The National Game—Behind Our City—A Famous Auditorium—From One Who Knows—

Football, at home and abroad, will feature the Thanksgiving observance of Wichita Falls and other towns. In point of attendance and participants, it is doubtful if baseball has a more rightful claim to being the national game than the gridiron sport. In Wichita Falls, residents here should see the Junior college-Simmons freshman tilt at Spudder park. The local club deserves support, of course, but aside from this the game should be one of the best in this section. Coach Ludgate has a polished grid machine, while many of the Simmons players should be seen in action here next year in the proposed Simmons-S. M. U. tilt.

Football is interesting and important, but give some thought today to the true purpose of Thanksgiving. Union services will be held at the First Christian church at 10:30 o'clock, with all the churches joining in the program of gratitude. You will be in a better frame of mind for your Thanksgiving pleasures, you will find a greater happiness in your day's pursuits, if you attend services.

J. W. Carpenter of Dallas, president of the Texas Electric Service company and of the Texas Power and Light company, visits Wichita Falls and has much to say of the prospects for development here. And while impressed with the valley, with business and with industries here, Mr. Carpenter talked more of something else—a "background for success" which the Dallas man said is found in the outstanding leadership here. Wichita Falls has "it" to a greater degree than any other Texas city, said Mr. Carpenter. He should know. He visits all the other towns in the state where his company has interests, or may later expand its system. He proved himself a discerning man when he said this city's past growth, and its prospects for future expansion, are due to the vision, faith and service of its leading men and women.

Fame of Wichita Falls' new auditorium, open less than two weeks, is spreading to all corners of the state. Four thousand Baptist delegates have carried the story home, and the facts have been told in news reports of press associations and papers. Dr. E. P. West of Houston, who delivered the annual Baptist convention sermon, writes of it in a letter to The Record News. And now it is said that Wichita Falls will be offered the contract of another famous singer, one as brilliant as Marion Talley, because Wichita Falls has a building to properly accommodate the crowds and another Texas city hasn't.

Wichita Falls will miss Mr. and Mrs. Alva Willgus, who go to Fort Worth to make their home. They have fitted admirably into this city's program of work and pleasure, have ever been willing to serve for the best interests of Wichita Falls and have known a seldom exceeded popularity. Wichita Falls' loss is much to the gain of Fort Worth. This writer ventures that Mr. and Mrs. Willgus will be accompanied by the best wishes of many more people than they know, or would believe feel sincere regret at their departure.

* * *

Mrs. John F. Lyons of Fort Worth, past president of the national federation of music clubs and for many years the woman who has been responsible for the outstanding musical programs given in Fort Worth, comes to Wichita Falls to aid in the Marion Talley concert. She had much to say of Wichita Falls and Wichita Falls' women, but listen to this: "I came down here to help out, but I really don't believe they need any help. This is about the most efficient and best organized group of women I have ever seen." And that comes from a woman who has probably been responsible for more appearances of noted stars than any other woman in the nation.

FORTY ENTRIES TABULATED IN ROLLER DERBY

Oldest Contestant Carries 86 Years, Youngest Aged 13 Years

COURSE IS HILLY

Skaters Face Stiff Odds In Climbing Ascents On Highway

Roll 'em high, roll 'em low, roll 'em fast, roll 'em slow, roll 'em up and roll 'em down, we're rolling on to Wichita town!

Boy, howdy, those entries in the Wichita Falls Record News Thanksgiving day roller skating marathon certainly have been piling in, and how! Up to the very last minute allowed for entries, which was 6 p. m. Wednesday, additional names came 'rolling' in for the big Turkey day roll from Burkburnett to Wichita Falls.

Forty Skaters Entered

Forty names now appear in the entry list for the contest which is to be for a big silver loving cup and several cash prizes posted by The Record News and the Wichita Falls Athletic club, joint sponsors of the marathon event. The oldest contestant enrolled is G. H. Hamilton, 86 years of age, veteran of the Civil war. The youngest aspirant for the big silver loving cup is Miss May Paterson, 1518 Wilson street, aged 13 years. New entries, whose names have not previously been published, enrolled Wednesday included Jimmie Paterson, Paul Cameron, Jack Crumbler and Charles Adams, of Wichita Falls, and T. C. Vaughn and Lovell Cecil of Burkburnett.

G. H. Willingham, of Burkburnett, and George Mauroff, of Wichita Falls, are two other entries whose names had not been published before.

Start At 10 A. M.

The race will start promptly at 10 o'clock Thursday morning from the Burkburnett branch office of the Wichita Falls Record News. Mayor G. R. Kincaid of Burkburnett will fire the starting gun. Wichita Falls entrants in the roller derby who do not have a way of getting to Burkburnett are instructed to assemble at the Gym, 605 Scott street, headquarters of the Wichita Falls Athletic club, at 8:30 a. m. Thursday where they will be provided transportation by automobile through arrangements made by Alec B. Ross, manager of the race. Here the racers will sign their pledges to observe the rules of the marathon and assuming personal responsibility for any injury or accident to their property or persons during the contest. Burkburnett entries in the race will sign their pledge at Burkburnett just before the start of the derby. Numbers to be worn by each of the contestants will be issued at Burkburnett before the start of the contest.

Route of Marathon

The route of the race will be directly out of Burkburnett from the starting point at the Record News branch office over the Wichita Falls paved highway. The marathons will proceed to Wichita Falls, entering the main part of the city over the Wichita river bridge. Immediately after crossing the bridge, the skaters will turn to the right and proceed under the Fort Worth and Denver railroad embankment to Ohio street where they will turn left and proceed along Ohio to Sixth street. Reaching the Sixth street intersection, the skaters will turn to the right and continue up Sixth street to Scott avenue where the race will end at the tape. Flag men with red flags will be stationed at the various turns mentioned above to insure all skaters against taking the wrong course after entering the city.

Hills Are Handicap

Skaters are expected to find some of the hills on the route from Burkburnett difficult to negotiate because of their steep incline. Skaters will be permitted to take to the side of the highway, off the pavement, and walk up hills that defy their skating ability provided they DO NOT REMOVE their skates. Skaters will be allowed to remove their skates only in case of a break and then only to replace the broken skate with a new one, each contestant being permitted to carry along an extra pair of skates.

Automobile Escorts.

Each skater is permitted to have an automobile escort along to carry their extra skates, drinking water, sandwiches, or bring them in provided they drop out of the race. Skaters must make the entire distance under their own motive power and will be ineligible for any of the prizes if they hold to any moving vehicle for aid in being pulled along the course.

George Hodgins, head of the city mercantile police, will serve as referee of the marathon. Prizes will be presented to the winning skaters by Mayor R. E. Shepherd.

SHRINERS OPEN FALL MEETING

1000 March in Spectacular Parade

BY GERALD SMITH
The Record News Staff
Member Khevi Temple, Amarillo

Climaxing the first day of Maskat Temple's annual Thanksgiving Shrine ceremonial, more than 1000 local and visiting Nobles and novices marched through the business section of Wichita Falls Wednesday night in one of the most spectacular parades ever staged in this city.

Brilliant Parade

With brilliant torches aglare and Roman candles spouting fiery balls of every color the Oriental splendor of the uniformed bodies appeared even more glamorous as the flares were reflected on the fineries of the regalias.

The parade was headed by a trio of mounted flag bearers, guided by motorcycle policemen and followed by a column of city firemen. Following in automobiles were the various official personages bedecked in Oriental costumes and disguises.

The Rough Neck Crew, yelling boisterously and booming the crowded street with loud torpedoes preceded the uniformed Shrine band as is played spirited marches.

Nobles Perform

Then the feature stunt of the procession hove into view. A touring car, with a large pennant proclaiming that its six occupants were "The Bootleggers," was followed by a large truck stacked high with two-bushel sacks filled with money. The reason for this wealth was quickly explained as several hundred "customers" marched anxiously, just behind the bootleggers. A hearse came in the wake of the customers and painted on it was "The End."

The boys' band was followed by the poor novices some of whom were locked securely in the "Black Maria" while the others were on foot but with several nobles marching watchfully on the flanks. Among them was F. E. Shoop, candidate for the Shrine ring, still

FOUR SEYMOUR MEN ARRESTED IN DEATH CASE

Piece of Paper and Dream of Brother Lead to Arrests

MORE ARRESTS SEEN

Wise, Baylor and Archer Officers Make Investigations

DECATUR, Texas, Nov. 23. (AP)—A scrap of paper and a dream of a dead man's brother led to the arrest here today of four men, and are believed to be the connecting links in solving the slaying of John C. Dudley, whose decomposed body was found near Willow Point, Texas, on November 11.

The body of Dudley, then unidentified, was buried near where it was found. An ugly gash in the throat was believed to have caused the death of the man.

Yesterday D. S. Dudley, living near Dundee, came here and procured an order to have the body disinterred. It was identified at once as that of his brother. A coroner's inquest held the man came "to his death by causes unknown."

Immediately an investigation was begun by officers of Wise, Baylor and Archer counties and the arrest of four men in Seymour resulted. It is believed that more arrests will be made shortly in connection with the case.

The scrap of paper was a sales check given to one of the men under arrest and was found lying near the dead man's body. D. S. Dudley told officers that he was prompted to search for his brother by a recent dream, in which he was advised his brother had been killed and his body taken to a distant point.

He said that his brother had been missing since October 2, when he sold his interest in a moving picture theater in Dundee. Dudley left Dundee ostensibly to travel in West Texas selling novelties. He had approximately $500 on his person when last seen, according to witnesses in Seymour.

CHEST DRIVE TO CONTINUE

Workers To Press Forward To $65,000 Goal

Campaign workers of the Community Chest will continue the drive this week toward the $65,000 goal needed for welfare work, and will close "if, as and when we have campaigned our entire territory, and every person who should have given," in the words of W. D. Cline, chairman of the chest drive.

Mr. Cline made his declaration at the luncheon of workers at the Wichita club Wednesday noon, when reports from the various divisions were heard. As a result of these reports, the big themometer at the City National bank corner climbed near the $44,000 mark, representing an exact total of $43,439.29.

Both Mr. Cline, and Harry Hines, vice-chairman of the campaign, praised workers for their persistent work, at the same time urging the importance of renewed efforts and the necessity of seeking out and securing the small contributions.

The reports Wednesday showed an increase of about $20,000 over the total of the previous day, with indications that the drive may end this week if Wichita Falls citizens contribute as expected. Workers in the campaign will be "at it" again after the brief respite furnished by Thanksgiving.

Coyote Pack Faces Sandstorm Might In Fray Today For Gridiron Title

Crippled Wichita Falls Eleven Faces Desperate Odds to Defeat Amarillo for District Crown

Special to The Record News.

AMARILLO, Nov. 23.—For the honor of Wichita Falls high school and the football championship of northwest Texas, the Coyotes Thursday afternoon will engage the Golden Sandstorm of Amarillo high school in decisive combat. With the odds against them to win as a result of the loss of two backfield stars, Quarterback Harvey Black and Captain Mitchell, halfback, because of injuries, the Pack may not win the championship which is at stake but its fighting spirit is enough insurance that Coach Alvare McCallum's charges will acquit themselves with profit to themselves and honor to their school.

Coyotes Practice

The snarling Coyote Pack reached Amarillo late Tuesday and spent the night at a local hotel. Wednesday afternoon Bud McCallum took the entire squad out for a practice session which was a secret affair and constituted a last minute rehearsal of several trick plays some of which the Coyotes have never uncovered in previous games of the current season.

Every member of the Coyote squad appeared in fine spirits here Wednesday and no display of nervousness over the impending contest was to be discerned. The boys expressed sympathy for their missing quarterback, Harvey Black, who is in a Wichita Falls hospital suffering from injuries received in the game last week between the Coyotes and the Plainview Bulldogs, but they declared that they knew Blackie was with them in spirit and swore that they would fight all the harder for him.

12-Cent Cut In Tax Rate Shown In Plan

A complete report on conditions in the city water department, showing a possible reduction of 12 cents in the city tax rate, the saving of many thousands of dollars to Wichita Falls residents, and the building of a water system capable of providing for a modern city was released Wednesday morning by Commissioner P. B. Curd.

The report took the form of a "questions and answers" statement, Mr. Curd with figures compiled from the water department answering questions propounded by the Real Estate board. The report goes into great detail, and also shows the ability of the water department to carry its obligations. The proposed bond issue would be

SIMMONS TEAM HERE

Junior College Ready To Go, Coyotes Battle At Amarillo

At Wichita Falls: Wichita Falls Junior college vs. Simmons university freshmen.

At Amarillo: Wichita Falls high school Coyotes vs. Amarillo high's Golden Sandstorm.

At Fort Worth: Texas Christian university Horned Frogs vs. Southern Methodist university Mustangs.

At College Station: Texas university Longhorns vs. Te..as A. and M. college.

At Houston: Baylor university Bears vs. Rice Institute Owls.

King Football takes his throne today in Texas as his subjects were assembling at half a dozen points to witness the annual climax to one of the hottest gridiron campaigns ever staged in the Lone Star state. Wednesday night and early Thursday special trains carrying thousands of fans were en route to the scenes of impending Thanksgiving day battles and hundreds of automobiles loaded to the bumpers were racing over highways to their destinations.

PLAY-BY-PLAY

Reports on the Wichita Falls-Amarillo game at Amarillo will be given by The Record News during the Junior College-Simmons game this afternoon at Spudder park. Reports will be received over The Record News leased wire to Amarillo for the occasion. Reports will also be given every few minutes on the Texas-A. & M. game and other major gridiron conflicts.

Many Big Games.

Interest of Wichita Falls fans today is divided between the results of the big games at College Station where the Texas Longhorns and the Texas Aggies do battle, at Fort Worth where the Texas Christian university Horned Toads take on the fast Southern Methodist university Mustangs, at Amarillo, where the Wichita Falls high school Coyotes play Amarillo high school's Golden Sandstorm for the district high school championship, and at Wichita Falls where the Wichita Falls Junior college Redskins engage in mortal gridiron combat the freshman Tenderfoot eleven of Simmons university of Abilene.

Special to Amarillo.

With more than 200 local gridiron fans off to Amarillo at 6 a. m. Thursday on the Coyote special train to witness the Coyote-Sandstorm game, the stay-at-homes will get a chance to whet their football appetites at 2:30 p. m. when the opening whistle of the Junior college-Simmons freshman game is scheduled to be blown. That the fans may not lose out on what is going on in the rest of the football world, the Wichita Falls Record News has arranged for a leased wire direct from the playing field at Amarillo to Spudder park from which play-by-play returns of the Coyote-Sandstorm game will be announced through loud speakers to the the assembled fans in the grandstand. In addition The Record News will announce scores on other big football games in Texas and other parts of the country. Through this arrangement, Wichita Falls football fans will be enabled to get their Thanksgiving gridiron menu served to them in several courses at the same time.

Shrine Band to Play.

Color and music will be added to the Junior college-Simmons game as a result of the presence in the grandstand of Maskat temple's 45-piece Shrine band, according to an announcement by Coach Ludgate of the Redskins late Wednesday. More than a thousand Shriners visiting Wichita Falls for the annual ceremonial session of Maskat temple are also expected to lend their attendance to increase the turnout for the contest. More than half a hundred fans from Abilene are expected to reach Wichita Falls during Thursday morning to help root their team to victory or to console it in defeat, which ever the fortune of gridiron fray demands.

All Talk Is Football.

Wednesday night all the talk in Wichita Falls was football and old man turkey, one-time king of Thanksgiving day, had to take a back seat, what with the scarcity of gobblers on the market and the high price of drumsticks. All in all, Wichita Falls is in for a big time today in a football way when the referee blows his whistle and cries:

"Are you ready, Wichita Falls?"

