Senate...

Committee oks tax bill

AUSTIN (AP) — The chairman of the Senate tax-writing committee seemed confident that his colleagues would accept a late shift in tactics and raise the state sales tax from 4 percent to 4.25 percent.

Chairman Grant Jones of the Finance Committee announced just before the Senate adjourned Sunday that he was preparing a substitute for the three-year, $4.9 billion measure that cleared the House on Saturday.

The tax bill would be the first major increase in 13 years, and would be used to upgrade the Texas highway system and pay for school reforms adopted by the Legislature on Saturday.

Jones' plan would reinstate sales tax exemptions on newspaper and broadcasting advertising as well as repairs on tangible property, such as autos, and real property, such as a person's home. The House bill had eliminated those exemptions.

Jones, D-Abilene, said the tax income from his proposal over three years would be about the same as the House bill.

His announcement on the proposed substitute apparently caught some senators by surprise, but others said they had been working with House leaders to come up with a compromise.

Only two days remain in the special session, which was called by Gov. Mark White, and the governor seems on the brink of what could be a spectacular legislative victory. Many political observers thought the Legislature would never enact school reform and a large tax bill in a 30-day session.

Filibusters still were a threat in the Senate, but even if opponents of taxes ran out the clock to midnight Tuesday, White could call legislators right back into session.

On Sunday, Jones was asked if a Senate majority would favor his plan, and he said, "I think there will be."

Asked how the House felt about the proposal, Jones said, "I think there's an excellent chance for concurrence."

The House-approved tax bill cleared the Finance Committee 12-1, with only Sen. Ed Howard, D-Texarkana, voting against it. No amendments were offered, because Jones said, "There's no sense in getting into a wrestling match here."

Jones said he understood a "whole series of amendments" would be offered on the floor.

FLYING HIGH — The handmade kite contest sponsored through the Scurry County Museum Saturday produced this skyborne entry. This creation was entered by Holly Barkowsky. Events continue Tuesday

Tuesday will be the first of two days promising "all-day" activities related to the Scurry County Centennial and the traditional Independence Day celebration here.

Activities are under the twin sponsorship of the Snyder Chamber of Commerce and the Scurry County Historical Commission.

The culmination of events Tuesday will be centered at Towle Park, as both an Old Timer's barbecue and a musical Hootenanny is planned.

In addition, other July 4th-related activities — the arts and crafts display at the Towle Park Armory as well as food and activity booths in the park — will begin one day early. Carnival activities will be underway Tuesday also.

The traditional July 4th parade has been scheduled the day before Independence Day in connection with this year's Scurry County Centennial celebration.

The parade will begin to form up at 4 p.m. Tuesday in the Varsity Square shopping center. Parade marshall this year will be Mayor Rod Waller.

Beginning at 5 p.m., the parade will head down College Avenue toward the courthouse square. It will travel north until reaching 25th St., then go back to the east to Ave. R, where the parade will turn back to the south.

Seven float entries are listed for the parade. These will be entered by the American Legion, Sparkle City Squares, Gay 20, Deep Creek Chapter of the American Business Women's Association, Snyder Chamber of Commerce and Colonial Hill Baptist Church.

Other parade entries will include antique cars and modern farm vehicles, this year's pledges from the Snyder High School Lucky 13 girl's club, mar-

Court ponders horse stall buy

County commissioners are now considering purchasing moveable horse stalls to be used at the Scurry County Coliseum in connection with the annual AJRA national rodeo finals here.

Monday at 11:30 a.m., the court viewed samples of such stalls set up for their inspection at the coliseum.

The purchase is being considered based upon a request by AJRA and chamber of commerce officials here.

In the past, these temporary-type stalls have been leased for use during the week of the finals competition. AJRA officials note they have since lost the service of the business which leased these.

Commissioners noted that any county purchase is "only being considered" at this time. Since the stalls could theoretically be leased to the AJRA yearly — assuming the competition stays in

'Save floats' requested

Members of the Scurry County Rodeo Association request that groups sponsoring floats in Tuesday's July 4th parade save their entries and include them next July 18 in the Scurry County Rodeo Parade.

Float entries may win cash prizes on the 18th. Prize money will be $150, $90 and $60 for the top three winning floats.

SESQUICENTENNIAL PRESENTATION — Lee Story of Austin, a member of the State of Texas Sesquicentennial Committee, visited Snyder Friday to present Scurry County commmittee leaders with a plaque and a flag. Arrest 100 in bungled coup

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — The government reportedly has arrested more than 100 army officers, policemen and paramilitary gunmen as suspects in the attempt to stage a military coup by kidnapping President Hernan Siles Zuazo.

"We have detained various officers and will continue these arrests until we dismantle the entire coup-plotting apparatus of this country," Gustavo Sanchez, undersecretary of interior, said Sunday.

He declined to say how many were in custody or identify them, but Presencia, a leading newspaper, reported today that more than 100 people had been arrested in connection with Saturday's attempt to topple the elected government.

The drama began before dawn Saturday, when Siles Zuazo awoke to the sound of footsteps and squinted into a flashlight held by one of the abductors. By late that afternoon, the 70-year-old president was free, addressing thousands of cheering supporters, while his abductors took refuge in two embassies or went into hiding.

Grocery tab rose in June

By the Associated Press

Grocery prices rose 0.65 percent during June, primarily because of a rise in the cost of detergent and sugar, and prices for the first six months of the year have risen 1.6 percent, according to a monthly Associated Press marketbasket survey.

Milk also was more expensive in June. Egg prices continued their decline, but less dramatically.

Economists said the June increase indicated moderate inflation.

The marketbasket bill rose in five cities an average of 5.3 percent. It decreased in seven cities an average of 2.15 percent. The bill in New York City remained unchanged.

