'All' Ailing Promised . . .
Reds To Release
17 PW's Saturday

PANMUNJOM, Korea, April 24—UP—The Communists returned 40 Americans Friday and promised 17 more for Saturday, as the United Nations proposed that the exchange of ailing prisoners be continued until the Korean war ends.

Both sides have now agreed to deliver more prisoners than they first promised under the current exchange agreement.

The UN proposal to continue the exchange for the duration of the war will test the truth or falsity of the Communists' claim that they now mean to return "all" sick and wounded prisoners in their hands.

Those GIs who passed through Freedom Gate Friday told of the death of more than 743 Americans on forced marches or in prison camps in North Korea.

Report 3,000 Dead

It brought to nearly 3,000 the total of UN prisoners reported dead as the result of Communist brutality.

"About 1,300 Americans started out on the march after we were captured," said Marine Pvt. Paul E. Clements, of Indianapolis, Ind. "Close to 400 did not make it. I heard other Americans were killed."

"There were 300 to 400 of us in our march north," said Pfc. Ambrose W. Vampura, of Maurepas, La. "I would say 100 Americans died of illnesses during those early days."

"There was one place we called death valley," said Pfc. Harold L. Witt, of Bartlesville, Okla. "They were carrying GIs out of there by the Korean cartloads."

Atrocities Probe Delayed

U. S. Fears
Reprisals
From Reds

WASHINGTON, April 24—UP—Anxious congressional leaders Friday were trying to hold the lid on proposed investigations of Korean atrocities for fear more loss of Allied lives would result.

It was learned they took this course on advice of top military authorities, who warned that wartime publicity on atrocities in the past usually has provoked more of the same.

There was some feeling that too much already had been said.

The House Rules committee has been under pressure for some time to act on one of several pending resolutions to authorize a special investigation of Communist atrocities in Korea. The requests were stepped up this week when fresh atrocity reports came from prisoners repatriated in the current exchange of sick and wounded.

Chairman Carl Albert (R-Id.) has been hard pressed to fend off the requests, which have come both from House members and from 1,000 or more letter-writers. However, he said the committee was standing firm against taking up the proposals.

Allen and other House leaders decided weeks ago to seek top-level advice on possible repercussions of an official furor over the developing evidence of brutalities and murder in the Communist prison camps.

The replies they got cooled them off considerably.

Based on what key military men told him Allen currently is answering his mail on the subject with a standard reply as follows:

"The living war prisoners, as well as the dead, must be considered. Experience has conclusively shown that extensive wartime investigation would be tantamount to a confession of military weakness."

Probe Finds
Unfit Wheat
Sent Abroad

HOUSTON, April 24—UP—Houston and New Orleans port authorities said Friday they have uncovered, bit-by-bit, grain scandals in which wheat unfit for human consumption was sent to foreign countries.

They said they feared that irregular practices had cost the federal government $4 million.

Four persons, including the superintendents of Port grain elevators at both Houston and New Orleans, have resigned or been fired.

The case was reminiscent of the grain shortages in Communist China last year, and the CCC was participating in the investigation at New Orleans. The Justice and Agriculture Departments were also helping in the investigations.

The new scandals, authorities said, did not involve shortages, but "quality." The authorities were investigating charges of:

1. Illegal mixing at the port grain elevators of high-grade U.S. wheat and Canadian wheat declared unfit for human consumption;
2. Shipment of the mixed wheat, disguised as high-grade American grain, to foreign countries, principally India;
3. Apparent illegal claiming of at least $4,129,000 in subsidies on the "American" wheat shipped to foreign countries out of the Port of Houston;
4. And, at Houston, payment by "certain firms" of at least $140,899 to the port grain elevator superintendent in return for information about grain shipments.

Small Craft Warnings
Issued On Gulf Coast

NEW ORLEANS, April 24—UP—Small craft warnings were ordered hoisted along the Gulf Coast Friday from Brownsville, Tex., to Pensacola, Fla.

The warning, issued for 7 a.m. predicted southerly winds 20 to 30 miles an hour, shifting to northerly on the Texas coast early Saturday.

EAGLETON, Okla., April 24—UP—Tornadoes killed two persons, injured 15 and caused heavy property damage to four southeastern Oklahoma cities Thursday night.

A Negro man was killed and 12 members of his family were injured when a twister struck Eagleton, Okla., shortly before 9 p.m. Clarence Lewis, 45, was killed. His wife, father and 10 children were taken to a DeQueen, Ark., hospital. Mrs. Lewis was critically hurt.

Jess Saunders, 62, of the Bryant community south of Henryetta, Okla., was killed by a twister which struck his house. High winds roiled

Final Action Seen . . .
Tax Money Sought
For Teachers' Pay

AUSTIN, April 24—UP—Jubilant House proponents of a $600-a-year teacher pay raise Friday faced the dual job of pushing their multi-million dollar measure through to final passage and then writing a tax bill to pay the price.

A sharply divided lower chamber, split on the issues of spending and taxation, saw the Senate-approved pay boost bill readied Thursday for final action.

The measure would hike the wages of 51,000 Texas teachers $600-a-year and cost an estimated $33 million to $35 million annually.

The $7 to $35 vote approving the salary boost measure on second reading came near the end of a lengthy, noisy House session which began before noon and continued late into the day.

Then Rep. Lathar Zivley of Temple, in confident control of the majority vote, cut short an attempt to suspend House rules and finally pass the bill by Sen. A. M. Alkin Jr., of Paris because "we want to go slow here now."

Zivley frankly admitted, "We have a tax bill to get ready."

Office Equipment
Stolen In Break-In

Office equipment valued at more than $1,000 was taken from the "Pampanhandle Grain Co., sometime between 5 p.m. and 7:30 a.m. today.

Ignoring unlocked safe—which held nothing but some paper work—and an open cash drawer with several dollars in change money in it, the thieves picked up a calculator machine, electric typewriter and a table model radio, police reported.

The burglars entered the grain elevator office by breaking the window glass of the door near the night lock, reached inside and opened the latch.

Chief of Police Jim Conner said the calculating machine was valued at $765; the electric typewriter at $250; and the table model radio at $45 totaling $1,060. Nothing else was disturbed.

Herman Hunt, and O.C. Canfield, employees of the grain elevator discovered the break-in at 7:30 a.m. today when they came to work.

"It looks like they were just after equipment and weren't interested in looking for money," Conner observed.

The cash drawer holding the change money, police said, was standing open and had several dollars in currency and silver in it. The unlocked, and open, safe also stood nearby, but was untouched. The burglars would have wasted their time, anyway, police added, by going through the safe since everything had been previously removed except some papers, valueless to any thief.

This was the second reported break-in this week. The first one was reported yesterday by W.G. Crowson, owner of the Pampa Athletic Club, who surprised a would-be burglar when he returned late at night to check the safe in his establishment. Nothing was found missing there except one can of beer the burglar drank while in the club.

High Winds
Put Game Off
Until Tonight

The Pampa Oilers and Burger Gasser game scheduled for this afternoon at Oiler Park has been postponed until tonight. Oiler business manager, J. A. (Jimmy) Hamilton announced at noon today.

