Predictions for Future of 1960 Seniors

By Reta Jane Ing
OH CRYSTAL BALL OH CRYSTAL BALL
AS I LOOK PLEASE TELL ME ALL

LET ME THE YEAR 1960 SEE WHERE EACH OF THE SENIORS WILL BE!
ON ALL THE PLANETS LET ME PEER

FOR MANY OF MY CLASS MATES ARE THERE, I FEAR!

The mist is lifting. Whom do I see? Oh, it's Dixie Deal who is happily married and living on the Moon. The Moon has now become so crowded for living space that houses are built straight up, room on top of room. Dixie's house has twenty rooms, twenty stories high. There is a beautiful garden next door. My goodness, who is that girl walking between the rows of plants and flowers? I see now, it's Susie Wise. What is that so sparkling that she is putting in that jar? Oh, she's gathering moon beams. The moon beams have given her a very glamorous appearance and there is always a glow around her.

The farmer in the adjoining field is Byrl Fellers. He has the best spaghetti farm on the whole planet. In the more fertile places it grows a yard in length. In his leisure, Byrl attends our old English class for entertainment and relaxation. He can write a foot note in just one year.

That's an interesting situation on Planet Unpredictable — all those Phymies circling and bowing to that beautiful blonde earth woman. Why, it is Sonja Dunn who is their queen. What a beautiful dress she has on. I wonder who designed and made it. Oh, I bet Carolyn Bates did it. She is a marvelous designer. She uses clouds instead of material. The only trouble is that sometimes a cloud will drift away while she is working with it.

Why is Neva Cornett waving that long broom back and forth through the sky for. Oh, it is getting clearer now. She is knocking the cobwebs from the sky. Neva is the official star shiner of the universe.

Can you believe it? Emmett Stiles is the greatest opera singer on Planet Mars. Of course, the Marisans don't use the same standards to judge music as earth people do. Emmett owes all his success to Mr. Mallow's training on earth. There is always a traffic jam when Emmett sings. Oh look, those automobiles are different from those on earth. They have wings. My goodness, there is Joe Floyd Morris directing traffic. Joe, being so tall, can be seen by the people from miles away.

There is Donald Williams in his "Space-a-Boo," which travels faster than light. He is now a traveling salesman. He sells hot air to all the planets, and he is getting rich doing it. I know that you are wondering who invented the "Space-a-Boo." It was Professor Kenneth Harris, graduate of Saturn Sanatorium, University of Venus, and College of Finker Toys. Of course, Naoma Henderson and Kenneth are happily married now, and Naoma is kept busy with their two sets of twins and four sets of triplets, while Kenneth is the top executive in the "Space-a-Boo" business.

Let's visit Planet Reverso now. On this planet everything is ruled by women, and the men do the women's jobs. Can you guess who is the best homemaker? Loyd Rutherford! His athletic training in high school comes in handy with his 15 children. When he blows his whistle, the children immediately fall in line and march to do their chores. He is an expert in treating whooping cough, measles and chicken pox.

Let's see who else we can find on this planet. There is Pat Day who has just become a famous author. She wrote the book "How to Train Husbands and Influence Brats." Because the women outnumber the men on this planet, Pat has five husbands and is happily married to each with a total of twenty children.

Good lands, there is Frances Biggs making a speech. She is now the best filibuster on Planet Reverso. She has now been talking for two years on "How to Out-Nag a Nagging Husband." She wants a law passed that would make husbands wear silencers at home. By the way, the ruler of Planet Reverso is LaVelle Haynes. She is a very firm ruler and nobody dares disobey her. Just a few months ago she promoted Darlene Mercer as captain of a transport space ship. Darlene's crew consists of twenty men, and there are always many applications on file in case of vacancies. It would be hard to find a more attractive officer.

Oh I can see Planet X, and there is Orvel Hall. Why, he is the best manicurist on the whole planet. The X-aniens wear their finger-nails six inches long and each nail is painted a different color. Why there is a circus next to his shop. Who is that in the arena cracking those whips at those ferocious animals? They are doing it with success too! It's Mr. Mathews and Mr. Perry. They had no trouble getting the job, as they had all the training they needed in S. A. H. S. Well, I guess that is all the Seniors to be found on this planet.

Now what can we visit next? I know the very small Planet Culture. There are not many activities on this planet, but Travis Buse, the greatest of artists, lives here. True, his pictures are different — just dots, squares and question marks. Lots and lots of question marks. There's Glendon Eppler writing poems in the sand. He is still very ambitious — ambitious, but unknown, because each day the wind blows, and each day his work is blown away. But he is not discouraged, he's been in the spot for twenty years.

Well, thank goodness, the 1960 Seniors have at least one dedicated teacher, Sandra Fowler. She loves her work and the people dearly. She is seen often with a very handsome man, who is ten feet tall with green hair.

Who is that girl over there? I can't quite see. Oh, it's Frances Bryan. After she won the Miss Half-pint Universe, she became a ballet teacher. Her nickname is Twinkle Toes. She is teaching her students the frog hop.

Well, that's all the planets. No, it isn't. I nearly forgot Planet Deviated that the famous discoverer Eddie Hartman found. He liked the people so much he married one of the beauties. Now these people are different from earth people. Their ears are where our eyes are and one eye is on each side of their head enabling them to see all around, at one time. Eddie and his wife, Daffy, have three children. The eldest resembles Daffy with an eye on each side of her head and ears in front. Eddie Jr., is the exact image of his daddy, but little Ditto has features of both his mother and father with one eye and one ear in front and one eye and ear on the side of his head. But they are very smart children!

Oh, who is that coming. It is my keeper. He is going to let me out for a little while. Oh, I hate these bars!

"Who owns the Electric Company?"

A lot of our own customers can't answer that one. But there's certainly no secret about it.

The electric company is owned by people. Thousands of people, like you, who invest their money and help the company to grow.

Your electric company is not owned or run by the city. Not by the state either. Not by any kind of government. It is an independent business.

That's an important reason why you get the best possible electric service at such a low price.

Our WASHINGTON Letter

By Congressman
O. C. FISHER

THE SOUTH AND SOUTH-WEST got a break last week when President Eisenhower vetoed the election-year distressed areas bill which had been pushed through Congress at the behest of sections smitten with chronic unemployment caused in many instances by industries closing up and moving south.

The bill would have created a new government agency, headed by a Director who would have the power to determine which communities would be eligible to receive government help provided it provided for Federal loans and grants totaling $251 million to urban and rural areas suffering from unemployment and loss of industry.

It was estimated that 132 industrial areas and several hundred rural communities would be eligible for assistance.

The Senate bill on the same subject, approved by the Senate last year, called for $700 million to be made available for grants and loans. But the Senate accepted the watered-down House version, approved two weeks ago, for the $251 million figure.

Many valid objections were raised to this legislation. It attempts to "bail out" areas which have lost industries due to high labor costs and excessive tax rates by pouring Federal money in to help build or rebuild factories, train workers' at Federal expense, to do new jobs that would be created, etc. Many of these industries have moved south because of a more favorable labor market, lower taxes, etc.

If the government is to begin this practice of rushing to the relief of any area that finds a factory shut down, there would be no end to the applications and the political pressures that would be applied to get on the receiving end of this Federal largesse. It would tend to stifle initiative, and would cause communities to look more and more to Uncle Sam to take over their burdens for them.

Once begun, it can be certain that this sort of a program would snow-bail. Undoubtedly billions of dollars would be poured into it, and there would be no end to this new run on the Federal treasury.

The President was wise in vetoing the bill.

Hints Offered on Controlling Snakes Around Homes

College Station — Most snakes are not welcome, even as visitors, in yards and homes. This is true, points out Ed Cooper, extension wildlife specialist, despite the fact that most snakes are beneficial to man because of the number of rodents and other pests they eat. But, he adds, because of the fear of poisonous snakes, most folks just don't care to see them around.

Cooper points out there is no sure way to keep snakes from moving into the yard or even on occasion the home but offers suggestions which tend to discourage this happening. The best solution is to make the premises unattractive to snakes by the removal of food and cover they like. Since most snakes feed on rats and mice, a good rodent control program will help. Maintaining rodent-proof buildings, rodent trapping or baiting programs and removal of rodent food supplies not only discourages rats and mice but snakes as well.

Closely mowed lawns and fields are much less attractive to snakes than are areas of tall grass, weeds and brush. Eliminate trash piles, leaves, boards, flat rocks and other materials

New Texas Highway Travel Map Ready

Austin — Texas' Official Highway Travel Map, 1960-style, is now available to the general public. Free copies of the big, colorful map may be obtained by writing the Texas Highway Department, Austin 14, or at the highway district offices and travel bureaus. County tax offices have map cards on hand for requesting copies of the map.

The map reflects 1,933 miles of multilane-divided highway now completed, and includes the finished sections of the seven National System of Interstate and Defense Highways located in the state. More than 1,500 farm-to-market road miles have been added to this year's map. Approximately 20,000 miles of the state's 30,000-mile Farm-to-Market Road System are shown on the map. All of the 25,378 miles of State and U. S. highways are shown.

