More Teen-Agers Working...

Jobless Rate Drops To 5.7%

By MICHAEL DOAN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)-The unemployment rate dropped dramatically from 6.1 percent to 5.7 percent of the nation's workforce in June, the lowest rate in nearly four years, the Labor Department said today.

Teen-agers accounted for about half of the 400,000 decline in the number of unemployed persons during June, as their jobless rate dropped from 16.5 percent to 14.2 percent.

Nearly all of this gain was among white teen-agers, the department said.

A booming economy produced 710,000 new jobs last month, the biggest increase since 800,000 positions were created in November 1977.

Meanwhile, the Labor Department reported that rising food costs again contributed to a 0.7 percent increase in wholesale prices last month, the same increase as in May. The rises were smaller than during last winter, but could still keep inflation going at an 8.4 percent rate if they continue throughout the year.

Wholesale prices for food rose 1.1 percent in June, a sharp jump from the 0.5 percent gain the month before.

The 5.7 percent jobless rate last month marked the first time that unemployment has fallen below the 6 percent barrier since October 1974, when it was 5.9 percent. And the June level was the lowest since the 5.4 percent rate in August 1974.

Unemployment peaked at 9.1 percent in May 1975 before dropping to 7.1 percent in April and 6.1 percent in February of this year.

The Labor Department said the unemployment rate among black teen-agers, a major concern to the Carter administration, declined only slightly, from 38.4 percent to 37.1 percent.

A department analyst, Jack Bregger, said much of the gain for white teen-agers last month could be attributed to the opening up of summer jobs.

The unemployment rate for adult men dropped from 4.2 percent to 3.9 percent in June, while joblessness among adult women declined from 6.3 percent to 6.1 percent.

Blacks and other minorities had slightly better luck finding jobs as their unemployment rate dipped from 12.3 percent to 11.9 percent.

The biggest gain in June was in the construction industry, where 85,000 jobs were created. In the past year, about 500,000 persons have found new building jobs, but most economists expect the housing boom to level off later in the year.

Other industries enlarging their payrolls were state and local government, service industries, retail stores and finance, insurance and real estate companies.

However, factories did little new hiring after employing 645,000 new workers over the past year, the department said.

Overall, 94.8 million persons held jobs in June.

Miss Mintoff Freed

LONDON (AP)-The daughter of Malta's prime minister and another leftist were freed today pending further court action for hurling bags of horse dung down on the debating House of Commons to protest British control of Northern Ireland.

Yana Mintoff, 26-year-old daughter of Prime Minister Dom Mintoff, and John McSherry, 24, were charged with causing criminal damage to the floor of the lower house of Parliament.

Navratilova Wins

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)-Martina Navratilova, appearing in the final for the first time, defeated two-time champion Chris Evert today 2-6, 6-4, 7-5 for the women's singles title in the Wimbledon tennis championships.

Navratilova, the strong Czech left-hander who defected to the United States almost three years ago, became the first player born in an Eastern European country to win the women's title here.

Beirut Fight Rages

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Israel and Syria squared off against each other today because of the Syrian attack on Lebanese Christians, and Lebanese President Elias Sarkis threatened to resign unless both Syria and the Christians gave him a free hand to govern.

An Israeli Army spokesman in Tel Aviv confirmed a report by Radio Israel that the Jewish state had strengthened its forces "along the entire border" to the north. The reinforcements were sent up as another warning to Syria to stop its attack on Israel's Christian allies in Lebanon, the rightwing Phalange and National Liberal parties and their militias.

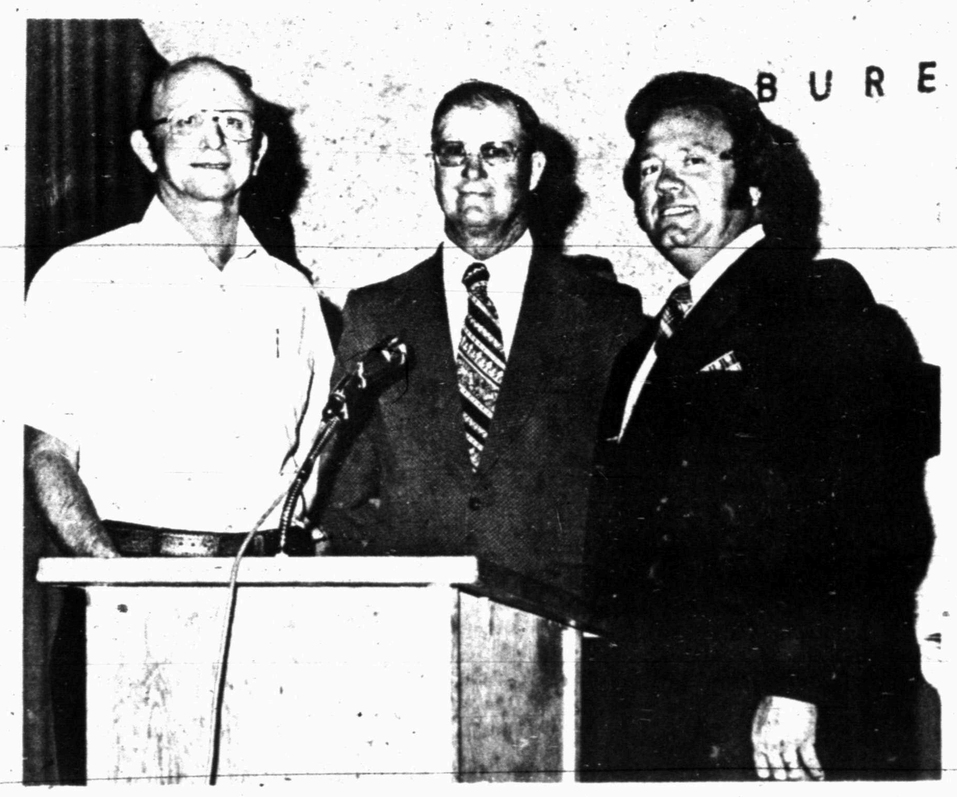
Pluto Has Moon

WASHINGTON (AP)—A moon has been discovered orbiting the planet Pluto, a finding astronomers say reveals as well that the solar system's most distant planet also is its smallest, the U.S. Naval Obsevatory announced today.

The discovery leaves only Mercury and Venus, the nearest planets to the sun, without moons. The finding brings to 35 the number of satellites circling the other seven planets.

Moore Flood Deaths

ROCHESTER, Minn. (AP)-As flood waters receded after killing at least five people in this southern Minnesota town, three more died in flash floods that struck 140 miles to the northwest, authorities said.



ATTENDING BANQUET—Although the guest speaker, Texas Farm Bureau President Carrol Chaloupka, did not arrive at the annual Scurry County Farm Bureau banquet Thursday night, the banquet was attended by local and district officers. CIA Book Profits Are Impounded

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (AP)-A federal district judge today ordered that every cent Frank W. Snepp III makes from publication of a book about CIA actions during the fall of Saigon shall be impounded in a court-supervised trust.

This may mean that Snepp will have to forfeit all his profits from the book, "Decent Interval." Attorneys have said the case will be appealed to higher courts.

U.S. Districts Judge Oren R. Lewis also ruled that Snepp will be enjoined from any further violation of a secrecy agreement which he signed when he went to work for the Central Intelligence Agency requiring that anything he wrote about the agency should be submitted for pre-publication review.

"The CIA cannot protect its intelligence sources and methods if its agents are allowed to determine what intelligence ought to be made public," Lewis said in a written order.

