

On The BEAM

By J. W. King, Sr.

Loraine needs to do something to stimulate business. Not that business is suffering badly, but it needs a shot in the arm. Merchants in larger towns nearby are putting on special efforts to draw trade—and they are drawing some, too.

If everyone who claims Loraine as his home would do all of his trading in Loraine, we would have a much better town. But all do not stay at home to trade so we're going to have to stage some kind of special attraction to keep them at home and draw from other towns trade territory.

The grass is always greener over in the other pasture, so maybe we can make our pasture look greener to home folks as well as some in other territories. I know we can if everybody will really fall in line and offer some extra bargains.

There is no doubt about it towns that make the biggest effort to draw trade, get the trade.

NOTICE PLEASE!

Deadline Changed To 12 O'Clock

Effective now everyone who has advertising or news items for publication in The News will please remember that the copy must be in our office no later than 12:00 o'clock on each Wednesday. Copy received after 12 o'clock on Wednesday will not be published in the issue for that week unless an emergency exists.

This action is necessary in order for us to get our paper to subscribers on the Roscoe rural routes on Friday. We must get the paper in the mail by 11 a. m. on Thursday or it will not reach Roscoe subscribers before Saturday, sometimes Monday.

Why the mail service between here and Roscoe is so poor we do not know. We have been mailing our papers for Roscoe at 2 p. m. on Thursday but we have discovered they are not reaching our subscribers until Saturday. The T.P. truck picks the papers up here at 2:30, if it is on time, and leaves them at the depot in Roscoe—at least that is what the railroad men tell us—but because there is no other mail left at Roscoe at that hour they are not delivered to the post office until sometime Friday morning. The News must reach its subscribers on time, so for that reason we must set our deadline for advertising and news for 12 o'clock on Wednesday.

The truck that leaves here at 11 o'clock carries other mail and if our paper is on it, it will be taken to the Roscoe postoffice as soon as it arrives there, so the Roscoe postmaster tells us. We want to get The News on the 11 o'clock truck so we'll have to move our deadline up in order to meet it.

SCANNING THE WEEK'S NEWS of Main Street and the World

U.N. Forces Near 38th Parallel; Johnston Wants New Parity Ruling

WHERE TO NOW?—Grim, pipe-smoking Douglas MacArthur took time out from directing a war in Korea and his duties as top man in Japan to tell newsmen U.N. forces were insufficient in numbers to hold a line at the 38th parallel. He pointed out that there are no natural defense features anywhere near its immediate proximity.

MEAT MAKERS—A big man in a pearl-gray ten-gallon hat stiffened, turned purple, and brought his polished boots from desk to floor with a crash: "This is the most outlandish thing those fools in Washington ever thought up," he exploded.

President Truman, vacationing at the "Little White House" at the naval base at Key West, defended his administration at a news conference. He said his staff was made up of honorable men.

VIEW OF THE GOVERNMENT'S attempt to hold down inflation and to regulate prices was not confined to his group. The automobile industry, labor, grain farmers, steel, and numerous others continued their screams. The cattlemen were just a little more colorful.

FOOD PRICES—Eric Johnston, the former fair-haired boy of the movie industry, lately turned economic stabilizer for the government, sent word to the White House he had found the way to hold down food prices.

Smiling Eric reported that the "parity extension" provision is the key to inability to keep food prices in line. So long as he and Michael DiSalle, the chubby price controller, cannot touch a food price until it gets above a "parity" that moves in a rapidly ascending spiral, they cannot control inflation.

This, Johnston said, is the heart of the problem. Unless food prices can be held and rolled back, there will be no holding wages. And if wages continue to go up, industrial prices and "parity" will keep on climbing and the economy will be torn apart.

Johnston has about as much chance of getting congress to repudiate parity as he would of getting Iowa to stop growing corn. Nevertheless, he recommended: (1) A change in the "parity exemption" provision of the present law; (2) authority to use subsidies to hold prices in line; (3) extended licensing powers; (4) adequate authority to handle labor disputes.

THE HOT SEAT—The hottest spot in the U.S. the past several weeks has been the witness chair at the senate crime investigating committee's hearing in New York. Occupying that seat has been gambling kingpin Frank Costello and handsome William O'Dwyer, former mayor of New York, now U.S. ambassador to Mexico.

The committee was trying to prove that Costello controls a gambling syndicate that reaches to the Main Streets of America. As for O'Dwyer, the committee wanted to know if there is any connection between gambling and big-time politicians in New York.

The hot seat really got hot when Senator Tobey, balding and acid-tongued member of the committee, asked O'Dwyer why such a "prominent man" as he should trot to the home of Costello to ask his advice and counsel.

O'Dwyer said he was carrying out an army assignment, adding, "They say there's a lot of it (bookmaking) in New Hampshire." "Well, we haven't a Costello in New Hampshire," Tobey roared. "I wonder," O'Dwyer retorted, adding that Tobey had sent to New York for campaign funds.

"It's not true," Tobey shouted. "I'm under oath," O'Dwyer bristled. "You're not." To which Tobey roared, "I'm not a four-flusher." All of which provided 15,000,000 television fans with a spectacular show, putting soap operas to shame. What it provided in the way of facts concerning gambling in the U.S. is anybody's guess.

POLITICS—The 1952 presidential campaign was again in the news with a published report that President Truman made a deal with General Eisenhower to make Ike available in 1952. According to the story, widely published throughout the U.S., the President told Ike that one Harry Truman did not want to be accused of exiling a potential powerful contender for the honors of the White House. The general, in way, attempted to kill the story. His statement said "The President has never mentioned to me any political possibilities of 1952 whatsoever."

That should have been that, but rumors persist that Eisenhower will be available in 1952 to one of the major parties. As things stand now it would appear he could win hands down.

RENT CONTROL—A 90-day extension of the rent control law was passed by the house after heated debate. The measure already has been enacted by the senate. It was sent to the White House where the President was expected to sign it without delay. It becomes effective April 1 and expires June 30.

House members pushing the measure argued decontrol would interfere with recruiting workers for defense production and lift limits in defense and military districts.

