U. S. Demands Early War Criminals Trials

Jackson Serves Blunt Notice That Decision Must Be Made This Week

By ALEX H. SINGLETON
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, July 30—An authoritative American source said today that Supreme Court Justice Robert Jackson had bluntly informed British, Russian and French representatives that an agreement must be reached this week for trying Germany's war criminals, or the United States would proceed independently with the trials.

His determination—and the probability that other countries will heed his suggestion—was strengthened by the fact that the United States has possession of a big majority of war criminals against whom most of the European countries have brought formal charges, this informant said.

British On Spot

His time limit may mean that Britain's new government will have to replace its chief prosecutor, David Maxwell Fyfe, who served as attorney general under the Churchill regime, or authorize him to continue sitting despite the fact he is a Conservative member of Parliament.

Perhaps a major point still unsettled in the discussions has centered around Jackson's determination to incorporate in the plan for trials an agreement defining aggressive war as an international crime. This definition would spell out in clear-cut terms the meaning of aggressive war and would include such acts as economic aggression and the massing of troops along borders to enfore demands.

Uniform Pattern For Berlin Rule Sought

By DANIEL DE LUCE
Associated Press Staff Writer

BERLIN, July 30—The Allied Control council, holding its first meeting today with Gen. Eisenhower presiding, bolstered hopes that a uniform pattern of Allied rule would be imposed for all four occupation zones in Germany.

Control machinery is yet to be set up, but all four powers were believed convinced that Germany must be regarded as a single entity instead of territorial fragments to be governed independently according to the whims of each occupying Army.

Big Three Rest, Optimism Holds

POTSDAM, July 30. (AP) — The Big Three has not held a business meeting since Saturday night, it was learned tonight.

Censorship would not permit speculation on the reason for the failure of the Big Three to get together today, but it was said tonight that the lack of a meeting would occasion no serious delay in bringing the conference to a conclusion. Optimism was said to be undiminished.

On ecretary Level

The conference has proceeded since Saturday on the foreign secretary level, and a session was held today, but it was not a top-flight meeting of the Big Three.

The belief prevailed tonight, however that President Truman, Premier Stalin and Prime Minister Attlee would meet again Tuesday to continue work toward their final agreements.

Brief statements made to press conferences earlier today had given the erroneous impression that there had been no interruption of the Big Three meetings.

There was no official word as to how long would be necessary to bring the meetings to a close, although the goal now probably is mid-week or shortly thereafter.

Anxious To Finish

The President is reportedly anxious to wind up the conference as soon as possible and return home for a report to the people of the United States on the terms of agreements affecting the future of Europe.

Truman still is the most active member of his delegation. Attlee is carrying on the double duties of directing British efforts here and completing plans to present to a new Parliament Labor's initial domestic program.

What decisions may have been reached respecting future government of Germany, food, rehabilitation, and fixing European boundaries are yet to be disclosed.

Gen. Roosevelt Out August 15

WASHINGTON, July 30 (AP)—Brig. Gen. Elliott Roosevelt's military service will end Aug. 15.

The War department, which only last night disclosed that General Roosevelt had asked to be released from the service, gave out a formal announcement tonight saying that his military service would terminate next month.

The department said that Gen. Roosevelt had originally asked on May 11 to be relieved, and that its decision to relieve him had been taken "before the appearance of recent publicity with respect to certain financial transactions."

Inquiry Into Finances

The thirty-four year old officer's financial affairs have been under official government inquiry for several weeks, as a result of reports that he received a $200,000 loan from John Hartford, president of the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company, which was settled for $4,000.

"No information regarding these matters," the Army said tonight in its statement, "was in the possession of the War department at the time the release (of Roosevelt) was authorized."

"However," the official statement added, "since nothing has come of the attention of the War department altering the original considerations on which the release of General Roosevelt from active duty was based, . . . action is planned to effect his release on Aug. 15 at the end of his terminal leave."

The War department explained that Gen. Roosevelt in May had said that if there was no need for his services in the Pacific he wanted to be released.

Release Permitted

He was advised that regulations permitted the release of regular Army officers whose services no longer were required. However, he was told to report to the air force photographic school, the Army said, and give its staff the benefit of his experience in commanding the photo reconnaissance wing in the European theater of operation.

Young Roosevelt also was told that he should return to Army Air force headquarters here to work with the organization branch with a view to revising the organiza-

Mystery Man Horrified At Petain Trial

By RELMAN MORIN
Associated Press Staff Writer

PARIS, July 30—A French officer denied at the treason trial of Marshal Henri Philippe Petain today that the aged former chief of the Vichy state ever was a member of "La Cagoule," a Fascist-inclined secret society banned in prewar France.

He was 51-year-old, limping Maj. Jean Lostanau-Lacau, described by witnesses as an alleged leader of the Cagoulards. Officially he was a former member of Petain's entourage while the marshal was French ambassador to Madrid in 1930-40.

Horrified At Charges

"I am horrified to see a man of nearly 100 years of age blamed by others for their own errors," Lostanau-Lacau said after he was hustled into the palais of justice courtroom. Just a little while earlier, the police had announced they were unable to find him.

The "mystery man" at Petain's trial, Lostanau-Lacau appeared when the prosecution had finished calling its list of witnesses scheduled to testify against Petain, accused of intelligence with the Germans and plotting against the security of France.

Preceding him as a witness had been former French Premier Edouard Herriot, who quietly and unemotionally expressed the opinion that Petain, in delegating to himself dictatorial power after France's collapse, had participated in a "coup d'etat" against the French third republic.

Gave Them Materials

Herriot, three-times premier of France between wars, testified that President Roosevelt "placed at our disposal material which we needed" in the days before the Franco-German armistice in June, 1940.

Excused from testifying against Petain was 15-year-old Alice Mandel, daughter of former French Colonial Minister Georges Mandel murdered by the Vichy Gestapo. In a letter she said, "I could only weep in the presence of the man who made my father suffer so much."

Herriot was the last witness to be brought against Petain. Documents that bearded prosecutor Andre Mornet said would "speak with even louder words" still are to be read. Mornet said the documents, many of them unknown, would "dissipate the last doubt" of Petain's guilt of treason and convince "our American and British friends who still may have questions."

Called By Judge

Lostanau-Lacau was called at the request of the presiding Judge Paul Monibeaux. He was a witness neither for the prosecution nor the defense but was called under the French legal system by Monibeaux to tell what he knew. His powerful story was both an accusation and a defense of silver-haired Petain, who was said to be suffering from a throat ailment.

The major said he only recently

Excessive Army Buying Said Blocking Reconversion Plan

Senators Urge Work Guarantee

WASHINGTON, July 30. (AP) — A group of senators urged in public hearings today that the government guarantee enough work for all who need jobs. They said that private enterprise stands or falls on the outcome of the experiment.

The Senate Banking committee opened two days of hearings on a bi-partisan measure designed to provide federally financed work when private investment and expenditure fall below the level necessary to furnish jobs for enough people. It would require the President to submit to Congress each year a "national production and employment budget."

British Upheaval

Chairman Wagner (D-NY), Senators Murray (D-Mont) and Morse (R-Ore) saw the issue of postwar employment as the primary factor in the British election upheaval which ousted the Churchill government.

Murray said the British have turned toward socialism" as a possible solution to postwar security. Unless America provides a program of job opportunity for all, he added, there'll be "nothing but conflict and recrimination" for the traditional U. S. capitalistic system.

Economic Opportunity

Morse commented:

"It was recognized that the young men of Great Britain were confronted with the danger of no economic opportunity when they return from the wars."

Morse spoke also for Senators Tobey (R-NH) and Aiken (R-Vt), requesting permission to appear next fall with amendments and to seek the right to be co-sponsors of the measure under consideration.

Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) explained in detail, by chart, the economic history of the nation which he said was replete with the "boom or bust" cycle of depression and great prosperity.

WASHINGTON, July 30 (AP)—Charges that the armed forces have delayed reconversion by excessive buying and by blocking the manufacture of needed civilian goods were made by a retired War Production board official today.

Lester P. Doidge, who resigned July 1 as chief of the consumers' durable goods branch of WPB's Office of Civilian Requirements, said OCR had been thwarted to a large extent in efforts begun a year or more ago to increase the manufacture of civilian products.

Blocked By Army, Navy

"Top officials of the WPB gave us a good hearing," Doidge said in an interview, "but the Army and Navy representatives on the requirements committee blocked our efforts to get materials."

If the reconversion job "has not proceeded as swiftly at it should have"—as alleged Sunday in a report of the Senate War Investigating committee—Doidge said the blame should not be laid to lack of planning or effort by those in charge of civilian production.

"We finally succeeded in getting two million electric irons scheduled for manufacture next year. We felt the country needed and could produce five million.

Refrigerators Needed

"We felt the country needed 4,500,000 mechanical refrigerators a year—we are getting 265,000 this quarter. If there is anything the public needs it is refrigerators—WPB has received hundreds of letters from doctors saying their diabetic patients need refrigerators to keep insulin in. We couldn't give the refrigerators.

"The Army has plenty of refrigerators stored away here and there, but it is still coming in each quarter for a pretty fancy allotment of new refrigerators."

Doidge said that OCR recognized the absolute necessity of putting war production first, but felt the military had been "unnecessarily demanding" in the last year.

Carrier, 20 Other Ships Are Pounded

By JAMES HUTCHESON
Associated Press Staff Writer

MANILA, Tuesday, July 31. — Mitchell bombers of the Far Eastern Air forces attacked a large Japanese aircraft carrier at the Kure naval base Sunday, left it listing and down at the stern and other planes sank or damaged 20 or more Japanese ships, General MacArthur's headquarters reported today.

A direct hit on the carrier was not claimed as clouds obscured vision, and it may have been hit earlier by Navy planes. It was a different one, however, from the light carrier Katsuragi, which was identified as the one damaged in the previous sweep Saturday.

Haruna Badly Damaged

The headquarters spokesman also reported reconnaissance photographs showed the battleship Haruna, hit by both Army and Navy bombers, still afloat but badly damaged at Kure.

The air forces struck savagely to prevent an enemy attempt to shift their Asia-to-Japan shipping lifelines northward to the home waters.

Bombers and fighters of the Far Eastern Air forces hit 14 ships Sunday around Kyushu and Korea and today's announcement added six freighter - transports and freighters to the toll of Saturday's devastating missions on the basis of new reports.

The Katsuragi was reported still afloat but with its deck blackened by fire as a result of the Liberator's several hits forward with thousand-pound bombs and two hits aft.

Battleship Beached

(Admiral Nimitz in a Monday communique said the Haruna was beached and Navy reports said carrier planes first hit the battleship.)

Five hundred sorties were flown in Sunday's attacks against shipping and widely scattered shore targets despite poor weather.

FEAF headquarters said the three-day enemy shipping toll by the Seventh and Fifth Air forces was five warships and 91 merchant vessels of many types destroyed or damaged around the Japanese homeland. The air forces flew a total of more than 1,500 sorties in the three days.

The headquarters spokesman said the presence of the most shipping victims around Kyushu and Korea indicated that Japan was trying to keep its lifelines to the continent open by land routes to Korea and then by shipping across the narrow home waters. The heaviest traffic formerly was from Shanghai and other China points

Planes, Ships Lash 400 Miles Of Coast

60 Surface Vessels And 138 Planes Wrecked Or Damaged In Fiery Raids

By MURLIN SPENCER
Associated Press Staff Writer

GUAM, Tuesday, July 31—American destroyers boldly plunged into the confines of Suruga gulf, 80 miles southwest of Tokyo, this morning and shelled the town of Shimizu while a 400-mile strip of Japan's coasts blazed from a fiery storm unleashed by 1,500 or more American and British carrier planes.