Three new lakes have been added to the 1960 Travel Map, bringing the total shown in the major lakes-and-reservoirs category to 64. New water attractions recorded are Buffalo Lake in Lubbock County, Champion Creek Lake in Mitchell County, and Lake Tawakoni in Hunt, Rains, and Van Zandt Counties. Countless rivers, creeks, and streams are also charted on the Travel Map.

The 816 roadside parks pegged on the map are those having full picnic facilities. Their locations are marked by a green dot. State Parks are indicated by a green triangle.

"All of Texas Welcomes You" banners the pictorial side of the map — reflecting, in eleven full-color pictures, some of the outstanding recreational, scenic, and historical attractions in Texas.

A section entitled "Facts About Texas" telescopes information on Texas' terrain, history and industrial and recreational diversity.

Cities and towns shown on the map total 1,286. City route maps for the state's twelve largest cities are also included — Amarillo, Austin, Beaumont, Corpus Christi, Dallas, El Paso, Fort Worth, Houston, Lubbock, San Antonio, Waco and Wichita Falls.

More than a half million Official Highway Travel Maps of the 1959 edition have been distributed — in-state, out-of-state, and to dozens of foreign countries.

The map is used by all state and governmental agencies in the state for determining official highway distances, mileages, zones, and like information.

which snakes use for cover. Weeds, logs, rocks and other objects around ponds attract snakes and should be removed if snakes are a problem.

If the proper "housekeeping" job around the home is done, Cooper says the few snake visitors can be controlled by persistent killing.

To keep snakes from entering under a house, all possible points of entry should be blocked and this could be a costly operation, says Cooper. Snakes can pass through very small openings and they usually enter a building near or below the ground level. He says to make sure cellar doors, windows and screens fit tightly; that walls and floors are free of cracks and that foundations, fireplaces and chimneys don't offer points of entry. Spaces around pipes, drains or ventilators must be plugged or screened.

"Snake-proof fences can be built around homes or children's playing areas, Cooper can supply information on such fences.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Winger of Oil City, Pa., have been visiting his brother and sister, Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Winger and Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Parker. The visitors are going to Mexico City, then return here for another weeks visit before returning to their home.

Mrs. Frances Everett returned Friday night from a three week's visit with her son, H. H. Everett and family in Oklahoma City. Enroute home she visited with her grandson, Harold Everett and family and the J. L. Scott's in Abilene. Little Shellie Everett, her great-granddaughter, came home with her and spent the weekend. Others visiting over the weekend in the home were Mrs. Hildegard Everett of Eastland and Mrs. J. E. Bolton, her sister, from Brownwood.

Chat & Stitch Club Met With Mrs. Casey

The Chat & Stitch Club met with Mrs. Arthur Casey Friday, May 13. Many beautiful floral arrangements, decorated the guest rooms in the Casey home.

The hostess showed color slides of places she visited on her recent trip to Mobile, Alabama. She also showed slides of the flower show here and some of the yards of members of the Garden Club. She included some slides taken on a hunting trip by her husband to Colorado. All were enjoyed very much.

Refreshments of chicken salad, wafers, potato chips, pineapple pie and tea were served to the members present and two guests, Mrs. J. J. Horner and Mrs. C. A. Sparks of Brownwood.

Mrs. Horner received the club gift, a beautiful candy dish with each club member's name and the date the club was organized printed on it. The gift was made by the hostess.

The next meeting will be in the home of Mrs. J. E. Howard, May 27.

Liberty Home Dem. Club Has Study Of Jelly Making

The Liberty Home Demonstration Club met Wednesday, May 12, for their regular meeting in the Community Center. Mrs. H. W. Gray was hostess for the day.

The president, Mrs. J. M. Field, called the meeting to order. Mrs. W. H. Pittard led the song, "Ever Onward." Mrs. Gray led the club pledge and prayer.

After a short business meeting, Mrs. H. O. Norris and Mrs. Gray presented a demonstration on the art of making jelly.

Refreshments of cake and coffee were served the seven members present by the hostess.

The next meeting will be on weight control for all ages and will be held in the Community building, May 25. Mrs. Carrie Teiman will have charge of the program. All members are urged to attend.

Rockwood WSCS Has Stewardship Study Monday

A lesson on Stewardship was directed by Mrs. M. A. Richardson when the Women's Society of Christian Service met at the Rockwood Methodist Church, Monday at 2:30. Mrs. John Hunter presided during the business session. All members are urged to be present Monday, May 23, at 2:30, because of important business on the agenda.

Present were Mrs. F. E. McCreary, Mrs. Evan Wise, Mrs. Henry Smith, Mrs. Bill Bryan, Mrs. L. L. Bryan, Mrs. Ray Caldwell and Mrs. Milberger.

Santa Fe to Observe New Brownwood Yards

A civic celebration sponsored by the Brownwood Chamber of Commerce Friday, May 20th, will officially dedicate the Santa Fe Railway's new and modernized railroad yard at that point. The celebration will also mark observance of National Transportation Week.

Gene Porter, president of the Brownwood Chamber of Commerce, said that the Santa Fe payroll and yard development there means much to the community. A barbecue and speaking program will be followed by a train tour of the extensive yard.

O. H. Osborn, vice-president and general manager of the Santa Fe Railway, Galveston, and other officials will be among the honored guests.

Visitors over the weekend with Mrs. J. F. Simmons were her son, Mr. and Mrs. Beal Simmons, two grandsons, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Simmons, Tony Simmons and a friend, Glenda Grammer, all of Lubbock; a brother, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Simmons of Belton; and a sister, Mrs. Dovie Bird of Tulsa, Okla.

Sunday evening after church services at the North Side Baptist Church, members were entertained at the home of the pastor, Rev. and Mrs. James L. Rogers. About 30 guests were present. A good fellowship hour and refreshments were enjoyed.

Livestock Survey Underway

Postmaster Lee Strothers announced today that Rural Mail Carriers will begin distributing June 1, 1960 Livestock Survey Cards to patrons on their routes about May 19.

This mid-year livestock survey is the first of three which your Post Office and U. S. Agriculture Departments cooperatively make each year. The June 1 survey provides basic information to the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service in Austin for estimating the 1960 calf crop, what the spring pig crop actually numbered, and a preview of farrowing intentions for the fall season.

Also, poultrymen will get information on number of chickens raised during the spring. Those chickens will be the coming fall and winter's laying flock.

To be sure our community is well represented in this survey, Postmaster Strothers urges each patron receiving a card to fill it out and return to his mail box.

Rural mail carriers working on this project are: Add Walker, Route One and Two; Mrs. Bertha Allen, Rockwood Star Route; and D. H. Moore, Whon Star Route.

Planned Decisions Aid Profits

College Station — The margin of potential profits from present day farming and ranching is narrow. Sometimes small savings are of tremendous importance. With the trend toward larger volume of business, there are increased risks from lower prices or higher costs.

For example, a few cents less per hundredweight on 200 steers marketed means a reduction of thousands of dollars in returns. Similar variation on prices for a cotton or grain crop will influence profits materially. Not all risks can be avoided, but careful planning may help reduce their impact on profits.

Individual operators may benefit more from planning by concentrating on their "recurring" and high-cost items. This emphasizes the reduction of per unit costs.

On crop enterprise, the aim should be to minimize labor costs through the economic use of machinery. Often adverse weather causes costs to increase for weed control, combating insects and for certain harvesting operations. Planning should include alternate methods of handling these practices under adverse conditions.

Timeliness of many operations often means the difference between a fair crop and a larger one. Also, the unit cost of products is higher with a reduced yield such as often results from poorly timed insect control measures, for example.

For the livestock producer, economical gains or lower unit costs are important. Here again the well planned operation must reduce labor needs. Full use should be made of mechanical feeding and automatic devices which reduce costs.

A small reduction in important production items may bring sizeable savings in total annual costs resulting in more profit. For example, feed costs comprise about 75 percent of the outlay for pork production. Thus, a small saving of $4 per ton on the ration needed for 500 market hogs would total almost $1,000. Similarly, the use of feeders designed to avoid the waste can reduce costs because of the cumulative saving.

Other considerations which involve planning in livestock operations may include: carefully scheduled breeding to fit market demands; shortening or prolonging feeding periods as justified by changes in feed-price ratios; and contracting for delivery of commodities at a pre-determined price. This may include feed items to be purchased as well as the animals to be marketed.

In short, no business requires more careful study and management than does farming and ranching. The carefully planned operation should net a wider margin of profit.

Mrs. L. O. Halbert of Los Angeles, Calif., came by plane to Fort Worth on May 6. She went to Richland Springs, where she met other members of her family and helped her father, Mr. Tomlinson, observe his 92nd birthday. Mrs. Roy Stockard of Santa Anna, another sister, was also present with her four children and six grandchildren. A total of 35 were present to join the birthday observance. Mrs. Stockard and Mrs. Halbert have visited relatives in Stephenville, Fort Worth, Dallas, Abilene, Morgan Mills and Richland Springs. She plans to return to California May 20.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Bertrand of Houston spent the weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Bertrand, who recently moved here from Cross Plains, to make their home.

85% of All Auto Accidents Human Error

Millions of column inches of valuable space are contributed by American newspapers every year in the never-ending battle to halt the bloody carnage taking place on our highways. It seems incredible that drivers continue to act as they do behind the wheel of an automobile despite the avalanche of grim facts and warnings.

