Laity Is Rising In Roman Church

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
Associated Press Religion Writer
A manpower reform is going on today in the Roman Catholic Church—the rise of the laity.
In a church that for centuries functioned chiefly through its clergy, with members left in a comparatively passive religious role, the two groups are now acting increasingly as a team in doing the church's work.
It is a widespread, fast-growing and historic shift in emphasis.
"Much has been done to overcome the old hesitations, both on the part of the clergy and the laity," says the Most Rev. Robert J. Dwyer, bishop of Reno, Nev. "Yet we have only begun to utilize this tremendous potential of cooperative zeal."
The strongly emerging force, the "lay apostolate" gets its name from a Greek word, "laos"—"the people."
It is reflected in a host of 20th century-launched Catholic activities—social action groups, national organizations of lay men and women, interracial councils, lay retreats, lay theological study societies, family-life movements, Bible discussion groups.
"The old idea of riding into heaven on the coattails of a priest is losing its grip on the Catholic layman of today," says Martin H. Work, executive director of the National Council of Catholic Men, which meets next week in Pittsburgh.
"The end of the ride is the same, but laymen are beginning to realize that the method of travel has got to change."
Until 19 years ago, Catholic lay missionary groups didn't exist in this country. Now there are many of them. Plans are under way to recruit new corps of lay volunteers to serve the church in U.S. rural areas and in Latin America.
"Possibly the most arresting Christian phenomenon of our times is the rediscovery of the layman's true role in the church," says the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Irving A. De Blanc, of the National Catholic Welfare Conference.
The church has minimized distinctions between clergy and laity and taught the "priesthood of all believers" may have had an indirect influence in the development. Yet Protestantism, too, which until recently had slipped into the habit of letting the clergy do most of the work, is experiencing what the World Council of Churches calls "an awakening sense of the responsibility of the laity."
"The power of the Christian layman is being put to work," says Protestant Episcopal Bishop Ho-

Judge Reverses Roma School Cases

RIO GRANDE CITY, Tex. (AP)—Dist. Judge Woodrow Laughlin Saturday reversed a Roma independent school district contest until next Wednesday.
Defendants in the suit, who were declared winners in the April school board election, are V. H. Guerra, Lucio Gonzalez, Erasmo Perez and Alonzo Alvarez.
Contestants and losers according to the returns are Cesar Salinas, Dr. Munio C. Ramirez, Mrs. R. R. Guerra and Ripaco T. Gonzalez.
The losers have changed enough votes were thrown out to have changed the outcome of the election. Election officials said votes discarded were those of non-citizens and non-residents of the district.

Land Owners Fear Water Decision

LAREDO (AP)—Farmers who own land along the Rio Grande are afraid a court decision may take away their privilege of a farm water right.
Dr. L. A. Wright, president of the Laredo area farmers association, said the concern stems from a recent ruling by the 4th Court of Civil Appeals in San Antonio against riparian claimants.
He said the court's finding in effect that landowners on the Rio Grande have no such rights "will deprive people throughout the entire state of the privilege of using the water they have been accustomed to using."
Wright reported owners of ranch and farm acreage along the upper Rio Grande are up in arms over two decisions by the appellate court.
Landowners of Webb and Zapata counties agreed at a recent meeting to appeal another ruling by the San Antonio court. It held the 49th District Court here cannot prevent consideration of a district court in Hidalgo County of a suit involving millions of gallons of water.

The higher court revoked an injunction from the district court here ordering 19 Hidalgo County water districts to drop a suit to determine Rio Grande water rights as far as it affected landowners above Falcon Dam, who had been made parties to the suit.
Riparian rights have been a controversial issue in the water rights battle between Lower Rio Grande Valley farmers and upper river landowners.
Lawyers have contended that owners of lands bordering the river hold rights to all the water they need under ancient land grants from the king of Spain. These are called riparian rights to the water.

Log Oil Discovery In Colorado County

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—Completion of what is described as an excellent oil discovery in Texas southwestern Colorado County is reported by Crescent Petroleum Corp.
The Brownson A-13 was completed through perforations from 5,902 to 5,904 feet in the top of the Conroe sand. On test the well flowed at a rate of 176 barrels of 42-degree gravity oil a day through 10-64-inch choke. Turbing pressure was 450 pounds and the gas-oil ratio was 524 to 1.

Thoughts On Religion

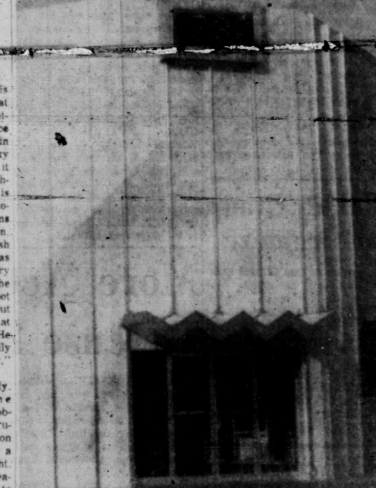

THE NATURAL WAY TO FIND TRUTH
Why doesn't God make His mind known to us in a manner that man can mistake? If God wanted to send a message to our race He could of course blazon it in fiery characters against the sky and call the attention of men to it with flashing lightning and crashing peals of thunder. This is not God's way. He adopts less violent and yet more effective means of making His mind known to men.
When God wishes to accomplish an end in the world, which He has created, He employs secondary causes that are in accord with the nature of mankind. He does not brush away the natural order but makes use of it to the extent that it fits into His divine plan. He reaches from end to end mightily and ordereth all things sweetly.
Wisdom 8:1.
"God orders all things sweetly. He avoids the spectacular and obtains His end in a gently, unobtrusive manner. For this reason Christ came into this world as a little Babe in the quietness of night. Similarly and for the same reason, that same Savior continues to cleanse souls and make saints out of them in a manner unseen and often unbeknown to the rest of men.
Our search for truth must go on—with the use of the natural faculties God has given us. He will hold us to that. He will have no sympathy with those who allow sentimental or emotional reasons to deter us from finding the road to heaven. Dives suffering in the abyss, as narrated by Christ, asked that someone be sent to earth to tell his brothers of the terrible pain awaiting them, but Abraham said: "They have their priests and their prophets; they will not listen to thee; and they will not listen to a messenger. The truth is at disposal. If we will but find it."

McMurry College Choir Due Here

The McMurry College Chanters, a 30-voice mixed choir, under the direction of Dr. Richard C. von Ende, will sing a "Hymn" program of sacred music at the Trinity Methodist tonight at 7:30.

DR. RICHARD C. VON ENDE

The choir recently returned from a 10-day tour through New Mexico and Texas. Stops were made on a line from Albuquerque, N. M., to El Paso and back to Abilene.

The first group of sacred numbers to be sung opens with "O Come Let Us Sing Unto the Lord," a plain song from the eighth century. Also included in this group are an eighteenth-century number and four sixteenth-century sacred songs.

Negro spirituals will make up another section of the Chanters' repertoire. These are "Hold On," "Sometimes I Feel Like I Wanna Go Home" and "Great Day."

A male quartet will sing an arrangement of "Jesus Savior Pilot Me" and a medley of Negro spirituals. Members of the quartet are Jerry Bourland, Rocco Freshman; Jerry Spurlin, Freshman; Frank Stichter, Abilene junior; and Bob Sewell, Midland senior.

A mixed quartet sings the echo part of a number by Heinrich Schütz, "Psalm 100." These four are Nancy Wilmoth, Crane junior; Jean Caffey, Abilene freshman; Si-tcher and Spurlin.

Soloists for the choir are Peggy Ater, Pecos sophomore; Sewell, Sitchler; Joe Sherman, Plainview freshman; Miss Wilmoth; and John Edwards, Hobbs, N. M., freshman.

Dr. von Ende, chairman of the Fine Arts Department, is in his eleventh year of touring with the Chanters this year. He received his doctor's degree from the University of Pittsburgh and both is masters and bachelors degrees in music from the College of Fine Arts, Carnegie Institute of Technology.

Officers for the Chanters this college year are Russell Panchman, Loving, N. M., sophomore, president; Miss Wilmoth, secretary.

Italy Editor Is Honored

LONGVIEW, Tex. (AP) — Russell W. Bryant, editor and publisher of the Italy News-Herald, has been selected by the East Texas Chamber of Commerce as its man of the month for May.

Bryant, won national headlines late in March after a tornado battered Italy, inflicting $750,000 damage.

The federal government offered disaster aid to help rebuild the town. Bryant, speaking for the city council, rejected the offer.

"The Federal Treasury is in worse shape than Italy," he said.

The regional chamber, in announcing its selection, said Bryant has been a leading figure in all of Italy's development project since he bought the newspaper in 1948. He banned a newspaper career in his native Missouri after he left high school.

For many years he has been active in the Texas Press Association.

Auto, Truck Are In Mishap Here

An automobile and truck were involved in a traffic mishap at 8:20 a. m. Saturday at Avenue F and East Highway, the police department reported.

Damage was estimated at about $1,000. The accident was caused by Joseph Hanson Barkley of Snyder. The other vehicle, a 1958 Ford truck driven by James Frederick Lewis, Route 2, and owned by Scurry Buane Co., sustained damage estimated at $500.