High winds caused the postponement.

E. O. (Red) Wedgworth, Chamber of Commerce manager, said the afternoon parade has been cancelled but the other game ceremonies at the park will go on as scheduled tonight.

Wedgworth also said that the stores may go ahead and close at 5 p.m. as usual.

Tonight's game will start at 8 o'clock.

Girl Scout Program
Asks Women's Aid

The Girl Scout office is seeking women to accompany scout troops on out-door summer camping trips to Camp Sullivan, Mrs. Dorothy Statton, Scout executive, said today.

"We need at least 70 women, a number of which we hope to obtain from the list of leaders, in order for the girls to be able to have opportunity to attend the camp," she said.

No previous experience is needed, she continued. Scout office personnel will train all persons interested.

She requested that all persons "willing to give five days to endeavor a Scout to go to camp" attend a meeting slated at 9 a.m. Tuesday in the Girl Scout Little House, 716 E. Kingsmill.

Preparations for the camp activities were begun at a meeting, attended by 35 leaders, Thursday in the Scout House.

Under Old Law
GIs Try To Buy Out Of Army

WASHINGTON, April 24—UP—The Senate Armed Services committee has voted to repeal an 1890 law under which two GIs recently tried to buy their way out of the Army.

La. Col. V. M. Wallace told the committee the old law is "outmoded."

Besides, he said, it conflicts with the draft act.

Few persons probably would ever have heard of the law if it hadn't been for Cpl. George C. Noonan Jr., of Santa Barbara, Calif., and Pfc. Hugh Lucas of Dallas.

The soldiers, both stationed at Fort Sill, Okla., read about the law and its "buy-out" provisions in a newspaper feature story.

They learned that the old act authorized the President to fix terms and conditions under which a man in uniform may buy his way out of military service.

But the late Franklin D. Roosevelt had used his emergency power to suspend the act in 1940. The suspension was scheduled to expire April 1 along with various Presidential emergency powers.

At the time of the law's suspension, a man who had served one year could have bought out for $120. The rate fell off with additional years of service.

Noonan and Lucas watched the papers to see whether Congress would keep the law inoperative.

April 1 came and went, and they saw nothing to indicate the suspension had not lapsed.

So they applied at once for permission to buy out under the law. Their hopes were dashed, however, when they discovered that Congress, shortly before the deadline, had temporarily extended sundry Presidential emergency powers and in so doing had extended the buy-out law's suspension.

But suspended or not, the old law is still on the books and conceivably could go in effect again.

That is why the Senate committee decided it had better be re-opened.

Seen As Leverage
To End Bloodshed

WASHINGTON, April 24—UP—Gen. Douglas MacArthur declared Friday a threat to bomb Red China might force Russia to "settle the Korean war and all pending global issues on equitable terms."

A warning of action of this sort provides the leverage," he said, "to induce the Soviet to bring the Korean struggle to an end without further bloodshed."

The former supreme Allied commander in the Far East revealed his proposals in a 1,500-word letter to Sen. Harry F. Byrd (D-Va.) who had queried him on Korean armistition shortages. Byrd made the letter public.

The proposals obviously represented the "clear and definite solution" which MacArthur alluded to in his famous Dec. 5 speech in New York and later discussed privately with President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles.

"We still possess the potential to destroy Red China's flimsy industrial base and sever her tenuous supply lines from the Soviet," he said. "This would deny her the resource to support modern war and sustain large military forces in the field. This in turn would greatly weaken the Communist hold upon Asia."

MacArthur said Russia is not "blind to the dangers" confronting it in the Far East so that a threat of a "Red China debacle . . . might well settle the Korean war and all other pending global issues on equitable terms."

He indicated such a threat would not in itself touch off World War III, as some experts have suggested, because in the final analysis Russia will pick its own time to attack if it is bent on world conquest.

Byrd particularly asked for comment on testimony former Army Secretary Frank Pace gave the Senate Armed Services subcommittee investigating the armistition problem.

Pace suggested that MacArthur's optimism about an early end to the Korean war contributed to the slow armistition build-up. But the general branded this "completely fantastic."

NATO Agrees
On Treaty For Europe Army

PARIS, April 24—UP—The North Atlantic Treaty Council unanimously agreed on a U. S. resolution to the 11th meeting of the European army treaty Friday when Secretary of State John Foster Dulles depended on fast action.

Dulles told delegates from 14 nations to the 11th meeting of the Council of Ministers that speedy approval of the treaty was "indispensable" for Europe's defense.

The ministers then endorsed the resolution despite some coolness from France, which has been going slow on the issue of a European army which would include 500,000 Germans.

(In Bonn the upper house of West Germany's parliament voted 23 to 18 to delay ratification of the treaty until the high court at Karlsruhe decides whether rearmament is constitutional.)

The French obviously had been annoyed by Dulles' blunt remark to a press conference Thursday night that "perhaps the French want to send troops to fight and die for Germany while the Germans sit by as spectators but we Americans don't want to."

But Ambassador Herve Alphand, France's permanent representative to NATO, told the council that six member nations of the European Defense Community project — France, Germany, Italy, and Benelux — had reached agreement on six controversial protocols to the treaty.

Auto Hits
Horse On Highway 60

A dun mare, belonging to A.P. Combes, caretaker of Recreation Park, was seriously injured late last night when it broke out of pasture and was hit by a car on U.S. Highway 60.

The horse was hit by the car's radiator and thrown clear over the top — lengthwise — of the car, striking the car top on her way with a leg.

The horse's legs were not broken apparently since she was seen trotting around, being careful not to place any weight on the injured leg. The car, Nichols estimated, was damaged about $100 on the hood and top.

She requested that all persons "willing to give five days to endeavor a Scout to go to camp" attend a meeting slated at 9 a.m. Tuesday in the Girl Scout Little House, 716 E. Kingsmill.

Preparations for the camp activities were begun at a meeting, attended by 35 leaders, Thursday in the Scout House.

Speeder Wanted
An Introduction

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 24—UP—Motorist Nathaniel Ratloff, a Negro, was stopped by police officers here Thursday and told he had been speeding.

"You were checked by radar at 40 miles per hour in a 30-mile-an-hour zone," the police told Ratloff.

"Who's radar?" he asked.

Election Runoff
Ballots Printed

Ballots for the May 18 city commission runoff election for Ward 2 were being printed today. City Secretary Ed Vickers reported.

Absentee balloting will start April 28 and end May 14.

Frank Dial, top man in the April 7 city election, was drawn for top position on the ballot yesterday.

His opponent, Dale Pinson, who was only 14 votes behind Dial, will be in the number two spot on the ballot. Write-in votes will be counted as mutilated ballots because they are illegal in a runoff election.

manager, Ted Pawelek, and business manager, Jimmy Hamilton. Sheriff Rufe Jordan was in the room.

Pawelek gave a quick rundown of the team, which launched the season's play at 4 p.m. today, and spoke highly of it as a whole.

Specifically, he said, "I think we have the best infield in 'C' ball."

After some trouble during spring training — the lack of the team members — Pawelek said the team has shaped into a good all-around club.

