Strolling Down Sports Lane

Make those Abilene Aces look like a dirty dozen, is the cry of all the local and South Plains baseball bugs. Today is the first day the Hubbers will have had at the Aces, hailing from the great TP city, at the previous engagement with the Tullis machine were positioned on account of heavy rains.

The mighty bludgeons belonging to the swainsmiths of the Lubbock Hubber outfit will attempt to ring out victory this afternoon at 3:00 o'clock in the old Merrill lot in an "eye for eye and tooth for tooth" battle with the Abilene Aces for the West Texas League leadership. A victory over the Aces would put the Hubbers on the top rung.

"A team that won't be beaten, can't be beaten," an old adage, is exactly the way every one of Bennie Brownlow's recruits feel about this Abilene series—the bugs of baseball that really want to see a finish go may rest assured of one thing—no team when the two loop leaders mix it.

J. McAllister Stevenson, president of the West Texas League, through his ruling on a technical violation of the Coleman entry of the nine rookie and five class man rule of the loop which gave the Aces the first game with the Coleman machine a 9 to 0 victory, which was really an 8 to 3 score for the Bearcats, placed the Aces back in the lead and shoved the Hubbers back to second place.

San Angelo has turned back the Aces in every game played this season—not one game have the Aces scored a win against the Concho Herders. Lubbock has taken four out of six games with the Snappers and if "figures don't lie," then Lubbock should have an advantage with the league leaders.

Even though the Hubbers are not in the lead, they are sure a close second as they are only one game behind the loop leaders. A victory over the Aces today would certainly place the Hubbers on the top rung of the West Texas League ladder in the percentage column would read: Lubbock 20 13 7 650; Abilene 22 14 8 636.

So it is up to Lubbock and South Plains fans to act as a committee of one to fill the Merrill Park today and help Ben Brownlow and his hustling players over the hump.

One thing sure about these Hubbers—they haven't lost their hitting eye. Just take a glance over yesterday's box score with the Pied Pipers of Hamlin. Don Anderson four for six; Lin Storti 2 for 3; Sammy Sealing 3 for 6; Homer Burch 4 for 6.

Golf has enough tribulations of its own to try the hardest of souls, but when family hazards are added to the burden on the player the weight is sometimes too much to carry.

Which is mindful of a story the lady golf players tell among themselves. The mother of one of the foremost young players is very fond of her daughter and usually follows her wherever she plays.

The mother, however, is highly emotional and excitable and when her young daughter got into important tournament competition the presence of the mother became a decided detriment to the game of the young miss.

"You should stay out of sight when your daughter is playing," a friend of the mother's told the mother. "Your nervousness is ruining the girl's game. She pays more attention to you than she does to the game."

To Bed Without Sapper There is another story of a prominent golf player that is familiar around the tea tables in the club houses where the ladies gather.

The father of this young lady player is very proud of her and bets a lot of jack on her every time she plays. And when she loses she gets a fine bawling out and sometimes she gets it right on the course with listeners around.

Phillips went the full route without difficulty Gene Bailey, with a triple, 2 doubles and a single in five times up, and the main offensive player for the home club. Taylor and Swanson socked homers. San Antonio 300 300 000—6 12 0; Beaumont 536 003 003 11 6 2.

Court Parole Is Given Youngster

All's Well That Ends Well Officials Believe: Youth Is Given Over To Care Of His Father

Being paroled to one's father is better than a sentence to the state reformatory, in the opinion of one Lubbock boy who is now enjoying life with his father. Several days ago the youngster was picked up by local officers, and for a time it appeared that he was doomed to bitter fate. Officials were puzzled for it appeared that the boy was out from under his mother's control. But the boy's father, who is separated from the mother, came to his rescue, and when the case was called in county court Saturday morning it was disposed of in a very short time. The father wanted the boy, and the mother offered no objection. In fact she appeared in court without her attorney with a willingness to obey the court's edict. Both the father and the mother were called to the judge's desk and three minutes later, the couple, with their boy left the courtroom. Until the boy reaches his majority he will be responsible to his father only, and in return, the father is responsible to the court for the boy's conduct.

Workmanship--

Only the finest workmanship can bring out the beauty of a marble or granite memorial, and it is a constant source of pleasure to us to know that on most of the important memorials to be constructed, we have been selected because of the quality of the granite used as well as the high character of the workmanship. May we remind you that Memorial Day is just a comparatively few days away, and that now is the best time to place the order?

Camp Fire Drive Total Now $1100

Effort to Be Made To Boost Funds to Goal of $1500 In Final Spurt of Campaign Tuesday.

With more than $1000 already subscribed, an effort will be made to increase the Campfire Girl's fund to the goal of $1500 next Tuesday in the final spurt of the campaign.

Several of the twenty-five workers responsible for the returns already turned in solicited funds yesterday, but the combined efforts of all of the teams will be concentrated Tuesday in the final effort to finish up the drive.

J. W. Gamel, president of the local council of the Campfire Girls, who is directing the campaign, stated yesterday that it was being given a hearty response by the business men, and that the goal was expected to be attained Tuesday.

Returns will be used to provide a summer camp for girls, and to secure the services of a national field worker of the organization.

It merely goes to show that the crowd loves to see a tighter they like bang the other fellow upon the proboscis.

Claims Of Rival Factions Fill Demo Air In Texas

Of Beaumont State Convention Hands Opposing Forces Announcing Strength In Battle Over Policies

Moody high and dry? On only one thing are the Smith and Love forces agreed—that the Moody faction will be the minority group at the convention. The spokesmen of each group claim they will be strongest of the three. However, they get their figures by first counting their instructed votes and then adding all from Moody's uninstructed camp whom they know to lean their way. It might work out that way in the final analysis if the voting gets hot, but very likely most of the uninstructed delegates will start with Moody. But there is a lot of sub-surface bitterness and many of the Moody uninstructed crowd would go to Smith in a minute rather than see Tom Love get control of the convention, and many would go to Love rather than see the Smith forces get control.

Moody loses good chance. Moody lost his best chance to get absolute domination of the situation this week when Steve Pinckney, a Smith leader, denounced Love and his crowd as being under the control of the Klan and their efforts at being a plan of the Klan to regain control of Texas politics. Had Moody issued the same kind of statement a week ago, after the Klan-controlled delegations to the county conventions had broken their agreement with the "harmony" faction, had Moody then declared that it was a Klan fight, the results of previous elections show that the whole state probably would have been back of him. Moody in a Jam Now that Smith people have raised the Klan issue, Moody would lay himself liable to further charges of working with that organization. It has been generally known over the state that Love was not a member, but he has cooperated with the organization in politics for years. Monday night will be a hot time in Beaumont. At least two and probably three caucuses will be going on at the same time. The Smith and Love forces have announced their plans for a caucus, and the Moody forces probably will hold one. The convention Tuesday probably will be the hardest fought Texas has seen in many years. Heretofore they have been one-sided, with one crowd operating the steamroller, but it looks like a hot time Tuesday.

Opens Revival

REV. HULON COFFMAN State evangelist for the Baptist church of Texas, Rev. Hulon Coffman, of Dallas, will open a two-week revival service at the 19th street Baptist church here today. Herbert M. Findley, gospel singer, accompanies him and will lead the song services. Rev. W. A. Todd is pastor of the church, which is only 18 months old but which has a congregation of 200 persons. When the church was organized it had but 11 members and no building. Now there are two buildings on the church's property on 19th street and Avenue Q, cooperating with the Smith crowd should he also denounce the Klan. Tom Love issued a statement Wednesday denying that he is, ever has been or ever will be a member of the Klan, but admitting that he is a vote of 186 to 165, the house today decided again to delay reapportionment of its membership to conform to the present distribution of population. The motion to re-commit the measure came after the house had spent a day in debate from which the bill emerged virtually unchanged. Under it, the house membership would have been laid down for apportioning these members among the states. By the action, their use determined to continue, for the present, at least, its operation under an apportionment of representation which is based upon the 1910 census. Although the constitution makes provision for redistribution of representatives according to population every ten years, congress failed to act after the 1920 census on the ground that the population of the country still was unsettled because of the World War. Since that time no reapportionment measure has reached the floor of the house. Opposition to the proposal was based largely upon the contention that by its passage the house would be attempting to tie the hands of future congresses by fixing an arbitrary figure for the house membership, and by setting up a system by which the distribution would be made.

Now The Nightie Has Its Day—Beach Suits Are Pajamas

BY JEAN PATOU For NEA Service

FARIS, May 19—My pajama suits are, I think, the most striking feature of my summer collection. When I first showed pajamas they caused a good deal of astonishment. I had realized the possibilities as well as the important part which this season of women's dress was to play in the future.

You have to see these suits actually worn on the beach to be convinced of their appropriateness. Until then, their proper setting seems quite naturally to be the boudoir or dressing room.

