RED CROSS ASKED TO AID QUAKE WRECKED JAPAN

DEATH TOLL NOW PLACED AT 2,275 WITH 3,441 HURT

SCENES OF WILD DISORDER FOLLOW IN WAKE OF EARTHQUAKE

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Mar. 9.—President Coolidge asked the American Red Cross today to offer aid to Japan in their latest earthquake disaster.

2,275 Reported Dead

TOKYO, Mar. 9.—The home office announced this afternoon that according to latest advices, 2,275 persons were killed in Monday's earthquake in Central Japan, and 3,441 injured. Houses numbering 3,696 were destroyed by fire, 3,113 by the quake, 152 were partly burned and 1,657 damaged by the shock.

Mayor And Family Burned

One report from Minoyama says Mayor Nakamura and his family were imprisoned and burned to death when their home collapsed and took fire. Other families suffered a like fate. The scenes after the flames died down were described as most pitiful, some of the survivors digging in the ashes for some trace of their missing and others hunting for crumbs of food and pleading for assistance from the arriving relief workers.

Hundreds of bodies are beneath the ruins and the search for them is continuing. Newly made bamboo stretchers are used to carry the bodies, which are placed in piles awaiting burial.

No estimate of the damage caused by the quake has been made public thus far. Some observers believe the loss will amount to at least $50,000,000 and perhaps $75,000,000.

One American Dead

WASHINGTON, Mar. 9.—A state department dispatch today from Kobe said the only American known to have been killed in the Japanese earthquake was Mrs. Jessie Glenn Schultz, of Ventnor, N. J.

Damage to American property in the Kobe area apparently was confined to total destruction of several Standard Oil companies derricks which are located there.

Missionaries Safe

NEW YORK, Mar. 9.—Baptist missionaries in the Kobe and Osaka districts, center of the earthquake in Japan, were reported safe in a cablegram received today by the American Baptist foreign mission society.

POLLARD RULES ON TAX MEASURE

Can't Legislate Tax Remissions To Exempt Certain Counties Attorney General Says

AUSTIN, Mar. 9.—The legislature has no power to pass tax remission legislation which would exempt Dallas, Tarrant, and other counties' reclamation districts from taxes, Attorney General Claude Pollard ruled today.

Bills pending in the legislature would remit tax from reclamation districts in Dallas, Tarrant, Starr and Tyler counties for specified terms in order that flood control structures may be built.

Members of both house and senate, accompanied by Governor Dan Moody, recently were interested by Dallas and Fort Worth in a junketing trip and taken to inspect proposed reclamation work in the Trinity river district.

Senator W. D. McFarlane of Graham has been the leader of opposition to such measures in the legislature. The written opinion by Mr. Pollard will be given out later today.

Levee District Law Valid

AUSTIN, Texas, Mar. 9.—Validity of the law authorizing creation of levee improvement districts today was upheld by the supreme court.

The court adopted the opinion of Commissioner of appeals to which it had referred the case in question, which involved the Ellis county levee improvement district number 2.

The state, joining the district, brought suit against W. J. Rutledge, and others for collection of delinquent taxes. The trial court held taxes barred by the two year limitation rule could not be collected.

The court of civil appeals reversed this holding and the supreme court today, in reversing the appellate judgment and affirming the trial court's decision, struck out and denied a writ in an effort to relieve the district of the law authorizing creation of levee districts is not constitutional.

PLANE HAS NO PONTOONS NO RADIO EQUIPMENT AND BUT ONE MOTOR

"Luckiest" Pilot Will Seek To Cross Atlantic Alone In His Tiny Monoplane

By NEA Service

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Mar. 9.—Four times death has sung in the ears of pilot Charles A. Lindbergh. Now "the luckiest pilot in America" is to put his neck to the greatest test—conquest of the Atlantic ocean, alone.

To date "Lucky" Lindbergh, in his brushes with death, has come off winner. Next—but that's this story.

Early in the summer Lindbergh will dash from Roosevelt Field, Long Island, New York, for Paris—in a land monoplane, without pontoons or radio, sending apparatus, and with a single motor to pull the bird through the air!

St. Louis will send him on his way. The monoplane, which will be christened when completed, "The Spirit of St. Louis," is now being constructed at San Diego, California. Lindbergh is watching every detail of building.

Good Old Parachute!

At Kelly Field, Texas, Lindbergh, while flying at 10,000 feet, hit another plane. Two miles above the earth both pilots jumped. Parachutes saved him.

Six months later, near St. Louis, Lindbergh's ship went into a spin. He jumped and the parachute saved him.

St. Louis and Chicago, his gasoline supply failed. He jumped. The parachute saved his life. One jump was at night.

Price of $25,000

Lindbergh's plane will measure 4 feet between wing tips, a pigmy compared with Byrd's mammoth in which he sailed over the north pole. It will carry 425 gallons of gasoline and 25 gallons of oil, with a cruising speed of 105 miles an hour.

Lindbergh seeks a prize of $25,000. This is offered by Raymond Orlov of New York to the first aviator leaving a point within 50 miles of New York and landing in France without stopping.

The flyer does not look the daring sort he will play. He is bashful and soft-spoken, but other flyers say he possesses a steel nerve and cool head.

He will leave steamer lanes and follow the shortest route between Long Island and Paris depending upon a lone 220 horsepower motor to carry him along safely. Tentatively the flight is set for July 4, but the aviator hopes to leave Roosevelt field before that date.

Electricians' School Is Planned By City

A school for electricians and their helpers in the city light and power plant will be instituted immediately as a result of the near-fatal accident to James Gosz, plant employee yesterday when 2,300 volts of electricity passed through his body and burned so severely that he is in a local hospital.

That was the statement issued today by William H. Perkinson, city manager, following a conference with J. J. Graham, chief electrician, and the man whose quick wit and ready resuscitation probably saved the life of Mr. Gosz.

Between 10 and 15 men are employed at the light plant and Messrs. Perkinson and Graham are united in the opinion that the men should be instructed concerning safety measures. Mr. Graham, whose years of experience in electrical plants, will direct the school, Mr. Perkinson stated.

PLAINS PIONEER AND CAPITALIST CALLED AT NOON

LIFE EBBS PEACEFULLY AWAY WITH FAMILY AT HIS BEDSIDE

After fighting for his life for a week against pneumonia, J. D. Lindsey, 65-year-old pioneer cattleman of this section, died today at 12 o'clock at his home, 1414 Avenue M. Following an attack of influenza, Mr. Lindsey contracted pneumonia a week ago Saturday. Since that time he has been critically ill, and although some hopes were held for his recovery, he had been sinking since last night.

Funeral services probably will be conducted at 3:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the Lindsey home, his son, C. C. Lindsey, said shortly afternoon today.

Widow and 3 Sons Survive

Mr. Lindsey is survived by his widow and three sons, Clifton C., Ralph and Ernest, all three of whom are married and living in Lubbock. Two brothers, J. O. Lindsey of Eastland, and W. M. Lindsey of Teague, and the sister, Mrs. W. A. Bean of Teague, were with him when he died today. Mr. Lindsey is survived by three other sisters, and one brother, Mrs. Annie Duncan, Bynum; Mrs. J. T. Terry, Ibeix; Mrs. Emma Conner, Arizona, and T. L. Lindsey. None of these four will be here for the funeral.

