

Thompson Tribute

Path Of Service, Achievement
Mapped From Town To Capitol

National leaders pointed to Charles C. Thompson Tuesday night as a major reason for this nation's agricultural financing development into a self-sustained billion dollar credit system.

They praised the Colorado City banker-lawyer-farmer civic leader not only as a pioneer figure in the farm credit system -- actually 10 years ahead of Congress -- but also a maddist in a continuing effort to improve it.

Thompson, chairman of the Farm Credit District of Houston, was "Mr. Number One" as more than 350 persons from all across Texas and as far away as Washington, D.C., gathered in Civic House to honor him at a special appreciation banquet.

He is a national winner of a 1964-65 Alumni Recognition Award, highest honor a farmer 4-H member can receive from that organization, and was presented the state 4-H Alumni plaque in ceremonies at the banquet.

But the main ingredient for the appreciation dinner were the tributes expressed by seven persons who have known of his service on community, state and national levels.

Emphasizing Thompson's contribution to the farm credit system were W. N. Stokes Jr., chairman of President's Committee and president of Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of Houston, and Edwin A. Jaenke, governor of Farm Credit Administration, Washington, D.C.

His all-around service to agriculture, industry, community and youth were related by Burt B. Hulsey Jr., president of Texas Electric Service Company, Fort Worth, Dr. John E. Hutchison, director of Texas Agriculture Extension Service, Mitchell County 4-H Council Chairman, David Stubblefield and Joe Bell, Colorado City Record publisher.

Dr. Bill Bridgford, master of ceremonies, set the banquet tone when he emphasized that no person is ever honored for what he received, but for what he gave.

Stokes, the Intermediate Credit Bank president, described Thompson as the embodiment of the Farm-Credit System philosophy... "that the farmer has the capacity and know-how to operate his own financial facility and has the capital to put up his part of the financing."

He created the Colorado City citizen with 10 years' head start ahead of Congress' idea.

Charles Thompson went to Washington in 1943 with a bill in his pocket, Stokes said that would have been a bill of rights for this system.

"Nobody paid any attention to him then," he continued, "but it finally became law in 1953."

"His has been a tremendous contribution to farming," Stokes said, pointing out that this system now has grown to a current level of 936 million dollars and outstanding with a surplus dollar of government capital in the system.

Along the way, Thompson has worked for improvements to make the system what it is and to fight off efforts to torpedo the program.

Jaenke, the governor of Farm Credit Administration who traveled by plane Tuesday from Washington for the dinner, reported that the system was furnishing a major share of all of the nation's agricultural credit needs.

The lack of the seed money (initial government capital to start the system), he stated, was repaid in 1961 so this system is now completely borrower-owned.

Thompson's system, he stated, has been a great success story.

So, he said, we can say our system is the largest agricultural borrowing system in the world.

And, this man we honor tonight is one of those who made it possible.

Jaenke said Thompson's work and service has not stopped

He reported that in recent months Thompson has been working with a national commission doing something right now to improve the services of the credit system.

Last week he was in New Orleans on this assignment, serving his fellow man.

Jaenke emphasized that he had served brilliantly for the system.

In addition to the state plaque, Thompson was presented a great registration book as a memento of the afternoon reception for him -- and a 4-H Alumni Award.

Award Presentation

Charles Thompson, with Mrs. Thompson at his side, receives the state 4-H Alumni plaque from Dr. John E. Hutchison, left, director of Texas Agriculture Extension Service. The state honor was a step toward the 1970 National 4-H Alumni Recognition Award recently announced for Thompson.

Taylor In Board Race

Alvarez Is Second Council Candidate

Alvarez, a candidate set up by the school board in Colorado City, is running for school trustee in the final hours before the election.

The school board action was preceded with a second candidate filing for City Council and a third withdrawing his application for a ballot place because he had not lived within the city long enough.

No. 4-4 filed for the school board election April 4 was Willis Taylor, 35, insurance agent, who lives at 196 East 32nd Street.

