Crime Bill Causing Controversy

Congress Claims Legal Rights Bent

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The machinery for President Nixon's newly declared crime war may be stalled in the House by a controversy over how far legal rights may be bent to make law enforcement more effective.

Th proposals for new legal weapons against organized crime — given new emphasis in Nixon's State of the Union message last week—passed the Senate 72-1 a few days later.

And while the House itself perhaps is more hard-line on crime problems than the Senate, the House Judiciary Commitee is not. It is the committee which will largely determine what crime legislation the House eventually will vote on.

Judiciary Chairman Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., and ranking Republican William M. McCulloch of Ohio, said there were "constitutional problems" in Nixon's anticrime proposals that may require considerable time to solve.

Both said the Senate's version of Nixon's bill would require particularly careful scrutiny. Celler said the matter would be taken up in the course of hearings on funding of the 1968 Safe Streets Act, which funnels federal money to the states for local law enforcement training and equipment. The hearings are to begin Feb. 18.

Celler, who proposes to more than double current authorizations and put up $750 million for use under the act in fiscal 1971, said the committee was concerned about "political" distribution of the safe street funds by governors. He indicated the committee may want to change the distribution mechanism so grants go directly to local communities instead of through state houses.

As McCulloch and Celler see it—and their influence on the committee is great—it does no good to pass anticrime laws that infringe constitutional rights and are struck down by the courts.

Thus, Celler said, his committee will not bring to the House Nixon's proposal for detention of certain criminal suspects in federal cases while they are awaiting trial. "I couldn't stomach that," he said.

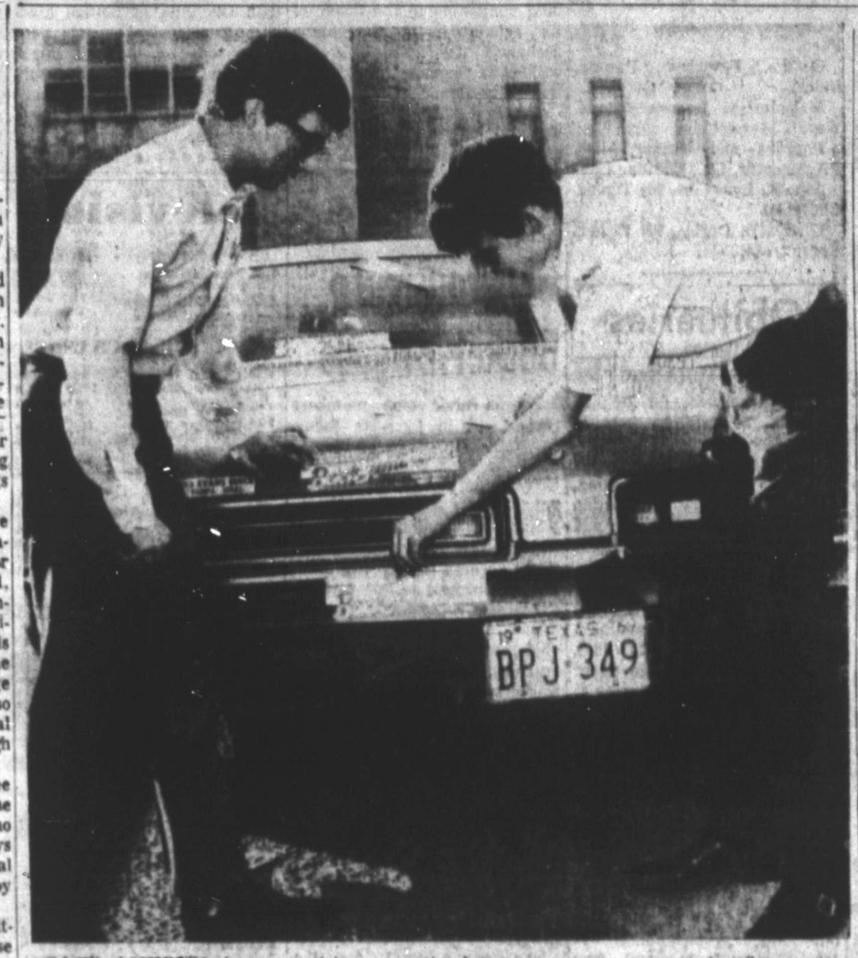

Another section they condemned would allow appeals court judges to raise a convicted offender's sentence if they found he was a habitual law-breaker or "professional offender." Sentences could run up to 30 years, and the judges could consider information of any kind from any source in setting the sentence.

Education Bill Hangs In Limbo

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The campaign to drum up votes for and against a veto of a big education money bill peaked on Capitol Hill today, but one small detail was missing. President Nixon still did not have a bill to veto.

The House set about correcting that point as it considered a last minute Senate amendment that prevented the $19.7 billion Labor and Health, Education and Welfare appropriation bill from going to the White House as scheduled last week.

The amendment, expected to get House approval despite token Republican opposition,

Dubcek Becomes Emissary

ISTANBUL (UPI)—Overzealous newsmen turned Alexander Dubcek's arrival to become Czechoslovakia's ambassador to Turkey into a folly of fistfights and broken windows.

The one-time Communist party leader whose reforms ended in the Soviet-led invasion of his homeland arrived Sunday and headed today for Ankara, the Turkish capital.

Newsmen smashed windows and climbed into the airport's VIP lounge in attempts to question Dubcek but he retreated to the lavatory and refused to come out until police restored order.

They did so in a flurry of fist fights that ended with the newsmen and photographers being thrown out of the room.

"This is scandalous," said one of the Czechoslovak diplomats who greeted Dubcek and his wife, on their first trip to the West since he was stripped of his Communist party leadership at home.

The Soviet-backed regime that succeeded Dubcek's "spring of reform" appointed the tall, slim Dubcek to the ambassadorship in Turkey two months ago in a surprise move.

He flew to Istanbul on a commercial flight after a small, uneventful sendoff in Prague. An elderly woman gave him a bouquet of red carnations.

Hordes of newsmen were waiting in Istanbul and broke through police lines to surround his plane in front of the airline terminal. Dubcek waited 15 minutes to deplane for police to clear the way.

"I have not assumed my post yet" was all he would say to reporters seeking his first public comments on his reforms, the Soviet-led invasion and his subsequent downfall.

Family Planning Part Of Fight On Poverty

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The government's antipoverty efforts will include new steps to provide family planning, especially in rural areas, according to Donald Rumsfeld, director of the Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO).

"We are going to be doing some additional work in the family planning area. . . try to develop some better approach, particularly in rural areas," Rumsfeld said in a UPI "Washington Window" interview Sunday.

"We are continuing the development of the neighborhood health system and health center system which is something that I think is a very exciting and very interesting effort to try to improve delivery of health services. This includes, of course, the use of subprofessionals and paraprofessionals in the delivery of health services," he said.

Rumsfeld said in general there would be "some increase" in OEO's health efforts during the business year beginning July 1.

In addition, he said, OEO would continue to step up emergency food and health services, start some new work with hospital out-patient departments, and experiment with day care for children whose parents might be at work or in job training programs.

IN YABLONSKI DEATHS

Divers Resume Search For Weapon Used In Slayings

CLEVELAND (UPI)—Divers resumed searching today in a stretch of the Mongahele River in southwestern Pennsylvania where they found a M1 rifle which may have been one of the weapons used in the slayings of mine union official Joseph A. Yablonski and his wife and daughter.

U.S. Attorney Robert Kurpansky of Cleveland confirmed the rifle was found by divers Saturday in a stretch of the river at Fredericktown, Pa., south of Pittsburgh and about five miles north of the Yablonski home near Clarksville, Pa.

The rifle was sent to the FBI crime laboratory in Washington for ballistics tests.

Some sources in Washington said the tests showed it may have been the weapon used to fire a .30 caliber bullet recovered from a mattress in the master bedroom of the Yablonski home.

None of the victims was killed by rifle fire. Police said all three were killed by bullets from a .38 caliber hand gun.

