MAINLY ABOUT PEOPLE

By H. N. F.

It is impossible to keep a squirrel on the ground. A wise man said it a long time ago. This reminds H. N. F. that F. E. Shoup of Dallas paid a flying visit to Wichita Falls one day this week. F. E. Shoup is the publicity manager of the Bell Telephone Company. He is a son of the old Volunteer State. His father was a distinguished educator and spiritual teacher of the people of Tennessee. Shoup was a prize winner at Suanee. Shoup is a bookman as well as a publicity manager. He came to Texas more than twenty years ago as the headmaster of a famous grammer school founded by Dean Hudson Stuck. Dean Stuck was one of the idolized pulpit orators and scholars of the southwest in those days. He gave up his flock and a very rich charge it was to spread the gospel under the northern lights; he was the first white man to make the ascent of Mount McKinley; he wrote many interesting books of the Alaskan wilds and their people and then the Lord called him away before his work had been done. F. E. Shoup in those old Dallas days, was the protege and friend of this famous scholar and eloquent preacher of the Episcopal Church. During his leisure hours when he was the headmaster of the school, Shoup conducted the book review department of the Dallas News. It was some department and it had some head. Shoup was its head. H. N. F. knows. He was the managing editor and he induced Shoup to do the weekly book reviewing. It was the first book review department and the last worthy of the name ever maintained by a Texas newspaper. It lasted two years. Shoup knew books, he had the gadfly instinct, he weilded a facile pen, he flayed without mercy books that were not worth while and he praised books that were, whether the author was known or unknown in that temple called Fame. For a number of years he has been the publicity manager for the Bell Telephone people and he is a top knotcher. There are many men who know books and yet do not know their kind. Shoup knows books, he knows men and he knows how to play the game. He was here on a business mission and Manager Kirby made the rounds with him. He is coming back next week and then some of the people will know more of Shoup than they now know. He knows all the newspaper gang worth the knowing; he knows all the politicians worth the knowing, and above and beyond all he knows his own country and its historys; his own people and their peculiarities; Shoup even knows himself and not many men know themselves. He is highly elated over the appointment of Hon. Nelson Phillips, late Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, as general attorney for the Bell Telephone Company in Texas. Shoup considers Judge Phillips the great outstanding figure of the judiciary and the law in the Southwest. A lover of books, Shoup admires a man who goes beyond the pale of the law and familiarizes himself with the literature of all the ages, both ancient and modern. Judge Phillips has the poetic as well as the judicial temperment. He is an encyclopedia of lore, acquired and invented; his writings are chaste as well as beautiful and as an orator he is both holding and pleasing. Judge Phillips is neither dogmatic, pedantic or autocratic. He is as democratic as that Cincinnatus who was called from the plow by his Roman countryman, has the grace of a Chesterfield, the eyes of a Byron and yet withall is as teacious and as unbending when it comes to what he conceives to be the fundamentals of democracy as any religious zealot that ever suffered martyrdom for conviction sake. Flowers for the living. Shoup has permission to divide this bunch with the scholarly and stately recently acquired general attorney of the Bell Telephone Company "away down here in Texas."

Two well known citizens of Fort Worth, John B. Lanerl and Arthur Dingee, made the rounds of the city that faith built and the outside country that the Lord built Tuesday. Mr. Lanerl has 3,000 acres of land in Archer County and Mr. Dingee has been his associate in a number of drilling or leases ventures in Archer County. Something always happens and their agents and drillers failed to produce results for the money that was spent in making known to the world that "the drill is the thing." These gentlemen are long time residents of Fort Worth, prominent and active workers in its commercial and civic affairs, and Mr. Lanerl is one of its wealthiest men. He is a scholarly as well as courtly son of Italy who came to America after his college days were ended, and became an adopted citizen of Texas. Mr. Dingee is Canadian born and there are no more patriotic men or progressive men to be found in the Lone Star State than these two Panther-villians who were born under alien flags. H. N. F. knows whereof he speaks. There is no man in Fort Worth who makes larger gifts in the name of charity than John B. Lanerl and he never employs a press agent or advertises his deeds of kindness from the house tops and Arthur Dingee is a man of the same generous type. In the name of his departed wife who died some three years ago, John B. Lanerl recently threw open the doors of the Lanerl Vocational College or school for deserving boys and girls in the city of Fort Worth. He is a devout churchman but this Lanerl school is open to boys and girls of all creeds or no creeds who are ambitious to obtain an education in order to be properly or better equipped to face the stern battle of life. It is for those who are poor in pocket, who are without wealth or powerful

"FATTY" FAILS TO WEAKEN IN FACE OF FOES

All Testimony in Arbuckle Trial Is Expected to Be Completed Within Few Hours Today.

Big Guns of Opposing Forces Are Ready for Fight at Close Range Before the Jury Box.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 30.—The prosecution in the case of Roscoe Arbuckle, accused of manslaughter in connection with the death of Virginia Rappe, closed today but made reservations whih may lead to an extension of testimony for several hours tomorrow. The prosecution attorneys said they might wish to question two physicians and to introduce other evidence, all in rebuttal. The defense attorneys said they reserved the right to offer evidence to controvert anything new brought out, but that otherwise their case was closed.

Both sides agreed, however, that anything further adduced from witness would not require more than tomorrow's morning session for presentation. Attorneys also agreed on four hours for arguments for each side, so that it appeared the jury might have the issue in its hands by Friday afternoon.

Threats of perjury for Mrs. Minnie Neighbors, a defense witness, revived an otherwise slackening public interest in the trial and corridors and courtroom were crowded again today. However, the tenseness notable when Arbuckle was testifying Monday was absent.

Mrs. Neighbors' testimony that Miss Rappe was at a health resort in Ventura county last August was answered by that of Mrs. Mary Poulin, hostess at the resort, that there was no record of Miss Rappe's purported visit. The perjury charge followed. The defense today offered testimony by an employe of the resort who said she had seen Miss Rappe there.

The prosecution announced that it had the testimony of Mrs. Irene Morgan, a British war nurse, and defense witness, under close examination to determine on its accuracy but that no charge was contemplated.

Mrs. Josephine Hardebeck, housekeeper for Miss Rappe, and Mrs. Minnie Buck, practical nurse, and others, all from Los Angeles, testified that they had known Miss Rappe for varying periods and that her health appeared good at all times.

That testimony was offered to offset defense evidence that Miss Rappe's fatal injury was the climax of a chronic condition of long standing and was not caused by external force applied by Arbuckle as alleged by the prosecution.

A leading witness today was Dr. Rufus L. Rigdon of San Francisco, who was called to rebut defense evidence that bladder injuries of the sort which resulted in the death of Miss Rappe could be caused by agencies other than external force. Dr. Rigdon testified that he knew of no case where such injury was purely internal or spontaneous in character.

Even a bladder which became gradually over-distended would not rupture, he said, as other organs would be affected before such a rupture occurred.

Tomorrow there will be introduced the report of a medical commission of three which was named to determine whether Miss Rappe's bladder was healthy at the time she is alleged to have been injured. One of the experts was appointed by the court and the other by prosecution and defense.

Arbuckle displayed relief today. He smiled widely at adjournment and seemed to take the day's developments as being favorable to him.

District Attorney Brady announced that Leo Friedman, an assistant who has examined many of the witnesses, would make the first argument for the prosecution. The defense offered to submit the case without argument, but the prosecution declined.

FOUR FLYERS KILLED WHEN PLANES CRASH

Army Machines Collide in Midair and Bodies Are Charred Beyond Recognition by Flames.

By Associated Press.

LAWTON, Okla., Nov. 30.—Four army aviators, two of whom were officers and two were privates, were killed this afternoon when the two airplanes in which they were practicing combat duty collided while at an altitude of 2,000 feet and crashed to earth a half mile east of Post Field, Fort Sill, Oklahoma.

Those dead:

Captain Loomis.
Lieutenant A. T. Lanfall.
Private Hubbard.
Private B. A. Smith.

As the planes struck the earth, their gasoline tanks exploded, enveloping the wreckage in flames. Trucks and ambulances were rushed to the scene but attendants were unable to reach the bodies of the men until after they had been charred beyond recognition.

According to officers who were witnessing the practice, the two machines had been in the air for some time when they attempted to execute a difficult maneuver. As they swooped toward each other, their wings met and both planes fell to earth in a helpless tangle.

The charred bodies were taken in charge by army authorities and carried to Post Field.

Transit Heads Summoned to Court in N. Y.

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—The state transit commission showed its teeth today and sent process servers in search of seven recalcitrant directors of the Interborough Rapid Transit company who had declined to testify voluntarily concerning the company's financial transactions from 1917 to 1919.

Subpoenas were served later in the day on August Belmont, chairman of the board who was to have been the first witness today; Cornelius Vanderbilt, Edward J. Berwind, and Morgan J. O'Brien.

James L. Quackenbush, general counsel for the Interborough said tonight that he had made arrangements for the acceptance of the subpoenaes by these four and that they would appear before the commission tomorrow morning. He explained that of the three others subpoenaed, Thomas DeWitt Cuyler and F. Dewrcey Sullivan were out of town and Daniel G. Reid, who was not now director, was ill.

INTERESTING TEST OF COTTON PICKER TO BE MADE HERE

Another experiment in cotton picking with the Price-Campbell cotton picker under different conditions than heretofore will be made at a farm near the intersection of the Call Field and Lake roads at 3:00 o'clock p. m., Friday, December 2.

A row of cotton has been left in the field until the leaves have become dried and withered and the test will be to see if the mechanical picker will get all of the cotton under such conditions.

The picker has been tested under all manner of conditions in picking green cotton, it has even been tested in sending flowers through the picking mechanim to show that the apparatus will not harm any part of a plant although no cotton escapes.

A number of people outside of Wichita Falls have been invited to witness the experiment next Friday. All of our people are invited. Wichita Falls is to have the honor of being the manufacturing place of the first mechanical cotton picker and the name of our city will in a few years, on this account, be known in all parts of the world where cotton grows.

CHARITY QUOTA LACKS $4000 OF FULL SUM

Expected That Entire Budget Will Be Realized in Cleanup Campaign to Last Remainder of Week.

With $4,000 yet to be obtained to make up the budget for Wichita Falls charitable institutions for the coming year at the end of two days of the "give but once drive" preparations were made at the campaign dinner held last night for the clean-up campaign to go the rest of the week and which is expected to furnish the remainder of the quota.

With the subscriptions of people who have been missed the first days and which are expected to be secured as a result of the clean up drive, with the subscriptions of those who are out of the city, and with those by branch offices of business houses here whose subscriptions have to be approved by head offices, it is expected that the full quota will be obtained.

As a means of introducing a sporting rivalry among the workers in this clean up campaign four prizes were announced for competition Wednesday night, ranging in value from a suit of clothes to two high grade hats.

These prizes are to be given to the four workers participating in the first two days work who by Saturday night secures the largest amount of subscriptions. The special committee headed by W. M. Priddy, and the industrial committee of J. C. Mytinger and T. B. Smock are barred from this competition. The suit of clothes, given jointly by the P. B. M. Co., Perkins-Timberlake, Anderson's and the Chamber of Commerce, constitutes the first prize. A pair of high grade shoes given by Billy Richardson is second prize, and hats given by McClurkan's and the Haberdashery are third and fourth, respectively.

An additional $10,233 was reported by workers as a result of Wednesday's work, making the total secured $31,545.

Two new leaders appeared among the teams Wednesday, those captained by R. E. Shepherd and C. C. Eck-

Divorce Courts Indicate One of Three Marriages Prove Failure

Approximately one out of three marriages in Wichita county during the last year are failures, according to information Wednesday from the offices of the district clerk and county clerk for the fiscal year of the county which ended Wednesday night.

A total of 1090 marriage licenses were issued during the year or an average of three a day. During the same period approximately 375 divorce suits were filed in the three district courts during the same period. Many of the marriage licenses were issued to out of county and state residents and this number would be subtracted from the total in determining the exact ratio for divorce and marriage in the county.

Comparative figures during last year have always shown the county [illegible] high in state and [illegible] of divorces

SHANTUNG ROW IS INTRODUCED AT CONFERENCE

Japan and China Accept Offer of U. S. and England to Attempt Mediation in Controversy.

Hughes and Balfour Arrange Meeting With Far Eastern Delegates to Outline Negotiations.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—Bringing with it some of the sharpest issues of world diplomacy, the celebrated Shantung controversy took its place today at the arms conference.

The result was an offer by the United States and Great Britain, accepted promptly by Japan and China, to assume the role friendly advisers in a new attempt to solve the problem and end the long and bitter debate that has swept over three continents.

The plan for an exercise of American and British "good offices" is understood to have originated with the American delegation after it became apparent that China had resolved to raise the question in the conference proper.

Secretary Hughes and Arthur Balfour, as respective heads of the American and British groups will meet tomorrow with the Japanese and Chinese to lay the basis for the negotiations.

TEXAS SOON TO BE REPUBLICAN, SAYS CREAGER

By Associated Press.

DALLAS, Nov. 30.—Plans are now being perfected that will put Texas in the republican column within six years.

R. B. Creager of Brownsville, chairman of the republican state executive committee, told a meeting of 250 representative republicans here today. There is not a state in the union which needs a change in political control more than Texas, he declared.

"The republican party in Texas is henceforth going to be a white man's party," Mr. Creager said. "Neither the republican nor any other party can work successfully with any other than white leadership."

Mr. Creager told of work that is being done to extend the organization of the party in Texas, saying twenty counties have been organized since September 1 and that only thirty-eight counties in the state remain unorganized. More than $60,000 of the $100,000 fund which it is proposed to raise to carry on the work has been obtained, he reported.

PRYOR LOSES LAST CHANCE OF RECOURSE

By Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Texas, Nov. 30.—The supreme court today denied the application of W. G. Pryor, suspended prison commissioner, for permission to file a petition for a writ of mandamus seeking to regain his office from which he was suspended by order of Judge Cooper Sansom of the 26th district court located in Austin.

