Council studies budget increase

The Colorado City Council is looking at a $2 sanitation rate increase as one means of trying to come up with additional revenue for the new budget year.

City Manager Brenda Tarter explains that the council is studying a proposed $2.4 million budget for the fiscal year which begins May 1.

She said the anticipated budget is a 6 percent increase over the present one and that the increase in sanitation rates will bring in an additional $48,000. The present rate is $10 per month, and the proposed rate will be $12 per month.

The council conducted its first budget workshop this past Tuesday night. The budget is expected to be approved by April 7.

Mrs. Tarter said the increased budget is necessary "due to grant projects in which the city is involved" as well as the landfill operation which has snowballed into a $1 million project.

She said the budget and salary committees have met "extensively" to study the proposed budget.

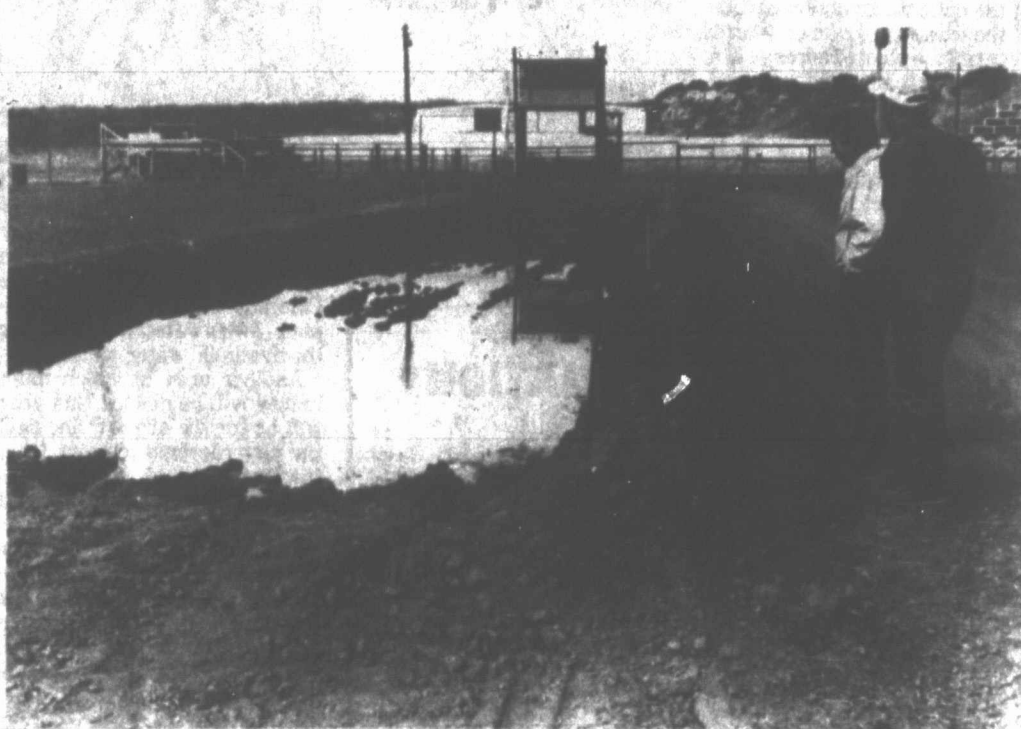

"Both committees have tried to come up with a fair salary plan," said Mrs. Tarter. She said the committees are studying the possibility of a low percentage raise for city employees or a merit-type raise.

She explained that the "dollars are just too tight" this year, especially with a declining tax base because of the oil slump.

She explained that the council will probably be studying another tax increase, probably in the three percent range, when the tax rate is set later this year.

She said if the $2 sanitation fee

Help offered with commodity sign-up

Area farmers have until April 11 to sign up for the various commodity programs administered by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Because the programs are complex, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service is lending a hand in helping farmers interpret the programs so that they can make knowledgeable decisions, according to Mitchell County Extension Agent Mike Mauldin.

In particular, worksheets and computer programs have been developed by extension service economists along with crop budgets to help farmers in analyzing all aspects of the programs so that they can determine what's right for them, Mauldin explains.

"The many facets of the programs make it tough for a farmer to decide what is best in his particular situation," says Lawrence Lippke, extension economist. "We've tried to break down the various parts of the programs as they apply to different crops. With these decision-making aids, farmers can get a better handle on what to do."

Mauldin says farmers can get copies of worksheets and other aids at the county extension offices or from extension economists.

To assist farmers, extension economists have analyzed four major production areas in Texas for the major program commodities - cotton, feed grains and wheat. Consideration was given to deficiency payments, the acreage reduction program and planting a non-program crop on acres taken out of production.

pick-up rest of story

"In all analyses involving these crops, participation in the farm program was found to be highly profitable compared to nonparticipation," Lippke points out.