Adm. Nimitz said the carrier planes in their Monday strike against Tokyo and the area extending southwestward to Kyushu, destroyed 65 enemy planes, damaged 73, sank seven vessels and damaged 53.

Preliminary Report

This was based on preliminary reports, subject to later enlargement, but it was notable that none of the ships hit was a heavy naval vessel.

Most of the ships were caught at Maizuru naval base on the west coast of Honshu 245 miles west of Tokyo.

The Japanese Navy already had been given its death blow by three successive raids on the Kure naval base and earlier blows at the Yokosuka naval base. Eighteen action-packed days cost the enemy 68 warships, including three battleships, six aircraft carriers and six cruisers.

Hamamatsu Shelling

Minitz also issued a terse perliminary report on the Monday morning shelling of Hamamatsu by American and British battleships, cruisers and destroyers.

That industrial city, 120 miles southwest of Tokyo and 40 miles southwest of Shimizu, suffered damage to its important railroad shops, several of which were fire-gutted, and t its textile works and other buildings from 1,000 tons of American and British explosive shells. The shelling was unopposed.

There was no report as yet on results of the daring destroyer action at Shimizu shortly after midnight. The town, once a famed Japanese tea-exporting point but lately an aluminum producing center, was subjected to a B-29 fire raid on July 7. It sits picturesquely in a tiny bay with Japan's sacred Mount Fuji as a backdrop.

Jap Paper Flays Suzuki's Cabinet

SAN FRANCISCO, July 30 (AP) Premier Suzuki's cabinet today was sharply criticized by the influential Tokyo newspaper Asahi which demanded that national defense be put on a "priority basis."

The criticism, reported in a Tokyo broadcast heard by the Federal Communications commission, followed Suzuki's rejection yesterday of the Allied surrender ultimatum when he reportedly assured his people that Japanese plane production was "far above that anticipated."

The Asahi editorialized that "air raids against our medium and small sized cities are gaining in intensity . . . Cannot something be done about it by the government?"

Munitions Ministry

Criticism was levelled specifically at the munitions ministry, headed by Adm. Teijiro Toyoda, one of Japan's leading industrialists, member of the wealthy ruling classes, a naval munitions expert and regarded as the strong man in the Suzuki cabinet.

"Long ago," it said, the government announced plans to place telephone and telegraph lines underground to protect them, but "nothing according to plan has been done as yet."

Meanwhile the Tokyo radio conceded that at least 1,250 American planes, most of them from carriers operating off the coast, were bombing airfields, war plants and roads and railways on Honshu throughout the day while the fleet shelled the southern Honshu city of Hamamatsu and the nearby Kii peninsula.

Heavy Vote Seen In August Balloting

AUSTIN, July 30 (AP)—Because many counties plan to submit to their voters the question of whether or not their commissioner's courts will be permitted to re-allocate existing tax levies, a heavier than expected vote on four constitutional amendments to be submitted in the special election Aug. 25 may be cast, says Secretary of State Claude Isbell.

The re-allocation amendment was adopted in the general election last year. To become effective in the various counties, it must be approved by the voters in each county.

Counties have been limited to maximum levies of 15 cents per $100 valuation for jury funds, 15 cents for roads and bridges, 25 cents for general fund, and 25 cents for permanent improvements. Under the amendment adopted last November, the commissioners courts may, upon a vote of the people, reallocate these levies within a maximum rate of 80 cents per $100 valuation.

POSTAL RECEIPTS GAIN

AUSTIN, July 30. (U.P.)—Texans licked the equivalent of nearly half a billion 3-cent postage stamps during the first six-months of this year, or about 50,000,000 more than for the first half of 1944.

This information was issued today by the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research. The report said Texas postal receipts for the first half of the year were $15,691,374.

Crash Wreckage Well Scattered

NEW YORK, July 30. (AP) — Pieces of the B-25 Army bomber which Saturday crashed into the 79th floor of the Empire State building were found today a quarter of a mile from the scene of the crash which took 13 lives and injured 26 persons.

A fragment of one of the plane's propellors was discovered on the roof of the Franklin Simon department store, four blocks north of the world's tallest building.

Two Unidentified Yet

Only one of the dead remained unidentified as the building's operation slowly returned to normal. Six persons still were in Bellevue hospital, four in critical condition.

Workmen, dangling 900 feet above the ground, began the task of repairing the gaping holes in the north and south sides, as the Army removed the wreckage of the bomber to the Newark Army Air base.

Lt. Col. Carl Hinkle, jr., of Yonkers, identified as a close friend of Lt. Col. William Smith, jr., pilot of the ill-fated plane, said Smith's record included over 1,000 flying hours with never a death or injury to his crews.

More Flights Reported

"Col. Smith was a very good flier," Hinkle said. "He was very courageous — afraid of nothing." Smith "never had an accident" in 34 combat missions, Hinkle added.

Mayor F. H. LaGuardia said he had been informed that two four-engined Army planes had flown low over the Empire State building yesterday and added:

"I just can't believe it."

Police Fight Faith Healers And Snakes

ST. CHARLES, Va., July 30 (U.P.) Four big mountain rattlesnakes were hidden away by the Holiness faith healers sect today from state police who broke up a Sunday snake-charming ritual in the Virginia hills.

The police killed four other snakes as they waded into a whirling mass of Holiness healers who swung the eight poisonous reptiles high over their heads, shouting:

"Come and get me. Praise the lord!"

One member of the sect touched his lips to the forked tongue of a snake as a policeman sought to herd him into a patrol wagon.

The members, however, made off with four of the snakes.

Four of the "healers" were arrested, but were released later. One policeman escorting a member of the sect to a car suddenly felt something move under the man's shirt. He screamed and pulled his hand away. Out came a big rattler. It was clubbed to death.

Three others died under police clubs as the squad under Capt. H. W. Lawrence followed orders from Gov. Colgate Darden of Virginia to prevent the "dangerous" faith demonstration.

New Type Powerful Cruiser In Action

WASHINGTON, July 30 (AP) — The Navy disclosed tonight that the new giant battle cruiser Guam it terms the American version of the pocket battleship has been in combat action off Okinawa and Japan almost six months.

A warship exceeding many battleships in length and tonnage, the Guam's 12-inch guns have blasted at two enemy-held islands, knocked down two airplanes, assisted in downing six others and supported numerous carrier strikes, the announcement said.

The Guam is larger and more potent than German raider, the Graf Spee, pocket battleship trapped and forced to sink itself off South America early in the European war. The Navy said the Guam's extensive compartmentation makes her "one of the most combat-worthy ships in the world."

There is only one other American naval vessel like the the Guam, her sister ship the USS Alaska, which was completed first.

Both carry 12-inch guns rather than the eight-inch weapons on the usual heavy cruiser. Both have heavy anti-aircraft batteries. Each displaces 20,000 tons plus, is more than 800 feet long and has a beam of more than 80 feet.

The Woman's Angle

SOAP, soap, everybody is talking, writing and reading about the lack of soap these days. And since there isn't a cleaner subject, we'll pass along some suggestions about the latest shortage plaguing housewives. Mothers of small boys who like to whittle might interest them in whittling dried slivers and scraps of soap for use in the washtub or dishpan. If there is no small fry of jack-knife age in the family, the dried odds and ends of soap can be put through the meat chopper (you might as well use it for something these days) or you might even scrape them on a grater.

MIGHT TRY THIS RECEIPE

Desperate soap department: Miss Jennie Wilmot, associate professor of home economics at the University of Texas, offers a tested soap recipe to housewives who are at their wit's end about the soap situation. Even Miss Wilmot's suggestion presents two problems . . . where to get the necessary fat and what to use for soap while your homemade soap is "drying out" for 30 days. If you can hurdle those two problems, here's the recipe:

1 quart of melted and strained fats, ½ cup of lye, 1½ cups of water, 2½ tablespoons ammonia hydroxide and 3/4 cup of saturated borax. (Stir powdered borax in the water until no more will dissolve and a few grains lie undissolved on the bottom of the cup.) Dissolve the lye in the water; add the lye water to the fat, stirring rapidly; add the borax solution and ammonia hydroxide and stir for about 15 minutes, or until of creamy consistency; pour into an earthenware or enamelware container to a depth of 1½ to 2 inches; cut before it becomes hard. Wait one month before using for if you don't, the lye will eat your hands.

A POSTWAR soap suggestion: A Hollywood makeup artist says any good washing powder makes a wonderful hair shampoo. Just whip it up and on. The artist also makes another very fine suggestion which will be of little use to the women of Lubbock now and probably never. Stale beer, he says, is an excellent rinse for the hair. The hops in the beer help the hair to take on the softest set. The beer must be stale to prevent the lingering of beery odors.

Grim Picture For Ladies

Unmarried girls who were left behind while the men went to war, have some pretty grim statistics facing them today. There are 4 million unmarried women in America and only one million 7 hundred thousand eligible men. To offset that bit of information, it is nothing but fair we remind you that a redistribution station in Georgia reports that the average GI being discharged now is 28 and single. The "composite GI," according to the report, is five feet, eight inches tall and weighs 154 pounds. From one redistribution center, 60,000 men have been released recently. You'll probably have better luck if you don't appear too anxious—play hard-to-get for a couple of minutes!

Nazi 'Iron Men' Give Way Rapidly As They Await War Crimes Trials

By GEORGE TUCKER
Associated Press Staff Writer

MONDORF, Luxembourg, July 30.—Top Nazis and even some of the supposed iron men who built and bossed the German military machine are going to pieces morally and physically as they wait behind barbed wire for their war crimes trials.

Records kept by the Army since this interrogation center was opened May 13 told today of the strange effect of fear and confinement on on the survivors of the German clique that once ruled Europe.

Some Of The Records

The records showed that:

Hermann Goering never has recovered fully from the abject fear of death he showed when first brought here;

Robert Ley, onetime overlord of German workmen, has shown a marked physical and moral disintegration and has only one friend among the dozens of German leaders here—Julius Streicher, Adolf Hitler's No. 1 Jew baiter;

Streicher, who now professes to have decided that Jews should be allowed to live unmolested, wanders around disconsolately in Ley's company, the picture of a broken man;

Dr. Hans Frank, Nazi chieftain in Poland, who arrived at Mondorf wearing only a pair of lace panties, vaccilates between hysteria and scorn, crying out that 'I am a criminal.'

Officers Also Affected

The deterioration is apparent even in some of the general officers who planned and helped execute the most ruthless war in history.

Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel wrote Gen. Eisenhowed to protest the confiscation of his marshal's baton. Adm. Karl Doenitz, who succeeded Hitler as fuehrer, resented being photographed with a black number across his shirt front, and wrote to Eisenhower to tell him so.

Sgt. Robert Bock of Milwaukee, Wis., assistant in the liaison office here, said that Goering was so nervous on his arrival that he had to be put in care of Field Marshal Albert Kesselring.

"He kept saying, 'I think you are going to kill me tomorrow'," Bock related.