The court rendered no opinion in the case.

Pryor was seeking reinstatement as commissioner and also to prevent his successor, Walker Sayles, from fulfilling the duties of the office. Mr. Sayles was appointed by Judge Sansom to serve during Pryor's suspension. This action of the court is final and means that Pryor has no recourse through the supreme court.

Pryor was suspended from office by Judge Sansom under provisions of a law enacted at the last session of the legislature. Proceedings against him were brought by the attorney general's department at the direction of Governor Neff after he had refused to resign. The law provided for his suspension until final judgment of the charges brought against him.

IRELAND TRUE TO PRINCIPLES, SAYS EAMONN DE VALERA

ENNIS, Ireland, Nov. 30.—Eamonn DeValera today delivered an address in the town hall here in which he declared if peace in Ireland was not brought about it would not be because "there is not the will on the part of Ireland to make it, but because those opposed to us in Ireland do not want to make peace with us."

"I may tell you," Mr. DeValera continued, "that we stand today no matter what other people say, exactly where we stood, and for the principles for which we stood, four years ago. We have gone so far as we can go consistent [illegible] those principles, for peace; [illegible] and [illegible] not go any further [illegible] it would be [illegible] principles which [illegible] generation [illegible] six [illegible]."

NAVAL EXPERTS FAIL TO SOLVE RATIO PROBLEM

Insistence of Japs Upon Different Method of Calculation Results in Question Being Turned Back to Plenary Delegates for Settlement.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—Experts of the "Big Three" naval powers agreed today that they could not reach an accord on the base of calculation to be used in measuring Japan's existing relative naval strngth. They gave up the task and turned the problem back to their respective delegations to the arms conference. Upon its solution hangs the fundamental principle of the American naval limitation proposal, the "5-5-3" capital ship ratio.

The experts were subtantially in agreement as to the accuracy of estimates of naval strength of each power originally submitted by the American conference group if the American plan of including all ships actually under construction in arriving at the ratio was followed. The Japanese experts, however, insisted to the last that this was not the proper basis of calculation, proposing instead to disregard all ships now building by either power in determining relative naval strength.

The plenary delegates of the two powers will continue the discussion from this point, illuminated by such light as the studies of the experts have been able to throw on the technical questions involved.

The additional figures on the ratio question presented today by the Japanese experts threw no new light on the situation. It was understood that they merely went over again the arguments previously advanced to support the claims for a Japanese ratio of 70 per cent and still contended that the 15 American ships in process of construction and the money expended on them should not be included in the calculation of the relative naval strength of the two powers. This viewpoint has been authoritatively rejected by the American delegation.

In the course of the discussion among the experts, it was learned a disposition to accept retention by Japan of the battleship Mutsu if that would insure acceptance by Japan of the "5-5-3" ratio has been shown by the American experts. Coupled with the suggestion from the Japanese that they retain the Mutsu, however, always has been the condition that the United States should scrap three ships of equal power which are practically as far advanced as the Mutsu toward completion.

The Japanese have insisted, it is understood that the Mutsu be rated as a completed ship. There is no definite information available in Washington, however, that the ship is even today actually in commission as the Japanese experts would have her regarded.

CONVENTION OF BAPTISTS OPENS TODAY

"Integrity of Divinely Inspired Bible," Basis of Pre-Convention Report.

By Associated Press.

DALLAS, Nov. 30—Uncompromising opposition to the teachings of Darwinian evoluition, the substitution of "social service" for "regeneration, rationalism and destructive criticism" and as strong affirmation of belief in the "divine inspiration and integrity of the holy scriptures" were declared in the unanimous adoption of a report presented to the pastors and laymen's conference of Texas Baptist churches here today. The report was prepared by a committee of ministers, laymen and educators and will be presented at the annual Texas Baptist convention which opens here tomorrow.

She decried the custom of 'Many mothers in allowing their children to jazz all night and ride around all day" calling upon them to take a better hold upon their households and to unite the whole family in carrying out the program of the campaign.

PROHIBITION PARTY TO "STAND PAT" ON PRESENT POLICIES

CHICAGO, Nov. 30.—The prohibition party will continue to work as a political party along the same lines as in the past, its national committee decided here today.

Sentiment was against changing the party's name and enlarging its major issues or for winding up its affairs in behalf that its work was done. At the close of the two day meeting, even the suggestion that the party might quit if the Republican or Democratice party took up prohibition and its enforcement was rejected. After deciding to stand pat, the committee voted for deportation of aliens convicted of violation of the prohibition laws and disfranchisement of citizens for the same offense.

FEDERAL AID ACCORDED FOR BURK HIGHWAY

Notice of an appropriation of $100,000 federal aid for the construction of the Burkburnett concrete road was received Wednesday by Judge J. P. Jones of the county court from the state highway department. Announcement of the appropriation has been expected since the federal bill appropriating $75,000,000 for aid was passed.

The appropriation makes a total of $150,000 in outside aid that the county is assured in the construction of the Burkburnett road. The amount represents a little less than a third the total cost.

DENVER ROAD GETS WATER AT HENRIETTA

Starting Thursday the Fort Worth and Denver railroad will commence using the old city water supply at Henrietta, consisting of four deep water wells with a total capacity of 50,000 gallons daily, according to an announcement Wednesday morning that the railroad company has entered into a 12-months contract with that city. The pumps will be started Thursday putting water in the railroad tank at Henrietta, which has been nearly dry for some time and which railroad officials feared will not be sufficient during the winter for notmal use.

It has been known that the railroad company has been trying to secure the old city supply at Henrietta for some time, on account of the continued drouth and scarcity of water all along the Denver, butthe news that a contract had been signed was not given out until Wednesday morning.

For some time the Fort Worth and Denver railroad has been one of the largest individual users of the local city water supply, they having secured the consent of the water company to load tanks to replenish dried up ponds on the line between here and Childress. The practice was started a short time past of hitching an extra tank car to t e tender of freight locomotives to enable these trains to make their runs without having to load up at the railroad tanks along the line.

The city of Henrietta has not been using the old wells for nearly a year.

The lease is to run a year and the railroad company is to pay for the water as used. In case abundant rains fall during the year, the contract calls for payment only during the period the wells are hooked up to the railroad tank.

TWO ARRESTED AS RESULT OF RECENT HOLDUP

G. G. Darnell and Leon F. Oats, two youths of this city are lodged at the county jail charged with assault with intent to rob and assault with prohibited weapon in connection with the Monday night holdup of Mrs. Grace Higgins, Miss June Covey and Mrs. C. A. Stuckey. The arrests were made Wednesday after a two-day investigation by the district and county attorney's offfice assisted by county and police officers.

The men are said to have been partially identified by two of the women as being two of the three men who stopped their car in the residential district and after approaching them with revolvers in their hands allowed them to go without robbing them, apparently having made a mistake in the car they intended to stop.

A Ford automobile figured in the arrest of the two men. One of the women noted the number of the car that stopped them and the car seized by the officers in connection with the arrest of the two men is said to have had the same number.

The two men stoutly denied their guilt and said that they would be able to establish an alibi. A third party who was arrested Tuesday by the officers in connection with the alleged holdup was released Wednesday. He was also partially identified by two of the women but Wednesday they stated positively that he was not one of the three men.

JACK SANKEY IS FOUND DEAD IN FT. WORTH

By Associated Press.

FORT WORTH, Nov. 30.—Jack Sankey, prominent oil man, formerly of Tulsa, Okla., and Los Angeles, was found dead in his apartment at a local hotel here this morning. Police said he had killed himself by shooting. He was one of the successful operators in the west Texas oil fields.

The oil man, who was president of one company and big stockholder in one other, had returned to his rooms on the second floor of the hotel at 9 o'clock. A service car driver, who had brought him to the hotel, notified a friend that Sankey had carried a revolver to his rooms. They rushed to the apartment, broke in and found Sankey on the floor dead. He had been shot through the heart.

Sankey was 42 years of age and came to Texas in 1918, when the Ranger Eastland and Desdemona districts were starting on their boom. He was then a member of the firm of Skelley-Sankey. Later this firm was dissolved and Sankey became president of the Sankey Oil company. Friends can assign no reason for his act.

friends, and it should become one of the notable institutions of the Panther City.

Pennsylvania and Texas are not far apart. Pennsylvania is the mother of the petroleum states and Texas bids fair to become the great father of all petroleum states and countries. A geologist from Pennsylvania uncovered the first petroleum prospects in Nacogdoches County many years ago and in that section the first well was brought in. Another Pennsylvanian, J. S. Cullinan, now an honored citizen of Texas, was largely responsible for the early development of the Navarro fields. And Pennsylvanians have been in evidence in Texas ever since. Knox Finley brought eighty-six of the officers and stockholders of the Keystone-Ranger Development Company from Pittsburg to Wichita Falls, not to spy out the lands, but to inspect their own holdings and get a personal viewpoint of Texas and its possibilities. These sons of the land of William Penn had a busy as well as a merry day in the city that faith built and in the country just outside of it. They were dined but not wined. Even Pennsylvanians are compelled to carry their liquid assets with them when they visit this or any other American state. They visited Burkburnett. They visited the refinery of the company. They motored over the fields. They returned to the city of Wichita Falls. They were dined again and flooded with oratorical bouquets, both of the native and the imported variety, and long before their train pulled out for Dallas to a man, yea to a woman, they said that Wichita Falls had a brand of hospitality all its own and was the most modern as well as the most beautiful city they had found on their travels since leaving that smokey, manufacturing mart called Pittsburg. "What's in a name?" A lot. Al Sunshine is a director of the company and in charge of the movement of the special train. He lives up to his name. It was not his first trip to Texas or Oklahoma. He knows the country and he advises all young men in that commonwealth which acknowledges Boss Penrose as its political dictator to come to Texas and fix themselves to some of the millions of opportunities that spring up on every hand. J. E. Browne, the general field manager of the Keystone-Ranger Development and Refining Company, "is no stranger in these parts." Mr. Browne had his baptism in oil when Spindletop gushed years ago. And he has been playing the game ever since. "BLUEBEARD" SENTENCED TO DEATH BY GUILLOTINE ROUTE

Henri Landru and his eleventh wife who stood by him during his trial.

By Associated Press.

VERSAILLES, Nov. 30.—Henri Landru, who has been on trial, for more than three weeks in the assizes court here, charged with the murder of ten women and a boy, was found guilty of murder in the first degree tonight.

Landru was sentenced to die by the guillotine.

M. Moro-Giafferi, counsel for the defense in a plea, finished his summing up this afternoon, after which Judge Gilbert read forty-eight questions to the jury. The first was whether Landru was guilty of murder with premeditation in the case of Mme. Cochet. Questions also were put as to the mental condition of the prisoner.

M. Moro-Giafferi in his address cast doubt on all evidence produced by the prosecution. He reminded the jury that a person could be proclaimed legally dead only when they had been missing thirty years.

"A white slaver, yet; an assassin never," exclaimed M. Boro-Giafferi, pointing toward Landru. He added that the possession by the prisoner of papers identifying his alleged victims corroborated the theory that Landru probably had sentt he women abroad with false papers in "white slave" traffic.

"These women are all alive," said the counsel, referring to the ten women Landru was charged with killing, "but they are ashamed to make their whereabouts known. Make a thorough search of the United States and Brazil, Argentina and other South American countires and I am confident you will find Landru's so-called victims."

"I am innocent," Landru shouted to the jury. This was the first time in thirty-two months since he was arrested that the prisoner has used the word "innocent" in public.

During the short address he made to the jury lasting only a minute and a half Landru declared:

"I have never killed any one. I am innocent. Jurors do your duty."

Warns Speeders To Appear in Police Court

Small chance for a light fine is in store for those who fail to answer summons issued from police headquarters on charges of traffic violations, according to the announcement Wednesday of John Thomason, deputy city clerk.

Automobile owners when stopped by traffic policemen on charges of traffic violations are given notices demanding their appearance at the city hall. A number of men and women, according to Thomason have been failing to answer in the prescribed time and will be rearrested and accompanied to the station, unless they appear in the very near future.

REPORT STANDARD OIL HAS RECEIVED GRANTS IN PERSIA

LONDON, Nov. 30—A dispatch to the London Times from Basra, Asiatic Turkey, dated Friday, says that the Times of Mesopotamia understands from a reliable source that oil concessions in Northern Persia have been granted the Standard Oil company for fifty years. The newspaper adds that it is reported the Persian government will receive 12 per cent of the gross profits.

A few days before the opening of the Washington conference the London Times published an editorial declaring that one of the obstacles to a final and satisfactory agreement was the conflict of British and American oil interests. The Anglo-Persian Oil company was mentioned particularly in the editorial. The British companies have led in the Persian fields.

"It may fairly be advanced," said the editorial, "that if Great Britain is not prepared to make concessions on this vital question the conference is likely to break down."

The editorial advocated abandonment by the British government of its "present policy of participation in oil production and supply," and added that if the government "renounces its control of the Anglo-Persian Oil company and produces evidence of its complete dissociation from active participation in the oil industry, it can justly demand, whether in California or the Philippines, continuance of America's old and sound policy of 'the open door'."

It was also asserted in the editorial that the Shell-Royal Dutch group "carry that taint of British government participation."

A month ago the Standard Oil company of New Jersey and its French subsidiary, the Standard Franco-American Oil company, received the grant of the exclusive right to bore for oil in Czecho-Slovakia, a privilege also sought by the Royal Dutch group.

The competition for fields has been going on for months in Persia, Mesopotamia, Azerbaijan and Armenia, as well as other parts of the world, and American oil men have been making frequent trips to Europe. A. C. Bedford, chairman of the board of the Standard Oil company of New Jersey, is abroad now on business. The president of the company, W. C. Teagle, is also reported absent on an inspection of American properties.

CLINE TO SPEAK ON KEMP DAY

Mayor W. D. Cline has accepted the invitation of the Kiwanis club to make the official speech at the clubs "Kemp Day," December 12, honoring the father of the irrigation propect, according to Ben Neal, secretary of the club.