For corn, returns to participation exceeded those for non-participation by values ranging from about $50 per acre in the Black-lands to more than $120 per acre in the northern High Plains.

Returns to participation for sorghum ranged from $30 per acre in the Coastal Bend to almost $80 per acre in the northern High Plains.

For cotton, the advantage of a farmer taking part in the government program exceeded non-participation by almost $60 per acre for dryland production in the Rolling Plains to more than

CHS Student Council named district president

The Colorado High Student Council was elected president of District 8 of the Texas Association of Student Councils during the spring convention held March 7 and 8 at Odessa High School.

Seventeen members of the council attended the convention Friday night and Saturday. In addition to campaigning for the presidency, the members attended workshops and heard keynote speaker, former Attorney General of Texas John Ben Shepperd.

During the nomination speeches, Odessa High nominated

Colorado City, and Loraine High seconded the nomination. Junior Holly Tarter gave the speech accepting the nomination. CHS Vice-President Melanie Rees seconded the nomination of Alpine for district vice-president.

District 8 officers elected for 1986-87 were Colorado City, president; Alpine, vice-president; Kermit, secretary-treasurer; and Odessa High, parliamentarian.

Colorado City was also named an Outstanding Student Council in District 8, which stretches from Sweetwater to Van Horn and from Del Rio to Post. The council will be recognized at the state convention in Austin in May.

CHS Student Council members who attended the spring convention were officers Blake Bingham, Melanie Rees, Staci Wood, Lisa Garner and Holly Tarter; senior representatives Gary White, Adam Alvarez, and Moises Molina; junior representatives Christabel Molina, Dion Alvarez, and Sarah Salazar; sophomore representatives James Woods, Misty Strain, Jennifer Monroe and Naomi Franco; and freshman representatives Oria Gonzalez and Shells Monroe.

Testing scheduled for 3-4-5 year olds

The Early Childhood Staff of West Central Texas Education Cooperative will be testing three, four, and five year olds on Tuesday, March 18, 1986, from 10 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. at the Plan "A" Office in the Colorado City School Administration Building.

The evaluation is for children with possible difficulties in the areas of Speech and Language Development, Hearing, Motor, or Delayed Learning.

This is a free service offered to children in the Hermleigh, Ira, Colorado City, Loraine, and Westbrook school districts.

Appointments for a pre-school evaluation may be made by calling 726-3330.

Aston announces board candidacy

Colorado Independent School District board of trustee Ronnie Aston has announced his candidacy for re-election.

Aston, a Game Warden, and his wife, Trisha, own Aston's, a clothing store. They have two children, Melanie, 15 and Barbie, 11.

In announcing his candidacy, Aston stated that "I have enjoyed serving this past year and have utilized this time to learn as much as possible about the school system. There are many important decisions to be made concerning our schools and I feel that I am qualified to make these decisions. We have an excellent school system staffed by very qualified personnel and I want to see it remain that way."

Aston is immediate past president of the Colorado City Area Chamber of Commerce and serves as vice president of the Noon Lions Club. He is a member of the First United Methodist Church, the Texas Game Warden's Association and Mitchell Industrial Committee.

"Your continued support is appreciated," he states.

Ronnie Aston

CISD voters will go to the polls on Saturday, April 5 to fill four positions. Aston along with other incumbents Dwayne Harris and Floyd Lee Ritchey, are joined by Brenda Aguilon who is seeking election to three three-year terms on the board. A one-year unexpired term, currently held by Ritchey, is being sought by David Lelek, John Taylor and Eddie Gregory.

Board president Eddie Piland is not seeking re-election.

$150 per acre in the Coastal Bend. These wide margins indicate that the level of deficiency payment could be reduced substantially without affecting the decision of whether or not to participate, says Lippke.

Regarding wheat, returns to participation exceeded those to nonparticipation by some $15 per acre for dryland production in the northern High Plains to $87 per acre for irrigated production in the same region.

Two other issues of concern relate to whether to participate in the optional diversion portion of the wheat program or whether to reduce planted acreage to a level lower than permitted acreage on any of the commodities. "The decision of farmers to participate in either of these options is marginal, depending on whether yields per planted acre increase when moving to a lower level of planting," Lippke points out.

Another factor which may influence the decision to plant less than permitted acres is the return a producer might receive from a non-program crop planted to that reduced acreage.

"While farmers need to look at all particulars of the various government programs, we have tried to sort out some of the main aspects so as to help them with their decisions," notes Lippke. "They need to continue to keep in mind the $50,000 limit on government payments, and they also need to look at the government's new Conservation Reserve Program, a five-year effort to take highly erodible cropland out of production for 10 years. The sign-up period for the first year has been completed, but additional acres will be accepted into the program in the coming years."