Poisoned Meat Sickens Family

ALAMAGOLO, N.M. (UPI)—A fourth member of a family stricken by mercury poisoning from eating the meat of hogs fed infested seed grain said today he would go to a doctor to check out "dizzy spells."

Troy Huckelby, 18, a soldier at nearby Holloman Air Force Base, is a brother of three other children of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Huckelby who were in critical condition today at an El Paso hospital with mercury poisoning.

The ill were Jean, 18; Amos Charles, 13; and Ernestine, 8. They were in comas and doctors said they were the first in this ailment from eating contaminated pork.

A state health oficial confirmed mercury poisoning can become acute at different times for different persons.

Dr. Bruce Stoors, director of the medical services division, said he agreed with a scientific article that said damage from mercury poisoning can develop unseen for some years and may become acute as the poisoned person ages.

Nixon's Kin May Join Navy In June

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon's son-in-law, David Eisenhower, is expected to sign up for a Navy officers training course after his graduation from Amherst in June.

The 21-year-old grandson of President Dwight D. Eisenhower said last week he would make a formal announcement on the service he has chosen; but his friends say his decision to attend Navy Officer's Candidate School, a three-year commitment, already has been made.

The White House declined to confirm David already has passed naval OCS physical examination.

TO ISRAEL

Nixon Gives Assurance Of Military Hardware

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon has reassured Israel the United States will stand behind it, and will provide more military hardware if necessary.

The reassurance, given Sunday in the form of a message to a meeting of U.S. Jewish leaders, came after months of the administration stressing it was trying to follow a more "even-handed" approach in the Middle East.

Nixon's fresh assurances of U.S. backing were seen as a possible attempt to calm fears of pro-Israeli factions that the United States was abandoning its traditional support for Israel.

"The United States stands by its friends," Nixon said in a message read to the National Emergency Conference on Peace in the Middle East. "Israel is one of its friends."

Nixon said the United States would prefer to see restraint in arms shipments to both the Arabs and Israelis, "but we are maintaining a careful watch on the relative strength of the forces there, and we will not hesitate to provide arms to friendly states as the need arises."

Nixon's comments came against the background of reported U.S. dissatisfaction with the sale by France of jet fighter planes to the revolutionary government in Libya. Sen. Fred Harris, national chairman of the Democratic Party, told the same meeting Sunday night the French sale, plus evidence of Egyptian troops in Libya and the fact the United States is about to abandon the big Wheelus Air Force Base near Tripoli, made close ties with Israel a continuing necessity.

Sen. Gordon Allott, R-Colo., also a speaker at the meeting, said the United States has "no intention" of letting Israel become militarily vulnerable.

"I know that the President, . has done and will continue to do everything he can both economically and militarily to assure the security of Israel, short of supplying manpower in the area," Allott said.

Nixon's message stressed the prospects for peace in the region have been enhanced and pledged that any negotiation of the problem by the Big Four powers would not impose peace terms on the Arabs and Israelis.

Two Prison Inmates Don Cap, Gown For Graduation Rites

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (UPI) — Two state prison inmates, one sentenced to life and the other to 99 years, receive their college diplomas today in an inaugural cap and gown graduation ceremony in a prison chapel.

The ceremonies, the first of their kind for the Texas Department of Corrections, were scheduled for 7 p. m. in the Chapel of the Prodigal Son at the department's Ferguson Unit, 20 miles north of Huntsville.

Ronald W. Whitaker, 27, of Tulsa, Okla., and Ronald C. Rust, 26, of Houston, were to receive "Associate in Arts degrees" from Lee College in Baytown.

Both inmates earned their high school diplomas while in prison and did all their work towards their college degrees while confined.

Dr. George C. Beto, director of the Department of Corrections, will be the principal speaker at the graduation ceremonies. Beto is credited with inaugurating the prison's accelerated educational program which began in 1956 when he was a member of the Texas Prison Board.

Dr. James P. McWilliams, academic dean at Lee College, will direct the commencement exercises. Richard D. Strahan, president of the college, will present the degrees to Whitaker and Rust.

Spiro Named Best-Dressed Politico

NEW YORK (UPI)—Spiro T. Agnew was named the best dressed politician of 1970 Sunday by the Fashion Foundation of America.

The vice president thus replaced his boss, President Richard M. Nixon, who was last year's winner.

"He (Agnew) has the figure for clothes, tailors dream about," the foundation said. "His dress quietly expresses forceful integrity and sincerity."

Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York also made the list as the best dressed man in civic affairs, the third time he has been so honored.

Lindsay, who replaced Mayor Richard J. Daley of Chicago, was cited as an "elegant close follower on style trends."

Crackdown On Drugs Should Lessen Crime

DALLAS (UPI) — Walter E. Washington, the mayor of Washington, D. C., said Sunday a hard crackdown on drug addicts could cut the nation's crime rate by nearly 50 per cent.

Washington came to Dallas to address a convocation today at Bishop College.

"Most people supporting $40 to $50 a day drug habits have to rob and steal to get that kind of money," Washington said. "So an effective crackdown on heavy narcotics traffic would tend to ease our crime problem generally.

"In the District of Columbia we're mounting a real attack against narcotics for the first time," he said. "In the past, we've been hitting a giant with a feather in this regard."

Washington's wife, the former Bennetta Bullock, came to Dallas with the mayor. Mrs. Washington is the director of the National Women's Job Corps.

Washington said an answer to the drug problem does not lie in lighter jail sentences and fines. "We need better and stricter law enforcement in the first place," he said.

"Secondly, we need more meaningful treatment for addicts," he said.

BPOE Safe Recovered From Creek

A water-logged safe pulled from McClellan Creek near McClellan Lake Dam Sunday morning proved to be the one missing from Pampa Elk Lodge since a burglary Jan. 15, according to Gray County Sheriff Rufe Jordan.

Warner Phillips, operator of the concessions at the lake, called Gray County Sheriff's Department Sunday at 10 a.m. to report that a fisherman had spotted the safe in the creek.

Deputy D.L. Day was checking the recovered safe for fingerprints today. An inventory of the contents failed to show any of the $374.70 that was reported to be in the safe.

Work Program Outlined For Chamber Group

Chamber of Commerce members and guests heard an outline of the chamber's work program for 1970 at a luncheon in Coronado Inn this noon.

President Don Lane gave a slide presentation and various work committees met and discussed project proposals for the coming year.

The same program is scheduled for two other public meetings tonight and tomorrow night.

Tonight's session is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. in Lamar Elementary School and tomorrow's night's at 7:30 p.m. in Robert E. Lee Junior High School auditorium.

Lane expressed the hope for a large attendance at both night meetings. Everyone is invited to offer suggestions for community projects. It is not necessary to be a member of the chamber of commerce in order to attend, Lane stated.

Saturday's Concert Offered Something For Everyone

By BILL HALEY
Pampa Community Concert Board

Saturday night's community concert brought to Pampa Herman Clebanoff and a small, chamber-size orchestra known as the "Clebanoff Strings".

The group has concertized widely in the U.S. and throughout much of Canada, — one of its more glamorous stops being Las Vegas. It has also performed successfully on radio and television and has made a number of records (Mercury and Decca). Undoubtedly adding something to the luster of its reputation is the name Clebanoff itself which is not without a certain imagery of things Russian.

The first half of the concert was aimed directly at the descriminating listener. A suite by the early English composer Purcell came first. This was followed by a Vivaldi violin concerto with Clebanoff as soloist. Concluding the first half were short works by Turin, Britten, and a relatively unknown, Giovannini. All of course were excellent examples of the art and were beautifully performed. In the concerto especially, Clebanoff showed himself to be not only a capable, but also a conscientious musician.

If the first half was a bit chilly, the second was brimming with the milk of human kindness. The musical portals were flung wide so that all might enter and feast on the heavenly sounds. The "Strings" were augmented by a piano, harp, percussion, and by the instrument which figured prominently in nearly every presentation, the accordion. Setting a heady mood right from the beginning the orchestra moved delightfully and skillfully through a group of show tunes, popular favorites, folk songs and even a good old fashioned hoe-down. Although many good things happened during the second half, the star was unquestionably the accordionist, James Nightingale.