A modern woman's wardrobe now would be considered quite incomplete if it did not include two or three of these pajama suits for the beach. I purposely have kept to very feminine styles and all my models could just as well be worn indoors as out of doors.

Crepes de Chine Best In accordance with the general outlines of my last collections I have used the very softest and lightest of materials for these pajamas, but I somehow prefer crepe de chine of a heavy quality to any other silk. I have taken good care that these suits should be devoid of the slightest trace of ruffles. My object was that a woman should continue to look just as dressed in one of these pajama suits as in an ordinary beach frock.

I have taken over into the beach the same delicate touches and details, incrustations, odd and flattering necklines, all find place here. I feel that there should be a finished smartness about these costumes, though the atmosphere of them is decidedly informal.

Coats Are Long Three-quarter coats as a rule accompany the pajama suit. A shorter coat is less becoming with the long legs of the pajamas.

Beach hats are another part of this season's consideration. Large, floppy hats have more of the dressy look about them than the tough and ready. They should, however, never have more than a fancy banding for trimming. Simple, practical is the rule for beach attire.

When I use plain silk, I prefer soft blues, pinks and yellows and the strap usually is of a flowered design. A figured silk pajama, on the other hand is better set off by the use of plain material in the collar predominating in the design. This idea is carried right through the accessories.

One-Minute Interviews "Growing" With Her Children

Companionate marriage and delayed marriage are apt to cheat a woman of her biggest happiness—that of having children and growing up with them.

"I have spent most of my time with my children since they were born and I know of no one who enjoys life as I do. We swim together, dance, ride, horseback, play golf and tennis together.

"For a period I lived in the country just so I could spend all their time outdoors. I consider no inconvenience too great for the pleasure I derive from seeing my girls happy and healthy."

"Why in the name of Josphat have you let it go in this long? Since you don't want to leave him, why didn't you just assume to or 15 years ago when the children were old enough to get along without you, that you couldn't expect to be a supported wife? After all, why should any of us stop wasting your abilities on no-pay jobs like committee chairman on this club and that one and manager of Ladies' Aid supper and get a job? "But I'm too old," said Bessy. "Stuff and nonsense!" said her cousin.

Pledges To Tech Forum Are Feted Garden Party Yesterday On College Green Is Courtesy Young Women; Breakfast Is Served Today

Pledges to the Tech Women's Forum are being feted by members of that organization. They were honor guests at a garden party yesterday afternoon late on the college green, south of the administration building, and are being served a breakfast this morning. The pledges are: Miss Ruth Lefforge, Amarillo; Fay Rutledge, Kennedy; Neil Goodloe, Lamesa; Iva Burren, Sipe Springs.

WHAT WILL FOLKS SAY? Bessy's mother, therefore, is not so alarmed, but justly asks, "never again of such a thing." What will people say? What will become of her poor children with their mother not home as she should be? The "poor children" are 23 and 27. And Bessy's mother says she has decided to marry, indicating that she takes away much of the serenity which Bessy has found in her own solution.

Mohair Cap And Limp Straw Brim Give New Spanish Touch To The Paris Hat

There's the exotic charm and the snappy tang of old Spain in this new Parisian chapeau that uses a skull-cap of black mohair lace for its base of action. The lace cap snugles down over Milady's head, simulating curls all around her face and over her ears. The shiny straw is vastly flattering to dark eyes and red lips. And the laciness is softly feminine over this irregular, medium-sized floppy brim of soft natural leghorn straw. The outer edge of the brim is wired so that the brim, small as it is, undulates as Milady moves—suggesting the rippling grace of lace hoop skirts seen above the red heels of Spanish dancers.

Major Hoople Picks The Grumblers As The Most Worthless Of All The People In The World; He Tells 'Em

Philosopher Traces Howling Element From Bible Time To The Present And Flays Them, One And All

By MAJOR HOOPLE-MCCORKLE

A few days ago a good woman asked us to describe the world's greatest nuisance, and as we minus a topic of our own this week, we shall comply with her wish—let her furnish the subject.

To begin with we will say that while the world is filled with many unpleasant things—some worse than others, we have never found anything that can cause any more unpleasantness than the chronic grumbler. We have them in every town, in every land, and they have been with us ever since the Lord tried to talk Moses into the notion of serving as chief priest for the Israelites. Moses declined, grumbled, groaned and offered all kinds of "excuses." The Lord didn't accept the excuses, but he didn't burden Moses with an ever since the Lord let him play what might be termed "second fiddle" while Aaron was the drum major's uniform.

Jonah was a Grumbler. Jonah grumbled when he was asked to go to Ninevah, and when he proved conclusively right then he didn't like grumbling. We know where Jonah landed and some doubt if he was punished enough. Maybe he continued his grumbling after the whale grabbed him and the whale in disgust swam him out as something unclean. Anyway Jonah was a chronic grumbler.

When our forefathers got tired of living in Europe they came to this country in order that they might enjoy the blessings of liberty and freedom. Since their arrival efforts have been made to make this a country of happiness and contentment, but it seems as though we have utterly failed. Emma Goldman didn't like America, so we sent her to Russia, and if we are not mistaken a lot of people should visit Emma.

We Have Some Here. But let's get down to brass tacks—take the home-town grumbler and learn just who he is. We have men right here in Lubbock who haven't smiled since the Armistice was signed, and they will never smile again, unless someone slips up on their blind side and gives them a horse-dose of laughing gas. They would rather be sick than happy—had rather be hungry than admit that this is a good country.

When it rains they fuss about the mud, and when it is dry the sand doesn't suit them. If they go home and find ham for dinner they fuss, because they wanted steak. If their wife insists that the house needs a coat of paint they will hard times, even though they may have money in the bank that has multiplied. If daughter wants a new car they explain sarcastically that she should walk more. If son wants to enter college, they allow as how education is all foolishness.

When they go to church they go to find fault with the preacher and not to hear the sermon, and there hasn't been a school teacher in Lubbock in ten years that pleased them. They are against everybody and everything. What they need is the "shot gun" cure and if that "takes" they should be moved to the incinerator where no trace or recollection of them will linger to blight us.

We heard a fellow "cussing" his stepmother the other day—just natural with the brute. We don't know anything about the step-mother, but we will bet ten to one with our eyes closed that she is an honor to him. We happen to have a step-mother and a good one, and despite the fact that a lot of people get a "kick" from "cussing" them we have never been able to do so. Mothers have a hard time at best, and a step-mother with a half dozen or so "step-kids" is certainly up against the real thing. No wonder most of them are gray-headed.

And while we are talking of the various kinds of mothers and grumblers we want to say that mothers-in-law are not so bad as they have been pictured. We know one that kept a more or less worthless son-in-law off the poor farm for a number of years, but this son-in-law was too wise to fuss and grumble—just took her "aid" and finally made a newspaperman. Today he is almost capable of feeding himself.

One thing we have noted is this: Grumblers are never builders. They can always find fault with what the other fellow is doing but they are never able to make any improvement. If you don't like the way someone is conducting your courts then get busy and elect some who will. Don't be content with chewing bath-axe and cussing. Show some action of a constructive nature.

De Something—Don't Growl. If you feel that taxes are too high get busy and send men to the legislature who will reduce them. Don't talk yourself hoarse "cussing" the present incumbents.

If you don't like the red light stop signs suggest something better—don't lambast the police department for enforcing the law.

Grumblers are numerous and they are easy to locate. Most of them have patches on the posterior extremity of their pantaloons. The patches become necessary as the result of too much sitting on goods boxes. Most of them owe their last years' taxes their grocery bill, and at least three installments on their much delapidated piano. If they spent as much energy boosting as they do grumbling and finding fault they would be paying income taxes in advance.

No wonder some cows give elation instead of milk—their grumbling owner is so sour he curdles the milk with his very presence.

A pig is happy when in the mire. All he wants is a bucket of soiled slop and a muddy bog to bathe in. His grumbling owner is satisfied with even less—all he wants is an opportunity to complain.

Maniacs Are Better. One may be a boaster without becoming an unreasonable maniac, but the boasting maniac is more to be treasured than the abominous grumbler. He is the tail-end of creation, good, gift for fish-bait and soap grease. He makes everybody miserable including himself, and when he dies people do not mourn—merely sigh a breath of relief. People often let him live simply because they respect the Ten Commandments—not from choice.