In the first six months of the year, the tab rose 0.14 percent, if New York is included. That city's bill fell 13.25 percent since January, primarily because of a switch in April to a cheaper store.

Water usage had decreased

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — Water usage dropped by 40 million gallons on the first day of a mandatory water conservation program, a city official said.

Doug Matthews, city director of Public Utilities, said water consumption Saturday was 110 millions, an "extremely high" amount, and only 70 million gallons, well below the average for a summer day, Sunday.

Fireworks linked to fires

Snyder firemen were called to extinguish four grass fires — all thought to be fireworks-related — during the weekend.

The first blaze was reported near the intersection of Highway 180 and Farm Road 1611 at 10:15 p.m. Saturday. The other three were reported Sunday afternoon.

Sunday fires were in the 1900 Block of Ave. E at 2:20 p.m.; 1 mile south of the city on Highway 208 at 10:20 p.m.; and just south of the Eastridge Addition on the Brick Plant Road at 10:42 p.m.

No injuries or property damage was reported in any of the fires.

Rig loses pipe on highway

A tractor-trailer rig owned by an Odessa firm lost its load of drill pipe Monday while traveling on State Highway 350 south of Snyder. The mishap occurred around 7 a.m.

According to reports, Robert L. Southard of Hobbs, New Mexico was driving a 1977 Mack tractor-trailer rig owned by Montgomery Trucking of Odessa.

He was eastbound on 350 when the load of drill pipe broke loose and fell from the trailer.

No injuries were reported in the incident.

NAACP meeting Monday

The regular monthly meeting of the Snyder Chapter of the NAACP is planned Monday beginning at 7:30 p.m.

The meeting will be in the community room of West Texas State Bank.

Capital murder charge not likely...

Belachhebmaypleadinsanity

DALLAS (AP) — Prosecutors say an insanity plea may be in the works for an unemployed waiter arrested in the slayings of six people at a north Dallas restaurant and that Texas law could block the filing of capital murder charges against the suspect.

Abdelkrim Belachheb, 39, was arrested early Friday about three hours after a man became enraged while dancing and emptied a 14-shot automatic pistol at customers in Ianni's Restaurant and Club, police said.

According to witnesses, the man reloaded the weapon and began shooting into the crowd again. Six people died and another was wounded.

Dallas County District Attorney Henry Wade said that to qualify as capital murder, a slaying must occur during the commission of another felony — such as robbery, rape or kidnapping — or the victim must be a police officer, fireman or prison guard.

The one charge filed against Belachheb is murder — punishable by a maximum sentence of life in prison.

"I think that in this type of case, a person ought to get the death penalty," Wade said. "But if the law doesn't provide it, I can't give it to him."

Assistant District Attorney Norman Kinne said prosecutors would continue to search for a way to charge Belachheb with capital murder.

"The statute fairly well covered the field, but it doesn't cover things like this," Kinne said. "It's probably not a capital offense. As far as I'm concerned, it ought to be."

Ted Calisi, Belachheb's court-appointed lawyer, said his client underwent psychological testing Saturday, but results were not revealed. Calisi also said he spoke with Belachheb's wife, Joanne O'Brien Belachheb, but he would not discuss details of the conversation.

"I know basically what avenue I'm going to take to defend him," Calisi said. "Although I can't say what, I can tell you that there will be a lot of interesting revelations."

Calisi said he would decide today whether to seek a competency hearing for Belachheb on the basis of the psychiatric evaluation.

Kinne said prosecutors suspect the hearing would be the first step in an attempt to establish that Belachheb was insane at the time of the shootings.

"A competency hearing, that's the first step," Kinne said. "Mental competency and then insanity."

Both Wade and Kinne noted that some prosecutors have argued that Texas should follow the lead of some other states and make anyone accused of mass murder subject to capital murder charges.

Wade said his office has helped write proposals to make mass murder in Texas a capital offense, but he said the bills have been rejected by the state Legislature during its past two sessions.

"Maybe something like this will get them to finally do something about it," Kinne said.

The one charge against Belachheb, a Moroccan national, is expected to be presented to a grand jury next week. Investigators said they expect to file five more murder charges and one attempted murder charge this week.

The one charge against Belachheb, who is jailed in lieu of $500,000 bond, accuses him in the death of Marcell M. Ford, 34, of Grand Prairie. Police said the shootings apparently were triggered when Ms. Ford refused to dance with the suspect.

The others slain were Frank Parker, 49, of Arlington; Joseph John Minasi, 36, the part owner of a Dallas luxury automobile dealership called European Connection; Janice Smith, 46, a Dallas real estate agent; Linda Lowe, 43, of Fort Worth; and Ligia Kozlowski, 45, of Irving, who moved to Texas six months ago from Chicago.

John McNeill, 37, of Dallas, who was shot and wounded as he tried to run toward the restaurant's back door, was hospitalized in stable condition Sunday.

Dear Abby

Club's Male Dancers Could Spread More Than Good Cheer

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1984 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I live around Dallas, and there's a club where male dancers "dance" with nothing on but itty-bitty G-strings. They're all very sexy-looking, well-built guys. This club is so popular with women (no men are allowed), if you don't get there an hour before the doors are opened, you can't get in.

I was there with a bunch of girls from the office and I'm no goody-two-shoes, but I was shocked. The men do a lot of very suggestive dancing and then they go out in the audience. If a woman tips them, she gets a big French kiss! I saw this with my own eyes.

Can a girl catch a disease from one of these male dancers if she kisses him? They must kiss a hundred girls in one evening.

Is there a weekly health inspection on these male dancers to ensure someone who is only out with the girls to have a good time that she won't catch something and take it home to her husband?

