fleece sold at 48 to 49 cents, in the grease. Capital Housing To Be More Acute

WASHINGTON (UP)—This capital city, transformed by the emergency into the nation's No. 1 boom town, expects its already serious housing shortage to become even more acute during the next nine months with the arrival of 35,000 more government workers.

Causing equal concern to officials here is the problem of finding adequate office space for the thousands of new workers who arrive each week to take positions with the newly created defense agencies. Available office space is far from sufficient to provide for all the newcomers. To meet the problem the government is building a number of temporary office buildings in Washington and two in nearby Arlington County, Va., just across the Potomac River, for the army and navy.

The government is doing virtually nothing to alleviate the housing shortage, other than provide quarters for some of the men in the armed services.

THERE GOES A TIRE!

...but why junk the car?

Any car can have a blowout in a tire. But you wouldn't junk the car. You'd just fix the tire—or replace it.

That's very much like a situation that exists in the retailing of beer. Beer retailing has its "flat tires," too—retailers who disobey the law or who permit unsavory conditions.

To protect your right to drink good beer, we of the beer industry want to eliminate the few "flat tire" retailers. Here's another reason: Right here in Texas, beer has provided employment for 31,165 persons, supports an annual payroll of $22,076,182 and paid $2,273,968.64 in state taxes last year.

The state, too, has an important stake in the beer industry's purchases—for material, equipment and services—from more than 100 other industries.

Those benefits are worth preserving. You can help us preserve them by patronizing only the reputable and legal places where beer is sold and by reporting any law violations you may observe to the duly constituted authorities.

BEER...a beverage of moderation

Few People... appreciate the full extent of the downright ability our profession demands; ethical service is our greatest asset.

National Defense Has Main Part In Catholic Session

By William T. Rives

HOUSTON (AP)—National Defense had an important part Monday in meetings of the National Conference of Catholic Charities, told Sunday by the postmaster general. "We cannot have charity and insist that the European war 'is no concern of ours'."

The postmaster general, Frank C. Walker, said "we cannot act the part of charity and refuse to see or hear the sufferings of those victims of a monster's desire to uproot and forever destroy by force every decent quality, ideal and belief throughout the world."

The impact of National Defense upon family life occupied the attention of one of the committee meetings Monday. At a general session Monday night, Dr. Franklin Dunham, executive director of the National Catholic Community Service, will outline a program for military camp, naval station and defense industry areas.

Urges Land Movement

In the presidential address Sunday, the Rev. Bryan J. McCentgart of New York said state and federal programs of public assistance and social insurance had done "immeasurable good", but asserted "much remains to be done in meeting total national needs."

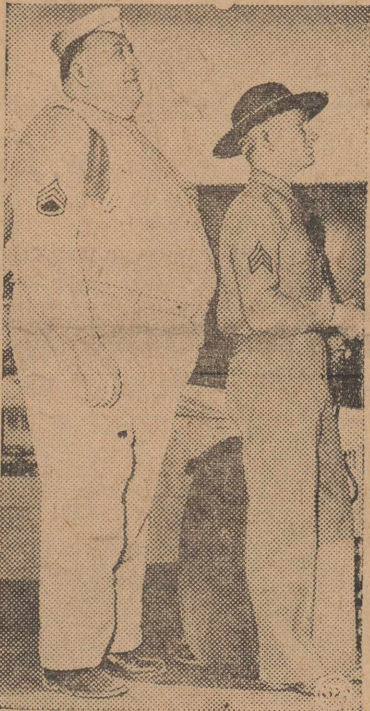

The nation's best efforts, he said, are needed "to curb social evils menacing farm life. He called for plans for a 'national back-to-the-land movement based on sound land settlement principles.'"

The apostolic delegate to the United States, the Most Rev. Amleto Giovanni Cicognani, encouraged labor, management and government to unite in good will to produce "widespread well-being of industry and of all the people."

The chemical laboratories of the petroleum industry are now laying the foundation for industries of the future.

Out of their research are being created new products and more efficient ways of making old ones. Synthetic rubber, plastics, explosives, basic chemicals and scores of other essentials developed in petroleum laboratories are already being made on a commercial scale.