The world needs more praise and less grumbling—more happiness and less croaking. When one becomes so bitter against everything that he finds it a pleasure to grumble he should not wait for the "commit-

More Water For Lamesa Is Sought
 Contract Let For Two Deep Wells And An Additional Supply At Consideration Of $18,521
 LAMESA, May 19—The City of Lamesa in regular session here Tuesday evening let a contract to the Air Made Well company of Kansas City, Mo., to make additional water supply for the city. The contract calls for at least two or more water wells at deep test and for additional supply of at least 500 gallons per minute to the city. The consideration is to be $18,521. The work is to start immediately, and must be finished within 180 days from the date of the contract according to the contract.
 The water supply of Lamesa has not been considered inadequate but too expensive considering the manner in which it had to be obtained. At present the city has three wells that are supplying the citizenship. One of these wells, located in the bed of Sulphur Draw will be abandoned according to the present plans of the commission.
 It is hoped that with the completion of the two wells contracted by the commission that ample water supply can be had for the city at a minimum figure to consumers. More beautiful yards and lawns can be had as a result of irrigation rates that will be possible with this additional water supply.
 It is pointed out that Lamesa will have the same water system as Amarillo and other Plains towns with the Air Made process.

Winner In Living Room Test Writes Story of Project

Methods of Home Beautification are Told by Mrs. R. M. Middleton, Of The Hardy Community.

Mrs. R. M. Middleton, of the Hardy Community, has been announced as winner of the Better Living Room contest in the county home demonstration club. Below is the theme which Mrs. Middleton wrote concerning the method in which she bettered her living room.

"I live away out west on the Plains of Texas where the sand blows in a little five room house which we call home. I joined the home demonstration club a little over a year ago. My home demonstration agent wanted me to enter the Better Living Room contest but I didn't care much about entering as I didn't think it would amount to much and I had a very ill arranged room to work with.

be the best choice as they would fit nicely and would be a convenient place to keep the books. I bought four posts at six cents each, and a boxing plank, so with the help of my husband I made a good looking book rack. This I lacquered the same color as the rest of the furniture. Next, I took two apple boxes and made me a magazine holder, which I painted green and stenciled a flower on the sides. I made the window curtains of damask of a cream and blue color and used buff shades.

Remodels Frames
"I took some of my old fashioned picture frames and cut them down to suit new pictures. These I saw-papered and lacquered to match the picture that was intended for them. One of these pictures was an oil painting which I had admired but the glass and frame made it look very different and attractive. I hung all the pictures on a left with my eye, putting the dark ones in the light places, and the light ones to brighten up some dark corner. I had several small pictures, so I grouped them together on one wall space.

"I moved my organ which is the largest piece of furniture in the room to the largest wall space and put it in the center of this space instead of using it in the corner as I had formerly done. I also removed all the pictures, bric-a-brac and things of that kind from the organ and placed only a small vase on each side of it. My rug is a tan and brown complexion rug and I stained the floor around it a dark color. I made a light tan table runner for the library table, which I remodeled in yellow, green and blue. We are all proud of our new living room and I feel that I would have been amply rewarded for my efforts even though I had not won in the county contest for Class 4."

Gaining additional momentum in march toward the advancement of technical and higher education throughout West Texas, Texas Technological college turns out 98 students from her doors Monday. May 14, equipped with the long-sought degree with which to face the battle of life. Sixty-seven of the group to receive their diplomas on the morning of the 20th while the remaining 31 will finish their requirements by August.

Commencement this year on the campus will be slightly more impressive, possibly, than last year due to the fact that there are more members in the graduation class than that a tinge of tradition hovering about the exercises, being handed down from last June, officials of college say.

Four Schools to Participate

The fact that all four schools are participating in the exercises this year will also add to the commencement occasion. Five different degrees, the Bachelor of Arts, the Bachelor of Science in Agriculture, the Bachelor of Science in Civil Engineering, the Bachelor of Science in Electrical Engineering, and the Bachelor of Science in Home Economics, are to be awarded this year. Only the Bachelor of Arts in school of Liberal Arts was awarded last commencement.

The annual pageant of the school will be held on Monday, May 14, which consists of various songs and programs. Tomorrow the members of the class will be entertained in the annual reception in the president's home by Dr. and Mrs. Paul W. Warren. The special features of the week with the production of a musical extravaganza, "Abroad in Good Ship Barnacle," coming Friday night.

Next Sunday, Dr. W. S. Jacobs, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Houston, will deliver the annual commencement sermon to the class, while on Monday, May 28, Governor Pat M. Neff, who will be in the chair when the college is created, will deliver the commencement address. Clifford B. Spurr, chairman of the board of directors, will present the closing of the commencement activities will be the annual Alumni association banquet at the Lubbock hotel on Monday night, May 28, which the members of the class will be guests. The annual senior class will follow.

All the exercises will be held in the college gymnasium. Alfred Van Dyke of Strawn, prominent junior student, has been appointed as grand marshal of the day for commencement and will have in charge of academic processions on Sunday and Monday.

An increase of 400 per cent over the number of graduates of last year is noted in the list. Twenty-two students finished their work for degrees last year. Of the list of graduates in this year's class, 46 give Lubbock as their home.

Morrison President

Tom B. Morrison of Plainview, is president of the class; Mary Steel Lubbock, secretary; and Dayle Wallace of Mt. Carmel, treasurer. To William J. Wylie goes the credit of "the wandering member" of the class. His home is in Montreal.

Concrete Asphalt Road Is Built On Shifting Desert Sand

LOS ANGELES, May 19.—The year round coast-to-coast route, the southernmost gateway to Southern California, is now permanently opened. Highway engineers, working with concrete, asphalt, oil and sand, have conquered that stretch of American desert lying in southeastern California, which for many years has presented serious difficulties to the builder of roads.

A few miles across the California-Arizona state line and westward of Yuma, Ariz., lies a waste of shifting sand, piled high in dunes of ever changing size and shape. The skill of highway engineers was called upon for the purpose of conquering this seven-mile stretch of ever-shifting, constantly moving desert.

As the result of their ingenuity and resourcefulness a permanent roadway is now provided for the traffic over the one year-round route from coast-to-coast. It took several days years ago to go around this desert. Later, many weary hours were required to traverse the sandy stretch next provided, when a tortuous single track plank roadway was put up. Now the motorist crosses the sand hills in a matter of minutes.

While the plank road was up, the shifting sands used to cover it frequently and laborers had to move the roadway over, section by section.

The new permanent road across the desert of southeastern California. Arrow points to the old plank road.

The new road is a long winding sand dune stretching across the desert and packed down tightly with oil and sand. The man-made and man-controlled sand hill is at places 15 to 20 feet high, and at its top a width of about 30 feet is provided.

Across the top of this packed sand dune the engineers laid asphalt-concrete pavement wide enough for trucks and cars to pass with ease at any speed.

After the construction of the excellent road bed was completed, it was found that the great piles of sand which stretch for miles on either side of the asphalt pavement were still to be contended with in their ever encroaching movement.

The blowing moving sand is therefore removed from the highway by road sweepers whenever necessary. After each sweeping the supporting, tightly packed embankment is sprinkled with light road oil.

Traffic Cops Are Taken From Havem

By NEA Service

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 19.—Because they have had experience in unraveling silk skeins and talking themselves out of all sorts of tangles during their years of monarchical seclusion, two women have been appointed traffic officers on this city's busiest corners.

They are dressed in short skirts and aviator's helmets and, with a white glove on the right hand, are having very little trouble in handling traffic.

Ripening since the time a cat patient at the dispensary for sick animals at Gurdard, England, caught a mouse, a friendship between the two has become strong. Whenever the cat is at home, the house plays with her, running over her back and never showing the least sign of fear.

ROADS DISCUSSED Dawson Commissioners To Straighten Highway

LAMESA, May 19.—The county commissioners court is in regular session this week and is attending to the regular matters of business that come up. Among other matters claiming their attention is the matter of lateral roads in Dawson county and the grading and straightening of the Dal-Paso Cavern highway west of Lamesa to the Gaines county line.

Gaines county, with the co-operation of the state highway department is to soon have the Dal Paso highway graded and straightened all the way through Gaines county, a distance of sixty miles. The road will touch the state line directly west of Seminole some twenty six miles from the city and then lead to the Carlsbad Cavern and El Paso Texas.

High School To Graduate 103 Boys And 129 Girls In Largest Class In History Of All West Texas Section

Otis Taylor Valedictorian. Henrie Mast Salutatorian Of Class; 14 Members Of Class Behind In Work

Placing 233 graduates ready for higher education is the achievement of Lubbock high school this year in surpassing all past records for public schools of the city and establishing a record graduating class for all West Texas. The class exceeds by fifty members, any previous class of the school, representing the continual increase of enrollment under the M. H. Duncan regime.

Two hundred and twenty-one of the group receive their diplomas on Wednesday night in the commencement exercises while 11 are to finish their work during summer school.

R. W. Matthews, principal of the high school, said yesterday that 14 of the group had not turned in all their requirements and would not be allowed to finish with the class on Wednesday unless these requirements were met by Tuesday.

