Ask Us

Q. — When will we be able to see Halley's Comet?

A. — Scientists have been viewing the comet through large telescopes since the autumn of 1982. They say it should be viewable with binoculars by November and by the naked eye by Christmas. It is to be closest to the earth next March through April.

Derailed car chemical swap begins

By noon Wednesday, service personnel at the scene of Monday's 13-car train derailment had begun transferring the potentially hazardous propylene oxide from a derailed tank car to four trucks.

Santa Fe, Texaco and Haliburton personnel began pressurizing the crippled tank car with nitrogen provided by Halliburton around 10:30 a.m. By 11:45 a.m., the transfer to the first tank truck had begun.

Texaco personnel on the scene — representing the owner of the cargo — said Wednesday morning the pressurized nitrogen provided by Halliburton would be used to push the chemical from the crippled car into the trucks.

One other car containing a hazardous chemical was moved back onto the track without leakage before daylight Tuesday. Only one car contains the propylene oxide. The SDN inadvertently reported two cars were carriers of the liquid Tuesday.

Crews attempted to "re-rail" the propylene oxide container Tuesday morning but railroad engineering foremen J.R. Wilson reported shortly after noon that the loaded tanker was too heavy to move back onto the track.

The car containing the hazardous liquid has remained on the southeast side of the railroad right-of-way — about 50 yards east of the Ave. I grade crossing — since it was involved in a 13-car derailment just before 2 p.m. Monday.

Railroad crews and contract salvage crews from Hulcher Emergency Services in Amarillo worked to move other cars from the scene and rebuild some 475 feet of damaged track through the night Monday.

By Tuesday afternoon, the track was cleared and trains were being allowed to pass.

Work related to the derailed car had stopped during the afternoon as crews waited for equipment to unload the propylene oxide carrier.

Clyde Jessus — Santa Fe assistant district manager in Amarillo — said Wednesday morning that their preliminary investigations indicate the accident was caused by a broken rail in the vicinity of a trestle near the intersection of Ave. G and 21st St.

He estimated that the total cost of the accident to the railroad would run between $100,000 and $103,000 including damaged equipment and cargo along with cleanup expenses.

CHEMICAL TRANSFER — The potentially hazardous chemical propylene oxide was to be transferred Wednesday from the derailed tanker at left to four tanker trucks. Texaco and Halliburton personnel began pressurizing the crippled tank car with nitrogen around 10:30 a.m. By noon, the transfer to the first truck was underway. (SDN Staff Photo by Noble B. Young)

Morning rainfall at 1 inch

From Local, Wire Reports

Near 1 inch of rain and pea-sized hail was reported in Snyder overnight, a storm that struck the city around 2 a.m.

The same storm dropped varying amounts of moisture throughout the county, the heaviest noted around Fluvanna and Dunn north of Snyder.

Rain fell at Lake J.B. Thomas also, which combined with recent rains have contributed some 2½ ft. to the lake's level over the past several days.

This level now stands at 2,218 ft. above sea level. The dam's spillway, the maximum level for Thomas, is 2,258 ft.

Hail was reported at various county locations also to include some marble sized reported at Ira, where .50 of an inch rain was recorded.

The official total for Snyder was .91 of an inch, bringing the year's amount to 9.34 inches.

In the Fluvanna area, rain amounts varied from .40 of an inch to 1 inch in Fluvanna itself. At Dunn, reports of 1.3 inches were received. Hail also fell in the area.

Hermleigh to the southeast reported up to 1 inch of rain also while due east of Snyder received only .40 of an inch.

West of the city, rain amounts near .50 of an inch were noted.

Thunderstorms across West Texas Tuesday night dropped baseball size hail in Hale County, northwest of Lubbock. Ping pong ball size hail was reported in a severe thunderstorm that moved across Lubbock just after midnight.

Hail and high winds caused some damage, but no injuries at Lubbock, the National Weather Service said. Some glass was broken in an apartment complex at Lubbock and there was other damage.

Winds gusted to 63 mph when the storms moved through Abilene before dawn.

Forecasters said the thunderstorm activity would be ending from west to east, starting in West Texas late tonight.

The forecast for Wednesday night calls for partly cloudy with isolated thunderstorms. The rain [illegible] percent.

To lose 'bumper crop'...

Five-year average to drop farm values

The taxable value placed on local farm property is expected to drop considerably next tax year, according to Ray Peveler, chief appraiser for the Scurry County Appraisal District.

Peveler told the district board of directors Tuesday night he expects these ag values to decline since the district uses for valuation a five-year average based on production.

For 1985 taxes, this five-year average will eliminate the year 1979, when a bumper cotton crop drove ag values upward.

In addition, the average will add the 1984 cotton crop, likely the worst in the history of Scurry County with some 5,000 bales produced.

No estimate was offered Tuesday for the percentage of value decline. His report came during the regular May meeting for the board.

He also informed them his office is preparing to mail out another set of statements on 1984 delinquent taxes sometime this week. He noted overall collections this year have been good.

However, this mailing must be done before the additional 15 percent penalty can be added in June.

Taxpayers who owe $500 to $1,000 in delinquent taxes and are unable to pay the full amount can set up an escrow account with the district providing they can make timely, monthly payments, he said.

Peveler stressed this does not stop the interest or penalties which are assessed to delinquent taxes.

Kenneth Wilson presided Tuesday with all directors present to include Ross Blanchard, secretary; Billy Huddleston, Pete Hester and Bill Hairston. In addition to Peveler, Larry Crooks, assistant appraiser, also attended.

S&L 1st hearing still month away

A public hearing related to an application by First Western Savings and Loan of Colorado City to open a branch office in Snyder is to be considered June 3 rather than this past Monday as earlier reported.

Officials with the Texas Savings and Loan Department [illegible] that such hearings normally occur two months after first applied for — a time required for department personnel to validate details of the application.

The application from First Western in C-City was filed April 22. The location for the proposed savings and loan is 4213 College Ave.

The hearing before the Austin-[illegible] as the state's regulatory agency for savings and loans, is to allow public comment regarding the application.

If no protests are offered, a final decision from Texas Savings and Loan Commissioner Linton Bawman III can be received within three weeks.

Such applications must also receive an "insurance of account" designation through the Federal Home Loan Bank Board which has its district office in Dallas.

Before such hearings take place, other affected institutions in the city are given 20 days prior notice. Legal advertisements are also run in area newspapers.

If protests are raised at the first public session, a hearing is scheduled to allow comments from both sides. The final decision [illegible] remains with the commissioner.

Burglary arrest here

Snyder police detectives have filed burglary of a residence charges against a 17-year-old suspect in a weekend theft from a local residence.

Melvin Stanley Alpha Jr. of 508 17th St. was being held in the Scurry County Jail Wednesday morning with bond set at $1,500 after being arrested by city officers at 4:30 p.m. Tuesday.

He is charged with the burglary last Saturday night of the Carolyn Faulkenbery residence at 506 16th St.

The incident was originally reported as a misdemeanor theft with some power tools and an Atari video game and cartridges reported missing from the residence.

The charges were upgraded to burglary following the arrest of

The feller on Deep Creek says, "It's hard for children to learn good manners nowadays, expecially without seeing any."

Down in Austin Saturday, word was still buzzing about the switch from the Democratic to the Republican party by former U.S. Congressman Kent Hance.

The Lubbock lawyer ended months of speculation that he would jump on the GOP bandwagon after a narrow loss last year to become the Democratic nominee for the U.S. Senate.

Phil Gramm, who earlier changed political parties and was the winner of the senate race, was with Hance when the announcement was made. Gramm, Hance and U.S. Rep. Charles Stenholm worked together as House Democrats who were known as boll weevils.

Stenholm, who remains chairman of the Conservative Democratic Caucas, has avowed that he will not make a party change, saying there is still a place for conservatives in the Democratic party.

Stenholm simply said he was disappointed at Hance's decision. Folks like Tip O'Neill, Jim Wright and Gov. Mark White were a little more antimated in their remarks.

That is to be expected since Hance is expected to challenge White for Governor of Texas. Even if it is a case of political opportunity as White implied, it's a relief to the many Texans who have seen White make a mess of trying to be the state's chief executive officer.

We're probably not the first, but we'd like to be among the first to endorse Hance in his bid to put the governor's office back in competent hands.

