Visit Mr. Clark—
Wichita's College—
Six Years' Progress—
Then and Now—

Mora C. Clark will conduct Wichita Falls realtors and any others who care to go on a tour of his pecan and fruit orchards Thursday afternoon. The trip should be made at one time or another by every Wichita Falls resident. In the face of difficulties, Mr. Clark has accomplished much in his program of development. More important, his information and assistance has always been available to those who would add pecans and fruit growing to valley enterprises.

Mr. Clark has long advocated the use of the pecan tree for ornamental and shade purposes for city residences. It is the Texas state tree, and should be represented at every home and on every farm.

Tuition is to be charged at the Wichita Falls Junior college beginning with the September term, it is announced by Dr. J. W. Cantwell, superintendent. It is a business-like move on the part of the school board, however great may be the desire of school officials and civic leaders to maintain an entirely free college here for students. Instruction at Junior college is worth far more than the $10 a month to be charged.

Institution of the tuition charge calls to the attention of Wichita Falls residents the growth of the school here, from 43 to 344 students in six years. Dr. Cantwell and the school board have an ambitious program for the college, and it seems to be founded on an educational need that has been demonstrated. Wichita Falls residents should know the facts about the needs of this institution when the time comes to go forward to a greater and a more representative school for all Northwest Texas.

Operation of the Wichita General hospital by its board of managers is not illegal, city and county officials declare, a fortunate circumstance for the continued welfare of the institution. Serving on the hospital board of managers is no easy job, nor is there gain or glory in it for the men and women who give their time in a public service. They should receive the united support of city and county officials, and the praise of their fellow-citizens for performing a difficult task in a capable manner.

Now that Jack Barnard at the P. B. M. company has opened a filling station for cigarette lighters, it seems A. E. Kelly of the electric company should make life safe for bystanders by equipping the things with electric self-starters. And it is said there was a time in Northwest Texas when the ability to light a cigarette with a sulphur match in a 60-mile an hour gale was the only real test of a man.

OIL COMPANY OFFICIALS IN HEROIC FIGHT

Enraged Animal Hurls Self Upon Man At Work

INJURIES SLIGHT

Magnolia Chief Engineer Saved When Men Come to Aid

The life of E. R. Gray, chief engineer of the Magnolia Pipeline company, was saved Wednesday at the tank farm of the company at Ringgold when nearby workmen heroically beat off an attacking wildcat with shovels and clubs.

J. T. Wilson of Wichita Falls reported the affair on his return from Ringgold late Wednesday. He said that Mr. Gray is only slightly injured.

Mr. Gray was working on a tank at the tank farm, when the creature crept out of the nearby woods and hurtled itself through the air. As the cat attacked, Gray fought with his hands and drew his knife to wage a fierce fight until workmen came to his rescue.

They beat the animal off with the tools they were working with, but were unable to kill or capture it. When last seen, the animal was eying its enemies from a safe distance in the woods.

Archer Jury Bills Pool Hall Owners

ARCHER CITY, Texas, May 9.—Three proprietors of pool halls in Archer county, alleged to have illegally operated their establishments by charging fees, were named in indictments returned late today in the first report of the Archer county grand jury.

None of the proprietors had been arrested late Wednesday night. One of them is said to live in Archer City, one at Dad's Corner, and one at Holliday.

Three other indictments, two charging receiving and concealing stolen property, and one charging burglary, were returned against parties who have not as yet been arrested.

The grand jury was impaneled Monday by Judge E. G. Thornton of the 30th judicial district.

Prince Carol's Pleas Against Expulsion Fail

LONDON, May 9. (US)—Prince Carol's pleas that the home office withdraw its order of expulsion against him have fallen upon stone deaf ears. The exiled Rumanian prince was informed tonight that the British government expects him to leave the country "as soon as possible." This apparently vague deadline, it is understood, has been fixed at Friday of this week. If the guest has not departed by that time the expulsion order will be enforced.

Lovers Return Blows In Revival Divorce Row

NEW YORK, May 9. (US)—First return blows were struck today by Mrs. Frances Heenan Browning and Edgar Allen, theatrical manager, in the divorce suit planned by Mrs. Katherine Allen.

Both announced their intentions to file immediate suits if Allen's pretty wife persists in her attempt to divorce Allen because of his undue friendship for Peaches.

Lubbock Gasoline Tax Held Unconstitutional

AUSTIN, May 9. (AP)—A one and one-half cent gasoline tax imposed by the city of Lubbock is unconstitutional, the supreme court held Wednesday.

Cities and counties, the court said, are barred by statute from such occupation levies. The Magnolia Petroleum company sued to establish invalidity of the toll. Decisions of the district court and appeals court were affirmed.

Coalition Of Smith And 'Dry' Groups Looms

Neither of Groups Gains Control in Democratic County Conventions; Tom Love Remains Aloof

DALLAS, May 9. (UP)—Dry Texas Democrats may find it necessary to coalesce with Democrats of the state favorable to the presidential candidacy of Governor Al Smith of New York, it appeared likely tonight.

Two factions of dry Democrats battling in Tuesday's county conventions to gain voting control of the 813 delegates to the state Democratic convention at Beaumont May 22, resulted in neither faction assuring itself power, virtually complete returns from the 253 county conventions showed.

Uninstructed Wanted.

The aid of delegates uninstructed, but known to be favorable to the New York governor, would assure either side of voting control in the state convention. However, a coalition of the ultra-dry faction, with the Smith supporters is impossible. Love's faction seeks to instruct Texas' votes to the Houston national convention against all wet candidates by name.

The situation is different with the harmony faction of drys, led by Texas' youthful governor, Dan Moody. They seek to instruct the Texas delegation for a dry plank and any candidate in accord with such a plank. This leaves the way open for them to accept the aid of delegates favorable to Smith in the state convention.

Whether such a coalition will occur remains problematical but very probable. Leaders in the harmony faction refused to discuss it. Smith leaders in the state intimated they would be agreeable to such an agreement.

Convention Results.

Delegates to the state convention instructed against Smith by name total 183. Delegates instructed for Smith total 27, but many delegates who were uninstructed are known to favor the New York executive.

Delegates uninstructed in any way total 260. These are probably evenly divided between the three factions. Delegates known to favor Moody's faction total 208. The remaining unreported counties are expected to be divided between the two dry factions.

Governor Dan Moody was endorsed as chairman of the Texas delegation to the national convention and this will be an aid to him in giving instructions for Texas' 40 votes to his liking.

LOCAL FIGHT ON LONE POINT

The fight between rival factions of the Democratic party in Wichita county Wednesday night had concentrated on one incident of the executive committee meeting Tuesday afternoon.

B. D. Sartin, leader of the constitutional element, indicated that he would attempt to show the state executive committee that the county committee meeting had certified a list of delegates to the county convention and had adjourned prior to the calling of the "Constitutional" convention.

"Lot of Talk"

"The meeting had been adjourned and the credentials were in my hands before I left the room," Mr. Sartin declared.

"The bunch headed by Mr. Francis are just making a lot of talk

PLANES READY FOR "CRASH"

Future Ocean Jumpers Given Dusting

NEW YORK, May 9. (US)—Two dust-covered and oily airplanes destined to "crash" into the front pages of newspapers within the next three weeks, today were hauled from their respective hangars at Curtiss field so that a drizzling rain might wash away some of the thick dust.

One of them was the Stinson-Detroiter in which Thea Rasche, foremost woman pilot of Germany, will attempt a flight from New York to her native country.

BERLIN, May 9. (US)—Lisbon to New York—perhaps Philadelphia. This route was selected tonight by Lilli Dillenz, Vienna actress, who expects to start her next attempt at a trans-Atlantic flight in a Junkers airplane, sister ship to the Bremen, before the end of this month.

Famed Columbia.

The other was the famous Columbia, which Charles A. Levine has "loaned" to Mabel Boll, diamond queen, so that her ambition to be the first woman to make a successful trans-Atlantic flight will be accomplished.

Miss Rasche, getting her first glimpse of the big monoplane which will bring her fame or death, acted much like a girl receiving a prize gift from her sweetheart.

For more than three hours she ploughed among the instruments and big gas tanks, her ejaculations of satisfaction or chagrin frequently echoing to the newspaper men gathered about the plane.

She had meant to take the plane up for a test flight, but when the drizzling rain increased, shortly after noon, she exclaimed:

Parts Stolen.

"It is too bad today. Tomorrow we will go. I am anxious to fly it, to see just how it will act to my feel. It is a fine ship."

Several instruments, it was found, have been stolen from the Stinson plane, evidently by souvenir hunters. These instruments were costly, but will be replaced tomorrow.

Another plane built for a flight to Rome, Italy, the destination of Miss Boll, will appear at the field the latter part of the week. It is a Bellanca special.

All three expeditions plan to get away before June 1.

FINAL JUROR SELECTED IN NICHOLS TRIAL

Jury Completed After 45 Talesmen Are Queried By Counsel

TESTIMONY TODAY

Signed Statement Expected To Play Important Part In Trial

Hearing of testimony in the trial of Mrs. Clara Nichols, charged with murder in connection with the fatal shooting of her husband, J. C. Nichols, Easter Sunday, will begin in 78th district court Thursday morning.

Indication from questioning of jurors are that the state will not seek the death penalty and that the defense will seek to show self-defense. All of Wednesday was taken up in an examination and selection of jurors. The final juror was sworn in just at 5 o'clock, after 45 talesmen had been examined.

Self Defense Views.

Practically every juror challenged by Cedrick Taylor, attorney for the defense, was rejected because of views on self defense laws or on allowing suspended sentences. The defense used up eight of its challenges and the state five.

When it was found that most of the afternoon would be required to complete selection of jurors, witnesses held for the trial were released until Thursday morning at 9 o'clock.

Ben F. Allred, district attorney, is prosecutor for the state. He is assisted by Sam B. Spence and E. F. Fruechte.

Signed Statement.

It is understood that considerable weight will be put on the signed statement made to Mr. Spence by Mrs. Nichols on the day of the shooting. In the statement Mrs. Nichols told of a quarrel with her husband which ended in Mr. Nichols' death.

Mrs. Nichols was arrested by city police shortly after the shooting. Lodged in the county jail, she was denied bond in a preliminary hearing. Bond later was set at $3500.

Jurors who will decide the fate of the woman include: W. C. Vernon, M. E. Bray, W. E. Lane, J. W. Dial, B. M. Griswold, C. C. Harless, D. L. McCreary, O. B. Duggins, A. O. Hall, W. R. Andrews, H. L. Hunt and C. T. Walters.

Rockefeller Bares Correspondence Asking Col. Stewart to Resign

Appeal to Stockholders Shows Comparative Strength of Standard Oil Company Chieftains

NEW YORK, May 8. (UP)—John D. Rockefeller Jr., today made public correspondence revealing that he has asked Colonel Robert W. Stewart to resign as chairman of the board of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana.

The correspondence further indicated that Colonel Stewart on receipt of Rockefeller's request, expressed a desire for special meeting of the stockholders of the company before which he would submit to a test of strength with Rockefeller.

Rockefeller accepted the challenge.

Rockefeller's action is a direct outgrowth of Colonel Stewart's connection with the Continental Oil company bond transaction under investigation by the senate oil investigating committee at Washington—one of the phases of the so-called Teapot Dome investigation.

No Alternative

A statement authorized by Rockefeller today said:

"On April 27, I wrote Col. Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the board of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, the following letter.

ENDURANCE ACE DIES IN CRASH

Lieut. Royal V. Thomas And Mate Killed

TETERBORO, N. J., May 9.—Lieutenant Royal V. Thomas, U. S. army reserve, and Vaughn Weatherly, Wright aeronautical engineer, crashed to instant death today at Teterboro airport.

The accident occurred when the Bellanca monoplane, the Reliance, in which Thomas recently set an unofficial solo flight record, went into a barrel spin and smashed up on the Teterboro Golf club grounds.

Lieutenant Thomas last week set a new record for single pilot endurance flight when he attempted to better the world record of Haldemann and Stinson. Thomas' flight bettered Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's solo record made in his non-stop flight to Paris.

Thomas and Weatherly were making speed tests, flying low. Eyewitnesses declared the plane seemed to turn over sideways several times, and then collapse, striking the earth tail first.

The wings and fuselage of the plane were a tangled mass of wreckage. The propeller was broken in several pieces, and the motor had ploughed a long furrow in the ground.

Thomas was buried beneath the shattered plane. Weatherly's body was outside the debris.