Plans for a fitting observance of the day are being perfected by a committee consisting of W. S. Curlee, Albert Ellis, Julian Bobo, J. W. Akin and Mr. Neal.

The credit for "stealing a march," as it were, on the rest of the Wichita Falls organizations is said to be due to W. S. Curlee, because it was he who brought to the attention of the directors the appropriateness of such a celebration.

ODD FELLOWS ARE ACTIVE

A number of local Odd Fellows attended work in the encampment and Canton degrees at Electra Wednesday evening. Members of the local I. O. O. A large attendance both from the local lodge and from the lodges of surrounding towns is expected at this session.

Plans for entertainment of Mr. Howell are under way, but have not been announced.

It had been her contention that she is still the wife of Mr. Gould on the ground that the decree of the French court was not operative in the United States.

Justice Guy said that the question was of so novel character that he would grant a reasonable allowance for purposes of appeal.

The Hudson Bay Company had discovered its headwaters in Canada; but the two bits of information were not pieced together. The existence of the river as a stream of great magnitud and length first became really known through the daring and romantic project of installing land telegraph wires between America and Europe across Alaska, Behring Strait and the wastes of Siberia. Robert Kennicott, in connection with this enterprise, blazed the Yukon trail by descending the river in 1865. The first trading steamer ascended the stream in 1869. The Yukon really came into its own with the discovery of gold in the Klondike in 1896.

The Yukon is not alone in being a great river that remained in comparative obscurity because of its far northern situation. Just to the east the Mackenzie—a stream of hardly less magnitude—which is now also beginning to feel the throttling grip of frost, flowed almost unnoticed through a little-known wilderness until the discovery of oil along its banks brought it into the lime light. And in the eastern hemisphere three rivers, worthy to be classed among the mightiest streams of the earth—the Ob, the Yenisei and the Lena—pour hundreds of thousands of gallons of water into the Arctic each second in a mighty but losing battle against the congealing power of cold.

CHATTERER IS PUT IN PRISON

Who ever does a deed that's wrong
Will surely find some day
That for that naughty act of his
He'll surely have to pay.

That was the way with Chatterer the Red Squirrel. Of course he had no business to steal corn from Farmer Brown's corn crib. To be sure he had just as much right to that corn as Farmer Brown had. You see the little people of the Green Meadows and the Green Forest feel that everything that grows belongs to them if they want it and are smart enough to get it before some one else does. But it is just there that Chatterer went wrong. Farmer Brown had harvested that corn and stored it in his corn-crib and so, of course, no one else had any right to it. Right down deep in his heart Chatterer knew this. If he hadn't known it he wouldn't have been so sly in taking what he wanted. He knew all the time that he was stealing, but he tried to make himself believe that it was all right. So he had kept on stealing and stealing until at last he was caught in a trap, and now he had got to pay for his wrongdoing.

Chatterer was very miserable, so miserable and frightened that he could do nothing but sit huddled up in a little shivery ball. He hadn't the least doubt in the world that this was his very last day and that Farmer Brown's boy would turn him over to cruel Black Pussy for her breakfast. Farmer Brown's boy had left him in the trap in the house and had gone out. For a long time Chatterer could hear pounding out in the woodshed and Farmer Brown's boy whistling as he pounded. Chatterer wondered how he could whistle and seem so happy when he meant to do such a dreadful thing as to give him to Black Pussy. After what seemed a very long time, ages and ages, Farmer Brown's boy came back. He had with him a queer looking box.

"There," he said, "is a new home for you, you little red imp! I guess it will keep you out of trouble for a while."

He slid back a little door in the top of the box. Then he put on a stout glove and opening a little door in the trap he put in his big hand and closed it around Chatterer. Poor little Chatterer! He was sure now that this was the end, and that he was to be given to Black Pussy, who was looking on with hungry yellow eyes. He struggled and did his best to bite, but the thick glove gave his sharp little teeth no chance to hurt the hand that held him. Even in his terror he noticed that that big hand tried to be gentle and squeezed him no tighter than was necessary. Then he was lifted out of the trap and dropped through the little doorway in the top of the queer box and the door was fastened. Nothing terible had happened after all.

At first Chatterer just sulked in one corner. He still felt sure that something terrible was going to happen. Farmer Brown's boy took the box out into the shed and put it where the sun shone into it. For a little while he stayed watching, but Chatterer still sulked and sulked. By and by he went away, taking Black Pussy with him, and Chatterer was alone.

When he was quite sure that no one was about Chatterer began to wonder what sort of a place he was in and if there wasn't some way to get out. He found that one side and the top were of fine stout wire through which he could look out and that the other sides and bottom were of wood covered with wire, so that there was no chance for his sharp teeth to knaw a way out. In one corner was a stout piece of an apple tree, with two little stubby branches to sit on, and half way up a little round hole. Very cautiously Chatterer peeped inside the hole. Inside was a splendid hollow. On the floor of the box was a little heap of shavings and bits of rag. And there was a little pile of yellow corn. How Chatterer did hate the sight of that corn! You see, it was corn that had got him into all this trouble. At least that is the way Chatterer felt about it. When he had examined everything he knew that there was no way out, Chatterer was in a prison, though that is not what Farmer Brown's boy called it. He said it was a cage.

Rippling Rhymes

THE GOOD EXAMPLE

Ex-Kaiser Bill has stacks of wood, with royal hands he sawed it, and wise men find his conduct good, and roundly they applaud it. He labors, labors every day, his bones and sinews wrenching; he's fired his gardener they say, to do some more retrenching. And now with his own princely hands he'll ply the hoe and shovel, and cultivate the fertile lands around his Holland hovel. "That it's a time to cut expense," he says, "is plain to thinkers"; and he repairs the garden fence and carries out the clinkers. "It's no use hiring heedless men," he says; "I'll do my duty"; and so he cleans the porkers' pen, and cranks the motor tooty. Whene'er we hear of exiled Bill he's doing something useful, he nails a board or saws a sill, or rears a pumpkin juice-ful. I used to hate his very name when he was wildly reigning, and putting up his war lord game, all helpful tasks disdaining. But when the kaiser had to quit, and fold his spangled banner, he took his soup, we must admit, in quite a dead game manner. He might be groucling all the time, invoking Mike and Peter, and mourning pomp and state sublime from which he had to teeter. But since he lost his thorne and crown he's set a fine example, and he has held his sawbuck down with resolution ample. He piles the stovewood rank on rank, and when he has a penny he puts it in the savings bank, to shame the thriftless many.—Copyright by George Matthew Adams.

If You Hold Office
By H. ADDINGTON BRUCE

Author of "The Riddle of Personality," "Self-Development," Etc.
(Copyright, 1921, by The Associated Newspapers.)

If you who read these lines happen to hold public office of any sort, there is a question I should like to put to you:

Do you, in performing the duties of your office, keep ever in mind the fact that you are morally as much obligated to perform those duties to the best of your ability, as you would be if trying to hold a position in private employment?

This question, I hope, you can honestly answer in the affirmative. Certainly there are far too many office-holders who cannot.

Many behave as though the office they have gained is a heaven wherein to idle away their time. They perhaps exert themselves prodigiously to gain it, but thereafter exertion and they are strangers.

Many others, though by no means idling, are far from giving to the tasks and problems of their office the thought they ought to give.

Routine has full possession of them. They move not merely slowly but automatically. And, in their philosophy, what cannot be leisurely finished one day may well go over to the next.

This sort of office-holding—as well as the office-holding of the sheer idlers—is unfair in the extreme to the office-holders' employes—the taxpaying public. If the latter endure it, [illegible] because they do not com- [illegible] the idling or shirking of- [illegible] range, as a pol- [illegible] shirkers do not appreciate this, it is extremely injurious to themselves.

It certainly unfits them for "making good" in private employment, should some political overturn deprive them of an official post. And even if they pass unscathed through political upheavals, their undesirable working habits react upon them none the less harmfully.

For, if only because they have no interest whatever in their work, because they do not look upon it as giving them opportunity for creative self-expression and for rendering service useful to their fellows, that work soon or late becomes drudgery to them. And when work becomes drudgery, life becomes a state of chronic dissatisfaction.

When this results, other evils result also. So close is the connection between mental attitudes and bodily conditions that the former, according to their character, always influence the latter favorably or unfavorably. Dissatisfaction, especially if chronic, means an unfavorable influence so potent that it may give rise to outright disease.

Take this to heart if candor should compel you to confess yourself an office-holder of inert or semi-inert type. Wake up to the folly as well as the dishonesty of your ways. For they are both foolish and dishonest. Do not try to deceive yourself as to that.

And some day, if you do not shift to more energetic, more efficient action, a penalty may be imposed that will surprise as much as it pains you.

WHAT DISARMAMENT MAY DO TO THE NATIONAL AIRS

"The Star-Spangled Banner."

On the shore dimly seen through the mists of the deep,
Where the foe's haughty host in deep silence reposes,
You can see all the soldiers quite soundly asleep,
For they've nothing to fight with, inspection discloses,
Not a sound can be heard save the terrible snores
Which an army gives vent to when through with all wars,
O, the Star-Spangled Banner, O, long may it wave
O'er the land where no weapons are sold to the brave.

And where is that band who so vauntingly swore
That the havoc of war and the battle's confusion
Would bother us?.....Say, don't they know that the door
Has been closed upon war as a bum institution?
Don't they know that no nation possesses a gun—
That the war cry of all now is "Don't we have fun?"—
That the Star-Spangled Banner now peacefully waves
O'er the land of the "Yanks" and the home of the "Braves"?

Oh, thus be it ever, as freemen we stand,
With nothing to fear but the high cost of living,
Oh, this is the life, boys, so peaceful and grand,
Let us play Put and Take, with less taking than giving.
And this be our motto: "No Fighting Today!"
Let us go to the park, there to gambol and play.
And the Star-Spangled Banner forever shall wave
Where "No Shooting" signs hang o'er the homes of the brave.

"Marching Through Georgia"

Bring the good old bugle, boys, we'll start another song—
We have to sing because we brought no armaments along;
Our singing, well, it's punishment enough for any throng
As we go marching through Georgia.

Hurrah! Hurrah! We bring the jubilee!
Hurrah! Hurrah We're on a vocal spree!
We'll fight the foe with music from Atlanta to the sea
As we go warbling through Georgia.

British National Anthem

God save our gracious king,
Sweet, kind, and everything,
Jolly old thing,
Isn't it glorious—
No fights to worry us?
There's now no fight or fuss
Saving a king.

HOME NURSING and HEALTH HINTS
By M. JESSIE LEITCH

HOW A SCORNED LESSON HELPED

Marjory Lane was making the beds one morning in the prim, grim old house at the end of the town when her aunt fell down stairs.

There was no one in the house but Marjory and her aunt, and the poor old black cat that had had rheumatism ever since Majory could remember.

And Marjory, flying down the stairs to find her aunt in a huddle of black and lilac calico at the foot of the stairs, with one arm under her and a little trickle of red at the corner of her mouth, was thoroughly frightened for the first time in her life.

What to do! That was the thing! Something told the young girl that she must get those twisted limbs straightened out, and her face whitened when she heard the grating of bone fragments in her aunt's limp, queer-looking arm, as she moved it ever so gently from beneath her body.

No Other Bones Broken

Then her legs. They were not broken, Marjory knew, for they had none of that sickening limpness—there was no grating sound.

The blood at the corner of her lips—what was it one did? Marjory, half crying, struggling with the desire to scream, hurried to the kitchen, poured water into a basin, got old muslin, and hurried back to bathe the poor white face.

It was only a cut, and not deep. Marjory breather her relief, but looked swollen and out of shape. Her was turning reddish-purple. It looked swollen and out of shape. Her aunt, attempting to move it, moaned.

"If it's painful and discolored, and you can hear that grating sound, it's a fracture, for the ends of the broken bones move against each other and cause that horrid grating." Marjory heard the words hammering themselves over and over in her brain. She must have heard them—where was it—at school? It must have been at school, during those lessons to which she had paid only half-hearted attention because it sounded so foolish to study about first aid with history and botany and grammar.

Marjory Had Taken Notes

How she wished she had listened properly, had taken notes! But she had taken notes.

And with a glad cry the girl ran for her notebook, turned to the scorned lesson, put the book down on the floor and did what it said to do.

"Keep the broken bone perfectly quiet on a flat, hard surface. Cover with ice compresses or cloths wrung from ice water. This contracts the blood vessels and prevents further swelling and discoloration. Bandage to an improvised splint, to lessen the suffering of the patient, because, however still the patient may try to keep the injured limb, little nerve impulses, caused by the irritation of the injury, will cause painful muscular contractions."

Wins Her Aunt's Approval

Slipping a cushion under her aunt's head and covering her with a shawl, the girl brought a knife board from the kitchen, the only straight, flat surface she could find, and managed to lift her aunt's injured arm, slipping the board under the break. She pulled the ribbons from her two golden braids and secured the splint, tying the ribbon round the arm and the board above and below the break. It was the best thing to do. Then she brought ice-cold cloths and put them gently on the painful arm.

When the doctor came, at last, his praise of her scorned first aid work caused the girl to flush with happiness. And for the first time in her life she saw approval on her aunt's hard face.

HUMAN NATURE AGAIN
By DR. FRANK CRANE

(Copyright, 1921, by Frank Crane.)

In thinking about disarmament we should constantantly attack the argument that in order to get it we must change human nature.

This is a much reiterated delusion.

Disarmament is not at all a moral question nor a matter of altering the nature of human beings.

It is simply and purely a question of management.

Human beings always have quarrelled and probably always will quarrel. And to get peace you do not have to change their dispositions, but you simply have to establish rules and make them quarrel in a way that will not be destructive to communal life.

For instance, children are naturally quarrelsome and you don't keep peace in the family by changing their natures. You maintain peace by making them refer their quarrels to parental authority. School children are quarrelsome, but the school yard and the school room are not full of fights, for the simple reason that the children understand that their disputes must be referred to the teacher.