"I'll make no definite predictions," Pawelek said, "But we'll end up in the first four — or my name ain't Pawelek."

The new manager is formerly from Chicago Heights, Chicago, and recently was property of the Chicago Cubs. He has been in baseball 17 years. This is his first term as a manager.

"But he's (Pawelek) big league calibre," Hamilton said.

The business manager compared Pawelek with Brooklyn Dodger manager Charlie (Chuck) Dressen when Dressen was first starting out as a manager.

Flow Of Rio Grande Ebbs

EDINBURG, Tex., April 23 — UP — Wednesday, only 230 cubic feet of water flowed past the gauge at Rio Grande City.

Van Berg called on Lower Valley cities to impose water restrictions. Mercedes was the first to do so.

Voluntary bans on wasteful use of water also were imposed at Edinburg, Brownsville ordered no more lawn sprinkling, although citizens still may wash their automobiles.

Municipal water wells at Harlingen, Pharr and San Benito provide those cities with enough water and restrictions have not been necessary.

Van Berg said Wednesday he had requested Mexico to release 3,450 acre feet of water from its Marte Gomez reservoir. Mexico made a similar supplemental supply of water available to the Lower Rio Grande Valley last year.

The water master said that while water stored at Marte Gomez reportedly was down to 190,000 acre feet, release of 3,450 feet would not "do them any harm."

since 1949 have become more wealthy.

The House committee recommended the economic scale be recomputed each year and the figure be based on the past three years.

The flat figure of $45 million was originally 25 per cent of the cost but school costs have risen and brought the percentage figure down to 21 per cent.

As recommended, Gray County's contribution would be decreased from $332,350 to $295,850 which would take care of the computed 16.61 decline in total wealth of the county since 1949.

Some counties, however, would see increases which would amount up to 26.51 per cent in one case. So, to keep some counties from having to pay such an increase in a single year, a 10 per cent ceiling on the amount of increase has been recommended.

Under this plan, Gray County would have to pay $316,177 or 10.27 per cent less than what it is now paying.

Most other Panhandle counties are in a like position. Hemphill county would save $7,550 without 10 per cent limit; Hutchinson County could save $210,950; Ochiltree County could save $56,700; Roberts County would save $13,050 for one year but because of oil development, would see a sharp increase the following year; Carson County would save $21,100.

The cost would be made up by about 44 Texas counties showing huge increases in wealth. The remaining counties could save tax money this year, at least, by adoption of the measure.

The recommendation, as a part of the teacher pay bill, has been set aside by House members. But even without the pay raise, state schoolmen in counties where the relative wealth has dropped, would continue the movement for the plan.

soundly beaten back. Hull's forces proposed three amendments, one slashing the proposed teachers' pay raise from $600 to $300 a year. The amendment failed, 62 to 72.

A second amendment calling for revision of the economic index, a formula on which local dollar contributions to education are partially based under the Gilder-Alkin program failed 34 to 99.

Hull then withdrew his third proposed amendment, which would have pegged local school district contributions to the minimum foundation fund of the Gilder-Alkin program at a flat 20 per cent, rather than the present $45 million contribution by school districts, regardless of the amount paid by the state.

The Alkin teachers' pay raise bill would boost minimum salaries from $2,400 to $3,000 a year. The House, in refusing to slash the pay raise to $300 a year, rejected Hull's argument that "there's going to be a tax bill either way" and that "it's simpler to find $55 million than $70 million."

The $70 million figure is the estimated cost of the Alkin bill over the coming biennium.

investigating and publicity of atrocities tends to incite rather than lessen atrocities.

"The characteristic reaction to such charges is not an improvement in the treatment of prisoners, but a redoubling of ruthless measures to insure that no witnesses to atrocities survive."

Official anxiety over provocative publicity appeared to have been reflected Thursday in President Eisenhower's cautious remarks on the war prisoner issue. He told reporters at his weekly news conference that he was heavy-hearted at the reported brutalities, but he did not know yet how extensive they were.

Man Admits Chopping To Death His Four Children

QUEBEC, CITY, Que., April 24—UP—A free-lance contractor confessed Friday that he chopped his four children to death with an ax.

The dismembered bodies of Rene Hebert, 9; Louise, 7; Nicole, 5; and Gaetan, 3½, were found in the blood-spattered bedroom of Mr. and Mrs. George Hebert's three-room flat late Thursday.

Police said parts of the children's shoulders had been chopped off. Some limbs hung only by shreds. All the skulls were gauged and each child's chest bore deep slashes.

Capt. J. A. Matte, chief of the criminal investigation branch, said "It was a hell of a mess. There was blood all over the place." All the children had been hacked almost beyond recognition, he said.

Solicitor-General Antoine Rivard ordered a blackout on details of the case "because of its ghastliness."

The gruesome murders were discovered shortly after Hebert, 45, visited Francois Pouliot, an undertaker, to make arrangements for the burial of his four children.

"The father told me his four children had been killed in an automobile accident," Pouliot said, "and that the bodies would be turned over to us."

Matte refused to disclose the motive for the slayings and declined to disclose details of Hebert's confession.

"Until we have all the facts we won't have anything more to say," Matte said. "He confessed to it, that's all."

Work Resumes On Highway 66 Repair

Work on pouring concrete for the east-bound lane on U.S. Highway 66, west of McLean, was resumed yesterday after a motor breakdown was repaired.

The motor broke down late Wednesday and held up the contractors for the remainder of the day and part of yesterday.

The job is now close to 85 percent completed, state highway engineers reported.

The contractors, in order to speed up the project, also sub-let part of the contract to an Amarillo firm to pour the concrete ditch retards along the 11-mile strip between Alameda and the Wheeler County line. That work started late yesterday, the engineers said.

Still Sought By Local Officers

The Sheriff's Department was still without any leads on the hot check artist posing as an Army major who left a string of rubber checks here and in Borger on April 11.

"We just can't find out anything, but how good looking he was," Deputy Sheriff Buck Haggard said this morning.

Haggard late yesterday afternoon sent the checks he held into the handwriting section of the Texas department of Public Safety in Austin for analysis. The department experts there should be able to give us a lead on who he is, providing the "major" has had previous brushes with the law on similar charges.

Dressed in a neat Army uniform with a major's insignia, the handsome, and dignified appearing "major" issued the bouncing checks at several Pampa stores and an apartment house for merchandise, but always in the correct amount, never asking for change in cash.

The sheriff's office opined last night that the "major" carted the merchandise to another city and hooked it for the cash, the groceries he bought were probably eaten along his route somewhere.

Germany To Delay Decision On Army

BONN, Germany, April 24—UP—West Germany's Senate voted Friday to delay decision on ratifying the European army pact until the nation's high court rules whether rearmament is constitutional.

The vote was 20 to 18 in favor of postponement.

The action may delay ratification from four to six months as it was estimated it might take the high court at Karlsruhe that long to reach a decision on constitutionality.

Members from the state of Wurttemberg-Baden, who hold the balance of power in West Germany's upper house, put the delaying motion before the Senate.

Girl Scouts Plan Camping Program

A new Scouting idea, a Girls planning board, is slated to be carried out at 4 p.m. Monday when the group, composed of Scout troop members, meets to make recommendations for summer camping.

