City Approves New Law Budget

Wellington City Council voted to accept the amended combined law enforcement budget, presented by County Judge Bob Watson for the Commissioners Court, Monday, June 1.

This amounts to $1,457, the county and city will pay, Judge Watson told the council. "That's what we think it will take to finish out this year."

Several council members noted that the amount of the budget shortfall was about the same as the cost of the uniforms for the sheriff's department personnel which was not in the current budget.

The motion to accept the amended budget was made by John Rainey, and seconded by Lyndon Crelia.

In other action relating to the law enforcement the city council voted down a request that the city buy two law enforcement department cars rather than the one that is in the current budget agreement under which the combined law enforcement operates.

The county will purchase one car.

These are former Department of Public Safety cars that have been traded by the department. They have from approximately 60,000 to 80,000 miles and the book or history of each car's maintenance and repair is available. They will cost approximately $2,000 each and a number of Texas counties use them, trading every years or two, Sheriff Kenneth Maxwell had said earlier.

Those who use these cars believe it is cheaper than buying new cars and driving them for longer periods of time.

In a new arrangement worked out between the city and county on payment for rural fires. It was agreed that the county will pay $175 for each fire answered by the Wellington Volunteer Fire Department with $25 of this to go to the firemen and another $25 into a fund to pay for two members to go to the annual Firemen's and Fire Marshall's Association at Texas A&M University. Two firemen and the fire marshal will attend. This is necessary if the city is to keep its insurance key rate down.

This was passed on a motion by Crelia and by Willie Gragson.

City Manager Tiny Taylor told the council a check for $54,000 has been received from the Texas Aeronautics Administration as partial payment on upgrading Marian Airport.

BRINGING IN THE SHEAVES

Straw flies through the air as a combine's header moves through a field to harvest the county's wheat crop.

1981 Wheat Crop 50% Harvested

Close to 50 percent of the 1981 Collingsworth County wheat crop has been harvested, and most of the grain will be out two weeks from now, Extension Agent Don Reeves estimated Wednesday, June 10.

This is a better than average crop, although much of it was destroyed or damaged in the June 1 hail that swept across the southern and southeastern parts of the county. Some growers believe this may reach as high as one-third of the county's total crop.

The biggest part of the harvest should be finished in another week, Reeves believes, and the following week should complete the work.

All this depends on the weather remaining open, it was pointed out.

Cutting is underway in all parts of the county.

Yields have reached as high as 25 to 30 bushels in many places where there was no hail damage, the extension agent says. This brings a comparison to the 1979 crop, one of the better crops of recent years, and present yields are far above those of last year's short crop.

A shortage of combines has developed, not only in Collingsworth County, but throughout the Panhandle and Western Oklahoma, according to Glen Warrick of Warrick's Inc.

In normal years, harvesting in this area begins around Wichita Falls, works up through Quanah, to Childress and on north.

This year the wheat got ripe everywhere at once and cutting started all over the Panhandle at the same time, Warrick said.

"With the storm in this county, we are going to have plenty of grain cars to ship the wheat in," he believes.

The price of wheat on the Wellington market Tuesday was $3.74 per bushel.

Farm Operator Billed For County Road Damage

A Wheeler County man who owns and operates land near Samnorwood has been billed by the Collingsworth County Commissioners Court in the amount of $2,400 for damage the commissioners say he did with his farming equipment to a county road alongside his land.

According to County Judge Bob Watson, W.V. Lister filled the bar ditch beside his field and pulled caliche off the road bed into the ditch so he could use the road to turn around in while plowing in the field.

Lister's attorney Jim Fling of Shamrock, told Judge Watson Monday night, June 8, that his client had put a check for $2,400 in the mail.

According to the judge, Mearl Parker, road administrator, discovered the damage about May 1, and reported it. On May 6, Watson notified Lister of the damage and asked him to pay $2,400 for road repair.

The damage is located one mile east of Highway US 83 and the Samnorwood intersection.

There are other places in the county where farm operators use dirt roads for turning around their farm equipment. The situation has troubled the commissioners court many years, Watson said.

The Samnorwood road is both a mail route and school bus route, and complaints were lodged with the commissioners and road administration until the road was reworked a year ago, using caliche on the roadbed. The cost was $5,750.

"It was one of the best roads in the county when it comes to covering a sand bed," Watson declared.

The $2,400 for which Lister was billed is the estimated repair cost, the judge explained.

Both Watson and Parker cited lack of county funds available for road repair, and the necessity of having to take county road employees off flood-damaged roads for the repair work.

The commissioners court on Monday discussed adopting a policy to send each person who damages a road a bill for its repair and if the bill is not paid, following up --See ROAD DAMAGE, page 2

130 Golfers Due at Two-day Tourney

Forty-two teams (84) golfers had already entered the 1981 Wellington Men's Partnership tournament Tuesday evening, June 9, and three days remain before the books are closed. By that time, the capacity 64 teams is due to be entered.

The tournament will be played at Wellington Country Club golf course Saturday and Sunday, June 13 and 14.

"Some of the best players, those of championship calibre, aren't expected to enter until the last day or two," said club pro Randy Cole.

Due to return are the defending champions,

David Moring of Clarendon and Joe Bob Browning of Memphis.

Two Oklahoma City players, on the Wellington course for the first time, will be Joe Dibrell and Bill Cornett," according to Cole.

Tee off time will be 8:30 a.m. for second and third flights, and 2 p.m. for the championship and first flight players. The tournament should be over by 6 p.m. Sunday.

There will be 36 holes of tournament play, 18 each day.

A free barbecue supper will be served the players and their wives Saturday evening. The meat will be catered and club members will furnish all the trimmings and serve the dinner.

Sandwiches, pop, tea, candy and similar foods will be available to players and the public Sunday.

Visitors are welcome, and Cole is urging a large contingent of Wellington fans to attend.

Contrary to what is expected of fans attending most sports events, those following the game are asked to remain quiet.