The essence of every game is a contest. Baseball is a contest, but the two baseball nines do not slug each other. They play the rules of the game whereby they are required to slug the ball until they can pour out all their natural competitiveness according to the rules.

A game of poker is a contest, but the participants in the game do not break the furniture, for the simple reason that the contest must be played according to the rules. All the violence there is in poker is directed to the man who cheats—that is, the member of the party who will not obey the regulations.

This is the gist of the meaning of the Scriptures, "Vengeance is mine; I will avenge saith the Lord."

The point is that there can be no community life unless the vengeance business is referred to some one else than the individual wronged.

The basis of civilization is not that we should cease to quarrel, but that we should relegate the settlement of our disputes to arbitration.

All that is necessary is to make nations carry on their natural competition in a decent way. We have been playing the game without rules like a lot of savages, the great game of national competition. And the result has been murder, devastation, and bankruptcy.

What we need is not to change human nature among nations, but to teach the rules of the game that we are all playing.

Citizens have an inalienable right to fight. Law does not prohib their fighting. Law simply says when they want to fight they must come into court and oppose each other in a regular manner. There they can exercise their bad blood all they please. But if they go to settling disputes with revolvers in the street, shooting up the bystanders, such method of fighting is not tolerated.

It is very necessary to see that the question of disarmament is merely one of playing the game intelligently. It is not at all a question of bringing around the millennium and making angels out of human beings.

The Daily Story

HER KINGDOM

Copyright, 1921, by W. Werner

The telephone bellrang insistently, and Marian rose to answer it. It was almost sure to be for her. Her husband sighed and wished they might have an occasional meal without being interrupted by an outside demand on Marian's time.

Dick, Jr., wailed "Oh, dear! I s'pose that means some one wants mother at some kind of a meeting, and just when we wanted her to come to the launching of our boat!"

"Never mind, son!" said the elder Dick. "We can't very well launch the Marian without having the lady it is named after present, but we can wait for another time, and I'll take you to the movies tonight!"

Even the promise of a movie failed to compensate for little Dick's disappointment when his mother returned and said that she was needed on an important committee meeting. She looked in surprise at the big tears falling on Dick's plate, and her husband explained:

"It's the boat Dick and I have been building this vacation. It is finished, and we were naming it the Marian. We thought this was a free night from your clubs and you would assist at the launching. Dick's taking it rather hard. Could you give us tomorrow night?"

"Tomorrow is the community sing, and they couldn't get along without me very well," answered Marian regretfully. "But I'll surely find some time soon. Now I must run along. Just leave the dishes and you two have a good time!"

A prolonged look at the door told of the arrival of the neighbor's car to take Marian to the meeting. She ran down the walk buttoning her gloves, waving good-by to the two Dicks who stood watching her departure. Then she dropped thoughts of home and the pleading look in her little boy's face and assumed the calm poise so much admired by members of the club. She concentrated her mind on the questions to be brought up for the improvement of the neighborhood. She must not allow the larger issues of neighborhood and state to be shadowed by trifle. She was not one of those women whose horizon was bounded by fir walls.

It was at this point in her thoughts that a dazzling light beat upon the little coupe, all before Marian or her friend could ill what had happened a great car came rushing down the hill at full speed and crashed into the smaller car, turning it completely over. When the terrified chauffeur rushed to the assistance he found the two women miraculously unhurt, but terribly shaken. He promised to make amends and took the women home in his car. Marian refused to send for a doctor. She wanted to go home and believe.

She let herself in the darkened, silent house and dropped down on a couch, sobbing out her fright and gratitude. At last she fell into a troubled sleep and dreamed a vivid dream. In the dream she re-lived the terrible moment when the big car came crashing down upon her, but this time she did not escape uninjured. She was instantly killed. Her body lay, limp and helpless, under the wheels, but her spirit, released, untrammelled by bodily conditions, rose and went about the haunts of her earthly life still impelled by thoughts of the evening's duties in spirit she went to the committee meeting of the Ways and Means Club. Much to her chagrin she found the meeting progressing in an orderly manner, her absence unnoted. The vice-president presided in her place and took the opportunity to introduce and carry through certain drastic measures heretofore opposed by the absent president.

Turning sadly away from this evidence of disloyalty to her ideals her spirit flitted to the reform school where she had been spending an entire day each week, molding future citizens. Here she found her place supplanted by a young enthusiastic recruit from the society "social workers" who aimed to entertain the boys rather than to instruct, and thereby gained more popularity in a week than Marian had earned in a year. In turn her spirit visited the hospital, the jail, the juvenile court, the charitable organizations with which she had been connected, and finally the woman's club of which she had been coriscientious president. In every case she found herself supplanted, her work regarded merely as a stepping stone for newer and larger measures, and her passing mentioned with perfunctory regret, if mentioned at all. A hundred other women, fully as capable and intelligent as she, stood ready to take her place. The ranks filled up, the march of progress went on, her name was but a ghost of the past.

Sadly, with much trepidation, the spirit of the woman who had tried to rule over many things turned toward its last haven, its most intimate atmosphere, the home Marian had once called her kingdom. What would she find? Would she see another woman in her place, herself forgotten? With terrible clearness she recalled the day when big adoring Dick carried her across the threshold and set her on a throne chair, calling her his queen, and crying, "Long live the queen!" She remembered how they had promised each other to make her kingdom a little altar of "home-keeping hearts" a place from which love and joy would radiate into the big world. She saw now that her ambition to help the big world had run away with her "home-keeping heart" that she had traded on Dick's unselfishness and his pride in her outside interests to cheat him of his and little Dick's rightful share of her time and attention. She had failed to be "faithful over a few things" before she had tried to rule over many things? Had she lost her place in her "kingdom?" Where were her two Dicks? How painfully quiet the little house seemed.

The dream faded and a very weary, stiff little woman on the couch in a dark room heard a key turn in the door and the sound of voices, a deep, cheery voice, and a sleepy childish treble.

"Don't like comin' home to empty house. Some boys have mothers that stay home and give 'em cookies and tuck 'em in at night. I do wish my mother wasn't an important lady, don't you, Daddy?"

"I wish she knew how important she is to us, old man!" sighed his father. "Some day we are going to build a high wall around our place and a beautiful garden inside the wall. It is going to be a queen's garden and your mother will be the queen. The gates will be guarded by two very stern sentinels whose names are Dick, and only once a week shall any one be admitted to the garden of the queen. Once a week she shall look upon the outside world and lend her aid to the needs of her subjects, but the rest of the time she shall rest and play and love in her garden, which you and I shall build Dicky boy!"

The deep voice and the childish treble trailed up stairs and the woman on the couch rose with shining eyes to re-enter her kingdom.

Witching the Parade
By JOHN PILGRIM

I has to brag about myself. But if ty one ever honestly won the dese of D. D.—Doctor of Domesticity—I am the person. One a my prescriptions has cured case of household disagreement of long standing and saved me a mighty good clerk.

"Mywife and I aren't getting along," said John Thomas, with a lump so far up his throat that it threatened to choke him. "We love each other—anyhow, I love her—but we fight like cats and dogs."

So I looked into it. John Thoms wasn't worth a nickel a week to me as he stood, and I had ter tell him so. I had assumed that he had been jazzing himself to death, and said so, roughly, in a low and arrogant tone. I gave him just a week to get right or get out. But when I found out the trouble my inborn desire to mess about in other people's affairs led me to try to set things right.

The trouble was John's mother and John's maiden aunts and John's sisters. He had always been a model son, nephew, and brother, and it was their firm conviction that no girl on earth was worthy to shine his shoes for him. They used to drop into John's little flat every day or so and give his poor little wife the basilisk eye, and every now and then especially if John were looking, one of them would say:

"Oh no, NO! That isn't the way to do it! My patience, sakes! Here! Let me show you how!"

S they would take the duster or the needle or the frying pan, or whatever it was, out of the wife's hands and show her how. If he did things right they indicated by their manner that it was just her hideous craft. She was fooling that poor boy. One of these days he would come to his senses. I am certain that in the privacy of their bereft home they referred to her as "that hussy," just because she wears her skirts, thank Fortune, considerably shorter than they wear theirs.

"You move," I said to John. "Go out in the country, two miles from a car line, and buy a Ford. Then your folks cannot get to you so often. Try that for six months and report."

Did it work? I'll say it worked. John and his wife have found each other, and I've saved a mighty good clerk.

Am I, or am I not, a perfectly good D. D.?

DOGHILL PARAGRAFS

Mrs. Sim Flinders Thursdayed in Bounding Billows on a shopping expedition. Sim went along also, but all he had to do was to hold the team and the children and carry the bundles, and keep the dogs out of a fight.

Sidney Hocks went around for a while this morning feeling warped and all out of proportion, and finally discovered it was caused by his coat being buttoned wrong.

The peculiar cracking sound that was heard near the postoffice all day yesterday turned out to be none other than Slim Pickens eating hickorynuts on a nearby stump.

Soldiers in the United States army will receive a money clothing allowance, instead of clothing being issued to them. This ruling, it is said, is to encourage thrift on the part of the soldier and to inculate a personal interest in the care of his clothing. JUNIOR TRAVEL CLUB MEETS WEDNESDAY.

The Junior Travel club held its regular meeting at the library Wednesday morning with Mrs. W. B. Cain in charge of the study program. Under her leadership, Chaucer's "Prologue to the Canterbury Tales" was analyzed in an interesting manner, each member of the club adding to the discussion.

Mrs. Albert Lane gave a paper which was in the nature of a key to the pronunciation of Chaucer's verse and the rules which she gave were applied by Mrs. W. C. Merritt in her reading of the "Introduction to the Prologue."

A few of the humorous passages in the "Prologue" were read by Mrs. Wayne Somerville, while an instructive description of the "Peer Parson" was read by Mrs. Julian Montgomery.

Following Mrs. Montgomery's paper Mrs. McClain discussed the various groups of characters which appear in the "Prologue" describing the general characteristics of the portraits, and explaining the general plan of the Canterbury Tales.

As an example of the Tales, Mrs. E. W. Napier read a synopsis of "The Knight's Tale."

The program was concluded by a round table discussion in which the following members took part: Mesdames E. C. de Montel, John F. Fennessy, F. T. Datson, E. W. Napier, I. R. Sheldon, E. T. Duff, W. C. Merritt, W. L. Hawkins, J. C. Wynne, M. L. Compton, Julian Montgomery, C. E. Thames, W. E. Hunter, Albert Lane, W. B. McClain, Wayne Somerville and John Davenport.

Fashions for Americans

Smart Negligees for Little Girls Are Shown This Season.

Little girls have always seemed to be rather neglected by designers of negligee garments, but this season sees the slight eliminated. A most alluring style of negligee for juvenile feminine use is in evidence. The pajama garment shown in the sketch is one of the new styles offered. It combined two colors, with tiny touches of embroidery in still another shade. The trouser part of the outfit may be joined to a little underwaist, or may be equipped with suspenders to cross the shoulders.

The long regular breakfast coat is developed this season, in miniature form for the little girl of six to ten or twelve years. It is made of taffeta or other soft light silk, sometimes combining two colors, and again with frills or trim of lace.

A little negligee would make a most acceptable Christmas or birthday gift for the average small girl. Slippers and hair ribbon to match may be added for good measure.

Velvet and velveteen are fabrics that may be used for negligee garments if something warm and heavy is desired.

Individuality is more and more the keynote of clothes for children, and while bizarre styles are not generally favored and radical change of silhouette and line is infrequent, the designer who is able to think up styles that are a little "different" is the one who gets the business.

CHAPTER XIII.

Alone at last Ruth commenced to undress, then remembering she must mend her shirtwaist, she threw on a wrapper and sat down to sew. She sighed as she looked the waist over. Like the others she possessed it was nearly worn out. She had given her better things to Susan and Betty.

"Only plain things are suitable in an office," she said when Sam, the only objector, grumbled. "Mr. Turnbull told me he was glad I knew how to dress for business. I shouldn't have known a thing about it—probably would have worn peekaboo waists and tight skirts like lots of the girls if I hadn't been so keen on those business stories in the magazines."

"You've got a lot of gray matter for any one so young," Sam had complimented.

But now the shirt waists and skirts, bought when Henry Browning was being overpaid for his useless service were nearly all worn out. Those that were still wearable were shabby, although always neatly darned and mended. Mrs. Browning kept them daintily laundered although she grumbled constantly.

"What shall I do—how can I get new clothes?" Tears fell on the darn as the tired, nervous girl finished the waist and laid it ready for the morning. 'I can't buy them now—Betty." Cold fear clutched her. She recalled the desperate look in Betty's face when she said she would have pretty things like the other girls no matter how she got them. She had Betty's promise, but—Betty was so wilful, so spoiled. Suppose she didn't keep her promise. Life was going to be difficult for Betty. She was in agony over the thought, until worn out she slipped to her knees:

"Please, God," she prayed, "keep Betty good, and let me earn enough to buy her pretty things so she won't go wrong. Please God—"

When Susan came up to bed in obedience to her mother's command, she went into Ruth's room, intending to tell her how she felt; that she was sorry and would try and help.

"She's gone to sleep saying her prayers," the child murmured as she tried to lift the unconscious Ruth.

"Wake up, dear, and get in bed. You'll take your death of cold." Susan had been unable to lift her so she shook her lightly.

"What is it, time to get up?" Ruth sleepily asked.

"Time to go to bed, Ruthie. And say," as Ruth stiffly climbed into bed, "this family is a lot of rotters. I'll tell the world. You are the only real white one."

"You musn't talk like that, dear. We are all white—and are going to stay white. You must help me, Susan——"

"That's what I wanted to tell you, Ruthie. I want to help you all I can—only I don't know how." She laid her head with its bobbed curls on the pillow beside Ruth.

"I'll tell you one way, Sue. Try and keep Betty contented. I'm afraid she'll—run away or something. Ruth could not tell her fears to this child. "We must all try to keep her happy at home. She is so pretty—and it is hard for her to go without the things she loves."