Thomas, who was 29 and unmarried, came to New York about 18 months ago, to enter the lists of aviation pioneers.

YOUNG WOMAN HELD VICTIM OF ACCIDENT

Mrs. Carrie Wright, 21, Dies Shortly After Being Shot

INQUEST IS HELD

Justice of Peace Holds Up Verdict Pending Investigation

Mrs. Carrie Wright, 21, bride of two months, died about 6:30 o'clock Wednesday night as the result of a gun-shot wound received a few minutes earlier at her home, 1200 Indiana avenue.

Investigating officials expressed theopinio n that the shooting was accidental.

Immediately following the shooting Mrs. Wright was rushed to the Wichita General hospital in a Merkle Undertaking company ambulance, but died en route.

Verdict Withheld.

The bullet from a 38-40 calibre pistol entered Mrs. Wright's abdomen, leaving a powder-burned wound, according to O. L. Gibbs, justice of the peace, who held an inquest shortly after the accident. Judge Gibbs withheld his verdict pending completion of the investigation.

There were no witnesses to the accident. Ralph T. Berlin, a cousin, was in the room with Mrs. Wright at the time the gun was fired, but had his back turned, he told R. O. Kenley, Jr., assistant district attorney, and Jim Glenn, night chief of police.

Examines Gun

Mrs. Wright, according to those in the house at the time, was in a bed room on the first floor of the building. She was seated in a chair examining the gun, Mr. Berlin said, when it exploded. Mrs. Wright did not speak after the accident.

D. D. Wright, husband of the accident victim, was in the kitchen on the first floor of the building at the time the shot was fired. Mr. Wright is employed by the Times Publishing company as a linotype operator on The Record News. The couple had been married only a few months.

Mrs. Wright is survived by her husband, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Berlin of Haleyville, Okla., two brothers and four sisters.

The body is being held by the Merkle Undertaking company pending completion of funeral arrangements.

Mr. Wright is known as one of the most capable linotype operators in Wichita Falls. He has been an employe of The Record News for a number of years. He was married to Miss Carrie Berlin less than two months ago, and was preparing to leave home for his work when the tragedy occurred.

SHREVEPORT, La., May 9. (UP)—Sands Warren, 78, was in jail here today on a charge of manslaughter—all because of a pair of squeaky shoes.

Both men had been friends. They were inmates of the Home for the Aged here.

Doctors and Druggists Indicted At Breckenridge on Conspiracy

BRECKENRIDGE, Texas, May 9. Indictments were returned by a Stephens county grand jury here against 10 persons following quiet operations of federal prohibition officers and city police here last week, it was announced by District Attorney L. H. Welch.

Two drug store owners, two drug store managers, a drug store clerk and three prominent Breckenridge doctors were jointly indicted on a charge of conspiracy to violate the prohibition laws; two were indicted on charges of illegal sale of prescription whisky; one was indicted on a charge of possessing whisky for sale, and two negro porters of a local hotel were indicted on charges of transportation and sale of intoxicating liquor.

Proposal to Change Name of Canal From Panama to Roosevelt Opposed

WASHINGTON, May 9. (US)—A protest against the proposal of congress to change the name of the Panama canal to the Roosevelt canal was lodged with the secretary of war today by Brigadier General M. L. Walker, governor of the canal zone.

The governor expressed himself in favor of naming certain installations in memory of individuals prominently connected with the work, but added:

"I do not, however, think this should be accomplished by changing historic names. The Panama canal has been so called since the first French company started the work and is known by that name throughout the world. To change its name now would lead to confusion."

In order to avoid slighting the memory of anyone deserving of the honor, the governor has suggested that a memorial hall be erected somewhere in the canal zone. It would contain tablets giving full history of American achievement on the isthmus, setting forth the part played by each individual.

Burrier Goes to Trial Monday In Archer City Court for Murder

J. W. Burrier, charged with murder in connection with the death of J. W. McDaniel about a year ago, will go to trial Monday in 30th district court at Archer City, according to announcement made Wednesday by Ben P. Allard, district attorney. Mr. Allred will head the prosecution.

Mr. McDaniel was shot at a filling station about eight miles out of Wichita Falls on the Archer City road.

Burrier, later arrested, was charged with the murder and released on bond of $10,000. The trial was twice set previously but continuance was granted, once on request of the state and once on request of defense counsel. Attorneys for Burrier have announced ready for trial, Mr. Allred said.

and will not even go to Beaumont to contest the seating of those legally elected to represent Wichita county."

Mr. Sartin reiterated a previous statement that the executive committee of the county had no power to settle contested delegates or committeemen.

Charles I. Francis, named chairman of a delegation to Beaumont on the uninstructed for president ticket, was equally certain that the executive committee meeting had not been adjourned when Mr. Sartin and others left the room.

"The meeting called by Mr. Sartin will have no chance for recognition, either by the state executive committee or by the convention itself," Mr. Francis declared.

"The Democrats of Wichita county do not want their delegation to the convention hog-tied by instruction," he continued, "for a man is not a Democrat who does not take the party pledge with the intention of abiding by it. Most of the constitutionals, it seems, treated the pledge in this light manner."

Francis Named Delegate

Regardless of the outcome of the contest to be waged against seating of the uninstructed delegation by the constitutionals, Mr. Francis is certain of being seated at the convention, it was learned here Wednesday.

In a telegram to Mr. Francis, Governor Dan Moody Wednesday advised the vice chairman of the state executive committee that Mr. Francis had been named a delegate to the state convention from Williamson county. Williamson county is Governor Moody's home.

Mr. Francis was inaugurator of the movement for uninstruction of delegates to the state convention insofar as candidate is concerned.

The rift in the Democratic party in Wichita county resulted when certain of the county executive committeemen left the room where the committee was meeting. The committee had been listening to protests over seating of a number of delegates to the county convention.

Thrift Youth Critically Hurt

The condition of Bernard Williamson, 17, of Thrift, who was taken to the Wichita General hospital about 4:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon suffering from a fractured skull, a broken wrist and other injuries, was pronounced critical by hospital attendants Wednesday night.

The manner in which the injuries were sustained is not definitely known, but it is thought that a passing car had run over Williamson when he stepped from behind his own car into the highway.

The youth was brought to the hospital here by a Burkburnett ambulance, accompanied by Dr. Bain Leake of that city, who attended the injured boy.

Paul Landers Wins Golf Club Prize

Paul Landers was awarded a $15 brassie as first prize for having brought in the most members in the Weeks Park Municipal golf club in its membership drive which closed with the club meeting in the clubhouse Wednesday night. Mrs. J. J. Thompson won second prize, a $10 club.

The chairman, J. R. Jones, was instructed to appoint a permanent membership committee. Several short speeches, a fellowship meeting and refreshments were included in the evening's program.

COLVER LOSES CAR

A Buick sedan belonging to W. L. Colvert of the Colvert Ice Cream company was stolen from in front of the plant about 10:40 o'clock Wednesday night.

Mr. Colvert had been out of the car less than five minutes, he said, when he heard the motor start. Rushing to the door he saw the car drive away, but could not tell how many persons were in it.

Authorities of neighboring towns were advised to be on the lookout for the stolen car.

125 Patients Moved to Local State Hospital After Blaze at Terrell

One hundred and twenty-five patients of the state insane hospital at Terrell were transferred to the state hospital here Wednesday, according to Dr. W. C. Castner, superintendent of the hospital here.

The transfer was made after one of the buildings of the Terrell hospital was destroyed by fire Tuesday night. The patients left Terrell at 12:30 p. m. Wednesday by bus for the Wichita Falls hospital and were expected to arrive about 8 o'clock the same evening.

The new patients will be housed in the recently completed $125,000 building which was opened to the public last Sunday. Dr. Castner stated that the announcement by R. B. Walthall, chairman of the board of control, advising of the transfer of the patients did not say whether the transfer would be permanent.

Rockefeller Asks Stewart to Quit

tarily gave me some weeks ago, that you would resign at my request. That request I now make.

"'Very truly,

"'John D. Rockefeller Jr.'

"On April 30 I wrote again, as follows:

"'Dear Colonel Stewart:

"'Mr. Seubert (president of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana), has told me that in the course of the conversation you had with him after the receipt of my letter to you of the 27th instant, mention was made as to the possibility of a special meeting of the stockholders of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana being called so that all might have an opportunity to express themselves in regard to your suggested resignation. If this plan is to be followed, I have no doubt that you will have the 30-day call issued at once and that you will wish to write me that this has been done.

"'Very truly,

"'John D. Rockefeller.'

Loses Confidence

"I have taken the above action because I have lost confidence in Colonel Stewart's leadership and believe that the interests of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana can now best be served by his resigning. This action should not be construed as a pre-judgment on my part as to the issues involved in the legal proceedings now pending."

Colonel Stewart, when first called to testify before the senate committee in Washington, refused to answer questions beyond denying any knowledge of the Continental bond deal. Later Rockefeller was called and he told the committee that he was watching the situation closely. In his testimony and in subsequent correspondence which was made public, he revealed that he had discussed the matter with Colonel Stewart and had urged Stewart to testify.

Stewart, at that time, was quoted as having assured Rockefeller that he was acting for the best interests of the company and all concerned and is said to have promised Rockefeller that he would retire from the Standard Oil of Indiana should Rockefeller lose confidence in him.

Test of Strength

Later Stewart appeared again before the committee at Washington but the testimony was contradictory of the evidence he first gave.

Rockefeller's demand for Stewart's resignation, it was revealed today, followed. Stewart, the correspondence showed, instead of offering his resignation, in a conversation with President Seubert of the company, indicated he wished to lay the matter before a meeting of the stockholders.

Appealing to the stockholders was a virtual challenge to Rockefeller for a test of strength and confidence, and Rockefeller has been quick and determined in his acceptance of the challenge.

Narcotic Charges Filed After Woman Summons Officers to Residence

Ruth Kebodeaux was held in the Wichita county jail Wednesday after she had failed to make $1000 bond allowed her when she waived preliminary hearing before United States Commissioner J. A. Lantz on a charge of possession of morphine. The charge was filed by M. W. Barnett, federal narcotic agent.

She was arrested after a woman had called police stating that she had a quantity of morphine and wanted to be arrested and put in jail in order that she might cure herself of the drug habit, according to a report made to Commissioner Lantz.

Wilbarger Farmers Turn to Cotton Planting

Special to The Record News

VERNON, May 9.—Following a series of light rains which have made possible a fairly well seasoned top soil, Wilbarger county farmers are now concerned with cotton planting. Scores of farmers have already planted cotton, and in some sections of the county the plant has come with encouraging results. R. E. L. Patillo, county farm agent, estimates that between 40 and 50 per cent of the farmers have either planted or are now planting their cotton.

The best time for sustained mental work is from late afternoon until midnight or later, according to some scientists.

Clarence Darrow Rolls His Sleeves And Begins His Last Court Trial

JEFFERSON, Ohio, May 9. (US)—Back in the old county of Ashtabula, and in a courthouse a century old, Clarence Darrow, Chicago lawyer of international repute, has begun what he has said will be his final appearance in a court trial before his retirement.

The courtroom was filled with people whom he could call by nicknames, as the veteran lawyer, his coat off and his sleeves rolled above his elbows, and his hands twined about his galluses stood before the bar of justice for the last time.

Not unlike his first trial which was a simple case of a man charged with stealing a set of harness and which was tried many years ago in the adjoining seat of Trumbull county, the case the famous lawyer started today was that of a man accused of attempting to bribe a sheriff.

Venue Changed

And on his way to that old Colonial furnished courtroom the townsfolk were heard to say: "Young Clarence will win again."

For though he is 71 years old, Mr. Darrow is still young to the people who knew him in the days when he was just an unknown country lawyer.

The client he represented today was James Munsene of Warren, Ohio, accused of attempting to bribe the sheriff of Trumbull county.

Munsene heard that Darrow had expressed a desire to handle his last case in the territory he knew as a young man. Munsene communicated with Mr. Darrow and negotiations were completed.

The case was first called in Trumbull county but Darrow's first move was an application for a change of venue, which brought the trial here.

Great Attorney

Darrow first came into prominence in 1910 when he defended the MacNamara brothers, charged with bombing the new Los Angeles Times building. The blast killed several people.

When the MacNamara case was concluded, Darrow returned to Chicago and announced that he would make Chicago his permanent home.

His career reached the zenith when he took what was to be the greatest criminal case in the annals of Illinois' history—the defending of Loeb and Leopold for the murder of little Bobby Franks.