Details about implementation of the commodity programs are becoming available on almost a daily basis, so producers should check with their local ASCS offices before reaching a final decision on participation, suggests the economist.

Budget

is approved, the monthly minimum water bill will be $30. She said the minimum bill is higher lower than Big Spring and Sweetwater. "We're glad we're not in the same position as Sweetwater," she said. "We're very fortunate in that we have an ample water supply from Lake Colorado City and Lake Champion. Sweetwater doesn't have the available water we have."

Another area in which more money will be needed this year will be for the airport. She said the city received a grant from the Texas Aeronautics Commission, but the city's portion will cost about $17,000.

She also said that the new swimming pool will be costing more to operate this year, but steps are being taken to bring in more revenues from the pool. She said the extra expense will involve hiring a certified manager as well as three or four certified lifeguards. She said extra revenues will come in the form of longer hours the pool will be open. The city will be responsible for all parties and swimming lessons which will also benefit the city coffers, she noted.

RIBBON CUTTING ceremonies were held Wednesday for Cooper Saddlery, 293 Walnut. Bob Cooper is owner of the new business and cuts the ribbon as friends and Chamber of Commerce members look on.

Gardening Tips

(Q) How often does a tree have to be pruned? Is it done on regular intervals?

(A) Most of the tree pruning we home gardeners do here in Texas is done improperly. Better than half isn't needed at all. Realistically, there's no way to tell you how often to prune. It depends on the type of tree, its growth rate, the space available and the ultimate size you desire. Basically, you're better off to leave the tree alone until you see a real need for pruning.

Cook's Corner Beef-Cook-Off recipes shared by CowBelles

See Guelker, vice president of the local Texas CowBelles would like to share a few prize winning recipes she received last week from the Texas Beef-Cook-Off contest sponsored by the Texas CowBelles.

The Beef-Cook-Off was held in conjunction with the Houston Livestock Show & Rodeo.

First Place Winner
Jean Connor, Palestine, TX
Covenary roast

3 pounds boneless chuck roast, trimmed
2 tablespoons margarine
1/4 cup dry white wine
1 cup water

1/4 cup finely-chopped chutney, divided mango slices, canned or fresh (optional)
fresh (optional) parsley

Melt margarine in heavy dutch oven. Sauté chuck roast on all sides until nicely browned. Pour off drippings.

In small bowl mix wine, water and half of chutney. Add to roast. Cover and simmer 2 to 2 1/2 hours, or until tender. Save 1 1/2 cups of the juices (if necessary, add water to liquid to total 1 1/2 cups.) Stir in remaining chutney.

When roast has cooled, slice and dollop each serving with chutney sauce. (May be reheated for serving for one minute on high microwave, or ten minutes at 350 degrees F in conventional oven.) Garnish with mango slices (if desired) and parsley. Serves 6 to 8.

Second Place Winner
Diane S. Bryant, San Antonio
BEEF JULIENNE WITH CHUTNEY SAUCE OVER QUICK COUSCIOUS

1 1/2 pounds beef top round steak, about 1/2-inch thick
7 tablespoons butter or margarine, divided
2 1/2 tablespoons lemon juice, divided

One-third cup bottled mango-recipe chutney, chopped
1/4 teaspoon freshly ground black pepper

One-eighth teaspoon garlic powder
1 large onion, thinly sliced, then quartered

1/4 pound fresh mushrooms, thinly sliced
2 tablespoons vegetable oil

1 1/4 cups couscous
1 and one-eighth cups boiling water

One-eighth teaspoon salt (add to boiling water)
1 tablespoon toasted slivered almonds

Melt 2 tablespoons butter in small saucepan over low heat. Stir in 2 teaspoons lemon juice and chutney. Cover and simmer very slowly during preparation of beef julienne.

After placing round steak on cutting board, sprinkle both sides lightly with 1/4 teaspoon lemon juice, then rub in black pepper and garlic powder. Slice the beef into julienne strips (1/4-inch wide by 1 1/2-inches long). Set aside.

Melt 2 tablespoons butter in large, heavy skillet, over medium heat. Add onions and mushrooms and cook until tender, but not brown. Transfer contents of skillet to bowl.

Using same skillet, heat vegetable oil over high heat. Add beef strips and cook, stirring constantly, until beef just loses pink color (2 to 3 minutes). Remove skillet from heat and immediately add cooked onion-mushroom mixture, tossing lightly.