"One who breaches his trust and secrecy agreements with the agency of the United States charged with the responsibility for protecting intelligence sources and methods ought not to be permitted to retain his ill gotten gains.

"Anything less will not suffice to prevent unauthorized disclosure of such information."

Snepp contended that his book did not disclose any confidential information, and government prosecutors in the civil suit did not contest this.

The CIA maintained, however, that the book disclosed information about agency operations which sould remain secret.

Lewis said that Snepp admitted he did everything he could to keep the CIA from knowning about the book prior to its publication.

Scharansky Trial

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet dissident Anatoly Shcharansky, whose imprisonment on allegations of spying for the United States has become an issue in East-West relations, will go on trial Monday on charges of high treason, the Tass news agency reported today.

'78 Construction Over $3¼-Million

Snyder's 1978 building figures have not matched those of the record year of 1977 during the first six months, but they are rolling along at a respectable pace.

The half-year total for 1978 reached $3,287,246 with the addition of $288,840 during the month of June. This makes June a comparatively low month and it is considerably below the same month last year when the total was $1,380,593. However, it was in June last year that the permit for the new county jail added almost a million dollars to the total.

The biggest item on the June total this year was a couple of permits for Skinney's Convenience stores. These totalled $121,540. There was only one single-family dwelling on the June list this time, valued at $40,000, although there are some 13 new residences still under construction from May permits and the total number of new single-family dwellings for the year has reached 56, the highest number in some time.

The June figures ran the total for the city's current fiscal year (which ends Sept. 30) to $4,394,204. At this time last year, the fiscal year had accounted for a total of $7,392,057.

The big permits which sent 1977 to an all-time record have not been matched so far this year, but directly ahead is a new hospital project which will add more than $3 million to this year's total. Also, residential building is expected to continue at a brisk pace here.

Wasps Cause Problems For Mail Carriers

It is wasps, not dogs, that are terrorizing Snyder mailmen these days, according to Earl Edwards, a mailman with 28 years experience under his feet.

"It is so bad at a few places that I have stopped delivering the mail," something he says he has the option to do. "I leave a note in their boxes telling them that when the wasps are gone I will start delivering again."

Edwards says it is this way every year. He says front porches are favorite places for wasp nests but that he has even found them inside mailboxes.

"After I got stung today I started trying to think of ways to let the people know about our problem. Maybe if they read about it in the paper they will do something to get rid of the wasps around their houses."

Ask Us

Q--Is there going to be a provision made for the elderly and the handicapped or a reduction in the rate increase that Texas Electric has asked for?

A--No, said Henry Clark, manager of the local Texas Electric Service Co. There is no lifeline provision in this proposed increase, he said.

Bell Contempt Charge Lifted

NEW YORK (AP)—A federal Appeals Court judge today lifted a contempt citation against U.S. Attorney General Griffin B. Bell pending the outcome of an appeal.

The move will allow government attorneys to appeal another court's order that Bell turn over files on 18 FBI informants to lawyers for the Socialist Workers Party.

Youths Battle Animals In Colorado City Rodeo

COLORADO CITY--The second night of the First Annual American Junior Rodeo Association rodeo here drew a somewhat smaller crowd than on opening night but the contestants were undaunted. They gave their best as they battled the animals, the clock and each other for a share of the $9,000 purse.

Those winning the most money in the AJRA rodeos across the country qualify for the national finals which will be held in Snyder August 8-12.

Toya Bolton was the only cowboy who managed to stay on top of his bull in the boys 16-19 year old division. The San Angelo man managed to score 73 points in the process, putting him out front in that event with two nights remaining of rodeo action.

Tanya Boydstun of Snyder, recorded the best time of the night in girls 16-19 poles with a time of 20.74 seconds. She also had the second best time of the night in the barrel race with a time of 19.0 seconds.

Melody Walker of Rotan had the best time in the girls 16-19 barrel race with a 18.81 reading.

Leslie Ward of Snyder turned in the best time for the barrel race for girls 12 and under. She was clocked at 19.30.

Competing with the clowns for laughs and each other for a place in the finals Saturday night were the local calf dressers.

The Colorado City Optimist Club managed to put the bloomers on its calf first last night. That team consists of David Hancock, Rayford Gardner and David Petty.

The rodeo will continue tonight and Saturday night at the Western Riding Arena west of town. Action starts about 7:30.

The top performers Thursday evening were:

Bareback Riding Boys 16-19-Billy Grady, Brownwood, 59; Mike Stutts, Eastland, 60.

Tiedown Roping Boys 13-15-Billy Dale Haley, Abilene, 13.3; James Doss, Big Spring, 14.3.

Tiedown Roping Boys 16-19-Andy Smith, San Angelo, 9.8; Darrel Lambert, Abilene, 12.4.

Barrel Race Boys 12 and Under-Shawn Chambers, Haskell, 18.86; Todd Behringer, Crawford, 19.51.

Barrel Race Girls 12 and Under-Leslie Ward, Snyder, 19.30; Christine Langston, Plainview, 24.30.

Barrel Race Girls 13-15-Teressa Langston, Plainview, 18.58; Jinita Williams, Lovington, NM, 19.0.

Barrel Race Girls 16-19-Melody Walker, Rotan, 18.81; Tanya Boydstun, Snyder, 19.0.

Keeping tab on our neighbors:

Orlin Brewer of the Vernon Record says the double garage attached to a new dwelling in that city evoked considerable comment and speculation. The garage appeared to be only six or eight feet deep, causing some to wonder if it had been designed to accommodate a new type of sub-compact auto.

That wasn't the case at all, Brewer reported. The owner wanted a fourth bedroom in a house originally of a three-bedroom design. Yet, in case he decided to put it on the market in the future and the purchaser wanted the option of a full garage with one less bedroom, a partition could be removed easily to conform to his wishes.

big brother's yoke

Time was when inventors of useful innovations were praised and honored. If the experience of University of Wisconsin professor George Davida is any indication, that time may be coming to an end in this country.

In one of the strangest developments we've ever heard of the professor, who has invented a "simple machine" to prevent unauthorized persons from getting at computer information, has been threatened with fines and imprisonment by the federal government if he writes or talks about his invention to anyone other than federal agents.

Talk about Big Brotherism!

The stranger than fiction episode began when Professor Davida developed a very simple machine that solves a big problem, the security of computers, keeping unauthorized persons from getting at records. No doubt the professor had read numerous news accounts about the misuse of such information, often criminally obtained, and determined to do something about the problem.

Anyway, after perfecting the safeguard device, he turned the results over to the Wisconsin Alumni Research Foundation, which applied for a patent. It was then that the professor got the threat.

In April of this year, Davida received a three-page letter from the U.S. Commerce Department's patent and trademark office telling him that he faced two years in prison and a $10,000 fine if he wrote or talked about his own invention to other than agents of the federal government.

Putting it mildly, both Davida and the university are upset. Who can blame them?

After all, the professor hasn't developed a means of getting at computer information (in which case, one could begin to understand the government's knee-jerk reaction, given its penchant for secrecy), but, to the contrary, has discovered a means of safeguarding such information from unauthorized disclosure.

Then why the threats, one is inclined to ask. With the government unable to protect its own embassy in Moscow from Soviet electronic taps, for example, one would think that the federal powers-that-be would be eager to enlist Davida's expertise, rather than threatening him about his own invention.

It all leaves one wondering, to say the least.