Beatrice Burton Tells Secret of Finding Fiction Plots

She Just "Writes About People" and Their Modern Problems

Beatrice Burton, that delightful authoress who writes so interestingly about commonplace things and everyday life in her serial stories, has given an exclusive interview to The Record News, answering that oft-repeated question to a person of literary fame — just where do you get your plots and your characters for your stories?

Miss Burton, the Jane Austen of her time, has her writings published in Wichita Falls by The Record News exclusively and throughout the nation by more than 500 leading newspapers of the Central Press association. She is particularly remembered at this time as the author of "Sally's Shoulders." She has written also such novels as "The Hollywood Girl," "The Flapper Wife," "Her Man" and others.

Her answer to the question, in brief, was: 'I get my plots and characters from people themselves —from watching them, listening to them."

Miss Burton went into detail.

"People really carry their own stories around with them. Anybody who really looks a person over can tell quite a lot about that person's life.

"No matter where I go, I can see stories in people. In their faces, their words, their clashes, their way of doing things.

"They don't have to be dressed up or made exciting—those stories. They can be written just as they are. There's nothing more entertaining than life as it really is. There's nothing half so interesting as human beings as they are, with the faults and virtues, their high tempers, and their generosity and kindliness.

"I do my best to write in that way. I try to make my typewriter take snapshots of people—not cabinet photographs all touched up and idealized to look beautiful and unreal.

"That is the way I tried to show you the France family and Lily Lexington in my new story, 'Money Love'—the story of an American family and a headstrong wilful girl who started out in the wrong direction."

"Money Love" will appear in The Record News beginning Friday, Nov. 25.

TALLEY BRINGS MANY VISITORS

Plenty of Good Seats Left, Says Director

When Marion Talley, the distinguished young soprano of the Metropolitan Opera company, steps out on the stage of Wichita Falls' marvelous new auditorium for her concert Friday night, she will face an audience of large proportions made up of music lovers, not only of Wichita Falls but from all over Northwest Texas and many Oklahoma towns. According to Mrs. G. B. Smedley who is chairman of the concert committee for the Womans Forum under whose auspices, Miss Talley sings here, the sale of seats has been very large.

"However," said Mrs. Smedley, "there are plenty of good seats left at all prices thanks to the proportions of the new auditorium, which makes it possible for us to accommodate a large crowd and seat them comfortably where all may see and hear splendidly.

"There is not really a poor seat in the auditorium and the acoustics are so perfect that it is possible to hear even speaking voices excellently from any location. Since music carries so well, it is certain that every one in the auditorium will hear Marion Talley to the best advantage. And we hope no one will stay away, for there are plenty of seats left. We are putting in several hundred chairs on the main floor at the special rate of $1.50 to accommodate special crowds of students. All these seats will be reserved, and we shall keep the office at McConnell Brothers open all day Thursday for ticket purchasers."

The wonderful acoustic properties of the auditorium have been the subject of much favorable comment from all who have been in it and Wichita Falls citizens have a right to feel great pride in such a building which makes possible such things as the Talley concert, music leaders say, and this will be the thirty-sixth concert Miss Talley has sung since the beginning of the present tour, and enthusiastic reports have come from every point.

Houston Pastor Praises Wichita's Hospitality and People in Letter

Editor of News Record:

May I not be permitted to say that the hospitality extended by Wichita Falls to the Baptist Convention of Texas has seldom been equaled and never excelled. It has been my privilege to attend the last twenty-seven annual gatherings of the Baptist hosts of the Lone Star state, therefore, I know the subject on which I would speak this simple word of heartfelt praise as the voluntary impulse of my heart. It seemed that everybody and everything worked in beautiful cooperation to make our week in Wichita Falls an outstanding one of pleasantness. The weather was ideal and the spirit of the people matched the wonderful autumn weather. Everybody was impressed with the happy welcome extended by Mayor Shepherd (some of us Rotarians wished he might have given us a song along with his eloquent and witty remarks), and by Dr. Powers. The distinguished and beloved pastor of the First Baptist church deserves a Thanksgiving turkey from your chamber of commerce for his clever locating of Wichita Falls—"Just West of the rainy East, just East of the windy West, just South of the frigid North, just North of the torrid South." The municipal auditorium that was opened with our convention is a thing of beauty and will be a great asset to your city. It is commodious, well appointed, and one of the few such buildings with perfect acoustics. It is the easiest large building in which to speak that it has been my privilege to find. And the thoughtfulness of the people of Wichita Falls, their generous use of automobiles to drive the visitors over the beautiful streets, their open home and open hearts, the courtesy of the hotel people and of everybody else, has written a new chapter in convention hospitality! The only difficulty about Wichita Falls was that it was so hard to leave.

Sincerely yours,

E. P. WEST,
Houston, Texas.

LEGION KICKS ARMS POLICY

Commander Spafford Tells Veteran's Ideas

By Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—The men who fought the last war protested to President Coolidge today that the United States is failing to maintain an army, navy and air service adequate for the national defense.

Speaking for more than 1,000,000 veterans enrolled in the American Legion and in the interest of veterans as a whole, Edward E. Spafford of New York, national commander, presented the legion's program for legislation to the president and urged that he incorporate its ideas into his coming message to congress.

Commander Spafford protested that the penurious policy of the house and senate appropriations committees has left the army with a skeleton force unable to effect "a complete and immediate mobilization in the event of emergency."

While the United States lags far behind, the other seapowers of the world are forging ahead steadily with their programs for construction of great fleets of cruisers and other war vessels outside the proscriptions of the Washington Naval Treaty, Spafford said.

Despite the president's deep interest in aviation, the country is actually in the rear of its own five-year program for upbuilding the army and navy air services, the commander protested.

These arms of defense must be sustained to prevent needless slaughter of American youth in the future, Spafford insisted. He declared:

"All American wars in the past have been fought by her citizen soldiers and sailors, and in all these wars inadequate preparation needlessly sacrificed lives of hundreds of thousands of American boys who were forced to fight insufficiently equipped and trained. This prolonged our wars and greatly increased our public debt."

BARNETT WINS THIRD TRIAL

Appeals Court Again Reverses Case

Bob Barnett, twice convicted of murder in connection with the death of Sheriff I. H. Ikard of Archer county, Sept. 22, 1925, may again face the trial court. Each time his conviction has been reversed by the court of criminal appeals at Austin on the grounds that the evidence was not sufficient.

District Attorney Ben Allred could not be reached Wednesday for a statement as to what he will do in the matter. He was reported enroute from Archer City to Bowie to spend Thanksgiving with his parents.

Barnett was tried as principal on the ground that in standing as a lookout for the actual slayers he aided and approved of their acts. The higher court stated it was "unable to reach the conclusion that the facts were sufficient to prove that the appellant (Barnett) had agreed to commission of the offense, or at the time of the commission thereof, he was doing some part in the execution by common design."

AUTO RECOVERED

A Ford coupe for which automobile thieves seem to have a penchant was recovered by Wichita Falls police officers just 24 hours after it had been stolen from Shawnee, Okla. It was parked in the 400 block on Lamar street when found. Local police received a card Tuesday evening from the Shawnee officers telling of the theft of the car. A short time later it had been found. A search of police records of stolen cars disclosed the fact that the same automobile had been reported stolen by Shawnee police in March. It was recovered, to be stolen again.

Wolves Pay Visit To Home In Electra

Stolen Hens Return Bereft of Feathers

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Nov. 23.—Jack Ligon, who resides at 407 West Ida avenue, has purchased a high powered rifle and lies in wait at night to literally keep the wolf away from his door.

The cause of this precaution was a visit Sunday night to the rear door of the residence of three coyotes. The wolves also swept through the chicken roosts, taking with them several chickens.

Mr. Ligon, awakened by the noise, frightened the unwelcome visitors away but they returned twice before daybreak, stealing chickens each time.

Monday afternoon, to make the story really a good one, the forlorn chickens which had been stolen the night before came straggling to the Ligon home. Evidencing that they had experienced living tortures, the fowls were minus the feathers from their backs and heads.

Now Mr. Ligon hopes to greet the mauranders with hot lead should they attempt to repeat the visit.

Wilbarger Commissioners Accept Plans of Wichita Architects

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, Nov. 23.—Commissioners of Wilbarger county have tentatively agreed on a design for a proposed new courthouse as submitted by Voelcker and Dixon, architects, of Wichita Falls, Judge J. V. Townsend announced.

Photographs of the design will be submitted within a few days. The building is to cost approximately $375,000.

Consideration of the proposed structure is an indicative measure of the commissioners' intention to call an election. A petition is being circulated here asking the commissioners to call the election, and it will be presented soon.

The new building would have four floors, which measure 140x90 feet, according to the design. It is believed this would provide ample room for two district court rooms, two justice of peace rooms, and a county court room. Adequate to serve a county of 75,000 population, the structure would allow space for offices of all county officials, including the county clerk, auditor, treasurer, and commissioners, who at present are not in the courthouse because of the existing crowded condition.

Offices of the sheriff, tax collector, tax assessor, and county clerk, would be on the main floor of the proposed building.

Monks Care Nothing For Movies of Kind

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Nov. 23. (AP)—The monkey is not interested in the movies, even when a likeness of their kind is thrown upon the screen.

That conclusion was drawn by young scientists from the University of Pittsburgh and Carnegie Tech last night after they had watched the reactions of the monkey family at Highland park zoo to the showing of "The Gorilla," a motion picture in which a huge gorilla is the principal actor.

Their reactions were first a loud protest, apparently against the interruption of their evening slumber. Then they settled down and went to sleep despite the goings on about them.

BEWARE OF COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.—(adv.)

MODISH MITZI — A Completely Old Fashioned Turkey — By JAY V. JAY

Everything is all right. The old fashioned Thanksgiving day has been saved by the turkey! Everything else about the farm may have been modernized, but the turkey upholds the old customs. It's the only old fashioned person at the party, though. Certainly there is nothing old fashioned about Mitzi's frock which has a blouse of meal cloth just edged at the neck with velvet to match the velvet skirt. Aunt Sophia wears black chiffon velvet with a most becoming vest and standing collar of creamy old lace. The cousin next to her wears a jolly dress of tucked chiffon that has cape sleeves that bring a sporting air to this afternoon costume.

Polly's dress is trimmed with a waterfall of ribbon on one shoulder and both blouse and skirt are gathered into draped folds just one side of the center waistline. The other cousin wears a printed velvet frock that has a bolero cut with a wide girdle of plain velvet under the little jacket. Dad wears a beaming smile, although he is wondering whether Bill is quite capable of carving that turkey. After all, he's six months older than Bill—perhaps he'd better assert himself and take the destiny of this noble bird into his own hands. But Bill is about to announce that if the company will take their seats instead of offering advice he will begin the meeting.

EDUCATING PARENTS

By DR. REED

Environment Plays Big Part in Child's Development

By Chas. A. L. Reed, M. D., Former President of the American Medical Association.

THERE is a certain similarity between a growing child and a sprouting plant. A seedling, once it sprouts, grows through the chemical stimulation of the soil and robs that soil for its food. The new-born child puts on weight in strict relation to the material it absorbs from its environment. This method of growth applies equally to its mind. Without the external stimulus there is no growth. The environment—its mother, relatives and nurse—provides the stimulus to its senses; the brain appreciates this stimulus as sensation and the child's intelligence is built up piece by piece. This is the only way in which a child's mind grows.

DR. CHAS. A. L. REED

It is impossible to hasten growth or force food. We cannot give anything to the child. We can only, like gardeners, tend the soil and put into it the proper materials. Parents, therefore, must shift their focus of concentration from what they want to give the child, to what they should do with their own lives. They can only enrich the home by their own development, physical and moral, and the home is the child's environment.

Racial culture, therefore, means parent culture. The seed is good, but cannot thrive if the parents create a bad environment. By the time parents have produced four or five children they are probably incapable of changing that environment. Their mutual relationship—the all-important thing—is set and the first enthusiasm of marriage is gone.

The experiment staged by the Pioneer Health Centre, Peckham, London, and reported by Jones-Pearse, is this. It is impossible to take children away from their parents, and impossible to change the parents. Therefore its promotors set out to enrich and consolidate family life by establishing a welfare centre in which they could approach young people at marriage and use their enthusiasm to promote the welfare of their children. They try to attract father and mother together as co-partners in parenthood. They give advice on physiological and psychological matters by means of periodic medical and dental consultations and parent clinics. They try to keep alive the interest of the individual parents by opening the centre to them as a family club, where they can come with the whole family and enjoy themselves. The artisan class is greatly hampered by the lack of any place of recreation where husband and wife are able to come and go together. The centre aims at continuance of companionship between the two. Lastly, there is a holiday nursery where parents can leave their children on Saturday or Sunday afternoons and then be free to spend their leisure together as they did in courtship and early marriage.

The centre's activities are confined to a limited area, and it is run on a subscription basis. The experiment opens up vast fields of education, social service and scientific experiment.

Will all medical and educational services of the future revolve round centres of this kind, which have the parents and family life as their basis? It well may be.

THE MISSES BEAUTIFUL AND THE SNOW-BIRDS

DRAWN BY NELL BRINKLEY

THERE is Love-in-a-Mist. Love-in-Spring. Love-in-Despair. Love-in-the-Clouds. Love-in-a-Cottage. Love-in-a-Palace. And there's Love-in-the-Snow.

Love is a butterfly in the Summer. But he doesn't die with the green leaves, or go sleep-fast through the Winter. He turns into a snow-bird! But unlike the bird who sang "pee-dee-dee" in the old peach tree and wouldn't let the little girl knit mittens for him, HE will flock gladly in through the first cosy door that is opened to him. And stay forever; IF not expected to live in a cage. An open cage-door is his idea of an invitation to die. He had rather live in the snow on the few crumbs he can pick up here and there.

Love's a tame little bird—but shy of the word possession. You can touch him with a finger—but a hand closed round him is too much. He will infest a balcony with a Lady Bountiful and food upon it. He will gladly come inside by the flame of your fire. IF THE FRENCH WINDOW IS NEVER LOCKED. And if with his bright eye he sees it isn't, it is more than likely that he will ruffle his wings no more in the cold winds of the open sky!

The world is always whimpering about Love and the wounds they get of him. "Unstable! Nothing in him," they shout. But how poorly has the world of men and women handled Love! Not one in ten thousand will give him the thought, the patience, that they will a business they want to make successful. And he, the cheerful thing, will live on charity and a few crumbs. They expect such glory and such a happiness to come to them from him as is in nothing else in all the world; and yet they treat him shabbily. They call him the most wonderful thing in the world and use him as the most common.

Lady Bountiful, give more than a crumb to the Snow-Bird on your balcony. He will live on cold comfort. But he will fill your house with the Song of Love, on understanding!

How To Manage Spouse Who's Disloyal

Dear Dorothy Dix—At the age of 21 I married a sweet, beautiful girl who was a wonderful wife and housekeeper. In my early days I was very dissipated and my wife suffered for this. I was a brute. Later my wife, working by my side, helped me establish a successful business, and I became a leader in my church; but after a while I became infatuated with a young woman whom I thought my soul-mate. I considered my wife too old-fashioned and forced her to divorce me, but the girl proved to be a shallow, soulless creature with only a pretty face. I lost my business, friends, church connection along with my wife. I thought my wife would pine away and die broken-hearted, but later I met her again and she is beautiful, brimming with happiness and is planning to marry an old sweetheart soon. Her eyes seem to be smiling "Thank you" at me. I want my wife back. I need her. I want to atone to her for my neglect and sin. Shall I appeal to her to break off this marriage?

SORRY.

Answer: Every man has a right to fight for his own happiness and do the best he can for himself, and so it is your privilege to try to win your wife back if you can.