Lacks Moral Stamina

Commenting on Goering, Col. B. C. Andrus of Denver, Colo., commanding officer of the interrogation center, said he was "so debased by his vices he lacks the moral stamina of normal men."

Among the old line German military leaders, Adm. Doenitz has preserved a cynical exterior most of the time, except for his outburst over being photographed. While watching American soldiers string in additional barbwire around the enclosure, he turned to Sgt. Bock and said: "I don't think this place is well enough protected — what you need is an extra fence with a few lions and tigers."

Gen. Walter Warlimont, recently questioned by Soviet Army officers, once spent considerable time in Texas as an artillery observer. He told Sgt. Bock the girls of Dallas and Fort Worth were wonderful.

Changes Mind About Jews

Sgt. Bock said Streicher had told him he had changed his mind completely about Jews and now was convinced they deserved to be allowed to live just the same as members of any other group of people.

Streicher told Bock that when he was captured he was knocked down and kicked in the face and a negro spat in his mouth.

"Then one day, I changed camps, Bock quoted Streicher. 'I was placed in a clean room. An American came in with a pitcher of cocoa and some crackers. He set them down on the little table and stepped back and said, 'this is from me to you, Mr. Streicher—I am a Jew.'

"I broke down and cried. That was the most severe punishment I have ever received. I am wrong. I have always said there were no good Jews, but that boy proved to me that I am wrong."

PFC. HAROLD T. SEWELL

Harold T. Sewell Is Reported Killed When Jap Ship Was Sunk

Pfc. Harold T. Sewell, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Sewell of Plainview and husband of Mrs. Willie Sewell, 1939 Ave. N, lost his life June 20, 1944, when a Japanese ship which was transporting prisoners of war was sunk, the War department has informed his parents and wife.

The ship was carrying a group of prisoners, 43 of whom were Americans, from Java to Japan. Only thirteen of the 43 survived and reached the Fukuoko prison camp in Japan.

Pfc. Sewell volunteered for Army service in November, 1940, and received training at Camp Bowie. He went overseas in November, 1941, as a member of Battery D, 131st Field Artillery, 2nd battalion, which after the fall of Java became known as "The Lost Battalion."

Pfc. Sewell was listed as missing in action until June, 1942, at which time he was reported a prisoner of war and held in a camp on Java. Three radio messages and two cards were received from him after his capture, the last card arriving in the summer of 1944. In November, 1944, his parents were advised that their son was aboard a prison ship that was sunk and he was again listed as missing in action until last week's message.

Besides his parents and his wife, Pfc. Sewell is survived by his sisters, Mrs. W. T. Bell, Mrs. Ira W. Parks, Misses Marie, Betty Jo, and Mary Alice Sewell, all of Plainview, and Mrs. Thurman Thomas of Aiken.

Mrs. Sewell resides with her mother, Mrs. Val Morris, 1939 Ave. N.

Alaskan Crater Erupting Again

By OLEN CLEMENTS
Associated Press Staff Writer

UMNAK, Alaska, July 23 (Delayed)—Old Mother Earth, ordinarily a docile old soul, grumbled way down deep.

Hot volcanic ash lumps of 1,000 degrees centigrade temperature shot a thousand or more feet into the air from the huge eight-mile crater which is called Tulik for want of an official name.

Mindful of the last big eruption in this area; when Katmai volcano on the Alaskan peninsula rumbled in 1912 and formed what is now known as the valley of ten thousand smokes, the Army sent out a call for an expert to look over the crater.

In six days Dr. Howell Williams of the University of California geological department showed up. He made several trips to the area of activity and finally pronounced the crater safe for the time being. He said it showed no evidence of overflowing the eight-mile crater bowl.

"But," he added, "there is no possible way to determine the length of time the present flow will continue, because there are no previous records upon which to base an estimate."

So the Army is taking no chances. An emergency evacuation plan has been laid out to remove speedily the men stationed 16 miles from this, the so-called second largest crater in the world, if a violent eruption should come.

OPA Office Here Closes Sept. 15

Earl Kerr, director, announced Monday the abolishment Sept. 15 of the Lubbock district of OPA and combining the 71-county territory with that of the Fort Worth district.

Kerr said action involving the Lubbock office was part of a national reorganization plan of the OPA which will result in the abolishment of 31 districts over the nation. Three of these district offices, Lubbock, Tulsa and Shreveport, La., are in Region Five. Tulsa's office will close on Aug. 15.

Objective of the move, Kerr said was "to shift staff and resources in the field to the major points of population concentration and to key production and distribution areas, so as to make possible better service in the reconversion period to the largest number of businesses and to protect the greatest number of people with effective enforcement."

No Duty Stations Here

"So far as we know there will be no duty stations in Lubbock and unless personnel of the Lubbock office desire to be transferred to other points, their period of employment will be terminated," Kerr said. He said employes in certain civil Service positions would be due for transfer to either the Fort Worth or other district offices. The office employes a total of 128 persons.

Kerr, who has been director for the past two months, said he planned to "retire to my farm." Kerr was district board executive before taking the position of director. He owns a Lubbock county farm which he operated prior to accepting a position with the OPA.

The OPA occupies 48½ offices on three floors of the Lubbock National bank building which will be made available to private concerns with abolishment of the office. Office equipment of the OPA will be shipped to Fort Worth, Kerr said. There is a bare possibility that some of it may be declared surplus and offered for sale, he said.

The office was established here on Oct. 15, 1942 and should the closing date now tentatively set for Sept. 15 be adhered to, it will lack one month of being in operation here three years.

Members of the directorate of Lubbock Chamber of Commerce met in called session in chamber offices shortly before noon Monday to discuss the OPA removal.

Decision was that it wasn't a chamber of commerce function to attempt to interfere with the removal and no plans to try to retain the 71-county headquarters were formulated.

Robert W. Harrist Is Buried Here Monday

Last rites of the church were read Monday afternoon for Robert W. Harrist, 87, father of Lubbock County Sheriff Grady Harrist.

Harrist, a resident of Lubbock county the 30 years since he moved from Knox county, died about 8:30 o'clock Sunday morning at his route 4 home near Slide, after stomach and kidney complications last week had seriously aggravated a condition noticeable a year.

The service was read in Asbury Methodist church by Rev. C. A. Bickley, Asbury pastor, and Dr. H. I. Robinson, pastor of the First Methodist church. Burial was in Lubbock cemetery.

All county offices closed at noon, out of respect, and several district offices.

Bearers, all neighbors, were: I. D. Stanford, Gail Mabray, M. C. Williams, Lee Reiger, W. B. Copeland and George Hindman.

Other survivors are: the widow, Mrs. Della A. Harrist; two sons, F. L. Harrist of 2117 Twenty-first, and W. G. Harrist of Rockport; two daughters, Mrs. L. R. Stryker of Lubbock route 4 and Mrs. J. D. McGinnis of 2307 Seventeenth; eight grandchildren and five great grandchildren.

Carving Up Of Germany Believed Started By Big Three At Potsdam

BY RALPH HEINZEN
United Press War Analyst

The carving up of Germany is believed to have begun at Potsdam. The wall of secrecy surrounding the Big Three conference has been pierced enough to learn that six Poles led by Vice-Premier Stanislas Mikolajczyk have appeared at the conference to discuss the final western delimitation of their country.

Cut to one-half her size by Russia during the war, Poland asks permission to move westward at the expense of Germany. She seeks also not only to divide up East Prussia with Russia, besides acquiring all of the Danzig zone, but Big Three approval of the incorporation into Poland of all Germany east of the Oder and Neissee rivers.

Would Get Stettin

If the Polish demands are granted completely, Poland would get Stettin, the great Baltic port, and would widen her frontage on the Baltic to 250 miles. Germany would keep Frankfurt but also would lose Breslau, Kuestrin and Liegnitz. The whole of German Pomerania and Silesia and parts of Saxony and Brandenburg — all of which was conquered by the Red armies in the final drive of the war—would be lost to Poland. Berlin would stand barely 30 miles from the Polish border.

The partition, to reply Poland for the eastern half of her territory lost to Soviet, Russia, would deprive Germany of the rich forests of Pomerania, the coal of Silesia and the rich industrial basin between Breslau and Beuthen.

Early Decision Sought

Russia has pressed for an early fixing of Poland's frontiers. At the same time she has engaged in direct negotiations with Prague in an effort to satisfy simultaneously Czech territorial demands when the new frontiers of eastern Europe are drawn.

Prague and Warsaw are in bitter dispute over Teschen, the tiny but rich little coal valley, and over a slice of Saxony and Silesia.

Czechoslovak Prime Minister Zdenek Fierlinger, who has called to Moscow, asked for the return of that part of Teschen which Poland grabbed with Germany's consent at the time of German piecemealing of Bohemia. He also asked for Glatz, Ratibor and Leobschuetz. They all lie within the zone east of the Neisse river which is likely to got to Poland.

Agree To Negotiation

Wladislaw Gomulka, vice-premier of the Polish provisional government, called to Moscow in his turn, agreed to settle the Czech demands by negotiation "between all Slav peoples" but said Poland preferred to submit the Teschen problem to a plebiscite under the principle of self-determination.

Teschen was cut in half in 1920 and Prague and Warsaw each got a share. After Munich, Poland ordered the Polish military occupation of the Czech part of Teschen and eventually, with German approval, the whole of Teschen was incorporatted in Poland. Czechoslovakia now asks for its half.

Number Of Farms In Garza County Is Showing Decrease

The number of farms in Garza county, as shown by the preliminary count of returns of the 1945 census of agriculture was 449, as compared with 721 in 1940 and 608 in 1935. This was announced Monday by Wilburn S. Patrick, supervisor of the 1945 farm census in the second Texas census district with headquarters at Lubbock.

The total land in farms in Garza, according to the preliminary count, was 466,349 acres as compared to 465,070 acres in 1940, and 445,454 acres in 1935. Average size farms in the county for 1945 was 1,039 acres as compared to 645 acres in 1940 and 733 acres in 1935.

In announcing the census totals, Supervisor Patrick pointed out that the figures are preliminary and subject to correction. Final tabulation of returns will be made by the Bureau of Census and announced from Washington when completed Patrick said.

More Republicans On Court Bench Urged

WASHINGTON, July 30. (AP)—Appointment of a Republican to succeed retiring Supreme Court Justice Owen J. Roberts was urged today by Representative Martin of Massachusetts, House Republican leader.

He did not suggest any names, but Senator Austin (R-Vt) has been mentioned frequently as a possible choice for the post.

Martin also called for appointment of more Republicans to other federal judgeships. He declared in the past 12 years only four of 200 judges named have been GOP members.

"The time is long overdue to reaffirm the principle of a bi-partisan impartial judicial system," Martin asserted in a statement.

The Sports Eye

By Mack Turner

WE HAVE heard of lots of alibis offered for defeats, and some of them are pretty good. Others are pretty corny. But Blondy Cross, our old pal of the Standard-Times at San Angelo comes up with the best one of the year in regards to the San Angelo junior baseball team that wilted before the potent bats of the Lubbock nine in last week's American Legion divisional tournament here.

From Blondy's Top O'Morn column, we quote:

THE San Angelo Junior Legion baseball team tried to pull too much of an iron-man act in the Region 1 meet the other day and the night before in Lubbock, not in just playing a double-header with Wichita Falls and Lubbock Juniors.

The San Angelo team nudged out Wichita Falls, 4 to 3, in what was a comparatively good game, then later in the afternoon a very tired San Angelo team found itself unable to cope with Lubbock and lost, 18 to 8.