"All right, Ruthie. If that's what you want me to do to help I'll do my darndest." Then, after being rebuked for her language, she asked naively:

"Say, Ruthie, why is it that the prettier a girl is the more she wants pretty clothes? One would think it would be the homely girls that needed them most—girls like me."

"You're not homely by any means, Susan. Mother's children could not be homely. Not even I think of being very plain, and I guess I am the ugliest of the family."

"You ugly! Why, you're sweet! Not so pretty as Betty," she added honestly, "but sweeter. Your face shows that you are good."

"I can't answer your question, Susan. But I guess when a girl is unusually pretty—like Betty—she thinks pretty things belong to her by right. Now run along to bed, dear, and remember how you can help."

"I'll remember! I'd love to do things to help you."

Comforted, Ruth fell asleep. But for days afterward the fear of what Betty might some time do, were she denied, never left her. The feeling that she must prevent it at whatever cost.

"I got a bit of encouragement today, Ruth," Henry Browning whispered. Don't tell mother. If it don't pan out she will be so disappointed."

"That's fine, father. I know something will turn up soon." His patient tone had touched her. She stooped and pressed a kiss on his bald spot. He was thoughtful of mother. He was kind always. It was part of his weakness—this being kind. He had thought it would take him through life—kindness, indotence, all the soft things in a man's makeup that hindered progress in the business world were his. Against these his rugged honesty, his faithfulness, could not stand. One dragged down faster than the other could build.

Like many other good men Henry Browning was a financial failure.

If it stands on edge, we'll to study go."

"No, thank you, Mistah, marryin' again is far from my intention.

Than any living mate could be
For now I gets a pension."

Open Doors In Business

The School Nurse.

This is a business constantly growing in opportunity. As medical inspection is coming into favor, especially since the draft has revealed to us our need of correcting defects in childhood, nurses of all kinds are in demand far in excess of the supply. Among these the Visiting Nurse leads. Many communities are awaiting their turn to get a visiting nurse and some will have to wait until nurses can be trained, but there are not enough now in training to supply the demand as it increases.

The School Nurse is one kind of Visiting Nurse. She may make inspections herself or do followup work after the School Physician has made them. She notes the condition of the school house, its water supply, ventilation, and toilet facilities. She observes the children and is able to ward off some epidemicse. It is her duty to visit homes, when children stay out, and determine their physical condition. If children are not doing well, she talks with the mother and tries to help her arrive at the cause. Besides this she may help the teacher in teaching sanitation, sex-hygiene, and personal health to classes.

She needs a regular nurse training, plus social training. Her salary is higher than an unspecialized nurse and may range from $150 to $250 a month.

This business has the triple attraction of dealing with children, of being largely preventative, and of requiring only regular hours and small if any night work.

THE WOMAN CITIZEN

How "Reforms" Come to a Town.

There was once an old man who wanted to do something for his town before he died. There was a piece of land which he felt would be ideal as a public park. He took the lead; he talked it; he secured the advice of a specialist; plans were made in detail; these plans were laid in detail together with the arguments before the town meeting, and—no, indeed, not accepted! Don't you know a town meeting? They were voted down ten to one. But the old man was wise. He tacked the plans and photographs up in the postoffice where people would see them while they waited for the mail to be distributed. They saw them and thought.

A lot of old fellows who could not be convinced at all were gradually deducted, by Father Time, from the voting list and at the other end were added a lot of young fellows. In just six years the matter came up again—and was adopted.

DARLING BABY BRIGHTENS HOME

Children's Laughter a Pleasing Sound

Altoona, Pa.—"I am writing to tell you what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. We had six children die almost at birth. From one hour to nineteen days is all they have lived. Before my next one was born I took a dozen bottles of your Vegetable Compound, and I can say that it is the greatest medicine on earth, for this baby is now four months old, and a healthier baby you would not want. I am sending you a picture of her. Everybody says 'That is a very healthy looking baby.' You have my consent to show these few lines to anybody."—Mrs. C. W. Benz, 131 3rd Avenue, Altoona, Pa.

Mrs. Janssen's experience of interest to childless wives.

Millston, Wis.—"I want to give you a word of praise for your wonderful medicine. We are fond of children, and for a considerable time after we were married I feared I would not have any. I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it strengthened me so I now have a nice, strong, healthy baby girl. I suffered very little at childbirth, and I give all the credit to your medicine, and shall always recommend it highly."—Mrs. H. H. Janssen, Millston, Wis.

Mrs. Held of Marinette Wis., adds her testimonial for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She says:

Marinette, Wis.—"I was in a nervous condition and very irregular. My doctor advised an operation. My husband brought me one of your booklets and asked me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It overcame my weakness so that I now have a healthy baby girl after having been married nine years. I am glad to recommend your medicine, and you may use my letter as a testimonial."—Mrs. H. B. Held, 330 Jefferson St., Marinette, Wis.

There are many, many such homes that were once childless, and are now blessed with healthy, happy children because Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has restored the mother to a strong and healthy condition, as it acts as a natural restorative for ailments as indicated by backache, irregularities, displacements, weakness and nervousness.

Women everywhere should remember that most of the commoner ailments of women are not the surgical ones—they are not caused by serious displacements or growths, although the symptoms may be the same, and that is why so many apparently serious ailments readily yield to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it acts as a natural restorative. It can be taken with perfect safety and often prevents serious troubles.

Therefore if you know of any woman who is suffering and has been unable to secure relief and is regretfully looking forward to a childless old age, ask her to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it has brought health and happiness into so many homes once darkened by illness and despair.

Open Doors In Business

The School Nurse.

This is a business constantly growing in opportunity. As medical inspection is coming into favor, especially since the draft has revealed to us our need of correcting defects in childhood, nurses of all kinds are in demand far in excess of the supply. Among these the Visiting Nurse leads. Many communities are awaiting their turn to get a visiting nurse and some will have to wait until nurses can be trained, but there are not enough now in training to supply the demand as it increases.

The School Nurse is one kind of Visiting Nurse. She may make inspections herself or do followup work after the School Physician has made them. She notes the condition of the school house, its water supply, ventilation, and toilet facilities. She observes the children and is able to ward off some epidemicse. It is her duty to visit homes, when children stay out, and determine their physical condition. If children are not doing well, she talks with the mother and tries to help her arrive at the cause. Besides this she may help the teacher in teaching sanitation, sex-hygiene, and personal health to classes.

She needs a regular nurse training, plus social training. Her salary is higher than an unspecialized nurse and may range from $150 to $250 a month.

This business has the triple attraction of dealing with children, of being largely preventative, and of requiring only regular hours and small if any night work.

THE WOMAN CITIZEN

How "Reforms" Come to a Town.

There was once an old man who wanted to do something for his town before he died. There was a piece of land which he felt would be ideal as a public park. He took the lead; he talked it; he secured the advice of a specialist; plans were made in detail together with the arguments before the town meeting, and—no, indeed, not accepted! Don't you know a town meeting? They were voted down ten to one. But the old man was wise. He tacked the plans and photographs up in the postoffice where people would see them while they waited for the mail to be distributed. They saw them and thought.

A lot of old fellows who could not be convinced at all were gradually deducted, by Father Time, from the voting list and at the other end were added a lot of young fellows. In just six years the matter came up again—and was adopted.

DARLING BABY BRIGHTENS HOME

Children's Laughter a Pleasing Sound

Altoona, Pa.—"I am writing to tell you what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. We had six children die almost at birth. From one hour to nineteen days is all they have lived. Before my next one was born I took a dozen bottles of your Vegetable Compound, and I can say that it is the greatest medicine on earth, for this baby is now four months old, and a healthier baby you would not want. I am sending you a picture of her. Everybody says 'That is a very healthy looking baby.' You have my consent to show these few lines to anybody."—Mrs. C. W. Benz, 131 3rd Avenue, Altoona, Pa.

Mrs. Janssen's experience of interest to childless wives.

Millston, Wis.—"I want to give you a word of praise for your wonderful medicine. We are fond of children, and for a considerable time after we were married I feared I would not have any. I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it strengthened me so I now have a nice, strong, healthy baby girl. I suffered very little at childbirth, and I give all the credit to your medicine, and shall always recommend it highly."—Mrs. H. H. Janssen, Millston, Wis.

Mrs. Held of Marinette Wis., adds her testimonial for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She says:

Marinette, Wis.—"I was in a nervous condition and very irregular. My doctor advised an operation. My husband brought me one of your booklets and asked me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It overcame my weakness so that I now have a healthy baby girl after having been married nine years. I am glad to recommend your medicine, and you may use my letter as a testimonial."—Mrs. H. B. Held, 330 Jefferson St., Marinette, Wis.

There are many, many such homes that were once childless, and are now blessed with healthy, happy children because Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has restored the mother to a strong and healthy condition, as it acts as a natural restorative for ailments as indicated by backache, irregularities, displacements, weakness and nervousness.

Women everywhere should remember that most of the commoner ailments of women are not the surgical ones—they are not caused by serious displacements or growths, although the symptoms may be the same, and that is why so many apparently serious ailments readily yield to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it acts as a natural restorative. It can be taken with perfect safety and often prevents serious troubles.

Therefore if you know of any woman who is suffering and has been unable to secure relief and is regretfully looking forward to a childless old age, ask her to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it has brought health and happiness into so many homes once darkened by illness and despair.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Private Text-Book upon "Diseases Peculiar to Women" will be sent to you free upon request to The Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. This book contains valuable information.

BABE RUTH DENIES FIXING HIS 1922 SALARY AT $60,000.00

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 30.—George Herman Ruth, the busting bambino, denied here last night that he had fixed the price for his services with the willow next year at $60,000 and demanded that sum of the New York Colonels before consenting to affix his name to a Yankee contract for 1922.

The Babe did not deny that he would find $60,000 acceptable with his world's series money held up by Judge Landis, baseball's biggest boss, but he flatly asserted that he was so busy with the art of the stage that he had not given the matter much thought.

He also said that he had not heard a word from Judge Landis and indicated that he did not want to talk on this subject. Babe intimated that he felt better when on the ball field than he did appearing before the footlights and that he worked harder in one day while on the stage than he did in a week in baseball.

The report that Ruth would demand $60,000 salary first came from a close friend of the sultan of swat. And what's more, according to Babe's pal, Colonels Huston and Huppert, owners of the Yanks, are said to look favorably on the demand.

The season that just closed earned Ruth a salary of $30,000 or very close to it. Now he wants to double the ante.

If Ruth is given the $60,000 stipend it will be the biggest drawn down by any man connected with baseball. At present, Judge Landis, baseball commissioner, gets $42,500. Ban Johnson, the American League president, $30,000. Tris Speaker and Ty Cobb are said to earn $20,000, just one-third of what Ruth wants, and probably will get in 1022.

President Harding tops Babe's demand by $15,000, the president's actual salary being $75,000. Vice-President Coolidge makes $12,000, as do members of the president's cabinet. Mayor Hylan is paid $15,000, while Governor Miller's yearly pay is only $10,000.

The Yankees made more money last season than any club has since organized baseball was launched. Ruth also brought in many an extra dollar for the Yankee's seven opponents. It is possible that if Ruth holds out for the $60,000 the owners of the Yankees may ask the American League to chip in a few thousand.

BAMBINO RUTH IS "VERA CLEVAH" IN VAUDEVILLE SKIT

Babe Ruth swinging free with a powder puff before one of his appearances.

Anyone who thought that Babe Ruth, mightiest swatter of baseball, might be out of his element when he essayed to show himself behind the footlights has the wrong idea. Take it from those who have seen him. They say that Babe, aided by his partner, Wellington Cross, appears at ease in his act and takes the house down when he finally bobs out in his most familiar togs.

Broom Corn Is Money Avenue In West Texas

Special to the Record News.

PERRYTOWN, Texas, Nov. 30.—Extraordinary progress has been shown in Ochiltree and adjoining counties the past season in the growing of broom corn. An estimate has been furnished to the West Texas Chamber of Commerce showing the season's total shipments.

This estimate shows that up to November 20 more than 1300 bales had been loaded out from Perryton alone, and that this comprises less than one-half of the crop seeking an outlet through this town. This showing is in comparison with only about 200 bales shipped out on approximately the same date last year. Broom corn has brought an average of $90.00 per ton on this market. It is of the excellent quality.

In the Dalhart territory it is stated that the top price has been $80.00 per ton. Shipments from Dalhart have also been large. Broom corn is also grown considerably around Lamesa in Dawson county but market conditions could be improved in that territory according to advices received by local broom corn buyers.

Thieves Take Groceries and Four Auto Tires

The theft of some ten cases of canned goods, including various kinds of vegetables and fruits from the partially completed new grocery being opened by G. W. Lambert at 2410 Grant street was reported to police Wednesday. The building was not locked, officers asserted and the goods stolen constituted a part of the stock which Mr. Lambert was planning to install in his new place of business.

The theft Tuesday night of four tires and wheel from his partially wrecked automobile which he had left standing near his house until morning was reported to police Wednesday morning by Lee Sprinkles, 2105 Grant street.

Sprinkles asserted that his car had been seriously damaged in a collision near his home early Tuesday night and that he had left it in the street intending to have it towed to a garage Wednesday morning.

JAIL MORE THAN 2000 DURING YEAR

A total of 2,011 men and women spent from a few minutes to the entire year at the county jail during the first year of Sheriff Fred Smith's administration according to figures compiled Wednesday the end of the fiscal year of the county. Approximately 98 per cent of the total were men.

Most of the 2,000 odd prisoners were handled by Cass Tarver, county jailer, the greater part of the year. During the year four prisoners, all negroes, escaped.

Smallpox, introduced by the Dutch, exterminated half the Hottentots in 1713.

MONEY CONTAINERS.