These scientific discoveries of materials vital to peace-time needs, as well as National defense, are opening up new fields of industrial activity.

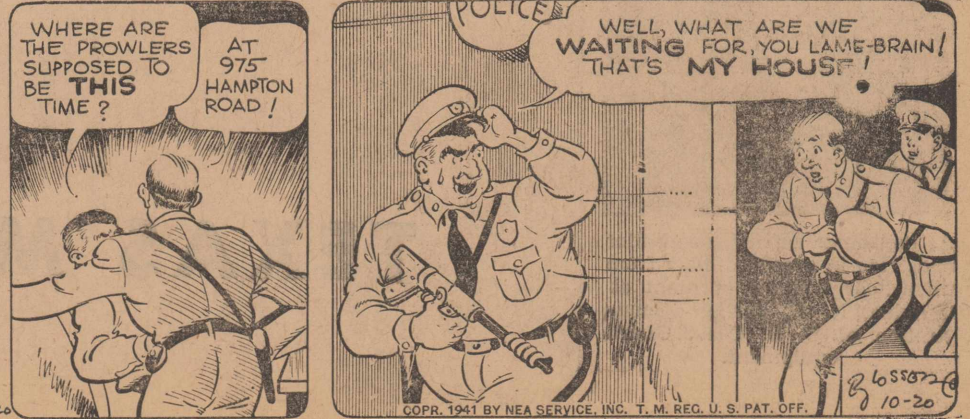

Texas as the leading oil State is playing an important part in the creation of these new American enterprises. As a result, many young Texans now preparing themselves in our schools and colleges will find places in the industries resulting from this research.

The test tubes of today make the jobs of tomorrow.

SERIAL STORY

MURDER IN PARADISE

BY MARGUERITE GAHAGAN

COPYRIGHT, 1941, NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: Quiet Paradise Lake is plunged into chaos with two murders—that of sophisticated Herbert Cord, whose police suspect gangster Stash Veretti of murdering; prim, elderly Miss Millie Morris, whose death baffles even state police. Both bodies were found by Maudie O'Connor, who has come to the lake with her school teacher daughter, Mary, for a quiet vacation. Most seriously involved is pretty, bevilied Jeanie Morris, niece of Miss Millie, whose summer romances with Cord had lasted two years—until he came to Paradise this summer with Margie Dixon, introducing her as his fiancée. Local editor Tod Palmer adds to the mystery. Dennis and Mary both believe Maudie is concealing something she knows about the case. Mary is hurt when she sees Dennis at the inn—which is run by elderly Chris Gordon—deep in interested conversation with Margie.

A VISIT WITH LIZA

CHAPTER XIV

FEMININE nerves can be a curse, and so can a silly feminine heart. I blamed my vile temper and cutting remarks on an upset digestive system due to too much murder in the air. Maudie accepted it without argument. She was beginning to act like herself again, and was finding the cottage too confining, which suited me since I would prefer being alone with my own thoughts.

I sat around that afternoon making some notes for next semester's classes in Lit. I. I was seeing myself in the years to come doing the same uninteresting tasks. I was feeling pretty sorry for myself by the time Maudie and McCool came back, and I was glad enough to listen to her instead of thinking how badly I felt.

"I dropped around to the Morris house," she said lighting a cigarette and slipping her shoes off. "Jeanie wasn't in, but I had a little chat with Liza Holmes. She certainly was devoted to that poor dead woman. They were a lot alike, of course—same generation, same stern, thin faces, same dreadful clothes."

"She doesn't seem like one you'd enjoy chatting with," I interrupted. "You mustn't judge people by their appearances, Mary," she said sternly, rubbing McCool's stomach with a silk-covered foot. He thumped the floor appreciatively.

Methodist Children Give Program Here

Children from the Methodist Home-at Waco presented a program at the evening worship hour at the First Methodist Church Sunday.

Accompanying children were the superintendent of the home, Hubert Johnson, the orchestra director and two women teachers.

Church Here Honors Pastor At Meeting

The Rev. Ben Moore, who served as supply pastor at the First Presbyterian Church last summer, was honored at a farewell get-together at the church Sunday evening preceding the evening service.