Dudley Now Accused In Strangling

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — An itinerant carnival worker who has admitted that five of his children died during nationwide family wanderings now has been accused of the wife of strangling a woman in a fit of anger 12 years ago.

But police so far have been unable to find the shallow grave on the edge of a dump in upstate New York where Kenneth E. Dudley supposedly buried the woman, known only as Jean.

Now have they been able to determine that a woman answering Jean's description ever was reported missing.

Dudley, 47 allegedly strangled Jean after she picked his pocket. Inspector Harry S. Sanderson revealed Friday night that Dudley's wife, Irene, 44, related the strange episode to two New York state policemen who recently questioned the couple in Virginia, where they are held on murder charges in the maintenance death of one of their children.

Sanderson gave this account, based on statements Mrs. Dudley made to New York state trooper David Leroy and Syracuse detective Robert Bush:

The Dudleys met Jean, a black-haired woman about 25, in a bar at Syracuse, where they lived at the time. Jean accompanied them to another bar at Bridgeport, on Oneida Lake. On the 10-mile drive home, the woman wanted to make a rest stop along the highway.

It was as Jean followed Mrs. Dudley out of the automobile that she allegedly picked Dudley's pocket.

Mrs. Dudley said her husband throttled Jean until her body went limp, then placed the body in the back of the car.

The couple drove about for a time and then stopped at a dump near Bridgeport.

The Dudleys are known to have had 10 children since they were married in 1941. Only three children survive.

Construction Sets Record

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas construction during March soared to the highest point in history for that month, the Bureau of Business Research said Saturday.

Total dollar authorizations reached $130,397,000, a 36 per cent increase from February before seasonal adjustment.

Data on building permits for the first quarter of 1961 in all categories rank second only to 1959 in the state construction history, the report said.

"Nonresidential construction has continued to buoy construction upward as it did in 1960 with some ready assistance from the classification of additions, alterations and repairs," the report said.

"While residential construction is still somewhat depressed March gains over February, 38 per cent gain, show much encouragement to the prediction of an end of the current economic and home-building recession," the bureau reported.

JFK Finds First 100 Days Tough

Editor's Note: Sunday marks the end of the first 100 days of the Kennedy administration. John M. Hightower, veteran Associated Press diplomatic affairs writer, reviews the President's foreign policy experiences in the following story.

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER WASHINGTON, (AP) — Life was rough on the new frontiers of U.S. foreign policy during President Kennedy's first 100 days.

U. S. prestige suffered two damaging blows as the result of the Soviet Union's man in space triumph and the defeat of the Cuban rebel invasion.

Relations between Moscow and Washington turned worse after an initial "honeymoon" following Kennedy's inauguration.

The possibility of new Communist conquests in Southeast Asia grew into a dangerous threat despite the Soviet's long delayed agreement to a cease-fire in Laos.

The Atlantic alliance upon investigation by the new President proved to be shaky at the center. The European members were split over whether NATO should have its own nuclear striking force.

Negotiations with the Soviet Union for a ban on nuclear weapons tests degenerated rapidly into a new deadlock after a hopeful resumption at Geneva in March.

Kennedy faced the prospect of having to decide soon whether the United States should resume nuclear test explosions.

The President's overriding problem since he took office Jan. 20 has been to accomplish two things simultaneously: He has faced the need to hold the line against Communist expansion into new lands and he has had to start preparing a counteroffensive by the United States and the Western allies.

The counteroffensive would be a major new development in U. S. cold war policy—if Kennedy can bring it off.

To do it he must marshal new reserves of economic and military power and keep them ready for quick and flexible use. He must devise a plan of action which by its own definition would put the Communist bloc on the defensive without creating the danger of nuclear war. Perhaps most difficult of all he must win allied concurrence.

The first 100 days have not afforded sufficient time for Kennedy to construct a complete action policy. Following up the criticisms and commitments he voiced during the election campaign last year, several points of his operation have become quite clear and the shape of his policy now seems evident.

The President's priority concern is to reinforce the Atlantic alliance both for its importance to the defense of the West and for its importance as a starting point for offensive pressures against the Communist bloc.

Meanwhile Kennedy opened a calculated campaign to put the United States on the side of revolution in Africa and Asia. The most spectacular move in this respect was to vote in the United Nations for self-government for Portuguese Angola in defiance of the wishes of Portugal as a NATO ally.

To gain more effective tools for himself Kennedy asked Congress for extensive remodeling of the U.S. foreign aid program. The changes he sought, he argued, would enable the United States to participate in economic long-range planning with the underdeveloped countries which need long term commitments of money.

In addition Kennedy himself began remodeling the U.S. military machine to fit a new concept of warfare between the Western nations and the Communist bloc.

The President ordered heavy expansion of U.S. units capable of fighting guerrilla and anti-guerrilla warfare.

At the heart of all of Kennedy's major problems, of course, was the nature of his relations with Soviet Premier Khrushchev. On this point some of his aides and advisers, if not Kennedy himself, seem to have been surprised, even shocked, at the violent, uncompromising nature of the cold war when seen from inside the government. Much of the confidence that a number of problems could be negotiated successfully has disappeared.

Kennedy's experiences with Cuba, Laos, and the nuclear test talks have been chiefly responsible for this new estimate of Khrushchev's ruthlessness and the nature of the challenge facing Washington. There is increasing awareness within the new administration that Khrushchev feels a new balance of power exists between Moscow and Washington and that it favors Moscow.

This being the case, Russia's successful launching of a man into space April 12 was taken here to harden the Soviet leader's resolve about getting his way.

The defeat a week later of the U. S.-backed rebel invasion of Cuba similarly weakened the United States' position among both allies and adversaries.

Ex-Prisoners Of War Join In Ritual Of Canned Milk

EDITOR'S NOTE — Each year on April 29, a group of former American prisoners of war in Germany go through an unusual ceremony involving a can of condensed milk and reminiscence. Here's the dramatic story behind the rite.

By KEITH FULLER
NEW YORK (AP) — At dinner Saturday night, I performed a simple little ceremony of spooning a few liters of sweet condensed milk in front of my fellow prisoners. In Lawton, Okla., Frank C. Sneed was having his portion of the gooey sweetness. And perhaps in Frankfurt, Ky., Vernon Ligon; in Riverside, Calif., Harold Aschman; somewhere in New Jersey, James Bogart; and in Dallas, Dr. Tom Herndon.

In fact, in cities and towns across the country you were likely to find our kind holding their April Thanksgivings.

Ours is not a strange cult with the love of condensed milk. It is just symbolic of a time and place remembered.

We were prisoners of war in Germany. The year was 1945, the date April 29 and the place, Stalag VII-A, Moosburg, not far from Munich.

For a few nights we had heard the thump of guns like faraway thunder and had seen flashes of light on the night horizon. We knew that after months for some and years for others, liberation was near.

We were excited but not jubilant. Rumors made the rounds that we would be moved to a remote area deep in the Bavarian Alps to be bargained for Hitler's life.

Around the compound prisoners gathered in clusters to hear the latest "gossip" from some fellow prisoners, the origin of which was always a little hazy.

About 9 a.m. on our fateful Sunday, an American major, still wearing sidearms, entered camp and conferred with our senior American officers. His news was bad. The Germans would not withdraw from the area to let the battle line move over our camp. There would be a fight and we would have to take our chances. Apparently he came in under a flag of truce.

Most of us were Air Corps officers shot down by flak or fighters. We had survived parachute jumps, civilian attacks, crash landings, interrogation and a blizzard march that taxed the limit of endurance.

Now at the moment before freedom, it was awesomely ironic to think of being killed. Only waxy recollections of these few hours come through vividly. An L1 artillery spotter plane buzzed lazily across the camp wagging its wings in greeting.

Then two P51 fighters appeared and one dived on a target near the compound. The staccato of its machine guns seemed like a signal for all hell to break loose. Shells whined over camp from the American tanks of the Third Army aimed at Moosburg. Small arms cracked and a box of "us" were wounded. We dived for the barracks, in and under, ripping out flooring with superhuman strength.

I lay beneath my bunk sweating and praying. You heard sobbing, cursing and praying in unison.

The eerily it seemed may have been less than an hour. But suddenly it was quiet and voices drifted in from the compound. Ginglyerly we trickled outside again to see a Sherman tank lumber through the barbed wire. It was a moment of high emotion to see that barbed wire smashed down.

Gen. George Patton, sporting his famous pearl-handled sidearms, roared into camp in a jeep and greeted us ragged prisoners. That night with bellies full of white bread and Oreos, courtesy of the Third Army, we slept free men again.

That was April 29, 1945. The condensed milk? During our imprisonment, Sneed would lie on his bunk — the lowest in a tier of three — and with a series of tooth-tooths, in lieu of lyrics, render Dixieland favorites in an Oklahoma monotone.

"Tailgate Rumble" and "When the Saints Go Marching In" sounded much the same the way Sneed tooth-toothed them.

This would pass the time for him until he would announce it was time for evening coffee.

The 13 other men in the room would gather around to watch Sneed, duly elected coffee chef, measure out with the delicate care of a chemist, enough of the precious coffee powder to give hot water a flavor.

