Samnorwood Future Farmers won the Area I senior chapter conducting contest in Plainview Saturday, Nov. 18 and will participate in the state contest in Huntsville Saturday, Dec. 2.

Coached by John Dwyer, vocational agriculture instructor, the team scored 977 points out of a possible 1000. They were 40 points ahead of the second place team, Groom, which scored 937.

This is the fifth time Dwyer has taken a chapter conducting team to the state contest. Twice his teams placed first, once they were second, and once fourth.

Promotion and Transfer to Two SCS Men

The promotion and transfer of two members of the Wellington unit of Soil Conservation Service was announced this week by Fred Squyres, work unit conservationist. The two are Doug Johnson and Frank Wheeler.

Johnson, engineer, is being transferred to Terrell, where he will serve as engineer for five work units.

He, with Mrs. Johnson and their two small children, Janice and Jimmy, will leave Nov. 26. Johnson was here for four years and is returning to the home town of both he and his wife. He was graduated from Texas A&M College in 1955 and served almost two years in the Navy.

Wheeler, who came here as a trainee, moved recently to Canadian as a soil scientist. He was with the local office for about a year, and was graduated from Texas A&M in 1960.

He and Mrs. Wheeler have a small daughter. Prior to coming here, Wheeler was at San Angelo.

South Baptists at Dodson Plans 50th Anniversary

South Baptist Church in Dodson will observe the fiftieth anniversary of its founding with services beginning on Saturday night, Nov. 25, and continuing through Sunday afternoon.

These services will recall other years of the church, as well as look to its future. Several former pastors and a number of early members will return, according to Edwin Crowder.

The Rev. Harold Hulsey is pastor.

The guest preacher at the Sunday morning service will be the Rev. Bill Hendricks, professor of theology at Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, Fort Worth, and a former pastor of the church.

Opening the anniversary celebration will be the service at 7:30 p.m. Saturday. Several former song leaders of the church will be present to lead the congregation in singing. Among them will be S. A. Welch of Lubbock and Ted Parker.

THESE, AND 2,500 MORE HOLIDAY DINNERS

These are only a small part of the county's largest turkey flock this year, 2,500 owned by Jones Singley, and raised in pens at the home of Mrs. Oleta Burquist south of town. Unafraid of the big birds—some weighing 40 pounds—is Adelle Burquist, who has watched them grow from day-old poults. Singley sold 1,100 hens to Parsons Feed and Supply, in Glendale, Ark., for breeding stock. The toms are going for Thanksgiving and Christmas market. Singley, local elevator owner and feed dealer, bought the turkey poults April 28.

Wellington Leader Invites Letters to Santa Claus

Within a few days, the mails will be bulging with letters to that most popular of all gentlemen, Santa Claus.

The Wellington Leader will serve as receiving station for those letters again this year.

Each letter to Santa that is received will be printed in the Christmas issue of The Wellington Leader, then sent on to the North Pole.

Every child in Collingsworth county and the entire Wellington trade area is eligible to send in a letter, as well as boys and girls who formerly lived here and now reside in some other town.

Attend Irish C-C Banquet

A group representing the Collingsworth Chamber of Commerce attended the annual banquet of the Shamrock C-C Tuesday evening, Nov. 21.

Guest speaker was Marshall Willis, director of advertising and publicity of El Paso Gas Company, whose subject was "Ten Dog Nite in the West."

Going were Judge and Mrs. Luther Gribble, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sullivan, Dr. and Mrs. Chas. B. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Sullivan, Mrs. Dudley McMillin, Mrs. Lola Roark, Mrs. Wayne Cudd, Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Bratten, Mr. and Mrs. John Coleman, George Shadid and N. M. Higdon.

Havana Surgeon to Tell of Communism

The story of how communism came to Cuba will be told in Wellington Thursday night, Nov. 30, by a Havana surgeon, now living in Lubbock. Dr. Leon F. Hirzel, Jr., will speak at the community building under sponsorship of a group of Wellington organizations, with the meeting to begin at 7:30 p.m.

Earlier in the day, Dr. Hirzel will speak to students in the Wellington schools, according to Mrs. Bernice Welch, president of the Classroom Teachers Association, one of the sponsoring groups.

"This is as important as the night meeting, because high schools and universities are precisely where the communists work. And here is where we have to teach them what is the meaning of socialism and communism and how do they work," Dr. Hirzel wrote.

The night meeting is open to the public, and every interested person over the entire county is urged to attend, Mrs. Welch said.

Dr. Hirzel, a leading surgeon in Havana 12 years, cannot yet practice in the United States, but he is associated with the West Texas Clinic in Hereford.

In addition to his work, he spends considerable time speaking in the West Texas area, warning of how and where communism and socialism work.

He makes no charge for this service, accepting only money to cover his expenses.

"I came to the United States on June 15th of this year, through an invitation of Dr. Lawrence S. Fallis, chief surgeon of the Henry Ford Hospital in Detroit, in order to

College Classmates

Death of Rayburn Loss to City Man

The death of House Speaker Sam Rayburn was more to one Wellington man than the loss of a Texas figure on the national scene. It was the passing of a college classmate and friend of more than 60 years.

Mr. Rayburn and J. E. Puryear were members of the small graduating class that received degrees from East Texas Normal College in 1903, after each had completed the prescribed four year course in three years.

Mr. Puryear recalled this week that Mr. Rayburn stayed in one of the dormitories, where he worked for his board. The Wellington man was living with his grandparents, across the street from the college.