Can it be that the professor, endeavoring to put a stop to criminal use of computer information, has stumbled upon a method of preventing the government from snooping in areas where it has no business being - private enterprise computers, for instance?

tax problem endures

President Carter is pulling out all the stops to salvage some kind of tax reduction bill he can sign this year, but there is no sign yet that Congress will cooperate.

House Ways and Means Committee action on a tax bill has been postponed at least another week or so to give Carter and other administration officials time to lobby committee members and stir up public support for Carter's position.

Even though the president has agreed to scrap nearly all his reform proposals, Democrats on the House panel still cannot agree on a tax cut plan acceptable to the president.

Not only is there an excellent chance the panel will approve a capital gains tax reduction which Carter opposes, it might even vote some version of the Republican-sponsored Kemp-Roth plan for deep, across-the-board slashes in income tax rates. The administration considers such cuts unthinkable.

If any tax bill is approved this year, it is likely to be pasted together at the last possible instant before adjournment in a House-Senate conference committee where the opportunities for mischief are always abundant.

at wits end

by erma bombeck

(Author's Note: This is one of a series on "How America Vacations" and how shots can help. Today's column deals with traveling by car.)

A couple of years ago, an association was formed by parents who traveled cross-country by car. It was called "Family Vacations Anonymous." There was an 800 number to call and if you were even tempted to load the family up in the car and see America, you would be in immediate contact with a former Family Vacationer who would come over and have a drink with you and talk you out of it.

The stories at the meetings were heartrending. One man just told of how he began vacationing by car with his family just to be sociable. At first, he nipped at small trips a hundred miles or so from his home...then things got out of hand and the next thing you know they were going on binges of up to three weeks on the highways. (Sometimes averaging as much as 12 miles a day.)

Another man told a bizarre story about not being able to pass a souvenir shop without the family throwing themselves from the car. They spent their entire vacation shuffling through backscratchers, keychains with animal appendages dangling from them, mountaineers crouching in outhouses, plaid rocks and chewy candies that pulled the braces right off their teeth.

There were stories of how one father had a child kick his seat for 567 miles and finally went crazy ... another of how the children put a quarter in a vibrating bed and got it stuck, and a mother who went up to a perfect stranger who was getting into his car at the gas station and said, "What do you mean, you don't have to go!"

The statistics of families who overindulge in family vacations are (you should excuse the expression) staggering.

The association has a list of rules so that you may figure out whether or not you should avail yourself of Family Vacations Anonymous.

Do you vacation alone with your family or do you go on guided tours and charter group flights?

Are you an embarrassment when the kids order everything on the menu and eat nothing but the pickles?

Is vacationing with your family a habit or can you quit anytime you want to?

A warning: Before you drive off someday leaving your kids in a public restroom and your wife in a gift shop...get help!

my turn

by john dunnam

Rodeo season has arrived in West Texas and the first rodeo to hit Colorado City in several years is going on right now. It is a junior rodeo and at the halfway point it has been successful enough to please the promoters, rodeo personnel and the fans.

I get a kick out of the younger cowboys, those from about 12 to 15 years of age.

At first glance they all look alike. They tend to be small, lithe and they all dress alike. And how they dress!

They are topped with a hat large enough to smuggle in beer a keg at a time and each hat is adorned with a feather or at least a few toothpicks sticking out of the band. On the other end is a pair of well-worn boots. Their pants are carefully tucked about half in and half out of these.

Their middles are cinched with a wide belt that sports a huge buckle. The belt is invariably four or five sizes too big and on the tight jeans it is as necessary as mammary protuberances on a swine of the male persuasion.

With their feathered hats bobbing up and down as they strut around the arena and their spurs jingling behind their boots, these fiesty little cowhands look like banty roosters parading in the barnyard.

At this stage of their cowboying careers they are natural showmen. They carry on through the evening energetically intimidating the roping calves and amazing even seasoned rodeo bulls with their audacity.

MEL KIMBRO
...small in statue, high in spirit

Wednesday night El Paso's Casey Lambert spurred a huge bull mercilessly while I watched through my camera lens safely perched atop the fence. When the horn blew he jumped off and with an arrogant smirk jauntily strided away. Had he stopped on his way out of the arena and spat in the bull's face, I nor the animal would have been surprised.

The mini-cowboys obviously grow out of this stage. The 16-19 year olds seem almost mature enough to call sir and are more athlete than showman. I'm sure a more practiced eye can appreciate their feats but the only thing I get out of watching them is a yen for a Marlboro cigarette.

Berry's World

martha angle and robert walters

WASHINGTON (NEA) - In the push-and-shove world of Washington, delay is usually the equivalent of a death knell. But it can, on occasion, be a reprieve from disaster instead.

The latter is clearly the case with the postponement from 1979 to 1981 of the White House Conference on Families which President Carter first proposed during his campaign two years ago.

Like most of his campaign promises, Carter's plan for a massive national convocation on what ails the American family and what the government can or should do about it turned out to be fraught with practical and political difficulties.

The immediate cause of the postponement announced last week by HEW Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr. was administrative trouble. For nearly 18 months, planning responsibility for the conference had bounced around HEW with almost nothing getting done.

The big-name outside chairman of the conference, former HEW secretary Wilbur Cohen, had been forced to resign because of health problems.

The "inside" director, Patsy Fleming, a special assistant to Califano, quit in angry protest when Califano decided to name a white, Catholic male as her co-director. (His original choice of Mrs. Fleming, a black divorcee with three teenaged children, had come under fire by the Rev. Andrew Greeley, a Catholic priest who writes a syndicated newspaper column).

No agenda had been drawn up for the conference. No decisions had been made on how delegates would be chosen. From a practical standpoint, it was obvious that the conference should be postponed.

But what had also become evident, to both HEW and the White House, was the political delicacy of any government-sponsored conference on the family.

Conservatives who have battled the Equal Rights Amendment, opposed abortion and child care legislation and disrupted last year's International Women's Year conference were starting to focus on the planned family conference. From a different direction, there were rumbles from black groups fearful the conference would concentrate too heavily on the stereotypical two-parent, two-child white middle-class family.

Belatedly, it dawned on the administration that a White House Conference on Families just months before the next presidential election could easily turn into a political donnybrook of the first order.

"We knew from the beginning that this is a hairy topic, but I'm not sure anybody in the administration realized it," said Robert Rice, director of policy analysis for the private Family Services Association of America.

"It wouldn't do anybody any good to go forward with a poorly planned conference, especially American families. I'm glad they postponed it, provided they still intend to hold one and do it right this time."

Indeed, there is a useful purpose to a White House Conference on Families - if only educational in nature. Directly and indirectly, government politics today have an enormous impact on family life which has never been coherently examined.

A conference that respects the diversity of American family structures, values and functional roles could clarify the ways in which government either harms or helps this most basic of social institutions.

But such a conference requires careful planning and firm administration, not the slapdash stop-and-go attention it has received thus far. The delay until 1981 not only provides a second chance for such planning, it also removes the family conference from the treacherous reaches of the 1980 political currents.

mixed situation

NEW YORK (AP) - We enter the second half of 1978 hauling a mixed bag of economic fears and hopes, tension and relief, good news and bad, bright prospects and grim.

While some might describe this situation as one in which we don't know whether to laugh or cry, its impact on stock market advisers has been confusion. Then indicators, you might say, are blinking green and red.

What can analysts make of gambling stocks providing the leadership on the New York Stock Exchange? Is it bad money chasing out good? Is the infusion of excitement isolated or contagious? What are the odds?

Ceasar's World Inc. hit the jackpot, leading all Big Board stocks through June with 247.27 percent gain. Playboy Enterprises followed at 196.67. And on the Amex, Resorts International soared 220.9 percent.