"They need to be sure to not make a noise, talking or other noises can break the concentration of the players," Cole warned.

"You can sit in one place and see four or five holes being played," said the pro. He emphasized that everyone is welcome.

"Some people feel they don't belong, but everyone in the community belongs out here and they are welcome.

"You can learn a good deal about the game by watching other golfers."

Temporary memberships are available to those who are not members of the country club, according to Cole.

This will give clubhouse privileges and are good on a daily basis.

Quality prizes will be given. In each flight, first place prizes for each of the team members will be a set of Titalist pro model irons; 2nd, one, three and 5 set of woods, Persimmon Titalist; third, imprinted bags; fourth, imprinted putters.

There will be special prizes: for the player closest to the pin on Saturday and again on Sunday also for one of the par 3s on Saturday and a different one on Sunday.

Tuesday night, Cole had received entries from Oklahoma City, Stephenville, Lubbock, Wichita Falls, Quanah, Amarillo, Childress, Memphis, Canadian, Panhandle, Shamrock and Borger.

Club grounds are in probably the best condition they have ever been in he said. "The greens are as good as you'll find anywhere, and they're withstanding the heat real well. There are no hot spots or burnt spots. They're staying moist and spongy."

FOR HEROIC EFFORT

Panhandle Emergency Medical Services System has cited R.L. Hunnicutt (center) "for heroic efforts in saving the life of Ray Peebles," who would have drowned had it not been for the quick action taken by R.L. Hunnicutt at the risk of his own life." A similar certificate was presented to Horace Powell, left, for his part in assisting Hunnicutt after a rainstorm which struck the area June 1. Both men are members of Wellington Volunteer Ambulance Service and were presented the certificates by Judge Bob Watson, right at an ambulance service training session Tuesday, June 9. Both are also employed by the Wellington office of Texas Department of Highways and Public Transportation.

Appraisal Work Continues in County, City

Independent appraisers have completed field work in the rural areas of the county and have done 95 percent of their field work on real property in the city, appraiser Troy Sloan told the Collingsworth County Tax Board as a special meeting Tuesday, June 9.

Sloan also said that business personal property appraisals were 80 percent complete and that the paperwork for city appraisals was 90 percent complete and the paperwork for rural appraisals was 60 percent complete.

Board members present were Cary Don Neeley, Bill Lindsey and Tommy Lewis. Doug Coleman and Margaret Coleman were absent.

Average daily attendance was 740.23 for the '80-'81 school year, down from 769.48 last year.

The board also heard a report from County Judge Bob Watson on how the Property Ownership office is being financed by the county, city and school after personnel changes earlier in the year.

The board also heard a report from Louis Graham on the Texas Assessment of Basic Skills tests of 3rd, 5th and 9th graders this year.

The board accepted the resignation of assistant coach Mark Reasor and hired Curtis Smith as assistant coach.

Teens to Attend Leadership Lab

CLARENDON--Nearly 80 young leaders from 4-H clubs in 20 Panhandle counties will participate in a district teen leadership laboratory here June 10-12.

The three-day summer workshop will be held on the campus of Clarendon College, said Paul Gross and Mrs. Sue Farris, district directors with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Participants from Collingsworth County will be Sandy Henard, Lesa White, and Stacy Scott. They will be accompanied by Jean Chandler, county Extension agent.

Each year the lab provides an opportunity for outstanding 4-H club members to receive training in leadership and program development. Participants are expected to assist local adult leaders in planning and conducting activities in local clubs. A team of older teen-age 4-H'ers will assist in conducting the training sessions.

Theme for this year's lab is "Those Amazing Projects." Emphasis will be on teen leader training for six project areas. These will include clowning, photography, consumerism, gun use and safety, energy and officer training.

Officers and delegates for the 1980-81 District 4-H Council will be installed at the Lab.

In addition to developing their skills for working with younger club members, lab participants will have time for relaxation and fun and

Four Generations of Jolley Family at California Reunion

The tall pines surrounding beautiful Grass Valley was the location of the annual Grant Jolley family reunion.

Three generations of the Jolley family were represented at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Grant (Wort) Jolley, Jr. May 22 through May 25.

The Grant Jolley family were residents of the Lutie community for many years. Their children attended school at Lutie, Nicholson, Wellington, and several of them graduated from Samnorwood High School.

There were 44 relatives present for this occasion.

Saturday, Grant Jolley III escorted a group on a hiking expedition and fishing trip.

Horseback riding, swimming and a slumber party for the younger set, was arranged by Mrs. Al King at the King's Arabian Ranch Saturday night.

Games of pool, ping pong, cards and dominoes was played.

A birthday cake was presented to Andy Jolley by the host and hostess. His birthday is June 6 but this was a great time to celebrate.

Benny Sullivan, Lyna Hurst and Billie Holton tied for lowest score on No. 7 hole; May 20, there were two chip-in shots. Eugena Sherman chipped in on No. 1, and Louise on No. 9. Eugena also won low putts that day for combined putts on 1 and 6. That chipping in sure does lower the putting score.

Not to be outdone, Lyna and Mary Holton won for the most strokes on holes 2 and 4; May 27, Patsy Martin chipped in on Hole No. 2. That same day Lyna won low total putts. Billie and Betty Cochran won in blind partnership play. I don't know what all these gals are doing but they must be doing it right.

BY MARY SANFORD

The Willow Creek Women's Golf Association of Wellington Country Club had to change plans quickly this past week.

The sack lunch at the club house was planned for after play Thursday morning, June 4. Due to heavy rains earlier in the week, this didn't work out.

The course was playable, but the road to it was not drivable. The would have had to have a bulldozer to pull out all nose ladies if they nosedived into the waterhole.

I wonder if they might consider putting a ski lift over that road. However, lady golfers will prevail. With the help of a good telephone committee, everyone was notified to meet at Cherokee or lunch and business meeting. There finals plans were made for the Greenbelt Round Robin Scramble Tournament Wednesday, June 10. The Willow Creek Women's Association is host club this month.