In large bowl, saturate couscous (a special medium grain semolina wheat product sold in either the rice or imported food sections of a supermarket) with boiling salted water, and let stand until all water is absorbed (2 to 3 minutes). In large skillet, melt 3 tablespoons butter, add couscous and cook over medium heat for 4 minutes while stirring constantly. Shape into mound on large serving platter.

Arrange beef julienne over hot couscous. Spoon hot chutney sauce on top. Sprinkle with toasted, slivered almonds. 5 servings.

Third Place Winner
Mary Worley, Eagle Pass
BEEF 'N DUMPLINGS

1 1/2 pound round steak
1 tablespoon oil
1/4 cup finely chopped onions
4 cloves garlic, minced or pressed

1/2 cup worcestershire sauce, divided
2 tablespoons seasoning salt containing paprika

2 cans (10 count) unbuttered biscuits

1/4 cup finely chopped pecans
Small bowl warm water
1 can beef broth
1 cup dry white wine
1 tablespoon garlic powder
1 tablespoon onion powder
5 cups water

3 tablespoons margarine
1 cup flour, divided
2 cups milk
1/2 teaspoon pepper
Salt to taste

Parsley (optional)
Grind round steak and brown in oil in skillet along with onions, garlic, Worcestershire sauce and seasoning salt. Pour off drippings, add pecans, and mix.

On a floured surface, roll each biscuit to approximately 3" diameter. Place 2 teaspoons meat filling in center, wrap edges to cover filling completely and seal by moistening edges with warm water. Set aside extra filling for use in gravy.

In a large pot, mix beef broth, wine, Worcestershire sauce, garlic powder, onion powder, and water. Bring to a rolling boil. Remove 1 cup of this broth mixture for use later in gravy. Drop dumplings into boiling broth and boil 20 minutes covered.

While dumplings are boiling, make a cream gravy by melting margarine in skillet, then stirring in flour until completely mixed, forming a paste. Add 1 cup of broth mixture, stirring to remove lumps and dissolve flour paste. Add milk and pepper. Reduce heat to low and cook until thickened. Stir frequently. Add salt if needed. Add remaining meat mixture to this gravy.

Remove dumplings and place in a large serving bowl. Pour gravy over dumplings and garnish with parsley sprigs around edges and on top.

Retired teachers meet

The Mitchell County Retired Teachers Association met Tuesday afternoon, March 11 at the Wallace Center.

First vice president Mrs. Iris Preston called the meeting to order, and T. P. Fowler gave the prayer.

Mrs. Preston introduced Miss Debbie Christian, Mitchell County extension agent, who presented the program on "Nutritional Tips." She stressed the importance of diet and exercise.

She explained that weight can be controlled by proper diet and by leaving off snacks. If you must snack, try a carrot or apple. She also said to eat slowly.

Exercise, she noted, is necessary for everyone. She demonstrated some simple exercises.

Miss Christian said that coloring and choice of clothing can also make one look slimmer.

After the program, a short business meeting was conducted with the reading of the minutes of the previous meeting and a treasurer's report approved.

Lucy Thomas, community services chairperson, reported that 4,072 volunteer hours were donated by the group last year.

Those present were Lonnie Pruitt, Alma Smith, Swan Cramer, Nadine Gordon, Clarine Wiman, Mr. Myer, Mrs. Andrews, Minnie Lee Moore, Edith Wilkerson, Fern Coon, Juanita Coker, Iris Preston, Betsy Aycock, T. P. Fowler, Della Fox, Fannie Fae Feaster, Dona Reed and the guest speaker.

The next meeting will be April 8 at the Wallace Center with a book review by Bob Reilly. Visitors are welcome.

Here's how Quick Start Plus works: Each week you'll be given a number of calories to "spend" any way you choose, little by little or all at once. As you advance through the program, you'll get more calories to spend. Go to your favorite Chinese, Italian or Mexican restaurant and order right from the menu. Go to a cocktail party and help yourself to some hot hors d'oeuvres, or go all out with a dish of delicious ice cream or even a chocolate candy bar, now and then.

Now you have choices, so help yourself to the foods you love most, within limits, and still lose weight faster and easier!

Joyce Aron-Nimetz
Area Director

Hard-working, dedicated employees have helped us keep electricity costs lower than many other places in the United States. You pay less for the electricity you use than many people in the United States, which is an important factor contributing to the economic growth of the area.

How have we succeeded in keeping the price of electricity reasonable? Through hard-working, productive employees who provide quality service 24 hours a day, every day; with strict cost-control management; low-cost strategies for meeting future needs; maximum use of lower-cost Texas lignite coal for fuel; and by taking advantage of current market conditions to lower the cost of natural gas fuel.

We're working to meet the increasing electricity needs of one of the fastest-growing areas in the nation, while keeping costs down. We're working hard to keep the people, the plants and the jobs coming to our part of Texas.