We don't know what sign he was born under, but oilfield contractor David Hines says April was a good month.

Not only was he elected to the Snyder city council on a close write-in vote, he soon got the first hole-in-one of his golfing career.

A lot of folks get close to winning elections and close to holes-in-one, but close is not the real thing. Hines' ace came on number 12 with a 7-iron at the Snyder Country Club.

IA students results told

Results were released Tuesday for both high school and junior high school entries from Snyder at the weekend State Industrial Arts Contest conducted in Waco.

At the high school level, David Molina captured SHS's only first place award while eight other industrial arts students captured second or third place ribbons.

The top junior high entry was submitted by Dan Scannicchio, who won the only first place blue ribbon from Snyder. Eight second place red ribbons were won and eight third place white ribbons at the junior high level.

In Brief

Bush arrives

AUSTIN (AP) — Vice President George Bush arrived in Austin today to tour a semi-conductor plant, speak to Republican Party activists and an electronics industry group.

The stop was one of series of appearances being made by Bush, who is on a six-day, nine-state trip.

It was Bush's second trip to Austin in recent months. Earlier this year, he addressed a joint session of the Texas Legislature.

Today's visit first saw Bush tour a Motorola semiconductor manufacturing plant.

He was scheduled to later address Travis County Republicans and speak to a meeting of the American Electronics Association, a gathering of some 300 electronics industry executives from around the Southwest.

Blacks killed

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Hand-to-hand fighting between tribal groups outside the city killed eight blacks this morning, while soldiers and police swept through two riot-torn black townships in the south, police said.

The eight were killed as rival Zulu and Xhosa tribesmen battled after dawn in Tsakane, a black township east of Johannesburg, according to a police statement.

Police offered no explanation of what sparked the battle.

Schroeder ill

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — William Schroeder suffered a stroke earlier this week and "has a severe neurological problem," a hospital spokeswoman said today, adding that the world's longest-lived artificial heart patient seems to be gradually improving.

Death penalty bill ok'd

AUSTIN (AP) — A senator who opposes capital punishment joined with three of his colleagues Tuesday in approving a bill that would authorize the Texas Department of Corrections to carry out executions at places other than Huntsville.

Sen. Craig Washington, D-Houston, said he was "unalterably opposed" to the death penalty but would vote to get the bill out of the Senate Criminal Justice Committee.

Washington added that recent executions had resulted in "creating a spectacle ... that nobody is proud of." He apparently was referring to the crowds — sometimes rowdy — that have gathered outside the Walls Unit that now houses the death room.

Bill sponsor Kent Caperton, D-Bryan, said an "unfortunate pattern has developed at executions — tasteless is probably the most diplomatic word I can choose."

Dear Abby

Life Claimed by Smoking Inspires Woman to Quit

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1985 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: On April 5, I read a letter in your column in the Rocky Mountain News that did something for me that nothing else was able to do. It made me decide to quit smoking.

It was written by a woman signed "Grieving in Gulfport," whose beloved younger sister had died from lung cancer. Her doctor bluntly stated, "Cigarettes killed her."

"Grieving's" final paragraphs hit me like a thunderbolt: "Abby, why do advertisers make cigarette ads so attractive? Instead, they should run a before and after picture of a once-beautiful woman vomiting and bald from radiation therapy.

"I know this letter is too long for your column, but if it makes just one person reach into her purse (or his pocket) and throw away that pack of cigarettes, it will be worth it."

Abby, please tell "Grieving" that her letter made this 42-year-old, four-pack-a-day woman reach into her purse and throw her cigarettes in the trash! I've taken an oath to never smoke again.

Too bad she didn't sign her name. She deserves to be thanked publicly.

FREE IN DENVER

DEAR FREE: She did sign her name, but requested that her letter be signed "Grieving in Gulfport" if published.

However, I telephoned her to tell her what a terrific impact her letter had made, and asked if I could reveal her identity.

She said, "If you think it will help just one person, go ahead."

So, orchids to you, Dorothy Sosebee in Gulfport, Miss.!

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I never thought I'd be writing to you for advice, but here I am.

My world is in chaos, and for the first time in my life I am considering suicide. I am the mother of two beautiful twin boys who are 2 years old. I often wonder if they'd be better off without me. I'm 22.

Six months ago I left my husband to live with a married man I thought I loved. I destroyed two families because of my selfishness, and now I'm miserable. I realize that I do not love this older married man.

I want my old life back, but I know my husband and his family will never forgive me for what I have done. Please help me.

ASHAMED IN AMHERST

DEAR ASHAMED: You really want to live or you wouldn't have written to me. You can be helped, and I want to help you, but it's not possible unless you tell me how to reach you.

Please call your telephone operator and ask for your local suicide prevention office. Then phone that office and tell the people there that Abby told you to call. Do this immediately, and let me hear from you at once. I care.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: You told "No Way Out," the married man who wants out of an affair he had going with a female employee, immediately to confess everything to his wife so the other woman cannot blackmail him.

This violates the first principle in such matters: Always lie.

The man should either suffer silently, or if it becomes truly intolerable, fire the woman. If she informs the wife of the affair, explain that it's motivated by revenge and untrue. When she presents his wife with his sales slips for expensive gifts to her, explain that they were for prizes for an employee incentive contest. When she presents airline tickets and hotel bills, explain that they were on business trips and had to share a room because of the company's austerity program—and nothing happened. When she presents the wife with pictures of him and her in the ultimate embrace, he should assure his wife that the employee was shaking uncontrollably from malaria-induced chills, and he threw himself on her to warm her up.

Abby, your penchant to recommend confession dooms a lot of marriages. Please be more cautious.

Man not aware other vehicle was his

WICHITA FALLS, Texas (AP) — A traffic accident in this North Texas city has taken a strange twist, police say.

Officers said two officers were checking an automobile dealership early today when they witnessed an accident between a car and a pickup truck at a nearby intersection.

The pickup truck drove away from the scene and officers gave chase. They caught the man and brought him back to the scene of the accident.

Officers said the man's first words when they reached the scene were: "My gosh, that looks like my car."

It was.

Officers said the man had collided with a car he owned and was driven by his wife and also occupied by their 20-month-old child. They said the man was not aware at the time of the accident that the other vehicle was his.

The woman and child were taken to a Wichita Falls hospital. The man was jailed, pending the filing of charges later today, police said.

National Music Week observed this week

Mayor Rod Waller signed a proclamation noting National Music Week May 5-12. This is the 62nd annual observance since it was started by Charles M. Fremaine. He felt such a week would be a voluntary expression of the public's interest in music. It has been sponsored by the National Federation of Music Clubs since 1959. The local affiliate is the Musical Coterie.

The purpose of this observance is to focus public attention on music as a form of communication, a channel of personal expression and an instrument for training, arousing and governing the minds and spirits of people.

The theme for this year's observance is "Musie — A Source of National Pride".

Some local activities have been planned in connection with this week including the National Guild Auditions set for May 6-11 at the Frist Baptist Church Chapel and the competition for the Musical Coterie Scholarship which will take place Thursday, May 9.

PROCLAMATION SIGNED — Mayor Rod Waller signed a proclamation noting the week of May 5-12 as National Music Week. This special week is sponsored by the National Federation of Music Clubs. Amma Harrell honored on her 100th birthday

Mrs. Amma Harrell celebrated her 100th birthday Sunday, May 5 with family and friends at the fellowship hall of the Primitive Baptist Church.

The serving table was centered with a fresh floral arrangement nestled in a wicker basket. A crystal punch bowl graced with a garland of greenery flanked the arrangement. A three tired cake topped with the number 100 and accented with roses and miniature pink and blue flowers fashioned of confection completed the setting.

Eura Beckham and Vina Strayhorn assisted the guests as they were served cake, punch and an assortment of cookies and candy.

Special guests included Mattie Vina Harrell Burdine of Bison, S.D., daughter of the honoree; the honoree's grandson, Robert Steven Thomason of Deepwater, Mo. and his wife, Linda, and their sons, Robby and Rick; Slade Burdine, great-grandson of the honoree of Bison, S.D.; and the honoree's granddaughter, Catherine Burdine Elkin of St. Louis, Mo. and her sons, Lance and Paul.