Purpose of the planning board is to enable girls to help plan their own programs and let officials know "what the girls like and dislike," according to Mrs. Dorothy Statton, Girl Scout executive.

At the meeting, to be in the Girl Scout Little House, representatives are to gather from senior, intermediate and fly-up troops.

Adult workers with the groups are welcome, Mrs. Statton said.

"Good morning! Have you all the milk you need?"

Actress Says Exercise Is Important To Keep Proper Figure Measurements

Jan Sterling exercises, not to reduce, but to keep her muscles in good tone and her measurements in good proportion.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Here's the second of seven articles in which a noted doctor and a Hollywood star have teamed up to show you the way to be sensibly slender in a new diet for spring, summer — and all year long. Dr. Norman Jolliffe is director of the Bureau of Nutrition, New York City Health Department, and author of "Reduce and Stay Reduced," published in 1952 by Simon and Schuster. Jan Sterling, Paramount actress, is in the forthcoming film "Pony Express.")

By JAN STERLING
Written for NEA Service
I believe strongly in dieting to keep weight, as opposed to exercising for the same purpose. But I realize the absolute necessity for exercise if a normal girl is to keep her measurements as they should be.

Exercise can redistribute weight, smooth out the figure, and keep the muscles from going flabby, than which there is nothing more unattractive. If you've ever seen a woman in a devastating evening gown, ruining her own picture with loose, sagging arm muscles, you'll know what I mean. The very best way to get your exercise in is to have a favorite sport or two. Mine happen to be swimming and tennis, both of which exercise me all over. I never let myself overdo — either one, however.

If sport has to be shoved aside for an appointment or other business, I still get my exercise in that day. I have a jump rope handy and take a few turns with it. A few spins on my bicycle is another way for me to get my exercise. When I'm on vacation, I like to take long hikes up the beach in my bare feet.

If it weren't possible for me to play tennis, swim or have any other sport, I'd still exercise—I'd make the time somehow to do daily setting-up exercises in my home. I'd find some that weren't too strenuous but worked in the legs, waist and I'd do them daily.

Which Way?

A man goes the way he looks. Ever look one way while trying to go another? How far did you get? Ever try to get to a place so fast you missed it? Stop! Direction is worth more than speed. A man's eye follows the call of his appetites. If he wants power he looks for high office. If he wants wealth he looks for oil wells or gold mines. If he looks for sin he finds it. If he wants peace of mind he looks to God. Souls of men move high or low. There is a turning point. Broad is the way that leads down. Narrow is the way that leads up. You are a pilgrim... "give in." He knows the way. He will lead you through.

Wonderous Futures

We are bemused by the startling story Mr. William L. Laurence, the writing gentleman who reported the A-Bomb fall on Nagasaki and a respected specialist in the field of science reporting, had to tell in a recent edition of Look magazine.

Mr. Laurence who is by no means a science-fiction scribbler, reveals that science is on the door-step of new discoveries that may make it possible for human beings to live forever. He says science has discovered that the chemical organizer which in early or embryonic stage of all life differentiates cells into various organs and tissues never really leaves the living creature at all. It remains on hand and does important "repair work" on bodies — like growing new limbs on a tadpole. The exact nature of this organizer still eludes the scientist but they are hot on its trail and they feel, once they've tracked it down and determined the right conditions for its operation, that they can re-build entire new organisms from the embryonic stage.

Of course, this won't be a true fountain of youth since human bodies would age and die just as now, but you could be re-born from regenerative cells removed from your body before the ageing process sets in. The scientist would slice off a chunk of your tissue and pop it into some preserving fluid until the day for your return. You wouldn't have any memory of your past life, but is that so bad?

However, the whole prospect is at once staggeringly wonderful and thoroughly frightening. We won't try to suggest what population difficulties would ensue, nor what would happen to the world's economic and political structure. We are intrigued by some of the more personal problems.

First, somebody would have to take charge of the vital jars holding the seeds of many future lives. Control of this department would bring matchless power. Bureaucratic decisions or clerical errors could delay your reappearance on the scene for decades, or maybe altogether. You would hardly be in a position to sue.

Suppose the label came off your jar. You might spend a new lifetime trying to find out who you were before. One can imagine a TV panel called: "What Was My Former Line?"

If you did make the grade and come back, you'd be denied the joys of old-style family life. How could you celebrate Mother's Day? By putting some flowers in your old jar? The government would probably become the world's biggest baby-sitter.

Who would foot the bill for storage of the jar over the years? It would seem unfair to saddle an unsuspecting infant with such a debt. He'll have to pay rent soon enough.

If you insisted on keeping your old name, you might get into a lot of trouble with future Congresses trying to unravel who said what subversive thing when.

A real egotist or some genius (by great demand) might set up several jars to reproduce himself many times in a new generation. One can conceive of half a dozen Einsteins delving into nature's mysteries and perhaps coming up with different notions.

Clearly, Mr. Laurence has awakened us to vast possibilities.

Untax Glamor!

A couple of tax consultants have suggested that working girls be permitted to deduct beauty costs from their income tax just as professional glamor girls do.

Their argument states: "It is just as important for secretaries, clerks and other working women to look pretty on the job as it is for the girls of the movies, stage, radio and television."

That's a logical argument. Good grooming is as important for a waitress as for a television star. And what man wants a secretary who doesn't look as well as cosmetics can make her?

But if working women could deduct beauty costs from their income tax, there's another group of women who could also claim the right to such exemptions. They are the housewives.

If good grooming is important to Wanda Waitress, it is just as important to Hilda Housewife.

Hilda also has a job and it isn't just housework. Hilda has to hold her husband.

And the woman who must hold her man must look her best.

So when you get right down to it, you might argue that beauty is an absolute must for all women. That no matter what her job or place in life, a woman has to aid and abet nature to look as pretty as possible.

How about it, you tax experts? If you're going to fight for the right of any group of women to call beauty care a legitimate business expense, you'd better include all women in your argument.

You can't really argue that it is more important for a man's secretary to look her prettiest than it is for his wife to make the most of what nature has bestowed on her, can you?

When Is A Person Or A Newspaper Independent?

It would seem to me that if one determines when a person is independent that would also determine when a newspaper is independent.

I heard the other day that a person, in order to be independent, must be self dependent. That statement seems logical. A man who is dependent upon some other person certainly cannot be independent.

An independent man is one who is not afraid to make mistakes. If he is independent he must of necessity strive to understand God's or Nature's laws or perils. If he is dependent on another person, he is inclined to believe that he need not understand these moral principles himself and that he can depend on the other person to enlighten him when he is obliged to make a decision.

An independent person is never afraid of answering questions. He wants to have his ideas tested. He knows that if he has to contradict himself or face a dilemma that he is out of harmony with natural law. He invites criticism because he believes that is the best way for him to learn. He wants to learn from the experiences of others rather than trying to learn everything from his own experiences.

Importance Of Independent Newspapers
An independent newspaper is like an independent person—it is self dependent and it is self supporting. It is not a part of or an adjunct to any other group. Its only mission is to serve its readers and thus to serve its owners or stockholders.