Members of the family do not know the whereabouts of T. L. Lindsey, although they broadcast for information concerning him Tuesday night. He is probably in Ohio, it is thought.

Born in Mississippi

Mr. Lindsey was born in Hawamba county, Miss., sixty-five years ago and came to Texas with his parents five years later. While he was yet an adolescent boy, he and his brother, W. M. Lindsey, bought their first cattle. He first came to West Texas about 25 years ago and ranched for many years in the Yellowhouse section near where Shallowater is now located.

He later moved to Lubbock, although he continued in the cattle business. With the organization of the Lubbock State bank, he became one of the directors and he continued in this capacity until his death, the institution having changed to the First National Bank. In recent years he and his sons have been associated in the moving picture theater business in Panhandle towns, owning and operating the Palace and Lindsey theaters here.

These theaters are temporarily closed because of his death.

Doctors And Friends Work With Youth In Shifts Since Last Sunday In Unity

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Mar. 9.—An endless human chain held Albert Frick in the land of the living today while doctors hovered over the twenty-two year old youth who was still alive although he had not drawn a normal breath for three days, as a result of paralysis of the diaphragm.

Dropped up in bed at 45 degree angle, Frick was able to converse helpfully with those about him and physicians redoubled efforts to prevent a fatal instant break in the rhythmic procession of men who have been inducing artificial respiration for the stricken young salesman since last Sunday morning.

Aids Work in Pairs

Two by two they approached the bed, swayed back and forth for fifteen minutes, one on each side, working feverishly in exact rhythm, pressing their hands down on the victim's lower chest, then relaxing them, in an endless respiratory effort.

Twenty-four men have worked in an unbroken continuation of eight hour shifts, while others of Frick's friends stood ready to act as substitutes.

Without a break, the process has gone on since Sunday morning, when crippling paralysis took effect in nerves controlling the movements of the youth's diaphragm.

Call For Volunteers

The case seemed virtually hopeless but doctors immediately set up an artificial respiration, and Frick responded to the treatment. Hoping against hope, the medical men sent out a call for volunteers and employees in Frick's firm trooped in.

They were hastily instructed in the principles of artificial breathing, and over since have taken up the battle of the two physicians waged alone for hours, each alternately compressing and expanding one lung, pumping oxygen for the tissues.

Physicians said they were witnessing one of the most remarkable achievements in medical history as sixty, sixty five and seventy hours passed and the spark of life lingered.

Tongue Is Paralyzed

The fact that Frick could talk, when his tongue was completely paralyzed Sunday, encouraged those at his bedside but doctors said they were fighting against time in their effort to have the youth breathing again before his body would succumb to the shock of the artificial respiration, wearing away strength even as it saved his life.

At the bedside were the youth's father and mother, marveling at "such devotion to a comrade," watching the battle as they have watched it for four days.

Discovered Saturday

They first brought Frick to the hospital Saturday, when the first signs of the numbness, diagnosed as larynx paralysis, were discovered, three days after the youth had had two teeth extracted. By Sunday the paralysis had numbed his legs and was creeping up his body, until it took possession of the diaphragm, and the chest wall muscles.

The patient has been unable to eat for many hours, and has been given nourishment by a glucose solution, injected into his paralyzed legs a quart at a time.

Since Sunday he has slept less than an hour, physicians said.

A slight improvement in Frick's condition was noted today. Doctors said the paralysis of his throat had slackened slightly and he was able to take a little food.

His fellow employees continued to provide artificial respiration.

With Dean J. A. Rix of the Rotary School in charge, members of that organization in Lubbock devoted their program in the meeting at noon today to knowledge of Rotary. The session was held in the banquet room of Hotel Lubbock.

Modern Woman Leads Says Memphis Lawyer

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Mar. 9.—Modern women are superior to those of any other generation, in the opinion of Miss Marion Griffin, an attorney of Memphis and the first woman to serve in the Tennessee general assembly. Hobbled hair, dark and make-up, she asserts, and peddled short dresses will never go out of fashion.

Two-Piece Costume A Welcome Spring Mode

By HENRI BENDEL For NEA Service

NEW YORK, Mar. 9.—Comfortable as the one-piece frock is, it will never quite outdo the two-piece costume from the mode, particularly for spring and fall weather.

After several months of holding together a wrappy coat, nothing gives a more distinct sensation of spring than a trim, close little jacket suit, with possibly a fox neckpiece or colorful scarf, a small hat, perfect fitting shoes and a smart handbag.

And here let me add that unless a woman wants to collect in all the accessories, a suit is a bad investment, for unless it is complete in every detail it is much less satisfactory than a dress and coat.

This year the suit may be strictly tailored, may show a sport influence or it may be of the dressier type in silk or satin with deft manipulation of the fabric and a very elaborate blouse.

Some of the most admired ensembles Simple is the channel model of tan imported beaver tuwed with plain coat and skirt and sweater of jersey of light tan with rippling trim, bound with a black band. The other, short coated model is of navy blue crepe, with small pockets and a large flower of the material on the left shoulder. The skirt has a box pleated front, which gives the easy swing this type of suit demands. The sweater beneath is of light blue trimmed with stripes of navy and tan. The hat is of bengaline with a tan effect in the back and a smart high line to the front. A small felt hat with a turn down brim would be just as pleasing, though there is a newer feeling to the ribbon model.

Considerably more feminine is the ensemble with the long coat, which is made of navy blue flat crepe with a full sleeve that is lined with the juniper. Plain flat crepe makes the light and pockets of the blouse and gives the impression of a dress rather than a blouse and skirt. A navy blue bengaline hat with a boy effect at the side completes a very charming and practical outfit.

ROBINS' BOSS IS PUZZLED OVER TWO INFIELD POSITIONS

KEYSTONE SACK AND HOT CORNER YET UNDECIDED

OUTFIELD SETTLED AND PITCHING STAFF IS BEING REINFORCED

CLEARWATER, Fla., Mar. 9. (AP)—Although Manager Wilbert Robins has not lost weight worrying about the Brooklyn infield it is in a scrambled condition as the training period moves into its stride. The rotund manager admits that he has "no idea" who will play second and third. He has decided on first base and shortstop, leaving the other two places as his unfinished business. In other departments the team has practically made itself up.

With Jacques Fournier gone, Floyd Herman has succeeded to first base and the clean up hitting position. Johnny Butler, a great player if he keeps his health, will play shortstop without a struggle. The race is declared open for the remainder of the infield selections.

Rookies Make Strong Bid

The former Southern Leaguers, Jimmy Partridge, from Nashville and Bobby Barrett, from Memphis, are bidding for second and third respectively, but are encountering opposition from three members of last year's team. Jerry Standert, Wilson Fewster and Bill Marriot. If the positions should be decided by hitting alone Standert would win. He is a better batsman than fielder.

Bill Rich, once Newberry, S. C. college star, is equally good on the infield or outfield but with the outfield fairly well populated by more experienced players he probably will be content to concentrate on infield endeavor.