As usual, in the case of a good performance, the responsive Pampa audience refused to let the concert come to an end. A simple trick solved the problem however. The audience was persuaded to sing along in one number after which everyone wisely decided that it was indeed time to go home.

Pampans Give Generously To Bucket Brigade

Pampa civic club members turned out in force in Saturday's beautiful weather to aid the March of Dimes Drive in Gray County with a Bucket Brigade.

Some 200 members of Pampa clubs manned intersections and street corners armed with MOD marked buckets to add $1175 to the Gray County fund.

Don Losher, Gray County chairman for March of Dimes, extended thanks to all of the workers who helped raise funds to search out and eliminate birthdefects.

Clubs providing personnel for the Brigade included Top O' Texas Kiwanis who collected $161; Jaycees turned in $112; Key Club members, a total of $127; Evening Lions $162; Knights of Pythias; $182; Downtown Kiwanis, $105 Optimists, $82; and the Noon Lions who turned in $244.

The grand total for the countywide drive has not been tallied, according to Losher.

Gas Pocket Cited As Cause For Explosion In Houma

HOUMA, La. (UPI)—An explosion that killed three men and reduced half a city block to rubble was caused by gas trapped between the basement and first floors of a building, Mayor Charles Davidson said today.

Davidson said federal investigators would be joined by a team from the state fire marshal's office today in an effort to locate the air pocket where the gas collected and determine what set it off.

"We looked practically all afternoon," the mayor said. "We're trying to find where the air pocket was in the building. So far, we haven't uncovered where the actual pocket was."

He said the federal investigators, dispatched to Houma Sunday by the U.S. Department of Transportation, probably would conclude their investigation today.

Davidson said there appeared to be no connection between the explosion that splintered Latour's Jewelry Store and destroyed several other buildings and work being done on a gas leak in front of the jewelry store.

Two city workmen operating a "manhole digger" in front of the store and an assistant fire chief who was standing by with a crew were killed by the blast.

Twenty-eight persons were injured.

National Guardsmen called out after the explosion were recalled at noon Sunday. But 50 state policemen continued to patrol the area in the heart of this city of 22,561.

Youth Charged In Four Traffic Counts After High-Speed Chase

A 15-year-old Pampa youth faces four traffic violation charges after being chased by police through the northwest section of the city late Saturday.

Sgt. Gene Aufleger reported he observed the youth speeding on the 1400-block of N. Banks and when he attempted to stop him, the boy sped away at 90 miles an hour.

The chase continued until the motorcyclist finally was apprehended on Kentucky Ave., one mile west of Price Rd.

He was cited for speeding, no driver's license, no vehicle inspection sticker and changing lanes unsafely.

A charge later was placed against the youth's father for permitting an unlicensed driver to operate a motor vehicle.

Also on the weekend police blotter:

A report from Ward's Minit Mart, Perryton Pkwy., that someone had plunged the store into darkness several times by throwing a switch in the alley behind the store.

Two telephone callers complained prowlers had been spotted in the 1300-block of N. Russell at 3:30 a.m. Sunday and at 11:50 p.m. in the 1600-block of W. Buckler.

A 22-year-old Pampa housewife reportedly slashed her wrists around 3 a.m. Sunday in a suicide attempt at her home. She was treated in Highland General Hospital and a doctor recommended psychiatric treatment.

A Pampa woman reported a repetition of obscene telephone calls and two teenage girls said they were accosted on the street by a man who made improper proposals.

Potency is An Important Quality

No medicine can be really effective in curing an illness, if it has, by the time it reaches your home, lost its potency. Just as certain foods can deteriorate if not kept properly, so can medicines.

Some drugs must be refrigerated to retain their powers—such as insulin, certain eye drops and many types of vitamins with other medicines exposure to light is the culprit and special containers must be used to keep light out. Every manufacturer of drugs supplies us with detailed instructions on how best to preserve the potency of their products, and we carefully follow their directions.

YOU OR YOUR DOCTOR CAN PHONE US when you need delivery. We will deliver promptly without extra charge. A great many people rely on us for their health needs. We welcome requests for service and charge accounts.

ALLSTATE Agent Mark Buzzard, right, explains the advantage of leaving your insurance needs in the hands of people in a he know to Robert Douthit, 1217 Duncan, left. (Staff Photo)

For Financing And Insurance, See Allstate

When the question of what kind and how much insurance is needed by your family to totally protect without overlapping, contact the Allstate agent located at 1621 Hobart St., Mark Buzzard.

Not only is insurance planned and recommended by the company, but financing is available.

Financing is like selecting the automobile — the customer looks for the best.

For this reason, Allstate Insurance Co. urges any prospective car buyer to check all avenues for financing.

Compare the cost of coverage offer by local auto dealers, banks, reputable insurance agents and firms in the area.

And finally—check into Allstate's Econo-Rate Finance.

First, establish credit through any Allstate agent located in a Sear's store or neighborhood office.

Once credit is established, a membership card is issued and the buyer will have Econo-rate financing without further credit reference for six months.

When the customer is ready to buy he finds out the exact price of the car-exclusive of insurance or financing. Then he visits the Allstate agent whose name appears on the card. He will take over from there and show the client how to save on the deal.

The new car owner then picks up his money, pays the dealer and drives away in a new car.

Allstate Econo-Rate Finance is only one of the many policies that help people help themselves.

Also offered by the company are policies to cover Mortgage Cancellation Plan, College and Career Plan, Starter life insurance policies and a variety of ways to help the young or established family.

Hollywood In Review

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Has marriage changed Tiny Tim?

Indeed, how could it?

Still the question was put to the happy dingaling as his bride of a few weeks sat by his side. She wore a stunned expression.

"Not really," said Tiny. "Marriage hasn't changed me except to make me feel wonderful."

Well, then, has Tim (his friends call him Tiny although he is anything but diminutive from nose to toes upon which he treads through tulips and other flora) changed marriage?

"Maybe a little," Tim said, giggling. "The marraige on Johnny Carson's show was different, I'd say. I did it because it took the burden of a wedding off Mrs. Budinger."

To the fortunate uninitiated in the woolly world of Tiny Tim, Mrs. Budinger is the mother of the bride, Vickie.

BEST SERVICE in town is claimed by Summers Upholstery Shop which can proudly depend on satisfied customers for recommendations for any type of furniture recovering and repair. The service is not limited to recovering jobs such as furniture pictured with Mrs. Carl Summers, owner. Custom drapes are also made. (Staff Photo)

Summers Upholstery Enjoys Customers' Recommendations

Summers Upholstery Shop, 2236 N. Dwight, one of Pampa's home-owned and home-operated young businesses enjoys the prestige of satisfied customer advertising.

Recommendations from satisfied customers is a main item in the operation of the shop.

Mrs. Carl Summers, owner-manager, has established a reputation as a competent and considerate leader in her field.

Fabrics offered by the shop are treated with "Scotchguard" to prevent soiling. It helps the furniture to resist oily and water spotting and cleans easier. The protective finish is lasting and helps the fabric retain that "brand new" look. One attraction housewives will appreciate is the absence of solvent rings when a spot has to be cleaned.

In highlighting the quality of one fabric carried by the shop, Mrs. Summers noted that 100 percent polyester core and 100 percent nylon jersey backing of the fabric had been manufacturer tested by dropping a 250 pound mechanical man on a sofa covered with this material 50,000 times. The fabric tested following this experiment showed no stretch or wear. The same fabric is washable with soap and water or cleaning fluid.

In the line of fabrics the shop offers is a collection of nylon, tapestry, cotton, vinyl, velvets, frizaees and other obtained by special order.

Custom drapes are also made up from a wide selection of materials and free pick-up and delivery is just another of the services available. Free estimates are invited.

Mrs. Summers states that any type of upholstery job will be undertaken with customer satisfaction guaranteed.

Don't let spring housecleaning bog down because of drab, worn furniture. Let Summers Upholstery Shop help brighten the job by recovering, repairing and bolstering your furniture.