SCARED TO PLAY,
AFRAID TO PAY

DEAR SCARED: I can't answer the question about a "weekly health inspection," but if the men kiss "about a hundred" women a night, they would need a daily health inspection to be positively certain they were healthy. Both the kisser and the kissee are at risk. Foolish, all.

DEAR ABBY: Here's the situation in a nutshell: Last evening I had dinner (alone) at a first-class restaurant. The food was fine, but the service was terrible.

Instead of tipping the waiter the usual 15 percent, I tipped him only 10 percent. He handed it back to me, saying, "Here, you need this more than I do."

What should I have said?

J.D. IN BUFFALO

DEAR J.D.: To the waiter you should have said, "Thank you." And to the manager, you should have said, "The service was poor and my waiter was insolent."

DEAR ABBY: I might sound like a 16-year-old girl, but I'm a 64-year-old widow. I lost my husband of 40 years two years ago. He had been in a wheelchair for years. I had to feed and change him like you would a baby, but I didn't mind. He was a good man and I loved him.

Last year I met "Henry," who is also in a wheelchair. His wife had been dead for six years, and Henry had been in a wheelchair for nearly 30 years. He can't move anything but his hands and arms, but he does more work than a man who hasn't got anything wrong with him. Henry repairs electrical appliances, does gardening, housework, etc. He's kind and sweet and we fell in love.

Henry has four children. The three oldest are married; the youngest, "Billy," is not. Billy is as sorry a boy as they come. When he works, all his money goes for beer and dope. When nobody's around, he bullies his daddy and curses him like he was a dog. Henry gives Billy money when he demands it because he's afraid of him.

Henry wants to marry me, but I just can't, feeling like I do about that boy of his. His other kids are nice as they can be, and they love me like I was their mother.

What should I do?

MISERABLE

DEAR MISERABLE: You don't say whether Billy lives at home, but if he does, he should be put out and warned not to come around. Henry's older children should help enforce this. If they can't handle it, don't hesitate to call the law.

DR. LAMB

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Cut your risk of overheating

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — About two years ago I had an attack of heat exhaustion. It was the summer a lot of people died from the heat. I had been pretty hot driving to my parents' house after staying in my air-conditioned home.

I guess staying in a cool place and then getting out in the heat is what did it. I was lying on a couch at my mother's and she was cooking. It was really hot and the fan seemed to just blow hot air.

The first symptom was just feeling real tired. The next was feeling absolutely exhausted, weak and nauseated. Then the top of my head felt real hot. My mother poured ice water from the refrigerator over my head and it felt lukewarm.

She said I was white as a sheet. I got better, then worse. Then I couldn't breathe well, so Mom called the emergency room.

They said to get me into a cold shower and get fruit juices into me as soon as possible. Then I was to go home and stay in the air-conditioning. I got better but I felt weak for several days.

I had two bouts last year. It's been real easy for me to get too hot. Do you think I had heat exhaustion? What can I do to prevent it from happening?

DEAR READER — It would not be possible to tell from your letter just what you had. Heat exhaustion is one possibility.

There are really three major problems from heat. You can have heat exhaustion with a loss of body water, or you can have heat exhaustion with a loss of salt with retention of too much water, or you can have heat stroke, which is characterized by a progressively high body temperature. I have explained the differences in The Health Letter 7-12, Heat Stress: Cramps, Exhaustion, Stroke, which I am sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

If you don't have salt depletion, taking salt or salt tablets can increase your chances of having heat stroke. If a person must be exposed to lots of heat and sweats a lot, I think it is a good idea to weigh daily to be sure that you have not lost a lot of body fluid. Drinking a quart of milk, a pint of orange juice and an adequate amount of water also helps.

The body accumulates heat, so a cool room at night is important in helping to prevent exposure problems.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am writing in reference to the consumption of popcorn. I have heard that popcorn is low in calories when not buttered and that it provides roughage. Yet I never see it in any diets or actually hear of its nutritional value. Can eating too much popcorn be detrimental to your health?

DEAR READER — One cup of commercially popped popcorn without added oil, butter, margarine or other substances contains only 23 calories. A cup of unpopped popcorn contains 742 calories. So the air in the cup of popped popcorn is what makes it a low-calorie food. Air is not bulk or roughage, so I wouldn't count on popped popcorn to provide any significant bulk anymore than you would if you ate unpopped popcorn, which of course you would not do.

If you avoid salt and added oils or butter, popcorn is a good food to satisfy that urge to snack. You can eat a lot of it without consuming many calories. Of course, if you add butter, that is another story.

Anti Simpson-Mazzoli protest joins hands

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — A demonstration against the Simpson-Mazzoli immigration bill drew more than 1,100 people from the United States and Mexico to the Bridge of the Americas.

An estimated 125 demonstrators from El Paso and New Mexico and more than 1,000 from Juarez Sunday participated in the "Hands Across the Border" protest, which culminated in a rally at the top of the bridge with participants chanting "el pueblo unido jamas sera vencido," or "a united community will never be defeated."

The southbound lanes of the bridge were blocked for about 30 minutes vehicles as demonstrators held hands across the passageway. But soon after police arrived to control traffic, the protestors peacefully broke the line.

The Jesse Jackson-inspired demonstration was organized by John T. Garcia, El Paso district director of the League of United Latin American Citizens.

Presidential candidate Jackson urged border residents to join hands to show displeasure with the immigration bill and to work toward border solidarity. He made his plea June 22 at the LULAC national convention in El Paso.

"There was no violence, no arrests, nobody hurt, and both groups marched back to their respective sides," El Paso police Lt. Henry Fluck said.

The demonstration began about an hour late at the Chamizal Memorial Park.