CROP PROSPECTS 1951 Production May Set New Record With a break in the weather, American crop production in 1951 may set a record, but whether the peak output is the answer to spiraling food prices is the big question, even for the nation's farmers. One favorable trend is the growing number of beef cattle and hogs, sources of a major item in the country's diet. Cattle numbers are now at 84,200,000 head, compared

CHILDREN AT WORSHIP Children Learn Responsibility By Holding Own Church Services

The town of Milton, Mass., is the site of America's only children's church, run by and for children. Each Sunday morning the bell of the little colonial building calls eighty young members of the Children's Church of the First Parish Unitarian church to services. A tiny, blond child with a solemn gaze toddles up to a miniature altar, clutching a taper in both hands. Teetering back and forth on her thin legs, she lights the altar candles. One of the "elders" of the church, a 15-year-old girl, quietly walks to the organ and stretches her fingers over the keys as a cue

The doll-house-size "Children's Church" at Milton, Mass., is the first church in the country founded exclusively for children. They sing their hymns, read the scripture and conduct their own prayers. Above the youthful choir files out of its own church, headed for its parent church where the young people sometimes sing for special services.

Star Dust STAGE-SCREEN-RADIO

By INEZ GERHARD SUSAN PETERS must be very tired of hearing that the way she has carried on since she was crippled in that hunting accident is wonderful; any actress could be proud of her career. Not content with success on the screen, she has made numerous radio appearances, toured the country in two plays, and now has added a television serial, "Miss Susan", to her schedule, (on NBT-TV weekday afternoons). That involves lengthy rehearsals as well as the actual performances. Miss Peters plays a young lawyer, and is supported by an excellent cast, headed by Mark Roberts, Helen Ray, Kathryn Grill, Joseph Foley and Robert Pike.

Eddie Cantor is indulging again in his favorite occupation—raising money for a worthy cause. He has been knighted as the first "Cancer Crusader", heading the American Cancer Society's annual campaign, in April. Called the world's greatest fund raiser (he sold $43,000,000 worth of war bonds), he has also originated many slogans, including the March of Dimes.

Evelyn Varden, radio mother of "Young Dr. Malone", who was acclaimed for her performance as the southern aristocrat in "Pinky", is featured as the nurse in the production of "Romeo and Juliet" starring Olivia de Havilland. When it opened recently in New York dramatic critics agreed that Miss de Havilland looked very beautiful, were less enthusiastic about her talents.

"Behave Yourself" can hardly escape being a good picture. William Demarest and Lon Chaney have been added to the cast supporting Shelley Winters and Farley Granger, and the famous James Wong Howe is the cameraman.

for the choir to start assembling its dignity. There may not be much technical perfection to the 15-voice choir with its wailing childish trebles and uncertain adolescent altos but there is immense dignity. There is the same dignity about the congregation seated in the small pews. As the majestic tones of their own Hammond organ swell up, Alice-in-Wonderland-like girls sit quietly in their pews with none of the fidgeting and giggling that often characterizes youngsters attending religious services. Solemn-faced boys pay determined attention to what is going on before them, mindful that they are present in their own church instead of that of their elders. Even the five-year olds are conscious of the dignity of their position in this, their own religious world.

Children from 5 to 15 years old lead the hymns, read the scripture and conduct their own prayers. The only adult taking part is Mrs. Edyth Stonestret, minister of this miniature congregation for the past nine years.

THE CHILDREN'S CHURCH was the idea of the late wife of the Rev. Vivian Pomeroy, who is pastor of the First Parish Unitarian church, attended by the children's parents. Mrs. Pomeroy believed children should have a service they could understand and enjoy, one that would be their very own. She was instrumental in having an abandoned schoolhouse moved to the church grounds adjoining the adult church in 1937.

An entry way, steeple, window shutters and paint were added to transform it into the diminutive house of worship. Everything about it is scaled to children's size.

The children begin their service in the larger church next door where the Rev. Pomeroy delivers a children's sermon but that is the end of their time in the adult religious world. Immediately after the sermon, they file quietly out to their own small church where they take over. It's not a game with them. It is a very serious matter and each of the 80 members reflects his satisfaction with the arrangement in his feeling of responsibility about the conduct of his church.

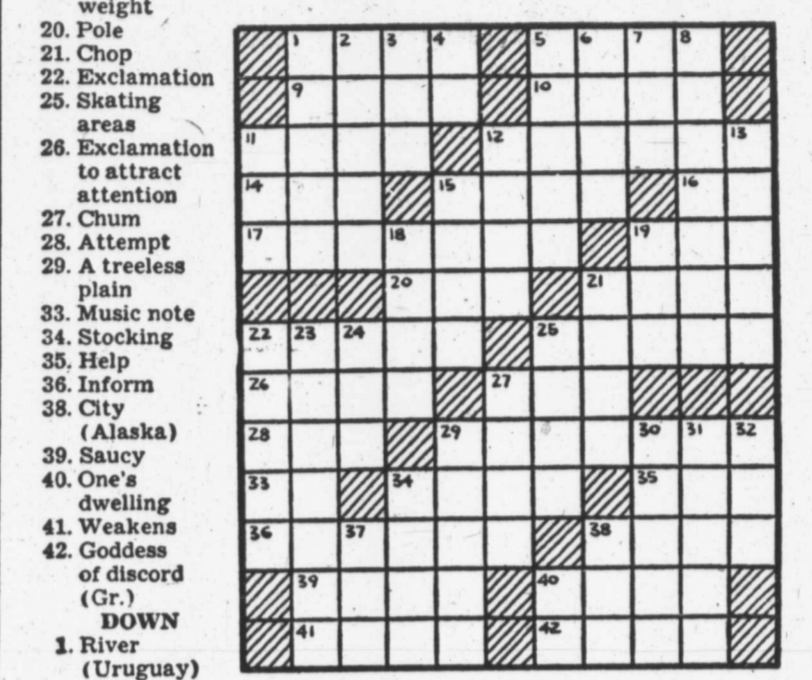

GRASSROOTS Our Posterity May Have To Repudiate Huge Debts

By Wright A. Patterson THE PRESENT DECADE is destined to go down as the most profligate in our history. In Washington, the halls of congress and in the executive departments, there is talk only of economies, but it is all talk and no action. The President talks an excellent line of economy. He tells congress to spend less on home projects, and then recommends new ways and places for appropriations. Congress talks much about the need for economies, and then votes all and more than the President has asked. It results in a merry-go-round of tax, and tax, and tax, and spend, and spend. In the end, we are destined not to pay as we go, but to build up more national indebtedness for our children, through several generations to pay, or possibly, to repudiate. We are traveling the road to national bankruptcy, with no one willing to apply the brakes.