Louise Mabery conducted the business meeting, and Eugena Sherman, filling in for Kay Davis, tournament chairman, announced that Tuesday night, after the local scramble, table would be set up for the next day.

Betty Cochran and Benny Sullivan will make the meat dish for the luncheon which is part of the Greenbelt tournament. Members will bring salads and deserts to complete the meal.

Besides the winning prizes for first, second and third teams, there will be prizes for the longest drive on Hole No. 5, and closest to the hole on the green on No. 7.

There will also be a surprise prize.

Mulligans will be sold, too. Mulligans are especially good in a scramble because if each member of the team has one, you have four strokes during the day's play that can be done over without a penalty. And

Toni Isaacs Weds Tim Cummings Saturday in Formal Ceremony

The sanctuary of First Baptist Church was the setting for the wedding of Miss Toni Kay Isaacs and Timothy Craig Cummings, on Saturday, June 6, with the Reverend Stanley Hughes, pastor, officiating at two o'clock in the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Maxwell, 1107 Haskell Street, are the parents of the bride, while the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Cummings, 1107 Dallas Street.

Wedding vows were recited in front of an arch, entwined with baby's breath, yellow daisies and foliage. Two seven-branched candelabras, decorated with foliage and daisies, were at the sides.

Wedding music was presented by Mrs. Truman Estes, organist and Miss Kathleen Reeves, pianist, while Miss Kelly Covey was the vocalist.

The bride was given in marriage by her grandfather, J.F. Isaacs.

Her wedding gown, with a satin and lace bodice, had tiny bridal pearl accents and a scalloped neckline. Long sheer sleeves were fitted at the cuff.

Her floor length skirt swept to a chapel train, and her formal length, veil, was of sheer organza trimmed with white bridal lace and appliques of lace flowers with seed pearls. It was attached to a flat headpiece of lace with scalloped beaded loops and sequins.

She carried a colonial bouquet of white and sweetheart roses, yellow daisies and baby's breath. Lace streamers tied with lovers knots fell from her bride's Bible.

Miss Maria Langford was

MRS. TIM CUMMINGS

A long satin belt was tied in a bow and her headpiece was of yellow daisies. She carried a colonial bouquet of yellow and white daisies against a lace background. Streamers were tied in lovers' knots.

Audie Watson was the best man.

Ushers were Gary Isaacs, the bride's brother, and Mike Cummings, brother of the bridegroom.

Dana Isaacs, the bride's sister, lighted the candles.

Mike Maxwell, the bride's brother, and Susan Cummings, the bridegroom's niece, passed out rice bags at the church door.

After the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell entertained with a reception in the church fellowship hall.

A white lace cloth covered the bride's table. Yellow daisies decorated the three-tiered wedding cake. The bride's bouquet and candelabra holding lighted tapers formed the centerpiece. Silver and crystal appointments were used.

They toured the $40 million laboratory complex of the Halliburton Research and Development Center, which employs 570 persons. Lasater is the manager.

The average guitar string has a playing life of 40 hours.

Instructions for Cleaning Brass

Make brass look new by following a few cleaning suggestions, advises Mary Lou Rowland, a housing and home furnishings specialist. Scrub with very fine steel wool and full-strength household ammonia, rinse and then polish with brass polish, she says.

Mrs. Rowland is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Use this method to clean a brass door knocker:

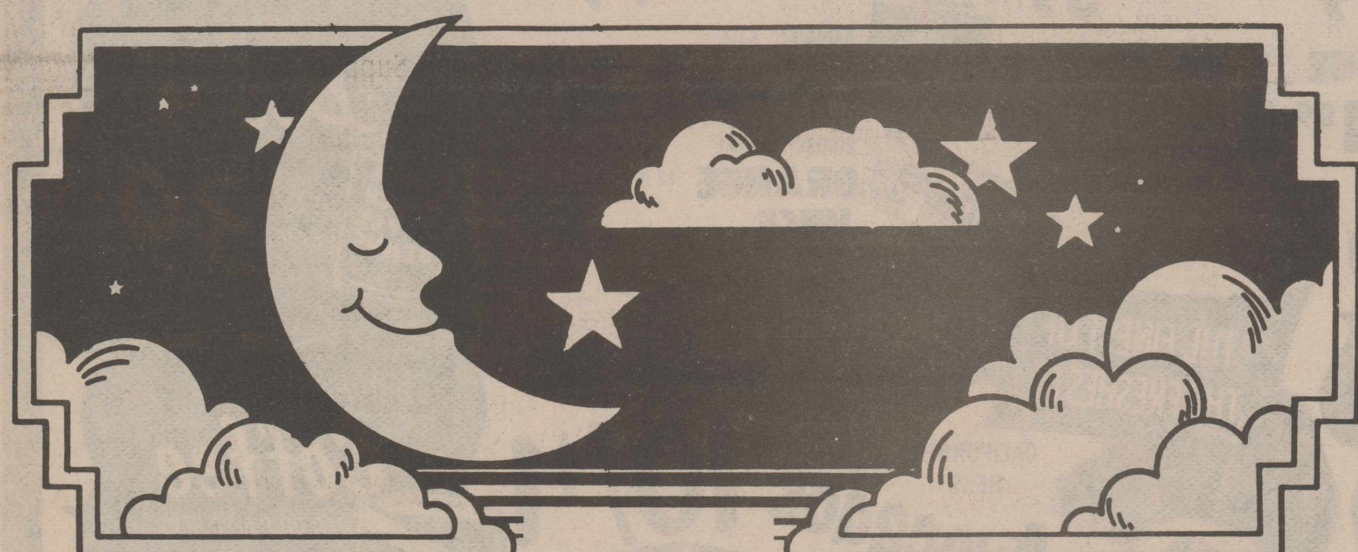

If possible, remove the knocker from the door. Let it stand in ammonia to get dirt out of the crevices, then polish with brass polish.