Your Horoscope

JEANE DIXON

TUESDAY, JAN. 27

Your birthday Tuesday: Bringing things into balance is the keyword for the oncoming year and a half. There may be long periods in which you reed more than ordinary privacy or even isolation. Meditation brings deeper intuition which makes a great deal of difference. You may make a sizable amount of money incidental to your efforts to level the obstacles in your path.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Intellectual curiosity may lead you into strange places Tuesday. An investment in fine arts or something of beauty may pay off handsomely later, depending on quality of work and care in selection. Your mood now runs to confidence and expansive good humor.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Tactful inquiries into possible career improvements are in order. Good buys can be had in appliances, furnishing, clothing.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Cater to your health and its protection. Light and leisurely dining and exercise will serve you well. Mechanical gadgets, cars are to be checked for function, possible need of repairs and maintenance.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Acquaintances provide you much interesting information on a wide range of cultural and scholarly subjects. Impulsive decisions should be held in suspension, at least overnight.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Your plans now have smoother going. Minor windfalls enliven the morning. Shopping is favored to produce long-wearing bargains.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Take more initiative; clear up confused working conditions or start additional projects. Partnerships formed Tuesday should have a long and interesting future.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Use your power to charm others past a general petulant mood. Treating everyone like naughty children sounds silly but will work better than trying to reason Tuesday.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Tensions between co-workers are inevitable but needn't get out of hand. Don't become involved; stick strictly to what you've agreed to do. Quit at the earliest reasonable time. Seek an entirely different atmosphere in the evening.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You have a great deal of leverage Tuesday. You can achieve much, including the resolution of some long-standing annoyances, by staying precisely with the issues and not going into any other discussions.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Mystery and mischief is abroad Tuesday. Much of it suits you to a tee. Sensitive observation reveals many strong emotional threads under apparently casual expressions.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): The search for inner peace continues amid some stress. The Aquarian trait of seeking eternally for the patterns of ultimate truth helps you.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): During odd moments Tuesday, you really don't know what to think. Potential gains exist; something you own has possibly increased in value.

INSTRUCTION IN PSIbernetics Classes Set For Pampa

Attend a free lecture on E.S.P. Tuesday, and find out how you can make 1970 a more successful year.

DO YOU KNOW . . .

How dreams can be used for creatuvity and solution of problems?
How psychic abilities manifest in dreams?
How "hunches" and "intuition" are related in success?
How students are successfully using ESP to pass exams?
How telepathy is being used for beneficial results?
The relationship of brain waves and ESP research?
How the mind can be trained for ESP?
How graduates are using the Alpha level of mind to relax, control insomnia, tension headaches, control of bad habits such as overeating and smoking?

The answers to these questions will be presented in an informative presentation of the latest scientific findings in the field of Parapsychology by a qualified instructor of the Silva Institute of Psychorientology.

A do-it-yourself gypsy dress (left) is made of vividly printed "designer" Irish linen handkerchiefs seamed together—42 to be exact. It reflects the gay freedom of holiday fashions that give vent to individual ideas and ingenuity. Belts, chains and tasseled cords in gay profusion are part of all the newsiest clothes. Why not introduce another colorful note in the form of printed handkerchiefs folded diagonally and tied together at either hip. The earth tones of the Irish linen are compatible with the brown tone of the ponne velvet shirt dress (right) by Evelyn Sini for Stiletto.

Handkerchiefs Stop Flirting Tricks To Trigger Fashionable Explosions

NEW YORK (NEA) — Ever since women stopped using hankerchiefs as a flirtatious device, they have been relegated to a utilitarian role and spend most of their time in the dark confines of pocket or handbag.

With today's accessory explosion, however, triggered by a headon meeting between the colorful gypsy and the image-intent flower child, hankerchiefs have come out into the open as colorful extensions of a highly personalized manner of dress.

There is no end to handkerchief possibilities within this new fashion format. They can be twined into a braid or attached at the end; tied around the "status" George Washington pull hair do; worn in twos around the forehead Indian fashion. And that's just the beginning.

There's nothing more feminine than a lace-trimmed Irish linen handkerchief. It's a natural, furled into a frilly jabot to add a special touch to today's popular shirts or to turn even a classic blazer into somethng elegant and Edwardian. And speaking of jabots, it's simple matter to thread solid tone or printed handkerchiefs into the linky necklaces now being worn for a cascade of color.

Moving even one step further, handkerchiefs are naturals for any number of cuff treatments. The dainty lace-edged or embroidered variety are perfect for sissy cuffs on an otherwise ordinary shirt. It's a simple matter to tuck them in and secure with a stud or tie tack. Fold a handkerchief diagonally, wrap twice around the wrist, and tie with the point extending over the hand for yet another cuff effect.

It's the waist that's getting a good share of the accessory attention currently as belts and chains and cords are on in colorful masses. Add still another pattern by folding two handkerchiefs— matched or not — diagonally and knotting them together at either hip.

Then, of course, if you're given to going barefoot about the house, handkerchiefs make great ankle bracelets.

There seems to be no limit to how far handkerchief ideas can go. One enterprising gal sewed together 42 handkerchiefs of similar color but varied designs and came up with a truly unique gypsy dress for gala entertaining.

HAZARDOUS CLOTHING

Expert Advises Parents To Heed Fire Warnings

CHICAGO — Item: 1,500 persons each year die from burns inflicted when their clothing catches fire. Disabling injuries from a similar cause strike 100,000 other persons.

What about your child's clothing? Is it a potential fire hazard, or didn't you think about such things when buying school togs?

"Most people simply do not stop to consider that their clothing can burn," says Sara Miles, safety expert at the National Safety Council.

"Women do not realize that their daughter's frilly party dress or their son's floppy pajamas can ignite and burn with surprising speed."

Miss Miles says that closely woven fabrics, of a heavy weight and with a smooth surface are least likely to burn. Wool is a good example of such a fabric.

In general, close fitting garments are less likely to catch fire than loose fitting ones. Miss Miles said particularly dangerous are flowing robes, flared skirts, blousy sleeves, and clothes with ruffles and frills or a napped, textured surface.

It is a parents' responsibility to prevent situations in which a child's clothes could burn. Infants and toddlers must be protected from fire at all times, since they can not look out for themselves.

Miss Miles advises that older children be taught about the dangers of fire as soon as they are able to take directions.

They should learn to be cautious when they are near common sources of fire such as space heaters, stoves, and burning trash or leaves.

Parents and children, too, should know what to do in case clothes catch on fire.

The natural tendency is to panic and run. But Miss Mile points out that the safe thing to do is just the opposite. If fire strikes, throw the victim to the ground and slowly roll him over and over. This stifles flames and prevents them from sweeping upward to the face.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I just read the letter signed "Morris' Wife." She complained because after her husband had been elected president of his lodge, someone said, "I heard Morris accepted the presidency of his lodge. That was real nice of him. I heard nobody else would take it."

My heart goes out to Morris. Here in Aschaffenburg, Germany, there are not many men named Morris who have recently been elected president of their lodge. Only me! Inasmuch as I happened upon this "honor" by default, my wife has been the recipient of many curious (if ignorant) inquiries, since the letter signed "Morris' Wife" appeared in your column.

I think all the Morrises around the world should form a "Master Morris Club," wherein all men named Morris who have become lodge presidents may gather once a year to exchange views and share experiences. A prize could be offered to the Morris who could come up with the most novel reason for refusing the nomination for reelection next year.

In order to keep the club truly exclusive, gentlemen named "Maurice" need not apply.

Sincerely,
MORRIS M. MANION,
GERMANY

DEAR MORRIS: Your sense of humor is delicious. And the fact that there is a Morris in Germany who still has a sense of humor is indeed a revelation. But please, no international clubs for Morrises. I'm published in Rome, Ireland, Mexico, Tokyo, Thailand, Spain, Brazil, Canada and America, too!

DEAR ABBY: I am 15, and right now I'm being punished because I told my mother that if she can not see what everybody else can see, she must be blind.