Dr. George Anderson, chairman of the New Mexico Rainbow Coalition; El Paso lawyer Jesus Ochoa; Rosa Maria Gonzalez, who said she represented all Juarez organizations; University of Texas at El Paso student Moises Bujanda; and Judith Pratt, New Mexico Democratic candidate for the U.S. Senate were among the speakers.

Spielberg coaches Drew Barrymore

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Ryan O'Neal said he felt surprised — and left out — when he learned that director Steven Spielberg had coached 9-year-old Drew Barrymore for O'Neal's latest film.

The surprise came from the fact that Spielberg wasn't connected with the film "Irreconcilable Differences," which stars O'Neal and marks Charles Shyer's directing debut.

Miss Barrymore, granddaughter of the late John Barrymore, plays a child who goes to court to end a revolving-door custody dispute.

Most make life easier

BETHEL, Conn. (AP) — The challenge of making life easier through inventions generated the greatest number of winning responses in a recent national high school scholarship competition.

The competition required that all inventions entered fit one or more requirements; to entertain, amuse, make life easier, serve as warning devices, provide sound or light or both.

Of 41 winning entries in the 1984 Duracell Scholarship Competition, almost a third were designed for making life easier. ——

NO WATER

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Water makes the area around pipes, sinks and faucets a favorite gathering place for cockroaches and other household pests.

Spectracide, a maker of insect control products, says insects need water to survive, so denying them access to water is an important part of controlling or preventing insect problems in the home.

It recommends mopping up spills and wet spots immediately, repairing leaky plumbing and drying all dishes and pots and pans after washing. ——

I'm not a professional statistician, but it's a fair assumption that many millions of bridge hands are dealt annually. Several hundred thousand of these deals pose difficult problems for the opening leader — like today's. West finally led the deuce of diamonds, hoping to catch partner with length and strength in that suit. Why not a club? When the opponents have bid three suits and declarer jumps to three no-trump, that unbid suit is almost always well stopped.

The lesson here is not a trick one; but rather the proper card for East to lead at trick two. He won the king of diamonds when the 10 was played from dummy, and could see that the club suit must be attacked. The nine of clubs was played back. Because East has a high honor plus the 9-7 encircling dummy's eight, the lead of the club nine prevents declarer from ducking a club around to the West hand. South could still have made the contract had he played correctly. He needed to play low on the first club play, win the second club trick with the ace, and go about his business in the red suits. When East later wins a trick with the heart queen; the defenders can take only the club king. A subsequent secondary diamond finesse provides South with the ninth trick.

In actuality, the jack of clubs was played on the nine. West won the king and returned the club 10, smothering dummy's eight. South played low and won the next trick, but when he lost to the heart queen, East was able to cash the setting trick in clubs.

Moshe Dayan, a former Israeli general and foreign minister, died of a heart ailment in 1981. He was 66.

Mamie Nunn was early day Scurry Co. settler

AUNT MAMIE NUNN SHARP

This picture shows Aunt Mamie Nunn Sharp, sister of Jim and Tommy Nunn. The Nunns were among the first settlers in the area. The Nunn brothers were the first to bring large herds of cattle into the area. On October 30,1877, Jim and Tommy Nunn drove 1500 head of cattle into the Deep Creek area for grazing.

Mamie Nunn had come from Lee County, Texas with her family when she was very young. She married Mr. Sharp, a Texas Ranger, known to everyone as Uncle Sharp. Her husband told an interesting story throughout his life about a battle with Indians near where the courthouse is today.

Mr. Sharp had two nephews who had been captured by the Indians a couple of years before he came to Scurry County. One day, he was riding his horse near Deep Creek and encountered a group of Indians. He and others fought with the Indians and several Indians were shot. As they examined the fallen Indian braves, one mortally wounded young Indian spoke to him in broken English. He immediately recognized the young boy as his nephew that he had known before moving to Scurry.

The two boys had been with the Indians so long that they adopted their ways and joined them in battle. Uncle Sharp buried his two nephews, on the spot where they were shot. Both boys were dressed and painted as Indian warriors dressed for battle.

The Nunns became good citizens of Scurry County, and Aunt Mamie's brothers, Tommy and Jim, were leaders in the community. Mrs. Verniece Jourden Nunn, who married Harold Nunn, nephew of Mamie Sharp, recalls that Aunty Mamie often related this story to her.

Tear gas, dogs quell uprising

WALPOLE, Mass. (AP) — Nearly 400 inmates on a rampage at Walpole State Prison set fires and smashed furniture for two hours before guards using dogs and tear gas were able to subdue them, authorities said today.

No officers or prison staff members were hurt in the disturbance Sunday night, although one prisoner injured his foot when he stepped on a piece of glass, Correction Department spokesman Joe Landolphi said.

Inmates were back in their cells by 10 p.m. and the entire maximum security prison was locked down as officials assessed the damage and investigators tried to find a cause for the riot at the 670-inmate facility 15 miles southwest of Boston, Landolphi said early today.

"We have no idea what sparked" the outburst, he said. "It erupted spontaneously almost."

It was the second lockdown at Walpole in less than a week, Landolphi said. Prisoners also had been confined to cells Thursday night after a fight between two inmates.

The uprising began at 7 p.m. Sunday when inmates gathered for an evening recreational activity in the auditorium, Landolphi said.

An Associated Press photographer who toured the prison after the disturbance saw a half-dozen seats ripped out of the auditorium floor and a small glass window shattered.

Officials said prisoners ran from the auditorium into the staff dining room, where they destroyed 22 wooden tables and dozens of chairs and then tore down a cinder block wall leading into a large storage room.

The inmates seemed to be looking for weapons "or anything they could turn into weapons," said Deputy Superintendent John Ober.

Mrs. Marcos claims she saved Aquino's life

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — First lady Imelda Marcos testified today that she once helped save former Sen. Benigno Aquino's life — and tried to do so a second time, but failed because he returned to the Philippines against her advice.