St. Patrick program heard by society

The V.L.L. Literary Society met recently with Robin Rowell opening the program with the story of St. Patrick. She noted there have been many versions of the story.

B. D. Miles commented that St. Patrick found the courage and determination to convert with an entire nation - Ireland - to Christ.

Marsha Rickard said that St. Patrick, as a young boy, was taken into slavery by a pagan Irish landowner.

B. N. Gross contributed the thought that St. Patrick's faith did not waver and he continued to bring Christ to the Irish people.

D. Bond related that thanks to St. Patrick's efforts, Ireland is a devoutly Christian country.

Ann Gregory announced that she and her loved ones are to be remembered in a mass in Ireland at Bellinabba Abbey, County Mayo, honoring St. Patrick on March 18-20.

Officers and associate members of the club are B. D. Miles, Mrs. Kuncicky, B. N. Gross, R. Preston, Ann Gregory, Joy Culwell, Marsha Rickard, Robin Rowell, E. D. Bond, Mattie Fuller Trantham, Maj. (Ret.) and Mrs. Burleson and Elvira Hoskins.

Meet Your Chamber Members

"It (the Chamber of Commerce) gives me a chance to be a part of the community I live and work in," says Ben Lancaster, manager of the Texas Electric Service Company.

Lancaster is the newly elected vice president of the Colorado City Area Chamber of Commerce. By virtue of office he will serve on the Executive Committee and as chairman of the Budget Committee. He will also help to coordinate the efforts of the committees under the Economic Development Division.

Lancaster is no stranger to chamber work. He served several years on the Board of Directors of the Ranger Chamber of Commerce, and was president in 1975. Ben and his wife, Ethelyn, are active in chamber work as well as other civic activities.

Lancaster is currently serving as vice president of the Colorado City Industrial Team,

Ben Lancaster

Inc., and is a member of the Noon Lions Club.

A native of Panola County, Lancaster has worked for TESCO for the past 25 years. He was in Ranger prior to coming to Colorado City in 1985.

The Colorado City Area Chamber of Commerce is fortunate to have Lancaster as a member of its Board of Directors for the next three years.

PREPARATION

Rev. John Taylor - Pastor Plainview Baptist Church

In Texas today we need to prepare ourselves for difficult times. Our state government as well as our economy are in a sad financial state of affairs.

I am about thirty six years old, and I have not ever seen such a bad forecast and outlook for the future.

In the little book of Haggai, we can read about a time in Israel's history that the outlook was not the greatest in the world. They were in the middle of drought. Their land was dry and barren and the people around them were extremely hostile.

God sent a prophet to prepare the people for the future. His name was Haggai, he had a short but effective message for God's people "Consider Your Ways." God's people need to look back sometimes and see what's in their past to be able to prepare for the future. We can see ahead today and know what the future holds in Christ Jesus.

People of God. "CONSIDER YOUR WAYS"

March of Dimes campaign successful

Almost $2,000 was raised during the recent Mothers March of Dimes campaign in Colorado City, according to Dee Phillips, chairman, and Leigh Ann Erwin, co-chairman.

The amount included $110.74 collected by Mrs. Judy Merrell's homemaking classes at Colorado High School.

Mrs. Phillips said this year's amount raised exceeded last year's amount by $295.16.

"I would like to extend my personal thanks to Evelyn Wiggins, Trisha Aston, Thiries Britton, Kit Lovell, Maxine Burson, Judy Merrell, Sissy Merritt, Jan Dyer and Sandra Watlington who helped so diligently in our campaign last month," said Mrs. Phillips. "These women were area chairmen and helped recruit in their neighborhoods. We also want to thank each and every person who walked door-to-door—you are appreciated."

"I would like to give a very special thanks to my co-chairman Leigh Ann Erwin who was responsible for all recruiting in Colorado City," said Mrs. Phillips. "She is so dedicated to this cause and I really appreciate the work she has done."

The students in charge of collecting for Mrs. Merrell's homemaking classes included Andra Thompson, Homemaking II; Misty Strain, Homemaking I; Laura Ledesma, Consumer Education; DeAnna Sells, Food and Nutrition; and Lori Nelson, Homemaking I.

Debt restructuring could save farmers

WACO—A farm debt restructuring plan announced Thursday (March 6) by Farm Bureau could help save thousands of farmers and ranchers from bankruptcy or liquidation, according to S. M. True, president of the Texas Farm Bureau.

The Plainview farmer said the two-tier restructuring program approved by the American Farm Bureau Federation board of directors in Chicago March 4 essentially would allow a farmer's debt to be paid back over a longer period of time.