It is interesting to note the various methods in which men of different nationalities carry their worldly wealth. Before the advent of treasury notes as legal tender, the Englishman was wont to carry gold, silver and copper all loose in his trousers pocket, pulling out a handful of the mixture and selecting the coin he needed. The American carries "his wad of bills" in a long, narrow pocket book, in which the greenback of a leather with no distinguishing characteristics. The German uses one gaily embroidered in silks by one of the fair sex. The capitalist from some torrid South American city carries his dollars in a belt with cunningly devised pockets to baffle the gentlemen with light fingers. The Italian of the poorer classes ties up his little fortune in a gaily colored handkerchief secured with some knots which he secrets in some mysterious manner about his clothes. A similar course has charms for the Spaniard, while the lower-class Russian exhibits a preference for his boots or the lining of his clothes as a hiding place for his savings.

The foot of the original species of the horse was a little larger than that of the fox.

PRINCETON MAY DROP ROPER AS GRID MENTOR

By HOWARD G. REYNOLDS,
(Sporting Editor Boston Post.)

Harvard will stand pat on its head football coach for next season. So will Eli Yale. There is a question, however, whether Princeton will do the same in regards to Bill Roper.

This may come as a decided surprise after the remarkable record that Roper has made with the Tigers during the past three seasons. In his term of office Princeton has defeated Harvard once and tied twice. His elevens have scored two victories over Yale and gone down to defeat only once.

The truth of the matter is, however, that Princeton men in general, who are as clean sportsmen as to be found in any other college, are beginning to question the methods employed by Roper in putting over the winners.

They are beginning to find that Ropper's idea of winning by any means and at any cost are not doing the name of Princeton any good as a football team or as one of the leading universities of the country.

Princeton men want their teams to win, but when tactics not becoming gentlemen are employed, victories leave a bad taste in their mouths. No real rooter of the Orange and Black wants his eleven to bear the same unsavory reputation that Gergia Tech, for instance, does in the South, when in one season, on account of methods employed to win games, the Atlanta institution was dropped first by the University of Pittsburgh and later by Centre, which everyone will agree is one of the cleanest teams that ever trctted out upon a gridiron.

Both Harvard and Yale for the past three years have complained among themselves of the tactics used on the part of Princeton, but owing to their position in regard to wins over Old Nassau have refrained from making open comment for fear the general public would accuse them of having "soreheads" on account of losses and ties.

Yale is this year in a position to make an open cry if it wants to, but Harvard is not, owing to its recent defeat in the Palmer Memorial stadium. Even Chicago, which won over Princeton, went back home and told a few tales about little unfair things employed by Princeton, that were covered up by a scrimmage. These stories have come back East to some of the powers that be at Nassau and they don't like them any more than they do a few quiet remarks slipped to them by old graduates close to the athletic associations at both Harvard and Yale.

Every one of these complaints puts the Princeton methods of play right up to the schooling of Bill Roper. In fact one Harvard player has a Princeton player's word for it.

This Crimson warrior was sent into the Harvard-Princeton game late and in taking his place was hailed by a Tiger player in terms that no gentleman would think of using. After the game this player came around and apologized to the Harvard man, who happened to be an old prep schoolmate of this and stated that he was sorry he did it, but that he was sent into the game with instructions to do so.

This story of ungentlemanly conduct on the part of a Princeton man is only a sample of many that are told about the wearers of the Orange and Black when they line up against opponents, and real men at Princeton don't like them. Such policies they say may do very well in Philadelphia politics, but not in Princeton athletics, as the Princeton men, who have their college most at heart, do not want to be dropped from either the Harvard or Yale schedule, as they fear is a chance of one or both of these universities doing if the present methods of Old Nassau go on as far as football is concerned.

Yale men, in addition to Roper's gridiron tactics, also have it in for Roper on account of articles he has written this fall under his signature criticising the Yale system and Head Coach Jones. They feel it would have been a great deal more proper to have waited until after the Princeton-Yale game before saying these things, at least. As the game of November 12 turned out, Yale men now have the laugh on Roper and Princeton.

No Princeton man in the stadium Saturday could help but notice the difference in the feeling between the Harvard and Yale players previous, and during the game as compared with the cooliness, to say the least, that existed between the Princeton and Harvard elevens and the Princeton and Yale elevens.

There was a spirit of comradeship and friendship exhibited in that game that was most pleasing to all Harvard and Yale men or any other real sportsman present.

Of course every man on both teams played for all that was in him to win as he should. Everyone wants to see such clean, hard playing and expects it. It is the game. But the game can be played always in just such a manner as was the contest between the Crimson and the Blue. The elevens were a credit to their universities and reflect the clean cut, wholesome personalities of their head coaches, Bob Fisher of Harvard and T. A. D. Jones of Yale.

WILL YOST REALIZE HIS AMBITION NEXT YEAR WITH REALLY GREAT TEAM?

"Hurry-Up" Yost as he looked while prepping his team for its final game this year.

Coach Yost has wound up his twenty-first year as coach of Michigan's football teams. His first year there his wonder-team scored 550 points without being scored on. His team the next year scored 644 more points and allowed only 12 points to be scored against it. Not since then has Yost built such a team. For several years he has wanted to retire, but wanted "one more great team." His team this year showed real strength. His prospects for next year look brighter. Will Yost remain another year to try to gratify his one desire?

WISDOM and WORSE
By C. F. C.

It is extremely doubtful whether Colonel Jake Ruppert will hearken to the invitation to send the Yankees to Wichita Falls to train next spring. I suggested the matter to Hubert Harrison, general manager of the Chamber of Commerce, a couple of days ago, simply believing that any inexpensive long shot is always worth one play—but frankly I doubt whether the Yankee owners will consider this city seriously.

There has been considerable talk in the New York papers about the American league champions training in Southern California, and personally I am inclined to believe Ruppert and Hueston will pick that section of the United States for a training camp. To do so would be the logical thing, both from the viewpoint of climate and finance. There are many cities in Southern California that would welcome the Yanks, and there are many strong baseball clubs there to give them exhibition battles that would draw big at the gate. And from Southern California back home to New York the champions could drift by easy stages, with one exhibition game after another—and Babe Ruth and his hard-hitting (I'm not referring to the world's series batting averages!) fellows would attract many dollars from the fans on such a return trip.

It would be a big thing, of course, to have the Yanks here. We'd all welcome 'em. It would mean big advertising for the city; would stimulate further an already healthy interest in baseball, and would create pleasant and perhaps profitable relations between the Yankee owners and the local baseball association.

Barney Dreyfuss, usually a good source of news to the baseball writer, appears to be something of a clam this winter as regards his plans for the team that set the National League on fire last season, and then blew up crescendo on the home stretch. But hints coming out of Pittsburgh lead one to believe that Dreyfuss is going to shake up his ball club considerably in the belief that many of his players are holding down jobs they havent earned—and if some of the Pirates are to be cut loose, there is a faint possibility that the Wichita Falls Spudders may acquire one or more fast men for Class A ball. At any rate, Walter Salm and Will Gray intend to confer with Barney in Pittsburgh on their trip east to the Buffalo meeting of the minor leagues this month.

Football is a gold mine to Eastern colleges and universities. Attendance was never greater than during the season that has just closed. Five big Eastern games alone drew 314,000 rabid gridiron fans. The Yale-Princeton game headed the list with 78,000; next came the Yale-Army game with 76,000; the Yale-Harvard and the Princeton-Harvard battles each drew 55,000, and the annual struggle between the Army and Navy was played before 50,000 spectators. And those 314,000 spectators paid an average of $2 each!

The football appetite certainly is not jaded. In most cases even larger crowds would have witnessed the games, but the "standing room only" signs were hung out early and many seeking seats were turned away disappointed. At the theatre the Army-Navy game has reported that applications for 200,000 tickets had been received—and even on a day of steady rain and mist, with the playing field a veritable slough of mud and water, 50,000 fans packed the New York Polo Grounds, which has a seating capacity of 44,000.

There seems to be some doubt whether Gil Dobie's big red Cornell machine will accept the invitation to play University of California at the Tournament of Roses in Pasadena on New Year's Day. Perhaps Dobie's players resemble the old boys who played football in the days of the "flying wedge" and the waiting stretchers. Can you imagine one of those old timers becoming interested in a game to be played at a "tournament of roses?" The only time they thought of roses was when one of their number wasabout ready to hold a lily in his hand!

The football season's over. Football is a rough, hard game. Let us turn from it to the gentle sport of basketball, wherein the players must have lungs like a deep sea diver; where they slam one another against the iron chest weights that line the wall, knock one another senseless to the hardwood floor and, coyly fooling the referee into the belief they are trying to get the ball, reach around one another's necks and squeeze the human wind-pipe!

Have it done where you get the best yet pay no more. DeLuxe Dry Cleaners—Cleaners., Dyers and Hatters.—Adv.

LOCAL STARS TO PLAY BURK TEAM SUNDAY

Local football stars of former high school and college teams after a week of practice are ready to leap into battle at Athletic park next Sunday against Abe Bremer's Burkburnett All-Stars, an eleven of "Old timers" that has walloped the Burk high school team this season. Bremer telegraphed late last night that his team would be unable to keep the date, but Johnny Salm got Abe on the telephone and talked him into a positive agreement to be on deck with his man-eaters on Sunday afternoon.

The local enthusiasts have been working out on the Junior high school grounds, and while some of the "boys" admit they're a wee bit stiff most of 'em are ripe and ready for the fray. Most of the practice has been devoted to running signals, and to developing trick plays with which to surprise the Burkburnett crew.

The Burkburnett eleven has been in training for several weeks, and with a few more days the Wichita Falls Wildcats also expect to be in shape for a stiff battle—and if both teams go into the struggle in good physical shape a mighty interesting game should result. The football bulk, brawn, brain and experience is there.

Among the men working out with the Wildcats' squad are Van Boyd, of Ames; Roger Thoes, of Camp Cody; Johnny Moran, former high school star; Don Courtney and Johnny Salm of Valparaiso, all backfield candidates; Duff, of Kansas university, and Young of the Army, tackles; Mane Walker, of Howard Payne, Piner Coker and Newton, guards; Everett Hughes and Gordon, ends; Ralph Harper of last year's high school eleven, center.

The game will start Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

LARGE AUDIENCES DELIGHTED WITH "MISLEADING LADY"

The "Misleading Lady" continues to please large audiences at the Wichita Theater and is proving to be one of the best plays of the entire season. Both Miss Worth and Mr. Lewis have excellent parts and they are making many new friends by their clever work this week. The "Misleading Lady" will continue for the balance of the week with a special matinee for the children on Saturday.

Next Week "Kick In."

Next week the Gene Lewis-Olga Worth company will be seen in Willard Mack's greatest success "Kick In." It is one of the most famous crook plays ever written. When John Barrymore appeared in the original New York production he made the biggest hit of his career. The play will be seen here next week exactly as produced on Broadway.

The theme of the play deals with the manner in which crooks are handicapped when they attempt to go straight. It shows that it is possible for a man to be the finest type in the world and yet accused of the most sordid crime imaginable.

"Kick In" opens Monday evening and will continue for the balance of the week with matinees on Wednesday and Saturday.

COAST MOGULS HAVE MAJOR LEAGUE BEES IN BONNETS

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—Statements of a rather threatening nature have been coming from baseball officials of the Pacific Coast league, and it wouldn't be surprising if some exciting news develops at the meeting of the National Association of Minor Leagues in Buffalo next week.

It even has been hinted that the coast magnates favor pulling away from organized baseball entirely and running their own business in the far west as another major league.

Just how such a condition could exist without a baseball war is hard to understand, but it might be possible in this case, because of the geographical situation. But whether they can afford to pay players enough to hold them when the National and American league magnates would be bidding against them is quite another matter.

The Pacific Coast league's president points out that in population the coast league is about the equal of the majors, though how he gets such a result is hard to understand, and the mileage in the league is tremendous.

Yet it really looks as if the coast fellers are scheming a third major circuit with the plan of grabbing some of the present major league stars to perform out there.

If such ideas have crept into the minds of the "native sons" they are sure to have a fight on their hands, one they will not have a chance to win, for there's too much money behind the two majors in these times to lose a fight.

However, they are running a winter league out there this winter, and they have Cobb, Sisler, Hornsby and a lot of the big stars performing every day. The fans out there will not relish going back to the small fry in the spring. Maybe it was a mistake the coast league club owners made in giving the fans the de luxe stuff during the winter and then expecting to take it away in the regular season.

HALL COUNTY MAN GETS MANY BALES FROM FEW ACRES

Special to the Record News.

MEMPHIS, Nov. 29.—Hall county claims the best cotton production record in the state for 1921. Louis F. Mock, living 2 miles southwest of Memphis, plated 25 2-3 acres as measured by the surveyor. He has gathered thirty-two 500 pound bales from this field.

The land as flat broke in the early spring and later planted in the usual way hong only the ordinary amount of rainfall this year and the usual method of cotton cultivation.

This recordholds first place until a better one is recorded.

Judgment Is Delivered in Bank's Favor

Holding that the bank was only responsible for the forgeries for the first month in which they occurred and that the plaintiff company should have themselves detected the forgeries in their account at the end of that time when the usual monthly bank statement was sent them Judge P. A. Martin of the 30th district court Wednesday rendered judgment in the case of the Coleman Drilling company against the First National Bank of Burkburnett.

The judgment follows the trial of the case two weeks ago during which a jury rendered a verdict on several issues submitted to them. The plaintiff in the case was suing for approximately $4,000 alleged to represent the sum that the bank had allowed an employe of the company to draw from their account through forged checks over a period of several months.

Submitted to them by issues the jury found that the bank had been negligent in cashing the forged checks. But they also found that the plaintiff company had been negligent in not detecting the forgeries when their first monthly statement was sent to them. Judge Martin gave the plaintiff judgment for $850 representing the amount of the forgeries for the first month.

M. Nikolai Lenine and Parley P. Christensen "Solve" World Issues

By Associated Press.

RIGA, Nov. 30.—Nikolai Lenine, the Russian premier, clings to the ideal apparently of trouble between Japan and the United States, according to Barley P. Christensen, who was the farmer-labor candidate in the recent presidential elections in the United States and who has just arrived here after a month's stay in Moscow, which included two interviews with Lenine.