"Let's have cream in it to night," Sneed would say matter-of-factly, as though the simple announcement needed no concurrence.

But he knew it would precipitate a crisis. There were cries of "yes" and "no," and voices would rise in crescendo and the insoluble problem would be up for a vote again.

Speed rarely won. The pantry chief, smug with confidence, would disdain arguing the point.

The vote was cast and Sneed would lose by a comfortable margin and would retire with his steaming cup of coffee-colored water to his bunk and cheer himself up with a chorus of St. James Infirmary.

"When I get home I'm going to get myself a whole damn case of that stuff and have it three times a day," one of the men would say. Everyone would assent.

After the pantry chief emptied the can to a point of wearing it through, the 14 men in the eating combine would gather round for the big moment when cards were cut for the infinitesimal remains.

The lucky winner would risk severing his tongue extracting the last trace of sweetness from the can. Others would drool with envy.

But that was all long ago. Today, with their double china resting comfortable on the first rung of middle age, the well-fed survivors of Stalag VII-A manage to hide their wartime horrors behind increasingly uncontrollable waistlines.

For most of us, too much food has become life's daily battle. But once a year, on April 29, Frank Sneed and the thousands of others who saw that tank break down the bonds of their captivity pause in the midst of plenty to starve through a unique Thanksgiving dinner.

Wherever they are, they go to the pantry and crack open a can of condensed milk. To a man, they drink a toast to yesterday — a yesterday they would just as soon forget, but somehow never can.

The new police board, in discharging Brannon, said crime reports had been joggled. It said also burglaries in the city in the first 3½ months had not been reported to the police records center.

The board also said there had been a breakdown in supervision but it felt Brannon, chief for nearly nine years, was not guilty of any personal wrong doing.

3 Officers Are Indicted

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Bernard C. Brannon, discharged chief of police, and two high police officers have been indicted on perjury charges by the Jackson County grand jury.

Lt. Col. Don Bishop, in charge of staff services, and Maj. John J. Halvey, chief of detectives, were arrested this morning. Sheriff Arvid Oswey said he had a warrant for the arrest of Brannon, who has been on a leave of absence since he was dismissed April 19.

All three were indicted on perjury charges and Brannon was indicted on a charge of misconduct in office.

Mental Health Week Begins

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Price Daniel Saturday called upon Texans to observe mental health week April 30-May 6.

Research, treatment, prevention, and the concern of all citizens comprise the theme which has conquered other dread diseases. Mental illness can be conquered also with the support of an aware and determined public," Daniel said.

An estimate made by the State Department of Health shows that 63,000 Texans need mental health services, he said.

"The Texas Association for Mental Health and its local affiliates are fighting mental illness through many courses: financing research to prevent, treat, and cure mental illness; helping to set up community treatment centers and working with the mental hospitals to assure every patient of the best possible psychiatric care; providing reliable information on how to cure mental illness and what to do when it strikes; and assisting in rehabilitation of recovered patients and keeping them well," Daniel said.

Gagarin Would Like Trip West

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP) — Maj. Yuri A. Gagarin said today he would like to visit a Western country, "but I don't know whether it is being arranged."

There have been rumors that Gagarin would visit Great Britain shortly and then go to the United States.

He is visiting in Czechoslovakia.

Biggest Exercise For NATO Slated

LONDON (AP) — The United States Monday begins the biggest reinforcement exercise in NATO's history with an airlift of 6,000 combat-ready troops from Ft. Campbell, Ky., to West Germany.

The show of North Atlantic Treaty Organization strength coincides with huge May Day celebrations in Moscow and other Communist capitals, where military power displays are scheduled.

At an estimate made by the State Department of Health shows that 63,000 Texans need mental health services, he said.

30% 42% 15%
24% 52%

Question: What are these percentage figures?

Answer: Most of our costs of providing your electric service have increased during the past nine years, and these percentage figures represent actual increases during this period in important items of our cost of doing business.

Wages, copper and aluminum wire, transformers, crossarms, natural gas to fire our boiler furnaces, insulators, and nearly everything else we use in our business have increased in price. In the face of these increases, Texas Electric is proud to have been able to hold the price line for our customers.

Because most folks are using more electricity today, many of them don't realize that the average price paid for a kilowatt-hour of electricity by our residential customers is lower now than it was in 1950.

This has been possible because of increased efficiencies in generating and distributing electricity, increased sales of electricity, and because of the skilled men and women who have a part in providing your electric service.

Although these efficiencies are not offsetting today's higher costs of doing business, we are maintaining the high quality of electric service which is essential to the growth and development of the area.

Rains Help Quell Riots In Galveston

WATER POWER—The car port and part of the living room of a house show force of flash flood that tore through South Farms area of Middletown, Conn. A break in dam emptied Crystal Lake on residential area. (AP Wirephoto)

By CHARLES GREEN
GALVESTON (AP)—Heavy rain Saturday served to cool tempers and youthful exuberance blamed for rioting in which students and police fired shots on Galveston beaches.

City police, reinforced by four Texas Rangers, county authorities and 25 officers from neighboring Houston, nevertheless kept close watch for any hint of further outbreaks.

Fighting started late Friday night and quickly broadened into a confused melee causing police to fill city and county jails with jeering youths.

It was nearly noon before the last of 580 prisoners finished paying city court fines or posting bonds to win release.

Trouble erupted as Galveston celebrated Splash Days to mark the opening of the summer swimming season in the island resort. It was the first major outbreak during the weekend observance, which draws about 100,000 visitors every year.

Uncounted students and half a dozen policemen suffered bruises or cuts in mushrooming scuffles but all appeared to have escaped serious injury.

"One of the officers — John Jennings, I think — fired a warning shot," Police Chief O. E. Henson reported, "but no one was hit. There was quite a bit of gun play later. Our men were fired on several times but couldn't return the fire because of the crowd."

Henson estimated at least 3,000 students from colleges in Texas, Louisiana and Oklahoma took part in the disturbance. He made no attempt to name their home towns.

City officials and several students likened the trouble to a similar outbreak earlier this month at Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

"We were just trying to make Fort Lauderdale look like a picnic," said one student, who declined to give his name.

"I think they came down here trying for trouble just like in Fort Lauderdale," said city police commissioner Walter Rouse Jr. "They weren't organized but they were looking for trouble."

Henson said it appeared the rioting stemmed from a fight between two unidentified youths outside a hotel on Seawall Boulevard.

Two patrolmen tried to break up the fistfights, Henson said, and a crowd started gathering around their squad car. Officers battled rioters then on to halt a wild series of fights in which students hurled beer bottles and rocks or tried to club policemen with the bottle.

Firemen helped scatter the milling crowds by spraying them with water from a truck. L. E. Dudley, a district fire chief, said the vehicle's 500-gallon tank was emptied four times onto the rioters.

"The truck may have got the worst of it," Dudley said. "The windshield was broken and they threw rocks and dented it."

Officers spent most of the night carting the rioters off to jail and restoring order. Police from Houston brought several trained dogs and used them to guard prisoners as others were rounded up.

"It's a good thing they weren't organized," Henson said. "If they had been, we would have really had trouble... It was rough before we got reinforcements. The odds were 200 to 1 for a while."

The police chief ordered all members of his force to remain on duty through tonight. With help from other officers, he said there were 125 men keeping watch against further trouble.

Henson said there was no plan to close liquor stores or halt beer sales before the customary 1 a.m. Sunday curfew because most of the youths apparently carried their own supplies to Galveston.

"We think they brought beer with them," he said, "because about half of the ones we arrested had beer in their hands and almost all the cars we searched had beer in them. A lot of the students were drinking from quart bottles."

Program Mapped By Tourist Panel

The Tourist Development Committee of the Chamber of Commerce, under the leadership of Chairman Claude McCormick, initiated an energetic program for the development of tourist business for Snyder.

Meeting Thursday evening at the Village Restaurant, 35 Congresses and service stations operators enthusiastically endorsed the program calling for informational meetings for employees of service establishments regularly serving the tourist trade.

Appearing on the program were Richard Beteg, operator-owner of the Travelodge, and Woody Forrester, Manager of the Chamber of Commerce.

Beteg represented the local membership of the U. S. Highway 180 Association and, outlined to the group the joint-participation program being carried out by the various cities along U. S. 180.

Snyder has four directors on the Board of the U. S. 180 Association.

Three Awards To Jaycees

SAN ANGELO — The Snyder Jaycees copped one first place award and two third-place awards at the Texas Junior Chamber of Commerce annual convention.

The awards were presented Friday night for club achievements during the calendar year of 1960.

Snyder Jaycees took first in their group in religious and Christmas activities, and third place awards in youth and sports activities and in public relations.

Awards were presented in five club and town size categories.

Ahilene took the top award for the outstanding single project of the year. The Ahilene club earned the award for building a drag strip.

Oil Recovery Parley Set In Midland

Some 550 petroleum engineers and wives are expected to attend the Third Biennial Permian Basin Oil Recovery Conference to be held May 4-5 in Midland. The two-day meeting is sponsored by the Permian Basin Section of the Society of Petroleum Engineers of AIME.

Fifteen papers will be presented at the technical sessions, which will be conducted in the Yucca Theater in Midland beginning Thursday morning and ending Friday afternoon. Registration booths will be set up Wednesday, May 3, in the Midland Chamber of Commerce office from noon until 10 p. m.