"This could save a lot of good farmers who otherwise might lose everything they have, and it would enable some troubled banks to salvage money that would otherwise be lost," said

True, who is a member of the AFBF board.

The AFBF will seek support of its program with private and government lending institutions, True said.

"We will seek regulatory and legislative changes necessary to allow commercial banks to institute such a program and the regulatory changes necessary from the Farm Credit Administration and operational changes within all entities of the Farm Credit System to allow the Farm Credit System to institute such a program," he said.

True said the Texas Farm Bureau has already begun contacting private and Farm Credit System lending institutions in Texas to see if the plan can be expedited.

To be included on the list, a vegetable variety must have undergone extensive testing and evaluation by horticulturists and proven itself to be outstanding for Texas. Five new selections were added to the list for 1986. They are:

Y1015 Onion—Developed by Texas A&M University, this new yellow onion is exceptionally sweet tasting. It has excellent vigor, outstanding disease-resistance and resists bolting or seedstem formation. It will yield onions as large as softball.

Jade Pogoda Chinese Cabbage

45 to 50 days after seeding and is best suited for a fall planting.

Sugar Ann Peas—This variety of edible-podded pea is similar to Sugar Snap but with one important exception—it produces high yields of quality peas on a compact, bush-type plant. Ideal for smaller gardens, plants of Sugar Ann seldom exceed 18 to 24 inches in height.

Elephant Garlic—Although not a true garlic, Elephant garlic is what Texans should grow. Its flavor is only slightly milder than true garlic, but not enough for most people to notice. Easy to grow, Elephant garlic will produce giant bulbs with cloves twice the size of regular garlic.

—This hybrid Chinese cabbage is adapted to early spring and fall plantings. It is resistant to bolting and produces compact, upright plants that reach 14 to 16 inches in height. Jade Pogoda has outer leaves with excellent green color and a rich, creamy colored "heart."

Persons completing this course will be eligible for a reduction in insurance premium rates, also for possible ticket removal. The fee for persons 65 and over is $15. Others will pay a fee of $22.

You may register at the Wallace Center or WTC by April 30. For more information, call 728-2392, Community Education Office in Colorado City.

Don't top those trees!

COLLEGE STATION—This is the season when homeowners and others get the urge to "top" or "dehorn" landscape trees with the assumption that the trees will be better off.

"On the contrary, topping is one of the worst practices that can be employed against shade trees," emphasizes Dr. Mike Walterscheidt, forester with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

"Topping refers to cutting back branches to stubs and sometimes all the way to the trunk," explains Walterscheidt. "This severely injures trees and sets them up for attack by diseases and insects. Topping can even kill a tree outright." People top trees to reduce their size (where power lines may be in the way, for instance), to save money on competent tree care, and because they think the practice will help the tree, the forester points out.

"Proper pruning, on the other hand, involves removing trashy side branches in the top of the tree," explains Walterscheidt. Severe topping causes a proliferation of buds at the point where the branch was cut. Shoots then arise from these buds, forming a dense mat at the end of the branch. This dense growth is shallowly attached and subject to easy breakage by wind storms, adds Walterscheidt.

CHS golf team does well

At least six of the nine members of the Colorado High School golf team participating at a Stanton tournament Saturday shot their best 18 hole totals of the young season to carry the Wolves to a fourth place finish.

Host Stanton, which placed sixth in a strong 24-team field of a Big Spring tournament that opened the season for the Wolves the preceding week, won its own tournament with a 308. A close race for the runner-up spot saw Big Spring take second at 331, Reagan County third at 335 followed by the Pack at 338.

Low score for the Wolves was Gary White's 18 hole total of 89. It was by six strokes his best round of the year and nine better than his average at Big Spring. Also for Colorado City I were Kevin McLean 82, Robert Lemons 88, Chris Anderson 88 and Blake Bingham 91.

Although McLean did not have the top team score like he did last week, his score was by one stroke his best of the year and two strokes better than his Big Spring average. Lemons beat his best score by two and his average by four. Anderson, who moved up to the first team after playing for the second team last week, completed the fourth best scores for Colorado City that go toward the team total. Bingham had shot an 83 at Big Spring but his 91 was still a half stroke better than his average.

As a team Colorado City I trimmed its best score by 4 strokes.

Also showing improvement were Colorado City II players Blaine Lemons at 88, Mitch Smith 96, Zane Bowers 99 and Michel Smith 107. B. Lemons shot by 10 strokes his best round of the year and beat his average at Big Spring by 17 1/2 strokes. Mitch Smith took three strokes off his best round and beat his average by nine.

Team totals: Division I: Stanton 305, Big Spring 331, Reagan County 335, Colorado City 338, Seminole 350, Pecos 350, Denver City 367 and Kermit 400.