M. Lenine sent for Mr. Christensen last Saturday and no sooner had the American greeted the Russian premier than "right off the bat" Mr. Christensen related, "Lenine interrupted me, asking 'what about war between America and Japan?'"

Mr. Christensen said he did not think there would be any war as Japan and America were at peace, but Lenine retorted: "Oh, there is bound to be a capitalistic war for that is the best kind of industry for capitalists and the kind of government you have in America. War is bound to come, it is brewing now."

To a question as to his opinion of the Washington conference Lenine replied:

"I don't know what is going to be the outcome, but I fear not much. Perhaps some alliance, perhaps an Anglo-American-Japanese alliance."

The Russian premier quizzed Mr. Christensen about Anglo-American relations and seemed surprised when the latter said that the peoples were generally friendly.

Lenine's understanding of English was sufficently good except when his American visitor used colloquialisms.

"He told me," Mr. Christensen, said, "that Russia is ready to do business with America and asked why we weren't."

I answered:

"Perhaps you are the fly in the ointment."

He had to ask the interpreter what was meant by "fly in the ointment." When this was explained he answered:

"Well, I don't want to stand in the way."

The soviet premier asked why Americans did not send to Russia wheat in exchang for goods, and when Mr. Christensen asked what Russia had, Lenine replied:

"We can put furs on your wives."

Mr. Christensen said he found the Lenine regime firmly established, despite changes toward capitalism, as the communists are holding the key to the industries, schools and press.

"UNSEARCHABLE RICHES" TEXT OF SERMON TONIGHT

A splendid service, despite the inclemency of the weather was reported from those attending the Wednesday evening service at the Floral Heights Presbyterian church, conducted by the Rev. A. Lichtenstein, Jewish Christain minister.

Dr. Lichtenstein postponed his sermon on the "Unsearchable Riches of Christ" until Thursday evening, delivering in its stead an address on the prophecies.

Watchfully Waiting on Lake Wichita

Lake Wichita lies partly in Wichita and partly in Archer county, and thereby hangs a tale which local huntsmen are beginning to heed.

For, while huntsmen may bag a duck in their home county, Wichita, without a license, should that duck disobligingly land over the Archer county line and the huntsman go after him, then said huntsman is the meat of the Archer county "laws" who have cultivated the habit of watchfully waiting for just such events.

ROYAL DUTCH NEW DIVIDEND PLAN PENDING

By Associated Press.

LONDON, Nov. 30.—A dispatch to the Central News from Amsterdam says that the proposed meeting of the stockholders of the Royal Dutch Oil company, which was to have been convened to consider proposals to alter the rules of the association so as to enable the payment of dividends, wholly or in part in shares, was postponed owing to the presence of an insufficient number of shareholders.

Director General Deterding of the oil company, said if the proposals were adopted, he was unable to say if they would be applied to this year's dividends. In the interim, the 15 per cent dividend would be maintained. The director general indicated the possibility of new issues of shares to meet pending completion and proposed an increase in Dutch colonial export duties of 25 per cent.

IRISH TRUCE IS ON VERGE OF COLLAPSE

By Associated Press.

LONDON, Nov. 30.—All government business is giving way to the gravity of the Irish situation. Both government and Irish circles express the feeling that only a miracle can avert the collapse of the conference and a renewal of warfare.

It had been intended to hold a cabinet council tonight to consider German reparations in connection with the visit of Dr. Walter Rathenau, but that had to be postponed in order to permit the special cabinet meeting dealing with Irish affairs to hold a sitting. Lord Birkenhead due to speak at a political meeting in Liverpool, was obliged to stay in London. He sent a message of apology asking that his absence was owing to "grave public affairs."

Premier Lloyd George also wired to the meeting, explaining that Lord Birkenhead's presence in London was "imperatively demanded by the present position of the Irish negotiations"

A spokesman of the Sinn Fein declared this evening that there was no intention on the part of the Sinn Fein to alter its attitude toward either the unity of Ireland or allegiance to the crown.

HEADS TEXAS COMPANY ARE GUESTS HERE

High officials of the Texas company, headed by Amos L. Beatty of New York, president and T. J. Donaghue of New York, vice president, arrived here Wednesday night from Graham, after an inspection trip through Stephens and Young county fields.

They will spend today at the Texas company district offices here and in inspecting conditions in this section. The party is accompanied by C. M. Scott of Houston, general superintendent of production, and were joined at Breckenridge by J. L. McMahon, superintendent for the Texas company in North Texas, and by J. G. Quinn, superintendent for the Texas Pipe Line company from the Wichita Falls offices of the company.

Mr. Beatty is a former Texan, having lived and practiced law for a number of years in Sherman and Houston before going to New York. Mr. Beatty first became connected with the Texas company in the legal department, becoming general counsel for the company before taking over the executive control of the corporation.

A former law partner of his is Will Vinson, counsel for the Prairie in Texas, who is well known to local oil men.

SCATTERED RAINS ARE REPORTED

Slight local rains, general precipitation between Henriett and Fort Worth, and scattered showers between Wichita Falls and Childress occurred Wednesday night according to railroad dispatchers reports. The rain was not reported hard enough to prove of material benefit, although the continued cloudy skies and rising temperature promise additional moisture. The temperature locally and in the immediate section around here was around 70 degrees late last night.

No rain was reported either on the Wichita Valley or on the Wichita Falls and Northwestern railroads outside of a sprinkle at Burkburnett early in the evening. Stamford reported a tempertaure of 75 with calm and cloudy weather.

Messages May Reveal Motive Of Whittlesey

By Associated Press.

HAVANA, Nov. 30.—What compelling motive sent Lieutenant Colonel Charles W. Whittlesey, commander of the "lost battalion" overboard into the sea only a few hours out from New York last Saturday night may be revealed in letters to members of his family and business associates which he left for Captain Grant of the steamer Tolon to deliver.

Nine of these letters were in the captain's possession when the Tolon docked tonight. Captain Grant also received a note from Colonel Whittlesey which he declared he regarded as confidential.

"I can say, however, that from all appearances the act was premeditated," Captain Grant declared, "and that Colonel Whittlesey leaped overboard either just before or just after midnight Saturday."

After experiencing heavy weather nearly all the way from New York, the Tolon docked this evening, nearly ten hours late and it was only after two hours of conference, with representatives of the American and British consulates and the acting first secretary of the American legation, Cord Meyer, Jr., that Captain Grant would give out any statement.

"I learned just before we sailed last Saturday morning that Colonel Whittlesey was aboard," said Captain Grant, "but I did not see him until dinner that night. He sat at my table and appeared quite normal.

"On Monday morning, when it was found that his berth was undisturbed, an investigation was made and nine letters to members of his family, several wireless messages and a note to me were discovered in his berth. The state room was then locked and the papers delivered to me.

"I did not forward the messages, but sent two of my own—one to his executor, John B. Pruyn and another to the company office. The letters entrusted to me I shall mail as soon as possible."

Aged Mother of Rev. Groseclose Dies Wednesday

The Rev. J. H. Groseclose, pastor of the Floral Heights Methodist church was notified Wednesday of the death of his aged mother, Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Groseclose was 77 years of age and was at the home of a brother of the Rev. Groseclose at Blacksburg, Va.

She was the daughter of the late Judge John A. Kelley of Virginia, and the sister of Judge Joe A. Kelley, now president of the supreme court of Virginia.

The body is being taken to the old family homestead at Burkes Garden, Va., for burial. Dr. Groseclose announced that he would not attempt the trip to the scene of his mother's death as he could not reach there in time for the services.

Governor Neff Is Besieged by Pardon Pleas

AUSTIN, Nov. 30.—Applications for Christmas pardons continue to roll into Governor Neff's office. Every day's mail brings more requests for pardons for convicts.

Before the governor made his penitentiary inspection tour last week there were approximately 800 applications on file in his office. He pardoned fifty-eight convicts on the trip and only a few of those pardoned had applications among the eight hundred. The number has increased materially since they were last counted and especially since the governor granted the pardons last week.

The governor has not intimated how many pardons he will grant on Christmas day but has said that he will grant some. He has named several convicts who will receive their liberty on that day.

RESILIENT SIDEWALKS TO EASE TIRED FEET

That the sidewalk of the future will be constructed of asphalt because of the necessity of conserving human energy and health as well as the saving due to asphalt's long wearing propensities, its resilient nature and freedom from cracks is the belief expressed by Walter E. Rosengarten, formerly of the engineering faculty, University of Pennsylvania, but more recently of the United States Department of Agriculture, in an address before the Philadelphia Chapter of the American Association of Engineers.

"The jar and headaches resulting from walking on our hard sidewalks," said Mr. Rosengarten, "has led the shoe industries to produce the rubber heel. Is it not also logical for the engineer to adopt a shock-absorbing sidewalk? When one stops to consider the many advantages to be gained by such a sidewalk it is surprising that they are not in universal use. The cushioning effect is not the only advantage which may be considered. The greatly reduced wear on shoes is an economic feature which touches closely the overburdened pocket-book of the pedestrain. It seems to me that we ought to give our people at least as good pavements as we give our horses and motor cars.

"Then, too, the cost of constructing sidewalks of asphaltic materials will be found to be from 25 to 50 per cent cheaper than other types. This, when it is considered that they are not slippery and are easily repaired at little cost, as well as shock absorbing, smooth and pleasant to walk upon, easily cleaned and free from joints and pores, will in time make them very popular.

"Their use in public parks has been found to be very satisfactory. Those in use in Lincoln Park, Chicago, have sustained traffic much heavier than was originally intended. It has cost the Lincoln Park Commisson only about $300 to maintain 70,000 square yards of asphalt walks since they were laid in 1913 and 1914."

The wife of the vicar of a fashionable London surburb tells the story of a new parlor maid who was a great success. One day, however, she went out wearing clothes very much "above her station," and got into a motor car which was waiting near the vicarage gate.

When she returned the vicar's wife, more in sorrow than in anger, suggested that domestic servants who dressed fashionably and drove off in motor cars were hardly suitable for the ecclesiastical atmosphere.

Then the girl confessed. "Oh," she said, "don't be alarmed. The man with the motor car is my father. He made a lot of money during the war, and now we live in a large house. But we didn't know quite how things were done by well-bred people, and so I took this job to find out."

HAVANA, Nov. 30.—What compelling motive sent Lieutenant Colonel Charles W. Whittlesey, commander of the "lost battalion" over board into the sea only a few hours out from New York last Saturday night may be revealed in letters to members of his family and business associates which he left for Captain Grant of the steamer Tolon to deliver.

Nine of these letters were in the captain's possession when the Tolon docked tonight. Captain Grant also received a note from Colonel Whittlesey which he declared he regarded as confidential.

"I can say, however, that from all appearances the act was premeditated," Captain Grant declared, "and that Colonel Whittlesey leaped overboard either just before or just after midnight Saturday."

After experiencing heavy weather nearly all the way from New York, the Tolon docked this evening, nearly ten hours late and it was only after two hours of conference, with representatives of the American and British consulates and the acting first secretary of the American legation, Cord Meyer, Jr., that Captain Grant would give out any statement.

"I learned just before we sailed last Saturday morning that Colonel Whittlesey was aboard," said Captain Grant, "but I did not see him until dinner that night. He sat at my table and appeared quite normal.

"On Monday morning, when it was found that his berth was undisturbed, an investigation was made and nine letters to members of his family, several wireless messages and a note to me were discovered in his berth. The state room was then locked and the papers delivered to me.

"I did not forward the messages, but sent two of my own—one to his executor, John B. Pruyn and another to the company office. The letters entrusted to me I shall mail as soon as possible."

Aged Mother of Rev. Groseclose Dies Wednesday

The Rev. J. H. Groseclose, pastor of the Floral Heights Methodist church was notified Wednesday of the death of his aged mother, Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Groseclose was 77 years of age and was at the home of a brother of the Rev. Groseclose at Blacksburg, Va.

She was the daughter of the late Judge John A. Kelley of Virginia, and the sister of Judge Joe A. Kelley, now president of the supreme court of Virginia.

The body is being taken to the old family homestead at Barkes Garden, Va., for burial. Dr. Groseclose announced that he would not attempt the trip to the scene of his mother's death as he could not reach there in time for the services.

Governor Neff Is Besieged by Pardon Pleas

AUSTIN, Nov. 30.—Applications for Christmas pardons continue to roll into Governor Neff's office. Every day's mail brings more requests for pardons for convicts.

Before the governor made his penitentiary inspection tour last week there were approximately 800 applications on file in his office. He pardoned fifty-eight convicts on the trip and only a few of those pardoned had applications among the eight hundred. The number has increased materially since they were last counted and especially since the governor granted the pardons last week.

The governor has not intimated how many pardons he will grant on Christmas day but has said that he will grant some. He has named several convicts who will receive their liberty on that day.

RESILIENT SIDEWALKS TO EASE TIRED FEET

That the sidewalk of the future will be constructed of asphalt because of the necessity of conserving human energy and health as well as the saving due to asphalt's long wearing propensities, its resilient nature and freedom from cracks is the belief expressed by Walter E. Rosengarten, formerly of the engineering faculty, University of Pennsylvania, but more recently of the United States Department of Agriculture, in an address before the Philadelphia Chapter of the American Association of Engineers.

"The jar and headaches resulting from walking on our hard sidewalks", said Mr. Rosengarten, "has led the shoe industries to produce the rubber heel. Is it not also logical for the engineer to adopt a shock-absorbing sidewalk? When one stops to consider the many advantages to be gained by such a sidewalk it is surprising that they are not in universal use. The cushioning effect is not the only advantage which may be considered. The greatly reduced wear on shoes is an economic feature which touches closely the overburdened pocket-book of the pedestrain. It seems to me that we ought to give our people at least as good pavements as we give our horses and motor cars.

"Then, too, the cost of constructing sidewalks of asphaltic materials will be found to be from 25 to 50 per cent cheaper than other types. This, when it is considered that they are not slippery and are easily repaired at little cost, as well as shock absorbing, smooth and pleasant to walk upon, easily cleaned and free from joints and pores, will in time make them very popular.