J. L. Kendrick offered the opening prayer and was in charge of the program.

Ernest Sidwell presented Mr. Moore with a gift from the church.

TREAT NEGRO FOR KNIFE FIGHT WOUNDS

A negro was treated for knife wounds received in an affray Sunday.

City officers over the weekend rounded up four persons for gambling, six for drunkenness, four for affray, and three for speeding.

tively and Maudie continued, "You said the same thing about Miss Millie and that woman had good sense. She was observant, a good judge of human nature."

"She certainly slipped once in that judgment," I pointed out. "Whoever bashed her head in must have sold her on the fact that he or she was nice and friendly."

"No one put anything over Miss Millie." Her tone was sharp. "I'll grant you that she knew too much. At least I should imagine that was what happened," she added hurriedly, when she saw I was ready to start asking questions. "I forgot to stop for the mail," she said in an obvious effort to throw me off. "There should be some news from the boys today. Why your brothers are so careless in writing I'll never know. They should realize how I worry when I don't hear from them."

"They're probably painting the town red," I said crossly. "Sowing their wild oats now that you're away." But anyway I went to the inn for the mail and a chance to prove to myself that the sight of Denny talking to that hussy, Margie Dixon, was of no importance to me. They were not around and I asked Chris Gordon if Miss Dixon had checked out yet.

He said she hadn't, and with that worried look on his fat face, he added that if business didn't pick up she'd be the only guest left. "How's your mother feeling?" he said, still sorting the mail.

"She's quieted down," I said. "She went visiting today. She doesn't like to be tied down and two days at home were plenty for her, so she went to the Morrises—Jeanie's, I mean."

"She's not home," he said. "Well, she visited with Liza Holmes."

"Shouldn't think your ma would find Liza much company," he said. I laughed. "That was my opinion, too, but she said Liza was a smart woman. But mother liked Miss Millie, too. They had a couple of chats and apparently Miss Millie was in one of her good moods because mother said she liked her."

"Well, takes all kinds of people to make up a world," he said and I took the letters and started out, still hoping for a glimpse of Denny. The lobby and bar were empty. I supposed he was over at the State Police Post where, I hoped, some progress was being made to end all the suspense.

JEANIE MORRIS was at the cottage when I got back and young Tod Palmer was with her. "Liza told me you had been over, Mrs. O'Connor, and I was sorry to have missed seeing you," she said. "It's nice to have friends at a time like this."

I suppose people were already beginning to stare at her with curious eyes. I was glad Tod was around to ease that loneliness, and from the way he looked at her I could see that he wouldn't mind the hours he might spend acting as a Boy Scout.

"Do you and Liza Holmes stay in that big house all alone?" Maudie asked.

Jeanie looked slightly surprised. "Oh, we don't mind. I—I guess I'm used to the house being quiet—"

"Quiet, yes. But is it safe?" The girl laughed a little. "Really it is. I'm not scared. Of course I've thought and wondered who—who would have killed my aunt, and the only thing I can think is that some poor, demented person must have seen her in the boat alone—"

Her voice faltered then. "But as for myself or Liza—why, we've lived in that house all the summers I can remember and I've never been afraid, and I'm not now."

"Maudie reads mystery novels," I explained. "You mustn't let her upset you."

Maudie sniffed loudly. "I'm not trying to upset anyone. I'm just trying to suggest the child use ordinary precaution."

"Precaution against what?" I said, but she glared at me and emptied her ginger ale glass.

Sports Roundup

By Hugh Fullerton Jr.
NEW YORK (The Special News Service)—You may see a pro football world series one of these years, but not until the American Leagues show a lot better blocking than they did for Tom Harmon and John Kimbrough Sunday. The question of the week is what sort of joy Juice Minnesota and Michigan will find in the little brown jug Saturday. Season's record long run—Notre Dame's new lightweight jerseys. Every time someone tried to tackle an Irishman by the shirt it started a run. Too much dye, the manufacturer explained. Wonder how good Navy is? Well, Coach Swede Larson is raving about the way Joe Hunt uses his tennis footwork on the football field, changing direction without breaking his stride, but Joe is only a fourth-string back. Tom Lieb says if any good colleges would like to play Florida at Gainesville September 26 or November 28 next year. The Gators haven't filled those dates yet.