The boys, regardless of the double-header setup, SHOULD have been tired . . . The night before they devoted most of their sleeping time to indulging in pillow fights with the Wichita Falls team.

With little or no sleep, Wichita Falls and San Angelo waged a comparatively sharp baseball conflict during the afternoon—but following that the San Angelo kids were in no shape to sock with the Lubbock boys who had slept in their homes and had indulged in no pillow fights.

WHILE still on the subject of the junior tournament here, we had a telephone call from Ed Cole in Wichita Falls, seeking to find some trace of the missing handbag.

His son, Bob Cole was the centerfielder of the Wichita Falls team. On the day the Wichitans left Lubbock, Cole took his handbag out of the American Legion hall and put in in a gray car parked at the curb. The car looked like one in which the Wichitans were traveling, but it turned out to be another car.

It was a good sized brown handbag, and contained the Legion uniform baseball shoes, glove, and personal clothing of the youngster. There was probably no identification in the bag. The uniform had the American Legion emblem and North Texas Motor company name on the back.

Anyone knowing anything about the bag are urged to contact the author of this column at the Morning Avalanche, and we will forward it to the rightful owner.

I'll be seeing you.

Nelson Easy Victor In All American Golf Tournament

CHICAGO, July 30. (AP) — Robot-like Byron Nelson, who insists he is "only human," clanked off with $10,200 cold cash today as he won the lush All-American Open golf tournament with a record 72-hole total of 269, an amazing 19 under par and 11 strokes ahead of a helpless field.

The incomparable Nelson, whose first professional tour in 1932 netted him exactly $12.50, paced golf's richest meet from the start in unbelievable fashion, firing a closing 67 after slamming an original 136-player field to the ropes with rounds of 66 and 68's.

Defending Champion Nelson, in boosting his 1945 winnings to $45,200 (war bond swag) — almost as much as he won in all of 1944—was trailed at 280 by 44-year-old Gene Sarazen, of New York and Lt. Ben Hogan, of Louisville.

A $43,300 cash stake was sliced down to the 40th place among the professionals. A stroke behind the runners-up with 281's were Harold (Jug) McSpaden, of Sanford, Me., Denny Shute of Akron, O., and Vic Ghezzi, of Atlantic City, N. Y.

It was the fourth time in the five years Promoter Geo. S. May has staged his money-packed carnival that Nelson found the par-72 Tam O'Shanter course paved with winner's gold.

The Texas-born Toledo star won the inaugural open in 1941 with 278 which stood as the meet record until today; defeated Clayton Heafner in a playoff for the 1942 championship; and copped last year with 280, matching his 1942 aggregate.

"I sweated plenty winning this one," drawled the transplanted Texan, who leaves tonight for the $10,000 Canadian Open starting Thursday. "For the first time, I started a tournament fast which put me under more pressure than ever. People forget that I worry about beating par as much the next fellow and that I'm only human."

It was the ninth straight individual tourney triumph for Nelson during which string he has maintained an incredible average of 67.5 strokes per 18-hole round. His average round in winning 12 of 18 tournaments to date this year is 68.15.

Purina Nine Defeats Dickinson Club, 12-9

Purina Millers staved off a wild last inning rally by the Dickinson Motor company nine Monday afternoon at Chapman field, and won a 12 to 9 victory in a National League junior baseball game.

Denny Davidson coasted into the seventh inning with a 12 to 3 lead, but was greeted with a barrage of base hits in the final round, but managed to smother out the rally before the long lead was overcome.

R. J. Metheny pitched for the losers. John Paul Jones caught Davidson, while Sandlin and Becknell did the receiving for the losers.

DALLAS, July 30 (AP) — William (Chief) Wano, colorful Indian first-baseman for the Dallas Steers in 1923, died today at a local hospital as a result of a brain hemorrhage Saturday night.

Wano played part of 1924 with Dallas and the rest of the season with Wichita Falls. He has been working as a guard at the North American Aviation plant for nearly three years.

Survivors include his wife and daughter of Little Rock, Ark., and a son, discharged Marine veteran who is now a student at Louisiana State university.

Holmes Holds A Hair Line Lead

NEW YORK, July 30 (AP) — Tommy Holmes of Boston leads the National League in batting today by the hair-breadth margin of .00015 over Goody Rosen of Brooklyn.

Although Holmes' average of .36857 counted .369 because the fraction is more than half a point and Rosen's .36842 becomes merely .368, the difference is so slight that a single hit or time at bat would reverse the standings.

Rosen's chase of Holmes finally was successful early last week when the Dodger outfielder took the lead but he immediately went into a hitless tailspin and dropped back into the runnerup spot.

Phil Cavarretta of Chicago's fast-stepping Cubs, dropped off five points from a week ago to .350 but remained within striking distance of the lead. Stan Hack of Chicago at .337 and Luis Olmo of Brooklyn at .335 were other members of the first five.

WHITE SOX STAR STILL LEADS AMERICAN

CHICAGO, July 30 (AP)—Veteran Tony Cuccinello, White Sox third baseman who has led American League batters for most of the current season, boosted his average eight points last week and now heads the circuit's hit parade with a .333 mark.

Six points behind the 36-year-old Chicago infielder is runnerup George Case, Washington outfielder, with a .327. Philadelphia's Bob Estalella passed George Stirnweiss of New York and Ed Lake of Boston to take over third place in the slugging scramble with .312. Stirnweiss was a point behind the Athletics' outfielder with .311 and the Red Sox' infielder was next with .307.

Reds Nose Cards In Series Opener, 5-4

ST. LOUIS, July 30. (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds took a 5-4 decision in their first game of a series with the St. Louis Cardinals tonight as veteran Ed Heusser posted his fifth victory of the year.

After overcoming an early one-run Cardinal lead, the Reds built up a two run advantage at the end of seven frames. The Red Birds threatened in the eighth and pushed across one run on a walk, a single by Del Rice and an outfield fly, but left the tying run on third base.

Ken Burkhardt, who worked the first six innings for the world champions, was charged with his sixth loss of the year against 11 victories.

The defeat dropped the Cardinals into a second-place tie with the idle Brooklyn Dodgers, six games behind the league leading Chicago Cubs.

Optimists Rally To Defeat Jaycees, 5-2

Coming from behind with a four run rally in the sixth, the Optimist club junior baseball nine remained unbeaten in the American League second half race by winning a 5 to 2 decision over the Junior Chamber of Commerce club Monday afternoon at the Boys club diamond.

Billy Travis outpitched Morris Turner for the victory. John Tosh relieved Turner on the mound in the sixth after the Optimists had gained a 3-2 lead.

Jack Keeling walked to begin the JCC half of the fourth. John Tosh sacrificed the runner to second. Jones belted a long single, the first hit for the Jaycees, scoring Keeling.

Burlsmith, batting for the Optimists in the fifth, lined out a good single. He and Travis were both safe on Travis' grounder to second base. Tatum grounded out to second base, both runners advancing on the play. Bass lined out a screaming single scoring Bulsmith. Travis missed third base attempting to score for the third out.

JCC again took the lead as Morris Turner singled to open the sixth, stole second base, and came romping home behind Jones' second hit of the game.

Cook gained a base on balls for the Optimists in the sixth. Scales reached first on error, and Rogers walked, filling the sacks. Dickinson hit to third base. Green overthrew first, admitting two runs, and leaving runners on second and third. Burlsmith lined out his second single of the game to score Rodgers and Dickinson with the last two tallies.

The line score:

Patty Berg Captures All-American Title

CHICAGO, July 30. (AP) — Lt. Patty Berg of the Marines came from behind on the final nine to capture her second All-American Women's Open championship today by a one-stroke margin over Dorothy Germain of Philadelphia.

Miss Berg, winner in 1943, copped the "long count" tournament with a closing 77 that gave her a 72-hole total of 312. Miss Germain, who started the final 18-hole session with a two-stroke lead, faded with an 80 for an aggregate of 313.

Bob Coleman Resigns As Manager Of Braves

NEW YORK, July 30. (AP)—Bob Coleman resigned today as manager of the Boston Braves and was replaced by Coach Del Bissonette.

Coleman plans to leave for his Evansville, Ind., home immediately and Bissonette will take charge of the seventh-place club in tomorrow's doubleheader with the New York Giants.

General Manager John Quinn said Coleman would remain in the Boston organization, returning as a scout later in the season. His contract does not expire until 1946. No announcement was made of a financial settlement although Coleman said he was being "taken care of."

Bob Johnson Passes Mark Of 2,000 Hits

NEW YORK, July 30 (AP) — Robert Lee Johnson of the Boston Red Sox, named after the Confederate general who came out second best in the war between the states, has been runner up so often he won't answer roll call until his name has been mentioned twice.

Even the most rabid of Red Sox followers were startled today upon learning that the quiet outfielder, who hit four for four Sunday, had entered the ranks of baseball's greats who made 2,000 or more major league hits. Only 82 players in 69 years have done that.

That's the way its been throughout Indian Bob's baseball career. His work has always been above par, but somehow there was always somebody else to steal the glory.

Ask the average fan who the present leading American League home run sluggers are and he'll answer "Greenberg, York and Joe DiMaggio."

But Johnson has hit more homers than either of those three including 12 this year. Johnson has 288.

Jap Toll Taken By Fleet Mounts

that shelled the town's military objectives.

Airfields Also Pounded

The carrier-borne American and British planes meanwhile were striking hard at enemy airfields and lesser shipping. More than 60 airfields were among the targets. The Americans destroyed 58 enemy planes on the ground and damaged 68 while the British fliers shot two of the air, destroyed five on the ground and damaged five.

One of the enemy airborne planes was destroyed near the fleet—the only mention of possible opposition to the strike that began at dawn yesterday.

The American planes, on the basis of the preliminary report alone, sand one enemy cargo vessel, two midget submarines and three small craft; and damaged one escort aircraft carrier, one large transport, four destroyer escorts, one submarine tender, one large submarine, seven midget submarines, one gunboat, seven cargo vessels and 11 assorted small craft.

Toll Taken By British

The British planes sank one lugger and damaged 12 cargo vessels, three destroyers and four destroyer escorts.

The only new report of striking any major enemy fleet unit came from General MacArthur's headquarters, which announced that on Sunday Far East Air forces Army bombers again attacked Kure naval yard and left a large aircraft carrier listing and down by the stern. This may have been one of the heavy ships knocked out the previous day by the Third Fleet's carrier planes.

Its work on the enemy Navy evidently done, Admiral Halsey's Third Fleet and its British task force then turned northward and made their devastating Monday morning gunfire attack on Hamamatsu.

It was disclosed incidentally today in Washington that the new American battle cruiser Guam, a 20,000-tonner with 12-inch guns, has been participating for six months in the Okinawa and Japanese operations.

915 Ships, 1,076 Planes

Admiral Nimitz announced yesterday that in those 18 action-packed days a total of 915 ships and small craft and 1,076 of Japan's hoarded airplanes had been destroyed or damaged by carrier planes alone.

Totaling up the havoc wrought in Japan's inland sea and its sprawling "Pearl Harbor" base of Kure, a staff officer with the Third fleet declared: "This is the end of the Jap Navy."

Pilots bringing back reconnaissance photos of the tremendous strike Saturday declared that the inland sea indeed was Pearl Harbor in reverse.