But if she has the intelligence and strength of character that she appears to have, you will have a very poor show of inducing her to throw over your rival for you. She will argue that if marriage is a lottery, it is better to take a chance on the unknown than on one who has proved himself a total loss.

You see, the trouble with you is that she knows you. She has tried you out and found how weak and disloyal and untrustworthy you are. She stood by you in the days when you were sowing your wild oats and helped you reap the bitter harvest. She worked and saved and sacrificed to help you get a start, and when you succeeded you rewarded her devotion by forsaking her for another woman.

Why would any woman who wasn't an utter imbecile want to go back to a man like that?

You say that you have repented, that you are sorry for the way you treated her and that you want to make up to her for it. Of course, you are sorry, but oceans of tears of repentance cannot wipe out what has happened or make things as they were. For how can you atone to a wife for the humiliation of having put another woman in her place, for having dragged her through the sordidness of the divorce court, for having her home broken up and her faith in love and men shattered?

We say we forgive those who have wronged us, but it is an idle gesture. A wound may heal, but it leaves its ineffaceable scar, and no will of ours can blot out the black memories of the things we have been made to suffer.

Many men think that they can abuse and neglect their wives and be unfaithful to them and that all that they have to do is to say they are sorry when they get tired of their philandering and that everything will be forgiven and forgotten, but this is not true. The wife may take her husband back for the sake of her children, for the sake of her pride, for the sake of being supported, but there is always between them her memory of the wrong he has done her, her knowledge that he is not to be trusted, and there is a grave in her heart in which is buried her young love.

It is good news to hear that your wife has not broken her heart over your desertion of her, for it shows that women are coming to take a saner and more reasonable view of this matter of the unfaithful husband. It has always been a profound mystery why any woman wanted a tear of regret over losing one. She should have considered it a good riddance of bad rubbish.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—I have been married 12 years. My husband makes only a small salary that barely gives us the necessities of life, and he has no prospects of making more. We have no children. Office work appeals to me, but I have passed my 35th birthday. Do you thing that I am too old to take a business course?

ANXIOUS.

Answer: Certainly not. A woman of 40 is just in her prime and can learn anything she wants to learn. Generally she is more efficient than a young girl, because she has got the subject of marrying off her chest and is ready to settle down to her life work and make good at it.

The main thing for you to decide upon is in just what your talents consist and what you are best fitted to do. Take stock of your abilities very carefully, then cash in on your strongest attribute.

Make yourself an expert in whatever you decide to do, so that you will be able to command a good salary. It is only first-class work that gets first-class pay. Remember that a woman of 40 will not have the same chance to get employment as a young girl would unless she can show that she is highly qualified for the job.

DOROTHY DIX.

HER HUSBAND'S SECRETARY

By William Almon Wolff

Eileen Rescues John.

"SO!" he cried. "This is the way you go on when you think I'm away!"

He stood glaring at his wife. He turned on John MacVeagh.

"And you! I've done enough for you to be entitled to think I could trust your friendship!" he said. "Yet I find you carrying on with my wife——"

"Mr. Lovewell!" Eileen's voice, soft and gentle but singularly clear, interrupted him, "whatever are you talking about? John and I wanted to swim—Marcia just came along to chaperone us. I think you're making a ridiculous fuss about nothing!"

He started, stared at her; swallowed his next word. She was a lovely picture in her clinging garment that revealed every line and curve of her young body. As he stared at her she gave a little cry and snatched up a coat and drew it close about her.

"Yes, Henry," said Marcia. "Really! I'm surprised! What right have you to come here acting like this?"

"Eileen—you here!" said Lovewell, surprised, dismayed. "Why—I thought—I heard——"

"Of course I'm here," she said. "Please, Mr. Lovewell, you're not going to make a fuss, are you? Mother would be furious with me."

"Of course he's not going to make a fuss, my dear," said Marcia. She had recovered her customary poise; her moment of panic was past. She flashed a smile at her husband. "Henry's a darling, really. He thinks we're frightfully unconventional, though, don't you, dear?"

"Well——" Lovewell, disconcerted, feeling himself put, somehow, in the wrong, though he knew, really, that he had been in the right, didn't know what to say. "I must say, my dear, that your costume——"

"Oh, hush!" said Marcia. "I'm just as fully dressed as I am in a bathing suit! You're so old-fashioned darling! It was so warm—and I really didn't think John and Eileen ought to come here swimming at night alone—you know how people talk when you give them a chance."

"I certainly do!" said Lovewell, grimly. That—that's just what I think you've been forgetting lately, Marcia."

"I?" she said. "But, how absurd! I'm a model of good conduct. I suppose perhaps I'm so sure of myself that I don't always give enough thought to appearances." She drew herself up proudly. "So many people have nasty minds. I'm sure I'm sorry, Henry, if anyone's annoyed you by talking about me. And I shall see to it that they have no chance to do so, even falsely, in the future."

"Well, well," said Lovewell, appeased. "Perhaps I was hasty. I—I didn't see little Eileen, at first. John—shake hands, and let's forget this. What do you say?"

"Oh!" John started; then, faintly reluctant, he put out his hand. "Yes—yes, by all means."

"Wait till you're married yourself—you'll know what it is to be jealous then," said Lovewell, fatuously. "When a man's married to the most beautiful woman—"

"Henry! Spare my blushes!" said Marcia.

"Please—I think we better put on our things, now, Marcia, don't you?" said Eileen.

"I certainly do," said Marcia. "You're a wise little head on those pretty shoulders of yours, Eileen."

And that sentiment, John MacVeagh thought, he was prepared most decidedly to echo. He was still appalled by the narrowness of his and Marcia's escape. For there was no use in pretending that he could afford in the present state of things to incur Henry Lovewell's enmity. The banker was a good friend, but he had proved more than once that he could be a dangerous and vindictive foe, and John needed and for some time to come would continue to need his friendship and support.

He made no effort to be alone with Marcia again that night. Instead, it was with Eileen that he went back to the party, and he stayed close by her till it was over and acted also as her escort on the way home.

"You certainly saved us from a very awkward situation," he said. "I'll always be grateful to you."

But Eileen was looking away.

"I don't want your gratitude," she said.

Her voice was cold and scornful.

"Why—Eileen! What's the matter?"

"Oh, I think it's disgusting!" she broke out. "The way you and Marcia carry on! I should think you'd be ashamed!"

"Maybe I am," he said, soberly.

That softened her. And, in any case, her anger was directed far more at Marcia than at him. Naturally. Women, even young girls, are like that, whether it is fair or not that they should be.

"That Marcia!" said Eileen. "I hate her! Playing with a man like you—making you risk everything! She doesn't care a snap of her fingers for you, really—she just leads you on because she's vain and wants to show her power!"

"Oh, come—I don't think that's fair!" said John. "Blame me as much as you please, but——"

"Oh, I blame you, too! You're a man—and men are always foolish about a woman like Marcia, especially when they're very young like you. Marcia flatters your vanity—she"——

"I must say—Eileen, I am grateful to you, but you've no right——"

"Of course, I haven't. I'm sorry. There's no reason why you should care about what I think of you."

But that, oddly enough, didn't please John, either.

"I certainly do care what you think," he said. "Don't get the idea that I don't. I—Eileen, I've never realized until just lately what a person you are. I wish——"

He stopped, and she didn't help him.

"I'd like to see more of you," he finished, lamely.

"Thanks—but I don't care for Marcia's remnants!"

"You'll see!" he said. "Marcia—that never did amount to anything, and it's all over now. Eileen—I—oh, I know I mustn't talk to you now—but later, when I've proved——"

She looked at him.

"We'll see," she said.

To Be Continued.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By Beatrice Fairfax

Young "Free-Thinker."

THERE is usually a grain of truth in all philosophies, and often-times there is more than a little logic and truth in the so-called radical views of youth.

Here is a letter signed "Free-Thinker," which sounds extremely young:

"Dear Miss Fairfax:

"My girl friends accuse me of free-thinking. And they say no man would ever consent to my views.

"I believe that married women should be allowed perfect freedom. A woman should be allowed to go out with other men after marriage and should be permitted to join in any and all of the activities which she enjoyed before marriage.

"Girls should not be called gold-diggers because they marry for money. They have just as much right to marry for any pleasure they can get out of money as men have for marrying to better themselves financially. Do you believe I am at all justified in my views?

"FREE-THINKER."

WHAT a ultra-modern flapper you are, Miss Free-Thinker! Although after all, rebellious youth has always existed in every generation.

Married women have greater freedom than ever before, it is true. They enjoy nearly all the activities of single life, such as careers and political life and club life—if they wish to do so. But just one weighty reason usually restrains a married woman from going about with other men after marriage. Her husband is made unhappy if she does so. And she is usually glad he does wish her for himself and would be sorry if he were willing to share her companionship freely with every other man. It is sweet to be loved and we usually delight in making those who love us, happy. That is why a man and woman who are married do not go about freely with those of the opposite sex. Besides, there is such a thing as fidelity to one's wedding vows, to one's home and family and honor. There is such a thing as playing the game.

A woman has a perfect right to sell herself in marriage if she wishes and is honest in her bargaining. But most of us prefer love and congenial companionship to things money buys.

Household Hints

Do not use soda to clean aluminum. A little pumice powder on a damp rag is most effective.

To clean very tarnished silver, mix a few rops of ammonia, instead of water, with the plate powder.

After you have cooked fish boil some used tea leaves in the pan. This removes the fishy smell.

Patent leather can be made to last twice as long by the application of a little vaseline once a week. Rub it well in and polish with a soft duster.

Fashion Fads and Fancies

By Mildred Ash.

Nurturing nature as the arch designer of them all, French fashion authorities are turning to natural sources for the decorative motifs with which to embroider evening gowns. Embroidered in silk floss or metallic thread, a tremendous spider web covers almost one entire side of one striking dress, while another has its whole front covered by a giant dragon fly, done in metallic thread and brilliant stones. Besides many other insects, huge leaves are a popular theme for these elaborate embroideries.

Making light of feminine vanity the new vanity cases are made to closely resemble the lighters with which they are so frequently paired in the purses of women who possess the latest novelties. These cases, in silver, gold, enamel or brass or nickel, are shaped and styled almost exactly like the popular cigarette lighters and contain lip sticks, powder and rouge compacts and mirrors.

Silk squares stress stripes in all-over designs of fine stripes with broadly striped borders. Of heavy crepe de chine, these kerchief scarfs are so mannish in theme that they would be quite suitable for men's mufflers.

SHADOW KIDS

Our Rhyming OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis.

IT is not just the deeds you do each day, your acts, whose import may be great or small; it is not wholly in the words you say, but in the meaning that lies back of all. It may not be your part to succor men, to lift them out of lives of dross and stain, to set their steps on upward ways again, to tune their ears once more to hope's refrain. Life may not grant you joys as deep as these, however you may long to set men free from fear and pain, from doubts and tyrannies and all the sorrow, all the care you see. But if within your inmost self you bear a steadfast purpose vowed to truth and right, you can not wholly fail; you needs must share with all your brothers something of the light.

Program for Thanksgiving Season Shows Varied and Elaborate Events

Although the Thanksgiving season has been set aside by custom and tradition as the one time of the year when members of the family and close friends may be united in intimate groups, the Thanksgiving week-end for Wichita Falls is by no means lacking in entertainments for those who can spare a few hours from the family group.

The Marion Talley concert to be given in the City auditorium on Friday evening will eclipse all other events for the week-end and music lovers have already demonstrated their eagerness to hear the young Kansas City girl by remaining in Wichita Falls over the Thanksgiving holiday.

Among the events that will receive attention during the holidays are the Marion Talley concert which will honor the city auditorium on Friday evening; the Thanksgiving tea given on Thursday afternoon at 4 to 5 o'clock, for the members of the Womans Forum and their out-of-town guests; the Chinese luncheon which is being sponsored by the literature department of the Womans Forum, and the luncheon to be given Saturday for members of the Junior department of the Forum.

Those who have reserved tickets are requested to call at McConnell's to make their payments previous to Friday morning in order that such unpaid tickets may be turned back for re-sale, according to Mrs. G. B. Smedley, chairman of the Marion Talley concert.

While in the city Miss Elsa Martin will place her late book, "George P. Snyder and Glen Rose," on sale at one of the stores of the city.

Mrs. James P. Bowen of the Forum are department is chairman of the service at the Chinese luncheon. Mrs. Bowen is a former feature writer for the Inquirers and Expositor association of the western coast. After residing for three years in the Orient, Mrs. Bowen is especially well equipped to arrange the luncheon service.

Concert Party To Occupy Nine Rooms at Hotel

The Marion Talley party will occupy nine rooms at the Kemp hotel when they arrive here Thursday evening though the individuals in the party have not all been disclosed to the members of the Womans Forum in charge of arrangements.

With a party large enough to occupy nine rooms, it is small wonder that they have been accused of being clannish.

"The Talleys," said a distinguished member of the Metropolitan Opera company, "are always pleasant to everybody—but aren't they clannish!"

Later, when somebody told this to Marion Talley, she looked positively puzzled, brows knitted above wide blue eyes, pink lips pressed tight. Then a light broke and she flashed her really beautiful smile:

"Why, I never thought of it before," said this most popular of all America's young singers, "but I guess we are, if 'clannish' means that we're always happy together, we three, and think alike, feel alike and act alike. Many a night after the opera or concert, Mamma, Florence and I get into our house-gowns and slippers and just talk and talk and t-a-l-k. Once, on the Pullman between Chicago and Kansas City, we actually stayed awake talking till four in the morning.

"What do we find to talk about? That's what lots of people ask. They say we're always together and yet we never get through talking. I think the answer is that things are always happening. We travel so much, see so much, meet so many people, have such thrilling times and so many plans and ambitions that it just naturally furnishes talk-material! Our minds are 'on the same wire' so to say. And if we don't always have the exact same opinions, we do have a sympathetic understanding. We never jangle—truly we don't. We just enjoy one another's company, and Mamma, for all her quietness, is as young as Florence or I."

Mrs. Glover Hostess To Sorosis Luncheon

Mrs. M. H. Glover was hostess to the Sorosis club at a lovely Thanksgiving luncheon at her home, 1212 11th street, Wednesday.

The table was attractively decorated with autumn leaves and cut flowers, miniature turkeys forming individual plate favors.

Following the luncheon a brief business session was held before the club program was taken up.

With Mrs. Scannell as leader, the following program was given: Roll Call, "What I Would Choose for My Library", "How to Develop a Taste For Good Reading," Mrs. Taylor; "Books to Buy and Books to Borrow," Mrs. Timblin; and "Lives of Three Women Novelists of Today," Mrs. Scannell.

The following were present: Mesdames A. W. Burnside, M. H. Glover, Joe D. Harris, O. E. Haynie, R. E. Hilburn, I. W. Kurrenbach, W. F. Lowry, H. D. Pelichard, W. E. Timblin, Lee McCarty, Harrison Buchanan, E. E. Scannell, and W. Malone.

The regular program for the day was as follows: "Shakespeare's Contemporaries", Mrs. Bailey; "The Stage of Shakespeare", Mrs. Boardman; acts four and five of "Twelfth Night" reviewed by different members of the club discussing various characters of the drama, with Mrs. C.L. Bunn as the leader.

The following were present: Mesdames C. E. Bailey, Bunn, E. D. Bunn, W. E. Brothers, J. N. Cattot, S. L. Conn, F. B. Creighton, J. H. Davis, O. M. Dilbert, L. L. Boardman, J. M. Isbell, T. P. Kelm, R. A. Lincoln, F. E. McConnell, A. C. Price, R. D. Ford, and H. M. Ford of Michigan and Berry.

The luncheon and games Wednesday replaced the regular Thursday meeting, which advanced on account of the Thanksgiving holiday.