Special tea slated

Snyder Oaks Care Center will host a special tea Friday, May 10 from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. in honor of Mothers' Day.

Tea and cookies will be served and all mothers are invited to attend.

The "two-over-one game force" system means simply this: When you respond to an opening bid by bidding a lower-ranking suit on the two level, you and your partner now have an agreement that your side will play at least a game contract. Although invitational values are difficult to describe when playing this method, it is very effective when the responder has a good hand and is uncertain about the best game contract. Look how well it worked in today's deal. After South had rebid two hearts, North was able to bid two no-trump without worrying about whether South might pass. When South did bid three clubs, North could feel his way with three hearts, allowing South to bid four with the actual hand. With only five hearts, South would have bid three no-trump.

With the spade ace as opening lead, declarer had no problem. He could ruff a spade, throw two clubs on the A-K of diamonds, and cover the nine of hearts with the 10. However, a club lead would have given the defenders a chance to shine. East should overtake the club 10 with the jack. South must duck. Now East returns a heart. Declarer wins the ace and plays a spade. West wins the ace and leads a heart into declarer's strength. South can now come to only five heart tricks, one spade, two diamonds and the club ace. That's only nine tricks, so the result is down one. That would be the kind of nifty defense that gets written about.

House 'chilly' to bill for alimony

AUSTIN (AP) — A Senate plan to allow judges to force ex-husbands to pay cold cash to their ex-wives has received a chilly reception in the House.

The fate of the alimony bill could depend on how good a lobbying effort the women of Texas can muster, according to Rep. Bob Bush, chairman of the House committee that will review the bill.

"We're working upstream," Bush said. "But there are some ladies who comprise part of the populace, so I have a feeling it's a fair fight. They may put enough pressure on these House members to help me out a little bit."

Bush, D-Sherman, supports the concept of alimony. Texas is the only state that bars it.

Tuesday's test vote on the House floor came when Bush tried to get permission to suspend a House rule that barred a Tuesday committee hearing on the measure. House members usually routinely suspend such rules. Bush didn't come close to the two-thirds vote he needed. He didn't get even get half in the non-record vote.

"I wanted to test the water on it," said Bush, who found it "very chilly."

Opposition to alimony is deep-seated in Texas, he said.

"I think it's cultural. We are the macho-man state, and macho men don't like open container laws and they don't like child support," said Bush.

Texas now allows child support payments, but not alimony.

Also Tuesday, the House tentatively approved measures to allow longer prison terms for inmates convicted more than once and to allow judges to end parent-child relations in cases where a child's sibling was abused by the parent.

Bush drew boos by merely mentioning "spousal maintenance," legislative jargon for alimony. The Senate plan would allow alimony payments of up to $1,500 a month, but only in marriages that lasted at least 10 years.

"That tells me there's a lot of opposition to voting on it, to even getting it out of committee. The House is discouraging me from proceeding on it as a high-priority item," he said.

In another matter, Belton Rep. Bill Messer won 57-12 tentative approval for his bill to allow judges to terminate a parent's legal relations with a child if that parent had criminally mistreated another child.

Rep. Smith Gilley, D-Greenville, fought the bill, which faces another House vote.

"You don't convict someone of robbing a bank in Dallas because he robbed one in Austin," said Gilley. "We're assuming because a person has done something wrong he is going to do it repeatedly. That is not right."

In a 106-32 vote, the House advanced San Antonio Rep. Dan Morales' bill that would bar the Board of Pardons and Paroles from treating consecutive sentences as concurrent sentences.

For example, the board now treats five 10-year sentences as one 50-year sentence. That means that convict could be released after serving one-third of the 50 years.

Dr. Gott

Peter Gott, M.D.

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — What is spastic colitis? I had a bad case of diarrhea for four weeks, so I went to the doctor. He said it was spastic colitis. He gave me Librax, which helped, so I only had to go to the bathroom twice a day. The stool was very loose, so the doctor told me to take Metamucil. It didn't help. Last week I got a cold and the diarrhea has returned, although I no longer have the cold. Does colitis ever go away?

DEAR READER — The wall of the bowel is lined by muscle. On occasion, those muscles can contract in a form of spasm. The spasm causes digested food to move too rapidly through the intestine. As a result, intestinal moisture remains in the bowel movements, making them mushy or loose.

Many diseases can cause diarrhea. Therefore, before assuming yours is the product of spastic colitis, you need to have an evaluation by a gastroenterologist. This type of specialist can perform certain tests to make sure you don't have intestinal infection, food allergy or any other treatable disease.

Librax, like other similar medicines, serves only to slow down bowel action; it doesn't cure the fundamental cause of your problem. Likewise, Metamucil is simply vegetable fiber which adds bulk to your stools and absorbs excess liquid.

Although many forms of colitis are resolved with time, I think you would be wise to check out your problems with a specialist.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I am 41 and in good health, but my joints crackle. My neck, shoulders, knees and ankles pop frequently. There is no pain, but it's annoying. My jaw has popped for five or six years and my other joints started popping about three years ago. They are getting worse. Is this caused by a deficiency? What kind of doctor specializes in this problem?

DEAR READER — As people age, the ligaments that hold their joints in place tend to relax and stretch. This allows more joint mobility, hence the cracking and popping that you experience. This condition is nothing to be concerned about; a short visit with a bone specialist (orthopedic surgeon) should put your mind at ease.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I recently had an EKG. Noting a dip in the tracings, I questioned the doctor. He said it was an extra beat and nothing to be concerned about. Please explain the significance of this departure from the norm. I am a senior citizen.

DEAR READER — Extra heartbeats occur in healthy people of all ages. Skipped beats also are present in persons with heart disease. Whether the extra beats are normal or abnormal depends on their frequency, timing and configurations.

As a general rule, extra beats are heart contractions that appear out of synchrony with the normal heart rhythm. They are triggered by tiny electrical impulses arising from either the low-pressure chambers (atria) of the heart or from the high-pressure chambers (ventricles).

Atrial extra beats are common in young persons and appear to be related to stress and stimulants (like nicotine and caffeine). They rarely produce symptoms.

Ventricular extra beats seem to be more prevalent in older people. Like the atrial variety, they are also brought on by stimulants. However, in patients with heart disease, ventricular extra beats can trigger a dangerous runaway rhythm. If they occur in relation to exercise or chest pain or after a heart attack, they may herald serious heart stoppage.

Fortunately, for most of us, occasional extra beats are of no concern. If the extra beats occur frequently, the prudent patient would seek more elaborate evaluation than just a routine cardiogram.

Hundreds arrested during protests

by The Associated Press

More than 800 people were arrested in five states on the first day of the Reagan administration's trade embargo of Nicaragua in protests against the economic sanctions leveled at the leftist Sandinista government.

Rallies against the racial policies of South Africa's white minority government continued in California, Kansas and Washington, D.C., but protests against the trade embargo that took effect Tuesday drew larger crowds.

More than 500 people were arrested Tuesday in Massachusetts, at least 400 of them in Boston at the John F. Kennedy building in Government Center. There were 258 arrests at a similar demonstration against U.S. policy in Central America at San Francisco's federal building. Others were arrested in Connecticut, Vermont and New York.

Reagan declared the embargo May 1 to pressure the leftist government into severing its military ties with Cuba and the Soviet Union. The action came as President Daniel Ortega was pleading his case to Soviet officials for aid, reportedly amounting to $200 million.

But in Washington Tuesday, Rep. Michael Barnes, D-Md., called the embargo and "act of economic warfare" that "tells the Sandinistas that we are not interested in reaching an agreement with them."

Barnes said the embargo gives leverage to Marxist hard-liners in Managua and drives them into closer alliance with the Soviet Union.

Up to 1,000 demonstrators gathered at Boston's federal building, chanting "Sanctions for South Africa, Not for Nicaragua!" Inside, about 400 people held what they called a "town meeting," then were arrested when they refused to leave and were charged with failing to obey a federal order, said General Services Administration Regional Administrator Peter Thomas.

The protesters outside sang songs in unison with those locked inside and pounded the glass doors as mounted police encircled the building.

"The hottest place in hell is reserved for those who do nothing," said Al Giordana, 25, after his arrest. "I consider this an act of patriotism."