An independent paper, like an independent person, dares to think out loud. It is not afraid to discuss any question publicly. It is not intimidated by its advertisers or its subscribers or by union labor groups or by any school lobby or by organized churches or by any political party, or by bankers, or creditors, or by any government officials—city, county, state, federal or international.

If it makes a mistake, it is only too glad to correct it. It wants to be independent of all other persons or groups and it wants all other persons to be independent of it and each other.

But independence doesn't mean that an individual wants to live by himself. An independent person knows that he cannot exist and cannot grow and develop without freely exchanging goods and services and ideas. The independent newspaper's mission is to make it easier for everyone to exchange goods and services and ideas.

An independent newspaper realizes that to the degree that individuals are independent do they develop and prosper materially and spiritually.

The trouble is that very few newspapers are independent. Very few papers are subservient to advertisers, as many people think, but too often they are subservient to labor groups, to political parties, to church groups, to public school groups and to interests that have some axe to grind at the expense of the general public.

To the degree that a newspaper is independent of any group is it in a position to really serve the community, the state and the nation. A newspaper that is subservient to any group is less able to serve the community, and quite often it helps add confusion and retards the development of mankind.

A good newspaper is not measured by the number of pages, or the amount of advertising, or the number of subscribers, but whether or not it is really independent and thus in a position to think out loud and invite criticism.

A newspaper that hides behind an editor's desk and makes statements and will not accept a challenge to answer questions is not an independent newspaper. It is not in a position to do its full duty of developing itself and helping its readers develop good will.

ASTIN GETS THE HEAVE
(New York News)

Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks has given the boot to Dr. A. V. Astin, long-time member of the U.S. Bureau of Standards and its director since June, 1952.

It's a rather complex story. But the gist of it is that Astin for years has tried to keep off the market a product claimed by its inventor to prolong the life of storage batteries. Independent tests have strongly indicated that Astin was all wet in calling the compound worthless.

Secretary Weeks says in effect that Bureau of Standards policies are going to be changed by him—meaning this important Government agency will be friendly from now on toward small businesses, inventors and other enterprisers, instead of hostile and over-suspicious of their motives.

Such a change from the hate-business and discourage-profits attitude of the New and Fair Dealers will be a fine thing for the whole country, we believe; and the bouncing of Astin is notice that the change is swiftly coming about.

National Whirligig... Benson More Popular Among Farmers Than With Politicos

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON—Secretary Ezra T. Benson is not so unpopular with the actual producers of food as the political farmers on Capitol Hill and in the professional lobbies at Washington make him out to be, according to numerous surveys of grass-roots sentiment. The men who raise corn and cattle understand his problems, as well as their own economic difficulties, better than most congressmen, whose principal concern is raising votes.

As their desertion of the Stevenson-Truman party indicated last year, the hard-headed farmers have never been entirely happy over the system of federal regulation, even though it meant money in their pockets, etc., which placed them at the mercy and direction of sometimes unsympathetic bureaucrats, recausers.

FARMERS ENJOY RELATIVE PROSPERITY — They recognize that they have enjoyed relative prosperity since early in World War II, despite high costs and taxes. They expect their ups and downs, although they want protection against mounting bankrupt prices of the thirties, when it was cheaper to burn grain than to haul it to market.

But they know that they cannot be forever dependent on subsidies or guarantees from Uncle Sam, as butter producers are learning to their sorrow. Dairy men are losing their customers to rival products, perhaps permanently.

OVERSUPPLY LEADS TO PRICE DECLINE — Moreover, the more discerning realize that they are partially responsible for their current troubles. They raised excessive amounts of corn, wheat, cattle, etc., in the face of warning that these surpluses would lead directly to a sharp decline in prices. Many of the people now squawking about falling prices are lawyers, bankers, businessmen, who sought to make the same sort of killing on the rising agricultural prices that they do in Wall Street.

It is no exaggeration to suggest that real farmers are as sore at Benson as they are at themselves and at vote-getting policies which led them to their present impasse.

Their present hope is that the Mormon elder from Utah, whose honesty and sincerity they recognize, can devise a more realistic program against the day when the present system of parity and price supports ends.

FORCES IN MOTION — As Secretary Benson has discovered, cattle raisers have already taken automatic action to improve their situation by setting in motion certain natural economic forces. It will require some time before they stage even a partial recovery, but when the conditions they are now creating come to a climax, it will be bad news for price-conscious consumers. Beef will go up again.

With the government lending $1.58 on each bushel of corn it acquires from producers of this staple, the price has become too high for feeding it to cattle. Or, to put it another way, the price of beef has fallen too low to warrant transforming corn into meat.

Naturally, the farmers are placing this staple under loan to the Commodity Credit Corporation. Instead of buying 600,000 bushels from ranches in the Southwest and fattening them to 1,300 or 1,500 pounds with the difference in weight representing their margin of profit minus the cost of

THE CURIOUS AMERICAN

By WILLIS E. STONE

Since the Presidential election a powerful campaign has been underway to "sell" the American people that this is the most abundant life, that taxes should not be cut, and that the national debt is nothing to worry about.

To submit evidence in support of this last contention, the public debt is merged with private debt. Relating this gross figure with another statistic composed of half truth and half fiction, is assumed to be adequate proof that we are much better off than in 1929.

It is alleged that the total of public and private debt on January 1, 1953 is "only" $627 billion. Upon examination, this amount is divided as follows:

National debt	$267 billion
State and local debt	30 billion
Private debt:
Corporations	195 billion
Individuals	135 billion
Total	$627 billion

This total debt is said to be 113 percent greater than the annual national income. It is also alleged that the 1929 total debt was 146 percent greater than national income. Hence we are much better off now.

Let's take a look at the debt of 1929 and find out what these statistics fail to reveal. The 1929 gross debt analysis was as follows:

National debt	$17.5 billion
State and local debt	17.2 billion
Private debt:
Corporations	107.0 billion
Individuals	72.6 billion
Total	$215.3 billion

The comparison of these charts is illuminating. The national debt has multiplied more than 15 times while state and local debt, as well as the corporate and individual debts, have not quite doubled.

What was concealed by the first set of statistics, supplied by the apologists for national bankruptcy—

All About Everything... Hank Turns Answer Man For A Day And Gives With Niffies

By HENRY McEMORE

LOS ANGELES — A most popular type of column in newspapers and magazines these days, and deservedly so, is the one in which the author answers a question under the sun sent in by readers.

They have always fascinated me, not so much because of the erudition of the answer man but because of the vast range of subjects about which people are curious.

During the past year I have received quite a few requests for information, and while I am not a professional answerer, I believe it is time I answered some of them, out of courtesy if nothing else.

Q. Is it possible to mend a hole in a suit or dress without mending or re-weaving?
A. Yes. By shrinking the cloth until the hole is closed. This has long been a practice with the natives of far Pacific Islands where needles and thread are unknown.

Q. Is there an animal which can run backward as fast as it can run forward?
A. There certainly is. The ferret, or iron deer, its record for the 100-yard dash is the same going either way.