In all these operations not an Allied warship has been reported damaged and there was no hint that the Japanese air force now was coming out to battle, although Tokyo claimed Nipponese planes had begun to fight back.

Most of the enemy planes knocked out were caught grounded.

Superfortress crewmen reported progress in the campaign to annihilate the third Japanese entity —the cities — declaring that large fires raged through all six secondary industrial cities after raids by up to 600 B29s Sunday.

Despite advanced warnings that these cities would be struck, the Japanese put up only feeble resistance in the air or from ground fire and every one of the big bombers returned to base.

The Japanese were advised that henceforth not only the B29s from the Marianas, but the Far Eastern Air forces of MacArthur would call their shots beforehand on cities to be struck to convince civilians quickly that further resistance is futile.

to their deputies for study and report at the next meeting, Aug. 10, proposals for "establishment and bringing into operation the organs of control provided for in the agreement on control machinery in Germany."

The council said it "took note with approval of the arrangements reached for allocation of a sector of Berlin to the forces of occupation of the French republic." Boundaries of the sector that will be taken over by the French were not stipulated.

Col. Gen. Alexander Gorbatov, Soviet charman of the Allied kommandtur for Berlin, told correspondents the French Zone would be carved from the British and American sectors. He did not say what part of the city the French would take over.

In addition the council agreed to hold meetings on the 10th, 20th and 30th of each month and at any other time upon request of any member. It agreed also that the chairmanship should "rotate every calendar month in the following alphabetical order by countries starting with the month of August — Eisenhower, Montgomery, Koenig and Zhukov."

Day-by-Day Meetings

A military spokesman explained that the deputies will probably hold day-by-day meetings in Berlin. They are U. S. Lt. Gen. Lucius D. Clay, Soviet Army Gen. V. S. Sokolovsky, British Lt. Gen. Cecil Bruce Robertson and French Gen. Marie Louis Koeltz.

The high ranking officers and translators met in the U. S. group council control headquarters, former headquarters of the air defense for central Germany.

Allied correspondents were not permitted at the meeting, but later were "briefed" by two American and British officers. The official communique issued by the control council centered on the allocation of a sector of Berlin to the French.

Landon Sees Evil In Compulsory Training

WATERVILLE, Kan., July 30 (U.P.)—Alf M. Landon today decried compulsory military service in the post-war years as a threat to the democratic form of government.

The 1936 Republican presidential nominee and former Kansas governor said he thought the Army and Navy should be maintained at greater strength than after the last war, urged expansion of the National Guard and suggested a research staff be set up to keep up on the processes of war.

But, he said, "It's a question of whether you can maintain our republic under compulsory military training."

Landon spoke yesterday at the 75th anniversary of the Methodist church here.

"The very ideals upon which this church was founded by the pioneers are being challenged in the cry for military training," he said.

He charged that universal military training would shift the responsibility of parents to government-regulated camps.

Trial Of Petain

had returned from a German "extermination" camp where he had miraculously survived. He described himself as a "political deportee," handed over to the German Gestapo by Petain's Vichy government.

His eyes deeply sunken and lustreless and the flesh drawn tightly over his craggy jaws, the major leaned on his cane between his knees, described his imprisonment and then said:

"I owe Petain nothing—nor any other man."

Favorable Statement

In Petain's favor, Lostanau-Lacau made two statements. He said the marshal "was fully aware of a network of anti-German resistance organizations that I was forming" and after discussing the Cagoulards, he said:

"What has all this to do with Petain? He was never a member of La Cagoule." He declared the charge was simply a "blind for Petain's real responsibilities which he shared with others."

On the other hand, the major disclosed that Petain personally had sent him from Madrid in 1939 to see Pierre Laval, who became the marshal's right-hand man, to "ask him what he thinks of the French situation."

Laval, he said, told him in Paris: "The situation is very clear. We must get rid of (former Premier Edouard) Daladier. Tell Petain that Daladier is a dirty dog. Tell Petain that Daladier has to be eliminated and a new government formed."

Form Veterans League

After the Franco-German armistice, Lostanau-Lacau said, he accepted a job from Petain of forming a war veterans legion, but declared he did so with the understanding that he would organize 1,000,000 men for use against the Germans.

"Petain knew perfectly well of this," he said. But after that, Vichy arrested him and he was turned over to the Germans, the major testified.

Petain, questioned by a juror, replied through his lawyers that he knew "nothing about" the major's stories.

Herriot, who took the stand against Petain following his recovery from an illness, accused the marshal of delaying the departure of the French government from Bordeaux for North Africa in 1940 by dilatory tactics while the armistice with Germany was being signed.

Meeting With Laval

After Petain had detained the government, "I learned there had been a meeting with Laval and others where it was decided that he would be prevented from leaving," the last president of the French chamber of deputies shouted to the crowded courtroom.

Retelling the story of the events leading up to the armistice with Germany, Herriot said:

"France had two staunch friends in Churchill and Roosevelt. We knew Britain would fight to the end. Roosevelt had placed at our disposal material which we needed and I felt sure that the day would come when he would lead the United States into the war. We had no right to betray such a confidence."

Herriot, who was arrested in North Africa and was turned over to the Germans, was asked whether he protested when Petain formed the Vichy government. He said he had not, because "I wanted to believe in the Petain legend."

"But I had to abandon this belief," he said.

'Good Looks' Said Useful In Teaching

AUSTIN, Tex., July 30. (U.P.) — Dr. A. L. Hall-Quest, New York university professor on the Texas university's summer staff, joined other educators today who call for charm as well as brains in teachers.

"The fact that charm, or personality, rates higher than brains in teachers is based on a great many studies made by superintendents throughout the nation, showing that 60 per cent of the teachers fail in their work because of undesirable personality traits," Dr. Hall-Quest said.

First ass't. state school Supt. T. M. Trimble gallantly announced looks is no problem in Texas schools—that all the teachers are good looking.

"Let Those Who Sacrificed Have The Biggest Say!"

Political Organizing Of Veterans Given Public Approval, Gallup Poll Discloses

By GEORGE GALLUP, Director
American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J.—The time is rapidly approaching when the major political parties will be putting in their bid for the vote of the veterans of this war. Already a Republican Veterans League has been started in Chicago.

GALLUP

If the war veterans get organized into a strong political group, with the present civilian population consider such organizing a good thing or a bad thing for the country? Judging by reports from public opinion field reporters in all the 48 states, more people would consider it beneficial than harmful to have the veterans speak as a bloc in the post-war political world.

The typical reaction of civilian voters is: "Those who had to make the greatest sacrifices for our country should have the greatest amount of say in the future."

To test opinion on the issue, field reporters for the Institute questioned people on the following:

"If war veterans get organized after this war into a strong political group, do you think that would be a good thing or a bad thing for the country?"

The vote:

Good	43%
Bad	28
No Opinion	29

In addition to the argument that the men who sacrificed most should have most say after the war, people advanced the thought that veterans should organize "to help get work and rights for the boys coming home."

The chief fears expressed were that "a militaristic party is not food for the country," and that veterans might be "bitter and hard, and quarrel among themselves over politics."

The least opposition to political action by veterans groups was expressed by manual workers (skilled, semi-skilled and unskilled), while the largest vote of disapproval was found in the business, professional, and white collar groups. The vote by occupations follows:

	Good	Bad	No Op.
Bus. and Prof.	40%	40%	20%
White Col.	42	37	21
Farmers	40	32	28
Manual Workers	49	18	33

Faith Healer Orgy

clash between the troopers and the defiant healers who had gathered eight snakes for the dedication of a "shrine for divine healing."

The Rev. Bills Parsons, weekday coal miner, who was bitten on top of the head a week ago by an angry copperhead, led the services, which began with prayers and chants.

The troopers fidgeted for two hours as the healers chanted through the preliminaries. Then, suddenly, Paul Dotson, one of the cultists, ran to his car, and pulled out a large box. The faithful crowded around, reaching for snakes.

As the police closed in, they twirled the writhing rattlers aloft. Police, nightsticks waving, dashed into the mob, finally forcing the snake-holders into the open.

Raymond Hayes, Cumberland, Ky., sect leader, challenged Lawrence's right to stop the service.

"I fought in the last war," he said, "and had a mighty hard time. We were fighting for freedom, and what do we get? You fellows and the governor of Virginia are trying to run a dictatorship."

"Amen!" shouted his fellow cultists.

Major Stevens To Go Back To Pacific War

NEW CANAAN, Conn., July 30 (U.P.)—Maj. George R. Stevens, III, and his wife, Imogene, prepared today to call an end of their honeymoon. He will go back to active duty and she will stay home to await trial on a manslaughter charge.

Stevens flew home from Europe when his young bride was charged with killing Seaman Albert Kovacs, 19, in the home of a neighbor last month.

Mrs. Stevens known as the "Texas Bombshell," said she fired in self defense because she thought Kovacs was a burglar.

The Major and Mrs. Stevens had been married only a few days when Stevens left for Europe. They resumed their honeymoon after Mrs. Stevens' release in $15,000 bail to await trial in the fall.

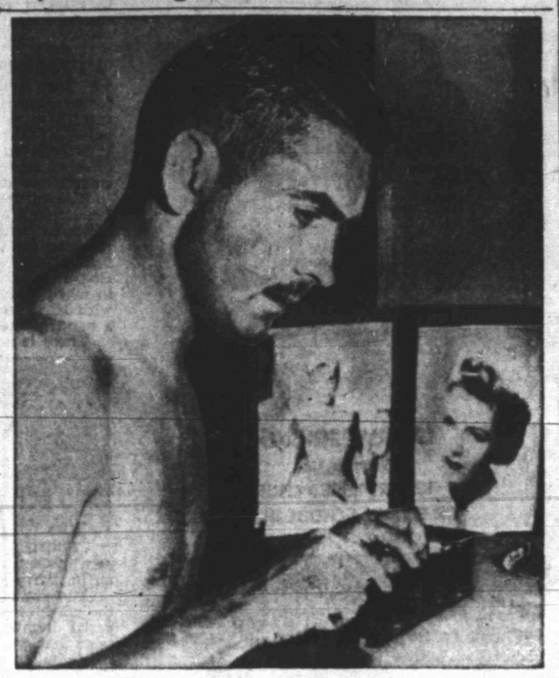

Stevens said he will report back for duty next week and expects to be sent to the Pacific with his paratrooper unit. He said he probably could not attend his wife's trial.

tion of photo reconnaissance units in the light of war time experience.

It was estimated that the two assignments would require a month, after which Roosevelt would be released from the service.

Both Carried Out

The two assignments, the War department said, have been carried out.

Prior to agreeing to release Gen. Roosevelt, the Army said, "his long and efficient services in the European theater" had been considered, and it was found "there was no requirement for his services in the Pacific which could not be filled by another available and qualified officer."

Gen. Roosevelt received the Distinguished Flying Cross, the Air Medal and the Legion of Merit for his European work.

The War department said a photographic wing commander had already been selected for the Pacific in a position comparable to that held by Gen. Roosevelt in Europe.

Long Service Cited

So it was decided "that in view of General Roosevelt's long service in the European war he should be released upon his request under the existing regulations."

Gen. Roosevelt has declined any comment thus far upon the investigations which have been made into his financial affairs.

Congress is not expected to receive a report on the progress of the Treasury department's inquiry until after the recess.