Young Wichita Falls

Jack Berry has more than a Thanksgiving turkey dinner to be thankful for, don't you think? Did you ever see anyone with so much "it?" A pair of deep brown eyes, a wealth of almost black hair, and the pretty combination of features shown above—a fellow doesn't need to be bothered concerning the definition of that quality called "it."

Not that Jack is bothered much just yet—such things are mere trivialities compared with trains, kiddy kars and the family of bouncing balls of which the one shown in the photo is a member. But playing with Helen, aged 11, and Glenn Lee, aged seven is much more fun than any inanimate toy, and in this rather noisy group of youngsters Jack may be found any day after school hours.

The children resemble closely, Mrs. Berry says, and all three are handsomer than their father, (Mrs. Berry is still being quoted.) They are the children of Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Berry, 2512 Ninth street. Mrs. Berry was Miss Beryl Murph previous to her marriage and has made her home in Wichita Falls since she was a small girl.

Community Study Club Entertains Husbands

Members of the Community Study club entertained their husbands and families at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Gueder, at "Wood Bine" their home on Beverly drive, Tuesday evening.

Wade, R. L. Taylor, Ruble Johnson, J. B. Miller, T. L. Millican, Richard Thompson, W. H. Osborn, L. P. Bransford, H. C. Ayers, J. R. Gueder, and Mesdames R. W. Windhim, J. M. Millican, Ewing E. Zell, J. H. Thompson, V. P. The wedding setting of orchid and yellow plumy chrysanthemums, southern smilax, baskets of flowers, and lighted cathedral candles formed a beautiful background for the nuptial service.

Why the Farmer Is Hard Pressed

SENATOR CAPPER of Kansas addressed 10,000 National Grange members in convention in an Ohio city. He declared he was unable to see a complete solution to the farm problem in legislation of any kind, but believed congress would draw up legislation that would aid in stabilizing farm products.

He announced his opposition to emergency legislation. He called for a national policy that would persist for generations so that agriculture shall prosper and bring prosperity to all.

This could be done he said, by enactment of legislation to place the growers of things on an equality with the makers of things. He reminded his vast audience of farmers that "the kernel of the whole agricultural problem is the difference between the value of what a farmer sells and what he buys.

buys. Official figures show what a farmer sells will bring only 30 per cent more than before the war. What he buys costs 54 per cent more, and the difference between the 30 and 54 percent is a handicap against agriculture."

This senator from the Sunflower state is a price fixer. He never deserts the Republican reservation. He votes the ticket straight. Now just what will he do if the platform makers of his party ignore the demands of the champion of the McNary-Haugen bill?

Will he stick or will he bolt? Three or four times since the close of the civil war, political revolutions have taken place in Kansas and the organization of the elephant shattered but not broken. It may come again, if the Kansas wheat growers vote as they talk.

There is a war on between the growers of things and the makers of things in this republic. Some day there will be a show down.

Some day the growers of things may stand and win together at the ballot box, just as the makers of things have been doing for more than 50 years.

Walsh For the Majority Rule

SENATOR THOMAS J. WALSH of Montana has reversed himself. He was permanent chairman of the Madison Square Garden convention. He was a stalwart leader of the McAdoo forces. Now he has declared for the abrogation of the two-thirds rule, regardless of the consequences or how it may affect the fortunes of individuals.

This nemesis of the American senate has let the Democrats of the country know that a majority rule is a sound and a safe rule and that next year will be the time to apply it in the naming of a presidential standard bearer for the Democrats of the republic to vote for in the month of November of that year.

There is a growing suspicion abroad in the land that Senator Walsh hopes that lightning may strike him as the choice of ultra dry Democrats and the growers of things in the agricultural sections of America.

He stood ready for lightning to strike him in 1924 for first place, but Bryan switched to Meredith of Iowa and rumor hath it that a letter written by McAdoo found its way to a private waste basket instead of the hands of Walsh and others who were very close to the former secretary of the treasury.

Howell Stands Hitched

SENATOR HOWELL of Nebraska was elected as a republican. He has let it be known that Nebraska would send a united delegation to the next republican national convention instructed for Senator George W. Norris for president.

He has let it be known that he is going to act with western republican senators who are behind the Norris candidacy. He has let it be known that he is going to demand the enactment of the McNary-Haugen farm bill, as orginally written, at the coming session of congress.

He has let it be known that he is for the growers of things and that they must be given the same protection by the government that has been granted the makers of things by the government.

Political signs of the times indicate that there will be something doing next year.

The Day Book of a New Yorker

By BURTON RASCOE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—A recent issue of one of the weeklies had a cigarette advertisement, which was the first public admission, to my knowledge, that women smoke. The ad was enlivened by a sketch of two girls arguing over the relative merits of various smokes, and although to the average reader the piece looked innocent enough, it really marked a revolutionary change in the attitude of tobacco firms. It is commonplace enough, the idea of women smoking, in the big cities of the country. But of course there are vast stretches, in the middle west particularly, where a cigaret in a feminine hand is still the badge of iniquity. So the advertising department of that cigaret manufacturing company braved a storm of angry letters from Kansas and Iowa when it o. k.'d the proofs of that copy.

On Broadway, among the Two Hundred and Umpty Umph streets, is a hopeful sign reading "Subway entrance. The subway at this point has been in course of construction longer than I like to remember, and I imagine the meaningless sign is a source of constant irritation to people in the neighborhood.

You can walk a mile for a mail-box in Manhattan—and even then you may not be lucky enough to find one. In nearly every other place where I've lived, the mail-box has been a commonplace, a ready convenience. But in New York the postal higher-ups are evidently stingy about installing collection boxes. Time and time again I have trailed aimlessly around City Hall park, seeking a slot for an important letter. And I always end up, tired and very much exasperated, by posting it in the box inside the Pulitzer building. This means crossing Park Row at a decidedly congested point. A similar lack of post boxes is observed in the small Westchester towns, in Brooklyn and the Bronx.

Once on a time it was fine, lofty thing to be a dramatic critic in New York City. Occasionally such a dignity could draw down a pair of seats for a friend, visiting town, or for his boss, the managing editor. Now, so great is the popularity of the theater, the critic shows off his influence by assisting his acquaintance to buy seats. Thus, friends of mine recently succeeded in buying, through the proud help of a reviewer, matinee tickets for "Rio Rita." And for a month in advance.

Double features at the neighborhood movie house often achieve humorous title combinations. In the Bronx yesterday I saw this one:

THE CRUISE OF THE HELICON, SWIM, GIRL, SWIM!

I like the city in the rain. You can only crawl across town in a taxi, but if you are wearing a rubber coat and are not burdened with an umbrella, you may enjoy the glimmer of reflections in the onyx pavements, the giddy blur of green and red lights in high up bronze traffic towers. Most people carrying umbrellas, I find, are exceedingly inconsiderate. Head down, weapon poised, they are more likely than not to charge down the wrong side of the walk, and deadly is the traffic jam of pedestrians carrying the webbed staffs of destruction.

Harlem got its biggest thrill in many years out of the funeral of Florence Mills, its idol singer. There's nothing in the world the average negro enjoys more than a good, spectacular burying, and the pomp and circumstance attending the passing of this magnetic dark-skinned music hall star satisfied even the greediest sensation seeker.

HATTIE

A STORY OF LOVE AND SACRIFICE

By SAMUEL MERWIN

CHAPTER FORTY-ONE.

He stood on the curb, looking on, while the limousine moved slowly through the crowd that all but stormed it. Once, before it turned the corner, he saw a white little face with bewildered eyes seeking him. He waved, and the face was gone. . . . But he couldn't linger here. He must get home to that little mother of his. And his work had stopped. He had meant to write on the train. Now, not without bitterness, he asked himself if he could ever write again.

She called up before nine in the morning. She hadn't been able to sleep much, she said. Somehow she must shake off these people. It was in her mind to slip away for a visit to the mailing room, and she wanted him to come with her. "I'll be down stairs in the lounge in half an hour," she said. "You can pick me up, and we'll walk over. I'd love to walk."

But when he entered the lounge, Mr. Henderson sat beside a crestfallen slip of a girl; and close at hand stood a patient young man with a camera. And he had seen that limousine out in front. There was nothing for it but to go as one of the party. Hattie couldn't be herself. They photographed her in the mailing room, surrounded by her old acquaintances. On the way back to the hotel Mr. Henderson explained that they might not use the pictures. He would have to talk that over, as a matter of policy, with Mr. de Brissac and Mr. Hamlin. They would be in before noon.

Hattie gave him a faltering glance. So Arthur had come along! They were hot after her.

The limousine stopped before the hotel. Mr. Henderson and the photographer stepped down. A profoundly sobered Dempster followed, and waited. But Hattie sat motionless. She couldn't meet the situation. They might already be in there — Arthur and — and de Brissac. She moistened her lips.

"I'm going to do some shopping," she said then, a thought defiantly. "You come with me, Julian."

At once he stepped in beside her, and before them both took one of her little hands firmly in his.

"But Miss John"—this quickly, from Henderson—"we have a great deal to do. And Mr. de Brissac and Mr. Rosenwald will want you to try your voice in the theater."

"I'll do that this afternoon," said Hattie.

"But you'll surely be back before lunch. Mr. de Brissac will expect you."

Hattie shivered She might faint again She couldn't say anything more, could only nod weakly. It was a relief when the car moved off into the traffic. She was clinging desperately to Julian. He said, rather sternly, to the chauffeur—"Drive up through the Park." She was glad of that, and glad when he drew her head into the hollow of his shoulder. She didn't care what became of her hat. She didn't care if all Fifth avenue saw them. and she was glad that he didn't care. . . . In the park, she whispered brokenly, "Do you love me, Julian?" And he kissed her. It was almost like that moment in the Canyon. Almost; not quite. It was a relief to cry on his coat.

As they drew near the hotel, he said, very gently—

"I'm not going to try to see you again today, dear. You've got your hands full. And I want you to promise me you'll rest this afternoon. And try to sleep late in the morning. I won't disturb you. You can call me when you wake up."

She had to let him go. She stood for a moment on the sidewalk, where men jostled brusquely by and then turned to look at the girl who had the air of being somebody, who was quaint and little and, in a wistfully childlike way, beautiful. For a moment she pressed a hand to her breast and as if it were a difficult thing to do moistened her lips. Then she went in.

She sat on one of the sofas in a dim corner of the lounge. Arthur had drawn up a chair. She was reflecting, as she whitely watched him, how much he had changed in the year. His face was soft, of course, and almost without expression. You felt no force there; no charabter, really. But he was well dressed, and seemed brisk and business-like enough. She had paid for those clothes, as for the neat hat, and the smart gloves and the walking stick. It was always irritating to think about this, and about his pretentious little bluff of being a man of affairs. He wasn't of course. He wasn't anything, when you came down to it. He was like so many others in the picture business, nondescript folk, family hangers-on, that cluster inevitably about the successful stars, particularly inexperienced girl stars, and live off them.

But while her thoughts ranged through this uncomfortable region, Arthur, moved in a way she didn't at first understand, dropped the bluff. He spoke gently, even brokenly. He was worried.

"De Brissac has talked very freely with me, this trip, Hattie. He is a big man."

She inclined her head.

"He thinks everything in the world of you. Of course, there's no getting around the fact that he's made you."

"I know," said she, sharply for Hattie.

"He has gambled everything on this picture. What it comes down to, of course, is that he has gambled everything on you. He has pinned his whole career to his faith in you. If you were to go back on him now. . . ."

"I haven't said I was going back on him!"

"No, but . . . well, naturally, when you run off like that with a good-looking young fellow—"

"I didn't run off with him!"

"But really, Hattie—"

"I didn't run off with him! . I had Hedwig with me."

"Of course, Hattie—" he was groping around for something, she wished he'd speak out—"De Brissac has had to carry this whole business. He's had to think of everything. He talked it all out with me. He's not like us, you know, usually. He's a Continental, with a Continental outlook on life, but . . ." he floundered off that course and came back a little nearer to what was in his mind . . . "well he said right out that if The Saul gets over you'll have to have more money. He does go through with things. He recognizes that it's a peculiar sort of partnership, yours and his. He spoke of giving you a share in the profits. Said he'd fight for that in the Board of Directors. And you and I know they'll do what he tells 'em to. They'll have to. And there was another thing he said . . . I didn't quite get the drift . . . that he'd do this no matter what happened. The only condition would be that you stick with the company. Really, Hattie, I never knew a man . . ."

"I get awfully tired of the pictures sometimes."

"I know. And I know that you're just a kid, and don't appreciate the value of money. It comes so easy to you . . ." She saw now that softening about his mouth, and averted her face.

"You see, Hattie," he went on . . . She had to lean a little farward to catch every word . . . you're not old enough or experienced enough to know what the real struggle is. You've never had to fight your heart out and then lose. Oh, I know I'm a failure—"

"Don't say that, Arthur!"

"Do you think I don't know it. I'm older than you think. I'm forty-one. I've had my fight with booze and—other things. I've been down and out. I've been in the gutter. Some of it before I ever knew Alice. And my health broke. Of course, you can say I've no one but myself to blame for that. I know how bad my record is. Nobody'd want me for a regular job. I couldn't go back to Elizabethport and get a single reference."

Hattie nervously shifted her position. Her head ached. She wished he'd stop.

"Don't think I haven't got this situation straight. I have. Probably I could dig up some sort of a living for Alice and Emily and myself, and the new one. But I couldn't swing the problem of Gran'ma. . . And there's an awful lot of unemployment still. I don't know. . . ."

"I think I've got to go upstairs and lie down," said Hattie.

"All right," said he, "that's true enough, you'd better. It's no time for me to play on your feelings. Anyhow, de Brissac wants me. He's busy with publicity men, over at the office. I just want you to know, Hattie, that I . . ."

She smiled vaguely, and stepped into the elevator. There, after the door closed, she had to turn away so that the Italian boy wouldn't see her tears.

What do you think of the foregoing score predictions for the classic games in Texas football for Turkey Day? Not so loud, please,

Jinx Tucker, sports editor of the Waco News-Tribune, who has been phenomenally successful in past predictions says that the Texas Aggies will defeat the Texas Longhorns 13 to 0 today. He's likely to be quite right but we'll stick to our forecast just to be different.

there are ladies about! Well, anyhow that's our guess. Your prediction may be better and we're not crazy enough yet to think that we can read the future with any startling accuracy.

Speaking of futurities however, we are reminded of Coach Roy Golden's hunch Tuesday afternoon when he told the Zundelowitz Junior High school squad to watch for fumbles and to "get on that ball." He turned to Joe Howell, Zundy's right guard and said:

"Look here, Howell, I want you to keep your eye on those fumbles. Get right down on the ball and keep your eyes open."

We don't know where Coach Golden got his hunch but we do know that Howell recovered four fumbles and almost took a fifth one but missed it by an inch when his foot slipped. That's what we would call a big day's work in the prediction line.

Reagan Junior High school's team which went down to a heart breaking defeat Tuesday before the fighting pluck of the Zundelowitz team seems to have one backfield star who will likely prove valuable material for the Coyote Pack when he gets to Wichita Falls High school. This halfback is "Peanut" Williams who was easily Coach Bill Morris' outstanding star. The boy with the goober nickname certainly did most of the backfield work for Reagan and by keeping his eyes open he managed to score his team's only touchdown when he snared a Zundy pass late in the game. Had some of Williams' mates played the game he did, the result of the annual contest for the junior city grid championship might have been far different

Gridiron fans who turn out Thursday for the game at Spudder Park when Wichita Falls Junior college's Indians take on the Simmons University Tenderfeet, freshman Cowboy aggregation, will get a chance to see a number of players who will be on Simmons university's varsity Cowboy eleven in the fall of 1928. These same Cowboys will be in Wichita Falls on October 28, 1928, when the Southern Methodist University Mustangs will perform here against the Simmons University Cowboys.