Q. I say there is no use for a worn-out butterfly net. Am I right?
A. No, you're wrong. The hoops of old butterfly nets, when straightened out, make excellent lightning rods for play pens, and the tattered cord is often utilized in the making of inefficient, but highly decorative fly swatters.

Q. Everyone knows where the deepest part of the Atlantic Ocean is, but where is the shallowest part?
A. At Catnap Island, just off the North Carolina coast. At low tide, at the water line, it isn't deep at all. There is no depth whatsoever.

W. Who invented glue?
A. All that is known about the invention of glue is that the Post Office Department had nothing to do with it.

Q. Is there any record of the name of the first politician to break a campaign promise?
A. Yes. Milton J. Neanderthal Mann. In running for office near the dawn of time he promised a three-room cave and a dinosaur in every pot if elected. That he failed to come through is proved by archeologists having failed ever to turn up so much as one pot large enough to hold even a fry-size dinosaur.

Q. Where did the axiom "Two can live as cheaply as one" originate?
A. It was coined by Theodosius Crabtree, an Englishman of the 13th century. Incidentally, Crabtree perfected the strait-jacket the same day he made his crack about the two for one deal and eventually wound up in one, as was predicted by all husbands who heard his remark.

Q. Are bears hard to hypnotize?
A. Extremely so; all save the cinnamon bear. For some reason the cinnamon bear can be put into a trance in a minute in one, and snappily comes to when addressed by his full name or that of any living relative. The grizzly, polar, brown, Kodiak, honey and teddy bears do not recognize hypnotism.

Q. Why is it that horses are always mounted up on the left side and cows milked from the right side?
A. A little-known fact, even to veteran horsemen, is that most horses are lower on the left side than on the right. For why cows are milked on the left side, time has proved that when cy, is the fact that the national debt, which was slightly more than 8 percent of the total debt in 1929 became more than 42 percent of the total debt in 1953.

For additional comparisons, remember that government cost us but 3.3 percent of the national income in 1929. Government now costs us about 36 percent of the national income, so your tax burden indicates.

These factors are not all of the story. They do not indicate the changes in dollar purchasing power, inflation, crippling controls, nor the disaster of the political conquest of our individual enterprises.

Neither do they illustrate how, when not burdened by oppressive government, our resources were used to build our dreams, the machines and the know-how which has made our way of life so soft during these last few years. Two decades of socialistic exploitation has changed this.

Today we are told that only government has the power, wealth and ability to do things for us. This is not true. Government has no valid powers beyond those spelled out in the Constitution. Government is a pauper, $267 billion worse off than plain broke, and there is no evidence that any government, now or ever, desires to do things for us.

Knowing these things, who do we not outlaw the evil and costly practices of socialism in America by getting action on the "Proposed 23rd Amendment" now pending in Congress as House Joint Resolution No. 123. It provides that:

THE GOVERNMENT OF THE UNITED STATES SHALL NOT ENGAGE IN ANY BUSINESS, PROFESSIONAL, COMMERCIAL, FINANCIAL OR INDUSTRIAL ENTERPRISE EXCEPT AS SPECIFIED IN THE CONSTITUTION.

In Quincy, Mass., the mothers of two seven-year-olds, Jane and Richard, searched for an hour, finally reported their offspring missing. Police organized volunteer searches to locate the missing children. In the midst of the hunt a couple of youngsters joined up. They were hard at it for almost an hour until they were recalled as Jane and Richard—Robert Froman in This Week Magazine.

cows catch on fire, as they so often do when being milked, it is easier to escape from them on the right than on the left.

Q. Can you give me the name of the most celebrated shooting station under the sun sent in by readers?
A. Yes. John Wayne. Can be seen somewhere all the time.
Q. How old is the hammock?
A. Which one, may I ask?

STAND-BY CONTROLS
SMOKE OR FIRE? In recent weeks there have been a number of news items and editorials on the possibility that congress will enact stand-by control legislation. It has also been implied that the new administration may be inclined to go along with this idea. My own belief is that there is a great deal more smoke than fire in these news items and editorials, but the subject does deserve discussion.

Whenever I hear talk of controls I am always amazed; I am at a loss to comprehend the over-all thinking from which the ideas of controls emerge. There are always several angles to control proposals. Sometimes a particular group wants "controls," and in this instance it is not the group itself that wants to be controlled, but controls are sought for the benefit of those seeking them. If such a group be large enough, congressmen and senators may succumb to the pressure, some through emotional ignorance and others because of political expediency.

Assuming that some control legislation is passed in favor of a particular group, a reaction follows; and sooner or later those who are oppressed by this legislation will themselves seek redress through similar laws in their favor.

DOUBLE ENTRY: In a "Clipping of Note," No. 54, published by the Foundation for Economic Education, Irvington-on-Hudson, New York, Mr. W. C. Mullendore, president of Southern California Edison Company, describes the growth of bureaucracy as group after group seeks control and counter-control legislation. Eventually applications for protective legislation become known as "qualifying for benefits," bureaucratically speaking.

This is a never-ending spiral, for no group can receive special protection under law without some injury or disadvantage to some other group, or to everyone. Why is it so difficult for us to realize that government has nothing to offer us in the way of economic "benefits" or protective legislation for particular groups? Why is it so hard for us to understand that there always is a double entry, and that it is we who pay for all the things we ask of government?

Broad stand-by controls presuppose their application in what some people term "emergency situations" — generally the emergency is war; but there is no validity to the use of economic controls in any emergency. Over-all controls can be compared with tying down the safety valve on a steam boiler while the fires are being fanned.

DEFEATIST ATTITUDE: About two years ago I attended a conference on this subject at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va. Participating were many of our leading economists, businessmen, lawyers, representatives of federal bureaus, senators, congressmen, and labor officials. Great Britain was represented by John Jewkes, professor of political economy at the University of Manchester, and by Roy Harrod of the Keynesian school of British thinkers.

The objective of this conference was to achieve agreement on the use of controls for mobilization. The meeting started on dead center, went full circle, and stopped on dead center. I do not believe, the thinking of anyone attending was altered in the least.

To me, the most discouraging event in the meeting was the defeatist tone in the closing summation by one of our most prominent economists. He concluded that in neither the short nor the long run were controls effective or beneficial. He admitted that in the long run they were very dangerous; but he said, in effect, that the people had been sold a political bill of goods, and that bad as it was, political tranquility in the nation was dependent upon the idle gesture of government in the installation of controls.

BLIND SPOT: Those who argue for controls refuse to consider the total failure of all control programs over the past 4,000 years. They refuse to consider that the rise of dictatorships always is preceded by a series of "benefits" and "controls," with the promise of more benefits and, of course, more controls.

The idea of over-all controls has its inception in little controls — little benefits, and in general it is tantamount to believing that if just a little poison is beneficial then a whole bottle is a cure-all for everything. The primary fallacy is, of course, in thinking that any economic controls, however small, are of general benefit.

To control prices and wages is to control people's lives. In commenting on this subject after Germany's defeat, Goering observed: "America is doing many things in the economic field which we found out caused us so much trouble. . . I should think your economists would read what happened here."

Oilers Hold 4-3 Edge In Openers Since World War II; 3 Games Here Tomorrow

BY THE TIME THIS APPEARS in print, the opening game of the 1953 Oiler baseball season will possibly be history.