Rail Line Head Dies

LOCUST VALLEY, N.Y. (AP) — Cedric Aylwin Major, 66, president of the Lehigh Valley Railroad and a one-time national tennis champion, died of a heart attack while playing tennis at the Piping Rock Club here Friday.

Major had spent the morning at his office in New York City.

Major, a law graduate of Cornell University, had been with the Lehigh Valley since 1916 and its president since 1947.

However, he told stockholders at the line's annual meeting on April 11 he accepted re-nomination as president only with the understanding he would be relieved as soon as the Interstate Commerce Commission acted on an application of the Pennsylvania Railroad to control the Lehigh.

Major was once ranked 11th among the nation's top tennis players and in 1937 won the U.S. Veterans' singles championship.

Since 1945, according to a recent American Cancer Society report, facilities for cancer treatment in the United States have more than doubled.

Idle Worker List Shows A Decrease

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Labor Department reports the number of idled workers drawing unemployment checks fell 106,700 the week ended April 15 to a total of 2,837,500.

This was the eighth straight week the figure declined.

The latest total, the Bureau of Employment Security said Friday is 584,800 below the record high of 3,422,300 reached in mid-February.

In mid-April of last year 1,960,500 were drawing unemployment checks.

Seasonal expansion of outdoor work and sizable recalls in the auto industry were partly credited for the new decline.

PERFORMING VOLUNTEER SERVICE—Mrs. C. H. Barnett (left) and Mrs. J. Ray Martin of Snyder represent two of the ladies who are giving of their time and energies in the furtherment of the operation of the Veterans Hospital in Big Spring. Both serve voluntarily, Mrs. Barnett being a non-affiliated worker and Mrs. Martin as a member of Snyder's American Legion Auxiliary. (Photo by Jackson)

Volunteer Work Vital At Veterans Hospital

The open house held at the Veterans Administration Hospital in Big Spring last Sunday has been labeled a "success" and commendation on its part in the furthering of the hospital's cause was received here by the local American Legion Auxiliary.

A letter of thanks was received by Mrs. Jean Newman, president of the auxiliary unit here, from V. J. Beida, manager of the hospital. In it he stated:

"It is with pleasure that we express our sincere thanks to you and the ladies of the American Legion Auxiliary Unit No. 181 for the wonderful job you did in furnishing and decorating the day room on Ward 6-West.

"This room is very attractive and I am sure it will add much to the ward morale of the patients who are and will be hospitalized and placed on this ward. Our veteran patients join me in expressing our thanks to you for a job well done."

An example of the work which is being done daily at the hospital on a voluntary basis may be seen in the efforts of Mrs. J. Ray Martin, a volunteer and member of the Legion Auxiliary, and Mrs. C. H. Barnett of Ira, a non-affiliated volunteer, both of whom have been giving of their time and services for the betterment of the hospital.

Through their efforts and those of their fellow workers, the long term patients' interests in community and public life are kept alert; and since the majority of patients are a long way from home they are helped in immeasurable ways through volunteer contacts.

In addition to the volunteers from the many service organizations, clubs, and lodges, there are also those who come independently and are not affiliated with any group or organization, with Mrs. Barnett of Ira being one of those individuals.

The hospital itself has an average daily load of 236 patients. It is a 250-bed general, medical, and surgical hospital serving an area bounded on the north by Lubbock, the east by Cisco, the south by Ozona, and the west by Van Horn. It also serves southeastern New Mexico, with the total area encompassed including some 175,000 veterans.

The work and work potential of volunteers is unlimited. Part of the work of Mrs. Barnett and Mrs. Martin consists of taking the patients to their different therapies, and sometimes they are asked to work in Occupational Therapy, where the patients paint, weave, construct ash trays, nut bowls, etc.

Various other duties which the ladies perform include such things as filling water pitchers, 40th ice, lighting cigarettes for the patients, making telephone calls for them, delivering of the mail, reading to them, writing letters for them, and visiting with and helping to feed them.

Sen. Roberts To Be Governor For Day

AUSTIN (AP)—Sen. Ray Roberts of McKinney will take over the governor's duties Monday for a day.

Gov. Price Daniel and Lt. Gov. Ben Ramsey will be out of the state.

At least 400 persons from Roberts' seven-county district and 400 from other parts of Texas and the nation are expected to attend events honoring Roberts.

As one of his official actions as acting governor, Roberts, a captain in the Navy reserve, will declare May to be Navy aviation month. He will also call attention to the industrial potential of North Texas and recognize the work of East Texas State College at Commerce.

Indian Nation To Become A County

KESHENA, Wis. (AP)—After 107 years the federal government gives up its stewardship of the Menominee Indian Nation Sunday.

Next day the vast reservation carved out in negotiations by Chief Oshkosh in 1854, will become Wisconsin's 22nd county.

The Menominees thus will be the first American tribe to be put on their own as a political unit. Monday will be celebrated as freedom day on the reservation.

Some 80 per cent of the tribe's 1,720 members make their living from the timber operation.

Nation's Biggest Industry May Lead Way To Recovery

NEW YORK (AP)—The nation's biggest industry—steel—appears to be leading the way out of the recession.

Its output is going up steadily and industry leaders are optimistic about the future.

Production climbed up its sixth consecutive weekly increase, rising 2.1 per cent last week to 1,784,000 tons. It was the greatest total since the week ended May 25, 1960.

Output for April is estimated at 7.5 million tons, biggest since last May.

The increasing demand for steel caused plants to fire up additional furnaces and call back more idle workers. For example, in the Buffalo, N.Y., area, unemployment among steelworkers was being cut by 100 men a day.

"As it stands now, the steel industry is close to equilibrium," said the trade publication, Iron Age. "The rate of incoming orders, steelmaking operations and the rate of consumption are all in balance around 90 per cent."

Roger Blough, chairman of U.S. Steel Corp., said: "We seem to have reached bottom in February. We're hoping for some improvement in May. Confidence with respect to the economic situation is improving."

Convicted In Slaying

RUSK, Tex. (AP)—A district court jury Saturday assessed Carol Lee Glenn, 28, Aliso businessman, a 25-year prison sentence for the slaying of Shirley Ray Goodwin, 22, college student, last Oct. 9.

Goodwin was shot to death in Glenn's car during an argument. He was a student at Stephen F. Austin College at nearby Nacogdoches and lived at Wells, near Lufkin.

Glenn claimed self-defense. His attorney, Percy Foreman of Houston, indicated an appeal will be made.

The jury in the 12-day trial started deliberations at 2:30 p.m. Friday.

In addition to the case, Glenn owns a service station, tourist court and a grocery store in Alto, Cherokee County.

Anti-Castro Event Slated In Mexico

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Catholics in Mexico plan a major anti-Castro demonstration Sunday evening.

The occasion was a rash of annual meetings at which earnings for the first quarter of this year were announced.

Declines from earnings levels of the 1960 first quarter were particularly sharp in the steel and automobile industries, which were operating full blast at that time last year to catch up after the steel strike.

However, there were bright spots among the earnings reports. Among companies with substantial gains were Colgate-

Grain Mart Trend Firm

CHICAGO (AP)—The grain futures market maintained a generally firm trend this week despite some steep setbacks along the way. All contracts finished higher except rye and may wheat.

Soybeans, as usual, galloped over a broad range early in the week, whipped by a government report which was described at first as the most bullish influence of the year in the trade. However, it turned out finally to be considerably less.

Soybeans ended the week 4 1/4 cents a bushel higher but will be lower the season highs posted on Wednesday for the old crop months, May 3 23/4-24; wheat 2 1/4 lower to 1 1/4 higher, May 1 18 1/4-19; corn 1/2-2/4 higher, May 1 12 1/4-13; oats 1/4-3/4 higher, May 6 1/2-7; rye 1-2 1/4 lower, May 1 1/2.

Area Students To Attend Atomic Energy Symposium

Honor science students from area high schools will attend an atomic energy symposium for high school science students from a wide area of West Texas to be held May 6 on the campus of Odessa College. The symposium was announced today by Bill Brown, Texas Electric Service Company manager here.

The symposium is being sponsored by Texas Electric Service Company and Odessa College. It will be attended by some 750 honor science students and teachers from 42 high schools in the area from Sweetwater west to Monahans served by Texas Electric Service Company.

The symposium will be held in the auditorium of Odessa College which has made its facilities available for the all-day session. Speakers at the symposium in addition to Dr. Pidd and Dr. Scott will include H. R. Drew of Fort Worth, executive vice president of the foundation, Dr. Jack Rogers, president of Odessa College and W.G. Marquardt, Division Manager of Texas Electric Service Company. The program also includes a panel discussion on science careers for which Dr. Pidd, Dr. Scott, Dean Nathan Ivey of Odessa College and Jack Vought, instructor of engineering at Odessa College, will discuss opportunities available for science students today and answer students' questions on this subject.

The program will also include a film showing progress of the fusion research at General Atomic.

There is no "miracle" cure for cancer, according to the American Cancer Society. Of the more than a million cured cases on record, all have been treated by surgery, or radiation, the only approved medical methods.