It was in this case that Darrow proved himself one of the greatest lawyers of the day. Battling against public sentiment which demanded the extreme penalty — death — for the youthful slayers, Darrow obtained a sentence of life imprisonment.

This case aged Darrow considerably. He devoted the next few years to writing of books and lecturing and debating.

And now, back among his old loves and his old friends, the veteran lawyer has doffed his coat for the last time; and in his fiery manner of younger days pleads for the acquittal of a man who is charged with bribing a sheriff.

Hog Slaying Held Not Act to Injure Owner Appeals Court Ruling

AUSTIN, May 9. (AP)—A previous decision upholding the theory that the killing of one man's hogs by another presumes an intent to injure the hog owner, was overturned Wednesday by the court of criminal appeals, which reversed and remanded to Wood county the conviction of V. E. Preston in that connection.

The court upheld Preston's exception to the trial court's charge to the jury that "intent to injure may be presumed from perpetration of the act." Preston was convicted and a $10 fine assessed for killing on his own premises three of a neighbor's hogs, the charge being that the porkers were slain with "intent to injure the owner."

The jury charge complained of was upheld in the case of Lane vs. state, but the court dissented with that view in the Preston case and relied rather upon the Choate case decision. In the latter, Judge O. H. Lattimore's Preston opinion related "the court said that in a case whose facts showed that the animal killed on the premises of the accused, which were enclosed with insufficient fence, a conviction could be sustained only upon proof that there was intent to injure the owner."

Preston testified that the hogs killed were in his cotton patch knocking the cotton out and were headed for his maize patch. One of the hogs was vicious, he said, and showed signs of making for his children.

EDITOR TELLS FROG YARN

Magee Says He's Ready to Be Classed With Liars

FREDERICK, Okla., May 9. (UP)—The Frederick frogs, taken alive from geological formation below a strata of rock reputedly 750,000 years old, today had a new champion.

"I went, I saw and my incredulity was conquered," Carl Magee, editor of the Oklahoma News, visiting here, wrote back to his Oklahoma City newspaper.

"I am prepared to be classified with the liars," Magee commented, after being shown the frogs, claimed by Frederick observers to be the great-great-granddaddies of all living frogs.

The frogs and rocks were taken from sand and gravel beneath solid rock formations in the Holloman gravel pits here. The frogs were removed many weeks ago and are still living, one still encased in a rock ball with a small hole penetrating for witnesses to view the creatures.

Scientists from all over the United States are coming here to study the phenomena.

"To pronounce it a fake is no answer," Magee said.

Magee was accompanied in his viewing of the frogs by Dr. W. B. Bizzell, president of the University of Oklahoma, who, Magee said, was apparently impressed.

Tillman County Farmers Sponsor Proposal for $875,000 Road Bonds

FREDERICK, Okla., May 9.—With a committee of Tillman county farm owners in charge, petitions were being circulated Tuesday in Frederick calling upon the Tillman county commissioners court to order an election involving the issuance of an $875,000 bond issue to finance construction of 106 miles of concrete road in this county.

Before circulation of the petitions began in Frederick more than 1000 Tillman county property owners had signed the call for an election and the work of obtaining additional signatures in this city is expected to be completed during the day.

Supporters of the bond issue project announced Tuesday that the $875,000, if voted by Tillman county, would be matched two for one by state and federal aid bringing the fund available for the 106-mile road project to $2,750,000. Estimated cost of concrete road for Tillman county has been set by engineers at $22,500 per mile, it was stated.

The farmers' committee circulating the petition for the road bond election in Frederick today is composed of Frank Nichols, J. Gaston, T. E. Trendley, R. Y. Patterson, L. E. Waldrop, Frank Baldwin, George G. Grant, E. T. Ayres and J. B. Parris.

Foard County Shows 181 More Scholastics

CROWELL, May 9.—The scholastic census for Foard county that has just been taken shows a gain of 181 over the scholastics a year ago. The total number of children of school age in the county is 1908 compared with 1727 one year ago.

Crowell has 641 scholastics, as compared with 596 last year. The gain in rural districts was greater than in the towns of Foard county and this condition is to be expected as this is an agricultural country.

EXPERTS in advance styles say that parasols will be carried by the well dressed woman this season. How to reconcile a parasol, a strong wind and the burning sensation of the hot Texas sun on the back of the feminine neck, is a matter which has caused this column a great deal of serious thought. I'm in favor of the parasol, aren't you?

Camp Fire Board Makes Summer Plans

The executive board of Camp Fire Girls met at local headquarters Tuesday noon. Mrs. A. A. Brackett, assisted by Mesdames A. A. McIlheran, Anna Barnhill, and Maude Bartholomew prepared and served luncheon.

A report of the camp committee which met May 3 was given, telling of plans made for the summer camp to be held at Diversion dam from May 30 to June 13. Special counsellors will be secured for swimming, handcraft, music, camp craft and nature lore. A local school cafeteria manager, assisted by two girls will prepare the meals. Mr. H. D. Wolff will be chairman of the transportation committee for camp.

Miss Mary E. McIlheran, executive, was granted a 10 weeks leave of absence to attend the summer school sessions at the University of Colorado at Boulder, which begins June 18. Mrs. Maude Batholomew, office secretary, was chosen by the council to serve as executive in the absence of Miss McIlheran. Mrs. R. E. Davis was chosen to assist Mrs. Bartholomew. Mrs. Davis will attend the national training course at Flagstaff, Ariz., June 2 to 9, but will return in time to assume duties for the summer.

The activities report for the past month included talks and program before the Lions, Rotary, and Kiwanis club, Sibley Taylor church, P.-T. A. conference, First Presbyterian Men's Bible class. The council fire at Weeks Golf club house, the Camp Fire Girls "Go to Church Sunday" at the First Baptist church, girls' council Gypsy hike, and local council and guardian association picnic were also a part of the report. The Camp Fire band has made four public appearances and is progressing healthfully. The greatest need of the band is at present a bass drum. It is hoped the money can be raised soon for the purchase of a drum.

Mrs. Paul Colvert and Mrs. C. A. Rogers were elected to the board of directors for two years, and J. W. Culbertson director for one year to fill fill vacancies.

Members voted to hold their next meeting at the Boy Scout camp, June 5, as the girls will be in camp at that time. The Council Fire will be open to everyone and parents and friends are invited to visit.

Council members answering the roll call were: Rex Watland, president; Dr. V. E. Wrattes, Julian Bobo, John W. Bradley, H. D. Wolff, Mrs. R. H. Graham, D. H. Henry, Miss Ida Moore, Mrs. Paul Colvert, and Frank Creighton.

Difficult to Work—Always Tired

No Energy—Can't Concentrate—Poor Memory—Hard to make decisions about important matters?—Take Gordon's and you will soon be your natural self again.

THE reason so many people think they are working too hard is because they find it difficult to work at all. They feel tired and worn out—their old-time "pep" is missing—their vitality sapped. They are suffering from auto-intoxication—their brain cells are drugged with poisons.

How is it with you? Are you of the fortunate ones who enjoy good health, or do you, too, long for the days when you were young and strong, healthy, buoyant, active and afire with ambition?

Your body may be organically sound, but if your system is clogged with poisons you are not getting much out of life. You owe it to yourself, your family and your associates to regain your "balance."

You CAN Be Your Natural Self Again

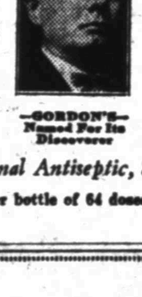

This remedy called Gordon's (named for its discoverer, and for which he received $80,000 for the rights to the secret process of compounding), will make a new man of you. It will make it possible for you to eat what you like and as much as you want without any distressing after-effects. It will tone up your digestive organs so that your appetite will again be normal. It will speedily relieve you of that "tired" feeling.

Gordon's stops fermentation (souring of food matter) in the stomach and bowels. It exercises an antiseptic effect, dissolves the excess acid, absorbs the gas that is present and prevents more forming. It drives out the poisons. It soothes and heals the irritated and inflamed delicate membrane lining of the stomach—made raw by excess acid.

A spoonful of Gordon's after meals will bring quick relief in cases of indigestion, gas, dyspepsia, bloating, heartburn, excess acid, bad breath, bowel troubles (constipation and diarrhea), sick headache, and nervousness, when caused by faulty digestion.

Make This Test Today

Go to or phone your druggist for a bottle of Gordon's. Take a dose after each meal and before retiring. See how much better you will sleep and how refreshed and vigorous you will be in the morning.

—GORDON'S—
Named For Its Discoverer

If, after taking one bottle of Gordon's, you do not feel that the benefits you have received are worth many times its cost, go to your druggist and he will cheerfully refund your money.

If you prefer, cut out this ad and mail it, along with 15 cents in coin or stamps, to the G. M. GORDON DRUG Co., Dallas, Texas, and receive in return a two days' trial treatment.

Sliced Strawberry Jam

Every woman knows that the longer fruit is boiled the more its bright color darkens and its delicate, fresh flavor drifts away in steam.

That is why the new short-boil method of making jams and jellies with Certo delights so many women.

The following easy recipe makes the finest strawberry jam you have ever tasted. Two quarts of berries will make ten eight-ounce glasses of jam.

Cut in halves lengthwise with stainless knife about 2 quarts of small or medium sized fully ripe berries. Large berries should be quartered. After slicing, weigh out 2 lbs. berries; or, measure, 4½ level cups, packing solidly into the cup until juice and fruit come to top of cup. Add 7 level cups (3 lbs.) sugar and mix well. Use hottest fire and stir constantly before and while boiling. Bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard for 3 minutes. Remove from fire and stir in ½ cup Certo. Skim and stir constantly for just 5 minutes after taking from fire to cool slightly, which prevents fruit floating. Then pour quickly and cover hot jam at once with hot paraffin wax. (This recipe as well as recipes for crushed and whole fruit Strawberry Jam are in the book of recipes which comes under the label of each bottle of Certo.)

Certo is the natural substance in fruit which causes it to jell. It has been extracted from fruit, refined and bottled so that you may use it to make all your fruits jell perfectly without the old-fashioned, tedious and uncertain long "boiling down."

Get Certo from your grocer. A book of simple, tested recipes for nearly 100 delicious jams, jellies and marmalades comes under the label of each bottle.

Recommended by cooking expert

Miss Alice Bradley, Principal, Miss Farmer's School of Cookery and Cooking Editor, Woman's Home Companion, says—

"I earnestly advise all housewives to get a bottle of Certo and try out one of the recipes. One trial will convince you that the best way to make jams and jellies is 'The Certo Way.'"

Husband Can Be Made to Talk If Wife Prattles Less Herself

How Can a Wife Make Her Silent Husband Talk?—At What Age Does a Girl Become a Spinster and a Man a Bachelor?—Advice to Widower of 50 On Remarrying Against His Children's Wishes.

Dear Dorothy Dix: Will you tell me what will make a man talk? My husband has a good education and is a great reader, but he simply will not talk. I never get more than "yes" or "no," or two or three other little words out of him. And it is the same way in company. He sits up dumb, although he knows twice as much about what people are talking about as they do. It isn't because he is self-conscious. He isn't. He just won't talk.

I am very ambitious for him and I am very much afraid that this silence will be a bar to his success in his profession as a civil engineer. Aside from not talking to me, there isn't a thing in the world my husband won't do for me, and he hasn't a single other bad habit. But I hate him to appear stupid when he isn't. Is there anything I can do about it? —MARIAN.

Answer—Nothing, except to quit nagging him about talking. If a man is constitutionally silent, you just have to accept him as he is and thank Heaven for the opportunity it gives you to do all the talking yourself.

Certainly a dumb husband does not make a very cheery companion, but you must recognize that there is a difference in silence. There is the silence of grouchiness when a husband won't talk because he is peeved and irritated about something. That is a deadly silence that gets on a wife's nerves and makes them raw. And there is the silence of grumpiness that is like a wet blanket that chills every one within its radius to the bone and that sends the domestic temperature down to zero. No wife can talk against that, because she does not know what is the matter and is afraid that if she says a word she will start something.

Then there is the silence of the man who doesn't talk simply because he doesn't like to talk, but there is nothing sinister in that. Generally such a man is a good listener and is keenly interested in all the gossip of the neighborhood, and almost invariably he picks out a chatterbox for a wife.

Of course, it is pretty hard to keep up a one-sided conversation, and it is no wonder that you run down after you have monoplaned along of an evening, but you will have to comfort yourself with the reflection that it is better to have a dumb husband who is a fireside companion and a good provider than to be married to a glib talker who is out handing some flapper a nifty line.