Ross Feldberg, 41, an associate professor of biology at Tufts University, said after his arrest that he felt the time had come to speak out.

"I go to my regular job, I'm part of the community, but I feel strongly enough to do this," he said.

Only a few hundred of the more than 3,000 known varieties of soft corals have been classified.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) There's a chance that the behavior of a valued friend could be annoying today. No one is perfect, so quickly forgive and forget.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You'll perform efficiently today tasks that are of your own choosing, but you might be inept and careless with jobs imposed upon you by others.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Instead of buying impulsively, take lots of time today to study any bargain you are offered. There's a chance it'll be less than a good deal.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Do not be timid or wishy-washy today in matters that affect your welfare or material security. Stand up for your rights.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your best interests may not be fully served today because you could be too easily swayed by outside influence. Treat all fairly, but also look out for yourself.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Use your smarts in your business dealings today. Don't make concessions unless the other party is prepared to do some adjusting as well.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You have friends in positions to help you advance your hopes, but to gain their assistance, you'll have to be more specific about your objectives.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) In a career situation today, an ally will come through for you as promised. However, he will expect you to keep secret whatever transpires.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Even though the amount may be trifling, don't make a loan today to someone your instincts warn against. Your intuition is trying to protect you.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Small mistakes are possible today in your commercial dealings. However, if you take the time to do things in an orderly fashion, errors can easily be avoided.

Unocal, Texas oilman in crucial court fight

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A final Delaware chancery court ruling on whether Unocal Corp. may exclude Texas oilman T. Boone Pickens Jr. from a lucrative stock buyback offer is likely to be crucial in Pickens' attempt to control Unocal and may affect future takeover bids.

The Delaware judge, Vice Chancellor Carolyn Berger, was to hear a second round of arguments today. But officials of Unocal and a Pickens-led investor group said a ruling isn't expected until late this week or possibly as late as Monday — the day of Unocal's postponed annual meeting.

At issue is Unocal's attempt to keep the Pickens group, Mesa Partners II, from cashing in on the company's offer to repurchase 50 million of its 173.9 million shares for $72 each, or a total of $3.6 billion.

Mesa Partners is seeking to tender its shares to Unocal, conceding that the company's offer is superior to its own $54 per share bid for 64 million shares.

If Mesa Partners wins and Unocal doesn't cancel the buyback plan, the Pickens group would sell about one-third of its Unocal holdings back to the company for a profit of about $178 million. That would be money Pickens could use to continue his takeover efforts, which he has vowed to do.

If Unocal wins in court, it would provide a potent new tool for companies to use in fending off corporate raiders.

The Pickens group owns 13.6 percent of Unocal's stock, and the 64 million additional shares it is seeking would boost that stake to 50.1 percent.

The chancery court on April 29 issued a temporary restraining order barring Unocal from excluding Mesa Partners, arguing that such action was discriminatory and illegal under Delaware law. But a Delaware Supreme Court panel subsequently ordered the chancery judge to consider a list of key issues before rendering a final decision.

Among those issues was the probable intent of the Pickens group. The Supreme Court instructed the chancery judge to determine if the Pickens group's intent "is to achieve selective treatment for itself."

"We feel we had a good case going into chancery court (the first time), and now it is even stronger," Unocal attorney Ted Levine said by telephone from Washington, D.C.

In Amarillo, Texas, Pickens spokesman Warren Vieth said Mesa Partners was optimistic.

Meantime, Mellon Bank of Pittsburgh, Pa., has decided to pull out as one of the Pickens group's lenders, a source close to the situation confirmed Tuesday. Mellon is the fourth lender to pull out of a banking consortium that put up $1.1 billion in financing for Pickens.

But the source, who spoke only on the condition of anonymity, said Mellon still is committed to remain part of the lending group until next March or the end of Pickens' effort to win control of Unocal, whichever comes first.

Reasons for Mellon's pullout were unclear. The Los Angeles Times reported that the lender was worried about losing more directors who are upset over its policy of financing hostile takeover bids.

Two Mellon directors quit for that reason during Pickens' unsuccessful bid for Phillips Petroleum Co. of Bartlesville, Okla. The newspaper reported that several more had criticized the Pickens loan and that at least four had threatened to quit.

In Pittsburgh, Mellon spokesman Dennis Larue declines comment.

More aquarobics classes scheduled

Two sessions of aquarobics classes for women will be offered by the Continuing Education department of Western Texas College this summer.

Session I is scheduled from May 20-June 28, with Session II from July 8-August 16. Classes will meet from 5-6 p.m. on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays in each session.

Patrice McKinney, physical education instructor at WTC, will direct the classes. Fees will be $30 per person for either session.

Cabinet leaders stress anti-narcotics battle

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Interior Secretary Manuel Bartlett and Attorney General Sergio Garcia Ramirez reaffirmed Tuesday the government's determination to clean up and strengthen the country's police forces and fight drug traffic.

The two cabinet ministers spoke at an announcement of a public advisory council that will submit observations on reorganization of the country's police forces under a national public security program.

Among those sitting around a long table to hear their statements were Police Chief Ramon Mota Sanchez, assistant interior secretaries, the president of the Supreme Court, officers of the Senate and Chamber of Deputies, Mexico City Mayor Ramon Aguirre Velazquez and representatives of the farm, labor and private sectors. The various sectors will be represented on the council.

"The recent blows to important drug trafficking centers in our country have brought to the attention of the federal justice system connivances, police corruption, spilling of large amounts of illegal resources, which have justifiably caused uneasiness among public opinion," Bartlett said.

He said corruption was to be expected with narcotics trafficking and that the government was fully capable of attacking the problems.

The public security program is aimed at "professionalization, moralization and modernization" of the forces.

Although the government appears to have stepped up publicity for its efforts to fight narcotics traffic and corruption since the killing of an American narcotics agent this year in Guadalajara, both men stressed that they are long standing campaigns.

The Drug Enforcement Administration agent, Enrique Camarena Salazar, and a Mexican pilot who worked with him were kidnapped in Guadalajara Feb. 7 and their badly beaten bodies were found March 5. U.S. officials complained that the Mexican investigation of the crime got off to a slow start and said corruption was partly to blame.

About 40 people, including two reputed kingpins in the Mexican narcotics empire, have been ordered to stand trial on charges ranging from homicide and kidnapping to narcotics production and traffic and weapons offenses as a result of the investigation.

Garcia Ramirez said "the current history of the campaign against narcotics traffic does not begin in the first days of February 1985. In those days there were actions by narcotics traffickers that gave rise to new energetic actions by the authorities."

He emphasized that Mexico is not a major market for heroin or cocaine consumption but has made a "great sacrifice of Mexican lives and resources...at least as much for the health of other nations," a reference to the United States, as for its own.

Referring to U.S. cooperation in the anti-narcotics program without mentioning it specifically, he said the cost to Mexico of the ongoing campaign has been many times more than the financial help the country has received.

He said Mexican resources were being invested "against criminals who are looking toward the north."

Mexico, without outside financial help, has increased the number of military and police agents and fumigation helicopters used in the campaign, he said. The aerial fleet being used is basically the same as in 1982, with three years more wear, he said.

Wimmer lands leading role in annual musical

Calvin Wimmer, a sophomore drama major from Snyder who played the role of "Bubba" in Angelo State's award-winning American College Theatre Festival presentation "Steakhouse" will play the lead role in the annual summer presentation of "Texas" at Palo Duro Canyon Amphitheatre.

"Texas" will run from June 12 through Aug. 24 at the Palo Duro Canyon theatre outside of Canyon. It is the 20th season "Texas" has been produced in the open-air arena.

The play, written by Pulitzer prize-winning playwright Paul Green, brings to life the history of the Panhandle of Texas. A cast of 80 performers participate in the musical drama.

Truck display slated in Snyder

The Victory Edition of the White Truck Integral Sleeper will be on display Friday at Rip Griffin Truck Service Center, U. S. Highway 180 and U. S. 84 Bypass.

The Victory Edition truck is part of a traveling display by White as the corporation's salute to "the winning spirit of America's Independent Truckers," according to Steve Smith, general manager of West Texas Truck Center of Lubbock, the dealership for Volvo-White trucks in this area.

Overhulser will graduate McMurry

ABILENE--Robert Dean Overhulser of Snyder will graduate from McMurry College in the 62nd annual commencement ceremonies to be held Sunday in Radford Auditorium.