TO ATTEND SYMPOSIUM—Mrs. Roy Carter, standing, science teacher at Snyder High School, and three students look over literature on atomic energy which will be the topic of a symposium at Odessa next Saturday. The symposium will be sponsored by Texas Electric Service Co. and Odessa College. The Snyder students above are, from left, Carl Bailey, Patsy Rossion and Phil Berry. Several other Snyder students along with groups from Ira and Hermleigh will attend the symposium. (Photo by Jackson)

Market In Slight Loss During April

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market, upset by international crisis, took a slight loss in April, bringing the 1961 advance to at least a temporary halt.

Volume for the week declined to 22,400,970 shares from 24,716,960 the week before and was the lightest since the week ended April 1 when 19,760,270 shares were traded.

The most active issue this week on the American Stock Exchange was Sapphire Petroleum, up 1/4 at 3-16 on 1,402,400 shares.

Corporate bond prices nosedived this month. But bonds of the U.S. government recouped almost all of March's losses.

The corporate plunge was the worst since December 1959, according to the Associated Press average of 86 bonds. The averages were off all four weeks of the month, and now have fallen six weeks in a row. The year opened with 10 weekly gains.

Utility and high grade investment issues fell the most in April. The low yield component dipped over 1/2 index points and utilities almost 1 1/2. Rails and industrials were only slightly lower.

For the government list the month produced moderate improvement. Gains ran from 1/4 to 1 1/2 point. Three of the four weeks ended in advances with the overall rise just about erasing the March loss.

Volume on the New York Stock Exchange declined to $31,602,000 par value $37,445,000 the previous week and was the lowest of the year for a nonholiday week.

Posse Takes Second Place

The Scurry County Sheriff's Posse took the second place trophy in the parade at Tahoka on Thursday. Sixteen riders were present to represent the Scurry County organization.

The posse met Saturday morning at the posse clubhouse for a western breakfast cooked in heavy iron pots over open fires.

The posse calf ropers will be at the posse grounds this afternoon for roping, and will have their regular monthly meeting Tuesday night. In addition to the routine business, a new polo program will be organized.

The posse will participate in another parade at Rotan on Thursday.

Officials of the posse expressed appreciation to all Snyder merchants and other citizens who helped make a success of the Spring Roundup of the American Association of Sheriff's Posses and Riding Clubs held here last weekend.

Firm Chief, Two Aides Convicted

SIOUX CITY, Iowa (AP)—Harold E. Kistner, Jr., 35, former president of the defunct Northern Biochemical Corp., of Sheldon, and two of his aides, were convicted Friday night of selling unregistered stock of the concern in violation of federal law. The corporation was found guilty of the same charge.

The livestock feed additive firm came into prominence last January with disclosure that its principal investor was Burnice Greiger, who embezzled $2 million. She was later sentenced to 15 years.

A jury of 10 women and two men deliberated 18 hours in U.S. District Court before returning guilty verdicts against Kistner, A. M. Biderman, Northern Chemical's former bookkeeper, and one-time Denver tax service consultant, and Robert Smith, company salesman.

Kistner and Biderman were named in 13 counts of selling and delivering by mail stock they had not been registered with the Securities and Exchange Commission and one count of conspiracy to do so. Smith was convicted on one count of conspiracy.

U.S. Dist. Atty. F. E. Van Alstine said the maximum penalty on each count is five years in prison or $5,000 fine or both.

Judge Henry N. Graven delayed sentencing and attorneys for defendants said motions for new trial will be filed. The three remained at liberty on their bonds.

Travel Restricted To U. S. Airlines

WASHINGTON (AP) — After May 15, federal employees and their dependents will have to travel on U.S. airlines when the government foists the bill, Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., said today.

Magnuson, chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee, said a Budget Bureau directive will order use of American flag airlines as a result of his appeal to President Kennedy.

"Nearly $100 million is involved in such travel, Magnuson said.

Hour Show Is Tiring To Chester

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Guns, smoke," finished shooting its first four-hour show this week. Says Dennis Weaver, "We thought it would never end."

The reaction is understandable. With Jim Aronson, Amanda Blake and Milburn Stone, Weaver had made about 240 half-hours over a six-year stretch. It's no small change to a seven-day shooting schedule, double the usual amount.

"And we've got 34 of them to do this season," Dennis added with a sigh. "That will take us to the end of next March with hardly any time off. If we were going into such a schedule with a new show, it would be a little easier to work up enthusiasm. As it is, March seems a long, long distance away."

"At the end of the season, Chester may turn in his badge and limp over the hill."

"I'm not saying I positively will leave," said Dennis. "I said that last year and then went back."

"What changed his mind?"

"Money," he admitted. "I figured I had gotten about all I could get out of the part. But they offered me such a nice deal that I had to consider my family and accept. Now we've bought a lot and will build a house for the first time."

"Also there were certain fringe benefits. The major one was the chance to direct. I did three shows last year and will do some of the hours, too."

I asked Dennis how he thought "Guns" would fare in the new hour format.

"I don't know," he replied. "I worry about the time slot. We'll be on from 10 to 11 and so will lose a lot of the kids. That might hurt us."

Leukemia, which is an incurable cancer of the blood-forming tissues, will take the lives of some 13,000 persons in the United States this year and a fifth of them will be children under the age of 15. The American Cancer Society is currently allocating $1,500,000 to leukemia-related research.

Songs In Movie Will Carry History-Making Credit Line

By RICHARD RODGERS
AP TV, Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — At least three of the songs in the remake of the movie "State Fair" will carry a history-making credit line.

"Music by Richard Rodgers, Lyrics by Alan Jay Lerner."

And next season a new but still unwritten Broadway musical will carry another set of unprecedented credits.

"Music by Richard Rodgers, Lyrics by Alan Jay Lerner."

After 25 years of writing music in anticipation of lyrics by Lorenz Hart and 19 years of fitting music to the lyrics of Oscar Hammerstein II, Broadway's most successful and most prolific composer is setting off in two different directions on a brand new career.

No matter what the assignment, even writing his own lyrics, Rodgers (at 50) can still generate the same effervescence and undisguised joy he did when he was a freshman writing the undergraduate shows at Columbia University.

"People always think that writing lyrics is simply a matter of knocking words 'rhyme. It's not. It's more like a mosaic, putting a lot of little things together—rhythm, rhyme — and making them fit."

What sort of a Rodgers will emerge from his collaboration with himself and then with Lerner? Rodgers' growth as a composer can be traced through his experiences with each of his former collaborators, both as different in temperaments and work habits as their lyrics.

Rodgers was only 15 when he met the mercurial, cigar-smoking Lorenz Hart, seven years his senior, and wrote the music for a song called "Any Old Place With You." Lew Fields, a mutual friend, fitted it into his show "A Lonely Romeo" and thereby launched the show writing team of Rodgers and Hart.

Together they wrote 27 Broadway musicals and eight movie scores, including such musical milestones as "Pal Joey," "Bye, Bye in Arms," "The Boys From Syracuse," "On Your Toes" and "By Jupiter."

But for all his talent and success, Hart just hated to work. When his disorganization ultimately became a dissipation, Rodgers reluctantly sought a new partner.

The one he chose—Oscar Hammerstein II—was the complete opposite in almost every way.

Where Hart was short only 5 feet, gregarious, moody and usually dependent on inspiration, he could dash off a whole song in five minutes when the mood struck and then loaf for weeks—Hammerstein was tall (6 feet 11), placid, highly organized in work habits, unalterably opposed to cocktail parties and gifted with monastic concentration—he could spend three weeks on a single line.

Hart's lyrics were debonair, satirical, at times brash, always technically exciting and aimed unerringly at the Park Avenue set. Hammerstein's lyrics, on the other hand, were simple, more emotional, unabashedly romantic and aimed directly at anyone who has ever walked through a storm or felt starry-eyed and vaguely discontented.

Working with Hammerstein, Rodgers' work grew in scope and over-all achievement. "Oklahoma," their first collaboration, changed the course of American musicals and paved the way for "Carousel," "South Pacific," "The King and I" and "The Sound of Music."

Alan Jay Lerner, the young lyricist of "My Fair Lady," "Gigi," "Cameo!" and "Brigadoon," at times seems a synthesis of Hart and Hammerstein. Handsome, urbane, hard working, well-disciplined, he writes a line that is as sophisticated as a Hart lyric and not nearly as romantic as a Hammerstein lyric, but still infuses the better elements of both into a result that is as delicate and glittering as a silk tapestry.

Conversation On Day After Awards

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The following is a transcript of a tape recording made the morning after the Academy Awards. It is a conversation between a famous film actress, who shall be nameless, and her agent, Joe Mudd: "Nameless—There you are, you stupid idiot!"

Joe—You always look your best when you're upset, baby. Your coloring is superb!

Nameless—How long can I put up with your morose blundering?

Joe—Have some coffee, darling.

Nameless—All the other stars are taking their money to Switzerland. But you insisted that I invest in that Cuban hotel!

Joe—I can't understand Fidel doing that to us. Cream and sugar!

Nameless—And that TV special you talked me into!

Joe—That was the network's fault, baby doll.

Nameless—But the climax of your stupidity came last night.