For a time, the two men dated sisters, and as Mr. Puryear had a horse and buggy and Mr. Rayburn did not, they often went out together.

"Neither of us married those girls," Mr. Puryear laughed.

Meeting to Give Income Tax Information

An income tax management meeting has been scheduled here under the sponsorship of the Extension Service for Tuesday, Nov. 28 in the Greenbelt Electric building, County Agent Bob Lynch has announced.

Conducting the meeting and here to answer questions will be James Murphrey, area farm management specialist with the Extension Service, Amarillo.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. and it is open to all interested farmers, ranchers and business people.

"In addition to his discussion of Income Tax, Murphrey will discuss changes in the social security law and will answer questions that local persons may have on either," Lynch said.

The income tax discussion will cover records to be kept; accounting methods and analysis; farm business expense; deductions and personal exemptions; depreciations and depletions; capital gains and losses; soil and water conservation expense; trades, condemnations and diseased livestock.

Alex S. Kouri Dies at Lawton

Alex Swyden Kouri, of Lawton, Okla., the father of Woodrow Kouri, died Saturday, Nov. 18, about 10 a.m. following a two weeks illness. He was a retired farmer, and before moving to Lawton eight years ago he had lived at Brinkman, Okla., all his life.

Funeral services were conducted Monday at Lawton, with burial services at Brinkman.

Six children survive, as does one brother of Wichita, Kan. Going from here were Mr. and Mrs. Kouri.

Andrea Carter, a senior, was crowned Wellington high school Harvest Queen by her escort, Jackie Daves, in an elaborate setting Saturday evening, November 18. The coronation followed one-week campaigns of the four high school classes. Members of her court were Frances Hill, escorted by Lynn McLain, junior class; Nancy Gibbs escorted by Greg Wood, sophomore class; and Kay Chandler, escorted by Gary White, freshman class. The new queen is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Carter; her escort is the son of Mrs. Louella Daves. The Harvest Queen contest was sponsored by the junior class.

Baptists to Hear Missionary Speaker

The Rev. W. A. Solesbee, a Southern Baptist missionary to the Philippines, will speak at a special Missionary Night at First Baptist Church Wednesday, Nov. 29 at 8 p.m. He will speak also to the Women's Missionary Society on Thursday, Nov. 30 at 9:30 a.m.

"The public is invited to these special services being held in connection with the church's annual Week of Prayer for Foreign Missions," Mrs. Charles Cason, WMS president, said.

The Rev. and Mrs. Solesbee were appointed to serve in China as missionaries and arrived in Wusih in October 1947, but had to evacuate to the Philippines in December 1948.

due to communist activity.

He has continued his missionary service there and helped to begin the South Baptist work there. For his last two terms he and his family have lived in Davao City, Mindanao. There he is pastor, does field work among many churches, teaches in the Bible school and works among students. Mrs. Solesbee helps with the music program of the church, works with the young people and WMU and teaches their two children, Steve, 11, and Carol, 9, both born in the Philippines.

Both the Rev. and Mrs. Solesbee grew up near Olney. She graduated at Olney and received her degree from North Texas State College, Denton. He is a graduate of Megargel high school, Decatur Baptist College and Hardin Simmons University. He received a bachelor of divinity degree there in 1947 and will complete the work for his master of religious education degree in January.

$20 Taken at Dairy Mart

Burglars, believed to have entered the Dairy Mart Monday night, Nov. 20, took an estimated $20 from the juke box but did not bother other vending machines in the building, Police Chief Troy Marsh reported.

As the Dairy Mart is closed each Monday, the loss was not discovered until Tuesday, Nov. 21, but it is believed the building was not entered before Monday night, Chief Marsh said. Sheriff John Rainey investigated with Marsh.

Entry was gained by breaking a back window, the police chief said.

With approximately 98 per cent of the grain sorghum harvested, Collingsworth county chalked up another of its money crops at more than two thirds of a million dollars—$700,000 estimated from figures released by the county's four elevators.

These together have handled approximately 190 cars; exact figures are not available until elevator operators can catch up on their work.

Record yields have been up to 4,000 pounds on dry land fields and for early crops. There was little if any under irrigation.

While the overall yield is under that of the 1960 crop, a study shows more to be optimistic about than is at first apparent. Total production is estimated at around two-thirds of last year's crop, county-wide; but the milo acreage was reduced 30 per cent under the farm program for 1961. Considering this, per-acre production is not far from last year, although individual fields and communities do vary.

Potential production in 1961 was cut sharply by the worst infestation of midge the county has had. A tiny orange-red insect, midge destroys grain in the head. Early grain was unaffected, but much of the late milo showed heads half blasted out.

Midge has always been present, but never a problem, buyers and Extension Service entomologists say. Neither was the infestation uniform over the county. It was far heavier on the south plains than in this area, and there was little or none north of here.

Almost 100 per cent of this year's milo crop was of the hybrid varieties and this will be the case from now on, buyers believe.

Little of the crop was stored on the farm, and most of that delivered to elevators went into the loan, which brought $1.89 cwt compared to $1.50 on the open market.

500 Attend PTA Fund Raising Event

By Mrs. Tubal Cain

Hilarity was the keynote as more than 500 people gathered at the community building on Thursday, Nov. 16 for a family night sponsored by Elementary Parent Teachers Association.

Food was furnished and served by parents of elementary children.

Captain Kidd, television personality, entertained the children.

A favorite spot for the youngsters was the surprise booth, arranged by a committee headed by Mrs. Boyd Deryberry.