Mrs. Marcos wept as she read a letter from Aquino, praising her charitable work, to the board investigating the assassination of her husband's main political rival last year.

"When I met Aquino in 1980 ... and helped him go to the United States for a heart bypass operation, I would like to believe that to a great extent I helped save his life," Mrs. Marcos said.

Aquino had been imprisoned for nearly eight years under martial law before he was permitted to leave for the United States.

She said she met Aquino again for three hours in New York in May 1983 and "pleaded with him to postpone his return. Again I tried to save his life."

Aquino was shot at the Manila airport last Aug. 21 on his return from self-exile in the United States. President Ferdinand E. Marcos, claiming the government had uncovered a plot against the opposition leader's life, had warned him against returning.

The government says Aquino was killed by alleged Communist agent Rolando Galman, who was immediately gunned down by soldiers. The Aquino family says Aquino was killed by a soldier and has accused Marcos of involvement.

The public was barred from the hearing room during Mrs. Marcos' testimony, which came on her 55th birthday. A few reporters were allowed to attend the session.

Mrs. Marcos denied a Newsweek magazine report quoting her as having warned Aquino against returning because he might be harmed by "people loyal to us (the Marcoses) who cannot be controlled."

"This is pure fabrication," she said. When asked again about the alleged warning, she replied, "I don't think I would be that stupid.... I would never do such a thing."

She broke down crying as she read the board a letter she said Aquino wrote to his doctor at the Philippines Heart Center before leaving for the United States.

"Mrs. Marcos deserves all the credit for giving our people such an institution like your heart center," the letter said. "It is indeed ironical that one of her bitterest critics would be a beneficiary of her foresight. When the ultimate mist of controversy is melted by the rising sun, her work for our people will find final recognition."

Mrs. Marcos also gave the board a gold crucifix which she said was Aquino's "anting-anting," the Tagalog word for amulet. She said Aquino gave her the crucifix before his 1980 U.S. trip.

She denied opposition leader Salvador Laurel's testimony that she had told him (Laurel) that Aquino would be dead if he came home.

Take effect July 1...

Laws cover wide range

By the Associated Press

Soldiers who toted a rifle in Grenada are entitled to free state college tuition in Connecticut today, while in Tennessee people under 16 may now get marriage licenses and terminally ill patients in Georgia can tell doctors to disconnect their life-support systems.

These are the among the more than 1,000 new state laws that took effect Sunday, July 1. The laws cover subjects ranging from pay raises for school teachers and state employees in Virginia to adopting striped bass in Maryland.

The nation's love affair with the automobile was a dominant theme, with new laws mandating higher gasoline taxes, stiffer sentences for drunken drivers, higher license fees, the use of child-safety devices and the replacement of "lemons."

At least one state — Idaho — actually reduced its tax burden on residents, dropping its sales tax from 4½ cents to 4 cents per $1.

Virginia, Tennessee, Wisconsin, New Mexico and Oregon joined 19 other states with tough new laws on drunken driving, with mandatory license suspensions on conviction ranging from 90 days in New Mexico to six months in Virginia.

In Oregon, police now have the right to seize a driver's license on the spot when a motorist either refuses to take a breath test or takes takes a test that indicates a blood-alcohol reading of .08 or higher.

"We don't want a lot of people in jail," said Margie Brown of the Multnomah County, Ore., chapter of Mothers Against Drunk Driving, which lobbied heavily for the bill. "What we really want is a deterrent."

Wisconsin raised its legal drinking age to 19 and Rhode Island hiked it to 21. The changes come as President Reagan is preparing to sign a bill to require all states to increase their drinking age to 21 or face the loss of some federal highway construction money.

Four states — South Dakota, Arizona, Georgia and Oregon — on Sunday joined 25 other states with laws mandating the use of safety seats and seat belts for children riding in automobiles, with penalties ranging from up to a $50 fine in Arizona to a warning in South Dakota.

New-car buyers who get a "lemon" now have a friend on the statute books in Tennessee, Connecticut and Virginia. The toughest of the new laws is Connecticut's, where car owners are entitled to a refund or a new car if four attempts to fix the same problem fail or if the car is out service for more than 30 days in the first year of ownership.

Raising money to build or repair roads led four states — Washington, Wisconsin, Arizona and Connecticut — to increase their taxes on gasoline.

Money also was an issue in Virginia, where 80,000 state employees will receive an across-the-board 8.6 wage increase under a law which went into effect Sunday. Virginia public school teachers are now eligible for 10 percent raises in the 1984-1985 school year.

Southfork may be on tour list

DALLAS (AP) — The first law of guiding tourists through Dallas, says tour expert Patti Watson, is "promise 'em anything, but give 'em Southfork and Dealy Plaza."

It's that rule that Mrs. Watson is keeping in mind as she designs tours for Republicans who will swamp the city in August for the GOP National Convention. She took on the task at the request of the Republican Welcoming Committee.

She said that the sites associated with the assassination of President John F. Kennedy — Dealy Plaza, the Texas School Book Depository, Parkland Memorial Hospital — were the most frequently requested by all kinds of tour groups for years.

But the Southfork Ranch, the backdrop for the television soap opera "Dallas," may now be the most popular tourist attraction, Mrs. Watson said.

Mrs. Watson said she "made one thing clear to the Welcoming Committee — whatever else they had in mind, the Kennedy and 'Dallas' things were things people were going to ask to see."