Spokesmen for the House Ways and Means committee have explained that their primary interest in the situation is whether government revenues were adequately protected with respect to tax deductions claimed on bad debts.

Senators Ask Embargo Against 'Junior Axis'

WASHINGTON, July 30 (AP)—Describing Spain and Argentina as the "junior axis," Senators Ball (R-Minn) and Magnuson (D-Wash) say economic pressure might restore "legitimate democratic government" to the two countries.

The senators voiced their views in a radio program Saturday night.

Ball said a six-month embargo on Argentine trade would lead to collapse of the Peron government. He also called for a halt to the 45,000 tons of oil he said is being shipped to Spain each month from the United States.

Magnuson proposed severing diplomatic ties until the two countries rid themselves of governments both he and Ball termed "clearly Fascist."

Detroit Strike Said Threat To Air Blows

WASHINGTON, July 30 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, in a cablegram made public today by the War department, said "I have news which indicates that a serious interruption to our B-29 tire supply is imminent."

"If our supply of tires is interrupted, our strategic bombing operations against the Japanese military and industrial installations must cease," said the message to Lt. Gen. Ira C. Eaker, chief of staff of the Army Air forces.

At the War Labor board it was said today that a strike at the Detroit plant of the U. S. Rubber company was the only labor disturbance at present affecting the output of military tires.

Several Burglaries Here Engage Police

Police are continuing their search for clues today that may reveal the identity of persons figuring in burglaries over the weekend.

An attempt was made to knock the knob of a safe at 702 Main, after intruders had broken a rear window glass and pried a lock from a door. Nothing was taken when attempts to open the safe failed, H. C. Oldham, office manager of the Comet Battery Charging company, reported Monday.

At Hooker Electric company, located at the same address, nothing was removed.

J. M. Ayers of 502 Ave. A reported theft of a bicycle and George Langford, 2619 Twenty-third, had reported theft of a tire and wheel. Police are investigating a report cigarets and whisky were stolen from an address in 1500 block Arnett.

A black 1942 Chevrolet pickup stolen at Plainview had been recovered while a report from Clovis said a 1935 Ford sedan, 1945 N. M. license plate, had been stolen. Churchill Refuses Award For Services

LONDON, July 30 (AP)—Winston Churchill has declined a knighthood of the Order of the Garter, one of Britain's highest honors, offered to him by King George VI, Buckingham palace announced tonight.

The order was constituted by King Edward III in 1348. It consists of the sovereign and lineal descendants of King George I and knights admitted by special statutes.

The royal announcement said: "After Mr. Churchill had tendered his resignation to the King last Thursday his majesty asked him to accept the Order of the Garter in recognition of his great services throughout the war. Mr. Churchill, however, begged his majesty that in the present circumstances that he might be allowed to decline."

During the day Churchill expressed his gratitude to all those who sent him messages after the defeat of the Conservative party and his resignation as prime minister.

Parole Probe Not A Criticism Of 'Coke'

AUSTIN, July 30 (AP)—President E. H. Gormley of the Texas Police association told Gov. Coke Stevenson in a letter today that the survey of parole conditions ordered by the association was not intended as a criticism of the governor or of the state board of pardons and paroles.

Gormley wrote Stevenson that the committee named to make a survey of pardons and paroles as they affected crime was appointed with the idea that if its final report justifies it, the situation may be further discussed and studied with the pardons board and the governor.

Eight Pints In Gallon Of Oysters Except In Maryland Where There Are 9, WLB Learns

By FREDERICK C. OTHMAN
United Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, July 30.—Now we've got the mysterious case of how many pints in a gallon of oysters.

Eight?

Don't go betting money on it. That's where the War Labor board made its mistake. It ruled (and later rued the day) that an oyster shucker should get 60 cents for shucking a gallon of oysters.

"What's a gallon?" demanded the Seafood Workers' Union, Local 453, affiliated with the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butchers Workmen of North America.

Had Law On Their Side

"Eight pints," snapped the WLB.

"Except in the free state of Maryland," replied the Amalgamated Oyster Shuckers, numbering 367, including 202 lady shuckers. "A gallon of oysters in Maryland has nine pints and we want justice."

So help us, the oyster shuckers had the law on their side. The problem of what to pay an oyster shucker for shucking a gallon ceased being open-and-shut.

In 1898 (and I know what I'm talking about because I phoned the state commissioner of Tidewater Fisheries at Annapolis) the Maryland general assembly adopted a law defining a gallon of oysters as nine pints.

This was because the Gay Nineties oyster dealers, except for a few flinty-hearted characters, threw in an extra pint with every eight-pint gallon of oysters. It was the custom and when an oyster lover got a gallon with only eight pints in it, he usually threw it in the oyster dealer's face. This made a mess.

The assembly wearied of these slithery shenanigans and that's why it ruled that there were nine pints of oysters in every Maryland gallon. The commission pointed out that this applied only to oysters; there are eight pints in a gallon of Maryland ice cream, house paint, and sweet pickles.

Talked About Strike

The Maryland oyster shuckers said they'd beggoned if they'd shuck nine pints of oysters for 60 cents, when the Virginia oyster shuckers got the same money at Chincoteague across the bay for shucking eight pints. The Marylanders talked about a strike.

One dozen firms including the Choptank Oyster Co., said they'd like to oblige, but whatever they did they'd be wrong. Some of 'em tried to salve the shuckers by having 'em shuck eight pints. The state of Maryland hauled 'em to court and charged 'em with being criminals for breaking the nine-pint law. These cases still are pending.

Amended Edict Issued

The WLB wondered whether the Maryland attorney general couldn't rule on how many pints in a gallon. He turned the problem over to the last session of the assembly, which said: What was good enough for grandfather is good enough for us.

That left the federal labor experts on a spot. But they eventually issued an amended edict. They said shuckers should get 60 cents per gallon, except in those states where the gallon contains nine pints. Then they got 67½ cents.

Solomon couldn't have done better.

southward.

Two 10,000 ton tankers were listed as probably sunk around Kyushu. A pair of Liberators hit one in the inland sea and more than 50 A26's and Mustangs hit the other Nagasaki on western Kyushu. The same planes scored a direct hit on a large freighter and near misses on another and set docks and fuel stores afire.

Navy, Marine, Australian and Zealand planes of the FEAF coordinated their efforts in smashing blows throughout the Southwest Pacific.

More than 130 Thunderbolts firebombed Makurasaki in southwest Kyushu in the first firebomb attack on the Japanese homeland by FEAF planes. The same group hit Izumi to the southward and sank a freighter and damaged three others in Chiran harbor on Kyushu.

More than 40 Liberators with 50 or more Thunderbolt fighters as escort bombed shipping at Kure by instrument with unobserved results.

Heavy bombers of the Seventh Fleet hit the southern Asiatic coast and swinging inland near Canton Navy Liberators caught an enemy battalion in the marching column and killed many with strafing runs.

In the southern Philippines more than 100 Marine Corsairs and 13th Air force Lightnings bombed and dripped jelly gasoline on Japanese concentrations in the rugged interior of Jolo in the Sulu archipelago.

Employment In Texas

State, Lubbock Are Fortunate

WHILE unemployment is not expected to reach serious proportions prior to the defeat of Japan, it is already a threat in parts of the nation where cutbacks in munition production since the end of the European conflict have released about a million men and women from war jobs.

Fortunately, Texas has suffered relatively little unemployment despite an approximate 10.2 per cent decrease in war work during the past six months. Approximately 74,117 workers were released from Texas war industries during that period, but 38,660 have been reabsorbed in civilian production and other war industries.

Adding to the problem, approximately 15,000 former war workers are leaving Southern California monthly. Many of them are returning to Texas.

At the North American Aviation company's plant in Dallas, where 40,000 persons were employed in April, 1941, only 17,000 are now on the payroll. There are similar personnel reductions at other plants.

Yet unless the release of war workers becomes further accelerated at the same time that the Army puts its demobilization program into effect, Texas is not expected for a time, at least, to experience any serious unemployment difficulty as these ex-war workers compete with discharged veterans for civilian jobs.

In an attempt to prevent trouble from this source, President Truman wisely has asked the aid of Congress. A bill to expand unemployment compensation for displaced war workers was introduced in the House, July 9, by Chairman Bob Doughton, Dem., N. C., of the Ways and Means committee. A rival bill, covering much of the same ground, was offered to the Senate, July 17, by Sen. Harvey Kilgore, Dem., W. Va. No further action on either bill will occur until the House resumes its sessions in October.

Meanwhile the course of the war with Japan in the next three months and changes in the national employment picture will determine what type of legislation will be enacted.

Lubbock, fortunately, will escape the worst of the difficulties to be expected during the trying transition period, as the nation's war-geared economy is converted to peace-time production. This is one of the advantages that a city, dependent upon agricultural economy, has over the more highly industralized communities that have been centers of war production.

An Earthquake At Hand!

WANTED: a fleet with wheels!

In voicing a wish for such a fleet "so that we could chase the Japs inland after we drive them from the coast," Admiral Halsey proclaimed the fact that the ever-tightening encirclement of Japan is reaching a new phase.

Halsey's statement, broadcast to the United States from his Third Fleet only 100 miles off the Japanese coast, tended to emphasize the good news that the time is ripe for the "final plunge into the heart of Japan."

Even as the admiral spoke, an armada of planes from the Third Fleet again roared over the Japanese home islands raining destruction, while 625 B-29's blasted seven of Japan's industrial cities into ruin.

And thousands of additional planes were en route to join in the final knock-out blow. Gen. George C. Kenney's announcement that 10,000 planes would soon be in the Pacific added to the gloomy outlook for the Japs. The world's greatest man-made earthquake is near at hand. Japan is reaching the limit of human endurance. But the question is—are the Japs human?

A Strategy Is Disclosed

INSTEAD of going about the country berating "foreign entanglements" and the danger of trusting other nations as opponents of the League of Nations did in 1919, the present enemies of the United Nations' Charter are trying a new pattern of sabotage.

While giving lip service to the Charter and promising to support its ratification, they are scheming to "pull its teeth" later by waging a bitter fight to limit or prohibit the use of American military forces to serve as world police in enforcing the Charter.

Sen. Burton K. Wheeler, Dem., Mont., let the cat out of the bag when he said he would support the Charter now, but would lead "a real fight" later to limit the use of American forces by the Council. Fearing public opinion, predominately pro-Charter, the enemies of the international pact are relying upon their bag of tricks to create disunity and render the Charter powerless.

One war that has never been interrupted by truces, armistices or peace is the war between the sexes.

We Flew Without Guns

By Gen Genovese

(Copyright, 1944, NEA Service, Inc.)

This is a true story of the men who fly the "hump—carrying passengers and cargo over the high Himalayas between India and China. Pilots call it the toughest airline route in the world.

THE MOST DANGEROUS CARGO

IX

Tony Mercede, Gingiss and Fox and I were sitting in the C.N.A.C. pilots' lounge later the same day when the air-raid signal sounded. "Potty" Pottschmidt was at his desk in the adjoining office, but he kept right on working for a couple of minutes. Then he got up and came out into the lounge, lighting a cigaret.

"They must have heard Chennault's away," he remarked.

I had heard previously that General Chennault had left Kunming on some important military mission and was not expected back for a week or so, but didn't attach any significance to Potty's remark until later when I learned that the General had an almost foolproof system figured out for anticipating and gauging the strength of Jap attacks on the Kunming area long before the attacks took place. It involved an elaborate chart showing a score or so of possible Jap plots or strategies. The chart was not really foolproof, of course, but coupled with Chennault's super ability as a strategist and a tactician, it worked like a charm for him.