Walter Stewart, Memphis Commercial Appeal: "Lou Nova is charging back toward another shot at the heavyweight championship which is a bit like trying to set the world on fire by rubbing two wet sticks together."

Pro-Gran Notes
Jack Kimbrough, the Americans' coach, says it's a quarter-century dream to have Harmon and Kimbrough in the same backfield. Which may explain why some of McBride's quarterbacks seemed to be dreaming during Sunday's game. Harmon, Jack added, was in fine shape but Jarrin Jawn's legs tightened up—showing the advantages of football movies over hosiery. Kimbrough, the cutie, claims pro football is easier than the college brand "because you don't play so much." He should ask Mel Hein about that. Charlie Calahan, the Americans' tub thumper, claims there were more people on the roofs outside Yankee Stadium Sunday than there were inside for last year's opener.

Service Dept.
Chattanooga, U. S. has sent a whole football team of undergrads and alumni into the army, including a coach, trainer and manager, but they're scattered around in a lot of camps. Boise air base claims to have the biggest service gridman.

Big Contests Of Week Pit Gophers Against Michigan, Texas Vs. Rice And Aggies Will Play Baylor Bears

Steer Football Club Is Heavier Than Midland's

Midland will be outweighed in its District 3-AA engagement Friday night at Big Spring with the defending champions.

A comparison of the Bulldogs and Steers can be made on results against Austin high of El Paso. Big Spring beat the Panthers, 17-13, in the season opener. Midland lost to the El Paso eleven, 13-26.

Coach Pat Murphy has a big burly line at Big Spring, headed by Peppy Blount, end, 190-pounder.

The Steer backfield is heavy and its four aces, Paul Kasch, 185, Bill Womack, 147; Frank Barton, 178, and Horace Bostick, 160, do everything well. Barton is the place-kicking specialist and can boot a field goal.

The Big Spring's record is better than Midland's. The Steers took Austin high; frolicked over Brownwood 37-0; tied Colorado City 13-13; and lost to Gus White and Lamesa, 7-20 last weekend.

Coach Earle Clark hinted a drastic shakeup in the lineup this week.

Border Elevens Play In Circuit

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (AP)—Eight Border Conference teams stage a strictly family gridiron affair this week with Arizona University and West Texas State seeking to extend their joint leadership to three victories apiece.

The two elevens, more and more regarded as the class of the sagebrush circuit, don't meet this season but they have common opponents in the Texas Miners, Arizona State of Flagstaff and Arizona State of Tempe, defending champions.

Arizona tackles Tempe Saturday night and West Texas State goes to Flagstaff. New Mexico meets Texas Tech at Lubbock Friday night and Hardin-Simmons visits the Texas Miners at El Paso Saturday.

The New Mexico Aggies travel to Peoria, Ill., to meet Bradley Tech Friday, the only intersection contest on the schedule.

Private Tiny Crowe, who tips the beam at 290, Walton (Whitey) McMullen, who played ball for Gainesville and Jacksonville, Fla., Macon, Ga., and Saginaw, Mich., before he was drafted, says going into the army is just like going to a new ball club. He ought to know. Latest issue of the amateur official A. A. U. Publication, lists 10 AAU and intercollegiate champs who are in the armed forces, and would like to hear of any additions to the list.

Last Laugh
When Fred Haney, Toledo manager, was down in Tulsa for the Texas league playoffs, a stickup guy came along one night and demanded his dough. Haney handed out his checkbook and said, "here, this is all I have." The thug grabbed it and ran. "Telling about is later, Fred remarked longingly. "I wish he managed an American Association team. That's one guy I could beat."

Amarillo Sandies Put Great Streak Of Victories On Block As Lubbock Comes Up With Menacing Grid Team

Bland scored 88 hits for a score of 594 to win the single American round, class A. Roripaugh tallied 19 hits and scored 83 to win the single American junior round, unclassified. Mrs. Kent made 70 hits and a score of 418 to win the single Columbia round for women, class A.

C. C. Roripaugh made 72 hits and score of 344 to win single American round, class B. Mrs. C. M. Linehan hit 49 for a score of 227 to win single Columbia round, class B, for women.