At 10 o'clock this morning more than 30 skaters, men and women, will take off from Burkburnett for Wichita Falls in the 12-mile skating marathon staged under auspices of the Wichita Falls Record News and the Wichita Falls Athletic club. Local fans will get to see the first event of this kind ever to be staged in West Texas and for that matter in Texas as far as we have been able to ascertain.

* * *

There's no question but that some of the skaters will be eliminated from the race by being unable to make their way up one of the steep ascents on the highway. But some of the other skaters will be able to make the climb. It's all in the race and is a handicap that all of the entries will have to face and overcome if they want to finish in the prize-winning list.

Car Wreck Victim Proves Much Alive

AUSTIN, Nov. 23. (AP)—Two negroes hurried to Austin early Wednesday with word to police that a man was dead beside his overturned automobile 24 miles out on the Fredericksburg road.

It was all true except that the man, Ira Senour, was very much alive. His car had overturned about midnight, and unable to right it and fearing tire thieves, Senour lay down beside it to keep watch until daylight.

Third Smith Captains Missouri Tiger Team

COLUMBIA, Mo., Nov. 23. (AP)—Ray Smith of Sapulpa, Okla., has been elected captain of the 1927 University of Missouri freshman football squad.

He is the third of the Smith family to captain a freshman squad and play center here. Glenn Smith, his brother, will play his last varsity game at center in the Tiger-Sooner game here Thursday. Clyde Smith, another brother, was Tiger center and captain in 1924.

TRIBE READY FOR BIG TILT

Game Starts 2:30 P. M. At Spudder Park

Heap Big Chief Ludgate, coach, and the braves of Wichita Falls Junior college's Redskin tribe Wednesday night finished putting on their war paint in readiness for the fray this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock when they will combat the fast Simmons university Tenderfoot eleven, composed of freshman players, at Spudder athletic park.

Beating their war drums in the call for supreme effort on the part of their fighting braves, the Redskin supporters Wednesday night had completed all preparations for the big battle Thursday afternoon. Their plans include a parade through the streets of the city just before the game with the Indian pep squad in charge, while the Shrine band of Maskat temple will furnish martial tunes to bring the redskin warriors to a fighting frenzy.

Coach Ludgate still was uncertain as to his complete starting lineup for the fray this afternoon and it is probable that nearly every member of the Indian squad will get a chance to perform regardless of what starting team trots out to the field. Ludgate declared his men to be in fine mental form for the game and held high hopes of flashing performances by his charges.

Preparations were being made to receive members of the Simmons freshman team at an early hour Thursday upon their arrival from Abilene. Definite hour of the visiting eleven's arrival was not known Wednesday night.

SIMMONS FRESHMEN EXPECT HARD GAME

Special to The Record News.

ABILENE, Nov. 23.—When the Simmons university freshmen team meets the strong Wichita Falls Junior college eleven at Wichita Falls Thursday, the Abilene team is expecting the hardest game faced by this team in several seasons. The freshmen have not been defeated in five seasons and are going to fight hard to keep that record unchanged, though they realize that a hard job is ahead.

The team known as the freshmen is really more of a reserve team, since in the rules of the conference freshmen may play on the varsity if they are good enough to beat an upper-classmen out of a place. The team is composed of men who are fresh out of high school and as yet are unable to make the varsity squad.

They have many good men on the squad, including some of the leading high school players of recent years in West Texas, and will therefore be expected to give the Wichita Falls team plenty of competition.

Akins Is Coach.

Jack Akins, Trinity university letter-man, is coach of the freshmen. He has done some hard work with his team to put the men in the best possible shape for the Wichita Falls engagement. The Principal duty of the freshman for Simmons is to scrimmage the varsity. The men therefore get plenty of experience and also get acquainted with many formations and plays as used by various colleges against whom the Simmons Cowboys play. This year Coach Adkins' eleven has used the formations and plays of a half dozen schools, and the Wichita Falls fans may expect a deceptive variety of plays. A hard plunging attack is the specialty of the team.

20 Men to Come.

About 20 men will make the trip, according to Coach Adkins. Sitton, Hudman and Simmons, all halfbacks, are the oustanding men on the squad. Sitton has played with Montezuma college of New Mexico and has shown up well here. Simmons was with the strong Eastland high school last year and Hudman played on the team of Moran high school which raised havoc with the hopes of surrounding teams. Harvey, quarterback, is from the 1925 district championship team of De Leon high school. This group of capable backs make a versatile attack to be presented against the Indian defenses.

Starts Indicated.

Coach Adkins was still uncertain as to the identity of all men for the starting line-ups as he has several men of practically equal ability for a number of positions. The following men will be either starters or will get into the game at some time: Deeter and Perkins, centers; Boots, Kauffman and McCloud, guards; Douring and Davidson, tackles; Harry, Scott and Irvin, ends; Harvey and Terry, quarters; Simmons, Sutton and Hudman, halfbacks; Lamon and Roberts, fullbacks.

Three Texas Football Stars May Play in Annual East-West Game

FORT WORTH, Nov. 23. (AP)—Three outstanding football players in the Southwest conference, Rags Matthews of Texas Christian university, Joel Hunt of Texas A. & M. and Gerald Mann of Southern Methodist university, may play in the all-west vs all-east game at San Francisco December 26. J. V. Sikes of A. & M. is a less likely candidate.

Each of the men have received letters from C. B. Wood, chairman of the western selection committee asking if they will accept if invited. Hunt has not made his decision.

Participation in the game will not affect the amateur standing of the players who will be given official permission to play from both their schools and the southwest conference.

SEYMOUR ON RANGER FIELD

Panthers Take Workout For Strawn Game

Special to The Record News

RANGER, Texas, Nov. 23.—The Seymour Panthers had their final warming up exercises on a gridiron of this place this afternoon. Captain Walker, Panthers right half, and Gorman, Panthers left end, are ready with their passing ability and educated toes to meet the Strawn Grayhounds in the district finals for Class B district four on the Grayhound field in Strawn tomorrow. The Panthers will continue their journey to Strawn early Thursday morning where the Seymour pep squad and band will join them by special motor on the Gulf Texas and Western. Dan Coy, Panthers left guard has been out of the line for the past three weeks with a fractured leg but may be able to join his teammates by the time of the opening whistle Thursday. Farmer substituted for Coy in the Olney game last week and played a splendid game of good sportsmanship and hard football.

Mid-West Star Eleven Picked

Two 1926 All-America Stars Included

CHICAGO, Nov. 23. (AP)—All conference selections of the Western conference coaches chosen today for the Associated Press:

First Team	Position	Second Team
Oosterbaan, Michigan	Left end	Haycraft, Minnesota
Hanson, Minnesota	Left guard	Mathews, Indiana
Rouse, Chicago	Center	Reitsch, Illinois
Baer, Michigan	Right guard	Gibson, Minnesota
Nowack, Illinois	Right tackle	Gary, Minnesota
Fisher, Northwestern	Right end	Grange, Illinois
Crofoot, Wisconsin	Quarterback	Eby, Ohio
Gilbert, Michigan	Left half	Timm, Illinois
Admquist, Minnesota	Right half	Wilcox, Purdue
Joesting, Minnesota	Fullback	Lewis, Northwestern

Captain Herb Joesting, Minnesota, fullback, and Captain Bennie Oosterbaan, Michigan, end, were all-American players last year, and likely candidates to repeat in that honor this season, were again the unanimous choice of the Big Ten coaches today in the all-Western conference team. Coach Stagg of Chicago, who does not favor the picking of "all" teams, cast no vote, but the other nine coaches, put those two stars on their first teams, without exception.

Three other conference luminaries came within a shade of unanimous selection. The only votes cast for other players in their positions were due partly to efforts to balance the wealth of good line material. These three who almost made unanimous vote were Raskowski, Ohio's great tackle Baer, Michigan's massive and powerful guard, and Toad Crofoot, captain and field general of the Wisconsin team, at quarterback.

Two Aggie Teams To Battle For Pennant

ARLINGTON, Texas, Nov. 23. (AP)—Traditional enemies, the North-Texas Agricultural college and the John Tarleton Junior Agricultural college will have something else to battle for besides victory in the annual clash in their Thanksgiving day game at Stephenville. The championship of the Texas Junior College Athleic association will be at stake.

Shreveport Man Deals For Vicksburg's Club

SHREVEPORT, La., Nov. 12. (AP)—No definite offer has been made by Syd Smith of Shreveport to purchase the franchise of the Vicksburg team of the Cotton States league, Smith announced today. His associate in negotiations relative to the purchase of the franchise is Leon I. Kahn, Shreveport business man.

Longhorn-Aggie Contest Draws 25,000 Gridiron Fans

GRID TITLE AT STAKE IN TEST

Longhorns Enter Contest Minus Four Stars

COLLEGE STATION, Nov. 23.—King Football will make his last kick of the 1927 season on Southwest conference gridirons tomorrow.

For seven weeks, the greatest college sport of 'em all has held sway, but with chilly blasts from the north already heralding the approach of basket ball, King Football has just simply got to make way.

However, his final gesture will not be a feeble one. Rather, it will be the greatest since he crowded baseball, the national pastime, off the sport horizon last September.

Right here on Kyle field one of the greatest football dramas of the season will unfold tomorrow before the turkey-fogged eyes of some 25,000 people.

Classic of Gridiron.

It is the annual Texas Aggie-Texas university game, the classic of all Southwest conference tilts. A game between the Aggies and Texas is always good for a capacity crowd, but this year, with one of the teams fighting for an undisputed claim on the conference championship, interest has reached such a pitch that applications for hundreds of ducats were still being denied tonight.

Coach Bible's galloping cadets are in the van at present, but a Texas victory may alter the whole picture, as S. M. U., close behind the Cadets, is playing T. C. U. in Fort Worth tomorrow, and a victory for the Mustangs—well, what difference does it make anyway.

The Cadets are in superb condition for tomorrow's game. Every man is in tip-top shape, and eager for the fray.

Longhorns Lose Four.

But a different story comes from the Longhorn camp. The story is full of dismal notes, a musician might say they were sour, for the tale of woe centers around the inability of Phillips and Hughes to get into their gridiron togs because of injuries and the prospects of Beular, star ball toter, and Reynolds, also not getting into the game.

The Longhorns, however, aren't passing out any pre-game alibis. Coach Littlefield has instilled a brand of fight into his Longhorns that will make things mighty interesting for the Cadets, and even in the absence of this quintet of stars, the Longhorns will be in there every minute. Ask any Longhorn rooter, and he will reply:

"You can bet the family heirlooms that Texas will be in there."

Up in Fort Worth, T. C. U. will be watching Rags Matthews, Captain Williams, Slim Steadman, Lowell Parrish, Amos Melton, Jimmy Grant, Albert Acker and N. L. (Nasty) Clark, play their last game of football for the Horned Frogs.

T. C. U. Has Chance.

T. C. U. is not only doped to give S. M. U. the stiffest kind of a battle, but is also conceded a good chance of saddling the Mustangs.

The third conference game of the day will be presented in Houston where Rice and Baylor will stage their scrap for the bottom hole. Neither team has won a game this season. Rice is reported to be in better condition than Baylor, but it must be remembered that Baylor held Texas to a small score a couple weeks ago. And again, it might be pointed out that Rice held the powerful Aggies to a 14 to 0 score a week ago.

All in all, the football menu for tomorrow looks more than appetizing.

22 SPECIAL TRAINS TO TAKE FANS TO BRYAN.

COLLEGE STATION, Nov. 23.—Twenty-two special trains will bring football fans from all sections of Texas to view the Thanksgiving day game on Kyle field here between the Texas Aggies and the Texas Longhorns. In addition thousands of fans are expected to make the trip by automobile.

Tickets for 25,500, capacity of the stands that surround the gridiron, have already been sold, and of these it is estimated that 20,000 will arrive by trains and automobiles.

The Southern Pacific has announced 12 specials for the game as follows: Two from Dallas, two from Houston, two from Austin, and one each from San Antonio Waco, Giddings, Port Arthur, Kenedy, and Fort Worth.

Trains From All Points

The Missouri Pacific has announced 10 specials as follows: Three from Austin, one carrying the Longhorn team, one the University of Texas student body, and one the Governor's party; one each from Temple, East Texas, starting at Longview, Galveston, San Antonio Brownwood, Beaumont, and Fort Worth.

Advices received here from the Missouri-Pacific are that I.-G.-N. southbound trains will stop at Bryan for the discharge of passengers, though the trains will be continued on to College Station.

Due to the unprecendent demand for tickets to the Thanksgiving Day football game here between A. & M. and the University of Texas, James Sullivan, business manager of athletics, has announced that fans expecting to buy tickets at the gate just before the game are doomed to disappointment.

No Standing Room

"It may save a lot of people trouble and inconvenience to know beforehand that unless they are already provided with tickets they will be unable to see the game, since indications are there will be no tickets on sale at the box office the day of the game. Every bit of available space for seats about the gridiron has been utilized and we have had a sell-out of tickets. The demand has taken everything we have and there isn't any more room for additional stands. It is with regret that this announcement is made for we would like to be able to take care of everybody. However, we feel the public should be advised so that prospective ticket purchasers who have neglected to buy, will not find themselves in the situation of coming to the game and then being unable to get seats."

Seats Circle Field.

Seating stands completely surround the gridiron on Kyle field, temporary stands having been erected to augment the permanent seating facilities. All seats in the end sections as well as in the sections in the bends at the ends of the field have been sold. Seats in the sections on each side of the gridiron were sold days ago.

The Southern Pacific and the Missouri Pacific have announced a total of 22 special trains already and others are in prospect, it was announced. These trains will bring fans from north, south, east and west Texas. Governor Dan Moody, Mrs. Moody and the governor's party will occupy one special train from Austin. Many members of the Texas legislature will be here for the game.

Colorful Occasion

College Station will present a scene of much color and gayety on the day of the game, and historic Kyle field is promised a battle that will go down as a marker in Southwest conference gridiron history. The Texas Aggies at the opening of the week are in fine shape for the game. They had their final scrimmage last Saturday with the freshman squad preparatory to Thursday's battle and Monday Coach Bible reported the players in perfect condition with the exception of Brooks Conover, halfback, of Dallas, who had two bones broken in his left hand in the game with S. M. U. It is possible that Conover may not be in shape for the Thanksgiving day game, Bible said. He has not been in the line-up for two weeks on account of the injury to his hand.

Dummy Scrimmage Held

Dummy scrimmages the first of this week will give the Aggies the finishing touches on the field. With their minds centered on the Turkey game clash since the game with Rice two weeks ago, the battle that if won will mean for them the Southwest conference championship. The game promises to be such a game as only a grid clash between the Aggies and the Longhorns can be.

The game will start promptly at 2:30 o'clock. Indications are that Bible will start the following men in the line-up: Sikes, left end; Lister, left tackle; Holmes, left guard; Bartlett, center; Figari, right guard; Sprott, right tackle; Petty, right end; Captain Hunt, quarterback; Dorsey, left half; Alsabrook, right half; Burgess, fullback.

Aggies Reserve Strong

The reserve strength of Bible for the game includes the following in the line: Deffebach and Cody, ends; Mosher and Ewell, tackles; Wylie, Pekterich and Ritcher, guards; Brown, Snead, and Tom Holleron, center. In the backfield the Aggies will have the following players in addition to the starting tacks: Mills, Davis, Ish and Varnell. Virtually all of the latter are expected to see service.

Officials for the game have been announced as follows: Ramp (University of Cincinnati) referee; Tipton (Missouri) umpire; Fort (Sewanee) head linesman; Frazier (Baylor) field judge.