Congress insists it will cut the President's budget by as much as seven billions, the President dares congress to cut it by so much as one dollar. And the chances are that instead of cutting, congress will, by the end of the session, through the needless items provided for in the usual "pork" bill, add more millions or billions. For many years, through "pork" appropriations we have attempted what we have termed flood control without any perceptible approach to actual accomplishment, and we will have similar appropriations at

THE FICTION CORNER DIFFERENT LANGUAGE

By Richard H. Wilkinson

SHORTLY BEFORE noon on the day the Garrisons left Laredo for Mexico City, their motor went dead. Mrs. Garrison was greatly disturbed. "Of all places!" she said, "to have this happen. I declare, you should have had the car looked at in Laredo."

"I did," said Mr. Garrison. His voice was muffled because his head was beneath the hood. But Mrs. Garrison was a paying no attention anyhow. She was gazing about the wild, rugged, treeless country in which they had stopped, as if expecting Pancho Villa and a horde of vicious looking henchmen to rise up from behind a rock. Five horsemen suddenly appeared outlined against the sky on the crest of a nearby hill.

Mrs. Garrison let out a squeak of fright. Into her mind there flashed stories of the roving bands of outlaws that inhabited the hills of Mexico. Mrs. Garrison lifted a grease-battered face and stared at the horsemen. Then he looked at his wife and saw that her cheeks were white. "Rubbish!" he said. "No need to be scared." But his own heartbeats had increased in volume.

The horsemen were coming down the hill. Mrs. Garrison had a wild impulse to flee. She could see the leader of the quintet and his appearance confirmed her fears. Just as the stories had said, he was dark and handsome and oily. The leader of the group doffed his hat and said something in Spanish that neither of the Garrisons understood. They regarded each other with frightened looks. One of the henchmen dismounted and proceeded to examine the car. "They're wondering if it's worth anything," Mrs. Garrison said. "It isn't," Mr. Garrison told her. There followed a rapid jargon of speech between the riders. Presently two of them uncoiled ropes and attached the ends to the automobile's bumper. It was quite evident that they planned to tow the thing away, and the Garrisons were congratulating themselves on escaping with their lives, when the leader signed to them to enter the vehicle. Mrs. Garrison shrieked and clung to her husband. "They're going to kidnap us. Oh, Lord, have mercy!" Mr. Garrison was more practical. "I doubt if they harm us if we do what they say. If we don't—they might cut off our ears."

"My father," she said in perfect English, "regrets that he does not speak your language."

Thus having set his wife's mind at rest, he preceded her into the car and sat behind the wheel. AN HOUR LATER they turned into a side road and presently the car stopped before a great rambling ranch house. The prisoners were ordered to alight. A wizened, copper-colored Mexican unloaded their handbags and led them inside and to a bedroom. "Not bad for a kidnaper's hide-out," Mr. Garrison commented. "It will probably take every cent we have to pay the ransom. They won't let us go until we pay."

Some one knocked at their door and they both started. But it was the same wizened servant. He beckoned to them and they followed him out and along the corridor and into a dining room. The leader of the kidnappers was waiting for them. The Garrisons were hungry and so they ate. By the time the meal was finished all hands felt pretty gay. Footsteps sounded on the porch, and a young girl entered. At sight of the Garrisons, she hesitated, but their host greeted her warmly, and beckoned her to him. There followed a jargon of speech between the man and girl. The girl's face suddenly lighted and she looked at the Garrisons.

"My father," she said in perfect English, "regrets that he does not speak your language. But he trusts you have been made comfortable and will stay with him a few days. He has many American friends and whenever the chance offers he likes to extend them the hospitality of his home. He tells me that your car has been repaired and is waiting." Mr. and Mrs. Garrison looked at each other. Mrs. Garrison said: "Oh, my! Just imagine! Do let's stay here." And Henry said: "O. K." And for no accountable reason he grinned and felt tenderly of his ears.

THE READER'S DATE BOOK 'Planting Time' Will Promote Public Interest in Home Garden

An annual program to promote public interest in home gardening, to be known as "Planting Time", has been endorsed by the American horticultural council and is now seeking the cooperation of all American horticultural organizations in its observance.

The purpose is to enable horticultural organizations, garden clubs, garden writers, magazines, newspapers, seedmen, nurserymen, and all others interested in arousing public interest in home gardening, and instructing amateurs in this art, to act in unison and to increase their effectiveness. National Garden Week (April 16-22) was one of the first of the many "national weeks" now more or less publicized. Its observance, however, was handicapped by the fact that no single week can be selected which is timely for gardening activity throughout this great country. National Garden Week never obtained general acceptance and has now been almost forgotten. The need for united action in focusing public interest in the home towns of the nation on gardening is generally felt, however, and the plan for "Planting Time" is proposed to fill this need while avoiding the difficulties which handicapped National Garden Week. "Planting Time" will not be limited to a week. The dates suggested are only the beginning of activity which will last all summer.

On the basis of U.S. department of agriculture records, the country is divided into five zones, in each of which the average date of the last killing frost in spring is approximately the same.

One month before this date is selected as the time for "Planting Time" in that zone. Seeds of hardy varieties may be sown; hardy plants may be transplanted; tender varieties may be started under protection, and merchants of garden goods should make these available to their customers.

Since it is impractical to say "Planting Time" starts in certain state or locality on a given date, only general regions can be outlined.

In the deep south, for instance, the home gardener should begin preparations for plants as early as January 1. From there the season advances until planting dates of the great midwest belt are moved up to February and March. In the northern states the dates advance from March into April. All depending, of course, on local conditions.

When spring begins, the urge to plant is universal. This urge "Planting Time" seeks to encourage so the home-towners of the nation can beautify their homes, improve the family health, reduce the cost of living, and strengthen the national defense.

April 15-21 is Noise Abatement Week, designed principally for better relations between neighbors in the home towns of the nation. Here are a number of questions that illustrate whether you are a "noise illiterate":

IMMIGRANT WORKERS Displaced Persons Are Available For Work on Farms of the Nation

By JOHN W. GIBSON Chairman, Displaced Persons Commission Tenants and workers for American farms are available among the displaced persons and expellees eligible for entry into the United States under the amended displaced persons act.