But it is a matter of record, record that is slightly over 50 years old yet already stands as one of the more sordid indictments against our society.

A recent report by The Travelers Insurance Companies states that since the advent of the automobile, more than 62,000,000 men, women and children have been killed or injured on our highways. More Americans have died on our highways than in all the wars this country has fought.

The cause of this slaughter screams for attention. More than 85 percent of all fatal accidents last year was blamed on human error!

More than 85 percent of the 37,600 deaths occurred because somebody behind the wheel had shrugged off the countless highway safety news stories and editorials this newspaper and hundreds of others like it across the country printed during the year. "It can't happen to me," he thought.

Perhaps he didn't consciously think that. Maybe the fact that it could happen to him didn't get past his subconscious. Perhaps it never did happen to him. Perhaps he was the survivor in a horrible crash that maimed and killed those he loved most. Inattention is the overwhelming factor which figures in 85 percent of our death crashes. A lapse of attention to the road ahead, a heavy foot on the gas pedal, an unnecessary gamble to save a few seconds that cost an eternity — these are the ways in which the human behind the wheel failed. The supreme penalty was the result for those who erred once too often.

Although 3,000,000 copies of the report by The Travelers Insurance Companies describing the sordid record on our highways last year are being distributed in this country, chances are that you will not see one. If you do, however, read it closely. Your error behind the wheel could be included in the statistical column next year.

It is safe to predict that you as a driver will be exposed to countless news stories in this newspaper during the coming months describing what happened because the human behind the wheel made a mistake. Read them carefully. They could help you avoid that same mistake.

Texas A & M's Annual Rural Church Conference Set

College Station — The Interrelation of the Rural Church and the Larger Rural Community is the theme for the 15th annual meeting of the Rural Church Conference. The meeting will be held on the campus of Texas A & M College, June 20-22.

According to Tom Prater, extension farm management specialist, Pastor Jesse W. Roberson, Carlisle Methodist Church, Price, Texas, is president of the Conference organization. The meeting is sponsored by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Experiment Station and A & M College and all denominations are invited to participate.

Prater said the program would include items of interest to rural church leaders including discussions on moral responsibilities, traffic safety, pastoral counseling, cancer research, the changing role of agricultural extension service, and the rural church adjustments needed to meet the changes of rural life.

Dr. Joseph Beckman, managing director, Farm Foundation, Chicago, Illinois, will be one of the featured speakers of the Conference. Other speakers will include staff members of the sponsoring groups and pastors.

Prater said the rural minister of the year would be honored. He extends a special invitation to rural church pastors and church leaders of every denomination to attend the Conference.

Seniors Will Talents to Under-Graduates

By LaVelle Haynes

The Senior Class of 1960 feel it is their duty to will some of their abilities and talents among other things to the fortunate Juniors. We hope the Juniors will accept these wills with enthusiasm and use them to the best of their abilities. I see that Carolyn Bates starts the list.

I, Carolyn Bates, will to thee, Mary Rehm, my position on the basketball team.

I, Travis Buse, will to thee, Milton Drake, my ability to look intelligent in Mr. Mays English IV class, pass economics under Coach McArthur, and my ability to get along with the teachers.

I, Frances Bryan, will to thee, Steven Voss, my chair in book-keeping, and all the good grades that went with it.

I, Frances Biggs, will to thee, Janie Horne, my part in the Senior Play and hope that she plays it well.

I, Pat Day, will to thee, Barbara Allen, my ability to run laps in P. E. like a lady should, without a word of comment; and to thee, Janet Scarbrough, my ability to get by with absolutely nothing in Coach Smith's 5th period study hall.

I, Dixie Deal, will to thee, Janice Smith, my ability to work like mad to get the final layout of the annual in the post office before the deadline and to get that fiance on the ball.

I, LaVelle Haynes, will to thee, LaFaunda Blount and Lawanda McCarrell, my ability to chew gum in Homemaking III and raid the refrigerator when Miss Beard's back is turned.

I, Sandra Fowler, will to thee, Patsy Cupps, my part in the Senior Play as Grandma, and all the nights of practice that went with it.

I, Naoma Henderson, will to thee, Tommy Watson, my seat by Gayla McIver on the bus, and to thee, LaQuinn Cooper, I will my ability to collect class dues.

I, Kenneth Harris, will to thee, Don McCullough, my photographic abilities for the annual staff, and all the ruined pictures.

I, Neva Cornett, will to thee, Barbara Craig, my locker, worn-out notebook and my senior year and all its good times.

I, Sonja Dunn, will to thee, Roberta Morgan and Anita Broadway, my ability to transcribe my notes in shorthand after you have only gotten about half of them anyway.

I, Reta Ing, will to thee, Peggy McIntire and Alice Lovelady, my ability to decide what to write your research theme on and then change it three times.

I, Darlene Mercer, will to thee, Gayla McIver, my chair in economics class, and I hope she finds it as conveniently placed as I did.

I, Sue Wise, will to thee, Judy Bryan, my ability to entertain "Lady" in Homemaking III. By the way, Judy, she loves her name.

I, Loyd Rutherford, will to thee, J. C. Bible and Ray Barrington, my warm, welcome voice in assembly along with all the trips to the office.

I, Eddie Hartman, will to thee, Collins Steward, my office in Student Council and all the livestock shows.

I, Glendon Eppler, will to thee, Jimmy Blanton and Robert Clark, my ability to get along with all the teachers at all times.

I, Byrl Fellers, will to thee, Jerry Haynes and Tommy Lane, my ability to always be at the right place, at the right time, with the right materials.

I, Orvel Hall, will to thee, Weldon Haynes and Jimmy Neill, my ability to skip dull classes, write themes and think.

I, Joe Morris, will to thee, Charles Walker and Bobby Wardlow, my ability to get caught breaking the school rules and get the hiccups in class.

I, Donald Williams, will to thee, Pete Wylie, Tommy Pollock and Bob Markland, my short-hand abilities, athletic abilities and last but not least, my research theme and the "Canterbury Tales."

I, Emmitt Stiles, will to thee, all Junior boys, the ability to stay at the store until the last bell has rung.

I, LaVelle Haynes, will to thee, Dixie Baugh, my ability to type as well your second year in typing as you did in Typing I.

I, Neva Cornett, will to thee, Lula Hawkins, my ability to stay up in bookkeeping and English. Anyone who can do this is a genius.

That concludes our will for the Seniors of 1960. All their wills will be treasured and honored for years to come. We hope the Juniors realize how lucky they are in receiving these wills.

An Accident Can Take Farm Profits

College Station — There isn't any profits in farm accidents, says the Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Council. The Council goes on to say that it is difficult to place a dollar on the cost of a farm accident because there are many indirect as well as direct costs which must be taken into account.

The costs of farm work accidents — like an iceberg — are largely hidden. The small portion of the iceberg above the water line can represent the direct costs which in case of a farm accident will be largely medical.

The large portion of the iceberg below the water line represents the indirect or hidden costs. Some of these indirect costs are: time lost by the injured worker; cost of hired help to do the necessary farm work; possible loss of farm crops due to delay in harvesting; and damage to farm equipment.

In addition to these monetary costs, there is the physical suffering, discomfort and inconvenience associated with every major accident.

The Council hastens to remind farm families that farm and home accidents are preventable. Farm profits, they add, can be increased by reducing the number of accidents on the farm.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Woodward of El Paso visited here last week and attended the Lions Club 35th observance Friday night.

Senior Class Visits Colorado Springs on Trip

Senior Class Reporter
Lloyd Rutherford

The Senior Class was off to a big and wonderful trip Friday morning, May 6, at 10:30 p. m. We left Santa Anna by bus and rode to Vernon. We stopped once in Albany to get gas and let everyone relax a while. Everyone got off and had a cold drink.

We got to Vernon about 3:15 Friday evening and had a lay over until about 6:00, which was train time.

While in Vernon Mr. Pettit phoned an Army buddy, Mr. Littlefield, whom he hadn't seen in 15 years. Mr. Littlefield invited Mr. Pettit up to his house, so Mr. Pettit, Mr. Perry, Mrs. Gregg, Mrs. Deal and Miss Beard thought they would really enjoy a visit to his home. As they were leaving the depot to visit his home, a rather embarrassing thing happened. They all went on out to get into Mr. Littlefield's car, with Mr. Pettit leading the way. They got in the car and put the trousseau, which were hanging in the car, up. One thing was wrong; they were in the wrong car. This was kind of embarrassing to Mrs. Pettit and the rest, too.

They finally got to the right car and had a nice visit with Mr. Littlefield.

We got on the train and it was a wonderful experience for all of us. For most of us, it was the first train trip.

We left the dear old state of Texas about 11:55 p. m. We had several stops on the way to Colorado Springs. Everyone had a bang-up time. Nobody got much sleep.

We arrived at Colorado Springs about 5:00 a. m. their time. It would be about 6:00 our time. We gained an hour going up there. We left on a wonderful tour with the Grey Lines Touring Bus about 7:00 a. m. Words couldn't express all the wonderful things and sights we saw.

Our first stop was out at Ghost Town. This is a wonderful sight to see. In this place, they have many of the old cars. We saw Roosevelt's bullet proof car. The glass in the car was an inch thick. This town was an old mining town. It had an old Saloon, a Wells Fargo office, a jailhouse, and several things of interest. The buildings that were there were the same ones as were used in the old days. They had moved them into the place to make a Ghost Town. They had a Stage Coach and fire engine which were pulled by horses. This old town was a wonderful visit.