The Rev. Davis Edens led the group in singing the national anthem as the program opened. Mack Saied, Jr., master of ceremonies, directed the entertainment, which consisted of stunts, pranks by clowns, contests, impersonations, and a skit by the teachers and parents.

Participating were Morris Sullivan, Jimmy Cochran, Goat Hopper, Randy Cason, Randy Aaron, Kenneth Porter, Jackie Pendleton, Morris Sullivan Jr., Jimmy and Wayne McEwen, Calvin and Phillip Cain, King Bowen, Mrs. Bernice Welch, Mrs. Bob McAlister, Mrs. Sam Thompson, Mrs. Byron Duncan, Mrs. Davis Edens, Mrs. Oleta Burquist, Mrs. A. Several pastors also will attend.

There will be another song service at 10 a.m. Sunday, to be followed at 11 a.m. by the morning service and the Rev.

Mr. Hendricks' sermon. A covered dish luncheon will be served in the school cafeteria at noon.

"We urge everyone who has ever been a member of South Baptist Church to return for this fiftieth birthday celebration," Crowder said.

There will be time for reminiscing and visiting, and Sunday morning there will be much recounting of the early history of the church.

This is a history that is almost as old as the town of Dodson itself, and the story of the two has been closely intertwined. For a number of years, older members recall, the Baptist and Methodist church congregations met together, and the pastor of each preached two Sundays of each month.

In recent years, the church has undergone an expansion program which resulted in the addition of the educational building and of other improvements.

More Protection for County Cattlemen

One of the next steps to come up for protection of cattlemen in Collingsworth is work toward bringing the county under the new brucellosis control law.

Childress and Hardeman county are going under the law, as are counties to the north and west of us. That means the movement of cattle from a non-brucellosis control county is restricted.

Cows must be tested and shown free of brucellosis. Cows must be tested and shown free of brucellosis such as ours, into a certified county. Then the new owner must keep them quarantined and retested in 30 to 60 days before he can put them with his own herd, which was tested at the time his county went under the law.

Truckers, livestock auctions, commission merchants and stock men co-operate to enforce the law, which is invoked by the Texas Animal Health Commission. Restrictions do not apply to steers, spayed heifers, calves under 8 months and calves under 30 months which have been officially vaccinated against brucellosis.

In order for a county to come under the brucellosis control law, petitions must be circulated and signed by stock men owning a majority of the cattle population of the county. The law is then invoked for that county by the Texas Animal Health Commission.

It is another step by which an attempt is made to cut the losses in an industry where prices continue to mount.

A Good Neighbor

"A good neighbor." Those are the words heard more often than any others in his home town when Sam Rayburn became seriously ill.

They were words spoken by the man that lived on the next farm, by the taxi driver, the store clerk, the publisher of the paper and a host of others important and unimportant.

History will measure Speaker Rayburn's greatness by his long service for his state and nation and his understanding of world problems. There will be tributes from all over the world for the man who has won a unique place in the history of the nation.

By all the standards you can measure greatness, the speaker fits appropriately because of his outstanding service to the state, the nation and the world. He will be remembered long for these great works.

However, to those who knew him at home the basic virtues that make a good neighbor also will be long remembered.

They who were close to him all his life will remember fine, decent, basic integrity. They will remember the deep love he had for those who were troubled. They will remember his unyielding honesty even when political wars were bitterest.

This was a man who had lived as they had lived. He came from pioneer family that had met the same problems they had met. He had provided an understanding voice for them in the high councils of the state and nation. When they were in trouble they sent for "Mr. Sam."

Presidents, rulers, senators, congressmen, governors and many others will pay tribute to this great man.

The greatest tribute, however, will be the sincere cry from the hearts of those who knew him best when they say: "He was a good neighbor."

CROSSROADS REPORT

Dear Editor:

I note there is considerable worryment being indulged in by assorted big guns on the subject of what to do about mentally retarded citizens.

My compact brain neighbor says the first problem in this area is getting a reliable diagnosis as to who needs the treatment.

Says, after all, we could waste lots of time trying to cure folks who already know they don't know much, when the worst mentally retarded are the people who don't know there is anything they don't know.

I see where some banks aim to keep extra sets of books stashed away in bomb shelters, so nobody will get his note cancelled by nuclear blast.

My forward-looking neighbor says this news sure wrecks his little dream of maybe being able to come up out of his 20th Century Cave to face the world debt-free.

But he can see himself now, after World War III (working away on a new stone bowling ball, or re-inventing the wheel, and being plagued by smoke signals reminding him that he's still behind on his car payments.

I see where the government has helped to work out a deal making a railroad guarantee lifetime jobs for its telegraphers.

My socializer neighbor says when all workers get under federal mammyship, it will keep any old mean employer type from laying off voters just because there is no more work for them to do, or because he is broke.

Says it will stop lots of absent-minded hiring, too, like employing some boy to mow your lawn if you're not prepared to support him for the rest of his life.

I see where Treasury Secretary Dillon is trying to get some more foreign aid business and is offering to loan our money on 50-year easy terms, no interest, and no payments due for the first 10 years.

My credit-broke neighbor says, though, the psychology of this program is bad, and it will just add to world debt delinquency and deadbeatism.

Says an account which runs even one year without any payment on same gets so buried under fresher debts that it's mighty easy for a debtor's conscience to overlook it.

I see where a famous Dr. Lohi recommends the cocktail as helpful to people who are frantically by the pusheney of progressive civilization.

