Kuplic garners command honors

1st Lt. Douglas J. Kuplic

First Lt. Douglas J. Kuplic was recently selected the Air Training Command Cost and Management Analysis Officer of the Year.

In the nomination letter supporting his selection, Lieutenant Kuplic was lauded for being responsible for turning around last year's low Management Effectiveness Inspection rating. Recognizing the need to communicate with different segments of the Reese population, he created the Reese Data Sheet which contains data about the mission, support and base activities.

His training as a Toastmaster led to him being called on often to present and explain difficult and complex subjects such as the Resource Management "How Goes It," Quarterly Energy Conservation Task Group with a monthly update on energy consumption to the wing staff, Undergraduate Pilot Training Cost per Graduate, Cost per Flying Hour, results of special studies, economic analysis and the Command Management Briefing.

His base level resource statement received praise from the MEI evaluators as "one of the best in the command." Lieutenant Kuplic also received a letter of appreciation from Col. Robert B. Black, ATC comptroller, which reads in part, "The analysis produced under his guidance reflected a high level of knowledge and expertise in an area requiring a thorough understanding of both quantitative analysis and abstract reasoning."

Reese's two aircraft maintenance squadrons were honored here Wednesday as the 64th Organizational Maintenance Squadron and the 64th Field Maintenance Squadron were presented the Air Force Outstanding Unit Award by General Bennie L. Davis, Air Training Command commander.

During the award period, maintenance workers were faced with a 25 percent increase in the student load here. Even though maintenance manning was not increased, the units were able to meet the challenge of maintaining Reese's fleet of Cessna T-37 and Northrop T-38 Talon aircraft. They were able to do this despite the fact that each of the planes was being called upon to fly many more hours per day that it had been a year ago.

Organizational Maintenance was asked to participate in several new programs. These included lengthy tests on T-38 wings, inspections on egress systems on T-37s and T-38s and replacement of all hydraulic lines in the T-37s.

One major project that drew Air Training Command favor was the flawless preparation of six T-38s for transfer to Turkey.

Time to leave

After suffering through one of the heaviest November snow storms in Lubbock history, this die-hard bicyclist was last seen heading south. Up to nine inches of snow fell in the area, leaving streets almost impassable and littering 4th and 19th Streets with dozens of slipping, sliding motorists, most of which were totally unprepared for the snowfall. Drink, but drink responsibly

by Capt. William E. Unger
Chief, Social Actions

If you are involved in an incident where Security Police, Hospital, Safety, or Squadron personnel are contacted and you have been drinking, you have been in an "alcohol related incident" and you will be evaluated for entry into the alcohol abuse program — it's Air Force Policy.

You're going to a Holiday party. All of your friends will be there; it's time to celebrate. Have a drink, everyone else is. Have several and celebrate — it's the American Way. If it sounds like these are conflicting statements, you're right.

Is the party worth:

- A driving while intoxicated charge, court record, and going to remedial driver's training?

- Suspension of on base driving privileges.
- A letter of reprimand or UCMJ action for fighting or destruction of property.
- Increased insurances rates due to the accident.
- A depressing hangover.

During the holiday seasons of the past three years the number of problems caused by alcohol have doubled. Holiday seasons are frequently used as an "excuse" to drink more alcohol. Who suffers? Commanders, supervisors, chaplains, doctors, and family members are the people who support you "after" the incident. You may not even know who visit you when in jail or the intensive care unit, or how much work incidents caused others. So, how do I drink during the holidays and avoid problems?

- Set reasonable limits & pride yourself in staying with it.

Captain Unger

— Avoids drinking contests.

- Avoids hangovers
- Avoids DWI charges.
- Avoids punishment
- Eat before drinking.
- Slows alcohol entering your system.
- Don't drink & drive.
- Slows reaction time.
- Blurs vision.
- Order when you want a drink.

Air Force Policy is "responsible, controlled drinking". If you laughed at these words, you have a problem, either with yourself or alcohol. This is the time to celebrate, not suffer.

CARE Line

(Editors note: All information provided to the CARE Line will be held in confidence. Callers are urged to give their name and duty number so that a personal reply may be made, however, neither are mandatory. Callers are urged to use their chain of command or the office of primary responsibility to air complaints or comments if possible. If not, call the CARE Line at Ext. 3273.)