Displaced persons are people uprooted by war and aggression. They have no homes. They have little hope. Displaced persons are the concern of the United Nations. Expellees are people of German origin, called expellees because they were forced to flee from eastern European countries by the Communists.

To facilitate the recruitment of such farm labor the displaced persons commission on March 9 sent six American county agents and farm specialists to Germany to interview, select and certify farm families and have them available for immigration to the United States as soon as employment assurances have been received from sponsors. This is part of a larger plan to recruit both skilled and farm labor from among these immigrants for Workers Must Undergo Strict Screening Each immigrant farm worker undergoes strict screening before entering the United States. He must have a sponsor—a citizen of the U.S. The sponsor must (1) assure a job at prevailing wages in the community and without displacing another from employment; (2) assure adequate housing without displacing another; (3) assure that the displaced person or expellee and his family will not become public charges; and (4) provide transportation from the port of entry to the place of resettlement in the United States. On his part, the displaced person or expellee must sign a good faith oath in which he agrees to abide by the employment offer. He is also given to understand that he will be deported for misrepresentation in any connection with this oath.

WOMAN'S WORLD

Spring Permanents Will Cut Summer Grooming Task

By Erita Haley

NOWS THE TIME to do something about your hair, before the heat is here in earnest, and the humidity makes you feel too tired to do something constructive.

There's time to acquire a new and becoming style, to get or give yourself a permanent, and to practice managing a new style so your hair can be at its very best. Do it now, and you'll have one less grooming and beauty problem for the summer months.

If you've ever gone through the summer with a wilted head of hair that soon becomes the bane of your existence with its stringiness, its lack of easy management, you'll realize the importance of getting it into training now.

Then, too, if you haven't changed the style of your hair-do since slightly longer hair came into being, it's high time you took your head into competent hands, your own or a professional's. You may have your curls, or a softly tapered look, you may have bangs, or a hair-do that sweeps to the side, a chignon that gives you dignity, or anything that makes you feel prettier and more glamorous.

You'll want to look your prettiest, too, comes the long-awaited vacation.

Wind hair around finger...

If you make beauty preparations now, you'll have the routine set easily as well as the advantage of preparations that will make you look your very best.

If the hair is not in condition, then spend a week or two getting it groomed for a permanent. Banish the split ends, bring life and luster to your locks with a nightly brushing that's thorough and stimulating, get oil treatments to help along any dryness that may have appeared, and your hair will soon shine like a halo in its new beauty.

Healthy Hair Points Up Style of Coiffure

Neither personalized and well-styled hair nor the best available permanent can do something for your hair if its condition is poor. Well-kept hair on the other hand will do more than can possibly be imagined for any style or permanent.

Hair which is too dry and split at the ends will benefit from scalp massage, brushing and some oil treatments. The latter may be given at home, or they may be sought professionally.

Only hair which offers just as many problems in its own way, as dry hair, will do well with frequent shampooing. Be certain to get it somewhat more towards normal in condition before you attempt styling or a permanent.

Lack-luster hair will benefit from exercising the scalp by means of massage, as well as daily brushing. You can do much to bringing it back to life with simple treatments faithfully followed.

King and Queen Need More Jack

By H. I. Phillips

"King George is finding it so hard to live on what he gets that the Government is going to take some of the expenses off his hands and give him a raise."—News Item

Queen.—George, I just can't cut down much more; things are so high.

King.—You've just got to, my dear, and so have I. The high cost of living knocks a frightful hole in my $1,148,000 a year in revenues and privy purse.

Queen.—Why don't you ask for a raise?

King.—I did, but you know how a King feels about mentioning money these days.

Queen.—Everybody everywhere has been demanding wage raises. You haven't asked for one since we were married.

King.—I have to be careful, honey. If other people don't get a raise they can go on strike, stage demonstrations and break windows. You and I couldn't do that.

Queen.—A strange look in her eyes.—How I'd love to break a window sometime. Why should the common people have all the fun?

King.—We shall have to scrimp a little on household expenses.

Queen.—Don't look at me. What about you economizing?

King.—I've laid up the large coach-and-four for the season, and a new Stone of Scone can wait. Couldn't you save on phone bills, heat and light?

Queen.—If you expect me, the Queen of England, to go around turning off lights and radiators, George, you're crazy.

Pin Curl Permanent

If you want to give yourself an easy permanent that yields a very soft, natural looking wave, set the hair in pin curls, as you would after shampooing. Apply waving lotion, process, then neutralize. This method saves winding the hair on curlers as well as re-setting after the permanent.

For hot weather it's advisable to choose a style which is easily managed. Choose something which will take well in its stride—swimming, tennis, golf or in whatever sport you engage. Remember, too, that the weather is going to be warm, and you don't want to fuss constantly with a coiffure that's elaborate enough to need this kind of attention.

The style of your clothes and hats may help determine the coiffure, too, but mainly it's a problem of fitting hair to your type face. At any rate choose something that will make you more attractive than usual, and it will be a happier you who looks from the mirror when shining, alive hair is put in place.

Give Permanent a Chance

You can give yourself a permanent in the not so busy after-dinner hours, while you're sewing, mending or doing any of the odd jobs that come up for attention. It's a simple and easy process, and the secret to success lies in following directions. Paste or tape these directions to your mirror before you start, or prop them on the dressing table on a surface which is handy to the mirror.

Flatten to head for pin curls.

Before you actually start the permanent, have in mind just what will transpire. You might even try underlining the important points with a bright crayon so that you can find them at a glance while you're busy winding, saturizing or neutralizing.

Just as with a professional permanent, clean hair is a prerequisite of every permanent. Any dirt or excess oil in the hair interferes with the action of the waving lotion. Two good sudsings and a thorough clear water rinse will leave the hair clean and ready for a wave.

Parting off correctly sized curl blocks is important so that the curl all around the head will be smooth and even. Too much hair in the curlers results in bunched curls which it will be difficult to smooth properly on the head. With too much hair in each curl, you'll also find that waving lotion and neutralizer cannot penetrate properly.

Timing is important for it may vary from permanent to permanent as the condition of the hair is a guide to how long it needs to be processed. Take the test curls as specified, and never go over the amount of time for your type of hair.