But, a study by Interactive Data Corp. shows, shares of some of the market's most substantial companies also soared, especially in the aerospace, agricultural machinery and electronics categories.

In the second quarter, for example, the market value of International Business Machines rose by $3.18 billion, while Eastman Kodak rose $1.80 billion and Schlumberger $1.41 billion.

While brokers wonder just what is and is not a blue chip, especially since the casinos lay prior claim to the term, there is need for clarification also in what's happening in consumer forecasting.

They agree on at least one thing, that inflation is causing a lot of concern among all economic levels, that confidence in government is eroding and that there could be a message in it for President Carter.

But it isn't quite clear whether or not they agree about the extent of buying in advance of higher prices, which could have a pronounced and negative impact on sales during the second half of the year.

The University of Michigan Survey Research Center says the buy-in-advance psychology is very strong. The Conference Board claims that "Contrary to popular theory, rising prices do not spur consumers to buy now in fear of paying more later."

The point is quite important, because if sales are indeed being "borrowed" from later in the year, then current sales figures are unrealistically inflated and will result in weakness later on.

While the consumer analysts are working out their differences, there remains a deeper concern among economists: With the expansion now in its 40th month, can it continue much longer.

Very few expansions have lasted this long, despite attempts to tame the economic cycle. It is for this reason that some economists tend to say it has to end soon. But most remain a bit more confident.

A panel of 12 economists making up the Conference Board Economic Forum announced this week that they expect sharply curtailed economic growth in 1979 - but growth nevertheless. Only one forecast a recession.

Girls Go Where The Action Is

By Abigail Van Buren

1978 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My husband owns his own business. It's small, but fairly successful. He has 10 men working for him and one girl (I'll call her "Jill") who handles the office and does a great job. Jill is only 20 and not super-attractive, but not ugly either.

My husband and four of the men who work for him recently formed a bowling team. They're all married men with families. Well, Jill decided that these men need her support, so she started showing up at the bowling alley with a girlfriend when the men bowl.

One of the wives complained to me about it, so I told my husband and he said it's a free country and Jill can go anywhere she wants. He said he doesn't want to lose her as an employee, so he's not going to say anything to her.

I say she should be told very nicely to clean up her act. She gave my husband a Christmas present after working for him about a month. I think she's coming on too strong, but if you think I'm wrong, I'll let it go.

Sign me...

LOOKING OUT FOR NO. 1

DEAR LOOKING. I fail to see what is "dirty" about the girl's act. I agree with your husband. Jill has a right to go where she wants. And if you and the other wives are wise, you'll pull in your claws.

DEAR ABBY: I wish you would say something about the selfishness of people who buy two-door automobiles when they could just as easily buy a car with four doors. Of course, those two-door car owners don't have to worry. They always ride up in front, and never have the inconvenience of having to crawl in and out of a car and be confined back there with no leg room whatsoever.

Please don't tell me that two-door cars are cheaper. When one spends $6,000 for an automobile, a few hundred dollars more doesn't matter. I have also heard the excuse that two-door models are sportier and better looking! That is also ridiculous.

Personally, I would rather stay home than ride in the back seat of a two-door car. And I hope you will see fit to print this in your column because I know others share my opinion.

NO NAME, PLEASE

DEAR NO NAME: Two-door cars are preferred by some parents with small children. Others prefer them for other reasons. The option is yours: Ride or stay home.

DEAR ABBY: When I married my husband he was a quiet, modest man, but success has changed him. We have just returned from a "vacation" that I must admit I did not enjoy.

My husband's financial success has given him what he calls "confidence." I call it an overbearing tendency to brag. Everyone we met had to listen to his rags-to-riches story. It was embarrassing. He has made an outstanding success in business, but where is his modesty and taste?

Proud as I am of his success, I long for the humble man who sat quietly by my side and talked of something other than himself and his money.

I love him. How can I help him?

HIS WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Tell him, my dear. Tell him.

Are your problems too heavy to handle alone? Let Abby help you. For a personal, unpublished reply, write: Abby: Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

When your partner opens with a preemptive bid you can and should raise him with quick winning tricks. Don't pay attention to queens and jacks. They aren't likely to take care of his side-suit losers.

There are occasions when you may want to raise him to carry on his preempt.

Today's hand was played in the finals of the 1941 Vanderbilt. The late Sherman Stearns who sat West opened with a rather irregular three-spade bid. North made a takeout double and the late Myron Field jumped right to six spades with the East cards.

This put it right up to South. He could double six spades but it looked to him as if seven hearts would be a cinch. So he bid it. Needless to say, Field doubled and picked up 200 points.

Note that if North had held the ace of hearts instead of the ace of spades seven hearts would have wrapped up.

For the record the Field-Stearns team won the tournament.

His vulnerable partner opened one spade. Second hand, who was not vulnerable, jumped to four hearts. He wants to know his correct bid.

He should bid four spades. He cannot let himself be shut out.

Sparkle City

Square Dance

The Sparkle City Squares will have their graduation dance in the coliseum at 8 p.m. Saturday. Sleeping Browning will be caller for the dance.

The public is invited to come watch from 8 to 11 p.m.

Fashion And Beauty Tips

Abandon the idea of a complicated hairdo for summer if you get the "frizzies" in the heat. Have your hair cut so it will work with its natural tendencies, humidity or not.

After a swim "heat-condition" your hair by rinsing out the salt water and them combing through a conditioner. Let the sun dry your hair then.

It's fine to use an insect-repellant in the summer but be sure to read the labels — some repellents stain fabrics.

If you're rushing off to the beach on weekends, keep a tote bag packed with necessary cosmetics, etc., specifically for those occasions.

Sneaker sports wreak havoc on pedicures, so try simply buffing your toenails for a pink shine that won't chip.

Plentiful Tomatoes Make Spicy Sauce

By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor

It's easy to make your own spicy barbecue sauce with fresh tomatoes. Now is a good time to make a big pot of the sauce for your next cookout. Because tomatoes are at their peak, they will be less expensive and most flavorful.

Gardeners will find fresh tomato barbecue sauce a perfect way to use up an abundant tomato crop.

Those with freezer space can put up several quarts of the sauce in freezer containers for use throughout the winter. Ladle slightly cooled sauce into containers, seal tightly, label and pop in the freezer immediately.

Those who are cooking for two will find that this sauce goes a long way. Why not build a quick chicken dish for two around whole chicken legs barbecued in the oven? Add rice or your favorite noodle dish, a green salad and fresh fruit cup for a quicky menu.

FRESH TOMATO BARBECUE SAUCE

- 4 pounds fresh tomatoes, peeled and chopped
- 1 cup chopped fresh onions
- 2 cloves garlic, minced
- 1 cup packed brown sugar
- ¼ cup butter or margarine
- 1 cup chili sauce
- ¼ cup Worcestershire sauce
- ¼ cup fresh lemon juice
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 1 teaspoon dry mustard

Combine all ingredients in large saucepan. Bring to a boil. Reduce heat and simmer, uncovered, for 1½-to-2 hours, or until thickened. Serve with meats and poultry. Makes about 1 quart.

BARBECUED CHICKEN LEGS

- 2 whole broiler-fryer chicken legs (thigh and drumstick attached)
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted
- 1½ cup chili sauce
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1 teaspoon brown sugar
- 1 teaspoon prepared mustard
- 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

Mix all ingredients except chicken. Place chicken legs in shallow baking dish. Pour sauce over chicken. Bake at 350 degrees for 1 hour or until fork can be inserted in chicken with ease and juice runs clear. Baste several times during baking. Makes 2 servings.