I have twin brothers who are seven years old. One is an average boy but the other one (I'll call him Mark) is not right. In the first place, he never learned to talk right. His speech has improved some, but it's far from normal. My mother keeps taking him for therapy, but she won't admit there is something wrong with Mark. That kid can not tie his own shoes, ride a bike or even blow his own nose. My mother does everything for him, and she gets mad if anybody says he's not normal. She says, "There is nothing wrong with him. He's just slow." Abby, he is like a two-year-old.

My father doesn't say much because he doesn't want to upset mother.

I can't wait until I'm 18 so I can get out of this house. The strain is awful. I keep wishing there were some way I could help Mark. Have you any suggestions?

MARK'S SISTER

DEAR SISTER: It probably hurts your mother to "admit" that something is wrong with Mark. The chances are she not only realizes it, she is doing everything she can to "help" him. You can help, too (and minimize the strain at your house) if you quit harping on it.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "Stumped" in Iowa City, Iowa: — You are much too nice. The worst piece of luck that can happen to a busy man is to make a favorable impression on a bore.

"More Americans are malnourished because of ignorance and misinformation than because of poverty," says Dr. George V. Mann, nutritionist from Vanderbilt University.

College Player Draft Tuesday

NEW YORK (UPI)—Pro football coaches and scouts made final preparations today for the annual draft of college players which begins Tuesday at 10 a.m. EST.

The Pittsburgh Steelers, who finished tied with Chicago at 1-13 for the worst record in pro football, won a coin toss with the Bears and will choose first. Chicago traded its pick to Green Bay for three players last week.

Miami, Boston and Buffalo choose next, followed by Philadelphia, Cincinnati, St. Louis, San Francisco, New Orleans, Denver, Atlanta and the New York Giants.

Houston has the 14th pick, followed by San Diego, Green Bay, San Francisco (using Washington's No. 1 choice), Baltimore, Detroit, the New York Jets, Cleveland, Los Angeles, Dallas, Oakland, Minnesota and Kansas City.

The draft, to be held Tuesday and Wednesday, will run for 17 rounds. A 15-minute limit is in force on the first two rounds with a five-minute limit effective thereafter.

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (UPI)—Bert Yancey won the Bing Crosby pro-am golf tourney by one stroke over Jack Nicklaus with a 278 total.

Baylor Cagers Hard To Stop Anytime

High Altitude Doesn't Phase Track Aspirants

By PETE HERRERA

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (UPI)—University of Colorado sprinter Cliff Branch tied the 60-yard indoor world record Saturday, blazing to a 4.9 clocking in the Albuquerque Invitational Indoor Track Meet.

Branch, getting out of the blocks first, thus joined the lengthy list of sprinters who share the world mark. Since Bob Hayes first set the mark in 1964, seven sprinters, including Branch, have now tied it.

Oklahoma State's Earl Harris finished second and Stan Whitley of Sports International third, both clocked in 6.0.

Earlier in the evening, Olympian Chi Cheng and unheralded Gary Power tied meet records in the 60 - yard women's and men's hurdles.

Miss Cheng, representing the Republic of China, breezed to an easy victory in the 60-yard hurdles in a time of 7.8—tying the meet record she set last year in the invitational. The race was a near carbon copy of the 1969 event with Jan Glotzer of the Phoenix Track Club again finishing in second in 8.0 seconds.

Power made it two straight upset wins over Olympic gold medalist Willie Davenport by putting on a burst of speed after clearing the final hurdle.

Power, a member of the Southern California Striders, last week stopped an eight straight victory string by Davenport and duplicated the feat Saturday. Davenport finished second with Marcus Walker of the University of Colorado third, as the first three finishers staged a blanket finish.

—High altitude apparently doesn't conflict with the high aspirations of Ralph Doubell.

Doubell, the modest Australian who likes to run for an appreciative crowd, set his own pace Saturday as he set a new 1,000-yard indoor world record of 2:05.5 at the Albuquerque Invitational Indoor Track Meet. Doubell ran at a mile-high altitude.

While Doubell chalked up his second world record in the invitational, Bob Seagren saw his three-time record breaking pole vault streak ended when he failed to clear the bar at 17-7.

Doubell set the 880-yard indoor record at 1:47.9 last year.

Kathy Hammond, Sacramento, Calif., proved the record-breaking wasn't meant just for the male competitors. She set a world record in the 600-yard run.

Colorado's Cliff Branch tied the 60-yard dash world mark in the competition.

Three meet records were set and three others tied.

Branch became the ninth sprinter to speed through the 60-yards in 5.9 seconds.

Doubell broke the seven-year-old record of 2:06.0 set by Peter Snell of New Zealand.

American Duo Capture Men's Doubles

SYDNEY (UPI)—Lanky Australian Davis Cup squad member Dick Crealy upset Englishman Roger Taylor in the semifinals of the Australian Open tennis championships Monday while the American duo of Stan Smith and Bob Lutz captured the men's doubles title.

While Crealy, seeded 12th, shocked Taylor, 6-3, 9-11, 8-6, 3-6, 8-6 to advance to the finals against America's Arthur Ashe, Smith and Lutz whipped Australians John Alexander and Phil Dent, 8-6, 6-3, 6-4, in the doubles final.

Following the doubles finale, play was abandoned for the day when a heavy thunderstorm hit over the white city courts, forcing the Ashe-Crealy match and the women's singles final between Aussies Margaret Court and Kerry Melville to be held over until Tuesday.

Smith and Lutz were the first American team in 15 years to cop the Australian doubles crown.

Ashe had advanced to the men's singles final when U.S. Davis Cup Coach Dennis Ralston forfeited his match. Ralston, trailing 3-6, 10-8, 3-6, 1-2 to Ashe, sprained his back and was unable to continue.

Crealy had disposed of U.S. No. 1-ranked player Stan Smith, Dutchman Tom Okker, ranked No. 4 in the world, and now Taylor ranked 8th, in his march to the finals.

It was Crealy's first major championship final.

Australia's Davis cup hopes received a setback Monday when its No. 1 singles player, Bill Bowrey, announced he had turned professional.

Bowrey said he has signed a three-year contract with Mike Davies, an English promoter in the United States. He declined to say for how much.

Bowrey, 26, is married to former Australian women's champion, Leslie Turner, and will become a father in July.

"At this stage of my career, I felt the offer was too good to turn down," Bowrey said. "I don't have any regrets about leaving the Davis Cup team. I played in two Davis Cups and I have had my thrills. But it is time for me to move into new fields with the professionals."

Harvesters Eye Second Win Over Dons

District 4-AAAA will go into the second half of the season for Pampa cagers Tuesday when they meet Palo Duro on the Harvesters' home court.

The Harvesters wound up the first half with a 9-9 standing after taking a hard loss by the Borger Bulldogs in action here Friday night. The Harvesters were nipped by the strong Borger team, 83-69 in a game that ended with Pampa's sophomore Richard Bunton as high point man of the night with 25 points. Jim Gallman, second leading scorer in the district racked up 21 points for the Green and Gold.

The Harvesters will be looking forward to their second win of the year from the Dons. They won a hard-fought 49-46 victory in the teams' first division clash.

SWC In Full Swing

By United Press International

Baylor Coach Bill Menefee refuses to complain about his Southwest Conference-leading Bears being a second half basketball team.

Last Saturday night the Bears led SWC opponent Arkansas 39-34 at halftime. But then the balanced Baylor scoring attack could not be stopped.

Led by Larry Gatewood and William Chatmon, with 24 and 21 points, the one-two scoring punch for the Bears in winning their first three SWC games, Baylor hit 78 per cent from the floor, scored 71 points and wound up battering the Razorbacks, 110-76.

"The second half was amazing," said Menefee, whose teams have finished second three of the past four seasons. "I just can't explain it."

The Bears, 10-3 for the season, take their home court against Texas Tech Tuesday and travel to Fort Worth for a game against Texas Christian Saturday.

Texas Christian, one of three teams standing at 2-1, one game behind Baylor, upset Texas Tech 81-73 Saturday. Rice, also 2-1, whipped Southern Methodist 77-75 to send the Mustangs down to 1-2.