You can't have everything you want in a husband and, believe me, for him to be silent is about the least fault a husband can have. Most husbands say too much of the wrong things.

And don't worry about your husband's not talking being a handicap to him in his profession. It will not be. The most astute business men always let the other fellow do the talking.

Beside, nothing gives a man such a reputation for sagacity and depth of understanding as for him to say little. People who keep silent are always believed to be turning great, impressive thoughts over in their minds. Even a fool is accounted wise if he hold his peace, says the old proverb.—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix: Will you settle this argument? I think that a girl is a spinster at the age of 25, and that a man is considered a bachelor at 30. My friend says it is the other way about. A girl is a spinster at 30 and a man a bachelor at 25.—BACHELOR.

Answer — The dictionary definition of spinster is: "An unmarried woman, especially when no longer young," and the term bachelor is applied in the same way to men.

In as much as a woman's age always rates higher than a man's, that is a woman is older at the same age than a man, you are more nearly correct than your friend, but nobody would dream nowadays of calling a girl of 25 a spinster.

In olden times, when it was the custom for girls to marry at 16 and 17, a woman was considered to be getting into the old-maid class when she was 25, but now at that age she is still a flapper. Many girls are just graduating from college at that age. Others are just getting a start in their professions and the great majority are only beginning to think seriously of marrying and settling down.

Personally, I should never think of calling a woman a spinster until after she was past 40, nor any man a bachelor until after he had celebrated his 50th birthday, because the idea of spinsterhood or bachelorhood indicates that the individual, either from choice or necessity, is celibate and likely to remain so. Up to that time the chances are that he or she will marry. But the appellations are archaic, any way, and mean nothing in an age in which marriage has nothing to do with a person's social status.

In this enlightened day we have plenty of unmarried men and women, but no bachelors or old maids in the sense in which the term was formerly used. We have unmarried women from 13 to 88 years of age who are busy leading their own lives and letting other people's alone; who are independent, cheerful, jolly, much sought after in society. But the old maids who used to be the fringe on somebody else's family, and who were nosy and scandal-mongering and bitter, are as scarce as hen's teeth. Nor have we any more the querrulous and cranky old bachelor with us.

Men and women nowadays stay young and busy and human, and whether they are married or single is their own affair, and nobody brands them with their age.—DOROTHY DIX.

My Dear Miss Dix: I am a widower 52 years old with two daughters and a son, all married, with homes of their own, happy and prosperous, but if I so much as speak to a lady they are all on my neck. I have been going with a lady 35 years old who seems to care a great deal for me and I am very unhappy unless I am with her, but there is a storm every time my children find out that I have been with her. I am very devoted to my children and have been an indulgent father to them, but I am very lonely and they do not fill the gap in my life that a wife would. What shall I do?—WIDOWER.

Answer—Say nothing more to your children, but step quietly out with your lady friend and get married, and after it is all over and they recognize the futility of making scenes they will accept the situation philosophically.

Your children are acting in an utterly selfish and unreasonable manner, and you will be very foolish to give in to them and let them prevent you from having many years of happiness. For a man at 52 is just at the prime of life, and it is cruel to think of dooming him to spending the next 20 or 25 or 30 years in loneliness when he might have a congenial companion; of making him homeless when he might have his own home.

If your children love you, they will want you to be happy. If they do not care enough for you to desire your happiness, then you are all the more justified in taking it in spite of them.—DOROTHY DIX.

MODISH MITZI — AREN'T THEY ALL BUSY? — By Jay V. Jay

The education of the young has been proceeding with a game of bridge, but the Goofer has an appointment and must leave. Only he and Mitzi know how important it is. Mitzi's dress is a printed chiffon with a demure fichu of white with an edge of ruching. Marie's dress has another quaint collar wide over the shoulders and gathered into a knot and tie in front. Marie's dress, too, has a high waistline defined by a band of the lace. The new styles with their more feminine effects are reviving all kinds of old-fashioned touches in collars, cuffs and ruffled trimmings Marie wonders if the Goofer is leaving because Mitzi has been unkind to him, but she doesn't wonder so hard as she would have last week!

Mitzi knew all about that appointment and that's why Mitzi herself is leaving 15 minutes later. Mitzi is wearing a particularly smart hat cut way up on one side but showing a decided width of brim everywhere else. Mitzi's coat is lightweight wool material with a large flat shoulder bow and wide cuffs of satin for adornment. Mitzi looks charming.

And if Mitzi didn't go off to meet the Goofer for tea we miss our guess. Meantime Bob and Marie entertain each other. That is, Marie plays solitaire and wonders why he never says anything, and Bob thinks she's rather prettier than he thought at first. Marie's necklace, please notice, is one of the new Lelong necklaces of sapphire cabochons.

Indigestion

Immediate Relief!

What most people call indigestion is usually excess acid in the stomach. The food has soured. The instant remedy is an alkali which neutralizes acids. But don't use crude helps. Use what your doctor would advise.

The best help is Phillips Milk of Magnesia. For the 50 years since its invention it has remained standard with physicians. You will find nothing else so quick in its effect, so harmless, so efficient.

One tasteless spoonful in water neutralizes many times its volume in acid. The results are immediate, with no bad after effects. Once you learn this fact, you will never deal with excess acid in the crude ways. Go learn—now—why this method is supreme.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle—any drugstore.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips, since 1875.—Adv.

Pot Shots at Politics

by Col. Hugh Nugent Fitzgerald

JOSEPHUS KNOWS

Josephus Daniels is publisher of an important North Carolina daily newspaper, high in the council of southern pros, was for eight years secretary of the American navy and has been an outstanding figure in democratic politics for more than 30 years. He was invited by a California follower of Reed to take second place on a third party movement ticket. He spurned the invitation. He said the democratic party was the only hope of the people and the only way to drive corruption and official rascality from high place is to restore to power the party of Thomas Jefferson. Furthermore, he said he expected to give his full support to the nominees for president and vice-president of the Houston convention. Josephus Daniels, from the day of the Chicago convention in 1896 to the passing of William Jenning Bryan, was the close personal friend and political adviser of the Prince of Peace. He is a life long prohibitionist, a dry and never a dry wet. Speaking of the Houston convention he said: "I therefore expect to support the nominees of the Houston convention. I expect that convention to declare without equivocation for the sacred enforcement of prohibition and all other laws and do not believe any man it will nominate will be as indifferent and as inefficient in enforcement as Mellon has been under the Harding and Coolidge administrations." Josephus is an independent editor of a democratic newspaper and usually knows where to find himself.

TRUE TO FORM

Former Governor Pat Morris Neff is running true to form. Four years ago he championed the proposal of a delegation to the Madison Square garden convention uninstructed as to delegates, but instructed as to principles. He defied Love and his lieutenants at the famous Waco convention and spurned the offer of a delegateship-at-large, which carried a gage of the tongue of Neff with its acceptance. This is his attitude today: "While it is my intention to attend both the state and the national democratic conventions, I'm not thinking for a moment of attending either as a delegate. The democracy of Texas has heretofore so honored me that it would take the rest of my life to pay the debt of gratitude I owe. There are thousands of Democrats in the state who have never been officially recognized, and it seems to me that some of those heretofore unrecognized should be named as delegates to these respective conventions. I am now, as I was four years ago, in favor of Texas selecting 40 of her very best men and women and instruct them as to the issues, leaving them free as to the individual for whom they should vote as the nominee of the party. It is foolish to hog-tie a delegation to vote for any one individual first and last and all the time as was done four years ago. Conditions change in a convention, and the delegate should have freedom enough to change with changing conditions." This former governor is a life-long pro, an ultra pro, and law enforcement was his slogan first and last for four years.

One-Minute Sermon

And it shall come to pass, that he who fleeth from the noise of the fear shall fall into the pit; and he that cometh up out of the midst of the pit shall be taken in the snare: for the windows from on high are open and the foundations of the earth do shake.

The earth is utterly broken down, the earth is clean dissolved, the earth is moved exceedingly.—Isaiah xxiv, 18-19.

Do You Know Who De Grasse Was?

CEREMONIES recently held in France by French and American dignitaries to honor the name of Admiral De Grasse serve to call our attention to a little-known but important hero of the American revolution. Every schoolboy can tell you what Lafayette and Von Steuben did, but few know even the name of De Grasse.

When Lafayette sailed for America, De Grasse began assembling a fleet to aid the colonies. He brought it over and it was the presence of this fleet in American waters that helped Washington to isolate Cornwallis and bring about his surrender. De Grasse also raised much money for the American cause, and wound up his services by beating off a British fleet that sought to clear the ocean of American sympathizers.

All in all, his contributions were highly important, and his name deserves to be better known.

Passing of McAdoo

WILLLIAM GIBBS M'ADOO has passed out of the political picture—the democratic political picture. An amazing man is McAdoo, an ambitious man, a man of wonderful strength in many ways and a man weighed down by many weaknesses.

He had an ambition to be president. He lost eight years ago in the city of San Francisco. He lost four years ago in the city of New York.

He was effaced May 1 in his home state in the primary election for the control of the California delegation to the Houston convention.

There were three contenders for the California delegation—Smith of New York, Reed of Missouri and Walsh of Montana, the latter dragged into the race almost at the 11th hour by the son-in-law of Woodrow Wilson and the former secretary of the treasury in the cabinet of his illustrious father-in-law.

It is a pathetic story of the rise and fall of a democrat as ambitious as Alexander Hamilton, as arrogant in many ways as Aaron Burr but without the vices of Burr and a man with many remarkable achievements to his credit before he invaded the domain of American politics.

Senator Walsh had the backing of McAdoo. He had the backing of the Anti-Saloon League of California. Political correspondents of the calibre of Mark Sullivan and David Lawrence declared that he had the backing of the Woodrow Wilson democrats.

Smith practically swept the state. His followers rolled up a majority in the city and county of Los Angeles, the McAdoo home and stronghold. From the Oregon border line on the north to the Mexican border line on the south in the Golden Coast state he ran away from the rival contenders.

According to the returns thus far received his delegate ticket received a greater number of votes than were cast for the tickets of Reed and Walsh combined and he has a very decisive majority over all. According to the nationally known political correspondents, McAdoo was to give Smith the acid test in the California balloting.

Well, the test was given. Walsh ran a miserable third. He is out of the picture and out of the race.

Reed shows surprising strength in many sections, but the Smith plurality over Reed may reach 100,000. McAdoo was dethroned as the democratic leader in his home city and in the state of his adoption.

Four years ago former Senator James D. Phelan made the McAdoo nominating speech at the Madison Square Garden convention.

Now he is the head of the California delegation of thirty, elected by the democrats of California by direct vote to attend the Houston convention and cast the votes of the Golden Coast state for the governor of New York.

California republicans voted overwhelmingly for Herbert Hoover. He was unopposed. California is a republican state. It cast its electoral vote for Woodrow Wilson in 1916.

California women, regardless of party affiliations, followed the flag of Wilson in that campaign. They had a winning slogan, "Vote for Wilson. He kept us out of war." Not many months later President Wilson and the American people entered the war upon the side of the allies.

James A. Reed was shut out of the San Francisco convention in 1920 by the Wilson leaders. In a bitter campaign eight years later while he lost the California delegation, he left Walsh, the McAdoo-backed candidate, far behind him and received a vote that went far beyond the expectation of the political correspondents and the political leaders who walk the stage of action in the imperial state that fringes the Pacific ocean.

AN OKLAHOMA TIP TO MOODY

Governor Dan Moody asks if Governor Al Smith has the qualifications of an envangel to go over the country, proclaiming the shortcomings and the offenses of the republican party. Well, while Smith may not be such a spellbinder as the late William Jennings Bryan, it might be well for the Texas governor to remember that oratory has rarely won an election.

THE SAFE SIDE OF ALL BUSINESS

Although hogs are low and corn is high, it seems to us that now is not the time to quit the game. Three years ago the same situation confronted the farmers and many sold off their brood sows. In a little over a year the price of hogs was doubled. We have always been told and have tried to act on the theory that when "every one wants to sell is the time to buy, and when everyone wants to buy is the time to sell." Follow this and you will be on the safe side.

ANTICIPATING CALAMITY

Whence come presentiments? Sometimes they are the result of a nervous condition, which may come from too much coffee or tea or Volstead liquor. Indigestion, too, brings its misgivings. The system gets a little off center and cooks up anticipated evils.