Division II: Seminole 373, Midland Christian 383, Colorado City 390, Sterling City 392, Seagraves 396, Stanton 398 and Forsan 407.

Stretching eases muscle soreness

By Debbie Christian County Extension Agent

A simple stretch may be the only thing standing between you and an exercise program you can live with over a long period of time.

Many people get started on an exercise, jogging, or walking programs and stop within a short time because they get sore. The soreness comes from strained muscles that weren't "warmed up" before beginning the activity.

Stretching is easy to do, but there is a right and a wrong way to do it. The right way is a relaxed sustained stretch. The wrong way is to bounce up and down or stretch to the point of severe pain.

When you begin, spend 10-30 seconds in an easy stretch. Go to the point where you feel a mild tension and relax as you hold the stretch. This type of stretch reduces muscular tightness and helps the muscles get ready for the developmental stretch.

After an easy stretch, you can move slowly into a developmental stretch, where you move a fraction of an inch further until you again feel a mild tension and hold for 10-30 seconds. The developmental stretch fine-tunes the muscles and increases flexibility.

Remember, no bouncing on either type of stretch!

Don't hold your breath while stretching either. Breathing should be slow and rhythmic. If you're bending forward to stretch, exhale, bend forward and then breathe slowly as you hold the stretch.

At first, you'll want to silently count the seconds for each stretch so that you hold the proper tension for a long enough time. But later you will find it possible to stretch by the way it feels, rather than having to count.

Once you stretch, you'll be "warmed up" and ready to do your exercise. And the next day you won't have the discomfort of sore muscles.

"ONI" speeds repairs

When Southwestern Bell Telephone needed easier, more efficient ways to speed up repairs for single-line and four-party line customers, to company technicians in Texas responded with innovations to meet those needs.

For single-line customers, all the pieces necessary with a telephone cable-protector and inside connection equipment were in separate places at the customer's residence. But Bob Pursur, a repair technician for Southwestern Bell Telephone in Dallas, developed a prototype to hold all the components in one place. The company later refined the unit and named it "ONI," for outside network interface.

The "ONI" enables technicians to determine whether service problems are inside or outside a customer's residence. Thus, the technicians spend less working time and expenses on repeat service orders.

"With the outside network interface, Southwestern Bell saves customers money, time and aggravation," said Jim West. "Before, the technician would trace the problem to the inside of the house, but the customer would not be available. Consequently, three or more trips sometimes were necessary before the problem could be solved."

The outside network interface is a modular jack installed outside the customer's home. If a customer, for instance, reports no dial tone, a technician can plug into the "ONI." If dial tone is available there, the problem is inside the home.

However, West said Southwestern Bell Telephone is not responsible for a customer's inside wiring but will repair the problem and charge the customer. Customers may choose to call an independent vendor.

For four-party line customers, a common complaint is that one party-line phone isn't ringing and the customer can't be billed. Before, this type of problem could be traced to any of several causes. The technician never knew what the problem was until a trip was made to the customer's premises. That might be 20 miles or more into a rural area.

In the past, technicians would drive from a work center to the premises of each customer on the party-line subscriber, bumping along over rough roads, stopping frequently to open and shut farm and ranch gates so a customer's livestock wouldn't be able to run loose.

Now, thanks to Ken Anderson's "Jones Device," technicians can troubleshoot a complaining customer's party line at one location without entering a residence or back-tracking for miles and miles.

Anderson, an installation repair technician for Southwestern Bell Telephone in Bastrop, developed the small metal box to house components from standard telephones to speed up repairs. By coding the device to the customer's party position, the technician can take the device to the next location and isolate another part of the party-line without going back and fourth to each customer's home.

"We continue to look for ways to keep both our costs and the customer's cost to a minimum especially on service calls. And the devices invented by our employees help us do that," said West.

A Sesquicentennial Series

"Come and Take It"

When the colonists' leader Stephen F. Austin returned to Texas in September, 1835 after spending 18 months in a Mexico City prison, he held the issue of war or peace in his hands. Historian Archie McDonald recounts that despite Anglo fears for Austin's safety, the hush that had fallen over Texan political activity just after his arrest had eroded as local leaders began to challenge centralist authorities.

A key incident stemmed from states' rights leaders' attempts to move the capital of Coahuila y Texas from Saltillo to Monclova, closer to Texas settlements. Mexican General Martin Perfecto de Cos brought central government troops in to suppress the move. The Texans' protests remind students of Texas history that the conflict between central government control and states' independence based on the Mexican Constitution of 1824 sparked the Texas Revolution.