Indications early in the game are that the battle royal may be continued in the actual playing season before regular second and third sackers are assigned.

Outfield No Worry

The outfield presents much less difficult problem. Captain Max Carey will play center and Arnold Stutz, fresh from a great season on the Pacific Coast, and with Major League experience in his equipment has been considered left fielder. Harvey Hendricks, who has tried twice before, seems destined to stick right field. Although he played first base for Providence and New Orleans, he has been sent to the outfield in the Brooklyn camp and his hitting and speed have made a quick impression. Gus Felix will hold on but he is keeping a watchful eye on Hendricks. Veteran star Mervin Jackson, of last year's team, seems to have been crowded out by the addition of Stutz and Hendrick. Oscar Koettger, a pitcher who can hit as well as play the outfield.

Headline Is Gatchers

An expected pitcher will be sent to other fields as a result of the addition of Dutch Henline to the receiving staff. Henline, whose acquisition cost the Robins Burleigh Grimes in a sound-about trade, will be the first string performer. Three of last year's pitchers, DeWitt and Hargrave, were made surplus. Jim Simpson, former Notre Dame receiver, picked a tough spot to display his wares.

The success of the pitching staff will depend in a large measure on the ability of Bill Doak to come back after a period of retirement and improvement in the form displayed by last year's staff, brought over intact with the exception of Grimes. Doak does not know how good his spit ball will be.

Pitching Staff Reinforced

Vance, Petty, McWoody, Barnes, McGraw and Ehrhart will start another season. They will be reinforced by three of the half dozen recruits. Norman Pitt, who has been on the ineligible list, has been restored to good standing and has an excellent chance to stick. "Big Jim" Elliott has also made a good early impression as has Clarence Griffin, a small but earnest left hander. If both make good, a triumph will be recorded for two extremes in stature. Elliott is the giant and Griffin the midget of the pitchers.

Cut And Slash Baseball On The Wane

Billy Evans Says; Faster Game Coming

BY BILLY EVANS

Is the cut and slash style of play on the wane in the major leagues?

In the parlance of baseball, the cut and slash system is the taking of a healthy cut by a majority of the batters at every pitch that looks good.

Babe Ruth, favored by the lively ball, might aptly be referred to as the originator of the slam-bang methods that have dominated baseball for at least a half dozen years.

After a period in which the pitchers completely dominated the situation, fandom welcomed a change and the healthy swing staff became decidedly popular. There is still something about a Babe Ruth home run that thrills, but the enthusiasm over the ordinary slugfests has died out considerably.

During the past winter I have discussed this phase of the game with about 10 major league leaders, equally divided between the two big leagues.

The consensus is that baseball is certain to be featured by a more consistent running attack. In other words, an effort will be made to capitalize to the greatest extent possible on the speed of each player.

While it doesn't necessarily mean that a lot of bases are again to be stolen, it is evident that speed will be utilized in every way possible in the game of runs.

The hit and run, also what might be called the run and hit play, have always been popular with certain managers, but a number of others have been far too conservative in their methods.

John McGraw is one of the few managers who has always made all possible use of the speed on his club. The success that has followed McGraw throughout his career would make it seem a wise policy to follow.

Of the latter day managers, Eddie Collins has followed most closely in the footsteps of McGraw. There is no doubt in my mind but that much of the success the White Sox enjoyed under Collins was because he never failed to call on his speed whenever it seemed like the proper play.

It is also reasonable to suppose that the eight new managers, five in the American and three in the National, will add zest to the race. One certain way to do it is to increase the running attack.

Bill Carrigan, new manager of the Red Sox, was strong for that style of play when he was winning pennants for Boston. George Moriarty, a great base-runner in his day, as leader of the Detroit Tigers is sure to favor an offense featuring speed. Likewise Ray Schalk, Don Bush and the rest of the debuting managers.

Of course, the ball is still too lively

White Sox Outfielder Considers After Attempting Own Life In Hotel Yesterday

SHREVEPORT, La., Mar. 9. (AP)—The condition of Johnny Mostil, outfielder of the Chicago White Sox, who attempted to take his life here Tuesday night in the bath room of a hotel where the Sox are quartered, was somewhat improved today. Mostil is said to have had a fairly good night and is conscious.

Mostil was found lying in a pool of blood. His throat, wrists and ankles were slashed and there was a deep stab wound over his heart.

Friends could assign no reason for the act except a possible mental aberration brought on by worry over his health. He was reported to have appeared despondent during the day following a visit to a dentist's office where he had an x-ray picture of his teeth made.

A weakness in the outfield has for several years handicapped the Giants. In an effort to remedy this fault the Giant manager parted with George Kelly to procure the brilliant veteran, Eddie Roush. Ten years ago Roush played a later engagement with the Giants and was passed on to Cincinnati, where he became one of the greatest outfielders in the game. He comes to the Giants with his best days behind him but he is still a marvelous performer.

Will Rogers, Hornsby and Eddie Roush give to the Giants a pennant punch? Manager McGraw thinks so.

To the contrary, Tom O'Farrell, who succeeded Hornsby as manager of the Cardinals, feels that Frisco will be able to fill the bill at second and help the world champs repeat.

Someone is going to be disappointed on that swap, for there can be only one pennant winner.

In the American League, three of the biggest stars in the organization, Cobb, Collins and Speaker, have changed clubs.

Connie Mack feels that Cobb and Collins will add the required initiative, poise and brains to put Athletics over, while Clark Griffith figures his club is a cinch since Speaker was signed.

More disappointments. Yet there is no denying that the shifting of these stars to other clubs is going to add renewed zest and interest to both major league races.

on the uncanny. For that reason playing on either side of him had a distinct advantage.

Aside from this will be the loss of his coaching. Whenever a ball was hit to right or left field, Speaker was always backing up the play and offering words of advice to the man about to make the catch.

Post Is Important One

It has long been an accepted theory in baseball that the strength of a major league club can be fairly accurately estimated by the caliber of the catcher, pitcher, center fielder and the two infielders working around second.

Paris, with 100,000 trees, has only one oak.

Will Miss Speaker

Cleveland is going to miss Tris Speaker in center field.

Unquestionably the filling of Speaker's shoes is the biggest task Manager Jack McCallister faces.

Center field is by far the most difficult of the three outfield positions. There are any number of reasons that do not appear on the surface.

In the first place, a greater number of balls are hit to center field territory. There is considerably more work to the position. To play it well speed is essential. The ability to go to either side or in and out on a ball with equal ease is also essential.

That's asking considerable.

Tris Is Great

There never was a greater outfielder than Speaker. Even now, past the peak of his game, he compares favorably with any of the stars of either league.

True, he has slowed up a trifle, but considering the severe test that he has put his "underpinning" to these many years, he is still a wonder at the position. To play it well speed is essential. The ability to go to either side or in and out on a ball with equal ease is also essential.

During the past winter I have discussed this phase of the game with about 10 major league leaders, equally divided between the two big leagues.

The consensus is that baseball is certain to be featured by a more consistent running attack.

While it doesn't necessarily mean that a lot of bases are again to be stolen, it is evident that speed will be utilized in every way possible in the game of runs.