Every now and then you will hear someone recite some misfortune that has occurred and say, "I knew it; I felt it in my bones." What the person felt in his bones may have been rheumatism; it probably had no connection at all with what happened. Human beings have so many apprehensions that the law of averages would be denied if they didn't hit it once in a while.

HEALTH and DIET ADVICE

By DR. FRANK McCOY
Author of "The Fast Way to Health."

Questions in regard to health and diet will be answered by Mr. McCoy who can be addressed in care of this paper.

Dr. McCoy will gladly answer personal questions on health and diet, addressed to him, care of The Record News. Enclose stamped, addressed, large envelope for reply.

WATER AND KIDNEY ELIMINATION

The kidneys have only one function to perform in the body and that is to eliminate poisonous wastes from the body. In health the kidneys have the power to extract elements of urine from the blood stream but, at the same time, as the blood passes through the kidneys, the good parts of the blood are not disturbed but go on to do their work in various parts of the body.

The red and white cells as well as the food materials contained in the blood do not pass out in the urine except in diseases of the kidneys themselves, such as nephritis, albuminuria, pylitis, tuberculosis, etc.

In some cases, after continued abuse, the kidney membranes become hardened and even calcify so that the normal elimination of urea and other poisons are retained. The kidneys of the average adult secrete and throw out about a quart and a half of urine daily.

In many disorders which have their start in other parts of the body, it is necessary for the blood to eliminate an extra large amount of bodily wastes and toxins. The kidneys have their work to do in this extra elimination, and often such an added burden is placed upon the vital organs that the constant irritation of excessive impurities produces injury to the kidneys themselves.

A sick body is a body full of poisons, and these extra toxins must always be eliminated before health can be completely restored.

In the cure of any disease it is important to supply the blood with plenty of water to assist in dissolving the impurities in order to eliminate them. If the one who is ill uses an extra large amount of water, the blood is thus more liquefied and is better able to eliminate impurities through the lungs, kidneys, skin and intestines. The urine thus diluted with more water, the kidneys are not irritated as much, and more waste products can be then passed out in the extra amount of urine secreted.

Urine is ordinarily amber colored, having a certain specific gravity or thickness, but it is better for the one who is attempting to cure himself of any disease to use enough water so that the urine is only a light straw color. Of course, the more water that is taken the more urine will be passed in the twenty-four hours, so that instead of only a quart and a half of urine there will be from two to four quarts secreted and eliminated during the day.

It is wise to drink the largest amount of water between meals, when the stomach is comparatively empty. Distilled water is the purest water, and more readily absorbed, so should be used whenever available.

The one who is trying to recover from any chronic or acute disease should fully realize the good which can come from extra elimination through the kidneys. Elimination of poisons through the intestine, skin and lungs is always vitally important, but the much abused kidneys, the unfailing functioning of which has kept you alive so far, will also assist you in the cure of your disorder if you will just give them a better chance by furnishing them with enough water with which to perform the extra elimination which is necessary.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Question: Mrs. O. I. J. writes: "I have found your column very helpful and I would like to ask you concerning my trouble. I have psoriasis and have used many electrical treatments, salves, ointments etc., and several skin specialists have failed to help me."

Answer: Your trouble can be entirely cured if you will follow the correct diet treatment. Space does not permit me to print the complete instructions, but if you will write me again, sending your name and address, I will be glad to send such information to you.

Question: P. A. L. asks: "Do you advise the use of eggs every day in the week for breakfast if one likes them? I have heard that the sulphur which they contain would prove harmful if too many eggs are used."

Answer: I have never found a patient who could not use at least one egg daily. The average number which may be used by any one person is between ten and fourteen a week. If the yolk, which contains the sulphur, is discarded, you can use the whites of several eggs each day, either at breakfast or in place of meat at the evening meal.

Question: W. H. writes: "I have already reduced 19 pounds by following your advice, but I do not get rid of a pain which I have in the stomach. Sometimes I feel like vomiting."

Answer: If you do not know what is causing your pain, I advise you to go to your doctor and have a diagnosis. This may prevent the development of a serious trouble.

The Day Book of a New Yorker

By BURTON RASCOB

TIMES BUILDING

NEW YORK, May 9.—I am writing this after a stroll in West street, which begins off Battery park and skirts the city, facing the Hudson. It is one long succession of ships, piers, docks and ferries. It is the heart of the greatest port in the world.

The landsman from the hinterland is likely to think of ships solely in terms of the great liners like the Leviathan, Aquitania, Mauretania and Ile de France. To the real sailor these are just passenger ferries, moving like trolley cars on a fixed route, designed to remind the traveler, as he lolls in their marble baths, flower gardens and picture theaters, of the sea as little as possible.

It is the carrying of cargo that makes ships and shipping. Transporting the south's cotton, supplying the world's markets with American petroleum, automobiles, farm implements, shoes, motion pictures, sewing machines, typewriters and such things; distributing the Argentine wheat crop and the Brazil coffee crop, marketing Australia's wool, carrying away Chile's precious nitrate of soda, spreading Britain's coal, moving lumber from our Pacific ports, are immensely more important jobs than transferring tourists to and from Europe. The piers of the cargo ships are the place to look for what remains of the romance of the sea.

Along the waterfront they are talking about the thrilling race against time of the steamship Southern Cross and comparing it with the forced contests between British and American clipper ships, when the windjammers were contesting for markets in China. The Southern Cross, delayed by heavy seas on the first part of her run from Brazil, made the distance to New York from Trinidad under forced draught in order to deliver 50,000 bags of coffee in contract time.

At West street docks one finds a diminishing number of the "tramp steamers" which were the successors of the square-rigged sailing vessels and the inheritors of its hobo-like habits and traditions. The new type of cargo carrier operates on schedule on fixed route. The "tramp steamer," like the sailing vessel it succeeded, knocks around the world, taking cargo as it is to be found. Seldom more than 5000 tons in size, it goes into harbors that no other ships visit. It may be gone from its home port for one year or two, and its crew never knows from one port to another where they'll go next. It not only roams the oceans, but follows the muddy waters of the Amazon into the trackless jungles, seeks out strange ports in the Black sea, braves pirates in Chinese rivers.

"Tramp steamers" are the only place to look for mariners who are survivors of the age of sail. There are no decks to scrub, for decks are washed only by waves. Every man takes his turn at the wheel and the lookout, while there is painting, tarring, mending rigging and repairing gear—real seamanly work. You don't find these ancient mariners aboard the liners, because the man in the liner's "fo'castle" is little more than a chambermaid.

Probably the most interesting section of West street is that between Chambers and Desbrosses streets, known as "the Farm" because it is the district where the ships that bring in New York's food disgorge themselves. Potatoes from New England, onions from Texas, oranges and grapefruit from Florida and California, bananas from Central America, apples from Oregon, pineapples from Hawaii, vegetables from California, Egypt and South America, eggs from California and China, pork from Ireland, Germany and Canada, wheat and beef from the Argentine, fish from everywhere. Every nation contributes.

THE "CANARY" MURDER CASE

by S. S. VAN DINE AUTHOR of THE BENSON MURDER CASE

© Charles Scribner's Sons

CHARACTERS

PHILO VANCE
JOHN F.-X. MARKHAM, district attorney of New York county.
MARGARET ODELL (THE "CANARY")
CHARLES CLEAVER, a man-about-town.
KENNETH SPOTSWOODE, a manufacturer.
LOUIS MANNIX, an importer.
DR. AMBROSE LINDQUIST, a fashionable neurologist.
TONY SKEEL, a professional burglar.
WILLIAM ELMER JESSUP, telephone operator.
HARRY SPIVELY, telephone operator.
ERNEST HEALTH, sergeant of the Homicide Bureau.

The Story Thus Far.

The jewel case had been opened with a steel chisel after being battered with a poker. And this puzzles Vance when it is found near the strangled body of Margaret Odell. Finger-prints lead to Skeel's arrest, after Cleaver and Dr. Lindquist have been questioned. Vance indicates he believes Skeel was hiding in the clothes closet when the murder was committed, and witnessed it. Markham, believing in Skeel's guilt, ridicules the theory. Mannix is brought in and questioned.

CHAPTER XXIII

Markham ignored the question. "Can you think of no one who might have borne Miss Odell a grudge, or had cause to fear her?"

Mannix was volubly emphatic on the subject of his complete ignorance of any such person; and after a few more questions, which elicited only denials, Markham let him go.

"Not bad at all, Markham old thing—eh, what?" Vance seemed pleased with the conference. "Wonder why he's so cov? Not a nice person, this Mannix. And he's so fearful lest he be informative. Again, I wonder why. He was so careful—oh, so careful."

"He was sufficiently careful, at any rate, not to tell us anything," declared Markham gloomily.

"I shouldn't say that, don't y' know." Vance lay back and smoked placidly. "A ray of light filtered through here and there. He denied he'd been blackmailed—which was obviously untrue—and tried to make us believe that he and the lovely Margaret cooed like turtle-doves at parting. Tosh! ... And then, that mention of Cleaver. That wasn't spontaneous—dear me, no. Brother Mannix and spontaneity are as the poles apart. He had a reason for bring Cleaver in; and I fancy that if you knew what that reason was, you'd feel like flinging roses riotously, and that sort of thing.

"Why Cleaver? That explanation was a bit weak. The orbits of these two paramours cross somewhere. On that point, at least, Mannix inadvertently enlightened us... Moreover, it's plain that he doesn't know our fashionable healer with the satyr ears. But, on the other hand, he's aware of the existence of Mr. Skeel, and would rather like to deny the acquaintance... Plenty of information; but—my word!—what to do with it?"

"I give it up," acknowledged Markham hopelessly.

"I know: it's a sad, sad world," Vance commiserated him. "It's time for lunch, and a fillet of sole Marguery will cheer you no end.

Markham glanced at the clock, and permitted himself to be led to the Lawyers club.

(Wednesday, September 12; evening)

Vance and I did not return to the district attorney's office after lunch, for Markham had a busy afternoon before him, and nothing further was likely to transpire in connection with the Odell case until Sergeant Heath had completed his investigations of Cleaver and Doctor Lindquist.

Vance had seats for Giordano's "Madame Sans-Gene," and two o'clock found us at the Metropolitan. Though the performance was excellent, Vance was too distrait to enjoy it; and it was significant that, after the opera, he directed the chauffeur to the Stuyvesant club.

I knew he had a tea appointment, and that he had planned to motor to Longue Vue for dinner; and the fact that he should have dismissed these social engagements from his mind in order to be with Markham showed how intensely the problem of the murder had absorbed his interest.

It was after six o'clock when Markham came in, looking harassed and tired. No mention of the case was made during dinner, with the exception of Markham's casual remark that Heath had turned in his reports on Cleaver and Doctor Lindquist and Mannix. (It seemed that, immediately after lunch, he had telephoned to the sergeant to add Mannix's name to the two others as a subject for inquiry).

It was not until we had retired to our favorite corner of the lounge-room that the topic of the murder was brought up for discussion.

And that discussion, brief and one-sided, was the beginning of an entirely new line of investigation—a line which, in the end, led to the guilty person.

Markham sank wearily into his chair. He had begun to show the strain of the last two days of fruitless worry. His eyes were a trifle heavy, and there was a grim tenacity in the lines of his mouth. Slowly and deliberately he lighted a cigar, and took several deep inhalations.

"Damn the newspapers!" he grumbled. "Why can't they let the district attorney's office handle its business in its own way?...Have you seen the afternoon papers? They're all clamoring for the murderer. You'd think I had him up my sleeve."

"You forget, my dear chap," grinned Vance, "that we are living under the benign and uplifting reign of Democritus, which confers upon every ignoramus the privilege of promiscuously criticising his betters."

Markham snorted.

"I don't complain about criticism; it's the lurid imagination of these bright young reporters that galls me. They're trying to turn this sordid crime into a spectacular Borgia melodrama, with passion running rampant, and mysterious influences at work, and all the pomp and trappings of a mediaeval romance... You'd think even a schoolboy could see that it was only an ordinary robbery and murder of the kind that's taking place regularly throughout the country."

Vance paused in the act of lighting a cigaret, and his eyebrows lifted. Turning, he regarded Markham with a look of mild incredulity.

"I say! Do you really mean to tell me that your statement for the press was given out in good faith?"

Markham looked up in surprise.

"Certainly it was... What do you mean by 'good faith?'"

Vance smiled indolently.