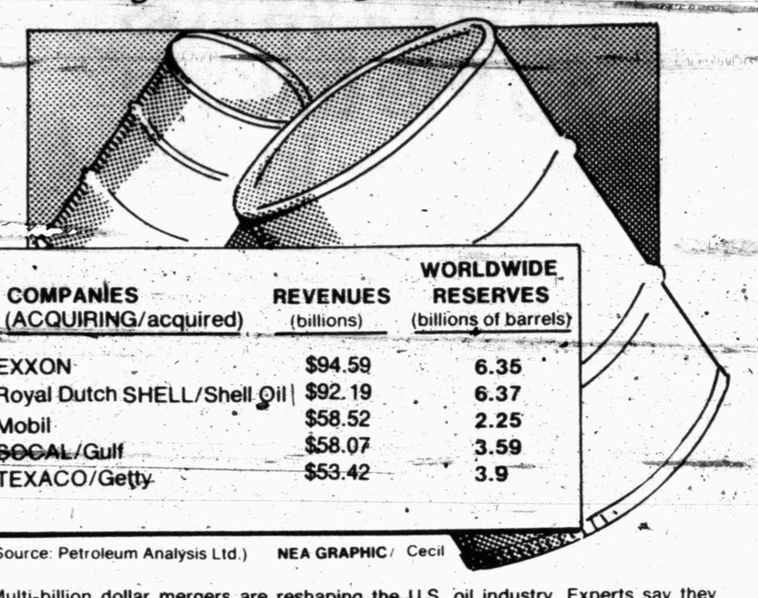

Southfork and the assassination sites are on separate tours. Several of the Kennedy sites are also on the three-hour overview called the "Dallas Preview Tour."

Other tours feature Texas Stadium, an art tour, a visit to a ranch complete with barbecue, Dallas homes and gardens and two trips to Fort Worth.

"We tried to get a good mix in there," Mrs. Watson said. "We were determined to show them not just the good and the bad but everything, and I think this package does it."

Mrs. Watson said she expects 300 to 400 people a day on the air-conditioned bus tours. The prices will range from from $12 to $27, with the ranch tour being the most expensive.

Mergers make Big Oil bigger

Multi-billion dollar mergers are reshaping the U.S. oil industry. Experts say they may make refineries and exploration more profitable. If this year's proposed mergers are all completed; Exxon will keep its top spot. But Mobil will drop to third place from No. 2, while Southern Oil of California (Socal) will move ahead of Texaco for the first time.

2 rare white tiger cubs born at zoo in Omaha

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Two white tiger cubs have been born at the Henry Doorly Zoo, raising the number of the rare animals at the zoo to six, said Director Lee Simmons.

The birth of the two cubs in a single litter Friday was "fairly unusual," Simmons said Sunday. A third, yellow cub also was part of the litter.

Simmons said the cubs and their mother, Obi, were doing well. There was some concern when one of the cubs did not nurse right away, but he said all three are eating normally now.

The mother had not left the cubs long enough for zoo officials to examine and weigh them Sunday, so their sex and weight have not been determined, he said. When Obi decides to eat and leaves the cubs, they will be examined and moved to a public display area.

Obi, who belongs to the Henry Doorly Zoo, was mated with Ranjit, a male tiger on loan from the Smithsonian Institution. Simmons said one of the white cubs eventually would be transferred to the National Zoological Park. The others will stay in Omaha.

ching Boy Scouts, car and pickup entries from Snyder merchants and the Scurry County Sheriff's Posse as well as any other riders who would like to participate.

Tuesday's Centennial-related events begin at 6 p.m. with the Old Timer's barbecue, to be followed by a Hootenanny celebration at the park pavilion at 7 p.m.

Tickets for the barbecue were still for sale Monday, although it was noted no tickets will be sold at the event. The Hootenanny is open to the public at no charge.

Winners of Centennial-related contests will be announced at the Hootenanny. These will includes winners for the beard growing contest, authentic costume contest and merchant window display contest.

In addition, Scurry County "old-timers" will be recognized. Plaques will be presented to the oldest resident in attendance; the one who has come the farthest distance; and the one who has lived in Scurry County the most continuous years. To be recognized, persons must register at the event.

The crafts show is scheduled from 5 until 10 p.m. Tuesday and admission is free. The food and activity booths are due to open at 7 p.m. Tuesday.

In the armory, some 43 booths have been rented by artisans and craftsmen from throughout the state. They will be open all day Wednesday also.

Local clubs and organizations have also reserved space for some 26 food and activities booths to be open Tuesday evening and all day Wednesday.

These include such activities as a dunking booth and a "clown face" booth, where local children may have clown faces painted on.

Food booths opening Tuesday evening will run the gamut from Mexican food to hamburgers, hotdogs, ice cream and watermelon.

Court may buy stalls

Snyder — the possibility of the equipment "paying for itself" was pointed out Monday.

This year's AJRA finals are scheduled in the coliseum the week of Aug. 13-18.

The inspection of equipment was the only agenda item before the court Monday other than routine approval of bills and minutes.

Driver hits meter device

Snyder police reported two minor traffic mishaps, one a hit-and-run incident, over the weekend.

Involved in the first mishap — noted at 11:14 a.m. Saturday at the intersection of 37th St. and College Ave. — were a 1979 GMC driven by Russell Eugene Cole of Maryneal and a 1982 Ford driven by Carl Henry Kunkel of 2902 37th St.

Neither driver was injuried in the accident.

The hit-and-run incident was reported in the 1800 Block of Ave. T at 11:20 a.m. Saturday.

According to reports, a gas meter had apparently been struck by an unidentified vehicle which fled the scene.

Value of damage to the meter was listed at $200.

Seat covers said slashed

One incident of vandalism was investigated during the weekend, but police report an unusually large number of arrests for misdemeanor-related offenses.

Debbie Ellison of 1909 Coleman Ave. filed the vandalism report at 9:17 a.m. Sunday.

She told investigators that the seats in her 1981 Oldsmobile had been slashed while the vehicle was parked at the residence overnight.