Blot off any excess waving lotion before applying the neutralizer. It's possible to over-wave, but not to over-neutralize, so allow proper time for the latter.

Pin Curl Permanent Gives Natural Wave

Those with fine, soft hair would do best to give themselves a nice firm curl which results from winding the hair on the curlers. Those with more body in their hair and who like a very soft, easily managed wave will like the new pin curl permanent.

The time to give one of these permanents is shortened from the other process since it eliminates the wind-

Indecency Has Become Pastime

WHEN I WAS A LITTLE GIRL there was a thing called modesty. It had its mawkish, prudish, even prurient side perhaps, but this wasn't the main side. The main side was reticence and—what shall I call it?—coverage. Girls kept their bosoms and their legs and their armpits and their ankles concealed from the public view.

They did not read notoriously unclean books or exchange notoriously filthy jokes. They did not use blasphemy, or refer filipantly to a rather large group of subjects termed "sacred."

References to physical conditions were confined to the ears of doctors, or to a comfortable family circle of mother, daughters, aunts, grandmothers. Pregnancy, though always a popular and exciting topic, was regarded as a matter of some delicacy; mixed groups of young men and women did not laughingly challenge each other to debate it. Such chatter as is heard today was unknown: "Jen says Tom's crazy for one; she won't. I think you're terrible not to have another. Connie, Fran says that as soon as they're home she's thinking of having one."

50 Years Ago

Young wives 50 years ago did not relate in detail to their intimates everything that went on in their own apartments. Young women and girls did not eagerly exchange books that plunge to the very roots and elaborate upon the most frightful abnormalities of human living. Every corner drugstore did not display among all the who-dun-its, the westerns, the dictionaries and Bibles, those sinister, filthy little volumes whose contents drip like

Send me a postcard if you feel as I do; all you need for address is my name and my post office, Saratoga, Calif., and we will see how many thousands of us can get together, and whether we are strong enough to make ourselves heard. I'll put all the names into a stout account book, and be immensely cheered by any reports you make on what you have done, however small.

an open sewer under our children's feet and poison the very air they breathe. And 50 years ago we had no movies with their everlasting displays of dull looking (beauties walking a raised runway) before the gluttonous eyes of rows of smoking newspapermen and judges; beauties who are nine-tenths naked, and casually negligent of any displacement of that remaining tenth of coverage.

During the more than 20 years that I have been writing these articles I have rarely taken the position of crusader. Long, long ago I wrote of the futility of war—of all wars. Encouraged by more than 7,000 letters about that I lectured many, many times on the subject of peace. I never was paid for a lecture, but I did receive unexpected eggs more than once, and some remarkable offerings by mail. A pistol, and poison tablets, and notice from one great magazine group that it was done with me, forever.

But that's beside the point. Now I am crusading, in a mild way, again. I want to ask the women who feel as I do to notify their favorite movie theaters, by postcard, that they don't want any more beauty and re-setting process of most home permanents. No end papers are used since the strands of hair are simply dampened with waving lotion and rolled into a pin curl, just as you do for an "after-shampoo" set.

After all curls are wound, wet them again with the remainder of the waving lotion. No time or test curls are necessary. It takes 45 minutes for any type of hair, and after that you just start neutralizing. This process is the same as with other home permanents.

Care for Hair After Permanent

The soft, glossy appearance of the hair after permanents, both professional and home types, is not merely an accident. It's the result of healthy hair before and care after the permanent.

Brushing does more to bring back natural oils to the hair than any one single thing. This takes a bit of work, but it's easy if you split the brushing into two sessions.

They may be morning and evening sessions, or if you prefer, split the evening sessions into two parts.

Brush the hair by blocks, and get the brush close to the scalp with each stroke. In this way you assure an even exercising of the scalp with natural oil flowing to the hair.

Is belief in magic universal?

Answer: Yes, writes Dr. Geza Roheim in "Psychoanalysis and the Social Sciences." Psychoanalytic anthropology can demonstrate that regardless of training or cultural background, every individual and every social group goes through a phase of believing in magic—in the power of a "wish," for instance.

Lift A Protest

When you come across a coarse, salacious, immoral paper-covered book, speak to the druggist. When a movie shows, as one did lately, a stupid looking man sitting immersed in a small tub of suds, and looking as bewildered and bored as was every sensible woman who saw him, drop the manager a line. Wear strapless gowns if your figure is young and flawless—not otherwise. They may look all right in the shop, but when you force that roll of 35 or 40-year-old flesh up into a collar above them, they look all wrong. Wear a sensible bathing suit, of course. But don't squeeze fabrics into the top of it and shorten the tights so that every time you move thrusts and folds of your person threaten spontaneous combustion.

Modesty is a lovely thing. But like everything else worth while it is a slow and delicate growth. You can't be careless and coarse and enjoy whispered filthy jokes and shocking freedoms in your speech and your reading until you are 35, and then turn around and drop all your associates and attempt to join any group of really fine women.

It seems to me we American mothers and grandmothers might do something about this, because indecency in these superficial ways does lead to permanent danger for the rising generation.

Slow Reduction of Weight Is Safe

By Dr. James W. Barton

DURING THE 1920's there was a wave of enthusiasm for the "boyish" figure, and reducing diets, some sensible and some dangerous, became popular. The sensible diets were those which covered a long range, many months, in fact, because physicians and over-weight patients recognized that the excess fat did not accumulate on the body in a matter of days or weeks. The dangerous reducing diets were those in which the food intake was too greatly reduced, especially proteins (meat, eggs, fish), and where thyroid extract, or drugs which reduced the desire for food, were taken.

Ozone Blanket Protects Life

Form of Oxygen Absorbs Ultra-Violet Sunlight

Washington, D.C.—New equipment for measuring the thickness of the earth's ozone blanket, upon which probably depends all life on this planet, is being tested by astrophysicists. Their equipment measures the amount of a single narrow wave band of infrared light that gets through to the earth's surface.

Despite the extreme importance of the ozone blanket, all means of measuring its thickness in the past have had serious drawbacks. The new equipment, if it performs as well as hoped, should make possible accurate ozone measurements from day to day, and possibly also indicate the height of the blanket in the atmosphere.