Joe—You mean the Oscars, angel face? I caught the show. Kind of a drag.

Nameless—First Shirley Jones got the Oscar for playing a harlot. Then Liz Taylor got hers for playing a call girl. Melina Mercouri, Shirley Maclaine, Janet Leigh, Mary Ure—they all got nominations for playing fast and loose.

What did I get? The P.T.A. seal of approval.

Joe—I told you we should have taken some ads, sweetheart.

Nameless—For what? Those two

Space Show Fails To Touch Title

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV, Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — CBS Reports' "A simple, understandable form" told us a lot about space and scientific progress Thursday night.

But it didn't provide much of an answer to the question it used for a title: "Why man in space?"

One scientist interviewed on the program said flatly that instruments would be more efficient in finding out about the moon, Venus, Mars and more remote worlds.

"But you see," he said almost regretfully, "you've got to bring the man back. You can let your instruments go."

Another scientist said man had to go into space because "it is one of the fundamental instincts and drives."

Most of the fascinating hour had a quality of fantasy: Animated film instruments would be tossed on the moon as if it were a golf green; the prototype of an instrument that looked like a praying mantis but which would be dropped on a strange planet, dig and sample soil, analyze it and relay the information back to earth.

Most experts agreed that the chance of life existing on nearby planets—except perhaps Mars—seems remote. But none discounted the real possibility that may exist on the more distant ones.

It was an educational, enlightening but definitely a disturbing program.

"Jane Eyre," an adaptation of Charlotte Brontë's old chiller, preceded it on CBS. It seemed by contrast a soothing bedtime story. The story was a restful one about an innocent 19th Century governess in a gloomy old house inhabited by a bitter man and a crazy woman who went around starting fires.

Freely Julia London has had a big season getting around at the various action-adventure shows. This week she was a very effective girl of the week on "Hong Kong or Thereabouts," one of the early casualties of the current TV season, comes back into NBC's Friday night lineup on May 12. The May 20 "Have Gun, Will Travel" will go in for hard realism. It depicts "Calamity Jane" as a drunken, unavowed character instead of a clean-living frontier beauty.

A major undertaking in cancer research has been the search for drugs to help or slow down tumor growth. According to the American Cancer Society, some 50,000 different compounds are tested annually for anti-cancer activity.

Oscars Start In Strange Places

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Burt Lancaster wants to talk to you about a movie," said Shirley Jones' manager. "I don't know what the role is, but it might be a shady lady. So dress sexy and look good."

From just such beginnings are Oscars won. That's the way it started for the winsome Miss Jones, whose film career was dragging until she played the racy Lulu Baines in "Elmer Gantry."

"When I went to talk about doing the part," she recalls, "I wore a dress that was cut down to here and fit right around the hips. I also wore my hair up, so I wouldn't look so young.

"Burt and the producer, Bernie Smith, were for me from the start; they had seen me do a TV drama with Red Skelton, in which I played a couple of drunk scenes and committed suicide. Richard Brooks, the director, wasn't so sold on me; I think he had some-one else in mind.

"But Burt was insistent and I got the role without making a test, though I would have been willing to make one. Brooks still wasn't for me until after the first day of shooting."

She convinced him — and the Academy voters. It was one of the notable switch-castings of recent times, her turning from musical comedy to a heroic, fallen woman. It also gave her a whole new film career to replace one that had been drifting.

Not that she is going to specialize in portraying tainted beauties. "The fact is," she says, "I went back in the musical comedy dodge, playing Marian the librarian in "Music Man."

The musicals almost did her in, as far as films. She won immense fame by being chosen by Rodgers and Hammerstein as their film Lauree in "Oklahoma!"

When she finished "Carousel" her studio, 20th Century-Fox, told her it had no films for her—"because we aren't planning any musicals." She protested that she could do non-musicals, but to no avail.

Junior Editors Quiz on ANIMALS

QUESTION: What is an aardvark?

ANSWER: This animal with the strange name is even stranger-looking. It has long ears like a rabbit, a long snout, and a big body. It is four to six feet long. Though it looks clumsy, it can do its work in a hurry. Sharp claws on its feet enable it to dig a hole big enough to hide its body—all in a matter of minutes. And it can break into an anthill just like that. When it gets into the anthill, its long sticky tongue laps up the ants. Some aardvarks have tongues a foot long. The Dutch who found this animal in Africa thought it resembled a pig because of its snout. The aardvark sleeps in its hole during the day and comes out for food only at night.

FOR YOU TO DO: There are other animals which eat ants. They are called anteaters, but they differ from the aardvark. Can you discover the difference?

This Bread Pudding Is Honest Dish

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor
DON'T SPURN honest pudding. It's a simple, honest dish. But first find a fine flavored recipe. One of them—was happy in say, is right here.

Bread pudding has a long and honorable history. Two recipes for it are in the first cookbook of a American authorship published in the United States.

From its beginning, this bread pudding was a simple honest dish. It's remained that way. I don't know how the dessert has escaped the well-known American urge to thank heaven it has.

Just one modern change we recommend. Use evaporated milk, as the following recipe directs. We're frank to say that we do not cherish the flavor of this milk "as it," but in certain custard-type recipes it combines with other ingredients to give different and delectable taste.

Early recipes for bread pudding called for raisins or currants; we use the former. Our flavorings of nutmeg and grated lemon rind are old-fashioned also; the vanilla is a newer addition, but well worth-while.

What sauce for bread pudding? Some early recipes do not specify; other recommend wine sauce or melted butter and sugar. Then when Fannie Farmer's cookbook arrived at the end of the last century, she favored Vanilla Sauce. We suggest Vanilla Cream.

RASIN BREAD PUDDING
1 large can 1 1/2 cups evaporated milk
1 1/3 cups water
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 cups soft bread crumbs (six 1/2-inch slices with crusts removed)
2 eggs
1 1/2 cup sugar
Salt
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
Grated rind of 1 lemon
4 cup raisins rinsed in hot water and drained
Scald milk and water; remove from heat and stir in butter—until melted. Pour over bread crumbs and let stand. With a fork, beat eggs enough to combine yolks and whites; add sugar, a dash of salt, nutmeg, vanilla and grated lemon rind; at once slowly add hot milk and crumb mixture, stirring constantly and mixing well. Turn into buttered 1 1/2 quart casserole. Scatter in cup of the raisins over top; they'll sink. Bake in moderate oven about 30 minutes. Test with center or until knife inserted close to center comes out clean. Sprinkle remaining raisins over top for garnish. Serve warm with 1 cup light cream mixed with 1/2 teaspoon vanilla. Makes large serving.

Note: If any of the pudding is leftover it may be reheated in a double boiler over a small amount of boiling water.

Program On Music Given At Woman's Culture Club

The regular meeting of the Woman's Culture Club was held Tuesday afternoon at the Martha Ann Woman's Club with Mrs. A. C. Martin presiding.

Following the business session, the program on "Music and Women in That Field" was led by Mrs. S. A. Tibbels. She spoke on music and its effect on the lives of all people. She stated that "Music is the one language that is understood every where. It's melody has the same influence and power on people of all nations."

Mrs. Tibbels cited Israel as the land that has used singing to unite people of 70 different nations. Israel, made up of 108 Arab communities, sprang of thousands of homeless from Germany and Eastern Europe, people from India, Syria, the Soviet Union and South Africa has acted on the simple principle that music is an international language which everybody can understand and enjoy, and has learned that it brings people together spiritually and emotionally, regardless of race, so music is being used there as a tool to shape a harmonious nation.

The following is "Woman's Influence in the Field of Music" by Mrs. N. W. Aury.

"What is music? Our interpretation of music as we know it today as compared with the music of yesterday may differ considerably, but the basic meaning remains the same.

"The old saying of 'A family who prays together stays together' is a proverb of note and we certainly cannot discount the truth therein. A well-adjusted family has its influences on the community and ultimately on the nation. Show the family where good music is cultivated, where the parents and children often blend their voices in song, and I will show you one where peace, harmony and love prevail. No family can afford to do without music. Songs learned in the home are notes that will be heard and loved in after years. The songs and hymns sung by a mother and her little boy may in after days be a voice that will recall him from some in-shed Christian country can we deny the influence which a mother exerts over the whole life of her children. Indeed, the more we reflect upon music, the more we are convinced that any greatness attained by an individual stems from the tenderness and love of a mother for her child. This love reflects and surpasses all other affections of the heart. The voice of a mother as she sings to her children, I think, has had more to do with the development of great musicians than we can imagine.

"A woman has no natural gift more enchanting than a soft, sweet voice. It turns prose into poetry and flings sunshine over the darkness. The woman's voice is the most perfect instrument ever made, and well it might be, for it hid the most skillful maker.

"It is not necessary to point out any individual and comment on their attainments—we have only to look back on the perception of mother and we find the base or ground work for any talent which we might enjoy.

"I have not singled out any woman and expounded on what she has contributed to the field of music, nor do I think that necessary in order to expose the influence of women in this art. Women have always exercised a most remarkable judgment in regard to great issues. They have prevented the casting aside of plans which lead to remarkable discoveries and inventions. When Columbus laid a plan to discover the new world, he could not get a hearing until he applied to a woman for help. Women equip him for the voyage of life. She is seldom a leader in any project but we find her attitude as the best helper.