But my ulcer-bearing neighbor says alcohol is out of date, being invented by the ancients to drown the measly troubles people had before the world got in as big a mess as it is now.

Says we need some new miracle drink for this age, with its modern woes incident to keeping up with the Joneses, the installments, and the fallout situation.

Some folks around here are saying there's no need to worry about the national debt, on account of it now has got so big we can't ever pay it off anyhow.

My deadbeat neighbor says this is a reasonable viewpoint, and he is glad to see that mankind is finally learning how to co-exist with Debt.

Says he found out away back that Debt is harmless if you always approach it with courage and determination never to give in and pay it off.

Insect and Disease Control Clinic Set

A clinic on insects and disease control in both field crops and home plantings will be held Tuesday, Dec. 12 in the auditorium of the community building, beginning at 1:30 p. m.

The clinic is sponsored by the program building committee for field crops and home beautification, Miss Kathryn Potter, home demonstration agent, said.

Here to conduct the clinic will be two representatives of Ortho Chemical Company, Bill Kennedy of Altus, Okla., district salesman and manager; and Jim Simmonds of Plainview, sales representative.

Films and lectures will make up the program.

"The clinic will be of special interest to all farmers, home owners, gardeners and orchard

Wheat Support Depends on Saving Land

Growers who want price support protection for their 1962 wheat crop are reminded about the conservation requirements of the 1962 wheat stabilization program. James Murry, chairman, Collingsworth county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, points out that wheat growers will have to take an extra step this year if they want to be eligible for price support on their 1962 crop.

In other years, he explains, it was necessary for a producer to comply with his farm wheat acreage allotment in order to qualify for loans or purchase agreement on his wheat crop. In 1962, such compliance is still required, but there is an additional requirement that an intention-to-participate form be filed and that the acreage diverted from the production of wheat be devoted to an approved conservation use. Program payments will be made to producers for conserving the diverted acreage.

According to the chairman, the 1962 wheat allotment notices sent to growers before the wheat marketing quota referendum last August reflected a 10% reduction below what the allotment would have been under the previous legislative authority.

Under legislation governing the 1962 wheat program, this 10% diverted acreage figure is the minimum acreage which also must be devoted to soil-conserving uses in order to comply with program provisions. The diverted acres put to an approved conservation use must be in addition to the normal acreage devoted to conservation uses on the farm.

Chairman Murry suggests that farmers check with the ASCS county office about approved conservation practices which may be carried out on diverted wheat acreage in complying with the 1962 wheat stabilization program.

The chairman pointed out that farmers who have not made up their minds on the amount of acreage to divert from wheat should go ahead and sign up for the maximum 40% reduction, then when the wheat compliance is checked later on, if only 10% reduction has been made the farm will have met the minimum requirements and be eligible for participation in the stabilization.

Mrs. Donald Shea

Wife of USIS Chief in Bombay Leads Active, Interesting Life

The wife of the new United States Information Service Chief in Bombay, India, Mrs. Donald Shea, is the subject of an article which appeared in the November issue of The Outlook, a magazine published in India.

Mrs. Shea is the former Johnnie Barton, daughter of Mrs. Barney Walker of Samnorwood. With her family, she visited here during the summer, as the family was en route from Damascus, Syria, to their new post at Bombay.

The writer, who uses only the initials, F.N.K., has this to say in the article concerning one of Wellington's most traveled women:

It was a great pleasure to meet blonde, green-eyed Johnnie Shea, who is the wife of Mr. Donald Shea, the new U.S.I.S. chief in Bombay. I could not help remarking that "Johnnie" was an unusual name for a woman, but I was informed that in Texas, from where Mrs. Shea comes, it is quite common to name a girl after her father or grandfather!

The Sheas have only recently come to Bombay and have not as yet had an opportunity of seeing much of India. However, they are very keen to do so as soon as they can.

Johnnie was born and spent her childhood and school years in Wellington, Texas. I wanted to know if her family had made a big fortune in oil, as so many Texans are supposed to have amassed their wealth. "No, I come from a family of Ranch settlers. My mother still lives in Texas. She is a school teacher and I am hoping she will come and visit me soon," said Mrs. Shea. The urge to travel was very strong and young Johnnie went to Munich (Germany) where she worked on the "Voice of America" programme. Munich will always hold very happy and romantic memories for Johnnie as it was in Munich that she met and married Donald Shea.

"We spent five happy years in Munich, where my husband was in the foreign service of U.S.I.S. And I even learned to speak German! Munich is so centrally situated that we were able to travel a great deal in Europe and in the U. K."

"What country in Europe do you like most," I asked.

"Well, each country has its own charm of course—England was wonderful, and knowing the language made a world of difference. But I think I loved Austria the best—it is so beautiful and peaceful, and it is not over-run by tourists. I love skiing and we did a great deal of it there."

After the "five happy years" in Munich the Sheas spent three interesting years in Damascus. Johnnie found life in Damascus very different from living in the States or in Europe. It was her first taste of the East and she found it exciting and stimulating.

Johnnie is a keen sportsman and enjoys playing golf, tennis and swimming. Like all Americans she is a "spectator fan" of baseball and football. She is very interested in art and always visits the art galleries and art shows, wherever she is, as she feels art is so indicative of the country.

Johnnie is very fond of folk dancing and tries to see as much as she can of the folk dances of the countries she visits. She prefers the American type of food for daily consumption but enjoys our curries and spicy food occasionally.