The class list includes 103 boys and 129 girls. Otis Taylor, with an average of more than 94, is valedictorian of the class with Henrie Mast a close second, with Miss Annabel Stanfield as the leading girl.

The production of the Junior class play on Monday night at the high school opens the commencement exercises of the school. On Tuesday night, Rev. L. C. H. Williams, Rector of St. Paul-on-the-Plains Episcopal church, will deliver the commencement sermon to the group while on Wednesday night, Dr. Paul W. Horn, of the Tech, will give the commencement address. Dr. J. T. Hutchinson, president of the Lubbock school board, will present the diplomas to the group.

by RUTH DEWEY GROVES

THIS HAS HAPPENED

Nathaniel Dana, struggling artist, is engaged to Virginia Brewster, whose father is a prominent Wall Street financier. After losing his fortune in speculation Brewster dies of heart failure and leaves his daughter penniless.

Niel urges Virginia to marry him at once, but an old family friend, Frederick Dean, and his daughter, Clarissa, persuade her to make her temporary home with them.

Niel is angry when Virginia tells him her decision, for he suspects Dean's motives and does not like the shallow Clarissa, who has just made her engagement to Russell Wainwright. He takes Virginia to her new home and returns unhappily to his neglected studio, where he finds his model, Chiri, waiting with hot coffee for him. He knows that Chiri is jealous of Virginia, and fearing that she will become a nuisance he repulses her and she leaves in a temper.

Meanwhile, Virginia is puzzled by a talk with Clarissa in which the latter intimates that she will tolerate no trespassing where Russell's money and affection are concerned, and says: "Your grief has not clouded your good judgment as a Modern."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER VII

"Come in," Virginia called. She expected to see one of the servants enter. Instead, it was her host who opened the door and stepped inside.

"Aren't you coming down to lunch?" he asked, pleasantly.

"Not if you don't mind," Virginia answered wearily.

"Poor child, you're exhausted. Well, do as you like, of course, but I hope you will be able to join us at dinner. Perhaps it would benefit you to go for a drive this afternoon. Shall I order a car?"

Virginia glanced out the window at the clear blue sky with lazy white clouds drifting over it like sheep in a meadow. She had a sudden feeling of oppression, as though the charmingly furnished room in which she stood were about to contract upon her to smother her.

"Yes, please do," she cried with unexpected fervor. "It will be glorious to get outdoors."

"At three, then?" Mr. Dean asked. He appeared surprised at her eagerness.

"Oh, sooner," Virginia urged; then conscious that her manner was strange, added in explanation, "I'm sure I'll be able to think better outdoors."

Dean frowned. "You aren't worrying about your future, I hope?"

"I don't know exactly what I'm worrying about," Virginia exclaimed, her voice resting on a note of hysteria.

"You mustn't let yourself go to pieces," he warned her. "You know you can count on me to help you in any way I can."

"It isn't anything that I can talk about," Virginia told him.

He came over and took her hands in his.

"The car will be ready whenever you want it," he said gently. "And now may I send up some lunch to you?"

Virginia nodded.

But when the lunch arrived she left it untouched. Her windows gave on Fifth Avenue, and she sat, halted, watching for the car to arrive.

After what seemed to Virginia a long time Mr. Dean's dark blue limousine drew smartly up to the curb. She ran from the room and down the stairs, pulling on her gloves at the same time.

She was crossing the hall when Dean appeared in the door of the dining room and spoke to her.

"Would you wait just a moment?" he said. "I'd like to go with you."

There was nothing for Virginia to do but accept his company unless she chose to be ungracious. She felt a sickening disappointment, however, for she had looked forward to being alone on the drive.

For some reason it had seemed to her that she could not get away from Dean's influence and the reaction to Clarissa's veiled remarks while she remained in their house.

Dean joined her a moment later and took her arm to assist her down the outer stairs. To Virginia the assistance was unnecessary but she made no audible protest, knowing that the action was perfectly natural.

Only, well, she couldn't help recalling what Nathaniel had said about Dean's touching her. She felt that she was being slightly disloyal to her absent sweetheart when her companion let his hand remain at her elbow while they crossed the sidewalk.

And once seated in the car, the feeling grew as Dean sat close beside her, even edging over as she moved nearer the corner. Virginia took herself to task as being foolish to mind it but the impression of undue warmth in "Uncle Frederick's" manner became deeper as they roared smoothly along Riverside Drive and up towards Yonkers.

Virginia tried to assure herself that it merely evidenced of his sympathy for her, but Nathaniel's words had awakened a new consciousness of the man beside her. He had become suddenly a person who was entirely dissociated from her past ideas of him as the father of her dearest girl friend.

But when he reached for her hand she drew it away as casually as she could but none-the-less effectually. He frowned quickly. Had Virginia been observing his face she might have wondered that he showed so much displeasure over so small a matter.

"You know, Virginia," he said, and somehow managed to speak agreeably. "I'm sure I could help you solve your problems if only you would trust me."

"Why, it isn't a matter of not trusting you, Uncle Frederick. I know what you think about Nathaniel and myself, and well, I'm wondering if you aren't wrong—if I shouldn't let him take care of me as he wants to do."

"I was afraid you might lose your courage, my dear. Naturally you would want to let him do that but you're very much in love with him, aren't you?"

Virginia smiled. "He has taught me the meaning of the word," she said simply.

"Then you must know better than to let him wreck your life," Mr. Dean replied with a seriousness of expression that carried a touch of conviction to Virginia.

"But would it? I could help him, I'm sure of that."

"Virginia, please let me save you from the greatest irony of life. I mean the failure to profit by the experience of others who have lived before you, meeting the same problems, facing the same obstacles. It is a great pity, but wisdom seems always to come when it is too late to be of service to us in making our decisions. You are standing on the threshold of a new life. You will make or mar it by whichever voice you heed now—that of sound advice offered you or the impulse of your own heart."

"You . . . frighten me," Virginia shivered slightly. "You make happiness seem so . . . remote."

"No. If you will but see it, happiness is yours for the asking. Be true to what you know is for your own and young Dana's best good and you can't fail to be happy. Don't be swept, Virginia. Don't let yourself be swept off your feet just because you are in love."

"Perhaps you are right," she admitted hopelessly; "but I wish I felt as sure of it as you do."

"You will soon, I know. Now, won't you tell me—is there any way in which I can help materially?"

"You will be doing me a great kindness if you allow yourself to go in need of anything I can provide for you, my dear."

"Thank you," Virginia said; "there's nothing." She was genuinely sorry that her voice carried so little warmth of gratitude but she could not help it. There was about his generous-sounding offer some touch of patronage—perhaps she only imagined it—that left her cold.

"There is something you can tell me, though," she added a moment later. "And please don't think that I have anything to complain about, but I just would like to know if Clarissa was perfectly willing to have me come and live with you."

"I rather thought she would you in some way, Virginia, but you know Clarissa is an outspoken person. Of course, I don't know what she had to be outspoken about to you, but at least I can allay any doubts you may have concerning your welcome with us. We both are overjoyed to have you. Clarissa was the first to urge the arrangement, although I had it in mind before she mentioned it to me."

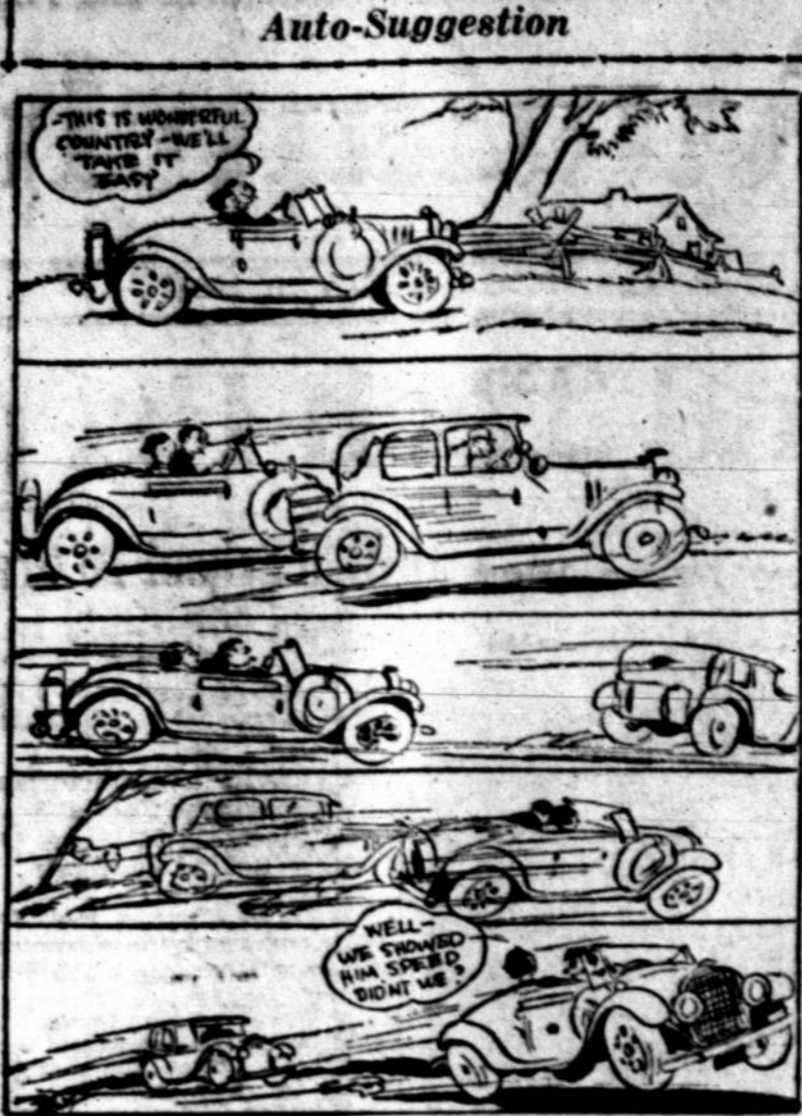

"I may have imagined something she didn't mean," Virginia confessed generously; "yes, I'm certain I must have."