LITTLE LEAGUE

It will be the Yankees vs. the White Sox tonight for the Snyder Little League Baseball championship. The Yankees won the first half and the White Sox won the second half in regular season play. They will square off at 8:30 p.m. following a preliminary game matching the Farm League Giants and Athletics.

The Farm League exhibition will begin at 7 p.m. with both games to be played on the Little League field. The Giants won both the first and second halves in Farm League, while the Athletics were runners up.

All-star rosters will be announced this weekend, with the Farm League all-star game set for Tuesday night. Little League all-stars will begin their playoffs on July 18.

LITTLE LEAGUE
Yankees 11, Giants 1

The Yankees paraded eights runs across the plate in the first inning to sack up a 11-1 decision over the Giants in their final game of the regular Little League season Thursday.

Four bases on balls, a hit batsman, plus a double by Mike McWilliams and singles by Jerry Garza and Bobby Velasquez propelled the Yankees to their big lead in the first.

Meanwhile, Garza who had two one-base blows for the evening, was hurling a no-hitter for the winners. The Giants got their one run in the second after Brad Rodgers walked.

White Sox 11, Indians 7

The White Sox scored in all but the fifth inning to down the Indians, 11-7, in their final regular season game.

Norman Malone crashed home runs in the second and sixth innings to pace the White Sox attack. He had socked a three-bagger in the first and went on to open the night's scoring when Kerry McCarter's single sent him home. Greg Mitchell had a double and a single for the Sox, whsile Steve Parker, Bill Wilson, Geoffrey Chamblee and Ricky Rodriquez had a one-base hit each.

Tracy Koch was the Indians' leading hitter with a double and a single. Sam Barrerra had a double and Dude Jones and Willie Greathouse each had a single.

Malone, who hurled the first four innings for the Sox, was the winning pitcher.

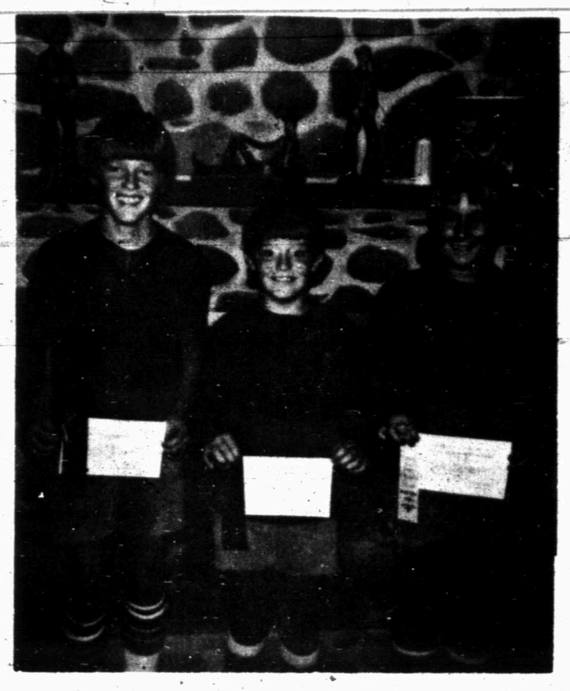
FARM LEAGUE
Giants 25, Yankees 17

The Giants scored 16 runs in the first inning and went on to defeat the Yankees, 25-17, in Farm League play Thursday night.

The Yankees had two big innings themselves, scoring seven in the second, nine in the third, but they were unable to overcome the big first inning of the Giants.

White Sox 10, Indians 3

The White Sox scored all of their runs in the first inning as they defeated the Indians, 10-30 Thursday night. Rodriquez had two singles and Hamplong had a single for the Sox, while Craig Baily had a triple, R. Stansell had a double and B. Stansell a single for the Indians.



ATTEND CAGE CAMP—These three Snyder youths attended the Gerald Myers Basketball Camp at Lubbock. From left are Max McGuire, first place team; Jeff McGuire, second place team, and Jeff Cole, third place teams. Nancy's Shadow Over Wheeling WHEELING, W.Va. (AP)-Nancy Lopez isn't even playing in the $75,000 Wheeling LPGA Classic, but she's still a topic of conversation among the touring pros.

"She's been giving us lots of time to practice," said Sandra Palmer, who has won more than a half-million dollars since joining the ladies professional golf tour in 1964. "Everybody wants to interview her, so we don't have to worry about making time to talk to the press. They're talking to her."

Even though Lopez isn't in the event, the field for the Wheeling Classic - scheduled to begin today - is the largest in the tournament's five-year history. Ninety-two golfers were scheduled to tee off, almost 30 more than ever have played before in the tournament.

"The money makes the difference," said Debbie Austin, who won last year by a stroke over Hollis Stacy. She noted that the purse was $25,000 more than in 1977.

"If the money is good, you'll get the golfers," she said. Austin admitted her chances of winning weren't as good as last year, when she had won two of the three tournaments prior to Wheeling.

Palmer said she considers Blalock, JoAnne Carner and Pat Bradley as the golfers to beat. Blalock won last week at Noblesville, Ind., after second-place finishes in her two previous tourneys while Bradley and Carner are long hitters who should adapt well to the hilly, energy sapping Wheeling course.

Underworked Eastwick Saves One For Phillies

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

When Rawly Eastwick was with the New York Yankees earlier this season, a lot of people thought that he was being underworked and overpaid.

One of them was Rawly Eastwick.

"I knew something was wrong," said the right-handed relief pitcher.

Before Eastwick rusted away altogether in the Yankee bullpen, the high-priced free agent was dealt to the Philadelphia Phillies a couple of weeks ago--and now figures to be earning his money with an overworked bullpen.

"These guys are counting on me now," said Eastwick after saving a 7-6 victory for Philadelphia over the Montreal Expos Thursday night. "I've got to do a job for them. The rest of the bullpen needs a rest."

Davis Leads In Coaches Golf Classic

McALLEN (AP)-- Tom Davis of Boston College takes a one-stroke lead into the second half of the National Collegiate Basketball Coaches Golf Classic here today.

Hunter Hunts Solution...

Struggling Rangers See Tapes Of Times At Bat

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP)-Manager Billy Hunter has arranged for his Texas Rangers to view video-type replays of their turns at bat at Texas home games.

The Rangers, with a line-up of players known for their hitting, have been struggling at the plate this season.

As he sat dejected in his office Thursday night after an error-filled 7-2 loss to the New York Yankees, Hunter said if the video tape helps the Rangers to hit better, it may straighten out their defensive woes also.

"I think the fact that all the players have been struggling with the bat is having a definite effect on their defensive play," Hunter said.

"I think they're taking the bat with them to their defensive positions and thinking about what they're going to do on their next turn at bat instead of what's going on out there."

The Rangers committed four errors in the first four innings of Thursday night's game, and the Yankees quickly mounted a 7-0 lead Texas couldn't overcome. Two were by rightfielder Bobby Bonds and two were on "easy out" throws from the pitcher to infielders.

"We've got the same infield as last year, when we were second in the league in defense, and this year we've made 83 errors in 80 ball games. That's terrible. Anybody that has spent as much time in the major leagues as our players have, and play as shabby baseball as they're doing, it's just a lack of concentration," Hunter said.

Roy White and Thurmon Munson drove in two runs each, helping Dick Tidrow, 4-6, to post his first victory in six weeks. He scattered eight hits. Of New York's seven runs, only three were earned.

