INTO THE EYE

STOLYPIN A MUCH HATED MAN

Peter Arkadievitch Stolypin, the Russian premier, who was assassinated, was noted throughout the courts of Europe as a courtier and a master of ceremonies. Despite his courtly bearing and the great love the czar bore for him, Stolypin, it can be said safely, was the most hated man in all Russia. To the people of Russia he was known principally as the man who by his wholesale executions and drum-head courts-martial sent over the land the expression, "Stolypin's necktie," as a synonym for the hangman's noose. Death sentences and executions were reported daily from his office, without the slightest comment or word of explanation. Cold grim figures alone made known the work of the hangman.

Two attempts before that which resulted in his death were made on his life. He had not long been a member of the cabinet as minister of the interior when the revolutionists blew his house almost to pieces, injuring his little girl so that she is crippled for life. Weaker men than he would have retired, at least for a time, from the policy which had engendered the attack, but not Stolypin. He stuck to the course he had outlined and dared the revolutionists and assassins to do their worst. Several times it was announced that his reign as minister of the interior was at an end, but he kept the portfolio just the same.

MAYOR UNDER INVESTIGATION

Thomas E. Knotts, mayor of Gary, Ind., the steel trust's "Magic City," has been arrested for the alleged taking of a bribe of $5,000 from T. B. Dean, who was endeavoring to get the city fathers of Gary to give him, in behalf of his company, a heating franchise. "Mayor Tom," as Knotts is called, denies the charge of bribery and says that the whole thing is a "frame-up." He avers a base plot has been hatched to get him and his aides-men out of office, a plot to blacken his good name.

Dictographs, such as were used at Columbus, O., to get evidence against bribed members of the Ohio legislature, were used in Gary to get evidence against the mayor as well as against seven other officials. All these officials are alleged to have sought bribes ranging from $1,000 to $10,000 from Dean for the purpose of putting his franchise through the council. Dean claims the mayor demanded $5,000 to sign the franchise after it had passed the council. The mayor signed, and, after the signing, officers found $5,000 in an envelope in a pigeonhole in his desk at the city hall.

PORTUGAL'S NEW PRESIDENT

The new constitutional president of Portugal, Dr. Manuel Arraiga, has a hard task before him. When the republic was proclaimed in October, 1910, a provisional government was established and, beset by reactionary tendencies on every side, it found difficulties in maintaining itself. The monarchists were active in undermining its stability and many of the republicans who aided in the overthrow of the monarchy became lukewarm in their support of the republic because disappointed in obtaining the sweets of political office.

Not long since the National Assembly chose a new president and adopted a constitution. The choice for president, Dr. Arraiga, is popular, but whether his popularity will remain after he is in office long enough to make enemies is another question. Meantime the supporters of the exiled King Manuel are active both in Portugal and outside its borders and at the present time Portuguese troops are being employed to repel a possible invasion by monarchists from the Spanish province of Galicia. That there is discontent of a widespread order in Portugal seems certain and it requires a strong man to stem the tide and popularize the republic.

TO TEACH FILIPINO FARMERS

The recent appointment of Frederic W. Taylor as director of agriculture for the Philippine islands, recalls the career of one of the most interesting personalities associated with the development of agriculture. For this is the same Mr. Taylor who made a world-wide reputation as superintendent of agriculture at the St. Louis exposition, and who has been prominently identified with the agricultural exhibitions at nearly every American exposition of any importance, from the irrigation of arid lands to the reclamation of the swamp lands of the south.

Mr. Taylor's appointment to his new post is especially merited, for few phases of agricultural development are unknown to him. A horny-kneed farmer himself, born in Iowa, he long ago established an enviable reputation as a most capable student and writer in the advancement of practical agriculture.

TALES OF GOTHAM AND OTHER CHILDS

Gotham Fat Women Outnumber Fat Men

NEW YORK.—Why are there so many fat women? A man rushing upon his doom asked this question. He spoke of the increasing prevalence of large feminine persons, not with admiration, but with profound dismay. "Why are there so many fat women?" he reiterated. "I have watched the passing throng in several cities and while one fat man was passing I have counted not fewer than four fat women. This ratio has held true whenever and wherever I have had occasion to take observations.

"These women are, for the most part, between thirty-five and fifty years old. They either waddle ponderously or propel themselves forward with not the slightest perceptible freedom of motion, looking the while like statues moving on rollers. The alarming corpulence of our middle-aged women is getting serious. They seem to be fattening for a slumberous old age.

"If one looks about in New York theaters and restaurants the conclusion that the New York women over there are about twenty pounds overweight looms large and inevitable. And in those restaurants lies the explanation of the phenomena. We eat too much in New York, because the best food in the country is shipped here and the best cooks prepare it."

But while there are many persons who will testify to their own ocular perception of the stoutness of New York women, there are certain individuals who know absolutely about the matter. They are the buyers of ready-made suits and gowns in large department stores. One of these buyers, a woman who draws a large salary from the most conservative house in New York, said:

"New York women are growing enormous. Today the average customer in our store weighs 165 pounds. The reason why American women do not look well in the hobble skirt is because they are too large for it. French women have comparatively small hips and they can afford to have their gowns pulled in at the feet. Skirts are narrower than ever this year, and I am sure I do not know how New York women are going to wear them."

Moving Picture Shows Grip Chicago

CHICAGO.—The moving picture show is putting baseball far in the shade in its bid for popularity. In Chicago there are four persons who attend moving picture shows for every one that attends a baseball game. Moving picture "fans" are becoming more and more numerous, and their patronage is becoming so popular that the proprietors are giving more than 30 percent more pictures for a nickel than they did a year ago. The records of the moving picture bureau of the police department in charge of Sergeant Jeremiah O'Connor show that there are 556 shows in Chicago. Besides these, all of the large vaudeville houses are running moving pictures, and the craze has reached such proportions that the centrally located theaters even are presenting pictures between the acts.

The first moving-picture shows were established in 1908. The first neighborhood theaters were located in remodeled store buildings. The public took to them quickly and they grew in number rapidly. All were not successful, principally because every Tom, Dick and Harry who had a few dollars to invest bought a moving-picture machine, rented a place and made a bid for patronage.

Those handled by experienced showmen prospered. A moving picture inspection bureau was established, and after the usual red tape and delay it got down to working order. The Chicago bureau has been so well handled at all times that it is acknowledged to be the best in the United States. Seventy thousand feet of films are inspected every week by the bureau.

Kansas Hiking Clubs on Long Trudge

TOPEKA, Kan.—If walking is good exercise for the city man on Sunday, why is it not good for him on any other day of the week? That is a question which not less than twenty hiking clubs are considering in many Kansas towns. Golf and automobile are threatened by this new system of exercise. Edward Payson Weston when he walked through Kansas a year or more ago started the idea of hiking clubs among the business men of the towns and cities. In forty or fifty towns clubs were formed to go on walks on Sunday morning. Sunday was chosen because it was the only day the business men could devote to exercise. Now they are planning in several towns to make two or three hikes each week. An early morning walk and a fried chicken breakfast five or six miles out in the country is something to think about.

The business men organize a walking club, the Peripatetic club or the Weston Wabblers or something like that, and select a captain. It is the captain's business to pick out the road over which the hike will be made on Sunday morning and notify his company. Another of his duties is to have a conference with Mrs. Jones or Mrs. Smith or Mrs. Brown, who happens to live five or six miles out on the road selected, and arrange with her to have ready a steaming hot breakfast of fried chicken, brown gravy, biscuits and alfalfa berry at seven o'clock. Usually the price for such a Sunday morning breakfast out in the country is 50 cents a plate.

Western Cities Are to Have Pennies

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah.—After years of turning up noses at cheap people of the east who would need such a small coin as a penny in doing their daily business, there has been developed a real call in the west for these same coins. It is largely due to the feeling of the housewives that much money could be saved in their buying at the shops and in other ways if they had the small pieces of money. A movement has been put under way for the banks to import the coins, and some of the shops are already advertising wares for sums that change into pennies.