Her tastes in clothes are essentially simple and she favors well tailored dresses. "You know, they sell a great deal of your Indian silks in the U.S. I think your saris are simply beautiful and the young Indian girls look so fresh and dainty in their saris and kameez."

Mrs. Shea is a member of the American Womens Club and as soon as she has really settled down she would like to actively participate in social work — I suggested she should join the Bombay State Women's Council which is the largest social welfare organization in Bombay.

The Sheas have two lovely children, a girl of six and a boy of four, and we wish them all a long and happy stay in our city.

Texas Has a Long List of Farming Firsts

Traditionally, Texans probably lay claim to more and better of most any and everything than any of the rivaling 49 states. Often as not, these Texas boasts are tongue-in-the-cheek accommodations for folks who just expect us to brag. In agriculture, however, the Lone Star State has a long list of firsts of which we ought to be reminded, just in case we ever need some "real" verbal ammunition.

Difficult as it is, it's necessary to start our tirade on pride with an admission: Texas is not first in the nation in total value of agricultural products. We rank fourth with a total annual farm income that exceeds two billion dollars, which is no small shakes. This is about a fifth of total income for the state each year.

Of major farm products, however, we can claim more production firsts than any other state. Some of these are:

Cotton: This is our most valuable crop, and far more cotton grows in Texas than in any other state. Our farmers produce about four million bales a year, worth some 700 million dollars.

Beef Cattle: Here again we lead the nation, production-wise, and beef cattle provide Texas' second largest source of agricultural income; earning about 400 million dollars a year. We might add that the long-range cattle industry originated in Texas, and we're still far ahead of the rest in cattle raising.

Sorghums: Texas out front again. Next to cotton, this is the state's most valuable field crop and the third most valuable source of farm income.

Rice: We are at or near the top in rice production, rivalled nearest by California. Our rice farmers along the Gulf Coast have done a magnificent job in producing a superior product. Although we lead in rice production, we are pretty far behind in rice consumption. A lot of Texans haven't discovered just how good and good for you rice is.

Other firsts include production of sheep and goats in which Texas leads, and accompanying firsts in production of wool and mohair, which a lot of folks don't know about.

There are other farm products, certainly, which we can brag about, being near the top in production and certainly at the top in quality. These include, in part, poultry (the commercial broiler industry started in Texas) and egg (we rank first in the South, seventh in the nation in egg production, and our eggs are the best); corn, which ranks second only to cotton in the amount marketed; vegetables, citrus semi-tropical fruits, melons, dissiduous fruits (peaches, pears, plums), pecans (this is where pecans were first found in greatest abundance), peanuts, and on and on.

So the next time somebody asks you to talk about Texas, tell them about Lone Star agriculture.

Don't overlook the opportunities in the Want Ads.

CHRONIC SPENDING

When President Kennedy and his aides get down to work on next year's budget, as they soon must, it would be well for them to remember that, not counting this year, there have been 25 annual deficits in the past 31 years.

It is hoped that Treasury Secretary Dillon's warning against chronic deficits will carry some weight with the administration. As to the current position, deficits this year and last may amount to some $10 billions, and that ain't hay.

Deficit spending policies can wreck this nation. No wizardry is required to see continuing red ink as danger, for the dollar has not withstood the pressure placed upon it by this and other forces of an inflationary nature. The 100 cent dollar of 1939 has fallen in value through the years to 46.4 cents in 1961. Assuming that the administration's various pledges to avoid inflation are not simply lip service, it is difficult to foresee from their actions how and when the spenders expect to bring government policies around to conform to their stated objectives.

Nobody Spends Less

Former Budget Director Maurice Stans has expressed some doubt whether a balanced budget is possible in 1963. On the basis of current revenues no balance can be anticipated. Only booming prosperity will bring enough revenue to catch up with the aggressive spending of the Kennedy government.

If, instead, federal revenues should drop and the spending programs are continued, deficit possibilities could be fantastic.

Reactions of the present budget director toward the idea of future spending seem to be all that any spendthrift bureaucrat or pork-barrel senator could wish for. Budget Director Bell's idea is that the expanding economy will grow as expected and take care of budgets even higher than the $100 billion mark by 1965. That's the year after election, and by then spending ambitions could well be tuned to that pitch. This amazing theory has it that government must spend in bad years to improve the economy so that more may be spent in good years. Almost nobody at anytime considers the idea of spending less.

Living It Up

"Economic growth" forecasting is no magic panacea upon which to support over-expanded government and encourage reckless spending. This policy pawns a future which, although at times seems dimly foreseeable, is really fraught with many dangers in the uncertain decades ahead.

If this nation has ever needed fiscal solvency it needs it now. In no foreseeable fiscal year can we afford to further endanger our economic health by living up the wealth that might belong to future generations.

Budget recklessness seems symptomatic of a kind of moral decay. We could perhaps see the point if it were a bank president squandering money entrusted to him by depositors, or even borrowing from them to waste. But since the federal treasury has only expendable tax money belonging to the people, nobody seems to care what happens to it. Being careless with other people's money is immoral, even if it has been confiscated legally. The detachment shown by the federal spenders on this point is amazing. Public funds still belong to the people.

DESIGN FOR LIVING—Rice is spread out to dry by the No. 5 production team of the No. 5 People's Commune in Hsinfan County of Shechwan, Communist China.

When taxes take one-fifth of the poor man's labor (a great deal more when hidden taxes are counted in) and often more than 90 per cent of the rich man's income, there is hardly any margin left for tax increases.

Suppose it should be necessary in a modern war to increase our large present outlays for defense. It fogs the imagination to consider what costs might be involved.