He will receive a bachelor of arts degree with a major in religion.

Overhulser is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Overhulser, Jr. of 3712 Austin Ave. He is a 1980 graduate of Snyder High School.

2 local dentists attend session

SAN ANTONIO--Area dentists joined more than 6,400 professionals and guests attending the Texas Dental Association's (TDA) annual session to hear the latest issues and preview the newest products in denistry. TDA's annual session was held in San Antonio May 2-5.

Area dentists attending the TDA annual session include John Best DDS, and Robert H. Hargrove, Jr., DDS.

Alternate forms of payment for dental services was a major issue addressed during the session. Employers and individuals are exploring options such as "alphabet organizations" (providing dental care for a fixed, monthly fee) and direct reimbursement (an employer's reimbursement of dental care costs directly to an employee).

Among the new products exhibited were social security-numbered plastic discs which are bonded to the teeth. The disc are recorded in a nationwide computerized system to help in locating and identifying missing persons.

The Texas Dental Association is a statewide voluntary professional association with 25 local societies and more than 6,200 members.

Mexican cost of living increases

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Consumer prices in Mexico climbed another 3.1 percent in April, bringing inflation for the first four months to 19.8 percent and casting doubt on government hopes to reduce inflation to 35 percent by the end of 1985, the Bank of Mexico reported Tuesday.

The inflation hike, as measured by the consumer price index, was due mainly to price increases in food, furniture and clothing, according to the bank, which serves as Mexico's federal reserve.

The bank also said inflation between last month and April 1984 was 56.5 percent, compared to 69.1 percent for the one-year period between April 1984 and April 1983.

During April, the bank said, the price of food, drink and tobacco increased by 3.4 percent; furniture prices went up by 3.8 percent and clothing costs increased by 3.3 percent. The lowest increases were transporation costs which increased 1.2 percent and education, 2.2 percent.

Wildflower Day termed successful

Two hundred forty-eight elementary students participated in the creative writing project planned in conjunction with Scurry County Wildflower Day on April 27, Janet Halbert, director of the project, said.

In addition, two classes participated in art activities.

The student's projects are on display in the Scurry County Museum at Western Texas College along with paintings and photographs of wildflowers and a wildflower pattern quilt.

Certificates of participation will be given to all students who entered the writing project, Mrs. Halbert said.

"We want to thank the principals, teachers, parents and anyone else involved in helping the students prepare their entries," Mrs. Halbert said. "We also want to thank Dr. Thomas Scannicchio for his cooperation.

"Twenty-five classes participated in the writing project and 11 of those had 100 percent participation. Teachers of classes with 100 percent participation will receive a certificate.

"We want to remind everyone that a bigger and better Wildflower Day observerance will be held next year and the Wildflower Day committee would welcome suggestions for next year's activities."

April 26 has been designated the 1986 Wildflower Day in Scurry County.

Glue-paint sale bill approved

AUSTIN (AP) — A bill easing the law that requires merchants to "lock up" glue and aerosol paint to prevent abuse has been tentatively approved by the Senate, and its sponsor claims the bill's goal remains the same — saving lives.

Sen. Hector Uribe, D-Brownsville, told sponsor Bob Glasgow, "All I'm hearing from you is the current law is inconvenient for retailers."

Glasgow, D-Stephenville, responded, "One thing we agree on is saving lives, and we're going to continue to save lives."

Glasgow's bill would eliminate the provision that allows a merchant to be prosecuted for displaying "abusable glue or aerosol paint" in such a way that it is accessible without the assistance of store personnel. The products have a history of abuse by people who inhale the vapors to become intoxicated.

Glasgow said the law passed as a "War on Drugs" measure by the Legislature two years ago, was not intended to be a "lock up law."

Under the new proposal, a business would maintain "controlled" exits from where glues and paints are sold. Controls would include store employees near enough to observe customers or an electronic device through which customers would have to pass.

The proposal was tentatively approved on voice vote Tuesday but needs a final vote to go to the House.

Glasgow said the measure was a compromise by many parties but not the Governor's Task Force on Inhalant Abuse.

"They don't want to make any changes in the law," said Glasgow, who also sponsored the original proposal.

He said the 1983 law was designed to take dangerous inhalants "out of the hands of children ... but it takes them out of the hands of everybody."

Gov. Mark White created the 15-member task force in February 1984, and said at that time estimates of inhalant abusers in Texas ranged from 30,000 in El Paso to 13,000 underage 21 in Houston to 3,000 minors and adults in San Antonio.

The problem, White said, was concentrated among minors in low-income communities, many of them predominantly Hispanic.

Glasgow said prosecutors cannot enforce the current law because it is vague and ambiguous, but Sen. John Whitmire, D-Houston, said since it was enacted, deaths from inhalant abuse have declined.

"Have you talked to prosecutors? There's no way in the world they can enforce it now," Glasgow said.

"I realize it's an inconvenience to merchants, but I submit to you the greater good is served," said Whitmire.

"You can't keep items under lock$ and key," said Glasgow. "How are you going to do it?"

County roping set this Saturday; entires taken through Thursday

Entries are being accepted for the fourth annual Scurry County Roping, set for May 11 in the Scurry County Rodeo Association arena on Gary Brewer Road.

There will also be a barrel race, along with calf roping and team roping. Calf ropers will pay $30 for three head and team ropers will pay $30 for three head, progressive after one. Barrel racers will pay $25 for one run.

Ropers will be competing for Skyline buckles. The best combination roper will also receive a buckle.

Entry forms are available at Brewster's Saddle Shed at 1807 24th St. Entries close at 5 p.m. May 9.

The events are open to residents of Scurry County or to persons who live outside the county but have children attending public schools in Snyder, Hermleigh or Ira.

Proceeds go to the rodeo scholarship fund at WTC.

SPORTS

Weak hitting sidelines Cats; they'll be back, says Lewis

By BILL McCLELLAN
SDN Sports Editor

If fans expect Snyder to roll up the infield after their sitting out the playoffs for the first time in nine seasons, they are thinking wrong, baseball coach Albert Lewis confirmed this week.

ALBERT LEWIS

"This is an empty period for us," admitted the coach, "but it will just make us work a lot harder next year."

Snyder's season ended with a 12-4 victory over Monahans last week. The out-going win left the Tigers in third place in the District 2-4A race with a 6-4 record. Snyder was 17-7 for the season.

With only a handful of players returning from last year, Lewis wasn't expecting to repeat as district champions, but he did have visions of making the playoffs.

"At the start of the season I was hoping we'd enter the playoffs as the second team. I expected Pecos to be tough with all those lettermen coming back. The guy that really surprised everybody was (pitcher Shay) Morris of Andrews. I thought we could maybe move into the playoffs but Morris really came through for them," said Coach Lewis.

There were a lot of reasons Snyder will be sitting home when the playoffs begin next week, but the most glaring is a lack of hitting. The Tigers were rapping out at a .448 pace last year. That figure dropped to .287 in the 1985 campaign.

"A lot of the kids that really hit well last year just didn't hit well at all," said Lewis. "Even the kids that hit pretty well this year didn't come near what they were hitting a year ago. This was one of our weaker hitting teams, but or course Morris and some others attributed to that," added the coach.

Snyder's top batsman - Charles Bollinger - hit .469 this year as compared to .625 a year ago and had 23 rbi compared to 42. But Lewis wasn't pointing fingers - and certainly not at Bollinger.

"We had people hitting .160 this year that hit .548 last year. And we had some hitting .076 and .063 in district play this year. You've got to have better hitting than that throughout your lineup," said Lewis.

He also said Snyder made more errors than in the past, but praised the pitching staff.

"The kids performed well all of the time. We had three kids with earned run averages under 3.00 and in high school that's good. We just made too many errors and couldn't get the hits when we needed them," he said.

Bollinger led the Tiger pitchers with an 8-1 record. He had an ERA of 1.70 and had 93 strikeouts.

"We probably averaged nine strikeouts a game and seven is a real good average for a high school team," said Lewis.

The coach noted some strong points for next year.