McDonald notes that trouble flared again when Mexican President Antonio Lopez de Santa Anna sent a detachment under Captain Antonio Tenorio to Anahuac at the head of Galveston Bay to enforce the custom law and begin collecting tariffs in 1835. Much to the Texans' dismay, Santa Anna had stopped the customs waiver Texas ports had enjoyed in the early years of Anglo settlement. In June 1835, Merchant Andrew Briscoe and DeWitt C. Harris were arrested for refusing to allow Mexican guards to inspect the contents of a box filled with rocks intended as ballast for a ship. Believing this was only a ruse to mask smuggling, the guards insisted on a search and, becoming alarmed, they discharged their weapons.

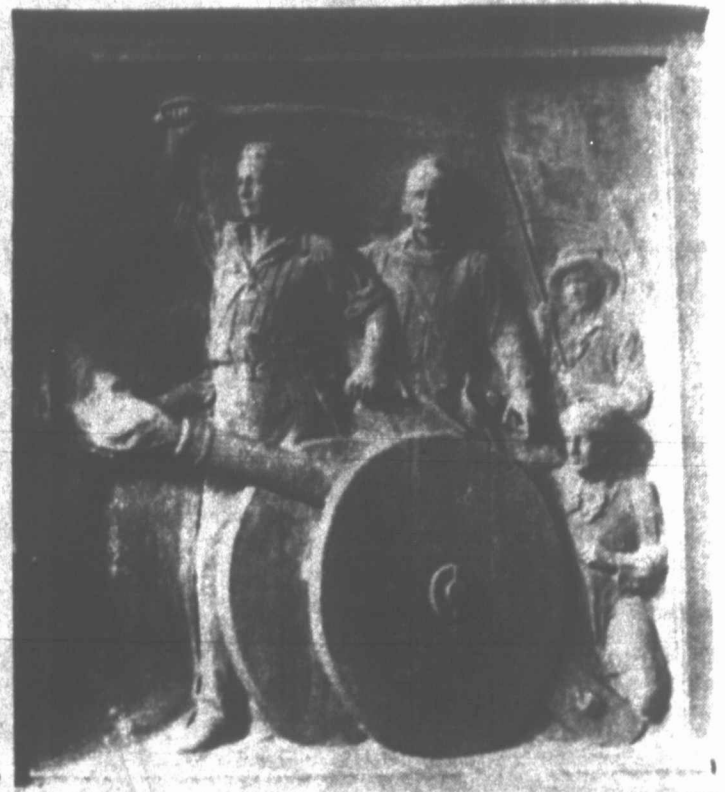

An ad hoc meeting of Texans at San Felipe de Austin sent William Travis and 25 men on a mission to Anahuac to drive Tenorio away. When they arrived by barge in Galveston Bay, Tenorio's men took to the woods nearby, but Tenorio surrendered later that evening.

The Mexicans were ordered to Brazoria, and they arrived in time for a July 4th party. There, Peace Party advocates ridiculed Travis's men and treated the Mexicans as honored guests, fearing that the Anahuac incident would bring reprisal from the Mexican government.

They were correct: Cos prepared to move his headquarters to San Antonio and demanded the surrender of "Juliano" Travis and other "outlaws" who had captured Tenorio. This was too much for even the Peace Party supporters. At a gathering in San Felipe on September 19, Austin finally concluded, "War is our only resource. There is no other remedy. We must defend our rights ourselves and our country by force of arms."

Committees of safety called for a consultation of all Texans to determine a course of action, McDonald says, but before they could gather, the Mexican army forced a decision. Col. Ugartechea sent a patrol to Gonzales to confiscate a six-pound cannon used for defense against Indians. Alcade Andrew Ponton refused to release the cannon without written orders. While the patrol returned for the orders, he buried the cannon.

among Texans and more men arrived to defend the cannon. They dug it up, readied it for battle, and prepared a flag with a picture of a cannon and the words, "Come and Take It." Their elected leader, Col. J. H. Moore, defied Lt. Francisco Castañeda's 100 troops to take the cannon, and the Mexicans returned to San Antonio because they had not been instructed to use force.

More Texans arrived in Gonzales and they elected Austin as their chief. He agreed to lead them to San Antonio, where they laid siege to Cos's installation. Meanwhile, the consultation formed an interim government, provided for an army, and decided to send Austin and two others to the United States for private and public aid. Edward Burleson succeeded Austin in leadership at San Antonio and in early December, Burleson prepared to withdraw from the city.

But Ben Milam challenged the group to follow him into the city in battle. More than 300 did so, and after a five-day battle, the Texans defeated Cos and ordered his return to Mexico.

Gonzales has been called "the Lexington of the Texas Revolution," but McDonald states that it was the loss of San Antonio which drew the larger armies of Santa Anna north to engage in the major battles of that revolution.