Kimbrough And Michigan Star Attract 25,000

By Gayle Talbot
NEW YORK (AP)—Tommy Harmon and John Kimbrough didn't do much more than pat each other encouragingly on their shoulder pads in their professional football debut Sunday, but they may have done something vastly important for the struggling American League. When 25,385 fans paid their way into Yankee Stadium to see the two famous all-Americans perform and, incidentally, to watch the Columbus Bulls and the New York Americans struggle to a 7-7 tie, it marked the first time the ambitious second major league had drawn really important money and cut seriously into the patronage of the prosperous National League.

This, of course, was what the new owner of the Americans, William Cox, was counting on when he paid Kimbrough and Harmon $1,500 each to get out there and fight. Sunday's gathering paid him many times for the investment, and it may have marked that turning point that every new league must have. A National League game between the New York Giants and Pittsburgh at the Polo Grounds drew only 24,604, not all paid.

Kimbrough Enjoys Game
After the game, in which he scored his team's touchdown on a reverse from Kimbrough, Harmon said he didn't know whether he would be able to try it again next Sunday, when the Americans play Buffalo here. The great Michigan star still is determined to be a radio announcer, and he won't know until the middle of the week whether he can be spared from his duties at the mike.

There is no doubt in Kimbrough's mind. He thoroughly like it Sunday, including the rate of pay. The big, smiling Texan carried the ball nine times, and simple arithmetic reveals that he banked something over $160 every time he tucked the ball beneath his arm and lit out. Whether he was over-paid must be left to owner Cox. John gained a net of 26 yards in those nine tries, and once he was tossed for a 12-yard loss. But he looked good on his blocking, even though they won't pay blocker's $1,500 per game.

Hard Luck Christian Player Is Out Again With Fractured Limb
FORT WORTH (AP)—Just say "hard luck" and Kyle Gillespie will answer as if that were his own name.

He's the original hard luck guy. Kyle came to Texas Christian University and went out for football. He had the stuff but he also had a trick knee.

He played on one leg and starred but didn't see enough action to be named on the all-conference team. An operation corrected the trouble although he had to favor the leg last season.

This year he reported absolutely sound and ready to go. He was on his way to greatness when he received a broken leg. It happened Saturday early in the game with Texas A&M—a battle for a place in the Southwest Conference football sun.

Drilling Contractors Alarmed By Ruling
DALLAS. — Brad Mills, executive secretary of the American Association of Oilwell Drilling Contractors, Monday said a "very serious" situation now confronts the drilling contractor.

"Under a recent ruling of the collector of internal revenue," Mills said, "the footage costs of wells drilled on footage contract basis can no longer be considered as intangible write-offs against income."

"This ruling, if allowed to stand, will force producing companies to drill their own wells and thereby kill the contracting industry," he continued.

"Under the former ruling, all expense items were subject to a write-off against income. This permitted the oil company using drilling contractors to capitalize such permanent items as casing and well head connections, and to charge to expense such items as labor and miscellaneous intangibles."

Amarillo's hard-bitten Sandies put the greatest winning streak in Texas schoolboy football on the block this week and there are those who say this Panhandle Dynasty will come to an end on the field where the Sandstorm has blown to its mightiest triumphs.

Lurking in the shadow of Amarillo's great record but not the least awed are the embattled Westerners of Lubbock.

The defending state champion Sandies, unbeaten and untied but visibly shaken in five games this season, have a record of 19 straight to defend Saturday at Amarillo along with the title of District 1.

For the season Lubbock's showing is no more impressive than Amarillo's but the Westerners have flashed a strong offense in running up 114 points and a rugged defense in holding the opposition to seven.

El Paso Plays Ysleta
Amarillo has scored only 77 points and allowed 32 but probably has met stronger opposition than the Westerners.

Lubbock has not been defeated but was battled to a scoreless tie in the mud by Vernon. Amarillo beat Vernon 12-6.

The clash of McAllen and Harlingen, both among the state's 14 undefeated, untied teams, has the attention of the Valley while there are other crucial conference games in virtually every district.

In District 4 unbeaten El Paso high meets Ysleta in the battle expected to determine the champion.