"Though man executes, the pro-

A Week To Remember

ONE WEEK IN MARCH by Mark Sherman and Charles L. Markin.

The depression was at its depth and the banks were closed. Franklin D. Roosevelt was inaugurated for his first term, and in Germany there were Reichstag elections that tipped the balance of power in Hitler's favor.

That would be enough to make any week a time for history, but in the first week of March, 1932, a great many more things were happening. The authors have encompassed a flood of detail in this chronicle, creating a deep cross-section of America and the world.

There was the beginning of the Scottsboro trail, and the release of a kidnap victim, Charles B. Boettcher, 2nd, son of a wealthy banker in Denver. The League of Nations was stumbling around in Geneva. But the biggest story, and the closest to the little people, was the depression itself.

There was a craze for jigsaw puzzles, and people with time on their hands got their entertainment from a great variety of network radio programs—this was before the days of disc jockeys. Plays and movies, art and music, all are covered thoroughly in the book.

Older readers will find much to do their memories here, and younger readers will be able to learn what the whole period was like, through this comprehensive study. It is illustrated.

The authors' new art at work on another volume, covering the first 100 days of the Kennedy administration.

Miles A. Smith

*Stain-resistant finishes, applied to fabric as well as to plastic table tops, eliminate special pre-treatment before washing in hot, with soap or detergent.

Beauty Treatment For White Cottons

To restore whiteness to sheets, towels and shirts, turn the control of your water heater to the hottest setting. Put the "gray" load into the automatic washing machine and instead of soap or detergent, add a double measure of water conditioner and plenty of hot water. Let the machine complete a full cycle. To retain whiteness, always use plenty of very hot water. Modern water heaters are designed to keep up with such demands.

Filtering Air

Filters can be incorporated into heating and cooling systems to provide clean filtered air the year around. One type of filtering is achieved by electrostatic means. The particles in the air are positively charged as they enter the electrostatic filter and are then attracted to metal plates which have been given a negative charge. Another type of filter strains the air by sending it through tortuous passages with surfaces to which particles adhere. Particles may also be trapped by damp coil surfaces or by water sprays or films used in adding humidity.

Enjoyment Comes In This Package

Associated Press Food Editor. AT THE turn of this century, cooking in paper bags was all the rage. Proponents of the method advocated the "sealed-in" flavor and the fact that there were no pots and pans to wash!

Nowadays cooks are apt to wrap foods neatly in aluminum foil, put the packages in the oven on a jelly-roll pan or cookie sheet, and then serve the dish right in the foil.

Latest of these "package" recipes to come our way is the following for cooking individual pot roast in the oven. Our tasters thought the result was pleasant and so we commend to you this simple way of providing pot roast and gravy that are both appetizingly brown and savory. We tested this recipe with broiling-weight quilled foil.

INDIVIDUAL OVEN POT ROAST

3 pounds boneless chuck beef (2 inches thick)
1 large clove garlic
Dried herb mix (for meat)
1 envelope (1 1/2 ounces) onion soup mix

1 can (10 3/4 ounces) condensed mushroom soup
1 tablespoon red wine vinegar
1 teaspoon sugar

Cut meat into 6 servings; place each on a strip of foil wide and long enough to enclose it generously. Silver garlic and insert in slots in pieces of meat; sprinkle meat with herb mix. Mix the onion soup mix (in dry form just as it comes from envelope) with the undiluted condensed mushroom soup, vinegar and sugar; spoon over pieces of meat. Wrap foil loosely around meat, making drugstore fold at top and turning up ends several times so packages won't leak.

Place on jelly roll pan or cookie sheet. Bake in moderate (350 degrees) oven about 2 hours or until beef is very tender; gravy will not be thick. (Test beef by opening one package.) Makes 6 servings.

Starched Clothes

Preheat a clothes dryer before putting starched clothes in it. This will lessen the amount of starch left on the dryer drum. It is a good idea to remove starched items at the ironing stage. If they get too dry, the starch will powder off.

Gen. Pike At His Peak

THE RELUCTANT GENERAL—THE LIFE AND TIMES OF ALBERT PIKE. By Robert Lipscomb Duncan.

Don't be misled by the title. This is not a military biography. It's the story of Albert Zebulon Pike and he was many things besides a general—school teacher, lawyer, prospector, poet, politician, diplomat, and a leader in the Masonic order.

As a matter of fact, his career as a general (Confederate) in the Civil War is the least interesting part of the book. Pike had some moments; he was accused as a traitor by both sides and lambasted for the conduct of Indian troops under his command.

But mostly he was bogged in the morass of Confederate bureaucracy and in petty animosities, and it was a pretty futile time for him. That part of Pike's story is important mainly for the light thrown on the facilities of Confederate military operations in the South.

But again, don't be misled. Albert Zebulon Pike is eminently worth meeting and Duncan's biography is an excellent vehicle for getting acquainted. Pike was a man of prodigious appetites—not only for food—huge in physique, inexhaustible in energy. He was stubborn, argumentative, and withal warm and generous.

The legends about him are numerous. Some are too lurid for narration in public prints, or at least the author so regards them. Duncan quotes many of the stories, admitting that a great portion are apocryphal but still holding—and rightly so—that they are part of Pike and help in the understanding of him.

Elementary 4-H Meeting Held

The Snyder Elementary 4-H Club met Tuesday with Glenna England calling the meeting to order. Minutes and roll call was given by Deborah Ellington. The group sang songs out of the record book. Present were Dian Holamon, Terri Chester, Delta Marrow, Sharlot Rose, Donna Lester, Debbie Shaw, Judy Bruyere, Susie Bunt, Belva Jo Shipp, Becky Johnston, Karol Ruth, Glenna and Linda England, Connie, Deborah and Jennifer Ellington.

An advertising campaign to announce that a line of patterned, 100 per cent virgin wool shirts is machine-washable is a vivid example of consumers' interests in the sixties.

Newest slipcovers for concealing bed pillows during the day are shaped like long cylinders. Made of sturdy, machine-washable cotton corduroy, these zippered hide-a-pillow covers come in nine decorator colors.

Martha Ann Club Now Open On Saturdays
 Mrs. Patsy Huckabee, president of the Martha Ann Women's Club has announced that the Clubhouse will be open again on Saturdays. Anyone wishing to make reservations or future bookings are ask to call Mrs. Thelma Nanley at HI 3-3427 or HI 3-6721.

ing tiles absorb a certain amount of the sound that moves upward when a machine is in operation. Thousands of new homes, however, have no basements. A homeowner can, in that event, place his workshop in a utility room if there is extra space, in an attic, if there is one, or in the garage, if there is one and if it is large enough. Putting the shop in the garage is becoming increasingly popular. Because it helps to sell a house, many builders are adding a little more room in the garage so that a workshop will be practical. In some areas of the country, heat in the garage is a necessity if the workshop is to be used all year 'round. But the chances are that most garages in those sections would be equipped with heat, workshop or not. Where there are exceptions, there are many types of space heaters—electric and gas, that can be utilized.

TO WED JUNE—Mr. and Mrs. James Spradlin, 2302 Forty-first Street are announcing the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Bonnie Marie, to Dan Oyden, son of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Ogden of Beaumont. Vows will be exchanged in the Trinity Methodist Church on June 4 at 3:00 p.m.

Paradise Islands Are Haven For Electronics Equipment

EDITOR'S NOTE—The Pacific Ocean used to be just that, a vast blue expanse polka-dotted by island paradises. Now the islands are crisscrossed with electronics keeping watch on those strange new birds—Samos, Atlas, Midas and Minuteman. And when a fisherman cries "bar the blow," it's nuclear sub, not whale.

By RALPH DIGITON
POINT MUGU, Calif. (AP)—Let's take a ride on the nose of an Atlas missile headed for destruction somewhere above Kwajalein Island, far out in the Pacific.

Since the ride will be imaginary, it won't matter that it could not take place until early next year, when Nike Zeus missile-killers from Kwajalein will start trying to knock down Atlas missiles fired from Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif.

Two types of acoustic systems determine how close the nose cones come to their target areas. In one system, microphones in the water pick up the sound of objects hitting the surface. In the other system, which can operate over much greater distances, hydrophones suspended 2,500 feet in the water detect the explosion of a bomb ejected from the missile and set to go off at a given depth.

On your rush and so, there comes into view the lush green islands of Hawaii.

A hundred miles beyond South Point, on the island of Oahu, side of Pearl Harbor and the center of U.S. forces in the Pacific, is the main downrange station of the Pacific missile range.

Beyond Oahu lies the island of Kauai, where the National Aeronautics and Space Administration has built huge antennas to track and talk with the astronauts in Project Mercury capsules to be launched from Cape Canaveral, Fla.

The man on the ground will not only talk with the spaceman he will listen to his heartbeat and breathing and read instruments recording his temperature.

More than 2,000 miles beyond Kauai lies Kwajalein, where $100 million in concrete and steel and electronic gear is being assembled for the biggest "turkey shoot" in history.

As our Atlas nose cone comes into range, we see a huge white sphere, like a golf ball sitting on a tee, at one end of the island. Near it is a triangle-shaped structure—like the ball, 100 feet across.