He joined two incumbents -- A. K. McCauley, 36, and Ed Smith, 36, who previously had filed for ballot places.

Only two places will be determined in the April school district voting and deadline for candidate filing was midnight Wednesday.

Taylor is the father of four children -- three of them school age -- and is a leader in young people's department at First Baptist Church in addition to being active in Jaycees.

McCauley is seeking re-election to the school board and Smith, who was appointed when Curtis Latimer resigned, will be seeking his first elective term.

Increasing the field to two in the April 7 City Council election that will see three council posts was Abel Alvarez, 173 Mulberry.

Dinner Salutes Captains, Riley

Randy Riley, a determined boy who became a football starter despite a back injury, is Colorado High's outstanding senior athlete for 1969-70.

He shared the spotlight Saturday night at Colorado High All-Sports Banquet with Joe Kirschbaum, Steve Vest and Tommy Boyd, who will captain the Wolves next fall.

Actually, every member of the school's volleyball, football, basketball, tennis, golf and track squads were in the spotlight at the covered dish dinner in High School Cafeteria.

All the players were introduced in the program sponsored by Quarterback Club.

Riley received an engraved silver tray for his honor. He was a defensive standout in the secondary for the Wolves last fall in football and is a member of the track team.

The tri-captains announced for next fall team two line-men and a backfielder in the leadership role. All three are tabbed for standout performance -- Vest as the district's No. 1 passing quarterback, Kirschbaum as center and Boyd, guard.

Saluted as No. 1 fan was Don Beison, the banquet's master of ceremonies, who has served as Quarterback president this year.

GOOD POLICE WORK

You read about lots of people criticizing police these days. And I would like to take a few words to direct a little praise toward our law enforcement officers.

Assistant Police Chief Bill Henderson, City Patrolman Andrew Rivera and Chief Deputy Sheriff Forrest Smith have just completed 140 hours of study at West Central Texas Law Enforcement Academy in Abilene.