At this writing, there was a heavy overcast here in Pampa and it's very possible that those clouds could lead to rain. And in that case there would be no game.

Of course, we would welcome a good rain. But it would seem a shame to have all the plans by the Chamber of Commerce and the Oiler Club for the opening game to go out the window. However, on the other hand, our farmers probably have been planning on their crops longer than the officials have been planning the Oiler opener. At any rate if it did rain, there will be many who will benefit by it.

Tonight At Boston Collins-Carter In Title Fight

BOSTON, April 24-UP—Brash young Tommy Collins, a product of Boston's teaming south end, keeps a date with destiny Friday night when he seeks to seize the lightweight crown from Jimmy Carter of New England history.

Cocky and certain of his own prowess and the influence of his patron St. Francis Xavier, the 23-year-old automobile salesman expected to end Carter's reign within "a round or two."

The Negro champion, 29 years old and veteran of a grueling climb to the throne, made no boasts except to say that he would win—maybe by a knockout and maybe over the full derby distance.

Beet by controversies over the title, television and future opponents, the youngsters were expected to draw a total of nearly a quarter-million dollars for the third largest cash sum ever involving lightweights. Only champion Benny Leonard and Lew Tendler in two fights some 30 years ago ever brought in more money.

Carter was favored at 10-7 because he was champion and because he usually fights as well as necessary to win.

SMU Opens Series With Aggies Today

The Southwest Conference-leading Southern Methodist Mustangs take their 7-1 baseball record to College Station Friday for the first of two week-end games. Two victories would push the Mustangs a couple more laps ahead of challengers Baylor and Texas.

The Aggies and the Longhorns were a game-and-a-half and two games, respectively, behind the Mustangs Friday.

Baylor and Texas, meanwhile, met each other at Austin Saturday in a game which probably will decide which of the teams emerges as SMU's strongest competitor for the Southwest Conference baseball crown.

Texas Christian and Rice also open a two-game week-end series Friday at Houston. This, however, is only a personal duel to determine which can climb out of the cellar.

The Texas Aggies, with a 3-3 record in league play, are weak hitters. But A&M has about as strong a pitching staff as SMU and could give the Mustangs trouble this week end.

Derby Hopefuls Reduced To 10

NEW YORK, April 22-UP—Time, injuries and a gray colt named Native Dancer have reduced the list of standout candidates for next week's Kentucky Derby to 10.

The Derby starting field may exceed that figure, but here are the horses most likely to make up the post parade when the band strikes up My Old Kentucky Home at Churchill Downs.

Homer Snaps Tie In 9th ... Mantle's Big Bat Sparks Yank Win

By CARL LUNDQUIST
NEW YORK, April 24-UP—Might as well get used to reading about Mickey Mantle because that new golden boy of the Yankees is going to be making big baseball news for a long while.

The alarmists were saying that the Commerce Comet was being put on the spot by the excitement created over his record 562-foot homer in Washington last week. The mighty Mick was supposed to be swinging for the fences under more pressure than before, shooting for more distant wallpops.

The Yankee publicity department measured various distances and found it would be possible for him to blast a home run out of the Yankee Stadium if all conditions were just right—and it wouldn't have to be as long as the one he hit in Washington.

Mantle Plays Hero
Then it was noticed that he had gone into a slump after the big blast and the alarmists said it might "ruin him" for the 1953 season. That was before Thursday's latest miracle performance by Mantle.

With a ton of mental pressure on him with two out in the ninth, the score tied at 3 to 3, and two on base, Mantle stepped up to the plate, took one swing and delivered a 400-foot homer off Ellis Kinder that gave the Yankees a 6 to 3 series sweep over the Red Sox.

The Athletics topped the Senators 6 to 4, at Washington as Bobby Shantz scored his first victory after two losses to the Yankees, while Detroit ended a five-game losing streak with a five-hit 8 to 4 victory over the White Sox by young Bill Hoef.

Other Scores
In the National League, the Phillies beat Brooklyn 6 to 1 in a night game at Philadelphia, while the Giants slunk home in shame after losing two out of three in Pittsburgh, the finale by a struggling 6 to 5.

McMurry Cage Mentor Resigns

ABILENE, Tex., April 24-UP—Mel Jowell has resigned as basketball coach of McMurry College, effective June 1, to become an Arizona farmer.

Dr. Harold G. Cooke, McMurry's president, announced Jowell's resignation Thursday. A successor has not been chosen.

Jowell joined the McMurry athletic staff in 1949 after graduation from the Abilene college in 1949. He also served as assistant football coach and physical education instructor.

The Sports' defeat cut their lead over Tulsa and Oklahoma City, who share second place, to one-half game.

Tulsa and Dallas will make up their postponed game as part of a twin bill Friday night, but the other teams will play single games—Oklahoma City at Fort Worth, Houston at Shreveport and Beaumont at San Antonio.

Beaumont's loss was charged against Ed Konich, who came into the game just in time in the ninth to get charged with the defeat as he relieved Don Fraebria, who apparently had his third victory of the season in the bag until the Missions ran wild. Harry Schwagman for San Antonio and Bama Ray for the Exporters each collected three hits.

Wall Feller was credited with a Houston victory although he had to have a late inning lift from Fred Martin to keep the tough Sports under control.

Earl Stewart, Worsham Tied For LV Lead

LAS VEGAS, Nev., April 24-UP—Earl Stewart Jr., one of the nicest guys in the golfing world; and Lew (the chin) Worsham, considered by the touring professionals as one of the game's greatest money players, tied off in the second round of the rich Tournament of Champions Friday holding a precarious one-stroke lead over the select field.

With only seven strokes separating 19 of the 20 men in the $25,000 event (and Sam Snead practically bowed out of competition when he shot a whopping big 79) the race still was wide open.

Stewart, who took a putting lesson from Jackie Burke Tuesday to cure a stabbing habit that was causing him to miss numerous five and six footers, was sensational on the green Thursday. While compiling a four-under-par 68 on the Desert Inn Country Club course, he had only 23 putts for 18 holes. He was out in 35, back in 33. Worsham used just the reverse procedure—33-35. He missed a five foot putt on the 18th that would have given him undisputed leadership.

Close on the heels of the leaders came Burke and Dave Douglas.

But for an incident on the first hole, Douglas might have been the undisputed leader, too. He was on the par-five hole in three with a 12-foot putt for a birdie. He tanked the putt all right but before doing so he incurred a two stroke penalty because he picked up his ball and wiped off the dirt.

Lloyd Mangrum, Jim Turnesa and Chandler Harper each had 70. Ted Kroil and Jimmy Demaret had 71. The only others to shoot par or better were Al Bessellink, Julius Bezos, Jerry Barber, Dr. Cary Middecoff and Johnny Palmer, each with a 72.

Far back of the pack came Snead, who was playing with an injured hand. He had no complaints to offer—but it was obvious he was not going to be the big winner.

Drake Relays Start Today

DES MOINES, Iowa, April 24-UP—Wes Santee of Kansas and two other great distance stars meet in two hot relay events Friday to send the Drake Relays off to one of its tastiest starts in years.