Doc Medich, 3-4, lasted only 1 13 innings against his old teammates, leaving after giving up three hits and four runs. The Yankees got four more hits and their other three runs off Jim Umbarger, who left after pitching the fifth.

Angels 9, Royals 2

Slump-ridden Joe Rudi unloaded a grand slam home run in the first inning and a runscoring single in the third as California moved back into first place in the American League West, one-half game ahead of Oakland. Rudi's blast was his eighth career grand slam and second against the Royals in nine days. Meanwhile, Don Aase held the Royals to seven hits.

Mariners 3, A's 2

Tom Paciorek's two-run single in the seventh inning ended Oakland's four-game winning streak while Paul Mitchell and Enrique Romo collaborated on a four-hitter.

Red Sox 7, White Sox 6

Fred Lynn's tie-breaking home run with one out in the 10th inning gave Boston its third consecutive victory after the White Sox tied the score on solo homers by Lamar Johnson in the eighth inning and Bill Nahorodny in the ninth. Lynn's homer was his 13th of the season and third in the two-game series after never having homered in Comiskey Park.

Tigers 8, Indians 4

Jason Thompson, celebrating his 24th birthday and his selection to the AL All-Star team, drove in four runs, three with his 19th homer. Thompson followed a single by Lou Whitaker and a walk to Rusty Staub in the first inning with his homer. The blast off Rick Waits caromed off the facing of the right field upper deck in Tiger Stadium.

Stram Still Bitter Over Saint's Deal

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)-Hank Stram is still bitter at John Mecom Jr., the owner of the New Orleans Saints for his firing as the National Football League club's coach.

"So many of these young people (meaning Mecom) inherit what they have and there's no way in the world you can inherit victories. That's one of the sad things about coaching," said Stram, in Dayton for a celebrity golf tournament.

"I spent 30 years in football and really, from a 30-year standpoint, I've won every place consistently in college (Notre Dame, Purdue, Miami Fla. and SMU) and the pros.

"I won a Super Bowl and had the fourth winningest team in all of professional football after 15 years at Kansas City.

"So you would think those credentials would make people realize that you know how to win and what it takes to win and that they would be patient enough to go through the program."

Mecom did not exhibit such patience. He fired Stram after the Saints posted 4-10 and 3-11 records under Stram.

"Last season we lost six games by a total of 24 points. It takes time for a young team to develop a program when you reflect on some of the teams that are really successful now, for example, the Dallas Cowboys," said Stram.

The long-time NFL coach said, based on a good draft the last two years and another two good seasons of drafting, "I think we could have had a team that would have contended and challenged the people in our division."

As far as the 1978 season is concerned, Stram will spend it in a broadcast booth as a color commentator for CBS.

Family Life Conference Set At Colonial Hill

Dr. John Drakeford, internationally - known counselor and psychologist, and his wife, Robina, will conduct a family life conference July 14-16 at Colonial Hill Baptist Church.

The conference is open to the public with sessions set for Friday evening, July 14, day and evening sessions on Saturday, July 15, and sessions at regular worship hours on Sunday, July 16.

Reservations are required for the Friday evening session, which will launch the conference with a banquet. There is a fee of 75 cents per person for the banquet.

The author of 24 books and in demand throughout the country as a lecturer and conference leader, Dr. Drakeford holds a bachelor of arts degree from the University of Sydney, Australia; received a graduate diploma of education from Sydney Teachers' College; received the bachelor of divinity degree from New South Wales Baptist Theological Seminary; received the master of arts degree from Texas Christian University and the master of theology degree from the Brite Divinity School at TCU; and received the doctor of religious education and doctor of education degrees from Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary.

He is certified by the Texas State Board of Examiners of Psychologists and is a clinical member and supervisor of the American Association of Marriage and Family Counselors.

CONFERENCE LEADERS--Dr. and Mrs. John Drakeford will be the leaders in a family life conference July 14-16 at Colonial Hill Baptist Church.

He has held pastorates in Australia, served as a chaplain in the Australian Army, and was youth director for the Baptist Union, New South Wales. Since 1954 he has been a professor at Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary.

Dr. Drakeford writes a weekly column titled "Dear John" in the Baptist Standard, the largest weekly religious newspaper in the world. He and his wife have presented over 900 family life conferences around the world.

VBS Scheduled At First UMC

First United Methodist Church, 2700 College Avenue, will have its annual Vacation Bible School next week. It will begin Monday and continue through Friday, July 14.

The hours will be from 9:30 a.m. to noon and parents are asked to bring and pick up their children from the playground on the northeast corner of the church property.

The VBS is open to any in the community and they may register by paying a 50-cent registration fee on Monday.

Carol Davis is the overall coordinator of the VBS, while Sandra Henderson is the coordinator for younger children and Karen Hartman is the older children's coordinator. Joyce Tolbert is refreshment chairman.

Themes for the VBS will be as follows:

Nursery (1-3 year-olds), "I Discover," with Doris Blackard, Zola Schlegel, Jo Ann Urban and Brenda Otto teachers.

Kindergarten (4-5-6 years olds) "God's Purpose for Me," with Nancy Wilson, Sherrylon Vestal, Vicki Lewis and Kay Henley as teachers.

Elementary I and II, "The Bible Helps Us Know God," with Betty Richardson and Judy Church as teachers.

Elementary III and IV, "Bible Lands and Times" with Molly Walker and Carolyn Derouen as teachers.

Elementary V and VI, "Paul, Adventurer for Christ," with Mary Williams and Jo Ann Littlepage as teachers.

Next Friday, parents of pre-schoolers will join their children at the church at noon for a picnic. Elementary children will have a picnic in Towle Memorial Park and then have a swimming party.

HEALTH
Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Increase physical activity

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Could you please help me. I am a married woman 42 years old. I have a part-time job but I don't get much exercise. I play tennis once a week. I have gained 10 pounds and just can't lose it.

Do you have a diet that would be good for me, as as cholesterol goes and w I should have and wha shouldn't? I sure would appreciate your help. I am in good health otherwise.

DEAR READER — You are at the time of life when the "middle-age spread" occurs and it is wise for you to do something about it now. You've put your finger on a major part of the problem — a decrease in physical activity. Rather than restrict yourself too severely with a diet, I'd like to see you increase your physical activity and correct the basic fault. If you could just plan on walking two miles a day in addition to your present activity, in a year's time that would make a lot of difference.

The other approach you could use is to develop some type of fairly good calisthenic program that you can do at home each morning when you first get out of bed. It will also give you an energy boost that wakes you up and gets you started. Literally it warms up your motor. That's why I like to see people exercise when they first get up.

At your request I am sending you The Health Letter number 4-7, Weight Losing Diet. Other readers who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

This is a low-fat, low-cholesterol diet. You'll find all good dietary programs are, because a major source of calories in most people's diet is the fat in their food. A gram of fat contains more calories than any other food you eat, nine calories per gram compared to four calories per gram for both carbohydrate and protein.

Office workers, which I presume you may be since you say you don't get much exercise, really need exercise to keep their energy level up. The reason many an office worker feels tired at the end of the evening is not because he works so hard but because he hasn't had any physical activity. The mistake most people make is to come home and sit down and often have a cocktail. Just sitting down and resting at that point in time is not what you need at all.

Most office workers would be ill advised at the end of the day to have some form of physical exercise. The exercise metabolizes accumulated adrenaline products that naturally develop in the course of the day's stress. When you stop and think about it, man's natural life style before civilization changed it included a lot of activity and not the type of confined stress that occurs with most office situations.