"Their use in public parks has been found to be very satisfactory. Those in use in Lincoln Park, Chicago, have sustained traffic much heavier than was originally intended. It has cost the Lincoln Park Commisson only about $300 to maintain 70,000 square yards of asphalt walks since they were laid in 1913 and 1914."

"Is the boss in?" asked the visitor.

The office boy, with his chair tilted back and his legs stretched out on desk, made on reply.

"I asked if the boss was in," said the visitor.

The office boy glanced at him, but remained silent. "Didn't you hear me?" snapped the visitor.

"Of course, I heard you," answered the boy, scornfully.

"Then why the dickens didn't you tell me if the boss's in"

"Now, " ask you," retorted the boy, as he recrossed his legs on the desk, "does it look like it?"

The wife of the vicar of a fashionable London surburb tells the story of a new parlor maid who was a great success. One day, however, she went out wearing clothes very much "above her station," and got into a motor car which was waiting pear the vicarage gate.

When she returned the vicar's wife, more in sorrow than in anger, suggested that domestic servants who dressed fashionably and drove off in motor cars were hardly suitable for the ecclesiastical atmosphere.

Then the girl confessed. "Oh," she said, "don't be alarmed. The man with the motor car is my father. He made a lot of money during the war, and now we live in a large house. But we didn't know qhite how things were done by well-bred people, and so I took this job to find out."

COFFEE

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—The market for coffee futures opened at a decline of six to nine points under scattering liquidation and there may also have been a little trade selling against freer cost and freight offerings from Brazil late yesterday. The nearly cables showed easier Rio exchange rates and milreis quotations were lower but later Rio exchange on London rallied and the market here steadied up to about or a shade over yesterday's closing figures on recovering. This advance was not fully maintained with the market closing net five points lower to four points higher. Sales were estimated at about 30,000 bags. December 8.55; January 8.45; March 8.30; May 8.12; July 8.04; September 7.98.

Spot coffee was reported in moderate demand at 9 to 9 1-8 for Rio sevens and 11 3-4 to 12 1-4 for Santos fours. Cost and freight offers were irregular with some of them a shade lower. Santos threes and fives were offered at 11.35 to 11.45; Rio sevens at 8.60 and Victoria sevens and [illegible] at 8.00 to 8.10 American cred-

Stocks

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—Bonds were the only stable features of today's active and inconclusive session of the stock exchange. Liberty issues, almost without exception, added to their sustained ris. and other seasoned bonds continued to strengthen but the share list was hesitant or reactionary.

Oils, steels, equipments, chemicals, fertilizers, and food specialties made gross recessions of one to five points. Prominent miscellaneous issues were lower by one to three points.

Heaviness of oils, which did not extend to standard oil of New Jersey and the European group was accentuated by reports that the Mexican government contemplates an increase of the export tax to meet requirements of its new budget. Sales amounted to 750,000 shares.

Money rates were firm in connection with December disbursements.

Leading foreign exchanges rose substantially on announcement that the United States intends to participate in the proposed meeting of European bankers which has for its object the stabilization of international credits. Sterling demand bills rose a fraction over $4, and all the continental quotations were higher by 7 to 15 points, the Dutch rate alone reacting.

Advances among liberty bonds from 10 per cent per 100 to more than $1, final prices easing, however, on profit taking.

The same was true of the general bond list in which realizing seemed a strong temptation. Total sales par value, $22,850,000.

Cotton

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—The cotton market was quiet today but prices ruled generally higher on reports of a better tone in Liverpool and reiterated rumors that trade interests were planning to take up considerable cotton on contract here next month. After selling off to 17.40 early January advanced to 17.75 and closed at 17.63 with the general market closing barely steady at a net advance of 5 to 14 points on relatively firm Liverpool cables and reports of a better feeling in Manchester. There was some scattering liquidation and southern selling at the start as a result of which prices eased off right after the call, active months soon showing net losses of 3 to 6 points with December selling at 17.50 and March at 17.32. The comparatively small offerings were soon absorbed, however, and the market was firmer during the middle of the day on covering near months shorts which sent December up to 17.90 or 37 points net higher. The firmer ruling of this position helped the tone of later deliveries and March sold at 17.66 or 28 points net higher but trading remained very quiet.

Trading remained very quiet and there were reactions in the later trading under realizing. A telegram received here from Dallas said that Liverpool in the spot market there but most other messages complained of a poor spot demand. Reports of a cointinued small demand for goods also tended to hold the advance in check and one of the later cables from Liverpool said that there was no improvement in Manchester business. Reports that the Texas commissioner of agriculture estimated the cost of producing the present crop at 25.8 cents per pound attracted some attention and may have contribuated to the early afternoon advance.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 30.—After a session of minor fluctuations both above and below the level of yesterday's close, the cotton market today finally closed at net gains of five to 19 points. The chief argument in favor of higher prices was the persistent report that important spot interests were long of December and were preparing to take up considerable cotton in that month. The argument most used against prices was that there was no great activity in the spot department.

After advances of six to eleven points around the opening, in response to a better Liverpool than due, the market commenced to lose ground under claims of an easier spot basis in some of the western belt markets, although little later Dallas wired that the basis there was hardening and points in Georgia claimed that buyers for Carolina mills were paying the highest basis since last September. Prices slid off to declines of six to ten points under the close of yesterday before the downward trend was checked. This carried January down to 16.74.

The claims concerning the intentions of large spot interests concerning December commenced to have their effect and tword noon prices were at their highest levels, at a rise of 25 to 31 points over yesterday's finals which made January 17.15. During the remainder of the day there was a tendency toward small sags.

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—Cottonseed oil was quiet with trading mainly professional. After declines of 4 to 7 points the market steadied up in sympathy with cotton and grains and closed two to nine points net higher. Sales 5,900 barrels. Tenders 200 barrels. Prime crude 6.90@7.00; prime summer yellow spot 8.05@8.20; January 8.40; March 8.69 and May 8.88, all bid.

DRY GOODS.

CHICAGO, Nov. 30. — Record breaking low estimates of the condition of the domestic crop of winter wheat had much to do with a sharp upturn today in wheat values here. The close was firm, 2c to 2 1-2c net higher, with December 1.13 3-4 to 1.13 7-8 and May 1.17 3-4 to 1.17 7-8. Corn gained 3-4 to 1 1-4, oats finished 1-4 off to a like advance, and provisions varying from 10c decline to a rise of 30 cents.

According to a recognized authority, the condition of the United States winter wheat crop taken as a whole is 77 as against a ten year average of 88.4. Such an estimate together with normal winter loss of acreage suggested a yield of 475,000,000 bushels compared with 544,000,000 bushels harvested this year. The only offset early was draught news from Oklahoma, Texas and Kansas.

Corn and oats hardened with wheat. Export demand for corn was good and country offerings light.

Provisions had no decided trend. Business lacked volume and the market was easily influenced.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—The local market for raw sugar was quiet and as no sales were reported prices were unchanged at 3.87½ to 4.11 for centrifugal. New crop sugars, however, are offered in increased volume and are available below the spot quotations.

The market for raw sugar futures sold at new low records under scattered trade and commission house selling prompted by the more liberal offerings of new crop sugar in the spot market at lower levels. Final prices were 1 to 3 points net lower with January closing at 2.17; March 2.16; May 2.27 and July 2.37.

The market for refined sugar was quiet with buyers not inclined to anticipate, and limiting purchases to nearby requirements only. Prices were unchanged at 5.20 to 5.30 for fine granulated.

There were no sales in refined sugars futures and closing prices were five points higher to 10 net lower. December closed at 5.30; March 5.25 and May 5.30.

OBREGON GETS CLOCK.

The Chinese colony in Mexico City has presented that municipality with a Chinese clock, which was officially accepted by President Obregon and a company of diplomats recently, and is now telling time in the oriental way. The mayor wound the clock, and champagne was served. During the ceremony the Mexican hymn and the Chinese national anthem were played.

Parley Thrills Blase Natives Of Washington

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—Ordinarily blase, if not "hard boiled" in its attitude toward big folks, Washington is taking a keen delight in watching the leading figures at the arms conference. This is especially so on plenary session days, when a multitude invariably assembles outside Continental Hall. Since there are few open sessions the crowds gather daily in front of the Pan-American building to watch the "big nine" and the others hurrying away from committee sessions at luncheon time.

A glimpse of Arthur J. Balfour, Admiral Baron Kato, Prince Tokugawa and the others is about all the crowds get, but it seems to satisfy. While less of a novelty, there seems to be just as much interest in the appearance of Secretary Hughes, Mr. Root, a former secretary of state, and Senators Lodge and Underwood, America's big four. Often Mr. Hughes is seen jammed in the seat of his car with a couple of secretaries, but just as often Senator Lodge and Mr. Root disappoint the crowds by leaving the meeting place afoot together through an entrance where the crowds are thin.

Limousines and army cars take the delegates to headquarters or homes, but a sight which is strange somehow to the watchers is Ambassador Jusserand of France departing in a hired car.

NORTH OHIO PAVING IS FINISHED

Work on the street paving on North Ohio from Sixth street to Fourth street, comprising the Denver railroad's part of the paving, has been finished. This makes an unbroken stretch of paving on both sides of Ohio from Sixth to Front street, with the exception of about 100 feet on the east side which is being held up on account of a controversy.

The gap in the South Ohio street paving between Eleventh and Twelfth streets is being paved. Completion of this stretch will make a short gap south of Twelfth street the only part unpaved.

Pythians to Work for 600 Members Here

Much activity and creation of new interest in the work of local Knights of Pythias is expected to follow from preliminary steps taken during the last few days by the local lodge, which now has approximately 300 local members and is expected to have 600 by the close of the year.

The closing of a contract whereby the local lodge will take its headquarters in the Maer building at Ninth and Travis, formerly used as the Arcadia dance hall was announced Wednesday. The hall to be remodled to consists of rest rooms, dressing rooms, completing a meeting hall that will compare favorably with any in Texas.

Officerr nominated for 1922 are announced as follows: M. A. Bundy, chancellor commander; Claud Miller, vice-chancellor; E. L. Cole, prelate; C. L. Bentley, master of work; C. C. Westfall, master at arms; A. E. Brown, inner guard; Roy Westfall, outer guard; A. L. Fitts, keeper of the records and seal; John T. Butts, master exchecker; Dr. J. W. Duval, master of finance; H. O. Cravens, trustee; O. T. Gorsline, grand representative.

Dr. Duval, W. K. White and M. A. Bundy have been appointed to superintend the work of remodeling the new meeting hall, which the Pythians expect to occupy on January 1.

The finances of the local lodge are reported in excellent condition and the Pythian orphanage at Weatherford receiving liberal support. A considerable collection has been taken for the orphanage and W. T. Harris, O. P. Maricle and O. W. Hine appointed a committee to receive further contributions. Headquarter for the committee is at the county clerk's office at the court house.

LANING AND MONNIGER ON 1000-FT. SAND

Laning and Moninger's No. 5 Dodson (25 acres) was reported Wednesday on the 1,000-foot sand, of the South Burkburnett-Texhoma pool, and showing up for an unusually good producer. While the star is being rigged up to drill in the oil is reported almost within a hundred feet of the top. This lease has produced some of the best 1,000-foot wells in the pool, several of them flowing and swabbing better than 300 barrels a day, flush. The No. 4, drilled in last week, has been put on the pump and is reported making 150 barrels.

In the same pool the J. I. Staley No. 3 Beach was a recent completion, and had an unusually strong gas pressure reported. The flush production was reported better than 200 barrels.

The Laning and Moninger's No. 2 Newby-Dodson, also in the 1,000-foot sand, has been put on the pump, and is reported a 75-barrel well. The No. 3, this lease, is reported drilling around 700 feet, and the No. 5 on the Dodson 25-acre lease of these operators was a new location Wednesday.

At Electra the Bridwell and Heydrick No. 7 Waggoner, west side of the South Electra bubble pool, was reported rigging up to pump Wednesday, sand at 900-feet. It was estimated by the owners to be around 25 or 30 barrels. The No. 6, same lease, is reported down around 1,600 feet, drilling for the 1,800-foot sand.

The Gulf Production company's No. 5 Collett in the south part of the pool, which was drilled into the sand last week, and at first gave promise of a rather large producer, has not yet been given a good test, it is reported, but has so far failed to come up to expectations aroused when the well started flowing by heads, as the plug was being drilled out. It has been placed on the pump.

"Wants White Hoss, but Wants To Go Home to His Mammy, Too," Little Negro Who Ran Away Says

"Yas suh, I'd sho'ly like to have that theah white hoss, but I wants to go home to my mammy now," was the sum and total of the information put forth Wednesday by 11-year-old Earl Clark, black as tar and guileless as is possible for a negro child of city streets to be, who declared he had followed the Sells Floto circus here from Dallas on the promise of "some white man" that he would be given a snow white pony in payment for his services.

Earl said that his contract did not call for any work, "jus' helpin' the white man and packin' and unpackin' his trunk."

The little negro was picked up early Wednesday morning by Mrs. C. E. Ousley, secretary of the Welfare Council. He told Mrs. Ousley that his home was in Dallas.

"My mammy give me a dollah and told me to see the cu'cus and be home foah midnight. At the cu'cus a man done tol' me if I go 'long with 'im he'd give me a white hoss when we got heah," the little negro asserted in explaining how he came to be so far from home and without funds to buy his hot cakes.

The boy asserted that he went to school regularly in Dallas and was in the second grade.

"An' if I evuh get back I ain't nevuh goin' to leave no moah," the child finished.

Mrs. Ousley declared that he will be cared for and sent back to his home.

Shallow Sand Reported From Call Field Test

Striking of a sand at 280 feet, with promise of production, is reported from the test of the Boaz Oil company, on the Hund farm, close to Call Field, and to the city limits of Wichita Falls.

The sand was several feet thick in this test, it is reported, and though drilling will continue for deeper sands in this rotary hole, it is reported a star rig will start drilling shortly, in the hope of developing this shallow sand.