Our next stop was at a place where they made pottery. They showed us how they made the different and odd shapes of pottery. They had some beautiful lamps which they made also. They made their own shades for their lamps.

We then went to the Pike Peak Region and saw the Seven Falls. This is when the snow was melting and is coming down the mountains. Some of us climbed up to the beginning falls which is about 6,800 feet high above sea level. This melting snow makes seven falls before it finally gets all the way down. This is where the Seven Falls gets its name. We saw a picture of the Seven Falls at night with the lights on the water and it was really beautiful.

We never got to Pikes Peak, but all the beautiful mountains around it were called the Pikes Peak Region.

Our next stop was the Cheyenne Mountain Zoo. We saw lots of different animals, birds and reptiles.

We then started to the Garden of the Gods, which was high in the mountains. On the bus you could see only trees and deep canyons. We were about 7,800 feet above sea level. We ate at a little place on the way up. They had Easter Sunrise Services at the Garden of the Gods. It acquired its name through superstition of the Indians. They would see different things from the forms of the rocks. They would worship it then. The driver pointed out to us the different things you could see in the rocks. One was a sitting turkey. All the things were very beautiful.

While leaving there we visited an Indian Trading Post, which was just another place to get your money. There was a petrified Indian in this place, supposedly.

From there we went to the Cave of the Winds. Everyone went through the cave. Lots of interesting things were seen and enjoyed. We had our pictures made just after entering the cave. The temperature inside the cave was 52 degrees. It was about a 45 minute trip through the cave. We had a guide to take us through. Lots of things in the cave took thousands of years to form. You couldn't realize what it looked like unless you saw it.

We left the Cave of the Winds about 2:00 p. m. Mountain Time. We rode back to the hotel in the bus. Everyone seemed to have had a wonderful time. Almost everyone was ready to rest a while. We ate between 6:30 and 7:30 on Saturday night. Almost everyone attended the movie. We thought we would bowl and skate, but the places were a little far for us to attend. They were only about a mile and one-half from where we were staying.

Sunday everyone who wished to attend church did so. The rest just layed around and rested. After dinner Sunday, we visited the beautiful Air Force Academy. This was a wonderful trip. We went in a Planetarium where the Cadets learn to shoot the stars and learn the different constellations made by the stars.

Straight Talk

by Tom Anderson

To the graduates of 1960:

Things I wish I had known when I went out to face the cold, cruel world 25 years ago (or as my teen-age daughter calls it, "in the olden days"):

That sheepskin does not mean you're educated. It means that you should now have enough appreciation of education to make you want to become educated. Your intellectual horizon should now have been raised so as to whet your appetite for knowledge, which you now should know where and how to get.

A successful farmer today must know far more than merely how to farm. He needs to be part scientist, salesman, student, buyer, bookkeeper, tax expert,

In the Planetarium, the instrument was fixed so that it showed the stars on the ceiling of the building. The lighting was arranged so it looked like the actual setting of the sun. The stars then started coming out just like it was outside. The instrument was capable of showing 3,000 stars. It looked just like the real sky at night.

The Air Force Academy covered several thousands of acres. Our driver showed us several things which were being built on the Academy. One was a new football stadium. An interesting thing was the mess hall. It was large enough to have two regulation size football fields and parking space, too.

We got back from this trip about 4:00 p. m. We were supposed to check out of the hotel by 8:00 p. m. The train for home was due at 9:30 p. m. Sunday. We met the train around 9:30 and were on our way home.

We are sorry to report, some got a little sick coming back, but it was due mostly to not getting enough sleep, or sore throats.

We arrived back in Vernon, Texas, where the bus was waiting for us, about 12:00 noon Monday. We got on the school bus and rode to Seymour to eat. We left Seymour around 2:00 p. m. Monday.

We are happy to say that we had a wonderful time, and didn't have a bit of trouble.

We would like to express our appreciation to the people of this community for the help you have given us. By your attending the Senior Play and buying all of those good hot dogs and the like last year during our Junior year, you made the trip possible. Once more we would like to say "THANKS." We really do appreciate it.

internationalist, politician, philosopher, historian, veterinarian and weather expert. And, a keen sense of humor helps.

Make your own bargain
The time has come when, if you have not already done so, you must make your own bargain with life.

Neither your parents nor your government can do it for you. You can do and be almost anything you want to do and be badly enough to make the necessary all-out effort and sacrifices. Try to decide now what you most want from life. And remember, those who merely chase "happiness" never catch up with it. Life has its sunshine and its shadows, its peaks and its valleys.

This is still the only country in the world where anybody who's got what it takes and gives what it takes, can rise from the bottom to the top. Most great deeds are mainly mixtures of courage and sweat. There are few born geniuses.

Your albatross could well be too much opportunity, instead of too little; too much, too easy. Opportunity can make and break money and luxurious living are false gods. For hardship builds character, like forging builds steel.

You can't get to the promised land without going through the wilderness. Our Republic was built on individual freedom, individual opportunity, and individual responsibility. Wonder what Abraham Lincoln would have done, if he'd had the opportunity you have?

Lincoln as a boy, read books by the light of an open fire and had only about three years of formal schooling. No struggle, no Lincoln, no wilderness, no Moses, no cross, no Christ, no adversity, no victory.

Neither be afraid of change, nor for change for change's sake. The only thing that's sure in this world is change. And goodness knows, there's plenty that needs changing. The "American Way of Life" has never been equalled. Be sure you have something better before you agree to a change. Some of this "progressive" ideas such as Socialism to replace Capitalism, "Humanism" or "Modernism" to replace Christianity, would set us back almost two thousand years. For it was that long ago that Socialism, Humanism and Modernism were first proven failures.

My generation — the generation your parents belong to — has done a lousy job for you. We sacrificed great hunks of the individual freedoms your forefathers fought and died for. We swapped them for government-guaranteed womb-to-tomb "security." We ate up not only our seed corn, but part of yours. In the Welfare State, the politicians and bureaucrats get well and you pay the fare.

If we ever want freedom from responsibility more than we want freedom of opportunity, we will cease to be a free people. Prisoners have "security." Life-termers really "have it made!" You can't have freedom and security.

As you begin your serious bargain with life, never forget that the only security you can ever have is the security within your self. Security, like happiness, can neither be bought nor given. Each of us has to earn our own. Government can give you nothing which it does not first take from someone else. For government is essentially a parasite. It creates nothing. It lives off of the creations of others. Generally speaking, government is your enemy, not your friend, because it's like a predatory male: It'll go as far as the female will let it. It has already gone too far. If you want government to be your slave and not your master, you must understand it, participate in it, distrust it, control it. For the bigger it is, the littler you are.

Make all of life's bargains on top of the table, not under it. The best Payola you can get is your own self-respect. Be a sovereign individual, not just a member of the mob. The great things of the world are accomplished by a relatively few individuals, not by the mass. Don't go along with the crowd when the crowd is headed toward the precipice. Going along with the crowd is taking the easy, cowardly way. Is that what live in, and the world we live in, Jesus did? Or Moses, Christopher Columbus, Patrick Henry, Robert E. Lee, General MacArthur, or Senator Taft? No. Pontius Pilate went along with the crowd.

Reprinted from May 1959 issue of Far and Ranch Magazine, Nashville, Tennessee.

the crowd, pleased the mob. In this day of decaying morals, more and more Pilates, VanDorrens, politicians, publishers, disc jockeys, businessmen, beatniks and editors seem to be taking the easy way. In the end, somewhere they'll pay the price. Like an easy woman, some day they'll find that the easiest are soonest left unloved. Some day they'll learn that you can't lie with the hounds without getting fleas. Some day it'll burst upon their consciousness, if not their conscience, that a people who lack the morality to stand on their feet and say "no" will some day have to say "yes" on their knees.

The things that really count

Once a father took his little son with him to steal some corn. As the man prepared to put the corn into the bag, he anxiously looked around to see if anyone was watching. "Son, open the bag quickly," he said. The little boy replied, "Daddy, you didn't look in one direction."

Frightened lest the boy had spotted an observer, the father whispered, "Where? Where?"

His son answered, simply, "Daddy, you didn't look up."

Character is what you do when nobody but God is looking. The older you get the more you will realize that the things which really count in life are effort, service and character.

Each of us, rich and poor, educated and uneducated, capable and incapable, has a sacred obligation on this earth: to do the best we can, and to make the land we live on, the land we live in, and the world we live in, a better place because we were here!

DIXIE ETHELENE DEAL

On October 21, 1941, in the Sealy Hospital at Santa Anna, Texas, the seventh child was born to Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Deal of Rockwood. She was named Dixie Ethelene and is the only girl in her family.

Enrolling in the Rockwood Elementary School, Dixie attended school there in the first through sixth grade. Then, in 1954, she enrolled in the seventh grade in the Santa Anna Elementary School and has attended the Santa Anna Schools since.

During her seventh and eighth grades, she was a cheerleader for the Junior Mountaineers and received two letters in basketball. She graduated as Valedictorian from the eighth grade in 1956.