DEAR DR. LAMB — What risk would a man age 60 face in having a hair transplant?

DEAR READER — Not much. The usual procedure is to take small plugs of good hair follicles from the side of the head and insert them over the bald area. This is a relatively simple procedure although it is fairly time consuming and therefore costly. I should think that anyone in reasonably good health could expect to have the procedure done without it causing him any major difficulties.

PUC Inks Rate Hike Order

AUSTIN (AP)--The Texas Public Utility Commission signed an interim order Thursday extending new rates for Texas Power & Light customers to 19 cities not included in a May order.

The system-wide rate hike, including the order signed in May and Thursday's action, totals $40.5 million.

TP&L serves approximately 615,000 customers in 51 counties of Central, North and East Texas. The company had asked for a $118 million increase.

The new rates went into effect June 26. The interim order will be in effect until a hearing is held on the permanent rate increase in August.

The cities affected by the latest action are Grapevine, Alvarado, Chandler, Tyler, Temple, Bedford, Mineral Wells, Graford, Lindale, Richardson, Sherman, McKinney, Colleyville, Canton, Farmers Branch, Corsicana, Plano, Killeen and Parker.

Boat Theft Ring Broken

SAN ANTONIO (AP)--Bexar County Department of Public Safety officials say they have broken a state-wide boat theft ring, arresting a Waco man and recovering 10 boats valued at more than $100,000.

The inboard and outboard pleasure boats were stolen from their owners in Houston, Fort Worth, Lewisville, Conroe and Seabrook, said District Attorney Bill White.

Carol Ellis, 41, of Waco was charged with felony theft and was being held Thursday night in lieu of $50,000 bond in connection with the alleged theft ring.

"We expect more arrests in this thing," said White, who added that more boats might be recovered.

White said Ellis was arrested Tuesday by DPS officers as he was driving into San Antonio, allegedly pulling a boat stolen near Galveston.

The initial investigation, White said, began four weeks ago when authorities got a call from a man who said he had bought what he believed was a stolen boat.

The boats were being brought to San Antonio and prospective buyers were informed of their availability by word of mouth, alleged White.

Buyers were told that their boat titles would be mailed at a later date, White added.

Disaster Areas Are Designated

AUSTIN (AP)-- Gov. Dolph Briscoe said Thursday he has asked the U.S. Agriculture Department to declare Brewster, Irion, Nolan and Runnels counties disaster areas because of adverse weather.

Such a designation would free emergency loan funds for farmers and ranchers suffering physical and production losses.

Home Insurance Rate Decision Due Monday

AUSTIN (AP)-State Insurance Board members scheduled a decision Monday on insurance rate increases that mean "many, many millions of dollars" to Texas home owners.

The Monday session was set after board chairman Hugh Yantis recommended late Thursday that Texans be given another year without an increase in their homeowners insurance premiums.

Insurance authorities estimate the present insurance bill paid by Texas property owners at $807.8 million.

Yantis also asked his fellow board members to prohibit any insurance company from reducing agents' commissions as a result of any rate increase the company fails to get.

Yantis said he had no objection of a 9.4 increase in separate fire policies recommended by the board staff.

The staff had recommended a 13.1 percent hike in homeowners' premiums. The insurance industry asked for a 14.1 percent hike.

"My study of the reports shows that about 80 percent of the homeowner policies sold are sold at deviated or discounted prices at an average rate of about 15 percent," Yantis said. "What the figures say to me is that almost all insurance sold on homes is being sold at rates lower than the requested rate increase.

"I cannot see that a rate increase is justified," Yantis said.

Neither Ned Price nor Durwood Manford, the other two board members, expressed themselves on Yantis' recommendation before the hearing was recessed.

"Many, many millions of dollars ride on our decision," Yantis said.

Sam Winters, Austin attorney representing 360 insurance companies doing business in Texas, said state law says that the board will fix a maximum rate for premiums, "not an average or fair rate." He said the deviation or discount was not material to the statewide hearing because each company's deviation application is considered individually by the board.

"What we are after is that maximum rate that is suitable for the risk without the deviation, otherwise you screw up the procedure," said David Irons, another spokesman for the industry.

Joe Boggins, representing insurance agents, asked for more time to consider Yantis's recommendation by agency commissions.

"One healthy thing that has come out of this," said Winters at the close of the session, is that the rate is set as a maximum rate and 80 percent of the policy holders are not paying the maximum."

There has been no increase in homeowners insurance rates since July, 1978. There was no action on the rates last year because the industry filed for a rehearing after the board allowed only a two percent increase on homeowners policies.

After Joe Christie left office as chairman to make an unsuccessful race for U.S. Senate, his successor, Yantis, decided not to act since the regular annual hearing was set for February, 1978. Thursday's board action was based on testimony received in February.

NEA Vows To Fight Tax Cut

DALLAS (AP)—Members of the National Education Association have pocketed the anti-Proposition 13 buttons they sported all week and left their annual convention resolved to battle similar tax-cutting measures in other states.

Before the conference ended Thursday, some 8,000 delegates overwhelmingly approved five action items aimed at insuring the health of public education in the face of taxpayer revolts.

The organization voted to make one-third federal funding of education its top legislative objective for the coming year, a decade-old goal that NEA president John Ryor said has taken on new importance in the aftermath of California's controversial property tax limitation initiative.

Proposition 13 limited California porperty taxes as of July 1 to 1 percent of market value, reducing tax revenues statewide an average 57 percent.

School districts were hit especially hard by the initiative because most now receive an average 75 percent of their funds from local property taxes.

The disaster of Proposition 13 for educators was a recurring theme throughout the 116th annual gathering of the nation's largest teachers organization.

Because an NEA survey showed that a widespread ignorance of the amendment's impact on schools contributed to its success, the group vowed to contribute advice and resources to campaigns against such measures in other states.

In one of the closest votes at the convention, delegates passed a resolution prohibiting future conventions from being held in any state that does not have a collective bargaining law for public school employees.

Combined with a previous ban on meeting states that failed to ratify the Equal Rights Amendment and with the need for a city that can house at least 10,000 persons, that resolution effectively limits its NEA conventions to four cities: New York, Los Angeles, Detroit and Minneapolis. The 1978 contion already was scheduled for Detroit.

The politically influential organization, whose 1.8 million members are mostly teachers, also voted to increase its efforts for passage of the ERA and, if necessary, for extension of the March 1978 ratification deadline.

The teachers also passed a resolution to continue efforts against tuition tax credits, which they claim threaten the future of public education because they help subsidize private schools.

In efforts to push another longtime goal, NEA officials encouraged teachers to join in a mass mailing of post cards that asked members of congress to support a Cabinet-level Department of Education.

Texas Students May Score Low

AUSTIN (AP)--Results of a school testing project conducted this spring probably will show Texas students scoring at or slightly below the national average, state educators predicted Thursday.

Some 110,000 elementary and secondary students were tested under the Texas Assessment Project, which measured achievement in reading, writing, mathematics and citizenship.

Texas Education Agency officials based their "speculation" on earleir tests of Texas students and other studies of how ethnic background, income level and living environment affect student's scores, said Charles Nix, associate education commissioner for planning and accreditation.

Nix and other education officials conducted a special media briefing on the assessment project and its expected results.

According to past studies, students from suburban areas score higher than the national average on the types of tests administered last spring, while inner city students rank lower in test scores, Nix said.

On the average, blacks score below the national average, Mexican-Americans score slightly below the average and whites score at or above average.

A 1976 testing project conducted in Texas' seven largest urban districts, similar patterns developed, Nix said, explaining a study of all data resulted in the educator's predictions.