In other action, police jailed 18 subjects for various misdemeanor violations Saturday and Sunday.

Weekend arrests included nine for public intoxication, three for DWI, two for driving on suspended licenses, two for minor in possession of alcohol, and one each for disorderly conduct and no liability insurance.

One of the DWI suspects was also charged with misdemeanor possession of marijuana and possession of prohibited drug paraphernalia.

Lease course set at college

Western Texas College has scheduled an 18-hour lease production course for oilfield personnel in day classes meeting July 23-25. Classes will be conducted from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. daily.

George Stewart, retired from CE NATCO after 38 years, will be the instructor.

To pre-register call 573-8511, ext. 240.

Cubs defeat Dodgers, maybe

by The Associated Press

It was difficult and it was bizarre, yet it was a victory for the Chicago Cubs - maybe.

The Cubs breezed into the ninth inning of Sunday's game in Los Angeles with a 4-1 lead. By the time it was over, Chicago had held on for a 4-3 triumph and the Dodgers had lodged a protest.

In other National League games, New York swept a double-header from Atlanta, 2-1 and 3-2, Houston trounced Philadelphia 13-1, Cincinnati tripped Montreal 4-1, San Francisco beat Pittsburgh 7-4 and San Diego downed St. Louis 3-1.

After Dennis Eckersley, 2-5, owed only four Los Angeles hits over eight innings, ace Cubs reliever Lee Smith took over to start the ninth. With one out, Mike Marshall and Mike Scioscia singled.

Greg Brock then hit a grounder to second baseman Ryne Sandberg, who flipped the ball to shortstop Dave Owen for a forceout, but Owen's throw back to first was wild for an error, allowing Marshall to score and making it 4-2.

With pinch hitter R.J. Reynolds coming to the plate and representing the tying run, Cubs first baseman Keith Moreland went to the Chicago dugout, and then went to talk with Smith.

Smith threw one ball to Reynolds and then Dodgers Manager Tommy Lasorda emerged from his dugout. He said that since Chicago Manager Jim Frey had visited the mound once before in the inning, Moreland's trip should count as a second visit, meaning the Cubs had to replace their pitcher.

The umpires agreed, and Frey fetched Warren Brusstar from the bullpen while Lasorda announced that the Dodgers were playing the game under protest.

Reynolds promptly cracked an RBI single, making it 4-3. Bill Russell also singled and Steve Sax walked, loading the bases. Brusstar then ran the count to 3-2 before striking out a swinging Ken Landreaux.

"The protest is based on the fact he (the umpire) was supposed to take the pitcher out and he didn't," said Lasorda, who claimed that Brusstar got extra time to warm up while Smith pitched to Reynolds.

Jody Davis belted a two-run triple and had two singles to pin the loss on Fernando Valenzuela, 8-9.

Astros 13, Phillies 1

Houston entered the game with just 28 home runs this season, the lowest total in the major leagues. But Jerry Mumphrey homered twice and drove in six runs while Denny Walling also homered, making it the first time this season the Astros have hit three home runs in one game.

Houston has now hit 11 homers in its last 11 games and the Astros are averaging seven runs per game in their last 12.

Mumphrey's second two-run homer, his sixth of the year, put Houston ahead 11-0 in the sixth inning.

Joe Niekro, 8-7, pitched a six-hitter for his sixth straight victory.

Rangers shuffle; demote Hostetler

CLEVELAND (AP) - The Texas Rangers on Sunday optioned first baseman Dave Hostetler to Oklahoma City of the American Association, called up outfielder Tommy Dunbar and acquired relief pitcher Dickie Noles from the Chicago Cubs.

Hostetler, a two-year veteran, hit .207 in 27 games for Texas this year, after hitting .220 last season.

Dunbar, who started Sunday's game against the Cleveland Indians in right field, was leading the American Association with a .349 average. He had 12 home runs and 48 RBI in 80 games.

Noles, 27, a right hander, was acquired for a player to be named later or cash. He appeared in 20 games with the Cubs this season, 19 of them as a relief pitcher.

The Rangers will cut a player from their roster when Noles physically reports to Texas. The Rangers open a home stand against the New York Yankees Monday night at Arlington Stadium.

"(Noles') role with the Rangers will be determined by Manager Doug Rader," said General Manger Joe Klein, "but I believe Rader will start him out in relief until Noles has a chance to get his feet on the ground."

Noles was 2-2 with the Cubs this year. He pitched 48.1 innings, allowed 55 hits and 28 earned runs for a 5.21 ERA.

In his last appearance Friday, he pitched two scoreless innings against Los Angeles. He has a 23-35 lifetime record with Philadelphia and Chicago.

Stallions roll; Houston loses

by The Associated Press

Rollie Dotsch may have set a precedent of sorts by giving his Birmingham Stallions a day off to cool off before meeting the Tampa Bay Bandits in the United States Football League playoffs.

"I gave them a Saturday off to give them an edge," Dotsch said after the Stallions advanced Sunday to the Eastern Conference championship game with a 36-17 victory.

Joe Cribbs, the league's leading rusher, gained 112 yards, Danny Miller kicked five field goals and the Birmingham defense set up two touchdowns to advance to the confernce final next Sunday in Philadelphia.

George Allen's Arizona Wranglers overcame a 16-3 deficit in the final period of Sunday's other USFL game to pull out a 17-16 victory over Houston. The Wranglers will host the Los Angeles Express next Sunday for the Western Conference crown.

The Express ousted defending champion Michigan on Saturday, winning the longest game in professional football history, 27-21 in three overtimes. Philadelphia crushed New Jersey 28-7 in Saturday's other game.

The winners of next weekend's games meet for the league championship July 15 in Tampa, Fla.

Miller booted field goals of 42, 49, 35, 42 and 32 yards.