The hit and run, also what might be called the run and hit play, have always been popular with certain managers, but a number of others have been far too conservative in their methods.

INDIAN CAGERS TO GO EAST TO WIN NEW TITLES

SIOUX LADS, COACHED BY PRIEST, COMPOSED OF HUSKY GROUP

ST. FRANCIS, S. D., Mar. 9. (AP)—Painted lines in a gymnasium floor, weaving and twisting in courses more devious than ever the redskin described about his canvas in a war-dance, have made an Indian basketball team into whirling dervishes who have yet to meet their equals in the cage sport. The Indian always runs in a straight line.

The Rev. W. J. Birmingham found that out for himself when he came a few years ago to teach a basketball team at the Indian Catholic mission on western South Dakota's prairies.

He tried in vain to teach his Ogalala Sioux boys to dodge and twist and pivot as they worked the basketball in the floor. They soon developed a keen talent for basket shooting, born of ancestral skill in bagging foes and game with bow and arrow, but their teamwork was pitiful because they always ran in straight lines, without a hint of deception in their advance.

Father Birmingham got a can of black paint and across the length of the basketball court he painted five curving, looping, twisting lines. Along each one, at intervals, he put the name of one of his five basketball players.

For weeks the team, with and without a ball, practiced running along those lines, insisting when they were pivoting where they circled.

Today, after three years of practice, the redskin lads can dodge and whirl like demons.

Of the boys who set out under Father Birmingham to learn a white man's game, four remain on the team which will invade the east this spring under mission colors. Joe Twist is the captain, knock-off two, Little Beetle, and White Horse are his veteran mates. Swift Crocker, White Bear, Irving and Provost complete the squad.

Last year the team lost in the Catholic interscholastic tournament at Loyola University at Chicago, by a bare margin to St. Xavier's of Louisville, ultimate champion. This year the team has won more than a dozen straight games, and it will be among the favorites at the 1927 Catholic tournament. Later it will play in St. Louis, Detroit and Cleveland.

The Indian fathers of the Rosebud region watch proudly as their sons defeat all comers at a white man's game, but none is more enthusiastic than Knock Off Two, the elder, whose son is a star in the team. The wrinkled parent used to be a famous Indian runner.

Penn State Cager Has Great Record

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Mar. 9.—There may be a greater college basketball player than Mike Hannas, captain and forward at Penn State, but Penn State followers doubt it.

Hannas, the record rival claimant can shoot at:

He was a member of the Passaic (N. J.) high school "wonder five" that won 50 straight games a few years ago without a single defeat in over two years.

In his final year with Passaic, he scored approximately 500 points, an average of almost 27 points per game. In one game last year, he registered 67 points for his outfit.

Then he entered Penn State and in his career here he has figured in but six defeats, two each in his freshman, sophomore and senior years. His victories now total almost 100.

Hannas, who is called "Deadshot," averaged some 14 points per game for Penn State in 1925 before he suffered a physical breakdown after three games.

He was forced to leave college then but returns this year as captain of the team. He is now so weak physically that he never goes near the gymnasium except when he has to play in a game.

With four other brothers, Hannas forms a quintet that holds the amateur championship of its section of the state.

The four other players are Steve Engage, a sophomore at Penn State, who shot 2,000 at former's passed with Father Mike; John Hannas, captain of the East Rutledge high team, who will enter Penn State next fall; George Hannas, who will enter college this year following John, and Andy Hefras, an older brother, who in his day was a great athlete at Passaic high.

HOPPE'S CROWN BELIEVED LOST

WASHINGTON, Mar. 9. (AP)—Willie Hoppe's world 182 ball billiard crown is almost certain to topple during the championship tournament here as a result of the New Yorker's third straight defeat last night at the hands of Jake Schaefer, of Chicago, former champion, by the top heavy score of 400 to 20.

The victory put Schaefer back into a three corner tie with Welker Cochran of California, who won in the afternoon match yesterday from Felix Grange of France, 400 to 272, and Edward Hoffmann of Belgium. Each has yet to lose a game in three starts.

Hoffmann will have an opportunity tonight to lead the procession again when he meets Erich Hagenbach of Germany, who ranks second in the tournament with one victory and one defeat. The German player also was to meet Grange in an afternoon contest.

Schaefer was in excellent form last night, going out in seven innings and finishing off a high run of 212 to Hoppe's 70. Cochran went out in nine innings and had a high run of 178 as against Grange's 129.

Fifteen thousand pounds of twice a day is manufactured in the South Dakota penitentiary at Sioux Falls.

Gasoline 1c a Gal

CHICAGO, ILL.—The automobile world is won over the amazing results of the new gasoline discovery made by the Chicago chemist, Dr. E. C. K. It is a scientific discovery, new scientific idea. Never before anything like it. It is not a mechanical contrivance, carburetor device or does not put in gasoline. Its action is astonishing. Here's its strange feature—it is positively guaranteed to give 34 gallons of gas for only 1c a gallon every 10,000 miles. It is named "K" and is also guaranteed to instantly eliminate carbon deposits, power and pep. One of its strongest features is that it is needed only every 10,000 miles. It costs practically nothing and saves $200.00 to $300.00 yearly.

A straight salary of $100.00 weekly with commission and free Dodge car are guaranteed to producing agents everywhere to introduce this new marvel quickly. A Free Trial and agents' new plan will be sent without obligation to anyone who writes quickly to L. K. Forgrave, Director, M-M Laboratories, 693N. Clark St., Chicago, Ill.

Fleet on Bases

Herman Layne, Pittsburgh rookie from Toronto, is one of the speediest players trying to break in the major leagues this year. Layne gets away from the right side of the plate. He got a trial with Detroit once, but failed to make the grade. Because of his consistent hitting and marvelous speed, he may stick this season with the Bucs.

Worth 20 Years

A convict known as "Teg-leg Jack" Gordon recently was captured in Knoxville, Tenn., ten months after he had broken out of a New Jersey prison, where he was serving a 12-year term.

Because he broke jail and assaulted a warden, 15 years have been added to his prison sentence. Informed of this, he smiled and told his captors that in 20 months of liberty worth more than 20 years in prison.

With this remark, he went back jauntily to serve out his time.
Jack Gordon will be an old man when he gets out of prison, if he does not die there. Judging by his record, it would seem that prison is a pretty good place for him, certainly he need not arouse our sympathy.

Yet his remark contained a profound truth, and as he resumes his old job of weaving chair bottoms or picking oakum or whatever they do in Jersey penitentiaries, we can ponder on it for a time.

To a convict in prison, any sort of state where one is not watched constantly by a man with a gun is liberty. To a man on the outside, liberty must mean much clearer definition. Yet both men want it—may, most have it.
If they are to live—and most of the trouble in this world comes because some people feel that some other people are denying it to them.

Liberty is not a thing that can be denied forever. Even a convict in his cell, sooner or later, is apt to break loose and elude a warden; and when it is a nation instead of a lone convict that is involved, the breaking out is terrible to behold. If you don't believe it, think of the revolutions that France and Russia indulged in after centuries of slavery.

We may well beware how we infringe the liberties of others. We may also take pains to understand the craving for liberty. It will help us to understand, for instance, the feeling that animates the Chinese just now.