World War I lifted federal expenditures about 25 times at the peak; World War II increased spending from $9 billion to a peak of $98 billion.

What would happen in World War III? A tenfold increase would bring the $95.8 billions appropriated by the 87th Congress for Mr. Kennedy spiraling upward toward the thousand billion mark. It seems utterly foolish for us to think we can spend as we please for whatever we want. We had best pare to the bone every non-defense item, and then be extremely prudent and cost conscious even with the defense spending.

The best preparation for these uncertain times is a strong fiscal position. Without it we can be ruined, in peace or war.

Fertilizers do Affect Cotton Disease Loss

COLLEGE STATION.—Fertilizer nutrients, if properly applied in the correct amounts, will lower cotton disease losses, says Harlan E. Smith, extension plant pathologist. For example, slightly susceptible bacterial blight varieties become resistant with adequate nitrogen but more susceptible when nitrogen is deficient.

Adequate amounts of available potassium help prevent Fusarium wilt and Verticillium wilt. In contrast, excessive use of nitrogen should be avoided in Fusarium wilt and Verticillium wilt soils. It is known that Verticillium wilt can cause more losses if available nitrogen is on the excess side.

Unbalanced availability of nitrogen, phosphorus and potassium causes plants to be more susceptible to attack by disease organisms. Therefore, for disease control avoid creating unbalanced conditions when applying fertilizers, Smith warns. Unbalanced fertility created by improper application of fertilizer can lead to disease losses which will nullify fertilizer benefits.

Boll rots may be more severe when excess nitrogen causes tall, rank cotton. In 1960, wet weather in several areas was blamed for some losses in cotton quality and yield when boll rot diseases were actually the cause of the trouble.

It has been determined that cotton plants free of seedling diseases and nematodes make much more effective use of fertilizer nutrients, Smith continues. This relationship should be taken into account when seedling diseases or nematodes are controlled with fungicides or nematocides. In general, high fertilizer rates should be lowered somewhat once seedling disease and nematodes are under control.

A sound fertilizer program must be based on many factors, including cotton diseases that are most likely to damage plants.

Check cotton fields for disease damage at regular intervals. Certain diseases may be found to be damaging or killing the cotton plants. These same diseases will probably occur, more or less, next year. Remember, says Smith, cotton disease can be prevented, not cured. Little can be done to control cotton diseases on a crop after it is planted.

In order to plan the best preventive control program, it is necessary to know the diseases that are likely to cause losses. It is also helpful to know where certain diseases might occur in your fields. For example, root rot, root knot and other nematodes, bacterial blight, ascochyta blight and seedling disease can be reduced somewhat the following year by deep plowing during hot, dry weather.

Quail Loses Twice to the Briscoe Broncos

Quail Quails and Bobwhites took a double-header from the Lakeview Eagles and Eaglettes in their opening game on Tuesday, Nov. 14.

The Bobwhites upset the Eaglettes 48 to 37, while the Quails downed the Eagles in an easy game, 51 to 18, for their second win of the season.

The fired-up Bobwhites, coached by Herman Moseley, played a close game and showed improvement and determination to win.

High pointer was Rita Patterson, scoring a remarkable 30 points. She hit 14 out of 15 free shots, which scored the Bobwhites on to victory.

Other forwards who scored were Sherry McGuire and Peggy Gollighugh, 2 each, and Sue Ward, 9. The Eaglettes' high pointer was Winnie Nalers, scoring 20.

The starting lineup for the Bobwhites was Rita Patterson, Sherry McGuire and Sue Ward, forwards; and Linda Jenkins, Almeda Tidwell and Betty Moseley, guards.

High point man for the Quails in the game with Lakeview was Billy Wilson, with 25, while Rudell White was next with 10.

According to Coach Purl Tippie, the boy who played the best floor game was J. C. Saunders; the one with the most hustle, Rudell White; one with the most spirit, Carol Kennedy; one having the best attitude, Dean Johnson; and the one getting the most rebounds, Billie Wilson.

The team has improved considerably since the start of the season, and hope to continue to improve, the coach said. Tommy Haralson is team manager.

FHA Chapters Meet Here

Future Homemakers from Wellington, Samnorwood, Childress, Quail, Shamrock, Hedley and Clarendon met Nov. 19 at 3:00 in the Wellington high school auditorium to practice on the program for the state FHA meeting.

These girls will participate in the Friday night program at the state FHA meeting, April 28, in Galveston. The theme of this meeting is "FHA's Miss America."

Area I will portray the events as the "Miss America" candidate leaves for the contest. Sylvia McQueary, from Wellington, is the fourth vice president of Area I and she is in charge of this presentation. The Wellington and Quail chapters are responsible for writing the script for the short scene. The participating FHA members will also present this program at the Area I meeting in Amarillo March 3.

No lawyer may speak of certain things, even after a client dies. For a client may well have to give his lawyer details which, if revealed, might harm those he most wanted to protect.

Yet, in some very rare cases, to help carry out the client's desires after death, a lawyer may have to reveal a confidence, under certain safeguards, to uphold his client's purposes.

What are confidential communications? Anything a client tells his lawyer when he seeks advice about his personal, business or legal affairs—talks and letters, photographs, charts, and other documents and records.

Confidential communications protect you as the client, not your lawyer. If you break the confidence, a lawyer may also have to talk, for the communication is no longer confidential. You may break a confidence by testifying about it, or by having unauthorized persons hear or see what was communicated.