Ozone is a molecular form of oxygen. It is created in the upper atmosphere, 15 miles or more above the earth's surface, by the action of ultraviolet light from the sun on the molecules of ordinary atmospheric oxygen. An extremely thin layer is formed—about two to three millimeters at surface pressure.

MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

By Lawrence Gould

Should you let your son leave college?

Answer: As a rule, yes, if he seriously wants to. It is true he may be sorry later, but if he develops a real wish for further education he will find some way to get it. Meanwhile, he would get little benefit from studying if he felt that he was being forced to do it. The fact that you got a great deal out of going to college—or have always wished you could have done so—does not mean your children will feel the same way. And they should choose their careers, not for prestige, but because they are fitted for them.

Is psychoanalysis "a branch of medicine"?

Answer: Not in the belief of its originator, Dr. Sigmund Freud. It is, as he wrote, "part of psychology; not medical psychology in the old meaning of the word, nor psychology of the pathological process, but pure psychology." Medicine has used psychoanalysis in the cure of mental illness just as it uses chemistry and physics in dealing with physical ailments, but each science still has other uses and medicine has no monopoly of any of them. One need not be a physician to understand or alleviate the effects of a loveless childhood.

The Senior play, An Arizona Cowboy, will be presented April 19 at the high school gymnasium. The four-act play is a comedy-drama of the great Southwest. Three acts are staged at the exterior of the Palace Hotel, Fort Dodge, Arizona; and the fourth and last act is staged in a cave in the mountains.

The characters are: Farley Gant, the cowboy sheriff; Paul Quillian, his partner; Duke Blackshear, a stranger from Frisco; Hezekiah Bugg, a glorious liar; Yow Kee, a heathen Chinese; Big Elk, a Navajo Chief; Grizzly Grimm, a cattle thief; Marguerite Moore, the pretty ranch owner; Mrs. Petunia Bug, from old Indianny; Coralie Blackshear, Duke's sister; Fawn Afsaid, an Indian Maid; and Young'un, not much of anybody. ## Home Ec. News

We had a meeting last Wednesday at lunch period to elect the officers for next year. The nominee's names were in the paper last week, so you probably know those who were in the race. Due to lack of time, we didn't finish with the election. Partial results are as follows: President Georgia Miles; Vice President Jan Snyder; Secretary, Barbara Small; Treasurer, Dixie Templeton.

The other officers will be in later after their election.

The annual state meeting will be held May 2, 3 and 4 at Fort Worth, Georgia, Jan, Miss Scott and Mrs. H. G. Miles, club mother, will attend.

Campus Chatter

The Junior-Senior Banquet to be held Tuesday night, April 3 at 7:30 in the Lions Club building will be described in next week's Mastiff.

Thursday, April 19, the Seniors are reviving that old favorite An Arizona Cowboy. Perhaps many of you have seen this play already. We're sure that if you have, you will make a double effort to see it again.

The date has been set and plans are being made for the Father-Son Barbecue. It is to be held Tuesday, April 24, in the gym.

Junior News

Well, here it is Monday again, and it seems everyone is in good spirits. Everyone is really excited over our Junior-Senior Banquet. It is to be held tomorrow night, April 3, at the Lions Club. This will be one of the best banquets ever presented (well, we think so anyway) and we sincerely hope the Seniors will enjoy it.

This coming Saturday the Loraine track boys are to go to Hobbs to run in a track meet. We hope they bring back a lot of ribbons, and we wish them luck.

Also one of the Junior girls and others are going to Hobbs to the District Interscholastic League. We're sure that they will do very well.

There's A Church You Ought To Know

This church pleads for the restoration of the New Testament church; practices the unity of all Christians on the basis of God's Word; has no creed but Christ; and preaches no "isms."

This church seeks to present Christianity as intelligent as science, as appealing as art, as vital as the day's work, as intimate as home, and as inspiring as love.

Our Foundation—"Other foundations can no man lay than that which is laid, which is Jesus Christ."—1 Corinthians 3:11
 Our Creed—"Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God."—Matthew 16:16.

Our Rule of Faith and Practice—"Every Scripture inspired of God is also profitable for teaching, for reproof, for correction, for instruction, which is righteousness; that the man of God may be complete, furnished completely unto every good work."—II Timothy 3:16-17.

Our Invitation—"We earnestly invite the cooperation and prayers of all who endorse these principles. It is the church of Christ, where you may worship "As it is written."

Our Name—"The disciples were called Christians, first, in Antioch."—Acts 11:26. "The churches of Christ salute you."—Romans 16:16.

Our Worship—"And they continued steadfastly in the apostles' teaching and fellowship, in the breaking of bread and in prayers."—Acts 2:42.

Our Mission—"Go you therefore and make disciples of all the nations, baptizing them into the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit; teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you."—Matthew 28:19-20.

Our Prayer—"That the disciples of Christ may all be one that the world may believe God sent him."—John 17:21.

Phillies of 1951

A year ago at this date, Eddie Sawyer didn't think the Phillies would finish third. He thought his youth needed more seasoning. They finished first, barely beating the Dodgers on the last day. But if Curt Simmons hadn't been called away for army duty, Sawyer would have galloped in by five or six games. In this uncertain year of 1951, Sawyer has no Curt Simmons around. He still has Konstanty. He has Robin Roberts, one of the best pitchers in either league. He has Bubba Church, Ken Heintzelman and others. But Eddie will miss Simmons, who was about due for a 20 or maybe a 23-game season in the list of winners.

From a Home Town

Clearwater, Fla.—A nice, pleasant-looking fellow that I had never seen before came up and said hello. "Do you know why I'm here?" he asked. "Maybe the sun," I said. "Or oranges—or baseball." "No," he said. "I came down here just to see a fellow named Jim Konstanty get ready for another year. Jim is from my home town where he runs a sporting-goods store. I'd like to say that he's a big credit to any town or city or to any game.

"He is something more than a pitcher who could run in 74 games—practically a game every other day all season long. Jim is something more than a fellow with a rubber arm. He's a gentleman and a great human being." In watching Jim Konstanty work out, the most impressive feature of his pitching is the ease and smoothness of his form. There is no sign of extra effort in sight. John McGraw once said that Bugs Raymond had the finest pitching motion he ever saw. I'll settle for Walter Johnson or Grover Alexander, and Dizzy Dean wasn't far away.

Football Outlook

With her past 30-year record, Notre Dame can stand a season or two below the top.