Time troubles

When the time changed on Sept. 1, the Air Base Group where I work made this change. However, my husband, working in the Field Maintenance Squadron, did not change. With only one vehicle, this presents a problem for us. Why can't all personnel work on the same schedule?

The time change, which is done in the interest of energy conservation and safety of personnel, positively affects the majority of Reese personnel. A time change in organizations operating on shifts, for example, FMS, would be complicated and the few personnel who would benefit from the time change does not make a change in those organizations feasible.

Bland bands

Would someone please show some concern as far as entertainment is concerned. Both NCO Club and the Rec Center have a way of getting around the problem of pleasing the people.

There has been more country music than any other type of entertainment. Not once has there been a black band at the club since they have reopened. Also, why do we always have the same D.J. at the Rec Center?

First of all, let me assure you that all of our MWR Activities are operated to please all the military personnel assigned and their dependents. The Enlisted Club has experienced difficulty finding a variety of entertainment. A Black or soul Band was booked into the Club in August, September, and October. However, each month the band cancelled its agreement. Our new club manager, TSgt Monger, has contacted booking agents in Fort Worth, Dallas and San Antonio searching for a variety of good entertainment. We hope it pays off. If you, or any member, know of a good band, please let Sergeant Monger know. The Recreation Center disco is contracted with a local company. The majority of the recorded music is played at the request of the audience. If you have request, let the D.J. know it. We will work extra hard to get a variety of entertainment into both the EOM and Rec Center.

Tricky gadgets

'Most do nothing'

"Most do nothing; some do damage."

That's the answer that most consumer offices and other experts give when buyers ask about the devices on the market to save gas.

You've seen the ads in popular magazines. "100 miles to the gallon. Cut your fuel bills in half!" "Now, up to 60 days a year of driving absolutely free — the secret is under the hood, no bigger than your hand."

What A Deal!

Of the several hundred "gas-savers" on the market in any particular year, "very few do any good at all, several may be marginal, and a number may actually do harm," according to Philip Stern of the District Attorney's Office, Boulder, Colorado.

Some of the devices which make regular reappearances in the magazines are —

— Air bleeds which are installed between the positive crankcase ventilation (PCV) valve and the engine intake system. They are supposed to allow additional air to enter below the carburetor as a way of saving gasoline under certain conditions. They can increase engine wear and clog carburetor passages.

— Fuel additives which are claimed to clean the fuel system and improve combustion. Testing has shown emission levels are generally not affected and in some car models may create differences in product performance.

— Lubricants or various other crankcase additives which offer general engine cleansing and increased engine performance by reducing friction. Tests have shown no major improvements.

Lt. Col. Walker Metcalf of the U.S. Army Reserve in Lubbock is offering qualified persons the opportunity to enroll in the Industrial College of the Armed Forces National Security Management course through the group study program.

Classes will be conducted weekly on Wednesdays beginning Nov. 26, and running through May. They will be held in the Army Reserve Training Center at 2819 4th Street. Classes will run from 7 to 9 p.m. No meetings will be scheduled during holiday periods.

The classroom atmosphere will be kept informal. The course itself is designed to foster inter-class group discussion in order to arrive at a problem's best solution. Some of the topics covered are the economic and political aspects of the national government, international relations, the national budget and duties of the various defense secretary posts.

Those persons eligible for the National Security Management course are active duty and reserve officers of any branch of service in the grade of lieutenant colonel, commander or above, or those officers in the grade of major or lieutenant commander who have a baccalaureate degree or who have completed a command and staff course or its equivalent. Federal, state or local government employees rated GS-13 or above who have baccalaureate degrees and whose duties relate to the education provided by the course also are eligible.

The course is divided into six units that must be completed within two years. In the event a student does not complete the course of group study, it may be completed by direct correspondence with the Industrial College of the Armed Forces.

Persons interested in enrolling in the course should contact Colonel Walker Metcalf, 763-7306 or after 5 p.m. at 799-0852. Early action is desired to insure enrollment. The application deadline is today and all applications should be sent to Col. Metcalf and not the USAR School.