No lawyer may keep quiet about a crime or fraud a client has told him he plans to commit. But afterwards, an accused person may talk freely to his lawyer. Even if guilty, he has a right to have his side of the story presented to the court as it may affect his punishment. A person in trouble needs to talk to someone without fear that what he says will become public.

In some states certain other professional people, such as physicians and clergymen, may receive privileged communications. However, Texas law makes no provision for privileged communications to physicians and clergymen.

Judi Bailey on Co-Ed Staff

Judi Bailey, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bailey, has been named Co-ed Correspondent for the 1961-62 school year, according to an announcement by Margaret Hauser, editor of Co-Ed Magazine.

Miss Bailey is a junior at Wellington high school. Her appointment was made by Mrs. Paralee Coleman, home economics teacher at Wellington.

Selected for her interest in writing and her enthusiasm for home economics, Miss Bailey will serve as junior advisor to the editors of "Co-Ed", national magazine for teen-age girls, and will keep them informed of activities at Wellington high school. There are more than 2500 Co-Ed Correspondents throughout the United States and Canada.

Miss Bailey was presented with a special "Co-Ed" pin and card by Mrs. Coleman.

Rockets, Rockettes Split with Gould

Wellington Rockets and Rockettes split a double header with Gould, Okla., in their opener here Friday, Nov. 17. The Rockettes took their game 35 to 27, while the Rockets were losers 53 to 37. Gould boys took the lead as the game opened and at the end of the first quarter were ahead 10 to 7. Early in the second, the Rockets pushed their score past the Oklahomans, but dropped back before the period ended, when Gould was ahead 5 points, 22 to 17. The Rockets cut the Oklahoma lead to three points in the latter part of the third, but they were never able to push the score farther, and again the quarter ended with Gould leading, this time 36 to 25. There was only one field goal's difference between the two teams, Coach James Stavenhagen reported. Gould scored 18 and the Rockets 17. But it was the fouls that cost the Rockets. Gould went to the free throw line 27 times and Wellington only 7. "It will take us another two or three weeks to get all the football out of the boys," the coach remarked. He had words of praise for his Rockets. "I feel that Gould has a real good ball club and I was not disappointed. We did a real good job of hustling and I think we will be able to play them a good game the next go round." High point man of the game was Trout of Gould, with 19. Jackie Daves, with 13 points, was high for Wellington, and Dan Henard was next with 9. Rocket starters were Delmar Duckworth, Jerry Rainey, Dan Henard, Jackie Daves and Oliver Bishop. Gould starters were Gibson,

Patrick, Trout, Roberts, and Brown.

Rockettes - Gould
The Rockettes played through a close game with the Gould girls without ever letting it get out of hand, and even a one-point lead, 27-26 which the Oklahomans managed in the fourth didn't give them much worry. Coming back strong in the closing minutes of the game, Wellington built up an 8-point lead to end the game 35 to 27. "We feel that since they were playing their first game, the girls will improve and do better, but they did do a real good job," Coach Stavenhagen said. The Rockettes led 10 to 4 at the end of the first quarter; 17 to 13 at the half; and 24 to 21 at the end of the third period. Gould had the high pointer of the game, Atkinson, with 18. Gayla Courtney, with 14 points, was the Rockette high pointer. Elaine Yarbrough made 11 and Vicki Glenn 10. McLaughlin was second for Gould with 9. Vicki was moved to forward position only last week, and at the same time, Carol Blain was transferred to guard. Both girls are showing improvement in their new positions, the coach said. Rockette starters were Elaine Yarbrough, Gayla Courtney, Vicki Glenn, Carol Blain, Janice Wood and Donna Curry. Starting for Gould were McLaughlin, Atkinson, Southerland, Payne, Bonner and Meason.

Man accomplishes his best work under an annual average temperature of 62 to 68 degrees, if the climate is not too monotonous and there is some change between seasons.

Dinner at Mexican Mission

A Thanksgiving dinner was served to approximately thirty members of the Mexican Mission Sunday, Nov. 19, immediately following the morning services. Those taking dinner to be served were Judge Raymond Horton, Mrs. W. M. Horton, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Groves, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Cason, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Harwell, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Peeples, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Morrow, and Mr. and Mrs. King Bowen. Following dinner the group enjoyed songs by the children which were sung in Spanish. The Rev. Clay Coursey, pastor of Faith Baptist Church, brought the afternoon message. Special guests were the pastor and wife from the Mexican Mission at Hollis. It is better to drive slowly than to be driven that way.

She also is a member of Athenaeum literary society.

Diverted Acres Can Be Grazed

The ASC County Office has been notified by the State ASC Office that farmers who are participating in the 1961 Feed Grain program may now graze the diverted acres instead of having to wait until Jan. 1.

This decision was made recently by officials in Washington. Since it was determined that in a good many cases, farmers would have to go to quite an expense to fence these areas in order to graze the other part of the field. However, this new regulation will not permit the harvesting of any crop from the 1961 diverted acres.

Consumption of Vegetables Up

COLLEGE STATION.—Americans today eat more vegetables on the average, per person, than their grandparents did 50 years ago, according to a report issued recently by the U.S. Department of Agriculture. But the report indicates there has been a shift in consumption away from fresh vegetables. This decrease in the use of fresh vegetables has been offset by marked increases in consumption of processed vegetables during recent years, the report shows. Vegetable consumption per capita is about 15% greater today than it was 50 years ago.

City householders are larger consumers of vegetables than are rural dwellers, but the difference is narrowing as commercial supplies become more widely available in rural areas.