When an inquiry was recently made into this subject by persons interested it was found that less than 20,000 pennies were in Salt Lake City. Many of them were held by the banks, which said they had difficulty in disposing of them. As in other cities in the west, the nickel had been the small coin, and the easy spenders had treated even that somewhat contemptuously. The newspapers sell for five cents a copy. Children have been brought up to the idea of asking for a nickel for candy and spending it.

Now the cost of living is coming home even to the free-spending west, and housewives have found that it is not only well to look after the nickels, but the pennies, too. It is pointed out that under the present system if a purchase comes to an odd amount the total is put up to make the even nickel for the shopkeeper.

An Exception.
A pretty girl is a charming sight anywhere, except on the back of a motorcycle.—Detroit Free Press.

BULL NEEDS SOME EXERCISE

Animal Should Not Be Allowed to Run With Cows or Horses—Exercising Pole Is Excellent.

After the bull is old enough for service he should not be allowed to run with young heifers or cows, but should, in suitable weather, be exercised daily. An exercising pole with chain, balanced by swivel joint (a one and one-half or two-inch wheel axle with box) upon the top of a stout post, which stands seven or eight feet above ground, is satisfactory. Make the pole

Exercising Merry-Go-Round.

As long as requisite strength and convenience will permit, that the bull may cut a good-sized circle about the post, says the Country Gentleman. On the top of the small end of the pole fasten a mesh pulley, and, at a point just forward of the line of the post, a corresponding pulley; also, at intervals between the pulleys, put two or three screw-eyes to guide the chain from pulley to pulley.

Bore holes vertically through the pole for the ends of the chain to fall through. At the outer end of the chain attach a strong swivel snap hook, and at the other end hang a weight just heavy enough to take up the slack chain as the bull raises his head. The chain should be, when the weight is raised up against the pole, long enough to permit the bull to lie down comfortably. When the bull is old enough for service he should thereafter never be allowed to have his liberty; but daily exercise should not be omitted. The exercising pole might be placed under a roof or building, but in winter it should be under cover and in the shade in summer.

PURE WATER FOR THE STOCK

One of the greatest difficulties that confronts the stock raiser during dry summer weather is that of keeping Water Trough for Stock.

Pure water for the stock. The illustration shows a method employed by an Illinois farmer for several years, says the Homestead. Bury an old zinc tank or some other construction that will hold at least 50 gallons of water. In this place a large size water barrel, more some three or four inches in the bottom end of this just below the top of the outside tank, in these holes place an iron tube as much as an inch in diameter and the enclosure tank will always be full of water and there is no waste.

Market Hogs Early.

How should we manage the hog marketing proposition? It is a simple proposition, but few farmers have backbone to carry it out. We would advise a farmer with thirty hogs to purchase corn during the summer months, if it does seem high, and crowd his hogs on the market at the earliest possible moment. As to the exact date of profitable marketing we would suggest early September as the most propitious season, the weather being about the proper temperature to promote the fattening process. Simply begin to push the fatteners at three and about the time farmers begin to hog down their corn or to feed it to their hogs in various ways you dispose of yours, avoiding the drop that invariably follows the fall shipment of fat hogs.

Hog Forage.

Experiments at one of the state stations showed that red clover ranked among the first as hog forage, because of the palatableness of the food throughout the season, and also because of its adaptability to hogs. The average amount of pork produced per acre was 672.2 pounds. Corn fed to six-cent hogs on clover was worth 98 cents per bushel.

Teaching Pigs to Eat.

Teach the pig to eat early in life. Bran and whole oats are good, one to four of oats, or therabouts.

KEEP BROOD SOWS SEPARATE

Should Be Kept Away From Pork Makers and Most of Corn Removed From Their Ration.

Breeding sows should be separated from the pork makers and most of the corn removed from their ration. Faty tissues and padded internal organs work disaster to the breeding sow, for as she fattens she becomes lazy and takes very little exercise. This tardy task is costly to the breeder of swine, for instead of vigorous, active pigs, he will have uneven, puny squealers, that persist in crawling under the bedding and around the place where the mother usually settles, and then he is done for. Exercise above all else is conducive to strong litters, while the sow's ration should be made up largely of muscle and bone-growing feeds, such as oats, bran, skim milk, short cut clover or alfalfa. It is not the fattest nor the biggest pig at birth that makes the heaviest hog, but rather the one that has the ability to move about freely and fight for his special platter at the nurse table.

HORSE FEED IS NOT WASTED

Bag Invented by Massachusetts Man Supplies Oats Only as Fast as Animals Can Eat Them.

Any person who has watched horses eating their noonday meals along the streets cannot fail to have noticed how much of the feed was wasted when the animals tossed their heads to get at the oats in the bottom of the bags. A Massachusetts man has designed a feed bag which saves all this waste and in addition makes the horse eat slower, so that he gets all the benefit of the food. The bag is made in two sections, one for the animal's head and the other for the feed. An opening at the bottom allows the oats to flow into the compartment in which the horse has his head, but only as fast as he eats them. He does not have to "leak" his head about and even if he does there is no waste as the compartment containing the feed is closed at the top. By eating slowly, too, he is satisfied with less feed than if he bolted it. When not in use the bag can be folded up and carried in the tool box under the seat.

Shade for Pigs.

Every pasture should be provided with shade for the pigs in very hot weather. The small shed is always a necessity, but this should be placed on very high ground, where the air can have a good sweep.

The hog is pretty nearly all a bundle of money, and he should not be neglected in any manner.

Sheep in Cornfield.

When the pasture begins to wither and get short, turn the flock of sheep into the cornfield. They will eat nothing but the weeds and the lower blades of corn, which makes the finest of browsing now, but which, if they are not utilized soon, dry up and are entirely lost.

Blinders on Horses.

A horse with blinders on the public road is about as comfortable as a woman wearing a poke bonnet walking through a field where a vicious bull is kept.

Pigs in Grass.

When pigs are six weeks old they may be turned into grass and clover pasture if the weather is warm; if cold and the ground wet, keep them in dry, rocky pens.

Best Paying Cow.

The cow that is paying the best profit nine times out of ten is the cow that milks the year around.

Many of us could increase the number of hogs we carry and do it at a profit.

At the first sign of trouble in a horse immediate attention should be given to remedying it.

The housing of the horse should be looked after much more carefully than is generally the case. Study over your situation carefully and figure whether you cannot handle a few more hogs at a profit.

MAN'S MASTERY OF THE AIR

AEROPLANE IN FLIGHT

THE navigation of the air! How very the idea of it thrills! To rise above the earth and flit from city to city and from continent to continent! To travel free and untrammelled as do the birds! This has been the dream of mankind for ages.

Impossible of accomplishment? Do not be too sure. Tremendous strides toward this splendid, this alluring goal have been made within the past three years. Already have daring men of the air pierced the blue vault of heaven to astonishing altitudes, already have they dashed from metropolis to metropolis with a speed rivaling the fastest express train, already have they leaped over mountain ranges and crossed bodies of water which separate nations. If the progress is to be as great during the next three years, then, indeed, will marvels have been accomplished beyond anything of which today we permit ourselves to dream.

Much depends upon the attitude and activity of those daring and ingenious men who already have elevated the science of aviation from the purely experimental and speculative to something at least approaching the practical. If their talents and the talents of such scientific men as now are or hereafter may be attracted to the problem of aerial flight are devoted to the making of aviation more nearly safe and therefore more useful, rather than toward outdoing the marvelous records already made in altitude, distance, speed and duration, then will the world be the gainer and travel and commerce be helped through this new means of communication.

Safety! Not till a full measure of it is reached can the conquest of the air really be claimed or aviation be lifted from the spectacular to the utilitarian.