A1C Dean S. Taylor, Allowance and Authorization Section of the Supply Squadron, was commended during the recent visit of the Command Equipment Management Team for "ardent and conscientious efforts toward improving the equipment management program." Reese meets goal

Reese was one of seven Air Training Command bases that reached its command imposed Fiscal Year 1980 energy conservation goal.

Even though Air Training Command was successful in meeting its 7.5 percent facility energy reduction goals in Fiscal 1980, ATC civil engineering officials said the command will have to continue to push hard in conserving energy.

Seven ATC bases made their FY 80 goals which ranged from 7.5 to 18 percent reductions.

"With half our bases making their FY 80 goals, we managed to have a 7.9 percent facility energy reduction goal that was on target," said Maj. Jerome V. Skrocki, chief, Utilities Operations Division. "However, Air Force as a whole did even better with a 12.5 percent reduction."

Air Staff has set the Air Force FY 81 goals at 12 percent below the 1975 baseline in the Air Force's Ten-Year Energy Plan. To give each command the latitude to work their own facility energy reduction programs, this goal has not been imposed on each major command.

According to Skrocki, Air Staff has requested that commands strive for their best energy reduction performance necessary to keep pace with minimum requirements set for obtaining the FY 85 goal.

"In ATC we will be maintaining our reduction goal of 10 percent for each base while encouraging additional reductions at those bases already at the FY 81 level," added Skrocki.

Using 1975 as the baseline year, the plan required a starting goal of 5 percent reduction in 1979 with an annual 2.5 percent reduction goal. The 10-year plan will reduce facility energy consumption by 20 percent in 1985.

CHECKING

Q. What is a Share Draft?

A. It is a form, similar to a check, which allows you to withdraw money from your Share Draft Account without coming to the office. This draft may be made out to "cash" or used to pay bills or make a purchase.

Q. Is there a service charge?

A. No. Nor is there a minimum balance required. However, the member will purchase the drafts at credit union cost and there will be a small charge for overdrafts, stop payments and copies of cancelled drafts.

Q. How do I use the drafts?

A. Just as you now use a checking account.

Q. Do I earn dividends on this account?

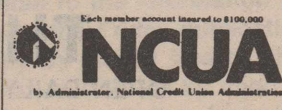

A. Yes. The Share Draft Account earns dividends each month on balances which have not been reduced below $100.00.

Q. What is the difference between a check and a Credit Union Share Draft?

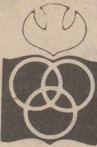

A. From a practical standpoint, there is very little difference. A check is directed to a bank for payment out of your checking account. A draft is payable through a bank for payment out of your Share Draft Account at the credit union.

Dorm update due

by Capt. Keith A. Howell
Chief, Services Division

In the weeks and months to come, personnel living in the four airman dormitories will begin to see a gradual change in the place where they live.

Due to the set back of the major renovation for these facilities to calendar year '83, interim measures are required. The interim improvements to the dorms will include new coats of paint for both the interior and exterior areas, minor maintenance and repair, installation of cable television in the dayrooms and accessibility to both cable and HBO in the individual rooms; installation of fire and smoke detection equipment, purchase of replacement furniture and equipment, plus the addition of five upright commercial dryers (one in each dorm except for dorm 230 which will receive two, one for each floor).

Many of these improvements will be accomplished by CE Structural, Maintenance and Repair Team, while others will be accomplished through "self-help" by dormitory bay orderlies and other residents.

The $3.1 million major renovation scheduled for calendar year 83 will include the construction of semi-private bathroom facilities as well as individual room entrances in the area of the current balconies. The expansion of laundry rooms, upgrade of electrical and plumbing as well as a total interior design package to include decor and furnishings is also included.

In order to insure the success of the interim measures and preparation for the major renovation, the development of dorm councils in all of the four airman dormitories will be required. The level of participation and contribution of residents to the councils will be a major deciding factor in the future condition of the dorms.

Dormitory residents are encouraged to take an active part in the preservation and development of the facilities in which they live.