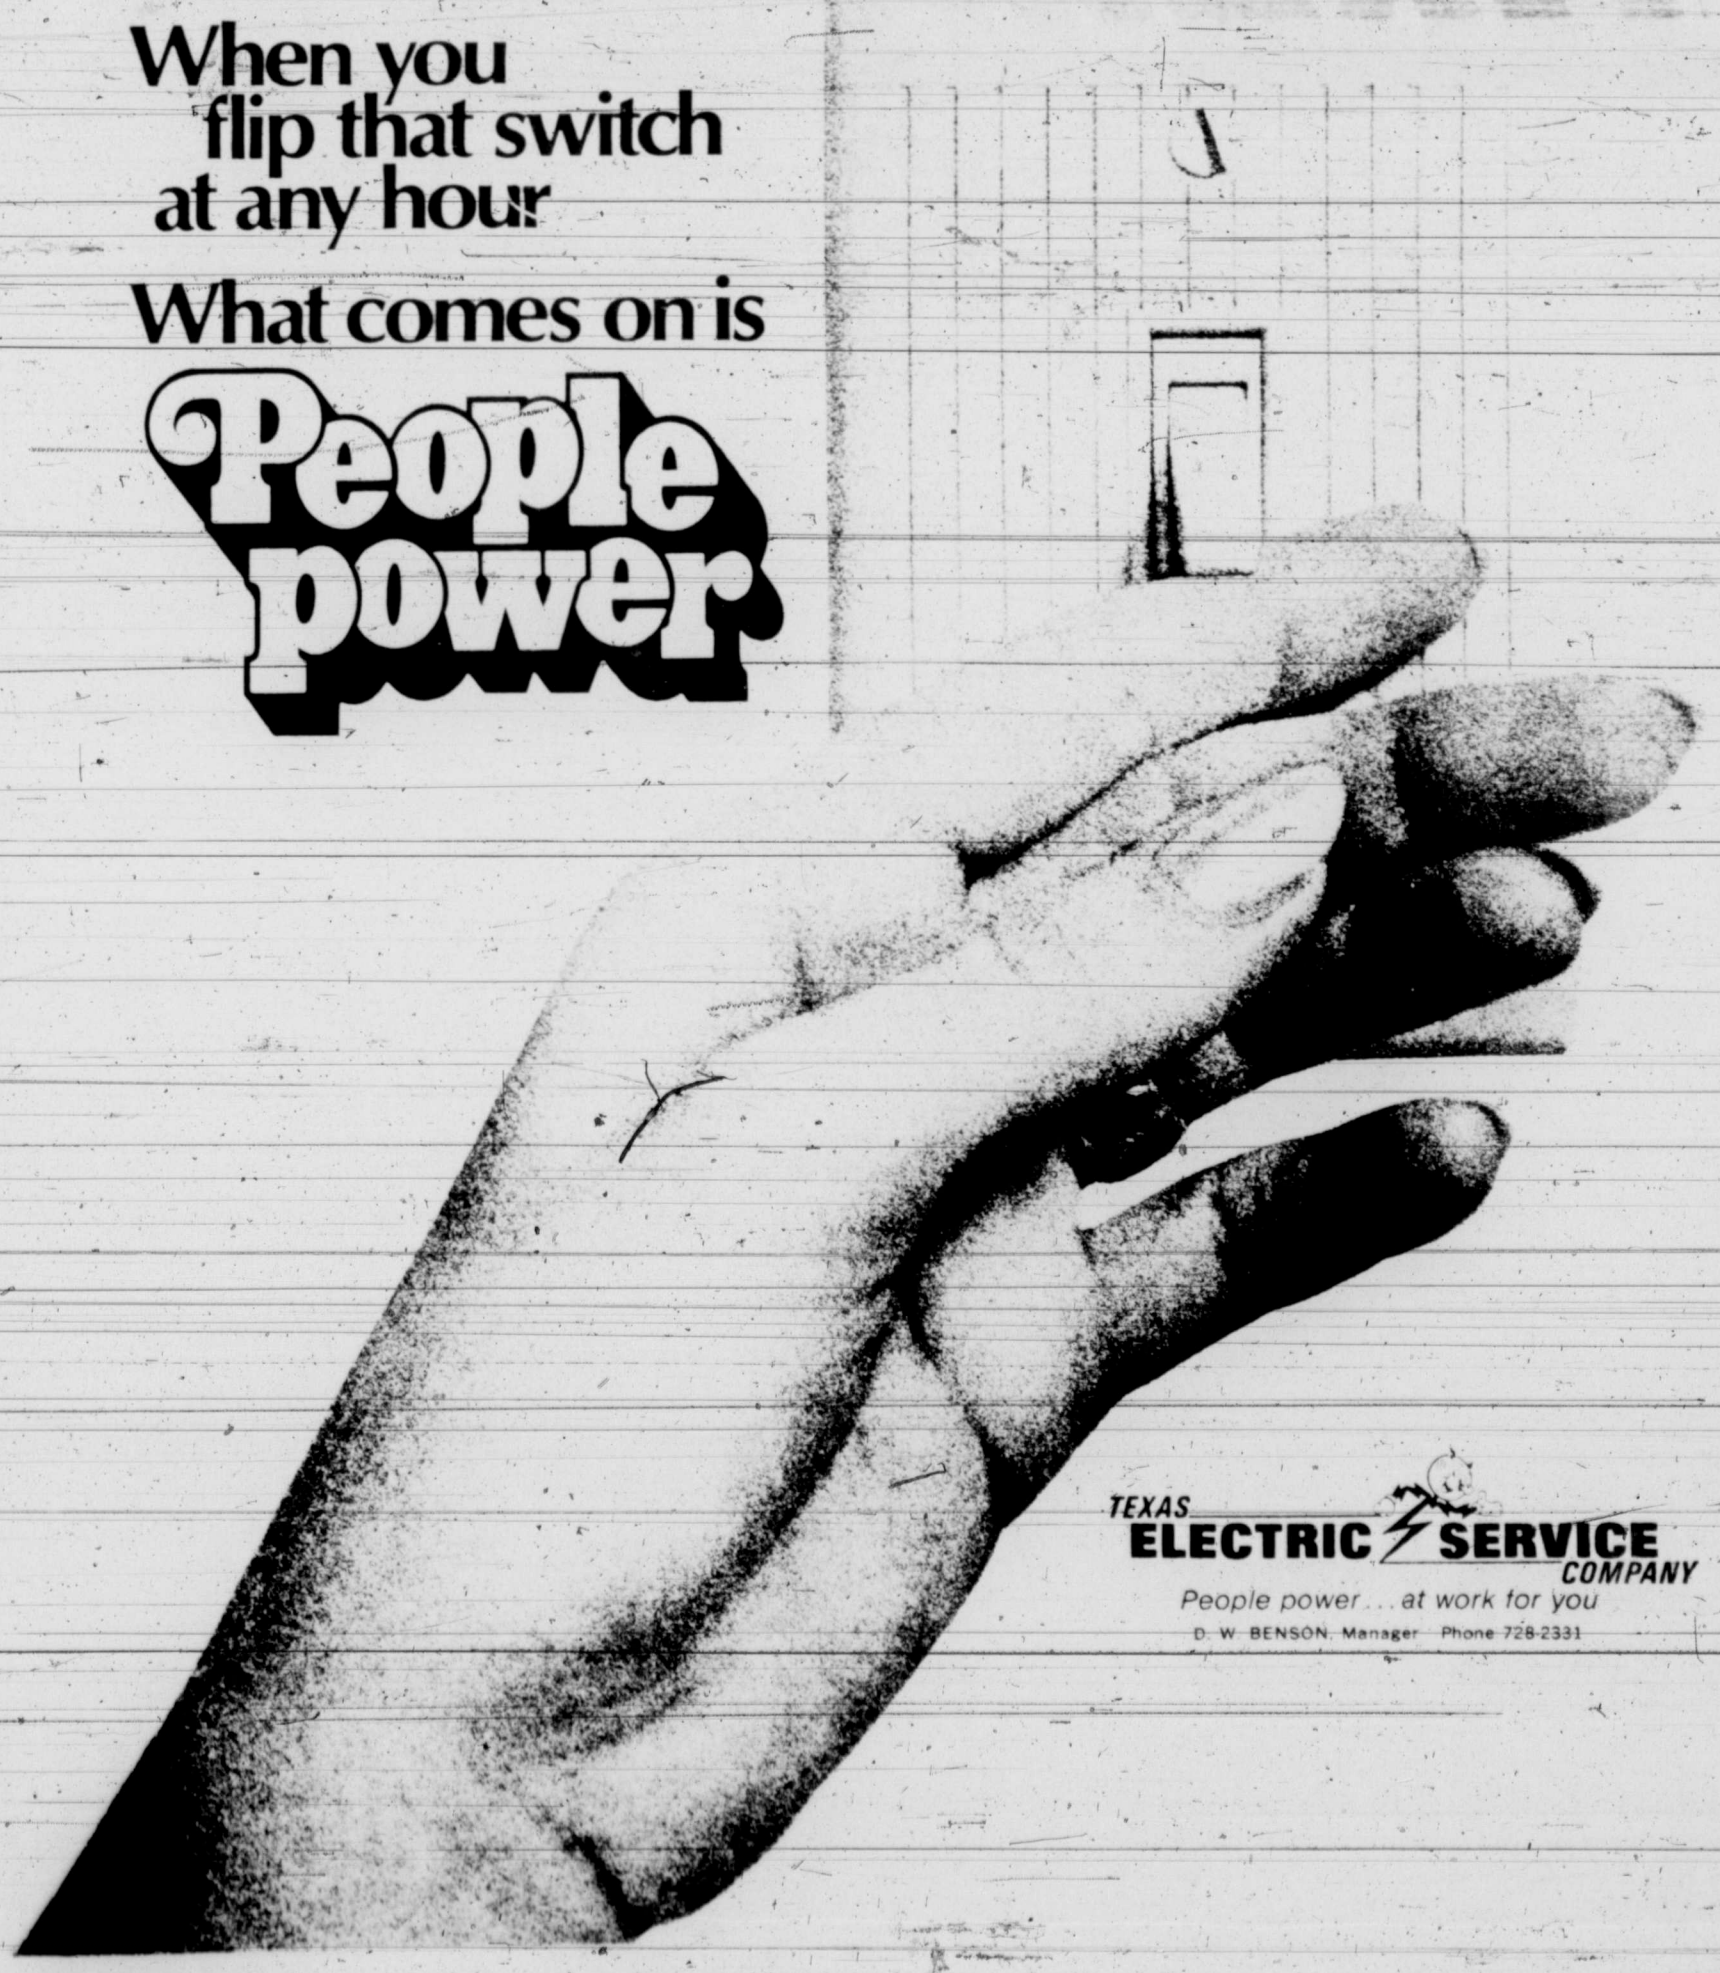

They were in the first class of graduates in this school dedicated to upgrading law enforcement.

These three "pioneers" in this program deserve our compliments, and our appreciation because we the citizens, will benefit most.

Deserving compliments too are all the other members of the police and sheriff's departments who "took up the slack" on the duty roster while these three were in school. The same cooperation will continue in the future, too, when other officers go to the academy.

The Watchtower Bible and Tract Society of New York, the directive agency for Jehovah's Witnesses, will sponsor the meeting.

The gathering is not a revival, Hoisington emphasized, but is a regular part of an advanced ministerial training program for Witnesses and other persons interested in the Bible.

Special attention will be given to imparting Bible instruction and better understanding of prophecy, to enable Jehovah's Witnesses and others attending to apply Bible principles more fully in their everyday lives.

CONVERSATION CORNER