Texas A&M, which took a 100-84 nonconference licking from Louisiana Tech over the weekend, is the third team with a 2-1 mark. The defending champion Aggies play at Rice Tuesday and host SMU in a 2 p.m. CST television game Saturday.

The SMU-A&M encounter is the second of two regionally televised games, the first being Rice at Texas at noon Saturday. The Longhorns, picked to be tops in the conference, play SMU Tuesday in an effort to better their 1-2 SWC mark.

TCU plays Arkansas in another Tuesday game at Fayetteville.

Rounding out the week's schedule, Texas Tech, also 1-2 take on Arkansas, 0-3, Saturday night on its home court.

Although Chatmon and Gatewood rank two-three behind SMU's Gene Phillips in season scoring, Gary Reist of Rice, who scored 25 points Saturday to help beat SMU, took the lead in loop play, averaging 29.7.

Gatewood ranks second in conference scoring with a 26.3 average and third on the season with 21.2 behind Phillips' 28.5 and Chatmon's 22.9.

But Phillips is third in conference scoring with 25.3 points after he was held to just 10 points in last week's 90-60 loss to Texas Tech.

Greg Lowery of Texas Tech is fourth with 24.7 and Doug Boyd of TCU fifth with 22.7.

Prospects Good For Landing Major League

DALLAS (UPI) — Lamar Hunt, the founder of the American Football League, said Sunday he is 'more optomistic than before" about landing a major league baseball franchise in the Dallas-Fort Worth area.

Hunt and Tommy Mercer, the partners who currently own a minor league team called the Dallas-Fort Worth Spurs of the Texas League, planned to go to an American League meeting in Oakland Tuesday in an attempt to land the financially troubled Seattle Pilots franchise.

"I'd say I'm just cautiously optomistic," Hunt said. "I'm more optimistic than before because they made the announcement that they were leaving Seattle."

The North Texas area has tried before to land a major league franchise. Their last attempt failed when the National League voted to expand to San Diego and Montreal.

Dallas-Fort Worth and Milwaukee are considered to be the two areas competing for the Pilots franchise.

Milwaukee, the former home of the Atlanta Braves, already has a major league sized baseball stadium. Hunt said Turnpike Stadium in Arlington, midway between Dallas and Fort Worth, could be expanded from 10,600 seats to 25,000 by the opening day of the upcoming season. He also said the stadium could be enlarged to 50,000 by the 1971 season.

Hockey No. 1 Sport For Femmes

NEW YORK (NEA) — Any time now, television screens are going to be filled with hockey players endorsing after-shave lotions, hair dressings, toothpaste and, most certainly, denture cleaners. The reasoning: If any athlete is going to influence the female consumer and send her scurrying to the nearest supermarket, it is the hockey player.

Hockey, it seems, is the No. 1 sport in the palpitating hearts of many females and, for that reason, it is not surprising that advertising agencies envision Bobby Hull as having the same living-room effect on women as that Swedish dish has on men. (The dish, long and blonde, implores them to take it all off.)

Women hockey fans are a unique breed. From secretaries in miniskirts to grandmothers with black umbrellas, they seem to have one common characteristic — vocal chords. In places like New York's Madison Square Garden, Montreal's Forum and Detroit's Cobo Arena, public address announcers are fortunate if they can announce substitutions over the voices of hysterical women. The kids who hawk food and drink in the stands simply don't have a chance.

The largest group of female fans is in the 18-to-30 age group. And even the iciest of beauties, oozing with sophistication, loses her cool at hockey games. In Madison Square Garden recently, one brunette was spotted beating her fists on the arms of her chair, stamping her feet, screaming in near hysteria — and dumping her popcorn on the head of her date. She didn't stop to apologize because a goal had just been scored and she was blowing frantically on her plastic ram's horn.

"Hockey turns me on like no other sport," she said after the game, in a calmer moment. "It's the constant action that does it. You get caught up in it. Besides, hockey players are the most sexiest men I've ever seen. They're beautiful."

She was sitting too far away to notice that her favorite player went the entire three periods without his bridgework.

Another girl in her mid-20s, blonde hair perfectly coiffed, explained it this way:

"I come to hockey games for the excitement. Tomorrow morning I'll go back to my dull office, typing those dull business letters, taking that dull dictation. Hockey is an outlet for me. I come to every game played here (New York)."

At times, however, these ecstatic girls run the risk of alienating their male companions. At a recent New York Ranger-Montreal Canadiens game, one young lady in a micro-mini scooted from her seat in the middle of the satnds and wiggled her way to the rim of the rink, presumably to give her favorite player a bit of strategy. When she returned, her date had vasished.

"That broad's crazy," he said, as he made his exit. "I take her to a hockey game and she forgets I'm around. Who needs it? This is the last time I let any chick con me into taking her to a hockey game."

The female obsession with hockey does not end when the game does. Women hockey buffs have been known to read sports pages extensively (and become irate when football gets more space) and they are avid buyers of books on the sport. When Rod Gilbert of the New York Rangers wrote his book, "Goal! My Life on Ice," women swarmed over him at the Garden with copies for him to autograph.

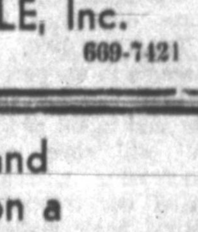

The players, themselves, feel the simplicity of the game has done much to attract female fans.

"It's not hard to understand why women love hockey," says one of the Rangers. "For one thing, the rules are easy to understand. For another, the action creates excitement. And a lot of women think we're big strong North Woods lumberjacks. You know, the bold and rowdy types. Some of them see us as modern-day Paul Bunyans."

The players, however, are not complaining. Paul Bunyan should have it so good.

OUR CAPSULE POLICY

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TEXAS PANHANDLE TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me!

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessings. For only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he produces can he develop his utmost capabilities.

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by a government, with the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property and secure more freedom and keep it for themselves and others.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guide expressed in the Coveting Commandment.

Less Painful Extraction

Thanks to your helpful Treasury men in action, some 77 million U.S. tax payers are receiving post-Christmas presents in the mail.

It is the same old income tax, but the new Form 1040 for explaining what you did with YOUR 1969 income has a new look. The new 1040, which also replaces the old card (short) Form 1040A, we are told, is a one-page "building block" form to which appropriate schedules can be added to cover "any situation."

Vastly more pleasing to the eye (or should we say, less offensive?), because of patriotic red and blue printing on white, Form 1040, as with its accompanying schedules, will be printed on one side only, with instructions for completion being printed on the back.

Because a tax payer has to add only the schedules that apply to his particular situation (discarding the rest), we will no longer have to contend with inapplicable items. These (applicable and inapplicable) items now appear on separate schedules, we are advised.

For example, itemized deductions will no longer be on the same page as dividend and interest income, as in the past, but will appear on separate schedules, with twice as much space as before.

Form 1040A — the old short form card — has been discontinued. "Rising income levels in recent years" (read that, inflation has pushed more people into higher income tax brackets) "and increased complexity in the financial status of taxpayers" (thanks in no small part, to the IRS) "made it obsolete," says the Internal Revenue Service. Each year, fewer tax payers filed the card form; however, the IRS hastened to add, "the simplicity of the old 1040A has been built into the new 1040."

The IRS estimates that of the 77 million returns due to be filed for 1969, 31 million will consist of just the one-page form. Another 22 million returns will need but one schedule attachment to the basic form.

Well now, the efforts of the taxmen to make the shearing less painful no doubt will be appreciated by millions of people who were just learning to find their way through the mazes of the old form; but, somehow or other, the red white and blue package notwithstanding, we have an idea the sheep will still know they are being fleeced.

Is The Census Illegal?

This year, in addition to that indecency known as Form 1040, citizens of this land of the free will be subjected to the prying and snooping of hordes of bureaucrats called "censustakers."

They will be engaged, they will tell you, in taking the decennial census as authorized by the Constitution of the United States. However, the questions you may be asked and required to answer upon pain of fine or imprisonment, or both, go far beyond the simple head count envisioned by the Founding Fathers.