Considering what has already been accomplished in aerial navigation is it too much to say that even greater discoveries will be made and applied in the near future? Where shall we place the limit upon an age which has produced a machine that talks and sings, which propels loaded cars up and down hill by means of an invisible fluid, which takes photographs through solid substances, which has instant communication by wire between the most widely separated continents, which has made conversation possible between New York and Chicago and which thinks nothing of sending wireless messages from land to vessels hundreds of miles away at sea? After all, is a certain and safe passenger and freight service through the air more improbable to our near future than was the automobile and the electric express train to the future of the man of the ox-cart and the pole propelled farboat?

The Drifting Balloon.

The balloon is the elder brother of the aeroplane and its discovery was the cause of fully as great a sensation. Compared, however, with the later air craft, it is very simple and its possibilities are limited.

To Stephen and Joseph Montgolfier belong the distinction of making the first balloon. They were papermakers of Annonay, France, and they experimented for years before they succeeded in causing a silk bag to rise to the ceiling of their workshop. The first step was to make a balloon ascension were the Platree des Hostiers and the Marquis d'Arlandes. They went up from Paris on November 21, 1783 and remained aloft 25 minutes.

The efforts to construct an airship subject to control has been a long and persistent one, but the necessarily enormous bulk of gas balloons has been a discouraging obstacle. Such a tremendous surface presented to the wind more than offsets the power of the rudder to control, except in a comparative calm, and the invariable disaster which has overtaken the most elaborate and expensive attempts—those of Count Zeppelin of Germany—presumably will discourage further effort along this line and concentrate inventive genius upon the aeroplane. The dirigible balloon, however, is by no means a complete failure.

The ordinary balloon retains the pear-shape of the original, but the dirigible is elongated or cigar-shaped and braced along the sides to give it stability. The control is gained from a rudder extending from the suspended car, which contains an electric or gasoline motor. Walter Wellman's fruitless attempt to reach the north pole and later to cross the Atlantic were among the interesting but wandering failures of the dirigible balloon.

The Flying Machine.

Genuine aerial navigation, or independent flight as distinguished from aimless floating in the air, really and truly began when men abandoned the balloon idea and sought to mimic the birds. Otto Lilienthal in Germany, Hiram Maxim in England and Samuel P. Langley in the United States experimented and constructed machines with planes and wings and rudders, but their success was inconspicuous, for their machines were either too heavy or too frail.

Different inventors constructed winged machines, large and small, light and heavy, but the most they accomplished were short and uncertain flights or glides from elevated starting points. Finally in 1903 Octave Chanute began to attract attention with his long glides among the sand dunes in the vicinity of Chicago, but his machine had no motive power and was never anything more than a plaything.

In Dayton, O., two brothers named Wright, bicycle repairers, had been experimenting with planes. Chanute turned over to them all his ideas and they helped much in solving the problem of equilibrium. In 1903 the Wrights took a machine to Kitty Hawk, N. C., and on December 17, after several trials, the most they accomplished were short and uncertain flights or glides from elevated starting points. Finally in 1903 Octave Chanute began to attract attention with his long glides among the sand dunes in the vicinity of Chicago, but his machine had no motive power and was never anything more than a plaything.

It would require many columns merely to mention the marvels performed by nearly 3,000 aviators who have flown during the past three years. Record after record has been broken, wonder has piled on wonder with unwilting swiftness, until today the people are not surprised at any feat which the birdmen may perform. During this brief period the progress has been truly staggering and the last 12 months have been richer in achievement than any preceding similar period. Such names as Santos-Dumont, Glenn H. Curtiss, Charles K. Hamilton, Louis Paulhan, James C. (Bud) Mars, Graham-White, Walter Brookings, Hubert Latham, Louis Blériot, Count Jacques de Lesseps, Stewart Rollo, John B. Moisant, J. Armstrong Drexel, Eugene B. Ely, Alfred Le Blanc, Louis Delagrangé, Henry Farman, J. Clifford Hargrave, Eugène-Lafayette, Clifford Harmon, Ralph Johnson, Archie Hoxsey, Lincoln Beachey, Harry A. Atwood and a host of others are familiar to all.

Distance to these birdmen is limited only by the amount of fuel they can carry.

SOCIAL CRISIS

By Rev. Dr. George W. Anderson
Pastor of Union Methodist Episcopal Church, St. Louis.

TEXT—Jacob was a plain man dwelling among the tents; and as a plain man hast thou prevailed.

As men do not pick diamonds from trees, but rather search for them among the barren stones and soil, so God seeks for great leaders, not among the exalted, but from the great mass of common folk. Desiring to start a new race preparatory to Christ's coming, he searched among the common ones of Chaldea until he found Abraham, a worshiper of idols, and sent him forth not only to be the father of the Jewish race, but to be the great world has ever known. God searched for an emancipator and he found Moses, an alien, born in servitude, and sent him forth to lay the foundations of civilization.

Desiring to reveal the power of the strong will and the indomitable ambition, he searched among the open fields until he found Jacob, a plain man, dwelling among tents, and sent him forth as a prince of God.

The story of Jacob is the story of ambition, but a good, laying hold of every means to meet its end; filled with mingled paths and joy. As the bad ambition it sends its harvest of sorrow, and as a holy ambition its harvest of joy. In no life is the failure of ungodly ambition and the success of righteous ambition more marked.

Jacob desired to rise, to lift himself out of the common place, to become a prince among men, and failing to realize the difference between right and wrong, brought dismal failure. He believed that bright light gave the power to rule, and ungodly sought to secure one not his own.

At the doorway of a weather-beaten tent he sat one evening, a mere lad. The lengthening shadows were slowly wrapping the landscape with haze. Before him burned a blazing fire that laughed at the thickening shadows with defiance, cast its rich glow on his clear-cut features and caused the tent folds to stand out distinct against the dusk. He was the agonizing problem of supply and demand.

The atmosphere is fragrant with the steam of cooking porridge, which he idly stirred. He was dreaming of leadership, when out from the shadows came one staggering with weakness and hunger and crying out for food. He was the agonizing problem of supply and demand.

Jacob, being careful, ahead, far-sighted, had provided for a time of need. Esau, careless, indifferent, wandering in disposition had made no such provision. It was strength plus against weakness. Esau said: "What I have is mine, and if you would seek it, let him pay my price."

There is only one thing that Esau had, his birthright, the very thing that Jacob seeks. And in that hour the voice of ambition says: "Get all you can." And Jacob, looking at his starving brother, said: "I will give you to eat if you will give me your birthright." Faith with weakness and hunger. Esau made the bargain.

With uplifted hands Esau gives to Jacob that which Jacob had no right to own, but possessed only through the power of capital. Now Jacob is a shrewd and rich man in the sight of the world. He has deceived his brother, has gotten his brother's blessing and he is the priest of the community.

Behold him several days after fleeing in the darkness from his brother, an exile and empty handed. Why? Because money, the power gotten by unrighteous methods never lasts. Behold Jacob in the open fields, with no bed save sand, no pillow save stones, no covering save the open sky, the picture of a thousand characters of history.

Then comes the vision of Jacob, the ladder reaching up to heaven and the angels ascending and descending. Jacob sees that while ungodly ambition brought failure, godly ambition could lift him up to God. The angels ascend and descend; they go up only that they might come down. Ambition should lead a man up, only that in the heights, he may gain power and strength to come back into the lowly fields and serve his fellow man. He must climb the ladder to God only that he may come back to serve those who need him.

A man becomes a prince, not through birthright, but through service.

Esau came with his armies to catch the fleeing Jacob, but Jacob, ever wrestled with the angel, comes to meet his brother with arms extended, not to rule but to serve. And Esau, abiding the change in his brother, leaps from his horse and embraces Jacob. Jacob has now become the prince of his own people, not through ambition to rule, but to serve.

Courage.

It is not more courage that makes a man face the gallows without a quiver; it is the callousness of sin. This false idea of bravado and courage is leading multitudes of young men to the pit—Rev. W. H. Geisewalt, Baptist, San Diego.