PROVERBS, maxims, and even plain old platitudes are pretty handy things to have around.

If you know plenty of platitudes you can always economize on the thinking process. That's a help to people who hardly ever know what to think any more, any how.

Faced with a minor decision or a major crisis a maxim-mother can always come up with something from old Aesop, Cervantes, Plato, Solomon, the ancient Chinese, or William Shakespeare.

Practically every philosopher who ever lived said the same thing sooner or later, though they spoke their maxims in different ages and different tongues and some were a bit more bitter than others.

So people have a choice lot of quotations when they need a motto for any occasion from sparing their food and spoiling the child to counting chickens before they hatch, and look in before leaping.

It is true, we do not still live with us if they had not solved a purpose through the centuries. They often work on children, spouses, in-laws, and friends needing advice.

Just to give you one thing, "Platitudes do not work on the flu bug--or virus as the case may be."

A person can read all the books by Dr. Norman Vincent Peale and read his "Confident Living" column every Sunday, and still be unable to conquer the flu with that positive thinking theory.

Know for sure, and trust it and it took almost two weeks to positive think the body out of bed.

The flu bug--or virus as the case may be, does not care a rap about Aristotle or Benjamin Franklin or Dr. Frank and Jerry about anything.

HEARD not to have the flu bug--or virus as the case may be, this year. So announced to me and some of my friends the family when the "gripes" let go long enough.

"Not sick, just tired." This positive thinker kept assuring herself between sniffs and fitful dozing, all day but never at night.

It didn't work. Decided not to have the flu. The flu decided to have her, have me, it did.

They were wondering between fruit-juice, aspirin, bushels of facial tissues and cough drops, just what, if anything, they had to say about the flu--or maybe Cervantes who did say things like "While there's life there's hope...and tomorrow will be a new day."