LETTERS from the People

Dear Wellington Leader

I have certainly enjoyed the paper this past year. My dear sister of Phoenix, Arizona, sent me the paper for my birthday. She is Mrs. Coleman Shepherd (Ethel) So I am renewing the subscription for one more year.

I am a native of Salt Fork community. We moved away when I was 17 years old. I have lived in California all my married life, three years in Delta, Colorado, where we married in 1937, because of my father's health. He had asthma very badly. It was one of the hardest things we ever did to leave dear old Texas, but I still love it and my dear friends there and have happy memories.

I see a few names and faces I know, but know so many have moved away.

I'd surely like to hear from some of my friends who remembered me as Zella Lee Bales, if they care to write. I am a semi-retired nurse and would enjoy so much to hear from my old time friends.

Thank you.

Sincerely yours,

Mrs. Ernest H. Jones

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams

TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—The 67th Texas Legislature adjourned and went home last week, ending a colorful and hard-working session . . . but the Governor promised to recall them soon for a special session for unfinished business.

High on the list of special session priorities will be congressional redistricting, higher education funding, tax reform, licensing of medical doctors and state water projects.

If it was a hard-working session, it was also hard fought. More than one incident involved lost tempers and impolitic words, mostly over the redistricting issue.

One reporter described the redistricting process as, at best, a political knife-fight in a dark room. Sometimes near fighting occurred in broad daylight.

The congressional districts in Dallas appear to be the real sticking point. Governor Bill Clements has stated publicly that two Democrat congressmen from his hometown must be left vulnerable (Jim Mattox and Martin Frost) and threatened to veto any bill to the contrary. He also wants Frost's district to be redrawn as a minority district.

The plan which failed would have created three districts, but was attacked as unfair gerrymandering by both liberal Democrats and GOP party officials. And that's not the only incidence of displeasure from the far right and far left.

Dallas State Rep. Paul Ragsdale nearly got into a fight with a Dallas labor leader outside chamber doors, and Houston State Rep. Craig Washington had security guards arrest a man from a GOP-coalition group who had grabbed him in the foyer. Both legislators escaped unharmed.

In both shouting incidents, the citizens were angered over so-called back-room deals involving the Dallas redistricting process. Ironically, both Ragsdale and Washington had earlier in the session argued for a bill allowing legislators to carry handguns.

Bob Bullock
The Legislature did approve redistricting plans for state senators and state representatives, much to the disappointment of Comptroller Bob Bullock. Had those bills failed, the redistricting task would have gone to a five-member board which would have included Bullock.

The Comptroller apparently was relishing that sort of power. More than one legislator complained Bullock appeared on the House floor in something of a state to threaten them with political annihilation. When Atty. Gen. Mark White issued a legal opinion last week indicating the legislative redistricting plans did not violate any voting rights, he, too, drew Bullock's ire.

Bullock, now left out of the redistricting process entirely, called White "lily-livered" and said the opinion was a "politically expedient copout."

Approved Bills

Bills which were approved by the Legislature and sent to Gov. Bill Clements to be signed into law included:

—A $26.6 billion state budget for 1982-83 fiscal years.

—Legalization of wire-taps and microphone bugging in felony drug trafficking cases.

—Raising the ceiling on most consumer loans to 24 percent.

—Permitting a pharmacist to substitute generic drugs for more expensive, brand-name drugs.

—Raising the legal drinking age to 19.

—Requiring motorists to have liability auto insurance.

—Prohibiting ticket scalping at college sports and entertainment events.

—Creating low-level nuclear waste dumps in Texas.

—Outlawing the sale of drug paraphernalia.

—Imposing a $1,500 annual license fee for adult book-film stores.

Proposed Amendments

The Legislature also approved seven proposed constitutional amendments to be submitted to the voters, but only three of them will be on a special election ballot next Nov. 3. The other constitutional changes won't be up for voter approval until the general election of 1982.

Amendments on this year's Nov. 3 ballot would have the following effects:

—Allow local option exemptions of as much as 40 percent of appraisals on homesteads for three years, dropping to 30 percent for the next three years and 20 percent for the one year after that.

—Allows livestock and poultry to be exempt from property taxation, along with some farm products.

—Sets up a seven-member executive and legislative committee to exercise limited budget controls after the appropriations bill is passed, such as to allocate federal aid if the Reagan Administration wins its fight for "block" grants to substitute for categorical kinds of aid.

Senator Bill Sarpalius Reports

AUSTIN — The 67th session of the Texas Legislature, my first, is over, but another session is soon to start. The next session is a "special" session. It is unscheduled, and convened for the purpose of finishing business undone in the regular session.

During a special session, the Legislature may only consider matters that the Governor tells us to consider. High on the Governor's list this time are Congressional redistricting, a new bill to license physicians, the water trust fund and college construction funding.

We have asked the Governor to include gasohol in the special session. Now he needs to hear from you. Write to Governor William P. Clements, Jr., Capitol Station, Austin, Texas 78711.

Each of these subjects is important to all of us. Congressional redistricting, for example, will determine what kind of representation in Washington we get for the next ten years. The law that licenses doctors expires September 1, so we certainly need to pass a new one.

All of us in this part of the state know how important a plan to supply water needs for the future is. Water is life, not only for the farmers and ranchers in our district but for cities as well. We have problems of shortages of water, and flood and drainage problems. We need to address all of these in the next special session, and it really is good that we have time to do so, free of the political pressures that the regular session brings.

Special sessions are nothing new. Ten years ago, which was when the last redistricting process took place, the Legislature also went through a special session.

The success we enjoyed this session would have been impossible without the help of the fine people of the 31st Senatorial District. But we hope you don't quit now. We still need to hear from you. Please write to Senator Bill Sarpalius, P. O. Box 12068, Austin, Texas 78711.