More than 100 university and college athletes from 81 schools opened the two-day meet in mild, cloudy weather with a forecast of April showers in the afternoon.

The top first-day events were expected to be the tough sprint medley and the four-mile relay.

Santee and Charles Capozzoli of Georgetown meet as anchor men in the four-mile haul and Santee matches strides with fleet Searcy Siders on the final leg of the sprint medley. Both events may bring new records.

Top contender in the two-mile run was Bruce Drummond of Oklahoma. Drummond also aimed at a victory and new record in the mile, but faces rough competition from Jim Keppord of Michigan State, Gene Mathews of Purdue and Rich Ferguson of Iowa.

A new record could materialize in the broadjump event. Neville Price, defending broadjump champ from Oklahoma, usually consistent with jumps of 24 feet, 9 inches, faces a sudden star leaper in John Bennett of Marquette.

Bennett best Price at the Kansas Relays with a jump of 25 feet, 4 inches—13 inches more than any previous jump. If he can repeat, it will mean a new Drake mark which now is 25 feet, 7 1/2 inches.

Muscleman Darrow Hooper of Texas A&M is the favorite in the disc throw. His best is 170 feet. The Drake record is 170 feet, three inches.

Dodd To Coach College Stars

CHICAGO, April 24-UP—The college all star football team will be coached by Georgia Tech's Bobby Dodd for the second consecutive year in the 20th annual meet with professional gridgers.

The game will be played against the Detroit Lions, National Football League champion, at Soldier's Field Aug. 14.

Dodd, whose engineers won their last 26 games, was appointed by the classic sponsors Thursday. Last year his all star team beat the Los Angeles Rams 10 to 7.

Two of Dodd's assistant coaches last year were named to help out again. They are Hal Holcomb of Purdue and Bob Voigts of Northwestern. Also named to the tutoring staff were Eddie Erdelatz of Navy and Baylor's George Sauer.

Scientists Question Women To Connect Sex And Cancer

LOS ANGELES, April 23-UP—Two cancer scientists revealed on Thursday that they are questioning hundreds of women about the intimate details of their sex lives in the manner of Dr. Kinsey.

They seek more knowledge of the causes of cancer of the uterus, cervix which with cancer of the breast is the most common cancer type in women. Their questionnaire is seven pages long and takes two to four hours to fill out, even with the aid of a social worker.

The answers so far show a considerably higher proportion of the following conditions among women with cervical cancer than among women without trace of cancer:

Separation from the sexual partner, either by divorce or widowhood; childbearing before 20 but no childbearing after 25; marriage before 18; poor diet and unsanitary living conditions, more or less from birth, described as "poor economic status."

Significant Statistics
The differences in these conditions between cancer patients and non-cancerous women were said to be "statistically significant."

But whether any one or all of them might have a part in causing cancer of the uterus cervix was quite another matter, said Dr. Edward G. Jones of the University of Southern California Medical School, one of the questioning scientists.

Dr. Jones recalled that the medical histories of 300 Canadian nuns showed no trace of cervical cancer among them. But he pointed out that these were virginal women who never had had sexual partners from whom to be separated.

No Definite Conclusions
Dr. Jones and his codirector of the survey, Dr. Ian MacDonald, will draw no definite conclusions until 500 women of each category have been surveyed. They started their work two years ago and Dr. Jones said two more years would be required to complete it.

Dr. Jones said the results to date show that poor female sexual hygiene, number of children and the use of contraceptives are not likely cancer. Eight women with cervical cancer said they had never.

Borger Man Cited For Drunken Driving

Charges have been filed in District Court and County Court against a 28-year-old Borger resident who was involved in an accident near Bowers City early Tuesday.

Charged is Warren Leslie Elver who was injured when his car struck a roadside abutment and overturned about 12:20 a.m. Tuesday one-fourth mile north of Bowers City. He is still in the hospital today.

Elver faces grand jury action on a third drunken driving charge and county court action on driving, while his license was suspended on a previous drunk driving charge.

When he is dismissed from the hospital, he will appear before Justice of the Peace John Andrews for preliminary hearing and bond setting on the district court charges. He will be arraigned before County Judge J. B. Maguire on the license charge.

Both charges were filed by Highway Patrol.

Rough Sledding In Marriage

HOLLYWOOD, April 24-UP—The love problems of Jane Powell and Jane Withers revived the old Hollywood adage today that few child stars grow up to happy marriages.

Many an ex-movie moppet, from Deanna Durbin to Shirley Temple, had to try on the wedding band more than once before finding peace of mind.

The two Janes, who both started their careers at an early age, disillusioned the hopefuls again when they announced their "perfect marriages" were at an end.

Miss Withers often was held up as the exception to the opinion that child stars, thrown too early into the adult world, struggle with problems before finding happiness; she snared a husband and three children outside of the movie world.

Miss Powell likewise married a non-Hollywood, motor car and insurance salesman Geary Steffen, had a baby and settled down to what moviefolk thought was a "normal, happy life."

But rumors buzzed when the petite singer co-starred with Gene Nelson in a Warner movie, Three Sailors and a Girl, her first picture away from MGM where she grew up. The grapevine whispered that Jane and Gene had more to talk about than dialogue.

After the picture was finished, the Steffens had a quarrel that she says may lead to a divorce suit after she returns from a singing tour. The Nelsons have announced their marriage is ending, too.

Shirley Temple, following the usual pattern of child actresses, married John Agar early, at 17, and was a divorcee four years later. She celebrated her second trip to the altar with Charles Black by quitting the movies.

Deanna Durbin also didn't find marital happiness until she gave up her career. Married at 19, she was divorced three years later from Vaughn Paul.

Elizabeth Taylor was another ex-child actress who had a divorce decree, from Mickey Hilton, before she could vote. Terry Moore, another child star grown up, made a mistake with her first marriage, too. Jackie Cooper and Jackie Coogan grew up to tangled romances. Milti Green and Baby Rose Marie, however, are two former cherubs of the screen who have happy home lives.

One ex-child actress once explained, "child stars usually marry young so they can get away from their family and lead an adult life as those around them do. It would not look right for a young actress to live alone."

"But the marriage is a mistake, so she gets a divorce. Then it is proper for her to lead her own life, while as a single girl, she could not."

After another unhappy union with Producer Felix Jackson, Deanna gave up her career to marry Director Charles David. Deanna now insists she wants to stay home, bring up her children and stay away from pictures.

Thornton Says Texas' Governor The Greatest
AUSTIN, April 23—Gov. Dan Thornton of Colorado endeared himself to the people of Texas in a speech before the state House of Representatives Wednesday.

Thornton described Texas Gov. Allan Shivers as "the greatest governor of any state in the union."

Thornton is a native of Slaton, Tex.

Load Of Celery Takes The Place Of Snow
EUGENE, Ore., April 23-UP—Snow plows were called out in Oregon's Willamette Pass Wednesday—but there wasn't any snow.

State police said a truck loaded with celery overturned and the snow plows were needed to clear the celery from the road.

Grasshoppers can travel at least 10 miles a day, and as far as 215 miles in 14 days, according to North Dakota tests.