Even Money Placed On Walker-Berly Fight

CHICAGO, Nov. 23. (AP)—Even money was being wagered Wednesday that the fight Friday night between Paul Berlenbach and Mickey Walker, world's middleweight champion, will not go the full 10 rounds.

The coaching staffs of Notre Dame and the University of Southern California whose football teams meet the following day at Soldier field, have accepted invitations to the scrap.

League Head Settles Suit With Ex-Umpire

CHICAGO, Nov. 23. (AP)—President Thomas J. Hickey of the American association announced Wednesday that the $200,000 libel suit brought against him by Ollie Chill, former umpire in the league, had been settled out of court at Kansas City.

He declined to reveal details of the settlement and said he had no further comment to make.

Governor Moody Will See Aggie-Steed Tilt

COLLEGE STATION, Tex., Nov. 23. (AP)—A 19-gun salute, fired by the field artillery unit of Texas A. & M. college will honor the arrival here Thursday of Gov. Dan Moody for the Thanksgiving day football game between the Aggies and the University of Texas.

Governor and Mrs. Moody will arrive on a special train from Austin shortly before noon.

Horned Frogs and Fiery Steeds Set For Annual Fray at Ft. Worth Today

Fans Burn Huge Bonfire at Pep Meeting and Yell Session Held on Eve of Game

Special to The Record News.

FORT WORTH, Nov. 23.—Texas Christian university and Fort Worth today announced readiness for the university's first homecoming celebration and the Horned Frogs' Thanksgiving day battle with the S. M. U. Mustangs.

Tonight Fort Worth fans, many members of the T. C. U. alumni and ex-students and the entire student body rallied around the biggest bonfire ever kindled on the campus for the purpose of giving the Purple's backers a final charge of pep. The festivities were in charge of Cheer Leader Billy Ashburn and his assistants. Pep talks were made by prominent ex-students and the coaches and team members.

Coaches Matty Bell and Ed Kubale today declared the Frog squad to be in great shape and ready to tackle the Ponies. Reports from Dallas indicate that the Mustangs also are in the best of condition. So it looks as if fans will see a real battle with no chance for alibis or regrets.

Athletic Director L. C. Wright today announced that there are plenty of tickets left although present reservations and sales already exceed any previous records. Several thousand additional seats placed in the stadium will take care of the overflow crowd. Tickets will be on sale at the Worth Segar Store, Main and Tenth streets, until noon Thursday and several blocks of good seats are being held up for sale at the gate Thursday.

The game will start promptly at 2 o'clock.

Fans who come in their automobiles will find plenty of parking space near the stadium. Special street car service also will be provided. Most of the railroads will allow fare and a half rates for the trip to Fort Worth.

Probable starting lineups will be as follows: T. C. U.—Matthews and Steadman, ends; J. Williams and Felix Reynolds, tackles; Brumbelow and Fain Reynolds, guards; Melton, center; B. Williams, quarterback; Toler and Morgan, halves, and Thompson, fullback. S. M. U.—Dawson and Trigg, ends; Roach and Brown, tackles; Schaerdel and Daniel, guards; Ray, center; Mann, quarterback; Hume and Lynch, halves, and Craig, fullback.

Officials will be Boyton (Williams college), referee; McMillin (Centre), umpire; Roach (Baylor), head linesman, and Utay (Texas A. & M.), field judge.

FORT WORTH, Nov. 23. (AP)—Every train today brought alumni and ex-students of Texas Christian university into Fort Worth for the annual home coming exercises and the turkey day football game here tomorrow.

Indications point to a total of approximately 10,000 visitors in Fort Worth tomorrow. All details for the home coming ceremonies had been completed this morning.

LIONS TO LOSE FIFTEEN MEN

Most of Vernon's Team To Graduate

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, Nov. 23.—Fifteen men don Lion suits for the last tme here Thursday afternoon when Vernon meets the Lubbock Westerners in the Thanksgiving Day football game at the new city park.

Closing the high school gridiron career of more than a full team, the season ends with only two men of the first string 1927 team eligible for next year's team.

The men who will turn in their last game for the Lions Thursday are listed below with the number of years they have participated in athletics under the Vernon colors: Ralph Parker, three years; Adams, one year; Stevens, one; Hacker, one; Nabers, two; Castleberry, three; Dodson, one; Brown, one; Key, three; Withers, one; Newth, three; Sharp, one; Norwood, two; Clure, one; Moore, two.

While the loss of material this season might cast gloom over next year's prospects, Coach E. A. Baggett is reflecting optimism over consideration of some of his subjects for 1928. Ray Parker, brother of Ralph who has been first string center for two years, is a hard-hitting fleet backfield man of promise, and he probably will be one of the outstanding men of the 1928 eleven.

Waggoner and Cox, first string tackle and half, respectively, will return next year, as will Thomas, a heavy dependable reserve lineman. Rodman, Vernon, Capehart, Hineman, Gelhausen and Lawrence complete the candidates which form the nucleus around which the 1928 eleven will be built.

Saints to Play Against Bobcats

St. Edwards to Appear At San Marcos

Special to The Record News.

AUSTIN, Nov. 23.—Coach Jack Meagher's scentillating Saints will invade the neighboring city of San Marcos on Thursday, Thanksgiving day, to engage in their annual tussle with the Southwest Texas State Teachers college Bobcats. Because of the proximity of the two schools, the tilt practically amounts to a home game for the Saints, and the St. Edward's student body will support their team en masse.

The power revealed by the Saints against Daniel Baker last Saturday has given Saint rooters something on which to base hopes that Meagher's team will wind up their schedule with a victory. The Austinites have a doubled debt to settle with the Teachers. Two years ago they went to San Marcos and were handed an 18-6 beating, and last year the Bobcats came to Austin and got away with a 7-6 victory.

In games won and lost, the Bobcats boast a rather impressive record this year. Although they lost to Daniel Baker, they triumphed over Sam Houston State Teachers college, a team that handed Daniel Baker a 14-0 trimming, precisely the same dose that the Saints administered to the Hill Billies. The rivalry existing between the Saints and the Bobcats, however, resembles that between Texas and A. & M. and the dope bucket is apt to be kicked all over the place before the final whistle is sounded.

With the exception of Captain O'Shaughnessy, the St. Edward's squad came through the Daniel Baker game in good condition.

Olney Cubs to Meet Graham on Thursday

Graham is reported to have a strong aggregation.

Southwestern U. and Austin College 'Fall Out' on Eve of Turkey Day Tilt

SHERMAN, Texas, Nov. 23. (AP)—Officials of Southwestern university at Georgetown have refused to play Austin college in the football game scheduled in Sherman for Thanksgiving, according to the Austin college athletic committee.

Dr. J. C. Godbey of Southwestern university bases the refusal on a purported agreement between M. L. Cashion former athletic director of Austin college and himself, declaring he had on file a copy of the contract. Upon further inquiry he failed to produce the contract but said the agreement was verbal. Mr. Cashion denied that any such contract had been made.

Therefore the Austin officials hold that the agreement between Coach Cowthorn and Coach Edens last December at a meeting of the Texas conference officials in Dallas holds good, and are willing to meet Southwestern in Sherman as per agreement. Coach Cawthorn's offer to meet the Southwestern officials in Waco and settle the question was not given a reply.

Coyotes Ready For Hard Battle

McCallum Gives Squad Final Drilling

chell, who himself will not be able to start because of injury, declared. And the rest of the Wolf Pack bared its fangs in a deadly grin that bodes little good for the whirling dervishes of the Golden Sandstorm squad.

Both Amarillo and Wichita Falls go into the fray Thursday undefeated, each eleven with a brilliant record of achievement behind it. In five victories on the gridiron, Amarillo has scored 98 points while allowing her opponents six points, Plainview scoring a touchdown before admitting defeat 18 to 6. The Coyotes, with four victories and a tie game, have piled up 129 points, allowing their opponents 20 points. Lubbock scored 13 of these 20 points against the Coyotes when the Westerners held the pack to a 12-12 tie. Vernon scored six points against the Coyotes, the Lions losing 8 to 6, while Quanah collected two points on a safety following a Pack fumble in the game that concluded a 64 to 2 victory for the Wichita Falls eleven.

Plainview, the only team to score against the Amarillo Golden Sandstorm suffered its worst defeat of the season in the game las week against Wichita Falls, the Coyotes winning 25 to 6. The Coyote victory was a costly one however since it meant the loss by injury of Quarterback Harvey Black.

The game here Thursday will be called to order promptly at 2:30 p. m. Five thousand fans are expected to witness the contest, with spectators coming from many Northwest Texas cities.

HARVEY BLACK'S INJURY KEEPS HIM IN HOSPITAL

Harvey Black, star quarterback of the Wichita Falls Coyotes, will not be playing this afternoon in the game at Amarillo with the Golden Sandstorm for the district football championship.

Harvey will not even be able to watch the game from the sidelines. The game little Coyote quarterback today has to face the hardest test a football player can experience, lying helpless on a hospital cot while his mates wage battle with the enemy, missing his football power and skill as a field general. To him is lost the thrill of feeling the pigskin against his body as he would tear down the field if he were able to play.

Black is in Room No. 302 at the General hospital, his back in a plaster cast to permit the healing of a torn back muscle, an injury he received in the Wichita Falls-Plainview game last week.

To make Black's load a little easier, returns of the game will be telephoned to him at the hospital from the Record News leased wire at the Spudder baseball park where the progress of the game is to be broadcasted to the crowd at the Wichita Falls Junior college-Simmons university freshman game.

Two hundred and eighty-one Coyote fans late Wednesday night had purchased reservations on the special train which pulls out for Amarillo at 6 a. m. Thursday to deliver its human cargo in time for the Coyote - Golden Sandstorm contest for the district championship. By the time the train toots its departing whistle this morning it is expected that the Coyote fans aboard will exceed 300.

The final schedule for the operation of the special train was announced Wednesday night by J. W. Chatham, traffic manager of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce. It follows:

Lv. Wichita Falls	6:00 a. m.
Ar. Vernon	7:15 a. m.
Lv. Vernon	7:20 a. m.
Ar. Quanah	8:05 a. m.
Lv. Quanah	8:08 a. m.
Ar. Childress	9:10 a. m.
Lv. Childress	9:20 a. m.
Ar. Memphis	9:40 a. m.
Lv. Memphis	9:45 a. m.
Ar. Amarillo	12:50 p. m.

The return trip of the Coyote special will begin from Amarillo at 7 p. m., Chatham said.

The stop at Vernon will be to pick up 25 Vernon football fans while five or six will be taken aboard at Quanah and four at Memphis. The ten-minute halt at Childress is an operating stop for the purpose of changing engines at this division point.

McDonald Will Case Will Be Heard Dec. 1

19. Amount of money to be borrowed against water plant, $1,500,000.00.

On which the water plant will pay net 4.70 per cent interest.

How Money Spent.

20. How will this money be spent? (a) Itemize:
1. Retiring $776,000.00 water works bonds which are now cared for by approximately 13c tax rate.
2. Raise the spillway of Lake Wichita two feet, increasing the capacity of this lake by 2,000,000 gallons, and construct a drainage ditch on the north side of Lake Wichita to intercept the dry weather flow from the Holliday creek drainage area including salt water from the oil fields, and waste irrigation water, $95,000.00.
3. Construct a suitable gravity flow supply pipe line from Lake Wichita to the site of the present pumping plant with a daily capacity of 20,000,00 gallons. The construction of such a line will conserve our supply of soft water from Lake Wichita by the elimination of waste due to seepage and evaporation. It will save the first cost and operating cost of a low service pumping plant by utilizing the head available from Lake Wichita. The present channel will be released for use in the distribution of Lake Kemp water for irrigation purposes, thus conserving the soft water of Lake Wichita for use in the city for domestic purposes. It is estimated that in previous years the water used for irrigation from Lake Wichita amounted to three times as much as is being used by the city at the present time.

Improvements should be made to our present distribution system. This work will include new feeder mains of proper size to take care of the requirements of the city until 1936 and to meet the requirements of the national board of fire underwriters that will bring about a reduction in the insurance rates for the entire city. The estimated cost for the above mentioned work is $491,272.00.

4. Construct a new and modern filtration plant with a daily capacity of 12,000,000 gallons. This plant will be so constructed that in the future, should softening be necessary, it can be done with the added cost of chemicals only. This will permit the use of Lake Kemp water should it become necessary.

Construct filtered water storage with a capacity of 2,500,000 gallons to take care of fire and maximum demands. The estimated cost for the above mentioned work is $375,980.00.

5. Construct a modern pumping plant on city property at the present site. The plan contemplates using present pumping equipment. The present pumping plant is not located on city property and is not owned by the city, but by the Electric company.
6. Constructing elevated storage tank in west end of city. The city is now building a 500,000-gallon elevated tank, 125 feet high. The cost of this tank without connecting mains is estimated at $37,000.00.
7. Paving replacements, valves, hydrants, special castings, engineering and contingencies, $30,745.00.

Following is a list of large mains which are badly needed at this time:

1. 20-in. line on Mill and Adams from the plant to Fifth and Adams. This will form one side of the loop about the high value district.
2. 10-in. line on Bonner to provide fire protection for that section.
3. 14-in. line from Fifth and Adams to Bridge and Washington. To provide fire protection and adequate water service to the industrial section on the north side.
4. 12-in. line on Fifth from Austin to Adams. This line provides a cross tie for the northern part of the high value district.
5. 14-in. line on Fifth and Broad from Fifth and Austin to Seventh and Broad. This line completes the loop about the high value district.
6. Eight-inch line on Ninth from Broad to Burnett. This is needed as a cross tie for fire flow and service.
7. 10-in. line on Sixteenth from Holliday to Mill. This will form a cross tie at the edge of the high value district.
8. 16-in. main on Seventh from Broad to Van Buren. This is to act as a feeder for that entire section.
9. 14-in. on Seventh from Broad to Grant. This is to act as a feeder for that section.
10. 10-in. main on Grant from Seventh to present 12-in. main on Avenue G.

21. What will be the annual interest and sinking fund (separate) to finance the amount to be borrowed against water plant?

The council has proposed the following arrangement but this has not been definitely settled with the finance company:

Annual Sinking Fund.

$25,000.00 due each year, 1938 to 1943, inclusive.
$35,000.00 due 1944.
$45,000.00 due each year, 1945 to 1949, inclusive.
$55,000.00 due each year, 1950 to 1958, inclusive.
$65,000.00 due each year, 1959 to 1963, inclusive.
$75,000.00 due each year, 1963 to 1967, inclusive.

Annual Interest Requirements

1926, $85,000.00 reduced by payment of principal to $67,637.50 in 1943. Annual interest due 1944 $66,500.00.

Annual interest due 1945 $64,537.50 reduced by payment of principal to $56,287.50 in 1949.

Annual interest due in 1950 $54,150.00 reduced by payment of principal to $32,250.00 due in 1958.

Annual interest due in 1959 $30,637.50 reduced by payment of principal to $24,462.50 in 1961.

Annual interest due in 1962 $21,475.00 reduced by payment of principal to $2,562.50 in 1967.

Making largest amount of interest and principal due in any one year accruing in 1928 being $110,500.00.

Average life of bond issue to be 25.09 years.

22. What is the estimated annual increase in revenue for next five years? $50,000.00 provided the improvements are made. The principal increase will come from the serving of industrial water to the refineries.
23. What is estimated average total net revenue for next five years? The estimated average net revenue for the next five years will be approximately $175,000.00 if the improvements are made.

24. What is estimated yearly savings in insurance premiums? Immediate savings will be about $72,000.00 per year. This figure was furnished by a local insurance premium expert.