Helping.

When you give help to him who is down and out you project your life. If you cannot help another your life is not worth much—Rev. W. B. Hinson, Baptist, Portland, Ore.

WHAT THEY THOUGHT OF HIM

Remark by No Means Complimentary Made by Constituent of Representative Underwood.

Representative Underwood, chairman of the ways and means committee in congress, represents what is known as a "manufacturing district," because it contains all the factories and smelters in and about Birmingham, Ala. But he also has among his constituents a lot of farmers—of which fact he is now painfully aware.

He drove out to a settlement in Bibb county one afternoon to persuade the farmers they ought to vote for him. As he stepped up to the porch of a little store an old man rushed up to him with the request:

"Please sign this paper. It's a petition to Congressman Underwood to have a young lady postmaster here."

"I'd be glad to sign it," said Underwood politely; "but as I am not a resident of this community, my name wouldn't help you."

"Oh, yes, it would," the old farmer assured him. "We're getting very hardy to sign it, strangers and all. Go ahead and put your name down! That fool congressman will never know the difference!"—The Sunday Magazine.

Masculine Anxiety.

Teddy's mother had been taken suddenly ill one morning while he was at school. On his return, he was admitted to his mother's room for a few minutes, and found his Aunt Alicia sitting by the bed.

"No, Teddy," said she, "mother has been very ill, and must not talk to-day. I'm sorry, mother," gasped Teddy.

Mother smiled at him lovingly.

Master Teddy seated himself on a large chair directly opposite, and, after wriggling anxiously around for a minute or two, delivered himself of the speech:

"Mother dear—now don't try to speak—but if you mean yes, no your head—this way—and if you mean no, shake your head—this way. Have you seen my baseball bat?"—Lippincott's Magazine.

Secretive Family Bible.

Tommy was a venturesome lad, but nobody had ever credited him with sufficient courage to shake his head in contradiction when the Sunday school visitor, who wished to show off his knowledge of biblical history, asserted that Sarah, Abraham's wife, was the only woman whose age was recorded in the Bible. Seeing the disapproving motion of the little head in the front row, the visitor reiterated: "Sarah was the only woman whose age is recorded in the Bible." Then Tommy spoke right up: "There are three more that I know of," said he. "Who?" asked the astonished visitor. "Mother, grandmother and Aunt Lucy," said Tommy.

A Great Grace.

It is no great matter to associate with the good and gentle, for this is naturally pleasing to all and everyone willingly enjoineth peace and loveth those best that agree with him. But to be able to live peaceably with hard and perverse persons, or with the disorderly, or with such as go contrary to us, is a great grace, and a most commendable and manly thing.—Thomas a Kempis.

USEFUL MEASURE FOR LOGS

Device Invented by a Texas Man Will Give the Diameter of a Piece of Timber in an Instant.

It is easy enough to measure the diameter of a log at its base, where an ordinary flat rule can be used, but to determine the measurement at any point along the tree is another matter. However, a Texas man has designed a rule by which even this may be done as easily as the width of a flat board can be decided. The device here shown consists of an ordinary measuring stick with a pair of arms attached to it at right angles. One of the arms is stationary on one end of the stick, but the other slides back and forth. The log is placed between the two arms, and the sliding arm is moved up till the timber is in contact with both. The gauges on the measuring stick the exact diameter of the log at that point. The measure can be moved along in either direction to get any other thickness desired.

Measure for Logs.

IRON FAILS EATEN BY WORMS

Accidents on Railroad Lead to Remarkable Discovery by Italian Engineers—Insect the Cause.

A microbe has been discovered in Italy which feeds upon iron. Engineers employed on a railway in southern Italy, near Reggio, were recently much disturbed by the accidents which were occurring near the same place, and which appeared to indicate that some serious defect must exist in the material or the construction of the rails. The government appointed a commission of surveillance to maintain a constant watch at the spot where the accidents had occurred. Soon after it was noticed that the surface of rails appeared to be corroded, as if by acids. A rail was taken up and broken, and was found to be literally hollowed out by a thin, gray worm, two centimeters in length and of about the size of the prong of a silver fork. Upon its head it carried two little glands filled with a corrosive secretion, which it ejected every few minutes upon the iron. The liquid renders the iron soft and spongy, and it is then greedily devoured by the insect.

LIGHTING GAS WITH PISTOL

Unique Little Device Will Be Found Handy for Ordinary Gas Jets, Auto Lights and Stoves.

A unique lighter for ordinary gas jets, gas stoves and auto lights is being manufactured in the form of a toy pistol. Pressure on the trigger causes a series of sparks to issue from the muzzle. These sparks are like those of Fourth-of-July sparklers, and do not burn, although they ignite the gas. Pressing the plunger in front of the trigger re-engages the latter for use again. Each charge lasts for a considerable time.

Remove Wall Paper.

But five large American cities—Chicago, New York, Baltimore, Philadelphia and Louisville—require old wall paper to be removed from tenement houses before new is affixed.

Substitute File Brush.

A substitute file brush can be made at a piece of soft wood cut to a wood-shield edge. The dirt and filings are pushed out of the file with the edge.

DIFFERENT USES OF GLASS

Bridge Spanning Royal Gorge of Colorado River is Made of That Material—Cloth for Dresses.

It would seem that in these days there is no limit to the uses made of glass. Among the most extraordinary may be cited the following:

The bridge spanning the Royal Gorge of the Arkansas river in Colorado. This bridge may be said to be half a mile high, for it reaches from one cliff to the other of the gorge, with a deep chasm beneath it. The floor of this wonderful bridge is made of plate glass one and one-half inches in thickness, set in steel framework.

In Lyons, France, pavements made of glass have been in use for some time. They are constructed of ceramic-crystal, ceramic stone or devitrified glass, and are laid in the form of blocks eight inches square, each block containing sixteen parts in the shape of checkers. It is said that these blocks are so closely fitted together that water cannot pass between them. The whole pavement presents the odd effect of a huge checkerboard.

The special advantages claimed for this style of pavement are that it has greater resistance than stone, that it is a poor conductor of cold—ice, accordingly, not forming readily upon it, and, finally, that it is more durable than stone and much cheaper, besides affording no places for the lodgment of microbes.

Glass cloth for dresses is no new thing, having been placed on the market a number of years ago. This glass cloth has the same shimmer and brilliancy of color as that shown by silk. Besides glass cloth, there may be mentioned manufactured glass curtains, carpets, tablecloths and napkins, most of which are results of the ingenuity of European manufacturers.

BALE WASTE PAPER HANDILY

Machine Invented by Michigan Man Performs Work in Short Order, Adding to Value of Refuse.

Baled waste paper is worth from $10 to $20 a ton, but the difficulty is in getting it baled properly. Many firms have large quantities of this waste material, of which they either do not know the value or do not take the trouble to save. A Michigan man has invented a press for the special purpose of baling such paper and thus keeping it in the form in which it can be removed. Waste paper has been inside a cabinet, as shown in the illustration, and is operated by means of a multiple gear turned by a crank at the side. When the baler has compressed a bundle of from 100 to 125 pounds it is taken out and put to one side and another bale started, the paper being fed into the machine through top door. The whole front of the machine opens when a bundle is to be removed. Waste paper properly baled in this way had the added advantage of being accepted under better shipping rates.

"That's not so bad."

"But in a twinkling the yacht became a tub."

"Oh! The tub sprung a leak."

"Horror!"

"Then I woke up and pulled down the window. My bed was rain-soaked."

That Would Catch Them. "I wish I could think of some way to get people to come to my church. I have tried to preach sensible sermons, and I have done my best to get out and mix with our citizens—to make them feel that I am interested in them and their affairs. But it seems to be useless."

"The trouble with you is that you are not going at the thing right. Why don't you cut out the sermon and the prayers and have only singing and moving pictures?"