You can catch a convict and put him back. You can't do that with a whole nation.

When Anger Is A Liability

It's the easiest and most natural thing in the world for a man to lose his temper for a minute or so. Nothing is more "human" than to seek to "get even" with someone who has offended us.

Ordinarily these little outbursts that all of us indulge in don't hurt anyone. But there is one circumstance in which none of us should ever let his temper get the better of him.
That is when driving an automobile.

Sure, it makes you mad when the other fellow cuts in in front of you or passes you on the wrong side. Sure, it's natural for you to want to get ahead and cut your eye in sharp in-front of his—but don't do it.
"Momentarily losses of temper," we'll wager, cause about as many traffic accidents as any other single cause.

Don't get made while you're driving a car. If you can't you're your life.

Ungrateful Beavers

It's rather tough to be bitten by the hand that you are feeding.
State park officials in New York
some time ago stocked the great Adirondack Park with beavers. These animals, extinct in New York state for many years, have now multiplied to numbers estimated at 30,000.

This is all lovely—except that the beavers aren't showing proper gratitude. They are, it is reported, killing timber and spoiling fishing by their dams and ponds. Soon, it is said, they will actually be nuisances.

There's a tough problem for a poor park commissioner! Shall he protect the beaver and incur the wrath of park enthusiasts, or protect the park and have the wild-animal-lovers down on his head?
Solution of his puzzle will require plenty of thought and tact.

THE PLAINSMAN

Several thousand Japanese have been killed in a recent earthquake.
The propagandists can rest a little easier now since the "yellow peril" has been reduced somewhat.

The Chamber of Commerce will soon
call for the collection of pledged funds when the "railroad fever" was at its white heat here. The Plainsman is highly in favor of 100 percent payment of these pledged acts of payment should be accompanied by action of construction.

The people of both United States and Mexico seem to be greatly worried up over whether or not Ambassador Teitel will reenter this country.
We can remember, however, when the people of this country were a great deal more interested in whether Pancho Villa reentered the country.

All kinds of social events were pulled off when Queen Marie visited this country to shake Her Majesty feel at home. Now that Mr. Kerensky is here we might follow suit by staging a few municipal bombings and executions. It could be done without much trouble just by permitting the estimable gentleman to visit Chicago and Herria.

What this country needs is men who will work longer for less.

The Texas legislators who are so excited over the fish and oyster commission should try West Texas during July.

The platform of "vindication" doesn't seem to work as well as it once did, at least it didn't in the cases of Moore and Dale.

It's often necessary to tell a white lie to save someone's feelings. Our experience with "brutally frank" people has caused us to believe them more discreditable than anything else.

Somebody, with little to do, has figured it out that a man, reading eight hours per day, every day in the week, could read all the laws of the United States in a little over three years. Most of us can break 'em in less time than that.

The Plainsman is glad to see the Board of City Development begin to get ready to think about some wide spread publicity for Lubbock and the South Plains. We can get it meritoriously, if we but will.

In the spring a young man's fancy

in the summer a married man's fancy seriously turns to when his wife will

WASHINGTON LETTER

OBEY ALL THE LAWS?
IT WOULD TAKE A LIFE-
TIME TO EVEN READ 'EM
By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON, Mar. 9.—In the midst of the orderly calm that envelops this law abiding nation, there arises one disturbing fact to jolt
the serenity of the peaceful citizens,
to-wit:

No living mortal, be he ever so assiduous, could ever possibly hang on in this vale of tears long enough to read all the laws he's supposed to obey.

The sixty-ninth congress, now expiring, did its bit with a vengeance.
Each and every member, apparently,
had heard his constituents crying:
"Ther ought to be a law—" and when the smoke clears away it will have in the neighborhood of 1100 new bills and resolutions on the statute books.

This is the best—or the worst—that any congress has done since the famous fifty-ninth of 1902-07, which passed 6,940 measures.

Since the first congress convened in 1789 rather more than 51,000 federal laws have been passed. And these, be it remembered, are only a fraction of the laws this country has on its statute books. There are 48 state legislatures working constantly on newer and better laws; there are city councils, county boards and boards of selectmen taking themselves very privately and piling up the total constantly.

One figuring brother has estimated that more than 10,000,000 laws have been passed in this country, counting in all these sources.

Senator George H. Moses on occasion roars at the ever-rising wave of state and federal legislation.

He knows that more than 25,000 bills were introduced in congress and the state legislatures during the two-year biennial period ending in the spring of 1925 and he is certain that the last two years have seen no decrease, so that it would appear that about 125,000 had been introduced since 1922. It is too early to say how many have passed over the country, but Moses thinks 6,000 might be a fair estimate.

The ordinary congress has about 20,000 bills introduced and passes something under a thousand. It will readily be seen that it might be worse
but some folks will insist that if none of them passed, it might be even better.

The famous fifty-ninth congress,
with its 6,940 laws, was not such a hopelessly blind group as it seems to have been on first glance. Only 592 of these were public laws and most of these were pension bills. President Roosevelt privately booked his arm signing those 6,248 private laws. Pension and public-building bills are now handed in omnibus bills.

The war congress of 1917-19 offers an example of commendable restraint.
At this most critical period of history only 598 laws were passed, the lowest number in any congress for 10 years back. But the biennial figure has been jumping ever since.

Contemporaries

Farm and Ranch confesses that it has preached the gospel of diversification for forty years, but never has been able to lay out a program that would fit every farm. That, it explains, would be impossible. It just can't be done.

The program must be made to fit the individual farm and the needs of the soil. Farm and Ranch goes on to say that general principles can be made to apply. The balanced farm program should be of a kind that will maintain or build up the fertility of the soil; it should produce feed for the livestock and food for the family. It should be a program that can be efficiently and economically followed.

In general the problem of diversification is to live at home, to produce an economically produced for the use of the family and the general needs of the farm. It is possible for a farmer to buy some things cheaper than he can produce them, even though he could produce them if he wanted to.
Determining just what to produce and what to buy in the open market, as Farm and Ranch indicates, is a problem for the individual to decide.

LINES PENNED TO MUSH

Mush is a health-giving food and should be the backbone of the Ameritells the world. But we suspect some it has something to do with getting American soldiers have been fed so much mush that when the mercenaries were sent to Nicaragua they started shaking hands with all the natives.

The soldiers are to get better food now, though. Coolidge has decided. That's a sure sign of war—the soldiers eating again. If you think all the mushers are driving dog sleds across the frozen north just stand outside a drugstore telephone booth some evening when the cowboys start calling their sweeties. . . . And there probably we'll always have the man who gets "too mush."

IN NEW YORK SEE-SAWING AND DOWN BROADWAY

NEW YORK, Mar. 9.—It's just off the big street on your way over to the river.

I don't know why rivers should become symbols for despair and failure.
Some rivers escape the connotation.

Those who haven't been able to sign "Lady Luck" up for a long-term engagement go the other way. The tougher the luck, the closer the river, until they are swallowed up in the welter of derelicts, bums, and waterfront workers. None would guess they came here with high hopes and golden dreams. None would guess that there, but for the grace of God, goes the curtain raiser of a vaudeville show.