"I rather thought, don't y' know, that your oration to the reporters was a bit of strategy to lull the real culprit into a state of false security, and to give you a clear field for investigation."

Markham contemplated him a moment.

"See here, Vance," he demanded irritably, "what are you driving at?"

"Nothing at all—really, old fellow," the other assured him affably. "I knew that Heath was deadly sincere about his belief in Skeel's guilt, but it never occurred to me, d' ye see, that you yourself actually regarded the crime as one committed by a professional burglar.

"I foolishly thought that you let Skeel go this morning in the hope that he would lead you somehow to the guilty person. I rather imagined you were spoofing the trusting sergeant by pretending to fall in with his silly notion."

"Ah I see! Still clinging to your weird theory that a brace of villains were present, hiding in separate clothes-closets, or something of the kind." Markham made no attempt to temper his sarcasm. "A sapient idea—so much more intelligent than Heath's!"

"I know it's weird. But it happens not to be any weirder than your theory of a lone yeggman."

"And for what reason, pray," persisted Markham, with considerable warmth "do you consider the yeggman theory weird?"

"For the simple reason that it was not the crime of a professional thief at all, but the wilfully deceptive act of a particularly clever man who doubtless spent weeks in its preparation."

Markham sank back in his chair and laughed heartily.

"Vance, you have contributed the one ray of sunshine to an otherwise gloomy and depressing case."

Vance bowed with mock humility.

"It gives me great pleasure," was his dulcet rejoinder, "to be able to bring even a wisp of light into so clouded a mental atmosphere."

A brief silence followed. Then Markham asked:

"Is this fascinating and picturesque conclusion of yours regarding the highly intellectual character of the Odell woman's murderer based on your new and original psychological methods of deduction?" There was no mistaking the ridicule in his voice.

"I arrived at it," explained Vance sweetly, "by the same processes of logic I used in determining the guilt of Alvin Benson's murderer."

Markham smiled.

"Touche! . . . Don't think I'm so ungrateful as to belittle the work you did in that case. But this time, I fear, you've permitted your theories to lead you hopelessly astray. The present case is what the police call an open-and-shut affair."

"Particularly shut," amended Vance dryly. "And both you and the police are in the distressin' situation of waiting inactively for your suspected victim to give the game away."

"I'll admit the situation is not all one could desire." Markham spoke morosely. "But even so, I can't see that there's any opportunity in this affair for your recondite psychological methods. The thing's too obvious—that's the trouble. What we need now is evidence, not theories. If it wasn't for the spacious and romantic imaginings of the newspaper men, public interest in the case would already have died out."

"Markham," said Vance quietly, but with unwonted seriousness, "if that's what you really believe, then you may as well drop the case now, for you're foredoomed to failure. You think it's an obvious crime. But let me tell you, it's a subtle crime, if ever there was one. And it's as clever as it is subtle. No common criminal committed it—believe me. It was done by a man of very superior intellect, and astoundin' ingenuity."

Vance's assured, matter-of-fact tone had a curiously convincing quality; and Markham, restraining his impulse to scoff, assumed an air of indulgent irony.

"Tell me," he said, "by what cryptic mental process you arrived at so fantastic a conclusion."

"With pleasure." Vance took a few puffs on his cigaret, and lazily watched the smoke curl upward."

*I sent a proof of the following paragraphs to Vance, and he edited and corrected them; so that, as they now stand, they represent his theories in practically his own words.

The Record News Staff Poet

INSANITY.

There he was, in exercise,
Out on the grassy lawn,
With body Herculean,
And mind completely gone.

A ship without a pilot
To keep it on its course.
A white-dressed man was leading him
As I would lead a horse.

A woeful sight he was to me,
This exile among men,
With his incoherent chatter,
And his silly little grin.

Oh, take away my eyesight—
My speech—my ears—be kind!
I'll take my silent darkness,
But let me keep my mind.

DINNER STORIES

And He Bought a Ticket

"Say, mister, what's your idea in plugging your ears and shutting your eyes while this football game is going on?"

"I don't want to be bothered with the yelling, and I hate to see those boys fighting over a little ball."

BLOOD PRESSURE 200

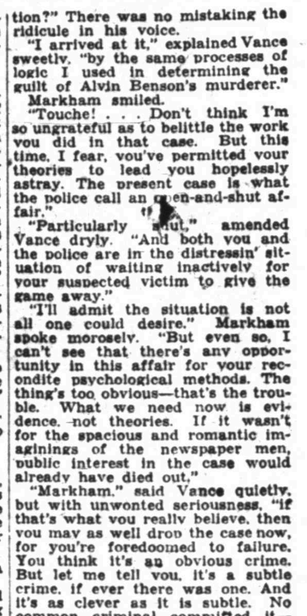

Watch your blood pressure! If it's 180 or 200 instead of 120, it's a sign to be careful. High blood pressure cuts years off one's life. Heart palpitation, dizziness and difficulty are symptoms of high blood pressure, the result of our modern abnormal habits of life which put too great a strain upon the liver.

The liver becoming sluggish fails to cleanse the blood of the toxic poisons formed in food waste, which then permeate the whole system, affecting heart, blood pressure and blood vessels. The liver needs a little help occasionally. Nothing better for this, as medical men know, than a little ox gall. Ox gall is a remarkable natural stimulant for the human liver, promoting its normal active functioning, so essential to real health.

Dioxol tablets are genuine ox gall in dainty and tasteless form, each tablet representing 10 drops of pure ox gall. To be sure of getting the genuine ox gall, be sure of getting Dioxol. They cost less than 2c each at good druggists, and a few soon tell.

Free Test Take this ad to the druggist named below and he will give you a free sample of Dioxol tablets. Try them yourself. See the splendid, quick results. One trial of Dioxol and you will want a full package!

Favorite Jokes of Famous People

As Told by Them to

FRANK ERNEST NICHOLSON

By CONRAD NAGLE.

Conrad Nagle's first commercial occupation was that of bricklayer. His father, Dr. Frank Nagle, a noted pianist and composer, wanted his young son to become an architect and so he got Conrad a job laying bricks for the foundation of a building—in order that the boy might learn the trade from the ground up.

CONRAD NAGLE

But Conrad's building career was rudely interrupted when the bricklayer's union stepped in with the insistence of a long apprenticeship. He then became a key clerk and telephone operator in a hotel during his spare time while attending Highland Park college in Des Moines, Ia., where he graduated with the degree of bachelor of oratory.

Nagle's first success as an entertainer at college definitely turned his ambitions toward the stage. In this change of plans he was warmly encouraged by his mother, who was a concert singer. So, after a season with the Redpath Lyceum bureau, as a reader, he joined the Princess Stock company in Des Moines.

He left leading roles there to go into vaudeville whence he graduated to the New York stage, later appearing as the man who came back in "The Man Who Came Back." He was also "the man who left" when a motion-picture producer offered him a contract in Hollywood.

"Here's a story I heard over at the studio the other day," Nagle told me, "and off-hand I believe that it is my favorite.

"An employer was very annoyed at an accident that had damaged one of his moving vans.

"'Look here, Leary,' he said, 'tell me just how that happened.'

"'Well,' replied the driver, 'I was driving me van up the street when a car shot out of a side turning. I pulled up dead and a chap in a big car ran into the back of my van.'

"The employer nodded briefly.

"'He jumped out,' continued the other, and shouted, 'Why didn't you put out your hand?'

"'Put out me hand!' I says, 'if you couldn't see the van, how could you see me hand?'"

Pitts Ritticisms

By BILL RITT

Fans rushed out at a French soccer match and kissed the umpire. In America this is regarded as unsanitary and impossible.

It would take a great deal of enthusiasm and an iron constitution to kiss the grizzled pans of some of our baseball arbitors. Those babies have mugs that would frighten a gorilla out of a year's growth.

The fad might spread. Ball players and managers might be the next victims. One shudders to think of such a hideous sight as John McGraw and Connie Mack helplessly fleeing with 10,000 flapper fans at their heels.

Embracing Babe Ruth would be a two-person job. Throwing arms around the Mammoth of Maul would be like trying to get a strangle hold on Pike's peak.

The kiss system of applause must be stamped out before it starts. We can't afford to have every home run launch a kissing bee and the world series to end up in a petting party.

Should the French method of saluting worthy athletes with a sound smack on the lips seep into the national pastime, the players will have only one recourse. The whole team can don catchers' masks.

BEAUMONT, May 9. (AP)—Chief Wilkins had the Indian sign on Beaumont today and the Sports made it two straight over the Exporters, 6 to 1. Wingfield's homer to left center in the fifth produced Beaumont's only score. HANKS LEADS FISH CONTEST

Holds First and Second Places With Catches

Ray Hanks is setting a mark for other fishermen to shoot at. Mr. Hanks is leading the nimrod experts in the contest for the largest bass being conducted by the Landon-Hill Sporting Goods company. In fact, Mr. Hanks is first and Mr. Hanks is second.

His catch entered for the first prize is a seven-pounder and his second best weighed six pounds, three ounces. W. H. Street is third with a catch of five pounds, 15 ounces. All these bass were caught May 1 at Lake Kemp.

The contest will continue for the duration of the fishing season. It is for the largest bass caught in Lake Kemp, Diversion lake and Lake Wichita and is open to all nimrods residing in Wichita, Wilbarger, Baylor and Archer counties. Artificial bait must be used and the catch weighed at the Landon-Hill company.

First prize is a $35 Divine fly rod, second is a $16.50 South Bend casting reel and third is a $7 tackle box.

Fishing the last two days has been a bit quiet, with the finny ones probably suffering from the heat and too enervated to bite. They will start casting about for bait at any time, however, and with an abundance of fish abounding in the lakes the sport will be good all season.

MEHLHORN LEADS BRITISH OPEN GOLF WITH SARAZEN SECOND

GENE TURNS IN 72 FOR SECOND

Jose Jurado Third as Americans Lead Britishers

SANDWICH, Eng., May 9. (AP)—"Wild Bill" Mehlhorn, not the least bit wild, led the field home today in the first round of the British open golf championship with a sensational 71 for Gene Sarazen, another North American homebred, was just behind his playmate with 72.

The Americans had it for the moment, for in the third place was Jose Jurado, undersized pro from Buenos Aires, with 74.

The day's play gave another smashing blow to Britain's belief that linksmen from the sunshine belt of the new world are at a disadvantage in battling icy winds of British blustery seaside courses.

All through the bleak day—"Snell", the Scotch called it—Americans showed the native Britons lower scores. Tonight many expert followers of the ancient game are heavyhearted at the thought that another year may pass without the trophy coming back home. Britain's best prospects for retrieving it were not able to crowd in among the first three.

George Duncan, Sid Wingate, Archie Compston and Percy Alliss are in a tie with Walter Hagen for fourth place with scores of 75. Of the British challengers Duncan has been made the favorite, particularly if winter lingers, for this is the sort of weather which often has inspired the Scottish star and today he played well throughout.

Three American pros in the early 80's, Tommy Armour and Jim Barnes at 81 and Bob Stupple with 82 had plenty of company.

Bare Facts

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER
(Copyright, 1928, Universal Service)

NEW YORK, May 9.—Mr. Coolidge is looking around for his summer White House. If you have a shack that you can not rent, just offer it to the president.

He spent last summer in the Black Hills attired in a one-piece cowboy hat and trousers permanently waved.

This year Cal wants to be a country gentleman. We have a beautiful home in the Mississippi valley if Cal likes water as far as the second floor.

If he wants scenery, let him look at an Easter egg.

Great Neck offers possibilities. Builder must sacrifice buyer to save himself. Cave at Emptor is below zero.

Stucco, three-car dining room, beach, park, folding chimneys, all-year round exposure to light, westerly mortgages.

Back yard decorated freshly by next-door neighbors. Parquet flooring, wood-burning bath tubs. Also a very fine ducking alcove.

All we ask is that he keeps that sap bucket off the piano.

In case Cal desires to be photographed as a bathing beauty this summer, how about a palatial seashore home only a sleeper jump from high tide?

Others as low as twenty thousand, but will take more. An attempt to portray the beauties of this compo-board shack would only make a begger of description and a bum out of the truth.

If Cal owns a lot somewhere we will build him a home on easy payments. Only a five-minutes' walk from the freight yards, loud speakers in every corner, shrubs, flowers and three acres of discarded building materials.

If interested, write this office for further impediments.

Car Made for Valentino Seized by Officers

NEW YORK, May 9. (UP)—The sheriff has deprived Peggy Hopkins Joyce of her $14,750 Isotta Fraschini automobile.