THOMAS' ROLL CALL REPORT

Your Congressman's Votes Reported Each Week

WASHINGTON -- Here's how area members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes after the Memorial Day recess.

HOUSE

JOBS FOR YOUTH By a vote of 309 for and 84 against, the House passed a bill (HR 3337) keeping the youth section of the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) in operation through Sept. 30, 1982. At that time, the entire CETA program will go off the books unless renewed by Congress. About 1.1 million youths between 14-19 have received CETA jobs since the program was begun in 1977. The bill, sent to the Senate, carries a price tag of about $460 million.

Members voting "yea" wanted to continue providing youth jobs under CETA through FY 1982.

Reps. Ralph Hall, D-4, Jim Mattox, D-5, Jake Pickle, D-10, James Wright, D-12, Jack Hightower, D-13, William Patman, D-14, Kika de la Garza, D-15, Henry Gonzalez, D-20, and Abraham Kazen, D-23, voted "yea."

Reps. Samuel Hall, D-1, James Collins, R-3, Phil Gramm, D-6, Bill Archer, R-7, Jack Fields, R-8, J. Marvin Leath, D-11, Charles Stenholm, D-17, Kent Hance, D-19, Tom Loeffler, R-21, and Ron Paul, R-22, voted "nay."

Reps. Charles Wilson, D-2, Jack Brooks, D-9, Richard White, D-16, Mickey Leland, D-18, and Martin Frost, D-24, did not vote.

SENATE

HOUSING The Senate passed, 65 for and 24 against, a bill (S1197) extending basic housing and community development programs through FY1983 at a cost of $41 billion. The measure introduces bloc grants for state and local housing programs, authorizes 150,000 units of subsidized housing for the year beginning Oct. 1, penalizes cities that have rent control, and extends the Urban Development Action Grant (UDAG) program for two more years over Administration objections.

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D, voted "yea."

Sen. John Tower, R, did not vote.

BLOCK GRANTS The Senate rejected, 37 for and 53 against, an amendment to continue federal controls over the way cities spend community development grants which fund a variety of urban programs. This was an effort to repudiate the Administration's plan to award community development money with essentially no strings attached. Cities, for example, no longer would have to file detailed applications and satisfy HUD guidelines such as those for housing low and middle-income citizens.

Senators voting "nay" favored delivering basic urban development outlays by block grants funded through state capitals to localities.

Bentsen voted "yea." Tower did not vote.

Shopper's Dream

A group of local merchants are beginning a shop-at-home promotion this week that will offer drawing prizes to dozens of people who sign up during the next six months. It's one way that our local merchants tell you that they're glad to have you as customers. Let's show them that we're glad they're in business here by signing up for the drawings and looking over their merchandise and services while we're in their stores, because we're all winners when the community prospers.

Other Editors Say . . .

Salt Water Energy

I've heard a lot of comment on the wildcat dream of producing energy from salt water.

It has been pretty well proven that it is now more than a dream but could be one of the biggest producers of energy this country, especially this section of the country, has ever had.

One of the major problems with this country has been salt water, caused by the content of the soil and water coming from that soil or good water being contaminated when placed upon the gyp soil.

It took the originators of the Greenbelt Municipal and Industrial Water Authority seven years of testing to find soil that would not ruin the in-pounded water.

There's good money in the production of oil and today's prices are proving bigger chances can be taken to get more oil, more and more is being found.

But is a bigger source of energy with us now in the apparent over-supply of salt water? I would say that there is.

And to think that this is the stuff that has been polluting our water supply for centuries!

Israel has been producing energy from salt water for many years and the methods are being improved all the time.

The idea of converting the water from the Esteline Salt Hole is a good one. General Electric, so I'm told, has developed a machine that not only converts salt water to energy but purifies that water to where it is useable when it is discharged.

That could mean a boom to West Texas that we have never seen before and could make this section of the nation one of the greatest in not only this country but in the entire world.

Dream about it. That won't hurt.

Morris Higley in The Childress Index

FROM HIS WORD . . .

Oh, for more noble-minded people like unto those of Berea. But it is a pity that most are like those self-righteous, power hungry, jealous people of Thessalonica.

The self-righteous, jealous Thessalonians were extremely angered by the preaching of the Gospel message of Christ. However, some were persuaded and joined the Christians. Those who were in charge of the religious community could see their power over the people slipping away. You see, the leaders trusted in what man had made and not in God, for they served only the form of religion and did not seek to serve the God of their Fathers. (Acts 17:1-9; II Tim. 3:5)

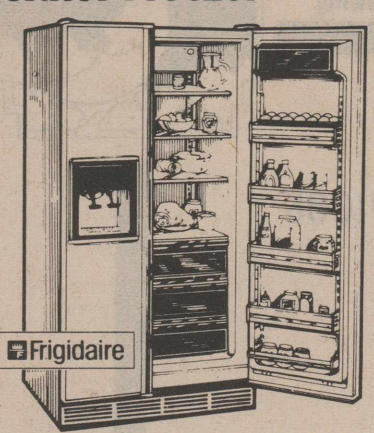

Yet, those noble-minded people of Berea wanted only to serve God and not man. They were not about to accept the words of a stranger who claimed that God had sent His Son to live, die, and to be resurrected from the dead in order to establish a new kingdom. These noble-minded of Berea did listen with "great eagerness, examining the Scriptures daily, to see whether these things were so." After searching the Scriptures the result was that "many of them therefore believed." (Acts 17:10-12)

The nobility of the Bereans came in their willingness to trust only in God's word after testing of the messenger. I pray that we too could only be so noble-minded this day. REO

Mickey Kendrick Ends 47 Years As Wellington Oldsmobile Dealer

When Mickey Kendrick sold Kendrick Oldsmobile to Jerry Duncan on June 1, he completed 47½ years as a car dealer in Wellington. This could be a record among Panhandle automobile dealers.