"I'm glad to hear you say that. I shouldn't like your stay with us to be clouded in any way."

"Then I'm sure you mean to extend your welcome to Nathaniel," Virginia responded, brightening.

"Oh, flatly, yes, of course. But don't you think it will only make it harder for you to keep your purpose if you listen too often to his pleadings?"

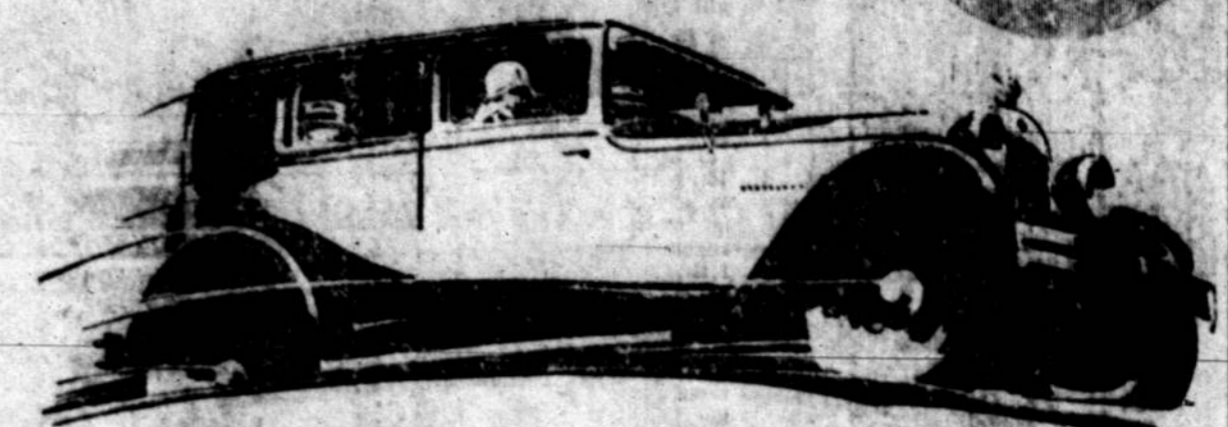

"I'll have to take that risk," Virginia said firmly. "I couldn't stand not seeing him every day. I hope

Auto-Suggestion
It will be agreeable to you and Clarissa to have him call, but I must tell you that I could not stay there it wasn't possible to be with Nathaniel.
"He's quite welcome," Dean returned stiffly.
A little later, after an awkward silence, Virginia suggested that they return home, and he acquiesced without protest.
There was no more talk of Nathaniel then. More of silence than talk of any kind, and when they reached the Deans' house Virginia did not linger downstairs but ran swiftly to her room and lifted the telephone to put in a call for Nathaniel's number. She felt a great need to hear his voice, to assure herself that he actually was near, ready to come if she wanted him. And without knowing precisely why, she felt that there had been an attempt to draw them apart, to interfere with their seeing each other. She became really agitated, waiting for the beloved, growly voice to answer.
And then there came a low "hello" that struck on Virginia's heart like a cat's paw on a butterfly.

Engineers Design Headlights That Eliminate Glare And Make Motoring Safer

By ISRAEL KLEIN Science Editor, NEA Service Lighting engineers are trying to make night driving safe and enjoyable by designing a set of headlights that will be foolproof, that will always throw the right kind of beam, that won't glare into other drivers' eyes and that will illuminate the road sufficiently and far enough ahead to afford as fast driving as daylight does.

Work done in one of the best laboratories in the country points to the fulfillment of this order almost to the last requirement.

In a large dark room on the ground floor of the General Motors research building in Detroit, R. N. Falge and his assistants have been experimenting with all sorts of lighting arrangements for the improvement of this part of the automobile. Falge is head of the lighting division of General Motors research laboratories.

Dozens of types of headlights are racked up along the side wall of this long, wide room for comparison. Points and signs are set up and an automobile is parked in the distance to simulate actual street conditions.

Study Lenses and Reflectors In front is an apparatus on which four headlights rest. Here various types of reflectors are placed, lenses of all kinds are attached, and changes are made to guide the engineers in their study.

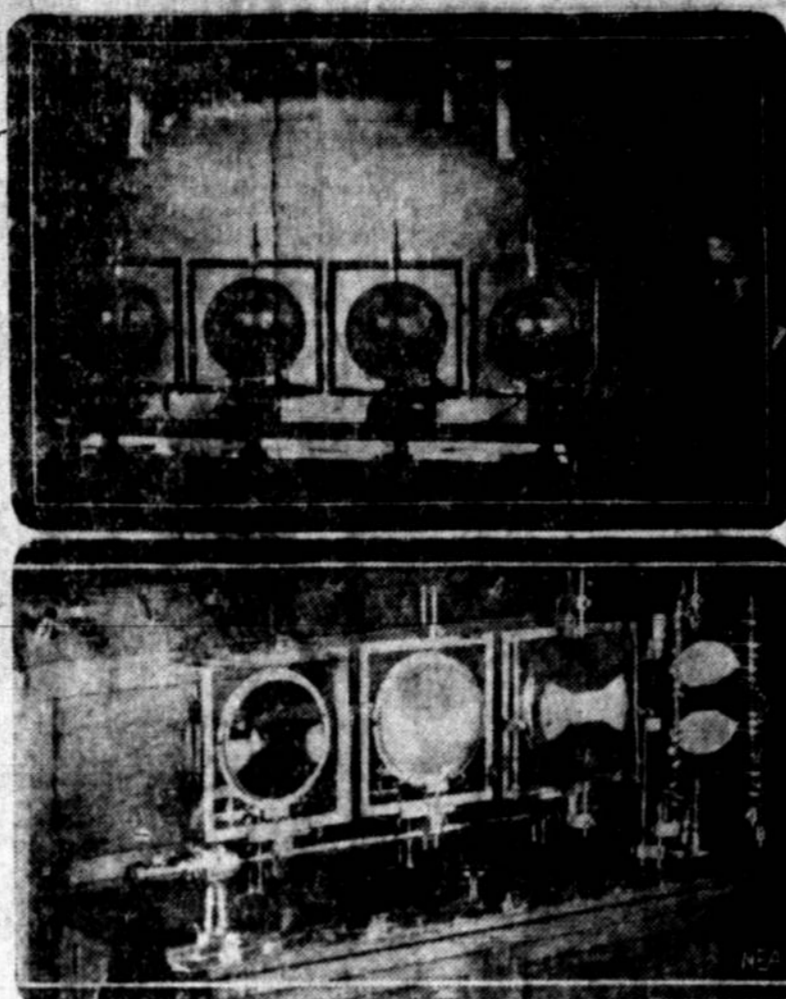

Four reflectors of one type, for instance, are partly blacked so that, if the four unblackened portions were to be united, they would make a complete reflector of the type under examination. Thus, each of these sections—not necessarily equal in design or size, but all combining to make one complete unit—can be studied for its effect on the illumination of the road and the shape of the reflector possibly improved.

Similarly, horizontal sections of various types of lenses are placed, one above the other, in front of a lamp and the effect of each type or of all combined is observed on the floor and screen ahead.

As a result of these studies, the illuminating engineers have succeeded in broadening a beam of light considerably, equalizing the illumination over the entire road surface and maintaining a bright light while eliminating glare.

Double Beam in Use Elimination of glare without dimming of headlights has already been accomplished and is in practice on the better automobiles. This is done by means of the double or depressed beam headlights. A switch throws the light from one filament in the bulb to another, thereby either lowering or raising the beam of light as desired.