The car was a gift to Peggy from John Locke, former broker, whose Broadway venture was cut short by bankruptcy and receivership proceedings. The Isotta Fraschini was seized in replevin proceedings to recover a balance of $4,000.

It was built originally for the late Rudolph Valentino and was presented to Peggy as a Christmas gift in 1926.

Heavyweights to Fight for Charity Tomorrow Night at Madison Garden

International Flavor to Tex Rickard's Card With Bronx Hospital Fund to Benefit After Pugs Get Theirs.

By DAMON RUNYAN
Copyright, 1928, By Universal Service

NEW YORK, May 9.—We have quite an international flavor to our next pugilistic portion, what with a large German, a large Belgian and some even larger Italians on the program.

They represent the old world's leading contributions to the free-for-all scramble for Mister Gene Tunney's celebrated title. That is, it is a free-for-all scramble for those who stand O. Q. with the ubiquitious Rickard, who holds a sort of first-mortgage on said title.

Mainly for the reason that the proceedings at Madison Square Garden next Friday night are for a most worthy cause, the Bronx hospital fund, I here take occasion to go into the program in detail. I only hope and trust, as Mr. Josephus Humphreys, the announcer, remarks, that there will be plenty for the Bronx hospital after the noble gladiators get their grab.

The headline event presents Signor Roberto Roberti, the Italian giant, and Phalling Phillip Scott, the pugilistic pride of England, when he is upright. I mean to say he is not the pride of England when he is non-upright. I think this meeting ought to produce a pretty good battle, as heavyweight battles go, between two gents who both have a fair chance to win Mister Gene Tunney's title.

Signor Riberto Roberti is a dead game fellow who has steadily improved since he arrived in this country about a year ago. He has learned to box a bit, and he can take a powerful punching. He has more color than any other fighter in the game today, especially when it comes to taking bows. Signor Roberti has the grand opera manner.

Scott Is a Great Boxer

Phalling Phil Scott is one of the best boxers I have ever seen among the big fellows. He got away to a bad start in America when Knute Hansen, the melancholy Dane, slugged him out of time, as we say, but thereafter he made some corking fights.

Phalling Phil has a left hand like a dagger, and behind it he shoots a good right cross. He isn't the fastest fellow in the world, and he doesn't seem to shake off a punch on the chin very well, but he can certainly box. He has twice whipped Thomas Heeney, who is now matched with Mister Gene Tunney for the heavyweight title.

Mons. Pierre Charles, the willing Belgian imported to this country by Mons. Gustavus Wilson, former maitre d'hotel, or something to that effect, with Mons. Georges Carpentier, and Mons. Jacques Dempski, is paired with Signor Arturo de Kuh in another 10-rounder. Mons. Pierre Charles is just a rough and ready jobbie with a bland smile, eager to get in there and throw those punches around.

Signor Arturo de Kuh is an Italian who ante-dates Signor Roberti in this country by a couple of years, and who was discovered by Signor Renati Gardini, the wrestler. Signor Arturo de Kuh is very tall, and very careful, and has a cramped-up style born of regard for his rather lengthy chin, but he is a pretty good hitter.

At one time Signor Arturo de Kuh had the earmarks of the best heavyweight prospect around here, and then Edward James Maloney, the Bostonian, knocked him for what you might call a touchdown.

Hoch, Der Herr Wagner!

And then we have Herr Rudi Hands Wagner, of Germany, struggling with Big Boy Peterson, of New Orleans. If Herr Rudi Hands Wagner can fight two little licks it seems to me his start in this country should be most auspicious indeed. I have seen Big Boy in action.

Herr Rudi Hands Wagner is wide and heavy, and has a pair of dukes, or maulies, like a brace of hams. They are big enough to gather in nine steins of lager at one clutch, wherein the Teutonic gladiator is reminiscent of the greatest of all Wagners, the immortal John Honus, whose hands were so large that he could gather up all the territory between second and third base in either of them.

They tell me this Herr Wagner is a good smacker with those enormous pretzel snatchers. He is being managed in this country by George Engel, who ought to know a fighter when he sees one, and George says Herr Rudi looks great in the gym. George managed two other Teutons, Frank Klaus and Harry Greb, though both were born in this country.

We had a load of one German heavyweight some time ago in the peresen of Franz Deiner. He couldn't fight much, but he was plenty tough. They tell me Rudi Wagner is a far better gladiator than Franz, but we shall see.

Home-Breds On the Card

George Larocco and Johnny Grosso, the former of the Bronx, and the latter of Mount Vernon, are in a fourth tenner, while Yankee Jack Smith and one Jack Kizis open the show with a four.

Yankee Jack is a large young man who did some catching for the Yankees, and who is now doing some catching for Mr. Dumb Dan Morgan, the director of his pugilistic destinies. Yankee Jack is still in that stage where he is meeting guys named Jack Kizis.

Larocco and Grosso are Italian Americans who have a long-standing feud, which takes them to battle about every pancake Tuesday. I do not know the score at this time, but I think that Grosso is slightly ahead. They always put up a great fight.

Grosso is by way of being a stable-mate to Mister Gene Tunney, because he is managed by Willum Gibson, the ostensible manager of Mister Tunney. Grosso is a youngster who has had quite a lot of fighting experience, and so has Larocco. They are among the best of the local heavyweights.

If a client enjoys heavyweight pulling and hauling, this card ought to carry a big appeal. I find myself already tingling with anticipation over the battle between Signor Roberti and Phalling Phillip. I love to see the big boys bounce, and it seems to me that there ought to be plety of bouncing one way or the other in this one.

BREAKING GOLF 60 IS POSSIBLE

That Almost Unattainable Score to Be Realized

NEW YORK, May 9.—Some day a Jones, a Farrell, a Hagen, or perhaps a youngster now obscure, is going to set the golfing world reeling by breaking 60 over a full-grown course.

It will be one of those sport performances that border on the miraculous, like a no-hit, no-man-reach-first baseball game, only rarer, but it can be done, and no less an authority than Grantland Rice presents the evidence in the May issue of The American Golfer.

The feat isn't as impossible as it seems when you put the facts on paper, Rice points out. A score of golfers have gone out or come back in less than 30. If their games had been equally perfect—and lucky—both ways they would have broken 60.

"Golfers have gone around 18 holes with only 28 or 29 putts," says Rice. "Suppose Jones, Hagen, Farrell, Sarazen or Mac Smith had a 20-putt record on a good day with wood and iron? A 57 or 58 would be simple."

It is purely a matter of a long mathematical chance, as he sees it—a business of waiting until some day when one of the game's best will turn up with both his long and short games working perfectly, with weather and luck in his favor, and with nerves calm enough to play straight into land of miracles.

But what a long change! Farrell and Jones have each played over 2000 rounds of golf. You might think that out of these 4000 rounds Fate would have given them at least one 60 or 59.

Walter Hagen has made a 62 at Bellesair, Farrell recently turned in a 63 to win $5000 at Miami Beach, Bobby Jones has a 63 on his East Lake course at Atlanta. Leo Diegel went out in 39 at Columbia, then took a 100 to 1 bet that he wouldn't break 30 coming in. He came back in 29!

Moreover, Jones has made each hole on the East Lake course in so few strokes that if his best efforts were put into a single round he would have a 47. The American Golfer's records show. Chick Ridley, on the same basis, would boast a 46 over the same course.

But with 2000 professionals constantly firing away and as many star amateurs doing the same, the 50s remain untouched. They can be threatened with a 28 or 29 on the way out. The chap who breaks 30 coming back an mull over what might have been. But the day when drive, approach and putt are all working perfectly over the entire distance has yet to come. It can happen. There's nothing but the adamant law of averages to prevent it. And some day that chance in a million is going to turn up.

DAILY DOPE

By LARRY DAILEY

THE ANCIENT and honorable Texas league is enjoying another of its excellent seasons. Four clubs are fighting for the lead, with one day's play apt to send a club from third to first or the other way, and the fourth team not far back and ready to slip into a higher place at first signs of faltering among the trio of pace-setters. It isn't unlikely that the quartet of present leaders will fight it out all the way for the pennant in the first half, if, indeed, they do not battle that way all summer.

Philadelphia's Athletics loom as the only menace to the Yankees. The recent indications would lend belief that the Mackmen will be real threats to the Yanks' hopes of repeating. Joe Hauser is batting and playing in the superb manner that was his three seasons ago before he injured a knee that forced him out of baseball one season and into the minors one campaign. Those old vets, Ty and Tris, are batting in a manner reminiscent of former years when they were the most feared clouters in all baseball.

CONNIE'S excellent pitching staff is giving evidence of performing to expectations, something not accomplished last year. With Simmons soon to return to the lineup, completing a mighty trio of outfielding maulers, aided by Bing Miller, a most dangerous hitter; with Hauser, Bishop, Hale and Boley rounding out a superb infield, and with such catchers as Cochrane and Foxx—such an array will fight ANY club down to the wire.

IT'S A SCRAMBLE in the National league as last season. Six clubs still are viewed as contenders and at least four and possibly five will be in the hunt for the gonfalon until October days are here.

RED LUCAS, who was a great, if underrated, pitcher last season, is now coming into his own. Lucas was not underrated in 1927 by those familiar with his sterling work. But toiling for a club that required half a season before attaining a winning gait he was obscured by players of less ability. Red has now won six victories this season, ranking as one of the most effective chuckers in the major leagues. In addition he is a terrific hitter and there's nine men in the ball game, on the attack as well as defense, when Red is working. The National league "most valuable" players award will go to the Cincinnati hurler if he continues his present pace.

RUMORS IN FIGHT circles in New York are to the effect that Jack Dempsey will emerge from retirement this summer. My informant is a New Yorker who usually knows what's up and why in fistic affairs. My informant does not say Dempsey WILL fight again. But he says it is HINTED in gay Gotham that Jack is to dust off the gloves this summer for "one more fling."

Tex Rickard recently gave cause for such an impression. After Sharkey knocked out Delaney in one round he said that the Dempsey-Sharkey fight of last year, with its fair or foul controversy and the terrible sailor man's one-round k. o. of Delaney would make another meeting of the two Jacks a natural. Mr. Rickard doubtless is right, as usual. A return Dempsey-Sharkey war would be a great attraction. Indeed, it probably would surpass the Tunney-Heeney championship fight in interest. Which means in the patronage. Which to Mr. Rickard is the main consideration.

RICKARD, of course would be much delighted if Dempsey would agree to fight Sharkey. And it isn't improbable that the old Manassa Mauler will again try to show the fallacy of that old saw about them never coming back.

He Is O. K.

Here's a True Story From the Pages of Life—

Tom Smith was a likable chap, made friends wherever he went. In the business world, he had a way of greeting people and impressing them favorably.

When it came to social life, it was the same thing . . . he was a hail fellow, well met, and spent his money freely . . . all too freely for his own good and the good of those who trusted him.

It's the old, old story trying to "keep up with the Jones.'" As time went on, books of formerly friendly merchants were closed to him and the otherwise likable chap found himself in troubled circumstances.

His credit was gone, and with it the confidence of those who trusted him.

How much better would it have been to emulate his more conservative friend, Jim Jones, who always managed to live within his means, paid his bills promptly when they came due, and built up a reputation in business and among his friends that stood him in good stead.

When the time came to go into business for himself, everyone trusted him . . . from his banker to the merchant who sold him his complete stock of goods . . . received the same report on his credit rating when they inquired.

"Who, Jim Jones? Oh, Yes . . . . He's O. K."

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, May 9. (AP)—Cotton turned reactionary in today's somewhat stagnant market and although there were occasional rallies, these invariably were buffeted into lower ground with the arrival of news regarded by the trade as distinctly favorable to the crop.

The downward trend, in the main, was due to good weather conditions reported from over the belt, less favorable cables and the appearance of the weekly weather report which was less unfavorable than had been anticipated. July opened 27 points down from the previous close at 20.70, regained 20 points of the losses in a subsequent rally, but later eased off 30 points.

A slight rally near the close brought the position to 20.85 and the close was one point lower, 9 points net down for the day. The general market closed at net losses of 3 to 11 points.

First trades showed losses of 13 to 16 points, principally on the appearance of Liverpool cables that were from 3 to 6 points lower than due. The decline continued until July traded at 20.70 and October 20.51. 17 to 23 points below yesterday's close. The decline was checked on reports that the weekly weather report, when issued, would be bullish.