He picked Wellington's youngest car agency, for Jerry Duncan had taken over the Chevrolet agency only 10 months earlier. The two men had been friends since Duncan's youth.

Kendrick never intended to make his home in Wellington.

The oil boom had started in Amarillo and that's where he and his wife intended to live. But they were going to stay in Wellington until after the birth of their son, Ernest Allen, in 1927.

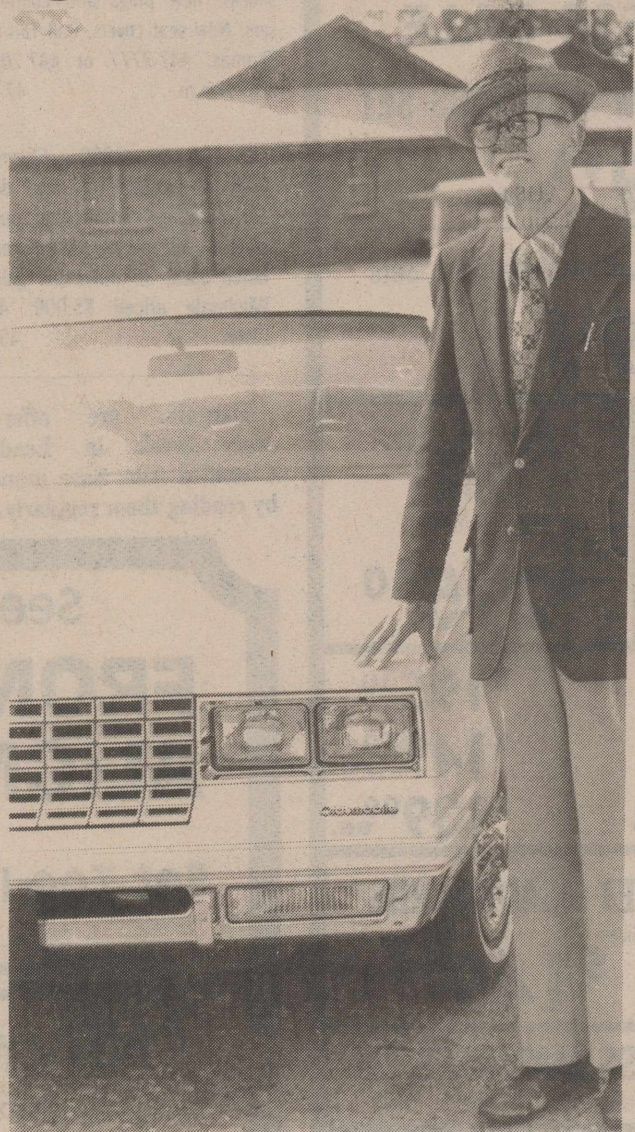

Kendrick went by Castleberry and Kern Chevrolet to see if they had work he could do until the baby was born. He kept on working.

In 1932, Kendrick quit his job and opened his own shop in the back of Jody York's filling station. That was a nervy step to take. The depression had set in and it wasn't a good time for anybody to start a business.

A year and a half later, January 11, 1934, Kendrick signed his first Oldsmobile contract.

In August of that year he moved into the building that has housed the Oldsmobile agency until he sold to Duncan.

"Bill Burden moved his Coca-Cola bottling company to Shamrock and I asked if he wanted to rent the building," he did and I moved in," says Kendrick.

Later Robert Posey was the owner and now it belongs to Bobo Castleberry.

Kendrick came to Wellington with a background of driving trucks in oil fields around Duncan, Oklahoma, just opening when he went there. "That's how I got messed up in the automobile business he commented.

He worked for Clinton Brothers, who had the first trucks used in the oil fields in southern Oklahoma. The company also had the Reo agency. He drove with equal ease such trucks as Wichita, Republic, White, Masters, and Stewards.

"White trucks are the only ones that are still made," Kendrick looked a little sad when he said that.

Not only are the other trucks no longer made, they are almost forgotten.

No sooner was the country out of the depression than it was in World War II. Kendrick recalls that a decade after he entered business, no cars were being sold unless the buyer could prove he was an officer in the armed services or a farmer who could prove his need for a new car. A little later, dealers couldn't get cars at all.

By that time, the Chevrolet agency had changed hands several times and was then owned by A.B. Clark.

N.M. Higdon was the Buick Dealer and Jack Gibson had the Pontiac agency. Kelly Pigg was the Ford dealer.

There has been less excitement to the car business since then.

Mickey Kendrick is reluctant to talk about himself. "Isn't this enough?" he wanted to know several times while he was being interviewed.

But he talks enthusiastically about Oldsmobiles.

"Olds takes their general managers from the mechanical departments of their plant. I liked all Oldsmobiles from the start. The company is still run by engineers. When a general manager dies, they move up someone from the plant."

Oldsmobile was the first car to introduce the automatic shift, the hydraulic in the fall of 1938 which was used on the 1939 models.

H.A. (Mickey) Kendrick was born at Kendrick, Miss., a town named for his family.

This was only 6 or 7 miles from Shiloh Battlefield dating from Civil war days, and a favorite trip when he was a child was a drive by back to the grounds and on to watch the steamboats load and unload cotton at a Tennessee River port.

His father died when he was 10 months old, and later his mother married Rufus Michie. The family moved to Mobeetie in 1910, and Kendrick grew up on a horse ranch.

Wellington Skyrockets have never had a better friend than Mickey Kendrick. His son Ernest Allen was on the team, and Kendrick supported it enthusiastically.

He belonged to the Kiwanis Club and the meetings were held in the old Wellington Hotel dining room, where Wellington State Bank is now located. Later the club met in the back room of Tom Bryant's Cafe.

THE WELLINGTON (TEXAS) LEADER 11 Thursday, June 11, 1981

Kendrick served on the School board in the mid-1930s.

"That was when the government built the west side of the football stadium, the rock bleachers. About the same time the people decided we needed the east bleachers and some money was borrowed and Ben Hurst got Cicero Smith Lumber Company to furnish material for them.