Cribbs, with 1,467 yards in the regular season, scored on a 3-yard run in the third period to give the Stallions a 27-11 lead.

Cribbs also caught three passes for 55 yards. One was a 29-yarder to the Tampa Bay 1 in the first period to set up the first of two short scoring runs by quarterback Cliff Stoudt.

An interception by Chuck Clanton and a fumble recovery by Buddy Aydelette put Birmingham in position for two of its touchdowns.

Wranglers 17, Gamblers 16

Houston, on the strength of quarterback Jim Kelly's 14-yard touchdown run and three field goals by Toni Fritsch, seemed in control with 13:37 to play. But Gambler punter Dale Walters suffered 15-and 13-yard punts to set up the late Arizona scoring drives.

Tim Spencer pulled the Wranglers to within six points with 6:11 remaining on a 20-yard touchdown run following the first short punt. Then Greg Landry tossed an 11-yard scoring pass to Doug Dennison, and Frank Corral, whose 38-yard field goal accounted for the lone Arizona scoring in the first half, won the game with an extra point with 1:49 remaining.

Express 27, Panthers 21

The teams played 93 minutes, 33 seconds, breaking the old mark of 82:40 set by the Miami Dolphins and Kansas City Chiefs in a 1971 National Football League playoff game. Just 8,753 fans witnessed the struggle in the 90,000-seat Los Angeles Coliseum.

Ironically, the player who broke up the game, tailback Mel Gray, broke his left arm as he crashed into the end zone on a 24-yard touchdown run at 3:33 of the third overtime.

Stars 28, Generals 7

Philadelphia, scored 21 unanswered points in the second period to avenge its only two losses of the season, both to New Jersey.

The "Doghouse" defense, which limited New Jersey's Herschel Walker to 50 yards rushing, got started early when Scott Woerner intercepted a Brian Sipe pass to kill the first drive by the Generals. John Bunting recovered a Sipe fumble following a sack by Pete Kugler to set up the first of Kelvin Bryant's three touchdowns, a 10-yard run early in the second period.

Paul Harvey

Partly personal:

I lost my intellectual virginity in Chicago.

In the Tulsa, Okla., of the morning of my life there were cops and robbers but they were separate.

There were people who were different — but not separate.

And then one day I transplanted my maivete to Chicago.

Where people, polarized around prejudices, took sides.

Where the difference between the good guys and the bad was blurred.

Where even the dead — vote.

Where the courts were so corrupt that you could buy your way into or out of anything — traffic tickets to murder.

Where mob bosses flaunted their freedom.

Where lawyers, paid extra, became "fixers."

Where judges spent half a million dollars to get elected to $30,000 jobs — and nobody asked why because everybody knew.

Where judges divided their time between lavish homes here and in Florida and the source of such wealth was never questioned.

And not one was ever — ever — convicted.

Gradually the transplanted newsboy grew callouses over his own conscience; idealism gave way to cynicism.

Yesterday I was on my way home from one of those wheeling-and-dealing meetings where a chairtable organization is having to pay $10,000 a day to lawyers — and I was feeling sorry for us — U.S.

But then over my car radio came word that a Cook County judge —

Who had taken cash payoffs to fix traffic tickets — has been found guilty.

Cynics had thought because the jury was out two days that some bought juror was going to get him off.

Instead, the jury was out that long because it was that carefully re-examining evidence on which they convicted him of 24 counts--"mail fraud, racketeering, extortion."

His Honor, dishonored, is liable for $110,000 in fines and a prison sentence of 240 years.

More significantly — this prosecution is the first of many resulting from the federal government's under cover "operation Greylord" in which 17 have been indicted. Four of them are current or former judges. Others are attorneys, police officers and court personnel.

Observing this eventuation of justice will not restore the innocence of my sheltered younger years...

But it re-restores a flagging faith in the system.

Our country can still get out of whack and get fixed. The old machinery still works; it just needs to be tightened up once in a while.

Dying Canadian seeks treatment

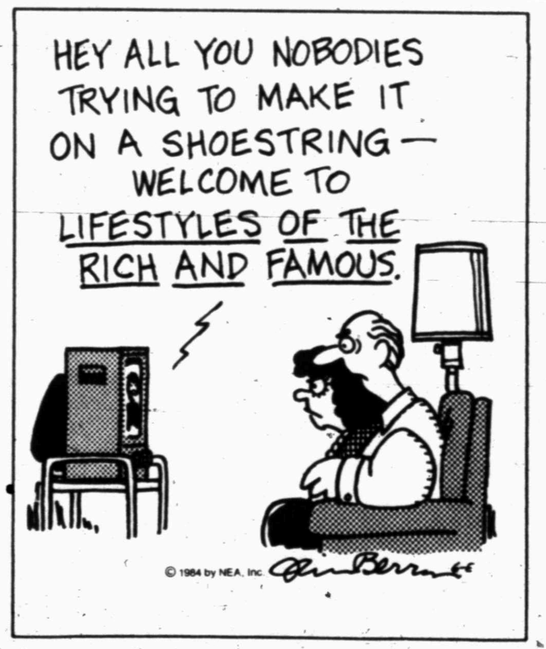

BEDFORD, Texas (AP) — A 23-year-old Canadian woman described as being allergic to almost everything is seeking is seeking treatment at a Texas hospital in a last-ditch effort to save her life.

Sandra Stronge has such a severe case of "environmental sensitivity" or "20th century disease" that she has been able to tolerate only spring water for the past two weeks, her parents said.

She is allergic to almost everything, they said. Her mail, for instance, is aired on a clothes line for 48 hours so the ink fumes won't cause a reaction.

Northeast Community Hospital, located in this Fort Worth suburb, is the only place that can treat Miss Stronge,