The census, delving into the most personal and private affairs of the individual and family, will include questions relating to the number of people with whom you share your bathroom and the number of children born, in and out of wedlock, by the female member of the household; as well as prying questions relating to income and property, many of which are duplicated on the Income Tax Form 1040.

As it seems to us, people who believe that "getting back to the letter and intent of the constitution" will save us from daily increasing governmental invasion of our freedoms and rights might begin giving some thought to challenging the census, as it is now being administered, on constitutional grounds.

Specifically:

The First Amendment to the Constitution prohibits any law abridging the freedom of speech. If one is free to speak, it goes without saying that one is also free to remain silent; else, the whole concept is reduced to a farce.

The Third Amendment states that the right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers, and effects shall not be violated; and that no Warrant for entry, search and seizure of persons or things shall be granted except upon proof of probable cause supported by oath or affirmation. The entry of census takers into an individual's home and the obtaining of information under duress is a clear violation of the letter and intent of this Amendment.

The Fifth Amendment, whose protection is often granted to known criminals and suspected subversives, provides, among other things, that no person shall be deprived of property, without due process of law and that no private property shall be taken for public use without just compensation. If an individual's privacy and information relating to that privacy are not private property, then, we do not know what is.

Perhaps, as you submit to the snoopers' invasion of your privacy, the foregoing may provide food for thought and the means even of quizzing them.

Moratorium Needed

The war in Vietnam is not the only one in which the American people are engaged. There is another war, more costly, one which has taken more lives, broken more homes and cost more money in a single decade than most of America's shooting wars.

It is the war of death on the highway.

In the decade of the 60s, the National Safety Council reports, the cost of accidents will exceed $90 billion. The casualty toll is even grimmer.

Dead, 475,000; permanently disabled, 1.5 million; temporarily disabled, 16 million; partially disabled, 15 million; total vehicles in accidents, 250 million.

Wouldn't this be a good time to declare a moratorium against highway carnage? Wouldn't it be wise to expend that little bit of extra effort that makes the difference between life and death? Isn't the record of the decade of the 60s enough to call a moratorium?

Isn't it?

Question Box

(We invite questions on economics and the proper function of government which will not injure anyone.)

QUESTION:—Are minimum wage laws one of the prime causes of unemployment and of slowing down the improvement of living standards for everyone?

ANSWER: Since no one can have anything, food or clothing, automobiles, or anything else, until it has been produced, whatever retards production, of course, slows down the improvement of living standards for everyone.

Every person must produce his own wages or nobody could afford to employ him. If a man produces as much or more than the minimum wage laws require the employer to pay, the minimum wage law is unnecessary because employers will all want to hire such an employe. But when the minimum wage laws require an employer to pay more than the employe can produce, they are harmful, for the employer cannot pay the employe more than he produces and still stay in business for long. So the employer cannot hire such employes, and it will be difficult, then, for the very young and inexperienced, for those who are elderly, and for the handicapped and unskilled to find employment. This is especially hard on the young who need to be able to get jobs and gain experience so that they can become more capable and improve their condition in life.

This is the direct means of minimum wage laws causing unemployment.

There is also an indirect means why they cause unemployment. When people cannot get jobs, they become a burden on the state through welfare or unemployment benefits. In order to take care of these people, the federal and local state governments increase taxes. But the increased taxes then prevent employers from expanding their businesses and creating new jobs and this, indirectly, adds further to the the employment.

Yes, certainly the minimum wage laws are very harmful. They not only are the primary cause of unemployment and retard production, but they discourage initiative and degrade the character of the individual that has to be subsidized.

DELIVERING NECESSITIES

The necessities for human life are many. Republic USA has been so successful in allowing our citizens to acquire the necessities and luxuries of life that we forget how big a job this is. We become impatient, forgetting that for most of the rest of the world, even the necessities are only wished-for dreams, while luxuries are unheard of, at least the luxuries we know.

Because our free way of life has allowed us to provide these necessities for ourselves, and to share much with those in other lands less free, and therefore less fortunate, our thoughtless ones forget that necessities of life do not come free of effort.

A recital of the most constructive ways to meet the ordinary necessities of life may provide the solutions for our continued existence. Perpetuating the life of free Republic USA is vital to all, if slavery and the dark misery of famine and want are to be kept from our shores.

Any apparently sensational success, or promised success, which involves the liquidation of our Republic can only be a dismal failure. Its destruction means the destruction of human freedom in favor of communism, which never has been able to provide the necessities of life for its enslaved peoples.

Many feel that the life of our Republic can be redeemed only through crusades in which many will lend their talents, crusades which will command dedication and inspire the apathetic. Love of country is a equisite to our survival. It is a better, more noble path than destructive hatred, regardless of opinionswhich claim love of country is fatal to individual or organized initiative. It does require dedication sufficient to overcome criticism from opponents of freedom.

Is It Peace Symbol Or Witches' Foot?

By PATRICIA YOUNG

VANCOUVER, B.C. — One thing that has always intrigued me about the well-organized, well-financed "peace" marches held around the world (with the exception of the communist countries) is the "peace" symbol worn as buttons, medals and on crudely scrawled placards.

And while it is described in the Star News of Pasadena, Calif. of Oct. 24, 1968, as having been "developed by superimposing the semaphore (arm and flag) code sign for N — both arms out like an inverted V and D — one straight up, the other down — the whole standing for Nuclear Disarmanent — this has been questioned, particularly since it was used before "nuclear disarmament" was the popular line and when the "peaceniks were protesting radiation hazards!"

The Rev. Michael Wurmbrand of Romania, who spent some 13 years in Soviet jails, claims that the symbol is well known in Europe and is known as "the witches foot or Crow's foot; that it dates back to the Middle Ages when it was a common symbol of the devil, being a broken cross turned upside down. The Star News, in their history of the symbol point out that it was often used by rebels against the Christian Church.

The Christian Crusade Weekly of Oct. 26, 1969, carried some details of this story, as did The Wanderer of Oct. 23, 1969. It is further described in "The Book of Signs" by Rudolph Koch, as the Crow's foot or witches foot — a symbol used in the middle Ages by primitive people.

The symbol first made its appearance at a "peace" march held at Aldermaston, a town 53 miles from London and home of Britain's Atomic Weapons Research plant and led by Bertrand Russell on Feb. 21, 1958. It suddenly appeared all over the world. By June 7, 1969, Time Magazine was giving it a cover story. Additionally, several Catholic publications carried advertisements by a religious organization which offered them for sale to be worn on a chain as a "peace" symbol. According to the San Jose Mercury of Oct. 21, 1967, the late Bishop James A Pike wore the symbol and told his audiences that it had been "blessed" by the Archbishop of Canterbury! Free Enterprises of July 1968 reports how it has infiltrated the garment industry and has been embroidered on garments to be worn by unsuspecting citizens. They are often placed in bubble gum machines as "prizes" for children.

A LOOK AT THE BOOK

By DR. BOB JONES

By DR. BOB JONES

"Ask, and it shall be given you; seek, and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened unto you" (Matthew 7:7). Asking presupposes the power of giving. No man asks another for something which he knows he is unable to grant. One does not ask riches of a poor man or food of a man who is hungry. No wise man asks a favor of one who is powerless to grant his request. Asking of God, we are making our request to the One Who has power "to do exceeding abundantly above all that we ask or think" (Ephesians 3-20). The man who rightly asks is the man who asks in faith, believing that God is able to grant and that God is willing to grant.

The matter of prayer goes beyond asking, however. We are told to seek and promised that in seeking we shall find. God sometimes expects us to seek for the answer to our prayer. We may even say He expects us to help Him to answer it. I have known young men who were studying for the ministry to pray the Lord to send them money to meet the needs of their educational expenses when they were too lazy to go out and make the effort to raise the money. It is good to ask the Lord to send; but it is better sometimes to pray, "Lord, direct me in my search and send me where I will find the thing which I desire." Some folks pray for a deepening of their spiritual life, yet never seek to find deeper spiritual life in earnest communion with the Lord and in study of His Word. Some pray for patience but never seek the tribulation which worketh patience.