When the beam is lowered, the Upper view is the headlight laboratory of General Motors Research Laboratories in Detroit, where lights are tested and improved. Lower photo is a close-up of the apparatus by which better lenses and reflectors are built up.

road is illuminated as intensely as before, in fact even more so, but closer to the car and over a smaller area. The result is that, no matter how powerful the lights of the approaching car, the depressed beam affords sufficient counter-effect to almost nullify the glare of the other car and at the same time light up the road to the right.

Dimming of the light, as has been the practice, is like driving in total darkness, compared with the latest achievement.

Despite this progress, however, engineers have had to face the more irritating problem of lights getting out of focus and adjustment. They have therefore tried to develop a fool-proof headlamp that would need no focusing.

Non-Focusing Lamp At the General Motors research laboratories, Falge and his assistants have been moving the filament of a headlamp by means of a fine screw up to 60 thousandths of an inch from the exact focal point to discover the effect of each position on the beam ahead.

As a result of this study he has able to observe the results. He has been able to test the lights against those of approaching cars. Not satisfied even with actual practice, Falge has taken pictures of all his experiments. By comparing pictures, he has been able to ascertain definite effects and improve on the basis of positive facts. He has not trusted his own eyes. It was in this way that Falge designed the non-focusing headlamp.

PASS DEFICIENCY BILL Carries Nearly Hundred Million Appropriation

WASHINGTON, May 19 (AP)—Slipping its legislative machinery into high gear the house set a record today for recent years in passing a big appropriation bill—the $99,132,855.78 second deficiency measure—in the exceptionally short time of just two hours.

The house also broke all recent records in that less than five hours elapsed between the time the bill was reported by the appropriations committee and sent on its way to the senate. This speedy action was taken at the capitol as a positive indication that the work on the session fast is approaching a close because the last deficiency bill is always one of the final measures considered.

New Record For Chevrolet Is Seen

135,832 Cars and Trucks. Big Increase Over Last Year. Made in Month Of April, Records Show

DETROIT, May 19.—Assurance that production of the Chevrolet Motor company this year would top by a wide margin the million units built a year ago was felt here today with the announcement by W. S. Knudsen, president and general manager, that April was the third consecutive month this year to set a new all-time monthly production record for the manufacture of gear shift cars.

Chevrolet volume for the month just ended, Mr. Knudsen announced, was 135,832 cars and trucks—an increase of more than 20,000 over the 111,939 units built in the same period a year ago and more than twice the output in April, 1925. Of the April volume this year, more than 100,000 units were required for the domestic market, Mr. Knudsen said.

Not only did April set a new record month, but it topped by 2,000 units the output for March, 1928, which was the previous high month. March also was 17,000 units in excess of February, 1928, which in turn had exceeded all previous performance.

ances in the history of the company. Combining the output of these three months with the 32,000 Bigger and Better Chevrolets built for display purposes in December, and the 91,000 turned out in January, the total output of new 1928 models up to May 1 was in excess of half the entire output in 1927. With eight months remaining in the year, optimism everywhere abounded in the Chevrolet organization that the year's output would shoot well beyond the million car mark.

Regrets Of Towns In Zoning Cited

Mistakes Avoidable Through State Aid, Head Of Auto Concern Says In Citing Errors Of Cities

Regrets of growing towns for mistakes in early planning and zoning may be avoided in the future through planning commissions if states will come to their aid, according to DuBois Young, president of the Hupp Motor Car corporation.

"How many times citizens of American towns have looked back with regret on the missed opportunity they had as small communities to adopt definite highway systems which would fit in with subsequent development," remarked Mr. Young.

"As a result of lack of foresight in the past, many towns are now faced with many needs, problems of traffic control and construction—problems which could have been avoided, to a great extent if the communities had been able to plan intelligently for the future."

New York is trying an experiment which other states may well wish to follow.

Counties and township officials would benefit by such a law, for these officials have been faced in problems of traffic control, connection of boulevards and highways, and attending maintenance, and as a result of comparative limited experience they are not always able to carry this important work under the most advantageous plans.

Each state has as many electoral votes as it has senators and representatives in Congress. These electors are now elected at large in each state, which means that a slight popular majority in a given state wins the entire electoral vote of that state.

In this way the votes of large minorities are wasted. The sum total of these minorities plus the majorities in a few other states might be a majority of the total popular vote, but it is a majority of the electoral vote that counts.

This can better be understood by taking two states as an example. Suppose that Texas has a popular Democratic vote of one million and a Republican vote of one hundred thousand, while New York has a Democratic popular vote of one million and a Republican popular vote of one and one-half millions.

The Democratic nominee would get 28 electoral votes from Texas while the Republican nominee would get 45 electoral votes from New York. A simple calculation shows that the Democrats have a combined popular vote of two million, while the Republicans have only one million, six hundred thousand, yet the Republicans have the electoral majority.

This analogy could be carried further but it is not necessary in order to show the possible operation of our present system.

National Events To Offer Banner Tourists' Year

Political Conventions and Other Large Gatherings to Give Excuse for Much Motor Travel

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 19.—Several events of widespread interest, such as the Republican National Convention at Kansas City, the Democratic National Convention at Houston, the Shriners' conclave at Miami and the Memorial Day 500-mile classic at Indianapolis, according to an estimate made by the research bureau of the Marmon Motor Car company will operate to make the coming season a banner year from the standpoint of the automobile tourist.

But those inducements, as H. H. Brooks, general sales director of the Marmon company points out, are merely incidental.

45,000,000 Motor Gypsies
"The next few weeks," says Mr. Brooks, "should bring out more than 45,000,000 motor gypsies who will invest some three and a half billions in scenery, fresh air and historical traditions not to speak of red tops and gasoline. Of those at least 2,000,000 may be expected to tour to one or more of the many national parks, of which the Yosemite, with its giant redwood trees, appears to be the most popular."

Oklahoma to Draw
"Platt National Park in Oklahoma may be expected to attract at least 200,000 tourists, and approximately the same number will be drawn to the Yellowstone, to Rocky Mountain Park in Colorado and to Hot Springs, Ark., in the heart of the Ozarks. They will be smoothed not only by 600,000 miles of paved highway which is the pride of the country, especially in the South and Southwest where replaced the primitive free camping grounds."

Here one will find such conveniences as electric irons, electric fans, washing machines, hot and cold running water, and showers, recreation houses, playgrounds, gas ranges and screened-in sleeping porches. And with filling and service stations all along the way, the tourist will be under no necessity of carrying excess baggage either in the shape of bedding or cooking outfits or gasoline.

One of the unique camps is located near Lawrence, Kans., where discarded street fars have been made over into "bungalows." At least 10,000,000 motorists will take advantage of those wayside camps.

Kansas City Available
"Kansas City, situated in the very heart of the continent, is easily available to the motorist from the fact that it is the central point on three transcontinental highways, U. S. No. 40, No. 50, and No. 71, two running east and west from coast to coast, and one from the Canadian border to the Gulf."

This busy metropolis, with a population of 600,000, prides itself on its 3,470 acres of public parks and boulevards and on its scenic drives. Swope Park, the third largest in the United States, is famous for its woodlands and meadows, its lagoons and zoological gardens. The Kersey Coates drive along the western bluffs, overlooking by panoramic view of the river valley, while Cliff drive, three and a half miles long, is one of the most beautiful in America.

Ozarks to Attract
"Many convenient visitors will take advantage of the opportunity to motor through the Ozarks, the land of a million smokes, a most alluring vacation spot. The highroad skirts the borders of rushing streams and gleaming inland lakes, in the deer ponds of which lurk trout and bass. Some of the most interesting water-trips of inland America start from the little town of Brandon (on U. S. highway No. 66) in the Shepherd of the Hills country immortalized by Harold Bell Wright's novel. The motorist will be amply rewarded by a visit to the battlements of Wilson Creek and Pea Ridge, or to Fairy Cave with its exquisite grotto.

Rubber Yields To Supply And Demand

By J. R. NUTT
President of The Union Trust Co.

CLEVELAND, O., May 19.—Rubber once more is standing upon its own feet in the markets of the world. For the first time in half a decade rubber returned to the status of cotton, corn and other restricted basic commodities.

This came about when the British government announced that the Stevenson plan of rubber export restriction was to be abandoned. For rubber growers the new condition means a market unsupported by legislative regulation. For American consumers, almost wholly dependent upon foreign sources for raw material of millions of tires and other rubber products, it means that the price paid will be determined solely by the law of supply and demand.

The first result of the British announcement was that crude rubber suffered a collapse to the lowest price level in history, with the exception of a brief period in 1921-1922. At well below 20 cents a pound the price compares with 40 cents in January and with a peak point of $1.20 in 1925.

Actual lifting of the export restrictions imposed by the Stevenson plan will take place in November. In addition to the sensational decline of raw rubber prices, the development may be expected to have four other results.