25. What will be the reduction in tax rate if the $776,000.00 bond issue is retired from the city's indebtedness? The city tax rate will be reduced by approximately 12 cents if the proposed plan as adopted by the council is approved by the citizens in the election on December 10th.
26. Give estimated cost of clarification per million gallons with the new plant. $12.84 is the cost of clarification per million gallons based on the following figures:

4½ per cent interest on $575,000.00 investment	$16,792.00
3 per cent allowance for depreciation	$11,250.00
Salaries and labor for operation	$15,000.00
Clarification chemicals	$ 2,500.00
Per year	$46,492.00

The per million gallon cost is arrived at by assuming a 6 1-3 million gallon per day pumpage for the average for the new plant. There will be no pumping cost for the operation of the new clarification plant since the pipe line from the lake will give enough pressure to operatay by gravity.

27. Is this cost less or greater than the present cost? (A) State difference. The present investment for clarification is $136,960.00 and the plant is rapidly depreciating.

Assuming a 10 per cent depreciation to include obsolescence $13,696.00
5 per cent interest on the bonds 6,846.00
Salaries and labor for operation 14,000.00
Clarification chemicals and pumping 6,000.00

$40,542.00

Assuming the present average pumpage is 3 3-4 million gallons per day, the clarification cost per million gallons is $29.60. Half the water going through the present filters has to be elevated by pumps. It is seen that the present total cost of delivering clarified water to clear wells is $29.60 per million gallons; and the estimated cost with new plant is $12.84 per million gallons.

28. Was the plan for placing the water plant on a self-sustaining basis, submitted and approved by a conference with business men and bankers.

Before the council took any action on this plan they called into consultation representatives from all the banks and many of the other leading business men, all of whom approved the plan.

29. Did the council secure competitive bids on the purchase of the contemplated notes for $1,500,00 to be issued against the water plant

Six of the largest firms in the country were submitted the outline of this plan of financing and asked to submit their proposals. None of the other proposals were close enough to be competitive to the one accepted, which was one of the lowest prices ever received for bonds or notes in the state of Texas.

30. What interest will the notes bear, and how does it compare with the interest on the bonds, which you expect to retire?

The proposed notes will bear an interest rate of 4 3-4 per cent, however, the premium being paid for the notes reduces the interest to 4.70 per cent net.

31. What is the estimated saving in soap to consumers?

Based on information furnished by local wholesale merchants and the experience of other cities changing from hard to soft water, the saving to the average family in the soap bill should be approximately $15.00 per year. Assuming there are 10,000 families in the city the total saving to the community should be approximately $150,000.00 per year on this item.

32. Will the improvements permit a saving in plumbing, hot water heatars, etc?

The saving in plumbing and hot water heaters will be one of the material benefits resulting from the improvements. The corrosive materials which will be contained in the lake and the treatment the water will receive at the new plant will be more than treble the life of those pipes and fixtures which are now so rapidly deteriorated by our corrosive water.

Present Plant Deterioration.

33. What is the present condition of filtration system.

Parts of the present filtration plant and the settling basins are rapidly deteriorating. The present plant was designed for a capacity of five million gallons per day owing to the depleted condition of certain parts about four million gallons is all that can be satisfactorily treated per day with the entire plant in operation. This low efficiency is due to inability to wash and drain the filters properly.

34. To what extent is it adequate?

The filtration plant is inadequate in the following respects.

1. The settling basins are in bad shape physically and are not of a design to give the required efficiency. Roughly they are about 50 per cent efficient.
2. The filter beds are not half large enough to meet the requirements of our summer demand, and cannot be properly cleaned.
3. The clear water storage capacity is approximately one-half the required size.

35. Is it ever out of use? (Why.)

The filtration system has not been entirely out of service for any period of time for the past 2 1-2 years. Many times it has been necessary to throw certain parts out of service for emergency repairs. Whenever this occurs in the high demand period the quality of the water is consequently lowered.

36. What per cent of raw water was by-passed last summer during worst period.

The highest day's pumpage last summer was a little over (7) seven million gallons. About 57 per cent of this total went through the filters. However this does not represent the actual condition for these figures are as follows: During the evening hours or this day we were pumping water at the rate of over 500,000 gallons per hour but our filters could only pass about 166,000 gallons per hour around the filters for that period. But all of the water pumped did receive some treatment in the settling basins and was treated with chlorine. Conditions like this could soon become very hazardous to public health.

38. What is the peak consumption of water?

Our present peak rate of consumption is 13 million gallons. Plants have to be built to care for the peak loads in order to avoid by-passing water.

39. What is the maximum amount of water that can be treated at present?

Four million gallons is the greatest amount of water we can give proper treatment to in a 24-hour period with the present plant, working at its maximum efficiency.

39. What is present hardness of Lake Wichita and what was it before the lake was contaminated by the oil fields and by waste irrigation water?

Lake Wichita now has a hardness of 25 grains per gallon due principally to the hardness of the oil field run off coming down Holliday creek. Lake Wichita had a hardness of only about four grains per gallon before oil development on the Holliday Watershed. The present hardness is largely permanent hardness which is extremely undesirable. The protection contemplated at Lake Wichita will practically eliminate this as Lake Wichita contained no permanent hardness.

40. Has the selection of an engineer been made (A) Why?

(A) The immediate need for an elevated tank in the west end of the city last summer required the employment of engineers to prepare the plans and specifications and to supervise the work; the city also felt the desirability of working out details of the proposed filtration plant as soon as possible so that time would be saved and as little of the raw unfiltered water as possible would have to be used by citizens of Wichita Falls next summer. It was felt that the inadequacy of the present filteration plant was a real menace to the health of the citizens of Wichita Falls. This defect has been emphasized to the council several times by the state health department who are insistent that the danger due to using unfiltered water for domestic purposes be eliminated.

The selection of the engineer was made after a most careful investigation of the qualifications of several nationally reputable firms. It was thought expedient to secure thoroughly competent engineers to prepare the plans and estimates so that mistakes would not be made, and to have this preliminary work out of the way to save months of delay when the work is ready to start.

41. What are the conditions of the contract?

The conditions of the contract with the engineer provide for their payment as follows: For surveys, plans and specifications 2 per cent of the estimated costs involved, for engineering supervision and inspection of construction 2 per cent of actual cost of improvements. These are the customary fees for architects and engineers.

42. Are payments contingent on work being first authorized by council?

Yes, the city council to designate the order in which the work shall proceed and engineers are to be paid only on the work authorized by the council.

43. Is it customary for cities to retain consulting engineers to advise with, when contemplating public improvements? It is the usual custom and advisable to retain engineers of proven ability for designing, consulting and supervising of major improvements. In the recent construction of the sewage plant, it will be remembered that engineers were employed to prepare preliminary estimates for the bond issue and to prepare plans, specifications and supervise the work when the bonds were voted.

44. Will the revenue from the Water company be sufficient to take care of all operating expenses, interest, and sinking fund on proposed $1,800,000 issue as well as the necessary future annual extensions. If not, what steps will have to be taken to care for necessary extensions in addition to cost of operation, interest and sinking fund? The rate of earnings for the past several years of the water department indicate that they will be sufficient to take care of the operating and maintainance expenses and the interest and sinking fund on the proposed notes and leave a sufficient margin to make required minor extensions. The improvements to the system will take care of the installation of the necessary large mains for a period of over five years. The margin of earnings over fixed obligations should increase as the years go by so that with normal growth necessary improvements can be taken care of out of earnings.

45. From answers to above questions, give your analysis of the result, should the voters authorize the council to borrow money against the water plant.

Reduce Tax Rate.

1. A reduction of approximately 12 cents in the city tax rate will be attained.
2. The immediate savings to the people in insurance premiums will be about $72,000 per year. This sum will become greater as insured property increases with the city's growth.
3. The saving in soap, plumbing, heaters, and laundry goods, due to soft water, should be some $200,000 per year.
4. An ample supply of a soft and satisfactory water for domestic use will be obtained. This is one of the greatest benefits to be derived from the improvement, and every housewife in Wichita Falls would immediately feel the beneficial results from using a good, soft water.
5. Removing the present menace to the health of the citizens of Wichita Falls due to by-passing raw, unfiltered water into city mains, the new filtration plant will furnish modern, efficient filters of ample capacity with plenty of storage, so that this danger to health will be removed.
6. Abandoning the open ditch will eliminate the pollution that it now receives. The use of a pipe line instead of the open ditch will save the seepage and evaporation of soft water that will be obtained under the proposed plans. Also the pipe line will make available the pressure head from Lake Wichita and this pressure cannot be utilized with the open ditch. The utilization of this head will eliminate the need and cost of a low service pumping plant.
7. The preservation of Lake Wichita for strictly the city's use and its protection against hard water pollution solves the water supply question for many years and will be an important factor in the attraction of new industries and population.
8. By going ahead with the work at this time it can be done cheaper than if postponed until times are better, and the local labor situation would be greatly benefited. The saving on the one item of cast iron pipe, if purchased soon and before the market returns to normal, would amount to over $50,000 on the large mains contemplated. The money put into circulation in Wichita Falls by this work will pay many a debt.
9. The proposed method of financing the water works improvements means that it will not be necessary for the citizens to vote bonds—and accordingly increase their taxes—for water work improvements that are very essential. On the other hand the method proposed will relieve the tax rate. The water plant will be organized and operated as an independent public utility whose operation and upkeep will be financed from proceeds obtained from its customers. Many of the larger cities operate their water plants as independent utilities who finance their needed improvements and extensions without help from the city's taxes. This method is recognized by economists to be a sane, sound, and business-like plan for operating municipal water plants.
10. Recognizing the desirability of safeguarding expenditures, and feeling that a citizens' committee could render valuable assistance along such lines, I should like to recommend that the council appoint a water board of citizens who are qualified to do so, to advise with the council in letting contracts, buying material, etc., and in operating the water plant.
11. It must be stated that the council realized, as has also been publicly noted, the fact that this is not the best time psychologically to call such an election. Yet two years have passed since committees and engineers first began to study and report on the water situation. Following the report of Black and Veatch, engineers, the special citizens' committee appointed to study the water situation, recommended that the improvements be carried out as planned by Black and Veatch. Now recently an unusually sound and economical plan for financing the water plant was submitted to the council. The council asked the advice of many of the leading business men and bankers who indorsed the plan and advised the council to accept it and submit it to the voters for indorsement also. Having all these faces before them and knowing that the water plant was in a more depleted condition even than it was two years ago when study of it was begun, the council felt that it would be negligent in its duty should it not submit the proposed plan for financing the water plant to the voters themselves, and by submitting the proposition to the people the council felt it was doing all that was within its power to do toward securing such a badly needed improvement on such attractive terms. By calling the election they are asking the people to signify whether they want to continue the use of the old plant and system with increasing hazards and lowering efficiencies—eventually costing more to improve, or whether they prefer the improvements to be made now and enjoy the many benefits to be derived.

MARION WINS CHOIR PLACE

Miss Talley Tells of First Professional Work

(Editor's Note: This is the second of a series of articles by Marion Talley on her life history written for The Record News. Miss Talley is to appear in concert here Friday night.)

BY MARION TALLEY

In the first installment of this personal story I outlined very briefly some of the more important details in the earliest part of my life. At the conclusion of that installment I mentioned that at the age of 11 my mother and I agreed I might perhaps obtain admission to some church choir.

We decided on the First Christian church of which John R. Jones was choirmaster. We arrived there, Mamma and I, just before rehearsal time.

Surprises Choirmaster

Mr. Jones insisted that I was altogether too young to be considered for a place in his choir; and my mother wit hequal certainty disagreed with him. I took no part in the conversation until it appeared that my extreme youth and the curls hanging down my back were visible evidence to be overcome. Then I asked Mr. Jones to reconsider. I guess I must have pleaded very earnestly for finally Mr. Jones' face softened and he smiled. "All right," he said, "but you will have to wait until we have finished rehearsing."

When the time came for me to be "tried" I was quite ready. Nervousness was then as now something I did not know. At least nervousness of the kind which puts what I am told is a queer feeling in the region of the stomach, makes the breath short and gaspy and tightens the throat. In a word, I had no sense of fear.

Mr. Jones must have been surprised, for after testing my voice and hearing me run through a song, he admitted he had underestimated both my voice and musical ability. So I began at once my duties as a member of that choir. I was given, incidentally, a place in the front row. Later on, incidental solos were assigned to me, and I graduated into what was the post of solo soprano. Eleven months passed thus, and then Mr. Jones went to war.

Accepts Offers.

By this time, I had gained some small distinction in Kansas City choir circles, so invitations to go elsewhere were offered me. Inasmuch as Mr. Jones' successor chose to assign solos to newcomers in the First Christian Church choir (he taught music, and these newcomers were his pupils), I was not so happy. There was some fuss over the choirmaster's attitude, for presently a number of my admirers in the church protested—and I was given the solos again. But soon after, I resigned from that choir. For about six months, I did not sing in any choir. Then I joined the quartet of the Calvary Baptist church where I was paid a salary and stayed about six months.

I then accepted an offer to sing for the Unity Society of Christianity, which had an added appeal in that my salary was increased and also it was directly across the street from where we lived.

Finally, my one moment of real excitement arrived: I received as a gift from a church member who liked my singing, one hundred dollars. I had gone to fill one of those special solo engagements I referred to. It was quite enough to disturb my unusually calm nature, for that amount was so much in excess of any I had ever gotten at one time.

Health and Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK McCOY

Author of "The Fast Way to Health"

Questions in regard to health and diet will be answered by Dr. McCoy, who can be addressed in care of this paper.

TURKEY DAYS.

I trust that every one of my readers will be able to enjoy eating turkey today. One reason you might not be able to—you might be on a milk diet, or taking a fast. And another important reason is that many people believe they can not afford such expensive poultry. Some substitute chicken at Thanksgiving and other festive days because of the difference in price.

The average cost of chicken today is about 30 cents a pound, while the cost of turkey ranges from fifty cents a pound upward. The higher cost of turkey is caused by the fact that it is the custom to buy turkey only between the middle of November and the first of December. Consequently, turkey raisers must prepare their fowl for a market which does not extend over a very long time. It is also true that chickens are easier to raise than turkeys and the initial cost of starting to breed chickens for eating purposes is much less than that required for the development of a turkey flock.

There are six principal breeds of turkey, and all came from original wild stock found in various parts of the North American Continent by the early settlers. Some wild turkeys may still be found in some parts of the middle west. The bronze domestic turkey was probably developed from the bronze wild turkey which was originally found in Mexico.

Turkeys are hard to raise, and the farmer is entitled to higher price than he receives for chickens, which have a market the whole year round.

It may surprise you to know that fewer turkeys are being raised each year. There has been a steady decrease for a number of years. In 1900 over six and a half million turkeys were raised in the United States, while in 1920 this number was cut to approximately one-half.

If more people understood the fine food value of turkey meat, they would pay a reasonable price and buy turkeys throughout the year, and then the cost per pound would soon be reduced to that of other fowl.

The method of killing turkeys insures a white meat, makes it more tender, and, when properly refrigerated, turkey meat will keep longer than chicken killed in the usual manner. Practically all dealers kill the turkey by hanging it by its feet and severing the veins in its throat, and do not cut off the head. A similar method is used by the Kosher butchers in killing all kinds of fowl. The Chinese also use this method. The turkey's heart pumps practically all the blood out of the body, and the meat is left more white than it would be with the insufficient bleeding which results when the head is cut off.

It is best to kill the turkey a few days before ready to eat, placing the bird on ice as soon as the bleeding stops and the feathers are removed.

Turkey raisers usually fast the birds for practically an entire day, giving them plenty of water to drink so the crop and intestines will be thoroughly cleaned of any food material.

The pullet turkey at one year of age weighs from twenty to twenty-five pounds, the hen weighing less than the male.

Turkey meat really goes farther than most meat, as the bones are not large and there is little waste, so this form of protein food is not so expensive as many think.