"I thought (catcher) Ricky Hunter continued to show improvement behind the plate. He was the second leading hitter on the team as well," said Lewis of the junior, who hit .438 in district play. "Justin Webb showed us a lot of potential both as a pitcher and a hitter (.364 batting, 5-4 record with 2.47 ERA). I thought Steve Parker did a good job defensively at first base, and Don Osborn did well there when he stepped in, too," added the coach.

It had to happen, though. With Snyder not making the playoffs, Lewis got more than his share of phone calls from "helpful" parents and fans.

"It's part of it. It was a little worse this year but you always go through it, even the year we won state," he said. "I'm going to play who I think will do the best job. I don't care if it's the first game or the 25th game. If a kid is performing better than another kid then he's going to play.

"We expect our workouts to be competitive from beginning to end. We expect the kids to perform at a high level. Otherwise workouts are all for the birds," said the coach. "When you have competition, the better talent will rise to the top because they are being pushed. If not, they'll rest on their laurels. That was one thing that hurt us this year. We didn't have the depth we sometimes have. Some of these kids didn't really have anybody pushing them for their position."

Just how good Snyder will be in 1986 is a question mark. The Tigers lose pitchers Bollinger and Jimmy Cain, second baseman Jay Mayo, outfielder Bobby Velasquez and several others. But Snyder will have some solid players returning, and the pitching could be good, too, with junior varsity hurlers William Foree and Kenneth Pickering showing promise. Hunter is also a top pitching prospect.

"We'll enjoy the time off, but we're always anxious to get back into it," said Lewis. "We can field a competitive team next year. You're going to have seasons like this, where things don't always work out like you planned. It's bound to happen in a league that is as strong as this one. We're planning on being back, though. This will just make us work a little harder."

Andrews nips Pecos; playoff schedule set

MONAHANS -- Andrews cracked Pecos 4-2 on the strength of four fourth-inning hits to earn a District 2-4A baseball championship here Tuesday.

Both teams had tied during the district season with 9-1 records.

The win sends Andrews against 1-4A runnerup Canyon in next week's bi-district playoffs. As 2-4A runnerup, Pecos will be pitted against 1-4A champion Lubbock Estacado.

Renee Trevino went the distance to pick up the win for Andrews, which had to rally from a 2-0 deficit and hold off some late scoring efforts to get past the Eagles. Pecos jumped out to a 1-0 lead on Elias Peyan's first-inning triple, then added another run before Andrews broke loose in the fourth.

The Mustangs got four hits in the inning off of Pecos pitcher Peyan and weaved them around two errors and a balk.

Pecos came back to put runners on in both the sixth and seventh innings but Andrews centerfielder Jeff Tidwell made running catches of two deep fly balls to quell both threats.

Each team had six hits in the game. Trevino struck out three batters; Peyan six.

Andrews, now 16-7 for the season, is scheduled to meet Canyon, 17-3, in a best-of-three series that begins 4:30 p.m. Tuesday (May 14) at the Texas Tech University Field in Lubbock. Games 2 and 3, if necessary, would also take place at the Tech Field on May 18, beginning at 4:30.

Pecos, 17-4, will face 18-6 Estacado at 4 p.m. May 14 in Lubbock. Games 2 and 3, if necessary, will be held Saturday in Pecos, beginning at 5 p.m.

Lakers axe Portland; Denver rips Utah Jazz

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) - The Los Angeles Lakers and Earvin "Magic" Johnson have made believers of the Portland Trail Blazers.

"I still think they are the best," Portland Coach Jack Ramsay said Tuesday night after the Lakers defeated the Trail Blazers 139-120 to win their National Basketball Association series four games to one.

"This is a stronger Laker team than the one that won the league championship in '82," Ramsay added.

"I can't imagine anybody being better than Magic," said the Trail Blazers' Darnell Valentine. "He's the best, the consummate player."

Johnson, taking charge of the game, scored 34 points and had 19 assists and nine rebounds as the Lakers advanced to the Western Conference finals against Denver.

The Nuggets also won their series against the Utah Jazz in five games, capped by Tuesday night's 116-104 victory in Denver.

While no starting date for the best-of-seven Denver-Los Angeles series has been announced, it is expected to begin Saturday afternoon at the Lakers' Forum.

In an Eastern Conference matchup tonight, the Detroit Pistons are at Boston in a best-of-five semifinal that's tied 2-2.

JUNE BEETLE

WHITE GRUB

White grubs...

Proper spraying said important

By DEANNA MYERS
County Entomologist

White grubs are a pest in home lawns. Severely damaged grass can be lifted easily or rolled off of the ground. To control these pests in your lawn you should treat with Oftanol (R) the last day of May and the first of August. Oftanol (R), Diazinon or Dursban (R) can be used around July 4th. Proper application is important. If a granular formulation is used, immediately water the lawn before and after the application is applied.

The adult which is called a June beetle is about ½ to ⅝ inch long and light brown. During flight periods, large numbers of male adults often congregate around lights. A female beetle is capable of laying 30 to 40 eggs which hatch in three to four weeks. The grub or immature is C-shaped and whitish.

To check your lawn for grubs, plugs of at least three to four inches in diameter and four inches in depth should be taken from your lawn. Be sure and check all areas of your lawn. Tear the plyus apart and thoroughly examine them for grubs. Treatment is usually justified when more than four grubs per square foot are found.

Unnecessary insecticide application often creates more problems than they solve. The applications destroy organism which help decompose the thatch and beneficial insects which would normally aid in controlling other pest insects.

If you wait until the end of August and into September or later when damage is evident to make your spray application, your applications will not be very effective. At that time of year grubs will be large and as a result very difficult to control.

Confetti, cheers mark vets parade

NEW YORK (AP) — Carried along by the cheers of a million onlookers and drowned in a sea of confetti, about 25,000 Vietnam veterans, most in combat fatigues, marched through a tumultuous ticker-tape homecoming from a war that ended a decade ago.

Signs lining the route that wound across the Brooklyn Bridge and through Wall Street on Tuesday summed up the crowd's feelings: "We should have said it sooner — we're proud of you," said one. "Thanks, so much," said another.

Later Tuesday, about 4,000 veterans capped the festivities with a party at the aircraft carrier Intrepid, permanently docked in the Hudson River.

"This was like a college reunion, only not as romantic," said Air Force veteran Ron Naismith as his comrades ate hot dogs, drank beer and listened to pop music of the Vietnam era.

Leaning from office windows, standing on fences and perching precariously on cars and trucks, throngs cheered and waved American flags as group after group of veterans from across the nation passed by.

"It's long overdue," said George Alvarado, 29, a former Marine from Brooklyn. "We took a big loss and never got any recognition."

Police estimated the crowd at 1 million, although some stretches of the route through Brooklyn and into Manhattan were thinly populated.

Yet even when sparse, the crowd's enthusiasm welled up as the veterans, led by retired Gen. William Westmoreland and 26 Medal of Honor recipients, strolled by or marched past in cadence. Although most vets wore fatigues, some appeared with neat rows of ribbons and medals pinned to business suits.

"It was really a thrill," Westmoreland, who headed American forces in Vietnam, said afterward.

Mayor Edward Koch pushed the wheelchair of Assemblyman John Behan, who lost his legs 20 years ago in Vietnam.

"It was a lousy war, but a helluva parade," Behan said. "The enthusiasm of the people was nice to see. They meant it when they said, 'Welcome home.'"

Spectators gave some of their loudest applause to a small group of women marching behind a yellow banner that said: "Women who served in Vietnam."

"It's wonderful. It's really beautiful. I'm here with all my sisters," said Sharon Vennel, 33, of Haddonfield, N.J., who spent a year in Vietnam as an Army [illegible]

But for some, the experience was not entirely a happy one.

Angel Irlanda, a radio operator who served in Vietnam from 1967-69, shed tears for the comrades he left behind. "I'm happy in my heart for myself and all my buddies here today but sad about the many left behind. The sons and husbands who died."

No-pass, no-play setbacks

by The Associated Press

Two Texas judges have handed down more temporary setbacks to the state's controversial no-pass, no-play rule and scheduled hearings to consider making them permanent.

State District Judge Eugene Chambers extended a temporary restraining order against the rule in three Harris County school districts and set a hearing on the matter for May 15.

He extended the ban for the Spring Branch, Alief and Cypress-Fairbanks independent school districts after a Monday hearing.