It's a little mission of 47th street and when Mrs. White started it, she had the vision of bringing the wild, roving sheep of the great street back to the fold. Broadway was wilder then, and souls were to be saved.

That it should have turned out to be an oasis for the down-and-out performer is another story.

Side street missions are seldom inviting, unless one is cold and hungry and a bit desperate. The appearance of this is no exception.

There sits a young woman wearing the very dress in which she came from Kansas, Iowa, Michigan or wherever it was. It's a three-year-old dress and looks it. And there's a young man just a little too flashily dressed. The suit reeks of the dollar.

And there are those stumped, young guys. They drop in every once in a while. It is not hard to guess that, after the meeting or perhaps the next day they will drop in for a heartheart talk with Mrs. White. One knows, too, that there will be a few tears, a confession or two and in the course of days the train back to Hawk's Centers will have an extra passenger. There are no statistics on how many have been routed long-through this one mission that flanks
the "big street."

They are all there at some time or another—the products of Broadway and the by-products, gathered just around the corner from the "big street."

Edging bit by bit toward the river.

Nerve On Edge? Take Capudine

High nerve tension (strain) results, sooner or later, in high blood pressure and serious injury to health. Head ache, neuritic and rheumatic pains, and periodical pains are caused by high nerve strain.
The next time you feel nervous or suffer from pain try the improved method of relief—two teaspoonfuls of Capudine in a little water. Being liquid, Capudine acts almost instantly.
—in one-fifth the time required by tablets and powders. Yet it is more effective. Capudine does not upset the stomach and contains no opiates. At vidual size 20c. Full directions with AGAINST her will, but upon Churchill's insistence, Faith had agreed to wear black during her sister's trial for murder.

"Everything's got to be just right to win the sympathy of the judge and the jury," Churchill had argued.

And so on Monday morning, January 3, Faith arrayed herself in an expensive but smart-looking black dress designed and made by herself. A vest of pleated white chiffon and a pleated white collar at the cuffs, relieved the costume of sombreness.

John Pruitt, head of the Pruitt Wholesale Grocery, and father of George Pruitt, who had once hoped that Faith Lane would marry him, had generously given Jim Lane leave of absence on full pay from his new job as night watchman, a kindness which Faith knew had been suggested by George.

"Now, don't you worry about Jay," Aunt Hattie commanded, as she buzzed about Faith, helping her to get away to the courthouse. "His fever's way down this morning, and I'll telephone to the courthouse if she takes a turn for the worse. And for Jim's sake, cut yourself a good lunch. You're starving yourself to death because reporters and middle-aged bachelors watch every bite you eat."

Three reporters, two of them women, and a couple of photographers were stationed before the Myrtle Street house when Faith and her father appeared on the front porch in answer to a pre-arranged signal from Bob's auto horn.

"Just a minute, Miss Lane, Mr. Lane," one of the girl reporters begged, springing upon the porch and touching Faith on the arm. "We've heard that your brother, James Lane, Jr., was married yesterday to Miss Fay Allen. Is the report true?"

Faith smiled into the eager eyes of the newspaper-women. "Yes, it's true. He and Fay have been sweethearts for a year."

"May I say that Miss Allen wanted to demonstrate her loyalty and belief in Cherry's innocence?"

"If you like," Faith smiled. "But perhaps you had better ask my sister-in-law. She and my brother will be at the trial. Let's hurry. Dad, Bob is waiting."

"Have you seen Long yet?" Bob inquired, when at last the ladies had escaped questioning and the car was headed toward the courthouse. "Darned decent of Fay, I think."

"No. They spent the night in Marlboro, but we talked to them over the phone. Long's terribly happy, and Fay says she is to," Faith answered. "We're glad, aren't we, Dad?"

" reckon so," Jim Lane nodded gloomily. "Think this is too bad, Bob?" he inquired anxiously, fidgeting the purple and brown atrociously dyed gloves across his unaccustomed white shirt. "Makin' laughin' this life for me just Christmas, and I sorta thought she'd be pleased if I wore it today."

While Bob was reassuring Mr. Lane, Faith stared unseeing at the congested streets through which the car was being expertly steered. She could not realize that she was actually on her way to the courthouse to take part in the greatest drama which had ever touched her life. It was all a nightmare, a long, dreadful nightmare. She would wake soon, to find Cherry safe at home again, oversleeping as usual, one apricot-tinted cheek burrowed against a tiny, pink-padded hand, short copper-and-gold curls rioting over a pummeled pillow.

"Good heavens! They've got the courthouse square blocked off like a country fair!"

Bob's excited chatter of anger and dismay brought Faith sharply to a realization that it was not a sleeping nightmare, but a waking one. She stared about her, horror-stricken, unbelieving.

Man Often Infected by Disease of Animals

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine.

SINCE human beings have come to avail themselves largely of the services of the lower animals, and indeed to live with them in close communion, physicians have been compelled to take into account not only the diseases of man but also those of animals, because of the proof that the animals' diseases frequently affect the human.

Among the best-known diseases that attack both animals and man are tuberculosis, hydrophobia, glanders and anthrax. However, the number of diseases that may occasionally pass from some animal to man is far greater.

Anthrax is a disease in which there are purulent boils. Some of the most serious cases that have occurred have resulted from the infection of human beings by using shaving brushes of which the hair was taken from infected hides. Nowadays these matters are carefully controlled by government inspection, but it is still good advice to wash a new shaving brush thoroughly in boiling water before using.

Glanders attacks horses, mules, goats, rabbits and dogs, and may be inoculated into any animal. A considerable number of cases have occurred in human beings through contact with infected animals. However, the gradual disappearance of the horse from ordinary life has cut down to a considerable extent the number of cases of glanders in human beings.

In a complete discussion of this topic by the dean of the New York State Veterinary College, associated with Cornell University, Dr. V. A. Moore, a statement is quoted to the effect that numerous cases developed among children in Illinois from eating horse flesh.

Among the other diseases which affect man less frequently are various intestinal complaints, foot-and-mouth disease, infectious jaundice, rat-bite fever, and more recently tularemia, which is associated with the preparation of the flesh of infected rabbits.

Modern bacteriology and preventive medicine have taken into account these possible sources of human infection and controlled them to minimize as greatly as possible such transmission of disease.

As A Woman Sees It

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

LOST: A TRUE FRIEND

I HAVE lost a friend.

Once was lost a David and Jonathan friendship where one gave up his kingdom for the other, but a close and sympathetic intercourse that was grateful and inspiring.

I miss my friend, I did not know how much I could miss her, and now I am sorry, when it is too late, that I did not avail myself more of a friendship which gave me so much.

Perhaps have been written in friendship. Science has tried to analyze it and put it under the microscope to see what the life cells were made of. But no one can analyze it. It is simply there. We are attracted to some people as we are repelled by others. We should not let the latter worry us. Instead, we should make the most of those who attract us and whom we attract. For friendship, to be real, must be natural.

We go along day in and day out doing our routine work, and attending to superficial things, that could easily be put aside. Then, when we are tired, instead of seeking a friend, we seek middle entertainment.