"Up until then, people drove up to the side of the playing field and sat in their cars to watch the games," Kendrick recalled.

Kendrick's wife, Lema Jane, died in 1941. In 1943 he was married to Louise Stewart of Borger.

They have a daughter, Mickey Ann, the wife of Jim Campbell. Ernest Kendrick lives in Perryton, while Mickey Ann in Amarillo. There are 5 grandchildren.

LITTLE LEAGUE

NEWS AND NOTES....

With rains over, teams in two divisions of Little League have made-up games scheduled which will take them beyond the middle of the month. This is in addition to the regularly scheduled games, according to Walter Clements, Little League president.

Four games are rescheduled in Senior League (Wellington State and City State teams) all at 6:30 p.m. The dates are Friday, June 12, Saturday, June 13, Monday, June 15, and Friday, June 19.

On June 5, Tee Ball teams of Harvey's, sponsored by Saied's Department Store, and Shaver's sponsored by Bronco Seed Co., played at Marian Airpark, where all the boys and girls had a good time.

On June 8, Settle's Tee Ballers, sponsored by Cudd Bros., trucking, and Shaver's sponsored by Bronco, played at the new fields, in northeast Wellington.

Minor League games rescheduled includes Royals vs Rangers, Saturday, June 13, at 6 p.m., and Astros vs. Rangers, Saturday, June 20, at 6 p.m. These will be at the new park.

SENIOR LEAGUE
City State Bank defeated Wellington State 10-7. This game was called in the top of the fourth because of time and weather and was not a regulation game. It will be rescheduled. Joe Bill Munn was the winning pitcher for CSB and Darren Hall relieved him in the fourth period.

Heath Ingram pitches for WSB.

CSB scored 6 runs in the first inning, and WSB had two. Neither team scored in the second; CSB brought in four in the third while WSB did not score. However, WSB made five runs in the fourth before the game was called.

MINOR LEAGUE ATHLETICS-ASTROS
The Athletics defeated the Astros 12-10, Tuesday, June 2, in a game called at the end of the fifth inning due to darkness. The score stands as it was a regulation game.

Mike Myrick was the winning pitcher for the Athletics and Samuel Garza the relief pitcher.

Brad Long pitched for the Astros until he was relieved by Danny Davis.

The Athletics scored three runs in the first, three in the second, two in the third, once in the fourth and three runs in the fifth for the 12 total. The Astros scored once in the first inning, none in the second, three in the third, 6 in the fourth and nine in the 5th, for 10.

ATHLETICS-ROYALS

The Athletics in Minor League defeated the Royals 18-12 Friday, June 5, in a game that went the entire 6 innings.

Mark Myrick is credited with the win for the Athletics although he was relieved by his brother, Mike, in the top of the fourth. Mike also scored a home run in the top of the first inning.

Daryan Brown was the losing pitcher and was relieved by Bryan Van Pelt in the bottom of the fourth.

Carter Nash came in for a home run in the bottom of first.

The Athletics scored two runs in the first inning, two in the second, 6 in the third, two in the fourth, one in the fifth and 5 in the sixth.

The Royals scored 6 times in the first inning but did not score again until the fourth, when they made two points. They added four in the sixth period.

ATHLETICS-ROYALS

The Athletics took a second game from the Royals Saturday, June 6, 24-14. Although time ran out in the fifth inning, the score stood as this was a regulation game.

Mark Myrick was credited with the win and he was relieved by Samuel Garza in the fourth.

Daryon Brown started for the Royals, then Shane Black went in as relief pitcher in the third. Bryan Van Pelt relieved Black later in the same inning.

Brown made a home run. The Athletics jumped off to a 10-4 lead in the first inning, but in the second, the Royals scored 8 points and Athletics four. The Royals did not score in the third period, but added two in the fourth and none in the fifth.

Athletics scored 8 points in the third inning, two in the fourth and the last period was scoreless.

The Rangers, with Benny Encinia on the mound, outplayed the Astros 12-5 on Saturday, June 6.

Encinia made a home run in the first period and Kelly Goforth came in, in the 5th. Lee Souder pitched for the Astros.

ASTROS-ROYALS

The Astros and Royals met again Monday, May 8, on the Minor League court of the new playing field. The Astros won 21-14.

Reggie Jones started on the mound for the Astros, then Danny Davis came in as relief pitcher in the second and he was succeeded by Brad Long later in the same inning.

Davis made home runs in the second and third innings.

Shane Black started the game for the Royals and Ronnie Heisler came in as relief pitcher in the fourth.

The game was tied 4-4 at the end of the first inning, then the Astros scored 6 points in the second and the Royals 5. The Astros added 5 runs in the third and the Royals failed to make it around the diamond. The Astros made four runs in the fourth and the Royals three. Each made two runs in the fifth, when the game was called due to darkness. This was a regulation game and the score of 21-14 stood.

Lowe Suit Ends After Seven Years in Courts

[The law suit which former Wellington football player Andy Lowe filed against Texas Tech University for injuries he received while playing for the Red Raiders has ended in a Lubbock district court. But along the way it set some precedents. This article is reprinted with permission of the Dallas Morning News.]

After a 7-year odyssey through the Texas court system, Andy Lowe came away empty-handed Wednesday in his suit against Texas Tech for an injury he suffered playing football in 1972.

"I'm through," he said, when asked if he would appeal the decision of a district court in Lubbock.

But the 29-year-old Lowe doesn't feel his efforts--along with court costs and lawyers' fees--were a total waste. "Future athletes and present athletes will be protected better because of this case," he said. "The old days of the 'meat-on-the-hoof attitude' are gone. Universities have to take better care of their players, and they do."

The court found Tech had been negligent in some of its dealings with the former defensive end. But the jury ruled that negligence was not responsible for the injury suffered in the opening game of Tech's 1972 season, an injury that paralyzed Lowe's left leg from the knee down.