Uncertain. "Well, well, well," said the kindly stranger, patting little Mollie on the head. "I suppose you are your papa's little darling?"

"I don't know yet, sir," hoped Mollie. "The court hasn't decided yet."

Cause for Surprise. A fool and his money are parted quite soon. Is as true as a shoe's made of leather; but the thing that surprises us most is the fact How the two get so often together.

A Fortifying Experience. "You dictate all your letters?" "Yes," replied Senator Sorghum. "Sometimes you can get a pretty good idea of how little attention your letter is going to receive by watching the manner and facial expression of the stenographer."

In the Fashion. "Mrs. Fluster is so sensational in everything. She makes even an affecting show of grief."

DEAR OLD SOUL.

When Smith fell heir to that little legacy he changed his name to Smythe, and did everything in style. Not a word of protest did his mother make till the telephone appeared.

"Never, Albert," she said, firmly. "Never shall one of those things come into my house!"

"But, mother—" he began.

"I wonder you dare," she went on. "Look at all those poor Hindus it killed last year! Why we might—"

A light broke over Smythe's countenance.

"That wasn't a telephone, mother! That was a typhoon!"

"Albert," said the old lady, very sternly; "don't you try to fool your poor old mother with tales like that. Typhoon, indeed! I know just as well as you do that the typhoon is the emperor of Japan!"

HE'D HAD HIS.

Dobbins—Cheer up, old fellow; there's a good time coming.

Bronson—Not for me. My wife is coming back from the country tomorrow.

Ever Notice? Please don't ask me to explain it. I research on any score.

What He Wanted Most. "Now," said the head of the reception committee, when the distinguished visitor had stepped from the car, "if you think you'd like it we'll be glad to get an automobile and take you for a drive through the parks. We have one of the finest boulevard systems in the world, and—"

"Say, do you know where there's a bath tub—about six feet long and four feet wide and three feet deep?"

"I think they may have something of the kind in one of the hotels."

"Lead me to it. Never mind the parks and boulevards."

Merely a Temporary Disadvantage. The widow had just announced her engagement.

"But, my dear Maria," said her friend, "you don't mean to tell me that you intend marrying a man you've only known for two weeks?"

"Oh, yes," said the happy widow. "I can easily overcome that objection in time. I hope to know him tolerably well after we have been married a couple of years."—Harper's Weekly.

Animals Win Place on City Payroll by Helping Police Officers Catch a Fugitive.

Kansas City, Mo.—Queen and Moch, two dogs made homeless when the big North Side market was built, and which have since made their home at police headquarters, have become fixtures by making an arrest.

Queen and Moch were walking a beat with Patrolmen Mab and Hensley, Patrick O'Neill, a truck gardener, got into a fight with another man on the street, and ran when the officers approached. The dogs ran after O'Neill and one caught his coat tail and the other the seat of his trousers.

This was too much of a load for O'Neill to carry and the officers had no trouble getting him. Now the dogs have been placed regularly on the police rolls and allowance is made for their food.

Bass Catches Itself. Allentown, Pa.—While members of a club were fishing, a 13-inch bass jumped into the boat. It is supposed the bass broke water in play.

FROM OLD CEMETERIES

Fishermen Reap Reward for Catching Boxes as They Drift Down the River.

Little Rock, Ark.—The recent rise of the Arkansas river brought a new kind of drift down the stream, and the river "rats," instead of pulling in stray saw-logs, have been catching coffins. Reports from Conway and other points state that fishermen along the Arkansas river have caught and stowed several coffins which contained the bodies of persons evidently dead for some time.

Robert L. Gregg of Conway first noticed a coffin floating down the river.

Catching Floating Coffins.

It lodged on a sandbar, but later was floated away. W. W. Matthews and James Helton were with Green at the time, but the sight was too gruesome for them and they did not make an effort to catch it.

Word of the floating coffins was conveyed to those who have relatives buried in cemeteries along the banks of the Arkansas within the limits of Conway. Relatives visited other graveyards to find their fears realized. Rewards were offered for the recovery of bodies. Several fishermen abandoned their usual diversion to watch for the floating coffins, but not so with the negro fishermen.

Comparison of Jesus. How many have an unholiness in finding a brother in the wrong—blazing abroad his fallings; administering rebuke, but with harsh and impatient severity! How beautifully did Jesus utter intense sensibility to sin, along with tenderness and compassion for the sinner, showing in this that he kneweth our frame!

Many a scholar needs gentleness in chastisement. The reverse would crush a sensitive spirit, or drive it to despair. Jesus tenderly "corrects" the case of those he disciplines, "tempering the wind to the shorn lamb." In the picture of the good shepherd bearing home the wandering sheep, he illustrated by parable what he had often and again taught by his own example. No word of needless harshness or upbraiding uttered to the erring wanderer! Ingratitude is too deeply felt to need rebuke. In silent love, he lays it on his shoulders rejoicing.

Gentleness in Rebuke. Reader! seek to mingle gentleness in all your rebukes; bear with the infirmities of others; make allowances for constitutional frailties; never say harsh things, if kind things will do as well; do not unnecessarily lacerate with recalling former delinquencies. In reproving another, let us rather feel how much we need reproof ourselves. "Consider thyself," is a searching Scripture motto for dealing with an erring brother. Remember thy Lord's method of silencing fierce accusation—"Let him that is without sin cast the first stone."

Moreover, anger and severity are not the successful means of reclaiming the backslider, or of melting the obdurate. Like the smooth stones with which David smote Goliath, gentle rebukes are generally the most powerful. The old fable of the traveler and his cloak has a moral here as in other things. The gaudy sunshine will effect its removal sooner than the rough tempest. It was said of Leighton that "he rebuked faults so mildly, that they were never repeated, not because the admonished were afraid, but ashamed to do so."

A Means of Grace. Prayer does not always remove pain or poverty, but it accomplishes wonders in enabling a Christian believer to bear either, if that is his appointed lot. Sometimes, it is true, a prayer which fulfills the spiritual conditions of successful praying brings a literal answer in its own kind, but when God cannot give the precise thing asked for, he will supply the grace through which a believer is enabled to do "all things" that need to be done. Stout is that heart which is strengthened by prayer. Those who have already prayed in humble and trusting spirit know in part, at least, the worth of prayer—and to such as have never yet experimented with its power and divined its riches of grace and blessing comes the call to try and prove its wondrous worth.

A Steadfast Hope. "Which hope we have as an anchor of the soul, both sure and steadfast,"—Heb. vi:19.

"Sure"—What is that? An anchor that will not break? "Steadfast"—what is that? An anchor that will not drag. In Jesus Christ we have a hope that has taken hold of eternal ground, that is confirmed by the oath of the Eternal—a hope which shall not be ashamed. Having this great hope, let us live in it, let it give us a sense of dignity every day we live, let it strengthen us, let it be within our soul a great fountain of consolation, let it be the master motive to righteousness.—Rev. W. L. Watkinson, D. D.

CHRIST'S GENTLENESS IN REBUKE

When Jesus finds his disciples sleeping at the gate of Gethsemane, he rebukes them; but how is the rebuke disarmed of its pungency by the merciful apology which is added—"The spirit indeed is willing, but the flesh is weak!" How different from their unkind insinuation regarding him, in the vessel on Tiberias, "He was asleep—Master, earnest thou not that we perish!"

The woman of Samaria is full of earthiness, carnality, sectarianism, guilt. Yet how gently the Saviour speaks to her—how forbearingly, yet faithfully. He directs the arrow of conviction to the seared and hardened conscience, till he lays it bleeding at his feet! Truly, "He will not break the bruised reed—he will not quench the smoking flax." By "the goodness of God," he would lead to repentance. When others are speaking of merciless violence, he can dismiss the most guilty of prodigates with the words, "Neither do I condemn thee; go, and sin no more."

COWS IN A JEWELRY STORE

Break into Shop in a Massachusetts Town and Cause Girl Clerk to Hike.