THE WELLINGTON (TEXAS) LEADER
Thursday, November 23, 1961

High income groups are larger consumers of vegetables than are those with lower incomes. Per capita consumption of potatoes, sweet potatoes, and dry beans and peas is much less today than it was 50 years ago. However, increased use of potatoes in various processed forms has halted the decline of consumption of this product and the processing of sweet potato items has slowed a downward trend in their use. Looking ahead, it appears likely that per capita use of vegetables and potatoes may not change much during the next ten years, though further shifts to processed forms are indicated.

Deck's DIDACTICS

—By Deskins Wells

The Federal Trade Commission is now sending out a monthly summary called "Advertising Alert." At least one scoop is promised in each issue. For instance, issue No. 1 leads off with a warning on the flamboyant and false advertising of the savings to be had from participating in "frozen food plans." I have been skeptical about this "plan" for several years—in fact, ever since a former employee bought a high-priced freezer on installment and got the "plan" along with the freezer.

This newspaper has turned down several hundred dollars in advertising in recent years because it was believed to be misleading. One of these concerns vending machines. You put up so much money and the company furnishes the machines and the merchandise to go in them. There is nothing wrong with vending machines as such. The joker is that all of the desirable spots are already taken with machines selling brand merchandise. And another is that some of these offers have to do with second and third class merchandise.

This is the time of year when the borers descend from the trees and it is also the time to kill them. If you have a lot of trees, Bob Lynch can give you the name of a commercial product to use. But if you have only a few, moth balls will do just as well. Simply dig a trench about three or four inches deep and put the moth balls in it and wet them down. The moth balls don't exactly poison the borers—they gas them.

This is also the time of year NOT to burn your tree leaves. Rake them up and put them in a compost pit, water them down and let them turn into good black soil.

What will they start next? In Michigan a group of farmers are having their bookkeeping done by electronics. They list income, expenses, feed quantities, livestock numbers, etc., and then mail these reports to Michigan State University each month. There electronic machines summarize the figures and once a year make an annual report to assist the farmer in tax returns and banking negotiations.

There is such a thing as a sunset so there should be such a word as moonset, even if it does sound odd. Anyway, I went out to get the paper about 6 o'clock Wednesday morning and found a beautiful cloud picture in the western sky. The full moon was hidden by a blue-black cloud, but there was a break immediately north and the moon's rays had full play on towering cumulus and strato-cumulus clouds that ranged from north to west as far as the eye could see. There were no yellows, oranges, pinks, or reds. It was a symphony in white, silver, gray and blue-black. Moonlight on snow-capped mountains with dark trees and valleys below

Owens & Scott Super Market Remodels

The Owens & Scott Super Market completed remodeling of their store at 1603 Eighth Street this week, giving their super market an entirely new look.

New fixtures have been installed throughout the store. George Scott explained that these new fixtures will enable them to display at least one third more merchandise than in former years and at the same time provide wider aisles for the customers. "The merchandise will be easier to see, and easier to reach," he said.

The last touches to the shining new store were completed this week and with the laying of the floor over the entire building which will enable them to keep the store spotlessly clean at all times with less than half the labor involved in caring for the old store.

The actual remodeling of the super market began early last summer with the installation of a $3,700 refrigerated air conditioning system which is entirely separate from the heating system which keeps the store warm in winter months.

The refrigeration units in the meat department and in the self service refrigeration department are as modern as can be found in any store in the Panhandle of Texas.

In addition to George Scott, manager, other regular employees of the store are: Carol Daves, Woodrow Kouri, Agnes Martin, Ray Mitchell and Clifford Lee. Part time employees are Oliver Bishop, James Poteet and Olin Moore.

I Saw...

by Virginia Robey

Sheriff John Rainey recently received an arrest card from McCook, Neb., on a suspect wanted here. The arresting officer was Mr. Crook.

A visitor at the recent Boy Scout banquet remarked that as he went down the food line he saw Boy Scouts, plates piled high with what he took to be weiners. When he got to the table they were whole candied carrots. "Good for your eyes," a neighbor remarked. "And if you'd been eating your carrots all along, you could see what you're looking at," Mrs. Carl Crosnoe of Dodson added.

Mrs. Carroll Blevins of Quail says that this year, instead of the usual roast pheasant, she cooked pheasant and dumplings. Her family liked them.

Young Phyllis Ann Sullivan this fall took to yelling for the opposing football team—a sport innocent enough until it comes to the Texas Longhorns—the University of Texas being alma mater to parents James and Priscilla.

Christmas in the Saied family this year will be followed by another big event—the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Mack Saied Sr. More of this later.

Jake Tarter, on receiving a trades day ticket the other day, recalled that when he was about 18, he won a $20 gold piece. With it he bought a new suit of clothes, hat and shoes, and had 85 cents left. "I thought those shoes would never wear out. I paid $3.95 for them. And when I got home I didn't have any sox," he remembers.

Wellington has always been known over the state as the town of beautiful girls... but now we'd like to call attention to all concerned to the beautiful young matrons. Some of them are our girls grown up... Vada Wood Bell, Gail Young Jameson, Janine Crawford Bartlett, and dozens of others. Some are brand newcomers: Linda Raines, who married, had two children, took a degree and taught a year, and still could pass for a high schooler... Mrs. Bob Choise... Mrs. Kenneth Grunewald, a talented musician... Mrs. James Stavenhagen, who has three lovely children... and the list could go on. There's just something about Wellington and beauty attracting each other.