In a civil suit filed in September 1974, Lowe, of Dallas, claimed Red Raider athletic employees, by not taping his injured left knee before a game and by withholding information about the extent of the injury, were responsible for that injury.

Lowe had been hurt in 1970 spring training during his freshmen year. Cartilage and a ligament were removed in an operation, but Lowe was not told about the ligament. For the next two years, doctors constantly had to drain or aspirate the knee. It was taped before practice every day.

Several weeks before the 1972 opener, trainer Bob Bissell told Lowe the knee no longer required taping. Playing with no support for the knee--and unaware he only had three of his four ligaments--Lowe injured it against the University of Utah, paralyzing his left leg from the knee down. It remained paralyzed until an operation three years ago gave Lowe 40 to 50 percent use of his left foot.

The suit was unusual because, after being thrown out in Lubbock and Amarillo courts, the state--the Texas Supreme Court--gave Lowe permission to sue the state--Texas Tech. The final appeal began Monday and lasted three days. The jury's decision was that the injury would have occurred even if the knee had been properly supported.

Lowe stressed the suit was against the 1974 Red Raider staff, not the current Red Raider coaches and players. "The athletes there now are taken better care of than I was," he said. "The attitude has completely changed."

Lowe's parents Mr. and Mrs. Bill Lowe, also emphasize that they and their son have no hard feelings against the university or the current Red Raider coaches and players.

"Tech gave Andy a fine education," said Mrs. Lowe. His mother added that not only was Lowe not told that a ligament was removed from his knee, but that they were not told the extent of the surgery either. Lowe was only 18 when his leg was injured.

Lowe's first attorney, through the early stages of the court fight, was the late Paul Spillman. Bob Garner, Lubbock attorney, continued through the remainder of the case.

After he graduated from Tech, Lowe coached at Idalou, Hamlin and Panhandle, then went to work for an oil company. He and his wife, Carla, are Garland residents and he is with Southwestern Gas Pipeline Co.

Cemetery Trust At Independence

The Independence Cemetery Trust Association is being set up for the benefit of that pioneer Oklahoma cemetery which is approximately 15 miles east of Wellington.

Shelt Kromer presided and Lynn Spurlin discussed a cemetery trust fund reported at Sayre and made a motion that the Independence Cemetery Association set up one. The motion was seconded by Wilbur Tillman and the motion received unanimous approval.

Kromer was elected president; Spurlin chairman; Christine Spurlin, clerk; Bob Allen member and Jolly Downs member.

Tillman suggested that the trust be discussed with a bank and Mr. and Mrs. Spurlin were elected to transact this business. A large group of members of the Independence Cemetery Association met that morning to clean the cemetery

Present were Kate Holder of Vallejo, Ca., Mrs. Katie May Whipkey of Sweetwater, Ok., Jewell Snyder and Elton Argo of Hollis, Mrs. Fred Yarbrough, Mr. and Mrs. C.H. Waggoner, Mrs. Florence DeArmond and Miss Maudie Coffee of Wellington.

George.

Plans Advanced for Rodeo, County Fair

Chamber of Commerce directors had update reports on both the annual Collingsworth Chamber of Commerce Rodeo Friday and Saturday, July 24 and 25, and the Collingsworth County Fair on Friday and Saturday, September 11 and 12.

Directors met Monday, June 8.

The west bleachers at the VFW arena will be repainted and boards will be replaced if necessary in a series of work nights. Dates of these will depend on the arrival of paint, which has been ordered by Howard Murdock, manager of Wellington Lumber Company.

Johnny Nash announced that when the paint arrives Margaret Vines, secretary, will call Chamber members and directors for as many work nights as may be needed.

Bill and Mary Ann Lowe are rodeo chairmen. There will be two night performances with the slack scheduled for Saturday morning.

The Rodeo Dance, with Dorothy McGill as chairman, will be held in Bura Handley Community Center.

Circulars advertising the rodeo have been printed and are being distributed throughout the Panhandle-Southwestern Oklahoma area.

Tommy Hudson and Walter Clement, Fair chairmen, reported on that event.

Directors voted to push the rental of commercial booths at the Fair in Bura Handley Community Center this year. These will be in the same rooms as the exhibits, but will in no way cut down on the exhibit space. Additional plans will be announced in a few weeks.

Hudson announced that Mr. and Mrs. Jack Campbell will be the parade chairmen again this year. The Campbells will make detailed announcements concerning the parade in the near future.

Jean Chandler, extension agent, will be youth chairman.

Wellington Fire Department will present water polo again this year and the Lions Club will sponsor its annual terrapin race.

The Garden Club will be in charge of the flower show.

Earlier, Don Reeves, extension agent, was appointed to head the 4-H Club Play Day (youth open horse show) and also the farm equipment show, which will feature the latest in farm machinery and equipment.

Samnorwood Fire Department will be in charge of the beef barbecue to be held at noon Friday in Ellison Park.

First Baptist Plans VBS And Youth "Joy Explosion"

First Baptist Church will hold its annual Vacation Bible School Monday through Friday, June 15 to 19, at 8:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m.

The theme is "Smile, You're in Agapeland." A special recreational team known as the W-R-E-C-K Team has been organized to lead outdoor activities. It consists of 12 teenagers who will lead the younger youth in VBS Olympics. During the day, classes will be offered for all ages through sixth grade. Youth from 7th through the 12th grades will have special classes and activities planned at night known as the "Joy Explosion."

Round-up will be held Saturday, June 13 from 3:30 until 5 p.m. This consists of pre-registration, meeting the teachers and wreck team members, viewing cartoons and enjoying refreshments and recreation.

All pre-schoolers are urged to bring a parent to register his child upon arrival and then may leave. Cartoons will include characters such as Mickey Mouse, Donald Duck, Goofy, and Pluto.

The VBS beginning on Monday, June 15 will center around the Bible lesson and also include mission study, craft making, music, and wreck team activities.