For six years she has been in the Mountaineer Band, playing solo trombone for the past two years in both this band and the Skyliners, the high school Stage Band. She was president of the Mountaineer Band her Junior year and also had the honor of being chosen Band Sweetheart by her fellow band members. She has been assistant Drum Major for two years and was treasurer. She was the band's representative in the 1960 Dublin Miss Colleen contest, was a member of the All-District band, and has received a band letter and a jacket for her years in the band. Dixie was also one of two students chosen from the band to play with the United States Navy Band during their matinee concert at Howard Payne this spring.

Dixie has been a member of the FFA four years, being pianist and song leader two of these years. She was an officer in the Music Club two years, president one of these years, was assistant editor of The Mountaineer her Junior year and editor-in-chief her Senior year. She went to the District University Interscholastic League meet in typing and shorthand, winning third place in the latter this year.

Elected by the boys in school, Dixie was one of the four girls from her school to be a nominee in the year's Miss Spirit of Christmas contest of Coleman County.

Dixie was voted the Most Beautiful Girl in Santa Anna High School this year and she was runner-up Miss S. A. H. S. She also represented the Senior class as a Duchess in the 1959 Halloween Coronation. She played the part of Carol Dill in the Senior Play this year.

After graduation, Dixie is planning a June wedding, after which she will move to Austin and be employed as a private secretary. Later, she hopes to attend the University of Texas and become a pediatrician.

EDDIE WAYNE HARTMAN

Eddie Hartman was born in the Sealy Hospital at Santa Anna, June 27, 1942, to Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Hartman.

His first year of school was divided between the Crane and McCamey public schools.

Eddie moved to Santa Anna at the beginning of his second year in school. The rest of his public school career was spent in Santa Anna. In most of his elementary school years, Eddie made the honor roll. While in elementary school, Eddie lettered three years in football and two years in basketball, played on the baseball team and participated in track.

As a Freshman in high school, Eddie played football and basketball, participated in track, and lettered in tennis while also serving as representative from the Freshman class to the Student Council.

During his second year in high school, he served as president of the Sophomore class and reporter of the local FFA Chapter. During that year Eddie was awarded the honor of being the outstanding student in Vocational Agriculture. He participated in football, basketball, volleyball and track that year.

Through the course of his Junior year in high school, Eddie held both the offices of Parliamentarian and vice-president of the Student Council. He was also elected to serve as Sentinel of the Coleman District of Future Farmers of America. In the local FFA Chapter, Eddie was named vice-president. Eddie earned a letter in basketball and tennis that year. He was selected as Chapter Star Farmer of the local FFA Chapter. He was elected by the Junior class to serve as assistant sports editor of "The Mountaineer."

When Eddie became a Senior, he was elected to serve as president of the Student Council. Also that year he served as president of the local FFA Chapter and Sentinel of the Coleman District. In this year he moved up to sports editor of "The Mountaineer" and was selected as FFA "Dreamboat." He was chosen by the student body as Most Handsome and was runner-up Most Popular.

Eddie was active in sports his Senior year. He lettered in football and basketball. In basketball he was selected to be on the District 9-A All-District second team. He lettered in tennis this year, being a part of the Senior Boys Doubles team that won second in District 9-A. Eddie had a part in the annual Senior Play, "The Daffy Dills." He was crowned King of the Junior-Senior Prom. He was also a member of the Choral Club which was organized his Senior year.

During his four years in Santa Anna High School, Eddie attended two State FFA conventions and one State Student Council convention.

His plans after graduation from Santa Anna High School are to go to college, but his choice as to a college is not definite yet. He plans to enter the field of teaching as a career.

TRAVIS EUGENE BUSE

Travis, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Buse, was born December 17, 1941. He was born in the Santa Anna Hospital and has lived in the Santa Anna area all of his life.

In September 1948, Travis entered the first grade at Santa Anna. He has attended the Santa Anna Public Schools ever since.

During his Junior High school days, Travis was fairly active in sports. He participated in basketball two years and lettered one of those years in baseball. Travis played second base for his team, which won second in the district tournament. He ran track, but never made the team.

When Travis entered high school, things began to change. It may have been for the worse because not much happened the first year in high school. Travis did not participate in any sports, except basketball. Although he made the traveling team, he did not play.

Through high school, Travis has lettered two years in basketball and once in baseball.

The All-District team in Junior year. He ran track two years, lettering one of those years and winning second in the district meet. In tennis doubles, he and his partner won second in the district meet.

All through high school, Travis was an active member of the FFA. He was vice-president of the Greenhands and secretary and vice-president of the Chapter. Travis belonged to several clubs, some of which were Science Club two years, Athletic Club two years and Letterman's Club two years.

During Travis' Junior year, he was elected Junior Class Favorite, and during his Senior year, he was elected Runner-up Most Popular Boy in Santa Anna High School. Also, during his Senior year, Travis was president of the Senior class. He was Master of Ceremonies at the annual Senior Play.

several days in his career. Since days are over, he was at school several days in his career. Since he was in the seventh grade, he has not missed a day of school. He has won perfect attendance awards for six straight years.

When school starts again next fall, Travis plans to start too, but at college. He will probably attend Texas Tech or Howard Payne College. He plans to major in education.

Individual Histories of Senior Class

RETA JANE ING

Reta Jane Ing, only child of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ing, was born January 7, 1942, in Houston, Texas. Since her father is a Civil Engineer, Reta has lived in several states: Texas, New Mexico, South Dakota, Nevada, and Washington, and has attended a great variety of schools. She returned to Santa Anna for her high school education.

Her Freshman and Junior years Reta received the Loving Cup for the highest scholastic record for undergraduate girls in high school. She also received medals for the highest grades in her class for three years. Medals were also earned for her for history and library work. In her Junior year she was given a Blue Ribbon for her participation in the program, "Democracy in Action." Reta was honored with the D. A. R. Good Citizenship Award in her Senior year.

All four years Reta has played the trumpet in the band. In interscholastic League activities, she has participated in number sense, one act play, declamation, and debate. This year she is the class prophet, parliamentarian of FHA and had a part in the Senior Play. She also has been secretary of the Librarians Club, literary editor of the Press Club, and a member of the District Team in the Debate Club.

Being active in the First Baptist Church, has held many offices in the Young Women's Auxiliary and Sunday school. Although still undecided as to her future occupation, she is planning to enter the University of Texas this fall.

BLANCHE DARLENE MERCER

Blanche Darlene Mercer was born January 4, 1942, to Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Mercer, of Coleman, Texas.

When she was two years old her father was killed; later Mrs. Mercer was married to Mr. John Gregg, editor of The Santa Anna News, and they moved to Santa Anna. Darlene entered Santa Anna Elementary School in the first grade and has attended Santa Anna schools for the past 12 years. She lettered in basketball in the eighth grade and was a member of the Pep Squad and of the Senior Band.

In high school, Darlene has been a member of the Science Club for two years, FHA for four years, and on the Annual Staff for two years. She is now art-editor of the 1960 Yearbook. She has been historian of her class twice, FHA pianist once, and is now reporter in band, where she is solo cornet player and a member of the Stage Band, "The Skyliners." During her junior year she was awarded the band medal by the faculty. She has received seven perfect attendance awards during her school years.

Darlene has attended church regularly at the North Side Baptist Church and has a four-year perfect attendance record in Sunday school. She has held the offices of assistant Sunday school teacher and teacher, B. T. S. secretary, assistant church secretary, assistant church clerk and church clerk, assistant pianist, and secretary and pianist for the District Young People's meeting. She is now president of the Senior Sunday School Class. She has been pianist for the Lions Club for the past year.

She has been employed during the past school term by the Santa Anna Hospital, where she worked after school and on weekends, as a nurse's aid.

Darlene plans to enter the Shannon School of Nursing at San Angelo this fall.

FRANCES ANN BRYAN

Frances Ann Bryan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Bryan, was born at St. Joseph Hospital in Fort Worth, Texas, January 20, 1942.

Frances started to school at Tandy Elementary School in Fort Worth and attended there until the first part of the third grade. She then moved back to Whom and enrolled in school at Santa Anna.

During Junior High she was a member of the Pep Squad for three years and was a drummer for two of those years.

Frances has been a member in the Senior Band for five years as drummer. During her Junior and Senior years, she was a majorette for the band. She attended Twirling School at McFurry College the summer of 1958. Frances has won several "Place" medals at twirling contests. She is also a member of the Santa Anna Skyliner Stage Band.

During her Sophomore year, she was president of the Production Club and represented this club in the Halloween Corporation. She has been a member of the Solo and Ensemble Club for two years. She was reporter during her Junior year and treasurer her Senior year.

During her Junior year, Frances entered the University Interscholastic League in typing.

She has been a member of the FHA all four years of her high school.

She is vice-president of the Senior class. She portrayed the part of Doris Dill in the Senior Play.

Frances plans to major in Business Administration either at the University of Alaska or Howard Payne.

LaVELLE McCLINTOCK HAYNES

On September 17, 1941, a fourth daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. E. E. McClintock, at Brownfield, Texas. Four years later this family became residents of Santa Anna, and they have now lived here for fourteen years.

LaVelle started to school in Santa Anna and has continued her education here through all twelve grades.