Meanwhile in Odessa, officials said Tuesday that a 16-year-old Permian High School student will suit up for spring football drills after a court slapped a temporary restraining order on school administrators.

The rule, which bars students from extracurricular activities if they flunk one or more classes, is part of the package of education reforms approved by the Legislature last summer.

Anthony Sheppard, attorney for the Spring Branch and Alief school districts, has attacked the rule on constitutional grounds. He says it denies students protections guaranteed in the U.S. Constitution of due process and equal protection.

One provision which Sheppard questions allows high school principals to waive the rule for students in accelerated or honors classes.

"It is unconstitutional to endow an official with the unbridled power to make a decision like that. For whatever reason, a principal can waive the rule. He becomes judge, jury and executive," Sheppard said.

In Odessa, Ricky Cronk, along with five other underclassmen, was declared ineligible for spring practice at the school known for its football prowess because he failed a class during the last six-week grading period, Permian Principal Charles Broughton said Tuesday.

But Cronk, who Broughton said failed introductory algebra, will participate in practices this week after State District Judge Joe Connally Monday issued a temporary restraining order against Ector County Independent School District.

Another hearing is scheduled Friday.

Connally's order was the second issued in less than a week regarding a Permian sophomore football player who has failed a class, and is one of several court actions taken by parents and others across Texas who oppose the

On Thursday, Connally issued a temporary restraining order allowing 16-year-old Terry Bryant to participate in the Permian High School spring drills.

Meanwhile, the state school board chairman said in a speech Monday in Odessa that Texas should help local school districts saddled with lawsuits over the state-mandated reforms.

Bill Holm, Ector County Independent School District superintendent, said such litigation is a financial burden.

"We're going to have to spend who knows how much money defending the school district," Holms said, asking State School Board Chairman Jon Brumley if the state should not be responsible for defending a state-enacted rule.

"I think (we) should," Brumley said.

Brumley said when he returns to Austin, he will talk to other state education officials about whether state Attorney General Jim Mattox should defend cases such as those in Odessa.

Argument triggers situation

LAREDO, Texas (AP) — A Laredo man surrendered to police early today after a family argument triggered the taking of a young child as a hostage and a wild chase in which several law enforcement automobiles were damaged.

Shots were fired while the man was cornered by lawmen from both Texas and Mexico on the Juarez-Lincoln Bridge across the Rio Grande in this Texas-Mexico border city, but no one was hurt, said Police Chief Victor Garcia.

The 32-year-old man was taken under guard to Mercy Regional Medical Center where he was listed in fair condition. He complained of leg and chest pains after surrendering to heavily armed police.

Garcia said the incident began when police were called to the man's home by his wife. He said the man took his three-year-old son hostage and drove north from Laredo on Interstate 35.

The man was believed to be armed with a .22 caliber pistol, Garcia said. No weapon was found when the man surrendered, but Garcia said, "That doesn't mean he didn't have a weapon because he might have dumped the weapon during the chase.

Law enforcement authorities from Laredo, the Texas Department of Public Safety, Webb County Sheriff's Department and U.S. Border Patrol set up a roadblock about 17 miles north of Laredo, where they managed to corner the man.

Laredo Police, including a four-man SWAT team, brought the man's wife to the roadblock where she pleaded with him to surrender.

"I love you, I'm sorry for what happened," the woman shouted at the man as lawmen watched.

Officers had been told to shoot if they believed the man would harm his son, an officer who did not want to be identified told the Laredo News at the scene.

About 90 minutes after the man's wife arrived from Laredo, police began moving in on him in their cars, witnesses said.

"Let's take him now," an unidentified officer shouted as the police cars closed in.

A U.S. Border Patrol car that began to move was rammed by the man's station wagon. The station wagon bumped another patrol car and then drove between two others and sped southward towards Laredo.

About six miles south of the barricade, the station wagon rammed and overturned a Texas Department of Public Safety car. The officer inside was unhurt, police said.

Another DPS car was pushed off the highway by the station wagon about two miles south of the first accident.

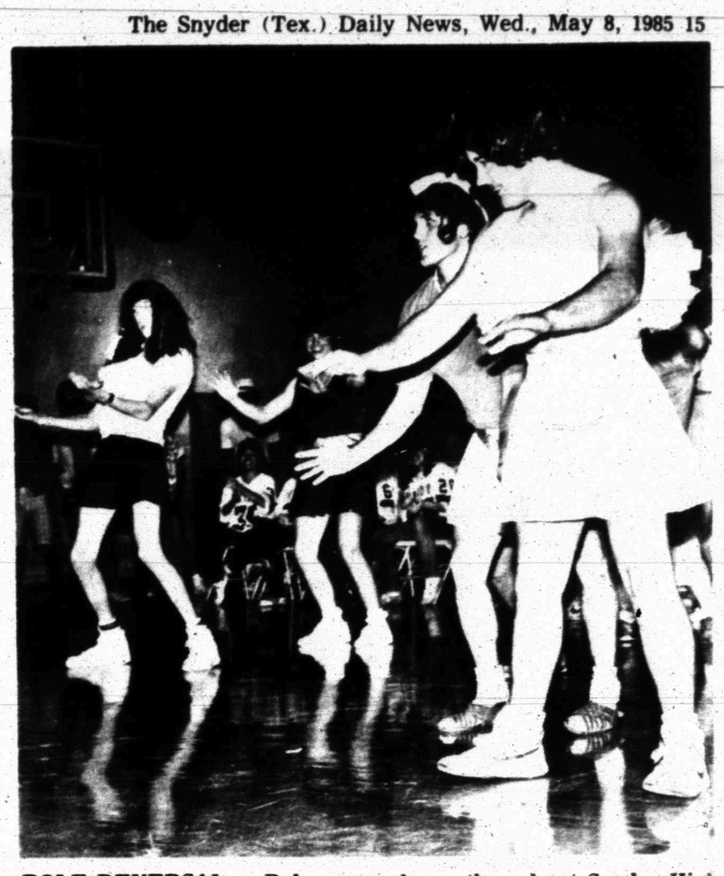

The station wagon roared southward to the international bridge, where Mexican police, alerted by Laredo authorities, moved to block the south end of the bridge.

The station wagon rammed through a barricade on the Texas side of the bridge, struck one police car and careened into three others on the bridge, where it stopped between groups of Laredo and Mexican police who had the bridge surrounded, witnesses said.

E.J. Medina, a DPS officer who had been pursuing the station wagon, said, "That fellow came from the 10-mile (highway) marker to here (the bridge) with his left rear tire blown out." He said he could see the wheel smoking as the car drove back into Laredo.

The standoff at the bridge lasted about an hour before the man surrendered at about 2 a.m., Garcia said. The boy was unhurt, he added.

Garcia said no charges were immediately filed against the man, but said officers were considering the charges early today.

Churches seeking to block prosecutions, deportations

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Religious groups are suing the Reagan administration to prevent deportation of refugees like "Juan Peree," a Salvadoran doctor who fled his country after being arrested and tortured for giving medical aid to peasants.

Perez, who uses a fictitious name, was with a coalition of religious groups Tuesday that sued to block federal prosecution of church sanctuary workers and bar deportations of refugees to El Salvador and Guatemala.

"They deport us back to the same death squads and the same army that we fled from in the first place, and many people who have been deported end up dead," Perez said in Spanish through an interpreter.

The suit, filed by the Center for Constitutional Rights and the National Lawyers Guild on behalf of 80 religious organizations, requests a court order granting "temporary refuge" to "persons fleeing war, persecution and widespread human rights violations in Guatemala and El Salvador."

The suit in U.S. District Court also said prosecution of those offering sanctuary to refugees violates the right to free exercise of religion.

"The religious sanctuaries are performing the obligations of persons of faith to stand with the persecuted and the stranger in their midst, in accordance with scripture," the suit said.

The Presbyterian Church, the Unitarian-Universalist Association, the United Methodist Church and the American Baptist Churches in the U.S.A. are among the plaintiffs.

The Justice Department is prosecuting sanctuary workers who have helped aliens enter and remain in the United States.

So far, three members of the sanctuary movement have been convicted of alien smuggling or related chages in Texas, and 16 have been indicted in Arizona.