ANCIENT proverbs do not deal in what to do with a sore throat unless you care to count "Think before thou speakest" by Cervantes.

They did not discuss the flu. That was probably because people did not have to have the flu. They had colds and sometimes "gripes" and sometimes died of pneumonia, but they had heard of the flu.

First heard of it as a single girl when it was called "Spanish influenza." It was a deadly thing. In our small town we lost the family doctor--a tall, dashing young man with curly hair and blazing blue eyes. His name was Dr. Jimmy Spang and he lived next door.

Our druggist lost his wife and unborn child. One family member was "spooked out" except for one high school daughter. It was a terrible time.

SINCE then, science has discovered the wonder drugs and all kinds of new varieties of flu to go with them.

It is comforting, to remember in the middle of the night that everybody has the flu these days and few of us die of it--even when we feel like wanting to.

A child cursed with the flu bug--or virus as the case may be, remembers the funniest things: too!

Heard out of nowhere, along about 3 a.m. the longest night of all; remembered about "Spanish Influenza" and a joke a little boy told at school after classes re-opened following that first long-ago epidemic.

His joke went like this: "Johnny, make a sentence using the new word influenza," said the teacher.

"Well, Mama opened the window and in-flu-en-za," was Johnny's answer.

AFTER THAT found little memory from "back when" decided to make up an original set of platitudes for benefit of flu victims. They turned out to be mostly of the do-not variety.

Do not get smart and try to practice Christian Science if you happen to be a Southern Baptist. Go to bed and lie low while you please.

Do not try all the remedies suggested by TV commercials or well-meaning friends. If you care to last.

Do not speak unless you're spoken to. And even then, with judgment.

Do not plan your funeral. Plan a trip when you get well.

Do not, whatever you do, look in the mirror. Shut the eyes tight while gargling and brushing. Now this is the most important do-not of all. You chance in the bathroom mirror and all is lost. No woman can survive just seeing what the flu bug--or virus as the case may be, does to her hair.

ONE MORE do-not is part of the routine, too. Do not go around giving the flu bug--or virus as the case may be, to other people. Stay home.

Been staying home so long, this column will be minus the Sean Lately's department. Better luck next time, maybe.

DID HEAR TELL via the dist system, that our Mary Post staff Mrs. Post was visited recently by first son USN Commander Robert E. Post that he and his family.

The Navy family were enroute to their new assignment at Alameda, Calif. after two years spent in Naples, Italy. With him here were his wife, his children John, Susan, and Janice, and his mother Mrs. Fred Leeth of Dallas.

Bob's USN duty in Italy had him in the same country as his sister Martha who is wife of an Italian attorney, Mario Cianculli. Bob's new assignment was in the same state as his mother's home town. The only reason the staff at San Bernardino, Calif. where he lives with his wife and children Bobby and Katrina.

HEARD, too, that our Pat Graham, son of Mary and Matt Graham, made the Dean's Honor List at Audient Christian College with a 3.85 average from a possible point 4. He's a working student, too.

Pat's cousin Savannah, Jean Mickey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Mickey at Marshall St., made the ACC Dean's Honor List with an average of 3.85.

OFF THE CUFF--pajama girl, that is, Flossie Sweet (Mrs. Olson) and the son of a recent star in Alpa. She stayed with her grandchildren Paul, Clark, and Laura Ann Hise while their parents attended Texas Music Federation meetings in Dallas.

The Sweet daughter Zora Mae and her husband Ross Hines are members of the Sul Ross music faculty where Ross directs the university band.

Ed Williams, former Colorado School district superintendent, and his wife Min, former teacher, in Pe, had lunch out at the Villa a recent Friday. They had been guests of son Gene Williams and his family at Snyder. Ed and Min have retired and now live in their new home on a lakeside site at Graustuary.