There will be a big scattering of stars this season from many teams. Michigan loses Ortman, Dufek and Kocinski. This is 80 per cent of her ball club. Plus Wahl, Ohio State loses a flock and so does California, which is getting a trifle fed up with Rose Bowl assignments. Red Sanders returns a good nucleus at U.C.L.A. and will definitely be the man to watch on the West Coast. Coaches at Texas, T.C.U., Oklahoma and S.M.U. needn't worry.

How Sin Begins

Lesson for April 8, 1951

NO ONE can believe in sin who does not believe in God. That is, no one can believe that sin is real unless he believes that God is real. For the meaning of sin is religious; it cannot be understood at all, apart from God. For sin means going contrary to the will of God. Sin may not consist of "doing" anything, of course; it may be only wishing or thinking a sin against God; or it may be refusing to do, or neglecting to do, what God wants done.

A thing is not right just because God wills it; he could not, by a mere proclamation, make murder good and mother-love wicked. But God never wills a thing unless it is right, or forbids it unless it is wrong; one reason for this is that he is creator of all, and so knows what is best for every creature. To go against his will is to go against one's own best interest.

Sin on the Outside

HOW does sin begin? The Bible says sin has been on this earth as long as people have lived here. But the story of the temptation in the Garden of Eden is also a parable of how sin always begins. As Dr. Brunner says, Adam's other name is Everyman.

Now we can see in this story that sin came into the world because there came a suggestion from the outside. Not everything in this universe is now good; there is anti-God at work, as well as pro-God. There are forces at work that do not wish God's plans to succeed.

If this seems hard to take, at least it cannot be denied that a great many sins would never have been committed without some pull from the outside. A child who goes to school for the first time will pick up, in a few days, habits and language and attitudes that shock the parents. They wonder what's got into the child. Her playmates' meanness has got into her, that's the nub of it.

Sin on the Inside

BUT the fact is, we can't blame the situation as if the situation were the sinner. Not every one who passes a bar-room door feels an urge to go inside. Once in a while a bank clerk skips out with a suitcase full of the bank's money. But the money was there all the time, and no other clerk became a thief.

If it were simply the situation that makes the sin, then every bank clerk would be as dishonest as the worst, and every man who passes a bar would not pass it but go inside and get drunk just like the bums who can't pass a bar-room door.

No, there is something on the inside of us that pushes toward sin. What is it? The story in Genesis may offer a good clue. One of the New Testament writers put it this way: "A man's temptation is due to the pull of his own inward desires, which can be enormously attractive." (James 1:14, J. B. Phillips translation.)

Sin Beforehand

THERE is another sad feature of sin that stands out in the Genesis story and in the story of Everyman. That is, sin almost never looks the same afterwards as it did before.

Before the sin, Eve sees the forbidden fruit as beautiful and desirable; afterwards in shame she hides away from God. Living with herself, with her husband, with God, is no longer the pleasure it had been. However sad or horrible sin may look when we see it in the cold light of afterwards, when we see it beforehand it always looks attractive.

In the last stages of sin, to be sure, it may be quite different; a man may be caught in the grip of a habit he hates, and no one can call him worse names than he calls himself. But in the beginnings of sin, few if any persons see anything repulsive about it. They see it as attractive.

That is why "I do as I please" is a fatally bad rule for living. If you do as you please, sooner or later you will please wrong, and down you will go. Adam and Eve did exactly as they pleased, and lost their Paradise. But if we take as our rule of life what God prescribes, even if we never reach perfection, we shall always be pointing in the right direction.

Serve Pork Roast for Savory Dinner

(See Recipes Below)
Economical Pork Dinners

PORK HAS ALWAYS been a favorite meat on American tables. Among the meats available, it's also an economical one, whether for a special family dinner or a company favorite.

Scientists in the field of nutrition now point out, too, that pork is a rich source of the important vitamin B1, as well as other nutrients.

In buying pork, thrifty homemakers will find that steaks cut from the shoulder offer a real bargain. These have a good proportion of fat and lean, and very little bone, and they are tender and delicious. They are cooked like pork chops, that is in moist heat, slowly and until well done.

Blade pork steaks are cut from the Boston butt, the upper part of the shoulder. Each steak contains a portion of the blade bone.

THERE IS a seemingly endless variety of delicious ways of preparing pork steaks, all following the one basic method. But variety can be given by the use of different flavors in the liquid, and of different vegetables or fruits used with the meat. Here are suggestions, to add to your repertory.

Pork Steaks and Sweet Potatoes (Serves 4)
 2 pork shoulder steaks, cut thick
 1 can crushed pineapple
 3 medium-sized sweet potatoes
 1/2 cup brown sugar
 Salt and pepper

Place the pineapple in a baking dish. Cook sweet potatoes in boiling salted water until tender. Peel and slice sweet potatoes and arrange in a baking dish over the pineapple. Sprinkle with brown sugar. Season pork steaks with salt and pepper and place on top of sweet potatoes. Cover and cook in a moderate oven (350°) for 45 minutes, then remove cover and cook for 15 minutes longer, or until the steaks are nicely browned.

Spanish Pork Shoulder Steaks
 Shoulder steaks
 2 tablespoons flour
 2 tablespoons lard
 1 small onion
 1 cup tomatoes
 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
 Salt and pepper

Dredge pork steaks in flour and brown in hot lard. Slice onions over them, add tomatoes and season with Worcestershire sauce, salt and pepper. Cover and cook slowly until the steaks are done, about 45 minutes for medium.

"Stuffed Cushion-Style Pork Roast"
 Cushion-style pork roast
 Salt
 Pepper
 Apple-Raisin stuffing

The cushion-style pork roast is made by boning the fresh Boston butt or the fresh picnic, and sewing the edges together to make a pocket for stuffing.

Season the shoulder, inside and out, with salt and pepper and fill the pocket with Apple-Raisin stuffing. Sew or skewer open side. Place roasts on a rack in an open roasting

Bathing Suits Cause Crisis In Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—Like a good many other cities throughout the United States this spring, Milwaukee was greatly concerned over what constituted "proper, decent and adequate covering of the female body."

Unlike other cities, however, Milwaukee's concern made the newspapers and became, in some degree, national property.

It all started with the request of Chief John W. Polyn from the city attorney for a ruling on what was proper bathing attire.