During her grade school years, she was an honor roll student, ranking fourth in her Eighth Grade Class. LaVelle received four reading certificates, two perfect attendance awards, and two basketball letters during her Junior High years, besides being a member of the Senior Band and Choral Club since the fifth grade.

As a Freshman, LaVelle, belonged to the Librarians' Club and she represented that club in the Halloween Coronation that year. She became a member of the FHA and has remained in this organization all four years of high school. She was a member of the cast of the Interscholastic League One-Act play that year also.

In her Sophomore year, she was a member of the Science Club. She received a band letter that year for her six years as a Senior Band member. She was elected Civil Defense Officer in FHA, and during that year, she won third place in the Interscholastic League spelling event. During her Junior year, LaVelle was elected Parliamentarian of her class and secretary of the Slide Rule Club.

Upon entering her Senior year, she was elected historian of her class, historian in FHA, and president of the Librarians' Club.

LaVelle is a member of the Church of Christ and she has been employed by Phillips Drug for the past four years. She plans to be an elementary school teacher or a counselor in the future.

LaVelle was married to Mr. Lyndon Haynes, September 30, 1959, and has continued to go to school, hold a job, and keep house. This has been quite a load for LaVelle, but she has been able to succeed in all her subjects and make the honor roll.

A tack-berry buckle is a cinch buckle carrying two wraps of the latigo and hooking into the cinch ring.

The term "wall-eyed" refers to a horse with glass, blue, or "china" eyes and with an irregular blaze.

WACS Observe 18th Anniversary On May 14th

(Editor's Note — This is the first in a series of four articles about the Women's Army Corps, which will celebrate its 18th anniversary on May 14. Approximately 8,000 young American women are enjoying careers that not only benefit them with dollars and experience but that also supply the U. S. Army with skilled hands to perform a variety of tasks vital to our national defense. They are proud members of the Women's Army Corps, the largest group of women who occupy an honored place alongside the men of the Army.

Nowadays it is difficult to believe there was ever any question as to the needs for Wacs. But there was an early period of suspicion and misunderstanding which led to false starts in developing the proper utilization of women in the military service. As the official WAC World War II History notes, the Army had scarcely recovered "from the shock of the mechanized horse" when it had to adjust to the idea of women in the service.

There were serious problems to be solved — about style and quality of garments, special medical care, standards of conduct, recreation and proper training. An important discovery underlined in the official history was that while training for men and women should be equal, it was not necessary to make it identical.

But it was not long before doubts were dispelled and problems were solved. Women quickly proved themselves of unique value to the armed services, performing hundreds of jobs during wartime to relieve men for combat and continuing in more than 100 occupational areas in peacetime.

The Army shares the WAC's pride in its history.

When the Corps was formed in 1942, there was nothing really new about American women in wartime military service. They had served in every national crisis from the days of the American Revolution when Molly Pitcher and Deborah Simpson were actually combat soldiers to the Spanish-American War when women assisted our troops overseas as nurses.

Until World War II, however, only the Army Nurse Corps was open to women interested in a military career. Manpower demands of the war soon led to the formation of the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps in May 1942. The planned enrollment was 25,000; however, within six months the value of the women's contribution was such that this limit was boosted to 150,000.

By their first anniversary 60,000 members of the auxiliary were stationed at 100 posts in the United States and overseas. The third anniversary saw a record total of 100,000 women in the Army.

In the meantime, the Corps was boosted from an auxiliary status as women were given equality with men in the Army through the formation of the Women's Army Corps in September 1943.

During the war, Wacs filled 239 different military jobs. They served in this country, England, India, Egypt, Italy, New Caledonia, Australia, Hawaii, France, the Philippine Islands and Alaska.

The fifth anniversary of the Corps was observed in 1947 with a total of 9,517 women on duty in the United States, Germany, Austria, Italy, Panama, Japan and China.

Finally, in June 1948, came coveted recognition of the WAC as a permanent part of the Regular Army. In December the first basic trainees under the new WAC program graduated from a special school at Fort Lee, Virginia.

Every branch of the Army has its own permanent training headquarters. For a time Fort Lee served as the WAC Center. After considerable study, however, Fort McClellan, Alabama, was designated as the permanent headquarters of the United States Women's Army Corps Center in September 1954.

Located five miles north of Anniston, Alabama, this center is equipped to handle some 2,400 women. In addition to headquarters, its physical facilities include dispensary, medical and class buildings, 10 three-story barracks housing 200 women each and three bachelor officers' quarters with accommodations for 50 each.

At the center young women are processed, classified, trained and schooled for duty with the AVAC. They are carefully fitted in uniforms, given aptitude and potentiality interviews and examinations, and introduced to military life during eight weeks of basic training.

Students at the school come to love their "home away from home." After leaving the center, graduates frequently join together to provide funds for gifts, such as the chapel's beautiful chimes, as token of their esteem.

And, of course, you no longer hear talk about whether the Army needs Wacs. As a matter of fact, so many requests for Wacs come from the Army's various branches that the demand always exceeds the supply. There's constant competition to obtain these valued workers.

The Wacs have really arrived. (A second article will discuss selection and training of enlisted members of the Women's Army Corps.)

Although making up less than 14 percent of the driving population drivers under age 25 were involved in nearly 29 percent of all fatal accidents in the United States during 1959.

GO TO CHURCH SUNDAY.

BYRL FELLERS

On November 7, 1941, a baby boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Fellers in the Santa Anna Hospital. He was named Byrl Ray.

Byrl began school at the age of six at Trickham and after two years was transferred to Santa Anna. He has been going to Santa Anna since then.

He started playing football in the seventh grade, but wasn't very rough. He lettered in the eighth grade. Byrl played football four years in high school and lettered two years. He was a member of the Science Club for two years and was reporter for one year. Byrl has been a member of the Athletic Club for two years.

He has been a member of the FFA for four years in high school. He was second vice-president his second year and reporter his third year. Then his fourth year, he was treasurer of the Santa Anna Chapter.

Byrl's plans for the future are uncertain.

HILDA SUE WISE

Hilda Sue Wise, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Wise, was born in Brady Memorial Hospital, January 4, 1941. She has lived with her parents in Rockwood her entire life.

Sue began her schooling in Rockwood. In the eighth grade she entered the Santa Anna Schools. In grade school Sue was twirler for two years and lettered in basketball two years.

In high school Sue has been in FFA four years, the Letterman's Club, Band, Slide Rule Club, Athletic Club, was manager of the basketball team, was cheerleader, lettered in basketball two years, and played volleyball two years. She has held the office of class reporter two years. She received the honors of PFA Sweetheart, her Sophomore year, Homecoming Queen her Junior year, and Football Sweetheart her Senior year.

Sue plans to enter the Patricia Stevens Career and Finishing School this summer in Fort Worth.

History of Senior Class Of 1960

By LaVELLE HAYNES
Class Historian

The discovery of the class of 1960 was an accident. Twelve years ago, early one morning on the first of September, 1947, the faculty of the Santa Anna Grade School was strolling aimlessly through the class rooms, chattering about the just-ended vacation and wondering whether there would be any startling changes in their work during the coming year. Suddenly they caught a glimpse of something new and strange. Just inside the front door, huddled together in mute embarrassment and anxiety, were the members of what became the class of 1960. They were: Travis Buse, Carolyn Bates, Darlene Mercer, Sonja Dunn, LaVelle McClintock, Orvel Hall, and Reta Ing.

Gently attempting to dispel the fears of the strangers, Mrs. Turner, their teacher, and the faculty bade them enter and spent the next few weeks attempting to gain their confidence and friendship.

They succeeded after great difficulty, in accomplishing this. The discoverers of the class of 1960 will be celebrated in history for the gentleness and courtesy they ever displayed September 1st, 1947.

One year later, Kenneth Harris, Patsy Clifton, Sandra Fowler, Loyd Rutherford, Eddie Hartman, Neva Cornett and Joe Morris joined the group.

It is true, however, there were those who jeered at the new people and considered it folly to regard them as of value or worth annexing. Then Frances Bryan and Byrl Fellers joined our class when we were in the third grade. Accordingly, each of the discoverers became an explorer. The strangers were divided into small groups and assigned to the care of the different explorers. They were given a grade and became part of the life of the school. They were taught many new, strange customs and manners and were required to learn difficult lessons. At first they often wished they had never been found, but after the years began to pass, they became thoroughly at home in their new surroundings. In the fourth grade Frances Biggs was added to our crew.

Then in the fifth grade, Donald Williams and Naoma Henderson joined us. During the first few years the class suffered much inconvenience because of their unfamiliarity with the new country and its traffic rules. They were forever taking the wrong turn, finding themselves in the wrong corridor or classroom, and arriving at their classrooms half an hour late. However after a period of time they had become familiar with the topography of the school buildings and were often in the right place at the right time.

The News, Santa Anna, Texas, May 20, 1960

They were permitted to form an organization of their own, and elect officers, all of whom fulfilled their duties well. The class became interested in new exercises such as basketball, football and volleyball. Some students attained a slight degree of powers in each. In the seventh grade Dixie Deal became a member of our class.

Upon entering the eighth grade, Sue Wise and Emmett Stiles joined our group.

With the coming of next September, we received a new name, Freshmen. This was quite a blow to some of us. With the mighty Seniors above us, we continued to carry their books and obey their commands.