The Reagan administration contends most refugees from El Salvador and Guatemala are fleeing for economic reasons and not for political persecution, which would entitle them to asylum.

Last year, federal immigration officials granted asylum to 2.45 percent of the 13,000 Salvadoran appliants and to .39 percent of the 1,000 Guatemalans, said National Lawyers Guild President Marc Van Der Hout. The asylum rate for all refugees is over 30 percent, he said.

Art Shanks, deputy regional director of the Immigration and Naturalization Service, said Tuesday that if Salvadorans and Guatemalans have a lower approval rate than other applicants for asylum, it's because refugees who say they have been or would be tortured must present "objective evidence," and most cannot.

Meanwhile, a federal appeals court Tuesday revived the political asylum claim of a Salvadoran who said he tried to stay neutral in his country's civil war but was threatened with death by a right-wing "death squad."

By a 2-1 vote, the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals rejected the conclusion of the Board of Immigration Appeals that Jose Argueta had no case for asylum and told the board to reconsider.

Man sentenced in son's death

AUSTIN (AP) — An Austin man convicted in the fatal beating of his 14-month-old son has been sentenced to 24 years in prison.

State District Judge Tom Blackwell sentenced Mark Shalda, 25, moments after the punishment was recommended by a jury that had deliberated for seven hours Tuesday.

Shalda was convicted Monday of causing serious bodily injury to his son Arnold, who died in November.

Prosecutors had urged a sentence of 50 years. Shalda's lawyers had asked for probation.

Shalda, who had faced from five years' probation to life in prison and a $10,000 fine, said he would appeal.

He hugged his mother and other relatives as well as his wife, Jessie, before being led back to the Travis County Jail.

The Shaldas' son suffered a fractured skull and severe brain damage in November. He died several days after being hospitalized.

Shalda said the injuries were the result of a series of accidents. He said the head injury apparently occurred when the boy was thrown onto a mattress, bounced off and struck his head against a wall.

Expert witnesses testified that the injuries were so severe they were the equivalent of falling from a three-story heighth.

Jurors on Monday discarded a murder charge and convicted Shalda of the lesser charge, which is a first-degree felony.

Sir Frederick Banting, co-discoverer of insulin, and two others were killed in a 1941 plane crash in Newfoundland.

Gate struck, driver flees

Two minor traffic accidents including one hit-and-run incident were reported in Snyder Tuesday.

Dorothy Cox of 4107 Avondale Ave. filed the hit-and-run report at 12:23 p.m.

She told police that her fence and a gate on the alleyway behind the residence had apparently been struck by a vehicle which fled the scene.

A two-vehicle collision was reported at 8:13 p.m. at the intersection of U.S. Highway 84 and College Ave.

Involved in it were a 1985 Ford driven by Thomas Carl Collum of 1904 Coleman Ave. and a 1974 Ford driven by Travis Lee Elliot of Rt. 3, Snyder.

No injuries were reported from either accident.

A single minor traffic accident was reported in Snyder Monday afternoon.

Involved in the 2:25 p.m. collision on the parking lot of the Park Village Apartments at 4400 Ave. U were a 1982 Chevrolet driven by apartment resident Ralph Dean Laywell and a 1978 Chevrolet driven by Mary E. McGlouthlin, who also listed an address at the apartments.

3 vehicles burglarized

Police are investigating a series of automobile burglaries reported Tuesday in the Bassridge addition south of Towle Park, all apparently occurring Monday night.

Purses containing varying amounts of cash, credit cards and miscellaneous personal papers were reported taken from three vehicles parked in the area.

Listed as burglarized were:

—A 1983 Chevrolet Blazer at 4502 Fredonia, reported by Lou Anne Burleson.

—A 1982 Ford Bronco at 2711 48th St., reported by Karla Gist.

Farmers plant 25 percent of crop in week

WASHINGTON (AP) — In just a week, farmers planted one-fourth of the 1985 U.S. corn acreage, putting them far ahead of last year's pace. Other crops also are getting off to a fast start, says a government report.

By May 5, 46 percent of the corn in the major states had been planted. A week earlier, on April 28, only 22 percent of the acreage was seeded.

The weekly report issued Tuesday by the Joint Agricultural Weather Facility said corn planting was far ahead of the year-earlier pace of 11 percent, when a late spring and muddy fields hampered farmers. In average years, about 28 percent of the crop has been planted by May 5.

"Corn was 53 percent seeded in the Corn Belt and 36 percent seeded in the west North-Cental states," the report said. "Planting neared completion in all Southeastern states except Virginia."

Rain slowed planting in the Mississippi Delta, but progress was still ahead of normal in most states of the region, the report said. Overall, corn planting ranged from "just getting started in South Dakota to almost complete in Georgia."

In Illinois, 66 percent of the corn was planted by May 5, a sharp jump from 31 percent just a week earlier. A year ago, only 6 percent of the Illinois crop had been planted.

The Iowa corn crop was 55 percent planted, up from 17 percent on April 28 and 5 percent a year ago, the report said.

Winter wheat in most of the major producing states was 19 percent headed, compared with 10 percent this time last year and a normal development of 17 percent. Spring wheat was 78 percent planted, compared with 43 percent a year ago.

"Nebraska's wheat was mostly good," the report said. "Moisture and above-normal temperatures continued improving wheat. Kansas wheat growth was excellent, and about 10 percent of the crop was headed, which is normal. Warmth and moisture contributed to good head development in Oklahoma."

Other crop observations:

—About 24 percent of the sorghum crop in the major producing states had been planted by May 5, slightly ahead of last year. Planting in Arkansas and Texas was "considerably ahead of the other states," with 45 percent and 65 percent of the acreage planted, respectively.

Better relations sought

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — China would like to improve relations with the Soviet Union, but there are military obstacles to that goal, the Chinese ambassador to the United Nations says.

Ambassador Ling Qing, in a news conference Tuesday, said China feels the Soviet "military presence in the north and in Vietnam poses a serious threat to China's security."

"We are trying to improve our relationship with the Soviet Union," he said.

Ling, in San Antonio on a goodwill mission to the business community, said the world knows very little about new Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev.

"He appears more mild and receptive to the western world, but it's all appearance," he said.

Relations between China and Vietnam are worsening, Ling said, because of the Vietnamese occupation of Cambodia.

On economic matters, Ling said China is keenly interested in importing from the United States high tech products and oil exploration machinery.

The ambassador said his country also wants to buy agricultural products.

Judge dismisses lawsuit

BEAUMONT, Texas (AP) — A federal judge has dismissed a lawsuit filed by two cousins who claim they own more than a $20 billion chunk of the Spindletop oil fortune.

U.S. District Judge Joe Fisher ruled Tuesday that the suit brought by James Clark of Cincinnati and Dan Profitt of Elsmere, Ky., was without merit because of a 70-year delay in filing the claim.

Clark and Profitt filed the suit last year on behalf of themselves and about 200 others who say they are heirs to Texas' first oil fortune.

Clark said he was not surprised by Fisher's decision.

"We're ready to appeal on it. I can't see letting a full chain of title go," said Clark, insisting there is no statute of limitations on undivided interest in mineral rights.

The cousins' claim is based on a 1911 deed, recorded in 1931, which they say gave a relative, James Meadors, certain mineral rights to lands that are part of the Spindletop oil field fortune.

The suit alleged that Amoco Productions, Mobil Oil Corp., Phillips Petroleum Co. and Texaco Inc. took oil, gas and other minerals from the property for their own use and refused to acknowledge the cousins' claims to the mineral rights.

In his ruling, Fisher agreed with the earlier recommendation of U.S. Magistrate Earl Hines, who cited legal doctrines dealing with unreasonable delays in filing the claim.

"The delay is unquestionable: over 70 years have elapsed since the deed's execution," Hines wrote. "Nor can any reason or excuse exist for a delay of that magnitude ... It is apparent that 70 years is far too great a delay."

In December 1982, Fisher dismissed a related case filed by Clark and Profitt, saying that the suit failed to make a specific claim and request specific relief. Defendants included various Jefferson County courts, banks and oil companies.

People across the country have claimed to be heirs to the Spindletop fortune and have filed several lawsuits in recent years.

The Spindletop gusher in 1901 made Beaumont an oil boomtown that grew from 9,000 people in early 1901 to 50,000 by that summer.