Cambridge, Mass.—Miss Mary Richardson, stenographer in a jewelry store, was busily engaged in transcribing notes when she heard "Mo-o-o" behind her. The girl glanced up and beheld a cow in the main aisle of the store, leaning carelessly against a show case filled with diamonds, with another just ready to come into the door. Grasping her puffs in one hand and her hobbie skirt in the other, Miss Richardson left the shop by the back door in leaps, and sprinted toward Memorial hall.

The cow made her entrance to the store attracted by the camp sidewalk which had just been flushed.

It seems that the scab law is being enforced in the Crockett county country. In the district court at Ozona recently a stock man pleaded guilty to three charges of violating the scab law in two cases he received a fine of $50 and costs each, and in the third case he was fined $100 and costs. Four other indictments against him were dismissed. The basis of the charges against him was that he drove into Crockett county sheep that were infected with scab.

The melancholy days have come, the saddest of the year. A northern her too, by gum, and winter time is near. Heaped in the hollow of the grove the autumn leaves lie dead. And you want to stay near the stove, and stove sohot it is red. The summer girl now has flown, all-o-the summer jay. I wonder if that northern is going to last all day!

The first newspaper advertisement ever published in America appeared on May 1, 1704, in the first newspaper ever printed in this country, the "News Letter" of Boston. It read as follows:

"Lost on 10 of April last, off Mr. Shippen's Wharf in Boston Two Iron Anvils, weighing between 120 and 140 pounds each. Whoever has taken them up, and will bring or give true intelligence of them to John Campbell, Post-Master, shall have a sufficient reward."

We don't know whether or not the gentleman recovered his anvils—but he went about trying in a very practical way.

A few weeks ago Rev. S. L. Batchelor's milk cow disappeared and he had a little notice inserted in THE CITIZEN. The notice was read by several hundred people all over Kimble Climes as well as at other places. Among those who saw the notice was a man who had also seen a cow suiting the description. Investigation followed. This resulted in the cow being found and returned to its owner.

Which is merely another proof of the efficacy of a few lines of type in the proper advertising medium.

Railway Project

The report has been given out at San Antonio that the work of surveying the line of the Palacios San Antonio & Pecos Valley Railway between Palacios and Yoakum has been completed and that the remainder of the line will now receive attention. This projected line of road is proposed to run from Palacios on the Gulf of Mexico to Pecos, Texas, via San Antonio. Yoakum through its Commercial Club offered a $50,000 bonus for the road.

It is a matter of conjecture just what course this line would pursue but it seems that a very good route for it would be via the county sites of Junction, Sonora, Ozona, and Ft. Stockton. Each of these towns could put up a good bonus. Pecos and Ft. Stockton both announced some time ago that they could each offer a $50,000 bonus for such a road. Junction can offer an equal amount. Sonora and Ozona can certainly be depended upon to do their part towards financing such an enterprise. This line would certainly aid materially in the development of this part of the state.

Orient to Build South From Angelo Soon

John Eaton, general attorney for the Kansas City, Mexico & Orient Railway Company, has filed an application with the Public Utility Commission of Kansas, at Topeka, to issue $20,000,000 in gold notes for general construction work. The money is to be used in building lines south of San Angelo to Del Rio and south west from here into Mexico. The notes have already been sold to a French banking company. It is said that this will be enough to complete all the Orient lines in the United States and a greater part of them in Mexico.

It is not believed that more than two years will be consumed in linking the line of the United States with that in Mexico giving service direct from Kansas City to Tepolobampo and shortening the distance from Kansas City to the Pacific Coast by 500 miles. —San Angelo Standard.

"I am pleased to recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy as the best thing I know of and the safest remedy for coughs, colds, and bronchial troubles," writes Mrs. L. B. Arnold of Denver, Colo. "We have used it repeatedly and it has never failed to give relief." For sale by all dealers.

Two hundred thousand pounds of wool stored in Sanderson will be sold to the highest bidder on November 15, provided the bidder makes the price high enough. N. H. Corder, the president of the Warehouse Company and a big sheepman besides, is a man of many resources and he will insist on the buyer making a reasonable bid. He will keep the wool if the buyers do not think more of it than he does. —San Antonio Express.

Catarh Cannot Be Cured

by LOCAL APPLICATIONS, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you must take internal remedies. Hall's Catarh Cure is taken internally and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarh Cure is not a "quick medicine." It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in the country for years and its regular, perscription is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surfaces. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing Catarh. Send for testimonials free.

Santa Fe to Get Busy in Texas

In his annual report recently issued President Ripley, of the Santa Fe intimates the intention of his company to spend about $30,000,000 per annum in the State of Texas during the next three years for betterments and improvements. It is known that another bond issue aggregating $100,000,000 was recently authorized by the directors of the Santa Fe company, and this evinced a spirit of aggression that may serve to carry the Santa Fe into much new territory and close out many of the dead ends that are now very much of an incubus upon the prosperity of the system.

This and other roads are going to be busy in Texas during the next three years. Kimble is situated right in the midst of a rich section which awaits the coming of some line. There is a fine plum in this part of Texas for some railway system to pluck. Wonder who will be the first one to it. There is going to be a road right through Kimble Climes and we'll bet our 13 cents against a five years subscription to this paper that the shriek of the locomotive echoes through these La no bottoms during this present century.

Revised Game Law

The hunting season is now open and hunters are plentiful throughout the entire region of Kimble Climes. By keeping fresh in our memory important points of our game law we may escape an unannounced and embarrassing call by the game warden. We also suggest that you not overlook the trespass notices and posted signs.

To hunt in any county in this state other than the county of one's residence or an adjoining county, it is necessary to procure a non residence hunting license. This license costs $1.75 and can be procured from the county clerk of the county in which the person resides.

A non-resident of the state must procure a non residence state hunting license. This costs $15 and can be procured from the state game, fish and oyster commissioner at Austin, or from any deputy game warden in the state.

The open season for hunting deer begins November 1st and ends December 31. Only buck deer or deer with horns may be taken; providing that any one person shall not kill more than three buck deer during the open season. It is unlawful to kill or take a deer spotted fawn. Hunting with lamp or lantern is prohibited.

The open season for wild turkey begins December 1st and ends March 31. The limit is three turkeys during the open season for any one person.

The open season for shooting quail and doves begins November 1st and ends January 31. It is lawful for any person to kill as many as 25 of these birds in any one day during the open season, but no more.

There is no closed season for wild geese, ducks, plover, snipe, jacksnipe, curlews, robins or chalcia; however, it is unlawful for any person to kill more than 25 of any of the above mentioned wild fowls or birds in any one day of 24 hours.

It is unlawful to kill any wild mongolian or English pheasant, wild prairie chicken, (pinnated grouse), wild antelope, or Rocky Mountain sheep at any time for five years, to June 11, 1916.

It is unlawful to take any wild bird or wild fowl by netting or trapping at any time.

It is unlawful to kill any wild geese or wild ducks, by any means other than ordinary gun capable of being held to and shot from the shoulder.

It is unlawful to sell or offer for the purpose of sale, or have possession for the purpose of sale, or have in possession at or purchase, any wild deer, wild antelope or wild Rocky Mountain Sheep, killed in this State, or the carcass thereof, or the hide thereof, or the antlers thereof; or whoever shall sell or offer for sale, or have in his possession for the purpose of sale any of the game or game birds mentioned in this article shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor.

It is unlawful to kill or in any manner injure any mocking bird, whippoorwill, (bull bat), night hawk, blue bird, red bird, finch, thrush, linnet, wren, martin, swallow, bobolink, cat bird, nong-pared, scissor tail, tern, shear water, egret, heron or pelican.

A person may ship to his home as many as one day's bag limit of his game; except wild ducks, of which he may ship as many as three days' bag limit or 75 ducks; provided he accompanies the shipment on the same train or common carrier. To make such shipment the shipper shall make the prescribed affidavit, setting out that he killed the game within the law, the place of residence.