We continued our slow journey through our Freshmen and Sophomore years with no serious mishaps. Everyone was happy and contented with being known as high school students. During our Junior year, Glendon Eppler joined us.

Upon entering our Senior year, some were happy and some were sad because this would be our last year to tread the halls of dear old Santa Anna High School. The days of our Senior year will be the days most dear to us. Now we are preparing to go our separate ways into our future lives. Never again will we all be together at the same time. The future is bright, though. The greatest moments of our lives are yet to come.

About Your HEALTH

A weekly public service feature from the Texas State Department of Health.

HENRY A. HOLLE, R. D.
Commissioner of Health

Women apparently withstand the effects of being overweight years better than men do, recently released results of a study by the Society of Actuaries show. The study included the experience of women aged 15-69 years accepted for ordinary insurance in the period 1935-53 and traced to the anniversary of their policies in 1954.

cent for women 10 percent overweight, to 30 percent for those 30 percent overweight. Excess deaths were 20 percent for women 21 years of age.

The findings are probably lower than actual for the entire population because insurance companies only take persons who pass strict physical examinations and this study was based on those women.

For any degree of overweight, the excess mortality among women is less than among men.

For example, for women who at issue ages 15-39 years were 20 percent overweight, the mortality was 15 percent above that for all standard female risks. The comparable group of men had a mortality 24 percent higher than that for all standard male risks.

A major reason for this difference is that normal variation in weight is relatively greater for women than for men.

Overweight women in every age period have a higher mortality than those whose weight is close to average, the excess mortality increasing with advance in age.

The degree of excess mortality among overweight women did not vary significantly according to height.

The elevated mortality of overweight women is due primarily to the excess toll from cardiovascular disease, the heart disease death rate among the overweight women is about 50 percent above that for standard female risks.

Buoy to Mark Port Aransas Fishing Reef

Austin — Sports fishermen in the Port Aransas area this summer will be able to find the car body fishing reef without difficulty. The U.S. Coast Guard has approved the installation of the buoy marker to be placed permanently over the artificial reef installed two years ago.

Contract is expected to be awarded by the Board of Control within a few days for the setting of the buoy, according to the director of coastal fisheries of the Game and Fish Commission. The new marker will be of sufficient size and anchored properly for holding against rough waters and persons who might be inclined to cut it loose, according to the director.

Some 600 old automobile bodies were dumped into the water at the 10 fathom depth off the coast at Port Aransas in an effort to create better sports fishing. Fishermen, however, complained they had difficulty in locating the artificial reef.

GIVE OLD BOSSY
A REST AND INCREASE YOUR PROFIT

Sounds absurd, but old bossy will return you more profit the next year if she is given about two months of vacation.

Recently a new all-time, all-breed fat production record was set by a cow that had practically no time to condition herself before the record lactation.

Many folks have tried to estimate how much higher the record might have been if she would have had the opportunity to build her body for this cruel-ling feat.

Studies by a leading university have shown that each two weeks of rest returned an additional 10 pounds of butter fat in the next lactation. This is an average for a six to eight week dry period since the cow actually responds more from the first few weeks of rest than the last. To feed beyond eight weeks will seldom return sufficient additional milk to offset the feed cost, unless the cow is in very poor condition.

Mature animal weight records have shown that slightly over two pounds per day gain during the dry period will give total increase of about 125 pounds body weight. Depending on the breed, this conditioning will return 1, 000 to 2,000 pounds or more of extra milk in the succeeding lactation.

This additional milk will bring more than twice the cost of the ration for the dry cow. A 1,200 pound cow will consume about 700 pounds of concentrates during the 60 days. This grain ration should be of an oats or barley base and depending upon whether home - grown grains are utilized, the cost will run three cents to four cents per pound. A 1,500-pound milk increase at $4.00 per hundred weight would give a return of about $60. This return on investment would be difficult to equal in any other phase of animal agriculture.

Read Romans 12:1-8.

Having gifts that differ according to the grace given to us, let us use them. (Romans 12:6, RSV)

Ready to embark on his lifework, a young man asked himself: "Shall I devote my life to a church-related occupation, or shall I seek a career in business?" He loved the church and had been active in its programs.
He also had qualifications for a successful business career. The conflict of indecision raged within him for many weeks.

One day he went alone to the mountains to pray and ask for guidance. The answer came, as clearly as if the words had been audibly spoken, "Go into the business for which you are fitted. The coming of God's kingdom depends as much upon true Christian laymen as upon preachers, teachers, and other workers in the church." He followed this guidance, and throughout his life there was never a question but that is was God's leading.

He believed that a Christian should put into his work just a little more than is expected. He faithfully continued his church activity and became a leader.

SANDRA KAY FOWLER

Sandra Kay Fowler, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Fowler, was born January 13, 1942, in the Overall Memorial Hospital in Coleman. She is sides with her parents about twenty miles south of Santa Anna where her father is a stock farmer. Sandra has one brother, Larry.

At the beginning of the second grade, Sandra transferred from Shields to Santa Anna Elementary School. It was at Santa Anna that she spent her remaining school days.

While in elementary school, Sandra received a perfect attendance award, a reading certificate, and was on the honor roll. She served as office assistant, librarian, and on various committees such as the Eighth Grade Banquet and Graduation. For four years, she was in the Band and Choral Club. She wrote the history of the class and graduated from elementary school with a Salutatorian.

Sandra was class historian, secretary of the Projection Club, in the band and FHA her Sophomore year.

During her Junior year, Sandra was treasurer of the band, librarian of the Solo and Ensemble Club, Student Council representative and was in FHA. She represented the Student Council in the Halloween Carnival. She also received the band trophy and played in the clarinet trio.

Sandra's Senior year was a very busy one. She was secretary-treasurer of the Student Council, president of FHA, secretary of the Solo and Ensemble Club, Librarian of the band, played in the clarinet trio, and represented the FHA in the Halloween Carnival. She portrayed the part of "Gran" in the Senior Play, received a band jacket, and attended the Student Council State Convention at Amarillo.

Sandra regularly attends the Church of Christ at Shields. After high school, she plans to attend Abilene Christian College and major in primary education.

fifth grade in the Santa Anna Public Schools and has continued through the twelfth grade. Naoma received two reading certificates in grade school. When she graduated from the eighth grade, she was third in her class.

Upon entering high school as a Freshman, Naoma was elected treasurer of her class. Naoma was given the honor of being chosen Class Favorite her Freshman year. She was a member of the FHA and the Librarians Club.

As a Sophomore Naoma was elected secretary of her class. She was a member of the Librarians Club and attended the State FHA Meeting.

As a Junior, Naoma served as secretary of her class. She had the honor of being FFA Sweetheart. Naoma served as assistant literary editor of the Annual. She was also a member of the FHA. She represented the Annual Staff in the Halloween Coronation.

During Naoma's Senior year she is serving as Treasurer of her class, literary editor of the Annual and treasurer of the FHA. She again represented the Annual Staff in the Halloween Coronation. Naoma portrayed "Elaine Escott" in the Senior Play. She represented the Senior class as a candidate for Homecoming Queen.

Naoma attends the Trickham Union Sunday School and is a member of the Baptist Church. She is also a member of the Trickham M.Y.F.

Naoma will enter Draughan's Business College in Abilene June 6. She plans to take the Senior Secretarial Course offered by the school.

Seven Items Rate "Plentiful"

College Station — Three popular processed fruits stand out among foods expected to be plentiful in May, reports the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, College Station.

These are canned blackberries, canned freestone peaches and cranberry products. Stocks of each are more than ample for ordinary trade needs.

according to figures of the Agricultural Marketing Service. Food shoppers can anticipate special sales on these items in Texas markets this month.

Large No. 10 cans of blackberries, ideal for restaurant and institutional use, are especially plentiful. Most of these are from East Texas canneries.

Milk and dairy products are becoming abundant, as green pastures and cool weather encourage high production.

Stocks of frozen scallops from last season's record-large supply of this popular seafood are still generous. Vegetable fats and oils are abundant for deep frying and spring salad dressings. Onions complete the shorter-than-usual monthly list, as large acreages and heavy production come into the picture.

WORKING TOWARD YOUR CAREER

A Public Service Feature from New York Life Insurance Company

SHOULD YOU GO INTO THE FOREIGN SERVICE?

For more than 180 years, the men and women of the Foreign Service have stood ready to sacrifice their interests, their comforts and their lives for the United States.

They have stuck to their posts in the face of earthquakes, floods, revolutions and wars. They have carried on regardless of cholera epidemics and worse. They are dedicated people and they can rightly be called America's first line of defense. Upon them can depend the issues of war and peace.

The Foreign Service must, first of all, protect American interests abroad. It has the job of promoting those interests by demonstrating their mutuality with those of other nations. In addition, the Service must do everything in its power to assist American citizens in their legitimate activities abroad.

There are many rigors. And many Foreign Service people have no permanent home. Every three years, they are likely to be transferred.

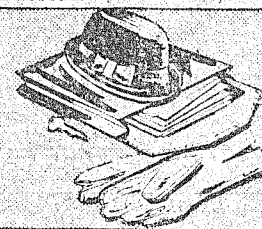

If you are thinking about the Foreign Service as a career, you will find much useful information in a pamphlet on the subject published as a public service by New York Life Insurance Company.