Effect of Change
First, it will stimulate an immediate increase of production in the British colonial possessions in the Far East, in preparation for permanent to export without check. Second, discouragingly low prices for crude rubber will tend to put a damper upon plans for development of new plantations.

Third, low prices will tend to increase consumption of crude rubber. Fourth, there is likely to be some eventual reduction in the price of tires and other rubber manufactures.

Because of the sudden decline in prices of raw rubber many American manufacturers have large existing inventories involving higher-priced rubber. It takes three months for delivery of raw rubber from the Far East plantations to this country. Consequently, American manufacturers, in order to insure their supply, must contract for their crude rubber requirements well in advance. For this reason there may be no immediate price reductions of finished goods.

Lacked Dutch Support
The Stevenson plan was put into effect in 1922 in an effort by the British to control and stabilize the world market for rubber by artificial means. The chief weakness of the plan was that the Dutch growers of rubber would give it no co-operation. Its chief defect was that the British attempted to maintain a price so high that production of crude rubber and the use of reclaimed rubber was greatly stimulated.

rubber may suffer some temporary losses, but in the long run the lower level of crude rubber will benefit them. It will lower their production costs and stimulate consumption of their products.

The tire industry is fortunate in having a steady demand for its product. With 23,000,000 automobiles in the country and an average annual output of 4,000,000 new ones, the demand for replacement and original equipment has been making new high records each year.

Replacement demand is even more important than that of original equipment. This was shown in 1927 when the production of tires increased by 6 per cent, although the output of new automobiles declined 20 per cent.

Present indications are that 70,000,000 tires will be made and sold this year against 65,000,000 in 1927 and 69,000,000 in 1926. The expenditures for the tires should exceed $800,000,000, a sum greater than the total cost of all the motor cars produced in any year up to 1916.

Forty-Five Per Cent Of Headlights On Cars In U. S. Improperly Adjusted Bringing Highway Hazards, AAA Says

Proper Adjustments Held Of Vital Importance To Motorist, And Plea Made For Betterment

Special To The Avalanche (Journal) WASHINGTON, D. C., May 19.—As close to 22,000,000 automobiles are traversing the highways of the nation with improperly adjusted headlights, 66 per cent of the entire number registered in the United States, while only a little over 1,000,000 or five per cent meet the requirements of what is termed "safety lights."

from a saving in the various units of the car. If headlights are out of focus, they fail to illuminate the path ahead to good advantage and the owner may resort to the use of additional lighting devices, which in cold weather may help to overload the battery. There is, in addition, much slowing down and chafing in the car speed where headlights glare and approaching drivers are in danger of colliding. This occasion excessive use of brakes, throttle and steering wheel.

"The first step is to learn to check up on the adjustment of the headlights at least once a month—more often if the car is kept in public garages, where it may be pushed around by headlights. The process need not be complicated, and application to any traffic bureau of A. A. A. motor club will give the motorist information as to method of adjustment, and he will find a willingness to cooperate in having the lights tested."

Sunday Sermon

ation of anti-Christ, whose character and rule is terrible, beyond anything that the history of man has ever recorded. His coming is after "the working of Satan, with all power and signs and lying wonders. Here is a super-human being with all power and signs, to deceive and to afflict those who may dare to oppose his lawless and damnable rule."

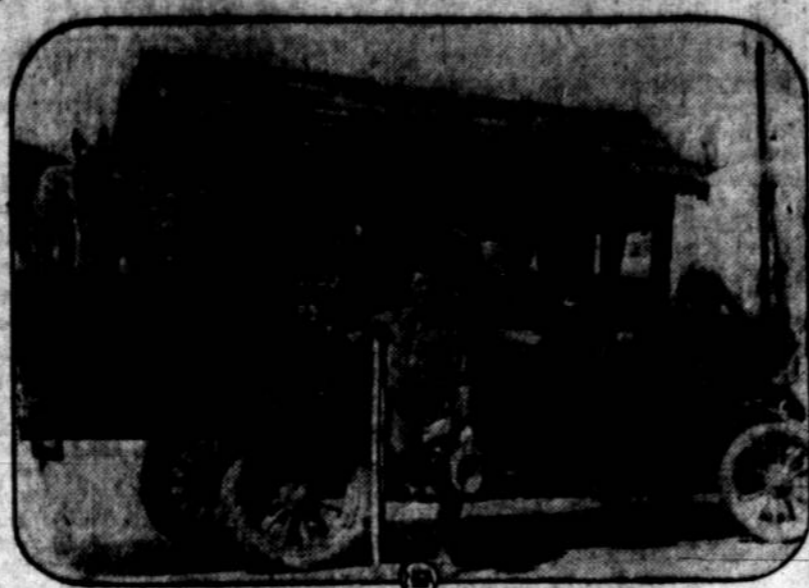

There have been anti-Christ, and there are anti-Christ now; but this one is yet to come. Why has he not come already? Please read again the seventh verse of 2 Thes. 2:3-12. For the mystery of iniquity doth already work; only he who now restrains will restrain until he be taken out of the way.

There is mystery here that we cannot fully understand yet. But we may have our opinions, as to who it is that restrains this monster of wickedness.

Who is he that holds in check the devil and his allies, and that can say to the arch enemy of God and man, "Thus far thou shalt go, but no further?"

Satan could afflict Job, only so far as God permitted; and he will not suffer us to be tempted above that we are able to bear, but will with the temptation make a way for our escape, that we may be able to bear it. 1 Cor. 10:13; but such temptations "were common to man," and we still have assurance of divine help in escaping the snares of the devil, the world, and the flesh. But the awful time is coming, and it may be at our door, when the Holy Spirit will no longer "withhold," or hinder this mighty agent of Satan and he will let loose this "delusion" that those who despise

Rides "Noah's Ark" to Health

A doctor told Harry Nelson, World War veteran, that his loss of a leg by mustard shell shrapnel would shortly end in death. So Nelson made the best of it and decided to see America first. He fitted up this "Noah's Ark" took along a dog, raccoon, monkey and badger and toured all the states as the name plates show. Now Nelson says he's healthier than ever.

and reject the truth may come under the terrible curse of the avenging judgment of him who shall come in flaming fire, raking vengeance over them that know not God, and that obey not the gospel of the Lord Jesus Christ, who shall be punished with everlasting destruction from the presence of the Lord and the glory of his power. 2 Thes. 1:7-9.

Can it be a matter of no real importance that we do not know what Christ has revealed to us about his coming again? Reader: Do you want to be left to suffer the awful tribulation which Christ says is to come upon all that dwell upon the earth, before he returns to earth again to destroy this "lawless one" and all "who obey not the gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ?" Can you think of Christ, as trifling with his faithful servants, by giving such extended descriptions of His coming again, and admonishing the teachings of Christ at their face value, then there is no room for indifference or opposition to the doctrine of the second coming of Christ; and it is extremely perilous to despise this doctrine which Jesus emphasizes more than any other, in all the New Testament. If we turn our ears away from truth, and listen to men who make void the truth of Christ by handling the word of deceitfulness, spiritualizing and explaining away the direct meaning of the words of Christ and make them teach that which they do not teach, then I see no hope of escaping "the strong delusion which God shall send on them that receive not the love of the truth."

It is high time that Christian people awake to the plain and oft-repeated declarations of Christ concerning his appearing lest we be as the five foolish virgins, who took no oil in their vessels, and sought to meet the bridegroom with lamps that were gone out for lack of oil, and were rejected.

I am sure that we do not fully realize what a glorious hope which is set before us in the coming of our Saviour to gather out his elect from the awful scourge of the great tribulation of which Christ and his holy apostles have declared would come on the earth. Nor is this hope great because of this deliverance from the great tribulation only; but the promise to those that are alive and remain unto the coming of the Lord of being "changed in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye," and be caught up together with the resurrected saints to meet the Lord in the air, and to be ever with the Lord is indeed great. "We shall not all sleep, but shall all be changed." 1 Cor. 15:51, 52.

This wonderful revelation of the truth was shrouded in mystery until Christ and his holy apostles made known this mystery. As St. Paul wrote the Scripture quoted, he used these words, "Behold I show you a mystery or secret hid from the world, since the beginning." But how many today care for this precious gospel of "the blessed hope and the glorious appearing of the great God and our Saviour Jesus Christ." Titus 2:13.