Prize possession here on East 9th St. is a giant and beautiful fresh pineapple sent from Hawaii by the former Fannie Bess Porter, daughter of Lena Porter. Fannie Bess, her husband Major, Eddie K. Norris, and sons Skipper and Dale are in Hawaii until 1971. Skipper is a college in California for now and Dale's in high school at Honolulu.

Lena wagged that huge pineapple all the way home after a ten-week stay in Hawaii. The sight of it would fill the whole Bole company establishment with envy. It's that gorgeous!

What-A-Taco Opens Second Cafe for Mike Flores

What-A-Taco is one of two new businesses at the corner of 12th and Hickory Streets.

And What-A-Taco is the second cafe specializing in Mexican food owned here by Mr. and Mrs. Mike Flores.

Their first, El Rancho, located west of Colorado City at Interstate 20, and Farm to Market 2836, was opened last October.

Both cafes will be operated by the Flores family so customers will know that our food will be consistently good. Mrs. Flores will manage the twelfth street business and Mr. Flores will be manager for the Interstate cafe, which is temporarily closed while they are getting the Colorado City cafe established.

The local firm is located at 440 East 12th Street, just west of another new business, Early and Late Grocery, opened last week by Manuel Rivera, long time groceryman here.

The delicatessen-type cafe is furnished with redwood tables and benches for customers wanting to eat there.

Menu includes tacos, burritos, Mexican dinners, enchiladas, tamales, soft drinks, coffee, candy and snacks.

What-A-Taco will be open Tuesdays through Sundays from 11 a.m. until 7:30 p.m., Flores said, with fresh food cooked every day.

At their Interstate 20 location Flores will have fish bait and souvenirs from Mexico as well as Mexican food.

Employees of What-A-Taco in addition to Mr. and Mrs. Flores are his niece, Mrs. Pauline Garcia who will help Mrs. Flores with cooking, and another niece, Mrs. Lupe Arellano.

Flores is a native of Mitchell County. Mrs. Flores came here with her family in 1934 from Hamlin. They were married here in 1940.

They have a son, Raymond Flores, an employee of Custom Implements here, and six daughters: Mrs. Nellie Bramble of Colorado City; Mrs. Eloisa Dominguez, in nurses training in Big Spring; Terry, a senior in Colorado High School; Mary, 13, and Josie, 11 students at St. Ann's Catholic School, and five-year-old, Lupe.

Flores has worked at local movie theatres and for nine years was an employee of H. I. Berman Variety Store here. He was a postal employee in Los Angeles, Cal., for some time and retired recently from civil service work at Webb Air Force Base in Big Spring.

He served in the fleet post office in Pearl Harbor from February, 1944, to October, 1945, while in the Navy.

Daughter Born To Newbys

Corporal and Mrs. L. M. Newby, now stationed at Roosevelt Roads Naval Base in Puerto Rico, announce the birth of a daughter, Michelle Ann, born Wednesday in Puerto Rico.

The baby was born at 6:30 a.m. and weighed eight pounds and two ounces.

Mrs. Newby is the former Karen Nuckolls. Both, Cpl. C. Merritt of Huntington Beach, Cal.

The baby's maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Merritt of Huntington Beach, Cal.

The maternal great-grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Campbell of Hickory Street and Mrs. M. W. Nuckolls of Big Spring, former residents here.

Paternal great-grandparents of the infant are Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Newby of 1121 Locust Street.

Abilene Luncheon

A birthday luncheon last Sunday in Abilene complimented Mrs. Tom Daughtrey of Lake Colorado City.

Hostess for the affair was Mrs. Daughtrey's daughter, Mrs. Nell Pierce.

Other luncheon guests were Mr. and Mrs. O. O. Daughtrey of Abilene, Sgt. Marion Daughtrey of Fort Hood, Mrs. Ina Pea Williams of Resque, Mrs. Billie Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Pete Barkley of Colorado City.

Visiting during the afternoon were Mrs. Hugh Creed, Mr. and Mrs. Lon Johnson and Scott, and Mrs. Louise Bloodsaw, all of Abilene.