"It might be off, but I don't think it will be that far off," he said. "How much lower the urban student scores than the suburban is going to be the question."

Test results for individual students, classrooms and school districts will not be available, mainly because of protective privacy laws, he said. Breakdowns by ethnic groups, sex and region will be provided to the State Board of Education in October and November.

Three types of tests were administered - norm referenced and test item exercises, Nix explained.

Norm-referenced exams compare a student's score with results of a national average. The California Achievement Test was used to measure reading and mathematics levels of sixth graders.

The criterion-referenced tests were designed specifically to determine if certain educational goals in reading and mathematics were being met in Texas classrooms. Sixth and 11th graders took this test.

The National Association of Educational Progress developed the third test in the assessment project to measure writing and citizenship in 9-, 13 and 17-year-olds.

State educators plan to use the assessment project results as a base for recommended curriculum changes and possible legislation.

Beach-Goers Are Warned

SOUTH PADRE ISLAND (AP)--Beach-goers on this South Texas island have been warned to stay away from anything along the shore that looks like dynamite.

The warning came after 16 sticks of the explosive washed ashore Thursday.

South Padre Island Police Chief Robert Register said officials here are puzzzled by the dynamite. The first stick was found around noon in Andy Bowie Park. Seven more sticks were found in the park and eight were located within the town limits.

A team of experts from Corpus Christi was due here today to identify and dispose of the explosives.

Sexual Abuse Charges Filed

Two counts alleging sexual abuse of a child have been filed against Raul Garcia.

Garcia, 19, is alleged to have fondled two girls, aged 5 and 6, respectively, outside a residence in southeast Snyder June 30. The incident is reported to have occurred while he was visiting a third person at the home, investigators said.

Garcia has been released after posting a single $1,500 bond.

The total weight of the bridal clothes worn by the daughter of Frederick the Great was nearly 100 pounds.

Missing Family Still Mystery

WINNIE (AP)-Whoever was responsible for the disappearance of five family members from a small frame house in this Southeast Texas town sometime last weekend appears to have several days' lead on authorities trying to unravel the mystery.

Although the burnt-out car belonging to one of the missing persons was found Thursday morning, the vehicle actually burned up early Sunday, according to a Fannett, Texas youth.

Ike Revia, 18, said he spotted the burning blue Ford with Oklahoma tags about 4 a.m. Sunday 12 miles southeast of the home of 64-year-old Bishop Phillips, a tenant rice farmer.

Phillips, his wife, Ester, his 31-year-old son, Elmer, and his wife, Martha, and their 4-year-old son were reported missing early Monday.

Revia said he called local fire officials about the car, which belonged to Elmer Phillips. He said he waited for about an hour near the car, but when no one showed up he left and thought nothing more about it.

Chambers County Sheriff Doil Pounds said late Thursday authorities had searched a three-mile radius on foot, on horseback and in airplanes and helicopters around Taylor's Bayou where the car was found but turned up nothing, not even footprints.

Pounds said the search by his deputies, Jefferson County sheriff's deputies, the Texas Rangers and the FBI would continue Friday.

George Phillips, who lives with his parents here, had been visiting his brother, Clifton, in Houston over the weekend. After the 50-mile return trip, he told Pounds he walked into the kitchen and found chicken burned in a frying pan, two fans going and the television blaring.

Pounds said there were blood stains throughout the house and the elder Phillips' work shoes and overalls were tossed by the bed. On the bed authorities found his wallet containing $97 and his wife's purse wth $230 in cash.

Pounds said George Phillips told him his parents "haven't left this home for more than three hours at a time in the past 15 or 20 years."

Neighbors said the elder Phillips had worked for the same rice farmer for the past 25 years and had no problems in the community.

The sheriff said the missing persons were last seen about 8:25 p.m. Saturday.

Tommy Flowers said the younger Phillips couple had visited him and his wife at their home about 10 minutes' drive from the elder Phillips' for several hours late Saturday afternoon.

Annie Mae Flowers said Martha Phillips had remarked she was hungry and still had to do the laundry that night.

"I know they weren't planning to go anywhere else but straight home," she told authorities.

Stroll Turns Into Nightmare

NEW YORK (AP)--A casual stroll through Central Park turned into a nightmare for Dick Button, two-time Olympic and five-time world figure-skating champion.

Button was among half a dozen men attacked with sticks and bats by a gang of young thugs Wednesday night, police said.

Button, a commentator for skating events on ABC-TV, was admitted to Roosevelt Hospital with a skull fracture over the right eye, a police spokesman said.

Witnesses said that at 9:20 p.m. Wednesday a group of about five youths between the ages of 16 and 20 swept through a park section called the Ramble and pounced on their victims, apparently at random.

Button, reported in satisfactory condition, is president of Candid Productions, producers of television sports films.

Healthy Living Complex Set

ATHENS, Greece (AP)--If his newest venture proves successful, noted surgeon Christiaan Barnard may find himself short of heart transplant patients.

Barnard said Thursday he'll sponsor establishment here of a free-of-charge international center for preventive medicine.

He envisions a $17 million "healthy living" complex with 850 beds "where patients will be shown how to eat and exercise properly, and why not to smoke." The South African surgeon will donate his own services.

Barnard said the complex, probably to be located on the eastern Agean Island of Kos - the birthplace of Hippocrates, father of medicine - will be financed by business, banking, government and private sources.

Tammy Wynette Weds Fifth Time

JUPITER, Fla. (AP)--Tammy Wynette deals in big numbers. She's won the coveted Country Music Association's top female vocalist award four times and she's been married five times.

She claimed her fifth husband Thursday. He's songwriter George Richey, who said "I do" beneath a beachfront yellow and white canopy during a 20-minute ceremony.

Richey, married twice before, is Miss Wynette's business manager.

Stolen Bike Is Recovered

A 12-year-old boy was picked up and questioned by police in connection with a bicycle theft.

R.E. Payne told officers that a $105 bicycle was taken from the Towle Park swimming pool between 2:30 p.m. and 4:30 p.m. Thursday.

Officers said they recovered the bicycle.

In other reports, Mrs. H.D. Rodgers told police that a tarp had been taken from her boat between 9 p.m. July 5 and 8 a.m. July 6. The tarp was valued at $50.

A July 4 traffic accident was belatedly reported to police Thursday.

The mishap involved a parked 1977 Ford owned by Jimmy Williams of Hermleigh that was struck by a vehicle which left the scene. Only minor damages were reported.

County Court Pleas Heard

A guilty plea and a plea of no contest were entered Thursday in county court to charges of driving while intoxicated.

The guilty plea was entered by Billy Eugene Matthews. He received a 30-day jail sentence, probated six months, and a $200 find.

The no contest plea was entered by Jack Eugene George. He also received a 30-day jail term, probated six months, and a $200 fine.

Examiners Weigh Fate Of Mitchell

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)-The fate of former Attorney General John N. Mitchell may depend on the recommendation of parole examiners who interviewed him at Maxwell Air Force Base here.

Warden C.W. Beaver said Wednesday that interview results will go to the U.S. Parole Commission which will make the final decision on Mitchell's future in prison.

The 64-year-old Mitchell is serving a one-to four-year sentence for conspiracy to coverup White House involvement in the Watergate scandal. He became eligible for parole June 21, one year after he entered Maxwell's minimum-security facility.

Mitchell was on medical furlough during five months of his term as he underwent surgery to repair a weakened artery in his abdomen and to replace his arthritic hip.