We are throwing away our greatest privilege. Human intercourse is not only essential to happiness, but if we are ever to be a great people and to live to see our ideals of human service accomplished, we must not lose sight of our personal contacts.

My friend was an ideal woman. She was carefully educated, beautiful and charming. She chose to devote her life to her husband and children. But almost as great as this was her capacity for friendship outside of her home, and her willingness, nay eagerness, to give herself to others.

And now she is gone! And yet is she gone? I have still her words of encouragement and praise. I wonder if I praised her enough?

We think things! Are we quick enough to say them? We are careless of praise, and we are careless of friendship. And wasting our blight, we deserve to be lonely when we are old.

We should cultivate friendship as we would a rose garden, and fill the worms of small jealousies and petty differences that eat the roots.

NEW ORLEANS TRADING NEW ORLEANS, Mar. 9 (AP)-Reports of probable heavy exports during the current month and continued bad weather kept cotton prices upward today. First trades showed no change from yesterday's close, and later prices advanced 3 to 6 points with May at 14.29, July 14.42 and October 14.52. After further advance early in the day, prices fell to 14.29 and July to 14.25, 6 to 7 points above yesterday's close; the market turned easier on lack of sustaining support and May edged down to 14.20, July to 14.27 and October 14.46, 5 to 10 points below the high.

NEW YORK TRADING NEW YORK, Mar. 9 (AP)-The cotton market opened steady at a decline of 1 to 3 points in response to easier Liverpool cables. March ending off to 14.22 and October 14.57. Offerings were light, however, and the market steadied after the opening on covering and trade buying. Liverpool rallied after the local market opened, and there was probable buying here inspired by the absence of any material increase of offerings from the south. May sold up to 14.29 and October to 14.60 by the end of the first half hour, or about one to three points net higher. The market seemed to meet a little more selling around 14.29 for May and prices eased off under liquidation. Offerings were comparatively light, but the market was narrow. May easing off to 14.22, and the active month showing net declines of about 2 to 4 points at midday.

SINCLAIR'S TESTIMONY Is Opened In Trial WASHINGTON, Mar. 9 (AP)-The jury which will determine whether Harry E. Sinclair should be punished for contempt of the senate today heard the oil operator's side of the controversy which grew out of his refusal to answer questions before the committee which investigated the leasing of the Teapot Dome naval reserve.

After having occupied only one day in presenting its testimony, the government rested its case soon after the opening of court today, and George P. Hoover, chief of Sinclair's counsel, opened for the defense with a recital of the points to be raised on behalf of his client.

The defense attorney asked the jury to remember that Sinclair had testified before the senate committee five times before his refusal on March 22, 1924, to answer a series of questions propounded by Senator Walsh of Montana, prosecutor for the senate inquiry, and Senator Adams of Colorado.

Jimmy Walker Fears He'll Forget How To Play So He'll Retire From Office

By JAMES POWERS, NEA Service Writer

NEW YORK, Mar. 9.—(AP)—Jimmy Walker today might be said to have a "fearful" prospect. The Man in Black is afraid he will forget how to play and let it go at that.

The prospect is a quick witted, imaginative and a little bit of a showman. He has all the appearance of a man who has been in the game long enough to know the ropes.

He started "working" and his best of followers by announcing his resignation at the end of his current and exceedingly popular term.

"Because I am afraid," he answers the questioning interviewer, speaking very earnestly and leaving for once his customary smart patter on the shelf—"I'm afraid I will forget how to play."

"There are square pegs and round holes. There are pious types who take their responsibilities lightly. There are others who sink deep disgraces by the ball and chain of duty. Candies burn at both ends, and this work is very grueling."

Such a philosopher is this shrewd, sometimes humorous, wise-cracking young man. He takes in the news at Longfellow's, Marston, Havana, Miami and he goes to the fight at Philadelphia. He is a loyal first nighter on Broadway. He glad-hands queens and customers. But he is determined to work at being mayor of New York.

"Being a competent mayor of a city that spends $1,500,000 each day and Mayor Jimmy Walker on his recent vacation in the South.

These responsibilities are tremendous and the fiscal procedure is unending. I have worried long and hard, because I know if I neglect anything, the city of New York will be ruined. I feel now I want to shake every body's hand and tell one and all that I don't want to be mayor of New York. I don't want to be mayor of New York. I don't want to be mayor of New York.

Walker's resignation was announced today. He is expected to leave office on March 15th. He will be succeeded by John E. Miller.

MOODY REQUEST CAL AND AL ARE ACCUSED BOYS IS GIVEN SENATE PRONOUNCED AS MOTHER SOUGHT PARTY LEADERS

Body Asked To Remain in Session Until Certain Legislation is Heard

(By Associated Press) ALBANY, N.Y., Mar. 9.—Governor Dan Moody today asked the senate to remain in session until certain legislation is heard.

Pointing out that the penitentiary system is without funds he said it was possible to prove it upon a sound financial basis by passing the senate bill providing for a Wilson board of finance.

Governor Moody's own recommendation concerning text books was that the law be passed so that contracts would be let on a job basis, eliminating any chance that the companies with profit on freight rates.

He also advocated a provision which would allow the text book commission two years to introduce a new adoption of the old book's remaining on hand until he is satisfied.

On tax legislation the governor advocated action on the Strassman resolution which would amend the constitution by reducing ad valorem taxes and leaving most of the money raised by such taxes in the counties and finding new sources for state income such as franchise taxes and other taxes on intangible values.

Judicial reform was mentioned briefly as well as all of the judicial measures have passed the senate and gone to the house.

He then turned to the bill for the amendment of the constitution and attending to my own business and that of the people of the state," was Governor Moody's only comment.

From Chairman O'Brien of the Democratic caucus, a remark was made as to President Coolidge's plan to spend the summer somewhere in the west, in the region where the home of Frank O. Lowden has been prominent, especially since President Coolidge's veto of the farm relief bill.

Cal and Al? Silent. The men remained silent as to their availability.

At the Tammany hall discussion O'Brien said that while Governor Smith had in no way indicated whether he would be a candidate, reports from all sections of the country showed the governor was a favorite for the democratic nomination.

Representative Carver predicted Smith "will get some delegates from Texas, while other party leaders said they had received reports that Governor Dan Moody of that state had been mentioned as a running mate for the New York governor and would confer with him soon at Albany."

"Thanks for the compliment," said Governor Moody when the report reached him in San Antonio, "but who is going to pay the railroad fare?"

TAMMANY STARTS BOOM FOR AL BUT FRIENDS OF CAL COUNTER

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Mar. 9.—(AP)—and Al Federal today in accounts of the first impressions of the presidential prospects to develop since congress adjourned.

While President Coolidge was nominated for another term at a Republican meeting in New York, Democratic leaders announced they were already at work in behalf of Governor Alfred E. Smith and "Propose to nominate him."

Tammany Sponsors Boom. The boom for the governor was sponsored by George W. O'Ryan, Tammany leader, and John F. Carew, chairman of the New York state democratic delegation in the house of representatives.

They expressed optimism after a conference at Tammany hall.