Unbeaten, untied Paris meets unbeaten but once tied Denison in District 5.

Waco's high-soaring Tigers attempt to protect their perfect record at Corsicana in a game destined to cut the contenders for the District 10 title to two. Temple is the other favorite.

Last week's play cut the list of unbeaten teams to 19, five of these have been tied.

Unbeaten and untied are: Amarillo, Sweetwater, Paris, Masonic Home (Fort Worth), Sunset (Dallas), Temple, Waco, Luckin, Lamar (Houston), Conroe, Goose Creek, McAllen, Corpus Christi and Harlingen.

Longhorns And Rice To Renew Football Feud

By Richard West
Associated Press Staff Writer
This is the week guns are cocked for one of the bitterest football feuds in Southwest Conference history.

Rice versus Texas. Since the first amica was rubbed on the first ankle on the first day of training the Owl and Longhorn have waited for Saturday's climax in Austin. There'll be feudin' among the 40,000 in Memorial Stadium's horseshoe and feudin' on the field—and a little history will explain.

It all started in 1934 when likeable Jimmy Kitts started feathering the Owls' nest.

Texas, riding high under Jack Chevigny, fresh from a stunning victory over mighty Notre Dame, led Rice 9-6 with only a few minutes. A left to play.

Bang! An Owl pass over the Texas safety brought a touchdown. A moment later Rice scored another. This lapse cost Texas the conference championship.

Porkers Play Detroit
For four consecutive years the Institute whipped the University. There were fights after the games, before the games and gargantuan penalties during the games.

Texas is riding high—just where Rice wants them to ride—after four wins over four state universities in four weeks. The Longhorns have their greatest team in history.

The Hogs this week play Detroit University in Detroit.

The only other conference game this Saturday Baylor, beaten 14-6 Friday night by Villanova, meets revamped Texas A&M in College Station.

Southern Methodist, fresh from a 20-7 victory over Auburn in Birmingham Saturday, takes its customary rest this week before meeting Texas November 1.

Salome Fun

There may be those who think this a good idea. At Chelsea, England, fair a man wearing a mask of Winston Churchill characterizes Salome going into her dance and carrying the head of a well-known dictator.

Federal Government To Construct Houses For Army At Lubbock

LUBBOCK.—Coincident with announcement of the award of a conditional contract for construction of the first 40 houses to be made available for rent to officers at the Air Corps Advanced Flying school under construction west of Lubbock, it was announced contracts for architect and engineering service for the $515,000 low-cost housing project here have been approved by the U. S. Housing Authority.

Architectural work on the project will be under supervision of three Lubbock firms—Haynes and Strange, Walker and Atchison, and John B. Roberts, and engineering work will be directed by Harry N. Roberts, Lubbock.

H. C. Pender, chairman of the Lubbock housing authority, said he has received no indications that the National Defense program will delay the project, which will be designed to last for 60 years, and will include administration building, landscaping and possibly a recreation area.

Contract for the 40 houses for Army officers was let to the Maxey Lumber Company of Lubbock, subject to approval of plans by the directors of Lubbock Homes, Inc., sponsoring organization, and to approval of these plans by the Federal Housing Authority, where 90 percent of financing will be sought.

Housing Corporation Stockholders To Meet

Organization of the Midland Housing Company, formed to erect rent houses for Army officers who will be assigned to Sloan Field, will be perfected at a meeting of stockholders at 8 p. m., Monday night at Hotel Scharbauer.

John P. Butler, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce housing committee, called the session, and is anxious that the stock be represented. Stockholders unable to attend have been requested to send proxies.

The corporation's charter has been filed with the secretary of state at Austin.

Homer D. Grant is president, was organized to sponsor the project. The houses, to cost approximately $4,500 each, will be located in an addition known as "Green Acres," a block or two west of College Avenue between 28th and 31st streets, in southwest Lubbock. All utility lines and wires will be underground. No two houses of the development are to be exactly alike.

Construction is to start at the earliest possible time, because of a change in plans for sending personnel to the school about three months ahead of the original schedule. Army officials have announced a full complement of troops will be assigned to the school early in December, and the first class of cadets is scheduled to begin training Jan. 24, 1942.