Prices promptly eased off with the appearance of the report showing conditions more favorable to germination of seed than expected. In this movement, July dropped to 20.63 and October 20.42, 26 to 30 points below the previous close and today's lows.

The market bulged shortly afterward on good buying by the trade and shorts covering. Contracts proved scarce and there were a few minutes of brisk bidding with both July and October recovering from 22 to 24 points of the earlier losses. July closed at 20.84, 9 points net down and October at 20.63, 5 points lower.

National Farm Policy Urged Before C-C Meet

WASHINGTON, May 9. (UP)—A plea for co-operation between industry and agriculture in the formation of a national farm policy was made today by Roy Johnson, North Dakota farmer, to the 16th annual meeting of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

"We have developed in this country a national banking policy, a national labor policy, a tariff policy in the interest of manufacturing, a military policy, and just recently a radio policy, but in the case of agriculture where a national policy has been needed for years, we still are at sea," Johnson said.

Grain

By THOMAS TEMPLE HOYNE
Universal Service.

CHICAGO, May 9.—The government crop report, eagerly awaited on the floor of the board of trade by a crowd of traders was about as expected on wheat and extremely bullish on rye.

Winter wheat acreage abandonment was placed at 25.1, leaving 35,858,000 acres to be harvested. The condition was given as 73.8 with a prospective crop of 479,086,000 bushels.

The condition of rye was given as 73.6, with a prospective crop of 39,368,000 bushels.

What influence will these figures have on the market today?

The wheat market was about 10 cents lower at the close today before the report was issued, than it was on the day the private estimates came out. Prices had broken in the last half hour dumping out longs.

At the close wheat was 1⅞ to 2⅛ lower; corn was down ¾ to 1; oats were ⅛ to ⅜ higher; rye was down 2⅝ to 3⅜.

Generally the day was rather a dull one, marked by evening up purchases and sales in preparation for action this morning on what the government report might bring forth.

Corn showed little strength during most of the session in spite of the high prices that prevailed in the cash market.

Oats were very strong. This market is sometimes a barometer worth paying at-

Approaching Merger Decision Strengthens Rail Stocks; Tight Money Losses Are Regained

—BY BROADAN WALL—
Universal Service Financial Expert

NEW YORK, May 9.—Railroads, led by New York Central, turned the market this afternoon and made up some of the average loss occasioned by continued tightness in the money market. Call money was renewed at 6 per cent, holding there throughout, as the banks called $25,000,000 more loans.

Out of town money failed to offset this calling in of accomodations altogether and quite heavy liquidation was experienced in the industrial list early in the day. Specialties, influenced by individual developments, such as Auto Lite, remained conspicuously strong while the rubber shares were the weakest as a group following intimations of tire price cuts in adding fractionally to its recovery. Wheat was depressed while cotton rallied.

With New York Central and Southern Pacific registering new highs in the advance of the transportation group conversation largely dealt with the possibilities of higher payments by both these roads. However, the main influence to the strength of the rails was report that reached the floor to the effect that the commerce commission would hand down its decision on the new Nickel Plate merger within the next ten days. While none knows how the commission will decide the first reaction was that considering the time spent in preparing the plan and the lessons learned from the turning down of the first merger presented by the Van Sweringens it was probable that the new plan would be approved. Such approval would open the way for other mergers in that it would give the railroad interests an idea of how such consolidations could be effected.

Evidence that Arthur Cutten and his associates have not abandoned the bull side of the market insofar as certain stocks are concerned was found in Chicago advice that he had taken up his option on 950,000 shares of Armour B. It was learned that his operation in the stock will be shared in by other members of the "Big Ten" and that now that the "paper" has been exercised more aggressive activity will be witnessed. This same group is interested in at least two other stocks at the present time. BEECH-NUT PACKING CO.
5 YEAR RECORD

The Beech-Nut Packing company activities consist of the curing of meat products, the preservation of fruits, the manufacture of ketchup, peanut butter, macaroni, jams, jellies, sauces, chewing gum and other products. The stockholders voted in November, 1927, to increase the authorized common stock from $7,500,000 to $8,500,000, and to sell 50,000 shares of new stock to the United Cigar Stores company of America. This agreement includes an arrangement for the sale of the company's chewing gum and other similar products, throughout the 5400 locations of the United Cigar stores. The corporation operates two plants at Canajoharie, N. Y., one at Rochester and another at Brooklyn. In the latter plant, chewing gum is manufactured. The company also owns, through its subsidiaries, a plant at San Jose, Calif., and has a power company which supplies other concerns as well as its own plants.

The company has shown a steadily expanding sales volume. In 1926 this reached a new high record of $21,820,000. Net income was highest in 1924, at $2,187,000. For the nine months ended September 30, 1927, the company earned $1,857,559 net. This was equivalent to $185.75 a share on the preferred, and $4.81 a share on the common.

There is no funded debt. Capital stock outstanding consists of $4500 in seven per cent cumulative preferred class A of $100 par, and $8,500,000 in common stock of $20 par. Steps were taken to retire the $995,500 of seven per cent class B preferred stock as of January 16, 1928.

Dividends have been paid regularly on the preferred stock and the preferred B. The final dividend on the latter, of $2.05 a share, was declared payable January 16. On the common, $2.40 a year is paid with extras. On November 12, the directors declared an extra dividend of 60 cents a share on the common.

As of September 30, 1927, total current assets were $9,320,000; current liabilities were $1,095,000, and net working capital of $8,225,000. Book value of the common stock on September 30, 1927, was $35.17 a share.

Curb

Leading Issues on New York Market

NEW YORK, May 9. (AP)—Profit taking caused heaviness of the general list on the curb market today, selling being encouraged by the 6 per cent call money rate and to some extent by apprehension over tomorrow's action by the New York Federal Reserve bank on the rediscount rate. A few industrial specialties and some utilities and motor accessory shares resisted selling, more than a dozen issues moving to new high ground.

Chain stores showed group strength, consolidated retail, grand and mercantile stores gaining 2 to 8 points. Some machine tool issues also advanced, reflecting improved trade conditions. Niles Bement Pond moved to a new top at 54½. General American Investors, McQuay Norris and Warner Gear were outstanding in the motor accessory group, the former soaring more than 15 points. General American Investors, Servel and Singer Manufacturing, Ltd., made substantial gains. Bancitaly, New Jersey Zinc, Columbia Graphophone, Marion Steam Shovel and Wheeling Steel were forced down 3 to 10 points.

Although some utilities, such as United Gas Improvement, American Gas & Electric and Electric Bond & Share sagged 3 points or more, others improved under fairly heavy demand, among them Mohawk Valley, National Electric Power A, National Public Service A and Pennsylvania Gas & Electric A.

Darby Petroleum was an outstanding strong spot among the sagging oils, touching a new top at 24. Penn. Mex. Fuel slumped 11 points.

Oil Mining Plan To Be Discussed

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 9. (UP) Plan for "mining" oil in Oklahoma will be discussed Thursday by Miller D. Hay, state mine inspector, and representatives of the Carter Oil company.

They will discuss rules and regulations in the event of the plan's adoption in the state. The process, as Hays understands it, is to sink shafts below the oil sand, run a pipeline under the sand, heat the oil by electricity, and drain it to the main shaft where it would be pumped to the surface.

It is estimated only 20 per cent of all oil discovered is now taken from the ground by present systems.

Breneke Pay Sand Given Extension

COLEMAN, May 9.—With oil frequently spouting over the tip of the mast at the W. T. Daniels et al No. 1 W. L. Moody, west of the Santa Anna townsite from two feet in the sand which was topped at 1838 feet, the Breneke horizon, formerly discovered north of Santa Anna, was given a definite two mile extension.

Gas from the sand was increasing, apparently shooting the oil possibly 30 feet above the mast. Five inch pipe has been set near the top of the sand and the well will likely be drilled deeper before a production test is available, but ventures of 200 barrels have been placed on the estimated production by numerous conservative oil men. The well is located in section 9, J. Scott survey No. 665.

A full 24-hour gauge of the Continental Oil company-M. G. Cheney F-1 Overall averaged slightly more than 20 barrels hourly for that period. A total of 498 barrels had flowed into tankage at the lease since deepening late Sunday night, until the same hour Monday night.

HANGAR WORK STARTS SOON

Muny Airport to Have Modern Building

Construction will start within a week on laying the foundations for the giant hangar of the new municipal airport, according to an announcement made Wednesday by President C. W. Cahoon. This hangar is to be the largest hangar in any municipal field in Texas and is one of the largest in the southwest.

Plans show it to be 82 feet wide, 116 feet long and 18 feet high. It will be made of corrugated steel on a concrete foundation.

Opening at both ends, this hangar will easily accomodate the largest commercial airplanes afloat in America today such as the Texas company plane and the Royal air truck, each of which has a wing spread of 74 feet.

The new specifications of the United States department of commerce for class A field hangars call for a minimum size of 80 by 100, whereas the former class A requirements were only 60 by 100.

A hangar of this kind puts Wichita Falls' new airport a step in the lead of all in Texas, and makes it possible for the biggest giants of the air to roll into shelter with the same ease an automobile rolls into its garage, the officials declare. The Braden Steel corporation of Tulsa has the contract. The administration building, for which the Northside Lumber company of Wichita Falls has the contract, is being built and will be completed soon.

County and City Officials Plan Closer Check on Hospital Affairs

The board of managers of the city and county hospital is legally appointed and as such is functioning within its rights and the law.

This was the decision reached by the Wichita county commissioners and the Wichita Falls aldermen in joint meeting in the commissioners' court room in the court house Wednesday.

The question was raised last week by E. P. Walsh, county auditor, after an exchange of letters with the attorney general at Austin.

Another joint meeting of the two bodies will be held Monday to get closer together on the working details of the hospital.

Information Desired.

Mr. Walsh told a Record News reporter Wednesday that his questioning of the management of the General hospital was an effort to get some definite method for keeping track of the finances of the institution.

On numerous occasions, Mr. Walsh said, contracts have been let for work at the hospital and for supplies without the matter being called to the attention of the county commissioners or city officials. This has left county authorities in considerable perplexity as to how to keep an account of the financial status of the institution.

Receive Old Bills.

"I'm merely trying to find out who should have the right to give contracts for the hospital and to what body creditors should look for payment," Mr. Walsh declared. "On numerous occasions, the county commissioners have received hospital bills which were many months old. On other occasions bills have been paid at the hospital without consulting the board of managers of the hospital or without advising the county commissioners."

Mr. Walshe's letters to the attorney general, he said, were written in an effort to ascertain just what body, whether the management of the hospital, the board of managers, the city council or the commissioners' court, should supervise hospital expenditures.

Dallas Firm Wins Franchise For Modern Sewer System at Turkey

Special to The Record News.

TURKEY, Texas, May 9.—The city council this week, granted a sewer franchise to M. R. Diggs and associates of Dallas, Texas, for the installation, maintaining and operation of a modern sewer system for Turkey, for a period of 50 years, costing approximately $35,000.

The engineering work will be done by C. L. Hasie of Memphis, Texas, who had the engineering contract on Turkey's modern water system, which has recently been completed.

The system is to be modern in every respect; to comply with all the requirements of the state health department and large enough to adequately serve all the residential section, as well as the business district.

Work is expected to start just as soon as the engineering work is completed and is to be completed and in operation on or about Aug. 1, 1928.

Turkey now has a modern water system, and will soon have natural gas, as a franchise has been granted the West Texas Gas company. Several blocks of paving is to be finished during the summer and with the completion of the sewer system Turkey will have all the conveniences of most any city.

Boys Booked For Battle With "B-B's"

Two white boys about 13 and 14 years of age were spending Wednesday night in the city jail after pastiming with an air gun and a negro boy target.

The body of the negro boy, police said, was covered with welts where the "B-B's" had left their trace.

The two boys told officers that they were "plugging" the negro boy because he had "chunked" rocks at them. The negro was not seriously hurt.

Welfare Leaders Vote to Continue Family Relief Association Work

The Family Relief association will not be allowed to suspend.

This was the decision of a meeting held in the chambers of the city council Wednesday afternoon by President R. E. Shepherd of the community chest, representatives of the finance committee and the chamber of commerce and the board of directors of the relief association.

The Family Relief association has spent its original base budget of $10,000 allowed for this year, and a conditional $15,000 from the funds of the community chest is not in sight because of the failure of many to pay subscriptions to the chest.

A committee composed of W. D. Cline, W. M. McGregor and John F. O'Donohoe was named to work out a plan in conjunction with the finance committee.