Coolidge's enthusiasm was manifested at a gathering of Kings county republicans at which the keynote was sounded by Albert Outinger, New York state attorney general, who said the third term proposition was "a refined form of quibbling."

He added that the empire state, which has given governor a national reputation, would be in the vanguard of his fight.

"Cal and Al? Silent. The men remained silent as to their availability.

I am staying here in Albany and attending to my own business and that of the people of the state," was Governor Moody's only comment.

Youth Confesses Attempt To Kill Father And Family With Dynamite Bomb

(By The Associated Press)

DALLAS, Texas, Mar. 9.—Efforts to locate Mrs. T. J. Stone were being made here today by police while her son, Howard Darr, 15, was held in jail today for his confession last night that he had attempted to kill his father and step-mother with a dynamite bomb.

The bomb was thrown onto the bed where Mr. and Mrs. Hugh J. Barr were sleeping yesterday morning. The lives of the couple, and their four-year-old son who slept nearby, were saved by quick action of Barr in extinguishing the smoldering fuse and throwing the dynamite into the yard.

Young Barr confessed that he planned to kill his father to get insurance money with which to go to California to see his mother whom he has not seen for nine years.

Barr was separated from his first wife about 11 years ago. She lived for a time in San Diego, California.

If Mrs. Stone consents, the boy is to be sent to her. Otherwise he probably will be placed in a boy's training home.

Barr visited his son in jail today, and went while the son told his story of the attempted bombing.

Confession Heaps Feelings. The boy said he was sorry for the act and felt better after having confessed. He said he was seized with an uncontrollable desire to see his mother and that he thought if he killed his father he could go to her.

"I know your mind must have hoped and that you did this when you were not your real self, my boy," said the father. "I want you to remember that I forgive you, and I only pray that you try to make a man of yourself."

The boy sat on his bench in the cell, his head propped in his hands. The older Barr added him on the back and encouraged him.

Young Barr said he was injured in a football game last November and that he had severe spells of headache at times. He said that he had never been manhandled by his father and had never had any idea of injuring him until seized with the desire to see his mother.

Pardon Proclamation Received At Sherman. SHERMAN, Texas, Mar. 9.—(AP)—That only a small quantity of liquor was involved was given by Governor Ferguson as a reason for granting on January 13 a full pardon to Seavert Hill who today withdrew his appeal from two convictions here on liquor charges.

A copy of the proclamation, received by County Attorney R. M. Finley today, shows that Hill, against whom now seven cases are held on district court dockets, had been "for assault with intent to murder, was restored to citizenship."

Watch Cupid Smile! Representative John J. Durech of Omaha and Bert Morledge of Hastings propose to assess a special tax of $5 per year on all unmarried male and female inhabitants of Nebraska between the ages of 21 and 25 years.

"A man and a woman, too—does it to the country to raise a family," says the law's authors.

Evolution? Bingo! The state of Arkansas would fine up to $1000 any public school employee teaching "that mankind ascended or descended from a lower order of animals," under a law proposed by Representative A. L. Hottenberry.

Teaching the Bible is not a part of any course in the Arkansas schools, "Fundamentalists do not get to present their side. If evolution is taught, modernists have an advantage."

TWO ARRESTED IN BABY'S DEATH

(By The Associated Press)

PALMER, Mass., Mar. 9.—Identification of the body of a small boy found half concealed in a waste keg on a public dump here last night was established today as that of John H. Kelley, aged three and a half years, son of Mrs. Ida Kelley of this town.

Albert Doe, in whose home Mrs. Kelley is employed as housekeeper, has been arrested charged with the murder of the boy, and the mother also is under arrest, charged with being an accessory.

Mrs. Kelley, the police learned has with her two children, John and Leo, the latter a year older than John, been living in Doe's home since the disappearance last summer of John Kelley, the woman's husband.

Mrs. Kelley is said to have made statements after her arrest, alleging that a few days before Christmas Doe struck the boy John on the head when the boy did something that displeased him.

The boy showed no effects of the blow at the time and resumed his play. The next morning, according to the mother, she found the boy dead. Pale, stricken, she told Doe who, she said, took the body, placed it in a trunk and drove away. She did not know what disposition had been made of it until she was arrested today.

Gossip, Bachelors And Mince Pie Lose Lawmakers Of 1927 Would Reform Them

Dear days are in the offing for devotees of ecstatic dancing, unscrupulous gossip, steaming mince pies, male and female bachelordom and such if 1927 legislators and legislation enthusiasts have their way.

Fresh blows will be struck at the idea that man and monkey, as pertains to their modes of descent, may have something in common.

Boils of law and blasts of eloquence are being hurled at these "evils" with demands that they be proscribed. They are targets of emboldened logic and caustic statistics.

Prohibition controversies, foreign relations debates, election expense regulations—these and their ilk, he shelved, with most gathering over them, while such issues as tripping toes, flippant tongues, mince-pie pastry, single-blessedness and Darwinian education come to the fore.

With but a month's growth to its credit, the 1927 lawmakers urge manifestations of their will.

Bad, Bad "Charleston"! The dance has been poisoned and degraded by immoral influences, and a national censor of dancing has become a vital need of the country in the opinion of Rev. John Thompson, pastor of Chicago's skyscraper Methodist Episcopal Temple.

The dance censor would be invested with such powers as are wielded by Judge Landis in baseball and "Will Hays in movieland."

The church has banned the dance. But bans and harangues have been futile, said Rev. Thompson. "People will continue to dance till the end of time."

"But it is not impossible to remove the evil influences which now surround dancing."

"There is nothing graceful about the Charleston or the Black Bottom. They simply are immoral national dance censor, I would forbid them."

Jail the Gossipers! Author of the famous Tennessee anti-evolution law under which John T. Scopes was convicted at Dayton, Senator John W. Butler of that state has introduced in the legislature a bill to prohibit gossip.

"I think it will pass, too," said Butler. "We need to stop a lot of loose talk not only about candidates for public office, but also about private persons."

Butler's bill would make gossiping punishable as a misdemeanor.

"I am absolutely in favor of it," said Rev. W. F. Powell, pastor of the First Baptist church of Nashville.

"Foolish," said Rev. James L. Vance, Nashville's First Presbyterian pastor. "It is an Evil Indeed!"

A bill prescribing a prison sentence for anyone making, selling or giving away mince pies has been drafted by State Senator James W. Finley of the Sunflower State.

"For years I have considered the eating of mince pies one of our national evils," said Finley.

"Governor Ben S. Paulsen recently was ill after eating mince pies."

Kansas has a law forbidding the sale of cigars.

"It is as much the state's business to regulate what we eat as what we smoke," smiled Finley.

Evolution? Bingo! The state of Arkansas would fine up to $1000 any public school employee teaching "that mankind ascended or descended from a lower order of animals," under a law proposed by Representative A. L. Hottenberry.

In the California assembly, Leader S. L. Heisinger of the "farm bill" has introduced a bill making it illegal to teach evolution "as a fact" in any primary or secondary school.

Teaching the Bible is not a part of any course in the Arkansas schools, "Fundamentalists do not get to present their side. If evolution is taught, modernists have an advantage."

"To teach evolution as a fact upon every primary Bible doctrine," said Assemblyman Heisinger.