But this day he was away. Taking his place at the 14th Air Force headquarters was a brigadier general newly arrived from the States.

Chennault's alarm system had probably been explained to the new general before he was left even in momentary charge, but in the excitement of having to apply his sketchy knowledge he developed a bad case of jitters, and the planes were almost over the field before he gave any orders Then it wasn't because he had figured out the chart or knew the least thing about the direction and strength of the attack; he simply remembered that nearly the entire gasoline supply for the 14th Air Force was concentrated there at Kunming airdrome.

The general raced out onto the field. We watched him in amazement from the C.N.A.C lounge. The mechanics had pushed our planes as far out of harm's way as possible; there was nothing else we could do. The Army handled the anti-aircraft batteries, and their planes were already camouflaged or hidden under trees surrounding the field. The general probably had something in mind when he started running, but he forgot it halfway across the field as the Jap bombers came in over the rim of the hills to the north.

The bombs rained down. The gasoline dump blew up with a roar and sheet of flame; four bombs hit the landing strip, and half a dozen planes were wrecked or damaged. When the smoke and dust settled down we saw the general staggering back from the center of the field with his hands clutched in agony to the seat of his pants. A first-aid gang rushed out to meet him, and he was the first man I ever saw brought in on a stretcher face down. It took the surgeon at the base hospital half an hour to pick the shrapnel out of his fanny.

For the next two weeks the C. N. A. C. flew nothing into Kunming but aviation gasoline, and there's nothing in the world more dangerous than that to transport by air across the Himalaya Hump A C-53 can take a lot of machine-gunning from a Jap Zero when it's loaded with tin ingots or tungsten or mercury and antimony bars, or even passengers, but when it's loaded with high-octane gasoline one bullet in almost any part of the fuselage can set the whole ship aflame.

Not only are the Zeros a threat at a time like that; the weather itself can be your undoing. On two of my trips across that week I had to climb so high to find ice-free air that the fuel drums I was carrying burst at the seams from the lowered air pressure. On one of those trips—the first one—I was rather enjoying the weird phenomenon of St. Elmo's Fire as the blue flame swept back and forth through the rain on the leading edges of my wings and spread like a thin sheet over the windshields. Two or three times I had to put a finger within an inch or so of the air-speed indicator and watched the arc of blue flame bridge the gap between my finger and the instrument. Then, with a report like a smothered bomb, I heard the first drum burst in the rear of the plane.

I couldn't see the tail surfaces of the plane, but I knew that St. Elmo would be dancing his blue fantasy on their leading edge, too And I wondered how long it would take for the gasoline to seep through some tiny crevice in the body of the plane and stretch an incendiary ribbon back along the fuselage to that flame.

St. Elmo's Fire wasn't the only hazard; I knew we would be out of the climactic condition that caused it within a matter of minutes. But the occasional sparks and constant seering blast from the exhaust pipes on either motor were hazards that would ride with us all the way to Kunming.

At times like that it wouldn't matter how good a pilot you were or how carefully you handled your plane. You still couldn't do anything to keep a tiny spark from touching a tiny, leaking drop of gasoline; and that's all it would take to blow you to Kingdom Come. You were absolutely helpless. All I could ever do at such times was pray. I probably said on an average three Acts of Contrition every time I flew across the Hump.

Ex-Servicemen Sought As Investigators

HOUSTON, July 30. (AP)—A second drive for 175 ex-servicemen and experienced accountants to work as agents for the Internal Revenue department, was started today by Paul W. Yoder, Houston representative of the Civil Service commission.

The men are wanted to work as investigators of income tax evasions and to aid in curtailing black market operations.

Known as special agents, the men will receive salaries dependent of their experience.

Yoder said that over 95 per cent of the applications received last week were from ex-servicemen. He added that discharged veterans are still being given special consideration for the investigators positions.

Borneo's Oil Wells To Be In Operation Soon

SAN FRANCISCO, July 30. (AP) —Nearly half the oil wells on Tarakan island off Borneo's east coast can be operated immediately and the field can reach full pre-war production within a year, the Melbourne radio said today.

Oil production was started a few weeks after the Australians landed on Tarakan May 1, said the broadcast, heard by the Federal Communications commission.

Quoting Capt. J. Moltzer of the Dutch oil rehabilitation battalion, Melbourne said the Japanese had sunk nearly 200 wells during the occupation and reclaimed many destroyed by the Dutch who withdrew in 1942.

Looking At Life------By Erich Brandeis

A Bridgeport, Conn., haberdasher advertises:

"The fact that men don't use make-up proves that they are vainer than women—they really think they don't need it."

Who is vainer, man or woman?

BRANDEIS

I have heard that question asked a hundred times and I have heard many a heated argument about it.

Personally I agree with the Bridgeport haberdasher — I think men, as a whole, are far more vain than women.

Vanity does not concern itself with looks alone.

Make-up is not necessarily powder and lipstick and rouge.

Any sham, any pose, any pretense is vanity.

A swivel chair might be make-up. The title of vice-president is often just make-up.

A loud neak-tie is make-up. A mustache or beard may well be.

Yes, men do use make-up.

Women try to impress you with their beauty—in face, in figure, in clothes, in social standing.

Men also want to impress you.

But with them it is wealth, power, position and strength.

Just the other day a sixty-year-old executive boasted about his fine physical condition.

"I'm as good as any thirty-year-old" he said.

And to prove it, he got flat down on the floor and showed us how easily he could lift himself, only his hands and his toes remaining on the floor.

He did it forty times—but suddenly his nose started to bleed and, although we tried everything to stop it, the bleeding continued.

We called a doctor who told the fellow he had a bad hemorrhage.

"You apparently overexerted yourself" he said. "A man of your age should take it easy."

The man was badly frightened. He has taken off the make-up and now acts his age.

A bigger house than you can afford is vanity. A more expensive automobile than your income warrants is make-up. Keeping up with the Joneses is no different than a woman with too much rouge on her face.

That Bridgeport haberdasher was right in one respect—men are vainer than women.

But he was wrong in another—men do use make-up, only they don't buy it in a drug store.

Capital Divided On Jap Policy

WASHINGTON
By Ry Tucker

A SHARP division within the Truman administration over the treatment to be accorded defeated Japan accounts for the current failure to furnish a more specific definition of the Roosevelt-Churchill demand of "unconditional surrender." It is believed in some circles here that a formal offer of capitulation by Tokyo awaits only particularization of the formula framed at Casablanca.

The existence of a similar state of confusion in London and Moscow also makes it difficult for the Allies to issue a more clearcut ultimatum to our tottering foe in the Pacific. Britain's belated reinforcement of our forces now attacking Honshu and Hokkaido served notice that England wants to sit in when President Truman plays showdown poker with Hirohito or his successors. Stalin also wants a hand in the game.

There is no debate on the question of crippling Tokyo militarily or of stripping her of stolen territory. The Nips must abandon Korea, Manchuria, North China and the Anglo-Dutch-French possessions they seized in the months after their Pearl Harbor victory; they must also surrender the islands absorbed under pretext of administering a League of Nations mandate.

TUCKER

They must turn over the remnants of their fleet, air squadrons and merchant marine, and, as with Germany, industries that would enable Japan to rearm will be destroyed or supervised.

The stumbling block lies in the disposition of the emperor and elimination of the system of imperial divinity. The more hard-boiled school maintains that Japanese aggression was pursued by the whole nation, and not solely by a militaristic caste. They place full responsibility on the reigning family, the nobility, the bureaucracy, the business men, the industrialists, the peasants.

They insist upon a complete revolution in Japan's social, economic and political system. Advocates of this policy include Army-Navy-Air men, Secretaries Will Clayton and Dean Acheson and an influential congressional delegation.

Secretary of State James F. Byrnes, who was known as the "Great Compromiser" when he served on Capitol Hill, is still studying the problem. President Truman expected to reach a decision soon.

EMPEROR: The other American group, which consists of a small but powerful faction of State department chiefs, believes that we should descriminate between certain cliques and individuals. It holds that Hirohito never wanted war, and that he was the prisoner of the war lords.

In his book, "Ten Years in Tokyo," Under-Secretary Joe Grew frequently mentions high Japanese officials with western ideas and sympathies. He regards them as a race apart with whom the United Nations can make terms and recognize as rulers of a peace-loving Japan. Other diplomats who lived in the Far East during the twenties and thirties are swayed by memories of kindly and hospitable natives.

The British, with a few exceptions, favor retention of the imperial household. They fear that abolition of the creed of emperor-worship would cause chaos in the Orient, where England has such vast interests. Moreover, the toppling of thrones which World War II has produced does not set well with lovers of a constitutional monarchy.

Stalin also wants a voice in the argument. Japan's future establishment and aims will be of utmost concern to Moscow, especially if the Soviet Union presses her demand for control of Korea and Manchuria, and possibly the area of North China dominated by the Communists.

Incidentally, Washington has given Tokyo grave warning that if she quits now, only the United States will enforce whatever peace is negotiated. This notice may have escaped general attention, but it can be found in the recent radio broadcast to Tokyo by Navy Captain E. M. Zacharias, who speaks the Japanese language.

CROOKS: Black market specialists and war profiteers who haven't done right by Uncle Sam may save themselves some grief — and also lower the tax touch on millions of honest citizens — by reading the latest thriller by Alan Hynd. It is entitled "The Giant Killers," a description which a Federal Judge applied to Elmer L. Irey's Treasury agents, and it explains how their use of the income tax law as a prosecuting weapon makes it virtually impossible to withhold payment of this levy.

The fascinating book reveals official secrets never before known to the pubic. It tells how the Treasury sleuths convicted such contrasting crooks as Al Capone, Tom Pendergast, the Huey Long gang "Waxey" Gordon, Bruno Hauptmann, brothel keepers, gold brick artists etc. No matter what methods the cheats adopted, they were caught. And the writer warns that the same statutes can and will be employed against World War II and postwar tax evaders.

WINNING THE WAR
By Albert Leman

TWO FACTORS affecting full employment and mass production are rapidly developing:

1. Economic aid to the rest of the world. This is the ace which President Truman holds at the Big Three conference — we will help, if other powers establish political peace.

2. Swift reconversion. The possibility of an earlier end of the Pacific conflict is spurring war agencies to rush through blueprints for V-J day.

Foreign trade is an important element in both developments. If we loan to Europe, we shall expect her to buy our goods. If war contracts are cut back to the bone, we must find new overseas customers immediately to keep our factory pay rolls high.

LEMAN

Big New York executives who handle these matters fear that businessmen throughout the country still have misconceptions about foreign trade. Some count on it as a short cut to a financial Utopia. Others underrate its importance in our pattern for postwar prosperity. A bit of explanation may make things plain.

The approval by Congress of legislation on reciprocal trade agreements, the Bretton Woods Monetary fund and the International bank is but a start.

The government plans to use these instruments and others to bargain for a reduction of exchange controls. We are committed to a great expansion program in overseas trade. But there are still many obstacles in the way.

The price level is a factor. Many economists expect a 10 billion dollar foreign trade; but if prices slump 25 per cent, this will actually be only seven and a half billion.