This is the Christian's hope and the assurance of it rests upon the immutable truth of our Lord himself. To the ungodly, and disobed-

General Motors To Erect A New Building Soon

11-Story Structure To Be Constructed For Research Work of Big Company In Near Future

DETROIT, Mich., May 19.—The Argonaut Realty corporation, a subsidiary of General Motors, announces that bids have been asked for relative to the construction of an 11-story building to be occupied principally by the General Motors Research Division. The building will be located on Second Boulevard, Milwaukee and Baltimore, and will contain approximately one-half million square feet of floor space, including the basement. It will occupy the entire block on Second Boulevard, extending 210 feet on Milwaukee and 190 feet on Baltimore. It will be connected with the General Motors building by a subway under Milwaukee. This stage of the coming of Christ for his saints in the air must precede his coming with his holy angels and redeemed saints, to execute his judgments in the world. Matt. 16:27 and 25:31-45, also Jude 14:15. second stories to be occupied by United Motors Service. The plans and specifications were prepared by Albert Kahn, Incorporated. The present Research building, at the rear of the General Motors building, will be absorbed for office purposes by General Motors corporation, its divisions and subsidiaries. This building has not met adequately the needs of the research organization since that division moved to Detroit from Dayton, Ohio, three years ago, and concentrated all of its operations here. For the last two years the research activities have been spread over three different buildings.

Research Is Important

Officials of General Motors corporation are intensely interested in the work of the research department, considering it one of the most important activities of the corporation. The desire to bring all of the work under one roof in proximity to the main office of the corporation, and the unsuitableness of the present research building for many of the research experiments prompted the decision to erect a separate structure.

New Shipment Of Millers Received

Dickinson Announces His Stock Contains Supply For New Ford's, New Size In Balloon Family

Receipt of a stock of 30 x 4.50 balloon tires to fit the new Ford has been announced by Dickinson Rubber company, local Miller dealers. The size, a newcomer in the family of balloons, has attracted considerable attention at the showroom where it has been displayed.

The new tire is of heavy, sturdy construction to withstand the quick flexibility of the new Ford, with its speed, acceleration, quick starting and stopping ability. It has the same well known "Geared-to-the-Road" tread with its greater road surface and traction giving qualities as the regular Miller line. In addition the one piece tread and sidewall construction and Uniflex process in building make the tire a fitting companion of the car for which it is designed. While made primarily for new Fords the tire takes the same wear as the 28x4.0 and oversize on all cars now equipped with that size. With a larger and heavier tread many autoists whose cars are equipped with 28x4.0 tires are changing over to the new size. This tendency, says Mr. Dickinson is being observed all over the country as well as locally since the advent of the 30x4.50.

Huge Profits Are Removed To Motor Cars From Steel

Automobile Business Grows And Grows And Owners Of Factories Reap A Harvest Of Prosperity

By NEA Service
CLEVELAND, May 19.—Despite the lower prices on automobiles last year, motor car company profits were more than 28 per cent on the capital investment.
This great margin, however, is attributed to closer buying of raw material rather than the factors of mass production, clever advertising and high pressure selling.
As a result, it is said, the leading steel producers suffered a decline in their profits until last year their margin was only a little over five per cent of their capital.
This comparison is brought out by John W. Hill in a recent article in the Iron Trade Review, published here.
Hill compiles figures for 11 leading automobile manufacturers, excluding Ford, whose figures are not available, and 11 leading steel producers. Comparing these he finds that the automobile industry has been making a profit five times as great as the steel industry.
The reason for this difference, Hill suggests, may be the practice of automobile manufacturers to buy cheaply and make almost excessive demands on the furnishers of raw materials. Thus, the profits are taken not so much from the consumer for whom prices have had to be reduced, as from the producer.
Hill quotes an eastern banker, "Frequently when an automobile producer reduces the price of its car it expects suppliers to cut their prices in proportion. By this method the automobile company protects or increases its profits, while the supplier, already working at rock-

A recent decision of the U. S. district court of New York ordering some 30,000 reconditioned and cleaned spark plugs dumped into the Atlantic ocean, brings out the importance of having only good plugs in the motor.
This judgment stopped a large business in the sale of old spark plugs as new. Motorists would stop at garages and have their plugs changed. The discarded plugs would be bought up at a few cents each by the persons now stopped from this illicit trade, would then be cleaned and put back into cartons. The garage man buying these at low cost would then sell them to innocent motorists at about the same price good ones would bring. And the motorist would discover his mistake after driving a few miles.

The suit that stopped this business brought out the way the defendants "reconditioned" the old spark plugs. They would direct a sand-blast into the ends of the plugs in order to clean out the car-bottom levels, sometimes holds the bag.

The result is that the steel industry is in poor shape, according to Hill.
"Since 1902," he recalls, "iron and steel prices have advanced only 35 per cent, while wages in the industry have increased 150 per cent. During the same period prices of general commodities have advanced 77 per cent."
A little more than a decade ago, not more than four per cent of the steel manufactured went into automobiles. But now, with steel bodies in general use, the automobile industry is one of the four great consuming lines of iron and steel, taking 15 per cent of finished steel production in an average year.

Crosses Desert For New Record

Los Angeles Driver of Chrysler Roadster Sets Fresh Mark in Run to Albuquerque

DETROIT, Mich., May 19.—Alone, and almost noiselessly through a starry night on the desert and a blazing day following over the National Old Trails route east from Los Angeles, August J. Minke, Jr., an amateur and private owner of a Chrysler roadster, avowedly "out for the ride," succeeded in setting a new time record to Albuquerque, N. M. when he arrived in that city one Sunday evening in April.

The new record, as officially checked and certified by the Western Union Telegraph company, is exactly 22 hours, 38 minutes, between Los Angeles and Albuquerque, a distance of 918 miles—an average of a fraction less than 41 miles an hour for the entire trip. Prior to setting out, he had driven his car over 25,000 miles, Minke declared. Most of these have been tracking through the mountains of California, called by him "pretty rough usage."

The car performed perfectly through the grueling run, he declared, or the high average would not have been possible. The actual average speed is marked 40.8 miles per hour for the distance, although the speedometer was registering about 50 miles per hour most of the way. High speeds of 60 and 65 miles per hour were touched frequently.
Minke set his preliminary schedule at 22 hours, as against the former record of 23 hours, 29 minutes. Prior to the last established time, Louis B. Miller on his new historic Chrysler Imperial "30" parts loosen up. And oil and gas leak through.

If your car has been driven over 10,000 miles and is not working properly, check up on your spark plug.

But even the best plugs deteriorate through use and gradually lose their efficiency. The glass wears off. The points wear down. The

BATTLEDORES FOR FLAPPERS

Long respected as a custom dapper back fully 500 years, the game of battledores and shuttlecock has taken on a new life in Japan. During the past season children played with battledores decorated with pictures of movie and other stars, aviators flying over the Pacific and Japanese flappers wearing latest eastern styles.
The game, which once was declared to be a New Year custom because it was fatal to poisonous insects, has become a pastime for the rich, some of the battledores being made of expensive materials and priced as high as $125 each.

DOG RACERS HANDICAPPED

Handicapping racing dogs by machinery is being tried by use of a starting box that has just been invented by R. Wallace of London. The apparatus is controlled by a dial that is surrounded by plug switches, by which the gates of the kennels are opened as desired. As the hare passes a certain point it automatically switches on the current connecting the gates and thus releases the canines at the handicapped times.

SEE-SAVING BROADWAY

NEW YORK, May 19.—Believe it or not—but a Broadway bootlegger now sends out business cards which tell you "not a coffin in a carload."

New York's swanky men order shirts on 43d street that are made in London and shipped back, requiring many weeks of time.
And kodaks are being shown in Fifth Avenue windows made of leather to match your dress or suit—green, grays, browns, and all the rest.
A popular marrying person of Manhattan needs four assistants to take care of the overflow these summer days. And men's unmentionables run to green stripes and polka-dots this summer.

Broadway has done a complete "about-face" when its publicity men are concerned. This was when the "press agents" were nothing to write about and something to dodge. They were looked upon as a faking, untrustworthy band. About two years ago a new order began to arrive. Young men were hired who could write copy that the papers were ### quite pleased to run under a "by-line."

There was Samuel Hoffenstein, of the Al Woods office, who was in demand among the magazines and columnists. Finally he retired and let out a book of verses, "Poems in Praise of Practically Nothing" which has proved to be one of the best selling books of verse in many a year.

The other day Gilbert Miller retained William Drake, perhaps the best authority in American letters on the new generation of European novelists and artists, the author of an erudite book on this subject and a "highbrow" of some standing. Sidney Skolsky writes stories, essays and plays. Arthur Kober, after doing sophisticated articles, was lured away from his theater as a Paris correspondent for a witty Manhattan weekly.

Walter Kingsley is a patriarchal journalist with experience in every port. Walter Crockett has done a book of reminiscences of old journalistic days, under the title of "When James Gordon Bennett was Caliph." Mary Margaret McBride was "ghost" in the writing of Paul Whiteman's book, "Jazz," and a dozen biographies of celebrated persons.
And it gets more so every day. These, and many others, actually are requested by the New York drama departments to write signed articles, all of which are executed