True prayer goes still further. "To him that knocketh it shall be opened" (Matthew 7:8), is the promise. Some people are not willing to knock and wait for the door to swing wide. They try to tear it open themselves or break it down. God in His own good time will remove the obstacles. When He is ready, the door will open. Peffect prayer harnesses itself to the will of God. Perfect faith waits for the answer to come in His own way at His own time.

The Doctor Says

By DR. W. G. BRANDSTADT

Lab Technicians Vital To Doctor's Diagnosis

When you go to the theater actors dominate the stage, but without scene shifters, property men, electricians and others the show couldn't go on. When you go to the hospital the doctors and nurses dominate the scene, but without the pharmacists, dieticians and laboratory technicians the hospital couldn't provide the service you need to get well.

Under the supervision of a pathologist, the laboratory technician may perform chemical and microscopic tests on your blood, urine, spinal fluid, stomach contents or stool; make tests to identify bacteria, fungi or viruses; or take electrocardiographic or electroencephalographic tracings. X-ray technicians expose and develop films for your doctor to interpret.

Few doctors today would even consider making a diagnosis of tuberculosis, cancer, diabetes, pernicious anemia, epilepsy or coronary heart disease, to name but a few, without laboratory confirmation. Often speed in getting the lab report can mean the difference between early recovery and delayed diagnosis, complications or even death. Scrupulous accuracy, however, is never sacrificed for the sake of speed.

Both accuracy and speed have been facilitated by modern equipment. For example, an atuoanalyzer can now make 12 or more blood chemistry determinations in a matter of as many minutes. When all the results are in, however, it is your doctor who must match up your symptoms, physical findings and lab reports to make the diagnosis.

Q — In a recent column you recommended a gluten-free diet, such as is used for celiac disease, for patients with Duhring's disease or dermatitis herpetiformis. What foods must be obmitted from such a diet.

A — Gluten is found in all products that contain wheat, barley, rye and sometimes oats. Malt may be made from various grains and, since the source of the malt is not usually stated on the label of malt products, they should also be avoided. This points up a common difficulty in prescribing diets— you can't always tell about the ingredients of processed foods. Corn, rice and soy flours contain no gluten, especially if their labels state that they are gluten-free.

Please send your questions and comments to Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., in care of this paper. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters, he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

New Power Leak?—Congress Unplugged That Hole Itself

ROBERT ALLEN

WASHINGTON— In recent years congressional leaders, and some political scientists, have often deplored the steady seepage of power from Congress into the White House and the government's executive branch.

Well, a bit of power has just seeped. The shift should be fully and carefully chronicled, together with the fact that a majority of the House and Senate quickly acquiesced when power was in passage.

This most recent power shift was occasioned by the Philadelphia Plan, a controversial provision of federal construction contracts which is designed to push more blacks into the skilled building trades and their mostly white unions. The civil rights fight which the plan provoked in Congress is not the issue now, however.

The merits and legality of the plan — of requiring good faith efforts to achieve minority hiring goals — are to be tested, beginning next week, in a case brought by federal construction contractors in the federal district court in Phildelphia.

What is important now is that the comptroller general, an agent of Congress, the congressional auditor, was battling with the attorney general, an agent of the White House, over whether a mode of spending had been validated by Congress.

Amid the civil rights furor, and in the rush toward a holiday adjournment, Congress sided not with its auditor, but with the attorney general. In doing so, before a court test, Congress gave away a bit of its much trumpeted and cherished power-of-the-purse.

"FINAL AND CONCLUSIVE"— For nearly fifty years since the enactment of the Budget and Accounting Act of 1921, the comptroller general has had authority to decide on the legality of federal expenditures. The law makes his decisions "final and conclusive upon the executive branch of the government." They may be tested in the courts, of course.

In the case of the Philadelphia Plan, the present comptroller general, Elmer B. Staats, ruled that the requiring of good faith efforts to achieve minority hiring goals was racial discrimination in reverse — a quota system explicitly forbidden by Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964. He said he would withhold contract payments on that basis.

However, prodded by Secretary of Labor George P. Shultz, the architect of the Philadelphia Plan, Attorney General John N. Mitchell, wrote an opinion in September attesting to the legality of the plan. Moreover, Mitchell's opinion specifically informed "other contracting agencies" that they could take his judgment as final in the matter.

In the hectic congressional windup, the Senate Appropriations Committee tried to support Comptroller General Staats. The committee wrote a provision into a session's end money bill which would hve endorsed Staats' authority to withhold payment on Philadelphia plan contracts pending court review.

The House balked, however. Finally, with the civil rights controversy blazing and lawmakers in a hurry to go home for the holidays, the Senate abandoned its position and went along with the House in refusing to support Staats.

It is now assumed that, at some point along the way, a federal disbursing officer will ignore Staats' withholding order and accept Mitchell's opinion as justification for payment on the controversial contracts.

CONCLUSIVE NO MORE— Clearly, then, some power has slipped down Capitol Hill. Staats is no longer the "final and conclusive" authority on what is a legal expenditure of funds appropriated by Congress. He shares that authority, though he holds it alone by law.

It is hard to say, however, just how much power Staats is losing. The legality of the Philadelphia Plan will be determined by court tests, including the one beginning next week, but Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., has now charged that the administration is already ordering a more stringent quota system for a wider range of government contracts.

The legal picture is also confused. In a letter to a local newspaper (The Washington Star) last week States noted that he has no power to initiate action in federal courts and follow up on his expenditure rulings. That power is, ironically, vested in the attorney general.

Unquestionably, some Senators and House members were unaware of this power seepage when they voted for civil rights and the Philadelphia Plan last month. By their votes, however, they left Mitchell's ruling as a precedent.

Later—when, for example, a future defense secretary obtains a follow-on opinion from a future attorney general that payments can be made on an unpopular weapons system which lacks congressional approval — Senate and House leaders will rage at a usurpation of power by the executive branch.

STRAIGHT TALK:

Beware Of The Boob Tube

(By TOM ANDERSON

The Boob Tube is the most relentless brainwasher in human history and there have been few checks on its awesome power. All the major commentators were laying for Nixon after his "report to the people" on Vietnam. They had already planned their attacks before they knew what he was going to say — because they are Leftists. They never did that to President Kennedy or to any other "liberal." Kennedy's programs left them as happy as an Orthodox Jew looking at current pork prices in a meat market. But they even enlisted old discredited (which — side—does—he — help — the most?) foreign "expert," Averell Harriman, to join the attack on Nixon and Agnew. They never so treated the "fireside chats" of that old faker, Fraudlin D. Russiavelt. They never demanded peace, sweetness and brotherhood of Churchill, instead of blood, sweat and tears. Perhaps part of the answer in that instance is that most of these Leftists are pacifists only when the Communists are under attack, and Churchill, at Roosevelt's demand, was saving Russia.

In America, TV is the third parent in many homes and the first parent in some. Television is a prime cause of crime, declining morals, mental and physical softness, and the spread of Communism in America. TV constantly teaches such things as how to make a Molotov cocktail, how to break "bad laws" and get by with it, and how to wear your brains in your bikini. TV never, as far as I can discover, teaches children honesty, patriotism, religion, honor and respect for parents, responsibility, the dignity of work, morality or any of the eternal verities upon which our nation and civilization were built. During the Battle of Chicago, NBC was caught RED-handed "bugging" the hotel room where the Democratic Platform Committee conducted its closed deliberations. The TV networks refused to give Mayor Daley an hour to give the facts. They prefer to give the time to some Hollywood Communist.

The charismatic, leftist eyebrow lifters called "news commentators" are often distorting the already distorted "news" which is handed to them by the leftist wire services. Much of it is as phony as a harlot's tears.

Anybody who has a mimeograph machine can publish a newspaper or magazine. But to get a TV station you have to get and keep a franchise from the government. In the beginning of TV those who convinced the government that their prime consideration was to "serve the public interest" better than the next person who sought the public license, was the heir to automatic riches. Why shouldn't networks have "freedom of the press?" Because they are government - granted monopolies.