WELL ADDS TO ROCK CROSSING

Fain-McGaha Test Gives Field Extension

The Old Rock Crossing field in Wilbarger county contiues to grow, proving that the activity there two years ago lacked much of defining its producing limits.

Another addition to the south side of the field, indicating that the pool may eventually almost double its size, was in the making yesterday by Fain-McGaha Oil company in No. 1-L Waggoner, located in section 31, block 4, H. & T. C. survey. After entering the pay it was reported showing for a good producer.

Located a quarter of a mile southeast of the Milham production the test is slightly north of a line running from the Smith and Brady producer, one-half mile to the west, to the Texas Company No. 1-B Waggoner on the east, thus defining a wide area south of the field which now appears potentially productive.

The test drilled several feet of dry sand topped at 2360 feet and at 2373 feet the oil was found in such quantities to give rise to predictions for a "nice well."

No few local oil men will journey to Amarillo, the "Young Giant of the Plains," where the high school football teams of the two cities will battle for the district championship.

MAJESTIC: Five Acts Interstate vaudeville; Esther Ralston in "Figures Don't Lie," on the screen; comedy and Paramount News.

STRAND: John Barrymore and Dolores Del Rio in "When a Man Loves," comedy and Pathe News.

OLYMPIC: Tom Mix in "Tumbling River," chapter 2 of "The Collegians," and Fox News.

MISSION: "Black Jack," with Buck Jones; comedy , and on the stage Al Russell's Baby Vampires in musical comedy.

GARDEN: Ken Maynard in "The Land Beyond the Law," and comedy.

GEM: Hoot Gibson in "The Prairie King," and comedy.

PALACE: "Kid Boots," Ziegfeld's musical comedy hit, with New York cast Tonight.

An idle Thanksgiving holiday? Well, hardly, with the many amusements up and down "theater row" in Wichita Falls. "Kid Boots," at the Palace tonight with the one performance only, John Barrymore in "When A Man Loves," at the Strand and five acts of vaudeville at the Majestic. So much for today! Then Friday night, according to ticket sale reports, reservations for the Marion Talley concert will include nearly every seat in the new city auditorium. The Woman's Forum could scarcely bring an attraction of greater worth to Wichita Falls than the beloved young soprano to appear at this particular time.

Majestic vaudeville will start at 3:45 instead of 4:00, the usual matinee time, according to announcement made by Hans Smith, manager. The feature picture will be shown before the vaudeville one time only, starting at 1:30.

"Haunted," mystery burlesque of Broadway's success is the headliner for Thursday and Friday on the program and is a combination of the thrills, shudders, shrieks and creeps that we have experienced in "The Bat," "The Cat and the Canary," "Spooks," and "The Gorilla." The result is that "Haunted" has much more laughter than anything else, though decidedly plentiful in all emotions.

Ed and Tom, two elegant gentlemen, are said to more than justify the infinite in superlatives. Their act is a variety of eccentric steps, tied together with a line of patter.

Muriel Kay, versatile dancer of vaudeville, has added three new strings to her dancing bow. Now head of her own company, Jack Lenny, Ray Wilber, and Gene Cass prove themselves choice associates.

Nawahi, "King of the Uke," hails from Pacific islands and proves the ukelele an instrument of greater worth than accompaniment purposes. No music is beyond that rendered by this virtuoso. He also sings the plaintive melodies characteristic of his country.

"A Little Bit of Everything," is billed appropriately and is a clever presentation by Miss Gertrude and her boys .

On the screen will be seen "Figures Don't Lie," with Esther Ralston; comedy and Paramount News.

John Barrymore and Dolores Del Rio in "When a Man Loves," starting at the Strand theater today for three days.

"Kid Boots" at the Palace theater will prove a Thanksgiving treat indeed tonight for those interested in golf since it is one of the first stage productions which has been successful in producing a real musical comedy with golf links and country clubs as the scenes of most of the action. Golf humor usually is of an esoteric kind that appeals only to those initiated in the sport, but in "Kid Boots," the fun is general and can be enjoyed by persons who would not know a niblick from a stymie as well as by golf experts themselves.

The principals in the cast of 80 include Pauline Blair, and adorable and melodius figure in "Sunny"; Charles Williams, the comedist whose triumphs in the original cast of "The Student Prince," Harriett V. Miller of many Shubert musical shows and many others of equal note.

Then there are the girls—Ziegfeld beauties, every one of them of the type he invariably picks in preparing his gorgeous entertainments. With unerring taste they are picked for beauty, for personal charm and for talent and, needless to say, the gowns in which they are clothed are exactly the sort of gowns one might expect to see at Palm Beach.

COTTON SEED OIL.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23. (AP)—The cotton seed oil market was active and weak today, closing with net losses of 5 to 10 points. Establishing with new lows for the move, with May deliveries at the lowest point of the season. The decline was due to December liquidation and selling by leading interests promoted by reports of a continued poor cash demand and the easier tone in crude. Sales 42,300 barrels. Prime crude 8.87½@9.00; prime summer yellow spot 10.15; December closed 10.19; January 10.50; March 10.71; May 10.90; June 11.05.

Cutten and Durant Brokers Have Record Day as Prices Rise to New Highs on Holiday Eve

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—Predictions of a bullish Thanksgiving were fulfilled on the stock exchange, today, when more than 2,100,000 shares were turned over in a general advancing market in which favored specialties were the feature again, rising to new high record prices. Brokers acting for Cutten, Fishers and Durant had the busiest day in many months and while bullish rumors were widespread there was evidence of good profit-taking, in several of the leaders, particularly in the afternoon hours.

Fundamentals, except in so far as they apply to hopes as to 1928 prosperity for certain companies, play no part in the churning of securities witnessed on the stock exchange for the moment. The weekly steel reviews reported no change in conditions but the steels moved higher with others.

A pre-holiday session was experienced in foreign exchange with price fluctuations most unimportant. Wheat reacted under realizing while other commodities were rather dull and slightly irregular.

Closer association between the Fisher interests and Durant was seen in the strength in International Combustion. Durant interests have been playing in the stock for five months or more. Their efforts never resulted in more than a flurry and for that reason it was rather difficult to attract a following to the present move. Coincident with the activity there was revival of the reports as to the income that would be derived from the company's patented coal distillation process.

Some of those usually associated with Durant activities claimed the Fishers were in on the play, below the market, but others seemed not so sure the deal had been definitely closed.

Westinghouse led the market from the standpoint of activity but gained only fractionally for the day. It was interesting to note that the heaviest selling occurred above 90, which was the figure mentioned as offered by the Fishers to local bankers for a big block of stock as reported here a fortnight ago. Although, Westinghouse then was 10 points lower the bankers were said to have turned down the offer. Montgomery Ward established another new high record level but lost part of its gain in the afternoon profit-taking while other Cutten favorites were not prominent.

NEW YORK COTTON.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23. (AP)—An opening decline soon followed by a recovery in the cotton market today, but prices lost part of the improvement in late trading. January contracts advanced from 19.48 to 19.61 during the first few minutes of general market closing steady, net unchanged to 12 points lower.

The opening was easy at a decline of 10 to 21 points, active positions selling to 19.27 points below yesterday's closing quotations after the call under southern selling and the pre-holiday liquidation promoted by relatively easy Liverpool cables and unfavorable trade reports. Talk of probable domestic mill curtailment may have led to some selling, but after initial offerings had been absorbed, prices rallied readily on trade buying and covering.

December liquidation continued, but was absorbed on further buying by spot houses against sales of later deliveries at a slight widening of the differences between months. Otherwise trading was comparatively quiet, but offerings were light ad for a time the market showed considerable firmness. December advancing to 19.61 and May to 20.05 or 1 to 3 points net higher. These prices seemed to attract a little more realizing, while southern selling was more in evidence later in the afternoon, the close showing reactions of 10 to 12 points from the best.

October was relatively steady, spot house brokers saying that position against sales of May and July. At the close December contracts were 29 points under March, this difference being unchanged from the previous close. Prices touched at one time during the day the two months seemed about 30 points apart. It was expected that notices would be issued against December contracts on Friday morning, while interest has been much reduced during the past few days, a fair volume of tenders appeared to be anticipated by most local brokers.

Private cables attributed the decline in Liverpool to liquidation and short selling.

Exports today 46,871, making 2,920,396 so far this season. Port receipts 46,094. U. S. port stocks 2,590,467.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 23. —Weakness of Liverpool and liquidation in advace of the holiday tomorrow and the first December notice day on Friday brought about 9 to 13 point declines on the cotton market here today.

Liverpool was six to eight penny points worse than du eand the market here opened 17 to 24 points down. January traded at low as 19.67 and March at the same figure, which proved to be the lows of the day.

The market soon rallied on a report of a private settlement of a large line of December contracts in New York against the purchase of 30,000 to 40,000 bales of spots in the south. There was also a good deal of pre-holiday covering by shorts. January traded up to 19.88 and March 20.07.

During the middle of the afternoon the market eased off almost to the lows and late months made new lows, March declining to 19.96, but all months rallied again at the end to within 9 to 10 points of the high. The close was steady, January showing a net loss of 12 points and March of 11.

December opened at 19.54, advanced to 19.74, eased off almost to the early low and then advanced to 19.64, a net loss of 14 points for the day.

Exports were 40,571 bales.

JUDGE HOLDS COURT TODAY

Atwell Calls Session For Thanksgiving

Whether or not a United States court may meet on a holiday proclaimed by the president may be the point raised before Judge William H. Atwell Thursday. When he announced he would hold court on Thanksgiving day from 10 to 10:30 a. m. and from 2:30 p. m. on the same day several attorneys began discussing the matter at length but whether they will present it to the court is another matter.

Three defendants were acquitted of liquor charges Wednesday, one by the court and the other two by juries. R. C. Finkler was charged with the possession of three ounces of whiskey. The officers testified there was more whiskey in a pitcher in the room where the defendant was arrested. He disclaimed ownership of it and the court found him not guilty.

Sam Pannell and J. K. Moss each beat their cases before the jury and in the case of Jacob Schenck the jury was discharged Wednesday after it had deliberated 25 hours and the members were unable to agree.

When the case against George Barker was called one of the government witnesses, Inez Nelson, was absent. The court fined her $100 and issued an attachment. Other witnesses in the case were placed under $1,000 bonds each for appearance Thursday morning. Ruth Kebodeaux was seen in the courtroom before her case was called but when the case was announced she failed to appear. Judge Atwell called but when the case was announced she failed to appear. Judge Atwell forfeited her bond of $1000 and issued a capias warrant.

Other cases heard in the afternoon and sentences imposed follow:

Allen Johnston, $100; Will Hemby, 12 days; Mrs. Ellen Page, $10; E. M. Harris, $1, George Penn, $250; A. R. Vaughn, 50 days; S. M. Madison, 20 days; Mrs. Billie King, $60; John R. Hunt, $75; Mrs. Virginia Guinn, $75; Edna Gobbert, 50 days; James Weaver, $5; L. E. Fidler, $100.

Pleas of guilty to nine of the indictments returned by the grand jury were made by defendants. They will be sentenced later and are:

Louis Parker, Cap Hill, and George Bloxom, narcotic cases; Selmer Watson, theft from mails; E. L. Stanton and J. R. Teague, postoffice burglary at Dunlap and Lazarre, Cotton county; Earl Boseman, Buster King, and Rodge Fields, alteration of U. S. currency; H. L. Jones, using mails to defraud.

Bees Earn Money For Farmer Near Olustee

Special to The Record News.

OLUSTEE, Okla., Nov. 23.—R. S. Canter of Olustee, is a farmer but his hobby or side line is producing fancy comb honey. Canter has 35 stands of bees which produced 2600 pounds of fine comb honey this year. The majority of the honey was made in five pound frames. Some of the more fancy comb honey in one pound frames is sold to local customers who keep a standing order, from year to year.

Canter keeps strong swarms with good queens and an abundance of feed at all times. He says strong swarms and vigorous queens are necessary to produce fancy comb honey.

Sixty acres of alfalfa on the east of Canter's apiary and a large field of feterita on the west, are the nectar bearing plants from which his fine honey is made.

Wichita Falls Officer Weds Thanksgiving Eve

C. W. Jensen, member of the Wichita Falls police department, and Mrs. Hazel Martin were married Wednesday at the parsonage of the Highland Heights Christian church at 1901 Hays street. The ceremony was performed by Dr. Paul Henry Packard, pastor of the church, with a small group of friends and relatives attending.

BLAZE IN EAGLES' HALL

Kicking loose of a gas hose connection to a stove caused a small fire late Wednesday night at the Eagles' hall, 814 1-2 Eleventh street. The floor of the lodge room was scorched for some distance about the stove but further damage was prevented by the prompt arrival of the fire apparatus from Central station. The blaze was extinguished quickly and the lodge resumed its session.

CHICAGO COP SHOT IN CHASE

Gangsters Continue War For Supremacy

By Universal Service.

CHICAGO, Nov. 23.—The shooting of Detective Sergeant Thomas Lynch by a fellow officer during a chase of a gangland automobile, was the high light in Chicago's new gang war of extermination today.

Other developments were:

The bombing of the headquarters of Jack Zuta, Billy Skidmore and Barney Bertsche, leaders of the gang seeking control of Chicago's vice from "Scarface Al" Capone.

Arraign Fourteen.

The release from jail of Joseph Aiello, leader of the revolt against the two powers.

The arraignment of 14 gangsters on various charges ranging from vagrancy to conspiracy to commit murder.

Lynch, who was sitting in the front seat of a detective squad car which was chasing a high powered motor, believed to have contained gangsters. Detective F. T. Barnes was standing on the side of the car during the chase. It is believed Barnes' shot, which was intended for the gangland auto was deflected by a sudden lurch of the squad car, which was travelling about 60 miles an hour.

Lynch is given slight chances for recovery.

Continuance Granted.

The bombing of the vice headquarters was believed to have been a retaliation of the Capone gang for the Zuta-Skidmore-Bertsche outfit presuming to rule the underworld. It is being investigated.

The gangsters were granted a continuance of charges of carrying concealed weapons. "Diamond Lou" Cowan, editor of the Cicero Tribune and aid of Capone, also was granted a continuance on a similar charge. He was arrested yesterday shortly after the arraignment of Capone on a vagrancy charge.

Every one has something for which to be thankful. So the day of turkey and cranberry sauce, of pumpkin pie and luscious fruits is a welcome festival.

As we review the record of the year past—we know that growing accounts are cause for thanksgiving by many customers. If you're not one of those who gained—make a fresh start now! We're here to help.

WE KNOW

a great many people who have a lot to be thankful for today. We are sure that they are, too. Thankful that a few years ago they decided to save a little money each month safely and profitably in this institution, which amount has now grown to a considerable sum of money; others who are thankful that they started owning a home in such a way that this company will soon give them a clear release to it; thankful that they did not wait until "a more convenient season" to start their saving or homeownership and thankful that they have been permitted to continue their efforts in the support of their family, free from dread disease or frightful accident; thankful that Wichita Falls is such a wonderful city in which to live and thankful that they are indeed a part of it.

Thanksgiving Day

An Annual Festival of Thanksgiving for Mercies of the Past Year

The earliest harvest thanksgiving in America was kept by the Pilgrims of Plymouth in 1621 and thereafter throughout the following years. During the Revolution, Congress recommended days of thanksgiving annually, and in 1784 for the return of peace, as President Madison did in 1815. After the adoption of the Constitution in 1789, President Washington appointed a day of thanksgiving which later in 1795 was adopted for the general benefits and welfare of the nation.

Since 1863 the Presidents have always issued proclamations designating the last Thursday in November as Thanksgiving Day.

In keeping with this time honored holiday, this bank will remain closed all day Thursday, November 24th.