Two things brought on the unusual request. One, summer was just around the corner and that meant bathing suits of the French type would soon appear on Milwaukee beaches; and two, it was anticipated that competition among strip teasers might reach a point where

Arbiter of Morals
 Well, anyway, the assistant city attorney wrote the chief an opinion in which he suggested the "man on the street" be questioned as to what he thinks of brevity in feminine attire.

The assistant city attorney declared, "The test must be how far the community has gone in the acceptance of strip tease shows and French type bathing suits."

"Not wishing to set myself up as an arbiter of morals and having insufficient knowledge of what norm the community has reached, I should hesitate to give a definite opinion on how much clothing a woman's body should have," he wrote.

The assistant attorney went on to say that a model appearing before a class of art students may be in her birthday suit, but that is considered art.

As to strip tease shows, he said, the test is whether the show "is aimed at exciting the desires of a normal person to the point of depravity."

How Moral Is Milwaukee
 The chief said police had received complaints about "the scarcity of clothing bordering on indecency worn by some female entertainers."

The assistant city attorney suggested that if shows appear to be indecent, police can issue cleanup orders backed by disorderly conduct warrants.

But the whole problem, he reported, still simmers down to the question: How moral is Milwaukee?

"In the absence of a statutory definition of the word 'obscene' we may assume that it must mean the present critical point in the compromise between candor and shame at which the community has arrived."

Other cities throughout the country have been discussing the same problem. A Milwaukee wit, however, made light of the entire problem with the verse:
 Mother, may I go out to swim?
 Yes, my darling daughter,
 But check the police if you have a whim.
 To wear what you hadn't oughter

Former Russian Slave Laborer Tells of Horrors

CINCINNATI—If those who advocate communism for the United States could live in Russia for a few years and get to know the actual conditions they would quickly change their minds, Mrs. Katherine Reitenbach asserts.

Mrs. Reitenbach, who recently arrived in Cincinnati to make her home after five years as a slave laborer in Russian coal mines, says Americans would find it hard to believe the true conditions of that country.

She was born in the United States but moved to Germany with her parents when she was a child. In 1944, when she was living in Yugoslavia, she was taken by the Russians, along with many other German and Hungarian girls, to work in Russia.

In the first labor camp to which she was sent, there were 900 workers, most of whom had been informed they were to stay only a month or two, but the work period dragged into years.

Mrs. Reitenbach said the workers were paid, but they had to produce a set amount of coal to get their pay and then had to give most of it back for their food, which was poor and often consisted of a watery cabbage soup.

Sanitation was bad and many workers incurred scarlet and typhoid fevers.

Women and elderly men do most of the work in the Soviet Union, she said. Men of the Communist party are often assigned to one town for a little while and then moved on. For that reason there is little family life. Homes consist usually of just one room with only a chair, bed and stove.

She said she was informed that there would be world-wide communism, perhaps by 1952, and then be full realization of Communist objectives. Under that plan, everything would be free and workers would receive no pay, because there would be nothing to buy, she said.

Released last November, she went to Germany and then came to the United States to live with her brother.

Man Who Tried to Give Away $1,000,000 Dies

LE MAR, Iowa.—Back in 1948, Herman Schultz offered to give away 42 farms valued at a million dollars because "you can't take it with you." Schultz died recently at the age of 77.

The farms were located in Iowa, South Dakota, Nebraska and Minnesota. He gave 15 to relatives and friends. But before he could give away the rest he was robbed of $124,000 in May, 1948, and again in May, 1949.

This caused him to lose faith in human nature he said. He added, "Well you can't take it with you and I've found there is more pleasure in pursuit than in possession. I'd give the whole million dollars, though, if I could just take 30 years off my age. I really enjoy living and I've had lots of fun amassing this fortune."

Run-Away Mules Rot Uninvited Bury Pickers

MT. CARMEL, Md.—Ray Crawford was dusting an onion crop, a very unexciting job—that is until the dusting machine caught fire.

After that things began to happen so fast Ray couldn't keep up with them. Two mules were pulling the duster and their tails caught on fire. The animal reared and took off. Ray jumped clear.

George Jenkins, owner of the farm, went out to check up and found the duster smashed against a tree, one mule that would be out of action for several days with a scorched afterdeck, one mule only slightly damaged, and three women in his strawberry patch.

Ancient Pentagon

The Palace of Minos on the ancient island of Crete had more rooms than most modern skyscrapers. It was inhabited by about 100,000 persons and included store-houses, offices, court-rooms, chapels, schoolrooms, libraries, soldiers' barracks, coach houses, wine shops, and an inn for strangers.

Hidden Jibe

Humpty Dumpty, in the famous nursery rhyme by that name, was represented by their parents to 13th century English children, as "an egg." The rhyme was intended as a jibe at King John, who was compelled to sign the Magna Charta at Runnymede, June 15, 1215.

Doctors say many other laxatives, taken in large doses, start their "laxative" action too soon... right in the stomach where they often flush away nourishing food you need for pep and energy! You feel weak, tired.

But gentle FEEN-A-MINT is different! Taken as recommended, it works chiefly in the lower bowel—removes only waste, not good food! You avoid that weak feeling—YOU feel fine, full of life! Old FEEN-A-MINT, 25c, 50c, or only 10¢.

Don't suffer longer with these discomforts if reduced kidney function is getting you down—due to such common causes as stress and strain, over-exertion or exposure to cold. ### Questions and Answers

Q. Could I take two correspondence courses under the GI Bill at the same time, each in a different field?

A. No. You may pursue only one correspondence course at a time. Under certain conditions, however, the "course" may consist of more than one subject prescribed or recommended by the correspondence school.

Q. I intend to go to a VA hospital for a medical examination, which I need as evidence of good health for National Service Life Insurance purposes. I understand the examination will be given free, but will VA pay my way to and from the hospital?

A. No. Generally, you must pay travel expenses made in connection with a medical examination for insurance purposes. The only condition under which VA would pay the bill would be if VA specifically ordered you to report to the hospital for such an examination.

A. No. However, if you meet eligibility requirements for GI Bill training, you may take your training under that law.

The Sportsman's Club counts more than 500 members from Colorado City and the West Texas area, and has recently completed a clubhouse with large screened-in porch, which is located on 30 acres of land leased by the club.