Advancement is strictly on merit. Applicants for the Foreign Service Officer Corps must be American citizens from 20 to 31 years of age and should have records of impeccable loyalty and discretion. Written and oral examinations are exacting. Salaries usually start at $5,225 and can rise to $27,500 in the case of ambassadors at more important posts.

A broad liberal arts education with emphasis on history, science, economics, the literature of all nations, modern languages and public and business administration is recommended for those wishing to prepare for a Foreign Service career.

The Foreign Service Staff Corps which includes typists, stenographers, code clerks and others, is also selected with special care. Some of them eventually qualify for the Officer Corps. Over half are women. Salaries begin at $3,730 and go in certain specialties to $13,160. Further information on this and other careers can be obtained by writing to New York Life, Room 1294, 1 Montgomery Street, San Francisco, Calif.

Spices Have Served Man Since Beginning of Time

When Christ likened the kingdom of heaven to a grain of mustard seed, He wasn't picking on any old seed, but one of a select group of plants that has seasoned... and sometimes directed... history.

Spices have been performing in and out of the kitchen, in medicine, romance and even politics, since the beginning of the world... and even before.

For the ancient Assyrians contended that the gods met in council before the creation of the universe and hatched their plans over a few glasses of sesame-wine.

World Book Encyclopedia reports that the Queen of Sheba enticed Solomon with gifts of spices... and the Egyptians used them to preserve their dead.

The Romans and Greeks perfumed themselves with cinnamon and made love potions out of garlic. They fumigated their homes with thyme and planted parsley on graves.

Any boy knows he can catch a bird by sprinkling salt on its tail. Ancient farmers, however, were advised to use garlic. The seeds supposedly were scattered on the ground to be eaten by the birds, which fell asleep and were easily captured.

Early medics prescribed spices for ills ranging from hiccups to tumors. Coriander was said to be good for ulcers; fennel, for liver ailments, and fenugreek, for dandruff. Garlic was prescribed for epilepsy, and mint, if held in the hand, prevented the chafing of skin. Hysterical females were urged to try mustard.

Spices, however, were not for the masses.

In the 300's, for example, the emperor Constantine gave the Bishop of Rome a gift of cloves, saffron and pepper.

And when the Goths besieged Rome a century later, they demanded as ransom 5,000 pounds of gold, 30,000 pounds of silver and 3,000 pounds of pepper.

During the Middle Ages, when cooking was less than an art and baths were infrequent, spices were even more in demand. A pound of ginger was worth more than a sheep.

The profitable spice trade with the East helped transform Venice from a cluster of small mud islands into a cultural center of the Renaissance.

An attempt to cut out the middleman spurred Portuguese navigators down the uncharted coast of Africa and helped persuade Isabella to finance the voyages of Columbus.

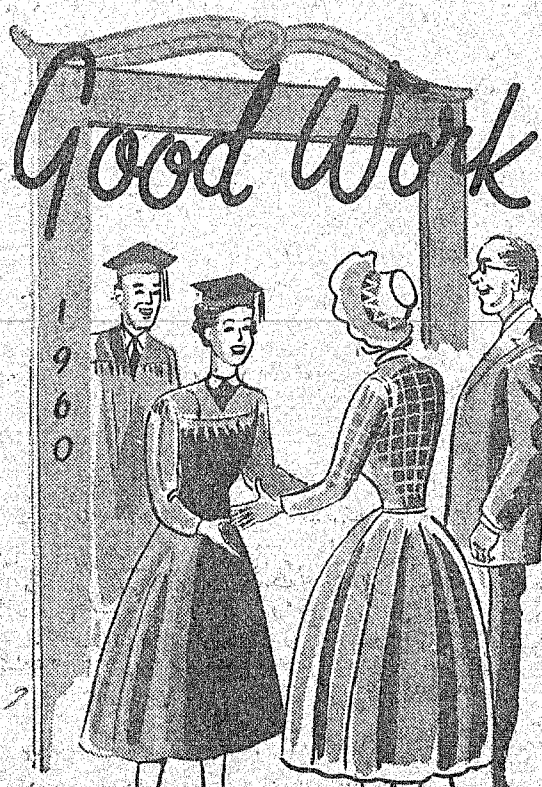

The value of spices was so great that occasionally they were used as money, taxes and rents, for example, were assessed and paid in pepper.

Nowadays pepper is confined to the kitchen, where Americans consume it at the rate of 25,000 tons a year.

But a few years ago the town of Lyndhurst, N. J., was reported to have paid off 150 years of back rent on a schoolhouse... by torking over 150 peppercorns.

Church bells, not rabbits, are said to deliver Easter eggs in Belgium and France. According to World Book Encyclopedia, one legend says that the bells, which do not ring from Good Friday to Easter, fly to Rome. They return on Easter and drop the eggs.

The National flower of the United States is the goldenrod.

It has been a pleasure to watch the members of this fine class grow to adulthood. Best of luck.

900 More Deaths Nationwide in Traffic Accidents

There were 900 more deaths and more than 50,000 additional injuries on U. S. highways in 1959 than was the case in 1958, according to statistics compiled by The Travelers Insurance Companies.

Fatalities climbed to 37,600 and more than 2,870,000 were injured as a result of automobile accidents.

The figures were released by Travelers in its annual highway safety booklet, entitled this year, "The Dishonor Roll." It was reported that more than 3,000,000 copies of the booklet are being distributed throughout the country.

In the report it was stated that more than 62,000,000 men, women and children have been killed or injured by automobiles since they first appeared on the scene. More have died on highways than on our nation's battlefields. More have been injured than in all the world's wars combined.

By far the single biggest cause of accidents resulting in death or injury was speed. More than 43.1 percent of the deaths and 38.8 percent of the injuries were blamed on speed. Second biggest killer was the driver on the wrong side of the road who was blamed for 15.9 percent of the deaths.

Although making up less than 14 percent of the driving population, drivers under 25 years of age were involved in nearly 29 percent of the fatal accidents. There were 13,140 young drivers under 25 involved in fatal accidents during the year — 2,010 were under age 18.

Cattle in Many Areas Need Phosphate Supplement

College Station — Forage plants in many section of Texas are deficient in phosphorus. When pasture forage is markedly deficient in this mineral, cattle grazing on such forage, says U. D. Thompson, extension animal husbandman, should receive from 6 to 9 grams of supplemental phosphorus daily.

Thompson adds that experiments conducted at the East Texas Pasture Laboratory, Lufkin, have shown that cattle have a distaste for dicalcium phosphate when available to them in a mixture containing 35 percent of the material plus 65 percent common salt. Consumption was increased, he said, when the mixture was changed to 25 percent dicalcium and 75 percent salt. But with the increase, the consumption of dicalcium phosphate averaged only 23 ounces daily per cow as compared with an average consumption of 1.9 ounces of bone meal.

Equal parts of bone meal and salt were supplied free choice as a lick. The dicalcium phosphate used was odorless and tasteless to man.

The dicalcium phosphate contained 17.5 percent phosphate and the bone meal 9.75 percent; thus, the Station cows received about 1 gram of phosphorus from the dicalcium lick as compared with the 5 grams received from the bone meal lick.

Thompson added the work done at Lufkin shows that cattle prefer the bone meal and salt mixture. But he does not rule out the possibility that satisfactory combinations of dicalcium phosphate, salt and cottonseed meal can be developed to make it a phosphorus supplement.

Desirable Birds Can Be an Asset

College Station — Birds appeal to nearly everyone because of their natural beauty, sprightly actions and pleasing songs. Much can be done to attract song birds to the home and garden to increase enjoyment of bird study, reports Ed Cooper, extension wildlife specialist.

Feeding trays and nest boxes can be constructed to make the lawn and garden more appealing to native birds. Many types of shrubs can be planted to offer the food, shade and protection required by certain types of birds.

There are many things to take into consideration when planning to make an area attractive to birds, Cooper says. Certain birds require nest boxes of specific dimensions. Cats and other natural enemies must be prevented access to bird houses and nests. Certain types of food are necessary to attract desirable birds rather than undesirable species such as the English sparrow. Good watering facilities also add much to a bird sanctuary, Cooper points out.

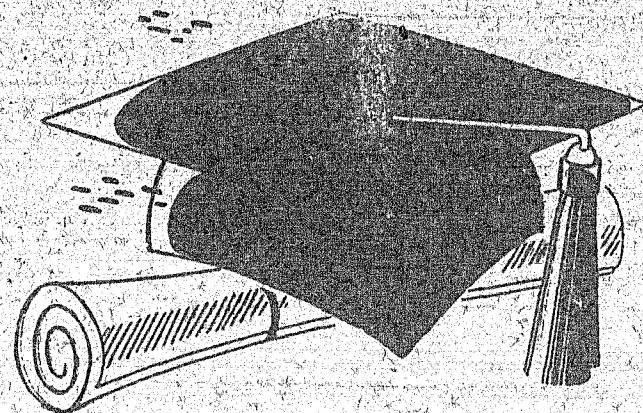

Several publications are available on how to make an area more attractive to birds and also on how to identify the feathered visitors. Information on the availability of these helpful publications can be obtained from Cooper at Texas A&M College, College Station, or from your local county agent.