Those unfamiliar with the subject assume that lack of shipping is the chief drawback. This is not so except in limited fields. The principal handicap is the shortage of raw materials. Insiders in Washington hint that even when most controls are lifted after V-J day, Uncle Sam may still retain export controls to prevent overseas sale of supplies needed by our own civilian economy.

STERLING: One of the greatest hurdles is the British sterling bloc. The subject is argumentative and complicated. Yet it affects the livelihood of hundreds of thousands of Americans engaged in manufacturing and exporting.

This bloc was first established in 1931, when John Bull went off the gold standard. It was primarily an arrangement whereby most of the nations in the British Commonwealth endeavored to adjust the value of their currencies to that of the pound.

An archaeologist reports that ancient Egyptian women painted their fingernails and toenails. It would seem that for many long and weary centuries women have been women.

"Time is rapidly eating up space," declares a physicist. Gosh! We'd better get busy at once and ration space. We'd be in an awful predicament if we should run out of places to put things.

How Practical Men Groped For A Star

Senate Charter Debate Electric

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—An impression that persists from Senate debate on the San Francisco charter—

A group of men, confused but hopeful, under the spell of titanic forces far more powerful than they, which they couldn't quite understand, dealing with an unknown quantity in the mechanism they were creating to keep the peace of the world.

STOKES

All the tumult of the tragedy that spread itself over the world, all the agony of suffering, the cries of the wounded and the white faces of the dead, the anxious and pitiful appeals that this shall not happen again—all of this beat in upon them.

They felt puny and lost in the magnitude of the thing that confronted them, that is, most of them seemed to feel that way. A few, however, such as Sen. Burt (D., Mont.) professed to feel very sure about everything, to be confident that nothing much could come of what was done here.

Humility Called Heartening

The humble attitude of most senators was heartening and encouraging. So was the spirit of hope that inspired them. So was their faith that the mystery of the future can somehow be solved.

They were, in another sense, like a board of directors sitting in the presence of an inventor with a dazzling new idea. The gentlemen about the table listened, gradually convinced that it might work out, but hesitated at the urge of practicality, knowing it hadn't been done before. Yet, in the end, a majority were willing to stake their money and their reputations and that of the company upon it, somewhat uncertain, but hopeful.

So has progress come in the material things of this amazing mechanical world in which we live. Could it not come in the field of human relations? Could not some way be found for men to live peaceably with one another in what has come to be a very small world?

That is the gamble. We refused once before to take it. We are ready now.

THE restless spirit that prevailed in the Senate, the brooding uncertainty, worked itself out in various ways.

It broke out here and there in a sort of hysteria, in the babbling of high-sounding platitudes, in high school declamation, provoked by the nervous anxiety to make hope a reality by saying so. Veteran senators, earnest and sincere, acted like schoolboys trying to win a prize at a speaking contest.

This is not said disparagingly. It is cited to illustrate how practical men clutched for a star, desperately.

Connally Speech Quoted

In closing his speech, Senator Connally (D. Tex.), chairman of the Foreign Relations committee, the master of ceremonies, felt he had to reach for the heights, though he's more comfortable and graceful in a lighter role. Recalling how a quarter of a century ago the League of Nations was "slaughtered here on the floor," he struck a Lady MacBeth pose — you could almost see the shimmering dagger — and pointed dramatically at the floor and around at the walls.

"Can you not still see the blood on the floor? Can you not see on the walls the marks of the conflict that raged here in the chamber where the League of Nations was done to death?"

In his peroration he referred to "the shot heard round the world." He couldn't recall the author. He whispered to the committee expert who sat beside him as he circled his big body in a gesture. The name of Emerson came back in a stage whisper. The Senator then gave Emerson the credit.

SENATOR Barkley (D., Ky.) quoted lots of poetry. But, after a few lines of Shakespeare's "Julius Caesar" he was unable to complete the quotation, and said "and so forth" and went on.

Senator Vandenberg (R., Mich.) always works hard at his speech, crouched low over his desk at times like a fullback about to plunge the line. Then he rises erect, gracefully, and slides off a whole trainload of five syllable words with the ease of the professional waiter gently slipping a whole stack of dishes on the table, each in its proper place. He spent a good deal of the time defending himself from attack by an isolationist newspaper, showing by his over-exertion that he's still a bit self-conscious in his new role of internationalist.

Only Senator Wheeler was cocksure of himself, outwardly. But you thought of a man standing in front of his mirror, arguing to justify himself, and finding the man he looked at not entirely convincing.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC

Buses are overburdened as never before. A crisis is near. With more men, tires and gas going to war, present service can barely be maintained. Each day brings greater loads. When you must travel locally, let this be your creed:

1. Do Not Ride in Rush Hours, except to and from your job.
2. Have Exact Fare Ready, saves time and fuss.
3. Move Back When Driver Asks, speeds your ride.

This simple creed will work wonders.

Simpson In His Valedictory Sees Jap Fleet As Only Nuisance Now

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is Kirke L. Simpson's last column. He is retiring on a pension after 37 years with the Associated Press. The column tomorrow will be taken over by James D. White of the AP San Francisco Staff.)

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press News Analyst

The major fact of the war in Asia at the end of July, aside from what may come out of the Potsdam tripartite conference to affect the duration, is that the Japanese high seas fleet which ruled the western Pacific almost unchallenged after the Pearl Harbor disaster has paid the full price for that "day of infamy." What remains of it has no more than nuisance value. It can be written off strategically although its submarines, light surface craft and "suicide" flotillas are a potential menace yet to Allied invasion armadas when they move "on to Tokyo."

SIMPSON

First Mission Finished

That is the substance of press advices from Guam reflecting highest naval opinion in the Pacific command. It means that in blasting enemy capital ships at their inland sea moorings, Admiral Halsey's mighty Third Fleet sea-air armada has fulfilled its first essential mission of the developing invasion campaign.

It still seems improbable in the face of the typhoon season in Japanese waters, however, that the invasion advance against Japan's home islands could be greatly expedited. The way is too long to go with vast landing expedition fleets to risk typhoon interception.

Refused To Venture Out

The practical destruction of what was left of Japan's deep sea fighting strength, of ships big and powerful enough to ride out typhoon weather and even give battle in the midst of storms apparently does away with one element of speculation as to enemy strategy in keeping that fleet in harbor despite inshore raiding by Halsey's heavy ships. There has been no intimation from any source of a Japanese attempt to venture against the Third Fleet or any part of it although the enemy high command must have reasonably accurate information frequently as to its whereabouts and strength.

In some naval circles it has been argued that the surprise retaliation blow so often promised by radio Tokyo but never struck was keyed to weather. That has led to an assumption that Japanese naval strategy counted on a surprise sortie in the midst of a typhoon.

But Halsey Ruined It

If that did in fact play any part in Japanese planning after the battles of the Philippine sea had whittled enemy fleet strength down to little more than a substantial task force, Halsey's carrier planes backed up by Army bombers from Okinawa have utterly marred the conception.

Here ends for the writer an active newspaper career spanning back over more than four decades, all but a few years of it as an Associated Press staff writer. By way of valedictory perhaps those old symbols of the press wires and newspaper copy desks which mean "this is all" and "regards and good luck to all" are in order, and here they are: "30 and 73," KLS.

Scattered Showers Are Reported Over Section

Moisture that in remote instances gauged more than an inch spotted a wide section of the South Plains Saturday night and Sunday.

The gauge at the Texas Experiment station east of Lubbock showed .76 inch fell there Sunday afternoon while at Texas Tech a gauge showed only .31 inch.

Sunday's rainfall at the experiment station ran precipitation for July above the 34-year mean. July's rainfall thus far totals 3.05 inches compared to 2.10 mean for July.

Sunday's showers cooled the atmosphere considerably, West Texas Gas company's thermometer revealed that temperature dropped from 96 to 63 degrees in one hour and 15 minutes between 1:30 and 2:45 p. m.

WIND CAUSES SOME DAMAGE IN AREA

At least two destructive evidences of Sunday afternoon's windstorm were noted in Lubbock county.

A roof of a residence one mile east of Tahoka highway at where Forty-eighth street would be, if marked, was blown 50 feet away and walls torn free of foundation moorings — yet furniture in the house was not disarranged, city firemen said.

A plate glass display window at Production Credit association's 1010 Texas Ave. quarters was broken, said Lee F. York, office manager.

New Buicks Expected Off Line In October

J. Ray Dickey, of Scoggin-Dickey Motor Co., has received word from Buick headquarters, Flint, Mich., that first 1946-model Buicks will roll off the assembly line in October and that a "sprinkling" of the new cars should reach Lubbock before the first of the year.

Buick is undergoing a great plant expansion at this time, expects to produce 550,000 1946 models, or 75 per cent more than the normal, pre-war production.

The company expects to employ 22,000 persons in the postwar era, as compared with a pre-war 16,000, Dickey said.

Total U. S. copper supply for 1944 was about 1.8 million tons, slightly under the 1943 level.

British Eighth Army Is Reported Disbanded

ROME, July 30. (AP)—The British Eighth Army, which fought through North Africa, Sicily, and Italy has disbanded.

The Eighth, which ceased to be an Army yesterday, became almost a legend after it was taken over by Field Marshal Sir Bernard L. Montgomery who forced the Germans back after the battle of El Alamein, considered by many observers the turning point in the war.

Gen. Sir Oliver Leese took over command from Montgomery on the last day of 1943. In October, 1944, Lt Gen. Sir Richard McCreery assumed command and directed the campaign in northern Italy until the final German surrender

Rescue Act Will Feature Program

Two additional features, including a display of one of the AAF's fightinest fighter planes—the P-47 Thunderbolt—have been added to the program for the impressive "open house" at Lubbock Army Air Field Wednesday in observance of the 38th Anniversary of the AAF which has been set aside as national Air Force Day.

In addition to the display of the P-47, the hard-hitting fighter planes which helped crush Hitler's once vaunted Luftwaffe, officials announced plans for a colorful chemical warfare demonstration in which some of the same type of bombs now being dropped on the Japanese homeland would be on display as well as the use of special explosives and incendiaries and use of vari-colored smokes in marking bombing lines and for messages.

Fire Rescue Planned

The chemical warfare demonstration will be given after a fire rescue and control demonstration in which crash experts cut their way through a blazing inferno of high octane gasoline to reach a plane to save its occupants.

Officials announced that several other features possibly would be added to the already crowded day-long program which gets under way at 9 o'clock. Efforts are being made to bring in other special type combat planes heretofore seldom seen by Lubbock and South Plains residents.

Several thousand visitors from Lubbock and the surrounding counties are expected to throng to the field for the day-long program which will include the above display, a display of B-17s, B-25s, AT-6s and other planes, some of the same type of bombs being dropped on Japan, special films on the Japanese, and many other features heretofore closed to the public.

The fire rescue display will be a simulated demonstration of what happens when a plane crashes and how fire fighting experts cut their way through the fire with special fog devices, cut into the plane and rescue the occupants. A simulated plane has been constructed of unsalvagable metals and the demonstration will be made as realistic as possible, even to the rescue of a "dummy" airman. The fire rescue demonstration will be given at 10:30 and 3 o'clock on the south part of the fields near the airplanes on display where visitors may also hear ground to plane radio conversations.

The gates to the field will be opened at 9 o'clock and will remain open through the day. A special memorial service for all AAF men who have given their lives in the battle for Europe and in the Asiatic-Pacific will be conducted at 12 o'clock in the post chapel.