The ball—a radar transmitter, sending impulses millions of times a second over all the sky from horizon to horizon.

Once our presence in the sky is detected, a narrow radar beam focuses on us to measure our speed and distance. This information is fed to a giant computer which makes calculations and calls for the firing of a 48-foot-tall Nike Zeus missile from a concrete-lined hole in the coral of the island.

To keep the Nike Zeus planners happy, let's assume that the missile-killer scores a hit.

Price Fixing Is Confusing Term Today

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP)—Price fixing is a dirty term to consumers—particularly when they suspect the price is fixed higher than it would have been under free competition.

But price fixing today is also a confusing term because it is so widespread. The word is legal but sometimes illegal and often it is done by the government itself.

Price fixing is much in the news today because in Washington a Senate subcommittee is hearing testimony on an antitrust conspiracy for which a federal judge fined 20 makers of electrical equipment nearly $2 million and sent seven other officials to jail for a month. The offense was illegal price fixing and bid rigging.

Many businessmen are confused about price-fixing bans, because it is customary to try to stop price wars by agreeing on an equitable price that will let all concerned function at a profit instead of a loss.

Businessmen regularly gather in a conference, national or regional, to discuss their problems—such as rising costs that affect prices. Many of them ask tariff protection against imports of foreign goods that could undercut domestic price levels.

Others note that some states have so-called fair trade laws, which permit a manufacturer to set the retail price of his product under certain circumstances and forbid makeshift retailers from selling below this fixed price.

The comparison shopper is a fixture in the retail world. This type of scout finds out what other merchants are charging for an item so that his employer may adjust prices accordingly. This is free competition and legal.

Consumers are used to many legal forms of price fixing—such as rent controls in some states. Consumers accept barbers in a community all charging the same price for haircuts. And the public expects the price of a man's labor to be fixed by bargaining between his union and his employer, often with a public official or two sitting in.

Governments also regulate many prices closely.

Harold Hodgson, Texas Tech's 11-year veteran, became better as the 1961 basketball season progressed. He scored the Red Raiders' high individual total in the next-to-last game of the regular season (38 against Rice) and attained the top rebounding total in the second game of the National Collegiate regional playoffs (20 in the win over Houston for third place).

High Winds Sap Moisture From State

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP)—High winds have depleted surface soil moisture in every section of the state, and coupled with the cool nights has slowed plant growth, dropped soil temperatures and caused replanting of crops in many areas, said director John Hutchison, Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Only two districts east and northeast, reported adequate moisture at midweek, but both said high winds were getting the top soil moisture fast. Ranges and small grains need rain.

Livestock and pasture conditions ranged from fair to good. Continuing high winds in South Texas have sapped moisture and damaged the foliage of vegetables, melons and field crops, said Joe Rolhe from Westaco. Crop growth has been slowed by the cool nights.

Rain is badly needed in South Central Texas, reported Joe Glover from Gonzales. The frost damage to corn, grain sorghums, watermelons and tomatoes was considerable and replanting is under way.

A general rain is needed in the upper Gulf coastal area, said Silver Whitsett from Richmond. Watermelons and tomatoes have been damaged by cold nights. Top soil is getting dry in East Texas but planting is in full swing, reported Walter Scott from Naengdoeb. Livestock are in good condition.

Surface moisture has been depleted but subsoil moisture remains adequate in Central Texas, advised R. G. Bursell from Stephenville. Rain would help mature the oat crop and improve planting conditions and pastures.

In Central West Texas, Roy Huckabee at San Angelo said rain is needed to mature small grains, for planting row crops and for range growth. Small grains are heading but will not mature without rain. Some fields are being cut for hay and others being grazed. The cold damaged fruit and pecans in some areas. Livestock are in fair to good condition.

Rain is needed in every county in far West Texas, reported Ray Stigmund from Fort Stockton. Livestock are in fair condition and a very good lamb crop is on the ground but grasses and weeds are burning from the high winds and lack of moisture.

Moisture is adequate in North-east Texas but the high winds have dried up the surface moisture, reported John Surwick from

Department Store Sales Up Slightly

DALLAS (AP)—Department store sales from reporting Texas cities showed a one per cent increase for the week ending April 22 compared with a similar period of 1960.

Goldwater Speech Slated May 15

FURT WORTH (AP)—Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona will speak here May 15 in support of the Republican candidate of John G. Tower for the U.S. Senate in the special runoff election May 25.

Mt. Pleasant, Oats and rice are heading, 30-75 per cent of the corn is now planted but growth is slow and some cotton and grain sorghums have been planted.

Moisture is needed for all crops in North Central Texas. Fred Martin at Denton said rain is badly needed by small grains. Some cotton, corn and grain sorghums are being replanted as a result of low temperatures.

Surface moisture is needed in re-planting irrigation, advised W.H. Jones from Lubbock. Only 1 or 2 per cent of the cotton and grain sorghum had been planted and dryland planting was being delayed awaiting surface moisture.

Soil moisture is running low in the South Plains where high winds have depleted the surface moisture and increased need for re-planting irrigation, advised W.H. Jones from Lubbock. Only 1 or 2 per cent of the cotton and grain sorghum had been planted and dryland planting was being delayed awaiting surface moisture.

Surface moisture over the Panhandle ranges from adequate to short, reported W. W. Gribham Jr. from Amarillo. Greenbugs were still causing trouble in some areas but continued to green-up generally were in good condition.

Tree Food Makes Good Chow For Hungry Lawns

You don't have to plant a varied menu for your outdoor pets. Trees and lawns like the same kind of chow. The only difference is in serving the victuals.

As soon as the frost is out of the ground, it is time to serve up your blue plate specials to the landscape and the ground greeneries. Grass will thrive on tree food because it is good for lawns.

Reason is both trees and lawns relish fertilizer high in nitrogen content. In fact, nitrogen is the key to vigorous growing, rich green grass. Don't trouble your lawn foods, if compared with tree needs, are overly rich in phosphorus and somewhat low in nitrogen.

While the week-end gardener can very advantageously use a tree food of quite high nitrogen content to nourish trees and lawns at the same time, he must use care in doing out the Springtime meal, inasmuch as too generous portions of tree food may result in unfavorable side effects.

Amount applied is generally at the rate of one to one and one-half pounds per 100 square feet—early in Spring and again in mid-Summer.

High-nitrogen fertilizer area immediately after. This stimulates danger from burning since the food is washed off the grass blades and into the soil. Tree feeding is another story. Tree foods should be punched in 15 to 18 inches below ground level and the tree food poured down through a funnel. Fertilizer then does not come in direct contact with grass roots at the edge of the holes. It is placed down in the root area where trees do their feeding, not on top of the soil where the grass may get all of it.

MRS. AGNES DOOLEY
A Mother Cherishes Her Son's Honors
Mrs. Dooley Carries On

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Dr. Tom Dooley's mother is a hardy woman whose strength has been tempered by grief.

At 65, attractive, gray-haired Mrs. Agnes Dooley has not forgotten how to smile.

The death of Tom, the famed jungle doctor of Laos, blunted her energy, but her resilient spirit asserted itself. Soon she addressed herself to Tom's unfinished business.

She manages a smile and observes, "Tom could sell you a white blackbird," as she recalls his successful effort to woo brother Malcolm from a promising business career to become president of Medico, the organization Tom helped found. It's dedicated to establishing hospitals and bringing medical care to underdeveloped areas.

Medico is now a primary factor in the lives of Mrs. Dooley and Malcolm.

Looking back at the boyhood of her sons, Mrs. Dooley says they were all proud and independent qualities they learned at home.

"Tom's father was a very practical man."

She recalls summers in Wisconsin and family swimming parties.

"Tom was a strong swimmer," she says. "He saved two people from drowning, once in St. Louis and another time in the Atlantic Ocean."

"He loved mountains and music and sunsets but he had an almost equal regard for steak, potatoes and ice cream with chocolate sauce."

And then she adds:

"Tom was a fine pianist. We thought for a while that he might be a musician. He even dragged a piano to Laos from Hong Kong."

Agnes Dooley has had her share of sorrows. The first was the death of her only daughter.

In 1944, Earle, her oldest son, was killed in Germany. A first lieutenant in the infantry, he had planned to become a career diplomat before the war.

Mrs. Dooley proudly shows visitors to her five-room apartment two purple hearts, a silver star and a bronze star, won by Earle.

Her husband died a few years after Earle. Then Tom contracted the cancer that later claimed his life the day after his 34th birthday. To lighten the pain of Tom's death was the fact that he apparently had been cured earlier.

Across the country the image of Dr. Tom Dooley, the jungle physician who battled disease and heat and inadequate medical supplies and equipment—and cancer—brought treatment to the natives of Laos, drew quick admiration and sympathy.

When he died he had six doctorate degrees, the Legion of Merit, which he won as a naval doctor in Viet Nam.

In the days following Tom's death Mrs. Dooley was overwhelmed by the official reaction. Condolences came from every part of the world and every strata of society and government. Agnes Dooley mourned staunchly and privately.

Deluged with mail, she has taken on the demanding task of reading and answering it. "It's painful. The letters sometimes recall vivid memories, but I want to do it because it may help complete Tom's work."