It is not unlawful to kill English or European house sparrows, hawks, (except night hawks), crows, buzzards, black birds and owls.

It is unlawful for anyone person to kill more than ten squirrels in any one day, or sell more than five squirrels in any one week; this however does not apply to any county situated in the Second, Fifth, Ninth, Tenth, Twelfth, Fourteenth, Seventeenth, Eighteenth, Twentieth, Twenty-fourth and Thirty-first senatorial districts, under the apportionment of 1901.

There is a heavy penalty for hunting without a license as prescribed. A land owner, peace officer, or game warden has the right to demand to be shown one's license when found hunting.

This is a great game region and the law governing such was made for the protection and good of all concerned. And we might say in conclusion that, whether you realize it or not, Kimble is being watched for violations of this law; State Chief Deputy Game Warden, Hon. R. W. Lorraine has not forgotten where Kimble is situated. Polish up your old rifle and take that hunt you have been looking forward to—but don't forget there is a game law.

Sheep and Goat Raisers To Form State Body

Articles of incorporation of the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers Association, an organization promoted to further in every practicable way the interests of the raisers of sheep and goats in Texas was filed at Austin Saturday. Capt. B. L. Crouch of Corpus Christi and Chester H. Terrel, acting as attorney for the new organization attended to the necessary formalities before the Secretary of State in Austin.

Included as charter members of the association will be three score of the best known stockmen of Texas. It is proposed to encourage the growth of the sheep and goat industries in every legitimate manner.

These members signed the articles of incorporation: Charles Schreiner, Ike T. Pryor, Alfred Giles, George M. Mavocick, Oliver J. Woodhull, B. L. Crouch and George W. Littlefield. On Thursday night November 9, was to be a meeting of the incorporators held in the rooms of the San Antonio Chamber of Commerce, when officers were to be elected and the work of the association clearly outlined.

Sheepmen and goat raisers feel that they should have formed some such organization as this years ago. They have felt the need of co-operation and in this association expect to act as one man in all matters affecting the industries named.

Kimble Climes Gets Fine Rains

Another good rain fell here this week. The rain seems to have been pretty general through all this section of the state, and will do much good. It came in a slow, steady downpour, the kind that soaks into the ground and wets the soil. Stockmen and farmers are rejoiced as it will be of no little benefit to range, and help to season the ground for crops. More than two and one half inches of rain have been received here in the past two weeks.

SHE GOT WHAT SHE WANTED

This Woman Had to Insist Strongly, but it Paid

Chicago, Ill.—"I suffered from a female weakness and stomach trouble, and I went to the store to get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, but the clerk did not want to let me have it—he said it was no good and wanted me to try something else, but knowing all about it I insisted and finally got it, and I am so glad I did, for it has cured me.

"I know of so many cases where women have been cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that I can say to every suffering woman if that medicine does not help her, there is nothing that will."—Mrs. JANEZKA, 265 Arch St., Chicago, Ill.

This is the age of substitution, and women who have a cure should insist upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound just as this woman did, and not accept something else on which the druggist can make a little more profit.

Women who are passing through this critical period or who are suffering from any of those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not lose sight of the fact that for thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which is made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills. In almost every community you will find women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

The observing one was thoughtful. He did not reply for the half-minute usually essential to the full-measured heat of his mental processes. And then—
"Yess," he drawled, "and I'll bet I'm one o' them haws."

A MISSOURI WOMAN CAN TALK TO CATS

Mrs. Hattie M. Freeman Says Feline Pets Can Understand Her Just Like a Man.

SHE ONCE WAS A TABBY

Declares She Formerly Lived in an Alley and Roamed Over Back Fences—Her Existence Then Has Made Her Solicitous for Cats Now.

Kansas City, Mo.—If the family cat purrs gently at your side, if it meows appealingly, if it sits upon the chair and casts a sympathetic eye in your direction while you argue with the leeman or if it gets upon the piano keys, don't pass the incidents indifferently from your mind as unimportant and merely the antics of a cat.

There is meaning, real significance, in every action and look of the cat; at least to one woman in the world, Mrs. Hattie Melius Freeman, of this city.

This woman is thoroughly conversant with cats. She can understand their every whim; she can talk to them; they can talk to her. In court, they are her companions, and she would much rather be in the company of cats than be forced to participate in some idle and garrulous chatter. For Mrs. Freeman is a firm believer in the transmigration of the soul.

In her previous mystic condition, before she took human form, she says that she was an alley cat. Just a typical alley cat. Not the kind that is fortunate enough to be taken into a home and sheltered behind a warm stove in the winter, hoodled by a kind mistress, and the subject for friendly comment by well-meaning visitors. Never that.

For hers was that wild and nomadic alley cat's life which is spent in the out-of-way places, gathering food for sustenance wherever it may be found.

"Oh, the horror of that life! Shall I ever forget it?" Mrs. Freeman was speaking to a reporter, and as she half asked the question a shiver rent her. Then, without waiting for an answer, she related that the existence she had to endure in her former life has made her especially solicitous of cats in this life.

There you have the explanation of the seven-seventy cats which make their home with Mrs. Freeman. All her life she has been a cat lover.

If any one only finds the trouble to go to the rear of this woman's home he will not only find food there for the stray cats, but he will see also a shelter made especially for the purpose.

"It is terrible, terrible to lead the life of an alley cat," continued the woman. "No soul can have a braver or a more sorrowful trial. The wild roar of pursuing dogs, clubs, the kicks and the abuse from human hands. I might have thought myself the most flattered soul in the world had I not met other cats worse off than I.

"Well do I remember one dusk in my cat world when I had not in a most miserable day. It seemed as though I couldn't endure the torture, until finally I came onto another alley cat, whose leg had been broken that day by some heartless boys. Then it was that she and I pledged that if ever we got to be human beings we would treat all the cats kindly.

"Would you believe me?" Mrs. Freeman spoke with a manifestation of much interest. "One day I went to a theosophist meeting in Detroit and there I met the woman who had been the alley cat with the broken leg. The recognition was her promise and goodness keeping. I am not being kind to the cats solely because of that promise, but for the reason that I enjoy caring for them."

TEN YEARS OF HORRIBLE HEADACHE

Husband Tells Story of Mrs. Guthrie's Long Illness and Is Glad She Is Relieved.

Beaufort, N. C.—Mr. Luther Guthrie writes as follows: "My wife suffered with horrible headaches for ten years, and I spent Three Hundred Dollars for doctor bills for her, but nothing did her any good.

I had read about Cardui for years back, but never tried it, until last October, when I decided to get it for my wife.

Now she has taken two bottles, and it has done her two thousand dollars worth of good.

She is entirely well, and has not had another attack of headache since she commenced to take Cardui.

Just as long as the medicine is made, I shall have Cardui in my home. I can't praise it half enough."

Cardui has cured sick women, after other medicines have failed. It is made of ingredients that act specifically on the womanly constitution. It is not a cure all. It is a medicine for women, and only for women.

For more than 50 years, it has been in widely extended use, by women of all ages, and has given perfect satisfaction, as a remedy for rebuilding womanly health and strength.

Try it yourself. It will help you.

HANDS BURNED LIKE FIRE

"I can truthfully say Cuticura Remedies have cured me of four long years of eczema. About four years ago I noticed some little pimples coming on my little finger, and not giving it any attention, it soon became worse and spread all over my hands. If I would have them in water for a long time, they would burn like fire and large cracks would come. I could lay a pin in them. After using all the salves I could think of, I went to three different doctors, but all did me no good. The only relief I got was scratching.

"So after hearing so much about the wonderful Cuticura Remedies, I purchased one complete set, and after using them three days my hands were much better. Today my hands are entirely well, one set being all I used." (Signed) Miss Etna Narber, R. F. D. 2, Spring Lake, Mich., Sept. 26, 1910.

Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold everywhere, a sample of each, with 32-page book, will be mailed free on application to "Cuticura," Dept. 2 L, Boston.

Cause of the Excitement.
The souls of the rich were all enthusiastically following some one down the street.

"What's up?" someone asked.
A rather more accommodating young nabob than the others turned around.

"Do you see that tall fellow up front?" he asked.
"Yes."
"Well," he said, "he's discovered a new way to spend money."

Folly of Vain Regrets.
The late John W. Gates, an incurable optimist, harped continually on the futility of pessimism. One of Mr. Gates' epigrams, still quoted on the Chicago Stock Exchange, ran:
"He who nurses foolish hopes may be an ass, but he is not such an ass as he who nurses vain regrets."

WHEN CUPID WAS OFF DUTY

Lover's Bad Cold That Led to Most Unfortunate Misunderstanding With Girl.

Sweet was the lass, low was the gas; it was the evening she expected him to put across the big question.

He did not look well. Something seemed to be troubling him. He tried to say something, but the words stuck in his throat, and the girl, noticing this, turned the gas even lower.

Suddenly he turned to her and cried, "I'm a dub!"
"No," she said, fondly. "You don't appreciate yourself as well as some others do, perhaps. Tee hee!"
"Yes," he persisted stubbornly, "I'm a dub!"
"No," she maintained.
"Yes," he almost shouted, "I'm a dub!"

She was a sensible girl, and so, realizing that he ought to know best, she thanked him kindly for warning her in time and handed him his hat. It was only after the door slammed behind him forever that she realized the awful truth.

He had contracted a nasty cold, and what he had been trying to say was, "I'm in love!"

His Christmas Check.
Al Ryan, the hospitable flint glass worker of Lockport, N. Y., and formerly organizer of the Socialist local at that place, was being congratulated by the boys at the glass factory.

"Yes," said Al, "my uncle out in Timin is mighty good to me. The day before Christmas he sent me a check for $100 just as a little Christmas gift."

After the usual congratulatory comments had been duly made all around, Al added:
"Yes, he certainly is a fine old fellow. In the postscript of his letter containing the check, he said:

"Dear Al, if you manage to get this check cashed, please send me $4. I need a pair of shoes."—The Coming Nation.

Suburban Sobriquets.
Everybody else had lived in the summer colony long enough to name his home for whatever tree or shrub grew most abundantly in the front or back yard. Red Cross Christmas Seals.

The National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis will this year for the first time be national agent for the American Red Cross in handling the sale of Red Cross seals. A new national office has been opened in Washington, and an initial order has been placed for 50,000,000 seals, although it is expected that double that number will be sold.

The charge to local agents for the seals will be 12 1/2 per cent of the gross proceeds, the national agent furnishing the seals and advertising material, and taking back all unsold seals at the end of the season. Postmaster General Hitchcock has approved of the design of the seal. Owing to the fact that many people last year used Red Cross seals for postage, the post office department has given orders that letters or packages bearing seals on the face will not be carried through the mails.

"The modern woman isn't a bluff," asserted Mrs. Gobbolink, looking up from her newspaper. "This suffrage movement has more in it than mere ideas. The new woman is brave and fearless. Here is a story of a woman up in Canada who killed a moose. It seems that she—"

"Impossible!" interjected Mr. Gobbolink. "There must be some mistake—read it again."

Mrs. Gobbolink searched out the paragraph and then blushed vividly. "How stupid of me," she stammered. "I did make a mistake. It wasn't a moose she killed—nothing but a moose."

THE STANDARD OF QUALITY FOR OVER 30 YEARS
The workmanship which has made W.L. Douglas shoes famous the world over is maintained in every pair.
If I could take you into my large factories at Brockton, Mass., and show you how carefully W.L. Douglas shoes are made, you would then understand why they are warranted to hold their shape, fit better and wear longer than any other make for the price.
CAUTION The genuine have W. L. Douglas name and price stamped on bottom.
If you cannot obtain W. L. Douglas shoes in your town, write for catalog. Shoes sent direct from factory to wearer, all charges prepaid. W. L. DOUGLAS, 145 Spruce St., Brockton, Mass.
ONE PAIR of my BOYS' $2.50 or $3.00 SHOES will positively outwear TWO PAIRS of ordinary boys' shoes

L. White Hamby, secretary to the Speaker of the House, was explaining that the speaker had not been so much as people thought he was. "My understanding," suggested one of the party, "is that he gets away with about 20 cigars a day."
"Oh, well," said Hamby, "but he eats half of 'em."—Sunday Magazine.

SHIP YOUR COTTON TO H. KEMPER of Galveston, Texas
Because they are exclusively cotton factors.
Because they handle more cotton on commission than any factor in the United States.
Because their warehouse facilities are unequalled.
Because their rates are low as any.
Because they advance money on cotton consigned on the most liberal basis and terms.
Because they can with confidence refer to any one who has ever shipped to them in the past.
Because their long experience in handling cotton, their fair dealings and their excellent connections in all sections of the cotton-spinning world, render them always able to obtain the very highest prices on cotton consigned to them.
Because cotton is going up and every bale shipped and held ought to sell at very much higher prices.

A Guide to Full Pockets

To earn something and save a little; to be ambitiously and without excesses; to get a little money and much time in brain getting; to own some thing of your own; to eat when you are hungry, and sleep when you are tired; to take no chances except those backed up by your own energy and labor; to employ reliable helpers and pay them well; to go on no man's bond; to live each day so that you can look every man in the eye; to expect nothing that you do not deserve, and to deserve nothing you are not willing to expect. This is the soul of living, the psalm of prosperity.

TEXAS Needs Great Men

II. OPPORTUNITY.

A HILL at Toulon gave Napoleon his opportunity and he beat back the British forces and established a Republican form of government in Europe. An arm of the ocean gave Nelson his opportunity and he destroyed the Spanish fleet and made England mistress of the sea. Since the creation of the world, the destinies of the human race have been moulded by leaders who could seize upon opportunity. Texas today stands at the threshold of commercial supremacy, awaiting her leaders to seize upon opportunity that will give her the mastery of the world's commerce.

NAPOLEON'S OPPORTUNITY.

Opportunity is knocking at our door. The time for moulding the destinies of Texas has arrived. The completion of the Panama canal will re-cast the commerce of both hemispheres and move the star of civilization Texasward. The ocean is throbbing with commercial activity, the universe is quivering with industrial life and the time is ripe for the advent of a powerful man who can swing civilization around Texas like planets around a central sun. Texas needs great men.

The Development Dollar.

There is no part of our circulating medium so important to our progress as the development dollar. It is the empire builder. It is the most active, generous and peaceful of our legal tender and it is constantly seeking to develop our latent resources. It opens our mines, builds our factories, our railroads and our large industrial enterprises, and it is always a buy dollar.

Its inordinate desire for activity and its forgiving spirit makes it a target for legislation and rather than lie idle, it will submit to most any legislative handicap and plead guilty to most any charge, provided it is permitted to return to its appointed task without delay. Its generosity makes it the most popular dollar in circulation for wherever invested, it makes a free and equitable distribution of values to adjoining property. It wields a powerful influence in civilization. It has forced governments to sign treaties of peace and at its bidding nations have sprung into life or sunk into oblivion.

Its presence in a country is a sure sign of prosperity and its absence a most withering blight. Trace our development dollar to its source and we have located the money centers of Europe and America and we are drawing from them a million dollars per day and putting it into the industrial life of the State.

The domestic dollar can never develop Texas. It is already at work; at least as much of it as cares to labor. A dollar that withdraws from one investment and embarks in another has added nothing to the volume of our circulation medium or increased the amount of our property. It is the foreign dollar that adds volume and brings new property into the State. Property is the basis of prosperity and a dollar that moves into the community brings with it as much community prosperity as the dollar taken from the soil. We must look to the foreign dollar to build Texas. There is no other way.