Hospital airmen aid elderly

A Thanksgiving Eve greeting will be extended by Reese Hospital airmen to the residents of the High Plains Nursing Center in Lubbock on Wednesday.

Amn. Cynthia Day, Hospital Medical Material section, is organizing the special community project that will provide approximately 75 nursing center residents with gift baskets of fruit and an evening of companionship.

Airman Day coordinated the project during late October. She contacted the High Plains Nursing Center's Director, Mrs. Billie

Thomas, and discussed the possibility of doing something for the residents during the Thanksgiving holiday. Mrs. Thomas was receptive to the idea and after agreeing on details Airman Day began organizing the special evening for the nursing home residents.

Maintenance award

inventory of aircraft parts, the enterprising maintenance workers were able to keep Reese's flying fleet up to mission requirements.

In addition, FMS supplied maintenance specialists for the T-38s Reese had deployed at three Accelerated Copilot Enrichment program bases.

These achievements are only a small part of the maintenance success story. For OMS and FMS workers, lengthy overtime was the standard during the 18-month award period and remains so for many maintenance personnel today.

CARD OF THANKS
Perhaps you brought food, or came by and sat quietly in a chair,
Perhaps you sent flowers, if so we saw them there.
Perhaps you spoke the kindest words that any friend could say,
Perhaps you were not at the funeral, but you prayed for us that day.
Whatever you did to console our hearts, we thank you so much, whatever the part.

In memory of:
ROYCE G. GADDIS, SR.
Aug. 12, 1930-Nov. 7, 1980
Gaddis was a quality control inspector at Reese prior to his death earlier this month. He first started work here in 1950.

Randolph knocks Reese out of regional tourney

Reese managed to pull off one major upset before being knocked out of the regional football championships at Laughlin AFB, Texas last weekend.

After being bombed by Randolph AFB, Texas, 42-0, in the opening game for both teams, the Mike McGinty led Rattlers rebounded to upset league power Lackland AFB, 28-20.

The win gave the Reese grid-ders, a group of all star players from the intramural league, another shot at Randolph. Reese put a scare into the Ramblers before losing, 13-12.

Representing Reese at the regional tournament were four players off of the intramural championship Student Squadron team. Joining player-coach McGinty were Sturon gridders LKarry Taylor, Jim Best and Don Sadlowski.

Joe Smithisler and Richard Dalton were selected to the all star squad from the 35th Flying Training Squadron while Keith Blake was picked from the 1958th Communications Squadron and Bret Woolf was tabbed from the Hospital.

Rounding out the squad were: Johnny Prophet, Resource Management; Jimmy Cotten, Organizational Maintenance; Gerald Badura, Civil Engineers Group; Charles Free, Civil Engineers and Willie Barnes, Air Base.

Sports in brief

IM league

Gym officials said Tuesday that they are hopeful that work on the gym floors will be finished in time to open intramural basketball action here Monday night.

Eleven teams are scheduled to battle their way through a round robin slate, with the top eight teams reaching the playoffs.

League games will be played Monday through Thursday with games starting at 6, 7 and 8 p.m. each night.

The 54th is the defending champion, but; the squad has lost its imposing front line and part of its backcourt. Strong challenges for the league crown are expected from Air Base Group, the 35th and Sturon.

Racquetball participants

Effective immediately; Eye protection equipment is mandatory by order of the base commander. Violators will be suspended from use of courts. Eye protection equipment is available at the Gym.

Volunteers needed

Coaches and volunteer workers are needed to help out in the Youth Basketball league this season. Volunteers will coach boys age 8 to 12. The sign ups are now taking place and teams will be formed later on this month. For more information contact the youth director at Ext. 3820.

Base Gym patrons

Athletic shoes worn outside of the Gym facility will not be permitted for use in the basketball or racquetball courts.

Basketball officials

Anyone interested in officiating intramural basketball contact the Base Gym.

Cage action

The Rattlers will be on the road this weekend, traveling to New Mexico to play Holloman AFB. The Reese cagers are 3-0 on the season. Last week's scheduled games with White Sands Missile Range were cancelled because of wing activities.

Court update

The estimated completion date for Reese's two new racquetball courts has been moved up to Dec. 20. The courts will double Reese's present racquetball facilities.
